BUDGET OF OPINION "JUST BETWEEN YOU AND ME."

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A CHIEF IS AMONG YE TAKING NOTES AND FAITH. "HE'LL PRENT 'EM"---SO SAYS SAUNTERER.

Go To It, Boys!

Tell me not in mournful prating / Boosting's but an empty sham, / For the Grouch's always berating, / Isn't worth a "tinker's" d---m."

Boosting's real, boosting's earnest, / And the grave can never dawn / A fellow always doing his durnedest / To talk up his own home town.

Not hammering and not sorrow, / Is our destined end and way, / But to talk the town tomorrow / Will do better than today.

Talk is cheap but necessary, / And without its helpful wave, / Towns grow quiet and so dreary, / They soon totter to their grave.

In a town's broad field of battle, / In its larger civic life, / Imitates that kind of cattle / Who "butt-in" and join the strife.

Let no man, however gassy, / Beat you pulling for your town, / Talk it strong and talk it saasy, / Blow it far and all around.

Lives of all great towns remind us / We can make our town sublime, / And by boosting leave behind us / Lungprints on the sands of time.

Lungprints that perhaps some other, / Sailing by this noisy plain, / Through a quiet, timid brother, / Hearing, shall take heart again.

Let us then be up and boosting; / With a heart for any fate; / Cut out knocking, gouching, roasting, / Wake up, hit a livelier gait!

Whatever may be said of the fox trot and other dances of the day it is surprising how much rheumatism they draw out of the Baptist, Methodist and Presbyterian legs and the old ones at that.

A woman's magazine wants to know how many dresses a lady is supposed to have. I will venture the suggestion that whatever the answer may be it is not enough. She certainly wants more than she now has, regardless of how many that may be.

Friend of mine from Oviedo said that it was lonesome out there and I hastened to assure him that he did not know the meaning of the word lonely. He should have been with me the other night right here in Sanford when I attended a dance and knew nothing but the Virginia reel and the old time waltz. Oviedo was a whole brass band and the entire city of New York beside the awful lonesomeness of the occasion.

Speaking about a hotel in Sanford makes me think that this matter is getting serious and our people should take a hand in the game and do something to redeem the good name of the city. The hard knocks that Sanford is getting regarding hotels is damaging us every day and it will take years of good service to get the people back. This is another matter that the Commercial Club could investigate and if possible find out who will start the new hotel at once. Even starting the hotel will give the people a better idea of the city and those that are in the city this spring will leave with the understanding that when they return next season the hotel will be ready for them.

When we see a leaf fall from a tree do we wonder how that leaf can be converted into money? Hardly! 'Tis only a leaf.

Yet at this season of the year there are countless billions of leaves falling from trees, and every single leaf is of value if the human brain cares to utilize it.

These leaves can be swept into a pile in the back yard, or elsewhere, and converted into a compost heap for use on the garden this spring. There is no better fertilizer.

They will make the radishes, the string beans, tomatoes and other garden truck spring into life as if touched by a magic wand. They will be a constant reminder that even the dropping of a leaf is not without its significance, its commercial value.

Convert your leaves into wealth. 'Tis an easy thing to do.

Factories and hotels are needed in Sanford and we must have them

ere another year rolls around. The crops are all right and they are bringing good prices but you don't notice of the money rolling into the coffers of merchants. However, if the tourists were here spending their money and the factory hands were here spending their money the merchants would notice the difference right now. And yet if the question comes up about getting a factory here how many men would be willing to put up one dollar for the same. This matter is important and the factory is something that Sanford should go after and go after it hard. We need the ready money that comes in every month for the hundreds of employes that would be here spending the money. There are many and divers kinds of industries that Sanford could get and this matter should be taken up by the Commercial Club and the Commercial Club should have every merchant in the city on the membership roll and then the club could really do something.

More interest is evident in Florida today than ever before in agricultural development. Florida has no greater need. County after county is falling into line and employing farm demonstrators and supervisors of canning clubs.

Governor Trammell in his message to the legislature next spring will suggest legislation permitting county commissioners to offer suitable prizes for crop growing contests. In this the Governor is directly in line with the movement.

Regarding the matter he says: "Any policy which tends to encourage and increase agricultural activities is of unquestionable value to our state. Florida has an unlimited amount of rich and productive land and it has untold possibilities for agricultural expansion. The ambitious boys and girls of the state will readily respond to the encouragement which might be offered to them by contests in growing the crops to which the soil of their respective sections are adapted.

I suggest the wisdom of legislation being enacted which would authorize the county commissioners of the various counties to offer prizes for such contests. In some few communities in the state con- been inaugurated with splendid results."

More attention than has yet been given to it is deserved by the psychology of the people who, having seen something in a newspaper, usually an editorial article, with which they strongly disagree, immediately write and mail an angry letter announcing the firm intention to take that paper no more.

The apparent purpose of this action--assuming it to be carried out--is to punish the expression of the resentful opinions by withdrawing a fraction of the paper's revenue, but underlying that aim is probably a desire, conscious or unconscious, to inspire fear of other losses of the same kind and so as to coerce the paper by an appeal to its material interests into a reversal of its policy and attitude on the question at issue.

Of course, such a reversal for such a reason, says the New York Times in a recent editorial, would be dishonest as well as cowardly, but he who proclaims the stopping of his subscription doesn't think of that. And how hard is it to explain that anybody should be without the willingness, or even without the eagerness, to hear what can be said against his own views or conclusions! Either his confidence in his own judgment is weak or he prefers to hold to notions already accepted, regardless of whether they are right or wrong.

The reader who will not take a paper with all the utterances of which he cannot agree does not want a newspaper at all, or to know what can be known about the subjects he considers important or interesting--he wants a partisan organ that will keep him in a comfortable twilight. Papers of that kind were once numerous, but they are scarce, nowadays and they are fewer every year.

The recent prohibition proclamation in Russia causes Walt Mason to break into song as follows:

In Russia none can buy a flagon of vodka or old rye; the men must ride the water wagon--the country's all gone dry. The law affects all grades of critters, the humble and the rich; and those who lately sipped their bitters now hit the pumpovitch. The ill of western prohibition you'll look for there in vain; you'll not see there a condition that one might see in Maine. There's no relief for thirsty beggars, no help for Russian sports; the alleys know no cheap bootleggers, no hole in wall resorts. The old time tricks that lead to drinking won't work there worth a cent; a man may sprain his eyebrows winking, the druggist won't relent. Old Russia's brand of law prohibits, in country and in town, and soon her prisons and her gibbets will all be taken down. If some one hasn't told a whopper about conditions there, the country soon won't have a pauper which had them everywhere. The world will watch this Russian measure, so timely and so wise; 'twill watch, and doubtless note with pleasure a nation nobly rise from subject depths of degradation, from lying in the ditch; oh, happy that progressive nation which hits the pumpovitch!

