Students disciplined for intolerance

Staff Writer

LONGWOOD - Rock Lake Middle School administrators have suspended or counseled more than a dozen students involved with physical acts of intolerance committed against a Jewish

So far, 14 incidents have occurred during a six-week period, ranging from knocking the yarmulke off the Jewish student's head, to hiding the skullcap or striking the student from behind.

14 Rock Lake students involved in taunting Jewish classmate

The incidents all involved the yarmulke — a skulicap worn by Jewish men and boys, especially those adhering to Orthodox or Conservative Judaism — being removed from the student's head. The most recent incident occurred Monday, Oct. 4.

Although student names and grade levels are not being released, Rock Lake Middle School Principal Hugh Harris said that 11 out of the 14 incidents during the six-week period were committed by sixth-graders.

"Two of the incidents happened in (Physical Education) class," Harris said. "Other incidents happened in hallways and all over the campus."

One of the incidents included a student hiding a key chain within the yarmulke while keeping the skullcap away from the Jewish student.

The student took it and stuffed a key chain in the Yarmulke, using the yarmulke to hide the key chain," Harris said. "This goes beyond knocking the Yarmulke off his head."

Depending on the offenses commit-ted, Harris said discipline for the students has included three-day and one-

County Drug Bust Nets Millions

LAKE MARY - Law enforcement officials searched nine houses in Seminole County and a dozen homes in Volusia County during an investigation that recovered millions of dollars of marijuana plants.

The confiscation of drugs caps a 12-month investigation involving what Seminole County Sheriff investigator Sammy Gibson labeled, a "well-organized and sophisticated" home-grown marijuana opera-

Lake Brantley's Valerie Lynch aims to be Florida Junior Miss

By Rues White

LONGWOOD — Valerie Lynch's 4.0 average at Lake Brantley High School has helped her set her eyes on enrollment next fall at Duke University.

Along the way, Lynch would like to become Florida's Junior Miss in late January 2000.

The daughter of Norman and Anne Lynch of Longwood, Valerie Lynch performed an a cappella tap routine entitled "Stick With Me" and won both the overall title and academic award at the recent Seminole County Junior Miss Pageant.

The state contest will be in DeLand.

'Valerie's worked very hard both at school and in competi-tions," said Lisa Maile, who has helped teach Lynch interviewing and performing skills at her Image, Modeling & Acting School in Winter Park.

Lynch, who is 5-foot-9 and black-haired, holds the title as Florida Dancer of the Year and Miss Starpower of Power, and Miss Teen Headliner. She's also in the National Honor Society, International Thespian Society (vice president) and she created a "Project Perform" nunity service in Seminole

"By setting difficult goals for myself," I'm striving to grow in every facet of my life," says Lynch, 17.

part of the committee," Hudson said. "The office is closed, we come in, sit down and talk."

According to federal regulations, the meetings are not open to the public and members of the committee are selected at the discretion of the Executive Director, said John Neisz, director of the Jacksonville office of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

"He (Hudson) can select any-body he wants," Neisz said. "It's informal, and very clearly an internal thing."

Ethel Tomlin; a member of the informal committee, said that so far the group has discussed in general terms ways that they believe the Housing Authority can improve.

"I want to see us clean up the Housing Authority," Tomlin said. "People need to take better care of the property."

At a later date, Hudson will also select members of a Resident Advisory Board to the Executive Director. The members will advise Hudson on forming a business plan for the Housing Authority.

"This is supposed to be a planning process," Neisz mid.

The intent (of the Resident Advisory Board to the Executive Director) is to get a cross section of all groups. Their needs must be addressed in some way. However, it is left to the Executive Director to pick the members."

Louislana: Clear to partly cloudy and comfortable tonight, then plenty of sunshine and very nice tomorrow with lower humidity.

. Once the draft business plan is ready to be presented, public meetings will be held with 45days notice. The deadline for submitting the plan to HUD is April 15, 2000. Hudson said he hopes to have the plan complete by January, 2000. Central Florida Legal Services, representing several members of STORM, contends that Resident Advisory Board meetings to the Executive Director should be held in pub-

"It should be held in public because it affects public dollars," said Treena Kaye, managing attorney for Legal Services. "It's a government who's doing this. Of course, if HUD says that this should not be held in public, we will strongly disagree."
Along with a nine or ten member Resident Advisory Board to the Executive Director, Hudson said he will also form a committee made up of 30 community leaders to advise him on forming the business plan.

