City Manager Settles In, Inspired By View

By Fred Cooper
Herald Staff Writer

Frank A. Faison looks out of his city hall office window overlooking Lake Monroe and with a smile and a twinkle in his eye describes his work environment, and view, as inspiring.

The 55-year old Sanford City Manager has been on the job since May, succeeding Warren E. "Pete" Knowles who had served 32 years. "We were anxious to get back to Florida, and Sanford had enjoyed such stable city government for so many years, it was an easy decision to accept the offer to come here," Faison said.

"The city also has a stable city commission. Under the City Charter, the commission functions as a board of directors and the manager's job is to implement the programs," he explained. "Bettye Smith, our mayor, is a very outstanding ambassador for the city. She plays an important role. We really have a hard-working commission."

It was a six year hiatus from the Sunshine State spent as county manager for Henrico County, Virginia. Faison served as city manager for Pensacola for seven years prior to going to Virginia.

"The greatest challenges of the next few years will be managing change. The city has been stable and dormant for several decades," he said. "Now, the explosive growth of Orlando is like a tidal wave knocking at the door of Sanford. We will have growth and with it will come changes. We must manage both the growth and the changes."

Contrasting Sanford with its neighboring cities to the south — Longwood, Altamonte Springs and Maitland — which have been overrun by Orlando population spillover, Faison said he feels the positioning on the lake gives it protection.

"Being on the lake, Sanford is uniquely situated to protect its traditions and its identity. It has its own separate history and heritage," he said.

"We are also not going to make the mistake made by too many Florida cities — lack of planning. We have a concerned city government, dedicated city commissioners and hard-working downtown businesspeople. Our long-range planning anticipates growth and initial steps are already being taken," he said.

A downtown development plan has been implemented and a separate corporation formed, under the chamber of commerce, to guide and direct the work.

"The first phase of the downtown development plan is now complete and the second phase is about to be launched," Faison said. "The city has budgeted modest funds to aid in the development and downtown businesses will add the balance necessary. Further, the Scenic Improvement Board has been active since January and gives an

Deputies Nab Motel Robbery Suspects

One Man Wounded In Shoot-Out At Quality Inn

By Deane Jordan

A slug in the thigh dropped a would-be robber who exchanged gunfire with a Seminole County sheriff's deputy at a hotel stake-out late Friday.

The deputy was unharmed though a bullet whizzed inches from his head and lodged in the motel room's west wall.

Charged with attempted murder and under guard in stable condition at Florida Hospital/Altamonte was Neal Rene Wellon, 20, of 139 Bethune Circle, Sanford. An alleged accomplice, Regional George, 20, of 220 Tuskegee Street, Sanford, was being held in the Seminole County jail on a charge of attempted murder. Both men being held without bond.

The incident occurred while sheriff's deputy Sgt. John Thorpe and his wife Priscilla were running a stake-out at Quality Inn, State Road 434 and Interstate 4, near Longwood. It was one of three stake-outs set up at three area motels Friday to quash a recent wave of seven robberies in motel rooms in the Sanford and Longwood areas. In the later robberies before the

Achille Lauro Hijackers Charged

CATANIA, Italy (UPI) — Four Palestinians intercepted by U.S. jets as they fled Egypt in a commercial airliner were charged by an Italian court with hijacking an Italian luxury liner and killing an American hostage.

The Palestinians were taken from Sigonella military base near Catania, Sicily early today to nearby Siracusa for questioning, authorities said. A fifth Palestinian arrested in Genoa Sept. 28 for carrying false identification papers was being questioned by police about a possible role in the hijacking, judicial sources said.

Court officials in Genoa, Italy said Friday the four Palestinians were charged with hijacking, premeditated murder, kidnapping and possession of arms and explosives.

The charges were filed after a trans-Atlantic telephone argument between Italian Prime Minister Bettino Craxi and President Reagan over which nation would prosecute the Palestinian pirates first, diplomatic sources said.

"If the reports are true, we are heartened by the legal and judicial pursuit of these terrorists by the Italian authorities," White House spokesman Edward Djerejian said in Washington.

The Italian television network RAI reported a plane with American passengers from the hijacked ship was headed for Sicily, where the Americans were to identify their abductors. The report could not be immediately confirmed.

Most of the remaining hostages left Egypt Friday aboard a U.S. military jet and were to arrive at Newark International Airport in Newark, N.J., today, said John Hughes, a spokesman for the Port Authority of New York-New Jersey.

Italian officials said the four were charged in Genoa, on the northern Mediterranean coast, because authorities believe it is where the hijackers boarded the Achille Lauro before setting it off the Egyptian coast and taking 511 hostages on a 44-hour cruise of terror.

Leon Klinghoffer, a 69-year-old stroke victim confined to a wheelchair, was shot to death by the hostages as they attempted to persuade Syria to allow the boat to enter Syrian waters. U.S. and Italian officials said. His body was not found, and officials believe the pirates cast it into the Mediterranean.

Four U.S. Navy F-14 Tomcats, on orders from President Reagan, intercepted an EgyptAir jetliner carrying the four pirates from Egypt and forced it to land at Sigonella military base in Sicily. The base is operated jointly by the United States and Italy.

Reagan, stymied on how to retaliate for past terror bombings and kidnappings against Americans in the Middle East, said the U.S. operation told terrorists: "You can run but you can't hide."

All Smoking

Bill Painter, owner of the 96-seat Colonial Room Restaurant in downtown Sanford, says this sign means smokers are welcome to light up in all areas of his establishment. He said the new state law limits smoking to areas specifically posted as smoking zones in most public places, but restaurants with over 50 seats can either designate a smoking area or can post a sign such as his. Painter said most of his patrons are smokers, but he would try to accommodate a nonsmoker upon request. So far there have been no complaints, he said.

Mushroom Pickers Grab Wrong Kind

Two men allegedly picking mushrooms picked the wrong ones. It got them charged with felonious possession of a controlled substance, psilocybin, a product authorities say some use to get "high."

The two men were spotted by a sheriff's deputy in a fenced-in field in southeast Seminole County with a "small harvest" of the illegal mushrooms.

Deputy David Hadley confronted the pair who were standing in the field at San Pedro Center on Dike Road, Casselberry, at about 11:22 a.m. Thursday.

One of the two, Hadley reported, had "a plastic bag containing several mushrooms with a purple tint."

Sheriff's spokesman John Spolski said a purple band on the mushrooms identified them as containing the "controlled" ingredient, psilocybin, which if ingested or injected into the body can produce hallucinations.

Spolski said the deputy who first confronted the men later called in deputy Jan Kloth, who is a controlled substance expert, to the scene. She identified the suspect mushrooms as an illegal type, Spolski said.

These mushrooms grow in cow pastures, he said. Research material says some of these mushrooms grow year-round in Florida, while some are in season from June through October.

Within the last couple of years, Spolski said, about five arrests have been made in connection with possession of the illegal mushrooms.

In the past, others arrested were first charged with trespassing and the possession charge was added later after identification of the mushroom was made away from the crime scene. But in this case, he said, because of Ms. Kloth's expertise, the suspects were charged with possession of this first class drug at the scene.

John Daniel Jr., 21, of DeLand, and Lawrence Lewis Thornhill, 30, of 6917 Aloma Arms #34, Winter Park, were being held in Seminole County jail in lieu of $5,000 bond each pending a court appearance.

Sheriff John Polk

Detractors Criticize Trips; Devotees Praise Efforts

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

After 16 years as Seminole County Sheriff, John Polk has detractors nipping at his heels, one claiming the peripatetic lawman spends too much time in Tallahassee and is misusing his department's airplane and county funds for his junkies.

Polk, who has been scrutinized before, opened his department records of travel, long distance phone calls and department airplane flight logs to the Evening Herald within minutes of being asked.

He was not told what this reporter was investigating and was interviewed without being told of anonymous allegations made against him.

Polk has recently been under fire from Orange County State Attorney Robert Eagan for failing to file with him a formal complaint after Polk and others in an internal Shriners' probe investigated the alleged mishandling of ticket sales for an Orange County Shriners' circus about three years ago.

Sheriff John Polk

Polk, who plans to run for at least one more four-year term, said the Shriners probe was a private matter and he has no jurisdiction in Orange County. Eagan also reportedly has long known the results of the probe, but so far has taken no action against the DeLand businessman investigated and ousted by the Shriners.

To date, 53-year-old Polk's only official wrist slapping has come when in Nov. 1984 he and Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning each paid a $50 fine in Volusia County after being charged with playing blackjack at a June, Sanford Rotary Club picnic.

"My conscience is clear," Polk said. "My conscious is clear on playing blackjack. I'm not saying it was right." An anonymous tip singled Polk and Manning out of the Rotary group as blackjack players, but Polk said, "You don't play blackjack with two players."

"But I knew I was wrong and the state was prepared to spend whatever it took to investigate it. I'm sorry I brought embarrassment to my family or the county, but I gave them a statement, because I was wrong and there was no need to spend the taxpayer's money to prove I'm wrong if I'm wrong.

"If I'm right, I'll stand up. On the Shriners' deal I've done nothing wrong. I have no qualms about how I conducted myself. On whatever you were looking for here, I've got no qualms about opening it up. If a mistake is made dealing with the Sheriff's Department we want to know about it, because it's not done intentionally. We want to correct it if it's there.

"I've got to live with myself and my conscience is clear," he added. Sheriff's Department travel records show in 1984 Polk, not counting a two week vacation, was out of the county 44 days or portions of days. Through Oct. 4, 1985, he has been away from his desk 46 days or portions of days.

Ex-Teamster Head Will Cooperate

CHICAGO (UPI) — Former Teamsters President Roy Williams, convicted of bribery, won a temporary reprieve from prison by agreeing to cooperate with the Justice Department, it was reported today.

Attorneys for the former Teamsters leader disclosed Williams' agreement to cooperate during a five-minute hearing Friday before U.S. District Judge Prentice Marshall, the Chicago Tribune reported.

Williams was to report to prison Oct. 19 to begin a 10-year term for bribery. He was convicted in 1982 of conspiring to bribe former U.S. Sen. Howard Cannon, D-Nev.

Marshall set Dec. 2 as the new date for Williams to report to prison.

The former Teamsters leader reportedly has agreed to testify against nine mob figures on trial in Kansas City, Mo., on charges of stealing illegal profits from Las Vegas casinos.

Prosecutors in Kansas City said they have not decided if they will call Williams as a witness in the trial, which enters its fourth week Monday.

Williams also is providing information on links between organized crime and the Teamsters, sources said.

Williams was a longtime power in the Teamsters union. He was international president from 1981 until 1983 when he was forced to resign because of the bribery conviction.

Angry Youth Wounds 8 At McDonald's Restaurant

DETROIT (UPI) — A youth enraged by two arguments in a high school hallway sprayed shotgun fire through a McDonald's restaurant jammed with students, wounding eight teenage boys, police said.

Police said the shootings occurred just before noon Friday inside the restaurant a block from Cody High School on the city's far west side.

None of the victims were critically injured and police arrested three teenage suspects near a house several blocks from the McDonald's less than an hour after the shooting.

No charges were filed immediately against the suspects, identified only as young males "17 or over."

The injured were taken to two Detroit hospitals. Most seriously injured were Mark Holland, 17, and Roderick Smith, 15, who underwent surgery Friday afternoon at Mount Carmel Mercy Hospital. The other injuries included gunshot wounds to arms and hands and minor abrasions.

Blast Kills PLO Sympathizer

SANTA ANA, Calif. (UPI) — An Arab-American group's regional director who had defended the Palestine Liberation Organization on television was killed hours later by a bomb as he opened the door to his office, authorities said.

Alex M. Odeh, 41, a Palestinian-born naturalized U.S. citizen, was killed in the Friday blast that ripped through the offices of the Arab-American Anti-Discrimination Committee and injured seven people.

No one immediately claimed responsibility for the 9 a.m. explosion, but FBI spokesman John Hoos said his agency will conduct an investigation "aimed at determining if a terrorist group is involved."

The Jewish Defense League, often at odds with the group, denied responsibility but praised the action. Other Jewish groups condemned the attack as "insanity" and "the work of terrorists."

Authorities said the explosive apparently went off as Odeh opened the door to his office on the second floor of a three-story stucco building.

The blast blew out more than a dozen floor-to-ceiling windows in the building and showered the street below with glass, concrete, tattered window drapes and other debris.

Odeh died at Western Medical Center from injuries suffered in the explosion. Seven others were treated and released.

Reagan: 'My Nose Is Clean'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the second time in as many months, President Reagan has undergone treatment to remove a cancerous growth from his nose and says he has been given a clean bill of health.

In a surprise announcement at the start of a news conference Friday, Reagan disclosed additional cancer cells had been removed the previous day from an area of his nose treated for skin cancer July 30.

"There were some cancer cells found," he told reporters, "and now, following that — following the minor operation — I can stand before you and say my nose is clean."

The appearance of a small scar on his nose in early August forced the White House to disclose that Reagan had undergone minor surgery for the removal of a small patch of skin containing a basal cell carcinoma, the most common form of skin cancer and one often caused by excessive exposure to the sun.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Coast Guard Makes Biggest Marijuana Haul Ever

MIAMI (UPI) — The largest seizure of marijuana ever made by the Coast Guard — 160 tons worth an estimated $132 million — is en route to Jacksonville along with eight seamen who were ferrying the cargo northward in the Atlantic.

Seven Colombian nationals and a Miami resident, not immediately identified, were arrested after the Coast Guard cutter Taney intercepted a tug and a barge it was towing.

Coast Guard Petty Officer Joe Dye, announcing the seizure Friday, said the haul was the biggest ever by the Coast Guard, easily outdoing the seizure of 120 tons of marijuana by the cutter Courageous from the vessel Calabres in 1977.

Students Join Apartheid Protests

By United Press International
Florida college and high school students joined a nationwide demonstration Friday to protest apartheid and U.S. investments in racially segregated South Africa.

The Free South Africa Coalition staged a protest march Friday evening to Orlando City Hall. Leaders said about 200 attended. The city dropped its requirement for a $30 permit to assemble on city property and a requirement for the group to obtain liability insurance.

Free South leaders had said insurance would cost $800 and they couldn't afford it. However, the group did have to pay $727 for four hours of police protection.

About 250 students staged a peaceful march at the University of South Florida in Tampa Wednesday, and black activist Randall Robinson, who is credited with starting the American Civil Disobedience Campaign Against South Africa, spoke to about 200 people Tuesday night.

The South Florida Regional Students Against Apartheid held a news conference at the University of Miami Friday afternoon. The group is made up of students from UM, Florida International University, Florida Atlantic University, Miami-Dade Community College South and Edison High School.

Rising Celebration

One hundred eighty-five balloons will float into the air Monday as Spring Lake Elementary students celebrate their own "Up, Up and Away Day." The party is in honor of 100 percent PTA participation by parents of the school's pupils for the seventh year in a row.

Four students from each class will release the balloons.

Jury Convicts Man Of Robbery, Kidnapping

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A history of bouncing in an out of mental health facilities and testimony of hallucinations of giant ants did not sway a Seminole County circuit court jury from convicting a New York man of kidnapping and robbery charges.

Edward Charles Green, 27, Friday was found guilty of three counts of armed robbery, and one count each of attempted armed robbery, kidnapping with a firearm, and attempted kidnapping, with a firearm.

Green was arrested July 23, 1984, after he entered the business office of Orange Paving Co., 1 North Station St., Altamonte Springs, and aimed a short-barreled rifle at three women and two men. Green demanded cash and after going through the victims' wallets and purses took the car keys to one of the vehicles parked out front.

The woman who owned the car reportedly became hysterical when Green ordered her to leave with him. One of the men, Hank Wall, volunteered to go with the gun-toting Green. After the two men got into the car, Green put the gun on the seat between them and Wall grabbed for it, according to a police report.

The men struggled and the gun blasted a hole through the windshield. They continued to fight, falling from the car into the street. Wall yelled for help and the other employees joined in the fight and subdued Green.

Green testified that at the time of the incident he was under the influence of L.S.D., a hallucinogenic drug. He said he could not remember the incident but he does remember rolling around on the ground earlier trying to shake off giant ants.

Gary Anderson, Green's public defender, asked the jury to find Green innocent of the crime by reason of insanity.

Green said he has been in and out of several mental institutions in three states for 15 years and hallucinates about giant ants. He also says he is told what to do by an agency called "Ants."

Prosecutor in the case, Bob Fisher, said Green planned the robbery and was aware of the severity of the crime and its consequences.

The jury heard expert testimony that Green was sane and not hallucinating at the time of the incident.

Green could receive up to life when sentenced Nov. 20 by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler.

overview to visual improvements such as the plantings at City Hall. Also, planning for improvements in parks, parkways and city entrances.

He said he sees the development of regional shopping malls as a challenge to downtown businesses to escalate and alter their types of businesses such as financial, legal and similar enterprises.

Budgeting and planning are not new elements in the life of the city manager. The Richmond, Virginia native completed two degrees at VPI, a bachelor's and master's in science in civil engineering. Following a five-year stint in the army, Faison worked in city government in Illinois at LaGrange Park and St. Charles. He has worked as a city or county manager since that time.

It was while he was in Illinois that he met, and later married, his wife Lyn. The couple has four children, one lives with them in Sanford, two are married and one works out of state.

His obvious happiness with his family and working environment seems to give resolve to his determination to properly plan to protect Sanford's future.

Comprehensive planning rules for cities in Florida have recently been strengthened by the state legislature. Sanford's comprehensive plan is now being revised and up-dated, Faison said.

"We will have a population surge in the next few years and then it should level off," he said. "Previous population projections, based on 1979 studies, indicate Sanford's population in 1990 will be 29,000. It's 28,000 now. The population explosion out of Orlando indicates that these figures need revising to top out at about 40,000 to 50,000."

The revised population growth estimates, and the reality of the current numbers, has caused a strain on the city budget which the commission has faced this year, he said.

"The greatest single budget problem is the sewer plant," he said. "The plant is approaching capacity and though it operates well, it has age on it. The new state requirements on effluent disposal mandate sewer system improvements which carry a substantial cost."

The sewer system improvement project carries an estimated $33 million price tag and the city is preparing plans and specifications to go to the investment bankers for the anticipated bond issue. The program also anticipates increased sewer and water fees for residents.

"We're the beneficiary of $8.6 million in a subsidy grant from the state for the capital improvements program, so the net cost to the city will be reduced to about $25 million," Faison said. "This will be all the major capital expenditures the city can handle for the foreseeable future. Fire, police and water services will need to be expanded but these are elements to be addressed in the comprehensive plan."

The city's 5-year Comprehensive Improvement Planning Budget provides amounts in the Utility Fund of $5,884,000 in the 1985-86 fiscal year and totals of $11,301,000, $10,892,000, $5,485,000 and $4,260,000 for the following four fiscal years respectively. The General Government allocations will total $1,964,000 in the five fiscal years for utilities.

"The General Government account is kept low to help keep down taxes," Faison explained. "This is a planning budget and is not a part of the regular operating budget for the city."

The Sanford city budget was effective Oct. 1 and totals $13,459,081, including utilities.

The budget was one of Faison's first responsibilities upon assuming his post with the city.

Surrounded by briefing books, budgets, studies, maps and charts, Faison easily and calmly reflects on the needs and the difficulties.

Woman's Ribs Broken, Teeth Knocked Out By Male Companion

A St. Petersburg woman was treated at Central Florida Hospital in Sanford for broken ribs and mouth injuries suffered during an argument with a man with whom she was traveling from St. Petersburg. The man was charged with aggravated battery and released from jail on $8,000 bond.

Sanford police reported calming a dispute between the pair at about 12:30 a.m. Friday at the Handy Way on Celery Ave. At about 1:11 a.m. police were called to the area of Chase Park where they found the woman who had been injured. Helen Davis said the suspect had hit and kicked her and fled, a police report said. Some of her teeth had been knocked out, according to the report.

Police searched for the suspect and reported finding the St. Petersburg man hiding behind a tree at 1319 Summerlin Ave. at about 1:25 a.m.

Derry Randolph Washington, 32, has been charged in the case.

OUT WINDOW ESCAPE
An Apopka rooming house resident told Seminole County sheriff's deputies he jumped out his bedroom window to escape another resident who had allegedly threatened to kill him. He said the man was armed with a knife.

When deputies arrived at 3220 Chadwick Road at about 10 p.m. Thursday to investigate the allegations of Robert Cardova they reported finding the suspect in the livingroom of the home. Deputies took a butcher knife from the man's pocket, a sheriff's report said.

Joel Balada, 36, of the above address, has been charged with aggravated assault and was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

FORGERY CHARGES
A 27-year-old Sanford man has been charged with three counts each of grand theft and uttering a forgery. In the case of one check he was charged by sheriff's deputies and on the others by Sanford police.

The man allegedly took several checks belonging to Lille H. Williams and in August reportedly made out three checks to himself and signed Ms. Williams' name to cash them at the Sun Bank in downtown Sanford, arrest reports said.

The checks were for $250, $100 and $150 each, the reports said.
Terrence Scott Davis of 602 Celery Ave. was arrested at about 1 p.m. Thursday at the Sanford police station. He was being held in lieu of $10,000 bond.

REWARDS OF THEFT

receive $80 more as a reward has been charged with grand theft and burglary. A man he alleged was an accomplice also faces the same charges, a sheriff's report said.

The air compressor was stolen from the open garage of Ernestine Sexton of 1548 Chilean Lane, Winter Park, the report said.

Glenn Michael Chunan, 19, of 1653 Chilean Lane, who reportedly collected the reward, was arrested at the sheriff's office at 1:10 p.m. Thursday. He has been released on $5,000 bond and is scheduled to appear in court Oct. 28.

William David Gretzinger, 18, of 1619 Clematis Lane, Winter Park, reportedly implicated in the case, was arrested at 2:30 p.m. Thursday at the Auto Train parking lot in Sanford. He was being held in lieu of $5,000 bond.

SEXUAL ABUSE
Seminole County sheriff's deputies reported that a 41-year-old Casselberry man has been accused of forcing a 10-year-old girl who lives with him to fondle him after she had been scratching his back.

The girl's mother reported the incident occurred at about 9 p.m. Wednesday as the victim sat on a sofa with the man.

DUI ARRESTS
The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Pamela Marie Cornell, 21, of 251 Langford Drive, Chuluota, was arrested at 11:37 p.m. Thursday when her car which was on the wrong side of an exit almost collided with several other vehicles at the ABC Lounge, U.S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry. She was also charged with driving with a suspended license.

—Shirley Angle Scott, 30, of Route 2, Box 118 A Beardall Ave., Sanford, at 6:17 p.m. Thursday after her car was involved in an accident on U.S. Highway 17-92, Sanford. She was also charged with driving with a suspended license and careless driving.

—William Owen Wils, 28, of Chicago, Ill., at 9:25 p.m. Thursday after Oviedo police alerted by a motorist of a possible drunk driver spotted Wils' vehicle and noted it had an expired license tag. He also reportedly drove across the centerline of the roadway. The arrest was made on Broadway Avenue and Wils was also charged with driving with a suspended license and with an expired tag.

—Michele Teresa Wilsch, 26, of 350 B. Maine Ave., Longwood, at 11:30 p.m. Thursday on State Road 434, Longwood after she failed to dim her car's bright lights and drove onto the sidewalk several times.

—David Roy Anderson, 32, of 3020 Dikewood St., Winter Park, at 10:30 p.m. Thursday after his vehicle was involved in a traffic accident on State Road 426.

—Gary Wayne Cooper, 28, of 475 E. Church Ave., Longwood, at 2:10 a.m. Friday after he drove off the roadway of U.S. Highway 17-92 and his vehicle crossed the centerline of the road.

—James D. Conken, 37, of 40 E. 2nd St., Chuluota, at 1 a.m. Friday after his car was clocked traveling 50 mph in a 35 mph zone on State Road 419 in Oviedo. He was also charged with speeding and careless driving.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS
Dorothy McReynolds of 2250 Marquette Ave., Sanford, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies on Tuesday that a $2,000 diamond ring disappeared from her home between Oct. 2 and Monday. There was no sign of forced entry to the home, deputies reported.

A Longwood builder reported to deputies two ceiling fans and light fixtures with a total value of $450 were stolen from his model home at 1393 Southridge Lake Circle, Longwood. Michael Morro, 29, reported the theft on Thursday, but said the items were taken between Sept. 26 and 31.

A thief took a curling iron, a blow dryer and a pair of sunglasses with a combined value of $358 from the car of Deborah Lynn Owen, 31, of 124 Lawfield Circle, Winter Park, while the vehicle was parked at her home on Wednesday or Thursday, a sheriff's report said.

Loretha Carpenter, 39, of 2380 Center St., Sanford, told deputies a $500 video recorder was stolen from her home on Wednesday or Thursday.

A $434 lawnmower was stolen from the open garage of Orvil Hayes, of 405 E. Hillcrest St., Altamonte Springs, on Wednesday, a sheriff's report said.

