HOOVER TAKES FINAL SHOT AT OCEAN FISHING

Will Return To Belle Isle Estate Tonight To Enter Into Series Of Big Conferences

Problems Await His Consideration

President-Elect May Go To West Coast To Try Luck On Tarpon

LONG KEY, Fla., Feb. 2.—(INS)—President-elect Hoover shovved off early today for his final day of deep-sea fishing before turning his mind once again to affairs of state. Tonight, he plans to return to his temporary home on Belle Isle and Miami Beach where he will devote himself during the early days of next week to an important series of conferences on pressing governmental problems.

The first of these problems to receive his attention will be the prospective state of federal finances during the first few years of the Hoover administration. Unless a careful course is charted by the fiscal offices of the government after the President-elect enters the White House, it is predicted in some quarters, the vast expenditures for internal improvements and other purposes authorized by the 70th Congress may result in a substantial treasury deficit.

The significance which Mr. Hoover attaches to this prospective state of affairs is indicated by the fact that his house guest over the weekend will be Senator Carl E. Smoot, of Utah, chairman of the Finance Committee who has long been the Republican mouthpiece in the upper chamber of Congress.

Upon his return in a large measure, will devolve the duty of keeping appropriations down to the minimum when the extra session of Congress convenes in April to enact a farm relief bill. The Utah Senator will also have the task of defending the Hoover administration's position on the tariff bill, now being prepared by the House Ways and Means Committee.

Smoot is the first congressional leader to be invited to come here for a conference with the President-elect. Mr. Hoover will pay him tomorrow to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, the pathfinder of the air, who will fly from Miami to Cristobal carrying the first mail from his country to Panama.

Lindbergh hops off Monday on his two and one half day trip.

The President-elect hoped to make another sailfish today, thus making one each for his three days of fishing. Having obtained his object in these waters, the President-elect may take his fishing outing on the west coast next week. He has been considerably impressed by the reports that tarpon, another prize catch are particularly numerous in the waters around Tampa.

Aimee McPherson's Whereabouts Has Been Established

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 2.—(INS)—Removing earlier doubt regarding the identity and whereabouts of Aimee Semple McPherson, Miss Jordan, former business representative of the evangelist announced here today that Mrs. McPherson had returned to San Francisco the last night, having made a round trip from the Bay City last night.

The DeFremery Company made the film for the Eastern Foundation, which has ordered educational films made of every industry in the country. The pictures are to be available for schools, colleges, and other institutions of learning.

The letter expressed appreciation of the assistance given by the Chamber of Commerce to Dan McPherson, who "shot" the local scenes.

Fried Acclaimed In Capital Of Nation

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(INS)—Capt. George Fried of the steamer Amerika received today the acclaim of his superiors in two branches of the government services—the navy and the shipping board. In the nation's Capital at the invitation of President Coolidge, the captain accompanied by Mrs. Fried, reached here late last night with only a handful of minor officials of the shipping board and the United States Lines' local office on hand to meet him. Fried on Monday will receive the congratulations of President Coolidge for the rescue in a storm of the crew of the Italian freighter Florida.

DRY FUND ROW GROWS HOT IN BOTH HOUSES

Leaders Take Steps To Bring Back Era Of Good Feeling Which Has Been Strained

Caustic Remarks Attend Debates

Members Of Congress Have Been "Called Down" For Villifying

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(INS)—Friction between Senate and House over the $24,000,000 dry prohibition enforcement fund has become so keen today that sober minded leaders of both houses were taking steps to bring back an era of good feeling in Congress.

Members in both houses have been "called down" by presidents of the Senate Ladies Club, an organization composed of wives, sisters and daughters of senators. It also has demanded a new code of reference at state functions, which only the State Department can settle.

The president of the Senate Ladies Club has always gone to the wife of the vice-president. Mrs. Dawes declines the post until her term will expire at the end of her term.

