Chapel Trustees Adjourn Meetings

The Altamonte Community Chapel Board of Trustees, a meeting May 4 in the educational building, voted to adjourn monthly meetings until September. Chairman A. G. Burroughs was granted authority to set for the board during the summer and, if necessary, a special meeting will be called.

In other business, Clifford Sands, chairman of the building and grounds committee, reported that two pine trees on the grounds have been removed and the lumber sold for $21. One tree was found to be decayed up to 35 ft., he said. Charge for removal of the pines was $80. W. Roy Waggener advised that the piano in the educational building had been repaired and returned and that the work was satisfactory.

The trustees voted to place a charge of $20 for the Chapel and of $50 for the educational building to non-member organizations using the facilities.

Chorus Presents Spring Serenade

By D. HIGGINBOTHAM
The Sanford Male Chorus serenaded Sanford music-lovers Thursday night at the Civic Center with a potpourri of well-known and well-loved songs; in their Spring Serenade.

The harmony of the rich male voices was pleasing to the ear and made a thoroughly enjoyable evening for the large crowd which almost filled the Civic Center auditorium.

The masculine atmosphere was given a spark of feminine color and charm by the solo presentations of Mrs. Mildred Clark, who sang a well-chosen selection of love songs, with a rich clear voice.

Mrs. Bettye Smith, attractive piano accompanist for the Chorus and for Mrs. Clark, was a "special added attraction" to the serenaders performance.

Director Robert Carnie handled his group with deftness and surety and the whole group blended voices and accompaniment in a delightful performance.

Episcopal Pastors At Conference

Fr. John W. Thomas and Fr. John R. Griffith of Holy Cross Episcopal Church are attending a Diocesan Survey Conference at Camp Wingman in Avon Park today and Saturday.

Under the guidance of the National Council of Episcopal Churches, the conference is to train men to survey the future population growth and expansion in order to plan general development of a diocese.

On Sunday and Monday the County Area Commissioners and the Training Commissioners will attend the session.

Representing Holy Cross at these meetings will be Tom West and Col. Ed Hutchinson.

Congress Told To Reject Kennedy's Tax Breaks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The president of the New York Stock Exchange today urged Congress to reject President Kennedy's request to eliminate tax breaks on dividend income. He said they ought to be increased.

Keith Funston told the House Ways & Means Committee the administration's proposals on dividend taxation would stymie investment and economic development. The committee was considering Kennedy's plea that stockholder dividends be taxed at the same rate as income from wages, salaries, rents and interest. There were believed to be about 15 million shareholders in American corporations now—about double the number seven years ago when a Republican Congress enacted a special tax preference on dividend earnings. Key lawmakers generally were agreed that the increased number of voters sharing in this type of income meant Kennedy had no chance of getting all of the tax preference eliminated.

Funston charged that recommendations to discard the present deduction of the first $50 of dividend income and the 4 per cent credit on the balance would bring back "full double taxation."

Witness Assembly Slated For Sanford Week Of May 19

More than 1,000 Jehovah's Witnesses will be coming to Sanford for their semi-annual circuit assembly May 19-21 at the Civic Center.

George Boboian, presiding minister of the North East Congregation in Orlando, heads a department set up by the witnesses to make arrangements for lodging the delegates.

Boboian said that hundreds of requests for rooms have already been received and that most of these have been sent accommodations. Many more will be sent before the assembly and some of the conventioners will pick up their rooming assignments after they arrive for the assembly which begins Friday evening at 6:45.

According to Boboian the hotel and motel owners are being very cooperative in providing rooms at a reasonable rate. Due to the number attending the witnesses are making door to door calls listing many accommodations in private homes. He commented that many times the witnesses must largely depend on the kind people of the community to let them use "that spare room."

He said at their last international convention in New York City over 88,000 delegates were assigned to such private homes by the Rooming Department.

The main event of the assembly will be the lecture at 3 p. m. Sunday, "The Twentieth Century in Bible Prophecy," by J. A. Hinderer, the district supervisor.

DeBary C Of C To Tour Plant

The DeBary Chamber of Commerce will meet for a box supper at the Florida Power Corp. Turner Plant in Enterprise next Wednesday at 8 p. m.