All this talk about the turkey buzzard in the state papers has seemed to me the veriest rot and I wondered just why the question should come up and unless I am badly mistaken there is no law against killing the buzzard anyhow. But lately it has occurred to me that maybe some of the boys were anxious to bring up these unimportant things in order to cloud the important ones and my old friend Andrews of the Estero Eagle thinks so too from the following:

Now that the time is approaching for the biennial convening of the Florida Legislature, some of the state papers are, as usual, engaged in the serious discussion of some insignificant piece of proposed legislation to the utter exclusion of the more important and vital issues. This time the subject under discussion is "The Turkey Buzzard, Shall We Swat Him, or Shall We Not?" Those contending in the affirmative declare that he is a useless member of society, an unclean "varmint," and a disseminator of hog cholera, measles, chicken pox and goodness only knows what. His defenders, on the other hand, contend that he is a useful scavenger, and thus a preventive of disease, and that as such, he should be protected by law.

But suppose he is as great a nuisance as is claimed for him. How many people are suffering today in Florida from hog cholera, measles, spavin, chicken pox or whooping cough, who can lay the cause of their sufferings directly to the much despised and tabooed turkey buzzard. The whole thing is an absurdity, when considered in comparison with some of the really important issues which have been carried recently in other progressive states, and which should engage the serious attention of the people of the state of Florida.

Among these important issues are: state prohibition; equal suffrage; appointment of a state good roads commission; Torrens system of government guarantee of land titles; state law for fish conservation; and the abolition of the fee system of compensating county officials. It would almost seem like a subterfuge upon the part of the interests which are diametrically opposed to these important issues, to start a heated discussion on some fool subject--like the swatting of the turkey buzzard or the preservation of the gopher turtle--just to divert the attention of the people from the really important subjects at the time of all others when they should be under serious consideration. Talk about the turkey buzzard being a nuisance! Well, what about the political buzzards that are fattening month after month, on unearned increment under the fee system, upon the body politic? And the people stand for it, year in and year out, uncomplainingly. Verily, there are more important issues than turkey buzzards confronting the people of Florida at this juncture, and these issues should be put up to our legislators if the people would profit any by this coming session of the legislature.

Unused to That Voice. A sweet little child is Frances, but but there are moments when her busy mother finds her reiterated questions and repeated requests somewhat trying. One day, receiving a rather impatient reply to an innocent remark, Frances, who sat out of range of her mother's countenance, quaintly expressed her surprise and perplexity over that dear mother's unwonted brevity and crispness. "Is your face smiling, mamma?" she naively inquired. "Your voice sounds awful strange!"

Awful Thought. A little girl receiving her first religious teaching was much impressed by the unique character and omnipotence of the Almighty. Saying her prayers at night, she added a peculiar and earnest petition: "And, O Lord, please take good care of yourself, for if anything happens to you, O Lord, what are the rest of us going to do?"

WOMAN'S CLUB

Members of the Woman's Club Attention!

All members of the Woman's Club are reminded that March 3rd is the annual meeting of the club and that the election of first vice president, third vice president, recording secretary and treasurer will take place. Also some revisions to the constitution will be presented for action.

Members absent from any of the business meetings during the past year, without a sufficient excuse are requested to pay their fines to the treasurer. This will avoid the necessity of treasurer notifying delinquents, or posting names on blackboards.

By order of Mrs. J. W. Dickins, President. Mrs. R. E. Tolar, Rec. Sec'y.

Better Moving Pictures The following letter was read by Mrs. Dickins at the last meeting of the Welfare Department of the Woman's Club and as it is of such keen interest it was voted to bring it before the general club at the next business meeting Wednesday afternoon. It is a movement similar to the Drama League of America and should have the support of every thinking woman:

Dear Madam: The time has come for women, who are seeking the best interests of their town to recognize candidly the power of the moving picture theatre, and to throw their influence in the direction of its improvement and encouragement.

I am writing you in this way because the Woman's Home Companion, in its March issue, is inaugurating a new service whose success will depend largely upon the extent to which the cooperation of women like yourself can be secured. The managers of the leading film companies have agreed to submit to the editors of the Woman's Home Companion the films which are to be released each month. From these the editors will select from 40 to 50 films which are especially to be commended because of their artistic and educational value, and a list of the titles of these films, with other news and comment of the moving picture world, will be published in the pages of the Woman's Home Companion.

Our hope is that these lists may be preserved by our subscribers as a guide for themselves and their children, and that the leading women in each community may make it a point to encourage the owner of the local theatre by their patronage to present such films.

There are many films which we cannot recommend and which you doubtless wish, as we do, were not presented. But we feel that more good can be accomplished in encouraging moving picture theatres throughout the country to present good films than can be accomplished by decrying the bad.

If you agree with me in this, I wish that you might find opportunity to present this question to the members of your club, and I should be very glad to have you write me frankly their opinion and yours. We hope that this move on our part is to be the beginning of a new day in the life and influence of the moving picture theatre. It can be, if we secure, as I believe we can, the cooperation of the club women of the country.

Very truly yours, GERTRUDE B. LANE, Editor.

Most Ancient of Customs. The mind of man does not run back to the time when there was no dancing. Ever since the morning stars danced together for joy there have been dances grave and gay in celebration of all the happenings in the life of man. So interwoven with love, war and religion are the movements of the body that the dance has been an integral part of the history, art and literature in which are preserved the records of all generations.

So Low You Can Only Feel It. An organ recently installed in Lowell, Mass., can produce a tone an octave lower than has ever been known before. It is described as a mighty atmospheric throb of awesome majesty, and scientists declare that it must be rather felt than heard.

WOMAN'S CLUB

On Wednesday, March 10, the shipment of plants ordered through the City Beautiful committee will be delivered.

Many dozens of hibiscus, poinsettias, palm and semi-tropical vines will adorn the gardens of our town through this effort on the part of these ladies, and by next winter they will make a fine effect.

Some care must be taken in preparing for these plants, however, and so a few simple hints are offered in the hope that they may meet the need of some inexperienced gardener. In all cases the soil should be well fertilized and thoroughly spaded. Plants are like other living things in demanding plenty of food and a comfortable bed, and their growth and beauty depend largely on just this provision for them at the start. In placing poinsettia it is an advantage to choose a southern exposure because of the probability of early frost. Last November hundreds of beautiful blooms were destroyed by the cold just when they had begun to be at their best, while others which were sheltered by houses or fences from the keen north wind are still fine on the first of March—about 3 months of bloom.

The hibiscus loves sunshine and plenty of water to keep the soil from drying out, while the palms should have the soil dug deep and mellow before they are set out. It is hard to say just where they should be planted when we look about us and see them growing in all sorts of places.

The flame vine—Bignonia venusta—which so glorifies Winter Park and Altamonte with its beauty, and the Bougainvillea which is so wonderful in Daytona have been ordered in quantities. Both of these vines flourish in the sunshine, but both are rather slow in starting growth. It will require two years to get any great effect from them, but like the palms, poinsettias and hibiscus they are permanent investments which will increase in value from year to year. It is well to remember that the flowers of the Bougainvillea are a very unique shade of cerise-purple, and in planting the vines use some consideration about what will be in bloom close by.