President Charles G. Dawes, Mr. Gann, as official hostess for her brother, the Vice-President-elect, has become a candidate for office, only to meet with stiff opposition from the wives of other senators.

Strange Feminine Battle Arises In Washington Over Officers Of Senate Club

Question Of Presidency Of Organization Precipitates Row Among Wives And Sisters Of Members Of Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 2—(INS)—

One of the strangest feminine wars in all the history of the national capital was shaking Washington society today over the cup rating to be given Mrs. Edward F. Gann, married sister of Vice-President-elect Charles Curtis.

This vital question had precipitated a battle over the presidency of the Senate Ladies Club, an organization composed of wives, sisters and daughters of senators. It also has demanded a new code of reference at state functions, which only the State Department can settle.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

GIVE EAR TO GOD—Stand in the gate of the Lord's house, and proclaim there this word, and say, Hear the word of the Lord, all ye that enter in at these gates to worship the Lord.—Jeremiah 17:1.

PRAYER—"Give to God immortal praise; Mercy and truth are all His ways."

THE FATHER'S PROBLEM
It is so hard to know the right
And what is best to do,
Whether to hold the younger right.

And wall him in with you
Or turn him loose, with free rein.
To jump where he will
That he may full experience gain
Of every good and ill.

How much to grant, how much deny.

Are difficult to gauge.
A father's problems multiply
In such a golden age,
Yet not from pleasure manhood grows.

Any parents learn, the wise, indeed, the man who knows
Just when he must be a man.

Love prompts us to the proper way.

Which reason cries, "Because!" And fathers, "Twist this way and that."

Immediately must choose.

He casts a joy which we can give
And love the gift would make,

But judgment counsels while we live.

The sterner course to take.

Here is the problem fathers find Must solve the best they can.

Lovely twinned on a youngster small.

Perhaps may spoil the man,

When "you" so easily in mind,

Is hard to answer "no,"

At in the years which he ahead

It may be better so;

Edgar A. Guest

Did you see the President and Mrs. Coolidge?

Everything is whoopee now, which reminds us that the idea sounds as if it had its inception in the expressions of a hilarious, intoxicated individual.

A Washington man, summoned for jury service, told the court he had never heard of the prohibition law, didn't know what it was. A lot of others would like to forget that well.

Those of us who are on company vegetable diets will find some consolation in the fact that most prices have jumped so high that we couldn't have meat any more.

The little girl down the street who doesn't like her beautiful boy has a moustache but oh, what boy doesn't? not why she shouldn't be tickled to death with him.

George Whalen, may not be a in his new job as police chief of New York City but he will have maintained the sartorial perfection of Walker's administration.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, a newly elected president, the other day, signed a bill making it illegal to drink beer in public places.

There is no place for the prohibitionists in this country. They will only bring about a greater loss of life than the one they are trying to prevent.

The Red Heads' Complex

Almost every day sees some pet belief of ours shattered by a new discovery or by an adverse opinion from those who seem to be in a position to know better than we. Indeed, new ideas are being advanced so fast these days one can scarcely cling to anything with a degree of finality, or with any assurance that what is accepted tonight may not be discarded before one can awaken on the morrow. This growing feeling of uncertainty has gathered impetus in the recent announcement by the British Social Hygiene Council that, contrary to popular belief, red-headed persons have an inborn inferiority complex. Such a statement is disconcerting, to say the least, especially in view of the numerous evidences which we have noted to the contrary.

We have always maintained a most healthy respect for those of the red ratchet. There is something about them to arouse our awe, as witness our ludicrous gaping yesterday on the occasion of viewing Mr. Coolidge's sorrel-topped brow. Frankly, too, we must timidly admit that a good portion of our respect is closely akin to fear. In fact, those possessing auburn looks have exercised so much influence over us we have always thought it expedient to try to be with them rather than against them.

