Free scoops clear minetields

ST. PETERSBURG - With dogs making minefields of public parks, the city is giving people a free scoop.

In a 3-week-old experiment at two parks, the city has installed boxes that dispense free, disposable poop scoops. It's the latest in an effort to get doggte owners to scrape up their pet's mess.

Jon Clarke said the program already has made a difference at Crescent Lake Park in his neighborhood, where stepping off the sidewalk had been a risky venture.

The project is so successful that Ms. Campbell has authorized six more poop scoop boxes to be placed at other city parks.

Each scoop, a small bag held open on one end by wire and featuring a cardboard handle, costs the city 20 cents. Ms. Campbell said the price is well worth the man-hours saved scraping up the pooch byproducts.

Important lesson learned in relations to old timers

We've learned an important lesson. One had better be careful what he says about some of the old timers around Sanford. For example, after all the interesting information about the Ludwig brothers and the Meisch family we discover they were cousins. The mother of the Ludwig brothers was a Metsch. We also find out that the Meischs are not of German ancestry. The family came from Luxembourg.

On top of that we learn that there's a Sanford couple in Germany who gets a clipping of Way Back When each week. They are retired Marine Corps Lt. Col. Glynn Hodges and his wife, Judy, who is a daughter of Bill Ludwig. The Hodges are employed at a U.S. military base in Wildflecken. They are the son and daughter-in-law of Gladys Hodges, widow of former Sanford plumber, Morris Hodges.

Residents asked to share visions of city

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY - Downtown Lake Mary should

Lake Mary officials hope that sentence will be completed by the people who live there.

Next month the city will ask for Lake Mary residents to share their visions of what the city's downtown area should look like once it is developed. The Lake Mary City Commission Thursday night extended its call for applications from architectural planners needed to hear the citizens' comments and work them into a model for development.

The exchange of vision and concerns will take place during a day long "charette" - what the eny won't call a public hearing, a meeting or even just a session.

What's the difference? "It's not the same thing as a commission meeting that has 20 other things on the agenda." said Mayor Randy Morris, who called for the charettes after his election last year. While all city government meetings are conducted in public with residents free to speak, he said, informal meetings devoted solely to citizen comment may invite more and better thought-out insights. The gathering will be facilitated entirely by the architectural firm, and not by city officials, Morris said. Although the architects will run the charette, he said, the ideas that go into the final plan will come from the people "Many times when a city plans this kind of project, they call in a landscape architect of planner to say how they think it should be," Morris said. "The charettes help citizens drive the plan, instead of just comment on it

We're giving the people a blank sheet of paper and saying. This is the future. Tell us what you want." Morris said.

The charettes will also allow for a less expensive design of the proposed downtown redevelopment. Morris said. While hiring a planner to design a redevelopment model might have cost the city $50,000, he said. Canin and Associates, who also designed the Lake Mary Boulevard landscaping project, has offered to do the job based on the public's ideas for only $8,000. The city budgeted $40,000 for the plan this year. Canin is the only firm that has submitted a bid to date. The commission Thursday extended a request-for-proposals period after hearing some interest from other firms.

The plan to be designed will include all elements of downtown redevelopment. Morris said. The design will address the kinds of businesses, housing parking and pedestrian access that should be a part of the new downtown, he said.

The downtown area runs roughly from the See Visions, Page 5A

"Well, they didn't give me money or nothing like that," Sesco, who now lives in DeBary, said between bites of syrup-soaked pancakes. "I didn't want no hand outs or stuff...but my kids were much room for words.

"We've had a very good crowd," said Pat Epting, chairman of the Kiwanis Pancake Day, on Saturday toward the end of the annual event.

The annual Pancake Day, Epting said, was a fund raiser for the Kiwanis Underprivleged Youth programs, including assistance for the Salvation Army, the YMCA and the Boys and Girls Clubs.

"We use all the money raised here in Sanford and in Seminole County," he said.

Epting said the Kiwanis Club of Sanford had been doing the Pancake Day for a quarter cen-tury and that the 1991 edition of the event had been the most successful in his memory.

"We thought the participation would be low because of the economy," he mid, "but we've had pretty good community support."

Epting reported that while pancake consumption was up. overall fundraising was down this year.

"Instead of making about $10,000 overall like we did last year," he noted, "we'll only make about $7,000."

About 2,000 people consumed an average of three pancakes apiece over the course of the day, Epting reported.

Last year the group made about 5,000 pancakes for a little under 1,700 people.

"That's about a 20 percent increase this year," Epting said.

Report volume returning to normal following case

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE - The volume of child abuse reports in Florida has eased in the past year, a drop social workers say marks a return to normal after the highly publicized slaying of Bradley McGee.

The 2-year-old Lakeland toddler was one of 48 Florida children killed by abusive adults in 1989, state records show. His stepfather was convicted of holding Bradley by the feet and plunging his head into a tollet. causing a brain hemorrhage.

The brutality of Bradley's death stirred public outrage and made people acutely aware of the child abuse problem in Florida. In the six months after Bradley's death, abuse complaints jumped up to 30 percent in some areas.

Now, those numbers are heading back down.

In the last half of 1990, the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services' abuse registry received 55,875 reports of abused or neglected children. That's a dip of 419 from the previous year, which hardly would be noticeable except that HRS thinks Florida gained roughly 80,000 children in that period.

"I have my doubts that child abuse is going down," said B.J. Cosson, 'director of HRS' protective service system. "There's no data nationwide that suggest that it's decreasing."

A more likely explanation, he said, is that 1989 was a banner year for publicity about child abuse, making 1990 look weak by comparison.

For one thing, Cosson said, HRS kicked off a statewide blitz to advertise its toll-free abuse hot line. Television commercials. radio ads and bumper stickers told Floridians they could report their suspicions by dialing 1-800-96-ABUSE.

Then came the widely covered McGee case, which prompted the Legislature meeting in special session to add money for 721 child welfare workers. Much of the McGee publicity focused on HRS workers who ignored warning signs that the toddler was being abused by his parents even before he was returned to them from a foster home. Four workers were suspended, and one was convicted of criminal negligence.

Child abuse investigators all over the state got the message.

Children started getting removed from homes, and shelters began to fill.

In Hillsborough and Polk counties alone, 803 children were placed in shelters during the last half of 1989. The next year that number dropped to

Ruling attempts to 'end run' decision

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Local officials say a proposed Public Service Commission rule requiring local governments to pay for additional costs of burying power lines is an attempt to bypass a pending Plorida Supreme Court decision on the Lake Mary Boulevard power line issue.

"It amounts to an attempt at a power play," said assistant Seminole County attorney Lonnie Ofoot, "They're trying to end run the case we have before the Supreme Court."

Lake Mary will challenge the rule. Tuesday, Seminole County commissioners will consider filing objections against it.

In April, the PSC, which regulates public utilities, will take public testimony on a rule that would prevent a local govern-ment from forcing a utility to use profits or rates to pay the added cost to bury lines or some other costly manner. If approved, the rule could take effect in August, said PSC attorney Cindy Miller.

The rule addresses a battle Lake Mary and Seminole County are fighting against Florida Power in a case argued before the Supreme Court Feb. 4. At issue is whether the city and county have the right to order Florida Power and other utilities to bury utility lines along Lake Mary Boulevard during the widening of the road.

utilities — not the city and county — should bear those burying expenses. The PSC, along with several utility companies, submitted arguments supporting Florida Power's position that its profits and rates should not bear those additional

A decision is expected in three to six months:

"Why should a lot of ratepayers pay for something that benefits a few people?," said Miller. "This will help crystallize some difficult intergovernmental issues. The commission has an open mind to this."

Lake Mary City Attorney Ned Julian said the proposed PSC rule amounts to a recognition by the agency that local govern-ments do have the authority to order companies to place their utilities in way other than manner desired by the company within the public right of way.

But if adopted, Julian agrees with Groot the rule would serve to force right of way easements on all local governments. eliminating their control over the use of land next to roads. Groot said utilities along Lake Mary Boulevard are allowed as a guest of the county, not through an easement which gives the companies more control over the use of the land.

"If this is allowed, local governmental entities will have lost total control over utilities of land utilization," Julian said.

Education plan with 'class'

No sooner had President Bush proposed a 3.7 percent increase in federal education spending than the National Education Association began to complain that schools were being shortchanged. This is an old refrain from the nation's largest teachers' union, which has never been satisfied with the level of school funding.

But at a time when there are so many competing demands on the Treasury, Mr. Bush should be targeting the limited federal dollars where they can do the most good. That is precisely what he has proposed.

For example, the president wants to spend an additional $100 million next year on Head Start, a program of pre-school preparation for low-income children. Head Start's aim is to prepare youngsters for school by teaching them the fundamental concepts tht most children already have absorbed before the first grade.

This highly successful program also includes feeding and inoculating youngsters, checking their eyes and teeth, and getting parents involved in the educational process. Head Start greatly improves the prospect that disadvantaged kids will succeed in school. If Congress approves the president's request, funding for this program will have increased more than 50 percent since he took office.

The White House also wants to earmark an additional $490 million to reward schools that achieve excellence. This kind of incentive makes far more sense than just throwing money at schools indiscriminately.

