Family computer workshop

SANFORD — Pine Crest Elementary School will be presenting a workshop on Thursday, Nov. 21 that will focus on computers and their applications to education.

The Family Computing Workshop will focus on the ways computers are changing the way children learn and how parents and children can learn together with computer technology.

There will be information about the Internet as well as multimedia and educational software. The meeting will take place in the school's media center from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

For more information, call the school at 322-1711.

Marcous re-elected

SANFORD — Bill Marcous, project coordinator for the City of Sanford, was re-elected to the board of directors at the Florida Government Communicators Association (FGCA) convention last Friday. The convention also focused on awards for governments showing excellence in communication skills keeping the general public informed. The city of Pinellas Park and Pinellas County took top honors with four awards each.

The only award given to governments in Central Florida went to Volusia County which won three awards for a video series and external publications.

Apartment expansion

SANFORD — If site plans are approved, there may soon be an additional 40 unit apartment complex added to Lake Jennie Apartments in Sanford. The owner of the property is listed as Housing and Neighborhood Development Services of Central Florida, Inc.

Plans for the addition in Phase II are scheduled to be considered this Thursday evening, at the Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission meeting.

The new complex is located immediately adjacent to the present 25-units included in Phase I. The physical location of Phase II is between Georgia and Hartwell avenues, just north of Santa Barbara Drive, and directly east of Seminole High School.

According to the proposed site plans, there would be four buildings. Two three-story structures, off Georgia Avenue, would contain 12 apartment units each. The other two, bordering on Hartwell Avenue, would be two-story structures each containing eight units.

A total of 80 parking spaces are planned, with four additional spaces for handicapped parking.

While no specific dates have been announced, if the site plans are approved, it is expected ground breaking could begin within a few months, and the units ready for occupancy possibly by July of next year.

Additional items scheduled for discussion and/or consideration during this Thursday's P&Z meeting include the following:

●Public hearing — Consider a conditional use request for property at 609 W. 27th Street, for the purpose of automobile dealer sales and service (auto wholesales and detailing) (tabled from Nov. 7 meeting).

●Public hearing — Consider a conditional use for property at 3786 Orlando Drive, for the purpose of vehicle sales. The property is located at the intersection of Lake Mary Boulevard and U.S. Highway 17-92, and would be an expansion of the Seminole Ford dealership operation.

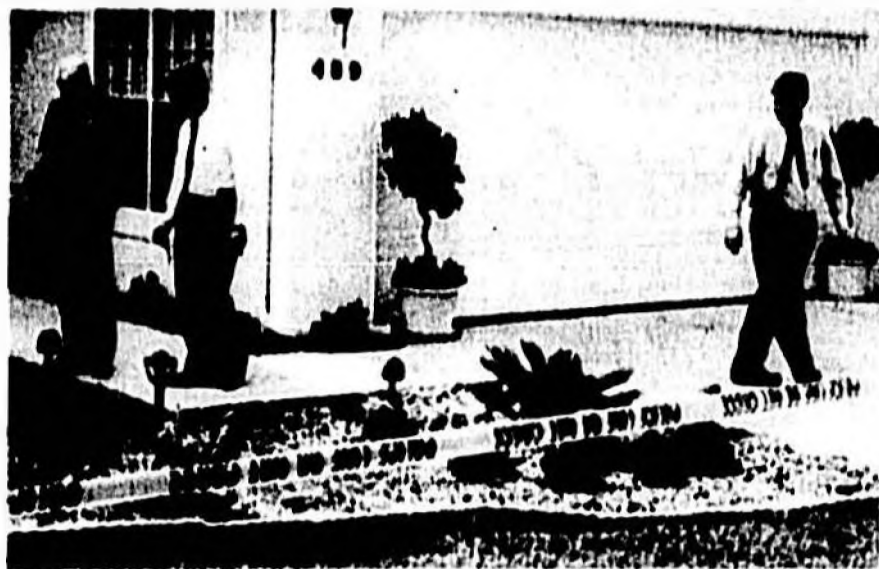

The Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission meeting is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m., Thursday, Nov. 21, in the commission chambers of Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

Cops, deputies stay busy with burglar, robber and a stash of weapons

By VICKI DESCHAMPS
Herald Senior Staff Writer

It was a busy day for law enforcement officials around Seminole County on Tuesday.

A bank robbery, a burglary to an occupied dwelling and a traffic stop that yielded a stash of concealed weapons kept two police departments and the sheriff's office hopping.

Seminole National Bank, 251 W. First St., Sanford, was robbed shortly after they opened for business on Tuesday morning.

According to bank manager Louie Grindle, a lone gunman entered the lobby of the bank shortly after 10

Seminole High teen musicians tops in state

Three girls and a teacher: The band plays on

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Jordana plays the bassoon. Amy the trumpet and Karen the flute.

They are young and extremely gifted. Recently, they achieved prestigious Florida All-State band honors.

That they are Seminole High School musicians should come as no surprise. This is their story as well as one about Seminole synergy.

Truly appreciating Jordana Elliott, Amy Hunter and Karen Nunez requires a visit to Room 715 — the Band Room — at Seminole High School.

It entails, too, a visit with Jeff Jordan, director of bands at the school.

A kind and gentle man with a passion for the music of life, 38-year-old Jeff Jordan surely has enhanced the lives of several hundred young musicians in his 10 years at Seminole.

Three years ago, Jordan wrote a deeply moving composition named "Synergy," dedicating it to the memory of Nelson Thornton, a parent booster of the band.

Mr. Thornton's daughter, Rebecca, was a member of the school's dance team, which worked closely with the band.

"Synergy," Jeff Jordan said, "means doing together what might not be possible doing alone." Jordan said, "We believe in it strongly at Seminole High School."

Tears flowed down his cheeks when Jordan waved his baton to lead his student band the night they first played "Synergy" in concert.

Although they were not yet at the school when "Synergy" was introduced, Jordana, Amy and Karen know and share in its meaning.