Following the supper, the group will be taken on a tour through the plant.

All members are reminded to note the change of place and hour and make reservations by Saturday.

Lake Mary WMU Holds Program

"His Herald's Will Proclaim" was the topic of the program for the Women's Missionary Union of the First Baptist Church of Lake Mary at their May meeting at the church.

Mrs. W. T. Wansley, president, was in charge of the business session. All repeated the Watchword and sang, "Come Women Wide Proclaim." Mrs. Mary Wilhelm read the missionary news and gave prayer for them. "Christ For The Whole Wide World" was sung. Mrs. Alice Hay, community mission chairman, reported that the group will make Cancer pads for their project for May.

Mrs. Wilhelm was in charge of the program and gave the introduction. The following parts were given: The Near East by Mrs. Mary Wilbanks, Arab by Mrs. Wilhelm, Islam by Mrs. M. Bryant, Jordan by Mrs. Frances Gaines, The Road to Jericho by Mrs. Dixie Lusk, The Borders of Tyre and Sidon by Mrs. H. Stokes, Down to Gaza by Mrs. Marguerite Bonan.

Meetings Canceled During Summer

Ralph Peter, chairman of the Altamonte Springs Chapel deacons, has announced that there will be no meetings for the months of June, July and August.

Substitute ministers will provide during the August vacation of Dr. Walter Creamans, Chapel pastor.

Cameron Speaks To Art Assn.

George Cameron, Seminole High senior, winner of the Sanford Art Assn. scholarship award to summer art camp, spoke to the Art Assn. at their last meeting of the year.

Cameron showed the group the three paintings that he entered in the judging competition and explained his reasons for wanting to attend the camp.

Final reports of the Art Assn. committees were read and approved and the nominating committee chairman, Mrs. Daisy Knox, presented the slate of officers for next year, who were accepted unanimously.

When the association reconvenes in September the new officers will be Mrs. Beth Gregory, president; Mrs. Syd Schirard, vice president; Mrs. Ann Arn, secretary and Mrs. Matild Frissel, treasurer. During the summer, the board will spend many hours planning the next year's activities.

"We hope to increase our membership," said Mrs. Nathan DeWitt, retiring president, "to include all in the community who have painted or who want to paint, as well as those who recognize the importance of supporting cultural growth."

Judge Ware Raps Abuses Of Civil Liberties In Talk

"Land of the free and home of the brave" has been changed to "land of plenty and home of the slave-to money," Judge R. W. Ware told the men of Kiwanis, Wednesday.

He spoke of the danger of more and more laws taking away civil liberties and said that in his opinion most laws introduced were in the interest of some group.

In his talk, Ware, who was Judge of Seminole County for many years and a member of the Kiwanis for 30 years, discussed our rights as American citizens, how we get them, and how we lose them. He urged all citizens to study proposed laws and write to their representatives concerning laws that take away the guarantees in the Bill of Rights.

In other business, an appeal was made to the Kiwanis for help in replenishing the empty blood bank, which had been called upon heavily in the last few days. The Armed Forces Day celebration at the Naval Air Station was announced by Joel Field, chairman.

Serve Deluxe Menu From The Freezer At Next Party

Certainly any woman would like to have an extra cook to help with preparing the menu for her next party. Expensive? Not for the smart shopper who takes advantage of today's tremendous variety of frozen cooked foods available at her supermarket.

These foods, with most of the preparation already done, are ideal for entertaining - anytime of the year.

Their heat-and-serve features are the extra "cook" which free you to concentrate on your guests with the confident knowledge that they will be presented with a buffet booning with both eye and appetite appeal. The trick is in the combination of items and following package directions. Surprise your next gathering with this deluxe buffet dinner: Lobster Newburg served from a chafing dish over patty shells; spinach souffle ring with a center of sautéed mushrooms; frozen fruit delight salad served over melon slices, and french fried potatoes.

All these main items are available in your grocer's freezer cabinets. And most packages offer you a variety of ways to serve them.

