Rape victims sought

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's investigators are seeking additional rape victims of a Lake Mary man arrested Monday.
"We have reason to believe there may be additional victims," said George Proechel, sheriff's spokesman.
Thomas Scott Miller, 27, 472 Sun Lake Circle, was charged with two counts of sexual battery by investigators. He was held without bond at the Seminole County jail. Proechel said the arrest stemmed from two assaults that occurred earlier this month, on the 12th and 19th. Proechel said on each night, Miller met a woman at the ABC Liquors, 5910 S. U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, and in the early hours of the next morning, left with them to have breakfast.
Instead, Proechel said Miller drove the woman to area apartment parking lots and assaulted them. Miller had been out of prison for less than a year and is on life parole for sexual assault convictions, said Proechel.
Anyone with additional information is asked to call Sgt. Billy Lee, 330-6800.

Crash at 100 mph kills two

LAKE MARY — The names of the persons involved in a two vehicle collision Sunday night on Interstate 4 have been released. Two were killed and five others injured in the crash near the Lake Mary exit ramps.
Lake Mary police identified the persons killed as Michelle McLoid, 29, and Gardenia Saintville, 30, both of Winter Garden. Saintville's three children, ages 7, 8, and 12, were taken to Orlando Regional Medical Center and Florida Hospital north in Altamonte Springs.
Two persons were in the other vehicle. Thomas Arnett, 22, of Jacksonville, and William Petty, 21, of DeLand. Both were hospitalized.
According to the police report, Arnett was traveling southeast on the interstate, at a speed of approximately 100 miles per hour, when the car crossed the median and collided with McLoid's vehicle.
Although Acting Police Chief Sam Belfore said the cause of the accident was still under investigation this morning, Arnett was tested to determine if alcohol may have been involved. "Our officers have gone back to the scene today to do some measuring and checking," he said, "and we hope to have the investigation concluded within a day or two."
The condition of the children in the hospital was not immediately revealed.

Dead man in trunk identified

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The body of a man found in the trunk of a car parked at Altamonte Mall Saturday afternoon has been identified as Joe David Siout, 62, of Orlando. He had been in the trunk "for a while," according to Mark Anderson, public information officer for the department.

Sanford plans Auto Train meeting to save depot

By NICK PFISPAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Auto Train officials are willing to meet with local leaders to discuss keeping the facility in Sanford. Such a meeting may be set up in Washington in the near future.
Auto Train public affairs officer Howard Robertson said this morning, "We are looking forward to discussing it with the Mayor, Chamber of Commerce, or anyone else, at any time." He added, "We still have a number of options that could keep the Auto Train in Sanford including an expansion of the present facility."

Last week, it was revealed that Amtrak's Auto Train will be seeking larger quarters, probably with a move to a new location. The Sanford City Commission has called a special meeting today to discuss the situation.
According to the agenda for this afternoon's meeting, the commission will discuss the situation, then take "action as deemed appropriate."
The special meeting was called by Mayor Bettye Smith.

In discussing suggestions for the meeting, Smith and Commissioner Whitey Eckstein, had almost identical approaches.
Eckstein said yesterday afternoon, "I would like to see the Mayor and maybe the City Manager and even Dave Farr of the Chamber of Commerce go to Washington and meet eye-to-eye with the Auto Train people and ask them point blank, what can we do to help keep it here."
Eckstein added, "Approaching them head-on may be a lot better than sitting around trying to SANFORD — The Seminole County Sheriff's Department has improved its water patrol capabilities recently. Officers now have a Wave-runner III to scout around local lakes and rivers.

"It's fast, it's easy to transport, and it's only costing us $1 a year," said Sheriff Don Eslinger.

Seminole Honda, who supplies the Wave-runner said it is similar to a jet ski, but much more stable. "In other words, it won't fall over if the deputy is sitting still and writing you a ticket," said a Honda salesman.
The machine is actually manufactured by Yamaha, which has entered into a nationwide program to supply these machines to law enforcement agencies.

Attendance zones reviewed

By VICKI De GORRAN

SANFORD — Among the changes being proposed in the school board policy regarding school attendance zones is a provision that homeless children are entitled to an education in Seminole County.
"It was time we made such provisions," said Dr. Hortense Evans, the administrative assistant to Supt. Paul Hagerty. "It was time for the problem to be addressed formally."

A number of other modifications have been made to the policy that was originally made in 1970 to comply with a federal court order regarding desegregation of the school district.
The policy, however, will no longer require that all transfer requests be considered in light of the court order.
The board has added a list of "valid reasons" for which transfers to a school outside their regular attendance zone may be approved.

A full-time employee who works 50 percent of his or her work hours at a school may enroll his or her child at that school. The parent is transferred to another work site, the child can stay at the out-of-zone school until he completes the highest grade offered there.
The board will also propose that the administration of a school be authorized or approved a transfer if there are unique factors present that show the students would

SANFORD — School board attorney Ned Julian is expected to be rehired by the board at tonight's 7 o'clock meeting.
The new contract, expected to be approved by the board without discussion, gives the board and the superintendent the freedom to seek legal services from other firms as they perceive the need.
Rather than being an annual contract, the agreement calls for the terms to remain in force "unless either party gives the other party 30 days notice that the contract will cease."
According to Supt. Paul Hagerty, the board is happy with Julian's past service and finds no need to renew the contract each year.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Hurricane breaks insurance firm

TALLAHASSEE — An insurance company has gone broke because of Hurricane Andrew, the first of several other insurance companies expected to go belly-up because of the disaster.

Florida Fire & Casualty Insurance Co. was ordered liquidated by Circuit Judge Kevin Davey of Leon County after it was clear claims would outstrip the firm's ability to pay, Insurance Commissioner Tom Gallagher said Monday.

Gallagher spokeswoman Karen Chandler said officials expect "a handful" of other insurance companies to go belly-up because of the hurricane.

The state-run Florida Insurance Guaranty Association will cover all claims by Florida Fire & Casualty, Gallagher said.

In addition to paying any past claims, the guaranty association will provide coverage for Florida Fire & Casualty policyholders for another 30 days, but Gallagher urged them to obtain new coverage.

The Fort Lauderdale-based company insures an estimated 11,000 policyholders, writing mainly homeowners and flood insurance. Its 1991 premium volume was $6.83 million.

More than 700,000 insurance claims are expected from Hurricane Andrew, a record for a U.S. natural disaster.

Thousands still without power

MIAMI — About 106,000 residents of southern Dade County began their second month without power Monday, a legacy of Hurricane Andrew.

Florida Power & Light Co., which lost 1.4 million hookups serving nearly 3 million people to the Aug. 24 storm, had returned power to all but 31,800 hookups by Monday, enough to let the company begin sending out-of-state crews home with grateful thanks.

But at an average of 2.5 people per hookup, that left about 79,500 people still needing power from FPL.

Meanwhile, nearly all of the city of Homestead's 12,000 homes and businesses lost power in the hurricane, and city power crews had restored service to about 1,400 by Monday, said Ana Aguilera, a spokeswoman for the city.

DER toughening penalties for polluters

JACKSONVILLE — Small fines paid by corporate polluters are a thing of the past as regulators take a hard line on protecting the environment.

"Our fines now are not the cost of doing business," said Donna Gregory, chief of the State Attorney's Office environmental crimes section.

And the same applies at the state Department of Environmental Regulation.

"We're taking a more aggressive line with violators. In the past, the fines were small and there were repeat offenders," said Ernie Frey, district DER director.

But companies can no longer "buy their way out of a violation," he said.

Two big Mob figures nabbed

MIAMI — The arrest of two members of the Gambino crime family linked to John Gotti attracted plenty of attention at the pair's plush lodgings.

"Other people in the motel, mostly foreign tourists, thought it was something from Miami Vice. We had to keep them back," FBI spokesman Paul Miller said of the Monday arrests.