In fact, a disproportionate amount of tax dollars has flowed into the already top-heavy administrative structure. From 1960 to 1980. administrative costs for public schools in-creased in constant dollars by 206 percent, while instructional costs increased by 141 percent. There was also a 100 percent increase in administrative staffs but only a 61 percent increase in teachers.

Those who assert that schools aren't getting a fair share of federal and state funds getting a lair share of receral and state itinds are simply not paying attention. In 1982 federal, state and local governments were spending $2,726 per pupil. The current level is $4,639, which exceeds per-pupil expenditures in most Western nations and Japan, Yet, American students consistently rank below their foreign counterparts on standardized tests.

To overcome this dismal roord, President Bush has recommended that $200 million be awarded to districts that allow parents to choose which schools their children attend. This reform could bring about dramatic improvements in education because it would deprive public schools of their de facto monopoly and promote schools that work.

The White House has put forth an education package designed to produce tangible results. Instead of quibbling over the dollar amount, the NEA and Congress should be more concerned about the meager return that taxpayers have received on their investment praise of the U.S. Constitution

March 4, 1789, the Constitution of the United States became the supreme law of the nation. The United States of America is the oldest continuous constitutional government founded upon a written constitution. The constitution will be 202 years old March 4, 1991.

The evolution of our Constitution can be traced to the signing of the Declaration of Independence in 1776. At that time the colonists declared their independence from England. Having just de-clared their feeedom from tyranny, the colonists were hesitant about conferring too much power upon the central government. Consequently, they adopted the Articles of Confederation. The Articles of Confederation were drawn up in 1777. The last state did not agree to the Articles until 1781. Under the Articles there was no central body except the Assembly or Congress. There were no executive or judiciary branches of government. The Assembly was powerless to raise taxes or an army. The Assembly was dependent upon the states.

After the Revolutionary War it became apparent that this type of central government was dysfunctional. Internal trade was in chaos, as each state issued its own paper money and imposed tariffs for goods crossing their borders. The money issued by the states was not backed by gold or silver.

In order to remedy this situation a convention representation by population versus equal reprewas called in 1787 in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. Ostensibly the delegates came from all of the original colonies, except Rhode Island, to revise the Articles of Confederation. However, the visionary leadership provided by James Madison, Governor Morris, Benjamin Franklin, Alexander Hamilton and George Washington led to abandoning the Articles of Confederation for a bold new plan, a Constitu-

The Constitution provided for three branches of government: legislative, executive and judiciary. The new system of government would be one of checks and balances with power divided among them.

The salient issues had to be compromised in drafting the Constitution. One of the issues was sentation. The compromise was to have two bodies of lawmakers. The House of Representatives would be elected according to popula-tion. Senators would be elected two per state, meeting the equality of representation concerns.

Another interest that had to be addressed was commerce. The agrarian southern states and the industrial northern states gave Congress the power to regulate trade with foreign countries and among the states. The last point of compromise was about population. Southern states wanted slaves counted because this would increase their representation in the House of Representatives.

The North objected to this, Concurrence was reached by counting slaves as three-fifths a By July, 2, 1788, 10 states had ratified the Constitution and it was adopted. The Constitution did not become effective until March 4. 1789. It was 1790 before all thirteen states accepted the Constitution as the supreme law of the land. Article V of the Constitution contributes to the contemporary nature of the docment because it provides for amending it. There have been 26 amendments to the Constitution. The Thirteenth Amendment freed the slaves that were left in bondage, after the Emancipation Proclamation.

High-tech-chastity-belt shame

NEW YORK - Dr. Sheldon Segal expected Norplant to generate a controversy sooner or later. It was the "sooner" that took him by

On the very morning the PDA approved the long-lasting contraceptive implant. Dr. Segal found himself in a taxi between television found himself in a taxi between television studios listening to someone on a radio talk show loudly proclaim that every girl should have it stuck in her arm at puberty. The cab driver uttered his full-throated agreement and the man who developed this new birth-control method shrank down into his seat: "That was Day One," Segal says.

On Day Two, the Philadelphia Inquirer published an editorial about Norplant saying that readers should "think abut" Norplant as a tool in the fight against black poverty. The message, spiked with a volatile mix of race, class and contraception, kicked up a storm.

Segal sent off his own outraged let-ter-to-the-editor. But before it was published, the story struck again. A California judge ordered a convicted child-abuser to use Norplant as part of her sentence. The contraceptive wasn't even on the market

Sitting in his office at the Rockefeller Foundation, he shakes his head at all this. "We created a method to enhance reproductive edom and people keep finding ways to use it for the opposite purpose.

It took 24 years to develop, test and approve an implantable device that cast prevent pregnancy for as long as five years. It took less than two weeks for Norplant to be billed as a new method of coercion.

Yes, the team that worked on Norplant has been concerned that government would misuse the device to enforce birth control. But frankly, they were worrying about China, not California.

Now the story has moved to Kanass. Last week, the legislature field hearings on a bill that would pay welfare mothers $500 to get the implant. It would also pay for the Norplant, plus an annual checkup and a 850 check a

Under the bill, the state would offer an incentive to one class of women — poor, single mothers on welfare — for one kind of birth control - Norplant.

The man who came up with this idea, Kerry Patrick, a Kansas state representative, de-scribes himself as "a pro-life Republican Presbyterian." He defends this bill as a way "to encourage people to engage in a certain type of behavior." At the same time, he figures to save the state the $205,000 it costs for each child on welfare from birth to adulthood. An incentive plan is not as coercive as a sentencing plan. We use incentives all the time. As Segal says, "It's the way we get people to join the army, buy a Chevrolet, give to charity."

Other governments attempt to influence the ecisions families make about fertility all the time. In France, they give bonuses for each baby. In India, they offer "expense money" to citizens who get sterilized.

The Kansas offer of $500 plus free birth control may sound like a good deal for a poor woman who wants Norplant. But "the line between incentive and coercion gets very fuzzy," says Segal. The $500 bonus can be a heavy govern-ment hand on the scales of choice for the poor. He worries that "when you single out a welfare single out a welfare mother, wave a $500 bill in front of her face and say that the government is going government is going to induce you not to have children, you've gotten into a risky area, ethically and morally." There is another uncomfortable message emanating from that "risky area." More than one million women in the world from Thailand to Sweden already use Norplant. The simple, effective device offers women, especially those in Third World countries, the liberating possibility of planning their families, often for the first time. But in America the first reactions are not about America the first reactions are not about expanding possibilities.

An incentive plan is not as coercive as a sentencing plan.

Norplant has been most publicly and ardently taken up by those who want to cap social problems by getting a lock on the womb. It is tempting policy makers, from California to Kansas, who distrust women — especially poor mothers. They prefer an old fix in a new form: controlling women.

controlling women.

There is a profound gap between the promise of birth control and the threat of woman control. It's more than a $500 difference.

Q.: Who was the baseball official who once operated an umpires' school in Sanford?

A.: George Barr, a National League umpire for more than 20 years. Back then the majors used three umps. George was a member of the trio of Barr. Ballard, and Ballenfant. Barr became famous for an action that has happened only once in major league baseball. He threw Leo Durocher out of a game before it even started.

Q.: Recently you mentioned several former principals of Sanford schools about 50 years ago. However, you lest out the principal of the West Side Primary School. Remember who she was?

A.: No, but I do now. She was Mrs. Love Turner. I've tried to find out who the principal was for the East Side Primary School. No luck so far. Call me if you

Q: One Sunday you mentioned the four Tillis brothers, Roy, Bunny, Hugh and Pee Wee. Waan't their father once Sanford's police chief?

A.: Yes, around 1912 Wiley A. Tillia was the city's chief of police. His son, Roy, was a policeman for some 35 years. Most of it was with SPD. But there was a stretch when he was with the Daytona Beach Police Department. Roy retired as a captain. Hugh and Bunny were meat cutters and Pee Wee was an assistant to the Atlantic Coast Line's yardmaster. He was also the timekeeper for Seminole High football sames for many. many years.

Q.i Enjoyed your articles about Jackie Robinson breaking baseball's color line in Sanford. Was he a native of California and how old was he at the time he was in Sanford?

A.: Jackie Rossevelt Robinson was born Jan. 31, 1919. That made him 27 years old when he broke the color line in Sanford and 28 when he joined the Dodgers in 1947. Although raised in California and educated at UCLA, he was not a prunepicker. He was a Georgia peach - born in Cairo, His father, a sharecropper, left the family about a year after Jackie was born and his mother moved the family to Los Angeles.

Q. I know Seminole County was carved out of Orange County in April, 1913. What about before then?

A.: True. Sanford was once part of Orange County. Before that it was part of Mosquito County. The county seat was Enterprise, across Lake Monroe from Sanford. The lake was once known as Lake Valdez. Even before that Sanford was a part of St. Johns County. The county seat then, as now, was St. Augustine. Seminole County came into existence April 15. 1913. The legislation was signed by Governor Park Trammel (later a U.S. Senator), at 10:20 A.M. The Herald published an 'extra" edition.

9.1 In your story about the Cameron Brothers you mentioned St. Clair. Back in the late 1920's didn't he manage a team in what we knew as the Lions Club Junior League? I think I played for him way back then.

