Florida Power & Light Co. Sanford District spokesman John Higgins reported scattered outages occurred Saturday night in Sanford and Osteen due to wind and lightning damage.

He said although there were no main feeder lines out, six transformers had to be replaced, three cases where primary lines were down and numerous transformers had to be re-fused and line fuses were blown.

Among the scattered areas where outages occurred were Pell Road, Osteen, where the power was off from 8-10 p.m., Banana Road and Loch Arbor in the Sanford area, which were in the dark for two and a half to three Higgins said the a 4 a.m. outage in Deltona today was not caused by the storm, but by a transformer failure.

Larry Strickler, manager of Sanford's Southern Bell office, said the storms did not cause any problemes for the telephone company and any delays in repairs would be because of the workers' strike, not a lightning strike.

United Telephone System spokesman Frank Hutsell reported that trouble calls were about double the nomal amount due to isolated customer outages caused by the weekend wind and lightning damage, but nothing major. "When there is a surge in electricity," he added, "fuses blow in switchboards and businesses."

Bell Strike Idles 130 In Sanford

By Micheal Beha

Herald Staff Writer Only four Southern Bell employees crossed picket lines today set up at seven area locations, according to Robert Headrick, president of Local 3113 of the Communicailons Workers of America. The workers are striking over a proposed contract that does nor address lob security.

Headrick said the 130 union members in the Sanford district have set up picket lines at the Sanford Phone Center, 300 Southgate Drive, the Highland Work Center outside Winter Springs, switching operations on Country Club Road in Sanford, Southern Bell offices on 9th Street in Sanford and at operations centers in DeBary, Deltona and Oviedo. The strike began at 12:01 a.m. Sunday. No violence was reported.

Larry Strickler, Southern Beh Sanford manager, said today customers probably won't notice any difference in service due to the strike by the Communications Workers of America unless they use the operator for long distance calls or use directory assistance. which could result in delays.

Normal business operations at the Sanford Phone Center, 3000 Southgate Drive, have been suspended during the strike and only emergency inquiries are being handled, Strickler said.

"We're trying to discourage people who want new service during the strike," he said. Management personnel are also handling from operators who start at a salary of $148 installation and repair duties.

He said customers who dial long distance calls direct should experience no delays.

Strickler said he and other management employees will be filling in at operators' consoles during the strike in an attempt to "give the best service we can during the strike."

"I worked 11 hours as an operator in Orlando Sunday," he said. "Naturally, those of us who are working 16 to 20 hour days are hopeful the strike will be settled as quickly as possible. Those workers out on the picket lines who are losing their wages while they're on strike want the strike to end too."

Strickler said the striking workers range

Negotiators for the union have rejected a three-year contract calling for an average 31/2 percent annual salary increase because it does not address job security in the face of the divestiture of the Bell System.

Headrick said AT&T and American Bell have promised to split up the employees of the Bell System when the divestiture takes effect next year. But the companies have not given employees any indication of where they will be working or how much they will be

"We want AT&T and Bell Telephone to quit playing games with our jobs." Headrick said. He said only four of the 130 union members in Sanford have less than four years expertence with Southern Bell. The remainder all have more than 10 years experience and many are close to retirement, he said.

Some workers could be forced to transfer to other areas and take pay cuts under the new setup, Headrick said. "Some of our workers would be making 20 to 30 percent less."

He said customer sales representatives have been told they will be transferred to operations in Orlando. "Then they were told American Telephone would open a phone store in the Penney's Plaza in Sanford. We just don't know what they're going to do."

City Weighs Plan To Rezone Old Sanford Neighborhoods

decide at its 7 p.m. meeting today whether to call a public hearing on a proposal to rezone to single family a large part of the old section of the city even though an Orlando attorney representing Sanford clients is threatening a lawsuit.

Prior to the scheduled September 15 Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission public hearing, the advisory board has recommended that the city commission call a moratorium on the conversion of any more old homes into apartment units in the areas bounded by Palmetto and Laurel avenues and 4th and 13th streets.

J.Q. "Slim" Galloway, chairman of the planning and zoning board, said today that his board is urging the moratorium until after the public hearing. He said a special committee of the board has studied the rezoning request for more than two months.

At a meeting of the advisory board last week, more than 100 property owners favoring the request made their views known. Only 4 or 5 persons were opposed, the chairman said.

Galloway said he doesn't anticipate any legal problem with the rezoning unless someone creates one. If the area were rezoned to single family district from commercial and multiple family, the apartments and businesses currently there could remain as "nonconforming uses," he said.

Galloway said homeonwers appear tired to having houses converted to apartment buildings next door. "We are leaving this issue up to the public." he

Meanwhile, City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles notified the city commission that an Orlando attorney, John Foster, who says he is representing ownerinvestors, called city hall seeking information and indicated a lawsuit will be filed against the city if the area is rezoned into a single family home district.

Some months ago, Lon Howell, who purchased and restored an old home on Oak Avenue and others who had also bought and restored old homes began organizing to get the zoning changed to protect their homes.

At the same time, investors have been buying old properties and renovating them into apartment units.

Charles Cameron is a long-time owner-investor in the old section of the city who had renovated a number of properties over the years.

Cameron said through his renovations, he has provided living quarters for more than 60 families. Noting he The Sanford City Commission will also owns the Gables Hotel at 4th and Magnolia, and "Charile's Place" at 5th and Palmetto, Cameron said these hotels in existence for many years, would become non-conforming uses if the zoning were changed from their current commercial to single family district. He pointed out the Gables Hotel has existed for 100 years. A non-conforming zoning would mean that the facilities could not be expanded or materially changed, and neither could be be repaired, Cameron said. Cameron added that houses converted into apartments are not eligible for homestead exemption and are taxed on full value, unlikes the old homes restored and retained as single family

He insists if the proposed rezoning is accomplished, it will have the effect of "confiscation without compensation."

Cameron insists that the large old homes, built 60 to 90 years ago, in this oldest section of Sanford no longer lend themselves to today's life style for single family homes.

"A small group of people is trying to affect this entire city," he said. "Their motivation is that they don't want the old houses converted to multi-housing use," he said.

Cameron predicted that many old homes will be razed because of the high cost of restoring them, if the zoning is changed as requested.

