

Lot Purchases On Installment Are Tightened

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Legislature completed action today on the administration bill to regulate installment purchases of Florida subdivision lands and gave a big boost to the huge bond financing program urged by the Governor.

The measure creating a five-member commission to check advertising and to license persons selling subdivision lots, went to the Governor's desk after the Senate concurred in several House changes. One change allows rather than requires the regulatory board to make investigations of complaints of fraudulent claims.

Meanwhile, the Senate received and unanimously adopted the report of a special bond investigating committee which, in effect, recommended that the Legislature go along with the Governor's request to borrow up to $125 million to expand universities and junior colleges.

But the committee said it will sponsor legislation to put safeguards on the program, including creation of a bond review board. It would be composed of four legislators and the cabinet, to pass on every bond issue proposed.

It also gave endorsement to two measures put before the Legislature by Sen. John Matthews, of Jacksonville. One writes into law ceilings on interest and other costs of bond issues and the other sets up an interim committee of the Legislature to investigate the entire bond financing field in the next two years.

Well Rested Cooper Goes For 'Broke'

By LARRY VERSHEL

Sorry to disappoint you all, but I'm back . . . Something about this place I can't get out of my shoes . . . Can't forget or leave behind . . . Maybe it's the good friend ship I have with Gene Tucker, George Touhy and Howard Hodges.

Would have been back sooner but I tried to talk the book publishers into using a picture of Charlton Heston on the book jacket instead of mine . . . They wouldn't buy it . . . Tony Curtis wouldn't do, nor Richard Burton. The book will be published the week of June 8.

In The New York Press the Birmingham story rates bigger headlines than Cooper's flight . . . One paper featured 11 stories regarding the violence, bigotry, etc., in the south . . . On the street where my father lives there's a sign by a new apartment house . . . "White tenants only."

To make matters worse . . . Someone stole my sunglasses in New York.

Just not good etiquette to fly torn flags . . . Too many downtown.

May 28 will be a big day at Seminole High School. That's the day the various civic clubs will pitch in to aid the Little Red School House . . . It will be called Merry-go-Round . . . More on this later.

That proposed trip to New York by two City Commissioners on that prep school has been called off . . . County put a wrench in the deal, wants 50 per cent on everything the city makes on the proposition. . . There will be a special joint city-county meeting at noon tomorrow.

The only thing the Bryant Committee agrees on is to disagree.

Notice City Clerk Hank Tamm Jr. with a white shirt and tie on today . . . City commissioners making a check of all departments.

Watch for BIG, BIG news in the next 30 days about the former Del-Mar plant. We hear an option has been granted.

Next meeting of the County Commission will be held Wednesday, May 29, rather than the regular meeting day, Tuesday, May 28, according to Clerk Arthur H. Beckwith Jr.

Social Security representative from Orlando will be at the City Commission room here between 9 a. m. and noon on Wednesday, June 5, 12, 19 and 26.

We must have missed a real hot county commission meeting Tuesday. Two county commissioners told us that the commission laid it on the line to Supt. of Schools R. T. Milwee that the school board not pick any out-of-the-way school sites when the county has to furnish roads into the site. (Like English Estates).

April 24 saw 3,276,113 gallons of water consumed here. This is an all-time high.

Move is under way to have show fishing in the upper St. Johns River featured in the Florida exhibit at the New York World's Fair.

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — L. Gordon Cooper reeled off orbit after orbit today as he whirled at more than 17,500 miles an hour through space on America's greatest space flight.

After 7½ hours of sleep in drifting flight, from which he awakened in "very good shape," the 36-year-old astronaut headed into the final laps of his 22.9-orbit mission scheduled to end in the Pacific about 6:23 p.m.

At 8:37 a.m. ground controllers gave him the go-ahead for completion of his flight plan. That was during his 17th circuit of the globe, wrapped up at 9:13 a.m.

A little while later, as Cooper soared over the South Indian Ocean, in his 18th orbit, Lt. Col John A. (Shorty) Powers of the space agency reported that everything aboard the Faith 7 spacecraft was in "emphatic good condition" with capital letters underscored.

Three area sailors are taking part in the planned recovery operation for Astronaut Gordon Cooper, Aubrey L. Whitten, ship's servicesman 1/C, son of Mrs. H. E. Whitten, 608 Elm Avenue, is aboard the destroyer USS C. R. Ware in the Atlantic, and Michael W. Dietrick, fireman, son of Mr. and Mrs. William W. Dietrick, R. R. 1, Oviedo, is aboard the destroyer USS Lofberg in the Pacific. David L. Hart, airman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Luther C. Hart, Altamonte Springs, is aboard the aircraft carrier USS Wasp off Bermuda.

