Gas Tax Eyed For $112 Million Road Work

By MICHEAL BEHA Herald Staff Writer

(Second of two articles). Tough political decisions face Seminole County officials as they search for ways to finance more than $112 million in highway improvements needed over the hext 20 years.

Public Works Director, Jack Schuder said county officials will have to increase revenue sources from the state, federal and local levels to pay for the needed im-

Among the options are imposition of a 1cent county tax on gasoline, removal of the state's exemption on gasoline from the state's 5 percent sales tax, an increase in license fees and construction of toll roads, Schuder explained.

The state's current 8-cent tax on gasoline is divided up between the state, county and municipal governments. The state receives 4 cents. Two cents go to the counties, the cities get I cent and the eighth cent is divided between the counties and

But state law provides the option of levying an additional penny tax on the local level if approved by voters. Seminole County officials have expressed no interest in putting the matter on the ballot.

That extra penny could mean $700,000 to $800,000 a year to county budget makers.

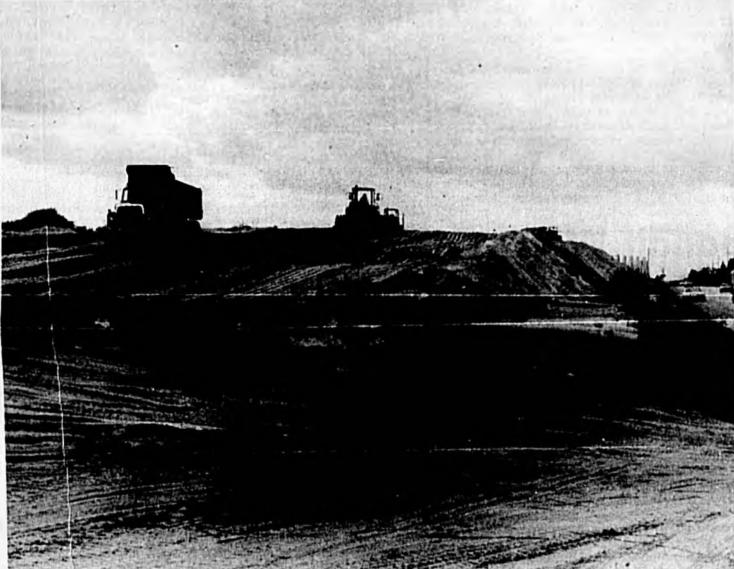

About the same amount of money would be generated by a removal of the sales tax exemption on gasoline. Schuder said a probable breakdown of money generated from that action would bring I penny to the county, I penny to the cities and 3 cents to Schuder said pressure is building on state legislators to take some action to free up funds for road development in areas which are experiencing rapid growth.

He recently attended a citizens' commission meeting in Orlando from which three recommendations emerged. Those recommendations were to remove the sales tax exemption, to allow local governments to impose the additional penny tax without holding a referendum and to increase license fees for all vehicles.

Under the proposal, license fees on personal vehicles would go up 50 percent, fees on vehicles over 5,000 pounds would double and on larger commercial vehicles the fees would triple.

An important source of new revenue for roads could be the 5 cent per gallon gasoline tax proposed by President Reagan, Schuder said. Depending upon the distribution of funds generated by the tax, the county could receive $500,000 to $1 million annually.

Tons of earth are shaping up to form the approach to the overpass being constructed over the Seaboard Coast Line Railroad crossing on West State Road 46 at Sanford. The $2.46 million project is scheduled for completion by January 1984. The general contractor is RGK, Inc., of Burlington, N.C. Work began in May on the overpass which will relieve delays for vehicles at the crossing. The improvement is typical of the many highway projects needed in Seminole County.

That money could be used in a bond issue to finance construction, Schuder sald. Another potential revenue source is a toll

"We should look closely at putting in some toll expressways. After some years that would generate some excess funds which could be pledged in a bond issue,"

Schuder said. That concept would probably require the county to pledge a certain amount of money from its general fund to back up the receipts of the toll road for the first few years, Schuder said. But after that the toll road would likely become a money maker, helping to support other projects.

Seminole County has taken the first step toward creating toll roads by reestablishing its Expressway Authority. The five county commission members, Sanford Commissioner David Farr and Altamonte Springs Commissioner Lee Constantine serve on the authority.

Schuder said one toll road could connect Ovledo, one of the most rapidly growing residential areas in Seminole County, with the Westinghouse and Martin-Marietta facilities in Orange County, the University of Central Florida and Orlando International Airport. Another potential toll road is a four-lane elevated expressway above state Road 436 in Altamonte Springs. That toll road was proposed by a citizens' group which studied development needs along that highway.

Schuder said commissioners may want to pick an independent expressway authority to reduce the political problems. "Obviously there are some very tough political decsions to be made," he said. "Do we want to go to a 9 cent tax? Can we or should we design a tollway in the county knowing that initially it's going to take tax money as a back-up?

Selecting and purchasing rights-of-way for new highways also will be a difficult problem. Some developed areas will have to be traversed for some future projects. Schuder said.

An important part of the efforts will be public support, he said.

"If they understand where we're going and what we're trying to do, I think they'll back us." Schuder sald.

Charges Pending In Death Of Girl, 5

Herald Staff Writer

Police said today they are confident charges will be filed against two suspects in connection with the death of a 5-yearold girl believed to be Ursula Sunshine Assaid, whose body was found Wednesday in a burlap sack at the bottom of an Altamonte Springs retention pond. Suspects in the case are the girl's mother, Susan Barrett Assaid, 29, and her boyfriend, Donald Glenn McDougall, 26, who are being held by Riverside Calif police.

Police discovered the body of the padly-decomposed girl Wednesday in an 8-foot-deep pond near the Windsong Apartments on Ballard Street between Longwood and Maitland Avenues. Police and fire department divers searched the muck-filled water for about four or five hours before discovering the burlap sack, which contained the body as well as two, 10-pound metal weights.

Seminole County Medical Examiner Dr. G. V. Garay, said his autopsy has not yet been completed on the girl believed to be the young blonde-haired girl, but that he expects to finish the work today.