Carla Jean Lydon, 26, of 3422 Bowman Drive, Winter Park, reported to deputies a $529 swimming pool cleaner was stolen from her swimming pool on Aug. 28. She reported the loss Thursday.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Terror Group Releases Photo Of James Buckley

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Islamic Jihad released a blurred photograph of what appeared to be the body of U.S. Embassy official James Buckley, who the terror group said it executed last week, a respected Beirut newspaper reported today.

It was not confirmed if the man in the photograph was Buckley, but the U.S. Embassy in Beirut said it had seen the picture and that it appeared to be the missing U.S. official, State Department spokesman Dan Lawler said in Washington.

"The photo does appear to be a photo of Buckley" and the U.S. Embassy was "looking into the other factors" of the newspaper report, Lawler said.

Beirut's authoritative An Nahar newspaper said it received the blurred color photograph along with a statement demanding the release of 100 Palestinians held in Israeli jails. An Nahar said the photograph showed what "seemed to be the corpse of the American diplomat."

"We reiterate to the Islamic people of the world that we executed the spy Buckley," the statement said. "And we are now ready to strike with an iron fist against all attacks against the Moslem people in the world."

White, ANC Leaders To Meet

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Police battled rioters in black and mixed-race townships on the eve of today's meeting between white South African opposition politicians and the outlawed African National Congress.

Frederick Van Zyl Slabbert, leader of the opposition Progressive Federal Party, or PFP, was to meet with ANC representatives today in Lusaka, Zambia, the respected Johannesburg Star newspaper reported Friday.

Party officials in Cape Town refused comment on the report.

The meeting would be the first between an elected official of the opposition party and the ANC, outlawed in 1960 for advocating the overthrow of the South African white-minority government. Pretoria has refused to negotiate with the ANC unit until it renounces violence.

In other developments Friday, racial violence that has claimed more than 750 lives during the past 13 months continued in black and mixed-race townships. South African President Pieter Botha declared a state of emergency in 36 black districts in July.

Lebanese Leaders To Talk Peace

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Shiite Amal militia leader Nabih Berrri traveled to Syria for talks today with Druze leader Walid Jumblatt on Syrian proposals to end Lebanon's civil war.

Berrri, the Lebanese justice minister, traveled to the Syrian capital Friday, official Beirut radio said. The Al Hakika newspaper said he would meet today with Jumblatt, the Lebanese minister for public works, and that a representative of the Christian Lebanese Forces militia would join the two Sunday.

There has been mounting speculation Syrian President Hafez Assad intended to send troops into Beirut for the first time since the 1982 Israeli invasion and to push for a settlement to Lebanon's 11 years of civil war.

The leading An Nahar newspaper said Assad would meet with President Amin Gemayel Oct. 19. A main obstacle to Syria's plans is believed to be Gemayel's concern at being excluded from an agreement.

...Polk

Most of his trips are to Tallahassee to meet with the Florida Sheriff's Association, the Florida Sheriff's Insurance Managers, the state Criminal Justice Standards and Training Commission, or to lobby the legislature on law enforcement bills or on behalf of Seminole County in general. Polk serves as chairman of the sheriff's legislative committee. He also attends meetings on the Sheriff's Fund, which supports youth ranches. Many trips were multi-purpose, he said.

"I really don't know of any sheriff's that's more active than I am," Polk said. He sees his out-of-county involvement as a very important part of his job.

Other counties, he said, pay lobbyists to influence legislation on their behalf. Dennis Dorsey of the Orange County administrator's office said Orange employs a legislative assistant, for an average of about $25,000 a year plus expenses, while some counties, Dorsey said, hire lobbyists for about $40,000 a year, plus expenses.

Polk's salary is $57,298. Randy Means, spokesman for Orange County Sheriff Lawson Lamar, said Lamar sticks close to home, leaving the county maybe four or five times a year. Means added that Lamar has not accepted responsibility on a state level to the degree that Polk has.

The state picks up the tab for Polk's standards commission-related trips. Polk was appointed by Gov. Bob Graham to sit on that 17-member board, which includes three sheriffs and sets standards for law enforcement and corrections in the state, he said. And insurance manager meetings are covered by the sheriff's self-insurance fund.

Serving as an insurance manager in the newly formed self-insurance program, in which 57 counties participate, has called Polk to Tallahassee frequently recently, he said.

"Sheriffs couldn't get liability insurance, so we are now self-insured," he said. "I am chairman of the insurance managers. This is something we could not afford to be without. It benefits the county and every citizen, because if we didn't have insurance and got a big lawsuit against us it would have to come out of tax dollars."

Other issues he has addressed recently in Tallahassee include, he said: gun control, contraband forfeiture, jails, juveniles in jails, a state-wide prosecutor, child abuse and drunk drivers.

When traveling on the county's expense account Polk is paid $50 a day with occasional additional expenses and he sometimes has additional car rental or gasoline bill to add to the cost, he said. When driving for the state or the insurance managers Polk is paid 20 cents per mile for operating his vehicle, he said.

During the past two years his trips included visits to Washington, D.C.; Tampa; Jacksonville; Palm Beach; Orlando and one trip to the west coast.

Polk's travel expenses for his 16 trips in 1984 totaled $3,749.62, with the state or sheriff's insurance fund picking up $1,493.47 of that tab, records show. The most expensive trip was to Tucson and San Francisco, when for four days in May, Polk, County Commissioner Barbara Christensen, Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning, and jail head Jim Shultz, toured jails.

Polk's expenses, including commercial airfare for that trip, totaled $1,448.28, and records showed $551.72 of that total was reimbursed.

For six of Polk's 16 trips in 1984, he traveled in his department's airplane. Fuel costs for a round-trip flight to Tallahassee average about $100 and on some of those runs Polk was picked up and dropped off by pilots who were enroute to pick up prisoners. Prisoner transport is the primary function of the sheriff's airplane, according to flight logs.

So far this year, Polk has taken 15 trips, four via the department's airplane. His expenses total $3,167.05, with $419.90 reimbursed to the department, records show.

This year on most of his trips Polk has traveled in his own van, taking his wife Dorothy along. For those trips Polk said he pays his wife's expenses.

Polk said his involvement in Tallahassee reflects "the importance of the over-all picture." He said he sometimes discusses specific issues with county commissioners and takes their input to the lawmakers.

"His role with the Florida Sheriff's Association has been commendable for himself and the county," said County Commissioner Sandra Glenn.

"If we had to hire a lobbyist that (Polk's expenses) probably wouldn't get you in the front door," she said. "If he can do it for that, what he brings back is a bargain."

"Through his efforts he has brought amenities to Seminole County we wouldn't have had otherwise," she said. Mrs. Glenn credited Polk for being instrumental in bringing the Sanford Crime Lab to the area, and although it is relocating to Orlando, she said, "We had it here a long time and if he had not put effort we might not have had one in Central Florida at all."

Polk, Mrs. Glenn said, speaks out for Seminole County bringing state dollars to support corrections and to buy state-of-the-art equipment for his men, as well as on other issues.

"He has done a commendable job. He's a good sheriff," she said. "Personally, I think the sheriff runs the sheriff's office properly. If he thinks he can do better on a state-wide level, I have no problem with that. He's surrounded by people who run the day-to-day business properly."

"I feel very comfortable with the organization we've built," Polk said. "Not only with management, but with the type of employees we hire. The department is well run."

"An executive doesn't have to be behind a desk to do his job. He has good people and he's always in contact with them," Mrs. Glenn said.

"Sheriff Polk is a tremendous asset to the Florida Sheriff's Association. He's well respected in Tallahassee," said Rep. Bobby Brantley (R-Longwood). "The effort he puts in in Tallahassee serves well the citizens of Seminole County. In many cases of anti-law enforcement laws he has been very helpful in preventing their passage."

Polk said as sheriff he lives in a glass house. An abuse of his position, Polk said, would be "dumb and stupid." He said someone who has allegations to make has every right to do so, but, "Personally, if they think I've done something wrong they should come to me and let me explain."

"If the explanation is not good enough then they can go wherever they've got to go," he said.

AREA FORECAST: After a patchy morning fog mostly sunny except for a 20 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. High in upper 80s to low 90s. Wind variable 10 mph or less. Saturday night mostly fair. Low lower 70s. Light wind. Sunday partly cloudy with 20 percent chance of afternoon thunderstorms. High near 90. Variable wind 5 to 10 mph.

NATIONAL REPORT: Rain doused much of the central part of the nation early Saturday, threatening more flooding in rain-soaked Kansas where six counties have already been declared disaster areas by the governor. In Colorado, four men were killed Friday when their single-engine plane crashed in a blinding snowstorm in the White River National Forest. Showers and thunderstorms were scattered early Saturday from the middle Missouri valley across the upper and middle Mississippi valley to the southern Plains. Rainshowers were also scattered over the northern Rockies, the northern plateau and parts of the south Atlantic coast. In Kansas, Gov. John Carlin declared six counties disaster areas in the wake of Friday's flooding, and said an additional storm predicted for the area could mean the worst was yet to come. "It appears it's going to be a long and very wet weekend," he said. The White-water River rose 4 feet in less than an hour Friday, forcing at least 100 evacuations in Augusta, Kan., about 19 miles east of Wichita. The river was falling Friday afternoon, and stake-outs, the victims were fired upon, according to sheriff's spokesman John Spolski.

According to a sheriff's report, Thorpe and his wife were in room 167 just before 9 p.m. Thorpe was sitting at a desk, an open brief case next to him. The door to the room was partially open.

Two men walked by the door, one returning a short time later. He pointed a small handgun at Thorpe and fired one shot, just missing the deputy's head. Thorpe then drew his revolver and fired two shots at the man striking him in the upper right leg. The accomplice fled.

As Thorpe put the pinch on the gunman, backup sheriff's deputies as well as manpower from Altamonte Springs and Longwood police departments and the Florida Highway Patrol began a search for the second suspect.

As the manhunt intensified, the wounded man told deputies he was at the hotel because he needed money and gave the address and type of car of the man who was with him.

About an hour later, deputies spotted a man fitting the description of the second suspect as he was leaving the motel. When detained, he said he was there visiting a friend. He was implicated by the wounded man and arrested.

Since Aug. 21, there have been seven robberies at the Days Inn, and the Holiday Inn, both located at State Road 46 and I-4, and the Quality Inn. On Oct. 4, the robbers not only brandished handguns, but shot at their victims, though no one was injured.

In an attempt to put a stop to the robberies, Sheriff's Lt. George Hagood set up the stake-outs at the motels to catch the men who had been describing themselves to their friends as the "desperadoes," officers said.

Prior to his arrest Friday, Wellon was free on bond awaiting disposition of charges against him stemming from a machete assault at Lake Mary High School in May.

High Achievers Recognized

What's school all about anyway? Academics! I would like to take time out to recognize the people behind the brains at Seminole High School.

PSAT/NMSQT (Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test/National Merit Scholar Qualifying Test) is normally taken in preparation for the SAT and also provides a means of qualifying for National Merit Scholarships.

Fifteen thousand semi-finalists are selected. Those selected must rank in the 98th percentile. Jerry Hauck, along with Ed Miller, who transferred to Oviedo, are placed among those 15,000 students. Thirteen thousand students will be named as finalists and rewarded scholarships in February.

Students who ranked in the 97th or 96th percentile were listed as commended students: Mike Horner and Marvin Johnson were announced as commended students.

My congratulations go out to three other of my fellow students, Angela Freeman, Marvin Johnson, and Alvin Jones who all qualified for the National Achievement Scholarship Program for Outstanding Negro Students. This program only selects 1,500 winners. Of that number, 62 students were eligible in Florida, with four from Seminole County qualifying.

Halloween serves as the perfect time to be reading about Salem Witch Trials. Each year, Junior English classes read The Crucible, written by playwright Arthur Miller. This year, however, the classes were invited to see a dress rehearsal of the production at Stetson University. The only cost to these students was $1 that helped pay for the cost of transportation.

Partying Not So Popular At UF

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — The party's not quite over at the University of Florida, but officials say it's not so popular as it was a decade ago.

In the 1970s the University of Florida had a reputation — apparently built on rumor — as one of the nation's leading party schools. But a survey released Friday by university officials shows the 1985 freshman class is more "career-oriented" and places far less emphasis on the partying that sometimes goes with college life.

"Students today are career-oriented," University President Marshall Criser said. "They're consumer oriented. They expect to get a lot of bang for their buck. And they'll let you know if they are not satisfied."

Criser, himself, took part in the 10-night telephone survey in which school officials placed 8,432 phone calls, reaching 1,785 people, or 37 percent of the 4,800-member freshman class. They asked freshmen what they liked and what they did not like about the University of Florida.

The freshmen who responded listed the fraternity and sorority system as the school's most positive aspect. Behind that, they ranked area governments in residence halls and their classes, followed by UF's summer orientation for incoming freshmen and their professors.

Parties and social life ranked only No. 7 on the list. What students said they did not like about the University of Florida included late-arriving financial aid, the headache of dropping and adding courses, the problem of finding a parking place and trouble with registering for classes.

Criser acknowledged the telephone survey may have missed some freshmen who were out partying, but he said he thought it offered a good cross-section.

"This is a random sampling, only to show what the average freshman thinks and feels," Criser said. "I'm sure some of the ones we didn't contact may feel differently, but we just wanted to get a general feeling."

"Sometimes large universities are accused of being impersonal," Criser said. "Through this program and other programs, we are trying to make everybody understand we're not impersonal."

What gave rise to the University of Florida's reputation of being a party school a decade ago apparently was a rumor that Playboy magazine had listed it as the nation's No. 1 for socializing.

"That's a rumor that has been making the rounds for the last 20 or 30 years," a spokeswoman for Playboy said in a telephone interview from the magazine's Chicago headquarters. "As far as I know, a survey of that sort never took place — at least not by this magazine."

Criser said he had heard of the supposed Playboy survey, but he insisted the school was not using the survey to improve its image.

"I think students everywhere are becoming more concerned with what the rest of their lives are going to be like," Criser said. "They still like to have a good time, but it's not the driving force in their lives."

Criser said the phone-a-thon was limited to freshmen so the university could "get a feel" of what problems and aspirations the incoming students had.

"We want to improve the school wherever we can," Criser said. "And the best way I know to do that is to talk

More Dormitories Needed

Over the last four years, up to 1,000 students have had to go to college elsewhere because there has not been enough dormitory space on campus to house them.

UCF President Treavor Colburn wants incoming freshman to occupy 50 to 55 percent of the dorms. This year, freshman have about 40 percent of the available space.

Several plans are under consideration by Student Government and UCF's administration. One plan proposed by student senator William Dietz calls for converting 90 dorm rooms from double occupancy to triple occupancy. Dietz told school officials that it would cost about $60,000 for more desks, beds and dressers.

Student Government President John Gill proposed that dorms should be overbooked in hopes that students would drop out. Gill explained that a considerable number of students do not show up each semester to claim their rooms.

The bottom line is that to become a great school, on par with the University of Florida or Florida State, UCF will have to build more dormitories.

Only about one third of UCF's 1,200 acres have been developed. The problem, however, is money.

"We had parents calling us willing to send their sons and daughters to UCF, but because we didn't have the dorm space to accommodate them, they went someplace else," said Dr. LeVester Tubbs, vice president of student affairs.

Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington's proposal to establish a state lottery has shifted into high gear. Supporters of Turlington's plan have been on college campuses throughout the state canvassing students. Turlington, who gained the support of the Florida Student Association, said that a state lottery could raise $300 million. Revenue from the lottery would be used for education. UCF needed to collect 4,000 signatures to help meet Turlington's goal.

Head football coach Gene McDowell pulled off a coup. He raised $251,000 for UCF's financially drained athletic program at Gene's Gatecrasher! held October 1. The second annual event featured prominent business leaders from Orlando. The guest of honor was treasurer hunter Mel Fisher. He donated a gold bar salvaged from the Atocha.

IN BRIEF

Florida Enjoys Banner Year As Tourist Visitors Set Record

A grand total of 16.2 million tourists visited the Sunshine State during the first six months of 1985, resulting in a net increase of 4.6 percent over the same period in 1984, according to figures released by the Florida Department of Commerce.

"This year is proving to be a great one for tourism in Florida and I feel certain the trend will continue," said Lt. Governor Wayne Mixson.

Mixson attributed the increase in the number of visitors to various factors, including aggressive advertising and promotional campaigns by the Commerce Department and tourist attractions in the state. He said a favorable economic climate throughout the nation has also given a boost to the tourism industry.

Through June, Florida hosted an estimated 8 million visitors who came by auto and 8.2 who traveled by air. Both totals are increases over 1984.

Inns To Aid Missing Children

Quality Inns International has announced that photos of Regina Mae Armstrong of Orlando and missing since June 18, 1985, and Christina Marie Parrish, missing since Sept. 9, 1984, will appear in the lobbies of more than 700 inns in the U.S., Canada, Mexico and the U.K. More than 26 million people stay with Quality every year.

Armstrong, who is six years old, 3'6" tall with sandy brown hair and hazel eyes, was abducted while playing with friends in an apartment complex in East Orlando. Armstrong has a gap between her front teeth, hair down to the middle of her back and was last seen wearing a sundress with blue/green flowers and no shoes.

Parrish, sixteen when last seen, has black hair and brown eyes. She is black, 5'1" tall and weighs 140 pounds. She was last seen on a city bus going home from school in Akron, Ohio.

Persons having information about these or other missing children will have immediate access to Quality's lobby phone which connects directly to the National Center for Missing and Exploited Children's hotline.

Each month two new photos, provided by the National Center, will be placed in the lobbies.

Legion Citation To Local Firm

Sanford's Harcar Aluminum Company has received the American Legion Citation in recognition of its policies and practices in hiring handicapped workers.

The American Legion has observed "Hire the Handicapped Week" annually since 1947 by honoring employers of the handicapped. The President proclaims the first full week in October each year as "National Hire the Handicapped Week." The week is promoted by the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, as well as by Governor's Committees in the various states and by local organizations.

A total of 25 employers were submitted for the American Legion Citation, including the local company. Nominating Harcar were: American Legion Campbell-Lossing Post 53, Sanford; Old Glory Post 183, Fern Park and the local Job Service of Florida office. Harcar will be presented a Certificate of Appreciation by Francis J. Tobin, Commander Post 53, Elbert Ramsey, Commander, Post 183 and Cheryl Maughan, Manager, Job Service of Florida local office. Accepting the award for Harcar will be Rick Schilke, Vice President of Harcar.

Express Mail Service Expands

Postal Service has expanded its Express Mail Network from 2,500 locations to 5,500 locations served from most post offices in Central Florida.

The expansion, which took effect Oct. 1, is a result of the recent addition of major airline flights. This move enables the Postal Service to provide the area from Vero Beach to Titusville with 5,500 destination locations.

Expansion of the Postal Service Express Mail Network is in keeping with the goal of better service to its customers.

Christmas Tree Firm Expands

Truly Nolen Trees, Inc., Altamonte Springs, has announced expansion of its services with the opening of a specialty shop called "The Christmas Collection." The new shop will be located adjacent to the Truly Nolen fresh-cut tree lot at 749 West Highway 436. It will be open from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m. Monday through Saturday throughout the Christmas season.

CAP Appreciates Balloonist

Col. Kittinger received the award for his help in making the visit of nine International Air Cadet Exchange participants from Germany, an exciting highlight of their visit in Orlando.

Col. Kittinger was the first person to fly a balloon solo across the Atlantic Ocean. That record-breaking flight was in September of 1984. He is planning a solo, non-stop flight around the world.

Ross Schedules Sanford Opening

Ross Stores will open in Sanford on Oct. 27, in the Seminole Center on Orlando Avenue (U.S. Highway 17/92), just north of Lake Mary Boulevard, company officials have announced.

The new store will bring the total of Ross Stores in Florida to five, all in Seminole and Orange counties. The 30,000 sq. ft. store will be the first tailor-made to typical Ross Store standards, according to a Ross executive.

Carl Dorn has been named manager of the store and Malcolm Kitchen will serve as assistant manager. Dorn has been transferred from Tallahassee for his new responsibilities. Kitchen has been an assistant manager in the Ross Store on Lee Road in Orlando.

The new Sanford area business will have 50 employees.

The opening is part of a 15 store, nine state expansion which will bring the number of Ross Stores to over 100 in 12 states.

Ross' four other stores are located at: HuntClub Corners, HuntClub Boulevard at Highway 436; Butler Plaza, E. Semoran at Howell Branch Road, Casselberry; Century Plaza at So. Semoran; and Lee Center at Lee Road and Highway 4.

According to the store officials, Ross sells name brand and designer merchandise at prices less than traditional department stores. They feature an assortment of quality brand name apparel and convenience.

Opportunistic buying is one key to Ross' off-price success, says Don Rowelett, Ross president. Ross stores has 15 buyers in New York City "every day of the year," he said, and three in Los Angeles. They're alert to price opportunities in manufacturers' overruns, cancelled orders and end-of-season buys. Ross stores generally stay away from the high rent shopping malls.

Ross' merchandise is aimed at the better educated members of the baby-boom generation, the same market that mid-priced department stores have controlled for years. According to Rowelett, "People are more intelligent about buying than they've ever been."

"Today's customer wants quality, but not at the prohibitive prices we've seen in the past, according to Rowelett."

Ross was a chain of six junior department stores in South San Francisco when it was acquired in 1982 by private investors including U.S. Venture Partners headed by Stuart Moldaw. The stores were immediately converted to an off-price format and a rapid expansion was undertaken. In 1983, their first full year of operation, they had sales in excess of $75 million while turning a profit. In 1984, Ross exceeded $200 million in sales, profitably.

A company official also identified another of the major investors in Ross as Jack Eckerd, Florida businessman and former gubernatorial candidate. He said that the Florida stores had been operated in the past under a joint-operating agreement with Jack Eckerd Company but the Ross now exercises exclusive control. Eckerd retains all of his interests in Ross.

Like Chinese Food?

Amtrak Announces Fare Reductions

Washington — New fare reductions announced by Amtrak will reduce the cost of rail travel from this autumn through the spring.

Amtrak introduced a 30-day excursion fare, effective Oct. 10, providing a round trip for only $7 more than the cost of a one-way fare. The offer is limited in most cases to trips where the one-way fare is $50 or more.

The new round-trip fares allow passengers to make three stopovers, including the destination point, on most trips. They will be available for sale through May 30, 1986, and will be good for travel through June 29, 1986, except on holiday season black-out dates.

Amtrak also is reducing many prices for its All Aboard America Fares, long considered the national rail passenger system's best buy for long distance travelers.

Amtrak's All Aboard America Fare rate structure divides the country into three regions: Eastern, from the Atlantic Seaboard to Chicago/Milwaukee and New Orleans; Western, from the Pacific Coast to a line from Wolf Point, Montana, through Denver, Albuquerque/Lamy and El Paso; and Central, the area in between.

A 30-day trip in one region is $150 and allows three stopovers including the destination point. Effective from travel from Oct. 10 through June 29, 1986, the fare for a similar trip in two adjoining regions drops from $250 to $225 and the fare for a trip within all three regions coast-to-coast, drops from $325 to $275.

Passengers can call Amtrak toll-free at 1-800-USA-RAIL for more fare and schedule information.

Reagan Makes Good On Pledge Of Retribution

By IRA R. ALLEN
 WASHINGTON (UPI) — Seven days after becoming president, Ronald Reagan promised "swift and effective retribution" against terrorists but he faced frustration, time after time, by conditions beyond his control.

Now, four years and nine months later, Reagan has made good his pledge.

Acting swiftly, Reagan ordered the U.S. Navy to intercept and, in effect, hijack the plane of a foreign country carrying Palestinian terrorists to what they thought might be freedom.

There was no gloating by the president and his aides over the mission in which the carrier Saratoga sent four Navy F-14 fighters screaming into the night to find an Egyptian Boeing 737.

Aboard the plane, which had just taken off from Cairo, were the four pirates who seized an Italian ocean liner and killed a 69-year-old paralyzed American Jew.

But the satisfaction was evident in a president who boasted this summer that having seen the movie "Rambo" he knew what to do next time there was an act of terrorism.

Thursday was "next time" for a president who told America upon greeting the Iranian hostages seven days into his first term: "Let terrorists be aware that when the rules of international behavior are violated, our policy will be one of swift and effective retribution."

It was a reconfirmation — two years after he ordered the invasion of Grenada on a "rescue mission" to save American medical students from the results of a communist coup — that "America is back, standing tall."

And it was vindication for a president long looked to as a leader, but one who could do nothing to prevent or avenge the terror bombing of the U.S. Embassy in Beirut, the suicide bombing that wiped out Marine headquarters in Lebanon, the murder of two Americans in Kuwait, the seizure of a TWA jetliner and the kidnapping of six Americans on the streets of Beirut.

After the TWA hijacking, Reagan went on television to declare: "Terrorists, be on notice, we will fight back against you, in Lebanon and elsewhere. We will fight back against your cowardly attacks on American citizens and property."

But in that case, as in the others, Reagan could not act.

Reagan ordered the jets into action shortly after telling a high school audience in Chicago that "this terrorism ... that is going on the world is the most frustrating thing to deal with. ... You want to say retaliate when this is done, get even. But then what do you say when you find out that you're not quite sure that a retaliation would hit the people who were responsible for the terror and the crime, and you might be killing innocent people, and so you swallow your gorge and don't do it."