"It the area is rezoned to single family, it will have an adverse effect and as old houses become condemned and torn down, there will be more vacant and weeded lots," he said, adding traditionally areas near the downtown sections become apartments and tenants renting them walk to work or use

"A resistence movement has started. A lot of people, fat, dumb and happy, have thought this would never happen (the zoning changed) because of an effort spearheaded by just a few people," Cameron said.

Soil Contamination 'Intolerable' At Defunct Chemical Plant Site

As Sanford's city staff warned some months ago, the soil at the Chemical and Fertilizer Corp. plant at 2300 Country Club Road has been shown to be seriously contaminated and now the state says it's a potential threat to groundwater.

Since the state report, a plan to allow an adjacent firm to take over the facility, and forestall city demolition, is stalled because the firm wants the chemical plant owners to do the clean-up

The Sanford City Commission will hear a report at its 7 p.m. meeting today that the state State Department of Environmental Regulation says the amount of nitrates in the soil at the abandoned plant is intolerable at some 200 times the normal level. The city commission meets at city hall, 300 N. Park Ave.

Bob Patton, chief chemist at the Tailahassee office of the DER. said today the greatest potential problem with that much nitrate in the soil is the leeching of the nitrate into the ground water.

If that happens, he said, and certain chemical reactions take place, contamination of ground water could occur with the presence of careinogens.

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles said today that there is no indication that the aquifer has been effected. "We have a source and are uncertain about its spread, thus the thing to do is eliminate the source," Knowles

Two weeks ago, the city commission set a new deadline of last Friday for Chemical and Fertilizer Corp. to clean up the property and demolish the plant with a threat that otherwise the city would do it and place a lein on the property to recover the costs.

The compromise was reached after an official of Liquid Foods Inc., which has a plant next door at 2200 Country Club Road, sald his company is buying the pro-

The report came back and the DER after reviewing the results said while the normal level of nitrates is 10 parts per million. the soil sample at the Chemical and Fertilizer Corp. plant showed a level of 2,000 parts per million. Patton explained today that 10 parts per million is the normal level of nitrates in water.

DER officials have notified the owners that the soil will have to be cleaned up. Liquid Foods maintains the clean-up is the responsibility of the owners of the Chemical and Fertilizer Inc. plant.

President of that corporation is Spencer Douglas, now president of Douglass Chemical and Fertilizer inc. of Lake Mary.

At the same time, Liquid Foods, which is also having a problem with the city over residue from its liquid sweeteners wreaking havoc at the city's sewer plant and leaving a putrifying, smelly mess in ditches in Goldsboro have delayed tonight's scheduled appearance before the city commission.

Battalint had said he would appear before the commission tonight to explain what the firm is doing to correct its problem. But his appearance has been put off until Aug. 22 when the firm expects to be able to show positive progress in solving the problem.

Knowles told commissioners two weeks ago that the residue, called "sweet water", was being dumped at the plant into city sewer lines and this had put the sewer plant out of commission

Man, 19, Killed In Crash On Rain-Slicked Highway

A 19-year-old Sanford man was killed when his car collided with two trucks south of Sanford during a rainstorm Saturday.

Christopher Lee Gillett, of 343 Trotter Court, died when his 1983 Toyota. eastbound on County Road 427, went out of control near Sunland Drive at about 6:23 p.m., according to Florida Highway Patrol trooper A. G. Conklin.

Gillett's vehicle crossed the center line and struck a 1983 Ford pickup truck driven by Max Jones, 42, of 527 Dew Drop Cove, Casselberry, and a 1976 Ford one-ton truck driven by Mark Grgeskowik, 25, of 702 Heather Lane, Winter Springs. Jones and Greskowik were not hurt. The new $12,000 Toyota Gillett was driving was totally destroyed and rescue workers had to cut the roof open to remove the body.

"He had just traded in his old Corvette. He was used to driving a heavier car," she said, explaining that Gillett had just bought a new Toyota and was driving a loaner car from the dealership while his new car was being repainted.

Gillett, a 1982 graduate of Lyman High School in Longwood, was returning home from the Toyota dealer in Longwood after picking up the loaner car when the accident occurred.

Gillett worked as a doorman at Roscoe's nightelub in Winter Park, and as a stock clerk at the Publix supermarket to Sanford, his aunt said.

IN BRIEF

No New Taxes Likely Until After Elections

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The sentor Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee says taxes will not increase significantly until after the November 1984 elections.

But Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., said Sunday in an Interview on Cable News Network's "Newsmaker Sunday" program that Congress cannot ignore the huge federal budget deficits forever.

He said Congress will have to pass some tax legislation upon returning next month from a five-week recess and in 1984, but it "will be designed to try to protect the existing revenue base rather than to raise additional money."

Conable noted the nation faces a budget deficit of more than $190 billion, and said, "The country can't live with deficits that big very long. I think we're going to have to have both expenditure reductions and probably some revenue increases in 1985," he said.

"I doubt that Congress will take heroic action between now and 1985, for two reasons," he said, explaining that elected officials are busy campaigning and most people are optimistic right now that the economy is recovering.

'It'll Be A Good Scrap'

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Congressional opponents of renewed nerve gas production vow they will continue their fight to keep it out of a military spending bill when Congress goes back into session in September. Rep. Ed Bethune, R Ark., one of the chief House foes, sat in the House chamber almost continuously for three days last week to prevent the House and Senate conferees from winning quick passage of the compromise legislation.

Bethune, whose place was filled occasionally by Republican colleagues, was ready to object if the conferees finished their work and tried to ask for a suspension of House rules to take up the bill.

"I wanted to be certain this issue would not come up until after recess," he said. "When they come back, we will resume the vigil at that time. It'll be a good scrap."

Using Numerical System

Principals Object To Being Graded

Herald Staff Writer

It may be OK to grade students but some Seminole County school principals don't want the same rating system applied to them.

The principals who helped work on a self-assessment program say they did not devise the review to be used in rating themselves.

"We developed it as a way of telling principals what areas we are strong in and where we need more work," said Don Reynolds, principal at Lake Mary High School.

Reynolds, Sanford Middle School Principal Dan Pelham, and South Seminole Middle School Principal Sid Boyette were opposed to a proposal by School Board Chairman Roland Williams to use criteria prepared for the assessment program to grade them.