Literature Department

The attention of all members of the club is called to change in Year Book of Mrs. Munson's Musicals. Instead of March 10 as scheduled the date has been changed for Saturday, March 27. Every club member of general club is cordially invited to be present. Mrs. Munson's musicals have always been a source of great pleasure, as those who have attended them in recent years can vouchsafe.

Members of Literature Department are also reminded of meeting coming March 10 in club rooms. Program as follows:

The Wonderful Schools in New York and Chicago. Mrs. G. J. Loucks.

John Burroughs and Some Other American Nature Writers. Mrs. Jas. B. Moughton.

Enthusiastic Audience

On last Wednesday evening the Bargelt entertainment at the Baptist Temple was enjoyed by a large, enthusiastic audience. Miss Bargelt, has forever endeared herself to the lyceum loving people of Sanford. This is verified by the following comments:

Supt. B. F. Ezell: "I consider Miss Bargelt an entertainer of rare ability."

Dr. E. D. Brownlee: "The Bargelt entertainment was interesting, entertaining and holding from first to last."

Rev. F. P. Strong: "The Lyceum attractions, such as the Bargelt entertainment is an uplift to any community and worthy of consideration."

Miss Lillie Farnsworth: "I consider Miss Bargelt's impersonations especially good."

Mrs. Geo. L. Hoy: "I was very much pleased with the Bargelt entertainment."

We could furnish one hundred and sixty comments expressing similar opinions as the above. The Lyceum Association of Sanford is endeavoring to give the people the very best entertainments at a low cost of admission. The next Alkahest attraction will come sometime the first week in April. Watch The Herald for the exact date and purchase tickets early, as it is expected that it will be necessary to sell standing room for the future attractions.

The residence of Mr. and Mrs. Bridge was burglarized last Friday night and a pretty clean sweep made of all eatables. Nothing else was disturbed.

Mr. Kirk is suffering from the prevailing disease, "la grippe."

Mr. Toner's birthday was observed on Wednesday at Twin Lakes Plantation by a little launch party. Mr. and Mrs. Bridge, Mr. Allen, Mrs. Fraser and the Jesses Pearson in addition to the regular family enjoyed the chicken pie.

The Bishop packing house has closed for the season.

The Hand fruit is being shipped to Sanford this week to be packed.

"The springtime has come, gentle Annie," and though the weather is a little gloomy, "the signs of the times" are in evidence everywhere. The wild plums are airing their lac curtains again, just as they did last spring, making splashes of white against a background of green and pink and tan, the budding colors of the wild cherries and various varieties of oak. Birds are singing and the air is sweet with the fragrance of orange flowers.

Altamonte All Right

When the European war is over, Geo. E. Bates & Son, proprietors of the Altamonte Hotel at Altamonte Springs intend to enlarge it. This season the Altamonte Hotel has enjoyed a generous patronage that is most gratifying to the proprietors. It has been filled to its utmost capacity and every room obtainable has been engaged for a long while. Almost daily guests have arrived seeking accommodations only to be informed that not a single room was vacant. The patrons have been forced to seek quarters in Winter Park or Orlando. To insure rooms for next year they should be engaged at the present time. Orlando Sentinel.

Box Parties at Temple

Several box parties attended the Bargelt entertainment at the Temple Wednesday evening. The boxes in the Temple lecture room will accommodate twenty people. The Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian church was the first to purchase. Six extra seats had to be taken in order to take care of their party. Mr. Kent Rossetter and Mrs. Paxton were the leaders in giving the party this delightful evening of entertainment. Another was that of the B. Y. P. U. of the Baptist church. Mr. S. G. Kennedy and Miss Clara Millen were in charge. The Christian Endeavor of the Congregational church was well represented, having engaged twelve seats. Miss Carrie Ensminger was in charge. The largest party of the evening was that of the Missionary and Aid Society. Mrs. J. M. Wallace and Mrs. Edgar Biggers were in charge. Two smaller parties were the Jr. B. Y. P. U. and the Epworth League.

AMONG THE CHURCHES

A RESUME GIVEN EACH WEEK OF THE SUNDAY SERMONS

BY ELMER E. ROGERS

Church Visited: The Baptist.
Pastor: Rev. George Hyman.

Subject morning service: "The Life of the Individual and His Loyalty to the Church." The subject was based on the words of two men, Job, who said: "Though he slay me yet will I trust him," and Paul who at Miletus told his elders: "And now, behold, I go unto Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there: "Save that the Holy Ghost witnesseth in every city, saying, that BONDS and AFFLICTIONS abide (await) me."

The text of the evening services was taken from the parable of the Prodigal Son, Luke 15: 11, 12: "And a certain man had two sons; And the younger of them said to his father: Father, give me the portion of goods that falleth to me, and he divided unto them his living."

Rev. Hyman's morning address was a strong appeal for loyalty to Jesus Christ through the medium of His CHURCH. In developing his theme the pastor emphasized INDIVIDUAL responsibility to God, and insisted that one's daily life, socially, commercially, industrially and religiously reflect the seriousness with which one's responsibility is felt and exercised. Throughout his entire sermon Rev. Hyman placed stress upon the duties demanded of God's workers, and the necessity for the fullest possible measuring up to those duties.

Acceptable accountability was construed to mean constant and unbroken practice of the duties demanded by God, constant and unbroken practice of the duties demanded by God means a perpetual preparedness leading to a final, lasting joyous, individual realization of being near to God; partaking of His likeness, sensing and knowing deeply in your inner self that you are of His kingdom, one of the Brotherhood of His consecrated workers.

Individual RESPONSIBILITY to God was not taken to imply individual WORK within or for the kingdom. Each person is because of individual mentality, individual soul and individual thinking, personally responsible to God for every thought and deed. This is true of necessity. It could not be otherwise since God has given each the privilege to choose for himself.

But because of man's social instinct; his social existence, his social intercourse in all avenues of life he is subject to two conflicting forces: two conflicting impulses: at work of society, one for good and one for evil.

These forces are manifesting themselves every second either consciously or unconsciously. Both forces have individual workers and both forces have collective or organized workers. The organized forces in society are usually conscious of their influence. The good forces are constructive, uplifting, making for beauty and beauty. The evil forces are destructive, degrading, and unhealthfully and malignantly.

It is for this reason that a religious program, a religious plan, a religious procedure based upon our Savior's Word is necessary for efficient work within and for God's kingdom. A CHURCH, a brotherhood of consecrated INDIVIDUALS having ONE mind, ONE purpose, ONE soul is a crying necessity now and always. Hence loyalty to Christ and His Church is made PRECEPT that we may help one another within and all those yet without into God's kingdom.

The following are a few of the more impressive statements made by Rev. Hyman:

"As God's workers" we must inwardly realize that we are IN the world but not OF the world, and this inward realization must not be concealed, it must be made plain even to the wayfarer."