Among those Hudson said he will invite to participate in the committee are political leaders, HE CIVIC AND THE gious leaders, three members of STORM, staff from the City of Senford, Seminole County, and the School Board, as well as a entative from the media.

Hudson said that members of STORM will also have a chance to shape policy on Oct. 18, when elections will be held for the Senford Housing Authority Resident Council.

"It will be interesting to see who wins," Hudson said. "I can't have anything to do with that election."

Amanda Geter and other members of STORM, said they had to search the Housing Authority's offices last week to find the meeting. Geter and others in STORM said they signed up for the committee, and should have been invited.

"He picked people that favored him," Geter said. "This should not have been held in secret."

The business plan will include details for any new HOPE VI grant the Sanford Housing Authority will seek.

"Any demolition project would need to be discussed in some detail," Neisz said.

The Housing Authority's $600,000 HOPE VI grant application this year to demolish 170 public housing units and replace them with affordable apartments and condominiums was denied.

However, the Housing Authority will prepare for a future HOPE VI grant application, Hudson said.

Had this year's application been approved, all 170 units in Edward Higgins Terrace, Cowan Moughton Terrace, and Lake Monroe Terrace would have been demolished. In place of the demolished units, Hudson said the Housing Authority would have worked with private developers to build 50 affordable single family homes, 15 condominiums, and a 120 room facility for the elderly. There would have been 170 section 8 vouchers to help residents find replacement housing. In addition, the Sanford Housing Authority was planning to use the grant for a 3.5 acre small business incubator that would support job training programs.

However, a number of residents living in the units that would have been demolished said they preferred to see their homes renovated. They are concerned that large families, age and handicaps would make it more difficult to find ho the private sector.

During a town meeting in September, federal officials said that the Sanford Housing Authority will need improved cooperation with residents before a grant application to demolish public housing units will be approved.

Members of STORM claim that the group has 60 members, and that even though the group is open to men, all current members are women.

"I'm not against some sort of punishment for the students," LeCroix said. "But, when you have a child constantly causing a disruption, other avenues have to be found other than causing kids to miss all this class time. I agree with punishing the stu-dents involved."

Members of the Seminole County School Board said Harris handled the situation properly. "You cannot knock down a student's Yarmulke, rip a Cross off of sameone's nack, or remove a veil if they are wearing one," said School Chairman Larry Furlong. "That's the policy, and that's the way it should be. Sometimes you've got to say that things are wrong."

Board members said they are disturbed that there were 14 incidents over six weeks.

"What it says to me, with this many incidents, is that there is an awful lot of intolerance at Rock Lake," said Jeanne Morris. 'And, I'm sorry to hear that.'

Do you have anything worth griping about?

East side, west side, all around the county someone is protesting something. It seems as though protesting has become Seminole County's natural choice.

Folks like living here so much, they're almost always against any infringement on the quality of their lives. It housing or apartis, of course, their Constitutional right to protest. And they do.

"What galls me," Sanford Mayor Larry Dale says, "is that there are so many gutless politicians caving to the hysteria of selfish and greedy groups or individuals.

Asks Dale, "Is it such a crime to start a public meeting with a prayer? Or for Wal-Mart to want to build a store where there's a market for one? Or for a developer to want to build a student housing unit where one is very much need-his District 1 constituents who are opposed to student housing or apartment projects near the University of Central Florida campus.

Forgive the best mayor ever. He's had his lakefront hotel/conference center just about blown off the map. For the moment, the Mellonities have saved their park of dreams. Their whining alone probably spooked the developer - Dale, too.

"Here's a case where some people say they would rather have a Wal-Mart built in their neighborhood than student > ments," Maloy says. "And I was talking to a Lake Forest resident who said he'd much rather have apartments than a proposed Wal-Mart near where he lives. You see what we're up against here?"