Garay said that because the body is so badly decomposed, "Dr. Thomas Hegert (Orange County's medical examiner) is also examining the bones and helping us try to make a positive identification of her and determine the cause of death. It takes longer to do an autopsy when the body is in this bad of shape." Police first learned of the young girl's fate after Riverside. Calif., police contacted them this week and told them where the girl's body could be found. Riverside police said Ms. Assaid, 29, the suspected dead girl's mother, walked into their station "extremely upset" and gave them information concerning the 5-year-old child.

Riverside police took Ms. Assaid and her boyfriend, McDougall, 26, into custody Tuesday night and are awaiting word from Altamonte Springs police as to whether or not charges will be filed against the couple.

If charges are not filed against the two, they will be released at 5 p.m. today under the state's attorney's speedy arraignment rule. The couple together with Ursula lived along Highland Street in Altamonte Springs just prior to leaving for California on Thanksgiving to seek employment.

"I don't anticipate that (releasing the couple) happening," said Altamente Springs police Lt. Ed Overman. "We're working as fast as we can now to get things together and I fee! we have a good case. I really don't believe they'll be freed."

Overman said that his department has received "numerous telephone calls from people who are concerned that the couple might be let go. Others have called saying they either knew the two or knew the little girl and have tried to help us by giving information on them."

"We even had one man who offered money if that's what it took for us to be able to make our 5 p.m. deadline today," Overman said. "He meant well but that isn't what it takes."

Police said callers have indicated that Ms. Assaid was a good mother but that since her involvement with McDougail, a self-proclaimed tennis pro with a violent nature, Ms. Assaid's personality changed.

Neighbors also told police there had been numerous loud fights at the Highland Street home while the trio lived in

EPA's Anne Gorsuch Cited For Contempt Of Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Environmental Protection Agency Administrator Anne Gorsuch, cited for contempt of Congress, says she still will obey President Reagan's orders not to reveal sensitive documents on hazardous waste cleanups.

A House public works panel headed by Rep. Elliott Levitas, D-Ga., voted, 9-2, Thursday to have Mrs. Gorsuch cited for contempt for refusing, on Reagan's orders, to provide several dozen documents concerning how the agency is implementing the $1.6 billion

"Superfund" to clean up hundreds of toxic waste sites. A House energy subcommittee chaired by Rep. John Dingell, D-Mich., planned today to grill EPA officials on the same issue. Mrs. Gorsuch has been subpoensed by that panel, but is not scheduled to testify until Dec.

Any contempt recommendations by subcommittees must be approved by parent committees and the full House before referral to the Justice Department for

"Dense Pack" MX Plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The MX missile, surviving its latest test by a tie vote, seems headed for more close tallies as Congress tries to settle the fate of the new weapon sought by President Reagan.

"We're not out of the woods yet," Rep. Jack Edwards, R-Ala., said Thursday after the House Appropriations Committee rejected efforts to cut MX funds from the Pentagon's 1983 appropriation.

The amendment by Rep. Joseph Addabbo, D-N.Y., failed on a 26-26 vote. Addabbo also lost in his bids to cut funds for the B-1 bomber and for one of two new aircraft carriers planned for

"I think the floor vote will be just as tough," said Edwards, who led the MX defense in committee.

The MX survived largely due to the administration's intense lobbying effort. Reagan, although on an official visit to South America, called several committee members to solicit their

Reagan later said he was pleased by the outcome despite the closeness of the vote. "I consider a win a win."

But, "we're not jumping up and down and claiming a victory because we know it's going to be a very tough battle on the floor," he said.

The $231 billion defense appropriations bill may reach the House floor Tuesday. Speaker Thomas O'Neill predicted "a tough battle" even to retain funding for further research and development on the missile.

Addabbo's amendment to cut $988 million earmarked for MX production was on the verge of a narrow win when Rep. Bill Alexander, D-Ark., who had passed when his name was first called, voted "no" at the end of the roll call. The amendment then failed on the tie, 26-26 vote.

A second amendment, to cut MX research and development money by $1.4 billion, failed on a voice vote.

Sen. Ernest Hollings, D-S.C., a leading MX opponent in the

The "dense pack" MX deployment system proposed by President Reagan differs significantly from previous plans. It would squeeze 100 of the new missiles into 20 square miles of hardened silos near Wyoming's Warren Air Force Base. The Multiple Protective Shelter Basing System -developed by the Carter administration would have dispersed 200 missiles in a network of 4,600 shelters covering 8,500 sq. miles.

Senate, said he was confident the administration's plan still will be rejected by Congress.

"After all the arm twisting the administration could muster they could still only manage to eke out a tie vote in a committee where they were supposed to be strong," Hollings said. Edwards said the United States cannot wait any longer to replace the older Minuteman missiles that are becoming increasingly vulnerable to Soviet attack. "We're already late with the MX," Edwards said, noting some 30 basing plans have been proposed and rejected in recent years as two administrations searched for a way to use the missile. Reagan recently announced his decision to place 100 MX missiles in superhardened silos near Warren Air Force Base in Wyoming using the so-called dense-pack basing system. Each of the missiles would carry 10 nuclear warheads.

During the committee debate, Addabbo held up a handful of letters and petitions he sald were signed by 1,300 Wyoming residents opposed to the MX in their state.

A University of Wyoming survey completed in early November before Reagan announced the MX basing mode showed the state's residents split evenly on whether the MX should be based in Wyoming.

The Air Force estimates the total costs of the MX program at $26 billion, but opponents say the costs could reach $50 billion.

As approved by the committee, the $231 billion appropriations bill is about 7.2 percent less than what the administration had requested. The Senate version of the bill also includes funds for the MX, the B-1 and the other major weapons sought by the Pentagon.

DRUG SUSPECTS ARRESTED A Lake Mary couple is free from the Seminole County jail today following their arrests Wednesday in a Sanford restaurant and lounge on drug-related charges.

Steven Ross Kiley, 25, and his wife, Carolyn, 20, of 530 Longwood-Lake Mary Road in Lake Mary, were arrested at The Barn, U.S. Highway 17-92 and 13th Street, Sanford, at about 9:36 p.m. Wednesday, after undercover agents purchased a quarter-pound of Sinsemillia, a high-grade marijuana, deputies sald.