"As God's workers we must draw a wider line of distinction between the Church and the world. The path of the Church like that of the individual aspirant for God's kingdom must be straight and narrow. Then and not until then will God's people be face to face with the enemy."

"The ONE theme of our whole life should be a constantly increasing love for Jesus, the sovereign Savior of mankind."

"The afflictions of Jesus, the afflictions of Paul, the afflictions of all the apostles; the afflictions of all the early Christians and those great spirits of medieval times who kept the flame of the true Christ burning, were endured for us, that we might ultimately achieve God's kingdom of justice, his goodwill to men."

"The afflictions of these great personages were not of the soul. They were physical and at times mental because of the ingratitude of their fellowman. Pioneers, they were blazing the way of the greatest faith, the greatest philosophy, the greatest program, the greatest plan, the greatest religious procedure for genuine good, the world has ever experienced or ever can experience. This is true, 1st, because God gave the world a Savior who decreed His law, which may be found in the Bible. 2nd, because, the greatest scholars, the greatest thinkers of ancient and modern times have never been able to pick a single flaw in Christ's plan of social conduct; Christ's plan of social justice; Christ's plan of social relations; and finally because it includes these, and far more, Christ's plan of salvation for mankind."

The question right now is: What is each of us doing to be worthy of so great an inheritance?"

Are we in the front of the battle line fighting against the hosts of mammon and ungodliness; fighting against the destructive, degrading, discordant, malignant elements which are cancerously eating into the very vitals of all that is held dear and sacred in life? Are our faces toward the enemy or are we dodging behind barricades of worldly pleasure with our coats buttoned up behind to give the appearance of facing the enemy?"

Again, I ask: Do we have a studied program, a workable Christian plan? Do we have a church home? If we are confessed Christians are we in our respective churches weekly and bi-weekly with our hearts filled with a rapturous appreciation for all that Christ means for the world, for all that the apostles did to preserve His spoken word for us; for all that our great self-sacrificing Christian antecedents have done to keep the pure flame of Christ alive?"

Rapturous appreciation means thankful estate appreciation. Thankful estate appreciation means a divine, harmonious vibration. Are we vibrating in harmony with God's plan? Are we instruments of His church? Are we willing to suffer from the lowest as well as the highest scale of life, joyfully, purposefully, or are we just "holly rollers" rolling hither and thither void of a life's program, void of the true spirit of Christ's teachings in our hearts, going six days without a thought of Jesus and then on the Lord's day attending some church, just going through the motions of religion?"

Let us be true to our faith in Christ Jesus. Let us be loyal to the Bible. Let us be loyal to the great commission which gave the gospel to the world. Let us be loyal to Christ and our church in our social work, in our business relations, in our relations as employer and employee, and lastly let us be loyal to EVERY CAUSE that stands for the advancement of the Kingdom of God here and hereafter."

Your reporter wishes to state that time and space preclude a report of Rev. Hyman's evening discourse.

FLETCHER SCORES THE PRESS

FLORIDA'S SENIOR SENATOR THINKS THAT NEWS-PAPERS SHOULD BE MUZZLED

A special from Washington says: A stir has been created by the address of Senator Fletcher of Florida, scoring the press of the country.

Heroic defense of public men from the time of George Washington down through history to the present Congress, scathing attack on the yellow sensational and muck-raking press and a demand that the free press of this nation be throttled were high lights in the address of Senator Fletcher, at All Souls' Church last Sunday night.

Senator Fletcher spoke before the Liberal Religious Union of the church and such a throng crowded the lecture room that extra chairs were placed. There was a personal note in Senator Fletcher's words, and his somewhat extravagant adjectives were accepted by some of his audience as an indication that he possesses a personal antagonism toward newspapers.

The Senator showed that George Washington had been attacked by the press as a tyrant and misappropriator of public funds by reading clippings from newspapers, published when Washington was President. The Senator then stated that even as Washington was grossly maligned, so public men of today are misrepresented in a biased press.

"In the lives of our public men of today integrity is not only the rule," said Senator Fletcher, "but it is a truth that the lack of integrity is the very rarest exception. The people who believe differently have been given that belief unquestionably by the yellow, muck raking and sensational press."

Senator Fletcher read at length a number of quotations published in the early days of this nation, in which Washington was violently abused, and, with later leaders of the nation, given the vilest names. In one article the charge was made that Washington was dishonest and had robbed the treasury of public money.

and retired to the quiet and privacy of Mount Vernon, Senator Fletcher asserted, one of the news journals declared that "the one cause of the nation's great misfortune had been reduced to the level of the common people." The press of that early day, Senator Fletcher said, freely predicted that the names of all the leaders of that day would be held up to execration in generations to come, even the name of George Washington.

During the Civil War, said Senator Fletcher, certain newspapers went so far as to assert that the acts of Lincoln might be compared with the acts for which Charles I of England lost his head. Senator Fletcher quoted red hot attacks in newspapers against Adams and Jefferson and Albert Gallatin.

What is today called the free press was born with the birth of this nation, said Senator Fletcher, and this free press, he declares, has become a tyrant, fearless and unrestrained. Referring to news writers, Senator Fletcher said: "These fellows should have been stopped right then. Such an institution as this so-called free press never should have been allowed."

"The newspapers today are tyrannical molders of public opinion, and have inspired in public men a fear of the press that is but a species of cowardice. That is why public men fear to attack the press," Senator Fletcher urged his auditors to "take up arms against the tyrant press," but did not advocate any specific plan for muzzling the news columns.

"Since the earliest days of this nation," he asserted, "the free press has grown worse and worse and if some brake is not applied, if some stopping point is not raised, it will continue to grow worse and worse past the point of tolerability. The very people about whom the chains of this free press are bound are the people who know those chains like the lowest and meanest slave."

Dainty Prima Donna

Pretty Mabel Laffin, the young prima donna who is delighting theater goers in the role of "Virginia Stuart" in the timely musical comedy "The Prince of Tonight" coming to the Imperial Theater Friday, March 12th is really surprised that she ever went on the stage. Miss Laffin, who has been out of high school only a few years, was fortunate inasmuch as she possessed a good voice, which with little training developed beautiful tones. Naturally from all sides it was suggested that she go on the stage, and through one of her closest friends she was induced to take a position in the chorus with "The Prince of Pilsen" for a season, just to familiarize herself with stage technique. She was assigned as understudy during her first season and the following seasons in succession she played leading roles in "The Winning Miss," "Madam Sherry," "Ready Money," "The Heart Breakers" and last year was seen in a clever little playlet on the Orpheum circuit.

Miss Laffin has no hard luck stories to tell of her professional gain, the opportunity to go on the stage came to her unsolicited, she accepted and went about the work with determination to win. The result, after one year of experience she was playing leading roles.

A Second Paradise

By Harold E. Gogger, Sutherland, Florida.

As I sit by my open window, Inhaling the breeze from the pine, I wonder what God has given us. Such a beautiful sunny time.

I think of the far away northland, Under cover of ice and snow.