Each of the young women has a strong sense of where she is, and where she wants to go. Each has a song in her heart and a smile on her face, and a keen appreciation of those around her.

Jordana Elliott comes from a musical family. Her grandfather sang Barbershop, her mom sang in musicals such as "Jesus Christ Superstar."

Jordana first played clarinet but switched to the bassoon. Tuesday she earned first chair in the Seminole County Band and she is a member of the Florida Youth Symphony.

Jordana, a 16-year-old junior, is a very expressive person and the bassoon is a very expressive instrument.

They seem meant for one another.

Amy Hunter, a sophomore, started playing piano as second grader and is an accomplished player today.

She is in the Florida Youth Symphony and was First Chair All County Trumpet as a freshman.

"That," says her friend Jordana Elliott, "is just awesome."

Tuesday, 15-year-old Hunter again captured

First Chair All County Trumpet.

Karen Nunez, a 15-year-old sophomore was born in Peru and was embarrassed when she first came to the U.S. that she did not speak English very well when she began at Sanford Middle

Arts festival land may soon be developed

By SHAN BROOME

Leo Trepanier and his dog, Tip, survey the ranch in Trepanier's pink Jeep.

The pristine pasture land, home to outdoor entertainment events such as the Lake Mary-Heathrow Festival of the Arts, may soon be developed as commercial property said owner Leo Trepanier in an interview at his L & L Acres Ranch home Tuesday.

Trepanier donates his property to the festival, which raises money for scholarships awarded to Seminole County students. He said on-going complaints from neighbors, about the noise level of a handful of open-air events including the arts festival held annually at the ranch, has prompted him to again seriously consider moving forward with plans to commercially develop the southwest corner of Interstate-4 and Lake Mary Boulevard.

John Dwyer, current planning manager for Seminole County, forwarded to Trepanier a letter from Heathrow resident Joseph Cline, dated Nov. 11, two days after a private corporate party was held on the grounds. The property is in Seminole County and permits must be pulled in order for special events to be held there.

In his letter, Cline complained of "amplified music wafting through the air and tumbling through the ground." Cline said that the noise

Abortion opponent opens school

MILTON — Strict discipline and a strong dose of anti-abortion philosophy are staples of John Burt's Christian school for troubled girls near this Florida Panhandle city.

Burt, an abortion opponent with links to past clinic violence, and his wife, Linda, established the residential school since his self-imposed exile from the clinics last year because of lawsuit over his protests.

The school, which has 13 students between 13 and 17 years old, grew out of Our Father's House, a longtime shelter the couple has operated for women and children. It supported largely by donations from abortion opponents.

"We'll still go to the clinics, but in a way, I think this is stopping abortion before it even gets started," Burt told the Pensacola News Journal for a story Tuesday.

Students read anti-abortion literature, view anti-abortion video tapes and visit the grave of "Baby Charlie," a fetus that Burt once used during protests.

Even critics of Burt's philosophy concede his new enterprise is better than the loud, emotional protests he used to lead.

"I would much rather he put his efforts into pre-pregnancy than intimidating women post-pregnancy," said Dawn Henrichon, president of the Escambia County chapter of the National Organization for Women in nearby Pensacola.

In the July settlement, he gave up ownership of a small plot of land used to stage protests adjacent to the Ladies Center, a Pensacola clinic where a doctor and volunteer escort were fatally shot on July 28, 1984. Former minister Paul Hill was sentenced to the electric chair for the two killings.

The new owners are family members of Dr. David Gunn, shot to death outside a second clinic, Pensacola Medical Services, on March 10, 1985.

Burt was leading a protest outside the clinic at the time Gunn was shot by one of Burt's followers, Michael Griffin, who was convicted of murder and sentenced to life in prison.

Burt denied instigating the slaying, saying he settled to avoid expensive legal fees and because he didn't think he could win the case in front of a Pensacola jury.

In the past, Burt had demonstrated in support of two men and two women convicted in the bombing of the Ladies Center and Pensacola offices of two abortion doctors, all on Christmas Day 1984. He served jail time for breaking into the Ladies Center and damaging equipment a couple of years later.

Arrest in deaths of Keys couple

TAVERNIER — Police say they have solved the 1981 slaying of a couple with an unborn son; a local man with a history of burglary arrests faces murder charges.

Michael and Susan Meador were found strangled in their home, 13000 S.W. 11th Ave., Tavernier, 30, had been hit on the head. Susan, 28, whose hands and feet were bound, was eight months pregnant. The baby, a boy to be named Kyle Patrick, died with her.

On Tuesday, the Monroe County Sheriff's Office arrested Thomas Swinton, but released few details about what led them to him. Investigators had traveled as far as Tallahassee, where Michael Meador had recently worked on a piece that was being auctioned by the government.

Swinton has been arrested on charges of armed burglary, robbery with a firearm and possession of burglary tools in the Keys and in the Panhandle.

None of the arrests was "the best Christmas present anybody could ask for," said Sharon Meador, Michael's sister.

More damage to homes

KINGSTON, Jamaica — Hurricane Marco caused additional Caribbean island damage Tuesday, threatening to inflict further damage on an island where severe rain storms already have forced families from their homes.

Jamaica's government issued a flash-flood watch and urged anglers to return to port.

Reports from a U.S. Navy ship indicated Marco's winds had passed the hurricane threshold of 74 mph early this morning, according to the U.S. National Hurricane Center in suburban Miami.

"It probably will strengthen a little bit more, but we still expect it to remain in the Caribbean the next two to three days," hurricane specialist Ed Rappaport said.

"The primary threat remains to Jamaica, eastern Cuba and Haiti."

At 7 a.m. EST, Marco was centered near latitude 14.3 north, longitude 77.6 west, about 265 miles south-southwest of Kingston. The storm, with 75 mph winds, was traveling east at about 8 mph, but was expected to turn northeast and slow down later today.

