Cleaver Flies Home To Test 'Change In Mood Of America'

PARIS (AP) — Former Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver says he is finished with his life in the run and is going home to test what he feels is a positive change in the mood of America. Cleaver was flying to New York today after seven years in exile with parole violation charges and a grand jury indictment hanging over his head. He is subject to arrest on arrival in the United States. He said his decision to return grew from his conclusion that the end of the Vietnam war, an improvement in the lot of the black man and increased political skepticism in the aftermath of Watergate has created a "really fantastic" climate in America.

Home Delivery Said Safer

CHICAGO (AP) — Mothers whose babies are delivered at home by midwives have fewer complications and healthier babies than those who go to the hospital, a California study shows. The study, reported today in a paper prepared for the annual meeting of the American Public Health Association, was done by a health research team from Stanford University and the University of California at Santa Cruz. The team studied 287 home births performed by midwives from the Santa Cruz Birth Center from 1971 to 1973. Of the 231 "had completely unremarkable births at home," the researchers reported. For these complications "that did occur, the researchers said, the rate was lower than that for the population as a whole.

Perot Parties Influencing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — H. Ross Perot denies he had anything to do with an amendment approved by the House Ways and Means Committee that reportedly would give the Texas businessman a $15-million tax refund. The amendment was passed after he contributed more than $2,000 to some members of the panel. Perot also has offered to be excluded from any benefits conferred by the amendment, which he termed "a benefit legislation." In a letter released Monday, Perot declared "that I, and not the merits of the amendment, have become the central issue" in a controversy following a Wall Street Journal article on Nov. 7 that described how Perot would benefit if the amendment became law.

Ford Leans Toward Aid Okay

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is leaning toward approving $2.5 billion in loan guarantees for New York City. Ford would veto a larger compromise aid bill worked out by the House Republican and Democratic leaders, administration sources say. A high administration source said Monday night that Ford will make a decision on the New York situation "within 48 hours." The New York bill approved by the House Banking Committee is scheduled for floor debate today and for a vote Wednesday. The compromise measure appeared to be in serious trouble with both Democrats and Republicans saying it now lacks the votes for passage following some amendments Monday.

Fromme Seeks Dismissal

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette Fromme's attorney has asked that charges against her be dropped because prosecutors withheld evidence he says could prove she did not try to kill President Ford. Attorney John Virga accused the U.S. attorney's office Monday of "willful suppression of evidence" and said U.S. District Court Judge Thomas MacBride must at least declare a mistrial if he refuses to drop charges. The issue is a statement one witness made to police that Miss Fromme declared, "it wasn't loaded anyway." "They were actually in contempt of court," Virga said of U.S. Atty. Dwayne Kees and his assistant, Donald Heller. "They were ordered to give this information to me and they didn't."

Hearst Lawyers To Be Ready

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Attorneys for Patricia Hearst say they will be ready to present their case under the new Jan. 25 trial date and the prosecution says it expects to win up its case against the newspaper heiress in two weeks' time. "It's just impossible for us to know right now how many witnesses we will call," said Albert Johnson, one of Miss Hearst's attorneys, following U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter's postponement Monday of the trial from the original Dec. 15 date.