On Friday, after aides had played down the president's personal reaction to the success, Reagan came forward in front of television cameras to gloat just a bit: "Here was a clear-cut case in which we could lay our hands on the terrorists."

He praised the government of Egypt, Italy and Tunisia for their role, but saved his highest plaudits for those who carried out his long-frustrated ambition to strike back — the military, diplomatic and intelligence officers who "sent a message to terrorists everywhere. The message — You can run but you can't hide."

RONALD S. PERKINS
 Airman Ronald S. Perkins, son of Richard E. Perkins of 1710 Beasley Road, Oviedo, and Judi N. Avant of 1209 S. Oleander St., Longwood, has been assigned to Sheppard Air Force Base, Texas, after completing Air Force basic training.

During the six weeks at Lackland Air Force Base, Texas, the airman studied the Air Force mission, organization and customs and received special training in human relations.

The airman will now receive specialized instruction in the aircraft maintenance field.

Students Demonstrate At Universities

College students and other activists celebrated National Anti-Apartheid Day Friday with rallies, protests and other demonstrations to press firms to divest their interests in racially separated South Africa.

Fifty students camped out overnight at Harvard University in front of the building housing school President Derek Bok's office to protest the school's ownership of stock in companies doing business in South Africa.

Students at Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn., blockaded the school's administrative buildings to protest apartheid.

Protests were planned at Yale, Colgate, Cornell, Syracuse, San Diego State and others. Some Colgate students planned a rally favoring continued investment in South Africa.

The Arizona Coalition against Apartheid scheduled a rally outside the capitol in Phoenix to demand the Legislature divest more than $500 million in state pension funds invested in corporations doing business in South Africa.

Other off-campus rallies were scheduled in Charleston, W.Va., and Philadelphia.

Administrators arriving for work early at Harvard climbed over sleeping bags and blankets at the grassy entrance of Massachusetts Hall.

"Apartheid is just the most evil form of relationship people can construct," said Susan Keller, 24, of Larchmont, N.Y., a member of the Law School Anti-Apartheid Committee, which organized the protest.

"It's one way to keep the pressure on Harvard to divest, to get Harvard to join the movement to isolate South Africa and get the university involved as an important actor in the anti-apartheid movement," she said.

Harvard spokesman David Rosen said students would not be disciplined as long as no university rules were broken. He said the school is dealing with apartheid in its own fashion.

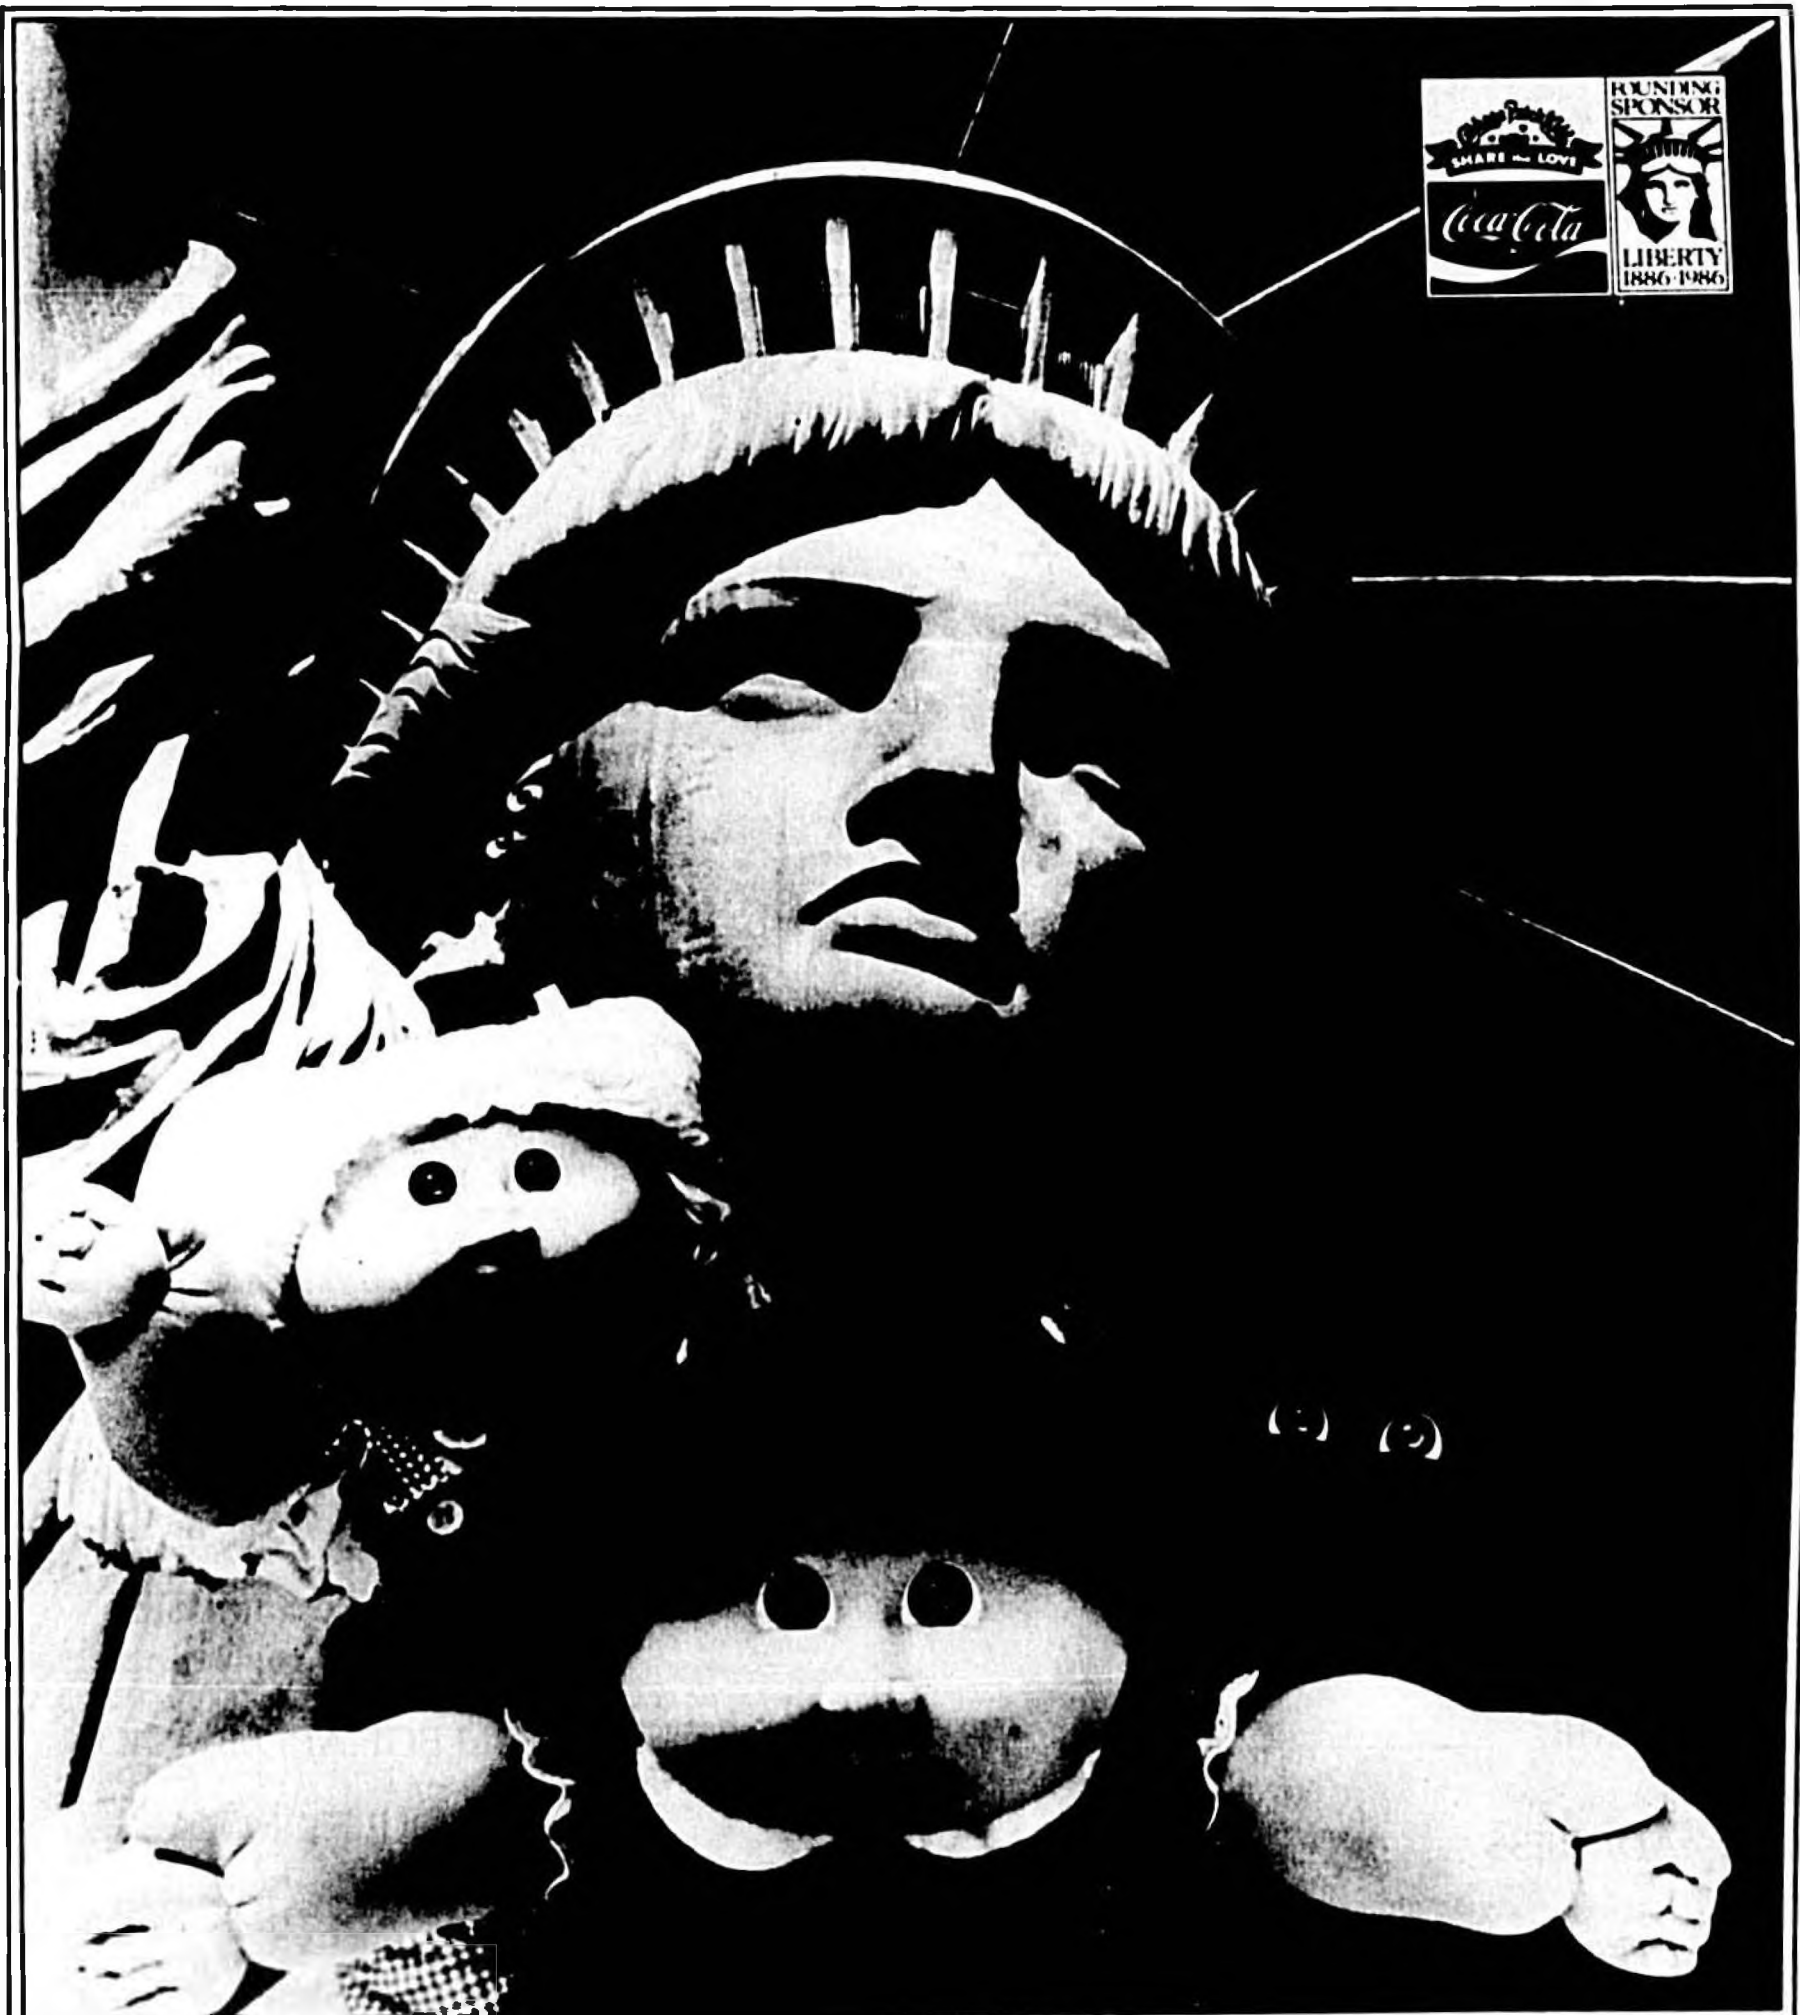

"Harvard's view is that full and complete divestment is not a constructive way to deal with the issue of apartheid," said Rosen.

"The university seeks to exercise its influence as a shareholder to ensure that companies operate under enlightened anti-apartheid policies and ... take direct actions in fighting apartheid," he said.

Protest leaders at Wesleyan said campus police were permitted to pass through the blockade on the tree-lined campus.

Wesleyan spokesman Bobby Wayne Clark said the school has $18.5 million of its $188 million endowment invested in 34 U.S.-based companies that operate in South Africa.

Seminole's Win Is Taylor Made

Daryl's 3 Interceptions Key Mosure's 1st Win

Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Five games ago, Daryl Taylor's first varsity pass attempt was intercepted. He learned in a hurry, that for a quarterback, it's not necessarily better to give than receive.

Friday night, he found out how the other half lived. Relocating in the Tribe's defensive secondary, Taylor didn't lose any of his quarterback's awareness. He didn't complete any passes but he sure was on the receiving end.

Taylor came up with three spectacular interceptions and when Dennis Lawrence picked off a fourth with 40 seconds to play, Seminole had secured its first win of the '85 season with a 17-10 victory over Lake Brantley before 2,500 fans at Seminole High School.

"This is great," Taylor said amid a locker room of ecstatic teammates. "I didn't even know I'd play defensive back at Seminole. Three interceptions ... wow!"

The victory was the first for head coach Dave Mosure who was carried from the field by his jubilant players. Later he was "baptized" as the whole team shoved him into the showers.

"What the hell," Mosure said about the drenching. "After all the work we've done this year, I needed a shower. We knew the first win was just a matter of time. We kept working it down, 7 points, 2 points, 1 point (losses)."

The victory was also the first Seminole Athletic Conference win for the 'Noles who improved to 1-4. Seminole is 1-1 in the SAC and 0-1 in District 4A-5. The Tribe travels to Daytona Beach Thursday night to play ninth-ranked Seabreeze in a district game. Seabreeze, 4-0, didn't play Friday.

Football

"It's about time. It's about time," shouted offensive tackle Jack Jackson. "We just used the big bang theory. We exploded every time on the field."

There was no bang for Lake Brantley and first-year coach Fred Almon. Once again, turnovers — four interceptions and two fumbles — detracted from a strong defensive effort. Brantley fell to 0-5 overall. The Patriots are 0-2 in the SAC and 0-2 in District 5A-4. Brantley hosts West Orange in a district encounter Friday.

"They took it away from us in the second half," Almon said. "But we flat gave it to them the first half. They couldn't stop us (offensively) but we stopped ourselves. Too many turnovers."

Along with Taylor, Seminole had several other heroes: ●Sophomore quarterback Jeff Blake dazzled the Patriots with some nifty footwork in the first half and ran for the first touchdown. In the second half, Blake hit 6 of 8 passes and the other touchdown.

●Sophomore place kicker J.J. Partlow pushed the Seminole lead to 10 points early in the fourth quarter with a school-record 45-yard field goal. The old record was 42 yards by Jim Voltoline in 1980.

●Sophomore Earnie Lewis made himself comfortable in the Lake Brantley backfield as he continually shut down the Patriots' option series by turning in quarterback Dave Delfiaco.

●Senior linebackers Brian Brinson and Rick Kelly also terrorized Delfiaco. Kelly sacked Delfiaco for an 11-yard loss and Brinson again led the defense in tackles.

Seminole, which had fallen behind early in its four losses, used a personal foul penalty on the first drive to take a 7-0 lead. After the Patriot kicker slipped on the kickoff and the ball went just one yard, the 'Noles took over on the Brantley 41.

All the Tribe could mount, however, was five yards on a Blake run sandwiched between two incompletions. Sonny Osborn punted the ball into the end zone but a Brantley player was flagged for kicking a Seminole, giving the Tribe a first down at the Brantley 21.

Blake, who rushed for 46 yards in 12 carries, zipped for 15 yards to the 6. On the next play, cousin Herb Hillery belted the outside linebacker with a crisp block and Blake bowled into the end zone around the right side.

Partlow's point after boot gave the Seminole a 7-0 lead with 10:27 left in the first quarter. "That was very important that we scored first," Blake, who had his first interceptionless game, said. "It put them down and you see how it turned out."

It took Taylor less than a minute to grab his first interception. He picked off Delfiaco's first pass with a superb diving grab at the Brantley 38. Seminole, though, had the ball just three plays before Blake gave it back with a fumble. Jack Campbell recovered on the Brantley 45.

Delfiaco, who passed for 127 yards and ran for 29 more, took the Patriots 55 yards in nine plays for the tying touchdown. Three pass plays keyed the drive. The senior QB hits Sam Sears for 15, Joel Miller for 12 and Miller again for 10 to the Seminole 10.

On the next play, Delfiaco bolted up the middle on a quick count for the 10-yard touchdown. Delfiaco then added the PAT for a 7-7 deadlock with 5:07 left in the first quarter.

Rams' Defense Detours Howell

Washington's Clutch Interception Saves Lake Mary's 12-7 Win

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

A lot of offensive fireworks were expected in the Seminole Athletic Conference matchup between Lake Mary's Rams and Lake Howell's Silver Hawks Friday night. And the two teams didn't disappoint the crowd as both piled up over 200 yards of offense.

Lake Howell had 18 first downs compared to 10 for the Rams while both teams punted a total of three times (one by the Hawks, two by the Rams). Lake Howell fullback Mark Schmittler followed a powerful surge by the offensive line all night long for 106 yards rushing on 24 carries. Lake Mary's John Curry ran for 97 yards on 19 carries, including breakaway runs of 16, 14 and 13 yards.

However, when the game was on the line late in the fourth quarter, it was Lake Mary's defense that came through in the clutch.

Football

zone. Washington's interception on fourth down sewed up a 12-7 victory for the Rams in a big SAC matchup before 6,000 fans at Lake Mary High. The victory was the 100th of coach Harry Nelson's career.

"Owen's tip and Byron's interception were the plays that gave us the game," Nelson said.

Lake Mary ran its record to 3-1 overall with its third straight victory. The Rams are 2-0 in the SAC with Oviedo, Lyman and Lake Brantley left on the conference schedule. Meanwhile, Lake Howell dropped its second straight and fell to 3-2 overall and 1-1 in conference.

Lake Mary hosts Spruce Creek this Friday in a District 5A-4 game. The Rams are 1-0 in the district. Lake Howell has a tough District 5A-5 battle at Winter Park. The Hawks are 1-1 in the district.

"The kids played a great game but turnovers really hurt us," Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia said of the Hawks' two fumbles and two interceptions.

The Rams exploded out of the blocks Friday as Ray Hartsfield returned the opening kickoff 51 yards to the Lake Howell 34. Lake Mary got as close as the 18 but a fourth-down pass was incomplete and Lake Howell took over.

After two enoachment penalties on the Rams (Lake Mary had five such calls for the game), the Hawks had a first down on the Lake Mary 30. The Hawks then proceeded to drive down to the Lake Mary 18 with Schmittler's running leading the way. Schmittler carried five times for 24 yards on the drive. Two more Lake Mary penalties contributed.

On first down at the 18, quarterback Mark Wainwright dropped back and tried to go short over the middle to Bill Wasson but Lake Mary linebacker Brett Molle picked it out of the air for an interception.

Lake Mary took over on its own 17 and put together a nine-play, 83-yard scoring drive.

After Molle bulled for six yards on first

Branch Gets Special Call; Scott Waits For His Ring

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

A couple of familiar names resurfaced recently. One received a special call from the Washington Redskins while the other is waiting for the Los Angeles Rams to make a move on his status.

Both made their presence felt on the gridiron during the 1980 season. One was a tough-running halfback and vicious-hitting linebacker. The other was a sure-handed wide receiver and hard-hitting safety who helped his team to the only district championship.

Reggie Branch was a halfback-linebacker on coach Jerry Posey's 1980 Seminole High team. Branch was a well muscled 165 pounds when he played at Seminole but after a summer of the weights at East Carolina University, Branch grew into a gargantuan 230-pounder.

His speed improved also and he became a starting fullback for FCU for two years. After his senior year, he tried out with the Washington Redskins but was one of the final cuts.

Branch, nevertheless, wasn't discouraged. He stayed in shape and waited for the telephone to ring. The Redskins, woefully weak on their specialty teams, dialed up the 22-year-old Branch.

He played in last Monday night's nationally televised victory over St. Louis and will be suited up again Sunday when the rebounding 'Skins host Detroit.

"Branch came in and did a real good job for us," Washington publicist Ron Levine said. "He was one of our best special teams players during the pre-season, so we decided to bring him back when we were having trouble in that area."

Branch is a headhunter on the punt and kickoff coverage teams and he serves as a blocker on the kickoff and punt return teams. "I'm sure Branch will be here a while," Levine said. "He's one of our best players on the special teams."

Football

While Branch delivers his hits at full speed, Chuck Scott, the catalyst of coach Sam Weir's 1980 Silver Hawks, sits and waits for his calling.

Scott will be in Tampa with his Los Angeles Rams' teammates Sunday but he won't be dressed out. He'll be on the sidelines rooting against the Tampa Bay Bucs. He sits, a healthy man on the Rams' injured reserve list.

Scott, who went on to All-America honors as a slotback-tight end at Vanderbilt, was the second-round pick of the Rams and signed a healthy contract.

During practice, however, he injured his shoulder and was placed on the injured reserve list. Scott said he doesn't feel disabled anymore but it takes more than a healthy body to rejoin the Los Angeles varsity.

Coach John Robinson has four moves during the season when he can reactivate a disabled player. He already has used two moves and he plans to use the final two as judiciously as possible. He is pleased with his wide receiver's play in practice but Scott still sits uncomfortably, waiting for his turn.

"Chuck's still hoping by some miracle that they will activate him Sunday morning," Mother Mary Scott said. "But at least we'll get to see him Sunday, even if he doesn't play."

State football coaches are breathing a little easier this week after the results of the straw poll concerning spring football. The poll was conducted by Fred Rozelle, executive director of the Florida High School Activities Association.

Although Rozelle said the straw poll was just that, a sampling of the principals and head coaches thoughts on spring practice, the results were overwhelmingly in favor of the 30-day, full-contact method.

Of the 296 principals who

Reggie Branch

participated, 179 voted to leave the spring practice in its present form. Forty-seven voted to eliminate it completely. Forty voted to eliminate spring and add a week in the fall. Eighteen voted to replace it with 10 days of spring conditioning. Twelve voted to replace it with 10 days in the spring and 5 days in the fall.

Most coaches said that spring football practice had helped Florida attain its good reputation (top 5 nationally) as a producer of quality college talent and convinced the principals to agree with them.

Sixty percent did just that.

Washington 37, Detroit 11
Seattle (minus 14) over Atlanta — Seahawks caught in tough AFC West race and can't let hapless Falcons stand in their way. The end of the line could be near for Atlanta coach Dan Henning.
Seattle 20, Atlanta 21
LA Raiders (minus 9 1/2) over New Orleans — The emergence of Marc Wilson last week gives the Raiders what they've been sorely lacking: a passing attack. Look for him to outshine the Saints' Dave Wilson.

Brock Points To Defense For Rams' 5-0 Beginning

TAMPA (UPI) — Quarterback Dieter Brock will be the first to tell you he's not the primary reason the Los Angeles Rams are 5-0. There are these 11 guys who play defense.

