Big Year Predicted For County In '57

By J. MARION BARMAN SR.

One of the biggest years in the history of Seminole County came virtually to a close with the celebration of Christmas.

Top figures in retail trade were reached this year with unprecedented trading in local stores. New highs were attained as shoppers reached their buying spree climax Monday evening wiping out stocks of toys and Christmas gifts that had been stacked high on the shelves of Sanford stores.

However, as the 1956 "top year" comes to a close, merchants, businessmen, car dealers, professional people, industrialists and agricultural leaders look forward to 1957 and its predictions.

Analysts on the national level have predicted even newer highs in every phase of American business—and local businessmen are beginning to share the same view.

They say "Seminole County has more to look forward to in the coming year than it has ever had in any one twelve-month period."

The nucleus for the 1957 outlook came early in 1956, say Sanford business leaders, when French Ave. was opened as a throughway, the Seminole Memorial Hospital was officially opened and dedicated, Sanford streets took on a new and improved look, and more than one million dollar sewer and water expansion program was completed. In addition, the near million dollar 17-92 four-laning project got underway.

Sanford and Seminole County citizens, along with their Boards of Commissioners, took on a "talking and planning" stage, looking into aggressive progress in the city and county's economy.

National and state analysts have predicted that Sanford's urban population would reach a whopping 50 to 60 thousand by 1963, and it is well on its way. Some predict that population figures will top even the mathematical totals which have been set as goals.

Sanford and Seminole County can look forward, in 1957, to the four-lane approach to Sanford from the north by way of a causeway from Volusia County and a re-routed 17-92 in the limited access inter-state system; the completion of the 1792 four-laning project from Five Points south; the letting of a contract for the four-laning of SR 46 from the river to Mellonville Ave.

Read Plans

In the planning stage during the 12-month period ahead will be the complete revamping of roads for Seminole County looking forward to a modern highway system from every direction with the possibility of a short route for midwest and eastern travelers and tourists through Central Florida into Sanford and then on to Miami. Tourists, say some new road enthusiasts, will be looking for new short routes to replace the highly taxed turnpikes and high speed areas which divert them from the beauty spots of the State.

Navy Growth

The Navy has played an important part in Sanford and Seminole County's growth with the strength of the local Naval Air Station increasing which in turn brought hundreds of families to live here. 1957 is expected to reveal new plans for the multi-million dollar expansion program and move to the Osceola Base. This in turn will bring an influx of civilian trades labor to the area as well as additional increase in military personnel. Political and military officials say that the Sanford Naval Air Station, in its new location, will be one of the major bases on the East Coast.

Immediate Completion

Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co.'s one-and-a-quarter million dollar new dial system headquarters building on Laurel Ave. at ninth St. is expected to turn Sanford and its area "dial" on the target date of March 17. Huge crews of engineers, cable and plant men are working feverishly to meet the deadline of the proposed date. Hundreds of applicants for telephone service are waiting for the new system to go into operation.

In addition to the Sanford dial exchange, Southern Bell Telephone & Telegraph Co. will, in all probability, complete its DeBary building which ties in with the local office.

Biggest Development

One of the biggest developments which continues to be the "top item" on the agenda for 1957 is the "docks and terminals" project along the St. Johns River in Lake Monroe from the Lake Monroe Bridge on to Sanford. The proposed terminals and docks would turn the entire area from West First St. north to Lake Monroe into an industrial zone that would, under even mild conditions, mushroom into the biggest freight distribution centers in Florida.

Home & Commercial Building

Homebuilding will take on new goals for 1957 with the expected increase of personnel at the Sanford Naval Air Station. Developers are already planning the construction of 75 new homes immediately in one subdivision with many others to follow. Rumors have been circulating that a one-thousand home development will be started in the near future. However, details have been kept under cover and negotiations have not yet reached an announcement stage.

The expansion of the south section of Seminole County is expected to hit unprecedented highs in 1957. Already dozens of platted developments have been treated with homebuilding already hitting fast strides which are expected to accelerate in the coming 12 months.

Already hanging fire for several months is the announcement on the expected construction of several modern supermarkets and shopping centers in the Sanford area. With new acquisition of property this added commercial building can get underway during 1957.

Another commercial building which will come to a probable 30-thousand dollar figure is expected to be announced soon after the first of the year.

Annexation & Population

Approval of a bill by the Seminole County Legislative delegation for annexation by petition will start the acquisition of new city limit lines early after the bill's passage this spring. The already estimated population of 20 to 22 thousand will begin to soar as the limits of the city are extended.

Every community in the county is expanding and expanding fast. Oviedo is growing, Altamonte Springs is taking on a "new look", Lake Mary, Casselberry, Longwood, Geneva, and Lake Monroe are all adding new homes in the countywide growth.

Agriculture Important

New fast freight service, expanding motor truck lines, water freight, and the possibility of air transportation for Sanford and Seminole County create new plans and bigger goals in the field of agriculture.

The Sanford State Farmer's Market continues to top last year's over-the-platform loadings. Diversified crops and scientific truck farming are adding new and better varieties for northern, mid-western and western markets. Citrus is beginning to be a big industry for the county as new roads are built for access to groves. Cattle is claiming a more and more important role in the county's economic pattern.

New York Giants in Sanford

Completion of the New York Giants' huge dormitory building for their farm system is expected in early or mid January, Director Carl Hubbell and his staff will move in shortly after the turn of the year to get plans underway and in readiness for the 1957 baseball training season.

Also nearing completion is the Mayfair Inn Annex under construction adjacent to their already plush and overflowing winter resort. This attraction will bring an additional number of visitors to Sanford for the winter season.

The success of the Mayfair Inn's $15,000 PGA Tournament is expected to bring an announcement on the planning and construction of a new, plush club house for their new-famed Mayfair Inn Country Club and golf course where the Third Annual Mayfair Inn $15,000 PGA Open will be held.

County Has 1 Accident Yesterday

By UNITED PRESS

The nation's most disastrous Christmas weekend on the highways ended today with traffic deaths soaring well above National Safety Council estimates for a new all-time holiday record.

The council's prediction of 800 deaths was surpassed Tuesday shortly before the fatality count ended at midnight as a crush of motorists headed home from Christmas outings.

The toll also was well above the previous high mark of 600 deaths for a holiday, set during last year's three-day Christmas weekend.

The traffic toll for a similar four-day non-holiday period at this time of year would be about 420 persons killed, according to the council.