A.ı Yes, he managed the Cubs. They were once known as the Blackfeet. Other teams were the Seminoles, Pirates, Giants, Red Sox and Tigers. Some of the other managers were Maxwell Stewart, John Melsch, Eddle Bender, John Ivey, O.P. Herndon, Jr., and Glea Lingle Sr. Lingle also umpired when his team wasn't playing. Cameron lived only a block from the park (the old Grammar School playground) and was in charge of the equipment. But the man who ran the show was R.A. "Bob" Cobb. He also managed the Seminoles. To my knowledge at the time the Lions league was the only organized recreation program in Sanford. Hundreds of us "boys" played in the league. Right here and now, 1 want to express my thanks to "Mr. Cobb." Last December 5, he celebrated his 91st birthday. He lives at 313 West 15th Street. His son, Tommy, an Insurance agent, is now retired and lives in New Smyrna Beach. His daughter, Frances, became a school teacher, is now retired, and resides with her dad.

For many years Cobb worked for a cooperative called the Sanford-Oviedo Truck Growers. Later he worked for a firm headed by the late Lt. General Allied forces began the ground war against Iraqi troops in Kuwait after Saddam Hussein ignored a White House ultimatum to pull his army out of the occupied emirate. Marine bombers stepped up missions against targets on Kuwaiti islands to support charging ground troops.

"I ask only that all of you stop what you are doing and say a prayer for all the coalition forces who this very moment are risking their lives for their country and for all of us," he said.

The long-planned, longawaited assault came 38 days after the United States and 32 coalition nations launched round-the-clock air attacks to weaken the 500,000-man Iraqi army that has occupied Kuwait since Aug. 2. The coalition was expected to unleash a furious battle across desert sands, in-volving naval forces, armies and perhaps a helicopter or amphibious landing of Marines.

WITH THE 2ND MARINE DIVISION NEAR THE KUWAITI BORDER (AP) - In ancient Rome geese were kept to warn of approaching enemies. In Saudi Arabia, they're using parakeets.

The geese were supposed to honk; the birds are supposed to drop dead. A sizable number of parakeets were distributed to the 2nd Marine Division as sensitive sniffers of the lethal gases traci forces could use against it in event of ground war.

U.S. object: emasculate Saddam

By RUTH SINA! Associated Press Analysis

WASHINGTON — Read between the lines of President Bush's ultimatum to Iraq and this is what you see: a determination to force Saddam Hussein out of Kuwait in humiliation and incapable of threatening his Arab neighbors for years to come.

Government officials and analysts say that even if Saddam survives, he can be rendered powerless if he has nothing to show from the war.

In giving the Iraqi leader just one day to head out of Kuwait. Bush dictated terms designed to ensure Saddam will be defanged or eventually overthrown by his people.

Bush cut a clear line Friday between his enmity toward Saddam and his empathy with the Iraqi people. If Saddam rejects the demand to pull out, he "risks subjecting the Iraqi people to further hardship," Bush. warned.

Ten days ago, Bush told the Iraqi people they could "take matters into their own hands and force Saddam Hussein, the dictator, to step saide" and thereby end the war. Secretary of State James Baker held out another carrot: if Saddam is no longer in power, he told Congress recently, the United States would help rebuild Iraq. Government officials and analysts are divided over the likelihood that Iraqis will revolt, although many believe he won't

The secret police with which Saddam has terrorized his 18 million people for 11 years is still intact.

Despite the tremendous beatings inflicted on Iraqi cities and positions in Kuwait, the secret police with which Saddam has terrorized his 18 million people for 11 years is still intact, officials say.

U.S. intelligence agencies are following reports of growing unrest, but so far there's no hard evidence, officials say. "Dissent in Iraq is still an oxymoron," said one official.

Most officials and analysts say Bush knows that even if Saddam survives, he can be rendered powerless as long as he has nothing to show for invading Kuwait.

That's why Bush has rejected Soviet attempts to sweeten the pill for Saddam with a plan to lift the allied embargo and set a withdrawal timetable that gives Iraq enough time to retrieve its weapons from Kuwait.

One of the reasons Bush insists the Iraqi pullout be completed within a week is to limit the number of weapons Saddam can take back, one official said.

Bush is under pressure from U.S. allies in the region, who fear having to live in Saddam's neighborhood after the war ends.

Iraq with a substantial part of his huge army still intact," warned Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

"His staying would be an insult to the Arabs, a stab to peace and a blemish on humanity." wrote Egypt's government-owned weekly October.

In the terms he dictated Friday, Bush also insisted Saddam remove his forces from three pieces of Kuwaiti land he had laid claim to for many years: the vast Rumaila oil field and the islands of Bubiyan and Warba, which stand between Iraq and open access to the Persian Gulf.

"The crucial thing is that Saddam come away from there a whipped dog," said another official. "It doesn't matter if he manages to survive."

With that goal in mind, Bush's ultimatum was designed to put the United States in a win-win situation: a diplomatic victory if Saddam withdraws unconditionally, or a military one if he chooses to stay and fight.

Richard Murphy, one of the chief architects of the Reagan administration's embrace of Iraq in the 1980s, said "there's got to be a way ... to politically humiliate Saddam in front of his people for what he

Conservatives push family programs

THE BIGGEST PROBLEMS

By JILL LAWRENCE Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - A conservative campaign aimed at casing America's "family-time famine" sounds awfully familiar to feminists, who say they proposed some of its key elements as long ago as 1978.

'Maybe they weren't listening too carefully in the beginning." said Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo. "Who knows how we got here. But left has met right, or right has met left, so let's stop arguing and do it."

Can it really be true? A meeting of liberal and conscreative minds?

"Pro-family" conservatives say yes, kind of, on some things. Whether it translates into tax relief and family togetherness is another story.

Many of the conservative initiatives are coming from the Family Research Council. headed by former Reagan adviser Gary Bauer.

Conservatives must not restrict themselves "to stopping each new liberal juggernaut as it comes along." Bauer wrote recently in the group's Washington Watch newsletter. Instead, he said, "let THEM stop US."

Some of the "thems," however, have no plans to block the conservatives' proposals. They've been pushing the same ideas for years. For example, the Bauer group wants to raise the $2,050 tax exemption for dependents, a proposal already introduced in the Senate. Schroeder said she has been trying to do that since 1984. That year, when the exemption was only $1,000, she introduced a bill to raise it to $2,600.

The Family Research Council is also pushing "parental preference" bills that would treat parents returning from childcare duties much like veterans returning from military service: They would get first dibs on Jobs for which they qualified at their old companies.

Not feasible, critics said when Eleanor Smeal proposed some-thing similar in 1978, while she was president of the National Organization for Women.

Smeal called it a child-rearing preference and incorporated it in a "Homemaker Bill of Rights" modeled on the G.I. Bill of Rights. Among other things, the document said employers "need to give special consideration to homemakers."

"We were trying to put women on an even playing field," Smeal said. "Our society has been very strong on praising the homemaker with words and Hallmark cards, but not recognizing eco-nomic reality. The feminist movement has said that for years."

The Family Research Council also wants the government to encourage flexible hours, parttime work, job sharing and home-based work to ease what it calls the family-time famine.

William Mattox, who recently laid out the council's recom-mendations in a conservative journal, said family-oriented tax relief has been supported across the political spectrum for years. But only conservatives, he said, have made it a top priority.

"We're interested in starting a brushfire that spreads," said Mattox, a policy analyst with the

The ordinance, passed by just 173 votes out of nearly 30,000 cast in November 1989, would be replaced by a law providing for voluntary compliance. "I don't particularly like peo-ple smoking," said a stockbroker

This week, they face another referendum designed to repeal at a downtown cafe who declined to give his name. "I also don't like the government telling you what you can do."

His opinion summarizes the debate over the ordinance, the toughest in any city in North Carolina, the nation's No. 1 tobacco growing state. It bans smoking in elevators and large retail stores and requires large restaurants to set aside 25 percent of scats for non-smokers.

Violators face fines of $25 for each offense, though the penalties were not imposed until

A group organized last year by union workers at the Lorillard Corp. cigarette plant here collected more than 28,000 signatures, enough to force the special election.

"We don't think the mandatory ordinance is fair," said Earl Jaggers, chairman of Voluntary Ordinance Insures Choice for Everyone, or VOICE, and president of the plant's Tobacco Workers International Juggers dismissed charges that the effort was orchestrated by tobacco interests. "It's a grass-roots effort. We've got 2.300 workers here and we were able to get more than 28,000 names," he said.

The real issue, he said, is individual rights. "We're not trying to make it a smoking issue," he said. "As far as the restaurants are concerned, we encourage them to have non-smoking sections. But we feel this law takes individual rights away."

Another group, Greensboro to Alleviate Smoking Pollution. defends the law.

"We're concerned about those people who don't respect others," said spokesman David Hudgins. "I'm sure no one here was drunk when they drove here today. But that doesn't mean we don't need drunk-driving laws. ... This (ordinance) is for that small percentage of people who don't respect others."

The wording of the proposal caused some confusion, opponents say. A "yes" vote would overturn the old ordinance.

Referendum organizers "have done a good job of clouding the issue," Hudgins said. "Some of my friends signed the petitions believing they were voting to keep the current ban."

Jaggers said the wording is clear. "If you vote 'yes' you're voting for our voluntary ordiance," he said. With 14,000 tobacco farmers, the state produces about two-thirds of the nation's flue-cured tobacco, which is valued at $1.1 billion annually.

