Fired county official wants job back

By VIKKI BOGEMAN
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Joyre Suber, former property acquisition coordinator for Seminole County, has taken the first strike back at the county following her dismissal last month.

Suber's attorney Mark Blechman filed an appeal last week on her behalf with the county's acting human resource director, Carol Ann Dove.

The appeal was written in preparation for a hearing next month in which 16 witnesses will be called to testify in her defense.

It is Suber's hope that her termination will be rescinded and she will be permitted to return to the job she held for nine and a half years.

According to a county investigation into alleged improprieties in the property acquisition office, Suber allegedly worked on her son's unsuccessful campaign for the office of Gulf County property appraiser while on the clock for the county. She also allegedly accepted gifts from companies with whom the county does business.

Blechman said he is prepared to prove that those allegations are false. Because of that, he noted, she is requesting her job back.

"Her request is premised upon the unreliable and scant information to support the two major offenses as well as the diminutive nature of the

Junkanoo cancelled

The Sanford/Orlando-Bahamas American Junkanoo and Goombay Cultural Festival Inc. has cancelled its festival scheduled to be held Dec. 6-8 in downtown Sanford.

Bill Sands, president of the cultural event, would like to express the festival's appreciation to Jack Wert of Seminole County Tourism Development, Bob Roth, President of SailFest and to the City of Sanford for their effort in trying to secure funding to bring the event to Sanford.

President Sands and the festival coordinators are looking forward to getting a grant to implement this event that can be a successful cultural festival.

Winterfest parade

SANFORD — The Winterfest Holiday Parade will take place on Saturday, Dec. 7 from 10 a.m. until noon.

The route will be along First Street. On Friday night at 7:45 p.m. the city's Christmas tree and the downtown area will be lit up for the holidays.

For more information about the parade, the lighting up of the tree or other Winterfest activities, call Sanford Main Street at 322-5600.

Cougar dies

SANFORD — A Western cougar died last week at the Central Florida Zoo two weeks after undergoing surgery to replace her knee.

Tabitha, a 17-year-old resident of the zoo, had undergone surgery last month to replace her damaged joint with an artificial one at the University of Florida. It was the first time such surgery had been done on a non-domestic cat.

Zoo officials said the cougar's death was not related to the implant. Cougars generally live between 17 and 21 years in captivity.

The knee replacement was done to help improve the quality of life for Tabitha who suffered from chronic arthritis. The groundbreaking procedure will be used on other wild cats.

The surgery is expected to help researchers learn more about extending the lives of endangered cats in breeding programs.

Attempted murder

The Seminole County Sheriff's Department is investigating an attempted murder that occurred shortly before 3 a.m. this morning in the Oakland Hills sub-division near Altamonte Springs.

Donnell Rodgers, 35, McNorton Road in Altamonte Springs, told deputy sheriffs that he was shot in the leg by two other men after they had given him a ride home from Orange County.

Rodgers gave no motive for the shooting. He was taken to Florida Hospital in Altamonte Springs and the wound was determined to be non-life threatening.

The alleged suspect is described as a black male, 21 years old with brown eyes and short, black hair driving a yellow pickup truck.

Victims notified

The Sheriff's Office Career Criminal Unit has completed notification of all the victims of convicted felons released from the Florida Prison System last week.

Eleven of the convicted felons were from Seminole County and a total of 13 victims or victims' relatives were notified of their releases.

Candidates for mayor and city commission in Sanford were out at the polling places in town to make sure voters could get one last look at them before casting their final votes. At the Sanford Civic Center, where two precincts cast their votes, mayoral candidate Vernon Spears stopped to talk with city commission hopefuls Alfred DeLattibeaudiere and Brady Lessard and fellow mayoral wannabe Larry Blair. The polls will remain open until 7 tonight.

Computer delays Mars probe launch

By MARGIA BUNN
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — A last-minute computer problem delayed NASA's launch early Tuesday of a Mars spacecraft carrying the first-ever interplanetary rover.

The weather was near-perfect for the early-morning flight of Mars Pathfinder, but a computer on the ground failed with just a little over a minute remaining in the countdown. A backup computer also would not work, leading officials to suspect a software problem.

It was the second day in a row that the launch was scrubbed. On Monday, rain, clouds and strong winds kept the rocket grounded.

The launch was rescheduled tentatively for early Wednesday, pending quick resolution of the problem.

Pathfinder will be the second U.S. spacecraft to be sent to Mars this year.

NASA's Global Surveyor was launched in early November and is already on its way to the Red Planet. A Mars spacecraft launched one week later by the Russians plummeted from orbit.

Pathfinder should beat the slower Global Surveyor to Mars by two months, landing on July 4, 1997 — regardless of when it's launched. Several hours after Pathfinder parachutes down, the petals on the spacecraft will unfold, a six-wheeled, 23-pound rover will come out to roam the Martian surface, examining rocks and beaming back data.

Saving, but not enough, for retirement

By JOHN D. McCLAIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Although a growing number of Americans are saving more for retirement, many still are not setting aside enough to meet the income they expect after they quit work, a survey says.

"Today, 71 percent says that they are not setting aside enough for retirement compared to 60 percent in 1992," said Ken Feltman, executive director of the Employers Council on Flexible Compensation.

"The sad reality is that they're correct, and for many, time is quickly running out."

The fifth annual Workplace Pulse Survey, released today, found that average annual retirement savings rose to $2,388 during 1996, 11 percent more than in 1995 and 34 percent more than in 1994.

Still, the retirement savings of workers in every age group will fall far below their average annual retirement income expectations, according to the poll.

The survey of 1,000 full-time workers was conducted in early November by Marketing Research Institute for the Employers Council on Flexible Compensation and Colonial Life & Accident Insurance Co.

The poll found income expectations rose nearly 8 percent over last year, from $24,372 to $26,256 a year.

Workplace Pulse estimated workers who are 60 and plan to retire at 65 would need $353,324 in total savings, including Social Security, to receive the $26,256 income. A worker who is now 30 would need $1,145,972 at age 65 to meet expectations.

The report said 30-year-old workers would need to save $662 more each month than the average $1,761 a year they now put away in order to achieve an annual retirement income of $26,256 in 1996 dollars.

At the same time, a 60-year-old worker with $140,000 already saved would need to put away an additional $2,325 a month to retire

Ga. sheriff collapses in court

GAINESVILLE — A former Georgia sheriff collapsed during his sentencing in federal court on a marijuana conspiracy charge.

Former Echols County Sheriff Charles E. Carter slumped to the floor Monday and was taken by ambulance to Alachua General Hospital-Shands, where he was treated without being admitted.

A court official said the sentencing will be rescheduled, but no date was immediately set.

Carter and James David Stalvey, a former Echols County resident, were tried for conspiracy to distribute marijuana between January 1989 and October 1994. Prosecutors claim the men planned to deal tons of marijuana in south Georgia and north Florida. They were convicted Sept. 10.

In March 1995, a federal jury in Tallahassee found Carter guilty of perjury himself, while still sheriff, in an earlier drug-conspiracy trial of an Echols County man. Carter was sentenced to five years and fined $15,000.

Teens accused in threat

CALVERT CITY, Ky. — Two Florida teens are accused of threatening to blow up a western Kentucky motel if their demands for money and a car weren't met.

Marshall County Sheriff Brian Roy said Steve Hubbard, 18, of Cape Coral, Fla., first called his office about 11:15 p.m. CST Saturday and demanded $500 and a car be brought to the Kentucky Dam Motel in Calvert City, where Hubbard was staying.

If he didn't get it, the caller said, he would detonate a bomb and start shooting. As if to prove his point, the caller fired a few rounds, which the dispatcher heard over the phone.

Roy said Hubbard said he was tired, broke and wanted to get out of Kentucky.

The gunman fired six shots from a .22-caliber rifle out the window of his room while talking to police at the scene. One bullet lodged in the motel office's window frame; no one was in the office at the time.

After 3 1/2 hours, police persuaded Hubbard and a 16-year-old girl to come out. Roy said the girl was a runaway and also from Cape Coral.

Police did not find a bomb. Both teens were charged with six counts of first-degree wanton endangerment, plus terroristic threatening and criminal mischief.

Trump wants a Hard Rock Cafe

ATLANTIC CITY — Donald J. Trump says he has broken off talks aimed at converting his Trump's Castle Casino Resort into a Hard Rock casino hotel.

The search for a new theme for his least-profitable casino goes on after he scuttled the deal with Orlando, Fla.-based Hard Rock.