Williams suggested giving numerical value to each of a useful purpose. Ms. Glannini said no numbering meeting.

the 15 performance responsibilities outlined by the system was ever intended in the format developed by group. That way, Williams said, the principals' overall herself. Reynolds. Boyette, Bracken, School Board performance can be better evaluated.

Pelham complained that if principals are graded, they will inevitably be compared. That's not fair, he said, "because it's easier to do things at some schools than at others." He said facilities and the background of students dictates much of a principal's succes in meeting his responsibilities.

Boyette argued that no other work group in the district is graded.

Williams gave in at the insistence of Assistant Superintendent for Instruction Dan Dagg and Marian Giannini, director of elementary education, who along with Andrew Bracken, director of secondry education, review the performance of each principal.

They agreed that a numbering system would not serve member Nancy Warren, Personnel Director Ann Nelswender and principals Ken Bovio and Jewel

Ms. Giannini said word descriptions, like "commendable," "satisfactory," "improvement needed" or "unsatisfectory" would be preferable to grades or numbers.

The performance assessment, which evaluates principals in areas such as providing for a school climate in which learning is of prime importance, leadership in daily operations at the school, taking responsibility for programs and services of the district, and developing and implementing a comprehensive plan which follows the district's goals and objectives, will be presented to school board members at their 3 p.m. Wednesday

Mount St. Helens Belching Steam And Ash

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - Mount St. Helens, the volcano whose cataclysmic cruption left 57 people dead or missing three years ago, is sending plumes of steam and ash 15,000 feet in the air and tossing boulders up to 100 feet high.

There was no estimate on the height of a steam emission Sunday, the latest activity at the southwest Washington volcano during the past week, said Chris Tisler, a seismic analyst for the University of Washington Geophysics Department in Scattle.

A plume reached about 12,000 feet above sea level Saturday, or about 4,000 feet above the volcano's gaping crater. she said. A Thursday explosion pushed gas and ash to an altitude of 15,000 feet and tossed boulders a foot in diameter up to 100 feet away.

"That was a preffy vigorous one," Ms. Tisler said. "That's not very uncommon. We hear stories all the time about pilots dodging things.

Ms. Tisler said the increased steam emissions are a good sign because they indicate that the mountain, located 50 miles northeast of Portland, is slowly allowing gases inside its huge lava dome to escape. Without those releases, Mount St. Helens could once again erupt in a more violent fashion. "It could blow out the lava dome, and there's no way to predict that," said Tisler. "People who work there have to be aware of that. They have to be able to move pretty quick.'

The lava dome will continue to grow until it eventually fills the crater, forming a new peak on the 8,300-foot high mountain. The mountain blew off more than 1,300 feet in a May 18, 1980 explosion that also leveled 20,000 acres of national forest timber land.

Scientists betteve there is little chance of another cataclysmic cruption in the near future but say Mount St. Helens could become violent once more as the years go by.

"Decades ahead, there certainly is the chance that we'll have explosive activity," Newhall said.

While Mount St. Helens is still huffing and puffing, scientists say a violent eruption like the one that killed dozens of people three years ago is

Reagan Moved Into Position To Make His Re-Election Bid

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The camera focuses on President Reagan, and a narrator describes the president's struggle to attain the conservative goals that won him votes in 1980. Finally, the voice intones, "If you don't help re-elect President Reagan, who will?"

The shadow campaign is on. Through words and deeds, Reagan has signaled he will seek a second term. But his expressed desire to "wait till the last possible minute" to make it official has not stopped aides and longtime loyalists from moving him into position. Their activities - ranging from White House strategy sessions to television ads by the National Conservative Political Action Committee - are elements of a broad drive to ensure Reagan is in the strongest possible position when he finally takes the plunge into formal politicking as a declared candidate.

"You can't wait until November to get a campaign organization together, identify the problems you face and set out to correct them," said one Republican Party strategist. "You have to hit the ground running,"

For their part, Reagan's trusted advisers have put together an organizational structure for the campaign, repositioned him on sensitive issues and used his public appearances to address key constituencies.

But the formal organization and the White House strategy talks are only part of the shadow campaign.

Conservative groups that have groused about Reagan's compromises with Congress and the ideological purity of his top aides have set out on their own to raise the curtain on his re-election campaign. Their efforts are not White Housedirected, but have at least the tacit blessing of the Reagan team.

"These people were a big help the last time around, and we want to make sure they're there this time as well," said one White House aide.

To this end, Reagan last week helped kick off the fermation of a new conservative group. Citizens for America. that plans to spend $1.5 million helping spread his gospel across the country.

Alert Motorist Scares Off Handy Way Burglars

Action Reports

A motorcyclist who spotted a burglar on the roof of a Sanford area convenience store early today apparently scared the burglar away before he could finish the job.

Carl Wayne Morris, 19, who lives behind the Handy Way store at West State Road 46 and Orange Avenue in Paola, said he heard a pounding noise coming from the roof of the store as he left his home on his motorcycle at 4:20 a.m. to go to work.

Morris said he saw a broad-shouldered, bushy-haired man on the roof and stopped at a nearby service station to phone the Seminole County sheriff's department.

Deputies who responded found no one at the store. They borrowed a ladder, climbed to the roof and found that an air conditioning vent cover had been removed and a pection of the roof under the vent had been cut out, giving access to the store through the ceiling.

A search of the store revealed that a video game had been pried open and an undetermined number of quarters removed.

Deputies said they believe the man on the roof had a smaller accomplice who entered the store. They said the burglars were apparently preparing to remove a safe and a microwave oven and were scared off when Morris

Oil Slick Blown Away From Fishing Grounds

SALDANHA BAY, South Africa (UPI) — Weather forecasters predicted steady wind today would blow out to sea some 12 million gallons of oil that spilled from a wrecked supertanker, sparing rich South African rock lobster and fishing grounds.

The 20-mph southeasterly wind - known locally as the "Cape Doctor" because it blows the land's ills offshore - was pushing the 30-mile-long, 10-mile-wide slick away from South Africa's western coast.

Meteorologists predicted Sunday that the brisk winds would continue today and Tuesday, averting what could have been South Africa's most tragic pollution disaster.

Mike Garnett, technical manager of the International Tanker Owners Pollution Federation, flew over the area where the 271,000-ton Spanish supertanker Castilio de Bellver caught fire Saturday and broke in two. Almost 12 million gallons of the 76 million gallons of crude oil the ship was carrying poured into the Atlantic Occan, HAHN, West Germany (UPI) - West German and American authorities searched today for terrorists whose bomb blasts in a U.S. Air Force officers club occurred only hours before a large anti-nuclear protest at a NATO air base.