Cooper long since had broken all previous U. S. space flight records and at 9:23 a.m. had become the No. 3 astronaut of the world. At that moment he surpassed the 25-hour 18-minute flight of Soviet cosmonaut Gherman S. Titov who flew 17 orbits Aug. 6-7, 1961. Cooper's full mission of more than 34 hours would not, however, come close to the 71-hour and 45-hour Russian flights of last August.

Cooper's job was to get information vital to success of the U. S. Gemini two-man and Apollo moon flights to come. At 9:20 a.m., for example, he took photographs of the earth's horizon. The space agency hopes the horizon will serve as a navigational aid in both Gemini and Apollo flights.

In his 16th orbit, Cooper transmitted an message to an international meeting of African statesmen in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia. As he passed over the city he wished success to the statesmen and said, "Good luck to all of you in Africa."

Cooper awoke from his sleep, first ever taken in space by an American, "very calm, very relaxed." He got his go-ahead to complete his mission 24 hours and 23 minutes after he had rocketed into space Wednesday.

The educational committee also approved and sent to the calendar a proposal allowing public school teachers to remain on annual contract for more than a year.

The bill would appropriate $30,000 to get the college started.

ANNUAL POPPY DAY will be observed locally when members of American Legion Auxiliary Unit 53 will distribute the bright red flowers Friday and Saturday to raise funds for its rehabilitation and welfare programs for disabled veterans and families of deceased veterans. On Impacted Funds $100,000 School Loss?

Seminole County schools stand to lose approximately $100,000 in federal aid annually if a bill approved by a U. S. House of Representatives education sub-committee becomes law.

This sum is received by the local schools toward added expenses in educating children of Navy and Air Force personnel assigned to the Sanford Naval Air Station.

School Supt. R. T. Milwee said today the local School Board will "wait and see" if this measure becomes law and then, if so, will await for instructions from the federal government's annual declassification of Seminole County schools.

About 650 Southern school districts were threatened today with possible loss of so-called impacted area federal aid funds unless they desegregate their classrooms.

An amendment carrying this penalty was passed Wednesday by a House sub-committee which approved a $382-million, one year extension of federal aid to areas where schools are crowded with children of non-taxpaying servicemen and government employees.

If the amendment is still in the bill when it comes to a final vote, Southern congressmen may be faced with accepting the desegregation or voting to kill the entire aid program.

The impacted area program, vital to many local education budgets, affect about 11 million students in 4,300 school districts. Last year $264.5 million was spent under the plan, and $69.5 million went to Southern states. Testimony last year showed that over 650 Southern school districts had not taken any desegregation steps.

Under the new amendment, segregated school districts would be required to file an integration plan with the office of education when they apply for impacted area funds. The district would have until June 30, 1964 to put integration into effect.

Negroes staged another big demonstration in North Carolina Wednesday night in a protest against segregation at restaurants and theaters.

MEMORIAL DAY for deceased Florida law enforcement officers was observed Wednesday by Sanford police when they placed flags, as shown here with Chief Roy Williams, in Sanford, Geneva, Oviedo and Chuluota cemeteries. Flag at the Sanford police station was flown at half-mast. Chief Williams said no one Sanford police officer has been killed in the line of duty during his 40 years with the department. (Herald Photo)

"they are not talking much—they are too mixed up in their stories." The sheriff explained the contributing charge in that the men were drinking in the presence of a boy.

The autopsy was ordered when, as reported by Coroner Peterson, "there were evidences of foul play." The coroner said there were cuts, bruises and other injuries about Dodson's head. He added the body had been in the water for several hours before Gilbert reported to the Volusia sheriff's department at 3:30 a.m. Wednesday.

Dodson was a World War II veteran having served with the U. S. Marines in the Asiatic and Pacific theaters.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 a.m. Saturday by Rev. G. D. Boatwright, Church of God, at the Brisson Funeral Home. Burial will be in Sylvan Lake Cemetery.

Milk Marketing Pool Bill Dies

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A hotly-contested bill to set up milk-marketing pools for dairy farmers around the state met its death in a senate committee today after Sen. Dempsey Barron, Panama City, called it "socialism."

The senate public health "B" committee, however, passed and sent to the floor another controversial bill which would change the size and directorship of the state milk commission.

The committee sliced off the controversial part of the second bill before it was passed in taking out a provision to kill the milk commission's power to establish retail prices on milk.

FEC Strike Talks End In 'Failure'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — non-operating unions walked off their jobs Jan. 23 when the carrier refused to give them a 10.28 cents an hour wage increase.

Federal efforts to end the five-month old Florida East Coast Railway strike ended in failure Wednesday when FEC Chairman Ed Hall turned thumbs down on a proposal for binding arbitration.

Hall replied to the proposal, made by Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz, by saying that "the railway does not desire to submit the issues to non-interested parties to settle the questions in the dispute."