Oviedo Students Enjoy Annual Prom

By MARRION R. JONES
Oviedo girls clad in lovely evening gowns and escorted by young men dressed in white coats were seen driving to the Langford Hotel, Winter Park Friday evening for the annual Junior-Senior banquet and prom.

All members of the class and sponsor, C. K. Bucklew, worked hard for the event. The water show preceding the banquet was viewed by the guests and visitors seated in chairs around the pool.

The banquet was served in Pavilion A, after which the group danced in Pavilion B to the tune of the Dixie Downbeats.

A Hawaiian theme was used in the decorative scheme, speeches, favors and menu. Each individual table was covered with a black cloth and centered with an artistic arrangement of yellow and bronze mums, orange glads, leaves and fern. Individual nut cups featured a unique palm decoration while favors were plastic guitars of various colors.

Johanny Courier, of the junior class, served as toastmaster and his humorous jokes and off-the-cuff comments delighted his audience during the evening's events.

Also seated at the head table was Jerry Ulray, senior class president, and Sandy Mays, Naomi Tuby, junior class president, Tommy Estes, Ricky Corsadale, Linda Harris, Joanne Ridenour and Walter Holland. The welcome address was given by Jerry and the response by Naomi.

Tommy and Linda went back in history to unearth humorous events in the seniors' past. Jean Ridenour presented leis to Julie Gore, Cyrus Thompson and C. K. Bucklew.

Al Campbell of the faculty read an appropriate poem about golden dreams. Other members of the faculty giving brief speeches were the principal, C. D. Henley; Paul Mikler, Walter A. Teague, W. H. DeShazo and R. T. Milnes, superintendent of public instruction.

Brighten Menus By Using Celery

Cook it... stuff it... dice it for salads... munch it just as it is... CELERY adds flavor and texture to any meal, says Myrtle Wilson, home demonstration agent.

There are two types of celery; white or bleached; and green or Pascal. Pascal celery is more tender and less stringy than the white and the stalks generally are bigger.

The tender hearts and delicate inner stalks are best eaten raw as appetizers, for garnishes on cold plates, or chopped in salads. Use the heavier, outer stalks for cooked dishes and the leaves for flavoring soups, stews, stuffings. A few of the more tender leaves can be used to give flavor to a green tossed salad.

To prepare: Wash CELERY well, separating the bunch into stalks under running water. Scrub gently with a brush to remove dirt from grooves and on the leaves. Scrape off any discoloration with a knife and crisp in ice water for 1/2 hour.

Cut off leafy tops (these may be added to soup, stews or the water in which chicken is cooked; or they may be chopped and used to flavor meat loaf.) Serve "heart" or inner stalks as a raw vegetable. Strip the outer stalks of some of the stringy parts and use for braising or other celery dishes.

Celery provides infinite possibilities for creative cooks. Select celery with deep grooves. Fill grooves with generous amount of one of the following fillings. Cut MOTHER'S DAY this year will find 93 year old Mrs. Carrie Jameson all prettied up with a new permanent, a gift of her daughter, Mrs. Lloyd Lowe.

Mrs. Jameson, who lives at Shaver Manor in DeBary is the mother of three daughters and two sons, 17 grandchildren and one great grandchild.

Born in Regina, Canada, she moved to South Bend, Indiana when she was 18 and made that her home for many years.

She was called the "Mother of the Church" of the Highland Ave. Methodist Church, for the services were held in her home for two years, before the building was constructed. She was active in all phases of church work for many years, until she came to Florida to live with Mrs. Lowe a few years ago.

Still active and bright, she enjoys having Sunday dinner out each week, with a Sunday drive through the country to see how things are getting along. She has seen nearly a century of the ever-changing world.

LESLIE JONES, a member of the 1961 graduating class at Seminole High was feted with a Splash Party and cookout recently, given by members of the Canasta Club, at the home of Mrs. Jim Pigott in Loch Arbor.

A group of her friends enjoyed swimming in the pool, with a cookout dinner later on the patio. Tables were set up, each centered with the figure of a girl graduate, surrounded by black net sprinkled with white gardenias. Each guest received a doll graduate as a memento of the occasion.