The crop generates about $7.4 billion for the state's economy, including wages for workers at such plants as Lorillard, maker of Newport. Kent and True cigarette brands.

"None of our jobs have been threatened but we feel they could be if this thing has a snowball effect," Jaggers said.

Supporters of the ordinance argue that laws that restrict smoking in some form in public places exist in 42 states.

The upcoming referendum is not about jobs, economic security, government regulations or self-control," said Dr. Adam Goldstein, president of the North Carolina chapter of Doctors Ought to Care, or DOC. "The referendum is about the greed of the tobacco industry and its puppet representatives."

Before they entered a restaurant, several female office workers were already having their first lunchtime smoke.

Top-seeded Bucs answer challenge of Lake Howell

By TOM LANHAM Herald Correspondent

LAKE MARY — This one was worth the wait. After combining to miss the game's first 16 shots and playing something only remotely resembling the basketball they are capable of. Mainland's Buccanneers and the Lake Howell Silver Hawks staged a thrilling shootout on Saturday night.

The top-seeded Bucs prevailed 69-63 to claim the 4A-District 9 championship at Lake Mary High School.

Both teams went through hot and cold streaks all night, but the final difference was the speed and power of the Bues.

"No. 21 (Missy Young) was the difference tonight," explained Lake Howell Coach Dennis Codrey. "We just coudn't stop her inside."

Trailing by one at the half, Lake Howell quickly forced a lead change in the first half minute on the strength of a basket from Quiya Hawkins. From there, the Silver Hawks began to stretch their lead.

But late in the quarter, the Bucs began to hit from the outside, led by Missy McKee's two three-pointers. With 2:11 left in the period, Mainland regained the lead and never again

The Silver Hawks did not give up, even when the monentum swung against them. A furious fourth-quarter effort, led by the scrapping and rebounding of Tanya Lewis and by the scoring and ball handling of Elizabeth Milis, the Hawks closed to within two points at 55-53 with three minutes left in the game.

From there, the Buccaneers' team speed again paid dividends. Carmen Sanders scored a pair of lay ups and sank her first free throws of the night to ice the game.

Daytona Beach Scots spoil Raiders' final home contest

SANFORD - Daytona Beach Community College broke away from a 41-41 tie with a barrage of three-pointers and held off a determined upact bid by Seminole Community College 71-57 at the Health and Physical Education Center Saturday night.

With the score tied 41-41 with 12 minutes left, the Scots' Kenny Southall and William Moore nailed back-to-back "threes." Then, after a layup by Raymond Allen, Moore hit another bomb and the contest was all but decided.

The Raiders got back as close as seven, 60-53, with 4:45 left, but Daytona Beach broke the SCC press for easy layups and made seven of nine free throws down the stretch.

With the loss, the Raiders end the season at 16-14 and will finish in sixth place in the Mid-Florida Conference with a 6-8 record.

On Monday, SCC will travel to either Daytona Beach, Valencia (Orlando) or Florida Community College (Jacksonville) for the first round of the conference tournament.

If they can win Monday night's contest, the Raiders would then travel to either Lake City or Ocala (Central Florida) for the final four and a chance to go to the state tournament in Bradenton next month.

The defeat overshadowed a beautiful pre-game ceremony in which the Raider coaching staff presented flowers to the cheerleaders for their support this season and plaques to sophomores DAYTONA SEACH CC (71)

Lack of offense sends Raiders to eighth straight loss

By PHIL SMITH Herald Correspondent

SANFORD - David Ross went 4-for-4 to pace an 11 hit attack and lead the Hillsborough Community College Hawks to a 7-1 victory over the Seminole Community College Raiders Saturday afternoon at Raider Field.

The loss was the Raiders' eighth in a row. HCC starting pitcher Scott Haluska improved his personal record to 1-1 as he held the Raiders to one run on, one hit through six innings, walking three and striking out two.

SCC managed just four hits in the contest. "We need to hit the ball if we're going to start winning," said Raider coach Jack Pantelias.

"The pitchers are doing a good job but we're putting too much pressure on them to win games all by themselves.

The Hawks got on top of the Raiders right away as Ross doubled home Brian McGlone in the first inning to give HCC a quick 1-0 lead.

In the fifth inning with the score 2-0, Ross singled and Brad Gay followed with a double. Gene Moses then drilled a single to chase home both Ross and Gay, increasing the HCC lead to

After the Hawks added two runs in the top of the sixth inning, the Raiders pushed across their lone run in the home half of the sixth inning. Jack Niles led off with a walk, stole second and advanced to third when the throw went into centerfield.

Later. Chad Epperson grounded to third. scoring Niles to make the final margin 6-1.

The only other bright spot for SCC was relief pitcher dustin Ahoyt. Coming on in the seventh, Ahoyt worked the last three innings, striking out five while walking none. He allowed only one unearned run on three hits.

Be ready to hit the water in a hurry if you want to catch some cobia

Cobia season is upon us. Soon these shark look-alikes will be migrating up the eastern coast of Florida following bait pods and manta rays. This is an exciting time of year for me, for this type of fishing is hard to beat. First of all, it is a visual experience and you can often appt the flah you want to catch. If the water is clear, it is often possible to see the cobia take your jig or live balt.

The real fun begins when you set the hook. Cobia fight like buildogs, and will make strong runs and shake their heads on the surface. They are not a very bright fish and will often swim up to the boat early in the fight.

Many inexperienced fishermen will often attempt to gaff these "green" fish and wind up with a tiger by the tail. Cobia go crazy on the gaff and a fresh fish will make shambles of a boat interior if it is not subdued in quick

I am always filled with mixed emotions when I hook a really big fish, for I know that I will eventually have to pay the price when it is time to set the gaff.

When fishing manta rays or bait pods, make it a point to approach your targets carefully and allow for a long cast as not to spook the fish. Cobia will story.

The cobia run is brief and anglers must have recent reports in order to be successful. Give Canaveral (407-783-3694) and he can give you the latest cobis information. If he tells you that the cobia are in, you must make plans to go immediately. If you wait a day or two, the fish may have moved on.

I favor one-and-a-half ounce jigs for cobia. The main thing that I look for is a strong hook. Cobia are real bruisers and will straighten all but the strongest

Middle infield defense

DeLAND — Thanks to some clutch defensive plays by the middle of Oviedo infield, Lion pitcher B.J. Calapa was able to improve his personal record to 3-0 with a 10-5 complete-game victory over the host DeLand Bulldogs Saturday.

The game was the Seminole Athletic Conference-schedule opener for both teams.

Second baseman Chris Huff had seven assists, combining with shortstop Mark Bellhorn on three double plays. But Huff's biggest play came when the score was 9-5 in the sixth inning and DeLand had runners on second and third with two out.

The next batter hit a shot to the right side that looked like it would get through. But Huff dove and made the stop, getting up in time to throw out the batter and end the inning.

Huff also keyed Oviedo's of-fensive effort by going 3-for-3 with three stolen bases and three runs scored.

In the top of the third, with Oviedo trailing 2-1, Huff started a five-run rally when he drew a walk and moved to second on a wild pitch. After Bellhorn walked, the two worked a double steal. Huff then tied the tying run on Calapa's single to left.

Calapa took second on a wild pitch that kept Belihorn at third. That didn't matter as Rufus Boykin followed with a two-run double (taking third on the throw to the plate) that gave the Lions the lead for good.

Ryan Alkire knocked in Boykin with a single that hit the DeLand pitcher in the chest.

Titusville-Astronaut tops Seminole for first in Lake Howell Invitational

From staff reports

WINTER PARK - For the second time in three weeks, the Titusville-Astronaut High School girls' track team invaded Seminole County Saturday and came away with a team championship at a local track meet.

On February 9, the War Eagles bested a 144cam field to win the Lake Howell Open. This past Saturday, Titusville-Astronaut finished first in the 13th annual Lake Howell Invitational at Richard L. Evans Field.

The War Eagles outscored Seminole 811/2-711/2 for the top spot. Lake Brantley was third with 70 team points. Lake Mary was seventh (52½) while host Lake Howell came in ninth (40) and Lyman finished 10th (361/s). According to Lake Howell coach and meet director Tom Hammontree, the meet was one of the most competitive in its 13-year history. 'The meet went really well," said Hammontree. "It was a real competitive meet. That's what it's all about.'

Track Shack, which sponsored the meet, also sponsored four individual awards. Lake Mary's Shannon Cook received the Outstanding Field Event award for finishing first in the discus and second in the shot put (34-4). It may have been cold outside, Baby, but warmth was the order of the evening at the Sanford Civic Center as about 275 hungry patrons bundled up and feasted off spaghetti and all the trimmings.

After dinner, many patrons flocked to the front of the civic center where family bingo was in progress. According to Ruth Gaines, chairman of the club's Education Department that sponsored the bingo, profits from the bingo will go toward a scholarship for a mature woman to continue her education.

Audrey Roush, general chair-man and the club's first vice president, said that although the weather was bad, she was pleased with the turnout, and also the large number of carry-outs.

Jeri Kirk, chairman of the bake sale, and Ann Brisson were kept busy assisting customers with a variety of home-baked goodies provided by the clubwomen.