661 Traffic Deaths

The United Press tally showed 661 persons were killed in traffic during the Christmas holiday which began at 6 p. m. Friday. In addition, 47 persons died in fires, 9 in plane crashes and 100 in miscellaneous accidents for a total of 832 accidental deaths.

California led the nation with 72 Illinois with 54, Texas 40, Ohio 33, Michigan 30, New York 25 and North Carolina 21.

Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, expressed "bitter disappointment" with the record highway carnage.

Crazed Gunman Kills Girl, Driver On Bus

CLEVELAND, Ohio — A crazed gunman, ordered off a bus for allegedly molesting an 18-year-old girl, shot and killed the bus driver, the girl and wounded five passengers in the Greyhound bus terminal here today, before he was killed by a Cleveland detective.

Georgiann Kartzke, 19, of 317 25th St., Fort Easton Va., and bus driver Leo Almerico, 49, of 1222 West 69th St., Cleveland, were dead on arrival at St. Vincent Charity Hospital.

Homicide detectives said the pair was shot at the entrance of a Pittsburgh-to-Cleveland bus by a still unidentified Negro assailant. The gunman, who went berserk after Almerico ordered him to leave the bus on Miss Kartzke's complaint, was shot down by Detective Sgt. Michael Sirkot after the gunman had wounded five persons in a gun battle inside the terminal.

Detectives said the five wounded suffered only superficial wounds.

Police said Miss Kartzke had complained to passengers and the driver that the assailant had been annoying her. Witnesses told officers the driver had the girl sit in the front of the bus with him and told the man to leave her alone or get off the bus.

Witnesses told police the man left the bus then whipped out a .32-caliber automatic pistol and fired at the driver and woman before fleeing the bus, which was parked outside the Cleveland Greyhound terminal.

Police said the assailant shot the five others inside the terminal. The driver was able to enter the terminal before he collapsed and died. The girl died inside the parked bus.

Families Evacuated As Fire Sweeps Area

MALIBU, Calif. — Hundreds of families were evacuated from their homes in this famed movie colony area today in the path of a blaze that consumed more than 2,000 acres of brushland and burned at least 25 structures in the Santa Monica Mountains.

Luxurious homes of many film personalities dot the beach area, but it was not known immediately whether any of them were among those destroyed.

Flames were visible from Los Angeles and the San Fernando Valley as they spread in every direction and at one area leaped across Pacific Coast Highway.

Nearly 300 Los Angeles County and city fire fighters, aided by local cities and forest camp crews, were thrown into the fighting.

Popular Resort

The fire area is near a popular movie star resort area east of the old Richard Dix ranch and is populated by many movie personalities. It was the scene in 1933 of a 5 million dollar blaze that razed more than 100,000 acres.

Evacuation of residents in Newton, Ramona, LaTigo and Trancas canyons began at dawn. Sheriff's deputies of Los Angeles and Ventura counties were aided by the California highway patrol.

Wind Whips Area

Gusty morning winds whipped the flames in the tinder-dry area and the U. S. Weather Bureau predicted the winds would continue, coupled with low humidity. The season's total rainfall in this area has been less than one-half inch.

An emergency shelter was established and Red Cross officials alerted to the situation. Residents also were taken to lifeguard and fire stations at Zuma Beach.

Singers Entertain Mayfair Inn Guests On Christmas Eve

A huge Christmas Tree in the center of the large lobby was used for Santa Claus Headquarters as he paid a brief visit to hotel guests and their children. Hundreds of gifts were distributed.

6 Room Goldsboro Dwelling Destroyed By Fire Christmas

A six room frame dwelling in Goldsboro was destroyed by fire Christmas morning when sparks from a defective flue is believed to have ignited the tinder-dry home.

The fire was discovered shortly after 9 o'clock yesterday morning by Fannie Fields, daughter of the occupant of the home who is in Georgia. The daughter saw smoke pouring from the back door of the house. She awakened her husband who was asleep in a room adjacent to the one in which the fire started.

"The fire department got here mighty quick," Fannie Fields said yesterday at the scene of the blaze, 1807 West 16th St. while hundreds of curiosity seekers watched the flames eat the entire home.

No estimate was placed on the amount of damage.

1957 Looms Into View With 'Rosy Picture' Ahead For Florida

Christmas over and families now settle down to the hum drum life of finding ways and means of eating leftover turkey, candy, fruit, cakes and pies prepared for the festive occasion.

And in the interim between Christmas and New Year folks ponder the year ahead in attempting to spell out their New Year's Resolutions.

Businessmen are looking forward to a record-breaking 1957. Sales in every category are expected to topple all previous records. Already this year the retail sales figures have leaped to new highs to make 1956 a big year in most establishments.

As the businessmen look at the estimated increases for the coming year, they are attempting to work out some formula whereby their margin of profit can be expanded. High salaries, expanded sales staffs, taxes and other bites on the profit-making side have kept profits at a nominal level.

Homebuilders are looking forward to another big year ahead as shifting populations seek new homes and as apartment dwellers look toward owning their own little "cozy nook." Building gains varied in different sections of the country with possibly Florida leading the nation in "new homes in new subdivisions."

Central Florida is entering a new era with the advent of 1957 and industrial, commercial, business, retail, wholesale, building, real estate and other heads are getting their fingers in the pie for a bigger share during the coming 12-month season.

However, the approach to the growing bubble in all branches of commercial enterprise are with caution.

Bankers, builders, real estate people and investors are looking at the "tight money" situation, not with alarm, but with closer interest to determine when the avenues of growth will open up again. High interest rates are keeping interested expansionists "on the fence" in a "do it now" or "do it later" attitude.

There is no doubt, however, that every phase of money-spending will increase in the 1957 era—the agricultural industry, as talked about in many sections of the country will see better prices paid for fresh foodstuffs and farm products. Florida will share in these "bigger profits" for the farmer phase of 1957's growth and expansion.

It's been a wonderful year for employee — employer — businessman — investor — industrialist — which accounted for the abundance of Merry Christmas wishes. Next year's greetings will be just as prolific as were the Christmas Greetings as 1957 looms into view with such a "rosy picture" ahead.

Publishing Business

The publishing business is changing. Quality magazines have declined. Outlets for the publication of original creative work and thoughtful, serious and honest discussions of ideas and issues are becoming fewer. Some journalists and writers can no longer afford to write books and articles they would like to do because they cannot afford to lose money on these efforts.

Because of cost of production, the cost of gathering information, and the cost of sustaining himself and his family while working, the writer often cannot give his best. Much that could be contributed to our culture, our thought and the discussion of the problems, issues and color of the day goes unwritten or else collects dust on shelves.