Somebody, solve the problems. UCF needs better housing. Get some on campus and get some off it. Just do it. Same with the Wal-Mart fiasco. Built it or scrap it. "It's absurd," Dale says. "I'm a developer. They said I couldn't build a house next to a vacant lot because some kid had a tree house there. Next?"

Bob Poe, gentleman leader of the Poe-ts, is opposed to what's going to happen to State Road 46 in the current Western Beltway planning. Poe says that SR 46 needs relief, not more traffic. He says the beltway planning is being dictated by Orange County bosses, who could care less about environmental conditions and logical

In a letter to District 5 Commissioner Daryl McLain, Poe wrote, "we need you to be actively involved in this issue and vocally represent your constituents in Seminole County...We urge you to maintain the public trust."

Taking his protest a step further, Poe talked to Rep. John Mica at the "missing link" ceremony in Sanford on Monday. "He (Mica) was unaware of all that was going on," Poe said. Mica has helped get federal funds for the beltway project. He called the ground breaking ceremony a grand slice of Central Florida history.

There are those in Seminole County, who believe that their protests a year ago enabled the county to adopt a tougher adult entertainment and public decency ordinances. Residents throughout the county fought to keep adult entertainment businesses out of their neighbor-

Among the "villains" this year are student housing projects, Wal-Marts, hotel/conference centers, a certain soup kitchen and the Western Beltway. You would think that there are sensible solutions to each crisis. Surely, progress isn't the mother of all problems.

Rough Seas for Captian Ventura

CAMBRIDGE, MASS. — Jesse Ventura tures himself as a ship's captain in rough Resganesque manner of governing the state of Minnesota. "I realize I'm like the captain of a ship, a Navy ship. The captain doesn't actually run the engines... (or) steer the ship," he said during a rousing public interview at Harvard last week. "I try to put in the most qualified people... that know more than I about that particular department."

The "rough seas" refers to a recent interview Ventura did with Playboy. The main cause of the tur-bulence was his comment that "organized religion is a sham and a crutch for weak-minded people who need strength in numbers."

Despite a bit of zig-zagging — 0.2.0 "there's not necessarily a bad connotation on being weak-minded," he told the wide-syed audience of Harvard students — Ventura has trick to that same rough course he set in the

"It was written to protect we, the citizenry, from an oppositive government, that if government ever became oppositive we would have the right to bear arms and the right to ttle our government if it ever got to that

Venture openly admits his sympathy for any American out there who believes there is a clear and present danger of such oppression from Washington, whether it be the fel-low who owns an assault rifle, men who don: ues to march each weekend with a milltis group or those armed cult members who stood barricaded at Waco. He balleves the second PBI assault on the Texas compound was driven by government "sevenge" for the killing of four ATF agents during that first tragic rush of the Texas compound.

Venture's anti-establishment language is both rough-newn and unfamiliar. The carpuols and bar stools of America are packed with middle-aged, undereducated guys who think like him, who hate not just the IRS but every alphabet agency of the federal government. They see "the government" as an alien force comprised of buseaucrats and betray-

Why wouldn't he? The old Navy seal charting his course through what he calls the "rough seas" of his post-Playboy existence, the perfect answer to the slick politician with blow-dried hair pandering to us with well-groomed, poll-tested banality.

Jesse Ventura's got something, and the rougher the seas the better he's going to look — most of all to those young Americans who are, even now, so bitthe to cheer him.

If Othello the Moor had been the de-clarer, what might he have said?

After the bad trump break, the only risk is an unfriendly heart split. Just in case East has a singleton heart, declarer's first play should be low to dummy's queen. Then a heart from the dummy leaves East with no defense. If he ruffs, South's hand is high, so East discards. South returns to dummy with a diamond, then calls for the last heart. Again, East is powerless. Assuming he discards, declarer wins the trick and ruffs a heart in the dummy, establishing his last heart in the process. The defense is restricted to East's trump trick.

Try to avoid having vital winners ruffed.