John Gambino, 52, and Joseph Gambino, 46, had jumped a $5 million bond on federal drug and racketeering-murder charges in New York City, said Andrew Duffin, head of the Miami FBI.

"They were caught in their underwear," Miller said. "We had to use sledge hammers on the door. We knew they were in there, but they refused to answer the door. There were no weapons inside, and they didn't resist."

The New York charges involve heroin and cocaine trafficking, as well as related murder charges, Miller said.

"They are very dangerous individuals," he added. "Some time ago they were both involved in a conspiracy to kill an Italian magistrate — a magistrate who was eventually murdered."

Hospital settles baby swap case

TAMPA — A hospital agreed in federal court to pay Robert Mays and his wife at least $4.3 million after switching his infant daughter with another baby at birth 14 years ago.

Mays will receive $480,000 up front and $800,000 spread out in monthly payments over the next 15 years, according to the settlement reached Monday.

Kimberly Mays, 14, will receive $1.6 million, also in installments, beginning in 1997 and ending in 2046. Robert Mays and his lawyers also will receive an immediate payment of $1.1 million.

Kimberly was born at Hardee Memorial Hospital in 1978 and was sent home with Mays and his wife, Barbara, who has since died.

State must help match storm aid

By CURT ANDERSON Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — Florida must come up with $150 million in matching money to obtain the full $9 billion in Hurricane Andrew disaster aid approved by Congress, Gov. Lawton Chiles said Monday.

In a letter to members of the Legislature, Chiles said the figure probably represents only the beginning of the Aug. 24 storm's cost to Florida and its local governments.

"We also anticipate other financial obligations, but they are not fixed at this time," the governor wrote. "We will make a recommendation to the Legislature at the appropriate time."

The matching money is required by law for several disaster aid programs, including $88.4 million for grants to individuals and families who will receive an average of $4,104 apiece to help recover from the hurricane.

Another $33 million must be paid by the state to help restore damaged local government buildings, schools and universities. The federal government is paying $710 million of the cost.

Chiles spokesman Don Pride said the state's "rainy day" reserve fund is currently about $173 million, although $29 million in costs for the National Guard may yet be reimbursed by the federal government. No decisions have been made about exactly where to find the matching funds, however.

"We don't have the answers yet," Pride said. "We're going to explore all the options."

Lawmakers will return to the Capitol in November for their post-election organizational session, but Chiles has made no decision on whether to seek disaster funding then. Top legislators are reluctant to consider any higher taxes unless absolutely necessary until the February regular session.

Pride said it wasn't clear Monday whether there is a deadline for Florida to produce the matching funds.

In the letter, Chiles praised Congress for passing the relief bill so quickly, saying it should "substantially meet the minimum requirements" of Florida's disaster needs and noted it was $2.5 billion more than the dollars initially proposed by President Bush.

Governor's job ratings vary widely

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Depending on which public opinion survey you happen to read, either Gov. Lawton Chiles is doing a rotten job or he's doing reasonably well.

On the low end is the 22 percent positive rating in the poll by Mason-Dixon Political Media Research Inc. released last week. The high end is a 40 percent positive mark in a poll sponsored by Florida newspapers owned by The New York Times.

Why the big difference? Experts in the field and the pollsters themselves said Monday it's the way the respondents were selected and the way the questions and answers are worded.

"To compare them, you have to ask the same question," said William Claggett, an associate professor of political science at Florida State University. "Different wordings can sometimes produce very big differences."

In this case, it's the answers more than the questions.

Houseboat hassle Boat rule dispute turns into legal war complete with spy

STUART — A spy infiltrated into a boaters group by a city-hired attorney is the latest twist in a no-holds-barred legal feud between Stuart and a couple fighting stricter boat regulations.

Valerie Jones and her boyfriend Ron Salvador, who head Concerned Boaters, have sued the city and won on violations of Florida's Sunshine law, and have now filed a second lawsuit for invasion of privacy.

The dispute began when a Stuart city commissioner proposed increasing tie-up fees and limiting how long boaters could use public anchorages, a move aimed at live-on boat owners blamed for shoreline trash and pollution.

Ms. Jones and Salvador formed Concerned Boaters, and began a series of legal actions to block the new regulations.

The latest round involved Tony Sciarino, who wrote Concerned Boaters a year ago to say he was a college student who wanted to join to "keep our waters free!"

"He didn't have a boat, and he didn't seem to express any desire to go out on a boat," said Ms. Jones, the group's president. "He didn't talk much about boats. In fact, he never really talked at all."

After Ms. Jones sued city officials for holding back records, she discovered why Sciarino showed little interest in sailing. Sciarino wasn't a college student. He was a private investigator hired by attorney Richard Ribbey — who was representing the city of Stuart — to infiltrate Concerned Boaters and uncover the group's motives and tactics.

"I was in an absolute cold fury," Jones said. "I felt raped. I felt totally violated. It's like someone going through your underwear drawer."

City officials said they had no idea Ribbey had hired Sciarino to infiltrate the boaters.

"If we had been asked to specifically authorize it, we probably wouldn't have done it," city commissioner Pete Waldon said. But he added that hiring private investigators is "a legitimate tool that lawyers use."

So far, the city's two-year feud with Ms. Jones, a reporter for the Globe tabloid, has cost Stuart more than $20,000 — the cost of reimbursing Ms. Jones and Salvador for violating the Sunshine law by refusing to hand over 5,000 pages of public records.

And city officials may face larger bills if a second lawsuit goes against them.

In February, the couple filed an invasion of privacy and slander suit naming as defendants Kibbey, Sciarino and Brandon Perron. Sciarino's boss at Investigative Support Specialist Inc.

Last week, Ms. Jones and Salvador amended their suit to include the city as a defendant and to seek $1 million in punitive damages. They also want Kibbey, the private investigators and city officials to apologize in newspaper advertisements.

Attorney Robert Kilbride, representing the city in the slander case, said the revised suit is a frivolous continuation of the boaters' "harassment of the city."

"There is no basis for punitive damages," Kilbride said. "I don't think they're entitled to anything."

The courtroom sparring has been almost placid next to the heated exchanges and impassioned name-calling in public debates.

POLICE BRIEFS

Three nabbed in burglary

Bryan Spender Dabbelt, 18, 5011 Fox Fire Lane, Lake Mary, was one of three persons arrested by Sheriff's deputies Saturday, in connection with a reported burglary at 231 Flame Avenue, Altamonte Springs. Deputies said they responded to a call from the home's owners, Morris and Jan Hunt, and were given a description of their vehicle, which was found just a short distance away. The other two men located in the car were Angelo Caviaaca, 18, and a juvenile. Deputies charged Dabbelt with principal first degree burglary to an occupied dwelling, and the other two, whose addresses were not listed, were charged with burglary to an occupied dwelling. All three were taken to the John E. Polk Correctional Facility.

Retail theft charged

Sanford police arrested Mark Richard Hurley, 38, 1120 Florida Avenue, Sanford, on Friday. Police said Hurley was discovered leaving a store at 3653 S. Orlando Drive, with a carton of cigarettes valued at $29. The report said a store employee attempted to stop him, at which time Hurley attempted to punch the employee. Hurley was charged with retail theft, and resisting a merchant. After he was taken to jail, sheriff's deputies discovered he was wanted on three separate warrants in Volusia County, for failing to appear on a charge of driving under the influence of alcohol, violation of parole on a previous conviction of DUI, and violation of parole on a conviction of retail theft.

Anti noise ordinance charge

Erik Paul Paakoaki, 29, 311 Seminole Avenue, Lake Mary, was arrested early Monday morning by Lake Mary police. Officers said they were called to Paakoaki's residence Sunday night regarding a complaint of loud music from his residence. At that time, they reported giving him a warning. Police said they were called back early Monday for a similar incident. Paakoaki was charged with violation of Lake Mary's loud noise ordinance, and disorderly intoxication.