A tropical storm watch remained in effect for Jamaica, where rain already has caused at least $2.9 million in damage to roads and other public works and forced the evacuation of 19 families. The hurricane could reach the island by Thursday, Rappaport said.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Webster becomes first Republican to take House gavel this century

By SHARON BATE
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Orlando's Daniel Webster hoped for a short, simple organizational session full of decorum and a sense of history to induct him as the first Republican House speaker this century.

Instead he got a four-hour meeting filled with sniping and complaints, the first of which was about Jesus Christ.

Jack Tobin, a Jewish Democrat from Margate, said the House's opening prayer offended him and the other 13 Jewish members by its overtly Christian tone and its reference to Christ as the son of God, a belief Jews don't share.

"A prayer that is sectarian is not appropriate to this chamber," Tobin said on the House floor.

Tobin, though, was just the first Democrat to complain about the new GOP regime. Orlando's Alice Reddick, who is black, complained there were no African Americans on the color guard.

And finally came the biggest gripe, the one that pushed the scheduled hour-and-a-half session to the four-hour mark: Republicans wanted to pass 108 pages of new rules for the House, which Democrats hadn't seen until after Webster was elected.

"This is not the way to start, folks," said West Palm Beach Democrat Lole Frankel. "At some point, folks, the politics need to stop, and the policy needs to start."

And so Webster's moment of glory was ruined, a moment he said he never even dreamed possible when he first entered the House 16 years ago.

Webster, a devout Baptist, said he personally liked the prayer chosen by his pastor — Gene Fritchard, of the 1st Baptist Church of Central Florida — and would have preferred that Tobin had brought his dissatisfaction to him in private rather than make a scene on Webster's first day.

He said he didn't know the racial makeup of the color guard until it arrived in the House chamber. And he said he has been forced to vote on House rules at numerous organizational sessions though he didn't agree with them or hadn't even read them.

He said he kept his mouth shut because he knew he would be able to raise his objections later and he didn't want to ruin the incoming speaker's ceremony. "There was no reason to make a fuss," he said.

"Again, they're learning to be the minority party, and we're learning to be the majority party," he said.

Still, there were moments of joy for Webster, like when he accepted keys to the speaker's suite in the Capitol and ushered colleagues, family and friends into the freshly painted offices.

"The door is now open to the speaker's office, for everybody, but especially for Republicans," he told the cheering throng crowded in the hallway.

Inside his new office — its shelves bare except for a set of Florida Statutes and its air thick with the scent of lemon furniture polish — Webster made his first two pronouncements in his new job.

The first was that no House staff members would be asked to leave until January, after the holidays. And the second was that no Democrats would suffer the indignity forced upon Republicans in past years.

"No member, as long as I am speaker, will have an office in the basement," he said.

He said he would make no committee assignments Tuesday, but will turn to that project next, now that getting to the speaker's office was accomplished. "The goal was to get here," he said.

American girls
Some of the teachers and students at Longwood Elementary School joined members of the community who collect American Girl dolls. The American Girl books are used as a part of the school's social studies curriculum. Judge takes the stand, denies any misconduct

By NE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

DAYTONA BEACH — A judge has denied from the witness stand that he held a gun to the head of a law clerk, harassed courthouse employees or pressured administrators for a job for her live-in companion.

"I never pointed a gun. I would never point a gun at anyone," Circuit Judge Gayle Graziano testified Tuesday before Florida's Judicial Qualifications Commission.

Her attorney, Ellis Rubin, argued that the complaints began when, as chief judge, judge of the four-county 7th Judicial Circuit, on eight charges of misconduct and improper use of her position. If it finds any violations, the JQC can recommend that the State Supreme Court suspend, reprimand or remove her from the bench.

Graziano calmly reviewed each of the complaints in detail, denying that they had taken place as depicted by witnesses and the JQC's special counsel, John Jopling.

Her attorney, Ellis Rubin, argued that the complaints began when, as chief judge,

"She wanted to hire more women and blacks in the system."

Many of the allegations were made by other judges, her colleagues on the bench, whose complaints resulted in the Supreme Court removing her as chief judge but allowing her to remain on the bench.

Graziano "surrendered to an arrogance of power" and engaged in a pattern of improper behavior that should be disciplined by the high court, Jopling told the JQC.

She engaged in a number of isolated instances "that taken in total show a constant disturbing pattern of conduct," he said.

Replying to the gun charge, Rubin noted that the law clerk did not file his complaint until he was fired from his job 3 1/2 years later at the insistence of another judge.

Graziano said the weapon was evidence in a murder trial, that she had held it up for law clerk Richard Lawhorn to see during a trial break and asked, "If you saw this would you know it was a gun? He said, 'Oh, yes, judge, anyone would know it was a gun.'"

Future begins in schools

It's American Education Week. Various schools at all levels are observing the week through a variety of ways and with a number of programs.

The theme this week is, "The Future Begins in Today's Schools." While this is a most logical theme which can certainly be expanded in many ways, it might be noted that the real future should (but unfortunately often doesn't) start with the family in the days before school.

But that being as it may, there cannot be any question that a person's future begins with the knowledge learned in our classrooms, from pre-K through the highest level of college and universities.

What is a future? It's that time period when a person becomes an adult, accepts adult responsibilities, must earn a living, support one's self and/or family, and begin preparing for retirement. That mostly takes 45 years, but everyone is working on it.

Some people are successes. Others are failures. In many cases (not all), the difference is the amount and type of education one is able to obtain.

This isn't just "book-learning" but learning how to think problems through to a logical solution, to make reasonable judgments, to speak so that others can understand you, possibly even to know the difference between an esophagus and an epiglottis (they both come in handy).

There is no doubt that sending a youngster to school is more costly than it was several decades ago. But then, there are also more scholarships, more financial aid and more educational assistance programs than ever before.

The only thing it takes is a student's desire to obtain that education, to continue through school, to pay attention in class, and study the work assigned.