"A decision is expected shortly with the re-theming to be concluded by the 1997 summer casino season," Trump Hotels & Casino Resorts Inc. said in a prepared statement Monday.

Trump has been searching for a way to boost the casino's flagging fortunes. In June, he told a gambling industry conference he would spend $75 million to build and dock a 430-foot yacht with 30,000 square feet of casino space.

The idea apparently did not float, however. In October, he said he was in talks with the Rank Organization, the London-based parent of Hard Rock Cafe, to re-theme the 100-room marina casino property.

At the time, Trump said he was seeking $20 million in the deal.

Last month, he scheduled a news conference in New York to announce the deal. But the event was called off the night before, allegedly because of logistical problems, even though Trump and Rank were close by in Atlantic City to open a Hard Rock Cafe at Trump Taj Mahal.

On Friday, London's Financial Times newspaper reported that Rank had decided not to make the deal.

Grill cook faces three deaths

NAPLES — A former grill cook faces three death sentences for slashing the throats of three Cracker Barrel restaurant workers during an armed robbery last year.

Circuit Judge William Blackwell on Monday sentenced Brandy B. Jennings, 27, to three death penalties. The penalty was recommended by jurors who last month found Jennings guilty of three counts of first-degree murder.

Jennings also received a 15-year prison term for an armed robbery conviction. He has 30 days to appeal the sentence.

He told police that he helped rob the restaurant near I-75 in Naples last November, but said another former employee killed the workers, whose bodies were stuffed in a walk-in freezer.

Charles Jason Graves, 19, was convicted of murder and sentenced to life in prison earlier this year.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Slaying suspect waives extradition

By GUY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

BATON ROUGE, La. — The judge's news conference was as bizarre as her case.

Five teen-agers, said by police to be part of a bloodsucking vampire cult, are wanted in Florida for killing the parents of one of them.

Florida has made no official extradition request for the four who were arrested in Baton Rouge on Thanksgiving. Judge Pamela Johnson told reporters. However, a copy of the official Florida affidavit of probable cause for extradition sat on a table nearby.

That affidavit was used in state District Court earlier in the day when the only adult among the five, 19-year-old Dana Cooper of Murray, Ky., agreed to waive extradition and be returned to Lake County, Fla., to face the charges.

"I have not seen any probable cause affidavit," said Judge Johnson. "There is no paper work at all."

Officers of the Lake County Sheriff's Department told reporters at the juvenile court facility earlier that they had filed their paper work.

In Louisiana juvenile court, most proceedings are secret and the judge was not required to say anything. However, Johnson met with reporters to say she plans a detention hearing Wednesday for the four juveniles on local charges she "understands" will be filed.

Baton Rouge police said earlier that the youths might have been involved in a local burglary. No charges were in the criminal court computer at the office closing time.

Judge Johnson said two or three of the juveniles wanted their parents on hand and that was one reason she delayed the hearing until Wednesday.

Although she said she had no information on the Florida case, she noted that the parents of one of the juveniles were "deceased."

Sources close to the case said Judge Johnson was not satisfied with the affidavit and that she wanted some word from the juveniles' parents.

The five youths were arrested at a Baton Rouge motel on warrants charging them in the Nov. 25 beating deaths of Richard and Naoma Wendorf in Eustis, Fla.

At the same time as the court hearings, private funeral services for the Wendorfs were being held in Winter Park, Fla.

A group of about 200 family members and close friends attended. Pastor Peter Nordstrom asked the mourners to extend their love to Heather, the couple's 15-year-old daughter. She was among those arrested.

"It would be wrong not to think of Heather now," he said. "... With all the speculation and rumors, we know one thing for sure: God loves her, nothing will change that, and Heather needs that more than anything right now, and the only way she can feel that love is through us."

The couple's older daughter, Jennifer Wendorf, was stoic throughout the memorial and brief gravesite service, her boyfriend at her side holding her by the waist.

In addition to Heather, these arrested on Thanksgiving night in Baton Rouge were Rod Ferrell, 16, and Dana Cooper, 19, of Murray, Ky., and Scott Anderson, 16, of Mayfield, Ky., all accused of murder.

Charity Keesee, 18, of Murray was charged with being an accessory to murder.

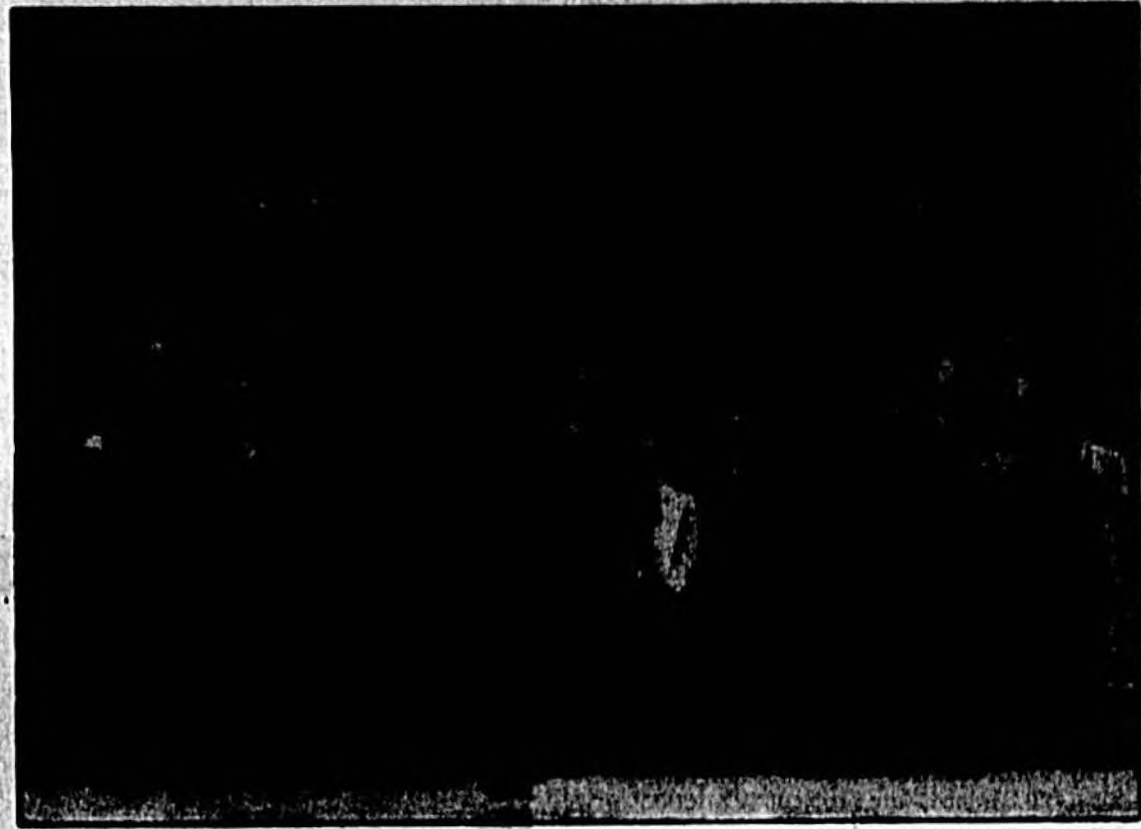

The teen-agers have been described as members of a cult in which members mutilated animals for their blood and body parts, and adults lured teen-agers with promises of sex.

Cops probe frat drugging

By The Associated Press

CORAL GABLES — Police are pursuing a broad investigation of the Sigma Chi fraternity at the University of Miami to determine whether two freshmen who say they were sexually assaulted had been drugged.

But Brad Stark, an attorney for Sigma Chi, said one girl's claim she drank punch spiked with Rohypnol, or "roofies," doesn't ring true. Two fraternity brothers were formally charged Monday with sexual battery.

"You had a hundred or so people there, everyone's drinking the punch," Stark said Monday. "How is it that every one wasn't falling over and passing out? It just doesn't make sense."

Rohypnol is a prescription sleeping aid illegal in the United States but increasingly common here. Taken with alcohol, the drug can cause blackouts. It is also referred to as the "date rape drug," because cases have arisen in which men used roofies to render their victims defenseless.

"We have suspended all social activities at Sigma Chi," said university spokeswoman Conchita Ruiz-Topinka. "We have to allow the police to conduct the investigation. Our investigation starts when the police are finished."

Sophomore fraternity brothers Lucas Fols, 19, of Raceland, La., and Michael A. Schoepner, 20, of Riverview, were freed on bond and remain enrolled in the school. They are accused of having sex with the two women, who were "physically helpless to resist," either because they were drunk or under the influence of Rohypnol.