Lewd acts charged

Longwood police arrested Steve Simon, 42, 103 N. Grant

Avenue, Longwood, on Sunday. He was charged with two separate counts of lewd and lascivious acts upon a child, following an investigation into earlier reports of the incidents by Health and Rehabilitative Services personnel.

Cigarette thefts stopped

Longwood police have arrested two persons in connection with two separate incidents Saturday, at a grocery store, 951 S.R. 434. The first incident occurred at 1:12 Saturday afternoon. Trevor H. Hector, 28, of Orlando, was apprehended by a store employee for reportedly taking two cartons of cigarettes, valued at $40. He was charged with robbery.

The second incident at the same store occurred at 3:28 p.m. Jennifer L. Wilcox, 21, of Altamonte Springs was arrested for reportedly stealing four packages of cigarettes. She was charged with retail theft.

Computer check brings arrest

Sanford police checked a license plate in a vehicle at the parking lot of Central Florida Regional Hospital Sunday. The operator of the car, Chris Allen Caldwell, 38, 110 Country Club Circle, Sanford, was arrested when a computer check revealed he had a suspended drivers license.

Studies to help restore Lake Jesup

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — A key milestone could be reached before January in the effort to restore Lake Jesup to the fishing haven it once was.

The Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission will know within three months whether there is too much water in the 10,000-acre lake to pump out. If not, a team of state agencies may consider trying to clean up the lake's water. Instead of making the lake bottom more inviting to spawning game fish, such as crappie and largemouth bass.

Another study which will be completed next year will determine the impacts of a lowering of the lake level on area wells, another potential project killer.

A team of scientists from several environmental agencies are studying the best way to restore Lake Jesup to its former glory. Once home to national bass championships, the lake is now little more than a murky puddle.

The team is considering pumping a portion of the lake water into the St. Johns River to allow the bottom around the shoreline to harden, a process called a "drawdown." The theory is that when the lake is allowed to refill, fish will spawn on the hardened bottom.

Team leader Lawson Snyder, a fish and game fisheries scientist, said the first study will survey records of the high and low levels in the lake during the past 50 years. If the duration of high-water levels is too short, there may not be enough time for fish to spawn, he said. The state would then consider restricting the outflow of the lake to allow marsh areas to remain flooded longer, he said.

But if the period between high-water levels is too short, it may be impossible to pump enough water out of the lake into the river to allow the mucky bottom along the shore to harden. Also, all that muddy water pumped into the river could affect fishing in Lake Monroe and further downstream, Snyder said.

"I'm real interested in doing something," said Snyder. "It's not a productive system. It's ugly. But nothing's definite."

Snyder estimates the local economic benefit of the lake at nearly $500,000 per year from fishermen.

Another study, which will commence by next year, will determine the impact of the drawdown on the drinking water aquifer in the area. Snyder said the lowering of the lake may "dry up" wells in the area, another deterrent to the project.

Estimates for the drawdown have ranged from about $3.5 million to $8.5 million. No money has been set aside for the drawdown, but $172,500 has been contributed by the Florida Department of Transportation, game and fish commission and Seminole County Expressway Authority.

Should the scientists determine the drawdown is environmentally, socially or economically unfeasible, Snyder said they may consider a "marsh flow-way" project to clean up water coming into the lake.

Now you can make heat out of thin air.

A few years back, scientists developed something that could keep you warm in winter without burning a single drop of oil or molecule of gas in your home. And keep you cool in summer without using one kilowatt of electricity more than necessary.

They called it a "heat pump" that innocent-looking thing you see at the right.

But it wasn't until today that anyone developed something to help the average homeowner afford such sophisticated technology.

We call that the "FPL Heat Pump Discount."

You don't have to understand all the technical details of how a heat pump works (and they can get pretty technical) to take advantage of its efficiency.

All you have to know is that there are scores of reliable, hard-working contractors ready to knock up to $584 off the price of qualifying equipment if you just tell them FPL sent you.

You'll save money on the cost of a heat pump system. And the system will save you every month on your energy costs.

Truman-Bush

The guy you really have to feel sorry for in this election is poor old Tom Dewey, the Republican candidate for president in 1948 who, it was generally conceded, couldn't lose. George Bush sheepishly acknowledges that he voted for Dewey in 1948; Barbara Bush says it would have been better for the country if Dewey had been elected. But nobody this year wants to be like Dewey, even those who are most like him.

George Bush another Harry Truman? Truman, for those who have forgotten, did not run against Congress because it refused to enact a capital gains tax for the rich; he ran against a Congress that he regarded (correctly) as hostile to labor, farmers and liberal policies in general — what George Bush likes to call that L word. George Bush would have bashed Truman from here to Sunday for his defense of working Americans, and for being in the pocket of big labor and the big-city political bosses.

Truman, for his part, would have bashed George Bush even harder for being a toady of the rich, for his failure to support decent health insurance for all Americans (which Truman supported, even in the late 1940s), and which his opponents called socialized medicine; for his resistance to a decent minimum-wage law, for his resistance to the extension of unemployment benefits, for his opposition to family leave legislation and, most of all, for pretending to be what he so obviously isn't.

Bush, however, is right on one thing: Truman was decisive. He didn't need Margaret Thatcher to tell him not to go wobbly in the face of Iraqi aggression. He didn't need to explain why he played footy with a butcher.

It's testimony to the brevity of our historical memory that few laugh when George Bush says he is like Harry Truman, or that he's running a campaign like Truman's in 1948. George Bush pretending to be Harry Truman is one of the worst impersonations in the history of American politics.

Stopping deadbeats

The U.S. Commission on Interstate Child Support has come up with a set of recommendations to overhaul child-support laws to make it harder for divorced parents to dodge their responsibilities. Although some of those recommendations may be debatable, one certainly is not: make it tougher for fathers (and occasionally mothers) to evade child-support payments by moving out of state.

Under existing law, written 40 years ago, collection after relocation can be a bureaucratic nightmare. Parents who move can obtain new child-support orders from their new states, and discrepancies between the original and the new orders can lead to lengthy court battles. While the overloaded legal system untangles the mess, many children receive no support at all.

In a two-year study, the commission found that a significant amount of the annual unpaid child support (between $1 billion and $5 billion) is owned by parents who have taken advantage of differences and confusion between courts. Some 30 percent of the 5.7 million support orders issued in 1989 involved parents who lived in different states.

To deal with that, the commission has recommended that Congress adopt a new law to simplify the complicated process of collecting support payments across state lines. Known as the Uniform Interstate Family Support Act, the law would require all states to uphold the original child-support order issued by the state where the divorce was filed.

That's relatively simple and makes a lot of sense. If it were passed, parents would no longer take advantage of antiquated laws to shirk their duties. And some children who have been denied might finally get the financial support they are due.

U.S.'s poor may not be so bad off

F. Scott Fitzgerald once wrote that the rich are different from you and me.

What about the poor? Are they different too? Are living standards of poor families substantially worse than those of average American families?

These questions come to mind with the recent release of the Census Bureau's annual report on poverty and family income. The data indicate that the ranks of the poor numbered more than 35 million last year.

On the face, the poverty numbers are quite troubling. One wonders how it is that in this nation — the most affluent in the history of the world — one of every eight of its citizens is mired in poverty.

Simple. The Census numbers provide a skewed picture of poverty in America. The number of Americans who truly are poor — who haven't the means to provide their families with such basic necessities as food, shelter and clothing — is not nearly as large as the Census suggests.

Moreover, many families that fall below the government's official poverty line — $13,924 for a family of four — are not especially worse off than non-poor families. In terms of material well-being, they are not terribly different from you or me.