That desire must be taught at home. Then, into the school system the youngster goes, hopefully prepared, hopefully driven by the desire to succeed.

Staying in school, whether it be through high school or college, to learn a trade, is the best thing a student can do. Being able to take care of oneself by earning a living commands respect from others. It also builds self-respect.

It's this simple. Stay in school and become successful, or drop out, and take your chances on the streets.

As far as school is concerned, "The Future Belongs in Today's Schools."

LETTER

Answer to letter

An open letter to M.L. Hillman, in response to the Nov. 17 letter you wrote regarding my association with George Currie and Larry Blair, owners of Stoooges nightclub.

Unlike yourself I don't harbor grudges and hate against people. My suggestion to you is that you ought refer to the 12-step program to learn forgiveness.

Pop-star parents set bad examples

EDITOR'S: This column was filed before the news of Michael Jackson's wedding broke. Mr. Perkins wishes to congratulate Mr. Jackson on his nuptials, and he hopes Miss Ciccone will follow suit.

I have a confession to make. I used to be a big fan of both Madonna and Michael Jackson.

Not any more. I just cannot admire anyone -- be it the so-called Material Girl, the self-styled King of Pop or some non-rich, non-famous person -- who decides to have a baby without bothering to get married.

I'm not talking about an unintended birth. Say Madonna's on location filming "Evita" and neglects to take her birth-control pills. Or Michael's on tour and neglects to use a condom while making out with some obliging groupie. I'm talking about premeditation.

You pick out a sperm or egg donor, have sex with them and produce a child. It's a loveless, immoral arrangement. And when two pop icons like Madonna and Michael Jackson do it and, worse yet, are celebrated for it in the media, it sends a message to the nation's youth that "casual mating" is now fashionable.

Of course, the moral relativists out there see absolutely nothing wrong with Madonna and Michael choosing to become unwed, single parents. After all, they say, both Madonna and Michael really want their babies and will shower their newborns not only with love, but also with riches and experiences that only a tiny handful of parents on the entire planet could provide.

But as little Lourdes and little Mikey (or Michaelene) grow up, they will want for a traditional two-parent home. And all the riches in the world, all the experiences their unwed parents can provide, cannot compensate for the absence of a full-time, second parent.

It is because of the breakdown in the traditional two-parent family over the past three decades that America has been beset by myriad social pathologies. And though it is politically incorrect to say so, the indisputable fact is that children reared in two-parent families are far better off than those growing up in one-parent households.

Indeed, children in one-parent families are six times likelier to be poor, according to the Census Bureau. They are two to three times likelier to have emotional and behavioral problems, according to the National Center for Health Statistics. They are likelier to drop out of high school, to get pregnant as teen-agers, to use drugs and to commit crimes.

Now, when you cite these statistics, a lot of folks get defensive. They accuse you of criticizing single parents, particularly single moms. But the purpose here is not to disparage all one-parent families, for there are many single moms and dads who are working as hard as they can to raise their kids properly and who would like nothing more than to have a loving, supportive spouse by their side.

But, on the other hand, there are a number of single parents (at least 30 percent, according to the Census Bureau) who have never troubled themselves to get married -- their children be damned. These selfish moms and dads view single parenthood as a "lifestyle" choice. That's the category that Madonna and Michael Jackson fall into.

You pick out a sperm or egg donor, have sex with them and produce a child.

Doomsday for doom-saying

Finally, after all these years of demographic doom-saying, population proliferation and exponential extrapolated explosionism, comes a new report from the United Nations and a headline in the New York Times: "World is Less Crowded Than Expected."

Really? Than expected by whom? Than expected by whom -- when?

Apparently, not expected when it should have been expected by Joseph Chamis, director of the United Nations Population Division, who is quoted thusly in the Times story: "We had some glimmer that this was occurring several years ago, but we weren't sure if it was simply a blip. Now we actually have concrete results showing this is a global trend."

Several years ago? A glimmer? A blip?

Actually, global fertility and birth rates have been declining -- rapidly -- beyond expectations -- for more than a quarter of a century! The United Nations' own population data show that worldwide fertility rates were at a stratospheric 5.0-children-per-woman level in the 1960 to 1965 period. Fifteen years later, from 1965 to 1970, the level was still 4.9 children per woman. The cry of the Population Explosionists reached full throat. After all, it only takes a little over two children per woman to merely "replace" a society at a long-term stable rate. Five children per woman would end up, it was said, yielding a global population of 10 billion, no, 12 billion, no, 15 billion people -- even 20 billion people! (Such were the estimates, from establishment organizations and scare groups alike.)

Then fertility began falling like a heavy stone, and it has continued to fall right through the 1990 to 1995 period, as reported in the United Nations' new "World Population Prospects: The 1996 Revisions." The current global total fertility rate is 2.99 children per woman. Consider what that means: In just the last 25 years, the world has gone from about five kids per woman to about three per woman, which is roughly two-thirds of the way to demographic stability! (Fertility in Bangladesh dropped from 6.2 children in 1980 to 1995, to 3.4 in 1990 to 1995.)

But there is no particular reason to think that global fertility will stop at the 2.1-children-per-woman "replacement rate." It is not a magic number. The new data in from Europe are somewhere between astounding and terrifying. From 1990 to 1995, from an already low below-replacement base, 37 of the 39 European nations have seen further reductions in fertility rates. (The demographic behemoths of Luxembourg and Finland had minuscule increases, but remain in the 1.7 to 1.8 range, about 15 percent to 20 percent below the rate needed to maintain stability.)

Italy, Germany and Spain have rates in the 1.2 to 1.3 range. At that level, according to one estimate, Italy's population would decrease from about 57 million today to about 37 million by the year 2030, and continue to fall rapidly.

Moreover, just about every developed country in the world has a below-replacement fertility rate (including the United States, with an estimated rate of 1.97 for 1995, having fallen for six straight years). There are already 27 countries officially designated as "developing" that have below-replacement rates.