Representatives of 11 non-operating unions striking the FEC said Tuesday they would be willing to accept binding arbitration.

Stand Firm, Citizens Told

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) Mayor Art Hanes called upon citizens of this racially torn city Wednesday night to repudiate an agreement between a group of businessmen and Negro leaders to desegregate downtown stores.

"It is time to stand firm and back your city government, which has pledged to resist forced integration," Hanes, told a crowd of around 600 persons at City Auditorium.

Vegetable Market

In New York Wednesday, the market for vegetables was generally dull, with many items at lower prices. This is fairly normal for Wednesday's trading. Cabbage was a bit lower at $2.75-$3 per crate, with one mark of $3.50. Red type sold mostly for $4 with small size $3-$3.50, and Savoy in fair condition and irregular size $2-$2.50.

Cabbage offerings also were reported from Georgia and both Carolinas. Chinese cabbage was steady at $4 for unwrapped heads, and $5-$5.50 for wrapped. Escarole ranged from $2-$3 per crate, mostly $2-$2.75, and endive was slightly weaker at $2.75-$3.25, mostly $2.75-$3. Fair condition endive and escarole ranged as low as $1.25 per crate. Cucumbers were priced lower, at $3-$4 per bushel basket, mostly $3-$3.50, and small size at $2-$2.50. Celery moved slowly at unchanged prices, with crates of two to three dozen mostly $3-$3.50, four dozen $2.50-$3, and six dozen $2.75. Cartons of film wrapped hearts were $3.50. No Florida Big Boston type lettuce was offered, and Romaine was generally fair quality and sold for $1-$1.50 per crate.

Parley was slightly stronger at $5 for crates of five dozen bunches of plain type, and no curly type sales were reported. California Wonder type peppers, extra large, were $3.25-$4 per bushel. Florida radishes were slightly weaker. Baskets of 30-six ounce film bags sold for $1.50-$1.75.

In Central Florida, there was a very good demand for light offerings of cabbage which sold for $1.75 per crate, and $1.50 in 50-pound sacks. There were practically no offerings of Red and Savoy types. Demand was slow for celery with prices unchanged. Crates of two to four dozen were $2 and six to eight dozen $2.25. Crates of 24 film wrapped hearts sold for $3. Parley was slightly stronger at $3.50 per crate.

Most offering of beans were fair quality because of the dry weather, and bushel hampers of Harvester type sold mostly for $2.25-$2.75, with a few good quality $3.50. Cucumbers were generally $2.50 per bushel basket, with small size $2.25 and fair quality $1.75. Carrots, topped and washed in 48-one pound film bags, sold for $3.15 and Chinese cabbage, both wrapped and unwrapped, brought $2.50. Endive was $2 per crate for the best, but most offerings were fair quality and condition and sold for $1.50-$1.75. Escarole was $1.75 per crate. Big Boston lettuce was slightly weaker, selling at $2.75 for crates of 24 heads, and Romaine moved slowly at $1.75. Radishes were $1.25 per basket.

Shipments from Florida included Celery rail six cars, truck 48 carlot equivalents; cabbage nine cars by rail, 37 by truck; endive rail two, truck eight; cucumbers rail 16, truck 70; and radishes no rail, truck 14.

The original state capital in Austin, Texas, was a wooden one-story building, which was protected from Indians by an eight-foot stockade, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Club Officers Are Installed At HD County Council Meeting

By Mrs. H. L. Johnson
The Seminole County Home Demonstration Council met at the Center for an all day meeting last Thursday. Mrs. Charles Sasaman, Council President, was in charge of the meeting. Mrs. Cecil Tucker gave the devotional and led the group in singing America the Beautiful and the devotional which centered around the song.

Reports were given by the secretary and treasurer. The Council voted to change the name from Home Demonstration to Home Economics Extension Service and also voted to send a check to the lady who gave a demonstration on Pine Needle Bags.

Members wishing to go to Camp McQuarrie this summer can contact Miss Myrtle Wilson, County Agent. Mrs. Sasaman appointed a committee of Mrs. T. H. Stiles, Mrs. William Holmbeck and Mrs. H. L. Johnson to get estimates on the materials for the construction of a stage for the center.

At eleven o'clock, Mrs. H. L. Johnson, Past Council President, installed the new club officers of each club. These officers will serve for the 1963-64 term.

Guest speaker for the day was Douglas Stenstrom, Seminole County attorney, who spoke on County Government. His talk, which was thoroughly enjoyed by the members, was climaxed with a question and answer period.

A covered dish luncheon was served at noon. More than 60 members attended the meeting and installation.