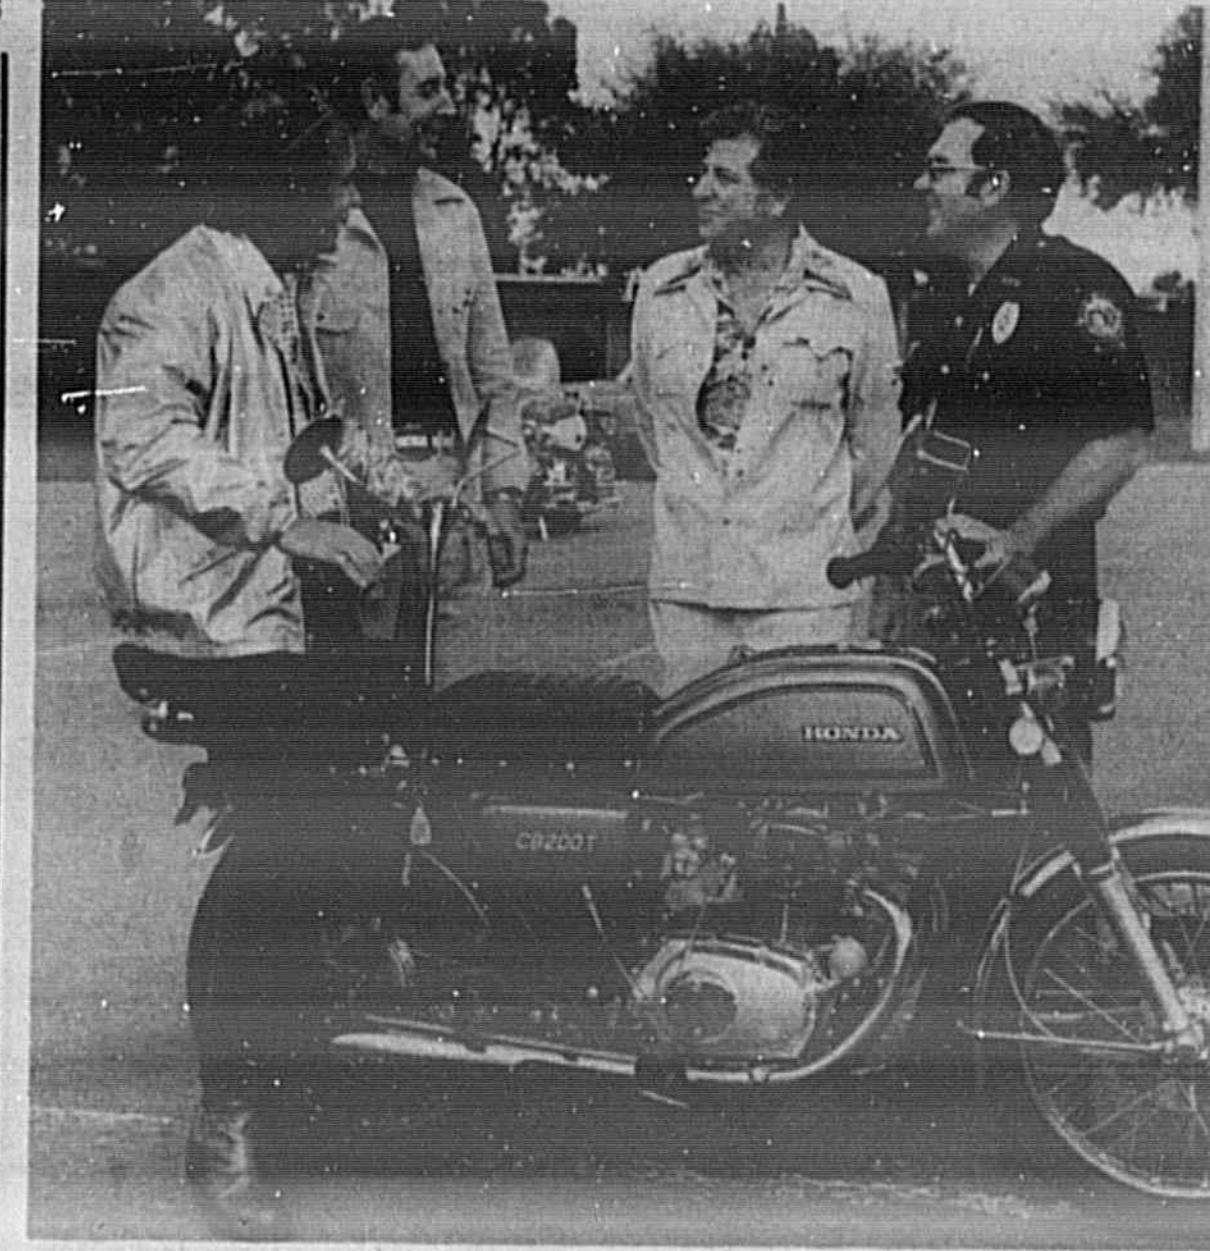

School Board To Reorganize

By JOE ASKREN
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County School Board members will hold their re-organizational meeting today at 7:30 p.m. and the election of a new board chairman and vice chairman will be considered. Immediately following adjournment of the organizational meeting, the regular meeting will be conducted. A report is expected from Hugh Carlton, director of auxiliary services, on the selection of architects for $2.5 million worth of budgeted school projects. Although the board last week approved a revised list of seven architects used for the projects, Carlton said the budgeted amounts for two firms are still being amended. Board Chairman Robert

'Bud' Feather had directed Carlton to revise the selection procedure, limiting each architect to two jobs or $500,000 worth of total work at any one time to give more architects jobs and be more equitable.

Feather and board member E. C. Harper Jr. had opposed the earlier system used which involved only five of the 17 architects certified for $2,500,000 worth of jobs in 11 different schools. Harper had objected to the way an administrative committee, including Superintendent William P. 'But' Lyles, divided up the advertised jobs which he said gave a lion's share of the projects to two of the five firms decided upon. Board member Pat Linton also is expected to give a report from the courtesy busing committee.

Insurance Man Robbed Gunman Is Sought

By BOB LLOYD

Sheriff's detectives today were searching for a gunman wearing a stocking cap who robbed an insurance salesman in the Midway community east of Sanford Monday afternoon. Investigators said the holdup may have been pulled by the same gunman who robbed another insurance man and a beer truck driver in the area in recent weeks. Hardly Patterson, of Sanford, told deputies he was sitting in his car on Granby Street when the black male approached and held a .38 caliber pistol to his head demanding, "Give me your money."

Deputy David Ruddell said the gunman escaped on foot with an undetermined amount of cash and insurance receipts. Sanford police today reported they are shipping the skeletal remains of an unidentified man to the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C., for examination by anthropologists in efforts to identify the murder victim. Investigators said the decomposing body, found last week in a shallow grave at the north edge of the Seminole Community College campus, had been shot in the head. Capt. C.B. Fagan Jr. said the victim is believed to be a white male, about six feet tall. Authorities said the body is believed to have been in the unmarked grave for one to six months. Benjamin Fred Bass, 31, Sanford Route One, was in county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond after his arrest on a warrant charging he obtained property by a worthless check.

Declines Private Session On DDC

City commissioners Monday authorized the transfer of $500 from contingency funds to begin construction on a stretch of sidewalk inside the city limits from French Avenue east on 27th Street.

In a memorandum to commissioners, City Manager W. E. "Pete" Knowles said the county commission would not undertake a "joint effort" on the sidewalk, but would "leave it to the City to do plans, labor, and materials."

The 250-foot portion of sidewalk will provide a walkway for students at Pinecrest Elementary School. Commissioners also authorized Knowles to work with the county school board on the problem. City Commissioners refused an invitation by the head of a downtown redevelopment group to meet in private offices in the Paudler Building to discuss the group's aspirations for Downtown Sanford.

Downtown Development Council (DDC) Executive Director Sara Jacobson said the purpose of the suggested meeting was to acquaint the commissioners with DDC plans for redevelopment, and to solicit committee members' opinions on the subject. But Mayor Lee Moore, citing Florida's Government In The Sunshine law, advised Miss Jacobson that such a meeting might be legally questionable. "I'm not going to be made an ass of by (State Attorney) Abbott Herring," Moore remarked.

Commissioner Julian Stenstrom also insisted that the meeting be held where the public would have ample access to the proceedings. "Why can't we have it here?" Stenstrom asked repeatedly.

Boy, 13, Faces Trial As Adult

A 13-year-old south Seminole boy indicted by a grand jury for the life felony offense of armed burglary has been scheduled for a Dec. 15 trial as an adult in circuit court.

John Steven Huggins, 13, Altamonte Springs, entered a written plea of innocent Monday through his defense attorney, Kirk Kirkconnell. Huggins has been in the custody of state Division of Youth Services authorities since he was indicted Nov. 3 by the Seminole County Grand Jury for armed breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony. He is accused of burglarizing an Altamonte Springs residence on July 21 while armed with a firearm. Juveniles indicted by the grand jury can be tried as adults in circuit court, according to state law.

In other court actions Monday, a 15-year-old Fern Park juvenile who pleaded guilty to robbery of a drug store was later committed to the state Division of Youth Services as a "delinquent child" was told by Circuit Judge J. William Woodson that he's being given one more chance with DYS before facing a minimum 10-year prison sentence for the robbery.

Nicholas Edward Hartley, 16, of Fern Park, was indicted by grand jury for the Jan. 22 robbery of Dollar Prescription Pharmacy with what later proved to be an air rifle. The druggist chased the fleeing juveniles from the store firing his own rifle. There were no injuries. Court records indicated a juvenile was arrested two days after the holdup, later committed to DYS and sent to Daytona Beach halfway house.

Sanford police today reported that burglars made off with four tape recorders valued at more than $50 after using cinder blocks to smash glasses in doors at the Seminole High School library.

Sheriff's deputies reported burglars removed a window pane at Roseland Elementary School, Altamonte Springs, and took a television and a red wooden child's wagon, total value $200.

Benjamin Fred Bass, 31, Sanford Route One, was in county jail in lieu of $5,000 bond after his arrest on a warrant charging he obtained property by a worthless check.

Assistant State Atty. Ralph Erickson dropped charges of resisting an officer with violence to his person and trespass after warning as part of the negotiated plea. Judge Woodson ordered Donald Edward Hampton, 21, of Sanford, held in jail pending a hearing on a probation violation charge. Hampton pleaded guilty to grand larceny and the state dropping charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony and possession of burglary tools.

Hampton is accused of violating probation in connection with a Sept. 23 incident at Irving Richard Beveritt, 23, 994 Ceirey Ave., Sanford, pleaded guilty to breaking and entering the home of Leroy Ervin, 108 Academy Ave., Sanford, pleaded guilty to the lesser and included offense of attempted breaking and entering in a burglary case.