Nothing like this has happened before in history.

But neither the United Nations nor the most important population and environmental organizations choose to stress this condition. The United Nations chooses a 2.1 global rate in the year 2050 and labels it "medium-variant," which is commonly interpreted to mean "most likely." That yields a population stabilizing at near 11 billion people, roughly doubling from the 5.7 billion people today. Forget it. It's not going to happen. The United Nations' "low-variant" assumption is closer to the mark and ends up with a population which tops out at about 7.7 billion in 2040, and then sinks.

Why such ongoing, systemic distortion? There are lots of answers bruted about. Popocrats need their budgets for legitimate family-planning services; apocalypse-mongering is seen as a way to get such budgets. Politics plays a role; proud nations do not want to be seen as shrinking. Environmentalists live off of crises; diminishing long-term population takes the air out of the panic balloon. Feminists don't like the whole idea of a birth dearth.

It's reached a point where most everyone believes in a population crisis. But you needn't.

Then fertility began falling like a heavy stone, and it has continued to fall right through the 1990 to 1995 period.

Don't mix drugs with politics

The time to do something about the drug problem is now.

Not now, as in this year. Now, as in this month, during the kissy-face phase of the electoral cycle, when all the pols are telling each other how they didn't really mean the nasty things they said during the campaign and how they ought to work together in a bipartisan fashion for the good of America.

The window of opportunity is narrow. In a few weeks, the Democrats and Republicans will be throwing punches instead of blowing kisses. If it's going to be done, it has to be done directly: Establish a national commission on drug abuse, appoint some open-minded people to it, and let them study the problem and suggest strategies for defeating the scourge.

It's the only way. Partisan politicians have spent $265 billion on the drug war since Richard Nixon they've given us nothing in return except an endless debate about the merits of interdiction and punishment (Republicans) versus the values of education and treatment (Democrats).

That's between elections, when they're being nice. When they are competing for office, they get downright disgusting.

If you believed Bob Dole, you may have gotten the impression that Bill Clinton is a secret member of the Cali cartel. If you believed Clinton, you may have thought Congress is a way station on the cocaine highway. If you believed Newt Gingrich, you may have concluded that Clinton's casual attitude about drugs destroyed a generation of young people.

Indeed, careful research of recent statements made about the drug problem reveals only two that demonstrate any degree of good sense. One was uttered by the current drug czar, retired general Barry McCaffrey, on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley": "There is an awful lot of election-year twaddle going on." The second was made by the voters of California, when they approved a proposition that would legalize the use of marijuana to combat the nausea associated with chemotherapy and in the treatment of glaucoma, arthritis and other diseases.

Finally, there is some small sign that the public is seeing through the demagoguery and hypocrisy with which the politicians obfuscate the drug issue. Marijuana was used as a painkiller on Civil War battlefields, and it continued to be used as a medicine until the turn of the century, when missionary societies, temperance unions and various other wowers convinced Congress to criminalize it. It is immoral, you know, to consume something that makes you feel good.

A National Commission on Drug Abuse would no doubt look into this and may even conclude that of all the dumb things that have been done in the history of mankind to protect presumed sinners from themselves, the outlawing of marijuana was one of the dumbest, and the commission might suggest that it is stupid to keep sending people to jail for using it.

The weed -- which, for the record, I am not a consumer of -- is probably harmful, in the sense that fatty foods and polluted air are harmful. Compared to tobacco, which kills 400,000 people a year, and to alcohol, which kills 100,000, marijuana is as lethal as, say, sand. There is no known case of anyone, anywhere, at any time, dying of an overdose of marijuana. It has been said that a person would have to smoke three-quarters of a ton of grass in 15 minutes to kill him or herself.

In a few weeks, the Democrats and Republicans will be throwing punches instead of blowing kisses.

Trepanier

level inside his home, located in the Willowbrook Village sub-division, in Heathrow, approximately five lots from Lake Mary Boulevard, across the street and west of L & L Acres, "was totally out of the realm of reality."

"The sub-bass vibrations cause the pictures on my walls to shift, glasses in cabinets to shake and as a result, force me to listen to the audio of my television through headphones," Cline told Dwyer in his letter.

The county office received the letter on Nov. 13 and faxed a copy of it to Trepanier, asking him to please address the issue. Trepanier has responded by announcing that he will move forward with development already approved by Seminole County in a preliminary master plan.

"I'm meeting with some people (Wednesday) who are interested in the whole (83) acres," Trepanier said. This area is the corner on the property that faces I-4 to the east and the boulevard to the north and borders the lake located almost in the center of the 150-acre ranch.

The preliminary site plan for the mixed-use commerce park shows an entrance directly across from International Parkway at the traffic signal. Possible uses for the land include condominiums, offices, a retail center and a hotel.

Thirty-six of the acres belong to Jeno Paulucci, Trepanier's brother-in-law. Paulucci is eager to sell the valuable property, Trepanier said.

"Money talks," said Trepanier who added that he started the zoning change process and engineering studies in May of 1993, but suspended further progress "because of the festivals."

Jim Stout, of On Tour Presents, the event promoter for "Savor Fair," which has been held on the property for the past two years said, "It's the only place of its kind in Seminole County, and we feel there is more good that comes out of such events in the long run." Stout is a member of the board of directors of the Festival of Arts and went on to say, "If you add up each show or event that takes place on this property, the total number each year does not exceed eight dates. This leaves more than 357 days a year to enjoy its rustic, untouched natural view."

"It has been used for nothing but, you might say, goodwill all these years," said Trepanier. Besides the art festival and the concert event, L & L Acres hosts the Central Florida Renaissance Festival, Boy Scout campfires and was the site last year of "Holiday Nights," put on by several churches in the Lake Mary community. "Every single festival on this property gives so much back to the community," said Stout. "As an event promoter, I know from my perspective, and I've told Leo all along, it's just not worth us going to (the county) anymore and fighting for these permits."