The Geneva Club, who were hostesses for the day, gave Mothers Day corsages to the oldest mother, Mrs. Bertha Lindsey; youngest mother, Mrs. Robert Mann; mother with the most children, Mrs. Julius Blackwelder. Miss Ellalee Kirchhoff gave corsages to the mothers with the most grandchildren: Mrs. Harold Wallace with 18; Mrs. Pearl Yarbrough with 12 and Mrs. John Jones with 10.

Federation Of Art Sponsors May Day Festival In DeBary

By Mrs. Adam Muller
DeBary's old Mansion House sparkled in a fresh coat of paint and ladies in dress of the era mingled with eager guests Saturday at a May Day Festival sponsored by the Florida Federation of Art, Inc. with Mrs. George Brooks as chairman and Viola Howard as co-chairman.

Olnee Hinton played clown for the Kiddle Korner which was set upon the grounds and gifts were distributed to the soft drinks and hot dogs were sold out of doors by members of the American Legion and meals were served in the dining room by members of the DeBary Women's Club under the general supervision of Mrs. Ell Yoder. Mrs.

Chester Rearick was cashier. The refreshment committee in the kitchen consisted of Viola Leone, chairman who was assisted by Ivan Walker; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Newell, Mrs. William Williams, Fred McLaren and Olga Crosby.

The program of entertainment began at 11 a. m. with a concert by the DeBary Choristers under the direction of Laura Platt Brown with Theresa Kupecz as pianist.

This group, dressed in sun bonnets and old fashioned dress, posed for several color photographs which will be used in a forthcoming issue of the Florida Magazine. A program of gypsy music and old time favorites, presented on the veranda by a musical trio made up of violin, guitar and accordion, was so enthusiastically received that many members of the audience were unable to refrain from dancing on the lawn.

The DeBary Choristers featured male voices in a spring program of Stephen Foster songs presented following lunch.

The Arts and Crafts Booth, set up in the patio under direction of Mrs. H. Pray, chairman, displayed every type of craft and skill imaginable and featured many lovely foreign articles for sale.

Originality, Neatness Bring Award

By Mona Grinstead
Originality displayed by Mr. and Mrs. Gene Giddings of 50 N. Devon Ave., North Orlando, in using seashells and drift-wood from Sanibel Island to decorate their carport and flower beds, plus an overall neatness in general appearance of the home and lawn, brought the couple this month's Garden of the Month Award from the North Orlando Garden Club.

Podocarpus and palms on each side of the driveway lead the eye to a red brick planter filled with lilies, marigolds, fern, azalea and periwinkle. A planter on the north side of the carport is filled with violets, alysium and other annuals while another planter, directly in front of the doorway, contains stock aster, four o'clocks and zinnias.
An amaryllis bed is located at the foot of the planter and azaleas, ligustrum, gardenias and hibiscus are used to fill a bed in front of the with yucca palm on the corner.

On the south side of the carport, a bed of marigolds, periwinkles, poinsettias, zinnias and pinks provide color around the base of a boagavilla framing a trellis. From this point a small hedge of ligustrum and ixora form a line fencing in a shaded play-ground area for the Giddings' daughter, two-and-one-half-year old Sheryl.

The back fence is thickly covered with a flowering vine which yields lavender and white blooms at the same time.

Cosmic Yak-Yak

In 35 years — 1927 through 1962 — overseas telephone calls have increased from 11,000 calls to 5 million conversations in a single year.

Demands for circuits in the ever-rising tide of communication already are lapping at the floodwater mark of capacity for present equipment. It would seem to call for some out-of-this-world solution to the problem being posed for communication engineers.

And that is exactly where the solution lies — out of this world. The development of Telstar, the communications satellite, opens the potential for almost limitless overseas telephonic capacity.

When Telstar's sister satellites begin to circle the earth, they and satellites which will orbit after them are expected to provide the means of handling 100 million calls a year by 1980.

The Pursuit Of Excellence

"The greatest resource we have, and the one we sometimes take the least pride in developing is the human mind."

Astronaut John Glenn uttered the words in the course of a talk to the nation's newspaper publishers.

He also said we have to exhibit the same respect and admiration for academic excellence that we now show for achievements in sports, in business, in entertainment and other fields.

The same note recently was struck even more solemnly by Dr. Ernst Mayr, director of Harvard's Museum of Comparative Zoology. He suggests we stop belittling superior persons and start rewarding them.

In a comprehensive report on the newest developments in evolutionary theory, Mayr dares to hint that the human race may have reached its zenith in intelligence and may need to husband all the mental resources it has.

The early humans who could think best were the ones who survived — and passed intelligence to their children. After men banded together in groups, more general survival became easier. Today physical survival is assured for virtually all, regardless of intelligence level.