The explosions coincided with anti-nuclear protests at the Ramstein NATO air base, where West German and U.S. military police arrested 160 demonstrators during an air show for defying a ban on protests and spreading propaganda.

No one immediately took responsibility for the

So far this year, Marine Patrol officers made up to 20 arrests for illegal oyster harvesting. including one arrest Friday.

Interest Rate Expected To Head Back Up

The prime interest rate hasn't gone up since February 1982. But analysts say that is about to change. The prime is expected to inch upward, but not too far.

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The banks' prime rate of interest is about to go up for the first time in a year and a half, an overdue reflection of how rates have already gone up everywhere else in the economy, analysts say. The dikes began crumbling in the past few days, as small banks began lifting the bench mark rate. The County Bank of St. Louis and BancTexas were among those who moved from the prevailing 10.5 percent to 11 percent by Friday.

"The prime rate at this level of interest rates would normally be ... a full point above its present level." analyst Jonathan Gray said, based on his banking research for New York's Sanford C. Bernstein & Co.

Many businesses have begun to beef up inventories. That requires financing. But because of the heavy presence of the Treasury Department selling govern-ment securities to finance a $200 billion-plus deficit, businesses have to bid the rate up to get use of the money.

Will interest rates keep inching up the rest of the year? Gray and many other analysts do not think so.

Trash Customers Could Realize Savings From Private Takeover

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

Should the city of Sanford get out of the garbage business and farm out its refuse collection service to private enterprise?

The Sanford City Commission is scheduled to review that question at its 7 p.m. meeting today. Commissioners are also expecdted to consider a recommendation from City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles to reorganize the city's repair shop, cutting three employees in the

Two weeks ago, the city received an offer from privately owned and operated industrial Waste Services to collect and dispose of garbage and trash from Sanford residents at a cost to the city of $6.40 per month under a franchise arrangement. In return, the city would bill the customers, answer complaints, and administer the program at a cost of 74 cents per customer. The total cost to customers would be $7.14 per month.

The city currently charges residents $8.50 per month for city garbage and trush collection. The price was raised from $7.25 per month on Aug. 1.

Industrial Waste Services asked for a five-year contract with rates fixed for three years and possible increases thereafter tied to the consumer price index.

The commission asked City Attorney Bill Colbert to prepare an opinion on whether a referendum is required before the city can grant either an exclusive or a non-exclusive franchise for refuse collection. The board also asked Knowles to determine whether other firms are interested in a franchise.

in addition, Knowles is urging city commission approval of a reorganization of the city's vehicle and equipment repair shop. His plan would reduce the repair shop's budget for the new year by $78,822, calls for laying off three employees - the shop superintendent, one automotive mechanic and a maintenance workerand turning over maintenance of 13 fire and 14 police vehicles to three firemen-mechanics at the fire department. A new position of "lead mechanic" would be created at the shop.

During budget preparations. Knowles came to the conclusion, after reviewing the shop budget, that existing costs compared with performance and production at the facility should be reviewed.

A team composed of Public Works Director Bob Kelly, shop superintendent Leonard Smith, and Assistant City Manager Steve Harriett conducted a two-month study and recommended the reorganization.

In return for their work as mechanics, the three firefighters who offered to service fire and police vehicles will be paid $1,000 per year each. The plan is expected to save a total of $18,000.

The names of the employees laid off would be placed on a special re-employment list for luture openings Knowles said.

Under the reorganization plan, Knowles points out, the cost for maintenance of city vehicles would total $139,000 rather than the $203,000 requested in the new budget year.

Telephone Hookup Charges Debatable

Both long-distance and local callers depend on their phones being hooked up to the nearest telephone switching company, and until now they have shared the cost of the hookups. It has been factored into both long-distance rates and the fixed charge for basic telephone service. Now, however, the Federal Communications Commission wants that cost to be horne by local callers alone.

The FCC had to find a way to apportion hookup costs after AT&T is broken up into separate local and long-distance companies next January. But it didn't have to do this. Consumer groups and those in Congress who are anxious to ensure that everyone in the country can afford basic telephone service have suggested any number of workable plans under which the long-distance companies and their customers would have continued to bear at least part of the hookup cost. Indeed, they were urging that the long-distance companies be required to pay the bulk of this cost, as a means of continuing the subsidy of basic service that long-distance callers have always provided in the

But the FCC says it's more "fair" to consider the hookup the sole responsibility of local callers, since their phones are worthless without it. (That long-distance services, for the most part, are also impossible without hookups seems to have escaped the commission's notice.) It ruled that at least $2 per month must be added to the cost of basic residential phone service next year, increasing to $4 per month in 1986 and an even larger, as yet undetermined, amount after that.

These new charges will come on top of other, greater, local phone bill increases resulting from the telephone company breakup. And they will be compounded in most states by state regulators who are expected to follow the FCC example and free intrastate long-distance callers, too, from the need to share the expense of telephone hookups.

Nonetheless, the FCC sees no contradiction between its hookup decision and the goal. expressed in law since the 1930s, of providing affordable basic telephone service to all. In response to congressional opposition - and to the extremely disapproving remarks about the FCC plan issued by the federal judge overseeing the telephone breakup — the FCC merely adjusted the timing of its new hookup charges, making the rate increase for residential customers more gradual.

AT&T was quick to announce that the FCC's timing adjustments "should materially lessen concerns expressed by Congress and others over the long-term effect of (these) charges on telephone users." But AT&T is hardly a disinterested observer. Congress would be making a big mistake if it accepted AT&T's assurances or FCC's cosmetic changes and dropped its own efforts to find a more equitable way to spread the costs of telephone service.

ROBERT WALTERS

On The Disaster Bonanza

PORTLAND, Maine (NEA) - When the nation's governors gathered here recently, Utah Gov. Scott M. Matheson offered his colleagues some advice on how to transform a natural disaster into a federally funded financial bonanza.

Convincing the president to issue an official disaster declaration is only the first step, Matheson explained during the annual meeting of the National Governors Association.