Agents charged Kiley, a mechanic, with delivery, conspiracy to deliver and possession of more than 20 grams of marijuana, while also charging Mrs. Kiley, a barmaid at The Barn, with sale, delivery and conspiracy to deliver the illegal drug.

The couple was freed after posting $5,000 bond each, jail officials said.

GUN, CASH TAKEN FROM CAR

A .38-caliber revolver and $500 was stolen from an Altamonte Springs man's car between 6:30 p.m. Wednesday and 6:30 a.m. Friday. Thomas H. Sikes, 46, of 1203 E. Notre Dame, told deputies he left the gun and cash, which was in a bank deposit bag, lying or the seat of his locked car at his home. However, when he returned to his vehicle, the gun and cash were gone and other items were strewn throughout the vehicle, deputies said. CAR RAMS HOME NEAR ALTAMONTE

When Doris Hutchinson went to check on a loud crash in the living room of her Altamonte Springs home Thursday, she found a car there and immediately sought to help its occupants. But there wasn't anyone in the wrecked vehicle.

Police said a 1974 Ford, which was reported stolen from Joanne J. Hart's home at Frenchman's Cove Apartments, Winter Park, crashed through the walls of Mrs. Hutchinson's home at about 2:30 a.m. Thursday. Investigators said that the car's three unidentified occupants fled before authorities arrived on the scene. According to Florida Highway Patrol officials, the runaway vehicle reached speed of about 70 mph as it traveled along Northwestern Avenue near Altamonte Springs, hit a slight dip in the road as it crossed LaSalle Drive and became airborne. Troopers said when the car landed, it skidded 117 feet and struck Mrs. Hutchinson's concrete block house at 2543 LaSalle

Troopers said about $2,000 damage was caused to the home and the vehicle was demolished. Troopers added that the car's occupants were probably injured in the crash because clumps of hair were found imbedded in the windshield.

Neighbors told troopers that three males were seen running in different directions from the area at the time of the crash.

Welfare Reforms Are Working

Concern about the number of Americans who have lost their jobs in the recession has diverted attention from those who were on the lowest rung of the ladder to begin with — people on welfare.

The Health and Human Services Department reports that welfare reforms enacted in 1981 appear to be succeeding. Even though we are in the worst recession in a generation, the number of welfare cases has been declining.

HHS says the 10.4 million adults and children receiving welfare aid in the fiscal year just ended represents a decline of 700,000 from the previous year, and the total is expected to remain the same in the year ahead. Combined federal and state expenditures for the biggest welfare program -Aid to Families with Dependent Children — are down by 13 percent.

The savings has permitted some states to increase the amount of benefits paid to those who remain on the welfare rolls. This was one of the aims of the administration's reforms - to increase benefits to the "truly needy" by removing the undeserving from the rolls.

What has happened to those who lost their eligibility for welfare? Linda McMahon, head of the HHS Office of Family Assistance, says they are getting along on other resources, which they could have done all along.

When President Reagan announced his determination to cut the cost of welfare programs, he promised that a "safety net" would see that those who are really in need continue to receive help. One year into his program, the net appears to be holding.

Andropov Emerges

The manner of Yuri Andropov's sudden emergence to take the reins of Soviet leadership upon the death of President Leonid Brezhnev tells us something of the man's skill and ambition. But, because he headed the dreaded secret police for 14 years, that also tells us the KGB has become the most significant power base within the Communist Party.

According to reliable reports from Moscow, when the ruling Politburo convened behind locked doors immediately after President Brezhnev's death, Premier Nikolai Tikhonov, a Brezhnev protege, was nominated to be the new general secretary by Konstantin Chernenko. Tikhonov, who is 77, declined on grounds of his age and thereupon nominated Chernenko, known to have been favored by Brezhnev as his heir. At this point, Defense Minister Dmitri F. Ustinov interrupted with a declaration that there was no need for further discussion because he and certain other members of the Politburo had already agreed that Andropov should be the new general secretary.

That, simply, was that. With the KGB and the military united behind Andropov, Chernenko was reduced to nominating his chief rival. Within minutes of Leonid Brezhnev's funeral on Nov. 15, Andropov demonstrated a sure grasp of authority by greeting the long line of presidents, prime ministers, and ambassadors as though he had long been head of the Soviet state.

And within days, Andropov saw his KGB ally and regional party chief, Gaydar Aliyev, 59, elevated to the 12-member Politburo. Then the Supreme Soviet (parliament) elected Andropov to its executive-committee presidium. And, although Andropov was not elected as some had predicted to be presidium chairman or president to fill the Brezhnev vacancy, his man Aliyev was named first deputy premier, granting him the status of economic czar.

Because of the advanced age of Politburo members, Andropov will soon be able to place more of his own men on that all-powerful body. Enjoying a firm foundation through his hold over the KGB and his alliance with the military that Brezhnev never had, we should expect a much more authoritative figure at the Kremlin's gears and much more action.

But even as Andropov consolidates his authority swiftly and vigorously, we should not forget he is only seven years younger than Brezhnev.

to the bar" actually means? Where or what is

Well, I gained a little insight to those two mysteries of life as I watched three people, one of whom was also named a Seminole assistant state attorney, being "admitted to the bar."

Kurt Erhlenbach, his wife, Susan, and Tom Hastings took their oaths before Circuit Judge Robert B. McGregor this week at the Seminole County courthouse. They are now "real attorneys" as one prosecutor put it.

As they recited the oath with raised right hands, the potential lawyers stood on the courtroom audience side of the partition which separates the onlookers from the prosecution and defense lawyers tables and the judge's bench. McGregor stood on the opposite side of the partition.

Now, who can answer the question of "what is the bar?"

The "bar" is the partition. Now on to the

At the close of the oath, McGregor "admitted" the state-authorized lawyers to the bar by opening the gate in the partition and allowing them to enter the "inner-sanctum" where few dare to tread, unless you're also an attorney, judge, trial clerk, court reporter, baliff, defendant or witness.

Following the ceremony, witnesses by wellwishers, friends and other lawyers, Erhlenbach was sworn in as a Seminole assistant state at-

Tom Hastings, who also was admitted to the bar, is expected to be sworn in as a Seminole assistant state attorney, pending the completion of necessary paperwork.