This means, says Mayr, that superior persons are proportionately a vastly smaller part of the total population than once was true. In consequence, it becomes increasingly difficult for them to assert their gifts for leadership, for creativity, for organization — all of which modern society badly needs.

As average or below average individuals rise in total numbers with the huge population boom, the difficulty is magnified. Less and less are the processes of society designed to serve and advance the mightily useful gifted person.

Mayr suggests that overpopulation could have dire effect in this regard long before the earth reaches "standing room only."

"Men," he says, "would become involved in such a hopeless struggle with social, economic and engineering problems — and the harmful by-products of crowded cities — that little opportunity would be left for cultivation of man's highest and most specifically human attributes."

Here we come back to John Glenn's and Dr. Mayr's prescription for a way out: elevate superiority to the eminence it deserves.

Haven't we had enough of sneering at Harvard, of deriding intelligent folk as "square," of not downright subversive?

No matter what some politicians argue, the Common Denominator is not the Great American. If we insist on demeaning superiority and on putting our faith in the mentally common-place, we may one day find ourselves adrift on an ocean of ordinariness which has no end.

Helen Fuller Says

Lull In Haiti

WASHINGTON — The lull in Haiti is no assurance that the violence is over. So long as Dictator Francois Duvalier remains in the Presidential chair, he occupies illegally, the immediate physical threat of injury or death will remain for all those within his reach.

But the recent crisis between Haiti and the Dominican Republic also holds out a promise of greater hope for the future in Haiti. If the Organization of American States through its on-the-spot inspection team can preside over a peaceful replacement of the Duvalier government, all those who wish this poorest country in the hemisphere well can get back to the job of helping the Haitians improve their condition of life.

Friends of Haiti concluded some time ago that it was useless to send more aid to this backward island until Duvalier was deposed. For more than a year the objective of U. S. policy toward Haiti has been Duvalier's downfall. Last year the $12 million in aid that had been going to Haiti annually from the United States was cut to less than $1 million. And that amount was carefully controlled to make sure that it was spent for anti-malaria work and construction of a jet airstrip and not for support of Duvalier's secret police.

The Dictator convinced many of his people that the withdrawal of U. S. aid was "white" vengeance on the one wholly "black" republic in the Americas. But a great many other Haitians, with first-hand knowledge of personal kindness from American missionaries and doctors, reportedly have not swallowed Duvalier's anti-American excuse for Haiti's economic distress.

group of "Beautiful Americans" — in contrast to the "Ugly Americans" of greater fame — the United States is favorably known in almost every part of the island. Since 1960 American doctors and nurses, serving as members of teams organized by MEDICO, a volunteer organization, have staffed a hospital in remote southern Haiti. For more than a dozen years an Episcopal nun from Boston and a Baptist lady missionary from North Carolina have run rehabilitation programs for handicapped children in Port-au-Prince and Cap-Haitien, at the northern tip of Haiti, 50 miles from Cuba. An heir to the Mellon millions from Pittsburgh and his wife built and are running at little or no cost to the patients a modern hospital in rural central Haiti. Surgeons from Atlanta and other U. S. cities regularly spend their vacations in Haiti, operating free of charge on children under treatment by these American doctors and missionaries on the scene.

As one who has seen these "Beautiful Americans" in action, this reporter can testify that the Haitians are appreciative — and unlikely, in my opinion to be fooled for long into thinking that a country that sends them friends like these is itself less than a friend to Haiti.

The next two weeks will be a crucial time.

Duvalier intends to declare himself re-elected to another term as President — without going through the motions of a vote. On May 22 he will call on the nation to stage a celebration in honor of his continuance in power. Then, if ever, is a moment that may inspire revolt. What is to be hoped is that with the OAS mission, acting as the agent for all the Americas there to restrain Duvalier's goon squad, Haitians will oust their Dictator and again take control of their government.

I've Not Been In The Bottle

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

Marvin broke the spell that had made him regard the girl next door as just a pal. He didn't believe my magic formula would work, but he was willing to give it a fair test. We psychologists don't care whether you always believe, as long as you will APPLY the proper scientific prescription we offer you.

CASE P-430: Marvin G., is the attorney who wanted to fall in love with the girl next door.

But they had grown up as pals, so they were more like brother and sister.

It even made him embarrassed just to think about kissing her.

"I clam up at the very idea," he stated.

"It would be like trying to grow romantic about my own sister, so I'd have to force myself even to try to kiss her."

But I urged him to take her to a drive-in movie where he could put his arm around her during the show.

Then I prescribed that he draw her close and kiss her.

"But don't give her a quick little peck on the cheek or a fleeting kiss on the lips," I warned.

"For a brief kiss will not shatter the taboo that you have built up since childhood."

"Instead, prolong your kiss for at least 10 seconds. Kiss her as the movie stars kiss their leading ladies."