The court allowed Ervin to remain free on bond pending completion of a PSI. Judge Woodson ordered a bench warrant issued for the arrest of Walter Jenkins Jr., 42, 138 DePugh St., Altamonte Springs, when Jenkins failed to show up for trial on charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony and grand larceny.

Prosecutor Erickson dropped a charge of breaking and entering a vehicle against Mark Edward Hauser, 19, 703 Meadow St., Sanford, after the owner of the auto allegedly burglarized, failed to appear as a state witness for the scheduled trial.

Askew To Air Sunshine Law

Gov. Reubin Askew is scheduled to discuss Florida's "Sunshine Law" 3 p.m. Wednesday at the Naval Training Center in Orlando, officials announced today. State Rep. Bob Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, has been appointed the governor's Central Florida coordinator for the discussions. The meeting will be held in the control tower building at the base. The public is invited. Askew's proposed amendment puts teeth into the "Sunshine Law," which states all meetings attended by elected officials must be open to the public.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Bank Extortion Try Failed, Woman Arrested In Trap

MIAMI (AP) — An extortion attempt against the president of Florida's largest bank has been foiled and a Miami woman arrested on federal extortion charges, the FBI says. Josephine Walker, 21, was arrested Monday shortly after she walked into a trap set by authorities and J.B. Shumate, head of Southeast First National Bank, an FBI spokesman said. Police said they were investigating the possibility that others were involved in the incident.

UF Honor Rule Rejected

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The University of Florida must not force a student to waive his right to a public hearing before he is disciplined by a student honor court, a legislative committee says. The UF rule was among a number of state university policies rejected Monday by the Joint Administrative Procedure Act Committee. Many of the rules were turned down for technical flaws. Only a few were defended by officials.

Winner-Take-All Rule Urged

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Ronald Reagan's Florida supporters are urging a Republican committee to adopt a "winner-take-all" rule in Florida's March 9, 1976, presidential primary, Reagan's state campaign chairman says. L.E. "Tommy" Thomas, former state Republican chairman, said Monday that Reagan would benefit more from Ford than from a rule allocating all delegates in each congressional district to the candidate who gets the most votes in the district and all at-large delegates to the statewide forum.

Union Denies PERC Authority

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The Public Employees Relations Commission has no authority to punish the Broward Teachers Union for its September strike, the union says in a suit. The union suit filed Monday in Leon County Circuit Court asked for an order halting a PERC hearing Nov. 25 in Fort Lauderdale on whether the union should be punished. The suit claimed that the Broward County School Board did not file an unfair labor practice charge against the union and without such a charge PERC cannot act on its own.

Lower Fuel Charge Sought

MIAMI (AP) — Florida Power & Light Co., the state's largest electrical utility, has asked the Public Service Commission for a fuel adjustment that could reduce customers' bills next month by 70 cents per 1,000 kilowatt hours. FP&L is seeking a December adjustment of $1.10 per 1,000 kilowatt hours, a drop of nearly 20 per cent from the November charge of $1.30, company spokesman Jack Francis said Monday.

Disclosure Exemption Noted

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Members of government boards which are solely advisory are not required to file financial disclosure statements, the state Ethics Commission has ruled. But only the commission can decide whether a board is advisory and thus exempted from the law, assistant director Bonnie Johnson said Monday.

Lewis Defends Prince Firing

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — State Comptroller Gerald Lewis says he fired securities investigator Robert Prince because he couldn't handle his job, not because of a squabble over a fraud investigation report which brings in more than 5 per cent of their income. At a three-hour deposition session Monday, Lewis defended his decision to fire Prince on charges of insubordination, negligence, inefficiency and conduct unbecoming a political official. Lewis, who at first had refused to give a deposition, answered the questions of Prince's attorney, Ben Patterson, who is handling an appeal of the dismissal.

Caucus Leader Hails ERA Vote

GAINESVILLE (AP) — A Florida women's leader says a resolution by the state Democratic Convention to support the proposed Equal Rights Amendment will help turn anti-ERA legislators out of office in 1976. "It will help in the election of pro-ERA legislators," Jeanette Blevins, president of the Florida Women's caucus, said Monday. "For a Democrat to be against the ERA means he has to be against the party platform."

Land Firm Faces Default

MIAMI (AP) — A subsidiary of GAC Corp., one of the nation's largest land-developers, has defaulted on $3.5 million in debts and now faces default on another $4.5 million, a company spokesman says. The spokesman claimed Monday that the default by GAC Properties Credit Inc. is not expected to force the parent company or other subsidiaries to file for reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws. However, GAC Board Chairman S. Hayward Mills said earlier this month: "I don't know how long the parent company can last" if the subsidiary defaults.

Fire Deliberately Set

CAPE CANAVERAL (AP) — AN Oct. 13 fire that destroyed a religious museum owned by the Rev. Carl McIntire, a fundamentalist, was deliberately set, fire officials say. "It was definitely an incendiary fire — it was set," Ernest B. Wright, a fire marshal for the Florida Department of Insurance, said Monday.

Attorney Doubts Chances Of Winning Church Suit

By JANE CASSEBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

WINTER SPRINGS — Howard Marsee, attorney representing the city in a civil suit brought by Seminole Baptist Temple, did not paint a rosy picture Monday night in evaluating the city's chances. Hired by the city in September on the recommendation of then city attorney Newman Brock, who asked the council to replace him as the city's attorney in the case, advised the council that chances for winning the case were slim.

Marsee told councilmembers if they decide to pursue the case it will mean a trial and "win or lose," he anticipated an appeal. Seminole Baptist Temple was granted a conditional use permit by the council for construction of a church in a residential area on Hayes Road on July 21 against the recommendation of the Planning and Zoning Board, but when residents of the area protested the decision the council sought to rescind the permit and conduct another public hearing.

At a Sept. 5 hearing, Circuit Judge Kenneth Laffer granted the church a temporary injunction and restraining order against the city, barring it from interfering with the conditional use permit, or the building inspector Ray Bradshaw on July 30. The judge told the church group if they continued with construction before the final decision it would be at "their own peril."

A charge that the building permit was issued in violation of city ordinances was included in one of the sworn affidavits considered by the council in its current investigation of the building inspector.

Marsee said the status of the conditional use permit is "in limbo" at present. He said the two options open to the council are to continue litigation or to negotiate with the plaintiff. Marsee estimated that continued litigation would cost the city several thousand dollars in legal fees and court costs.

The council will decide what action to take regarding the suit at a Nov. 24 work session at 7:30 p.m.

Mayor Troy Piland presented copies of a resolution authorized by the council to Cathie Holzman and Pam Roy, Winter Springs teenagers, commending them for their courage in complaining about smoking of marijuanas on their school bus. The girls allegedly threatened and later assaulted by a fellow student at Oviedo High School after coming before the council in an

Some Secrets Best If Kept A Secret

President Ford and Sen. Frank Church, chairman of a select Senate committee investigating federal intelligence activities, appear to have reached another impasse over details of whether alleged attempts by the Central Intelligence Agency to assassinate foreign leaders should be released to the general public.

The issue is a delicate one. Congress and the executive branch have the duty to keep American people informed. They also have the duty to keep secrets if this serves the national interest. When the two duties conflict, the dividing line between them is not always clear.