Mrs. Erhlenbach has begun practicing law with a private law firm in Orlando following this week's swearing-in ceremony.

Prosecutors said at least two others are expected to be sworn in as assistant state attorneys soon, pending further formalities which are prerequisites to employment and added that Mark Omara also was sworn in Oct. 28 and is currently serving as an assistant state attorney in the misdemeanor section of the Sanford office.

Brushing Up On Progress In Dentistry

NEW YORK (UPI) - Rats sporting a device attached to a tooth are helping dental scientists test what may prove to be a magic bullet against decay.

Dr. William H. Bowen, of the National Institute of Dental Research, told the Greater New York Dental Meeting that the dental appliance releases fluoride at a slow, metered rate, resulting in a very dramatic reduction in

The scientist said growing evidence from the investigations indicates that fluoride exerts its maximum protective effect when it is present in the mouth continuously. His report was titled "Controlled Release Fluorides: A Magic Bullet?"

In addition to rats, the device also has been successfully tested in human volunteers. According to a report in the Journal of the American Dental Association, the fluoride implants may not only prevent decay, but may actually reverse the decay process as its carliest stages.

The implants tested in humans are the same width as a tooth and about half as thick as an aspirin tablet. They were glued to the first molar on either side of the upper jaw.

A different controlled release device was the topic of another report at the meeting, which attracted 30,000 dentists and is known as the largest and most comprehensive dental education seminar in the world.

Dr. J. Max Goodson, of Forsyth Dental Center, Boston, Mass., told of a device to combat periodontal gum disease, which is primarily caused by bacterial plaque, a sticky film that collects on teeth.

The device is placed within disease pockets in the gums. It releases antibacterial agents over a prolonged period to produce concentrations of the medicine which are about 100 times that possible when the drug is taken in pill form.

"Studies with tetracycline-loaded cellulose acetate hollow fibers have demonstrated that devices can be placed and maintained in periodontal pockets without patient discomfort, produce dramatic alteration of the microbial flora of the periodontal pocket and produce signs of clinical improvement," he said.

Goodson said preliminary clinical testing of these fibers suggests that the released drug approach may be comparable to that of conventional surgical approaches to periodontal treatment.

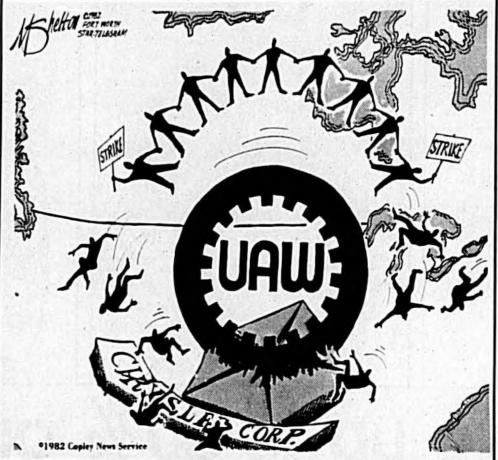

"If these observations can be verified by controlled clinical testing, non-surgical alternatives for effective periodontal therapy may become available," he said.

If periodontal disease progresses to the point where jawbone is destroyed researchers said new bone grafting implant material may be of assistance.

Dr. Stanford S. Rothstein, clinical project director at Sterling-Winthrop Research Institute, Rensselaer, N.Y., said one type of the implantable mesh is used to restore bony defects that result from chronic destructive periodontal disease. It is called Durapatite.

"The success of this unique material has proved predictable, thus enabling people to retain their teeth," he said.

Rothstein said it has a unique biologic profile. It is not toxic, does not cause an immune or inflammatory response and it bonds chemically to bone.

JEFFREY HART

Rebuffing The Bishops

Open letter to Catholic Bishops.

Though this response to your proposed pastoral message on atomic warfare is going to be harsh, it is not possible for a Catholic to remain silent in the face of this document. To the degree that the proposed teaching is taken seriously - an open question - its recommendations would represent a clear threat to the survival of the United States and an invitation to the totalitarianization of the world.

This nation stands as the longest-lived and most successful self-governing republic in the history of mankind. The 18th-century republicans who fought the revolution were remarkably young men, breath-takingly so for such a historic enterprise. In 1776, Alexander Hamilton was 21, James Madison was 25, Thomas Jefferson 33, and George Washington a vernerable 44. But they were clear headed, and when they won our national independence the Constitution they wrought was a magnificent piece of statecraft. There are times when I believe that the framers of that document were divinely inspired.

And now, in your proposed pastoral, you are endangering all of that in a flurry of confused and contradictory thinking - and, yes, it seems to me, under circumstances that suggest bad faith.

Let us consider the charge of bad faith first, even though it is customary to "respect the motives" of a position you are criticizing. But the timing of this proposed pastoral is very suspicious. The United States has pursued a policy of deterrence for the past 37 years. During all that period of time, we were not informed that deterrence violates Catholic moral teaching. American policy makers had every reason to believe that the Church approved of deterrence. What had been lawful, suddenly is declared unlawful. The principle of deterrence has not changed, but the bishops' teaching has suddenly changed. What does that tell us about the principles that inform such teaching? That according to such principles, white can all of a sudden became black?

I notice that Archbishop Joseph Bernardin has made it onto the cover of Time magazine. Hooray. But I wonder if it has occurred to him that he has become a celebrity not because of any contribution to religion, but because he has joined a secular - and fashionable political cause.

When you examine the details of the proposed pastoral, the thinking exhibited in it is embarraisingly confused.

For example, because of advances in technology, the United States has been able to move from a posture of targeting cities to one of targeting enemy weapons themselves. This shift began under the Carter administration, which reached the conclusion that the Soviets had developed the ability to threaten the U.S.

Such more precise targeting would on the face of it seem to be congenial to Catholic teaching, because it seeks to limit civilian damage. It also improves the prospects for deterrence.