Possibly this is inevitable. Unless present tendencies are reversed, this situation will become more pronounced. Perhaps most people do not care. Yet whether many care or not, America is receiving far from anything like its full creative and intellectual potential. For it is gradually becoming poor business or just bad economically to get more of the potential existent in America today. Other efforts pay more.

These are important facts about our culture as it changes day by day in this swiftly changing world. Whether few or many care, whether anyone can do much about the situation, it is a matter that should be thought about by all who believe that our cultural heritage ought to be expanded rather than diminished.

Bought Elections

Congress is still trying to find out what is wrong with laws controlling election campaign contributions and expenditures. Voluntary testimony has been heard. The danger now is efforts to improve the law will become buried under this mass of conflicting opinion.

One of the facts most clearly brought out by the hearings is this, that present law is both unrealistic and generally circumvented. Campaign contributions are limited by law, but not the intimidations that go with it are so loose that the actual amounts given and spent bear little relationship to the legal ceilings.

Clearly, the ceilings should be raised to conform to present-day costs. Just as clearly, the loopholes should be plugged so that these more realistic levels of expenditure are adhered to. Political parties must be allowed enough money for operations without having to violate the intent of the law to get it. Yet the public interest demands protection from any possibility of a "bought election."

Looking over the results of Santa's visit yesterday — is there any greater challenge to the ingenuity of a child than a so-called unbreakable toy?

SITUATION NORMAL, ALL FOULED UP

Big

Sanford Looking Up
Sanford will make its approach to the City more attractive with the installation of a three-way whiteway early this year. French Avenue, will be lined with modern street lighting standards that are already on hand, stored in the abandoned French Ave. trailer park, to give an across the city view to lure visitors to the city.

Added to this set lanes of lighting will be a bright entrance to the center of Sanford with the whiteway extending from French Ave. south on Park Ave. to 25th St.

And to the northern approach to the city will be added the First St. whiteway from French Ave. east to Sanford Ave.

At the French Ave. and West First St. intersection, the City of Sanford will construct a huge neon direction signal to lure visitors into the downtown shopping area. The sign, with huge neon letters and attractive neon framing, will be mounted on steel standards.

Dedication and opening of the General Henry Shelton Sanford Memorial Library and Museum is expected early in 1957. Announcement of the shipment of a library valued at over a million dollars to be housed in the newly constructed building will bring unnumbered thousands to Sanford to review the pages of American History written in several languages by Sanford's founder.

On the list of local improvements is the Capital Improvement Program of the city which includes a near quarter million dollar Sanford Civic Center with its primary functions aimed at recreation for children from pre-school age on up. The huge auditorium is expected to attract conventions, meetings, and civic functions heretofore impossible because of space problems.

A 50-thousand dollar swimming pool center for Negroes in the Goldsboro Recreational Area will pattern the area into one of the most modern in Florida.

In an effort to create accelerated interest in water sports a boat basin for small craft will more than likely be completed in 1957. The new protective sea wall surrounding the bandshell area will put to use water facilities along Sanford's Lake Monroe from the bandshell to the Mayfair Inn.

One of the most looked-forward to improvements in Sanford will be the 1957 construction of the city's second fire station located probably on French Ave. at 13th St. The acquisition of two new pumps, complete with hose, will man the new, modern station with up-to-date equipment.

A sewage treatment plant is expected to be started in 1957 with the late-in-the-year okay from fiscal agents that the city's Utility Department is in "good shape" and ready for the issuing of revenue certificates to finance its construction.

Another improvement during 1957 is expected to come in the announcement that West First St. will be the access road to Sanford from the limited access highway of the interstate system which looms as one of 1957's expansion highlights.

(Continued from Page 1) common sense." Dearborn continued. He said the council had no explanation for the tragic toll. "You cannot rationalize death," he said.

In Seminole County there was only one traffic accident on Christmas Day. At 8:05 p. m. yesterday on the Country Club Dr. at the old Lake Mary Rd. a 1954 Ford driven by Vernon W. Nelson Jr., 22 of Lake Mary, home on leave from the Marine Corps collided with a 1950 Studebaker sedan driven by George Wright, 48, Rt. 2, Box 521, Sanford.

The Ford was traveling east at approximately 40 mph when the driver of the Studebaker failed to see him coming and pulled out in front of him, according to the report of PHP Trooper T. Mark Mack.

Damage to the Ford was estimated at $300, to the Studebaker at $100. Charges of violating the right of way were placed against Wright.

Nelson suffered a minor abrasion of the lower right leg and a passenger of the other car, Nettie Johnson, 78, 1835 Blackstone Ave., Sanford had a two inch laceration of the forehead.

The accident was investigated by Trooper Mack and Patrolman Lawrence Coffman.

Only two minor accidents with property damage on both set at $175 occurred on Christmas Eve said Trooper Mack.

There were some violations in the dense Christmas afternoon and evening traffic that could not be reached, said the Trooper. We made only three arrests Christmas Eve and issued one warning and made one arrest on Christmas Day.

"All in all," said Trooper T. Mark Mack, "Traffic was well behaved in Seminole County during the Christmas holidays."

Topos on the list of local improvements is the Capital Improvement Program of the city which includes a near quarter million dollar Sanford Civic Center with its primary functions aimed at recreation for children from pre-school age on up. The huge auditorium is expected to attract conventions, meetings, and civic functions heretofore impossible because of space problems.

A 50-thousand dollar swimming pool center for Negroes in the Goldsboro Recreational Area will pattern the area into one of the most modern in Florida.

In an effort to create accelerated interest in water sports a boat basin for small craft will more than likely be completed in 1957. The new protective sea wall surrounding the bandshell area will put to use water facilities along Sanford's Lake Monroe from the bandshell to the Mayfair Inn.

One of the most looked-forward to improvements in Sanford will be the 1957 construction of the city's second fire station located probably on French Ave. at 13th St. The acquisition of two new pumps, complete with hose, will man the new, modern station with up-to-date equipment.

A sewage treatment plant is expected to be started in 1957 with the late-in-the-year okay from fiscal agents that the city's Utility Department is in "good shape" and ready for the issuing of revenue certificates to finance its construction.

Another improvement during 1957 is expected to come in the announcement that West First St. will be the access road to Sanford from the limited access highway of the interstate system which looms as one of 1957's expansion highlights.