Cline did say in his letter, "I have no problem with the permitting of the property for community events such as the Lake Mary Heathrow Festival of Arts, the Boy Scouts, the Indian Guides and last year's (Holiday Nights). The noise generating events are the ones I take issue with."

These music events consist of Savor Fair, Rock & Rib Fest and this year's art festival, which included a concert by a nationally-known recording group. Stout said he has tried to appease the neighbors of L & L Acres by pointing speakers toward the interstate to keep the noise level down.

"Our compliance with noise amplification is well within bounds of the laws set forth by Seminole County," said Stout and noted that his last event ended at 8 p.m., well before the county's specified cut-off time of 10 p.m. Stout said Seminole County sheriff's deputies are on duty at all of the events and that Sgt. Ken Starr serves on the art festival board to make sure that all county regulations are enforced.

Trepanier said he also hears complaints from Ravensbrook neighbor Frank Shelton. "It's not the people. The only one I ever hear from in Ravensbrook is Shelton. And Cline is the only one in Heathrow. And it's not the people of Heathrow, or the homeowners, or anything like that."

Of the impending development of the property adjacent to his home, Shelton said, "Everyone in the county would like to see it stay just the way it is, especially us." Shelton added he voiced his concerns to the county commission, about the music events, because "we didn't want it to become a real noisy, regular kind of thing."

Shelton said he also has asked the county to revert the zoning of the front 83 acres and the remaining Trepanier property which is zoned for one acre lots. "We thought it was too intense. It's a shame that it is going to be developed to the extent it is going to be developed."

As for the fate of the Lake Mary Heathrow

Festival of the Arts, Chairman Joanne Lucas-Bourg commented that she was glad for Trepanier. "We've known it was inevitable."

Organizers of the festival honored Trepanier at this year's event, the 10th anniversary of Seminole County's premier cultural event.

The first art festival was held in the area of what is now Barclay Square Apartments in Heathrow. The second year, Trepanier donated his property and the ranch has been the home of the festival ever since.

Lucas-Bourg said she has already started to scout alternative sites for the Oct. 1997 festival. She said several outdoor sites have been offered or suggested to her, including property near Seminole Towne Center mall. Two other sites that Lucas-Bourg likes are Fort Mellon Park in Sanford and Crane's Roost in Altamonte Springs.

She said that if the festival moves it will still retain the name it has held for 10 years, "because it does benefit the entire county."

School six years ago.

"It was very frustrating," she said.

An honor student at Seminole, Karen's English today is flawless - as is her music.

She says she will always be a musician but she also aspires to become a pediatrician.

"Hopefully, I have played a part in what Jordana, Amy and Karen are accomplishing and will continue to accomplish," Jordan said. "They also have individual instructors, of course."

"The band director at a school has a unique opportunity to be with his students not one or two years - as an English teacher - but four years. So with them more than anyone else but their own families."

"Families play the major role," Jordan said. "Parents must encourage and support their children whatever the endeavor may be. There are some kids whose parents are never around. Never at the school for a game or concert. Four years go by and I've never met some of them."

"This isn't the case with Jordana's, Amy's or Karne's parents...they're very supportive, very present. And it's made a world of difference."

a.m. and jumped over the counter to demand money from a teller. The frightened teller obliged the request and the robber made off with an undisclosed amount of money.

Grindle could not offer a description of the robber. Grindle said the Sanford Police are still investigating the matter.

Representatives of the police department were unavailable for comment this morning regarding the investigation.

In Lake Mary, an elderly couple was frightened by a young man who broke into their home while they were resting during the midday hours.

According to Det. John Woods of the Lake Mary Police Department, a man snuck into the pool area of the home and threw a patio stone through a bedroom window and climbed into the house.

Pain may be eliminated for millions

(SPECIAL) A drug that is exciting researchers in the treatment of pain has been formulated into a new product known as "Arthor Lite o" and is being called a "Medical Miracle" by some, in the treatment of debilitating conditions such as arthritis, bursitis, rheumatism, painful muscle aches, joint aches, simple backache, bruises, and more. Although the mechanism of action is unclear, experiments indicate that Arthor Lite o relieves pain by first selectively attracting and then destroying the messenger chemical which carries pain sensations to the brain, thus eliminating pain in the affected area. Arthor Lite o is an odorless, greaseless, nonstaining cream, and is available immediately without a prescription and is guaranteed to work or your money back. Use only as directed.

After the oath, deadlock on choosing leader

It was swearing in time Tuesday for newly-elected and re-elected Seminole County commissioners. Left, newly elected commissioner Grant Maloy is administered the oath of office by Johnnie A. McLeod, as Maloy's wife Althea and son Shane observe. Center, re-elected commissioner Daryl McLain is administered the oath by Hon. Judge Wallace H. Hall, with wife Barbara, mother, Jean, father Ralph, and grandmother Louise Manning on hand. In the photo at right, re-elected Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide is administered the oath of office by the Hon. Judge O. H. Eaton Jr. while wife Judy observes. Following the swearing in ceremonies, a new commission chairman was to be selected, but the commissioners were unable to reach an agreement. Because of the failure to determine leadership, an emergency meeting has been called for next Tuesday, Nov. 26, at 8 p.m. at the County Services Building. Without a commission chairman, no one was authorized to sign county paychecks. The purpose of next week's meeting is to authorize Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide to sign the payroll and documents until such time as a chairman can be elected.