When I think of the ice and snow, I think of the ice and snow.

The lakes here are never frozen, The rivers are never dumb.

In the beautiful land of flowers, There is a row of the trees, and they are green.

For summer is so delightful, The breeze never ceases to blow.

From the misty, blue Atlantic, To the Gulf of Mexico.

Leave your homes and come to Florida, So free from snow and ice, Where life is always pleasant.

In this second "Paradise" . . .

MISS EVA PHELPS, Soubrette in the musical spectacle, "The Prince of Tonight", Imperial Theater, Friday, March 12th.

The Prince of To-Night When the "Prince of Tonight" makes his bow before local playgoers at the Imperial Theatre Friday, March 12th the reason for the great success of this popular musical fantasy will impress itself upon the auditor at once. There is action both in music and in dialogue from rise to fall of the curtain. Scenic beauty and gorgeous costumes delight the eye and tuneful melodies are abundant. Tom Arnold, appearing in the title role is better suited for the part than anything that he has ever attempted. Adams, Hough and Howard, favorably known to the public as authors of the "Goddess of Liberty," "The Stubborn Cinderella," "The Time, the Place and the Girl," and a score of other successes are also proud to assume the responsibility for "The Prince of Tonight," since it is regarded by many as the best musical comedy of the decade. LeComte and Flesher have provided this attraction with one of the most elaborate productions ever seen on tour. The costumes, the settings and the light effects are beautiful and striking and the harmony of tints, colors and shades are enchanting. It requires more than money and hard work or experience to prepare such a production, as is to be seen in "The Prince of Tonight." Such a lavishly furnished environment is essential in the proper creation of atmosphere of magic and mystery required by the fanciful story. Tom Arnold is seen as a stranded college youth at "The Breakers," Palm Beach, where he is employed as a life saver. Because of his lack of position and wealth, he is jilted by a beautiful heiress. Under the spell of the magic hour of the blooming of a century plant, he becomes Prince of Luntania for the night, and unless he is kissed by the right girl before the night passes, he is to die at dawn. Some of Joseph E. Howard's catchiest songs are heard, among them "Tonight Will Never Come Again," "I Can't Be True So Far Away," "Mean Moon Man," "I Felt in Love on Monday," "You Are a Dear Old World After All," "Her Eyes Are Blue for Yale," "The Best Thing That a Waiter Does is Wait."

This big attraction closes the show season here and everybody should see it, not because it is last but because it is best.

Question of Taxes

Many taxpayers are kicking about the present taxes, which in many cases have been unfair, but in some cases have been about where they should have been for many years back. The present board of county commissioners wish to equalize the taxes in conjunction with Tax Assessor Vaughn and will do all in their power to reduce the millage, but in the event that the tax is lowered too much the millage cannot be reduced. There must be sufficient tax money to carry out the many new projects in the county and to take care of the budgets of expense and any large lowering of the tax receipts will cause a raise in millage. Let the tax payers bear this in mind this year and endeavor to uphold the hands of the commissioners and the tax assessor in making a fair and equitable taxation.

The Governor Draws a Hand

Governor Park Trammell of Florida has put on his armor and will fight the insurance trust which has been holding up the people of Florida to the tune of many millions of dollars every year. The Governor says: "There is considerable complaint that life and fire insurance is excessively high. It is also apparent that the insurance companies have some mutual understanding in the matter of fixing rates. I would suggest, therefore, a law that would make it unlawful for two or more insurance companies doing business in this state, or for officers, agents or employees of such companies to make or enter into any combination or agreement relating to the rates to be charged for insurance, the amount of commission to be allowed agents for procuring the same, or the manner of transacting such business within this state." POOR GIRLS AND WEALTHY FLIRTS.

Be not too rigidly censorious. A sting may jar in the best master's hand. And the most skillful arche miss his aim; I would not quarrel with a slight mistake.

If there is one girl more than another who is ambitious to rise in the world, it is the daughter of poverty. She cannot pick out the flowery path that pleases her. She must join the great army of workers who tread the beaten path.

She knows from earnings, the value of a dollar, and how dark the future looks when she is unable to save even the smallest sum. Ayo, and what a struggle is hers to live from hand to mouth, but withal, trying to keep the lamp of hope burning in her bosom.

Such a girl believes there are but two prospects to look forward to—either to keep on toiling or to wed some nice young man who will shoulder burdens and dower her with his love.

It cannot be denied that these girls look eagerly forward for their Prince Charming to cross their paths. Thus such maidens are easy prey for the audacious male flirt. Such men would resent bitterly having their own innocent sisters make the acquaintance of men through a flirtation instead of an honorable introduction.

There are some wealthy young men who imagine they can do as they like in striking up an acquaintance with a girl whose pretty innocent face takes their fancy. They are actuated only by the spirit of mischief, a pastime for the moment. There are some poor girls who have sense enough to give the handsome, wealthy young man a decided snub when he attempts to pick her up as a "speak easy". There are other foolish maidens who walk blindly into the trap. At though the flirt, the masquerade, as he is commonly called, makes all seasons his own, he is more apt to try to scrape acquaintance with the poor working girl in the summer time, when his folks are out of town and he can roam where he pleases and with whom without any one in his set knowing it. He may take the girl whose acquaintance he has made without an introduction to the movies or the dance hall, perchance in his automobile for a joy ride. The girl builds her hopes that he is in love with her. She believes herself on the royal road to love and happiness ever after. A few weeks or months after she has acquired the taste to know what it is to have a sumptuous dinner without paying for it and life such as the rich lead, and he is dropped as quickly as she was picked up. A newer fancy has crossed the flirt's path. She is left to grope over "what might have been". It is not to be supposed that rich young men do not fall in love and wed poor girls who work for a living; they often do. A girl can rest assured, however, it is seldom or never, that they take to their hearts and homes as their wives for their mothers and sisters to love, the thoughtless maidens who have met their inane-attentive half way and flirted with them.

THE MARRIED "BACHELOR."

'Tis sweet to think that where'er we rove We are sure to find something blissful and dear. And that when we're far from the lips we love, We've but to make love to the lips that are near.

There is a class of men who think it quite an art to pose as single when they are away from home. They have no particular object in so doing save to experiment on the rumors they have heard that very little attention is paid to the wants of the married man. The bachelor, it is said, is catered to and all thorns are stripped from the roses that are laid in his path. He doesn't say in so many words that he is a bachelor. He allows people to infer it from his casual remarks that he is living home with his mother, but does not add that his wife and children are also there.

What business is it of anyone's that his family are all at some distant resort and he spends his two weeks' vacation nearer home and alone? The good matchmaking mammas who have wormed the information from him that he lives with mother are quick to spread the fact, while gossiping on the porch, that the newcomer is a bachelor.

That starts the ball of his popularity. He is included at once in the daily yachting parties that are gotten up and invited to join the dances in the ballroom of an evening. Choice seats are saved for him on automobile trips and it's always next to the prettiest girl, who he finds is a charming conversationalist. The mothers vie with each other in making it pleasant for him.