By BENNETT CERF

ON HIS BEAUTIFUL ESTATE near Monte Carlo, Somerset Maugham, author of "Of Human Bondage" and many other best-sellers, is mourning the loss of 252 palm trees killed by the unprecedented cold of the 1955-56 winter.

"The cypresses could be straightened," he told us, "but 200-year-old palm and olive trees are gone forever." There was a man working in the top branches of a tall tree while we watched. Suddenly he leaped several feet from the bough to the roof of the villa. "He gets 400 francs for that job," commented Maugham. "Maybe writers aren't so badly paid, after all."

Maugham added that from here on in he expects to devote himself principally to essays. "First," he said, "an author publishes for the money, of course. Later, if he's lucky, he can afford to do it for the prestige."

These were set off with assorted greenery.

Micky Durak, playing the saxophone, and Dottie Bollinger, on the accordion, provided entertainment and music for dancing. The guests were served many varied and appetizing hors d'oeuvres, and all in all a gay time was had by all attending this festive affair, which lasted from 9 p. m.—1 a. m.

Basketball At SHS Undergoes Drastic Change In Attitude

Baseball Has Odd Season In 1936

By MILTON HICMAN

NEW YORK — Baseball experienced one of its oddest seasons in 1936. It was a campaign in which one player drew a $5,000 fine for spitting, another chased a flea clear across the field and still another pitched the first perfect game in World Series history.

Ted Williams, the celebrated Red Sox slugger, was the one who was fined the $5,000 for spitting toward the press box on Aug. 7 and although some doubt exists as to whether he ever actually did the deed, the event hit the baseball world like a bombshell.

Big Joe Adcock of Braves was the fellow who took up the chase, legging after Ruben Gomez when the Giants' right-hander hit him with a ball as he was charging out to the mound after him. Adcock never caught up with Gomez but the incident caused a stir for weeks afterward.

Don Larsen, the Yankees' unpredictable right-hander, was the hurler who pitched the perfect game in the World Series against the Dodgers on Oct. 3. That performance undoubtedly was baseball's most talked-about event of the year and it gave the Yankees a three-game to two edge in the world series which they went on to win in seven games.

Larsen's perfect game plus the fact that Casey Stengel wrapped up his sixth world championship took some of the edge off Brooklyn's gallant uphill battle to win the National League pennant, but even so, few baseball fans will forget how Milwaukee had the flag practically in its mitts, only to blow it in the last three days.

From the Dodgers' point of view one figured more profitably in their climb than 39-year-old Sam Maglie, who was considered all "washed up" when they got him from Cleveland "for a song" on May 16. Maglie proceeded to astound everyone by winning 13 games for the Dodgers, including a no-hit, no-run effort against the Phillies, Sept. 25.

Other No-Hitters
In addition to the no-hitters turned in by Larsen and Maglie, there were two others in 1936. Carl Erskine of Brooklyn pitched the second one of his career on May 12 against the Giants and South paw Mel Parnell, who also was supposed to be all through, hurled one for the Red Sox against the White Sox on July 11.

Throughout the entire campaign, there was a constant undertone of oddity.
Larsen, for example, pitched his perfect game without using a windup. But that was nothing.

Take the case of Brooklyn's big Don Newcombe. Here was a man who won 27 games during the regular season but still had charges hurled against him that he couldn't win the big ones. He was knocked out in his two World Series appearances against the Yankees and couldn't even go the route during the Dodgers' post-season tour of Hawaii and Japan.

But he had the last laugh at his critics by winding up with the National League's Most Valuable Player award, the Cy Young award as the best pitcher in the major, and a personal "hang-in-there" letter from President Eisenhower.

The 1936 campaign was also one in which Mickey Mantle's supporters turned in their tape measures for time-tables. Instead of measuring each of the Yankees outfielders' homers, the fans consulted Babe Ruth's home run record time-table daily to conjecture on whether Mantle would or wouldn't eclipse the Bambino's all-time mark of 60.

Well, Mickey fell eight short and wound up with "only" 52, but it was more than enough to give him the home run title. In passing, he also won the batting title with a .333 figure and the runs-batted-in crown with 130. As an added flourish, he also won the slugging title with a .705 percentage. Mantle was a unanimous choice as the A. L. MVP.

The All-Star Game
On July 10, the National League all-stars, loaded with five Cincinnati players in the starting lineup, defeated the American Leaguers, 7-9, before 22,813 fans at Griffith Stadium in Washington. Outfielder Frank Robinson of the Redlegs was voted the National League Rookie of the year, while shortstop Luis Aparicio was designated the American League Rookie of the year.

Charlie Grimm was let out by the Braves on June 16 and succeeded by Fred Haney. Al Lopez resigned at Cleveland and was named manager of the White Sox when Marty Marion turned over the Chicago reins. Kerby Farral was named Cleveland manager.

In the confusion, Frank Umont, an American League arbiter, became the first major league umpire to put on eye glasses during a game at Kansas City on April 24 but hardly anyone noticed.

On July 23, Greenberg and Joe Cronin, general manager of the Red Sox, were inducted into baseball's Hall of Fame at Cooperstown, N. Y.

Major league attendance was virtually the same in 1936 as it was in 1935. A total of 16,547,372 watched big league games this year as compared with 16,617,383 the year before.

Baseball's best-known patriarch, Connie Mack, died during the year.

Basketball at Seminole High has undergone a drastic change in attitude since the recently past first annual Seminole County Invitational Basketball Tournament.

From abject depression, the Sanford Seminoles eagles have climbed the ladder to become an aggressive club to watch. The fact that the Seminoles came out on bottom in the tournament has suddenly become very minor. What really counts is that they are all young, there are no seniors on the squad, and they are learning the winter cage sport with amazing rapidity.

Current speculation now has the Seminoles as a team to keep eyes trained on after mid-season. They will be somewhat experienced and should be dangerous. The outstanding showing during the tournament surprised everyone, the coaches and players as well as the spectators.

Before the Christmas vacations began, everyone took basketball in Sanford as a big joke. Today basketball is a very serious concern. "Before the end of the season we're going to have some team," and, "we'll win what next year," and the next "seems to be the general consensus of opinion."

People don't mind their home team losing if they see a close game played during the heart. After jumping into some early season lopsided scores the Seminoles looked pretty bad. But during the tournament they played some fine teams and did a credible job.

In a previous engagement the Seminoles fell before the DeLand Bulldogs by some 40 points. During the tournament they showed the extent of their improvement by a second half surge of power, speed and precision that brought them within one point of DeLand and DeLand had to pour on a lot of coal to finally edge out a 54-44 win. DeLand went on to win the tournament.