In all our relations with rusty-haired individuals, and they have been somewhat extensive, we have never noticed the marked shyness which the British organization now so loudly proclaims. We well recall our college days when a red-headed men's club was organized, being composed of a class president, two star football players, an athletic manager, a skilled debater, a wrestling champion, two military officers and three youths known to the fair damsels of two states as dancing sheiks of the first water, whatever that is. Even back in our earliest days we remember the licking administered by an auburn-haired youngster who took exception to our remark that our daddie could whip his any day in the week. Although many years have elapsed since that time we can't seem to remember that any feeling of inferiority was reflected in that boy's punches.

All of this is apropos to our feeling that the British indictment is nothing short of an insult to the marked ability, yea even genius, which we have so often noted in those boasting carrot-colored locks. We rise to make this observation even at the risk of inviting a frown from the August English group. In fact, our sense of security is so increased by the expanse of waters which separate us, we have a good notion to call that body by the name which best expresses our incredulity.

Wise Appointments

Citizens of Sanford and Seminole County, who gave to Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen an overwhelming majority in the general election, will be interested in knowing that the selection of her secretarial staff has been heralded as the first wise step in congressional career which is expected to bring credit both to Mrs. Owen and to her constituency. Upon the judiciousness of her appointments, the Miami News writes:

"That interest in welfare of her constituents is foremost in the mind of Mrs. Ruth Bryan Owen, representative-elect of the Fourth district, is indicated by the selection of her secretarial staff, an experienced member of which will remain in Florida that he may keep in close touch with the people and their needs. Announcement of her assistants was made by Mrs. Owen before leaving Miami this week for the national capital where she will remain until after Mr. Hoover's inauguration. A representative-elect has the privilege of the floor of the House of representatives and it is the purpose of Mrs. Owen to spend much time on capitol hill conferring with members of the congress and becoming familiar with legislative procedure before she assumes her new duties as congresswoman.

In addition to her secretary, Mrs. Jessie R. Hill of Miami, and her office assistant, Miss Louise Falligant of Haleah, a student at the University of Miami, Mrs. Owen has named Walter S. Buckingham, of Vero Beach, as her resident district secretary. Mr. Buckingham knows the Fourth district, which, by the way, is the largest in area in the United States, and he enjoys a wide acquaintance in each of the communities along the 560 miles of coast line. Because of his fitness for the position, Congresswoman-elect Owen chose Mr. Buckingham to serve as the one best qualified to "bridge the gap that obtains between the public and its representative in congress." It was a happy thought and Mr. Buckingham's appointment is certain to redound to the benefit of the Fourth district.

"Mrs. Owen has made a good start in planning her congressional duties. No new member of congress will take office with more good wishes or with brighter prospects for outstanding public service. Affairs at Washington affecting Miami and every other community in the Fourth district will be safe in her hands."

COMMON SENSE
MIAMI HERALD

Governor Bulow, of South Dakota, has considerable common sense though his respect for precedent and red tape seems to be missing. He does not want to be borned and he does not want to be borned.

public education beyond the grammar grades should be a state the former. They spend the rest of their lives learning to make a

LONGWOOD LOLLIES

Chocolate Covered

Ice Cream

for the whole family!

One woman said:

"The children love your 'Lollies' but I don't think there is much to them. When they melt down there is nothing left, but liquid."

That we thought was a real compliment on the quality of our ice cream that forms the base of our Lollies. It showed that our ice cream comes closer to homemade ice cream than anything else made in Sanford.

Why? Because it showed that there is no starch, no ice cream powder, no powdered milk or anything else to give the appearance of substance in our ice cream. Home-made ice cream melts to liquid just as ours does. It's the ice cream with powder or starch in it that stands up even when it melts.

We guarantee that our ice cream contains nothing but pure whipping cream, rich in butter fat, milk sugar and a small amount of healthful gelatin. That's why it is really real "home-made" ice cream.

Longwood Lollies are going like wildfire. They are great for kids' parties.