Football

offense. Brock, who has been sacked 14 times, sports a 58 percent completion rate but has thrown six interceptions compared to just four touchdown passes. Eric Dickerson is averaging only 3.7 yards per carry and comes off a poor game against Minnesota.

Inside linebackers Jim Collins and Carl Ekern lead the club in tackles while outside linebacker Mike Wilcher already has five of the Rams' 21 sacks. Second-year pro Doug Reed has 5 1/2 sacks from Youngblood's old left defensive end spot and Dennis Harrison, acquired from Philadelphia, provides additional pressure on passing downs.

James Wilder hauls in a pass and struggles to escape his own end zone.

"We don't have anyone that we'd say is a superstar," says Los Angeles defensive line coach Mary Goux. "We have six or seven guys who have worked very hard and improved a lot."

Tampa Bay Coach Leeman Bennett unloaded a major head-ache this week by trading disgruntled linebacker Hugh Green to Miami for two draft picks. The Buccaneers have been plagued by mistakes (minus six turnover differential) and poor pass defense. Opposing passers are hitting at a 64.5 percent clip as a weak pass rush has put extra pressure on a mediocre secondary.

"It's too early for me to make any comparisons between the Bears and the Rams, but I know they're both very good teams," Bennett says.

CAPSULES

NFL Capsules
United Press International
Sunday, Oct. 13

Pittsburgh (2-3) at Dallas (4-1)
Favorite — Dallas by 4 1/2
When Steelers have the ball — Mark Malone is tied for the NFL lead in touchdown passes (12) and will be playing a guessing game with the blitz happy Dallas defense.
When Cowboys have the ball — Dallas seems determined to improve its running attack and has done so the last two weeks with Tony Dorsett. Cowboys, however, have had problems inside the 20 yard line — having to settle for more field goals than they would like.
Key injuries — Pittsburgh TE Darrell Nelson (concussion against Miami last week) is the only member of the Steelers on the questionable list. Dallas fullback Timmy Newsome and OT Phil Ponderac (both with knee problems) missed last week's game but should be ready Sunday.
Key Statistics — Malone's 12 touchdown passes, sharing the NFL leadership with John Elway. Dallas' 15 interceptions, which leads the league by three over Houston and Chicago. Dorsett is just 31 yards shy of 10,000 and would be the sixth NFL player to reach that point.
Key Matchups — Malone vs. the Cowboys' blitz.
Head to head — Pittsburgh leads the series, 12-10. Pittsburgh won the last meeting 36-28 in the first Monday night game of the 1982 season, ending the Cowboys' NFL record 17 game opening day winning streak.
Streaks — Pittsburgh has won the last five meetings including Super Bowl XII. Dallas is losing to the Steelers in Super Bowl X.
Dallas has beaten the Steelers seven consecutive times over a 10 year period.

LA Rams (5-0) at Tampa Bay (0-5)
Favorite — Rams by 6
When Rams have the ball — Look for Rams to run Eric Dickerson to their left against Tampa Bay's struggling rookie, right DE Ron Holmes. Right outside linebacker Hugh Green has been traded to Miami, making Buccaneers even more vulnerable in that area.
When Buccaneers have the ball — Steve DeBerg will work on his short passing game against a tough pass rush, with TE Jimmie Giles a prime target.
Key injuries — Tampa Bay LB Scot Brantley (neck) is questionable.
Key Statistics — Rams' pass defense allows completions at 51.0 rate compared to 44.3 for Buccaneers. Rams are plus six in turnover differential compared to Tampa Bay's minus six.
Key Matchups — Tampa Bay rookie LB Ervin Randle vs. Dickerson on swing passes. Rams' LB Jim Collins vs. RB James Wilder on inside runs.
Head to head — Rams leads series 3-2. Rams won last meeting 34-28 Nov. 25, 1984.
Streaks — Wilder has accounted for at least 100 yards in combined rushing and receiving in eight of his last nine games.
Kansas City (3-2) at San Diego (2-3)
Favorite — Kansas City by 3 1/2
When Chargers have the ball — QB Mark Herrmann will use running backs Gary Anderson and Lionel James while looking for key catches from WRs Charles Joiner and Wes Chandler.
When Chiefs have the ball — QB Bill Kenney will test San Diego's green secondary long.
Key injuries — San Diego QB Dan Fouts, DB Lucious Smith, Kansas City WR Carlos Carson, OT Matt Herkenhoff.
Key Statistics — The Chiefs have failed to stop an opponent on fourth down seven of 13 times. Kenney has 1,708 yards passing. San Diego's James has 423 yards of total offense, 149 in passing. San Diego's defense has given up 2,065 yards. The Chiefs have given up 1,780.
Key Matchups — San Diego CBs Jeff Dale and Wayne Davis one on one against WR Henry Marshall and Stephone Page. Kansas City CBs Kevin Ross and Albert Lewis against WRs Chandler and Joiner.
Head to head — San Diego leads series 25-23-1. Kansas City won last meeting 42-21 Dec. 16, 1984.
Streaks — San Diego has not beaten an AFC West opponent in 11 tries. Kansas City WR Stephone Page has caught a pass in the last 17 games. K Nick Lowrey has never missed a field goal from inside 30 yards.

Chicago (5-0) at San Francisco (3-2)
Favorite — San Francisco by 4
When Bears have the ball — Bears will target potent offensive attack at RBs Ronnie Lett, who will be playing free safety for second straight game. QB Jim McMahon is top ranked NFC passer and WR Dennis McKinlon is second leading scorer.
When 49ers have the ball — QB Joe Montana will try to keep the hot hand he had against Atlanta. Will rely on short pass to RB Roger Craig and deep threat of Jerry Rice.
Key injuries — San Francisco DE Jim Stucky is doubtful with an injured foot. Chicago's Dan Hampton and Richard Dent have missed practice time this week but are likely to play.
Key Statistics — McMahon leads NFC passers having completed 79 of 123 attempts for 1,194 yards, 10 touchdowns and just 4 interceptions. McKinlon is No. 2 scorer in NFC with 6 td catches. Kicker Kevin Butler leads NFC kickers in scoring. Craig is leading scorer in NFC. Montana ranks third in NFC overall passing stats but first in yardage. San Francisco defense has 24 sacks.
Key Matchups — McKinlon and All Pro CB Eric Wright. Dent and 49ers OT Bubba Paris.
Head to head — Series is tied at 23-23-1.
Streaks — San Francisco won rematch of NFC championship game in 1984 with Washington Redskins. Dwight Clark has caught a pass in 77 consecutive games. Montana has thrown 64 straight passes without an interception.

Cleveland (3-2) at Houston (1-4)
Favorite — Cleveland by 2 1/2
When Browns have the ball — Look for Browns to use a controlled running game with RBs Kevin Mack and Earnest Byner, and short passes to TE Ozie Newsome.
When Oilers have the ball — Oilers will try to establish running game with RBs Larry Moriaty, Butch Woolfolk, and Mike Rozier. WR Tim Smith will play key role in passing game.
Key injuries — Browns QB Gary Danielsokn doubtful with shoulder injury, backup WR Fred Banks out with hamstring injury. Oilers LB Johnny Meads out with knee injury.
Key Statistics — Browns running game No. 2 in league while defense No. 2 in league against the run, allowing average of 90 yards a game. Oilers offense ranks last in the NFL.
Key matchups — Browns TE Newsome vs. Oilers LB Frank Bush, Browns RCB Hanford Dixon vs. Oilers WR Smith.
Head to head — Cleveland leads series 18-11 and won last meeting 27-20 last Dec. 16.
Streaks — Browns RB Mack seeking third straight 100 yard game. Cleveland has won four of last five against Oilers and seeking third straight triumph overall. Oilers have lost four in a row.

New Orleans (3-2) at LA Raiders (2-2)
Favorite — Raiders by 9 1/2

The Bite Is Back, Lions Devour Cocoa

By Tim Horn
Special to the Herald

If anyone was wondering how the Oviedo Lions must have felt about losing last week to the New Smyrna Barracudas, a team that had not won in 22 straight games, then just ask the Cocoa Tigers.

Coming out roaring from the opening kickoff on, a fired up Oviedo Lions squad more than made up for its frustrating loss last week by crushing Cocoa, 28-0, Friday night at Oviedo High Stadium to even its record at 2-2.

"We worked hard in practice this week," Lion head coach Jack Blanton said. "The team did a good job tonight."

The Lions' defense, which shouldered much of the blame for the 35-20 loss to New Smyrna, giving up over 400 total yards to the Barracudas' offense, was overwhelming in shutting down the Cocoa attack. Not only did the Oviedo defense limit the Tigers to 133 total yards, but it intercepted two passes, recovered three fumbles and came up with a goal line stand to thwart Cocoa's only real scoring threat.

"Coach told us to go out and do it in the first half," said linebacker Bernell Simmons. "And we did. We were just heads up tonight."

Andrew Smith, who was the Lions' lone bright spot in the loss to New Smyrna while rushing for over 200 yards and scoring three touchdowns, picked up right where he left off last week by rushing for 237 more yards against the Tigers while again scoring three touchdowns to lead the Lions charge.

The 5-8, 165-pound senior halfback, who now has 748 yards rushing and nine touchdowns in just four games, also had an 87-yard run that went for a touchdown called back because of a clipping penalty.

"He did a great job," Oviedo coach Jack Blanton said of Smith. "He is quite a runner, but there was some real good offensive line blocking out there too."

Smith dutifully lauded his linemen and coaches. "I give most of the credit to the offensive line and terrific coaching," Smith said. "This is a team effort."

Offensive tackle Tony Coffie, a 6-0, 221-pound senior, said Smith makes the blocking enjoyable.

"Yeah, it's a lot of fun," he said. "He is a terrific runner. We just try to open up the holes for him. Once he is past the line he is on his own."

Sophomore center Andy Palmer, a hulking 6-1 and 273 pounds, agreed with Coffie. "He makes it easy for us," Palmer said of Smith. "We did a pretty good job tonight but it makes it a lot easier with a guy like Andrew. He runs over the defense."

After receiving the opening kickoff, the Lions scored in just six plays as Smith bolted up the middle for a 57-yard touchdown run, breaking a few tackles at the line and then outracing the secondary to the end zone. Gordon King added the extra point for a 7-0 Oviedo lead.

On their first possession, the Tigers could not get anything going and punted the ball back to the Lions. Oviedo quarterback John Morrow was sacked on a third down try at the Oviedo 32 and the Lions were also forced to punt.

Standing back inside the 20 prepared to punt was King, but the snap was low and King could not come up with it. The Tigers recovered the ball at the Oviedo 10.

Three straight running plays moved the ball down inside the one yard line. On fourth down the Tigers tried to score on a sweep to the right but the Lions Ed Miller raced in from his secondary position to tackle the Tiger runner back at the two. The Lions defense had held and the momentum shifted back to Oviedo as the first quarter soon ended.

Late in the second quarter the Lions drove 82 yards in nine plays to go up 14-0 as Smith scored from 11 yards out.

The Tigers got the ball back with just under a minute to go in the half but fumbled away the ball on their first play from scrimmage as linebacker Jeff Joyce recovered it for the Lions at the Cocoa 19.

Smith gained 16 yards on first down to the three and then went in for the three yard score on the next play as the Lions led, 21-0, at halftime.

Simmons added an 11 yard score from his wingback position in the fourth quarter for the Lions final touchdown. Oviedo will play at Lyman next week in a key Seminole Athletic Conference matchup. Both teams are 2-2 overall and 1-0 in the conference.

"Lyman has won two in a row and it will be tough," Blanton said. (Lyman coach) Bill Scott is doing a really good job with his kids.

"We have got about 28 kids to their 45 but I wouldn't trade mine for anything right now."

After Brantley checked the "Noles on eight plays, Delfiaco had the Patriots marching again from the Brantley 22. He sprinted 15 yards and Derrick Guinard scooted for 15 more to the Seminole 48. Delfiaco hit Brooke Christian on a sideline route for 11 more to the 37 as the first quarter ended.

Cornelius Friendly, who gained 40 yards on nine attempts, ran for 15 and 10 on consecutive carries to the Seminole 12.

Enter Taylor II. Delfiaco dropped back quickly and tried to hit a slant over the middle. "Coach (Greg Register) told me to watch the quick slant," Taylor said. "I just stepped in front of the receiver and got the ball. If I would have cut outside, I'd have scored."

Taylor picked the ball off at the 7 and raced up the 50 yards to the Brantley 43 before being caught. Seminole moved to the 22 on a nine-yard Blake to Curtis Rudolph pass and a 13-yard jaunt by Dwayne Willis. Blake, though, lost the handle again and Mark Sepe covered the ball to stop the drive.

Delfiaco had the Patriots moving again one possession later when a 14-yard toss to Andy Dunn set up Brantley at the Seminole 33 with 2:40 to play. On the next play, though, newcomer Mark Willis separated Friendly from the ball and Kenny Morris pounced on it to squelch the drive.

Brantley was on the receiving end of the second-half kickoff but it didn't take long for Taylor III. Delfiaco rolled right at his 31 and found Sears open on the sideline. His pass bounced off the usually sure-handed senior's hands and Taylor inhaled it at the Brantley 34 with 9 minutes to go in the third quarter.

"He (Sears) did a down and out," Taylor said. "When I got there, I just thought I'd go for the hit. Then, I saw the ball in the air."

Blake and the 'Noles mixed the run and pass perfectly for the tie-breaking score. Willis ran for four, Blake went for two and Willie Evans bolted for two to the Brantley 27. On a crucial fourth and two, Evans followed tackle Alan Kendall for two more and the first down.

Blake then went up top for seven yards to Hillery and two more to Rudolph to the Brantley 14. He ran for three and a first down at the Brantley 11. Willis picked up one to the 10 but Evans lost four on a fake reverse to the 14.

Undaunted, Blake coolly rolled to his left and found Hillery on a down and out for 14 yards and the score. Partlow's PAT gave the Seminoles a 14-7 lead with 3:35 to play in the third quarter.

"The defense dropped back whenever I rolled out," Blake said. "That gave me a lot of time (to find Hillery)."

Seminole's defense, meanwhile, got back into the act two plays later. After a return to the 32, Dunn was belted by Taylor and Morris. He coughed up the ball and Theron Liggons recovered at the Brantley 33.

A Blake incompleteness and a hold penalty pushed the drive back to the 41 but Blake came back to hit Osborn for 13 yards to the 28. Facing a fourth and five, Mosure called for Partlow.

The sophomore soccer stand-out had hooked a 39-yarder by 10 feet last week which would have beaten Lake Mary as time ran out. He was not to be denied this time, however. Aiming at the right goal post, Partlow launched his record 45-yarder with cleared the bar with room to spare for a 17-7 Seminole lead with 1:44 to play in the third quarter.

"I never hesitated to call for Partlow," Mosure said. "That was an incredible kick. The kid came in and did a helluva job."

Lake Brantley, though, wasn't ready to throw in the towel. After a good return to the Brantley 45, Delfiaco hit Sears for 21 yards and Dunn picked up 15 yards on a pair of carries to move to the Seminole 19.

Horace Knight broke up the next pass with a nice play but a defensive holding penalty moved the ball to the Seminole 9. Friendly picked up two to the 7 but on the next play, linebackers Brinson, Kelly and Lewis met at the quarterback. While Brinson and Lewis forced the action, Kelly dumped Delfiaco for an 11-yard loss to the 18. When a screen pass lost yardage, the Patriots were forced to settle for Delfiaco's 35-yard field goal which cut the deficit to 17-10, with 8:39 left in the game.

Eddie Banks, the Tribe's exciting kick returner, gave a prompt answer to the Patriot field goal when he gathered in the kickoff at his 11 and streaked 89 yards for a touchdown. Halfway there, however, a clipping penalty was called which set Seminole back to its 38.

Seminole, though, put together a good march anyway. After two rushes earned four yards, Blake found Rape, who made a great diving catch, for 19 yards and a first down at the Brantley 39. Willis went for one, Blake for 10 and Mike Levant twice for nine to set up the Tribe at the Brantley 15.

Blake hit Willis on a swing pass for 10 more to the 5. Rudolph powered for two to the 3 but then lost a yard back to the 4. On third down, Blake hit a wide-open Hillery in the end zone but Hillery dropped the ball.

On fourth down, a high snap on a field goal attempt forced holder Taylor to run and Steve Stark dragged him down for an 11-yard loss at the 15 to set up Brantley's final chance.

Delfiaco hit Dunn on second down for 12 yards to the 27 but Lewis sacked Delfiaco on the next play for a loss of five. Three plays later, Delfiaco went back to Dunn again for 18 yards to the 43. A quick pass to the flat gained five to the 48 but two plays later, Lawrence stole some of Taylor's glory.

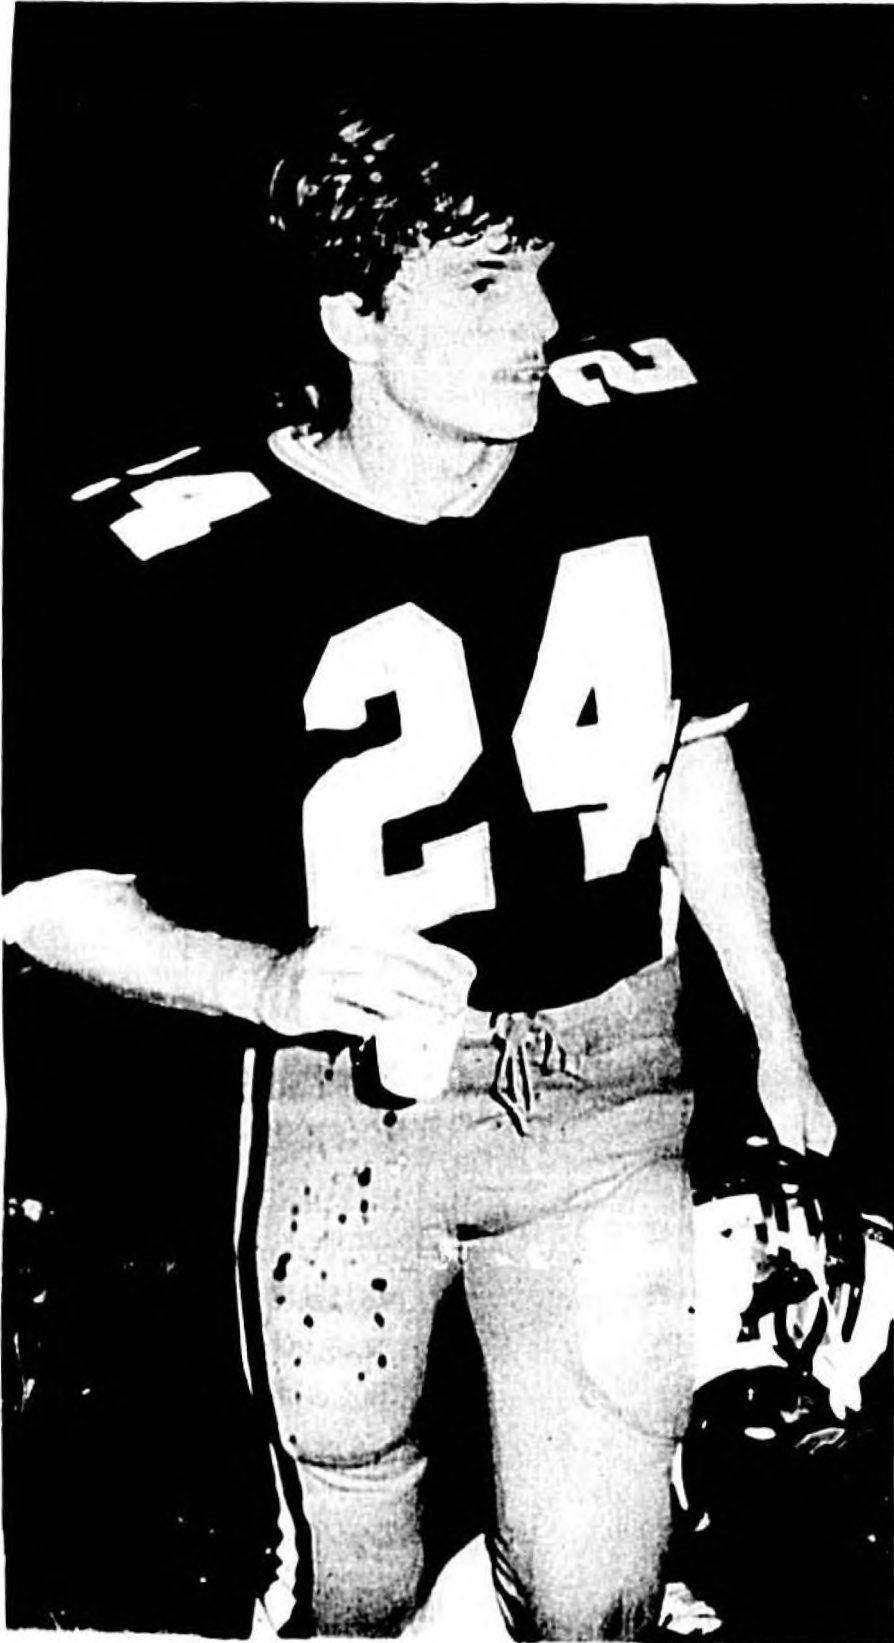

Delfiaco went long down the right sideline with a desperation toss. Lawrence settled under the ball like an outfielder, picked it off and headed up the sideline. He stepped out of one tackle and returned 56 yards to the Brantley 14. Blake took one snap for a four-yard loss and Seminole had its first win.

"I haven't felt this good since the day I was born," crowed Lawrence. "I was crying when I was born. I feel like crying now." He wasn't alone.

J.J. Partlow was standing tall after making a school-record 45-yard field goal Friday night. Partlow had a chance to beat Lake Mary last week but he hooked a 39-yarder to the left as time ran out. This week, the sophomore's 45-yarder sailed over the bar with plenty to spare.

Brinson Levels 3 Patriots; Partlow Finds Redemption

By Chuck Burgess
Special to the Herald

After playing three tough games in a row, the Fighting Seminole High football team was breathing a sigh of relief Friday night after beating the Lake Brantley Patriots, 17-10, for its first win of the year.

Elated players, coaches, parents, and fans stormed onto the field as coach Dave Mosure won his first football game as head coach of the 'Noles. The players were so elated they escorted Mosure off the field — over their heads that is.

Holding Mosure higher than anyone was senior captain Bryan Brinson. Brinson was doing everything but passing out the water to fellow teammates.

One play comes to mind where teammate Daryl Taylor intercepted a pass and dashed down the sidelines. Luckily for Lewis, Brinson was leading the way. All Brinson did was take three Patriots out of the play — one at a time. Bonecrushing block after bonecrushing block, Brinson headed up the field, each block harder and stronger than the one before.

"I went out there tonight with one thing on my mind — winning," Brinson said. Not only did Brinson help the Tribe win, but he also was all over the field.

"We knew we could beat them," Brinson, an all county defensive tackle last year, said. "In the first half we made a few mistakes and they capitalized on them. But, the second half we turned it all around and played the way we work at practice, hard and tough."

Brinson's words echoed through the locker room as others shared in his triumphant delight. Kenny Morris was one of those whose sentiments was the same. "We hit everything that moved out there tonight," Morris, who caused two fumbles, said. "Once we started winning things just started happening and we got it going."

If anyone felt like he had things going his way Friday night, it had to be sophomore kicker J.J. Partlow. Partlow turned things around for the 'Noles after having an off night last week against Lake Mary.

Football

Last week, Partlow was in tears after barely missing (10 feet wide) a 39-yard attempt. But against the Patriots, Partlow was in tears for another reason. The cause of his ecstasy was not that he helped his team to a victory by kicking a school record 45-yard field goal. He had redeemed himself in a manner in which all athletes can respect.

Bringing oneself up from a hard game the week before can not only be difficult, but for kickers it's sometimes impossible. Some kickers have no confidence after missing a couple of field goals and a few extra points. However, Partlow is a kicker of the 80's, a kicker with self esteem and pride, and a kicker who doesn't let people down.

"During school this week I expected a lot of hassles and razzing," Partlow said. "But everyone was just telling me to keep my chin up and do it this week. So, I did."

Partlow's confidence showed after he kicked an extra point to cap a first possession touchdown by the 'Noles. But, it never showed more when his eyes lit up after Mosure put him in to attempt a 45-yard field goal.

Without taking note that no kicker in the history of the school has ever kicked the ball that far for three points, Partlow calmly set his eyes on the crossbar and watched the pigskin do the seemingly impossible.

"After last week, I knew I was going to hit one if I had the chance," Partlow said. "I just have to thank the center (James Rowe) for a great snap and the hold man (Taylor) for an excellent hold. They made it happen and all I can say is 'it was the most exciting thing I've ever done'."

...Defense

down. Shane Letterio threw a sideline screen to Washington who shed two defenders and raced down the sidelines toward the end zone. He was finally knocked out of bounds by Lee Chonacki but not before picking up 12 yards to the Lake Howell 35.