If he overtakes a group of girls who are sauntering on the beach, they welcome him with shining eyes, smiles and heightened color in their dimpled cheeks. They share their bouquets and baskets of fruit with him. There's tacit rivalry between the girls as to which shall walk by his side.

No matter how carefully he guards his secret, in a thoughtless moment it is sure to leak out, oftentimes in the most trivial manner. One of the girls by his side may take mining steps, which rather frets a man with a long stride. He exclaims, without thinking: "The gowns of you girls of today are certainly picturesque; but you don't all seem to have mastered the situation of such tight skirts. They ought to have been made wider; four bands of elastic, a foot apart, would accomplish this pullback appearance and keep the wearer from coming to grief. That's the way my wife does."

The look of frozen horror on the girls' faces shows him his blunder. In less time than it takes to tell it the girls make excuses to hurry back to the hotel. By the time he reaches his hostelry the news has spread. The so-called bachelor is a married man. He deserves the snubs he gets from the girls and their mammas.

SHOULD A POOR MAN WED AN OVER-AMBITIOUS GIRL?

A rich man's son inherits a rare. The bank may break, the lot may burn. His soft white hands could hardly earn a living that would serve his state. There is some sense in a man's saying: In being merely rich and great.

It seems a pity that a good young man should dip into life's lottery bag with eyes blindfolded when it comes to selecting a sweetheart. If he has to work for his living, he usually has neither time nor inclination to do much looking around. The girl he is brought in contact with he is quite sure must be the right one for him. To be sure she is high-spirited, with a taste for enjoyment and a knack of dressing better than her girl friends. He is proud of the attention she attracts when he takes her out. He laughs at her many little quips, causing passersby to think they must surely have stepped out of a fine automobile which they left at the curb, and at the same time cries: "Oh, if it were only true!"

He sees her eyes follow wistfully the finely gowned women whom they pass and whose jewels flash and sparkle in the light. "I would look as well as any of them," she whispers. "If I were only dressed as fine!" "You look far prettier to me in your little maid dress," he answers. In stead of a flash of a mounting her cheeks, she catches her breath with a sigh. After the wed it is a constant struggle for him to make enough money to supply the unnecessary things which she craves. He sees how ambitious she is in her every act and word. She wants a finer home than he can afford to pay rent for. Its furnishings instead of plain are extravagant. He is obliged to employ a maid of all work. By doing so he has to work extra hard, even though it saps his strength and vitality. As a last resort he commences to borrow whatever he can, though it is not bear to him when or how the debt is to be repaid. The woman whose ambition is far greater than her love fumes and frets when he speaks of curtailing her expenses. She cries out bitterly that it was a mistake to marry him, when she might have done so much better, that she was intended for wealth, not poverty. After angry bickering and at last downright quarrels, despite his entreaties, she packs up and goes home to mother.

While he is deliberating about going to fetch her back he is served with divorce papers, on the grounds of non-support. The law gives her her way. He has hardly got over the shock ere he reads in the paper of her remarriage, this time to a man of wealth. He hopes her ambition is satisfied at last. He wishes from the bottom of his heart that he could warn all other young men who are poor and without future prospects to think twice ere they fall in love with an over-ambitious girl!

Working Below the Sea. "Yes, sir; it seems simple enough to put on a diving dress and go down into the sea, but I can assure you that it is not quite so easy as it looks," said a deep-sea diver. "The farther one goes down below the water, the greater the pressure, and, consequently, the labor and exhaustion of working is greater.

"You would probably find 70 feet quite deep enough for your first dive. The pressure on your head would be so great that, not being used to it, your ears and nose might bleed. In diving the rate of ascent is important. If the diver is less than eighty feet below the surface he can be pulled up two feet a second with safety; for greater depths the rate of ascent must be slower."

BONDING FOR BRICK IN THE ENTIRE COUNTY

THIS MATTER CONFRONTS
THE PEOPLE OF SEMI-NOLE COUNTY

At a called meeting in the city hall Friday afternoon the question of bonding the county of Seminole for the sum of $500,000 for brick roads was discussed in all its phases. The meeting was only a preliminary meeting and was attended by representatives from many of the county precincts. It was called for the purpose of hearing expressions from the various sections of the county in regard to the county bonding. The people of Seminole county were promised good roads when the county was divided but it now occurs to the county commissioners and to many of the people of the county that spending money on any but hard surfaced roads is false economy and the subject of brick roads or sand or macadam roads brought up the subject of bonding the entire county as by no other means could the entire county be joined up with good roads. There is a stretch now between the special Sanford district and the Orange county line that will be necessary to brick and yet the road district in which the road lies is unable to bond for sufficient to make the road and in this case as in other precincts it is necessary to have Sanford district come in and assist in the entire county bond issue to raise a sum sufficient for the purpose as the Sanford district pays more than half the taxes for the entire county of Seminole. Under these conditions it is thought that the county issue will appeal to all the people as a half million bond issue will mean a good brick road to Oviedo, one to Geneva, one to the Lake county line and one to the Orange county line and the remainder of the roads in the county will then receive more attention and money. This road construction will make Seminole county one of the best paved counties in the entire south and the money will be well spent and being divided over the county will not fall heavily upon any tax payers. A committee having a member from each precinct was appointed by Chairman Forrest Lake to canvass the situation and at a later meeting report the expressions of the people throughout the entire county. Secretary Walter Haynes is preparing literature on the matter and the entire plan will be given in its entirety to the people in a few days. The committee will meet here Friday afternoon at 2:30 to make a report and investigate conditions and find if the proposition is feasible and approved.

Seeds Have Been Delayed

The seeds promised the people of this section by Congressman L'Engle to be distributed by The Herald have not arrived. After the manner of such things, they are probably tied up in red tape.

As soon as they arrive, notice will be immediately given. In the meantime all applications received will be carefully kept.

There seems to be some misapprehension about the seed. A number of our friends, in their requests to be served have specified the different sorts they would like to have. The seed will come in sealed packages—one package to each applicant. All we can do is to mail or hand them out; first come, first served. We have no right nor power to sort out nor distribute.

To Entertain the Press

The Florida Press Association will not only be entertained by the committee, board of trade, Elks Club, but the city also, realizing the value of advertising will appropriate not to exceed $400 for the purpose of entertaining and amusing the pencil shavers on occasions of their convention here, March 25-27.

"It pays to advertise," said Councilman Romfh, "and the newspaper men will give to Miami lots of space when they return. Ordinarily I am opposed to donations for every convention and meeting of one sort or another, but I believe this will be money well spent and I recommend that a sum not to exceed $400 be donated to the newspaper men's convention."

The motion carried unanimously. —Miami Herald.

Confidence in Stock

New York, March 8. More confident sentiment was reflected in the firmer and quieter stock market last week. There evidently was less fear of the company becoming involved with belligerent governments on account of reprisals affecting American commerce. Official optimism at Washington over Germany's reply to this government and the chances of British concessions helped this feeling. On the other hand the British plan to interdict German sea trade and the attempt to open the Dardanelles had the effect of increasing belief in rumors of peace prospects. Prompt disproval of some of these rumors established their purely conjectural nature.