Leslie received from the hostesses a sterling silver charm bracelet with a graduation figure attached.

Guests who were invited to enjoy swimming and dining with Leslie were Sunny Skinner, Donna Nichols, Susan Talman, Donna Hodges, Vicki Ferguson, Helen Myers, Deane Kirkley, Mary Ann Watson, Suzanne Jones, Margaret Jones, Shirley Jones, Barbara Bradley, Allison Blake, Merritt Phillips, Mary Helen Washburn, Pat Smith, Betsy Williams, Rita Beasley, Sandra McKnight, Betty McNeal, Angie Stewart and Mrs. Ashby Jones. Hostesses were Mrs. Pigott, Mrs. Marvin Dyal, Mrs. Harold Whitner and Mrs. Blake Sawyers.

MESSAGE TO MOTHERS: "Distraction is, always has been, and probably always will be, inherent in woman's life!"

"For to be a woman is to have interests and duties, raying out in all directions from the central mother-core, like spokes from the hub of a wheel. The pattern of our lives is essentially circular. We must be open to all points of the compass; husband, children, friends, home, community; stretched out, exposed, sensitive like a spider's web to each breeze that blows, to each call that comes. How difficult for us then, to achieve a balance in the midst of these contradictory tensions, and yet how necessary for the proper functioning of our lives!"

"How much we need, and how arduous of attainment is that steadiness preached in all rules for holy living. How desirable and how distant the ideal of the contemplative, artist or saint — the inner inviolable core, the single eye."

Clarence Collins, of Gainesville and formerly of Sanford, entered the J. Hollis Miller Medical Center, in Gainesville, this week for surgery. He is the son-in-law of Mrs. L. B. Mann, Lake Monroe and step-son of Mrs. Carrie Collins, of Lake Mary.

The final meeting of the Episcopal Church Women of Holy Cross Church was held at the church, preceded by a covered dish luncheon.

After a short business session an interesting program was presented by Mrs. W. E. Kirchhoff, secretary of Christian Education.

The program in the form of a skit demonstrated the ways the united thank offering is used. Members taking part in the skit were dressed in appropriate costumes to emphasize the various countries represented.

Appearing in the "fashion show" of countries were Mrs. Robert W. Williams, auxiliary president, representing Mrs. "Total Offering" and her little daughter, who represented "Little Miss Interest."

Representing retired and active missionaries and the countries where they are stationed were Mrs. McKay Truluck, Mrs. Jack Horner, Mrs. Edward McDade, Mrs. Sidney Chase.

Mrs. John Thomas, Miss Eva Hunt, Mrs. Ralph Lossing, Jr., Mrs. Robert Shedden, Mrs. Marie Register, and Mrs. Mary Rhodes and daughter, Judy.

WSCS Presents Life Memberships At Monthly Meeting

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Society of Christian Service was held at the First Methodist Church in the church's sanctuary. Mrs. L. D. Hastings, president, presided and opened the meeting with a prayer.

Mrs. John T. Adams Jr. and Mrs. J. E. Ferrell reported on the district meeting held in West Palm Beach.

Mrs. R. U. Hutchison introduced Mrs. G. W. Bailey and Mrs. M. E. Baker and presented them with life memberships in the WSCS.

Mrs. Hastings announced that the next meeting would be a covered dish luncheon with the new officers presiding. The new slate of officers will be installed at the 10:45 a. m. service May 14 by Rev. John T. Adams Jr., pastor.

Mrs. Arthur Beckwith was in charge of the program based on the importance of pledging. Others taking part were Mrs. L. E. Ferguson, Mrs. Marvin Dyal and Mrs. J. H. Lee Jr. Following the program a pledge service was held.

How To Clean Stainless Steel

Stainless steel is one of the easiest materials to clean and keep clean. Its hard, tough surface is resistant to wear, and does not develop rough spots that harbor bacteria. Tests conducted at the University of Michigan have shown that after repeated use, stainless steel was easier to clean and more sanitary than surfaces as hard as china and glass. The corrosion resistance is another wonderful advantage. Stainless is practically untouched by corrosive attacks by moisture, detergents and food acids, so its surface remains free of oxide, that can affect the flavor of foods.