"This is not a case of a hard-core criminal or a bad person," Scott B. Saul, lawyer for Schoepner, said Monday.

PSC rejects ban on all software for free calls

By GUY SMITH
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Computer software that lets users make "free" long-distance phone calls over the internet will remain unregulated, at least for now.

On Monday, state regulators turned down a request by a group of small and mid-size telephone companies to ban the software.

The state Public Service Commission rejected a petition complaining that the software lets internet access providers compete unfairly with phone companies.

Instead, the PSC agreed to study the issue and decide whether there is a problem, spokeswoman Melinda Price said. "There was a recommendation from staff to hold workshops," she said.

"I think it's a failure of the process," said Charles Helein, general counsel for America's Carriers Telecommunication Association. "They seem to be either, I don't know, enamored, or frightened or whatever of anything having to do with the Internet."

Helein's group objects to software packages that allow computer users hundreds or thousands of miles away to hold conversations with each other over the internet. The software — often available free — requires only a computer and a microphone or speakerphone, and that both parties log on to the internet simultaneously.

Using existing technology, the sound quality is not particularly good, and the conversation can be awkward because of occasional delays. But experts believe the software will improve in coming years, and that's what worries company officials.

POLICE BRIEFS

Retail theft

Francis Joseph Mascaro II, 25, 107 Sunker Lane, Sanford, was charged with retail theft by Sanford Police on Friday. Police said he allegedly took a key locking heap, valued at $5.97 from the Walmart in Sanford and left the store without paying for it. He was taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility and held on $100 bond.

DUI checkpoint arrests

John Mauricio Pena, 28, 110 Waterock Dr., Sanford.
James D. Scholl, 31, 757 Creekwater Terr., Lake Mary.
Christine Marie Dove, 25, 118 Shealey Rd., Lake Mary.
All were stopped at a DUI checkpoint at Lake Mary Boulevard and Crystal Avenue in Lake Mary. They were taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Driver license violations

Jason Berry, 18, 900 Airport Blvd., Sanford, was arrested for having no driver license.
Javier Delgado Mejia, 37, 511 Steel Forest, Sanford, was arrested for having a suspended license.
James Thomas Neve, 27, 111 Kolly Cr., Sanford, was arrested for driving with a suspended license.
Austin Michael Macha, 30, 308 Woodfield Dr., Sanford, was arrested for driving on a suspended driver license.
All were arrested at a driver license/safety checkpoint at Lake Mary Boulevard and Wilson Drive. All were taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Guest robbed at gunpoint

A man carrying a 9mm gun allegedly pointed it at a guest at the Fountain Lodge on 5708 Orlando Rd. Sunday and demanded money. Over $500 in cash was taken. There were no injuries and no suspects.

Window shattered

An unknown suspect shattered the drive-through window at Church's Chicken at 2561 French Ave. Nothing was reported missing but a safe was damaged.

Home burglarized

Burglars broke into a home in the 200 block of Krider Road in Sanford. Approximately $1,300 was stolen but there are no suspects. The victim believes the suspects entered through the roof.

Stolen items recovered

A television and a microwave was reported stolen from a home in the 500 block of Celery Ave. in Sanford. Both items were recovered and smashed second-floor windows were found.

Stereo stolen

A stereo estimated at over $3,000 was removed from a 1992 Chevy parked in the 3800 block of South Orlando Ave. in Sanford. There was no forced entry reported.

Robbery reported

A robbery was reported at the intersection of 20th St. and Mellonville Ave. in Sanford. The victim was approached by two people on bicycles who were carrying handguns. The suspects allegedly told the victims to give up their wallets or else they would be shot.

Television taken

A television and $200 was stolen from a residence in the 300 block of W. 9th St. in Sanford.

Carjacking

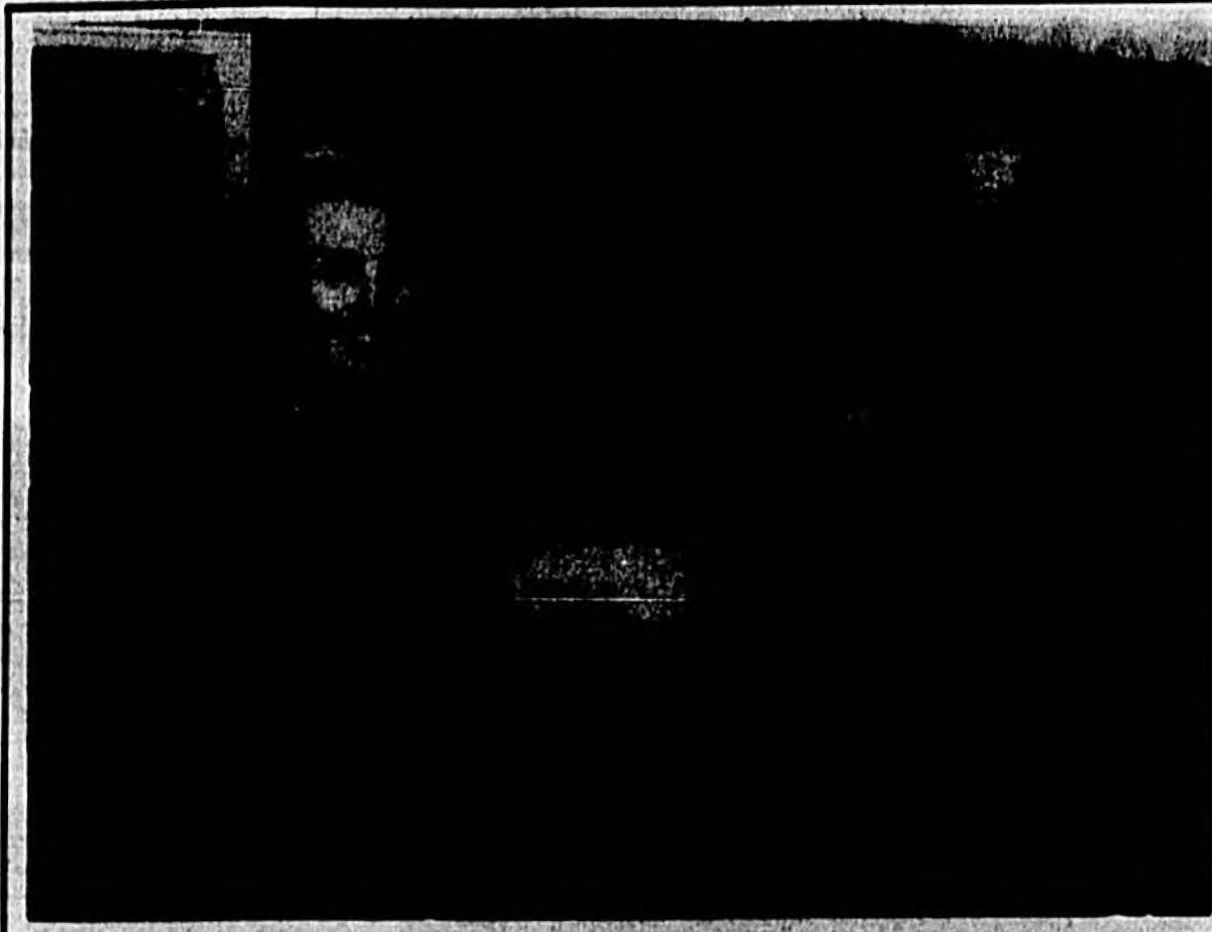

A carjacking occurred at the 2500 block of Georgia Ave. in Sanford. The victim, driving a 1985 Chevy, was approached by a man armed with a handgun and ordered out of his vehicle. The victim was also forced to surrender a wallet. The vehicle was later recovered on 12th St. in Sanford.

Stolen vehicle

A 1992 Isuzu Rodeo was reported stolen from the residence at the 100 block of Anderson Ave. in Sanford.

Aggravated battery charged

Melissa Holden, 26, of Sanford, was arrested on charges of aggravated battery. She was at the Walmart at 3653 Orlando Dr. when the police report states she allegedly removed some watches without paying. She attempted to flee security guards and, while running, ran over an elderly victim, causing serious damage to her back. Police apprehended her in the parking lot and she was arrested.

Ringling up a gift

Larry Stricker, regional corporate manager for Bell South Communications, recently presented Seminole Community College President E. Ann McGee with a $3,500 for the college's scholarship foundation. By making their contribution through the Foundation, the state of Florida will provide a 40 percent match for the gift, bringing the total contribution to $6,250.