The reason that poverty appears to be a much larger problem than it really is is that the government perverts in measuring poverty strictly on the basis of yearly cash income. Non-cash assets and benefits — which greatly improve a poor family's quality of life — are not factored into the poverty equation.

The exclusion of non-cash assistance from poverty calculations was not especially significant 30 years ago, when such benefits accounted for only a tenth of government aid to the poor.

But non-cash benefits — including food stamps, public housing and Medicaid — have grown exponentially over the past three decades, from roughly half of all public assistance in 1972 to two-thirds in 1990 and three-quarters in 1991.

In 1991, government at all levels spent more than $226 billion in aid to the needy. In arriving at an inflated poverty rate of 13.5 percent for the year, the Census factored in $32.5 billion of this aid, while ignoring the roughly $193.5 billion that went toward non-cash public assistance programs.

Don't food stamps, public housing and Medicaid improve the poor's living standards? Of course they do. In fact, the Census Bureau's own data reveal that poor households spend $1.79 for every $1 of annual income they receive. All told, the government aid spent on the poor — but uncounted by the Census — amounts to $13.330 for every poor household. The irony is that the average poor family requires only $5,515 to be elevated above the poverty threshold.

Along the same lines, government poverty statistics fail to take into account the value of assets owned by the poor. A recent analysis by Robert Rector of the Heritage Foundation illuminates this glaring oversight.

Nearly 40 percent of the poor, as so identified by the Census Bureau, own their own homes, with a median value of $43,582 in 1989. Almost three-quarters of a million poor persons own homes worth more than $100,000. Another 75,000 own homes worth more than $300,000.

Almost half of poor households are air-conditioning. Nearly a third have microwave ovens. And some 22,000 "poor" households are fortunate enough to have heated swimming pools or jacuzzis.

They are not terribly different from you or me.

Gray wolf deserves wild home

If ever outrage was overblown and protest misdirected, it's over a modest proposal to see once again the gray wolf roam in wild country that is its ancestral home, the Yellowstone National Park.

Of all the wilderness predators, few evoke the wolf's powerful imagery — its shrewdness, the stealthiness of the pack, the occasional lone hunter at one against all of nature. The wolf is reviled and revered, the feared incarnation of evil savagery to some, a romanticized symbol of nature idealized to others. The wolf itself is neither of these. It is an animal. A skilled predator. Its territory once spanned nearly all of what is now the nation's lower 48 states.

The wolf is also inextricably part of Yellowstone's natural balance of predator and prey. But except for one recent sighting, wolves no longer exist in the park. The wolf, in fact, is the only animal among all those that are natural to Yellowstone that now cannot be found there.

The wolf's disappearance is the result of one of the most effective wildlife eradication programs ever undertaken in this country. Between 1870 and 1890, the gray wolf was essentially wiped out within the lower 48 to make way for settlement and ranching.

Today, proposals to re-introduce the wolf have raised howls of protest among some Rocky Mountain region ranchers who graze their livestock on public land and an assortment of politicians who catch the scent of votes in the air. Summed up, their disgruntlement is packaged as a wholesale government threat to place livestock, livelihoods and lives at the cruel mercy of marauding wolves.

It just isn't so. The gray wolf is listed as an endangered species throughout the lower 48, with the exception of Minnesota where a population of about 1,500 wolves is listed as threatened. In the Rocky Mountain region there are about 50 wolves in the Glacier National Park and Bob Marshall Wilderness area of northern Montana, and perhaps 15 in the Selway-Bitterroot Wilderness of northern Idaho.

The wolf recovery plan envisions 10 packs of wolves, a total of 100 to 150 animals, established in both the Montana and Idaho regions and at Yellowstone in Wyoming. Three years after that goal is achieved, the wolf would be taken off the endangered species list.

The plan calls for the outright killing or tranquilizing and removal of wolves that prey on livestock. It also forces the time, after the wolf is no longer endangered, for game authorities to manage wolves in the same way other wildlife like bison, elk, deer and mountain lion are managed today. That means killing animals that prey on livestock and could include licensed hunting. One conservation group, Defenders of Wildlife, has gone so far as to set up a $100,000 fund to recompense ranchers who lose stock to wolves.

Such losses will almost certainly be minimal. "In gray wolf range in Minnesota gray wolves take only one of every 2,000 cattle," according to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. "Most gray wolves avoid livestock."

Given the chance, wolves also stay clear of people. "There are no verified reports of healthy wolves ever injuring a human in North America," according to Fish and Wildlife. The proposed wolf range in Wyoming is made up entirely of public land composed of 9.5 million acres of national forest around Yellowstone and the 2.2 million acres of the park itself.

Surely within this vast space there is room again for the wolf.

A lot of people in the West agree. Last month public hearings on wolf recovery were held in Chryse, Helena, Boise, Seattle, Salt Lake and Washington, D.C. Over 1,400 people showed up. Nearly 80 percent of those who spoke favored re-introducing the gray wolf to Yellowstone.

I was among those who testified. Ralph Thisted was another. He's a retired rancher who lives in Hudson, Montana. "I don't know what the big excitement is," he says. "In ranching, we've put up with coyotes and rustlers and poachers. We've had calves killed from logging trucks. They don't tranquilize them and move them out the next day. My feeling is, why not give the wolves a chance, too."

With this kind of continued support, the plan now under consideration by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service will see gray wolves re-introduced to Yellowstone in 1994.

The gray wolf is listed as an endangered species.

Here's what today's college kids face

We took the family 20-year-old two states and 700 miles away to college, the three of us in the front seat of a pickup truck with her belongings piled in the camper shell behind.

It was a bittersweet experience: On one hand, she's a great student and she so wanted to go, and we were happy to see her there at that beautiful and prestigious campus. On the other hand, as an out-of-state student, the debt she and we will incur makes our hair stand on end.

We had tried to talk her out of going to school out of state, showing her how much her loan payments will be and how much money she might be making after graduation in a worst-case scenario. I finished with what I thought were compelling stories about a neighbor whose daughter is using her $50,000 degree to groom horses at minimum wage, and another bright young man we know who has sent resumes ferociously since graduating last December but is still working the same minimum-wage job he worked as a student. This month, he had to start making payments on his college loan. Our impassioned speeches made as much impression on her as our parents' did on us 25 years ago. How much everything costs and how far a paycheck will stretch means nothing to someone who's never had to stretch one. With the fresh shining optimism we had ourselves back in the '70s, she will countenance no objection: Everything will work out. Please, please, please, I'm an honor student and I deserve to go to a good college.

It's impossible to explain to her how much the economy has changed since we were applying for college loans a generation ago. It's beyond the comprehension of someone who's never faced a household budget that she is among the first generation of Americans who probably won't equal their parents' economic status, much less better it. On the 700-mile drive home, however, it's only too easy for us to think about it.

Unemployment is rising and income dropping faster in the group among which she hopes to be numbered — the college-educated upper-middle-class crowd — than in any other socioeconomic group in America. Of course, that may not even be a worry because it may be a while before she makes it to that level.

More and more companies are hiring two part-time workers in place of every one full-time worker, to avoid paying benefits. Full-time employees lucky enough to have health insurance are paying more and more for it. Her father and I are afraid of how much our health insurance will cost us next year. Our fear for her is that she may not have any when she's on her own.

Why does her economic future look so bleak when ours looked so promising just two decades ago? Part of the reason is a body of tax laws that allows businesses to behave as carpebaggers. Pulitzer Prize-winning investigative reporters Donald L. Bartlett and James B. Steele examined how these laws work by following the money trail in their book, "America: What Went Wrong?"

Reading their book, I discovered that just as she better not get sick, she dare not grow old. Bartlett and Steele found that in the 1980s, our tax laws allowed American businesses to remove $21 billion from employee pension plans and substitute inferior pension plans that paid less to workers than the originals. Of course, just as with health insurance, she may not have to worry about corporate raids on her pension funds, because she won't have a pension fund, period.