Curry bolted for 14 yards on first down to the 21 and, after Hartsfield scrambled for three, Curry picked up eight more for a first and goal at the nine.

Molle went for four on first down and Curry was stopped for one on second. On third down at the four, Curry muscled down to the one but couldn't get in the end zone. On fourth down, Molle went up the middle but the Hawks stacked him up. The rugged fullback kept driving through and barreled in for the score for a 6-0 Lake Mary lead with 35 seconds left in the opening quarter.

Lake Mary came up empty on the extra point attempt as Mike Renaud's kick was blocked by Jim Nutter.

Both teams had scoring threats early in the second quarter but they were stalled by turnovers. After the Rams' scored, Lake Howell drove inside Lake Mary territory. On first down, Craig Derington darted for 10 yards but he was stripped of the ball and Washington recovered at the 30.

Lake Mary then drove to the Lake Howell 41 and Molle rumbled for 15 yards to the Lake Howell 26. But Molle fumbled at the end of the gain and Matt Alberti recovered for the Silver Hawks.

This time, Lake Howell made the most of its scoring opportunity. Taking over at its own 26, Lake Howell marched 74 yards on 12 plays for the tying touchdown. Wainwright's pass to Wasson for 12 yards got the drive going but the big play came on a fourth-and-five at the Lake Mary 45.

Wainwright faked the handoff to Schnitker on the dive up the middle and pitched to Cornel Rigby who dashed 28 yards to the Lake Mary 17.

After two incomplete passes, Wainwright hooked up with Nate Hoskins for an 11-yard gain down to the six. On second down at the eight, Wainwright drilled a pass to Wasson over the middle for the touchdown that tied the score at 6-6. Placekicker Jeff Phillips then nailed the conversion kick for a 7-6 Lake Howell lead with 42 seconds left in the half.

On the ensuing kickoff, Hartsfield had some daylight but Randy Nixon made a nice open-field tackle at the Lake Mary 26. One play later, the half was over.

The defenses tightened up a bit in the third quarter as neither team threatened until Lake Mary took over on its own 41 with 2:31 remaining.

Curry burst for 16 yards on first down to put the Rams in Lake Howell territory. A gain of 13 by Curry put the ball at the 24. Letterio was then thrown for a three-yard loss by Ron Campbell on the last play of the third quarter.

Letterio opened the fourth period with an incomplete pass and Lake Mary faced a third and 13 at the Lake Howell 27. Letterio then found Washington open and the senior receiver dodged two tacklers and was trying to stretch for the first down when the ball popped loose. Two Silver Hawks had a shot at it but couldn't come up with it. Hartsfield then scooped up the loose ball and ran to the six-yard line before being stopped.

Two plays later, Curry followed Joe Janego into the end zone for the go-ahead TD and a 12-7 lead with 10:39 left to play. Lake Mary then failed on the two point conversion.

The rest of the game saw Lake Howell knocking on Lake Mary's door with the Rams refusing to let the Hawks in.

After Curry's TD, Lake Howell punched the ball down to the Lake Mary 30 with Schnitker doing most of the damage. On first down at the 30, Wainwright pitched to Rigby but he couldn't find the handle and Washington recovered for the Rams.

The Hawks' defense then stiffened up and forced Lake Mary to punt with 5:30 remaining in the game. Ryan Lisle, who booted a 41-yarder on his first attempt, got off another good one and it took a good bounce deep into Lake Howell territory, but it was called back because of a Lake Mary procedure penalty.

Lake Mary was called for procedure again on the next play and the penalty put the Rams back at their own 16. The next time, Lisle got off the punt but it took a bad bounce and went for only 19 yards as Lake Howell took over at the Lake Mary 35 with 4:10 remaining.

"We needed to get our act together," Lisle said of the penalty problem. "We didn't want to beat ourselves."

Schnitker carried for eight yards on two plays but Craig Derington slipped on a third-down reverse call and lost five yards. On a crucial fourth down situation, Wainwright hit Wasson for 12 yards and a first down at the Lake Mary 20 with just under two minutes left to play.

Schnitker then ran for 12 more yards on two carries for a first and goal at the eight with 1:06 remaining.

For the next four plays, the entire crowd was on its feet. On first down, Todd Bates broke into the clear over the middle in the end zone by Wainwright's pass was too low and incomplete.

"That was the ballgame for us right there," Biscaglia said. "He (Bates) was wide open but Wainwright couldn't get the ball to him."

On second down, Wainwright was thrown for a two-yard loss by Kothera. On third down at the 10, Wainwright tried another quick toss but it was tipped away by Owen. Then came the fourth down pass which was intended for Bates but Washington hand him blanketed and picked it off to give the Rams the win.

Partlow Hits From 45

Lake Brantley's Chad Groseclose, right, arrives too late to block J.J. Partlow's 45-yard field goal. Partlow's kick gave Seminole a 17-7 lead in the third quarter and set a Tribe field goal mark. Daryl Taylor, the holder, also had a pretty good night, coming up with three interceptions in the Tribe's first win.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN BY THE CITY OF LONGWOOD, FLORIDA, that the Board of Adjustment will hold a Public Hearing on Thursday, 7:30 P.M. October 17, 1985, in the Longwood City Commission Conference Room, 175 W. Warren Avenue, Longwood, Florida, or as soon thereafter as possible to consider a variance requested by Dannie Lewis to alter the existing 21 1/2 foot wide entrance driveway to be utilized for operation of a business in lieu of the required 25 foot wide driveway and a variance requested to allow the operation of a business on a parcel totaling 9,222 square feet in area in lieu of the minimum 10,000 square foot parcel required in a C-3 zoning district, on the following legally described property:

North 1/2 of Lot 7, Talmo Subdivision Replat of Block A, PB 11 PG 33, Public Records of Seminole County, Florida.
At this meeting all interested parties may appear to be heard with respect to requested variances. This hearing may be continued from time to time until final action is taken by the Board of Adjustment. A copy of the request is on file with the City Clerk and may be inspected by the public.
All persons are advised that if they decide to appeal any decision made at these hearings they will need a verbatim record of the proceedings and for such purposes they will need to insure that a verbatim record is made, which record to include the testimony and evidence upon which the appeal is made. The City of Longwood does not provide this verbatim record.
Dated this September 27, 1985

Another Babcock Quality Certain Home

Would the home you're planning to buy pass the Babcock "Quality Certain" test?

You can take the risk and find out in a few years. When the plumbing goes. Or an electrician tells you the house has to be re-wired. Or water in the kitchen starts running down hill toward the dining room.

Or you can check into the homes in one of the four Babcock communities in Greater Orlando. Where you know every detail of every home is inspected not once, but twice by a Babcock "Quality Certain" inspector. To make sure it can live up to all these exclusive Babcock warranties:

- One-year limited warranty on construction; and workmanship.
- Two-year limited warranty on plumbing, heating, cooling and electrical systems.
- Manufacturer's written warranties on appliances, fixtures, and equipment are extended to homeowners.
- Ten-year limited warranty on major structural defects.

Only then do they uncover the Babcock seal of quality on the front step and release the home for sale.

That's why we recommend you look, with confidence, into the Babcock homes in the communities listed below. But, it's up to you.

You can know about the quality of your home now. Or find out later.

Grant Station Irresistibly New England Single family homes from the 60s with early breakfast nook, wood cabinetry, lush atriums and skylights.

Mayfair Meadows Lurest your eye! A secluded community of single family homes from the 60s nestled in the country across from Mayfair Country Club in the Lake Mary area.

Crane's Roost Villas A great new townhouse community that's close to everything, but not so close it's hard to find. Homes with many extras starting as low as $73,200.

Wekiva Glen From to roam. Prime lots and executive homes from $100,000 for families who want more than close-quartered communities have to offer.

Pet Health

Electronic Flea Collar Does Not Control Pests

A few months ago I was approached by a company that manufactures an electronic flea collar. I agreed to review the literature on this product and to put the collar to the test to see if it really was an improvement in flea control as the company claimed.

Michael T. Walsh, DVM

The electronic flea collar is a small compact apparatus that emits a high frequency, high intensity burst of sound that is designed to affect the fleas without being detected by the dog or cat. The unit is water resistant and will not cause any electric shock. Its effective range is approximately four feet. The effect on the fleas is not fatal; rather, it is meant to drive them away.

Now what about the product claims? The pulsed, modulated burst of sound produced by the unit is said to make your pet stop scratching in one day. In addition, infestation levels will be noticeably reduced in five days. In fact, they guarantee that fleas are gone in five days or your money back. All of this sounds very appealing to people who have tried everything to get rid of fleas. Before we comment on these claims let's review the problem itself.

Fleas exist by taking blood meals from the pet. They are driven by their needs for food so that they can reproduce and survive. Greater than 80% of a female flea's time is actually spent off the animal, nesting and laying eggs which will be the next generation. The present recommendations regarding flea control are geared to treatment of the animal and the environment. Even with the strongest insecticides there is no cure for the problem, only control.

Where good flea control usually fails is in two main areas. One is with the owner who does not practice good environmental control and the other is when the pet has an allergy to the fleas.

We have two dogs and a cat which do occasionally have fleas but are not badly bothered by them so I gave a test collar that was sent to me to a friend who has a large dog who is allergic to fleas.

His dog wore the collar for one month straight and his results follow. The first week seemed almost miraculous. Within five days (covered by the guarantee) he almost quit scratching entirely. In the second week the dog was chewing himself slightly but not as bad as previously. By week four the dog was back to chewing himself as much as before. At this point the collar was removed and the dog was dipped with a commercial product to regain some control. The collar was replaced a week later and again the fleas were reduced but only for about five days.

I have talked to other veterinarians who have clients who have used the collar. Reports are mixed at this early date but many indicate similar results of control for 3-6 days then a gradual return to flea infestation.

So based on the information we have to date it would appear that the electronic collar is not the single answer to the flea problem. Granted it does fulfill the terms of its guarantee which is to rid your pet of fleas within a few days but it does not appear to maintain this effect.

This lack of staying power is the same problem that other flea control products have and can be logically explained by the flea's tenacity and the products method of control.

The sound emitted by the collar is only an irritant to the flea and works by making the area around the collar uncomfortable for the flea. Those fleas never exposed to this "adverse stimulus" before respond by moving out of range. Unfortunately this type of stimulus can be overridden by stronger stimuli such as hunger and survival. As a result the flea stays away until his instinct for survival overrides the irritating effect of the collar.

I can't presently recommend the use of the electronic collar as it is currently advertised. It is not a replacement for previous methods, the advertising is misleading, and the guarantee is unrelated to the pet's needs. It may have some limited use as part of a general control program. I would be interested in hearing if any of you have had success with this product by itself for more than a few weeks time.

Veteran Administrator Joins University Relations Staff

Dr. Daniel C. Holsenbeck, assistant vice president for university relations at the University of South Florida since 1983, has been named to the number two spot in university relations at the University of Central Florida.

As associate vice president, Holsenbeck brings to UCF an extensive background in governmental relations, public affairs and university development.

A major share of his new responsibilities will be close involvement in long-range planning of activities as they reflect UCF's commitment to community, said university relations vice president Dr. Robert McGinnis.

Holsenbeck graduated from Auburn University with honors in mathematics, and holds a masters in education from Johns Hopkins University. He was awarded his Ph.D. by Florida State University in 1975. Prior to joining the USF administration, he served in several key posts in development and university relations at Auburn.

He has authored numerous publications and papers, has taught both public relations and mathematics at the college level, and has served as a consultant to over 100 organizations. As a commander in the U.S. Naval Reserve, he also has conducted NROTC seminars at the Naval Academy each summer since 1971.

Holsenbeck resides in Winter Springs with his wife, and their 3-year-old son.

Twenty years ago Mr. Magic (Harry Wise) performed his act wherever he was booked. Between engagements, Wise, also a television personality, was frequently the star attraction at children's birthday parties in those days. In accompanying photo, Mr. Magic is shown with Chris Gardner when he appeared with his bag of tricks at the Sanford home of Jo Anne and Walt Gardner on their son's fifth birthday, March 5, 1965. Chris was truly king for the day.

At 15, 'I wanted To Join The Circus;' At 46, 'I Got That Out Of My System'

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Harry Wise, "Mr. Magic," calls his Sanford home a showman's lair, filled with the tricks of his trade, baubles gathered in his travels — and even about 3,000 marbles saved from his childhood.

"When anybody says 'Harry Wise doesn't have all his marbles' tell them to look here," Wise said, showing off his colorful collection, which doesn't stand out in a room crammed with the makings of magic that he began collecting and using when he was 15.

At 50, Wise who since the age of 18 has been a professional magician, entertaining not only Sanford youngsters, but taking his act on the road throughout the state, into Georgia, Mississippi, Ohio, New York, Pennsylvania, Canada and points beyond, got hooked when he saw an old-time magic show.

"My mother and dad took me to a magic show on April 19, 1950, at the Ritz Theater (Sanford). We were walking home that night and I said, 'I'm going to be that man dressed in tails and surrounded by beautiful women. I'm going to be that man.'"

"When they took me to that magic show, oh my goodness, I flipped out," Wise said.

His parents, Helen and Alton "Doc" Wise, said, "If you really know a showman is what you want to be then go ahead. We're behind you all the way." And I did and thank God I am," he said.

Although Wise's dad had taught him a simple card trick at age 12 he didn't take a real interest in magic until he was 15. It was then that he mastered his first trick, a double color change with scarves that passed through his hands. "A very simple thing, but a pretty thing," he said. "I thought, oh man, I'm on my way, when I got that."

And Wise was on his way to entertaining local youngsters and then on the road to also play the nightclub circuit. In the early '60s, for four years, he pulled his tricks and illusions on an Orlando-based children's television program, "Uncle Walt's Adventures."

"Television springboarded me into sponsored dates and all like that," he said. "There's more magic than there's ever been and it's all through television. It didn't kill magic, it helped it."

"I'm lucky cause I've done what I want to do, but it takes work. By the time you get out there, book it, produce it, publicize it, rent the auditorium and put on the show it's hard work. But the glamour is on that stage in the tails and the cape.

"When I was on television it was wonderful because almost everywhere I would go the kids would recognize me. That was great. That was nice. But the day after you go off of television you're not a star any more. The phone stops ringing. Then you've got to get out there and beat the bushes. Television was wonderful for me. It taught me a lot of lessons," Wise said, and so far he has no regrets.

Wise continues to pull his tricks on adults as well as youngsters. An avid reader, he has also branched out and has begun to write with two book featuring unicorns published, "Fragments are Forever" and "Xanadu and You," and a third in the works.

He is drawn to the unicorn, he said, because "I love fantasy. I love fantasy, but fantasy to do with the earth not outer space stuff. I don't fool with the outer space Martian type fantasy. It's all the discovery of unicorns and like that."

"Oh, yes, we're surrounded by unicorns," Wise said, pointing to unicorn images with in his own collection of odds and ends. A collection that also includes 5,000 recordings from 1896 through 1935 and figurines and other treasures pick up in the cities he has played.

And Wise has played not only as a magician. From 1981 through '83 he was a circus ringmaster. "I was going to run away with the circus at 15. I waited until I was 46," Wise said. "I just had to get that out of my system."

Parenting Matters

Setting Limits Gives Security To Children

Editor's Note: Mary Mize has a Master of Science degree in Early Childhood Administration and is writing a thesis for completion of a MA in American Studies at Stetson University. She is the author of "Parenting Matters," a monthly column beginning today.

Ms. Mize, who has lived in Sanford for 13 years, was born and reared in Mt. Dora. She is from a family of 11 children. In 1972, Ms. Mize established her first child care center which led to the organization of two corporations, Sanford Child Care Inc. and Sanford Child Development Inc. of which she is president.

She is a member of several professional organizations and is the recipient of numerous honors and awards of excellence in the child care field.

Parenting Matters

By Mary Mize

Rules and limits are necessary in every child's life. Limits bring needed order and security into their world. All responsible, caring parents set and maintain limits for their children.

Parents set limits for various reasons. We commonly think of those limits set to protect our children's physical safety, such as rules for not crossing busy streets. But parents also employ limits to shield children from repeated disappointment and failure. We keep a preschooler from purchasing a model airplane kit made for teenagers. The model is not age-appropriate and the child will become frustrated.

Effective limits must be reasonable and be reviewed periodically as the child grows older. Toddlers, of course, won't understand the rationale behind the boundaries. But as children mature, the reason for the setting of the limits should be freely discussed. And when the limitations are put in place, the child should clearly understand the consequences should he elect to disobey.

Children will test a parent's authority from time to time. Some will push harder and more often than others. It's a part of growing up. They are simply experimenting with their newly acquired knowledge and capabilities.

A peculiarity children soon notice in parents is that most mothers and fathers won't often volunteer to change a rule unless it is challenged or questioned. When a child says "no," we must not immediately become angry, but should instead step back and objectively look at the limit we have set. Is it still realistic? It may have been appropriate when the child was three, but now might be too restrictive for a 5-year old. Perhaps the rule now needs revision.

Caring parents must be able to give their children room to explore and grow, yet keep them within a reasonably safe environment.

Engagement Albright-Heinzelman

Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lewis Albright Jr., 305 Idyllwilde Drive, Sanford, announce the engagement of their daughter, Karena Lane, to Jackson Harold Heinzelman, son of Mrs. Shirley Heinzelman, Sanford, and John L. Heinzelman, Apopka.

Born at Satellite Beach, the bride-elect is the maternal granddaughter of Mrs. Mary Cimra, Aultman, PA and the paternal granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lewis Albright Sr. of Deltona.

Miss Albright is a June, 1985 graduate of Seminole High School, Sanford, where she was editor of Salmagundi yearbook, senior class representative and a member of National Honor Society, Future Business Leaders of America and Tribe. She is employed as advertising coordinator/receptionist for Stenstrom Realty, Sanford.

Her fiance, born at Chatsworth, Calif., is the maternal grandson of Mrs. A. J. Winkler, Ventura, Calif., and the paternal grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Heinzelman, Chillicothe, Ohio.

Mr. Heinzelman is a 1982 graduate of Seminole High School where he was an active member of TEC Club. He is employed as a cartography/planning aid for Seminole County Services Building.

The wedding will be an event of Nov. 9, at 2 p.m., in Kingdom Hall of Jehovah's Witnesses, Sanford.

magic or in the circus. Wise said, "I could have been a house painter. My dad and I painted houses together from the time I was about 20 and was shooting out on the road, going up to Georgia and over to Mississippi and then coming back to Sanford to do a job with him," Wise said.

But the call to the boards was stronger than the pull of the paint brush. Wise who is infatuated with every phase of show business, which is evident in his extensive library featuring books, movies, carnivals, circuses, vaudeville and burlesque.

Other toms of ghost stories and supernatural tales show another interest and although Wise has read extensively on black magic he has concluded, he said, "there is no black magic."

"There's no black magic or supernatural overtones in anything I do. I've made a study of it."

Some people who fear black magic have cost him bookings. Wise said, "It upsets me because these people are good meaning people. In every case they really thought magic was bad. But look, all you see is props. Everything is a trick for entertainment. I'm always the first to admit that."

Wise picked up pointers for his innocent, family entertainment act as a boy by reading everything on magic that he could get his hands on. He also studied with an old time professional magician who lived in Sanford, Bill Hoffman.

"He had a big magic show in the twenties and thirties," Wise said. "He'd have me over to his house when I was 16 and 17 and he would show me things."

His Sanford birthplace has remained Wise's home base. His father died 22 years ago, but his mother at 73 welcomes him home between his engagements.

His favorite tricks he said are "the floating lady" and the "guillotine trick," where he pretends to decapitate someone.

"I'm lucky they've never failed," Wise said. "I've had a couple of tricks fail. All you can do is keep on going. If you stop and stutter and get all flustered you're down the tubes. I learned at an early age, just keep going. Go to the next thing and hope for the best."

"When you expose the trick not meaning to that's a very bad moment," he said. But as a Mr. Magic, Wise has had very few bad moments and has created a lot of good memories, both for himself and his audiences.

Publicity Procedure

The Herald welcomes organization and personal news. The following suggestions are recommended to expedite publication:

1. Releases should be typed (lower and upper case), double spaced, and written narrative style (third person).
2. Do not abbreviate.
3. A contact person's name and phone number is necessary.
4. Keep releases simple.
5. Organization releases (the program should lead the meeting account) must be submitted no later than two days after the event.
6. Advance notices should be submitted one week prior to publication date.
7. Photographic coverage requests should be made one week in advance.

Microwave Demonstration Opens Woman's Club Season

The Woman's Club of Sanford held its first luncheon meeting of the season at the newly renovated and beautifully redecorated clubhouse. President Ann Brisson expressed the feelings of everyone present when she thanked Beth Welebob, house chairman, and her committee, Pat Foster, Martha Yancey, Florence Korgan, Vivian Buck, Emy Bill and Ann Brisson for a job well done.

These women, the president noted, spent an entire summer working on the clubhouse and can take justifiable pride in their accomplishment.

Guest speaker for the occasion was Myrna Ossin, consultant for the Rich Plan, a division of Rich-Unit Corporation.

Ms. Ossin, a noted author and speaker in the Central Florida area, has among her credits a cookbook, "Favorite Recipes of Central Florida." She has also edited various cookbooks including the well-read "Culinary Arts and Crafts" publications, and has taught numerous cooking classes. In addition to an extensive background in dietetics and nutrition, she holds a masters degree in Spanish and a bachelor of arts degree in education.

Ms. Ossin gave club members valuable information about microwave ovens and many tips for getting the most from them. She said she was delighted to learn that about ninety percent of her audience was already using a microwave.

There are four kinds of ovens available, Ms. Ossin said, conventional, microwave, convection and conduction and improvements to each kind are continuous.

Myrna Ossin, right, consultant for the Rich Plan, gives pointers on cooking in a microwave oven to Ann Brisson, left, and Emy Bill at the first meeting of the 1985-86 season of the Woman's Club of Sanford.

The obvious advantages of using a microwave oven, Ossin noted, are the low cost of operation and the short length of time required for cooking. The cost of electricity used in microwaving is about one one-hundredth of that for a regular oven and it takes only one third of the time. Ten seconds will warm a roll. The roll should be wrapped in a paper towel.

One disadvantage frequently noted by women can be changed with a little thought on the part of the user. Women who are used to keeping food in an oven until it is done, often overcook food in the microwave. Standing time equal to one-half the cooking time should be allowed. If food is cooked until it is done in a microwave, it will be overdone by the time it is served.

Another common complaint concerns the appearance of food cooked in the microwave. It doesn't brown like that cooked in a regular oven. There are many products that can be used to improve the appearance of food — paprika, Kitchen Bouquet, brown sugar toppings and frosting on cupcakes, etc.

From the quantity of dishes for microwaving on the market it would seem that expensive new baking dishes would be needed. However, Ossin said, this is not necessarily so. To find out if your favorite glass baking dishes or even your regular dishes are microwave safe, place on cup of water and the dish you want to use in the oven. Turn the time to one minute. At the end of that time, the water should be boiling and the dish should be cool. A surprising number of regular dishes can be used safely in the microwave. Ms. Ossin also suggested that a styrofoam cup be placed in the center of a regular baking dish to make a bundt pan and that styrofoam cups be cut down and used for muffins and cupcakes.

She prepared rice, broccoli and pop corn in the oven during her talk. She left members with recipes for making Cape Canaveral Chicken Supreme, Peach Kuchen and a broccoli casserole.

The regular business meeting was conducted by president Ann Brisson, Peggy Deere, Hacienda Girls Ranch chairman for Districts VII and IX, urged members to be supportive of the Ranch financially since five of the 45 girls now living there are from Sanford. Some of the building fund remains to be paid and there are always daily necessities to account for. The five girls from Sanford are all deserving of the Club's support.

Coming events noted by Mayor Bettye Smith, first vice-president, included an Italian Night supper, Feb. 21, and the raffle of a "History of Old Sanford" quilt at the May Day Brunch. The quilt will show historically significant buildings from old Sanford, such as the little red schoolhouse, the old courthouse, the gazebo on Lake Monroe, etc. The seal of Sanford will be in the center and pastel colors will be used. This will be a very special quilt — definitely one of a kind.

Endless Family Visits Drain Mom's Strength

DEAR ABBY: I'm writing to you because I don't know where else to turn. I live in the mountains and have a nice home with extra space to put people up. Here was the schedule for last summer: First my daughter and her husband came for 10 days. Then my brother and his wife came for two weeks. When they left, my grandson and his wife came for a week. Over the Labor Day weekend, my son and his wife came with their three children.

Abby, I'm 72 years old and tire easily. As I write this, I am so exhausted I can hardly hold my head up. I never let on how weary I am. Sometimes at the end of the day, I cry. I do all the cooking and cleaning myself because I don't think it's right to ask guests to help out. And they seldom offer. No one realizes how hard it is on me because I never complain.

My family is already planning to come for Thanksgiving and Christmas. What should I do?