Hot water and soap or detergent will keep flatware clean and shining. If utensils or serving pieces have dried or sticky food deposits, soak them a few minutes before washing. Thorough rinsing and drying will prevent white "water spots", which are actually mineral deposits from the tap water.

Throw away the polishing cloth! Stainless steel flatware and hollowware never need polishing, and whether they are used every day or only on special occasions, they will always be party-bright.

Ordinary dirt can be removed with plain soap and water, or by soaking before washing. For more stubborn deposits and burned on food, add baking soda to the water or use a paste made with ammonia and water and a fine scouring powder. A cloth, sponge or fiber pad should be used for cleaning, and the pad rubbed in the direction of the polishing lines of the metal.

Stainless steel wool pads or sponge are available at many houseware and hardware outlets. Regular steel wool and soap pads are not recommended, since a tiny particle left inside a pan may rust unless followed by careful rinsing. More-over, stainless steel wool pads are extremely durable; since they do not rust they will not "fall apart" or leave ugly stains on sinks and drainboards.

Saucepans, tea kettles and other containers are sometimes inadvertently overheated and dark spots may appear on the stainless steel. Although this "heat tint" doesn't harm the metal, it can be removed by vigorous scouring with stainless steel wool and a mildly abrasive household cleanser, or one of several commercial removers.

Easier than removal, however, is prevention. Use even heat when cooking and don't apply heat to empty equipment.

Remember Mother's Day
Sunday, May 14th.

Well Remembered

With world attention on trouble spots in nearly every sector of the globe, it is largely forgotten that tiny Austria was once such a place.

A reminder came recently with the retirement from office of Austrian Chancellor Julius Raab, who presided in 1935, when at last a peace treaty was concluded and both Allied and Soviet troops left that country's soil.

In the days of occupation, Austria like West Germany gave the world a strong lesson on how to resist the incursions of Soviet communism.

Now it is officially neutral, under terms of the treaty. But the West has never doubted where Austria's, and Chancellor Raab's, true sympathies lay. He deserves the warm thanks of the free world for eight years of able, courageous service.

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Want to lose 10 lbs. in 10 days? And without hunger cramps or fighting with your conscience? Then try my dehydration diet. You can easily shed 10 lbs. in 10 days. I've tried it myself, and so has Mrs. Crane.

CASE H-483; Irene B., aged 29, has been married six years.

"Dr. Crane, I am 30 pounds overweight," Irene began. "And I am ashamed of myself."

"On my wedding day I weighed 132, but now it is 152, and that is far too much."

"My husband says it is easy to lose weight, but I've tried to diet several times, yet without success."

"Now I'd like more information about your method for losing 10 lbs. in 10 days?"

Dieting is really more difficult than breaking the tobacco or the liquor habit. And here's why: We psychologists have found that it is easier to break off a bad habit suddenly and completely than to taper off gradually.

Thus, the cigaret smoker can quit all at once. The drinker can do likewise. But the diet can't stop eating entirely, so he must taper off.

That means he still tantalizes himself by taking small portions of his former tempting viands.

But the two major problems in dieting come within the first three days. One of these is purely psychological and consists of giving yourself the illusion of quick victories.

That was the strategy in the 10-hour goal of the Alcoholics Anonymous group.

My dehydration (low fluid) diet enables you to lose about 4 to 5 pounds the first three days and to thus a great boon to your morale.

Meanwhile, it helps solve the second big problem in dieting, which is to kill your hunger without use of drugs, until your stomach shrinks down to maybe half its previous size.

Try this effective dieting plan. Drink only one glass (8 oz.) of fluids of all sorts the first day.

You may have two glasses the second and three the third. Thereafter, till the end of the 10 day period, stay on three glasses of total fluids per day.

This dries out your system, and helps your appetite, apparently by reducing the acid secretion of the stomach.

Meanwhile, women should limit themselves to 500 calories per day, while men may take 1,500. You will feel fairly full on this number of calories, if you stick to your low fluid input.

Also, try to avoid liquid with your meals, for drinks stimulate you to eat more. You'll find that doughnuts and sweet rolls lose much of their charm if you don't swig down coffee or milk with each bite.