The pastoral is not only oblivious to all this, but also speaks in contradictory terms. It condemns both the use of nuclear weapons for the purpose of destroying population centers or other predominantly civilian targets and "the willingness to foster strategies which seek a nuclear-war fighting capacity." Thus, we are to target neither the cities nor the weapons of the other side. As my formidable journalistic colleague Edwin Yoder has written on this point, "Unfortunately the only strategy that obeys both strictures is no strategy at all."

Mr. Yoder is right on the mark, but excessively gentle.

In truth, the proposed teaching is pacifist and unilateralist in tendency. It longs for a catastrophe for the West.

It is pertinent here to ask the fundamental question, "What would Christ do?" After all, the bishops claim to speak in His name.

I notice that though Christ went to His death on the Cross, He did not require that other people be crucified. He suffered; He did not impose suffering upon others. But the bishops are in effect recommending crucifixion to all Americans, including non-Christians.

Nor are they themselves hurrying toward the Cross, but rather, onto the cover of Time. As John Milton wrote in "Lycidas" regarding the bishops of his own time, "The hungry sheep look up and are not fed."

Doctors Call For Surgery On The FTC

WASHINGTON (NEA) - If medical lobbyists have their way, the Federal Trade Commission will be stripped of its authority over state-regulated professions and professional societies. Proponents of this plan will make a major last-ditch effort to have Congress pass it in the current lame duck session. Observers believe that it's now or never for the measure, since a more liberal House will arrive in January.

The FTC has long been a thorn in the side of professional societies, such as the American Medical Association, the American Dental Association, and state and local professional societies. In 1979, these societies began to strike back; since then, they have lobbied Congress, trying to have it prohibit the FTC from regulating the professions.

In the 97th Congress, this effort led to the introduction, in both the House and the Senate, of measures stripping the FTC of this authority - and proponents are now trying to have this ban approved before final adjournment.

In the AMA's view, FTC bureaucrats want nothing more than to regulate the practice of medicine in the United States. As AMA President Dr. Joseph Boyle said recently, "They (the FTC) want to intrude into medical-specialty societies who have said that before surgeons can perform certain procedures, they should have completed a training program and passed an examination to prove they are competent." As the AMA tells it, if the FTC continues to regulate professions, peer review of physicians will be impossible, a podiatrist will be able to call himself a brain surgeon, and quacks will flood

This view is vigorously opposed by the FTC and its chairman, James Miller. What's interesting is that Miller is a Reagan appointee who was given his job because he shares the administration's anti-regulatory views. In fact, before becoming FTC chairman, Miller was executive director of the President's Task Force on Regulatory Relief.

Miller currently is under fire from consumer groups for scaling back the FTC's enforcement actions. But he and the administration are battling any change in the current law concerning FTC jurisdiction over the professions.

Miller says simply, "We have not, nor will we, involve ourselves in the scope of medical practice. What we do involve ourselves in are the commercial aspects of professional practice: price fixing, restraints on truthful advertising, fraud and deception, boycotts and kickbacks."

In defending its performance, the FTC offers a three-page list of actions that it has brought since the late 1970s. In these, it challenged fee structures set by medical societies; doctors' boycotts of health maintenance organizations or hospitals who hired emergency room physicians at a flat fee, rather than a fee-for-service basis; kickbacks paid to physicians by medical labs; medical societies' refusal to let members advertise fee structures, foreign languages spoken or a doctor's acceptance of Medicare or prepaid medical plans; and the refusal by physicians - especially eye doctors - to give patients prescriptions so they could have them filled elsewhere.

The AMA defends it assertion that the FTC is interfering with medical-specialty societies. An AMA spokesman cites the FTC's 1978-79 investigation of the American Board of Plastic Surgery: If the FTC had had its way, says the AMA, a doctor with no training could have called himself a plastic surgeon.

Refugees Between Rock, Hard Place

BERRY'S WORLD

"I SAY, Guv'! Want to hear the latest rumor

WASHINGTON - President Reagan is scheduled to visit Honduras Saturday. One subject he might raise with Honduran President Roberto Suazo Cordova is the plight of Salvadoran refugees and the United Nations workers who are trying to protect them.

The refugees and the U.N. workers are caught between two military forces - the Salvadoran army, which is fighting a seesaw civil war against leftist guerrillas in the border area, and the Honduran army, which has been trying to keep the guerrillas from retreating across the border into Honduras.

All the U.N. workers are interested in is the safety of the thousands of Salvadoran peasants who have tled their homeland to escape the civil war. Though most of them have no motive other than to save their own lives, it's not always easy to tell the difference between a legitimate refugee and a guerrilla who has stashed his weapon in the jungle and plans to return to El Salvador to fight again. The result is that every refugee is regarded with suspicion by the Hondurans, who are equally distrustful of the U.N. personnel in the refugee camps. In recent cables to the U.N.'s High Commissioner on Refugees Paul Hartling, the refugee workers in Honduras have complained of repeated harassament by the Honduran military, which they accused of making illegal searches of the U.N. reception centers and terrorizing refugees and U.N. employees alike.

"During military operations conducted in certain border areas, two refugee reception centers, La Guarita and La Virtud, have been searched and closed," one cable reported. The U.N. workers were ordered out by the Honduran military: the fate of one who refused to leave was not known.

The two centers were reopened last weekend, apparently in response to an urgent cable from Hartling to the Honduran president. The secret message, a copy of which was seen by my associate Lucette Lagnado, referred to the search and closure of the U.N. reception centers at La Guarita and La Virtud. It added:

"The refugee camps at La Colomoncagua. El Tesoro and San Antonio, which have in them a total of approximately 7,000 refugees, are close to the sone of (military) operations. I am profoundly concerned with the ... physical security of the refugees, voluntary agencies and the personnel of my office." The U.N. high commissioner expressed the hope that the Honduran president shared his concern for the refugees and the relief workers "and that appropriate actions will be taken to assure the protection of those con-

What really worries some observers is the possibility that the Honduran army may eventually close the reception centers permanently and establish a "free fire" zone along the border.

It is already difficult and dangerous for Salvadorans to escape into the relative safety of Honduras. The U.N. refugee workers have roving motorized patrols, with U.N. flag flying, which operate along the border and direct the frightened refugees to the reception

If the U.N. reception centers are closed and the rescue patrols forced out of business, the area will become a true no-man's land. The border will be effectively sealed, and the Salvadoran peasants wil be left to the tender mercles of the leftist guerrillas or the Salvadoran army.