DEAD TIRED IN NORTH CAROLINA

DEAR TIRED: Dry your tears and retire the welcome mat. It's time to speak your mind. Tell your family that you can no longer accommodate houseguests for more than an occasional weekend. And don't be bashful about asking them to pitch in with the cooking and cleaning. Unless you do, your family will assume that they are welcome as usual. And who can blame them?

DEAR ABBY: Let me enlighten "Bride to Be," who says, "Nowhere can you dance all evening, and eat and drink all you want for $20."

Well, I'll tell you where you can dance all evening, eat and drink all you want (coffee, tea, punch — no liquor) for $5 a couple.

Learn to square dance! It's fantastic fun, relieves tension and stress, is good exercise, and you meet lots of great people and create lasting friendships. Also, there are no problems getting home alive after a "bash," and no threat to others on the road.

Square dancing is not for old fogeys, either; it's for people of all ages. I know. I speak for many square dance fans.
JOYCE IN BERTHOUD, COLO.

DEAR JOYCE: You certainly do. In just one club in Southern California, there are 5,000 members — from pre-teens to men and women in their 80s. There are clubs for couples, clubs for singles, clubs for families and parties for every holiday. The dues are affordable, and I'm told that folks who square dance are the happiest, wholesome, friendliest people you'd ever want to meet. So do-it-do, allemande left, swing your partner, weave the ring, load the boat, and promenade!

Dear Abby

trying to call because her line is always busy. Wanda sees nothing wrong with this. She says she "loves" him, and the telephone is sort of a substitute father, so who am I to argue with her?

Right now she's doing Buddy's homework while he's playing a record for someone over the phone.

I think something is terribly wrong here. What do you think?
WANDA'S MAN

DEAR MAN: I think Wanda is setting Buddy up to be ill-equipped to handle life's problems. Children need to learn discipline, responsibility and consideration for others in order to become productive and self-sufficient. That's love.

Letting Buddy goof off while she does his homework is giving him a sadly distorted picture of the real world. For all Wanda's good intentions, Buddy will be the big loser in the end. Wanda needs to be wised up.

Contest Opens For Christmas Card Designs

Leu Botanical Gardens is sponsoring a contest for the design and execution of 4' x 8' plywood panels to be used as "Gigantic Christmas Cards." The cards will be displayed for public viewing in Leu Gardens beginning Dec. 7 during the annual event "Holidays With Leu Gardens" and will remain up for public viewing through Dec. 24.

The competition is open to all clubs, individuals and businesses. Cash prizes will be awarded. Competition is divided into two parts. An illustrated entry is due Nov. 4 and the gigantic wooden card must be completed by Dec. 5.

For more information and application, call 894-6021 (Leu Gardens).

Medical Society Honors Dr. Epstein

Dr. Edwin Epstein of Sanford has been recognized for 30 years of continued membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians (AAFP).

Long-term members of the AAFP were honored at the opening ceremonies of the organization's 37th Annual Convention and Scientific Assembly held at Anaheim, Calif. Oct. 10.

In a speech during the opening ceremonies, AAFP President Robert W. Higgins, M.D., said, "We are here today to pay tribute to a very select group of Academy members who have devoted 25, 30, and 35 years of involvement in the Academy's growth."

The 55,000 member AAFP, headquartered in Kansas City, Mo., was instrumental in establishing the medical specialty of family practice in 1969. It also was a pioneer in continuing medical education (CME), requiring its members to maintain 150 hours of approved CME credit every three years.

BSP Chapter To Host Luncheon, Fashion Show

Members of Xi Epsilon Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi held a model meeting Tuesday night at the home of Nancy Hack.

Guests were Debbie Towns and Lorraine Coy. A regular business meeting was held and plans were made for the fall portion of the year.

The chapter plans to have a Costume Halloween party hosted by Greg and Nancy Hack on Oct. 26. The following Saturday, Nov. 2, brings about the annual All Chapter Luncheon, which is being held at the Gas Light Super Club in downtown Sanford.

Xi Epsilon Sigma is hosting the luncheon and luncheon coordinator Cheryl Burch has planned a luxury fashion show which promises to introduce many of the latest fashions and luxury items available in the Sanford area.

On Nov. 19 the chapter plans to attend a program on "Osteoporosis" being hosted by Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford.

The meeting was concluded with refreshments and a short program on "How to Work With Fake Fur," given by Millie Gilbert.

HOROSCOPES

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
OCTOBER 12, 1985
Exciting and happy changes are in store for you in the year ahead where your social life is concerned. You will become actively involved with several new groups.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Lady Luck will be rooting for you today where an affair of the heart is concerned. She'll also be doing her best to help you financially. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't read negative elements into a questionable situation today. It's going to work out advantageously in a manner you'd least expect.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Someone might try to pass on gossip today about a friend of yours. Onlookers will admire the way you hack it down before it can be spread.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Overall conditions will be taking a turn for the better today and you could now be lucky in several areas that previously caused you problems.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Have faith in your ideas and abilities today. Don't be influenced by negative thinkers who would have you believe you can't do that to which you aspire.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Owing to a beneficial change in circumstances, it looks like you might receive even more than you anticipate in a collective venture that you have going with another.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your most fortunate arrangements today are likely to be those which involve partners or require some form of teamwork.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

OCTOBER 13, 1985
In the year ahead you will enter into two unusual partnership arrangements. These associations will be formed to promote something unique. The alliances will prove successful.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) The course you now set for yourself will be the one you're going to be following for some time to come.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) As of today you're going to be in a unique position where you can gain material benefits, not by self-seeking, but by trying to help others as you help yourself.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're now in a favorable cycle to begin new projects or ventures, especially if they introduce unusual products or procedures.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Up until now conditions have not been ripe for you to fulfill an ambition you've been harboring. This will all change as of today.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Recently it may seem that all the breaks you were hoping for have gone to the other guy. However, the wheel has turned and your lucky number will be coming up.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Conditions are stirring today that could favorably affect your career. Pounce upon every opportunity that is offered you, regardless of the source.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Things could work out happily for you today in your social realm, but you might not be equally as lucky in areas where you take foolish financial risks.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A domestic matter that presently appears muddled and confused will be corrected today. Just be patient and wait for the fog to lift.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today's events may put your positive thinking to a test. However, if you don't lose your visions of victory, you'll come out fine.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Prudence dictates that you focus your imagination and efforts upon materially profitable areas today, not upon activities where you spend your money.

bonding agent to draw you closer to someone you know casually. Soon you will become inseparable friends.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Because of an unexpected shift in conditions, you're going to reverse your position on something about which you've been unrelenting. It'll be for the good.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Instead of going to your usual haunts today, explore some untried places. There's a chance you'll find a new favorite spot.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) An opportunity may be dropped in your lap today that will enable you to increase your income or holdings. However, it must be acted upon without delay.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
"Never say never" applies to the vicissitudes of bridge as well as to those of life. Leading trumps against a small slam contract is one of the no-nos of bridge, but there are exceptions, as today's deal demonstrates.

Even a novice would know from the bidding that South had two very long suits. Normally, the defenders would lead their winners, forcing declarer to shorten his trump holding, and they would wait patiently for their tricks to come in. West, particularly, might hope to do some good with his heart queen. But this was not a normal situation. For one thing, West had some spade winners which couldn't score if declarer trumped them in dummy. If partner had the heart king, the queen would best be used to take a round of trumps, cutting down on dummy's ruffing power. And so the fine opening lead of a low trump.

Leading a trump was not all there was to it. Declarer played low, won the heart eight with the nine, and shot back a low spade. Now West had to squander his jack to hold the trick. Otherwise, poor East would win the 10 and have no more hearts to play. If, instead of a trump, West tries the mundane lead of the diamond jack, he will have the unhappy experience of seeing the opponents score a doubled slam with only 12 high-card points in the combined hands.

The lesson is simple. Lead trumps when the bidding and your own cards tell you that your side has all the other suits well in control. Here West's spade holding was the tip-off to the right defense.

American Cuisine Emerges

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Kenneth Dunn puts wheat berries in his midwestern Jambalaya dish while Louis Osteen is creating ways to use South Carolina rice with home-grown crawfish and seafood specialties.

The chefs, from different parts of the country, were in San Francisco recently for a gathering of food-related professionals at the Symposium on American Cuisine — a group dedicated to the evolution of cooking traditional dishes using regional flavors.

Osteen, the chef and co-owner of Pawley's Island Inn in South Carolina, said when he entered the business four years ago, he talked to a lot of cooks in the finer restaurants and they were usually French, Greek or Italian.

"All of them, to a person, downgraded our food in America," Osteen said. "At first I was intimidated by all this, but those days are gone forever. We now have an emerging American cuisine and it's emerging on a regional basis."

He said some ingredients are flown in from Chicago and California suppliers, but "by and large we're getting what we need from our own backyard," including rice from local growers.

Pawley's Inn, he said, gets fresh fish right off the boats and the restaurant offers an alternative to the usual "vat of fat, overcrisp fritter of fish" served in most local eateries.

"There was a market for a better restaurant, and we've worked to produce just that," said Osteen, who also runs a growing crawfish business and is known as the founder of the South Carolina Crawfish Festival.

CRAWFISH AND SAUSAGE GRITS

(Serves 4)

5 pounds whole, fresh crawfish for 1 pound cooked, peeled and coarsely chopped shrimp)
3 cups milk
¾ cup regular grits
½ tsp salt; ½ tsp pepper
½ cup heavy cream.
2 egg yolks
1 pound bulk sausage, cooked and drained
All purpose flour
1 beaten egg
Dry bread crumbs

For Gravy:

¼ cup finely chopped onion
3 Tbsp. each finely chopped carrots, finely chopped celery
¼ cup olive oil
2 garlic cloves, unpeeled
Dash fresh thyme
2 parsley stems
¼ tsp each salt, black pepper and cayenne pepper
1 tomato, peeled, seeded and chopped one-third cup white wine
2 cups chicken stock
1 cup cream
3 Tbsp each butter and peanut oil

Steam whole crawfish about a minute. Cool. Remove heads; reserve for sauce. Peel and coarsely chop tails. Bring milk to boil over moderate heat in heavy saucepan. Add grits, salt and pepper. Stir thoroughly. Bring mixture to boil, reduce heat to low, cover and cook until done (soft and creamy). Cool. Mix cream with egg yolks and pour into grits. Blend thoroughly. Return to heat. Cook over moderate heat 5 minutes more, stirring continuously. Remove from heat, cook 10 minutes and add crawfish and sausage, stirring to blend well.

Pour mixture into lightly greased 5-inch baking pan and smooth to ½-inch thickness. Cover by placing plastic wrap directly on surface of mixture. Cool. Refrigerate several hours or overnight.

When grits are firm, cut into 3-inch strips, then into 3-inch squares. Cut each square diagonally, forming triangles. Coat triangles by dipping first in flour, then beaten egg and then dry bread crumbs. Refrigerate at least 1 hour.

For gravy: Sauté crawfish heads in olive oil over medium heat with onion, carrots and celery. Stir in garlic, thyme, parsley and seasonings until well blended. Add tomato and wine. Reduce by half. Add chicken stock. Simmer partially covered for 30 minutes. Strain sauce through a sieve. Discard solids, reduce liquid to one-third cup. Stir in cream, simmer gently 3 minutes.

To serve: Sauté triangle patties in butter or margarine and peanut oil over moderate heat, turning once until brown on both sides. Drain on paper towel. Place on serving dish. Spoon crawfish saute around patties. Or, serve gravy in separate gravy bowl.

Mr. Chairman

Seminole's Champion For Mass Transportation

Finding a solution to Seminole County's transportation crisis has been the No. 1 goal of Robert Sturm since he was elected chairman of the board of county commissioners last November.

And even though Sturm and his colleagues have put their political futures on the line looking for answers — specifically money — to the traffic problems, they seem to make progress in a painfully slow fashion.

Sturm, 59, was elected to the county commission on his first try for public office in 1978 and was re-elected by a landslide to the county commission in 1982 and his commission seat is up for re-election again in 1986. Though rumors have been circulating for months that he plans to run for a seat in the Florida Legislature he will neither confirm nor deny that possibility. In the meantime, he has named Seminole County Planning and Zoning Board member, Harry Hagle, as campaign chairman in a bid for a third term on the county commission and has intensified his efforts to improve mass transportation in the county and improve the county's administration.

When the Legislature authorized an imposition of a 4-cents-per-gallon gasoline tax three years ago, Sturm was one of the leaders in pushing that tax through despite some opposition.

On Sept. 1 another 2-cents-per-gallon gasoline tax was imposed by the county and that coupled with the 4 cents per is estimated to bring the county about $4 million a year. A voluntary impact fees on new construction by developers is expected to bring in another $2 million annually.

But Sturm says, "That money will finance only about 60 percent of the county's road needs over a period of years. It's just not enough."

Public works Director Larry Sellers has estimated the county right now needs about $100 million worth of new and improved roadways to meet the needs of growth. An advisory committee of some 100 citizens recently completed a study showing that $200 million to $300 million in new roads will be needed in the next decade.

Searching for more money, Sturm went to Tallahassee during the 1985 session of the Florida Legislature begging for authority for the commission to levy a sales tax specifically to finance road needs.

He and commissioners have even looked at designating a property tax solely for transportation, as a last resort, and as Sturm insists "only after a referendum of the people."

The Legislature was not at all

The persuasive faces of County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm

Interested in letting go of its prime source of revenue — the sales tax — Sturm reported upon his return from the state's capital.

And now he and his colleagues are looking for other sources of revenue. Sturm said Seminole County may look at building a causeway over Lake Jesup to take some traffic off other roads before the county gets underway its proposed expressway linking Orange County with Seminole at Dean Road and running all the way to Sanford. The Lake Jesup Bridge is part of the expressway route planned.

The Lake Jesup Bridge would cut off about three miles of travel for persons in east Seminole who want to reach south and north Seminole and perhaps would be feasible with tolls alone as the method of financing, Sturm says.

Another source of revenue, which also would have to be authorized by the Legislature, Sturm says, is an additional license tag fee.

It was also Sturm who gave his time in early July to travel with officials from Orange County to France to look at their newest method of transportation — light rail.

Sturm says he came away from the experience very impressed with the speed and efficiency of the system — it's driverless, it's operation is monitored via personnel on computers and the fares pays 94 percent of the operating costs.

Shops surround the light rail stations and in some cities like Lille, France, the whole town square has been rebuilt to accommodate travelers.

Sturm said the trip from Paris to Lille — about 240 miles — takes about 90 minutes.

"We — Sturm and some of the Orange County officials — went into the cab of the train and took turns guiding it. The right-of-way for the system is about 40 feet wide," he said, noting a system like this could probably be built along the Interstate 4 highway.

Central Florida is probably not ready for light rail yet, Sturm says. But in the future decade Orlando and Orange County may be ready.

Seminole just doesn't have the population density right now to make light rail profitable.

"Light rail is the ultimate to move more people quickly. The trick will be to determine how to fit it into our transportation plans."

"But, one thing for sure," he said, "we cannot afford to continue building roads all over the place."

The county for some years now has been subsidizing bus transportation in Seminole County through the TriCounty Transit Authority as one method of getting some individual cars off the highways.

However, ridership has remained low, Sturm says though that while the county is subsidizing the bus system to the tune of $170,000 a year, those using the bus system are probably being subsidized less by government than are those who travel on the highways, on airlines or on trains.

Another goal of Sturm's over the past year has been a reorganization of county government. "Half of our key people were not with the county a year ago and the many of the other half were in other jobs with the county."

The county administrator, Ken Hooper, was environmental services director. Deputy County Administrator for development, Woody Price, was director of planning. Richard George, now deputy county administrator for administration, was employed with Volusia County government.

Public Works Director Larry Sellers was working in the department. County Engineer Jerry McCollum was not yet with the county.

Sturm and his wife, Peg, make their home at 514 W. Plantation Boulevard in the Forest mobile home community in Lake Mary. Sturm says now he no longer has to worry about mowing the lawn.

Retired from the Sentry Insurance Co. where he worked as an executive for many years, Sturm has four grown daughters, three of whom live in Florida and one in Arkansas, and eight grandchildren. His favorite pastime is going to the beach.

More Cash Pushes Up Inflation

NEW YORK — It is one of the fiercest attack teams ever assembled.

The D-Team was called together hastily last week when President Reagan decided to out-flank protectionist forces by ordering a surprise attack on the dollar. His goal is to focus enough attention on the dollar fight to cause members of Congress to lose interest in putting up even higher trade barriers around U.S. markets.

While reporters were breathlessly recording announcements of the campaign in Washington, the D-Team gathered quietly in its 7th floor headquarters in the gloomy Gray Federal Reserve Bank building in New York.

Fritz Haufmann, the leader of the team and a much-decorated hero of several 1960's campaigns to bring down the West German mark, swallowed a last gulp of coffee and stepped up to a large map of the northern hemisphere. Plastic surgery has failed to mask the indentations on Mr. Haufmann's ears, injuries that resulted from holding telephone receivers too close to his head while barking "sell" orders for the mark.

Mr. Haufmann did not mince words. "Ladies and gentlemen, our mission is simple. The President wants the dollar down, and wants it down now. Our orders are to bring it to its knees, and to do it at all costs. The President is prepared to accept heavy casualties. Is that clear?"

The room was silent, save for the collective drawing-in of breaths.

Irving Tiddle, a part-time accountant from Queens, was the first to break the brittle silence.

"But Herr Haufmann, I mean Commander Haufmann, I thought we were supposed to bring the dollar up," Mr. Tiddle stammered.

"That was in the '70's, when the dollar was falling," Mr. Haufmann snapped. This is the '80's, and it's rising."

"Isn't that good?" Mr. Tiddle asked, nervously adjusting his bow tie. Isn't that what we were all fighting for?"

"That was then. This is now, Tiddle. Whatever is happening to the dollar is bad. Do you read me?"

"Yes Herr Commandant, I mean Mr. Commander, I understand, I mean, I read you loud and clear."

"Good."

Fritz Haufmann drew himself up to his full 5-foot 3-inches in height. He turned slightly, so that the light would show off the marks on his ears. Mr. Haufmann is a legend among currency warriors. His ears are badges of courage.

"Ladies and gentlemen, this campaign will test the best that's in us. We'll have to use the ultimate weapon!"

Members of the team gasped. "You don't mean?" Mr. Tiddle murmured.

"I do, Ladies and gentlemen, we're going to use Mr. V!"

Mr. V, an incredibly tall, bald man wearing a dark suit, stood menacingly at the back of the room. Arms folded defiantly, eager angled upward dangerously, he was a man to be feared.

"Mr. V," the commander continued, "is going to sell dollars. Billions of them."

'Dem Bones' Aren't All Our Bones Any More

UPI Science Editor

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — It may be difficult to believe, but a survey shows nearly two of every three Americans are using artificial body parts.

Dr. John C. Norman tossed that figure out at a recent Johns Hopkins School of Medicine symposium on transplantation to support his hypothesis that it will not be too long before "each and every organ system can be augmented or replaced."

Norman, a heart surgeon who pioneered in the implantation of mechanical blood pumps a few years ago, includes in his count of artificial parts such things as dentures, artificial fingernails, contact lenses and hearing aids as well as more exotic devices such as mechanical arms and hearts.

"Artificial organs, both as augmentation and replacement devices, have a history almost as ancient as that recorded by man," said Norman, a staff member at Newark (N.J.) Beth Israel Medical Center.

The most common prostheses are dentures, bridges, tooth crowns, inlays and other tooth substitutes or restoratives. Norman said the American Dental Association estimated 60 million Americans have some sort of artificial dental device.

He said 15 million women use plastic overlays on their fingernails and 3 million American men augment their hair with toupees or other cover-ups for baldness.

Norman said 15 million Americans also wear contact lenses and an estimated 500,000 have artificial lenses implanted in their eyes. He said scientists are now working on electronic devices to restore vision to the blind.

Five million hearing aids are in use in the United States and 15 million are needed, Norman said. He said 500 patients have benefited, from still-experimental artificial ears and 250,000 others could use such devices.

Joint replacements for arthritis and other ailments are becoming more common and a half million are performed annually in the United States, Norman said, including artificial joints for hips, shoulders, toes, fingers, elbows and knees.

About 100,000 Americans are missing limbs and Norman said limb replacements with electronic devices are beginning to catch on, and scientists are now working on an artificial lung.

For the circulatory system, he said heart valves are installed and about 130 blood pumps are implanted each year to assist weakened hearts. The artificial heart is now supporting two people in the United States.

An estimated 2 million artificial blood vessels have been implanted in Americans and about 500,000 heart pacemakers are in use with 165,000 new ones being installed annually to maintain the proper heart rhythm. Norman said more than 500,000 units of artificial blood, designed to keep patients alive until whole blood is available, are used annually.

Girl Wins Right To Suit Up, Play Football With the Boys

CINCINNATI (UPI) — A federal judge reinstated a female high school student to her school's football team, but whether she will play in a game remains in doubt.

Chulindra Cooks, 18, was ordered reinstated to the Hamilton High School football team by U.S. District Judge Carl B. Rubin Wednesday in a private settlement in the judge's chambers. Miss Cooks had charged she was dismissed from the team last month because she is a girl.

"I still love football," Miss Cooks said following announcement of the settlement. "I'm in condition to go out there and punt in the game Friday." Hamilton plays Princeton, ranked No. 1 in the state in Class AAA, Friday.

According to the suit, Miss Cooks made the team this past summer and played with the team during pre-season practice. She was dismissed four days before the start of the regular season.

Team officials said she was dismissed because she didn't attend a scrimmage game. But Miss Cooks said other male team members did not attend the scrimmage and were not dismissed.

Voters Should OK School Bond Issue

On Oct. 22 Seminole County voters will be asked to support their school district by approving a $100 million bond issue for new school construction and other capital improvements. Voters should turn out in force and put their stamp of approval on the proposal.

So far as we can determine, the funds will be sorely needed in the immediate future and over the coming years to pay for badly needed improvements to 40 of the district's 41 existing schools, as well as for construction of a new elementary school, a new high school and a centralized maintenance center to care for school district equipment.

That the county is growing by leaps and bounds is no secret to anyone, and perhaps one of the more overburdened areas of accommodating such growth is the school system. Right now the school district has more than 200 portable classrooms to help ease overcrowding in schools and more probably will be needed to accommodate the anticipated continued increase in student enrollment. There are no signs that growth pressure will ease in the near future.

So, how to finance the construction of new schools and complete the sorely needed upgrading and expansion of existing schools? Of the various alternatives facing the school district, the $100 million, long-term bond proposal appears to be the least likely to slap property owners in the pocketbook too hard.

(1.) The school district could opt to do nothing and leave things as they are. Having done that, it wouldn't be very long before additional portable classrooms will be needed to accommodate increased student enrollment. In that case, existing schools would continue to deteriorate, and various expansions proposed to enhance the education we provide our children would be near impossible to bring about without dipping into the general fund account or borrowing from private institutions at interest rates which might be palatable today, but which could be disastrous in the future if the loan carries an adjustable interest rate tied to prime. Last year alone the school district had to borrow $1 million to build 50 portable classrooms and it still owes money on that loan.

(2.) Spread the bond issue over six years with an incremental two-year bond referendum that would cost property owners roughly $5 per $1,000 assessed valuation per year tacked onto the existing $1.50 per $1,000 levied for capital improvements. Drawback: Those of us who live here today and pay property taxes or who move into Seminole County over the six-year life of the bond issue would pay the tab. Property owners coming in after the sixth year will not carry their fair share of the burden.

(3.) Approve the $100 million bond issue and pay no more in property taxes above the $1.50 per $1,000 now levied for capital improvements until 1990. At that point, the projection is that property owners will pay an additional $1 to $1.50 per $1,000 for 15 years. Under proposal 2, a person whose home for tax purposes is valued at $20,000 would pay for six years $100 per year above the $1.50 per $1,000 capital improvements tax, or $600. Under proposal 3, the same property owner wouldn't pay more than the $1.50 per $1,000 for capital improvements until 1990, then another, say, $1.50 per $1,000 for 15 years, or, $30 per year for a total of $450. $150 less than proposal 2 would require.

Clearly the mathematics, not to mention the benefits our school children will receive, favor proposal 3. So do we.

They're Shooting Down Wicked Witches

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has gone on record in favor of denying tax exemptions to groups that support witches. Wicked witches, that is.

It's OK, apparently, to promote witchcraft as long as it is benevolent. Tax writeoffs would be prohibited only if "supernatural powers" are used "with malicious intent."

In other words, you could deduct contributions to "Glenda the Good" without so much as raising a senatorial eyebrow. However, any donations to "The Wicked Witch of the West" would be made strictly at your own expense.

That, at least, is the way I interpret an amendment to an appropriations bill offered by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., and approved without debate last month.

Deductions for contributions to religious groups, presumably including those that abet benevolent witches, currently are permitted under the internal revenue code.

Helms' amendment included devil worshippers, who may be any gender you can think of, and defined witchcraft as "the use of powers derived from evil spirits, the use of sorcery or the use of supernatural powers with malicious intent."

He did not make clear whether witches included males but male witches are known as sorcerers and warlocks. Nor was there any explanation of whether the amendment might apply to the Soviet Union, which President Reagan once characterized as an "evil empire."