We had tried to talk her out of going to school out of state.

Little contributed this time for commission candidates

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commission candidates reported little or no campaign fundraising or spending during the week surrounding the Sept. 1 primary.

Reports for candidates in the Oct. runoff and Nov. 3 general election were required to file contribution and expense reports with the Supervisor of Elections Office Monday. The report period covers Aug. 29 to Sept. 7.

In District 1, the elections office received the report from incumbent commissioner Pat Warren Tuesday, a day late. Elections supervisor Sandra Goad said Warren won't be fined because a state law exempts first-time violators who have no campaign activity. Warren's report indicated she collected no contributions nor spent any money during the reporting period.

Warren's Democratic opponent, Ray Bertrand of Sanford, reported receiving two contributions totaling $45 and spending no money. Bertrand reported an account balance of $277.

In District 3, GOP candidate Dick Van Der Weide of Longwood reported taking in a single contribution, $500 from The Keewin Real Property Co., Winter Park. Van Der Weide reported spending $564 for his election night party. Van Der Weide reported an account balance of $1,050.

District 3 Democratic challenger Ginger Bowman of Longwood reported taking in no contributions and spending less than $8 for banking charges. Bowman's account balance was about $87.

In District 5, Republican Daryl McLain of Sanford, who defeated incumbent Jennifer Kelley two weeks ago, reported taking in no contributions and spending about $132. McLain will have to start from scratch to face Democratic opponent Fred Harden in November. McLain reported having an account balance of $5.19.

Harden, who did not face primary opposition, reported taking in $200, $100 each from Frank S. Ioppolo, Orlando, and Sydney L. Jackowitz, Maitland. Harden reported spending $405. Harden reported a $1,826 campaign account balance.

Julian

"It gives both sides a little more freedom too," Hagerly said.

That freedom, while available in the past, was not specifically written into the contract until this year.

Julian, who has been the board's attorney for more than a decade, will not receive a raise. He will continue to be paid $80 per hour for his services and to be paid for all out-of-pocket expenses, such as long-distance calls, travel, litigation expenses and copies.

The new contract specifies that the fee must be reviewed, and possibly modified, each July.

According to the contract, Julian may only perform services that have been directed by the board chairman, the superintendent or his designees.

Among the duties of a school board attorney are attendance at all board meetings, preparation of legal opinions on school-related issues as requested by the board and representing the school board in all matters of litigation and in all administrative proceedings involving the school board.

Seminole County is not currently scheduled to begin the design of the extension of Silver Lake Drive beyond Ohio Street until 1998. The $14 million project includes the widening of the completed Lake Mary Boulevard extension to four lanes.

Rabun said the county can't even consider building the half-mile section between Ohio Street and the airport road because sales tax revenues are nearly $3 million less than the $25.7 million anticipated and costs for land are higher than expected. Rabun said no current projects have been delayed, but there's not enough money to build road improvements earlier than scheduled.

Also, Rabun said the county has an agreement with six of the seven Seminole County cities to keep to the schedule. If changed, their approval would be needed. Winter Springs has not signed the county's road impact fee agreement.

"We need to preserve the integrity of our process," Rabun said.

Train

guess what they might want or plan to do."

Smith said, "I plan to tell the Commission what progress we have made, and tell them that Dave Farr, some Chamber officials, and I, plan to go to Washington to meet with Auto Train officials."

Robertson had previously said that the rail areas around the present facility on Perimmon Avenue were adequate to handle new double-decker trains expected by 1995, but the passenger service building would be too small.

"If we expanded the building," he said this morning, "we would need to purchase some additional private land, so we're willing to work on that with the City and see what we can come up with."

The other Sanford City Commissioners meanwhile, have also expressed concern over the possibility of Auto Train leaving Sanford. "This could mean a terrible loss to both revenue and jobs," said Commissioner Bob Thomas. "The people coming in to Sanford while waiting to get on the Auto Train have been a great help to the overall economy."

Thomas added, "I wish something would have been done earlier. I just hope it's not too late to salvage this and help retain it in Sanford."

Commissioner Lon Howell said, "When you consider the salaries of the 150 employees, and the money spent by the hundreds of passengers who board or leave the two trains each day, you are talking about a loss of revenue the City can't afford."

"We have already lost Cardinal Industries which hurt our economy," Howell said, "and years ago we lost the Naval Air Station. We can't afford to lose the Auto Train. The City has to do everything it can to save it."

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan said, "I'm ready to brainstorm this. I don't have any ideas on how to save it right now, but I'm open to any good suggestions and I'm anxious to hear if anyone has any solution."

The meeting is scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. this afternoon, in the City Manager's conference room on the second floor of Sanford City Hall, 300 N. Park Avenue.

Zones

In the proposed policy, the board has added that it intends to be "very flexible" in applying the transfer rules in "settings that are racially neutral."

The proposed policy also adds that the board intends to be "very restrictive and conservative in applying these factors in schools that are demographically monitored for the purpose of the Federal court's desegregation order" (i.e. Seminole High School).

The policy also proposes that it is inappropriate to ask for a transfer that is based on an athletic team recruitment or on a parent or student's preference or convenience.

If they approve of the proposed policy, it will advertise it and schedule a public hearing, if necessary.

Patrol

Water Department of the Sheriff's office, led by Lt. Rocky Ford.

Sgt. John Hawkins, and Marine Patrol deputies Jamie Jones and Jay Summers operate the craft, which has been covered with Seminole County Sheriff's Department decals.

"We don't have the blue lights on it yet," Ford said, "but we are working on a method of applying them without having to make any modifications to the actual structure."

"We have been authorized to eventually have two of these crafts," Jones said, "but for time being we'll just be using this one." He added that the Department of Natural Resources are using similar Wave-runners on the Wekiva River. "The Orange and Volusia County Sheriff's departments and Orlando police are also using them," he added.

"I first learned of it when I attended a recent Florida Marine Theft Seminar," Ford said. "They told us it was a program that many law enforcement agencies were taking advantage of in various parts of the State and nation."

"While we pay one dollar a year to lease the Wave-runner," he said, "we have the opportunity to trade it in for a new one every 10 months, so we will always be assured of having the latest and best equipment. The only stipulation," he added, "is that we cannot alter the actual body of the craft, which isn't a problem."

A Seminole Honda spokesman said the 650cc engine is capable of speeds on the water of up to 37 or 38 miles per hour, similar to a jet ski. Jones estimated the craft was capable of speeds even higher than that, possibly to 45 miles per hour.

"We won't be using this on Lake Monroe much," Ford said,

"because that lake is capable of coming up with waves beyond what this craft should operate in." He added, "Mostly we use it on smaller lakes, where people may be complaining about jet ski noise, or speeding in no-wake zones."

Ford said that most of the department's use of the Wave-runner so far has been to double check required equipment such as life vests and safety equipment, to respond to loud noise complaints about jet skis, and to respond to speeding in no wake zones. "So far, we haven't been involved in any cases of boating while under the influence of alcohol, but that's something with which we will also be concerned."

"Add-On" To Your Autumn Wardrobe

Did you feel that little "touch" of fall this morning? That oh so subtle hint of approaching coolness just a few weeks away? Didn't it get you so excited that you wanted to break out the warm sweater? Didn't it almost drive you to put some hair color on the stove? To jump into your fuzzy woolies? To crank up the fireplace? To start praying for every leaf in the world to pile up in your front yard, just so you could start raking them all... wait a minute, no sense in going too far with this thing. Let's take 'em one step at a time!