After the holidays the Seminoles resume their basketball against an all senior squad in Leesburg. The Yellow Jackets' casters average over six feet, and the Seminoles probably won't have the experience to overcome such a finished team, but the game after that they come back to their home court to entertain Pierson.

Pierson will be favored to win, but the Seminoles seem to have a different club since they have picked up some valuable experience.

It probably would be worth your while if you made plans to attend the Seminole-Pierson game in the high school gym.

What's the word around SIS? "Pierson look out!"

MEET ED "PORKY" OLIVER, new member of the Sanford community and Winter Pro for the Mayfair Inn Seminole County Club.

P. Oliver Ranks High As Teacher, Player

By Hugh Anley
Sports Editor

Author, lecturer, teacher, sportsman—some say that makes a philosopher. Others, especially those in the golfing world, say that means Ed "Porky" Oliver. Indeed, it fits both; and through the use of the syllogism we must therefore include "Porky" in the ranks of the philosophers.

We of Sanford are proud to have Ed as the new Winter Pro of the Mayfair Inn Seminole County Club. One of the greatest short iron specialists, Oliver is the author of the article on "The Golf Swing" in the book, "The Golf Clinic."

On the links, when you hear a hearty, prolonged laughter—the sincere kind that means real fun—it is usually Ed in the midst of a fun loving group enjoying the fitness of a pleasurable life.

Some say the gentle manner, the infinite patience, and the careful understanding of "Porky" is the great teachers of the sport of the fairways.

During a light, highly competitive tournament Oliver is always a main attraction for the gallery. A great sportsman and competitor, "Porky" has, among other things, twice been among the top ten in PGA money winners, three times been a member of the Ryder Cup team, and has been holding more than his own with four of the finest wins on the circuit.

Ed has made it pay in a big way since 1927.

"That was Ed's first full year as a tournament player and he finished with $17,900 in winnings, the third ranking Vardon trophy average (70.34 strokes per round) and was a member of the U. S. Ryder Cup team.

"Declaring that he was quitting while he was ahead, Oliver promptly took a club job in Kenmore, Washington and from 1948-49, appeared in less than a dozen tournaments.

"Teaching for action, he returned to tournament play in 1950 and in his first seven starts finished in the first ten and won more than $6,000. That was the end of Oliver the home pro and the revival of Oliver the tournament player. He finished the year as the 12th money winner with nearly $1,000 in winnings and in 1951 was again the picture of consistency as he finished 10th or better in 13 tournaments to win $9,939 and finished 10th among the top money winners.

"Biggest collections along the way came in the Canadian Open in Toronto, where Ed finished with two brilliant 67's to tie for second and won $1,300, and the Sioux City Open where his 274 total was good for $1,000 while finishing third in the Houston Open.

"In all, Oliver collected money in 22 official tournaments during the year, plus an additional $2,500 which he won finishing third in the Philippine World Open.

"Again in 1951 as in 1947, Ed had the distinction of winning a place on the U. S. Ryder Cup Squad that met Britain's best professionals at the Pinehurst (N. C.) No. 2 course in the fall.

"In the 1952 Winter Tour, his winnings fell off slightly as he banked only $2,700. The summer found him runner up to Boren in the U. S. Open and second in the Eastern and the Inveness, 1954 earnings for Ed amounted to $9,294.52. He was Medalist in the 1954 PGA Championship at St. Paul with a qualifying score of 136.

"Porky played a hefty portion of the 1955 PGA tour, in which his best showings were consecutive third places in the Virginia Beach Open, and the Colonial Invitational, second in the Havana Invitational, and a tie for that spot in the Mayfair Inn Open. He finished the year in 17th place among the money chasers with $14,229.67.

Oliver and his wife, Clara, have four children.

Had Green Eyes
Don't give that "good old days" routine to Paul Krichell, the Yankee scout who will be 74 years old next week. Krichell had green eyes as he watched Yogi Berra sign a contract for $35,000 for next season.

"That's more than I made in 14 years of professional baseball as a player," Paul moaned.

Rip Engle of Penn State, one of the East-West coaches, thinks it's about time people quit looking down on Eastern football.

"A lot of them thought it was a fluke when we beat Ohio State," he said, "but we did beat 'em — and the East had a fine season intersectionally if anybody takes the time to check it up. We had a half dozen teams which could play in any company." Anybody wanna argue?

Baylor Coach Has No Offense Worries

By ED FITE

United Press Sports Writer
WACO, Tex. — Baylor Coach Sam Boyd isn't worried about his offense as he starts final preparations for his team's Sugar Bowl date with Tennessee, but it hasn't always been that way.

The New Year's Day game offers a complete about-face situation for the 42-year-old Boyd, who sweated out a spattering attack during Baylor's early games when the Bear's defense was its best selling point.

"Our offense came of age in the Nebraska game, the eighth game of the season," Boyd said. "The kids finally caught on to some of the new stuff I had given them and began to click. Up to then, we were making most of our yardage on holdover plays from George Sauer's regime."

Boyd was Sauer's assistant and moved up when Sauer stepped up to full time athletic director.

Worries About Defense
"Now, it isn't the offense that worries me — it's the defense," he said. "We are looking better, but the abrupt change to defending a single wing offense like Bowden Wyatt has put together at Tennessee has sure come hard with our boys."

Boyd didn't mean that he wasn't spending some time on his offense in preparation for Baylor's fourth bowl appearance and, he hopes its second bowl victory.

"We're working on six or eight plays which we made little use of during the season and which Tennessee didn't see while scouting us," he said. "But, actually, there'll be very little new stuff."

Boyd did indicate, however, that the offensive plans may include full use of the multiple talents of Del Shofner, the sprinter-halfback who was kept under wraps as a runner for one reason or another much of the season.

Triple Sports Star
The 185-pound, 6-3 triple sport star (track and basketball) was in only 70 of Baylor's 549 rushing plays, but he managed to pick up 419 yards for a 6.4-yard average, tied for the Southwest Conference scoring lead with 60 points, averaged 19.7 yards of punt returns and 29.4 on kickoff returns, led the circuit in punting with a 40.7 average and caught 14 passes for 269 yards and three touchdowns.

Shofner works in the first backfield unit opposite right halfback Bobby Peters and with fullback Ryuben Sage and whichever one of Baylor's four quarterbacks happens to be in the slot on multiple-T offense at the time.

With All-America guard Bill Glass spearheading a big, mobile line, Boyd really isn't feeling desperate about his defense, but the offense that managed an 8-2 record last season will carry the brunt of Baylor's hope against Tennessee at New Orleans.