Take it from me, no witches riding Halloween broomsticks have nuclear warheads. So they would not be included in Reagan's "Star Wars" defense plan.

When I made an effort to find out where the House stood on the witchcraft issue, I was told some congressmen might be involved in a conflict of interest.

Perhaps it would be better for the House merely to reaffirm that wicked witchcraft had nothing to do with the recent disappearance of the black dots from its portion of the Congressional Record.

Printers call these markings, once used to designate all non-oral congressional statements, as "bullets." When I first noticed they were missing from the House transcript I assumed some over-zealous congressman not only had bitten the bullet but swallowed it as well.

I was told, however, that under new House rules, orations and remarks never actually spoken on the floor are reproduced in boldface type. If a lawmaker really says something, rather than submit unspoken words for publication, it is printed in a lighter typeface.

In the Senate section of the Record, bullets still "identify statements or insertions which are not spoken." And in the Appendix, where both chambers may extend remarks with afterthoughts, secondguesses, hometown poems and the like, both bullets and boldface are used.

Casual readers of the Record might get the idea that black magic is involved in the ability of congressmen to deliver congressional speeches while some place else, perhaps off on a junket.

With bullets and boldface type, however, anything is possible.

WILLIAM RUSHER

Sitting Through A Quake

TOKYO — For many years I have visited various earthquake-prone areas of the globe without ever managing to be on the spot when one of these exotic events occurred. Californians and Japanese seem to take them for granted, cheerfully reminiscing about the great majority that do no particular harm and clucking their tongues over such disasters as the recent "killer quake" in Mexico City.

I often tried to imagine what an earthquake would feel like, and how I would react. Several times when I have been in one of the known "danger zones" a news report would assert that a tremor had been felt at such-and-such a time; but as luck would have it I was always asleep, or somehow just didn't notice it.

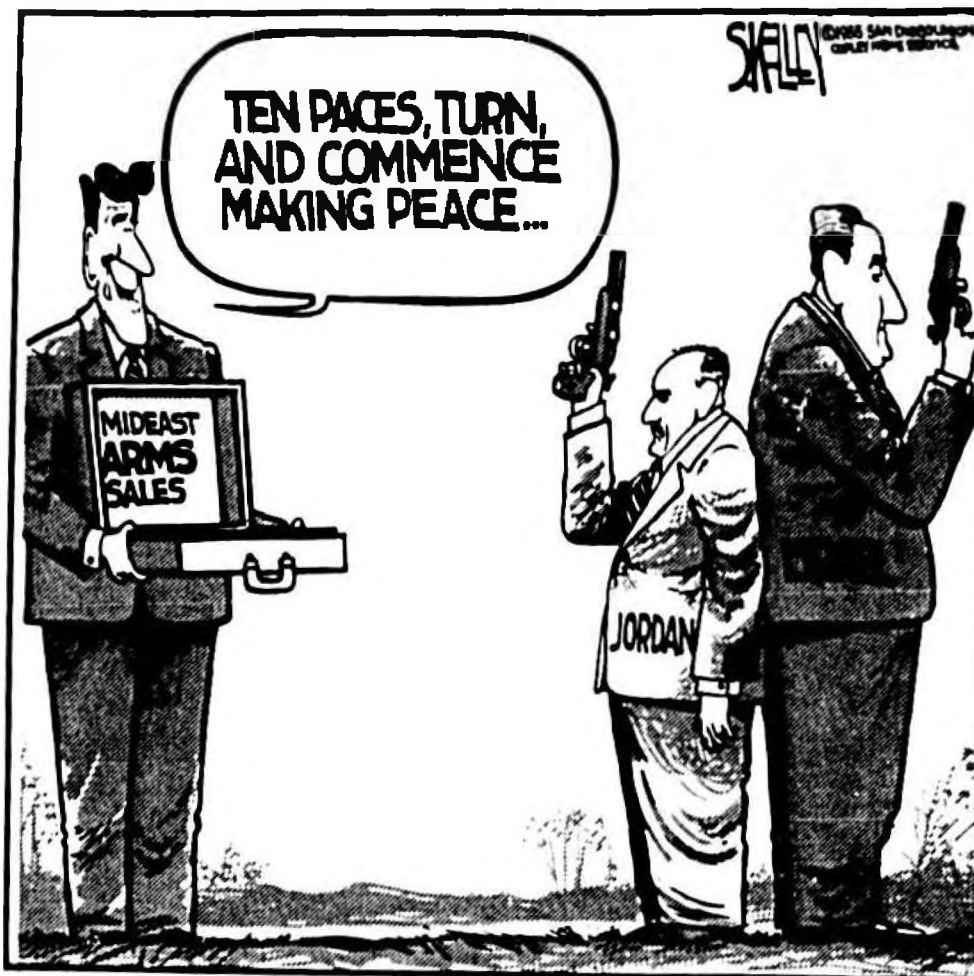

Now, however, I am an expert, having been in Tokyo at 9:26 on the evening of Oct. 4. That was when the Japanese capital was struck by what seismologists later declared was the sharpest earthquake to hit the city in 56 years. According to them, it measured 5 out of a possible 7 points on the Japanese earthquake scale, and 6.2 on the open-ended Richter scale.

Questioning Japanese friends immediately afterward, before the scientists weighed in, I got a somewhat different reading. Asked to classify this particular quake, on the basis of their own previous experience, as "small," "medium" or "large," they almost unanimously described it as only "medium-large." Probably a lot depends on exactly where you happen to be when the quake hits.

I was comfortably seated on a bar stool in the cocktail lounge of my Tokyo hotel, having an after-dinner cognac, when the God of Earthquakes finally decided to put on his act for me. The lounge is slightly below ground level (the hotel is built on a gentle slope), so I was spared the sensation of swaying, which is often experienced on the upper floors of skyscrapers. On the other hand, I was well positioned to feel what was going on in the ground itself.

The basic sensation was that the entire room was wobbling — gently and irregularly, but decisively and persistently. This way and that, this w — no, that way again — with perhaps a little up-and-down motion thrown in for good measure. No rumble — at least, none that I could hear; just that disconcerting wobble.

Within seconds, everybody in the lounge knew what was happening and all conversation stopped.

RUSTY BROWN

Some History Lessons

It was the time of miniskirts and low heels. People were biting their nails reading "The Boston Strangler." Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway were "Bonnie and Clyde." Saunas were something new: hospital rooms cost $47 a day.

It was 1967. Hard to believe, that was nearly 20 years ago.

A friend who haunts antique shops brought me a copy of the February 1967 Ladies Home Journal. "You're going to be fascinated with the articles," she said. She was right.

It's difficult to believe how much women have changed and how little the world has changed around them. In the magazine, the recipes, diet and decorating features were as they are today. Yet some of the topics were surprising.

For example, 500 women had written in, telling how they beat boredom as housewives. The letters were in response to an earlier article by a bored housewife asking for help. Most writers encouraged her to develop more interests "within" the home, including reading.

One woman told how she bought a camera and began keeping an elaborate family photo album. "This project can last a lifetime," she wrote, adding that she also sewed hostess gowns. "It doesn't take much money for materials and they provide hours of sewing time."

Another 1967 woman wrote that seldom in the past had the urban wife had so little contact with other adults. "But we can't change society," she continued, "so we have to change ourselves."

And change we did. I don't think I know a single bored housewife today. For one thing, half of them have gone to work. Those who are at home are raising money for the orchestra, going back to school, pumping iron or running for the school board. All while taking care of children and house, of course. Business is in: boredom is out.

A major article in the 1967 magazine was triumphantly titled "The Battle of the Sexes is Over. Who Won? We Did." A somewhat premature judgment, from the hindsight of passing years.

The article begins, "Women never had it so good," and goes on to quote supporting comments of 10 distinguished speakers who participated in a panel on "the role of women."

One was Dr. Bruno Bettelheim, psychiatrist and author, who said employers would have to provide "shorter working days for mothers, a closer working to home, and considerable flexibility of working hours — a flexibility that permits them to absent themselves from work when the child needs them."

His recommendations, however, have been largely ignored by the corporate world. Very few companies make such generous accommodations for today's 20 million working mothers.

Another panelist, attorney Harriet Pilpel, said women were actually "more equal" than men in their legal rights:

Is Panda Really A Bear?

By Jan Ziegler
UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A bear is a bear is a bear. Unless it's a panda.

It may never have crossed your mind that Ling-Ling and Hsing-Hsing, the famous giant pandas that charm visitors at the National Zoo, may be members of the raccoon family. But it has been an issue among scientists for more than a century.

The question is whether giant pandas should belong to either of the families, or if they should have a family of their own in the vast system of scientific classification that has a label for just about every animal in the world.

Giant pandas, according to Stephen J. O'Brien, a research associate at the zoo, have been grouped with bears since their discovery by the Western world in the 1860s.

However, they have un-bearlike characteristics. Giant pandas are vegetarian, consuming mostly bamboo. Their forequarters are huge, rear quarters relatively small. In bears, although some have huge forequarters, rears are generally not as reduced.

"Finally, the giant panda does not behave like a bear," O'Brien and colleagues wrote in the scientific journal Nature. "Most bears hibernate, the giant panda does not; bears roar, whereas the giant panda bleats."

The raccoon faction has argued that because of its skull and tooth structure, markings and other characteristics, the giant panda belongs in the same family from which raccoons and the lesser or red panda, which really does look like a raccoon, diverged millions of years ago.

To put the matter to rest, the National Zoo researchers called on the powers of genetic technology. They took some cell samples from a raccoon, a giant panda, a lesser panda and a trio of Bruins: one American brown bear, a spectacled bear and a Maylayan sun bear.

Running the samples through three molecular tests that would reveal gene structure, they found the genetic similarities between bears and giant pandas far exceeded the number and extent of differences.

On the family tree, the bear group and procyonid group, to which the lesser panda belongs, probably split from a single ancestor line about 30 million to 50 million years ago.

Lugar, Kennedy Still Feuding

By Jack Anderson

The hard feelings between Sens. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., and Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., over South Africa are still chafing more than a month after Lugar blocked a vote on economic sanctions by simply walking off with the conference report that was to have been the subject of the vote.

Lugar and the Republicans claim that he had a perfect right to abscond with the document, because he is chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee. And besides, they claim, they learned the little parliamentary trick from the Democrats.

But Kennedy was steaming at a subsequent meeting of the Democratic Caucus, demanding that steps be taken to prevent any future report-napping. Other members noted that, while the debate over South Africa ended for the moment when President Reagan ordered sanctions, there is still nothing to prevent a committee chairman from pulling a sneak attack like Lugar's to block a vote on any issue.

Minority Leader Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., asked for a rule change to curb committee chairmen's pocket prerogative. With control of the Senate in doubt next year, the rule just might be changed with GOP help.

Meanwhile, Lugar quietly returned the official copy of the conference report to its proper place on the Senate floor.

FEUD OF THE WEEK: Personal animosities die hard in the Middle East, where memories are long and politicians play hardball. Israeli intelligence has long believed that the mutual disaffection between Palestine Liberation Organization chief Yasser Arafat and Syrian dictator Hafez Assad is as much personal as political. U.S. intelligence sources think both men are pragmatists first, but acknowledge that they undoubtedly detest each other. Whatever the truth of the situation, Assad has done his best to dismantle the PLO remnants that Arafat left behind in Lebanon, while Arafat is now working diligently to reach an understanding with Assad's U.S. and Jordanian enemies.

CONFIDENTIAL FILE: As part of the national atonement for Nazi aggression, the West German government has made it a strict policy not to allow arms sales to countries in a state of war. It includes Saudi Arabia in this category, since the Saudis have been technically at war with Israel since 1948. Recently, the Saudis have made a major effort to talk West Germany out of its arms embargo so they can buy state-of-the-art German technology. If Bonn agreed, of course, it would evoke odious memories of Hitler's Holocaust. So far, the West

TASTE IN THE PENTAGON: Assistant Defense Secretary Richard Perle is nobody's fool. When he filled out the routine "trivia questionnaire" for newsworthy officials, he evidently wanted to discourage reporters from inviting him out for a burger and a beer. He listed his favorite food as "fresh beluga caviar," his favorite wine as "Romance Conti" and his entree of choice as "grilled breast of duck." In the same sly vein, Perle listed his favorite game as "politics" and his favorite saying as, "We hold these truths to be self evident (and so on)."

UNDER THE DOME: Rep. Ken Gray, D-Ill., got stuck with a bundle of unused tickets to Inauguration festivities last January, and paid the $3,283.20 bill out of his own pocket — temporarily. He was then reimbursed from his campaign fund.

Energy: Making Hard Choices In A Democracy

Taking Care
Cheryl Jensen

Freedoms Foundation Features
It is a matter of routine for us. We flick and switch and a light bulb illuminates the room. Push a button and an appliance or piece of industrial machinery comes to life.

Our expectation is that the electric power necessary to operate the marvels of our modern existence will be there when we need it, for as long as we need it. However, recent reports from the electric utility industry, the Department of Energy and others challenge our complacent attitude.

According to the experts, the United States could face shortage in electric power as early as 1991. These predictions are based on projected average growth in the demand for electricity of 2 1/2 percent a year, low by historic standards. Furthermore, shortages could occur despite the fact that 131 gigawatts (billion watts) of new generating capacity is planned to come on line between 1984 and 1993.

The obvious response is to build even more generating capacity. Unfortunately, it's not that easy.

One problem is economic. Generating plants are expensive. Planning and construction costs can range from a few hundred million to over a billion dollars. Because of the costs, utilities must build slowly, so that new generating capacity keeps pace with but doesn't exceed demand.

The other critical question is fuel — what energy source is to be converted to electricity? Because of the uncertainties of costs associated with it, nuclear power is, at least for the present, an unattractive option. Oil and natural gas have attractive qualities, but the uncertainty of long term supplies makes it too risky to build plants to burn these fuels. Nonconventional generating technologies such as wind power, geothermal and solar are not sufficiently advanced to offer a cost effective solution to the needs of the decade.

And so, most indicators point to coal as the fuel of choice. It is relatively inexpensive and abundant supplies exist within the United States.

But coal has its problems too. Current coal technology is based on large scale plants, larger than cost-conscious utilities wish to build, and coal is a dirty fuel to burn. Current environmental safeguards, particularly flue gas scrubbers, are costly. Environmental controls can account for one-third of the construction cost and one-half of the operating costs of a conventional coal plant. The sludge created by scrubbers poses another waste disposal problem.

Do we find ourselves perched on the horns of a dilemma? Perhaps not. Solutions may be found in a series of research programs that can be grouped under the broad heading of Clean Coal Technologies. The approaches range from washing impurities out of coal to finding cleaner and more efficient ways of burning it.

The latter category shows particular promise. These technologies bear exotic names — atmospheric fluidized bed combustion, pressurized fluidized bed, coal gasification combined cycle — and vary in technique, but they share three advantages over present technology:

- Modularity — plant components can be built in the factory and erected at the plant site, thereby reducing construction time and costs. New generating capacity can be added to existing plant in increments, allowing utilities to better adjust capacity to demand.

- Flue Flexibility — Coal varies in composition from region to region. Conventional plants are usually designed to accommodate a specific type of coal. The newer technologies permit burning of a wide range of fuels, allowing utilities to cut costs by purchasing the cheapest fuel available.

- Environmental Benefits — research indicates that these new technologies offer better emissions control and at a lower cost than existing approaches.

The remaining hurdle is to move this technology the last mile from idea to functioning commercial reality. Some, such as the Cool Water coal gasification project in California, are close to that point now. Others are not as far advanced on the development path.

The process — building pilot and demonstration plants — is costly. Because regulated utilities, unlike most entrepreneurs, are less able to recover development costs through profits on successful technologies, the industry is asking the federal government to underwrite some of the development costs.

Last year, Congress created the Clean Coal Technology Reserved and authorized $750 million to support research in this area. However, the Congress and the Dept. of Energy have a difference of opinion over the proper role of the federal government in technology development, and the funds have not yet been appropriated.

The time has come for Congress and DOE to iron out their differences and make some hard decisions. The problem is very real and the interval for dealing with it grows shorter.

Rail System Should Use Existing Tracks

We oppose the proposed $611 million French MATRA-VAL automated guideway system for the Southwest tourist corridor to be financed largely by Orange County taxpayers. An entire mass transit rail beltway connecting Seminole, Orange and Osceola Counties can be put in place for far less money than that and use existing Seaboard track (and other secondary track) as the system's backbone.

New track could later be added to form a large beltway around metropolitan Orlando linking the tri-county area with short commuter trains. The main line from Sanford south to the junction of I-4 and Highway 192 in Osceola would have more than two dozen station stops to offer maximum access for riders. The trip from Lake Mary to Disney World would take (approx.) 60 minutes.

We believe such a system could be developed working with the Seaboard Coastline and using a special commuter train car developed for this type service by a Philadelphia company.

'The Friendly City'

The large sign in the lobby of the police station says "Sanford — The Friendly City."

We agree.
On Friday we were leaving Sanford on Rt. 46. The radiator in my car gave up. A man living on the road came out and gave us much help. A pest control truck stopped and he gave us help. We got back to Sanford to a radiator company, who repaired temporarily, at a low cost, so we could get back home. Thank you to all.

Celebrity Dinner To Benefit Foundation

A couple of months ago I was approached by the Deborah Hospital Foundation, a charity specializing in heart operations for the needy. The charity exists solely because of the work of 52,000 members who solicit funds throughout the United States. Their budget this year is $45 million.

Recently Sam Dick of Channel 2 did a special on Deborah illustrating its 155-bed hospital and followed the story of a retired and destitute Orlando nurse in need of several heart operations. Deborah came to her aid and performed about $60,000 worth of operations at no charge. She is doing well now.

An additional accolade for the organization is that Governor Graham has proclaimed October to be Deborah month in Florida.

The purpose of this letter is to inform you of Deborah and advise that Flakey Jake's restaurant, 6460 International Drive, is hosting a celebrity dinner for Deborah on November 10. The dinner will feature many local celebrities, with live programming from WKIS and commentary by Gene Burns. Any organization may help. An example would be to purchase tickets for the event. The tickets are $10 per person and include a complete meal. At least one-half of the ticket price will go to Deborah.

Seminole $100 Million Bond Issue Vital

There comes a time in every growing community when citizens decide their children's educational needs are critical enough to tax themselves more to provide essential facilities. Seminole County is now at that point. Seminole County Council of PTAs strongly supports the school board resolution for a bond issue. The mushrooming growth in this county has stretched classroom space to a critical limit. New schools and sites are urgently needed. Since it is economically more feasible to add to existing facilities, this bond issue will provide new classrooms for most of our schools.

Seminole County Council of PTAs has long been concerned with the disparity of facilities for Seminole County students. In the last growth spurt, many schools were built in the county that were not complete. They did not have kitchens, cafeterias, auditoriums, or gymnasiums. This bond issue will provide funding to complete these schools and to bring even older schools up to physical equity with our newer facilities.

This bond issue has been well structured so that there will be minimum tax impact on current taxpayers. New property owners for the next 20 years will help pay for the construction that they have made necessary.

In a time when difficult decisions must be made, the school board's resolution for a $100 million bond issue was a courageous, well-reasoned solution. We strongly support it and hope that this resolution will be approved by the voters.

What Newspapers Across The Nation Are Saying

Nixon Sheds Trappings Of Imperial President

By United Press International
The Boston Globe

In 1953, when he returned to Independence, Mo., Harry Truman was asked by reporters what was the first thing he would do as ex-president. Truman pondered a second, then said, "Take the valises to the attic."

Since the ex-presidency has recently become an imperial institution, it is refreshing to see one former chief executive shedding some of its royal excesses. Richard Nixon has given up his US Secret Service protection and now has a smaller, private detail of bodyguards, described by a spokesman as "being substantial to his needs."

Keeping 24 agents round-the-clock cost the taxpayers $3 million annually. ... President Reagan's hero, Calvin Coolidge ... opposed pensions and other emoluments for ex-presidents for sound reason that may have animated Richard Nixon and should inspire Ronald Reagan. "We draw our presidents from the people," he said. "It is a wholesome thing for them to return to the people."

New York Daily News

The 1979 peace treaty between Israel and Egypt barred Egyptian soldiers from parts of the Sinai Desert. Egypt insists that the killer of seven Israelis on a Sinai beach Saturday was a deranged policeman.

Israel disputes that. It charges that the gunman was a soldier and that Egypt must, therefore, be cited for not abiding by its pledge to keep its army out of that area.

The treaty issue aside, it's apparent that the Egyptians acted irresponsibly after the seven were hit by gunfire. Israeli physicians are said to have been kept away from the scene by Egyptians, raising the possibility that those who were wounded might have been saved with prompt medical attention. ...

The Egyptian government owes the world a full accounting of the circumstances — and the Israelis a solemn pledge to prevent any more such slaughter.

Columbia, S.C., State

The U.S. Supreme Court hit the ground running Monday, opening its 1985-86 term by hearing arguments in a case presenting a new and thorny question.

In 1963-64, the activist Warren Court boldly marched into a political thicket by ruling that election districts must contain substantially equal populations — the famous one-man, one-vote principle that has caused so many legislative and judicial battles ever since. ...

Before the equal population rule was laid down, legislatures tended to draw district lines so as to preserve community boundaries and to group constituencies with similar interests and concerns ... leaving rapidly growing urban areas underrepresented and rural officeholders largely in control of legislative and congressional delegations

... in curing this ailment, the court caused a new one. With the help of computers, legislators found it easy to create districts of equal population by ignoring city and county lines ... to favor one party over the other — the ancient and dishonorable practice of gerrymandering.

Detroit Free Press

As a political act, the president's Star Wars speech of March 23, 1963, was a brilliant stroke. By ... appealing to the abhorrence of many people for the Mutual Assured Destruction (MAD) doctrine, Mr. Reagan ... seemed to promise a move away from the balance of terror. If we could shift from offensive to defensive weapons systems, we could cease, he argued, to be dependent on the threat of mutual annihilation as our principal barrier to nuclear war. ...

The problem with the president's initiative is that almost no one really believes that the kind of 100 percent effective shield the president has advocated can be built. ...

The point is not whether we can overcome the technical problems of making such a system work ... The more pertinent point is whether, even if successful, Star Wars could really make our dependence on offensive weapons obsolete.

For pure selflessness, you'd have to go some to top Kenneth and Sue Massey of rural Dodgeville, the struggling farm family whose emotional appeal for help was broadcast during the recent FarmAid concert.

As part of the benefit, a member of the country band Alabama read a letter written by Sue Massey in which she described her family's desperate battle to hang on to their land. Not surprisingly, the couple and their five children have since been overwhelmed with donations, ranging from $1 to hundreds.

Yet the grateful Masseys, aware that foreclosure is imminent, nonetheless are refusing the contributions, explaining that their intention was to publicize the plight of family farmers — not to rescue themselves. ... All donations are being turned over to the FarmAid enterprise.

... If their farm is sold, the Masseys will have lost something very precious to them. But they will have gained ... the knowledge that they have bought some time for other farmers to do what they — and the Masseys — love so well.

Lebanon isn't safe for anyone. Now the Soviets, like everyone else, know that. The kidnappings of four Soviet citizens in Beirut, and the killing of at least one, make clear that Russians have no special immunity in a city where it is dangerous for Westerners to even walk the streets.

The four were the first Soviet citizens known to have been kidnapped in the capital that is suffering through its 11th year of a multisided civil war in which today's allies are tomorrow's enemies and vice versa.

The White House denounced the abductions as "an act of terrorism" that underscores the need for concerted anti-terrorist action by all nations. It was a prompt and proper reaction.

Jewish Community Center Has Program For Special Children

As a community service the Jewish Community Center of Central Florida located at 851 N. Mattland Ave., Mattland, is again sponsoring a "Special Needs" program for exceptional young people with varying disabilities.

This unique social experience, which includes crafts, music, sports, cooking and field trips, is professionally supervised by trained special education staff, plus trained volunteers.

The program was begun by Barbara Chasnov, a JCC board member and special education teacher in the public school system. This year the group meets on Thursday from 4-5 p.m. and will be led by Melissa Boguslawski, a certified occupational therapist with a background of working with special children.

The Special Needs program is open to the entire community without regard to center membership. A nominal fee is charged to offset activity and staff costs. For further information, contact Stacy Lavson, JCC youth director, or Kim Lanweiler, program director at 645-5933.

Sanford Hosts Bible Institute

First and second terms of the Florida Bible Training Institute will be held for the second year at the Church of God of Prophecy, 2509 S. Elm Ave. It will begin Monday and run through Oct. 29 at 6 p.m. each night.

The teachers will be Bishop Ray C. Wynn, general superintendent of Bible Training Institute, Cleveland, Tenn.; Bishop A.J. Coalter, state overseer of Florida and Bishop Eldon J. Lewis of Jacksonville.

Bishop Steve L. Gilmer of Sanford, host pastor, is the principal. The classes are on the Bible, Business and Doctrine.