Club members rolled up their sleeves and donned redcheckered aprons as servers and buswomen. Mayor Bettye Smith chatted to patrons while she cheerfully cleaned tables. Sandie Moodie was in a good mood as she dished up the savory. steaming Italian spaghetti to the diners as they passed through the line.

Mature women who are continuing their education are encouraged to apply for the schol-arship. Applications will be available at a later date.

The tour was organized in Eugene, Ore, where George's daughter, Sue, and her husband, Dr. Bill Parhall, a surgeon, now live. The Parhalls and Greens met in London to take in the sights before departing on a nine-hour flight to Nairobi.

Ruth said they had "wonderful accommodations from the ridi-

They spent five days in Tanzania exploring the plains and exotic animals. Then it was back to Kenya where they rode in a hot air balloon before departing for London and then

Retirement fund for religious helps those who help others

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago, you published a letter from "A Nun in Need" who wanted people to know about the serious financial needs of her religious community. That problem touches more than 600 religious orders in the United States who must rely on the charity of others to help support their elderly members.

Thank you for publishing the nun's letter. Through you col-umn, many people learned about the plight of religious orders who, for so many years, worked without compensation or for very small salaries - never enough to save for their own old age. Thousands of people sent contributions to the Retirement Fund for Religious.

Those donors will be happy to know that 97 cents out of every dollar they sent to the national office in Washington went directly to the religious orders who need their help. But while the Retirement Fund for Religious has brought much needed help to the thousands who gave their lives to teach, heal and help others, much more is needed if their works of mercy are to live

Since your column is so widely read, this seems like a good way to thank our friends for their support and to encourage them to continue to remember those selfless people who still care for them through their prayers. Donations may be sent to me at the following address: Retirement Fund for Religious, 3211 Fourth St. N.E., Washington, D.C. 20017.

If you have a pain in the neck, you may be astonished to find the source of the pain ian't really in your neck at all, but further down in your spi-nal column.

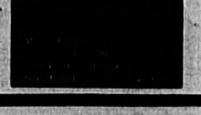

nal column.

That's one reason why the doctor of chiropractic will examine your entire spine to find where the problem may be. When your spinal column is moving, either in physical activity such as walking or even when you're breathing, there is a synergistic action at work. In other words, the upper part of your spine is interacting with the lower part. An injury to your lower spine may be as alight that you're really not aware of it. But it may be putting unusual pressure on the upper part of your spine. That may be the cause of the neck pain.

Your spinal column, from top to bottom, should be properly aligned and in good working order for you to feel well. Any weakness may cause stress, discomfort, and pain, until it is returned to good working or-der.

Hopefully, that pain in the neck can be relieved. It's certainly worth looking into.

In Lake Mary, Mayor Randy Morris talks about the future of his city as progress that has been in the planning stages for many years. "The city with only small neighborhood parks is now history," he said. "We'll be opening Liberty Park on Country Club Road, sometime around Labor Day. That's our first passive park with jogging trails and picnic areas."

"The next step," he added, "ts to have our new large active park to the northwest of Liberty Park, which will be coming in the near future." Morris said that one will feature a large variety of sporting areas such as ball fields. "It's the result of a citizen survey we had last year that drew such a high response rate, and we're happy it's underway." he said.

As far as the city's growth, Morris sald he had great anticipation over the first gateway road. Lake Mary Boulevard. He said, "That, along with the new I-4 Interchange currently under construction, will provide a magnificent western corridor expansion for businesses that will help improve the tax base for the entire city."

Lake Mary will get lis first youth recreation program into full action this year to serve the needs of its citizens, and just this month the City Commission created its first Business Advisory Board which Morris said will be of great help and benefit to present as well as future businesses in the area.

Youth recreation is also improving in the City of Longwood, with the opening of the 22 acre Candyland Park in recent months and the many sporting events and youth activities that are already underway there.

Longwood is not only a city listed in the National Historic other places such as Sanford and says it's unique in other ways. "We're geographically located so that people who live here and very little trouble in getting to swhich to live and work."

Construction of expressway to begin - at last

SANFORD - After being on the books since the mid 1960s, the Seminole County Expressway will begin to come to life in 1991

Work on a mile-long bridge over Lake Jesup begining in October will kick off the two-year construction of the $174 million four laned tollroad which will connect with the Orlando beltway at Aloma Avenue and extend it 12 miles to U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford near Airport Boulevard. The road is expected to be opened to the public by Sept. 1993.

About $25 million in major road projects will be begun this year by the county - an amount that could be eclipsed during the next few years by new roads and widening projects required by state population growth laws.

"We typically have done about one to 11/2 major road projects a year," says Jerry McCollum, the county's engineer. "Now we'll see the start of four. That's a 300, 350 percent increase in activity. That's not too bad."

The Florida Department of Transportation is expected to begin a four-lane bridge over I-4 at Center Street in Altamonte Springs by April. The $3.1 million project will take about a year to complete. Also, near Casselberry, State Road 436 will be widened to six lanes beginning in March between Lake Howell Road and Oxford Road. The $3.7 million project will take a year to complete.

Airport's importance increases

Improvements include new control tower

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Air traffic at the Central Florida Regional Airport has increased about 100 percent over the past three years, a dramatle increase that has brought many changes to the Sanford facility,

The airport recorded 241.888 operations, or takeoffs and landings, at the airport in 1990, said Steve Cooke, director of the airport. That number is up from 193,347 in 1989 and 132,352 in 1988, he said.

Construction of a new control tower, to be built about 150 feet from the existing tower, is scheduled to begin in August. Cooke said. The lower, estimated to cost about $500,000, should be in operation by November 1991, he said. The Federal Aviation Administration is paying for the new tower, he

The terminal, which has been undergoing renovation for several years, was brought into conformity with U.S. Customs regulations in 1990, Cooke said. The airport authority has agreed to install new restrooms at the terminal in accordance with Customs requests, he said.

Expansion expected at the Port of Sanford

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Dennis Dolgner's top priority for the Port of Sanford in 1991 is to secure financing for the expansion of the Rex-Meyer Yacht Inc.

'It will occupy a large part of my time at least through the first six months of the year," said Dolgner, director of the port. "I think we're closer though.

Last August, port officials celebrated the announcement that Rex-Meyer, manufactorer of the sleek Midnight Lace yachts would move its construction plant to the port from Dania, Fla. The announcement meant up to 500 new jobs would be created and as much as $133 million would be pumped into the local economy through company spending and employee salary spending.

A key factor in the company's growth was to finance buildings and equipment with tax-exempt industrial development bonds. About $3 milllon was sought this year to finance the first expansion of struction of a 68-foot hull. The number of the employees would increase from the 31 now working at the facility to

But the new year brought a big blow to those plans.

The bonds, which are allocated to local housing authorities and other industrial development agencies through a competitive lottery system, were all drawn by the Orange County Housing Finance Authority. The port and housing and industrial agencies in Volusia and Brevard Countles also lost out in the drawing.

Dolgner said financing from commercial banks are being considered as well as taxable bonds for "bridge loans," to begin construction of the new facility which could house some equipment already owned by the company. The port would then continue seeing the tax-exempt bonds to fully finance the expansion.

Future plans for the facility include another expansion which would enable Rex-Meyer to manufacture 100foot hulls.

LAKE MARY - In order to accommodate growth, a new elementary school to serve this community now is under construction.

Students, schools growing

SANFORD - More students, two new schools and additions to many existing structures are evidence that, despite some financial difficulties resulting from state cutbacks, the Seminole County school district is continuing to grow.

It is a system that administrators maintain is growing rapidly but still keeping up with its tradition of educational excellence

The greatest amount of growth has occured in the elementary schools. Every elementary school in the district is operating at or over capacity. Some kindergarten students are attending schools on double seastons.

About 600 fewer students are enrolled in Seminole County schools this year than officials predicted. Administrators attribute that drop to parents removing youngsters from kindergarten and placing them in less crowded private schools. District officials predict that the students will be re-enrolled in district schools in the first grade. Two new elementary schools, Heathrow Ele-mentary in Lake Mary and Partin Elemetnary in Oviedo, are currently being constructed to help reduce over crowded conditions. However, district officials fear that because of continued growth both those schools will begin operations at an overcrowded level in November.

The district is growing at such a rate that state officials have said that two new schools would have to be built in Seminole County each year to accomodate the 1.500 students added to the rolls. According to a report submitted by the department of business and finance to the state. about 16,000 elementary school students will enroll in Seminole district schools over the next decade.

"We simply can not afford that expansion right now," said Andy Vavrek, vice president of finance and administration at SCC.

The school's full-time enrollment figures have increased about five percent over last year. Vavrek attributed that growth to two factors.

"Students often go away to school in the fall and don't do well or get homesick and they come back and enroll in SCC because it's close to home," Vavrek explained. "And, in many cases, they just can't afford the rising cost of tuition at

'Dropout' rate controlled

By VICKI Dosonmie Herald staff writer

SANFORD — While the school drop out rate in some places is in danger of spiraling out of control, in Seminole County, there has been a steady decline.

In the latest available statistics from the state Department of Education, for the 1989-90 school year, the number of students at Seminole County high schools who fail to receive their diplomas has decreased.