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Murphy Brown hits back at Quayle

NEW YORK — Murphy Brown, who is fictional, evened the score with Dan Quayle, who is not. The vice president got the worst of both worlds Monday night in the season premiere of CBS' "Murphy Brown," the Candice Bergen sitcom he injected into the national debate last spring by complaining it glamorized unwed motherhood. "What planet is he on?!" fumes a frazzled, showerless Murphy, hearing Quayle's remarks as she tries to cope with her restless newborn, an as-yet-unnamed son. "Look at me, Frank," she asks a colleague. "Am I glamorous?!" "I didn't know if I could raise a kid by myself," she goes on. "I worried about what it would do to him! I worried about what it would do to me! I didn't just wake up one morning and say, 'Oh, gee, I can't get in for a facial, I might as well have a baby!'" Quayle dismissed Murphy Brown's prime-time revenge as a "Hollywood campaign contribution" for the Democrats.

Congressional Dems plan veto fights

WASHINGTON — Democratic congressional leaders plan a final flurry of veto fights with President Bush over social issues, but will dodge other no-win battles before going home to campaign. Their goal is to force Bush to cast vetoes on abortion and consumer issues that Democrats believe will hurt him in the November elections while avoiding needless confrontations over spending that might only give him political ammunition.

'Meanest man on Death Row' executed

HUNTSVILLE, Texas — An inmate known as "the meanest man on death row" was executed by injection early today for murdering two men in a 1976 holdup at a pizza restaurant. James Demouchette, 37, went to his death after the U.S. Supreme Court refused twice on Monday to halt the execution. He had no final statement and virtually no reaction to the drugs passing into his muscular tattooed arms. Demouchette became the 52nd inmate in Texas to be executed, and the 182nd in the nation, since the Supreme Court in 1976 allowed states to resume use of the death penalty.

Woody's film opens at 4; 'Sneakers' tops

LOS ANGELES — Woody Allen's art-imitating-life

"Husbands and Wives" opened in fourth place at the box office.

Riding a wave of publicity about Allen's messy split with co-star Mia Farrow, the comedy about a failing marriage and a May-December infatuation made $3.5 million in the best — and widest — opening ever for a Woody Allen movie.

"Sneakers," a spy caper starring Robert Redford and Sidney Poitier, was No. 1 for the second straight weekend with $8.1 million. Exhibitor Relations Co. reported Monday.

The Disney comedy "Captain Ron," starring Kurt Russell and Martin Short, hauled in $4.9 million for second place, and "Singles" opened in third with $4.2 million. "School Ties," about anti-Semitism at a prep school, was fifth with $3 million.

'Tonight Show' exec ousted

LOS ANGELES — The executive producer of "The Tonight Show" is out after being accused of strong-arming guests not to appear on competing shows.

Helen Kushick's volatile personality and heavy-handed booking practices created a public relations nightmare for NBC as soon as Jay Leno, whose career she managed for 17 years, took over as the show's host and brought her along.

On Monday, the network announced her ouster.

Hounds stretch legs

Lyman overcomes Tribe's quick start

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — Unlike their animal namesakes the Greyhounds of Lyman High School got off to slow start before warming to the task and knocking off home-standing Seminole High School in a battle of unbeaten boys' volleyball teams in a Seminole Athletic Conference contest at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium Monday night.

Seminole played an inspired first game and came back from a 5-0 deficit to whip the Hounds 15-11 in the first game of the night.

"Seminole played an excellent first game," said Lyman head coach Norm Ready. "They did a super job of blocking at the net."

But head coach Sylvester Wynn's Tribe could not hold the momentum and the Greyhounds reeled off 30 of the next 38 points to win the final two games and the match 15-8, 15-0.

The Lyman junior varsity team gave the visitors a clean sweep as the young Greyhounds also won in three games, 5-15, 16-14, 15-9. The win was the first of the season for the Lyman junior varsity.

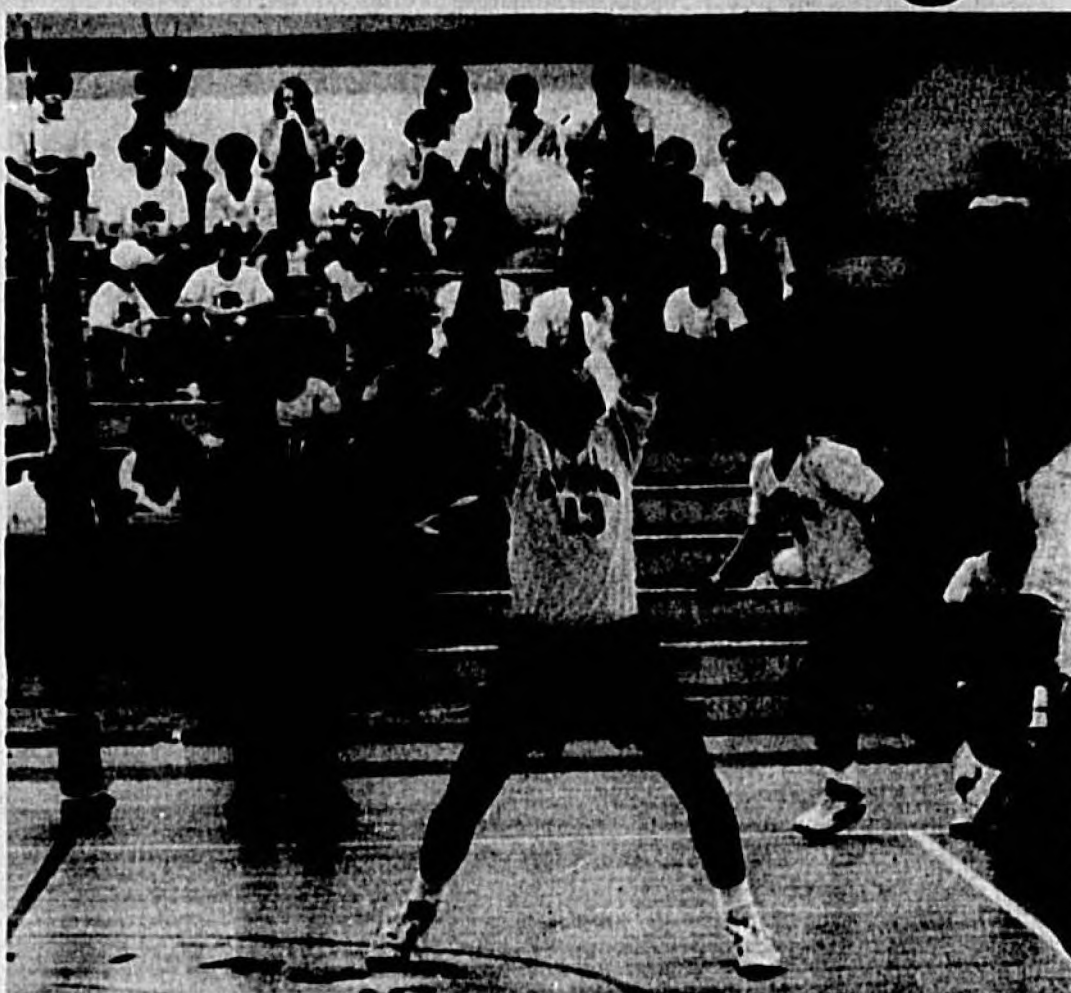

In the varsity match, the Greyhounds' Danny McAvoy set a school record when he served 12 straight points in the third game, breaking the mark of 11 set by David Haynes three years ago.

Also having a big night for Lyman was center hitter Tim Ruckdeschel. The 6-foot, 7-inch senior recorded a remarkable 19 kills and 13 blocks. Helping out Ruckdeschel on the net were Joel Dewberry and James Routson with five blocks each.

Dewberry also was the leader in assists as the senior setter came up with nine assists.

The Greyhounds improved to 4-0 on the season with the win, setting up a Wednesday night battle with four-time defending SAC champion

Lyman's Joel Dewberry (No. 13, above) came up with nine assists as the Greyhounds improved to 4-0 overall and 1-0 in the Seminole Athletic Conference with a victory over Seminole Monday.