Without fluids at meal time, you can more easily stay away from such high calorie foods as rolls, pie and cake.

Both men and women should take at least 400 calories in protein foods so their muscles will not shrink. For protein is not stored, although the body has a vast surplus of starch, fat and sugar. You need a fresh quota of protein each day.

Cottage cheese, lean meat, peas, beans, etc., are good protein foods. So is skimmed milk, but don't exceed your fluid quota with too much milk.

If you are working hard, a single bite of candy between meals helps perk you up and maintain the proper sugar level in the blood. But allow for such candy in your total calorie quota for the day.

Vegetables, such as raw cabbage, lettuce, carrots, celery, etc., have few calories, but are filling.

For further advice and a more complete calorie chart, send for my bulletin, "How to Lose 10 lbs. in 10 Days," enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20c.

POTOMAC, Md.—The state of the personal health of America, I think, can be diagnosed inside my own house—in the medicine cabinet.

It was at that moment I recalled the dry words of an Ohio editor at a social function last week. "I depend," he said, "on honey and vinegar. . . ."

That's what my mother used on all seven of us when we were kids. She brought us up as nature had intended—with nature's own therapies.

Letters

Editor, Sanford Herald 204 West First Sanford, Florida

Today, new super highways, new housing developments, new shopping centers, and innumerable new road side establishments are pushing farther and farther into the remaining wooded areas of our country.

On a little Gulf of Mexico island off Florida, my sister occupies our house trailer for the winter. She's a hypochondriac in reverse. She's a charter member of the wheat-germ - blackstrap-molasses-yogurt club.

Last week I watched a section of pine forest burn. I was standing along Florida route Forty-six, a few miles west of Miami. There I watched the fire eat into mature green timber, leaping and running through the woods, igniting the trees and leaving them a smoking, blackened mass. I stood alone as I watched. The drivers who passed me along the road seemed little concerned whose woods were burning, how long they might burn, or if anyone would ever put them out.

I have worked for the forest service. I have seen forest fires before and I have fought similar fires in northern Idaho. I like the green forests which are a part of our natural resources. They serve to preserve the soil and to provide areas of natural recreation. They are also a part of our economy. Forests are the basis of the timber and paper products industries, providing this country with the wood which is so valuable in other "have not" countries of the world.

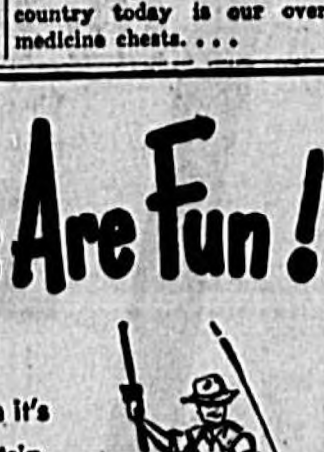

Last time we were down there, she was so distressingly healthy that she couldn't join our conversation. We felt so superior, I recall, being able to boast about our ills. . . .

ROME, ITALY — When our daughter, Megan, grows up, and someone asks her if she has ever seen the Queen of England, she'll be able to say, "No, but Papa says I came as close as any little girl ever did to seeing her without seeing her."

They were there early, lined up on the sidewalk, close to where the automobile procession would pass through the gates.

Guides had taken precedence over me. For years, I have watched them, prim and precise in their little suits, standing much closer to events and personages than I, as a newspaperman, could manage.

Statistics reveal a moderate upturn since January in our ability to save.

Our bank accounts are getting a bit fatter. For the third consecutive month we've bought U. S. Savings Bonds in larger amounts.

Luck was with us—for a moment. We found a small opening in an old wall, through which all of us could peer, and which commanded a clear view of the street.

Statistics reveal a moderate upturn since January in our ability to save. Our bank accounts are getting a bit fatter. For the third consecutive month we've bought U. S. Savings Bonds in larger amounts.

For other items in the budget, families are expected to allocate much the same percentage of income regardless of income. Take clothing as an example for the $2,500 family, it is suggested that 8 to 12 per cent go for clothing; for the $12,500 family 9 to 15 per cent.