"There is still some controversy over the way the federal Department of Education counts drop outs, so we prefer to use the state's figures," said Jim Dawson, the district's drop out prevention coordinator.

The national figures count students who move out of state before completing high school and those who withdraw to attend private school as drop outs. According to Dawson, even students who die are included in those figures because they do not finish high school.

"The state figures are more accurate, we think," Dawson said.

According to those statistics, the drop out rate at Lake Mary percent of the High School, 655 Longwood-tion, did not Lake Mary Rd. in Lake Mary, course work.

decreased a full two percent between 1988-89 and 1989-90, Fifty eight students, or 2.45 percent of the school's population, did not complete their course work. "We've been targeting that problem," said principal Don Smith. "Though it was never a very high number at Lake Mary, we want to get it down as low as we can."

we can."

At Seminole High School, 2701 Ridgewood in Sanford, the numbers are much higher, but still showed a decrease over the year before. In 1989-90 209 students, or 11.04 percent, dropped out of school at Seminole, a decrease of .39 percent over the previous school year.

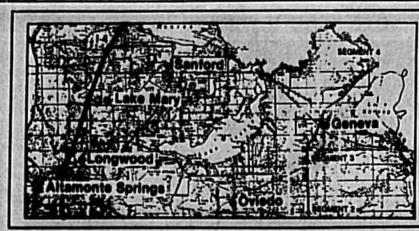

"The new COMPACT program should bring that number down even more this year." predicted assistant principal Carma Norman.

The COMPACT program is a drop out prevention program that offers programs in building self-esteem as well as in academic areas.

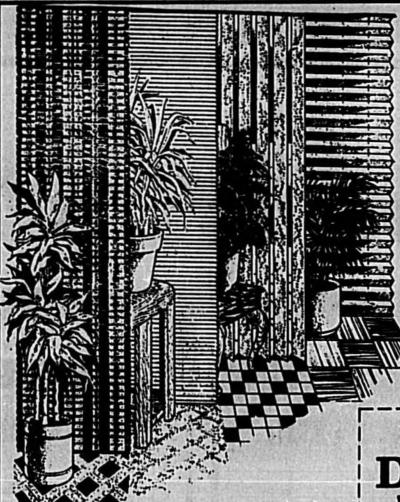

At other district schools, except Lake Brantley High School in Altamonte Springs where the numbers increased by about one percent, the number of drop outs went down an average of nearly two percent.

"We're pretty pleased with those figures," Dawson said. "But any drop outs are too many and we're working on helping prevent those."

Even with new jump, college costs low

Gov. Lawton Chiles' proposal to jump public university tuitions raised eyebrows, but some officials and at least one student body president say major protests are unlikely because Florida costs remain low by national standards.

The governor initially described the increases as 20 percent, but his aides have since said the figure would be closer to 12.5 percent for university students and 11.5 percent for community colleges.

"Personally, 12 percent sounds reasonable to me," said Jeff Stone, student body president at Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton. "It sounds about where everyone is coming from."

Tuition is soaring at most colleges across the country, having risen 156 percent during the 1980s against a 64 percent increase in the consumer price

University tuition for non-Florida residents would increase by 20 percent, from $4.702.20 to $5.658.20.

Florida university officials have long contended that students should pay one-fourth the cost of their education. They now pay about 19 percent. A regents spokesman said that the effect of the governor's proposal had not been calculated but that it still would be short of the 25 percent.

Recycling catching

By J. MARK BARFIELD \

SANFORD — Seminole County residents have taken to recycling in a big way.

In November 1990, Seminole County joined most other counties in the state by initiating a curbside recycling program for plastic bottles, newspapers, glass jars and aluminum cans. The state in 1988 required all the counties to reduce the amount of garbage they were burying in dumps by 30 percent by 1994.

In January, the third month of the county program, almost 1.5 million pounds — 739 tons — of garbage was separated for recycling by residents of the county and cities. Recycled garbage from unincorporated Seminole County residents generated $38,000 in revenues which will be used for the county's recycling education county's recycling education program.

The state urged counties to reach that goal through creating recycling programs that would reuse as much of the garbage as possible.

After nearly two years of studying and planning, a joint city-county task force recommended the current program. Residents of unincorporated Seminole County and participating cities place recyclable materials in clothes hamper-sized plastic bins by the curb when they are full. A special trucks comes by once a week to empty them.

The county adopted a $13.80 maximum monthly collection rate that can be charged by garbage haulers in their county-designated franchise areas. The rate would allow for $11.65 for garbage collection and $2.15 for recycling expenses. When most companies started charging that rate, there was an immediate public outers last immediate public outcry last October. Several companies have since lowered their fees.

Later this year, county officials will consider adopting a man-datory garbage collection plan for unincorporated residents to assure maximum recycling rates and to discourage littering and illegal dumping. The collection rate will be set and collected by the county annually.

County commissioners have issued stern warnings to staff members preparing the program. They will not approve a plan that does not have a rate significantly lower than a $13.80 monthly average.

Officials will also consider a plan to eliminate lawn clippings and other yard waste from the county dump near Geneva.

One idea officials are considering is to collect yard waste and

LAKE MARY - It's been over year since Lake Mary city Meials first insisted Florida Power Corporation bury power ines along Lake Mary Boulevard a part of extensive beautifica-tion efforts in conjunction with the widening of that road.

The battle should be over noon, according to City Manager John Litton. Lake Mary and Florida Power Corp. pleaded heir cases to the Supreme Court recently, and are awaiting the final decision.

"I believe burying the power lines is the foundation of the beautification project." Litton

FPC has steadfastly refused to incur the extra cost involved to bury power lines. Last March. the issue became so heated the power company threatened to sue the city. Seminole County backed Lake Mary and agreed to share legal costs in the city's fight.

"Elected officials in both Lake Mary and Seminole County want to insure the aesthetic appearance of the boulevard for the future," Litton said Last August, Circuit Court Chief Judge O.H. Eaton Jr. ordered FPC to bury power lines along the boulevard. FPC appealed, and the issue went before the Supreme Court in Talishassee Feb. 4. Litton said a decision could take 60 days to four months. Beautification efforts, including the widening of the congested road, have been stalled until the Issue is resolved.

Sanford, however, did not adopt the plan nor agreed to share in the beautification costs. Their section of the road won't be widened for several years, so they didn't need to commit themselves, commissioners reasoned. They did, however adopt some stricter landscaping and zoning regulations for the whole city that contribute towards Lake Mary Boulevard beautification.

Another key recommendation of the study committee was to bury the overhead utilities extending along the road so all those trees wouldn't be scarred by power, television and tele-

FPC officials didn't commit to a price. but said it could cost as much as $3 million for the distance. The price edged down eventually to $1.4 million.

When FPC threatened to sue the county and city to recover the burying costs, and a referendum to raise gasoline taxes to pay for road beautification failed, the county balked and adopted a proposal in 1989 to allow the lines to be strung along higher and wider-spaced "hybrid" poles, still a potential $250,000 additional cost.

The city and county have been negotiating to have the city take over maintenance of a portion of Country Club Road and to forgive a $40,000 debt for a boulevard drainage pond which the city has made into a showcase pond next to City Hall.

Law enforcement keeps pace with growth and crime rate

By VICKI Desormier Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The size of the job of Seminole County Sheriffs Office is growing by "leaps and bounds," according to George Procchel, the department's public information officer.

The sheriff patrols the unin-corporated areas of the county and maintains the jail while the cities maintain their own police departments.

Annually, the number of arrests has more than doubled

In 1986, there were 6,500 arrests. In 1990, there were 14,164.

As of Feb. 8 of this year, there

LAKE MARY - Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce has been promoting the city and its businesses since 1923. even though Lake Mary did not incorporate until 1973. Originally called Bent's Station after John Bent, who planted orange groves along a new railroad providing service between Sanford and Orlando in the late 1800s, Lake Mary was later named after a minister's wife, Mary Sundel. according to the chamber.

As the community began to grow over the next several decades, the chamber of commerce, which acts as a Hason between businesses and residents, played an important role. In the 1950s, it helped form a volunteer fire department.

According to the chamber. during the 1960s when the state was planning for Interstate 4 between Tampa and Daytona Beach there were no plans for a Lake Mary exit. It took the chamber four years to upgrade a sand road between U.S. 17-92 and the Interstate so that it could qualify as an exit.

The Lake Mary off-ramp exit was a prime factor in the subsequent growth of the area and the sand road is today called Lake Mary Bonlevard. the busiest east-west corridor through the city. The road is slated for widening this year and will be the focus of an extensive beautification project including heavy landscaping and state-of-the-art traffic signals.

During the 1960s and 1970s, Sanford and Longwood began to expand their boundaries and the Lake Mary chamber held meetings to incorporate the community. In August 1973, a referendum was passed by voters to form the city of Lake Mary.

The Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce currently receives between 20 and 30 relocation inquiries per month. Last month, 11 new businesses joined the chamber.

In addition to the social and service groups that tap the labor and expertise of people living in the area, private social service agencies and church organizations, including the Salvation Army and the Christian Sharing Center, fill an important need.

Reflections On a year of Progress At Heilig-Meyers

"Our commitment to the highest standards of quality and service have made us the recognized leader in the furniture industry."