Scientists find ice on the moon

By LAMRA HOSKIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The dream that humans someday may live on the moon has taken a giant leap forward now that scientists say they've found frozen water deep inside a lunar crater.

The Pentagon said Monday that the unmanned Clementine spacecraft located a small lake-sized mass of ice in a giant crater near the south pole of the moon, which long had been thought to be bone dry.

The discovery of water on the moon — perhaps deposited there by a comet — increases chances that humans in the future may be able to take up residence on the lunar surface.

"If you could wish for any one thing there to make it easier to explore with, it would be water," said Anthony Cook, astronomical observer at the Griffith Observatory in Los Angeles.

Ice on the moon saves the enormous expense of having to haul heavy loads of water in spacecraft, Cook explained.

"What would there you could have enclosed areas to grow plants, grow your own food, make your own fuel, make your own air," he said. "You don't have to launch all that stuff from big rockets on the Earth."

Not only have scientists concluded there is ice on the moon, they have agreed that the ice is frozen water, not some other frozen liquid or gas, said Rick Lehner, spokesman for the Pentagon's Ballistic Missile Defense Organization.

The Pentagon called a news conference for today to detail the discovery by Clementine, which used radar signals to examine the depths of the moon's deep craters.

The radar detected an "ice formation the size of a small lake" that is tens of feet deep, Lehner said.

The crater is twice the size of Puerto Rico and is 12 kilometers deep — far deeper than Mount Everest, Earth's tallest mountain, is high.

While the possibility of ice on the moon was suggested as early as 1961, it was not detected until radar probed into deep cold traps.

"People have theorized that there may be water on the moon but the (late) Apollo missions didn't find any evidence," Lehner said.

Designed to track missiles and test "Star Wars" sensors, the $75 million Clementine system provided an unanticipated opportunity.

Launched in January 1996 by the Pentagon and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, scientists had information on the ice formations a few months later. But it wasn't until recently that a consensus formed that the pond was actually frozen water, Lehner said.

The news was already spreading far and wide Monday. Orbiting the Columbia space shuttle, astronaut Thomas Jones was told of the discovery by Mission Control. "Sign me up for the prospecting trip," he joked.

Scientists believe that about 3.6 billion years ago, a comet crashed into the moon, and water droplets on its tail were left in the bottom of the crater, Lehner said.

Because the south side of the moon is always dark, the temperatures in this crater are nearly as cold as any environment can ever get, about minus 382 degrees Fahrenheit. The water couldn't escape from the crater's "cold traps," he said.

Lehner said the moon water could be used for drinking, turned into breathable oxygen or transformed into fuel, allowing humans to explore the moon, colonize it or use it as a launch pad to explore other planets.

"Obviously you're talking way, way in the future," he said.

Water is by no means the only impediment to living on the moon. It also would take significant spending, a national interest that ranked moon living above other projects and continued advances in technology, Cook said.

Still, he added, "It certainly is a lot more attractive if it has the most essential ingredient of life already there."

Ford Foundation recognizes innovative New York cop program

By RONALD POWERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — The innovation in American Government awards show that bureaucracies can do some things right.

Ten federal, state and local projects — ranging from a New York City computer program that dispatches cops to high-crime areas to an affordable housing plan in Santa Fe, N.M. — were being honored today at a ceremony in Washington.

Each winning program receives a $100,000 award from the Ford Foundation and Harvard University's John F. Kennedy School of Government.

"These examples of effective government have produced extraordinary results for Americans," said Susan Berresford, president of the Ford Foundation. "They are helping to restore faith in government's ability to solve tough problems."

A committee that included academics, journalists and former government officials selected the winning programs from more than 1,550 applicants.

"The award-winning innovators invariably care passionately about their work and are ever on the lookout for ways to improve performance," said

Leading Index up 0.1 percent in October

By RACHEL BEEK
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK — An index of future economic growth gained 0.1 percent in October, its ninth straight monthly gain and another indication the economy is growing moderately.

The small improvement in the index of Leading Economic Indicators, released today by the Conference Board, follows a revised 0.2 percent increase in September and a 0.1 percent gain in August.

The report, which is designed to forecast economic activity six to nine months in advance, comes amid other signs of moderating economic growth, including flat personal incomes in October. Still, there have been signs of a stronger economy in reports of brisk holiday sales and a strong gain in U.S. manufacturing last month.

"This report really didn't reveal any fresh development in the economy," said Kevin Flanagan, a money market economist at Dean Witter, Discover & Co.

"It is saying no slowdown of major proportions will hit" and the economy should continue to grow, he said.

Wall Street has welcomed hints of slow growth, which would likely prevent the Federal Reserve from raising interest rates. Although the report was slightly ahead of economists' estimates, bond prices still rose early this morning.

The index's October reading of 103.6 compares with a revised September level of 103.5 and a revised August reading of 103.3. The index operates from a base of 100, set in 1987.

Of the leading index's 11 components, six rose in October. The biggest gains came in stock prices and manufacturers' orders for consumer goods and materials. The component hurting the index most was a drop in the average factory workweek.

While the leading index was first calculated in the late 1980s, it is periodically fine-tuned and figures from past years are revised using the current construction. The October reading represents an all-time high, as has each index since June.

Two other indexes, the coincident and lagging indexes, both fell. The index of coincident indicators, which looks at the economy's current condition, fell 0.1 percent in October, and the lagging indicators index, which looks backward, declined 0.1 percent for the month.

The Conference Board, a private research group in New York, took charge of the leading index from the Commerce Department late last year.

Don't forget to vote

Today is municipal election day in Sanford and Lake Mary. Hopefully, you have had an opportunity to hear the eight candidates seeking the position of mayor in Sanford. Likewise, depending on whether you live in Lake Mary or Sanford, you have heard those seeking election to become a commissioner.

It is also our sincere hope that you have read about each candidate in the pages of the Sanford Herald. While it has not been easy, you may notice we have refrained from airing mud or character assassinations.

If we reported on unsubstantiated rumor rather than fact, there probably wouldn't be a single candidate surviving. There have been well-meaning supporters calling the Herald to tell us "the dirt" on this person or that. Some people have brought up stories about certain candidates that actually occurred years ago. Why did they wait until an election to bring these matters to the forefront?

In listening to the various candidates, some have told us what they have accomplished thus far in their lives. Others told us for what they stand. Only a few have discussed what they would hope to accomplish in the next few years if elected.

They all had their good points. And as such, every one of these people deserves our ear and our serious consideration. It boils down to what each registered voter perceives as the most suitable person to lead our governments.

Regarding voter turnout in both Sanford and Lake Mary today, several candidates have told us they expect an extremely light turnout. This is not only a handful of registered voters are going to make the determination each of us will have to live with for the next term in office.

There is little doubt the Sanford mayor's race will require a runoff. Possibly the race for Sanford City Commission Seat District 1 will also require a runoff with four candidates seeking election.

If this were a nationwide presidential election, we could see where one vote isn't going to make a great deal of difference (even though it is important). But for this election, we can easily see where one single vote could definitely make a major difference.

Some will tell you, if you don't vote, you have no right to complain about the government. Whether this is true or not depends on the attitude of the person to whom you are talking. But we can see both sides to that concept.

Our point here is to urge everyone to get out and vote. The polls will be open until 7 p.m. this evening.

Don't vote for someone because he or she is a friend or neighbor. Don't vote for someone because you recognize their name more prominently than the others. Don't vote for a particular individual because someone told you to do so (including the candidates themselves).

But vote for the persons you believe will do the best for the citizens they serve. If we can have a large turnout of people voting for the best candidates for the job, we can and will have better government, and as a result, a better future.

LETTER

Supporting Dean Ray

I would like to take this opportunity to speak on behalf of Dean Ray, candidate for mayor of Sanford.

Almost three years ago, I had the pleasure of meeting Dean Ray and his family. They had moved to Sanford from out-of-state, opened their own appliance business and have worked hard to make it successful. Dean chose to make Sanford home for his family and wife, Janet, as he likes the small town atmosphere and the people around him.

Dean is a good man. He works hard, always a kind word, and gives back to the community by helping others and being a good Samaritan.

Dean made a commitment that he also wanted to be a voice for the City of Sanford. Like many of us that would like to see changes made in the community that we live in, Dean has taken it upon himself to do that and to strive to restore the future of Sanford. To keep it a city of the future and a safe city, Dean needs your support at the polls. So be sure and vote!

Don't buy Chinese this holiday season

In two of my recent speaking engagements, my gracious hosts gave me clocks as thank-you gifts. My first instinct was to refuse them. Not because I didn't appreciate the generosity of my hosts or because I have enough timepieces in my personal collection, but because they were made in China.