Martial music came to our ears through the bricks. There was the whine of the sirens of the lead police automobiles. In a second the Queen would pass our people.

If you have not been able to tag along with the savers, herewith a couple of items to comfort you: A new budget guide to help you "boast your spending" has been issued by the Credit Union National Association. Instead of preaching dogmatic budgeting, it urges again that you "plan your spending" and offers a range in acceptable variations for allocating the spending for a family of four.

According to these figures, (which you are urged to "use as guides only"), families with annual gross incomes of $2,500 are not expected to be able to save at all. When you reach the $4,500 to $6,500 levels you still might not be able to put money aside. The range of saving given for this income bracket is from zero to 10 per cent of income.

Memorial Gifts for HEART RESEARCH Acknowledged Gratefully SEMINOLE - DeBARY COUNCIL P. O. BOX 106 SANFORD, FLA.

What struck me most was the hefty percentage of low incomes that goes for food and shelter. For the $2,500-a-year family, 35 to 45 per cent of income is expected to go for food, 20 to 30 per cent for housing.

As you mount the income scale and the percentage spent on these items shrink. For the $4,500 family, 25 to 35 per cent of income goes for food, 18 to 30 per cent for housing. For the $6,500 family, 20 to 30 per cent is expected to be spent for food and 15 to 25 per cent for housing.

We The Women: By Ruth Millet

Is the kind of college education that is best for young men also best for young women?

The headmistress of a New England academy for girls thinks not and has offered a sane and sensible solution to the problem of the different educational needs of men and women.

Her idea is that there is a real need for a college curriculum suited to the needs of the intelligent woman who is not a scholar.

It is fine, she thinks, for the girl of exceptional intelligence and intellectual drive and ambition for a career to take her college training in the same classrooms with young men also training for careers.

But for the young woman whose goal in life is marriage and a family—a different kind of education is needed, if she is to play her supporting role as intelligently and happily as possible.

So, says the headmistress, why not a new type of woman's college for these girls? Why not a two or even a four-year college where they can get an education planned around the special interests and talents of women?

The educator has a fine idea for a problem that is going to have to be worked out some way if we are not to continue fitting our girls for everything but marriage and motherhood—when that is the career the majority of them have their sights on.

But there is a real drawback to the plan for segregating the marriage-minded girls in women's colleges. As it is now, these girls do their husband hunting on college campuses. And being marriage-minded more than scholarly-inclined they are not going to want to be put off by themselves in women's colleges—leaving all the bright young men to the career-minded girls.

No, if the educators are going to educate women for marriage it will have to be on the same campuses with men. Because marriage-minded girls are smart enough to insist on being where the boys are.

Ruth Millet's booklet, "How to Have a Happy Husband," has some words to the wives. Just send 25 cents to Ruth Millet, Reader Service, c/o Sanford Herald, P. O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 19, N. Y.

Bickering Couples Stay Wed For Sake Of 'Sparring'

CHICAGO (UPI)—Two psychiatrists said today that seemingly incompatible husbands and wives may stay married to have someone to fight with.

Dr. Marietta Houston and R. E. Forman of Topeka, Kan., said there seemed to be a tacit agreement in such turbulent marriages that "threats of divorce and separations were not to be taken literally."

The two Menninger Foundation staff psychiatrists made their observations in a paper delivered at the 117th annual meeting of the American Psychiatric Association (APS).

Forman told a United Press International reporter that many of the most seemingly incompatible marriages he studied appeared to be "made in heaven." He said that "to suggest these couples would be better off apart would be like saying a person with an obsession would be happier without it."

"Many such couples try to give the impression they are staying together for the sake of their children, Forman said, "but there is no such thing as a marriage held together by the children." He contended that many couples made this claim only because it was more socially acceptable than saying they needed "sparring partners."

Forman and Miss Houston based their conclusions upon a study of 12 married couples over 45 years of age. They described the wives as either the "shrew type" or the "long suffering, good, obedient type of wife" while the husbands appeared to fit either the popular stereotype of the "bully" or the "hen-pecked husband."