After parts of Utah were devastated by floods and mudslides earlier this year. the state had no trouble in securing the requisite emergency proclamation. The next step involved inducing (through the subtle application of political pressure) Louis O. Giuffrida, director of the Federal Emergency Management Agency, to visit the disaster area.

"We invited about 50 press" representatives to join Giuffrida in the ritual on-the-scene inspection of the devastation, explained Matheson, and those journalists naturally asked the FEMA director "Just what are you going to do to help us?" When Giuffrida answered that question. Utah had him locked into a commitment, beasted the Democratic Matheson's counterparts in other states aren't always quite as sophisticated, but the pattern is familiar - a flood, landslide, mudslide, tornado, hurricane earthquake snowsterm. drought, fire, explosion, tidal wave, volcanic eruption or other catastrophe occurs and the governor of the affected state promptly appeals for massive amounts of federal assistance.

Edwin G. Warner, a political analyst and former journalist, cogently analyzes the phenomenon in a compelling article in a recent issue of The Journal of the Institute for Socioeconomic Studies:

"No political chore is perhaps more unhesitating to a president or to any other elected official than spreading largesse after a natural disaster.

"There is nothing to lose, politically speaking, and everything to gain. People need help badly and nobody is going to begrudge their getting it ....

"In such a case, the president declares a major disaster and thus launches an outpouring of aid involving anywhere from six to 20 federal agencies. Government comes to the rescue of citizens in genuine distress.

"Yet, increasingly, critics are asking if the aid does not come too freely and too easily, thereby undermining the goal of encouraging people to live and farm in safer areas.

Almost 90 percent of all natural disasters in this country involve floods. yet millions of people persist in living in vulnerable areas along the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts or in hazardous locations near flood-prone rivers. Although many of their homes are destroyed regularly, they are rebuilt again and again - often with government assistance.

JEFFREY HART Where's The Freeze?

Have you noticed that the nuclear freeze movement seems to have undergone political meltdown?

Only last spring it was able to turn out tens of thousands of demonstrators here and in Europe. The Democratic candidates for president embraced it eagerly, and poor Alan Cranston placed It at the center of his campaign. The House of Representatives passed a freeze resolution by a wide margin. But the thing has now virtually disappeared as a political issué.

Why? There are several reasons. For one thing, the Soviets have lost interest In the movement. From their perspective, the political goal of the Western peace movement was to prevent the deployment of new U.S. missiles in Europe. It utterly failed to do as voters in West Germany and in England resoundingly elected governments firmly committed to deployment. The support Moscow has provided to the peace movement for the last two years - organizing skills, cash, the cooperation of Soviet front groups, propaganda - has now dried up. Several European governments have tardily expelled KGB agents who have been active among the disarmament groups. But the support for a nuclear freeze in this country was all along more apparent than real, as recent in depth polling has now made clear.

When the question of a freeze is put in the broadest terms, it commands wide support. Thus an April poll by ABC News found that 81 percent favor a 'freeze on nuclear weapons by both the United States and the Soviet Union."

But just what that means becomes clearer when more analytical questions are asked by the pollster. In a Harris poll taken early this year, an equivalent 80 percent favor Russia and the U.S. halting the production of new weapons provided both countries have just about the equal number of such weapons." That is an important proviso, given the accelerating deployment of new Soviet intermediate range missiles in Europe.

Again, in a CBS Poll taken last May, six out of ten Americans oppose a freeze if it "would result in the Soviet Union having somewhat greater strength than

When you contemplate those figures, the freeze looks less and less like a winning political issue.

But things get a lot worse when the Issue of verfication comes up. According to the CBS poll, 71 percent oppose a freeze if either country "could cheat on the number of its nuclear weapons without being detected." According to a March Gallup poll, 67 percent believe that it is more important to find means of verification before reaching an agreement than it is to "halt the growth of our nuclear arsenal."

Any form of unilateral disarmament fares very poorly with public opinion and unilteral disarmament is precisely what important segments of the freeze movement really want (as in the case, for example, of the platform of the British Labour Party in the recent election).

Thus an overwhelming majority rejects the idea that America dismantle its nuclear arsenal before an agreement is reached with the Soviets. A May CBS poll indicated that 70 percent oppose the U.S. being the first to dismantle nuclear weapons "in order to get the Soviet Union to freeze its nuclear weapons." and a March Harris poll indicated that 78 percent rejected the idea of the United States "deciding to gradually dismantle our nuclear weapons before getting agreement from other countries to do the same."

Other polling indicates that a large majority of people do not regard themselves as well informed on nuclear weapons issues, and a surprisingly large percentage "not worried" about the chances of nuclear conflict.

One is forced to conclude that the nuclear freeze and related "peace" issues, while enjoying fervent support among left-wing zealots in the Democratic Party, and on college campuses among students who sit at the feet of people like disarmament guru E.P. Thompson, is far from becoming a decisive issue in mainstream American politics. Alan Cranston may have peaked too soon at 3 percent.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN No More Taxes, Please

It is a brave man who says that Americans are undertaxed. On that score, columnist George Will is a very

In a column in Newsweek July 18, Mr. Will argues that "we, as a nation, are undertaxed." He says that there is an "inescapable need to raise taxes" and insists that the President "must hurry to restore the government's revenue

A lot of Americans will disagree with Mr. Will and say that President Reagan is on the right track in rejecting tax

It's true of course that the federal government is spending more than it is taking in. But the cure for that is to spend less, not tax more. The pressure ought not to be on President Reagan to push for more taxes but on the liberals in Congress to cut expenditures. The liberals, of course, continue to hold to the spend and elect philosophy that has guided them for 50 years. Mr. Will properly reminds us that Congress went into an uproar when Mr. Reagan proposed to change eligibility for subsidized student loans. Benefits for all is the theme of the liberal legislators.

The states, however, are beginning to learn that economies can be achieved in welfare programs. The State of Tennessee, for example, has succeeded in reducing overall spending on the food stamp program. This is the result of strict enforcement of the law to eliminate those who were free-loading. If the federal government displayed the same will, enormous savings could be achieved. Congress, however, must lead the way or, at least, do its part.

If Mr. Reagan were to do what Mr. Will deems necessary, he would be doing precisely what the liberals also want him to do. There would be no hope of slowing public spending.