I remain convinced that China is not a friend of the United States. As such, I will not provide the communists in Beijing with any of my hard-earned American dollars.

And I encourage other Americans to join this boycott. As the nation kicks off the holiday shopping season, during which the average American consumer is expected to spend $764 on gifts, let conscientious Americans refuse to buy Chinese-made toys and shoes and clothing and, yes, clocks.

Of course, our leaders in Washington will take issue with such a boycott. They don't want to hurt the feelings of the totalitarian regime in Beijing. Especially after Bill Clinton just completed a 90-minute face-to-face in Manila with Chinese President Jiang Zemin and the two men have agreed to a home-and-away series of official "state visits."

But Clinton and Jiang could have talked until they were both red in the face and it wouldn't change the reality of Sino-American relations.

And that is: For all our efforts to cultivate amicable relations with the communists, they continue to pursue policies that are inimical to America's best interests.

Indeed, on the eve of Clinton's friendly chat with Jiang, the Washington Times broke a story revealing that China has in recent months sold missile technology, advanced radar components and nearly 400 metric tons of chemicals (used to produce nerve agents) to our sworn enemies in Iran.

The Times gleaned this unsettling information from a top-secret Oct. 2 report, produced by the Central Intelligence Agency, titled "Arms Transfers to State Sponsors of Terrorism."

I remain convinced that China is not a friend of the United States.

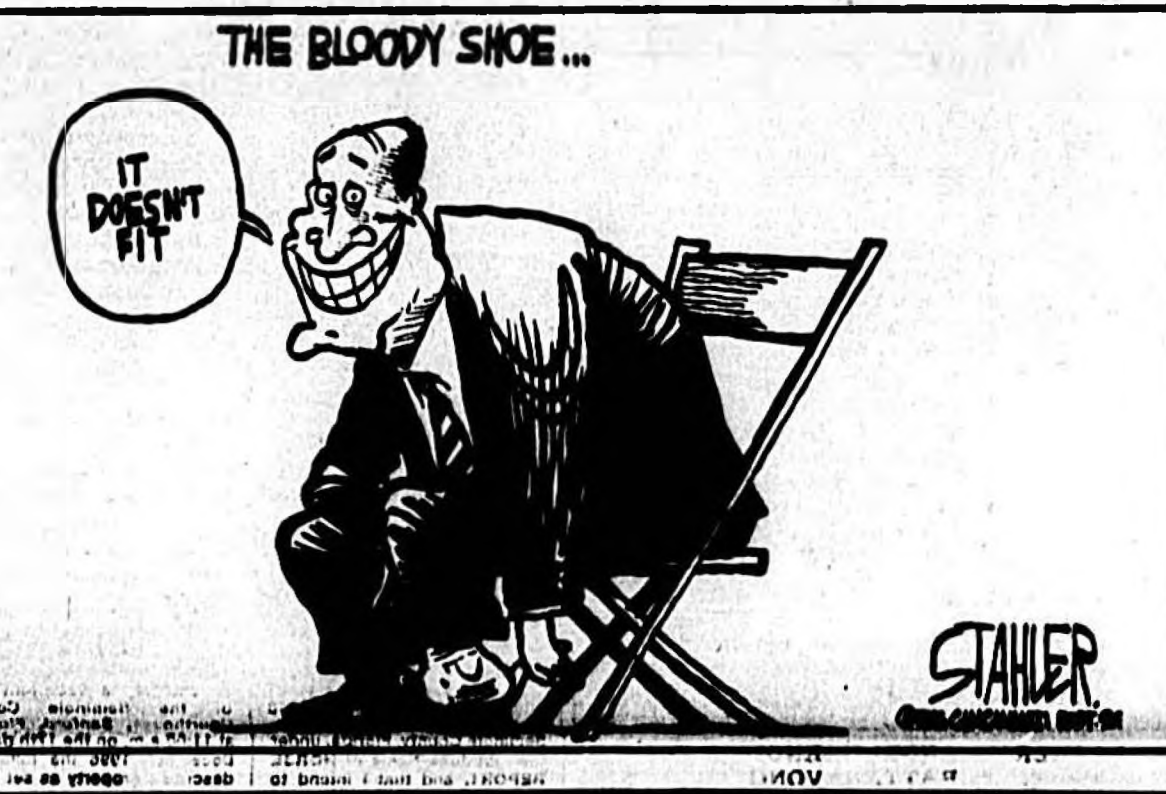

And this is only the latest of Beijing's brazen violations of arms-control accords. Previous U.S. intelligence reports revealed that China has sold missile technology to Syria and both missile and nuclear technology to Pakistan.

No less ominous, the Jiang government has been trying to acquire intercontinental missile technology from Russia and Ukraine, the only purpose of which can be to develop an arsenal of ICBMs that can deliver a nuclear payload to the United States.

So how is China, a dirt-poor nation, where the per capita income is $980 a year, paying for its military build-up? By aggressively pursuing a mercantilist trade policy with the United States.

Indeed, while the United States imposes virtually no trade barriers to Chinese-made goods, China slaps a 50 percent tariff on U.S. imports. In addition to these draconian tariffs, Beijing imposes other trade barriers against American companies, including trade quotas, local content restrictions and licensing requirements.

As a result of its patently unfair trade practices, China is expected to post a record $40 billion trade surplus with the United States this year, topping its record $34 billion surplus last year.

Cabinet on tap for Clinton

Two urgent tasks face President Clinton now that he's back from Asia and Thanksgiving weekend: Pick a first-rate Cabinet and settle an in-house dispute over whether to propose a budget that balances by 2002.

Clinton is expected to start late this week naming a new foreign policy team, with former Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell, D-Maine, almost certain to be secretary of State; former Sen. Bill Cohen, R-Maine, likely to be secretary of Defense; and deputy National Security Adviser Sandy Berger, chief of the National Security Council.

Looking at other slots, some Clinton advisers voice distress that candidates for a few Cabinet positions are not as strong as their first-term predecessors and that Clinton's new White House staff lacks a top official with experience dealing with Congress.

Since incoming White House Chief of Staff Erskine Bowles isn't a former member of Congress as is outgoing chief Leon Panetta, advisers are casting about for a substitute to serve as counselor to the president and to negotiate with the Hill. My own suggestion is retiring Sen. David Pryor, D-Ark., long Clinton's best friend in Congress.

The budget dispute, meantime, pits Treasury Secretary Bob Rubin, who thinks that near-balance -- i.e., a small deficit -- in 2002 is acceptable, and Budget Director Franklin Raines, who's arguing that the administration shouldn't fudge on the goal of strict balance.

White House aides say that Rubin and Deputy Secretary Larry Summers, looking at economic realities, believe that the financial markets will respond just as favorably to a budget that reduces the deficit to nearly zero as to one that is in exact balance.

The Treasury twosome also is arguing that the difference -- in the tens of billions in 2002 and perhaps $100 billion over five years -- could soften the blow that deficit-cutting will have on domestic programs, the aides say.

On the other side, they say, Raines is arguing -- with support from Vice President Al Gore and Bowles -- that Clinton has pledged to produce a budget with a zero deficit by 2002 and should stick to the promise, especially for political reasons.

Not only will Republicans attack Clinton if he drifts from the target, but Gore hopes to get deficit-cutting pain over with before he runs for president in 2000.

Rubin's response is that Clinton, since he won the election, now should concentrate on economics instead of politics. He also argues that the healthy economy -- made possible by the first-term deficit reduction policy he pushed -- was more important in getting Clinton re-elected than political maneuvering anyway.

The White House staff is uncertain where Clinton stands on the dispute, but it's clear that Rubin will remain the single most important economic policymaker in the administration -- so much so that the post of director of the White House's National Economic Council has become less sought-after than it was when Rubin had it early in Clinton's first term.

As a result, NSC deputy chief Berger, a longtime friend of Clinton's, is no longer said to be interested in the NEC job, but rather will move up to the No. 1 NSC job if its present occupant, Tony Lake, leaves government or becomes director of the Central Intelligence Agency.

In this scenario, the NEC chairmanship -- currently held by Laura D'Andrea Tyson -- would go to Gene Sperling, currently deputy NEC chief. Another White House opening, that of deputy chief of staff, will go to former staff secretary John Podesta, aides say.

While Clinton was in Asia, his White House staff and key advisers were circulating Cabinet names to Congress. Even though Mitchell came in for criticism from Republicans as too partisan and not experienced enough in foreign policy, he apparently survived the vetting process as the top candidate.