"And even if you must force yourself to go through these proper motions, you will soon be surprised to find that the corresponding emotion will then suffuse you."

Well, Marvin sheepishly grinned and vowed he'd follow orders, even if it did seem much like taking medicine.

"She is a wonderful girl and I'd consider myself lucky to have such a woman for my wife," he admitted, "if only I could shatter this pesky waisy or 'sister' complex I have about her."

The following Friday night he invited her to a movie.

She was delighted and gaily maintained sparkling repartee till the show began.

Then Marvin slipped his arm around her shoulders and drew her close.

It was awkward for him to do so, as he admitted later, and she may have felt a bit self-conscious, too, for they had been so much like brother and sister that romance was alien to their relationship.

At the proper romantic climax of the movie, Marvin took a deep breath and kissed her.

He started to end the kiss after just a moment of time, for he felt embarrassed and self-conscious.

"But then I remembered what you had told me, Dr. Crane. So I consciously kept her lips imprisoned in a longer kiss."

"I don't know when it hit me, but possibly after 5 or 6 seconds I began to glow all over."

"Instead of feeling a well-earned repugnance, I suddenly reacted to her as a sweetheart."

"So within 10 seconds our emotional attitude had changed entirely. This invisible barrier was swept away, as if by magic."

"And I kissed her some more. That first kiss was your prescription, Dr. Crane, but the next was my own idea."

"I was ardently in love with her all within half a minute, so I proposed to her right then and there."

"She was as startled and shocked as I was at this electrifying change but she must have felt what I did, for with stars in her eyes she agreed to be my wife."

"And we are getting married next month. Now I can't even imagine ever having viewed her as just a pal, for I get butterflies whenever I talk to her."

Dear Friends:

Your lovely Easter Bunny with his Easter house gave our lobby a very special look for Easter.

The children enjoyed their baskets and gifts very much. If you could only have been present to watch them as they received their gifts and baskets we are sure that you would have felt very well paid for all you have done for them.

Your continued thoughtfulness throughout the years has not only given us the equipment which we badly needed but also has made the lives of the children much happier through your special days of remembrance of the dead.

Sincerely,

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — American policy on the Haitian crisis is to have someone on the ground to pick up the pieces and put them together again, when and if the place explodes.

This will avoid the mistake made on the other end of the island of Hispaniola after the assassination of dictator Rafael Trujillo. The United States had broken diplomatic relations with the Dominican Republic as a protest against its government. Getting back in to stabilize the situation took a major effort.

U. S. Ambassador Raymond L. Thurston in the Haitian capital of Port-au-Prince therefore has a nasty assignment cut out for him. Flying out dependents of American diplomats who remain in Haiti was first step of his plan of action.

Dr. Francois Duvalier's term as Haiti's president ends a week before he is scheduled to be inaugurated for a second term on May 22. It is in this period, when there will be no constitutional government, that the big trouble could come.

Anything might happen. It could be a revolution of the traditional Haitian blood bath variety. Duvalier might be assassinated. He might flee the country. Or he might put down his enemies with the support of his black mass voodoo following.

American officials minimize, however, the possibility of an invasion of Haiti from the Dominican Republic, its new president, Juan Bosch, a refugee from his own country for most of his adult life, has been having his own troubles in handling domestic reconstruction.

Ordering his army to the Haitian border for a threatened 50-mile downhill march on Port-au-Prince was a diversionary tactic. It rallied opposition to his support. His problem now is to get off the invasion hook as gracefully as he can.

It is impossible to conceive of a more tangled and confused situation. The United States does not now intend to intervene.

It is relying on the Organization of American States mission sent back into Haiti for pacification. If that fails, OAS might ask the United States—which has the necessary ships, planes and men—to act as agents in restoring order.

While the U. S. Navy — really Marine—and Air Force military missions have been withdrawn from Haiti at Duvalier's request, a U. S. Military Assistance Advisory Group of 25 remains.

U. S. tourist trade which formerly accounted for two-thirds of Haiti's foreign exchange earnings has evaporated. There has been no American aid to Haiti for over a year.

To keep a foot on the ground, the U. S. has agreed to finance enlargement of the Port-au-Prince airport, insisting that the work be done by an American contractor. The Duvalier government wants the contract for whatever graft it can squeeze out of it.

In past Haitian crises the native army has been stabilizing influence that restored order. Many of its officers were American trained. Some of the best have disappeared in recent months.

So far Duvalier has had the situation under a control of his own. The rural areas are largely quiet. All the trouble is centered in the capital area.

When it became acute at the end of April, Duvalier's own private army — the 500 TTM or Ton-Ton Macoutes — threw up roadblocks and surrounded the homes of his known opponents.

Clement Barbot, formerly one of Duvalier's principal aides, now considered a principal rival, disappeared but may have escaped to the underground.