Forman suggested that the relationship between these husbands and wives was not "a case of misery loves company," but rather "a case of I'm not miserable — you are."

Socially, most of these marriages were considered "desirable and frequently ideal," the two psychiatrists reported. The husbands were generally prominent professional or business men, while the wives tended to be well-educated, attractive and intelligent.

Inspector Calls For Law Changes

Longwood's building inspector, W. F. Litke, brought a number of recommendations for changes in the zoning and building laws of the town before the May council meeting.

Litke suggested present ordinances be amended to limit lot sizes for duplex construction, to extend footage requirements from property lines and to set a zoning classification for locating churches which he said he felt should not be included in residential classes.

Enlarging upon his recommendations, the building inspector said that present laws allow a property owner to build within seven feet of his lot line. In some instances, he said, it would be impossible for service trucks to enter a driveway without trespassing on the neighbor's property and that he felt a change in the ordinance is necessary.

At the suggestion of Mayor A. R. Lormann, council members agreed to meet with Litke in the near future to consider the suggested amendments.

Congress Urged To Authorize Wiretapping To Halt Crime

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Congress was urged today to authorize court supervised wiretapping to arm law enforcement agencies with a weapon capable of outwitting modern criminals.

Anthony P. Savarese, chairman of the New York Assembly's Joint Legislative Committee on Privacy of Communications, said present wiretap laws were so confused that even the FBI violated them.

He told the Senate Constitutional Rights subcommittee, in prepared testimony, that Congress owed it to law officers to end the confusion before another year passed.

The subcommittee was studying three bills which would legalize telephone interception under court approval, by authorized officials. Under present law, and through Supreme Court rulings, wiretap evidence may not be used in a federal court. Recent rulings also have cast doubt about some state laws, such as in New York, which permit wiretapping evidence in state courts.

Savarese said it was an "embarrassing fact" that the FBI now was tapping telephones, despite the Supreme Court rulings.

A Justice Department spokesman told the subcommittee Thursday that the FBI was operating 85 taps in cases involving national security.

Other congressional news: Defense: The Senate Armed Services Committee asked the Pentagon to reconsider "the danger in abandoning manned bombers too fast." It was the second cautionary message in two days from Congress on the question.

The House Armed Services Committee Thursday asked whether the shift to essentially unproven missiles was not being made "too rapidly."

Elections: A fight was brewing in the Senate over President Kennedy's proposal that the Treasury help finance presidential election campaigns. The plan is under study by the Senate Elections subcommittee. Sen. Frank E. Moss, (D-Utah), urged in prepared testimony that tax concessions be allowed for up to $10 in campaign contributions. He said this would encourage participation by more citizens.

Georgia Tech Gets Full Support In Accepting Negroes

ATLANTA (UPI)—Student leaders and prominent Georgia Tech alumni said today the school has their full support in its decision to tentatively accept three Negro freshmen next fall.

R. A. Siegel, alumni president, said Thursday's announcement is in keeping with the U. S. Supreme Court's 1954 desegregation order. The alumni association, Siegel said, "accepts these decisions and supports fully the action that has been taken."

Student body president Joe McCutcheon said Tech president Edwin Harrison handled the integration well and predicted the integration of the 78-year-old school "will be very peaceful."

McCutcheon said, however, he personally does not favor desegregation. Harrison said the acceptance of the Negroes was conditioned on the "satisfactory completion" of their high school work. He reported 10 other Negroes were turned down "on grounds consistent with our normal admission policy."

The Negroes accepted, all of whom have above average scholastic records, were identified as Ford Green, Ralph A. Long Jr., and Lawrence Williams, all of Atlanta.

Georgia Tech, an engineering institution, has a current enrollment of about 5,000 students, only 48 of them co-eds.

Mississippi, South Carolina and Alabama remain the only Southern states whose public schools and state-supported colleges are totally segregated.

The University of Georgia at Athens, about 85 miles northeast of this capital city, admitted Negroes Hamilton Holmes and Charlayne Hunter to its undergraduate school four months ago. Wednesday the graduate school announced a third Negro, Mary Frances Early, has been accepted for study at the university this summer.