Dunn saves Cafe

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — John Dunn singled in Dan Daugherty with the winning run with two outs in the bottom of the 11th inning as Cafe Sorrento edged Franklin Ball Bonds 5-4 to remain undefeated in Sanford Recreation Department Men's Fall Super C Slowpitch Softball League action at Chase Park Monday night.

It looked like the game was headed for a 12th inning when the first two Cafe Sorrento batters flew out to open the 11th. But Daugherty singled and Stu Selock walked to set the stage for Dunn's hit.

Cafe Sorrento, which won the Spring Super C title, took advantage of sloppy fielding by Franklin as four of their runs scored on errors.

The other undefeated team

Murray Kanner was the first Seminole High School athlete to be named to the All-State and All-Southern football teams and later played in the NFL for the Philadelphia Eagles and was a sparring partner of boxer Joe Louis.

Kanner lauded

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — How many Sanford old timers can identify the "gentle giant" pictured here? He is Murray Kanner, eldest son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Asher Kanner of Sanford. Murray passed away recently at the age of 78. In 1932, as a member of the Seminole High School football team, he was the first local athlete to be named to the All-State and All-Southern football teams. The only Sanford athlete to accomplish this since then was Willie Anderson, a Seminole High School fullback in 1946. Kanner, who even in high school stood about 6 ft. 5 inches and weighed over 200 pounds as a center, earned a scholarship and played collegiate football for the University of North Carolina and later professional football for the Philadelphia Eagles. He turned to boxing as a heavyweight and wound up his ring career as a sparring partner for the world's heavyweight champion, Joe Louis. After that he spent 15 years on the Washington, D.C. police force. He returned to Sanford and worked with the late Harold Kastner, local produce broker, for several years before becoming affiliated with an Orlando tire company. He retired in 1984 and resided until his death in Lake Mary. A memorial service for Kanner was held recently at the Brison Funeral Home with "Way Back When" columnist Julian Stenstrom officiating. ### Patriots duo shares honor

By DEAN SMITH

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — What's more important, all-around play or making the tough yardage banging heads against bigger people?

Friday night at Lake Mary's Don T. Reynolds Stadium, Lake Brantley won one of the most exciting football games in the county in years 20-17 on a last minute double-pass for a touchdown. Two of the stars for the Patriots were senior running back/defensive back/punter Chris Gray and junior fullback Jeff Butler.

Gray caught the game-winning 57-yard touchdown pass, made several crucial tackles in the open field and pinned the Rams deep in their

Lake Mary. The game will be played in Lyman's Dog Pound starting with junior varsity action at 6 p.m. The varsity match is scheduled for a 7 p.m. start.

But while the Hounds did get up off the deck to defeat Seminole, all was not rosy for Lyman, as 6-foot, 3-inch sophomore middle blocker Matt Wolgemuth, who moves to the hitter position when Ruckdeschel goes to the back line, suffered a sprained back.

"He [Wolgemuth] made a great block early in the game," said Ready. "But he took a pass from Dewberry later and even though he registered a kill, you could see the pain in his face. I asked him how he felt and like most kids he said he was OK. But when the next play came his way he couldn't even make a play, so I had to take him out."

"His parents said they probably take him to the hospital tomorrow [Tuesday] because he has had a problem with his back before. I sure hope he's back by Wednesday."

The loss ended the Tribe's season-opening winning streak at two games, their only two wins ever for the program. They will return to the court Wednesday for another SAC battle at Oviedo High School starting with junior varsity action at 6 p.m. and the varsity set to go at 7 p.m.

own territory with his coffin-corner punting, while Butler went straight up the middle against the tough Lake Mary defense for 174 yards on 27 carries, including touchdown runs of 78 and three yards.

Both young men's statistics were so impressive that they will share the honor of being this week's Sanford Herald Player of the Week.

For most of Friday's Seminole Athletic Conference battle the only option that was available to Lake Brantley's flexbone attack was the fullback dive, which meant that Butler was sent right up the middle, where he took a heck of a pounding. But the 215-pounder rose to the occasion with his strong running and the pair of touchdowns.

Gray's job appeared to be to keep the potent Lake Mary offense bottled up in their end of the field and the senior responded with three kicks inside the 20-yard line.

But with 29-seconds left he got to be the offensive star as J.D. Russell took a lateral pass from quarterback Jeff Shaw and tossed the game winner to Gray, who happens to be Russell's best friend off the field.

"Chris [Gray] is my best friend," said Russell, a former quarterback himself. "We throw the ball around all the time. I knew that if I could get it there, he'd catch it."

The Patriots will look to go to 3-0 on the season this Friday as they host Lake Howell at Tom Storey Field starting at 7 p.m.

Howard and Jeff Futral (one run each). Providing the offense for Ken Rummel Chevrolet were Chris Nickle (double, two singles, three runs), Mike Marshall (triple, two runs, three RBI), Keith Denton (double, two runs), Cary Keefer (single, two runs, RBI), David Goldstick and Jerry Governale (one single, one run and one RBI each), Scott Murphy (single, two RBI), Kelly Denton (single, run), Jim Smith (RBI) and Bobby Keefer (run).

Hitting for Crazy Wings were Ken Perkins (double), Ron Stohle (single, run) and Chris Dapore, Phil Hancock, Mark Blythe, A.J. Kearse and Mike Mawby (one single each) and Brian in the league. Ken Rummel Chevrolet, had little trouble in disposing of Crazy Wings 13-1 and Whiskey River used an 11-run second inning to pummel Sanford Ace Hardware 14-8.

Cafe Sorrento and Ken Rummel Chevrolet are both 2-0. Franklin Ball Bonds and Whiskey River are both 1-1 and Crazy Wings and Sanford Ace Hardware are both 0-2.

Next week, Sanford Ace Hardware and Crazy Wings go for win number one at 8:30 p.m. Ken Rummel Chevrolet and Franklin Ball Bonds battle at 7:30 p.m. and Cafe Sorrento plays Whiskey River at 8:30 p.m.

Doing the damage for Cafe Sorrento were Daugherty (three singles, run), Kevin Julian and Rich Moreland (two singles and one run each), Dave Oakes (two singles), Dunn (single, RBI), Bobby Wells (single, run) and Bill Marino (run).

Doing the hitting for Franklin Ball Bonds were Tom Gracy (three singles), Robert Stevens and David Jones (two singles and one RBI each), Sam Raines (two singles, two runs), Mike Edwards (single, RBI), Alan Peterson (single, run), Mike Mertlie and Arthur Barnes (one single each), Aaron Johns (RBI) and Keith Acree (run).

Contributing to a 19-hit Whiskey River attack were Rick Evans (four singles, run, four

IN BRIEF

Fashion show benefits games

See the latest styles and support the Golden Age Games at a luncheon fashion show to be held Wednesday, Sept. 30, 11:30 a.m. at the Sanford Civic Center.

Beall's Department Store will furnish the fashions and The Olive Garden Italian Restaurant will provide the luncheon.

Tickets are on sale for $10 and can be purchased at The Olive Garden in Orange City, the Sanford Senior Center and at the door.

Proceeds from the luncheon will be donated to the Golden Age Games.

Special election to be held

The Ladies Auxiliary to Sanford Aerie 4184, Fraternal Order of Eagles, will hold a special election on Monday, Sept. 28, to fill the vacancies in the offices of treasurer, trustee, conductor and inside and outside guards.

All members are asked to attend. The meeting is at 7:30 p.m. at the aerie, 2872 S. Orlando Ave.

Correction

Ruth Ormberg, Daybreakers Toastmasters winner of the best speech, was incorrectly identified in a photo that ran Sunday, Sept. 20.