Louis de Joie, a mulatto who was defeated by Duvalier in last year's primary — after which Duvalier considered himself elected president without a regular election—is now a refugee in Dominican Republic, advising Bosch.

While Soviet Russia supports Duvalier's cause in the UN Security Council, such Communists as are in Haiti are anti-Duvalier. A Czech trade mission in Haiti last March sold tractors on badly needed credit but made no political contacts. If there is a Castro-trained cadre in Haiti, it has not been identified as such.

A new complicating factor is the recent arrival in Port-au-Prince of four members of the Trujillo family. They were invited back by Duvalier and probably are up to no good.

McArdle Trains For Marathon

NEW YORK—(NEA)—People seeing a wiry man running down Broadway in his underwear in the early morning with a lunch pail under his arm might suspect that he's a commuter who missed the 8:45 from Yonkers.

But he isn't. He's Peter Joseph McArdle, holder of a dozen national distance titles, jogging to work and enroute to the Olympic marathon in Tokyo in October of next year.

Pete McArdle, surprise winner of the 10,000 meters in the Pan American Games in Brazil, fits in President Kennedy's physical fitness program perfectly. He also stresses what a working stiff athlete in this country has to do to stay in major competition.

McArdle, 33, who came to New York from the industrial town of Dundalk in County Louth on the northeast coast of Ireland in 1956, is a bus mechanic who became an American citizen Feb. 9, 1961. He took his three-week vacation to compete in the Pan-Am Games in Sao Paulo, but the conditioning and trip required a month.

"I'll probably get docked the extra weeks pay," explained McArdle in his delicious brogue.

Fellow workers at the bus garage took up a collection to send Pete to Walnut, Calif., so their guy could qualify for the Pan-Am.

Anyone remotely acquainted with track will tell you that it's a physical impossibility for a runner to run the 10,000 meters and the 26 miles and 385 yards of the marathon within a period of three days, but the plucky McArdle, who stands only 5 feet 8 and never weighs more than 125 pounds, did.

PETER MCARDLE

On May 1, McArdle turned in one of the major upsets of the games by beating the favored Argentine crack, Oswaldo Suarez, in the 10,000 meters. On May 4, McArdle was 100 yards on top after 22 miles of the marathon when "my legs locked. My thighs got sore from running up and downhill." Yet McArdle hung on bravely to finish third behind Mexico's Fidel Negrete and Gordon McKenzie of Great Neck, N. Y.

McArdle believes he could qualify for the 10,000 meters in the Olympic Games, "but there isn't a race in which to do it on the entire East Coast." He is therefore going after the marathon, which hasn't been won by an American since Johnny Hayes got the duke in London in 1908, when Borzando, the Italian, was disqualified.

McArdle came to this country at the suggestion of Joe McCluskey, the one-time Fordham distance man and steeple-chaser who is coach of the New York Athletic Club. He was 20 at the time and wanted to attend college. The trouble was that he had to go to work. He washed buses from 8 o'clock at night until 5 in the morning.

His life was "all mixed up," so he didn't get to compete on this side until the end of 1957. Nor did he attract the attention of college coaches until he was beaten by no more than two or three feet by Bruce Kidd in an 8:40 two-mile at the Boston Garden early in 1961.

"By that time I was a bit old to be going to school and I had lost too much eligibility to get a scholarship," McArdle, father of two, runs three-and-a-half miles going to work at Broadway and 132nd Street. Going home he lopes up Riverside Drive to get in six miles. A shower and a light bite and he rambles to Van Cortlandt Park for six or seven miles more. Galloping back to his home at 190th Street and Wadsworth Terrace, he showers again and has his heavy meal at 8.

A real distance man, Pete McArdle.

Candy Spots Is Favored

BALTIMORE (UPI)—Entries for Saturday's 87th running of the $150,000 added Preakness Stakes close today with Darby Dan Farm's Chateaugay, the Kentucky Derby winner, named ahead of time just as he was at Churchill Downs two weeks ago.

Trainer Jimmy Conway, who had to leave for New York Wednesday, filed the entry before he left "just so there will be no slip-up."

And when the box closes, the names of Candy Spots, Never Bend, Sky Wonder, On My Honor, Lemon Twist and Country Squire are expected to join that of Chateaugay, completing the field of seven.

Although he won the Kentucky Derby by a length and one-half, Chateaugay once again finds himself cast in the role of underdog. For Candy Spots, third in the Kentucky Derby, is pre-race favorite at 7-5 with Never Bend, second at Churchill Downs, second choice at 2-1. Chateaugay ranks third at 5-2.

Candy Spots, winner of the Santa Anita derby and the Florida Derby this year, suffered his only defeat in the Kentucky Derby, many observers blaming Jockey Willie Shoemaker for his third place finish.