No. '13' Doesn't Scare B. Talbert
By LEO H. PETERSEN
United Press Sports Editor
ADELAIDE, Australia — The number "13" is considered just as unlucky "down under" as it is back in the States, but it isn't scaring Billy Talbert, non-playing captain of the United States Davis Cup tennis team.

In fact, Talbert feels this week's 13th straight meeting between the U. S. and Australia in the challenge round could produce an upset victory for the underdog Yankees.

Vic Seixas of Philadelphia, who also doesn't scare easily, agreed with Talbert.

Two Singles Matches
"No one expects us to win a match against the Aussies and that's a good position to be in," said the veteran cup campaigner who is expected to draw two singles assignments and also team with Herb Flam of Beverly Hills, Calif., in the doubles.

"I would rather be the underdog than the favorite for these matches," Vic continued. "We were expected to beat the Aussies last year at Forest Hills and they creamed us. Well, this year Australia is expected to win in a breeze."

But don't underestimate us, for Australia beat us when it wasn't expected to and we can beat the Aussies when no one expects us to."

Driving His Stars
Harry Hopman, non-playing captain of the favored Aussies, has been driving his court stars, especially tactician Lew Hoad, through gruelling drills.

Hoad has displayed some of his old-time form in recent drills. He is hitting the ball again with his former "killer touch," and seems intent on carrying Australia to a 5-0 sweep over the Americans.

Ken Rosewall, who represents the second half of Australia's "murder's row," thus far has escaped Hopman's strenuous daily drills. Hopman conceded that little Ken is in top form right now and "doesn't need to do much but hit a few each day."

Facts, Figures

By OSCAR FRALEY

United Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK — Fearless Fraley's acts and figures:
The New York Yankees with a huge farm system and a great amount of young talent surprisingly were not against the new major league rule requiring a cut to 28 men by opening day.

In the past, some clubs carried as high as 40 men for the first month of the season. This kept the minor leagues guessing as to what they would get eventually, and delayed their organization.

"This way, we'll get our kids out more quickly to where they can play ball regularly in the minors," said Yankee General Manager Weiss. "Then, if we have a vacancy, we'll know which players are going best."

Fullmer Brakes Camp
Gene Fullmer of West Jordan, Utah an 8 to 5 favorite to take Sugar Ray Robinson's middleweight crown on Jan. 2, breaks camp Christmas Day and will finish up his training at a private gym.

The Air Force Academy still isn't ready to move into a football class with Army and Navy, according to head Coach Buck Shaw. The air cadets have been playing in the Rocky Mountain Conference and move in against Skyline opponents next year.

"We'll get our lumps," in 1958 they step up again, against such as Iowa, Tulane and Stanford — and then they'll head for Army and Navy with four classes under their belts.

Had Green Eyes
Don't give that "good old days" routine to Paul Krichell, the Yankee scout who will be 74 years old next week. Krichell had green eyes as he watched Yogi Berra sign a contract for $35,000 for next season.

Priscilla tried to hold her breath in a New York office, yet couldn't seem to get away from it. An opportunity to see the city in a hurry is now hers. Priscilla's friend, Rita, who she has never met, has been invited to claim the mysterious mansion which is rumored to be a ghost house. Rita decides to keep the mansion for a few days, and Priscilla, who has been invited to see the mansion, decides to go. She is accompanied by a tall, thin man in a dark suit, who she has never met. Priscilla takes a taxi to the mansion, and Rita, who she has never met, is waiting for her. Rita takes the two girls to the mansion.

CHAPTER 8
PRISCILLA and Rita stopped behind Mr. Todd's car and sat looking at the ancient house. It was a huge house, many-gabled, weather-beaten, but not unattractive. The windows were long and shuttered, a shutter hanging here and there. There was a Captain's walk, and the house was surrounded by a tall iron fence on top of a foot-high brick wall. Huge oaks and magnolias crowded into the tangled garden. Heavy bushes supported an upper gallery. A brick walk led from the entrance gates to the broad steps. Bricks were missing, grass growing in the spaces.

Priscilla said, "It could only talk, what takes it could talk! And it does look sort of haunted, doesn't it?"
"It certainly looks lonely and deserted," Rita said.
"What on earth will I do with the house if I can't sell it, Rita's monstrous!"
"You'll sell. Somebody will buy it for some purpose—and of course the sooner the better. Looks like a rambling head! Her eyes moved over the grounds. "Must have really been a show place at one time, but I can understand why Mr. Todd said it would be difficult to find a purchaser."

Mr. Todd joined them. "It looks just as it did the first time I saw it, and folks say it's looked the same for fifty years. Course the shades used to be up, and grass and weeds were cut."
"It's the kind-of-looking place I ever saw," said Priscilla. "Even a ghost would be lonesome there."
Mr. Todd led the way up the creaking steps and unlocked the heavy door. It was dim and cool inside and smelled of mold and dust, mice and rotting wood. He raised a few shades, opened shutters, revealing a thick, brownish coating of dust over everything.

Curtains hung, fragile and brittle with dust. There was a square piano with most of the ivories missing. All the furniture was heavy, stichy carved, very beautiful. Priscilla was thinking that rooms could not be found for it in a modern home. Chandeliers which had held candles in long-gone days were dusty and fly-specked; upholstery was faded and worn. There was a huge grandfather clock, old albums, pictures.

They opened drawers, discovering heavy dull silver, good china, yellowed linens.
Rita said, "Let's look around this time, Priscilla. Then decide what you should do with it. There's no use trying to decide right now. Some of these pieces will bring a lot of money."
They spent almost an hour going from room to room, upstairs and down, and when they were down again, Mr. Todd said briskly, "I'll just lock up. When you decide what you're going to do, we'll come back. You can be thinking about it."

"We won't take any more of your time Mr. Todd," Rita said agreeably. "Leave the key with us and we'll look around a little more. I saw a sign down the street advertising antiques. They might be interested in some of these things."
Mr. Todd's hesitation was so apparent that Rita was sure he didn't want them to have the key. He turned it over reluctantly, suggesting that they drop it at his office, to which Rita made no reply. She did ask if he could send someone to cut the grass and clean the grounds and give the place a better appearance before putting it on the market.