Another mother said she hopes her two children in elementary school will not have to repeat a grade because there is not enough money to keep classes operating.

Hazel Pemberton and Glenda Colvin, both of Evergreen, sald they were concerned that a reduction in state funding could force their children out of public schools.

Their concerns arose from the financial problems of one south Alabama county, but officials claim the scene is similar to situations that could develop in other Southern states that are feeling the pinch of a tight economy.

In the case of Conecuh County, about 3,000 students and 180 teachers would be affected if schools close Dec. 10 as planned. The closings, approved by the local school board several weeks ago, were partially due to proration of the state's education

Proration is an across-the-board reduction of disbursements that is made to accommodate a shortfall in revenues. Gov. Fob James declared 10 percent proration in October because the state's primary education taxes — income and sales — were not bringing in revenues at anticipated levels.

Conecuh County School Superintendent Walter B. Hudson said proration contributed to the county schools' $200,000 in debts, which are growing by the day.

He said his system receives about 7 percent of its money from local governments and about 93 percent from the state. So, when state funds were cut back 10 percent, the system was forced to borrow money to meet its obligations, he said.

"In a lot of counties, the local support is a lot higher," Hudson said, "but lots of people here are opposed to new

State education officials claim the situation is complicated by the fact that teacher salaries cannot be prorated, therefore budget reductions cut deeper into operational expenses.

In Conecuh County, a state evaluation team has been reviewing the school finances in an attempt to formulate possible solutions. The City of Evergreen has also contributed $150,000 to the system to help keep the schools open. But officials claim the county needs a continuous source of revenue and not a one-time shot in the arm. The Conecuh County Commission has discussed a countywide one-cent sales tax for schools, but has not voted on it.

The search for a solution has revitalized old arguments over whether states or local governments should pay for educating

Randy Quinn, executive director of the Alabama Association of School Boards, proposed the creation of an incentive fund about four years ago that could be used to convince local governments of the benefits of increasing local educational support.

And state School Superintendent Wayne Teague has eyed reforms that would tied education revenues to more stable taxes.

The income and sales taxes, he claims, are unstable because they fluctuate with changes in the economy. Alabama property taxes, which are the lowest in the nation, are more reliable, he

While education officials continued to wrestle over possible solutions, the students and parents of Conecuh County waited anxiously for word on the school closing.

Harris Is UCF Speaker

Dr. Joseph A. Boyd, chairman and chief executive officer of Harris Corporation, of Melbourne, will address 993 graduating University of Central Florida students at Fall commencement on Friday, Dec. 17.

UCF will confer 840 undergraduate and 153 graduate degrees from programs in arts and sciences, business administration, education, engineering, health and liberal

An audience in excess of 3,000 is expected at the 7 p.m. ceremony in UCF's gymnasium.

Boyd, who blends experience as professor, scientist and business executive, was named 1982 Florida Industrialist of the Year by the Museum of Science and Industry for his leadership in developing Harris Corporation into a major electronics company.

Prior to joining Harris Corporation, Boyd was a professor of electrical engineering and director of the Institute of Science and Technology at the University of Michigan for 13 years. He received his bachelor's and master's degrees in electrical engineering from the University of Kentucky and his doctorate from the University of Michigan.

Seminole's Fastbreak Buries Apopka, 64-37

By CHRIS FISTER Herald Sports Writer

Behind a relentless defensive attack and a devastating fast-break Seminole's 1-ady Seminoles cruised to a 64-37 rout of Apopka Thursday night at Seminole High.

The Tribe opened the game with a fullcourt press that Apopka's Blue Darters had trouble breaking. The pressure defense enabled the 'Noles to cause numerous turnovers and take an early 14-

Sophomore guard Mona Benton found herself on the end of Seminole fast breaks on plenty of occasions as she scored 14 of the Tribe's 18 first-quarter points. Benton, playing just three quarters of the game, led all scorers with 25 points. Diedre Hillery added nine points and six rebounds while Tammy Pringle netted eight points and pulled down seven rebounds.

"We ran well in the early going and played with a lot of poise," Seminole coach Ron Merthie said after his team evened its record at 1-1. "I was pleased with the improvement we made over the last game."

Once the Lady Seminoles gained a big lead, they never let Apopka back into the game. The Tribe kept up the defensive pressure throughout the first half as Apopka committed 21 turnovers (43 for the game). Seminole's biggest lead in the first half was 29-11 and they led at halftime, 31-17.

Because of Seminole's speed the Blue Darters found it impossible to press, thus Apopka had no chance to comeback in the second half.

"Speed is one of our high points," Merthie said. "I knew once we had a big lead it would be hard for Apopka to come back. We're not where we should be yet, but if we can continue to improve we will have a good year."

The humongous lead enabled Merthle to clear his bench and give all of his players much needed playing time. Arlene Jones, who ran into early foul trouble, chipped in with six points as did Teri Hardy while Maxine Campbell and Dee Goebelbecker added four points

Hard-Luck Pats Lose On Jumper

Talk about bad luck. Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots could just as easily be 2-0 instead of 0-2 but the chips, or basketballs, just haven't been falling in Brantley's direction.

After losing by a slim margin in the season opener, Lake Brantley came back and played an outstanding game against highly touted Lyman. This time the Patriots were just seven seconds away from winning when Lyman's Valerie "Pam" Jackson dribbled the length of the court and dropped in a 10-foot jumper at the buzzer to give the Lady Greyhounds a 37-36 victory in overtime.

"We started out sluggish in the first quarter and trailed by six at the half," Lake Brantley assistant coach Debbie Frank said. "Then we came out in the third quarter and outscored them 12-6.

The Patriots had their chances to win in regulation though. Late in the fourth quarter Lyman committed two turnovers but Lake Brantley failed to capitalize on them and the game went into overtime with the score, 33-33.

Lyman's Vikki McMurrer scored the first two points of the overtime to put Lyman up 35-33 but Linda Trimble came back and hit two free throws to tie the game. Trimble then fouled out of the game and her replacement, Tracey Meikle, made one of two free throws to give Brantley a 36-35 lead with seven seconds to go. Jackson then took the ball and the rest was history.