Retiring Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., who has extensive foreign policy experience, made it known on "Meet the Press" recently that he would be available. Former Bosnia negotiator Richard Holbrooke campaigned for the post and so did various women's groups on behalf of United Nations Ambassador Madeleine Albright, who apparently will stay in her post for the time being.

Cohen, even though he lacks executive experience, remains the leading candidate for Defense -- ahead of CIA director John Deutch and Lockheed-Martin CEO Norm Augustine -- and would be the lone Republican in the Cabinet.

For other posts, administration officials say that Rep. Bill Richardson D-N.M., is more likely to become secretary of Commerce than secretary of Energy, where the rumor mill previously had him, because he enjoys world travel and has proved to be a skilled negotiator. Energy is likely to go to a woman.

Two other women, White House aide Alexis Herman, who's African-American, and Labor Department administrator Maria Echaveste, a Hispanic, are top contenders for Labor secretary.

Ambassador to Fiji is good for business

SUVA, Fiji -- The U.S. Embassy here is open for business -- literally.

Most U.S. ambassadors are content to monitor political and economic activity in the countries to which they are assigned, and to put in a good word for the United States in local circles. But not Don Gevirtz.

Gevirtz is aggressively acting as a middleman between American businessmen and their Fijian counterparts. He is trying to quadruple U.S.-Fiji trade, and make his station a model for dozens of small U.S. embassies around the globe.

As a multimillionaire former California entrepreneur, he has the necessary background for the experiment. But just because he has the people skills as an active fund-raiser for Bill Clinton didn't make him a natural ambassador at first.

Two days after he was posted earlier this year, Gevirtz called a press conference at the ambassador's residence that lasted 45 minutes -- but the repercussions lasted for weeks. Like many first-time diplomats, Gevirtz committed a gaffe that left many locals, including the country's prime minister, seething.

Gevirtz pointed out that he would be closely monitoring Fiji's constitutional review process, and said that America hoped it would be attentive to human rights. He intended to gently suggest that the new constitution should be more inclusive, and allow members of the minority Indo-Fijian ethnic group to hold key government posts like president and prime minister. But his statements were widely viewed on Fiji as meddling.

Back in 1987, Indo-Fijians had come to number more than half the population and promptly won a majority in parliament. This prompted a bloodless military coup and constitutional alterations to prevent them from ever doing so again.

Subsequently, Indo-Fijians left the country in droves, creating a brain drain that still continues. Between Indo-Fijians fleeing and ethnic Fijians having larger families, the ethnic Fijians are again in the majority for the foreseeable future.

"I was mostly talking about trade and cultural exchanges in the press conference, but five minutes of it was about human rights," Gevirtz told our associate Dale Van Atta. "One reporter asked me if I thought the constitutional review, when completed and adopted, would improve human rights in this country, and I said, 'Yes.' For 10 days, there were headlines in the paper. There was an exchange of diplomatic notes between our two countries."

The prime minister, Sitiveni Rabuka, the major general who directed the coup a decade ago, said the ambassador had "crossed the line" and was interfering in local politics.

Relations between the two men have warmed considerably since then, however. Gevirtz lauded Rabuka on a recent speech-making tour to improve the Fiji's image, and to drum up business for the 300-island nation.

In 1996, the United States imported $60 million in goods from Fiji, and exported almost $67 million. Business from Fiji may only be a ripple in the Pacific Ocean for the United States, but Gevirtz is determined to prove that small-country trade is the wave of the future -- such as entrepreneurs and small businessmen like him have become the engines of economic growth and employment in America in recent years.

The results of Gevirtz's efforts are impressive so far. Partly at the ambassador's instigation, ITT Sheraton and Travelodge have upped their investment in hotels here.

The U.S. Embassy here is open for business -- literally.

five lesser offenses in combination with her nine years of service to Seminole County where her evaluation listed her as exceeding the standards," Bleckman said.

Bleckman said Suber wants her job back. He said the termination is based on "unreliable and soot" information that was used to support the two "major offenses", which he said never occurred.

Suber was not, he said, insubordinate and followed the orders of all superiors during the investigation not to discuss the matter while the investigation was taking place.

Bleckman said he has witnesses who will prove that Suber did not accept gifts that were not permitted under county policy. It is alleged by the county that Suber accepted gifts and solicited gifts from county contractors on behalf of her son.

"Ms. Suber acted in accordance with the personnel policies and procedures of the Seminole County Government and acted consistently with most other Seminole County employees," Bleckman concluded in his letter to Dove.

The investigation into the land acquisition division of the Public Works Department, which Suber formerly headed, is continuing.

Volunteer of the week

Helping kids makes a difference

By SUSAN WENNER
Herald Staff Writer

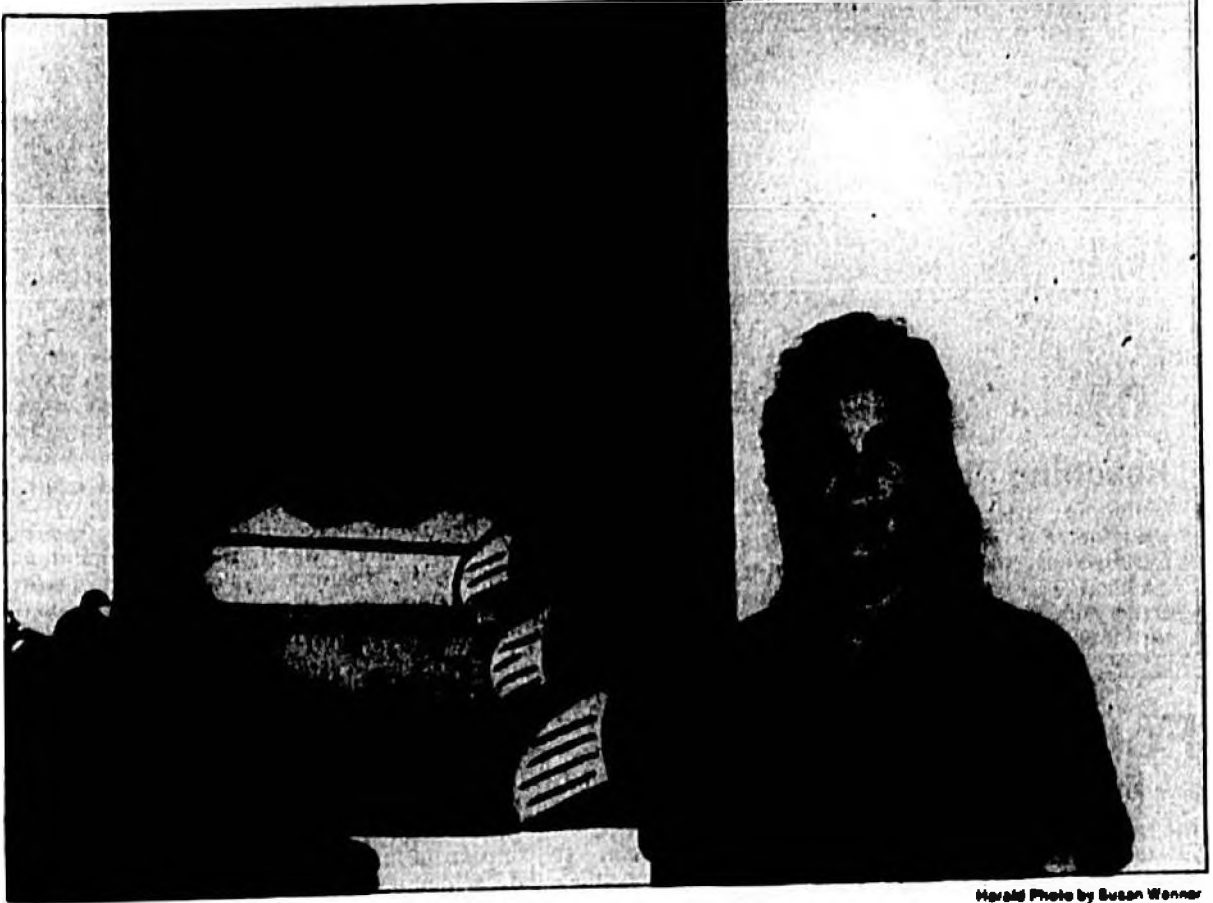

SANFORD — From ABCs and 123s Barbara Dupre covers them all in her Dividend work with PineCrest Elementary School. Volunteering now for two years in numerous endeavors, Dupre has found this avenue of expression reaches children by making a difference in their lives.