Indeed there is plenty of expert testiniony contrary to Mr. Will's posttion. In June, Dr. Norman B. Ture, chairman of the Institute for Research on Economics and Taxation, testified before the Senate Finance Committee. He argued that "The last thing in the world the U.S. economy needs at this early state in its recovery is a new layer of tax burdens." He added that "tax increases should not be on the congressional agenda until the recovery is assured, if not indeed complete."

The national economic recovery is coming along nicely, but it is slow. In some in lines of business and industry, it is very slow indeed. It is a tender plant that needs a lot of cultivation. A tax increase could cause it to wilt..

Indeed changes in the tax law should not consist of adding more of a burden. As Mr. Ture said in his testimony. "The real and critical deficiencies in the income tax system arise from the continuing bias against private saving and capital formation."

Those who say Americans are undertaxed should read Mr. Ture's testimony. It is compelling.

Terrorists May Have 'Invisible Bomb'

WASHINGTON - A hair-raising new development has occurred in the subterranean world of international terrorism. The CIA has learned of the invention of an "invisible bomb" - that is, a secret, sophisticated explosive undetectable by standard bombsearching techniques. At least a dozen are believed to be in the hands of

The disturbing details are known to only a few Western intelligence agencles. Sources with access to top-secret CIA files on the "invisible bomb" told my associate Dale Van Atta how it was detected. Here's what happened:

Last spring, an Arab courier visited a Geneva hotel that is partly owned by Jewish interests but which is also frequented by Arabs. He left behind a portable radio and an innocent-looking sultcase.

But the last minute, the courier who was linked to a radical Palestinian contacted U.S. officials and was steered to the CIA. The terrorist warned that he had left a bomb in the hotel.

Though the CIA officials were skeptical, they notified the Swiss authorities who sent a bomb squad to the hotel. The sultcase and radio were picked up.

The Swiss reported back to the CIA that the two items had been sniffed repeatedly by their bomb-detecting dogs and there was no explosive in either. The tip must be a hoax.

The CIA's turncoat Arab source was questioned again. He insisted the suitcase was indeed a bomb. With some reluctance, the CIA asked the Swiss to check again.

They did. This time they discovered that the Arab courier was right. The suitcase was a powerful bomb.

The explosive power of the suitcase material was judged to be greater than C-4, the "plastique" that is a favorite of terrorist groups. One source said the Geneva hotel bomb packed enough wallop to blow up a seven-story build-

With new respect, the CIA gave their Arab tipster an extensive interrogation. They learned that the bomb-maker was an Arab living in Baghdad who had made at least a dozen of his "invisible bombs." Some sources thought it possible one of them was used for the bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Beirut.

The potential of this new terrorist weapon is so alarming, my sources said. that none of the Western intelligence agencies privy to the secret raised objection when one agency set out to find the bomb maker and eliminate him

WINTER GARDEN — The Altamonte Junior League All-Stars didn't just end a jinx here Saturday. They strangled it. They picked up North County by the throat and tossed it around the baseball diamond like a misbehaved stepchild.

The final count was 20-4. It was the first state championship for an Altamonte team after four efforts in the title game. It was also the first crown for a District 14 representative in 11 years, said District 14 admistrater

"I could tell before the game we were really psyched up," said manager Frank Messina, who like his coach Terry Hagen, was a recipient of a pie in the face from the delirious Altamonte faithful. "It was the best infield and outfield practice we'd had in the tournament. We were ready to go.'

And the go starting early as Altamonte 13-year-olds scored in every inning except the sixth while hammering three North County huriers for 16 hits. Chris Brock ripped two singles and a double and drove in four runs. Eric Martinez slapped two singles, drove in three runs and scored five times. Eric Birle, getting his first start after delivering in the clutch several times, rapped three hits and drove in three runs. Randy Green continued his hot hitting with three hits including a clutch basesloaded double which broke open the game in the third inning. Ernest Martinez added two hits while Zac Maddox had a two-run pinch hit single.

Lange lead off the first with a walk, but was thrown out trying to steal for the first time all year. Eric Martinez followed with a walk and moved up on a wild pitch. Brock singled to right center for a 1-0 lead and North County summoned Dave Topolka to relieve. He did, getting Ernest Martinez to hit into a double play to end the inning.

North County could manage just two hits against starter Jeff Hagen, who turned in a gutty performance. Hagen didn't have great control as he walked 11 and hit a batter, but the made the big pitch time after time to get out of trouble. The lefthander struck out six. Cory Prom came in to get the final out in the sixth and then slammed the door in the seventh to perserve the win.

North County tied the game in first when John Gallatin walked, Tom Blanchi flew out and Jerry Matarazzo walked. Topolka followed with a single to left center to score Gallatin.

Altamonte's state championship was definitely a 13-player effort, but the Juniors got some unexpected help from their 14th player Saturday. See Sam Cook's column on 6A.

Altamonte went ahead by a run when Green clobbered a fastball to right center for a double. Dirle bounced a single through the left side to moved Green to third and Matt Messina fellowed with a short fly to center which Matarazzo caught with a lunging grab. Green alertly tagged up and scored. The inning died when Hagen hit a long drive and Birle, who was running on the pitch, was

Four more runs in the third and fourth innings put the game away. Lange walked and moved up on a wild pitch. Eric Martinez single to right to score him. Brock

The strong-armed catcher nailed another fast ball, this time over Gallatin's head in center field to score two runs and push the margin to 5-1. "Randy really belted that one," exclaimed Terry Hagen. "If he pulls it, it, would have been gone."

One out later, Messina reached on an error by the first baseman to score the final run for a 6-2 lead. Topolka drove home NC's second run in the third, but Altamonte stormed back with four to increase its edge to 10-2 after three and one-half frames.

North County brought in little third baseman Bianchi and he got out of the inning with just one more run's scoring. Bianchi used a good curveball to keep! Altamonte off balance, although he gave up two runs in the fifth as Birle added another RBI.

Johnson Leads Falcons To 13th-Place Finish At National Tournament

Herald Sports Writer

Up against the stiffest competition in the nation, the Seminole Falcons came away tied for 13th with a 4-2 record at the USSSA 18 and Under Girls World Tournament this past weekend at Satellite Beach.

"It was a great effort by a great group." Seminole coach Mike Averill said. "There is only one 18-year old on the team (Kim Gilliam). We could look for big things from this group next year as half of the starters are 16. We can be proud of the 6th best team in Florida coming in tied for 13th in this 63-team tournament."