Heilig-Meyers Furniture Company was founded in 1913 by two Lithuanian immigrants. H.M. Heilig and J.M. Meyers. Since that time we have grown to the largest publicly held furniture retailer in the nation. With over 325 stores in 13 states and over 78 years experience, we show that quality, service, and value are affordable.

in 1986 Heilig-Meyers purchased Sterchi Bros. Furniture and came into being in Sanford, Florida. We have made a commitment to the community of Sanford and the surrounding areas not only with our products and services but by acting as a good neighbor as well. In 1990 your local store team chose not to relocate but to renovate its present location from the ground up. In order to help beautify the community and make the store more attractive for local customers, a crew of professional renovators as well as an interior designer was brought in. The project was completed in June of 1990 and we officially reopened in July of 1990.

John Williams, manager of Heilig-Meyers, is a graduate of the University of North Carolina where he earned his B.A. in Economics and his B.A. in Industrial Relations. Mr. Williams was hired in February 1968 at the Williamston, N.C. location. He was promoted to credit manager in that same location. In July of 1989 Mr. Williams was placed as a salesman in the New Bern, N.C. store. Then promoted in October of 1989 to manager position of the Maitland, FL location. And from there was sent to manage their Sanford store on February 11, 1990. Since here he has restaffed, renovated and increased their local product selection. Heilig-Meyers has choosen John Williams' store as a training store for potential managers. John Williams says. "We attribute our year of success to all our loyal customers. To us you are everything!"

"Throughout the year of 1990 we have evaluated our customers' needs and deires and have developed a aff of 13 professionals we slieve will best fulfill your ezpectations. From Margaret Weedcocks 20 years of service to our most recent hire, our good service

Competitors said that Lake Monroe was good for setting records because the layout allowed the drivers to take wide turns and, in the process, keep their speed up.

The event was such a success. not only was it an all-but-forgone the three-day event holding conclusion that the APBA would return 1991, but the possibility Rowe set his world record in a of the APBA conducting races on Lake Monroe at other times of the year was discussed. ☐See Power, Page 29

Youth programs making strong local comeback

Herald sports writer

SANFORD - The past year saw a resurgance of the youth programs in the Sanford Recreation Department. And the coming year promises more

The baseball program, under the direction of Rocky Ellingsworth and Jim Adams, is well on its way to returning to its place as one of the best youth leagues in the state.

The Pee Wee League (for players 7.9) became a coaches pitch league with the score not being kept which seemed to please everyone involved. Every team had more than enough players and the stands were filled for all the games, held on Saturday mornings on the Ft. Mellon Softball Field.

At the post season awards banquet every player in the league recieved a small trophy for participating.

The reorganized Little Major League (for 10-12 year olds) saw each of the 10 teams have at least 15 players and the competition level was excellent in both divisions. The battles for the right to play in the City Championships were so close that the two contenders were not decided until the last week of the season.

The Little Major League sub-district tournament for the all-stars was held at Roy Holler Memorial Junior Field in Ft. Mellon with the Sanford All-Stars posting a 2-1 record, which was good enough for second place, behind Orlando

The Junior Major League (13-14 age group) also had a good season, with all of the teams being filled. The Junior Major all-star team also had a successful tournament. finishing third in the district tournament at Edgewater with a 3-2

So many children have become interested in playing baseball in Sanford that the Little Majors will go back to two six team divisions and will also have two all-star teams.

The department has also annnounced that, in an effort to get more of Sanford's youth invovived, they will drop the Junior Major League in favor of Babe Ruth Baseball. The change will allow 13-15 year olds to compete. It will also involve playing on a regulation baseball field 90 foot base paths instead of the 75 foot base paths and 54 foot pitching distances of the Juniors.

The basketball leagues also had an increase in the number of competitors and did well at the state tournaments.

This year the department will also concentrate on getting the younger female athletes in Sanford involved in the program. Their will be two softball leagues offered, the Junior League (for girls 10-12) and the Senior League (for girls 13-15), as well as a basketball league for girls.

Little League Baseball play opens with ceremonies in the spring.

SANFORD - The Sanford Recreation Department continues to grow and expand with the addition of three full-time employees and new programs for both the youth and adults of Sanford.

Adult athletic opportunities abound in area

By DEAN SMITH Herald sports writer

SANFORD - The athletic opportunites for adults in Sanford are many and varied.

The fastest growing and most popular sport is slowpitch softball. This past year saw a continued rise in the number of teams involved.

Three years ago there were three women's teams and five men's learns. Today the Sanford Recreation Department has 34 teams involved in six leagues with expansion a definite possibility. The department uses three different fields and offers leagues in the spring, summer, fall and Polar Bear (winter).

Also showing growth is the Sanford Church Softball League which has expanded to 16 teams, separated into an A and a B league, and runs spring and fall seasons.

Seminole High keeps winning

Over the past year, Seminole has added to its tradition, winning another state championship an several other conference. district and regional titles.

For starters, Robert Moore and Carlo White each won individual state championships in the triple jump and shot put, respectively, to lead the Seminole boys' track squad to the team championship at the Class 3A state meet.

Despite seeing its string of four consecutive state championships end this past season, the Semi-nole girls' track team still enjoyed an exceptionally successful season in 1990, winning conference, district and regional team titles.

Seminole Community College looks to future in athletics

From staff reports

SANFORD - The 1990 athletic season at Seminole Community College was not one of the steller ones in the 24-year history of the College. And while the coaches have high hopes for the 25th Anniversary year it is tempered with the knowledge that all of the teams are freshman dominated and it will probably be another year before the school really starts to shine again.

By most school's standards 1990 would have been a decent year but for a program as good as the Raiders' it was not.

The men's basketball team of coach Bill Payne won 19 games giving it 24 straight seasons without a losing record. But its streak of nine straight season of 20 wins or more ended.

County parks anticipating ambitious year of service

By J. MARK SARPHELD Horald staff writer

SANFORD - This will be a busy year for the Seminole County Parks and Recreation Division, says division manager Bob Chorvat.

"It's a busy year," said Chorvat, "It's a year to finish up things and to establish levels of service for the public."

"Levels of service" - LOS is the county buzzword which means the amount of facilities and services the county will provide for each resident. While a park LOS is not required by the state as is an LOS for roads, the county uses the levels to serve as soals.

serve as goals.

That goal is 3.6 acres of park land for each 1,000 residents and 1.8 acres of developed park land for each 1,000 residents. Those goals have been met by the county for the next five

Although 1991 will be the year the county beefs up what it has, it will be the year it begins construction of a five-diamond softball complex at the site of the Sanlando garbage transfer station. The complex will feature a central restroom facility and is avascied to coat between $4. expected to cost between $4 million and $4.5 million.

City parks also provide recrational outlets

Among the other county park projects, 12 of the tennis courts at Sanlando park near Alta-monte Springs will be resurfaced along with the two basketball courts. Eight racquetball courts at Sanlando and eight racquet-ball courts at Red Bug Lake Park will be fully enclosed to assure dry playing during rainy days and less time chasing balls! Also at Red Bug Park, about 500 feet of boardwalk will be added to the nature trail.

A 500- to 1,000-foot boardwalk will be built in Spring Hammock from the Environmental Study Center to Lake Jesup and the central parking area will be resurfaced.

Long, short, full, shaped...perfect. It's more than fashion. We can change the way you look and the way you feel about yourself.

The reaction of some people when they hear that the Sunniland Corporation has been serving the State of Florida for over 106 years is that "they must be doing something right".

It sounds almost accidental — when in fact, nothing could be further from the truth. "Doing something right" is actually one of the soundest business practices around, always has been, always will be.

"Doing something right" means taking the time to insure that the product you manufacture meets or exceeds the high standards of quality you have established.

"Doing something right" is delivering that shipment when promised and dealing with people in a professional and courteous manner.

"Doing something right" is reaching out to the community — not just for the major, well publicized fund raisers, but also to satisfy those smaller less well known needs and to do so without fanfare.

"Doing something right" is being concerned about the members of our community who have been called upon to serve their country. Our hopes and prayers go with them and all the other men and women around this great nation of ours who are serving in our military.

So when we hear "they must be doing something right" we say Thank You, glad you noticed.

Zoo benefits from tourist tax

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - While Seminole County's tourist director expects there may be a slight downturn in tourist tax receipts in 1991, he is preparing for the future.

."We're going to be more proactive this year." says Jack. Wert, county tourist development director. "We're going to do more that shows what the county has to

Despite an anticipated 8 percent annual drop in the revenues from the 2 percent "bed tax." Wert and other county tourism officials say they don't expect tourism grants will be reduced this year.

Wert says he is preparing a brochure detailing events in the county that can be distributed to residents and visitors alike. He is also preparing a presentation for convention bookers in the Orlando area that 'sella" Seminole County for side trips or an afternoon visit for spouses.

Wert says he will also seek to market the county as a place for small business gatherings and executive retreats.

The county began collecting the bed tax on short-term accomodations in 1989 to attract more people to the county to boost the economy. The tax can also provide a continued high standard of living for Seminole County residents through promo-tion of programs and activities residents can enjoy as well as tourists.

A quarter of the annual tax revenues are pegged for the Central Florida Zoological Park. Much of the remainder of the revenues are allocated each year to promote or stage such events as Sanford's Golden Age Games and Saint Lucia Festival. A portion of the revenues are set aside each year for some future large-scale project such as a convention center or sports facility.