Wheat's violent tumble was affected indifferently by fears of interrupted shipments through war measures and of release of Russian shipments and by rumors of cancellation of export orders on peace prospects. Foreign trade generally was affected by these influences. February's fourth week trade balance showed a marked decrease from preceding weeks, while foreign exchange rates stiffened. There were further sales of American securities from abroad. Private banking credit to foreigners and offerings of new German war loan notes were reported at Chicago and other western points. Several small imports of gold were received and more of the precious metal is in transit from Japan.

Favorable trade figures were drawn from iron and steel shows showing increase in February production and March 1 furnace capacity further expanded. The monthly enlarged steel shipments with lessened rate of new bookings, forecast a smaller increase in United States steel unfulfilled orders than last month. The price of refined copper rose again. A hull was reported in western freight tonnage and January earnings pointed to the severe economies in force.

Adjournment to congress was a favorable influence. Argument for western freight increases and Missouri's refusal to allow a 2 1/2 cent fare entered into calculations. Default of the western Pacific was without effect on the general bond market, which was broad and showed a strong undertone.

Your Christmas Money

Of the many good projects that are fronting me to time just before the public we doubt if any possess the merit of the Christmas Saving Club of the First National Bank. It will prove to be of great benefit to those who will look into it which means that they will join it. Christmas is always a financial worry to paternal families who by custom and usage must not only make gifts, but supply the family with the necessary raiment and other incidentals. The problem has been solved by the Christmas Saving Club which makes it so easy for one and all to have some ready cash for Christmas time that it would be surprising if everyone in Sanford does not become a member. Who would miss 25c a week? And yet, by paying this small sum into their Christmas Saving account each week they would receive $13.00 two weeks before Christmas. This is but one class. There are others such as the 2c or 5c progressive which means in the former instance $16.40 for Christmas and in the latter $41.00. If you have not already done so call in at the National Bank, where the genial officials will be pleased to give you any further information you may desire. The club has started, and, as it costs nothing but the first payment to join you can lose nothing by following the crowd. It is also well to bear in mind that failure to pay any week does not forfeit the money you deposited.

Buttons for the Gang

Buttons similar to those used during the Knights of Dade festival will be distributed here on the occasion of the Florida Press Association's convention to be held in Miami on March 25, 26 and 27. Elaborate plans for entertaining the delegates are being made by the board of trade, Elks Club and several others and it is expected that the pencil shavers will enjoy themselves to the limit while here.

The buttons ordered and which will arrive within a few days, bear the seal of the state with his royal highness pointing to Miami and around this setting will be neatly engraved "Florida Press Association, Miami, March 25, 26, 27, 1915." —Miami Herald.

FLORIDA MONTE CARLO PULLED FRIDAY NIGHT

SWELL GAMBLING RESORT
AT PALM BEACH CAUGHT
IN TOILS OF THE LAW

Palm Beach, March 8.—John and Edward Bradley, who live at the Biltmore, New York City, have been arrested here on a charge of operating a gambling house at the Beach Club. The raid was made Friday night after two months of detective work on the part of a sleuth from Paris, France who masqueraded as a millionaire and claimed to have seen the games actually going on, attended by members of "the 400." Several times previously the place has been under investigation, but charges have failed to materialize. The grand jury is now making a thorough probe.

The investigation started by Governor Trammell of Florida involves as witnesses seventeen other men, some of them of national prominence.

So quietly was the raid made by Sheriff George B. Baker, late Friday night that 300 people in the building, come there for dinner parties knew nothing of the arrests.

The Bradley brothers appeared Saturday afternoon before County Judge D. F. Patterson in West Palm Beach and entered a plea of not guilty. They were represented by ex-Judge I. W. Metcalf, and no statement whatever was made. They were released under $5,000 bail each, the mayor of West Palm Beach, E. N. Dimmick and G. G. Strohm, a leading business man there, going on their bonds. At the same time in another room of the court house the grand jury started the taking of testimony, announcing that the hearing of evidence would continue on Monday.

They examined Colonel James M. Schoonmaker, vice president of the New York Central lines, Charles I. Cragin, of the Fourth Street National Bank, Philadelphia, who own Reve d'Ete, one of the handsomest country places here, A. H. Gleason, of New York, Ralph J. French, general manager of the Metropolitan Detective Agency, Jacksonville, and Theodore Bauer of the agency, who made the complaint.

Subpoenas to issue before the jury have been issued for ex-Mayor John F. Fitzgerald, of Boston, his brother, Henry H. Fitzgerald, John F. Harris, one of the leading steel brokers of the country; LITTLETON Fox, of Philadelphia; Harry S. Black, president of the United States Realty Company, of New York; Thomas D. Shevlin of Minneapolis, the former Yale football star; Henry Gleason, a New York lawyer, W. C. Bryant, a manufacturer of Bridgeport, Conn.; Peter Vreedenburg and Thomas Vreedenburg, manufacturers of Springfield, Conn.; John Lynder, of Carlisle, Pa.; Franklin Pettit and Robert Franklin, Adams, of New York.

John Bradley when asked for a statement said: "We are running a restaurant at the Beach Club, nothing else. The Governor is acting at the instance of a banker and merchant in West Palm Beach, who is playing politics. Five times this club has been investigated by a grand jury for some such underlying motive and no evasion of the law has ever been found."

Charles I. Cragin, seen at the entrance of the grand jury room, said he had frequently been to the club to dinner but could not testify he had ever seen gambling there.

Theodore Bauer testified that he was employed to get evidence, became a member of the club and played roulette and hazard there nightly except Sunday for about two weeks, and the gambling room was crowded with prominent men and women in evening dress, most of them playing for heavy stakes.

COTTON SHIPMENTS TO BE MADE ONLY TO NEUTRALS

AND NONE RE-SHIPED TO THE WARRING NATIONS OF EUROPE

Washington, D. C., Mar. 8.—The following statement was issued at the British embassy today on the subject of American cotton cargoes going to Europe.

"Many inquiries have been received as to the treatment to be accorded to cotton shipped to Europe in view of the restrictive measures proposed to be taken by the allied governments.

"As already announced there is no question of confiscating cotton cargoes that may come within the scope of the order in council to be administered. The following arrangement has been come to in London as to cotton consigned to neutral ports only:

"One. All cotton for which contracts of sale and freight engagements had already been made before March 2 to be allowed free for bought at contract prices, if stopped, provided ships sail not later than March 17.

"Two. Similar treatment to be accorded to all cotton insured before March 2, provided it is purchased before that date. The British government claims no protection to be declared before sailing and documents produced to and certificates obtained from consular agents or other authority held by government. Ships or cargoes consigned to enemy ports will not be allowed to proceed."