Rams' Glass Act Shatters Leesburg

By SAM COOK Herald Sports Editor

Let's see. Peggy's odd and Laura's even. No, that doesn't sound very nice. How about, Peggy's the ponytail and Laura's the wave. Well, Peggy's number 23 and Laura's number 22.

Anyway you size up Lake Mary's identical twin sisters Laura and Peggy Glass, it comes out about the same. That's height, weight, looks, demeanor and ability. Very simply, the 6-2 Glass Towers can play basketball.

Leesburg will attest to that after Peggy (odd, number 23, ponytail) scored 16 points and collected seven rebounds while Laura (even, number 22, wave) chipped in 11 points and nine rebounds as the Rams walloped the Yellow Jackets, 79-60, Thursday night at Lake Mary.

"Both are really improved over last year," said Lake Mary coach Bill Moore. "Laura and Peggy are more physical,

"It adds new dimension to their game that other players have to be aware of."

The twins made Leesburg very aware in the first quarter as each dropped in five points as the Rams spurted to a 21-10 lead. Laura pulled down four rebounds and Peggy three to control the boards.

In the second quarter, Laura hit Peggy for a bucket and speedy guard Kim Averill tossed in a jumper on a nice head fake move, was fouled, and added the free throw for a 33-26 Rams' lead.

Leesburg closed within 37-28 in the last two minutes, but Lisa Gregory fed Andrea "A.J." Johnson with a nice bounce pass for a layup and with just four seconds left, Johnson did the same to Michelle Swartz who put Lake Mary up, 41-30, at halftime. The Rams hit 15 of 34 shots in the first from the foul line where they converted 11 of 16. Leesburg was 13 of 30 and just 4 of 14. The Yellow Jackets turned the ball over 17 times to Lake Mary's 12.

points and Andrea Fenning stole the ball and scored for a 58-37 lead to put the game out of reach.

Moore flooded the floor with reserves for the rest of the game. Diminutive (5-1) point guard Liz Stone fired in two jumpers and four free throws to highlight the second half scoring.

Averill, Swartz, Stone and Johnson all finished with eight points while Gregory tossed in seven to complement her seven assists. Johnson had five boards.

Lake Mary hit 29 of 69 field goals for 42 percent and 21 of 31 free throws for 68 percent. Leesburg lut 24 of 66 fielders and coincidentally 12 of 33 free throws for a consistent 36 percent in both categories. The Yellow Jackets turned the ball over 33 times to Lake Mary's 23. Keturah Roberts had 22 points for Leesburg.

The Rams, 2-0, take on Osceola on Saturday at home. Junior Varsity action begins at 6:15 p.m.

The most incredible of the Rams was Donald Kelley. The swift junior had a spectacular opening game, scoring four goals and assisting on two others.

The next Lake Mary goal was a piece of work. Eric Zimmerman started the move at the other end of the field, passed to Kelley who crisscrossed it to Andre Sanders who did the honors.

"The game was over in the first five or 10 minutes," said McCorkle. "Everything went our way and they were kinda shellshocked from the day before (10-0 lost to Winter Park)."

Kelley fed Sanders for a 5-0 halftime lead to pretty much put the game out of reach.

McCorkie. "Joe not only saved the ball, but he caught it too, so there were no second shots."

In the second half, Kelley added his third goal on an assist from Zimmerman who then made it 7-0 on a penalty kick. Kelley added number four with an unassisted effort.

Adjusting Lake Mary Opens Tonight At SCC

By CHRIS FISTER Herald Sports Writer

Don't ask Lake Mary basketball coach Willie Richardson about the status of his team. Sure, he has the personnel, he just doesn't know who will play where at what time. Some of the confusion will be straightened out tonight, though, as the Rams open the season against Crescent City at Seminole Community College (junior varsity 6:15 p.m., varsity 8).

"We're making adjustments every day," Richardson said. "We have a bunch of young and inexperienced kids and I don't know what to expect until we play a few games."

What Richardson can expect is to get point production from 6-0 sophomore av urgman Darryl Merthie and 5-11 junior guard Fred Miller. "Merthie is our returning scorer and Miller looks good," Richardson said.

Underneath, the Rams will be led by 6-3 center Jeff Reynolds and 6-1 forward Donald Grayson. "Reynolds and Grayson figure to be a big part of our inside game," Richardson said.. "They have the size and the bulk to be strong underneath the boards." Neal Wellon is coming off an injury but should see plenty of action. Wellon is a 6-0 junior forward and should contribute a lot to the Rams' success this season.

Freshman guard Chris Jackson at 6-1 should also see a lot of playing time in his first varsity season. Jackson was a standout on the undefeated Lakeview me an idea and will be a good test for Middle School eighth grade team a year us." ago. Others listed at the guard position include Reginald Medlock (5-10) and Mark Blythe (5-4). Both are juniors.

While Lake Mary seems to have depth at the guard position, only three forwards are listed on the roster (although a few players could play either forward or guard). Besides Grayson and Wellon, Reggie Anderson (6-1 junior) is the only other forward. The Rams' tallest player is 6-4 sophomore center Robert Counts.

The Rams' schedule includes teams from every classification. Lake Mary's 4A opponents include Lake Howell. Lyman and Lake Brantley, 2A foes include St. Cloud and New Smyrna Beach, 2A opponents are Wymore Tech, Crescent City and Melbourne Florida Air Academy while the Rams step down to 1A to take on Trinity Prep and Hastings.

The Lake Mary attack figures to have Merthie running the show with help from Miller and Medlock and Jackson off the bench. Grayson, Reynolds and Wellon will handle the rebounding responsibilities and they will start the fast break with Counts and Anderson providing the depth.

After the Crescent City game, the Rams will host Florida Air Academy on Monday and Lake Howell next Friday.

"I don't have any definite starting lineup yet because I'm not sure where everyone will play," Richardson sald. "The first two or three games will give

Murphy Pumps In 24, But Lions Lose To Mainland

WINTER PARK - Playing the catch-up game took its toll on the Oviedo Lions as the Lions dropped a 58-52 decision to Daytona Beach Mainland Thursday night in the Rotary East Tip-Off Classic.