She is active with Miss Shirley Gibson, Miss Mary Ann Germain and Mrs. Marlane Reichert's class working with groups or one on one individualized attention. "I sometimes work with the children reviewing sight words (dolch words)," said Dupree. "With Mrs. Reichert's class I usually help with the centers that she does. She groups the children in families and we rotate the groups for about 45 minutes."

Dupree added that some of her work is focused on working with "at-risk" children. At times she focuses on one student to assist them in improving essential skills needed for that grade level. "I enjoy helping and mentoring one on one with the child," she cited. "It's nice to be able to make a difference in the life of that child."

She shared some insight from a situation last year. "I had one child last year that would barely speak to me at the beginning of the year," she said. "It's so wonderful to see the positive response I get this year. That child has improved so much."

She continued by saying, "Children really need a lot of praise and attention. They need to know that someone cares."

Barbara Dupre enjoys mentoring one on one with each child she assists.

Dupre also works with the P.T.A. at PineCrest and is very involved with fund-raising activities. She is a member of the band booster and mentoring programs at Sanford Middle School.

Not limiting her efforts to the school system, Dupre has been a member of the Longwood Pentecostal Church for seven years. She is president of the ladies auxiliary and in the puppet ministry. She also teaches Sunday School to ages 6 to 11.

Summing up her reasons for volunteering Dupree said, "I really feel that it's more blessed to give than to receive. It really blesses me to work with the children. It's God's principles.

When you give to others you are always blessed. Although that's not why I do it, I do feel I'm extremely blessed when I'm able to give to the children and make a difference. It's a work I really enjoy."

She and her husband, Robby, have been married for 15 years. They have three children, Robby Jr., Shannon and Brittany.

How to grow amaryllis in Florida

The Amaryllis is a spring flowering bulb which produces large lily or bell-shaped flowers which may be red, pink, crimson or white, often striped, mottled or blended with shades of these colors. The plant is native of South America and South Africa. Amaryllis is used in beds or borders around home grounds as well as for individual specimens.

Culture: Amaryllis prefer a location with partial shade and good, well-drained soil. Before planting, the ground should be prepared with 1 1/2 lbs. of 6-6-6 per 100 sq. ft. Established plantings may be fertilized two or three times a year with 1 lb. of 6-6-6 per 100 sq. ft. Unlike some other bulbs, Amaryllis do not need to be dug up each year. Digging may be helpful, however, since offsets can be separated and replanted elsewhere and diseased bulbs can be removed and destroyed.

Flowering: Bulbs of Amaryllis should be planted so they will bloom in the spring. Planting over a period from November to February will insure a succession of blooms from March to May. Four flowers are usually borne on a spike. A pair of the flowers opens up first with the remaining pair opening a few days later, thus providing a bloom period from 10 to 14 days. Amaryllis can be forced to bloom in six to eight weeks in your home at any time of the year. To accomplish this, the bulbs should be planted with one-half to two-thirds of the bulb above the soil level to induce early flowering. Gardeners who try Amaryllis sometimes run into a problem with the plants failing to bloom. The lack of flowers can be caused by several factors, such as prolonged drying of the bulbs, digging the bulbs before they are mature, too much shade, or too high levels of nitrogen in the soil.

Asexual propagation: It is relatively easy to propagate Amaryllis by cuttings or offsets. Cuttings and offsets will produce plants that are identical to the mother plant.

Offsets are produced naturally by the plant and may be dug up each year after the plants have died down. These offsets should be set off in a bed by themselves since it will generally take two or three years before they attain flowering size. When the plants are dug, cut off the cloves about 1 1/2 inches above the top of the bulb and cut back the roots to within two inches from the bulb. Plants can be produced from bulb pieces, as many as 60 pieces may be cut from one bulb, as long as each piece has a portion of the stem tissue or basal plate of the bulb attached to the scales. Bulbs cut immediately after flowering in the spring usually yields poor propagating materials. Full grown plants should be used for propagation, cuttings made from July to November usually produce the best plants.

Asexual propagation: The seed pods develop within four to five weeks after pollination and should be picked as soon as they turn yellow and start to break open. The seed then is removed from the pod, allowed to dry for a few days and then planted in flats of a well-drained soil. The young plants should be grown in increasingly higher light levels until they are receiving full sunlight. Plants should be ready for planting out in the garden in about one year.

Pests and diseases: Amaryllis rarely have serious pests or disease problems. Grasshoppers occasionally produce some damage on this plant. Another insect pest is the Spanish moth Caterpillar, which can cause some damage by chewing on the leaves and stems.

The disease known as "red-blotch" or "leaf scorch" occurs commonly on Amaryllis. The fungus produce red spots on the leaves, flowers, stems and petals. Dark reddish brown spots may appear on the bulbs and produce large rotted areas. Badly infected bulbs should be destroyed. Copper fungicides are recommended to control this disease. Amaryllis can be infected with a virus disease called mosaic which causes yellow mottling and red streaking on the leaves. There is no control for this disease. Affected plants should be removed from the field and destroyed.

Lake Mary red-hot

Rams hoop teams 10-1 after 'Thunder' sweep

From Staff Reports

ORLANDO — The road has proven very kind to the Lake Mary High School basketball teams the past week as both the boys and girls teams claimed championships at the Lake Region Thunder Tournament over the weekend and the boys won again in Orlando Monday night. Last night the Rams of first-year head coach Mike Gaudreau went into the Evans High School 'Snake Pit' and survived a fourth quarter scare to beat the Trojans 60-55. Lake Mary (4-1) led 53-34 after three periods before Evans (4-1) rallied. "Matt (Townley) and Ben (Kerstenbrock) combined for 16 rebounds," said Gaudreau. "That may not sound like much, but it was huge in this game. And Randy Abrams hit four three's that helped us keep the lead in first half." The Rams also played two nail-biters at the Thunder Tournament over the weekend as Paul Bell hit a three-point shot at the buzzer on Friday to beat host Lake Region 61-60 and then scored with only .8-second on the clock to beat Bradenton-Southeast 61-59 on Saturday. Lake Mary will host Lake Brantley on Friday. The girls improved to 6-0 as Lauren Bradley scored 20 points, Mary Leah Sutton tallied 11 and Ashlee Ballance netted 10 in a 59-52 championship victory over Haines City Saturday. Lake Mary trailed 35-27 at halftime, but then outscored the Hornets 32-17 in the second half. The Rams, who are ranked 10th in the state this week, will be at Lyman tonight.

LUTHER WINS TURKEY SHOOT
ORLANDO — All-Tournament picks Maj-Britt Michaelsen (15 points) and Monica Braun (11) and Most Valuable Player Tara Carucci (12) led the way as Luther defeated Trinity Prep 48-45 in a foul-plagued championship game of the Luther Turkey Shoot Tournament.

The Crusaders (5-1) made just 12 of 31 free throw tries, but the Saints were worse, mangling to make just 13 of 45 charity tries. Luther will be at Daytona Beach Father Lopes tonight.

Also on the All-Tournament team were: Trinity Prep — Meg Donahue, Heather Bingham; Central Florida Christian — Rachel Coffman.

Earning the Hustle Awards were: Rebekkah Thomas (Deltona-Trinity Christian); Jennifer Neihaus (CPCA); Leigh Nickel (Luther); Maggie Utzman (Trinity Prep).

Mavericks comeback hands Magic overtime loss

By FRED GOODALL
 AP Sports Writer

ORLANDO — The Dallas Mavericks rallied from a nine-point deficit in the last 2:25 of regulation, then got seven points in overtime from Oliver Miller to beat the Orlando Magic 106-103 Monday night. Miller's dunk at the buzzer capped an 11-3 run that forced the extra period. The backup center, who spurned an offer from the Magic during the preseason, made all three of his shots in overtime and finished 6-for-6 with 13 points. Chris Gatling led Dallas with 25 points and 14 rebounds. Former Mainland High School and FSU star George McClellan scored 21. Jim Jackson added 17 and Jason Kidd had 6 points and 18 assists. Rony Seikaly paced Orlando with 26 points and 14 rebounds, who lost Nick Anderson with a sprained right wrist in the first quarter, and Gerald Wilkins scored 25. The loss was the Magic's fourth in eight games at Orlando Arena, equaling the number they dropped at home all of last season. Anderson hurt his wrist when he blocked Loren Meyer's layup and fell to the court a little more than five minutes into the game. X-rays were negative, but the Magic face the prospect of going into Wednesday night's game against Cleveland without four of the team's starters from last season.

MAGIC vs. CAVALIERS 63
CLEVELAND — Horace Grant scored 21 points and Gerald Wilkins added 18 Saturday night to lead the Orlando Magic to a 63-63 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers.