Kangaroo: It's what's for dinner

DEAR DR. GOTT: With all the publicity about the dangers of red meat, would we be better off turning to alternative meat sources, such as deer, buffalo and kangaroo? DEAR READER: Interesting ques-

DEAR READER: Interesting ques-tion. The answer is a hesitant "yes." Certain activists are opposed to the consumption of red meat because it necessitates the butchering of harm-less animals. Others deplore the killing of wild game. Some dieticians are concerned that excess protein, in the form of animal meat, may be are concerned that excess protein, in the form of animal meat, may be harmful (because some studies have implicated such protein as a cause of colon cancer). However, the major drawback to red meat is its high cholesterol content, which is the probable reason why coronary heart disease is more prevalent in meat-eaters than it is in strict vegetarians. Consequently, many consumers are now demanding leaner cuts. The meat industry is leaner cuts. The meat industry is complying with our wishes: Beef is less likely to be "marbled" and pork is much less fatty than was the case

Deer, buffalo and kangaroo are leaner yet — and often provide wel-come dietary variety. There have been no published reports proving than beef, pork or lamb — but many consumers are convinced that they are. For the average person, this fare is probably appropriate, providing that excess fat is trimmed off prior to

She colors her hair and believes that she should also dye her pubic hair to match, if she is to have intimate relations. Try beet dishes that can't be beat

I love beets. Even as a kid I loved them. Maybe it's their color — deep, rich, garnet-red — that first attracted me, but their taste never let me down. Beets are sweet, and if you roast them instead of boiling them, you'll find them even sweeter. They bring color to the table, and variety to the diet. My favorite way to cook beets is to coat them with oil, sprinkle them with salt, wrap them in aluminum foil and toss them into the campfire. This method (which also works beautifully with carrots, onions and cabbage) assumes that you have a campfire handy.

BAKED BEETS WITH ORANGE VINAIGRETTE

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. In a small bowl, toes the beets with oil and herbs. Place beets on a wire rack on a cookie sheet and bake 40 minutes to I hour, or until beets are tender. Remove from oven and allow to cool slightly.

Meanwhile: In a large mixing bowl, combine the vinegar, orange juice, orange sest, shallot, salt and papper, and let nit while beets bake. Just before serving, whisk in the oil and adjust seasonings.

Slip the skins off the cooled, baked beets and slice the beets into 1/4-inch stripe. Toes beets in vinalgrette to mainten. Serve on saled plates lined with leaves of lettuce. Garnish with orange segments, if desired. Yield: 6 servings.

Bears edge Seminole in two games

By Does Smith SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - The Seminole High School girls gave it their best shot, but in the end, the state-ranked Winter Springs Bears proved to be a little too good as they held off the Fighting Seminoles in a Semi-nole Athletic Conference match at Bill Fleming Memorial Oymnasium Tuesday evening.

The Bears, ranked No. 2 in this week's FSWA Class 6A State Poll, were pushed to the limit in the 65-minute match, but still won in straight games. 15-11 and 15-9, to improve to 23-2 on the season.

"We passed the ball better as the night went on," said Semi-nole coach Beth Corso. "And our serving was good tonight. However, we need to control the net more and play a tougher defense.

Seminole finished the night with 13 kills, 17 digs, 11 aces. 12 assists and two block assists, but still saw its record

Chamberlain is considered, along with Michael Jordan, as being the best player to ever don an NBA uniform, and he has the statistics to back it up.

The 7-foot-1, 300-pound center is the only player to average 50 points and 25 rebounds for a whole season and on March 2, 1962 in Hershey, Pennsylvania, Chamberlain scored 100 points against the New York Knicks.

"In my opinion, no one has made the impact on the game in his time the wav Wilt did," said

Orlando Magic General Manager John Gabriel, "His influence on the game carried it to new heights and new dimensions. To be fortunate enough to see him score 100 points as a six-year old, or any age for that matter, is something that I will never forget."

Chamberiain is the second All-Time leading scorer, behind Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, and the All-Time leading rebounder in NBA history. He was an All-America basketball player and track athlete, in the high jump, 400-yard dash and shot put, while a col-legian at Kansas and also played for a while with the Hariem Globetrotters.

We ended up in the same place so often, we were both recognized as two great athletes that played in Philadelphia, and we shared many common friends.

This was to be a great year for Wilt, and he will always be recognized for his contributions to basketball. The ripple effect of his death will be felt globally, and I'm sure he will be properly honored by those that are lovers of the game."