Mr. Ford has given the information that Sen. Church requested about CIA assassination plans to the Senate committee. He has no reservations about giving it to the full Senate, but draws the line against general dissemination on the basis that this would endanger the lives of American agents and "seriously impair our ability to exercise a positive, leading role in world affairs." In other words, our enemies would use the information against us.

Mr. Church responds by noting that the President had asked him to conduct the investigation into intelligence activities in the first place. He believes that the request for confidentiality is an "element" in a "pattern of attempts" by the administration to hamper his committee. The senator adds that the abrupt dismissal of William Colby, director of the CIA, was another of the White House's "disruptive" tactics.

He is begging the question. The issue is not who suggested the investigation or how the hearing is conducted, but sensitivity of the results that are produced. If Mr. Church needs additional information he should press for it aggressively. He will not get it by having the Senate publish confidential information that already has been given to him.

Nor does he lack access to the testimony of Mr. Colby whose tenure has been extended well beyond the time when the Senate Intelligence Committee report is due. Moreover, whether he is director of the CIA or not, Mr. Colby will be available as a witness.

It would be a strange irony indeed if the Congress discloses national secrets in a 500-page report on intelligence activities when the Freedom of Information Act by statute exempts from public scrutiny "trade secrets," commercial information, inter-agency memos, material that invades the privacy of other federal officials, material that discloses investigative techniques or endangers the lives of domestic law enforcement officers and geological information about oil wells.

As Other Florida Editors See It:

Oil Monopoly

Several major oil companies say they will do their best to hold down gasoline prices now that price controls, at least temporarily, are gone. If you think that sounds too good to be true, the president of Ashland Oil Co. agrees with you.

According to him, the major oil companies, which control their product from well to pump, can afford to hold down retail prices because they make handsome profits selling crude oil to their refineries.

Independent oil companies, which buy their crude from the majors, can't do that. Their prices, normally lower than those of the majors, will almost certainly have to rise.

Customers will stop buying Cheapsco and switch to, say, Exxon. Then, says Ashland's president, the independents will be run out of business and the majors will raise their prices even higher.

There you have it. Save now, pay later. One more reason for Congress to break the oil giants into separate companies that either drill, refine or distribute — all three.

Spencer Hardin of Sanford recently completed the year as the fourth leading non-professional rider in the National Cutting Horse Association.

Hardin earned his rating by winning $5,532.20 on his two horses — Bill's Sylvia and Bill's Jazbell — and placing in 24 contests sanctioned by the Fort Worth-based organization.

Hardin hung back in the standings until the latter part of the season when he made a big jump in the placings by tying for the reserve championship at the world championship cutting horse finals in Amarillo, Tex., earlier this month.

Both of Hardin's horses were sired by Catter ball, world champion cutting horse of 1962.

Hardin is very active in the 3,500-member organization, which has activities throughout the U.S. and Canada. He is a member of the executive committee of the association and a director from the State of Florida.

Mind Games Are The Key To Survival

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — When Dr. Claude Fly, then a 65-year-old agronomist, was captured by the Tupamaros a few years back, he spent his 208 days in captivity writing a 600-page biography of himself and a 60-page "Christian Checklist," in which "he analyzed the New Testament to determine what were the 'do's and don'ts' for a good Christian."

In a similar situation, Sir Geoffrey Jackson, British ambassador to Uruguay, began writing a series of children's stories. When the Tupamaros confiscated the first, he mentally wrote and memorized 11 more in his eight months in a terrorist prison. After regaining his freedom, Sir Geoffrey published all 12 as a book.

International political kidnappings have been a growing and profitable business these past several years. And Americans have been the victims in 40 per cent of the cases.

As is meet under these circumstances, the State Department and Pentagon have cooperated in funding a study of what kind of men with what kind of attitudes survive, and what a man or woman can do to prevent getting captured in the first place.

A part of the study has focused on Jackson and Fly because of their long imprisonment, their success in surviving with their emotions and personalities intact, and because of the apparent confusion these men created among their jailers, a confusion so great that "the terrorist organization found it necessary to remove guards who were falling under their influence."