The arrangement is said by the British ambassador to have been made to meet a monetary demand that Americans had made contracts for the delivery of cotton to the neutral countries of northern Europe.

The statement that "ships or cargoes consigned to enemy ports will not be allowed to proceed," was explained to mean that in the case of cotton ships, at least where the shipments were made before March 1, or before the announcement of the British intention to stop all supplies to Germany, the cargo will be taken by the British at its invoiced value. In the case of cotton ships, the cargo will be taken by the British at its invoiced value. In the case of cotton ships, the cargo will be taken by the British at its invoiced value.

Sandy Anderson Injured

Sandy Anderson met with an accident Saturday night that almost put him out of the running. While going home on his motorcycle on Park avenue late in the evening he turned out to give a passing auto the road and ran full tilt into an auto that was standing at the curb with all the lights darkened. When picked up he had a broken collar bone and was badly bruised.

Mr. Anderson is recovering from the accident rapidly and expects to be out again in a few days and his friends are rejoicing that he suffered nothing more serious. It was a miraculous escape from death when Sandy catapulted over the handle bars into the car.

The law does not require cars standing still at the curbing to have lights and this will cause many accidents of this kind along the city streets. With the lights of a passing car in the eyes it is difficult to see a "dead" car standing at the curb.

We Will All Be There

The Commercial Club will be there and all those who do not belong to the club will be there to give in their names. The meeting of the Commercial Club next Friday night should be one of the best of the season.

Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Cox have returned to Sanford after an absence of several years and Mr. Cox has his former position with the department store of D. A. Caldwell & Sons. He has been managing one of the branch stores for Oscar Davis & Co. at New Smyrna.

Former Resident Dies

The following from the Cleveland, Ohio Plain Dealer will be of interest to Sanford's older residents:

Thomas Frederick Huggins, widely known insurance man, died last night at his residence, 98 Wymore-av., East Cleveland. Death was caused by a complication of diseases.

Mr. Huggins was born in Cincinnati, Jan. 10, 1855, and has been a resident of Cleveland for the past forty-eight years. He has been identified with the United States Fidelity & Guaranty Co., 1412-1415 Illuminating building, for about ten years. At the time of his death he was vice-president of the company.

A widow and three children, Licia, Margaret and Frederick survive. Funeral arrangements have not been completed, but the services will be held sometime Monday from the residence.

Mr. Huggins came to Sanford in 1885 from Cleveland, returning to Cleveland in spring of 1895. He was engaged in the orange packing business.

Newspaper Change

A Kissimmee dispatch says Gordon Nye and wife, who have been editing and managing the Kissimmee Valley Gazette for the past ten months left Saturday for New York, where Mr. Nye has accepted a position with the New York Daily Call as city editor. By their work here the position of the Gazette as one of the foremost papers of the state has been greatly enhanced and the Florida press, as well as their many personal friends will greatly miss them.

Mr. Nye goes to his work fully capable of handling all tasks. He was recently managing editor of the Milwaukee Leader and the Chicago World during its sensational political fight. He came to Kissimmee from the Chicago American as head of its promotion department. Mr. Nye is a well known socialist and has been a prominent editorial contributor to the Call and other party organs for several years past. His cartoon work has also gained him a reputation over the country. It is safe to say that in his departure Florida loses one of its ablest newspaper men. E. E. Naugle, recently managing editor of the Florida Metropolis takes Mr. Nye's place.

Royally Entertained

Members of the Florida Press Association who will come to Miami March 25, 26 and 27, will be royally entertained if the plans of the committee, of which W. N. Urmev is the chairman, are carried out. There will be a big banquet of some sort, either a fish dinner on the beach or dinner in one of the hotels here, automobile and boat rides and a trip to the Davie farm.

The Elks have generously offered the use of their club house for the meetings and headquarters of the visitors, and there the pen-pushers will congregate for the transaction of business and for the social meetings.

A reception for the visiting women is also to be planned, but nothing definite has been done in regard to this. The entertainment committee will be ready to announce its program of amusements within a few days, and the cooperation of the citizens of Miami will be asked. —Miami Metropolis.

CONGRESS CLOSES A VERY IM- MOR- TANT SESSION

THE SIXTY-THIRD CONGRESS
ACCOMPLISHED MUCH IN LEGISLATION

"A great congress has closed its session. Its work will prove the purpose and the quality of its statesmanship more and more the longer it is tested." President Wilson thus sums up the work of the Sixty-third congress, which held three sessions and was brought to an end on Saturday. It completed the first two-year span of the Democratic administration. The congress was overwhelmingly Democratic as to the house and the party also had a fair working majority in the senate. The Sixty-fourth congress, which will be called into action next fall unless conditions arise that compel the President to convene it in extra session at an earlier date, also will have a Democratic majority in both houses, but a greatly reduced one in the house, while there will be a small gain in the senate for the party in power.

The President urges all Americans to return to the work of straightening out business conditions that have become somewhat tangled because of the war in Europe, urging constructive endeavor along all lines. "The constant thought of every patriotic man should now be for the country, its peace, its order, its just and tempered judgment," says the president. While this will not calm the jinglers' spirits it is sound sense and good advice.

The Sixty-third congress enacted much constructive legislation. It set a mark for future congresses and outstripped any of its predecessors. Whether the people shall have learned to appreciate this class of legislation by the time the next election rolls around will determine the fate of the Democratic party, as to whether it is to succeed itself or be thrust aside for the reorganized Republican party. Many of the new laws have yet to be tried out. They are in an experimental stage, as all new legislation must be for a time. Unusual conditions have also arisen during the life of the Sixty-third congress—the European war being, of course, the principal one—and this new legislation cannot be tried out as fully or as properly as would be the case did normal conditions prevail here and throughout the civilized world.

The Sixty-third congress has been a working congress. Beginning with the extra session called by President Wilson on April 7, 1913, the congress has been at work a total of 637 days.

Principal enactments by the Sixty-third congress were:

The Underwood-Simmons tariff act, which revised the tariff downward.

An income tax law.

Reorganization of the currency system by creation of a federal reserve board, with regional reserve banks, which provides a more elastic system of currency and is a protection to the banking world and the depositors.

Supplemented and strengthened the anti-trust law, by passing the Clayton law and creating a federal trade commission which will have power to examine the business transactions of any concern doing an interstate trade, and to point the way to punishment of transgressors.

Repealed the act exempting American vessels from payment of tolls on the Panama canal.

Directed the building of a government owned railway in Alaska, to cost $35,000,000.

Passed an act to regulate dealings on cotton exchanges.

Legislation that failed of passage included:

The government ship purchase bill, urged by President Wilson, which was intended to curb the monopoly of ocean freight carriers.

Conservation measures urged by the President to protect the country from the seizure of its waterpower sites by private corporations.

A bill to grant enlarged governmental functions to the Philippines.

The congress also refused to pass resolutions calling for amendments to the constitution to provide for woman's suffrage and for nationwide prohibition.

Taken all in all, it was a great congress. Its acts will have a far-reaching effect upon the future conduct of the government.