During the first year the tax was collected. revenues exceeded the county's conservative predictions. The county took in $490,353, about $132,000 higher than expected. In 1988, the zoo's portion of the collections was $112,500.

In 1990, the revenues jumped to $695,325, still $167,000 greater than expected. The zoo netted $163,668 in 1990. Eight other projects were granted allocations totaling about $263,000.

1991, county tourist budget analyst Dick Hudson is adjusting his numbers downward, not up. Hudson says he original-ly budgeted $661,824 for the year. But based on tax receipts collected for October and November 1990, the first two months of the fiscal year, he is now expecting a 10 percent drop in monthly receipts.

The county recently received $25,540 in tourist tax revenues collected in October 1990, compared to $48,908 collected in October 1989. The county has received $41,800 collected in November, 1990. compared to $47,092 collected in November

Although Hudson suspects the state may have made errors in their allocations, he believes actual revenues will drop when audits are completed. Hudson now estimates the county will collect $605,883. from the tax, about 8 percent less than his: annual estimate and nearly 13 percent less; than last year.

Hudson said unless revenues drop even deeper, no grant programs will be affected.

Tracing the cause of the drop is difficult.
According to the East Central Florida
Regional Planning Council, there were two fewer hotels or motels in Seminole County in 1990 than there were the year before. But the number of hotel-motel rooms increased during the same time from 3,003 rooms to 3.038 rooms as several smaller establishments were replaced by larger facilities.

Planning council figures suggest the occupancy rate dropped between 1989 and 1990 from 88.6 percent in July 1989 compared to 80.5 percent in July 1990. But year-to-date rates ending in those two months remained about the same. More recent occupany rates have not been

Seminole County has four hospitals offering a variety of health care services. They

• Central Florida Regional Hospital, located on U.S. Highway 17-92, facing Lake Monroe, in Sanford.

New construction, which will begin in June, of a two story structure, to be added on the east side of CFRH, will allow expansion of ambulatory surgery and of the labor and delivery area of the obstetrics unit. The labor and delivery area will include 9 private labor/deliver, recovery rooms, and an updated and expanded nursery.

The addition will also enable CFRH to enlarge its records unit and provide additional office spaces.

The hospital completed rennovations of both the lobby and third floor patients rooms, which inleuded painting, walipaper and carpeting. This year the renovations will move to the second floor patients rooms and nurses stations.

This past year, CFRH applied for approval on an open heart surgery facility, which was denied by the State of Florida Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. The hospital has appealed the denial and is awaiting a decision from the district court system.

The hospital was opened in 1982 and has a medical staff of 125, representing all the major specialties and a professional nursing staff of 300.

Employment

Jobs created despite economy

Herald Staff Writer

The expected, continuing population growth may be the key to optimism regarding the employment outlook for Seminole County, according to business leaders.

For many people, the northern area of Seminole County may have a better employment opportunity future than that portion closer to metropolitan Or-

Sanford City Commissioner Bob Thomas, during a recent meeting, suggested that it would be advantageous if someone would tape a video program showing the benefits of locating and living in this area. He said the cassette could then be used to show various businesses what Sanford and the Seminole County area has to offer them in the way of property, living conditions, employment availability. transportation corridors and weather, should they consider tively poor number of jobs available in this area and I think it's about time we tried to do something about it."

Chamber of Commerce officials have mixed opinions about the future of employment opportunities in the area. While the Greater Sanford Chamber's Executive Director David Farr says it looks good, the President of the Longwood and Winter Springs Chamber, Alex Gourlay called the job picture, "poor to fair at best.

For the Sanford area, Farr said. "This past year has been a good one. We had about 150 new Jobs with the opening of the Aronow boat manufacturing company, another 100 with Rex-

-Meyer Yachts, and possibly 70 from the Lewis Bear Corporation, and that's just some of it."

"Certainly we've had some employment drops in certain areas," he said, "but even with that, we're doing good." He added that whenever the economy rebounds, it appears as though this area will have little problems in attracting industry. 'We've done it in an off year, he added, "and we can certainly do it when things improve."

Alex Gourlay however, said. "The key to whether we will be seeing an improvement in the job picture depends on the outcome of the war in Iraq." In addition to serving as head of the Longwood Winter Springs

Chamber of Commerce, Gourlay works in a bank where he deals: with a number of business people. "I am constantly seeing people, especially those in small business, saying that their business is way off," he said, "and they say it's because of the war."

Lake Mary's Chamber office manager Diane Parker had an opposite viewpoint. "We really have a good future ahead of us: she said. "Recently we had ribbon cutting ceremonies for six new businesses, all on the same day. That's a good sign of this city's growth," she addid, "and of course with it there are always some new job opportunities."
Sheryl Maughan, Office Manager of the Sanford and Casselberry branches of the Job Service of Florida said that although there has been a slight increase in job placement since the beginning of January, job orders are still down. "In statistics we've just completed," she said. "our job orders were down by 423 for the July, 1990 through January, 1991 time period, compared to the same months last year. The applicant flow. however, is running about 800

In particular, Sanford saw an increase in multi-family housing construction last year, with more than 500 new units built.

In 1990 the city continued to vork on a multi-million dollar improvement of the city's wastewater treatment plant. During the 1980s, the city was met with a federal mandate to end dumping of wastewater into Lake Monroe.

One of the ways the city is meeting that mandate is through reclamation system, one which recycles wastewater into a nutrient-rich water uscable for irrigation.

After hiring Bill Marcous to coordinate the new program early in the year, the city neared completion of installation of on the lakefront to city parks and to Lake Mary. The city may later offer the irrigation service to some residential areas.

One of the challenges the city had to face in 1990 was establishing its recycling program. Under state mandate, all cities and counties must reduce wastes dumped in landfills by 30 percent through recycling. Building industry optimistic

New construction of both resiat a slow period at the present time, but some officials expect Spring arrives.

ficial David Beitz says records maintained for the past seven years on the entire county show future." a new building trend that has been practically identical for the past seven years. "It slows down from about October to December each year, starts to pick up slowly in January, goes up during the period of March through May, slows down, then picks up in the early fall." Beltz said it has been not only happening in this county, but in other sections of the state and Beitz said he didn't look for any great increases this year but felt certain that there would be at least a small increase. "The interest rates play a tremendous part in this," he said, "and we also have problems with the increasingly high land costs and high development costs these days.'

Sanford's Building Official, Gary Winn agreed that new home starts are slow these days. but he said that his department is actually busier these days than it has been in years. "It's not the private homes," he said. "it's the heavy increase in multi-unit apartment complexes. We have three being worked on right now, one with 240 units, one with 154 and another with over 140 housing units."

Winn did expect a marked improvement in building when the new mall in the western part of the city gets going, but he said he will have to wait and see whether the expressway com-pletion will be of any benefit to new business or housing construction. For the rest of the city however, he predicted an upcoming increase in light industrial construction, but said that major industrial and single family home construction would probably stay low at least for the time being.

An almost identical outlook came for the City of Lake Mary. Building Department Official Stanley Welling said, "New construction is usually low whenever we have this kind of lower economy." But he was very pleased with the amount of dential units and businesses in new progress underway at the Seminole County and its cities is present time. "We have Meadowbrook starting within 45 to 60 days, with completion by this this to increase by the time fall. Sun Oaks is just finishing. and Stratford Court is moving Seminole County Building Of- along well, so I think this area will be improving in its construction in the very near

> Since the first of January however, only one residential building permit has been taken out in Lake Mary, for a value of $125,000, with no commercial permits applied for. "We've had 17 housing permits since October however." Welling said, "at a value of over 2 million dollars, so it's not as bad as it may seem in this first part of 1991."

> Buford Helms, the head of the Building Department in Longwood says there has only been one building permit for a private home taken out in his city during the past three months. "I definately see a change coming in that however, "he said. "We have had a large number of people coming into the City Hall to take out application forms and information on building sites

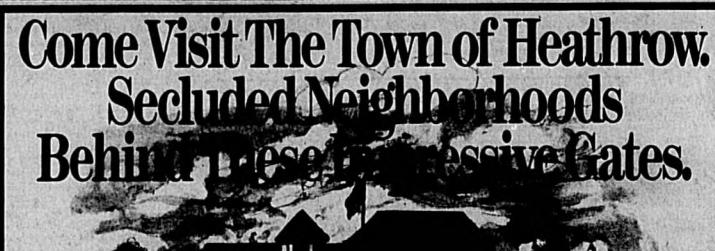

> Helms said the building that is going on in Longwood these days is largely in the area of warehouse construction. "There are three large, warehouses going up now," he said, "with some combination office-warehouse space and large office complexes coming up soon."

Longwood's Helms and Lake Mary's Welling both reported that, probably because of the high cost of new homes, there is a very large number of work going on these days toward improvements in existing resi-dences. These include adding new rooms, constructing swimming pools, and in some cases redesigning the entire "We had a total of 87 permits in Longwood, most of them for this kind of work, in January alone." Helms reported. "more than last year at this

All of the building officials agreed that the present economy problem is one of the major reasons behind the decline in individual home construction.

The home building industry continues to provide a range of home prices to appeal to low income as well as higher income buyers.