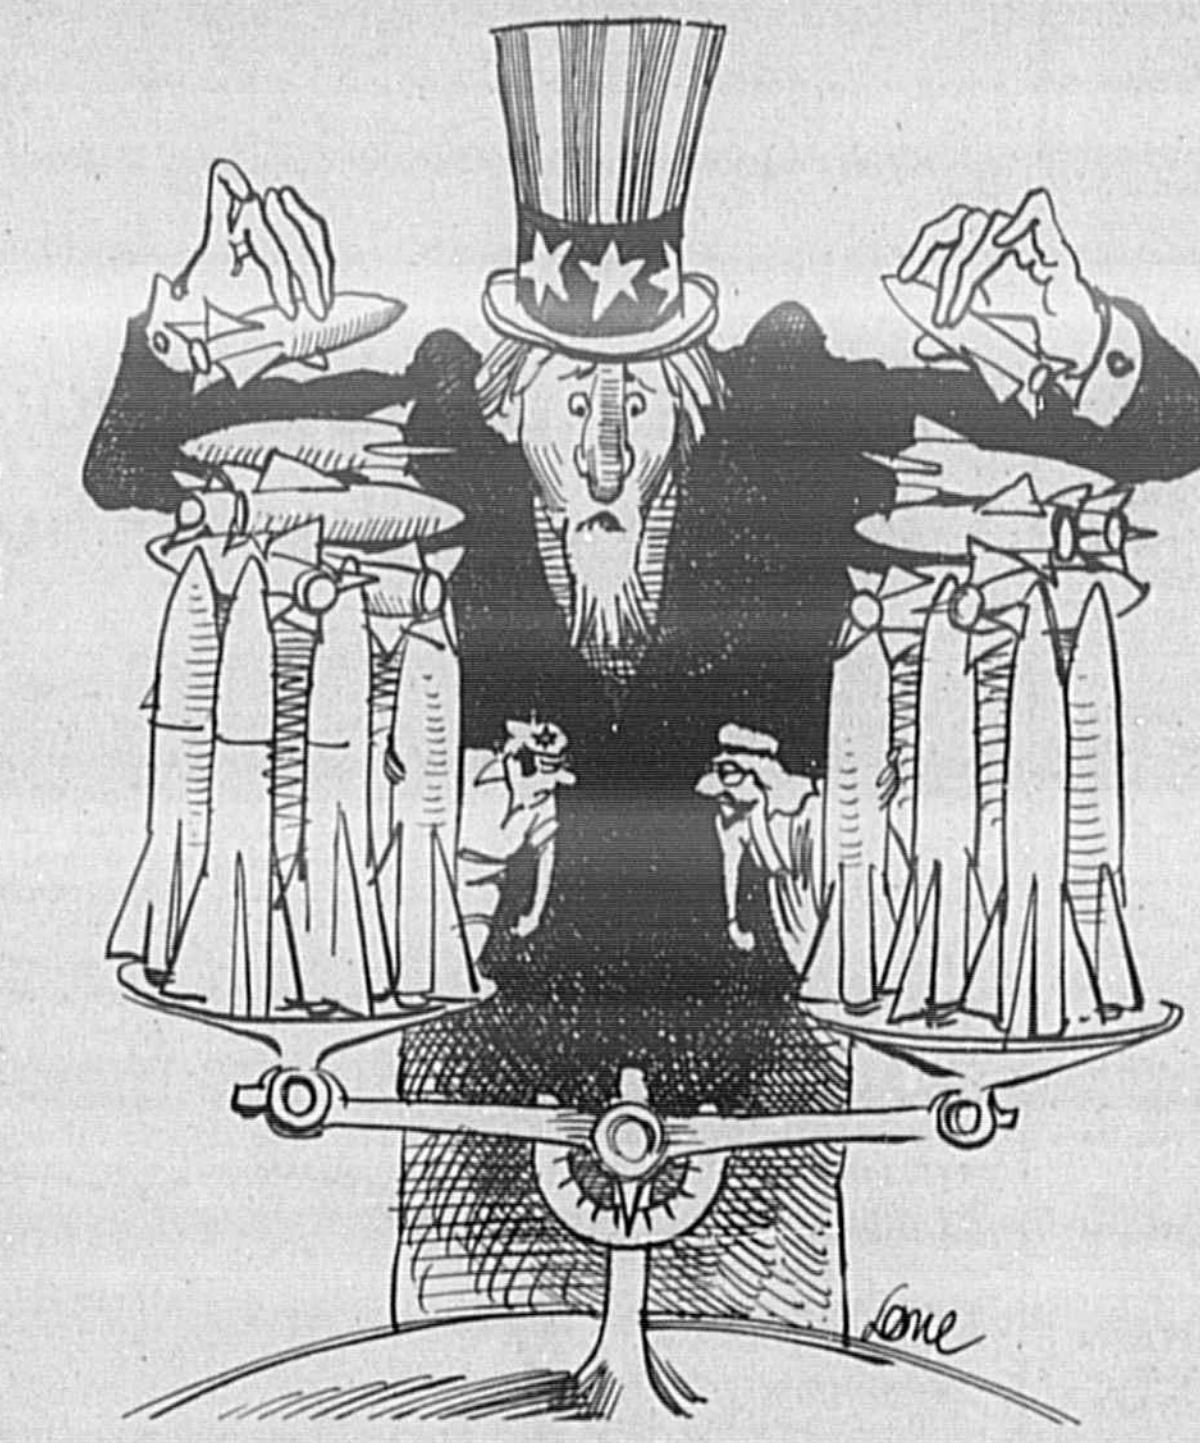

That is, it was not Jackson and Fly who were brainwashed.

Now it is not likely many of us will be captured by international terrorists in one foreign country or another. But in reading the stories of these two men I was struck by the thought that the methods they used in their imprisonment might be equally valid for use by anyone who meets up with tragedy beyond our control — when we are left helpless and without hope.

Neither man was young. Jackson was 56, Fly 65. Both had wives and children. Both had been successful in their professions. Both had had families and friends. Both had had hopes and dreams. Both had had a sense of purpose and direction. Both had had a sense of responsibility and duty.

Perhaps most important, however, was the spiritual strength of the two men. Both were deeply religious — and this gave them the strength to face the constant threat of death. It also enabled them to deal with their captors as fellow human beings in the Christian context; they avoided the corrosive effects of hate for their enemy.

It was in this manner that both men broke down the antagonism of their captors.

"Hey, hold still!"

Letter To The Editor

Pastor's Views

I am writing this letter by necessity and not by choice. The United States is faced with turbulence, rebellion and the lack of strong authority. Honesty is at a premium. The need for God in America is being stifled by dishonesty, opportunism and selfishness. The American public is fed up with men and women, who occupy places of leadership at federal, state, county, and city levels, who use their office for selfish motives and notoriety.

I am pastor of The Seminole Baptist Temple which is suing The City Of Winter Springs because of revoking a conditional land use variance, which they granted to our Church on July 21, 1975. By and large the three men who voted in favor, and the gentleman who occupies the mayor's position are good, honest men. They will get my vote on Dec. 2, 1975, but I feel strongly that the citizenry of Winter Springs, should consider very carefully before they elect councilmen and councilwomen, who have their own selfish interests at heart, who have lied and misrepresented truths and who have sought to hinder and stop a group of people, who, led by God, seek to build a church that will preach the Gospel of Jesus Christ on a piece of property they already have purchased in the city of Winter Springs, which needs the influence of God's Word.

It's a shame and a disgrace to understand that a councilman from the Tusawilla area would say, "One reason he does not want the church in the area, that we feel God had led us to, is that the traffic might 'cause someone's dog to be run over.' That's downright funny."

Then, consider a councilwoman who has spent time in various meetings with some residents at different homes, spreading lies and venom about this Church and what it will do to the area. I think it is time, those who live in Winter Springs take the God-given right to vote seriously and investigate the background and record of those who are running for council this Dec. 2.

One thing more I would like to say. I know a Man, who some 2000 years ago, set the world on fire with His life. There are more books written about Him, more songs about Him, and there were governmental officials who tried to run Him out of their town. This Man was Jesus Christ the Son of the Living God, no matter how hard man has tried, He is still here and His influence and power, and His Word can never be done away with. The old saying is "You can't fight city hall." I don't believe this statement. The God I serve and belong to, will prove this very soon!

Sincerely,
Rev. Robert E. Clark

WASHINGTON — A majority of Americans believe Gerald Ford is a great guy but a poor President. And their favorite Democrat is none of the presidential contenders out Sen. John Glenn, D-Ohio, the former astronaut.

These are the surprising findings of America's most painstaking pollster, Patrick E. Caddell, whose confidential "Cambridge Barrage" are distributed to a select list of clients.

He delves deeper than other pollsters to determine the basis of American thinking. He doesn't merely ask questions but conducts exhaustive interviews on economics, politics and other subjects.

His latest political survey, based on interviews last August, has caused a stir in the backrooms of Washington. We have been slipped a copy.

Citing "the divergent poll reports about Gerald Ford," Caddell explains: "One national survey shows him popular; according to another, he is unpopular."

"The problem isn't in the polls. It stems from the fact that for American people, there are two Gerald Fords: a relatively popular and well-liked man, and a relatively poorly rated President."

Caddell points out that "64 per cent of the people are 'favorable' to Gerald Ford, but 61 per cent rate his presidential performance as 'only fair' or 'poor.'"

—Ex-Treasurer John Connally "is rated very unfavorably by Americans overall and even by many Republicans. Clearly, the residue of scandal has outlasted the news of his acquittal on the actual charges brought against him."

Alabama's Gov. George Wallace "has actually declined in popularity. The constant barrage of criticism aimed at him and his policies seems to be taking a toll."

GOLDEN GOOSE: In earlier reports, we revealed that Northrup Corporation, the giant defense contractor, had arranged goose hunts in Maryland and ski holidays in Colorado for military VIPs.

Now we have learned that Rockwell International, the nation's largest space contractor, has been inviting top space officials to its hunting lodge on Maryland's scenic eastern shore for goose shooting.