Mary Johnson, who came into the nationals with a .228 average, had an exceptional tournament both defensively and offensively. The Lake Howell senior went 12 for 20 at the plate with six RBI for a .600 average Johnson also made several outstanding catches in left center field. "If there would have been an all-tournament team, Mary would have been on it," said Averill. "She made five different, outstanding catches.'

Other notable performers included Lyman graduate Michelle Kurht who went 8 for 21 (.381) with seven RBI; Lake Mary junior Kim Averill who was 7 for 19 (.368) with five RBI: St. Cloud Junior Kim King. 7 for 21 (.333) seven RBI; Lake Howell's Sandy Gillies. 8 for 23 (.348) and Lake Howell's Eilcen Thelbauth, 8 for 21 (.381) and played flawlessly in right center.

'We didn't want to meet Jacksonville, Plantation or Tampa in the opening game." said Richardson. "But we drew Jacksonville and I knew they'd be tough."

Just tough enough. The Jacksonville
Rebels pushed across a run in the final inning to nip the Savages, 4-3, and drop them into the loser's bracket. Seminole then strung together four straight wins before bowing out Saturday in the fourth place game to settle for a fifth place finish among 16 teams. The top three teams advance to the ASA National Tournament at Tifton, Ga. Plantation won the tourney while Jax. Hollywood Hills and Tampa preceded Seminole.

'We needed one more win to get into the third place game," said Richardson who is assisted by Don Jonas. "We would have liked to done better, but we're still very pleased with our performance."

Here's a look at the five-game breakdown: Game 1 — Jacksonville 4, Seminole 3

The Savages jumped on Jax for three quick runs in the first when Karen Deeffort. Seminole took a 2-0 lead after two. Shetler walked, Laura Davis singled and Ava Gardner hammered a three-run homer. ## Laszaic's Pep Talk Aids Juniors' Title

Altamonte's first state tournament in the program's history was definitely a 13-player, 13-yearold effort, but it might not have materialized if the 14th player - Anthony Laszaic - hadn't turned a stirring oratory before the game Saturday morning.

Laszaic is more comfortably with no-hitters and home runs than he is with inspirational speeches. but since breaking his wrist after two games of the district tournament, the 13-year-old pitchershortstop has been relegated to the first base coaching box.

"We Anthony got hurt, it was a crushing blow," said manager Frank Messina. "All the kids were down and we knew it would severely hurt our chances of getting to the state tournament.

And it hasn't been easy on Laszaic who turned in a seven-hit win over Oviedo in his lone mound showing of the tournament. You can see the desire and the longing in his eyes as he stops by the backstop to have a few words with his father, Tony, and the rest of the lawnchair fans.

This young man wants to play - and wants to play badly. So badly, he goes to the outfield and hits fungos against the fence with his good hand. He has become best friends with a tennis ball, squeezing the life out of it to restore the life in his wrist.

Saturday morning he poured out his desire and his longings to his teammates who needed a pyschological lift after being shut out by North County's Jerry Matarazzo in Friday's tournament

"I get this cast off Monday and I want to play in the Southern Regional," Laszaic told his teammates. "You guys have to get it together now."

Thus inspired, the Altamonte Junior got it together - all together. They pounded out 16 hits and annihilated North County, 20-4, to claim the league's first state championship and a trip to Tuesday's Southern Regional at Eustis. Altamonte plays Lake Charles, La. Wednesday morning at 10

"It was an emotional scene," said manager Frank Messina about Laszaic's pep talk. "Anthony's not one for making speeches, but that one was from the heart. (Coach) Terry (Hagen) and I can tell the kids a lot of things, but when it comes from one of them, they can feel the truth. "That means more than anything Terry or I can say. Kids are very perceptive and they really responded to Anthony's talk. It was enough to melt any coach's heart." Messina added. Sitting on the sidelines is strange for Laszaic. He has been a part of Altamonte's success since he was an 11-year-old when he teamed with 12-year-old Mike Schmit to pitch the Majors into the championship game with Belmont Heights. lmont, though, came back to beat manager Gene Letterio's squad for the state championship and then went on to take the World Series, Last year, Letterio 18-year-olds had a 6-1 lead in the seventh inning with two outs and two strikes on Beimont again. But, miraculously, the Tampa sluggers bounced back to beat Altamonte and take another state title. They went on to take the World

Two wins by Altamonte puts the Juniors into Saturday's championship game...

Although Laszaic wants to play Wednesday, Messina is not sure he'll be ready. "It all depends on what the doctor says," said "Faultless Frank." "If he's ready, but if he's not we won't risk it."

Anthony Laszaic couldn't help the Altamonte Juniors on the field Saturday because of a broke wrist, but the 13-year-old pitchershortstop delivered an inspirational pregame talk which helped the Juniors to a 20-4 victory over North County, behind first-place Philadelphia and a half-game ahead of fifth save. the Pirates, who lost their fourth straight game - their longest slide since July 1.

"You never quit worrying about the Pirates," said Montreal Manager Bill Virdon. "But Rogers was ahead of them all day. It was a big lift for us."

Rogers said he was glad he could provide it. "We really do need more confidence," Rogers said. "It may give us some consistency. We haven't been as consistent as we want to be."

Rogers took a perfect game into the fifth inning, but Mike Easler broke it up with a two-out single to left. The only other Pirates to reach base were Marvell Wynne. who singled with two out in the sixth, and Bill Madlock. who led off the seventh with a walk.

Rogers struck out three and recorded most of his outs by popups and lazy fly balls to the outfield.

Montreal catcher Gary Carter and the Pirates described Rogers' pitching as his best this year, and Rogers, who now has four shutouts, agreed that he felt in command all day. Still, he said Raines' second-inning grand slam off losing starter Larry McWilliams, 11-6. provided him with a necessary edge.

"Raines' home run really set the tone for the game," Rogers said. "I just kept the ball in the strike zone. Weather-wise, it was the hottest game I've pitched in this year, and that helped. When I was in the bullpen warming up for the game, I felt real good. I was loose and I had my rhythm, and that's something that's not always there. I took the rhythm to the mound with me. and it's not always that way either."

Raines' slam was his second this season - and in his

Readers Say It's O.K. For Gals To Dial Men

DEAR READERS: A woman wrote: "After 20 years of dating. I have come to the conclusion that my mother was wrong when she said, 'A lady never calls a gentleman - she waits for him to call her.