Shoemaker again rides the son of Nigromante, who now boasts six wins in seven races.

Never Bend, winner of the Flamingo Stakes and the champion juvenile of 1962, will be ridden by Manny Ycaza. The colt is ranked better than Chateaugay because several of his races prior to the Kentucky Derby were easy victories and he is expected to improve with a tough race now behind him.

But Conway warns that Chateaugay will be better, too. The trainer no longer is concerned about a fast workout by the Darby Dan farm colt. Chateaugay equaled the track record for the mile.

"The track is faster than I had believed it to be and Chateaugay hasn't missed an out since the work, either. He'll be all right for the race, I'm sure of that now," the trainer said before leaving for New York.

Williams Take 2
Williams took two in the Women's Softball League, downing A & W Root Beer 14-4 and Jet Lanes 6-5. Lavana Williams pitched both winners. McKenzie slammed a homer against A & W and Ervin did the same against Jet Lanes.

Homemakers

By Mrs. H. L. Johnson

Good afternoon. TAKE IT EASY OVEN MEALS are a homemaker's best friend. If your oven has an automatic clock, you can relax while the meal cooks, or set the table and make the salad, and chat with guests in the living room. No last minute flurry in the kitchen. Because most of the preparation is done ahead of time and because OVEN MEALS are not likely to lose flavor and attractiveness if they're not served exactly on the minute. Oven meals offer advantages and save serving dishes for they can go from oven to table in the same way casseroles they were cooked in. They help save minerals and vitamins, fresh fruits and vegetables are steamed or cooked in a minimum amount of water; bring variety and attractiveness to menus and meal preparation and are economical in use of fuel as the whole meal cooks with the same heat.

Choose foods and recipes that lend themselves to oven cooking. With several foods cooking at one time there will naturally be a certain amount of steam in the oven. So, you should avoid certain delicate cakes, desserts, souffles, etc., that need dry heat for good browning.

How does this complete oven meal sound? Summer squash is plentiful right now. Cooking time is 45 minutes. Set the oven temperature at 375 degrees F. Let's fix barbecued beef patties, summer squash, garden peas, cherry apricot Betty, milk, coffee, buns and butter.

Barbecued Beef Patties
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1/2 cup milk
1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
1 tsp. salt
pepper
1 1/2 tbsps. Worcestershire sauce
1/4 cup vinegar
3 tbsps. sugar
1/2 cup catsup
1/2 cup water
1/2 cup chopped onion
1/2 cup chopped green pepper

1. Moisten crumbs with milk. Combine with meat, salt and pepper. Shape into 6 patties, place in shallow baking dish.
2. Combine remaining ingredients to make barbecue sauce; pour around patties.
3. Bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes. Serves 6.

Summer Squash
2 10-oz. pkgs. frozen crooked neck squash, or use fresh squash if desired
4 tbsps. butter or margarine
1/2 to 1 tsp. salt
pepper

1. Break blocks of squash into 4 parts. Place in casserole. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dot with butter.
2. Cover and bake at 375 degrees for 45 minutes. Serves 6.

Garden Peas
2 10-oz. pkgs. frozen peas or equal amount of fresh peas
1/2 cup water or light cream
2 to 4 tbsps. butter or margarine
1 tsp. salt
1 to 2 tps. sugar

1. Break blocks of peas into 4 parts. Place in casserole. Add salt and sugar to water and pour over peas. Dot with butter.
2. Cover and bake in 375 degree oven for 45 minutes. Serves 6.

Cherry Apricot Betty
1/2 cup melted butter or margarine
2 cups soft bread crumbs
1 No. 2 can water-packed pitted red cherries (2 1/2) cups
1 No. 1 can Apricot halves
1/2 cup brown sugar
1 tsp. grated lemon rind
1/2 tsp. nutmeg or mace
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/2 tsp. salt

1. Pour melted fat over crumbs and mix well until all of the crumbs are coated. Drain liquid from cherries and apricots; save for use in pudding sauce. Put a layer of crumbs in casserole then a layer of fruit, and sprinkle with sugar, lemon rind, spices and salt. Repeat until all of the ingredients are used, saving a few crumbs to sprinkle on top.
2. Bake uncovered at 375 degrees for 45 minutes.
3. Serve warm with the following sauce:

1 cup canned fruit juice
1 tbsps. corn starch
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. nutmeg or mace
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 tsp. grated lemon rind
1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
1/2 tsp. vanilla
Blend 1/2 cup juice with cornstarch to make a smooth paste. Heat remaining juice to boiling. Stir in starch mixture. Cook until thick, stirring constantly. Add remaining ingredients, remove from heat, cool. Fold in cream and flavoring. Serve over pudding.