The company has provided free food, board, booze and blinds for the hunters — with emphasis, according to participants, on the booze. Administration bigwigs have sagged any goose, clearly, a spokesman said regulations are strictly enforced. "NASA investigators are looking into charges of impropriety," he said. The agency recently warned its employees, he added, about the regulations against accepting favors.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Franco Hemorrhages Again Fourth Operation Possible

MADRID, Spain (AP) — Generalissimo Francisco Franco suffered another massive abdominal hemorrhage early today. His doctors said the bleeding was being controlled but had not stopped.

Other medical sources said another operation was under consideration, but the hemorrhage had reduced Franco's blood pressure and temperature, making surgery inadvisable for the moment.

Franco has had three abdominal operations in the past two weeks, but each has checked the hemorrhaging only temporarily.

Second Economic Summit Seen

WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials predict there will be a 1976 international economic summit of the sort that produced a tentative accord between the United States and France on currency exchange rates.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told reporters Monday night that he expects another six-nation economic conference next year like the one that brought President Ford together with the leaders of France, Great Britain, West Germany, Italy and Japan at a 16th century chateau near Paris last weekend.

"If the conditions get critical, they will meet earlier," Kissinger said aboard Ford's plane returning here from Paris.

Soviet Prison Brutality Cited

LONDON (AP) — Amnesty International says the Soviet Union mistreats its 100,000 political prisoners that many are driven to suicide or self-mutilation.

Most of the prisoners are in constant hunger, their work is dangerous or unhealthy, and those in special psychiatric hospitals are subject to random beatings and abusive drug dosages, the report said.

"There are many recorded cases of convicts taking their own lives," it said.

Longwood To Sue For Utility Ownership

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — The City Council Monday night instructed City Attorney Ned Julian Jr. to file a lawsuit against Sanlando Utilities to gain ownership of sewer and water lines in four city subdivisions and to collect some $4,300 in utility tax payments.

Council Chairman J. R. Grant, who has pushed a program whereby city water service could be extended into the city's northwestern section, indicated the governing body is looking at this time to serving Devonshire subdivision with water only.

The council authorized the taking of bids for 1,600 feet of eight-inch water pipe to extend water from E. E. Williamson Road to inside the Devonshire subdivision entrance.

Julian has been negotiating for months with Sanlando Utilities, which serves the four city developments of Devonshire, Shely Hollow first addition, Winsor Manor and the Moorings, all north of SR 44, with water and sewer service to collect utility taxes the firm did not collect from its city customers over a four-year period.

During the negotiations, the council found that a past ad-added that the county should be approached to participate in the city project.

City Council member June Lormann recommended that colleagues be prepared to appear before the Seminole Legislative delegation at a local meeting in mid-December regarding the legislators "do something about a law saying the city can tell us what to do."

City Attorney Ned Julian Jr. reported to council last week that the Florida Public Service Commission (PSC) has taken the position that the city lost its right to control the rates and operation of privately-owned utilities operating within municipal limits when the county commission gave up its right to the state agency.

Julian told the governing body it had two courses of action open to it — either to sue the PSC attempting to retain the right of control, estimating legal costs could be more than $15,000 or to encourage legislators to amend the state constitution to stop counties from controlling city actions in this manner.

In other business, Monday night, council:

—Refunded $100 to Florida National Bank because it has withdrawn an application for a change in zoning to permit smaller size lots in Columbus Harbor subdivision.

Port Authority Elects Officers

A new slate of officers was voted into office at Monday's meeting of the Seminole County Port Authority.

Tom Blinford was re-elected chairman and Rodney Cable was elected vice-chairman. Edward Blackbeare moved from secretary to treasurer's position, while Donald Jackson took over as secretary. New member Jim Rowe was elected assistant secretary.

SCOPE Administrator Jim Ryan informed members that port authority tenant Standard Systems is presently retrofitting for construction of modular prison cells. Ryan said in the event a referendum for a new jail is rejected by residents of Seminole County, the company could provide minimum, moderate or maximum security modular cells for approximately 50 per cent of what they would cost if constructed conventionally. Ryan said Standard Systems would finance the construction of a modular facility, then lease it to the county. He added that a jail facility project would mean 100 to 150 jobs for Seminole County.

A promotional brochure was displayed at the meeting by Administrative Assistant Dennis Dolger. Although incomplete, the sample brochure received compliments from port authority board members.

Dolger said SCOPE's present promotional material was "sorely out of date" and the new materials were needed for presentations not only to industrial prospects, but to local groups.

SCOPE's tank farm is virtually complete, Ryan reported, with minor paving tasks to be completed next week.

Julian informed the council that an agreement is on file with the city from the utility company promising to deed the utility lines within Winsor Manor in the future, but no agreements are on file concerning the other three developments.

In addition, the company said it would execute agreements noting its willingness to deed the utility lines to the city if and when the city was in a position to serve the area with both water and sewer.

The city was unwilling to accept the terms offered. Julian informed the council that an agreement is on file with the city from the utility company promising to deed the utility lines within Winsor Manor in the future, but no agreements are on file concerning the other three developments.

'Trailblazing' Females Opened New Doors

The Herald Staff

The editors of the Reader's Digest have chosen 12 American women of the past as "trailblazers" who proved their professional competence during a time when opportunity for women was severely limited, and thus opened new doors for their sisters.

The trailblazing women are: Sarah Bagley (active 1835-46), America's first professional woman labor leader. After working in the Lowell, Mass., cotton mills, she founded the Lowell Female Labor Reform Association in 1844, with more than 200 mill girls as members. Two years later she gave up union activities to become probably the nation's first female telegraph operator, opening another new field to women.

Louise Blanchard Bethune (1835-1913), the first professional American woman architect. She worked as an architect's apprentice, then secured a license in 1869. She designed the standards of the profession, and as a woman's advocate urged "equal pay for equal work." In 1888 she became the first woman to be elected to the American Institute of Architects.

Elizabeth Blackwell (1821-1910), America's first woman physician. Rejected repeatedly by leading colleges because of her sex, she began studying medicine privately in 1845, was finally admitted to the Geneva (N.Y.) Medical College in 1847. In 1857 she established the New York Infirmary for Indigent Women and Children.

Fanny Marion Jackson Coppin (1837-1913), the first black woman to become a school principal. One of the first Negro women to graduate from college, she received her degree from Oberlin (Ohio) in 1865. As principal of the Institute for Colored Youth in Philadelphia, she set up a department of industrial education where young black men and women could get adequate training for an increasingly urbanized nation.

Amelia Earhart (1897-1937), who won fame in 1928 as the first woman passenger on a transatlantic flight, then flew the Atlantic alone in 1932. In 1935 she made the first solo flight over the hazardous route from Hawaii to California.

Bella Ann Lockwood (1830-1917), who on March 3, 1879, became the first woman attorney to argue before the Supreme Court of the United States. After her petition for admission to the Court had been denied three years earlier, she worked effectively for congressional passage of an historic bill permitting women to plead before the High Court.