They were still there an hour later when Mr. Todd returned. His voice was worried. "I talked to several boys, but they all turned me down. Word has got around that the place is haunted and it's going to be hard to get any of them to work here."
"Then how can we get the place cleaned up?"
"I'll keep looking. Frankly," he hesitated, "if you take my advice, you'll not bother about it. Won't really make any difference when it comes to a sale."
Mr. Todd had been gone only a few minutes when a boy of about fourteen came to the door. He had met Mr. Todd. He said that he would be willing to work outside but wouldn't clean inside, "because I was haunted."

Priscilla laughed, which was a mistake. The boy said evenly, "Tain't nothing to laugh about."
"That's right," Rita said in a friendly voice. "But we don't know much about such things. Won't you tell us why it's haunted?"
The boy shifted from one foot to the other, his eyes moving over the gaunt old house. "Don't know 'zactly why. It jerks lights move around in one of those windows upstairs. And people hear voices, whisperin' like."

Priscilla said, "I'll surely accept the first offer. The place is giving me the creeps."
"Power of suggestion," Rita said. "I wouldn't say sell it because it's haunted, but sell because it's the only sensible thing to do. Let's decide what you want to do with the furniture, or better still, who you want to turn the whole thing over to Mr. Todd to handle with some real estate firm?"
They were preparing to lock the door when Rita said, "Wait a minute. I'm not sure that I locked the back door."
She went back, found the door locked, and had turned to go when she saw a roll of bills on the floor—new, crisp, and shiny. Wonderingly she picked the roll up and examined it. Twenty-five twenty-dollar bills under a rubber band. Had Mr. Todd dropped it there? If so, and he had noticed it, he certainly must be upset by now. She would have to telephone him.

"Look, Priscilla, did you drop this?"
Priscilla looked at the roll of bills and gasped. "Heavens, no! I never carry that much cash. Where did it come from?"
"I found it on the floor by the back door. I wonder why we didn't see it before."
Priscilla giggled. "Well, if the place is haunted with greenbacks, maybe I'd better not sell after all."
"Mr. Todd must have dropped it."
"He must have. How else would it have got there? That's new money—and no one's been inside for a long time, he said. How much is it?"
"Twenty-five twenty-dollar bills."
"Glory be!" Priscilla exclaimed. "Rita, what if Mr. Todd says it isn't his?"
"It has to be his; there's no other explanation. Let's go and telephone him."

TV Outstrips Radio In Revenue In '56

WASHINGTON —The Federal Communications Commission revealed in its annual report that four of every five city homes and half the nation's farm houses have television sets.
Altogether there were 160 million TV's or radios in operation in 1955 but TV far outstripped radio in revenue gains. TV networks and stations earned a total of 744 million dollars last year—an increase of 25.6 percent over 1954—while radio showed a 3 percent gain for a total of 453 million dollars.

UHF The Big Problem

The commission said the problem of ultra-high frequency television continues to nag the TV industry and the FCC. It said the financially-weak UHF was the only dark spot in the otherwise booming TV picture.
In the main UHF was hampered by the fact that very high frequency VHF stations had first crack at the advertisers dollar. The VHF stations, on 12 channels from bands 2 to 13, continue to hold their advantage of being first on the air with commercial TV. Advertisers, faced with the fact that only about 20 percent of the nation's 39 million TV sets are equipped to receive UHF, have continued to pour their dollars into VHF.

Problems Under Study

The commission said it still is studying the problems involved, including a plan to switch all the nation's telecasting eventually to the upper 70 UHF channels. It admitted present VHF channels were jammed while many of the UHF bands have gone begging because of the competitive problem.
It said it had set three goals for commercial television but had attained only one. With 90 percent of the nation's television sets within the range of at least one station its first goal of bringing TV to all of America is just about realized.

Out-Going Kiwanis President Praises Members, Activities

Kiwanis Club members yesterday, at their noon luncheon meeting, heard the president report on the activities of the club's 23 committees.

A. L. Wilson, the out-going president said "I am personally proud of the high calibre programs we have had throughout the year."

Predominant in the president's year-end report was the work done by the Sanford Kiwanis club for underprivileged children and the boys and girls committee. Both committees, according to Wilson's 13-page summary, spent several thousand dollars to carry out their agenda.

Other committees included in the huge report were: the Key Club, Vocational Guidance, Agriculture and Conservation, Public Affairs, Support of Churches, Kiwanis Education, Social and Sunshine, Public Relations, Music Committee, House Committee, Boy Scout Committee, Attendance, Historian, New Club Building, Marianna Plan, Classification and Membership, Reception, Inter Club Relations, and Finance and Projects.

Wilson called special attention to the work of the Finance and Projects Committee which had spearheaded the Kissimmee Minstrel from which over $500 was realized for the underprivileged children's committee as was the annual Kiwanis Football Game which netted $688.42.

Another source of revenue was from the work done during the Second Annual Mayfair Inn PGA Tournament. This money was also placed in the underprivileged children's fund.

"This is your report, your activities, and credit goes to you," said Wilson as he started his summary of the 13 pages of material gathered on the work of the nearly two dozen committees.

"I want to put in a word of appreciation for Ralph Smith. He is just what a Club president needs," said Wilson. He also paid tribute to each member of the Sanford Kiwanis Club and their wonderful support.

"This has been a rich and wonderful experience," A. L. Wilson said, "and I want you to join me in the support of the club and its officers during the coming year."

"It is certainly a tribute to Al Wilson that he can give such a report," said Ed Shinkolop, the incoming president for 1957 who presided at yesterday's meeting.

Jack Tharpe, a member of the club, said "You were a good president and it wasn't easy done—you did a magnificent job throughout the year."

Much Progress Seen For Sanford In '57

Building Boom Is Expected

By J. MARION HARMAN Jr.

Prospects for the biggest year in Sanford's history look good, according to plans and proposals already announced.

The building boom, regardless of predictions for the coming year, will no doubt highlight the eventful year ahead to make Sanford one of the fastest growing cities in the State of Florida.

Topping the news in Sanford's continued economic progress is the home building outlook. One builder, starting 75 homes in the Sanford area, will go well over the million dollar mark in building and home sales. Other contractors and building will bring Sanford's home expansion program to over the two million dollar mark for the coming year in new homes alone.

Should the proposed docks and terminals for Sanford's waterfront become a reality in 1957, which is entirely possible with interests centered in creating a shipping and industrial area adjacent to the lake front, building estimates will be increased over a quarter of a million dollars. Additional industrial building in the area surrounding the docks and terminals would bring the total to a sky high figure.

Important to the entire Sanford picture is the city's capital improvement program which is estimated now at a near half million dollars. This will include the erection of a Sanford Civic Center, a new Negro swimming pool, the second Sanford fire station, and the proposed boat basin at the bandshell. Arguably, the equipment boats the total of the overall program to the half million dollar mark.