Lake Mary delays decision on Road speed bumps

By NICK PFEIFER
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Even though Lake Mary resident James Nipper told newly seated Lake Mary Mayor David Meador he didn't want to hear the word postponement again in a request for speed bumps on Main Road, the matter is being postponed. Nipper and other residents had appeared before the Lake Mary City Commission earlier this month, complaining about speeding problems on Main Road. The commission was reminded that almost two and a half years ago, the same residents requested three speed bumps, but Lake Mary, after receiving a county survey saying that seven would be more practical, postponed making any decision because of the cost involved. Now, with a new mayor, a re-seated commissioner (Gary Brender), and one seat still to be decided during the Dec. 3 runoff election, the residents are again asking for the bumps to be installed. City Manager John Litton however, believes that the commission should not be faced with any concrete decision until additional information is obtained. In a memorandum to the members of the commission, Litton wrote, "After reviewing the file on this reference subject, it is apparent that the traffic study information needs to be updated. (Police) Chief Beary is going to get the Seminole County Traffic Engineering Department to do that work at little or no cost to the city. However, it is important that we have that data before any decisions are made." Litton said he has talked to Nipper and there appeared to be no problem with the city rescheduling the item from a preplanned Dec. 19 date to Jan. 2 of next year. "We will do it on that date as the first agenda item," Litton promised.

Crime

Once inside, he stumbled upon an elderly gentleman napping on the couch. He demanded money, but the man called to his wife, who was napping in another room, and told her to call the police. The frightened would-be robber left without money or property. Woods said the man was described as being black, about 5'10" tall and thin. Another home in the area was broken in to in the same manner about a half an hour later, Woods said. No one was home in that residence, but the robber was frightened off by an alarm. The investigation is continuing. In the wee hours of the morning, a Seminole County deputy sheriff arrested two men and two women after he made a routine traffic stop and found a sawed off shotgun, four knives, a set of brass knuckles and a razor blade inside a lipstick container concealed in the vehicle. According to Ed McDonough, sheriff's department public information officer, Deputy William Morris was on patrol in the Midway area about 2 a.m. Tuesday when he stopped a gray Honda for running a red light on Brison Road. There were two men and two women in the car and Morris asked all of them to step from the car and he searched them and the car. One man was carrying a set of brass knuckles, the other was carrying the lipstick container which concealed the razor blade. In the car he found four knives of various sizes and a sawed off shotgun with a 14 1/2-inch barrel. Ruby Guerrero, 25, of 3814 Michigan Ave., Sanford, and Terrence Rush, 22, of 510 W. Third St., Sanford, were charged with carrying concealed weapons. They were held on $1,000 bond each at the John E. Polk Correctional Facility. Ronald Secor, 19, of 2884 Higate Ct., Deltona and Danielle Rivera, 18, of 114 Floyd Ave., Lake Mary, were also charged with carrying concealed weapons. They were held at the corrections facility under $500 bond each.

IN BRIEF

LOCALLY

Magie activate McCaskill

ORLANDO — Orlando placed Penny Hardaway on the injured list and activated rookie Amal McCaskill, who has not played this season because of tendinitis in his right knee. Hardaway had surgery on his left knee and will be sidelined 2-4 weeks.

Knicks 92, Magic 88

ORLANDO — The battle for early supremacy in the Atlantic Division was a mismatch until the New York Knicks nearly collapsed. The Knicks began the game with an 18-2 run and led by 25 before having to hold off the injury-riddled Orlando Magic 92-88 behind a 24-point performance by Patrick Ewing. Ewing became the 33rd player in NBA history to score 20,000 career points. He also grabbed 18 rebounds and blocked seven shots. John Starks had 15 points and Charles Oakley contributed 12 points and 14 rebounds. Gerald Wilkins led the cold-shooting Magic (27-for-76, 36 percent) with 24 points.

AROUND THE STATE

Dolphins Activate Cross

DAVIE — The Miami Dolphins activated defensive end Jeff Cross and placed guard Chris Gray on injured reserve Tuesday. Gray, who broke his right leg Sunday at Houston, will miss the rest of the season. The Dolphins also re-signed center Cal Dixon and released defensive end Aaron Jones.

Lightning 3, Kings 0

TAMPA — Corey Schwab made 31 saves for his second career shutout as the Tampa Bay Lightning broke a five-game winless streak with a 3-0 victory over the Los Angeles Kings. Earlier in the day Tampa Bay acquired goaltender Rick Tabaracci from the Calgary Flames for center Aaron Gavey.

ELSEWHERE

Heat 104, Nuggets 86

DENVER — Alonso Mourning scored 23 points to lead six Miami players in double figures as the Heat dominated Denver inside and outside in a 104-86 win over the Nuggets. P.J. Brown finished with 18 points, most coming from inside 10 feet. Sasha Danilovic added 13 and Gary Grant had 12 off the bench. Antonio McDyeas scored 27 for the Nuggets.

White Sox get Belle

CHICAGO — The Chicago White Sox made Albert Belle baseball's highest-paid player, giving him a five-year, $65 million contract. White Sox owner Jerry Reinsdorf, urged by Frank Thomas to sign Belle, outbid Cleveland and Florida with a package said to give Chicago a $5 million buyout for a sixth season.

Williams to manage Red Sox

BOSTON — Spurned by Jim Leyland and Whitey Herzog, the Boston Red Sox hired former Toronto manager Jimmy Williams to replace Kevin Kennedy. Williams has been Atlanta's third-base coach since 1990. With manager Bobby Cox, who was Williams' predecessor in Toronto, the Braves have played in four of the last five World Series.

Lou leaves Notre Dame

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — By the time Lou Holtz took the stage, what he was about to say was old news. By the time he left, he was part of Notre Dame's history, and everybody was looking toward the future. Northwestern's Gary Barnett and Irish defensive coordinator Bob Davis are the early favorites, and athletic director Mike Wadsworth said there are fewer than six candidates. Holtz, 59, is 29-29-2 at Notre Dame — six victories shy of Knute Rockne's school record.

Panthers make a deal

PITTSBURGH — The Pittsburgh Penguins made deals with the Florida Panthers and Anaheim Mighty Ducks. Pittsburgh sent left wing Shawn Antoski and defenseman Dmitri Mironov to Anaheim for left wing Alex Hicks and defenseman Fredrik Olausson, and acquired center Stu Barnes and defenseman Jason Woolley from Florida for center Chris Wells.