"I recently met a very attractive man and we seemed to hit it off very well, but instead of his taking my number and saying the usual, 'I'll call you,' he gave me his number and asked me to call him.

"Perfect! I had the option of either calling him or not. It was all up to me. I'd like to hear the opinion of men on this.

DON'T CALL ME. I'LL CALL YOU My mail has been running 300-to-1 in favor of women calling men. Some of the choice responses: DEAR ABBY: The notion that it is not proper for a lady to call a gentleman should have gone out with the invention of the telephone. I am flattered by any serious call from a woman who is interested in me. B.B. IN BEL AIR, CAL.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a 26-year-old male who has never been out on a date. Why? To say that I suffer from a crippling case of shyness is putting it mildly. I'd give anything if a woman called me. Then I'd be sure she wanted to go out with me. The feminist movement has helped some, but it isn't moving fast enough for me.

FRUBTRATED IN PHOENIX

DEAR ABBY: As a 23-year-old single woman I say bravo! Why shouldn't the woman take the initiative instead of waiting for a man to call her? The same goes for dancing. I love to dance, and when I'm at a club and the music is great, if nobody asks me to dance, I'll ask a man. It takes nerve for a woman to ask a man to dance, but I can take rejection if I'm turned down. It's only fair. Men have had to risk rejection for years.

UP FRONT IN GEDRGETOWN

DEAR ABBY: In all my years of dating. I've seen very few relationships that weren't loused up in the end when the woman took the initiative and pursued the man. Somehow the male ego automatically goes into overdrive and then burns out as soon as the woman becomes aggressive. I'm sure it goes back to prehistoric days, when it was instinctive for the male to hunt, pursue and then conquer the female.

Your mother was right, and so was mine. A lady never calls a gentleman.

LEAVE THE CALLINGTOME

DEAR ABBY: Life has become much simpler since I quit asking ladies for their phone numbers. I just hand them my card with a simple, "Call me."

If they do, they're interested. If they don't, it's no big deal. From the lady's standpoint, she avoids the creeps, reserving the right to make or not make contact.

Syria Criticizes Troop Pact After Envoy's Visit

By United Press International U.S. envoy Robert McFarlane left his first talks in Syria to a sharp condemnation of the Israeli-Lebanese troop withdrawal accord and flew to Saudi Arabia for more discussions today on removing foreign forces from Lebanon. In Lebanon Sunday, the fourth bomb attack in three days occurred when a car packed with explosives blew up in the Syrian-occupied Bekaa Valley, killing at least 33 people and wounding 133

The blast, which ripped through a crowded marketplace in the ancient town of Baalbek, came as new tighting erupted between Druze Moslem and Lebanese Christian forces in the Israeli-occupied Shouf mountains east of McFarlane arrived in the Saudi Arabian summer capital of Talf Sunday after six hours of talks in Damascus, where he tried to persuade Syrian President Hafez Assad to withdraw his 40,000 troops from Lebanon.

There was no immediate word on how long McFarlane would remain in Saudi Arabia or with whom he would meet. A source said it was likely he would remain for a day or two, then fly to Egypt before returning to Israel at midweek.

He was met at Taif's airport by Saudi Ambassador to the United States Bandar Bin Sultan, a representative of the royal palace and U.S. Ambassador Richard Murphy, the official Saudi Press Agency

Observers saw the reception as oddly low-key, possibly indicating Saudi displeasure at the lack of U.S. pressure on Israel to withdraw from Lebanon.

As McFarlane left Damascus Sunday, Assad renewed his denunciation of the U.S.-mediated May 17 Israeli-Lebanese agreement calling for the withdrawal of the 30,000 Israeli troops, 10,000 Palestinian guerrillas and the Syrian soldiers from Lebanon.

Israel has refused to implement the agreement until Syria pulls out as well. "Syria is determined in its stand against the agreement of submission." official Syrian radio quoted Assad as saying. "The agreement strips Lebanon of its sovereignty and freedom and threatens Syria and the Arab nation as a

In Israel, Desense Minister Moshe Arens visited the West Bank town of Hebron Sunday — a hotbed of Jewish-Arab violence — and held his first meetings with Palestinian leaders since assuming office five months ago.

The Baalbek bomb, the fourth explosion since Friday, followed a car blast Friday that killed more than 20 people in Lebanon's northern port of Tripoli and a bombing that killed two others in Beirut. In the mountain village of Arabaniyeh Saturday three others died in a car bomb explosion.

A group called "The Front for the Liberation of Lebanon from Foreigners" claimed responsibility for the Baalbek

Oldster Smashes Windows To Escape Nursing Home

MIAMI (UPI) - An elderly man used a cane to smash his way out of a sweltering, apparently unlicensed nursing home where he was kept with two companions by a member of a secretive black religous sect, authorities said.

The elderly trio was suffering from dehydration and appeared to be undernourished, police said. They were staying at an apparently unlicensed nursing home operated by a member of the Hebrew Israelites, a secretive sect of blacks that is not tied to traditional

Police said Clarence Monroe, 88, used his cane to break all the windows and escape the house Wednesday. A nearby Crime Watch member said she heard the patients' cries.

The others who were kept at the hot house were identified as William Gibson. 100, and 88-year-old Daisy Gray.

Suburban Opa-Locka policeman Richard Ortiz described the temperature inside as unbearable.

"Even with the windows knocked out, we were sweating," he said. "We had to exit the house three or four times." Police found Gibson, who he said is unable to walk, in a room containing six beds. Mrs. Gray, an amputce, was in another room.

Dorthy Gray Pitts, the 39-year-old operator of the home, was identified as a member of the Hebrew Israelites. "It appears (Pitts) was running an unlicensed nursing home," said Juan Manaricua, a supervisor for the state department of Health and Rehabilitative

Ms. Pitts, who told police she had left for only a short time, said the three residents were her relatives. But Monroe denied it, Ortiz said.

HRS officials reported that Monroe's sister, who was not identified, said Ms. Pitts charged her more than $300 a month for Monroe's care.

Police said that when she returned to the house. Ms. Pitts repeatedly said,"Bless the Yahwehs."

The words "Yahwch" and "Israel" appeared near the front door of the home, a large, one-story white house on