Already in the planning stage, with the issuance of revenue certificates approved by the city's fiscal agent, is the proposed sewage treatment plant. The building of the additional sewage treatment plant as a part of the city-wide water and sewer program has been a "must" item on the agenda of the Board of Sanford City Commissioners.

A street improvement program, in the talking stage among city commissioners, can lift the total of city improvements another 40 to 50 thousand dollars if plans are consummated.

Another boost in building and improvements is possible in the employing of a planning engineer-consultant to lay long-range plans for the city of Sanford's growth. The setting of commercial and industrial zones as well as the outlining of necessary streets and improvements for future growth can well mean additional construction plans in both the downtown and fringe areas of the city.

An industrial building, not yet announced, will also increase the total of building permits to be issued in 1957.

Increasing the population as well as increasing the city's potential income for 1957 are the plans to expand the Sanford Naval Air Station. Additional personnel for the local Navy Base has been announced as well as the possibilities for expansion.

The New Year will no doubt top the 1956 total of retail spending, home building, commercial expansion, and industrial progress of the City.

The outlook for 1957 will, more than likely, include additional taxes. That is foreseen on the county level as well as the city level. However, the addition of new taxes, whatever the millage set, will continue to keep Sanford and Seminole County in the "low bracket" in comparison to cities and counties throughout the state.

The prospects for the election of Sanford's Mayor in forthcoming city elections will not change its economic picture for Sanford. If anything, the new manner in naming the top city commissioner or serving in an honorary capacity should enhance the city's future growth.

Also, the annexation of fringe areas into the city, which could be done within 1957, would in all probability help reduce the possibilities of added taxes in framing the 1957-58 budget for city operation.

1 Killed, 13 Hurt In Plant Explosion

NEWNAN, Ga. — A smelter in an aluminum extrusion plant exploded here today, killing one person and injuring 13 others, several of them critically.

Company officials said three other workers who were reported missing were located "up town" hours after the blast.

One worker was reported to have been thrown 100 feet by the explosion which shattered a large one-story frame building of the William L. Bonnell Co. The man was found beside a nearby railroad track. He was one of those in critical condition.

Police Chief J. P. Askew personally directed the search for victims in the shambles of the building. The search was made more difficult because the roof collapsed on top of the wreckage. Ten of the injured were Negroes.

Most of the nearly one-score of employees believed on duty were Negroes. Nine of the injured were Negro and three were white. It was reported, five were given first aid treatment and released.

Fire Under Control

Firemen brought a resulting flash fire under control within about an hour and a half. The explosion rocked a wide area and temporarily put electric service out of commission in this West Georgia city.

One charred body was recovered from the ruins shortly after the fire was brought under control. The plant manufactured aluminum extrusion process.

The cause of the explosion was not determined immediately but Askew theorized that someone accidentally threw a piece of other substance into the smelter. Witnesses said the multi-million-dollar plant appeared to be almost a total loss.

Advisors Leave To Make Survey On Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON — An advisory committee to President Eisenhower departs today on an around-the-world trip to make a first-hand check on the multi-billion dollar U. S. foreign aid program.

After returning from the seven-week, 22,000-mile survey, the committee will make recommendations to Mr. Eisenhower on the future of foreign aid. This report could lead to a general overhauling of the program for helping American's friends abroad.

The committee, known as the President's Citizen Advisors on the Mutual Security Program, is headed by Benjamin F. Fairless, former board chairman of United States Steel Corp.

Departing with him on the trip were three other committee members—Dr. Colgate W. Darden Jr., president of the University of Virginia; John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers; and Jesse W. Tapp, board chairman of the Bank of America.

Highway Will Be 4-Laned In Effort To Curb Accidents

ST. PETERSBURG — State Road Board member Al Rogers said today that the 14 miles of U. S. Highway 19 between Clearwater and Tarpon Springs, the site of four deaths and 16 injuries in the last five days, would be four-laned next year in an effort to reduce the toll on the "dangerous" roadway.

From Dec. 23-26, four accidents on the 14 mile stretch have resulted in four deaths and 16 serious injuries. The latest mishap was Wednesday night when four persons were injured in a two-car crash.

The relatively short stretch of highway is considered a "death trap" because of the 14 intersections of U. S. 19 and other state and county roads.

Rogers said a four-lane highway with a median strip between north and southbound lanes would have prevented most, if not all, of the holiday crashes.

Army Will Draft 14,000 In February

WASHINGTON — The Defense Department announced today that 14,000 men will be drafted in February for the Army.

That represents a cut of 3,000 men from draft calls for the preceding four months.

The Defense Department said the lower draft call for February reflects higher enlistments in the active and reserve forces that traditionally take place in January and February.

The February call will bring to 2,166,450 the number of men drafted since the outbreak of the Korean War.

The 14,000-man draft call is in September. Since then draft calls have been running at a rate of 17,000 men monthly.

Airline Unmasks Reservation Scalper

MIAMI — National Airlines today unmasked a "reservations scalper"—a woman clerk who had turned over 75 tickets under fictitious names to a bartender for resale to hard-pressed travelers at premium rates.

The woman clerk, Mariya Anderson, will not be tried, police said, because she turned state's evidence. The Dade County solicitor's office ordered the arrest of Harry Weiss, 40-year-old bartender.

Angus Stephens Jr., chief criminal prosecutor, said Miss Anderson, who had been a National Airlines clerk for three years, was fired Wednesday.

He said Weiss will be tried in court of crimes on a misdemeanor of conspiracy to violate the statute governing the sale of tickets on common carriers.

Holiday Death Toll Shows Great Need For Road Program

ALBANY, N. Y. — The need for pushing at top speed the national super-highway program was tragically underlined by the huge traffic fatality toll over the Christmas weekend, program Director Betram Tallamy said today.

Tallamy said studies had shown that the fatality rate on the scientifically engineered new expressways are somewhere around half of the national average.

"The saving in life, personal injury and property damage that will result from development of a fine new highway system will be very great indeed," Tallamy said. "The terrible loss of life during the past week points up the urgent necessity for expediting the super-highway program."

Tallamy, who goes to Washington next month to coordinate the $1 billion dollar project through all 48 states, noted that so many accidents occur on the arterial routes in and around big cities. He said the new program would have special attention in improving those routes as well as the far-flung ribbons of interstate highways.

Safety officials have predicted the new highways will save the lives of some 3,500 persons a year.