It took the Fighting Seminoles a little longer to get control of its game with Lyman in the nightcap, but once the hosts got control they easily pulled away for a 75-39 triumph.

The Tribe led just 17-13 after one period, but then outscored the Greyhounds 10-0 over the first 4:14 of the second period to take a 27-13 lead. Seminole eventually led 29-14 before

ROBOTMAN by Jim Meddick

Are these symptoms linked to MS?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've recently found myself dizzy, nauseated, unsteady, and have numbness in my left leg and arm when walking. My family has a history of multiple sclerosis. I've also had some inner-ear problems and wonder if this could be what's wrong with me or if I, too, have MS.

PETER GOTT, M.D.

DEAR READER: Multiple sclerosis, a progressive neurological disease, can begin with the very symptoms you are experiencing. Of course, you might have a circulatory disorder, as an alternative, that is complicated by an inner-ear problem.

In any case, a neurologist should be able to sort things out, using blood tests and special examinations, such as MRI and PET scans. Ask your family doctor for a referral to such a specialist.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Multiple Sclerosis."

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'd like information on Cushing's syndrome. Do you suggest some medication to counteract the puffy look of the face and feet? Is there any help with diet or other natural substances to cut down the over-activity of steroids?

DEAR READER: Cushing's syndrome is a disease caused by an over-abundance of steroids (cortisone and others) in the body. This can be caused by steroid pills (prednisone and others that are used to treat a wide range of diseases), a tumor of the pituitary gland, lung cancer, or over-production of natural steroids by the adrenal glands.

Regardless of cause, the symptoms are identical: round face, muscle wasting, puffy face, brittle bones, hypertension, reddish stretch marks on the skin, kidney stones, osteoporosis, diabetes, psychiatric disturbances, and susceptibility to infection.

The diagnosis is made by special blood tests and X-rays.

Therapy depends on the cause: The excess steroid level must be corrected by reducing the dosage of medication — or by surgery to remove the offending tissue.

This is a serious affliction that must be addressed by an endocrinologist. Diet and "natural substances" have no role whatsoever in treating Cushing's syndrome. Medical attention is vital in order to prevent the complications of the disease.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm impressed with your column, to the degree of getting hooked on daily reading. It is always a real eye-opener to read about various ailments people suffer from. Much to my regret, I have to stop perusing the column, because I find I've developed into a hypochondriac. Why, as I age, do I appear to have so many of the ailments you discuss?

simple counseling.
With respect to your particular problem, there may be an additional factor. As we age, our bodies change and we develop a pattern of ailments, ranging from stiff joints to nighttime urination. Such symptoms are normal; they merely remind us that we're getting older. I believe that most of my readers are middle-aged and beyond.
Therefore, when they write me about their complaints, my answers also pertain to other readers of similar age; in short, I tend to write about common ailments. And, sooner or later, each aging reader will probably experience some of the symptoms they see in my column.
I urge you to keep reading my column because education and knowledge are important for the educated consumer who values good health.

There are two good bridge magazines published in the South Pacific. First, let's look at Australian Bridge. You receive six large issues per annum, which are aimed primarily at club players but have something for everyone. I think the editor, Stephen Lester, does a good job.

Was the expression that it's better to be lucky than good the invention of a loser? Well, one wonders if East or West mentioned it after this deal, which was reported in the April 1998 issue.

South was Peter Reynolds from Perth. Look at his bidding. First, he opened a nine-count (though admittedly it is a good nine-count). West made a bizarre weak jump overcall. North produced a negative double promising four hearts. (Afterward, he said he had a spade in his hearts!) East raised to three spades. Reynolds was there with four hearts. Finally, after North corrected to five clubs, Reynolds raised to six! That nine-point hand just got stronger and stronger!

New to the play. After Reynolds ruffed the spade ace, it was the work of a moment for him to draw trumps, play a diamond to dummy's ace, and run the diamond jack through East. Declarer continued with a heart to his queen, cashed the diamond king, discarding one of dummy's remaining hearts, and conceded a heart trick for plus 1370. No sweat!

What made this even funnier — if that is the word I want — is that at two of the other three tables in play, the deal was passed out!

In the year ahead, your success rate will be high. However, you must first build solid foundations and strong fences. Try to expand your network.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Anything important you put in writing today should be double-checked for errors. If you make a big one, it could complicate your affairs. So, be sure to sign a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $2 and $35 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1788, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10108. Make sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) In a pay-your-own-way lunch today make sure the expenses are divided equally. If you are not careful, you might get stuck with the entire check.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Independence is admirable, but don't go to extremes today. If you make your companions feel unwanted, they may give you a dose of your own medicine.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You might pass on some false information today just because it sounds interesting. Do not give in to the temptation.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Stay within your means today, especially if you have earmarked a specific amount of money for pleasurable activities. Extravagance won't add to your enjoyment.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your standing in the eyes of your peers will decrease today if you're too opinionated. Even if you think your ideas are superior to theirs, keep them to yourself.

TAUROS (April 20-May 20) You should rely on yourself more than you rely on others today. Your chart indicates that people you've counted on in the past might not be available to help you.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Rather than attempting to make others resemble your image today, offer your personality so that you will be more compatible.

CANCER (June 21-July 20) Today, if you don't contribute to a just endeavor, don't expect to be rewarded just for being there. The payoff will be reserved for actual participants.

LEO (July 21-Aug. 20) Whether or not your ideas will succeed or fail today will depend on your determination. Do not settle for second best, because you don't have to be a runner-up.

VIRGO (Aug. 21-Sept. 20) Try to be as realistic as possible today when ascertaining your financial position. Do not enter funds in the profit column if you have not received them yet.

LIBRA (Sept. 21-Oct. 20) Usually you are more conscientious than most about matters which affect your family. This may not be the case today, and you might neglect something important.