The Magic never trailed, and Grant's 14 points on 7-for-7 shooting powered them to a 50-37 halftime lead. Cleveland then used a 21-8 run at the start of the second half to pull into a 58-58 tie. Grant scored five straight points — a three-point play and a dunk off a steal by Darrell Armstrong — to break a 60-60 tie and put Orlando back in command.

Cleveland failed to score in the first 3:47 of the fourth quarter as Orlando extended its lead to 81-70.

Terrell Brandon led Cleveland with 20 points and Bobby Phills scored 19.

Palm Bay and Lake Mary to advance to the championship (5-1) their first loss of the season 5-1.

The girls were outstanding in winning the Lake Howell

Thanksgiving Tournament as they doubled the score on Astronaut 4-2 in the quarter-finals and then blasted West Orange 9-1 in the semifinals to earn a shot at Oviedo in the championship contest. The Lions had advanced with wins over Boone (4-1), Dr. Phillips (4-0) and University (3-2).

The final was tied at 0-0 at halftime, but C. Watson scored twice in the second half for the Silver Hawks (4-3) as they blanked Oviedo (3-4-2-0.

UCF gets first victory of year

Associated Press

ORLANDO — Harry Kennedy scored 13 of his 18 points in the second half, including 7 in the last two minutes, as Central Florida held off Tennessee-Temple 80-65 Saturday night.

To get in the swing of the season, UCF had to fight off repeated comebacks by the tiny (enrollment-600) National Christian College Athletic Association school.

After falling behind by 13 points twice early in the game, Tennessee Temple (6-2) finished the first half with a 10-0 run and trailed only 40-30.

Throughout the second half UCF (1-2) threatened to pull away but the Crusaders answered each Golden Knight run with one of their own. UCF could never build its lead to more than 6 points and Tennessee Temple forced three ties.

After Rahm Thomas tied the game for the final time at 80-80 with a layup with 1:49 left, the Crusaders missed a chance to take the lead when

Associated Press

THOMAS missed the free throw that would have made it a 3-point play.

The Knights then took the lead 82-80 for good when Kennedy connected on a turn-around jumper with 1:24 to play.

Kennedy then sealed the UCF victory by sinking five free throws in the final 58 seconds.

Is irritable bowel treatable?

DEAR DR. GOTT: I've just recovered from an unpleasant bout with irritable bowel syndrome. Both my family and my gastroenterologist treated my condition very casually and said nothing could be done to cure or prevent it. I can't believe that there isn't some diet or medicine to help.

DEAR READER: This affliction is common — and frustrating, as you've discovered. IBS is believed to be a "functional" ailment, meaning that it has no obvious physical cause; instead, the syndrome stems from a bowel that doesn't function completely normally. Symptoms include gas, bloating and diarrhea or constipation, often brought on by stress and tension.

IBS is a "rule out" diagnosis, meaning that other, more serious conditions, such as colon cancer, are excluded by blood tests and similar examinations, including X-rays and colonoscopy. After appropriate testing fails to reveal a physical cause for symptoms, patients are diagnosed with IBS by exclusion.

Treatment is highly individualized, because there is no consistently effective therapy. As a general rule, IBS symptoms are often relieved by additional dietary fiber (Metamucil and others), avoidance of food known to cause gas and evacuation problems, sympathetic support, reassurance, and — in occasional instances — stress counseling. In addition, the use of bowel anti-spasmodic medicine (Donnatal and others) may be helpful.

IBS is not dangerous or harmful to health, but it is a nuisance, no doubt. To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Irritable Bowel Syndrome." Other readers who would like a copy should send $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2017, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Can one sperm test, performed by a chiropractor, prove a man is sterile? My husband had such a single test done 29 years ago and failed the test.

DEAR READER: I can think of no more egregious activity than a chiropractor performing fertility tests. This is so inappropriate that it hardly warrants comment. Such sensitive testing should only be performed (or ordered) by a urologist or specialist trained in reproductive medicine.

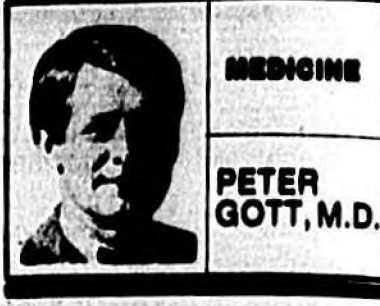

Moreover, a single analysis is not proof positive of infertility. There are many variables that could account for a temporarily low sperm count. For example, your husband could have failed the test if he had intercourse within 12 hours prior to having it done.

While it's too late to resolve this issue with your husband, I can unequivocally state that such testing is invalid unless performed by a professional familiar with its use. I have a busy practice of internal medicine and am fully licensed. Yet I wouldn't consider obtaining fertility tests on either men or women; I'm simply not qualified to do so. Any person concerned about fertility should seek the services of the specialists I mentioned.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What have you heard about a new way to prevent Sudden Infant Death syndrome by positioning babies when they sleep?

DEAR READER: According to preliminary data from the National Center for Health Statistics, there has been a 30 percent decrease in SIDs because, in large part, of a campaign that targeted parents, who were advised to place babies on their sides and backs, rather than on their stomachs, the customary position. During the reporting period between 1993 and 1995, the annual number of SIDs deaths fell from 5,000-6,000 to 3,500-4,500. In 1993, 70 percent of infants were placed on their stomachs; in 1995 only 30 percent were thus positioned.

PETER GOTT, M.D.

Authorities believe that proper positioning of sleeping babies seems to aid the mechanics of breathing and helps prevent avoidable deaths.

WIN AT BRIDGE

From chess to bridge

By Phillip Alder

In Great Britain, Batsford, a well-known chess publisher, has turned its hand to bridge books. Most have been worthwhile, but the manuscripts should have passed under the gaze of a better proofreader.

I'll be reviewing these books in alphabetical order by author's name. The first is, coincidentally, my favorite: "The Hidden Side of Bridge" by David Bird and the late Terence Reese ($19.50, postpaid, from The Bridge World, 39 West 94th Street, New York, NY 10025-7124). Originally published in 1988, this book contains deals where the "normal" play is wrong, and you have to find the unusual move. So, the deals are advanced, but interesting, and the text is lively.

In this deal from the book, you are in four spades doubled. West cashes the heart king before switching to a trump. What is your line and which is dummy's "hidden" asset?

Yes, West's initial double is strange. Experts call it "flexible," but never to bid one's six-card major is weird.

Having two red-suit losers, the declarer, Italian Dano de Falco, had to avoid losing two club tricks. As you probably spotted, rather than rely on West's having both the ace and queen of diamonds, de Falco called on the power of dummy's diamond eight.

After drawing trumps, de Falco played a diamond to dummy's king and returned a low diamond. East couldn't afford to win with his queen, because then declarer would ruff down West's ace. But when West won with the diamond ace, what could he lead? Whichever suit he selected, de Falco would receive his 10th trick.

HOROSCOPE

Your Birthday

Wednesday, Dec. 4, 1996

Even though your material gains might not be staggering in the year ahead, they should be consistent. Prosperity is indicated in the long run.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A friend whose company you normally enjoy might be temperamental and difficult to please today. Do not let his behavior affect your relationship. Trying to patch up a broken romance? The Astro-Graph Matchmaker can help you understand what to do to make the relationship work. Mail $2.75 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 1758, Murray Hill Station, New York, NY 10158.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will achieve your objectives today, provided you don't make things more difficult for yourself than they need to be.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Friendship is more valuable than determining who is right or wrong in a petty argument. You will not savor the victory if you lose your friend in the process.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You will have to be more prudent and count your pennies more carefully today if you hope to make do with the resources you have at your disposal.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) One-to-one relationships could be your most difficult area today. If you fail to be cordial and tactful, you will invite problems.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The longer you let things go today, the harder it will be to catch up later. This will not be a good day to let unpleasant tasks control your agenda.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even though you'll be in a gregarious mood today, you might feel deflated if you attend a gathering which is full of people you don't like.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to keep career or other weighty problems away from the dinner table tonight. If they become topics of conversation, it could dampen the mood.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You might begin to doubt your judgment today if you discuss something you believe in strongly with a friend whose outlook is negative and diamal.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Do not put yourself in an awkward position today by requesting a favor from a person you declined to help on a previous occasion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There is always more than one side to an issue. If you keep this in mind today, you will have the ability to appreciate your mate's point of view.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Even though you will be industrious today, you might make additional work for yourself by using the wrong tools or methods.