Mary E. Mahoney (1845-1928), the first black woman trained nurse. She was a "trial nurse" at Boston's New England Hospital for Women and Children, and her high academic record at graduation encouraged the school to admit other black women. She was elected chaplain at the first annual meeting of the Association of Colored Graduate Nurses, and was one of the first black members of the American Nursing Association.

Maria Mitchell (1818-89), whose discovery of a new comet in 1847 brought her world fame and election as the first woman member of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences in 1848. In 1865 she became Vassar College's first professor of astronomy, a post she held until the year before her death. She was born on Nantucket Island, Mass.

Frances Perkins (1882-1965), the first woman member of the Cabinet. In the early 1900s she was an effective lobbyist for consumer rights, improved working conditions and factory safety. She was appointed Secretary of Labor by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1933. She was born in Massachusetts.

Jeanette Rankin (1868-1973), the first woman ever to serve in the United States Congress. A lifelong pacifist, she voted against U.S. entry into World War I, and was the only Member of the House to vote against the declaration of war on Japan after the attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941.

Ellen Swallow Richards (1842-1911) the first American woman to graduate from a scientific school. Her Bachelor of Science degree from the Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1873 led to regular admission of women students by MIT. In 1908 she became the first president of the American Home Economics Association.

Lacy Hobbs Taylor (1820-1910), the first woman in America to earn a dental degree. In Iowa during the 1860s, she was known as the "woman who pulled teeth." In 1865 she became the first woman to be elected to a State dental society. Having previously been denied admission to Iowa College of Dental Surgery (in those days a private practice), she was finally admitted to the school in 1865, and was granted her degree the following year.

DAR Plants Trees City Employees Honored

History has come full circle: In 1937, a tree was planted on behalf of Sallie Harrison Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution (DAR) — one in honor of Mrs. J. Anne Whitner, a local historian, and one for Mrs. H. J. Lehman, past DAR regent.

On Friday afternoon, in Fort Mellon Park, Sanford, Teston (himself now superintendent of parks) was honored when trees were planted on the DAR grounds. The DAR has planted trees for the city since 1937, and James R. Jerigan, director of recreation and parks, presented the colors was done by ROTC Junior Marine Corps of the Sanford Naval Academy under the direction of Sgt. Major H. M. Gilmore. Corps members included Michael Hiers, Tom Fleming, Robert Little and William Sulik.

Rev. William Ennis, pastor of All Saints Catholic Church, gave the invocation and the pledge to the flag was led by Miss Irene Hinton, chaplain of Sallie Harrison Chapter.

Lakeview School Choir, directed by Mrs. William Ellmore, sang "The Star Spangled Banner." Thereafter, guests were introduced by Mrs. F. E. Roumillat and trees were presented to a Sanford City representative by Mrs. A. W. Lee.

Chapter regent. Following the presentation of Teston and Jerigan, the Lakeview band played patriotic music.

Dr. Harold Harris, pastor of First Christian Church, gave the benediction, retiring of the colors was performed by Naval Academy cadets, and the band continued to play as the trees were planted.

Past winners have included: Irene Laney, Val Colbert, Mrs. Ralph Austin Smith, Maria

By modern laws — statute No. 84908, violation of which is a second-degree misdemeanor — playing cards, keno, roulette or faro for money or for anything is illegal.

It is rare that arrests of this nature are made. Usually, one of the players loses more than he can afford and either he or his wife complains, triggering action.

Letter Of Law Closes Games

The threat of anyone picking the letter of the law has closed the game and others like it something of a closed affair. Strangers are eyed cautiously, when admitted. The stakes are low.

But not too low.

The object isn't really to win. Money on the table is really a vehicle of frustrations. Poker being an art, its practitioners vary in skills thereof.

Poker players are something of habitual gamblers. Most of them frequent Central Florida pari-mutuel joints as well.

For them, the lure isn't winning X-amount of money, but the fun is in the action. Poker regulars are much like fans who frequent the horses, dogs or jai-alai night after night.

Winning is on the tip of the tongue, but the object is to have the capital to bring back the next night, not to buy a new dress or pair of shoes.

Aspects of gambling vary.

I know a preacher who is a football fan. He bets nickles on NFL games every weekend with a close friend. They argue for hours about what might have happened if Big Bubba hadn't blocked those extra points, or if O.J. hadn't slipped and fell.

But in the end, preach pays up and vows to get his quarter back the next week. Their's is a private series of wagers, and his parishioners — many of whom probably wager more every week — are unaware of the common bond.

The point is, almost everybody does it. Football coaches do it at midfield on fourth and inches. Army generals do it on strategy boards during every world war. Mothers too, if only at the grocery store when she writes a check and hustles a deposit to the bank early the next day.

Come to think of it, I do it several times a week when we flip a coin to see who buys the Cokes.

The future of poker? The institution can't be killed overnight, even by article No. 84908.

There are too many kitchen blands.

And they are making Venetian blinds better than ever.

Kathleen, Vero Vote Not To Go Bowling

Button, button... who's got the blotto? That's the game area high school football committees are playing as they scramble to fill berths for Nov. 29 Lakerland Kathleen and Vero Beach — probably No. 1 and 2 on want lists — voted Monday not to attend any bowl game.

Which leaves the Rotary Bowl and Sentinel Star Bowling looking for opponents.

Seminole High has agreed to play in the Rotary Bowl, and officials are looking at a number of teams as possible opponents. The list includes New Smyrna Beach, Titusville, Satellite, Bishop Moore and Auburndale.

Oak Ridge, likely designated from the Metro Conference as host team for the Sentinel Star Bowl, has left that bowl's officials concerned. Vibeators from the South Orlando school indicate the Vibeators might also prefer to stay home and not play in a bowl.

Oak Ridge was riding high toward a state playoff berth, and had achieved a No. 1 state ranking earlier in the season. But Winter Park crept in the back door and knocked Oak Ridge out of the playoffs last weekend.

Rotary Bowl officials were disappointed and slightly miffed about Kathleen and Vero Beach declining invitations.

"I don't understand their thinking," said Andy Anderson, a Rotary committee member. "When I was in high school, we would have done anything for a bowl bid. Something seems wrong, but I can't put my finger on it."

Seminole season ticket holders will get their shot at reserved seats for the Rotary Bowl game at Lyman High.

Those who have season tickets are urged to contact the Seminole High athletic department by Friday in order to reserve their tickets.

Tickets are $2.50.

Shades of Damon Runyon! There sits the Count, checking his cards, studying expressions of other players at the table. They call him The Count, because he continuously counts and recounts his money. His mind is something of a computer in that after 10 hours of playing, calling, bumping and bumping back, he knows to the dollar how he stands.

Across from him is the Duke of DeLand. He's the quiet one. Not that he doesn't say his piece. But he's a quiet player. Not given to bluffing, he is likewise tough to bluff out of a hand.

Then there's the To-do-Lou. That what they call him. In reality it's Lou to you, Lou. He's the sleeper. Players have to continually prod him that it's his turn to call the bet.

Softsart Ray is the eager one of the group. He carries his own pillow to combat overtime rigors at the table.