Women's Aglow Retreat

Cathy Lechner, inspirational songwriter, musician and evangelist, will be the main speaker at the Women's Aglow Fellowships' Fall Retreat at the Americana Dutch Resort at Walt Disney World Shopping Village, Friday through Sunday Oct. 20. Barbara Martin, talk show hostess and writer, will speak at the Saturday Brunch. A workshop on inner and outer beauty is planned for Saturday afternoon.

Women's Aglow chapters are nondenominational Christian fellowships open to all women.

Fees for the retreat, including brunch and meetings, are $25 for members and $30 for non-members. For more information or registration, call Eleanor Andrews at (305) 894-1627.

Fall Festival Scheduled

The Episcopal Church Women of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford, will hold their annual Fall Festival Thursday from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. in the parish hall. There will be a sit-down luncheon served 11:30 a.m. to 2 p.m. in addition to a yard sale, Merrie Merchants' crafts, and Kountry Kitchen baked goods.

Deltona Church Holds Festival

Our Lady of the Lakes Catholic Church will hold its Deltona Fall Festival Oct. 25-27 on the church grounds. The festival will open at 10 a.m. Friday and Saturday and at 9 a.m. on Sunday.

Festivities include games, country store, bingo, sidewalk cafe, greenhouse, bake sale and trash 'n' treasures.

A roast beef dinner will be served 4:30-6:30 p.m., Saturday; Salisbury steak, 4:30-6:30 p.m., Sunday; and pancakes and sausage, 9 a.m. to 1 p.m., Sunday. The grand prize drawing will be on Sunday at 9 p.m.

Pastor Celebrates 10th Year

Bill Marr is celebrating his 10th anniversary as pastor of the First Baptist Church of Oviedo. During the past 10 years the church has grown from a membership of 283 to 763 and is now in the midst of a building program which includes a large sanctuary, fellowship hall and music suite.

Richard Brown Is Guest Speaker

The Rev. Richard S. Brown, director of pastoral care and counseling at First Presbyterian Church of Mattland, will be the guest speaker at the Congregational Christian Church, 2401 S. Park Ave., Sanford at the 11 a.m. service this Sunday. The church is located at

He is an ordained minister in the United Presbyterian Church and received his master of divinity degree from Princeton Theological Seminary and master's in theology and pastoral counseling from Union Theological Seminary.

Reaffirming Marriage

Ascension Lutheran Church, Casselberry, will have an emphasis on marriage this Sunday when couples will have the opportunity to renew their wedding vows at the 8 a.m. and 10:30 a.m. services. The Rev. Gerald Seaman will speak on reaffirming marriage — Saying Yes to Marriage. Those who have been married 50 or more years will be honored at the second service when the women will be presented with corsages and the men boutonnières. They will have an opportunity to tell how long they have been married and when and where the ceremony took place.

Pastor Back In Pulpit

Prairie Lake Baptist Church, 415 Ridge Road, Fern Park, will have a "Friend Day" on Sunday Oct. 27 beginning at 9:45 a.m. Pastor Jimmy Johnson will be returning to the pulpit for the first time since his recent open heart surgery. Special music will be presented by The Johnson Four. Dinner will be served after the morning service in fellowship hall.

Sounds Of The Season

Altamonte Mall is now accepting registrations for the Sounds of the Season Christmas Choral performances to begin Dec. 2 and run through Dec. 21. Show times will be Monday through Friday, 7 p.m., and Saturdays and Sundays at 1 and 3 p.m. Those wishing to participate in this annual event can contact the Altamonte Mall Marketing Department at 830-4400.

Holy Communion Observed

Holy Communion will be celebrated this Sunday at the 8 a.m. service at Messiah Lutheran Church, 2610 S. Highway 17-92, Casselberry. Services are also held at 11 a.m.

Golden Years Fellowship

The Golden Years Fellowship luncheon will be held Wednesday at noon in the fellowship hall of Community United Methodist Church, Casselberry. The program will be presented by the Humane Society of Seminole County.

Korean Minister To Speak

The Rev. John Hong of Korea will be the Mission Sunday speaker at Community United Methodist Church, Casselberry, this Sunday at the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services. He is currently studying for his doctor of theology degree at Boston University School of Theology. He received his master's in religion and theology from Asbury College in Wilmore, Ky., and has served as pastor and as a missionary to Thailand. He was associate director for Total Impact Evangelism for OMS International for 10 years.

Jail Ministry

World Council Meeting Seeks Unity Among Churches On Matters Of Faith

By David E. Anderson
UPI Religion Writer

The World Council of Churches' Commission on Faith and Order — the often overlooked church unity group within the international Christian agency — has announced that the Fifth World Conference on Faith and Order will be held in March 1989.

It will be the first such meeting in more than a quarter of a century and underscores a new, somewhat heady sense of optimism that now permeates through the ecumenical community.

But it is an optimism tempered by large doses of realism and the knowledge, not so readily apparent in Montreal, Canada in 1963, that the road to doctrinal agreement among the world's divided Christians is a long and difficult one.

The 120-member commission, including a dozen Vatican-named theologians and representatives from other churches who are not part of the World Council of Churches, is often called the world's most comprehensive theological forum.

Its most recent work was issuing of the precedent-shattering statement "Baptism, Eucharist and Ministry," a comprehensive effort to restate three of the essential doctrines of the Christian faith.

Approved in 1982, the statement has been sent to the world's church bodies for study, asking the churches whether they find their faith adequately expressed in the document.

John Deschner, moderator of the commission and a professor at the Perkins School of Theology, Dallas, Texas, said official responses have been received from more than 40 church bodies and the results are "surprisingly positive."

The commission, in its report to the World Council's Central Committee meeting earlier this year, said the process of study and dialogue sparked by the statement "represents an ecumenical event of such dimensions which, at the moment, can only partially be recognized and evaluated and which nobody who was present when the document was accepted at Lima dared to predict or expect."

It has already been translated into nearly 30 languages and council officials estimate that over 300,000 copies have been printed so far.

According to the commission, of the responses received to date, the agreement with the sections on baptism and eucharist (holy communion) "is surprisingly broad while, as was expected by many, most of the critical questions are addressed to the section on the ministry."

"A more consistent development of the relation between the ordained ministry and the ministry of the whole People of God throughout the section on ministry has also been requested," the commission said.

One of the tasks of the 1989 meeting will be to evaluate the responses to the statement.

Sins Of Clergy Shock To Their Flock

More shocking even than the drug scandal in baseball are reports linking various members of the clergy to child abuse, sexual harassment or murder.

A 35-year-old Missouri Synod pastor in Emporia, Kan., has been convicted of first-degree murder in the death of his wife. He already is serving time in prison for trying to arrange the murder of the husband of the church secretary, allegedly so he would be free to marry her.

A United Methodist minister in Baltimore recently went on trial before a church court on sexual harassment charges brought by five women. He has been suspended from the ministry for three years.

A Washington Post roundup story of sex-abuse cases involving children in the Roman Catholic Church says: "A priest in Los Angeles has confessed to sexually molesting at least 15 children... A priest in Portland, Ore., has admitted to sexual involvement with altar boys and students over the last 15 to 20 years... A priest in Boise, Idaho, pleaded guilty to lewd behavior with a minor... Other cases have been reported in Milwaukee, San Diego, Pittsburgh and Bristol, R.I."

An editorial in a Lutheran

Saints And Sinners

newspaper, Perspective, says, "In recent weeks we have received several clippings from local newspapers reporting on Lutheran clergy accused of making sexual advances on adolescents."

The Presbyterian Layman has reprinted an editorial from the publication Pastoral Renewal which says, "Many of us think of pornography as a problem distant from the life of the church. But it is also a pastoral problem and, for many pastoral leaders, a personal problem."

The response of many people to these revelations is that it "only shows that ministers are human like the rest of us."

Even the editorial in Perspective seems to take this understanding line: "We do not want to perpetuate the myth that clergymen are not subject to the same temptations and feelings as other mortals... We can best serve our readers by remind us that clergy are not immune to the pressures and perversions that beset others."

Maybe so. But as youth models and spiritual models, sports heroes and ministers have a higher standard to live up to. We have a right to expect more from them than from "other mortals."

They may be "subject to the same temptations and fallings" as the rest of us, but once they realize they are succumbing to these temptations and fallings, they have a duty to step down from their pedestals. This they have not always done. On the contrary, in the case of some of the accused clergy they appear to have taken advantage of their exalted status to facilitate their illicit behavior.

Writing of a Louisiana priest who has confessed to molesting at least 35 boys from his parishes, a New Orleans newspaperman said he was "a man before whom they saw their parents kneel, a man to whom parent and child alike confessed sins." If he used this authority to "cause those little ones to stumble" into depravity, his sin may be no different from others, but his guilt is greater on that account.

What a sports columnist has said about sports heroes is equally true of ministers. "We want them to be special," he said. "We don't want to think they are like us. There's an overpowering need to set special people apart."

That is true of the way we feel about ministers. They have become like us, whereas we want to think of them as something special, as "not like us."

An article in an Arizona newspaper — not on the subject of clerical immorality — quotes a pastor as saying, "I don't consider myself a pastor in quotes. I'm no better and no worse than anybody else." Other pastors tell their congregations: "We are all ministers. You are no different from me."

Apparently many a modern clergyman is more interested in being accepted as "one of the crowd" than he is in being their spiritual guide.

Outside the pulpit, they merge into the crowd. They become one of us. Hail fellows well met, they talk of many things. But they bring us no word from the mountain.

The influence of the church will continue to decline as long as its ministers would rather be one of the crowd than to stand above the crowd, bidding the rest of us to "come up higher."

Mexican Catholics Support Worker Law

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Roman Catholic hierarchy of Mexico will support a new U.S. immigration law that provides for a "guest worker" program but only if the program extends full benefits and rights to the Mexican workers.

The guest worker provision of the immigration bill, which the Senate passed last month, was on the agenda of a meeting between the Mexican prelates and their U.S. counterparts at the U.S. National Conference of Catholic Bishops offices this week.

Archbishop Sergio Obeso of Xalapa, president of the Mexican bishops conference, said his group supported the guest worker provision but only if workers' "fundamental rights are respected and that their guarantees and protections basic to all American workers be safeguarded."

Recalling Pope John Paul II's comment in his encyclical "Laborem Exercens" that, "Capital should be at the service of labor and not labor at the service of capital," Obeso said:

"Any use of temporary workers placed at a disadvantage with respect to the basic working rights enjoyed by all other workers in the United States would be the very slavery to capital against which we would be firmly opposed."

The bishops also spoke of the devastating Mexican earthquake and said a new spirit of solidarity can be found among the Mexican people.

"The Mexican people seem to have found in the ruins a new self-confidence," said Bishop Jose Esaul Robles of Zamora, vice president of the Mexican conference.

"All of the political, social, economic differences have been put aside," he added. "The only phrase you here in Mexico today is, 'We will go forward, together we will go forward.'"

Obeso also said that because the quake affected the area of Mexico City where much of the nation's administrative offices were located, it could result in "a restructuring of Mexico, a decentralization" of administration.

Mexican history, he said, now "can be divided into two periods — pre-earthquake and post-earthquake."

Journal Of Dissident Writer Smuggled From China Prison

Editor's Note: At midnight on April 10, 1981, leading Chinese dissident Xu Wenli was arrested and jailed, silencing forever his "unofficial" newsletter that had angered leader Deng Xiaoping. Despite imprisonment, however, Xu continued to chronicle the plight of Deng's political critics. His journal was recently smuggled to the West by sympathetic police, and provides a telling glimpse of the plight of Chinese political dissidents.

By SUSAN RUEL
United Press International
In a journal smuggled to the West, a leading Chinese political prisoner tells a Kafkaesque tale of solitary confinement and of hearing the "screams of people being beaten or receiving electric shock."

"I will not kill myself. I will not escape, because I am innocent," writes Xu Wenli, 42, editor of north China's once popular but now defunct unofficial magazine, April Fifth Forum.

"My physical condition is good. I don't have any fatal diseases," says Xu, implying that his death in prison would not be from natural causes.

Xu rose to prominence from 1978 to 1980 during the latest flowering of the Chinese Democracy Movement. His magazine was named for the bloody anti-Mao demonstrations on April 5, 1976.

But he was arrested in 1981 and for the last three years has lived in solitary confinement at Peking No. 1 Prison.

In the 262-page journal written in his cell and titled "My Self-Defense," he says that despite leader Deng Xiaoping's laudable economic reforms, he "makes the same mistakes" as the late Chairman Mao Tse-tung by persecuting dissidents.

"They have not treated me violently but I have heard the screams of people being beaten or receiving electric shocks ... Some appear to have suffered breakdowns," he writes. "I am very afraid of having a breakdown, but for the sake of my wife and child I will not collapse."

In the manuscript, Xu (pronounced "shoe") chronicles his childhood, the founding of his magazine, his arrest, interrogation, trial and imprisonment.

James Fan, a spokesman for China Spring, a New York anti-communist magazine, told United Press International his organization obtained the manuscript through police sympathizers in China's Public Security Bureau.

Xu was fully aware of the disciplinary measures he would face when he arranged to have his journal smuggled to the West, Fan said.

Liu Qing, another editor of April Fifth Forum arrested in 1979, was sentenced to an additional seven years when a manuscript describing his tortured prison experiences was published in the West in 1982.

The authenticity of Xu's notebook, dated December 1984, was vouched for by calligraphy experts and by Emmanuel Bellefroid, a French diplomat who knows Xu. The neat but inelegant calligraphy of the journal is identical to his handwritten articles.

From November 1978 until January 1980, the railway electrician and his staff of 20 cranked out 17 issues of their periodical on a $3.30 mimeograph machine in a squalid 12-by-12 foot cubicle.

The magazine was viewed worldwide as a bellwether of the Chinese Democracy Movement at a time when Chinese were allowed to hang posters expressing their opinions on Peking's Xidan Democracy Wall.

Then Deng, who had encouraged the democratic activists, denounced them as "saboteurs."

Xu was arrested held in-communicado for months. He was interrogated more than 200 times before being tried and sentenced.

"In China, it is easy to be falsely accused for political reasons," Xu writes. "The treatment in a detention center should be better than in a prison, but in fact it is worse."

"Some of those in jail have been staying here for many years and still haven't been charged. They can keep you as long as they want. In China, you are guilty until you prove yourself innocent."

Xu writes that he was detained for 17 months in a black-curtained cell with two other prisoners while awaiting trial.

They shared one cotton padded overcoat, ate boiled vegetables, saw sunlight once or twice a month and were forbidden to read or write.

By implying that they would arrest Xu's wife, the interrogators intimidated him into revealing the location of his 19 notebooks and 21 tapes. Even after he relented he was not allowed to use the material as evidence at his trial.

During the trial, Xu says the prison doctor ordered he be fed a better diet so as to appear healthy in public.

Xu was sentenced to 15 years on charges of "organizing counter-revolutionary groups, disseminating counter-revolutionary propaganda" and trying to "destroy the dictatorship of the (Communist) Party."

Moved to an 18-square-foot solitary cell in September 1982, Xu still was forbidden to receive visitors. He says he talks to guards "so as not to forget how to speak," and looks at the photos of his wife and teenage daughter, Xingxing ("Little Star") he has taped to the wall.

He has been given permission to read and write.

Mao's Emergence As Leader Detailed

The Long March, By Harrison E. Salisbury (Harper & Row, 393 pp., $22.95)

Harrison Salisbury spent 12 years seeking permission from Peking to retrace the route of the Long March and to interview survivors of that miraculous escape by the Chinese communist army a half century ago.

Permission came in 1984 and Salisbury, 76, former newspaperman and a widely traveled author, spent 2½ months following the serpentine 6,000-mile trail that Mao Tse-tung, Chou En-lai and their followers took from southern to northern China in 1934-35.

En route, he interviewed veterans who recalled the hardships, intra-party backstabbing and battles with the forces of Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist army.

The book purportedly is the most detailed account of the march. But it is an account of an enormously complex venture, both politically and militarily, and turning such material into entertaining prose is not easy. Scholars might find it compelling; the casual reader might find it tedious.

As Salisbury says, "It was not a 'march' in the conventional sense, not a military campaign, not a victory. It was a triumph of human survival, a deadly endless retreat from the claws of Chiang Kai-shek; a battle that again and again came within a hair's breadth of defeat and disaster."

In October 1934, the communist army was surrounded by Nationalist forces. But it broke free and 86,000 men, women and children set out for sanctuary in northern China carrying everything the army owned — arms, records, medicines, radios, silver currency and gold, even printing presses and paper money engraving plates.

Off they went on foot — there were no vehicles and only a few horses — zig-zagging across the most formidable rivers, mountains and bogs, hounded every mile by the Nationalists and frequently by local warlords, carrying their sick and wounded in litters and burying their dead along the way.

Only about 4,000 finished the year-long ordeal. But it was enough to form the basis of a new army that eventually drove Chiang Kai-shek to Taiwan and created the People's Republic of China in 1949.

When the march began, Mao Tse-tung was in the doghouse, pointedly ignored by the Communist Party leadership. But as the march progressed, as hardships increased and disaster after disaster was averted, Mao's canny ability to fight a guerrilla war brought him to the forefront, where he remained until his death in 1976.

Salisbury writes in unabashed awe of Mao's military and political skills. Indeed, his admiration for Mao and his army might be deemed fulsome by some.

Some flaws:
—A crystal-clear travelogue of this labyrinthine expedition may be beyond the scope of the written language, so there is a demonstrative need for illustrative maps. But, sadly, there are only three.

—The Long March was a military operation, and comparisons of communist and Nationalist weapons are in order, but Salisbury virtually ignores armaments. He mentions Mauser rifles, but little else. He refers to light and heavy machine guns, but gives no nomenclature. He writes of cannon and mortars, but offers no caliber or nationality. The Nationalist forces attack the communists with airplanes, but he gives no descriptions.

Reincarnation Is Actress' Forte In Third Book

Dancing in the Light, by Shirley MacLaine (Bantam, 421 pp., $17.95)

This is MacLaine's fourth book detailing her life and her quest for self knowledge through psychic means. It sustains the reader's interest throughout though perhaps not as intensely as before.

"Dancing in the Light" focuses mostly on reincarnation and what bearings it has had and is having on the actress's life. It begins with her 50th birthday, and the help she gets from the spirit guides, Ramtha and McPherson, whom readers of her previous book have met.

There comes an interesting section that relates a fight between MacLaine's parents, who are cranky in the way that two people who love each other and have been together a long time can be. It's like sitting in on a therapy session where the participants let it all out.

In this case, it is a lead in to how you choose your family in each incarnation in order to develop yourself or to help each other work on areas of your character that need growth. It's an interesting theory that makes you look twice at your own family.

MacLaine goes on to describe her relationship with a Russian film director, both of whom feel they have known each other in a previous life or two. It was an affair that taxed both partners as much as it pleased them but it, too, is explained on the basis of soul-growth. The relationship may stretch one's tolerance, no matter what your beliefs may be.

For readers of the previous books, the last section of "Dancing" will be the most interesting. In this, MacLaine describes seeing past lives through communicating with her "Higher Self," and ponders their bearing on her present development.

"Dancing in the Light" is less probing and philosophical than MacLaine's other books. Perhaps it's because she has already found her path and needs no more convincing. Because of that its appeal may be less than say "Out on a Limb," but will be snapped up by those willing to follow her on the path.

Capturing The 'Human Condition' With Camera

Let Truth Be the Prejudice: The Life and Photographs of W. Eugene Smith. Text by Ben Maddow (Aperture, 192 pp., $50)

William Eugene Smith wanted to accomplish nothing less than to record the human condition through his photographic images. An impossible task, yet Smith managed to realize it to a greater degree than any other photographer of his time.

His pictures, observed French photographer Henri Cartier-Bresson, reflected a great turmoil.

and the skin," Cartier-Bresson said. "His camera, anchored in the heart, moves me by its integrity."

Smith, a Kansan who died in 1978 following a 40-year professional career, produced a great body of work that stands testament to his humanity and moral passion.

One of his most moving photo essays, shot for Life magazine in 1948, portrays country doctor Robert Ceriani who worked long, compassionate hours to treat his patients.

Life editors urged Smith to cut short his assignment. He refused, saying this "would jeopardize the story." When Smith finally returned and was greeted by the editors with hostility, he hurled the prints from the doorway 20 feet into a garbage can and bolted the office. They were retrieved and Life printed 28 photographs.

Smith's last great photo essay dealt with mercury pollution at the Japanese industrial port of Minamata. Taken in 1972, the pictures were so moving and powerful they generated a public outcry and helped put an end to the chemical dumping.

Aperture's "Let Truth Be the Prejudice" is the definitive book on Smith, published to accompany an exhibition of his work that opens at The Philadelphia Museum of Art on Oct. 19.

Mass. Voters To Decide If Porn Is Free Speech

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Voters of Cambridge, home to Harvard and a liberal bastion, will decide next month whether pornography is a form of sex discrimination.

The Massachusetts Supreme Court cleared the way for the petition referendum last week, ruling the question must be placed on the Nov. 5 ballot despite protests — and federal court rulings — that the proposal is unconstitutional.

The court ruling focused solely on the Cambridge City Council's Sept. 23 refusal to place the certified question, signed by 5,252 registered voters, on the ballot. It did not address constitutional questions raised when a similar effort was made in Indianapolis, Ind., in 1983.

"The law clearly states people can petition to put anything on the ballot, whether it is constitutional or not," said Springfield attorney Donna Mages, who argued for the question to be included on the ballot.

But Cambridge City Solicitor Russell Higley said no matter what the voters decide, he will urge the ordinance never be enforced, because court rulings have declared it a violation of free speech.

"If it passes, it's unconstitutional and I'll have to take some action at that time to make sure it's not enforced," said Higley who "absolutely" believes the controversy stems from the reputation for liberalism earned by the city that is home to Harvard University and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

The measure proposed by the Women's Alliance Against Pornography declares pornography "a systematic practice of exploitation and subordination based on sex which differentially harms women ... posing a substantial threat to the health, safety, welfare and equality of citizens in the community."

Among the ills laid to pornography are bigotry, degradation, battery, sexual abuse of children and prostitution.

"The issue of pornography and its impact on women is almost at the same stage as wife-battering and sexual abuse was five years ago," said Suzanne Melendy, the 28-year-old restaurant manager who launched the petition drive.

"There's a lot of silence that surrounds this issue."

"The message that is contained in the kind of literature we're talking about clearly does terrible harm toward women ... that women enjoy violence, women enjoy rape. The question becomes the free speech of pornographers versus equal treatment of women under the law."

And since "existing state and federal laws are inadequate to solve these problems," the proposed ordinance would make coercion and trafficking — as well as assault or physical attack due to pornography — sex discrimination punishable by fine.

"The law addresses actual harm done to actual women and that's really the essence," said Mages. "It's not just this broad prohibition against pornography and that's what I don't think people see because they are caught up in their own arguments."

"The concept behind the ordinance is a relatively new approach to pornography and a substantially similar ordinance has been found unconstitutional, but not by the Supreme Court. The last word is not in. The best approach to test the Constitution is to have the ordinance become law and have somebody make a claim under it."

Higley disagrees, but for reasons that go beyond the issue at hand.

Cambridge was socked with substantial legal fees after losing a Supreme Court challenge by a restaurant objecting to an ordinance giving churches the right to veto liquor licenses.

Higley said a lawsuit over the pornography ordinance would "relieve the city from the costly legal fees if I enforced it knowing it was unconstitutional."

Melendy said the issue is not loaded to one side of the political spectrum, despite perceptions of Cambridge as a liberal bastion.

"This is feminist legislation and at this point of the game you can't equate feminism wholesale with leftist politics," she said, adding the group has received no support from either the left or the right.

"The people who recognize the harm of pornography cannot be categorized as having one political point of view."

Spotting Future Killers

Many young murderers share almost identical medical, family and behavior histories — a finding that may make it possible to identify tomorrow's killers today, New York University researchers say.

The researchers, led by renowned child psychiatrist Dorothy Otnow Lewis, found five characteristics that, when taken together, indicate a strong potential for future violent crime, including murder.

Those are: a history of serious violence as a juvenile, psychotic symptoms, major neurological impairment (such as seizures), psychiatric hospitalization of an immediate family member and physical abuse.

Reporting in the American Journal of Psychiatry, the researchers said they studied nine young men charged with murder and 24 who were juvenile delinquents. They found 75 percent of the accused murderers had all five characteristics, compared with 9 percent of the control group.

"Same way as always," Mr. V. snarled. "I snap my fingers, and there they are. I'm going to clobber those foreigners with dollars. Their currencies are headed for a rise."

"But if you do that," Mr. Tiddle objected, "there's be a lot of new dollars in the system. Those dollars will probably end up back here. It'll be inflationary. I mean, you guys are pumping up the money supply more than twice as fast as your own target as it is."

"Besides," he continued, "dumping a few billion dollars on the market won't do any good. There are more than a hundred billion dollars a day flowing through the currency markets. We aren't going to affect that. We'll just make things worse here."

"Stow it, Tiddle!" Mr. Haufmann barked. "If you've got cold feet, you can get out now. Are you in for it or not?"

Mr. Tiddle sighed. "I'm in for it."

So are we all.