Home tour planned

Planning for the annual Historic Tour of Homes sponsored by the Sanford Historic Trust is well underway. Chairwoman Julia Goeb, (left) describes the sign she envisions to direct people through the tour. Jon and Jami Meeks listen. The Goeb home, in which the meeting is being held, is an example of the rich and varied styles to be seen in the vintage homes.

Husband suspects detours on road

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I have been married for two years. I am 51 and she is 42. This is my third marriage (death, divorce) and her second (divorce). We are very much in love, and whatever we do, we do together. It's when we are not together that causes me concern.

My wife works for the government and does some traveling. Sometimes she travels alone and sometimes with other employees. It's these trips that I have problems with. Abby, is it proper for a married person, while away from home, to:

1. Accept dinner invitations with a member of the opposite sex?
2. Accept invitations (opposite sex) for cocktails?
3. Accept invitations to a club where there is dancing?
4. Allow a person of the opposite sex in your hotel room?

Maybe my age is my problem, but I would not do any of the above. I just wouldn't feel right. She says that sometimes she is put in a situation where she can't say no. I disagree. I trust her, but I find these activities bordering on the brink of trouble. She thinks I'm being silly. Who is right? Perhaps I'm living with Victorian principles. I await your answer.

JEALOUS

DEAR JEALOUS: Your wife is a "career woman" — perhaps your previous wives were not. Since she is being up-front with you and telling you what she does on these trips, you have no reason to be jealous. When a businesswoman is "on the road," it's not unusual for her to have dinner with business associates (just as a businessman would). And if she and her escort are dining in a club where there's music and dancing, why shouldn't she dance if she wants to?

ADVICE

You say you trust her. Fine. Now stop worrying about her fidelity, unless you have a reason to question it.

DEAR ABBY: I am a young woman on my own, and I have been self-supporting since I graduated from college three years ago. I have a friend (male) who makes his living on Wall Street and who knows a lot about stocks. He has done very well, and insists that buying and selling stocks is not a gamble if you know what you're doing.

Well, this friend told me that he had a "hot" stock that was sure to go up immediately. I believed him and invested $5,500 in it. This may not be a lot of money to some people, but it represented my life's savings.

Instead of going up, the stock went down. It's worth about $400 now. My friend felt guilty and offered to buy it from me at the price I paid for it.

Should I let him buy it to relieve his conscience? Or should I tell him I'm a big girl — nobody twisted my arm — and thanks, but no thanks?

LEARNED A LESSON
DEAR LEARNED: Since he advised you to buy the stock with what represented your life's savings he had a moral obligation to keep his eye on it. (It didn't lose over 90 percent of its value overnight.)

If I were you, I'd take him up on his offer. Now, take a tip from me, and don't take any more tips from him.

DEAR ABBY: I heard that you are a big fan of ABC's "Homefront" TV series. I love that show, and watch nothing else but that and the news.

Since "Homefront" takes place in your era, I hope you can answer this question: The pilot episode was titled "S.N.A.F.U." What do those letters stand for? I've asked around, and nobody seems to know.

DENNIS W. IN ST. LOUIS
DEAR DENNIS: They stand for "Situation Normal — All Fouled Up." It came into the language during World War II, and means "badly confused or ridiculously muddled."

DEAR ABBY: I have been following your column for 30 years and have learned a lot from your answers. Here is my problem:

My neighbors have a swimming pool which they use year-round as we live in Los Angeles. They have two children and the girl is around 8 years old. She and her friends are very, very noisy in the pool — which they use every weekend.

They scream and shriek, and it is so shrill that we are unable to sit in our garden when they are outdoors! The boy, who is around 11 years old, also has his friends over but they make the regular "happy noise" that children do, and we can easily tolerate that.

What can we say to the parents so we can enjoy our garden and also continue to get along well with our neighbors?

If you print the answer in the paper, we will give it to them. Thanking you in advance.

SCREAM, SCREAM, SCREAM
LOS ANGELES

DEAR "S.S.S.": The next time the children are raising Cain in the swimming pool, tape record the sounds they make. (If you don't own a tape recorder, borrow or rent one.) Then call the neighbors and make an appointment for a friendly chat, and bring along the tape recorder to make the point that a screaming child can not only be nerve-racking over the length of an afternoon, but screams could also be the sound of a child (or children) in distress.

Ask your doctor to review your therapy

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm an asthmatic treated with prednisone, Theo-Dur, Metaprel aerosol and Asmacort. I recently had a grand mal seizure my doctor indicated was caused by the Theo-Dur. Am I over-medicated and, if so, how come my doctor doesn't know?

DEAR READER: You got me. Your doctor SHOULD know. That's his business. Excess quantities of Theo-Dur have been reported to cause convulsions. Such over-medication is easy to check, using a blood test to measure the amount of Theophylline (the active ingredient in Theo-Dur) in your bloodstream. If the level were high (at the time of your seizure), you've got the answer. Even now, sometime later, you should have a theophylline level analyzed because, unless your physician reduced the dose, you could still be receiving a toxic amount.

If, on the other hand, your seizure were not caused by the Theo-Dur, you should have further testing, such as an EEG (brain wave test), and examination by a neurologist. Theo-Dur is an excellent drug for asthma. When used properly, with periodic blood screening, it is safe. Based on the information you supplied, I believe your doctor appears to have been a little less conscientious than he should have been. Incidentally, while you're settling this issue with him, ask about whether you can reduce or eliminate the prednisone. Because you are using Asmacort (inhaled prednisone), you may not need the additional prednisone pills, which can cause several unpleasant side effects, such as diabetes and cataracts. These side effects are not common with Asmacort, which affects the lungs, not the body as a whole.

WIN AT

By Phillip Alder
If an opponent is holding the last outstanding trump and it is a winner, usually you should not lead the suit. Instead, it may be best to try to score your remaining low trumps with ruff. Against four spades, West led the diamond jack: queen, ace, two. Back came the diamond six: seven, eight, king. South seemed to have at least 10 certain tricks: six spades, two hearts and two minor-suit winners. But he had been well trained in his formative years. He always hunted for potential snags. Here only a 4-0 spade break, which will happen almost 10 percent of the time, would present difficulties. Just in case, declarer made the farsighted play at trick three of ruffing dummy's diamond four. Next, South cashed the spade ace, getting the bad news. Un-

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Sept. 23, 1992

Fortunate trends are indicated both materially and socially in the year ahead. You could be quite lucky in ways you'd least expect.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A situation you have been negatively anticipating looks like it's going to turn out to be a paper dragon. There's a lesson here -- one that endorses positive thinking. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Libra's Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Your loyalty to your real friends is admirable today. You're not only a booster but a battler, who will fight for them if needed.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Self-defeating doubts are your worst enemies today, but you mustn't let them overwhelm you. Success and victory will be determined by how strongly you believe in yourself.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A member of the opposite gender has your best interest at heart today and wants to do something for you that this individual would never do for another. Keep what occurs secret.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Your desire to deal with others as fairly as possible is your greatest asset today. Those you'll be involved with may never know how you subjugated your own self-interests.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Rewards could result today out of situations where you unselfishly help others. You might not do as well in matters where you look for personal gain, though.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Even though you might have to deal with a touchy development today, your friendly, relaxed manner will help put everyone at ease. What initially appeared unsolvable can be resolved.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A situation where you and your mate have taken opposing positions can be worked out today, but it will be up to you to initiate the action.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) A friend of yours might make some comments today that other pals will find offensive. However, after you restate what is said, the sting will be removed.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Regardless of how little you have at your disposal today, your generous nature will impel you to share with others. The way you handle matters will win admiration.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Someone might challenge your authority today, and although it may elevate your blood pressure, your feelings won't be obvious to others. You'll maintain control through diplomacy and tact.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You could be in for a pleasant surprise today when someone you assumed had questionable motives does something noble and generous. Try not to pre-judge others.