The game, if one hasn't guessed, is poker. Specifically, it's dealers choice.

It happens all over the country on Friday nights, sometimes even weeknights when boys grow tall stage their "night out."

Duke, Count, Softsart and To-do-Lou have names. And families. Their's are expressions of competition among themselves. Considered illegal by the letter of the law, poker is quickly becoming a lost art.

There was the day when the town marshal would have been a regular at the table, usually in the saloon. If I remember correctly, Wild Bill Hickok did playing draw poker, holding a pair of aces and a pair of eights, known to this day as "dead man's hand."

By modern laws — statute No. 84908, violation of which is a second-degree misdemeanor — playing cards, keno, roulette or faro for money or for anything is illegal.

It is rare that arrests of this nature are made. Usually, one of the players loses more than he can afford and either he or his wife complains, triggering action.

Safely back from a nearly all-road trip, Seminole Community College's basketball Raiders (3-6) take on Florida College (1-4) at 7:30 tonight in a game coach Joe Sterling looks on as a test of his team's character.

The Raiders passed another kind of test Monday night at Bradenton coming from behind to pull off a six-point halftime deficit to overhaul Manatee Junior College 67-60 in their first road game of the season.

"They were real tough down there," Sterling said today. "We had to go out there and to our bench in order to turn it around."

Seminole played almost the entire game without starting center Vernon Johnson, who saw only limited action because of the flu. Terry Jamieson picked up the slack for the ailing Johnson, popping in 10 points and leading the Raiders in rebounds with nine.

Sterling was worried today about Florida College, well-rested after an 85-78 win over tough Lake City in a Saturday night opener.

"We were on the road about 3 this morning, and some of our players have classes starting at 8," Sterling said.

Sterling was also concerned about John Zeuli, a sparkplug who injured his knee against Manatee. "We'll just have to see about that later," Sterling said. "I don't know right now just how much John will be able to play tonight."

The Raiders hit on 25-of-61 field goal attempts against the Lancers Monday night and converted 17-of-26 free throws to come out on top after a slow start. Seminole took the lead point in the game and at one point pushed its edge to 12 points.

Sterling was pleased with the all-around play of Chip Noe, who hit on five field goals and made 8-of-9 free throws for 18 points.

Jamieson, seeing more action than he had in either of the Raiders' first two games, attempted 15 shots and made seven.

After tonight's Florida College game, which gets going at 7:30, the Raiders will have a chance to rest until Saturday when they hit the road again — this time to Cocoa where they will take on highly-regarded Brevard Community College.

CINCINNATI (AP) — How good was Cincinnati quarterback Ken Anderson, Monday night?

Anderson's 447-yard aerial assault against the Buffalo Bills put the young National Football League signal caller at the head of the class.

"I've never a day when a guy was so precise," said Myers, whose seven receptions for 108 yards helped the Bengals overcome a 197-yard rushing feat by O.J. Simpson for a nationally televised 35-24 victory over the Bills.

"He's by far the best quarterback in the game," said Myers. "Every pass he had time to throw was perfect."

The fifth-year pro from little Augustana (Ill.) College called it "my best performance."

Even the vanquished Bills agreed that Anderson was something else.

"Anderson was unreal," said Simpson, who fell three yards shy of breaking Jimmy Brown's all-time career mark of five 200-yard games.

Anderson, hitting 30 of 46 passes with no interceptions, shredded the Buffalo secondary to shatter by 85 yards his former club record of 552 yards set last year against Houston. He fired a pair of touchdown passes to Lenvil Elliott and Charlie Joiner and methodically moved the Bengals the length of the field when necessary.

"We knew we'd have problems with the pass," said Simpson, "but he just picked us but Notre Dame, No. 9 a week ago, bowed to Pitt 34-30 and disappeared from the Top Twenty. It was believed to be the first time since a 27 record in 1952 that the Irish were not in the rankings.

Colorado moved up from 10th to ninth by beating Kansas 24-21 while idle Penn State rose from 11th to 10th.

Pitt, which dropped out of the Top Twenty a week ago following a loss to West Virginia, made it back by whipping Notre Dame. Arkansas resurfaced following a four-week absence by trouncing Southern Methodist 35-7 and Maryland climbed back in after a week's absence by edging Clemson 22-20.

First Wife's Photo Chills Second's Passion

DEAR ABBY: I am 39 and Len is 42. We've been married less than a year. My first husband died, and so did Len's first wife.

The problem: Len put two pictures in a large double frame — one of me and one of his first wife. He put these pictures in our bedroom on the dresser facing our bed, and he keeps looking at these pictures when we're in bed. (He's slightly cross-eyed so I can't tell whether he's looking at the picture of me or of one of his first wife.)

I feel very self-conscious with his first wife staring at me from the dresser, but I don't know how to tell him. I wouldn't mind so much if Len kept that picture in another room. Am I making myself clear?

How do I handle this?

INHIBITED IN INDIANA

DEAR INHIBITED: Level with Len. Tell him it's difficult to entertain romantic notions with that picture on the dresser. Len will have to make a choice between a dead wife on the dresser and a live one in bed.

DEAR ABBY: I'm a divorced

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 46 years. He is a good provider, but in other ways he is something else.

For example, he never wants me to go anywhere without him. One night, I went to a movie with our daughter, and he was so mad when I got home that the bedroom door was locked and I had to sleep on the floor since we don't have a full-length sofa.

He does all the grocery shopping. I quit going along because every item I put in the shopping cart he would put back.

I get a Social Security check for $101.94. My husband says that $2 a month is enough for me, and he wants the rest of it. I am not happy. He has been married, but I stayed with him because of the children, and now it's too late to pull out. I need your help.

CONFUSED

DEAR CONFUSED: If your husband has been this way for

DEAR ABBY: I doubt if you can change him. Have a key made for your bedroom door in case he locks you out again, hang a sign on your social security money and try to keep the peace.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to: ABBY, Box No. 47708, L.A. Cal. 90049. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Be sure to write letters! Send $1 to: Absentee Post Office, P.O. Box 359, Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Or, Dr. Beverly S. Platter, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (10c) envelope.

DEAR ABBY: I met a 44-year-old man. He's a widower with a 15-year-old daughter living at home. He wants to marry me and take care of me and my children.

He has offered me a lovely home, a new car and lots of new clothes. He says he loves me. I told him I wasn't sure I loved him because he's my father's age, but he told me that I would learn to love him.

Abby, can a person "learn" to love somebody?

It is hard to offer up everything he's passing up, but I'm afraid my mom and dad won't think he's right for me because he's kind of bald, wears glasses and is not much to look at.

Also, I'm afraid everyone will notice the difference in our ages, and they'll think I married him for his money.

Another thing: His daughter acts kind of cool to me. I'm afraid she might think I am taking her father away from her but I swear I'm not.

I had such a bad marriage that this offer is tempting. What should I do?

TEMPTED

DEAR TEMPTED: When in many fears and doubts about this man to marry him. Go slowly, dear.

And in answer to your question: No, I don't think a person can "learn" to love somebody. Perhaps in time, you could learn to appreciate his generosity, but that's not love.