Oviedo, 0-2, got off to a shaky start as Mainland rolled to a 20-8 lead. Behind Ronnie Murphy though, the Lions fought back to tie the game at 30-30 at halftime.

Mainland came back in the second half to take another big lead. The Bucs led by nine at one point in the fourth quarter but Oviedo rallied to within three points at 53-50 with 1:26 remaining in the game.

After an Oviedo turnover Mainland's Will Anderson hit a pair of free throws to put the game on ice for the Buccaneers. Anderson led the Bucs with 22 points and 13 rebounds while Murphy was high scorer with 24 and he pulled down 19 rebounds.

The Lions face Titusville tonight in a loser's bracket game at 6 while Mainland faces West Orange at 9. Oak Ridge and Winter Park will play the second game at Stambaugh caught fire, scoring 12 of his 16 in the first 10 minutes of the second half as Rollins claimed a nine point lead, 65-56. Bryan College came back to tie the game at the end of regulation but Rollins prevailed

Balanced Attack Boosts UCF

The Lady Knights of UCF used a balanced scoring attack to claim a 62-47 victory over North Georgia Thursday night at Dahlonega, Ga.

UCF rallied to a seven point halftime lead and held off North Georgia in the second half. The lady Knights doubled Northern Georgia's output from the floor (24 field goals to 12) but the host team benefitted from 23 for 32 from the free throw line while UCF was 14 of 22.

Dorine Van Tongeren, a junior from Amsterdam, Holland, led the Lady Knights with 14 points while Marcie Swilley and Meg Schuler added nine points apiece and Beverly Knight and Susan Brase each chipped in eight points.

UCF raised its record to 3-1 with its next game tonight at Western Carolina.

Sixers Sink Suns, 116-108

United Press International

Moses Malone leads the Philadelphia 76ers in scoring and rebounding but his biggest contribution to the team might be the freedom he gives Julius Erving to roam.

Erving was especially appreciative of the 6-foot-10 center's presence in Philadelphia's 116-108 victory over the Suns Thursday night in Phoenix. The 76ers' small forward scored 34 points, complementing the outside play of guard Andrew Toney and the inside work of Malone.

Toney, who hit 15-of-17 free throws, led all scorers with 34 points and Malone added 19 points and 17 rebounds.

"Even though I'm technically a small forward, you know 6-foot-6, 206 pounds, I basically play in the low post and over the last four or five years. I've earned a living as a low post," Erving said. "He (Malone) has sort of given me the freedom to roam the court more and not make it a requirement for Julius Erving to be under the basket all night in order for our team to play up to its potential."

In other games, Dallas topped Golden State, 110-100, and Utah downed Portland, 119-112.

UCLA Handles Pressure

United Press International

UCLA, eligible for the NCAA Tournament this season, got a whilf of post-season pressure Thursday

"These close games are going to build confidence," said UCLA Coach Larry Framer. Maybe an ulcer too.

In a tense affair at the Horizon in Rosemont, Ill., the sixth-ranked Bruins defeated 17th-ranked DePaul, 73-70. in overtime, ending the Blue Demons' 27-game winning streak at home. Their previous loss came in January 1981 to Old Dominion. The Bruins, who dissipated an 11-point lead in the first half, were carried by Darren Daye, who finished with 23 points, including two foul shots in overtime. But, if hadn't been for a sudden reversal of form, UCIA would have concluded matters in regulation.

After Jerry McMillan gave DePaul a 65-64 lead with 39 seconds left in regulation, UCLA appeared ready to end it. Rod Foster was fouled on a baseline jumper. But his first shot banged around the hoop before falling out. His second shot forced overtime.

An overtime basket by Foster with 4:10 left gave UCLA a 3-point lead and the Blue Demons - whose only regular-season loss last year was to UCLA — were all but out of it.

49ers Overcome Rams

United Press International

Aware of how difficult it can be to prepare his team mentally to face the winless Baltimore Colts, Cincinnati Coach Forrest Gregg has jogged his players'

Gregg reminded the Bengals of how they lost to the lowly New Orleans Saints last season, a week after an impressive victory over Pittsburgh.

While the defending AFC champions are in a shootout for first-place, the Super Bowl champion 49ers are struggling to stay in the playoff race. San Franciso is off to a 2-3 start and even Thursday night's 30-24 victory over the Rams in Los Angeles didn't cheer up Coach Bill Walsh.

"This is not the same 49er team you saw beat Dallas and Cincinnati in the playoffs and Super Bowl last year," Walsh said after the 49ers relied on the passing of Joe Montana, who completed 26-of-37 passes for 305 yards. It also was Montana's fourth straight 300-yard passing game, which equals the NFL record set by San Diego's Dan Fouts in 1979.

The teers got three touchdowns from Jeff Moore and Ray Wersching booted field goals of 33, 44 and 48 yards. Halfback Wendell Tyler also scored three touchdowns for Los Angeles, 1-4.

Benitez Has Bitten Off More Than He Can Chew

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) - Wilfred Benitez and Thomas Hearns get a chance to reestablish themselves against each

Benitez will be defending his World Boxing Council super welterweight title against Hearns, the former World Boxing Association welterweight champion, in the scheduled 15-round bout which will begin 11 p.m. EDT.

The fight will take place at the Louisiana Superdome and be shown at various closed-circuit outlets and on selected cable stations.

The fighters were scheduled to weigh in today at 11 a.m. EDT.

Octavio Meyran of Mexico has been named referee.

Emanuel Steward, Hearns' trainer, said this fight finally will give Hearns the chance to disassociate himself from the loss - his only defeat as pro - to Sugar Ray Leonard, a 14th-round TKO in a title unification bout in September 1981.

"Thomas Hearns and Sugar Ray Leonard are recognized everywhere," Steward said. "Most people see Tommy and think of the loss to Leonard. He's recognized for a loss and he wants badly to change that. He can in this fight."

Benitez feels only a victory over Leonard would completely vindicate

"I'll never forget it," said Benitez, who lost his WBC welterweight title to Leonard via a 15th-round TKO in November, 1979. "He owes me one."

"He has bitten off more than he can chew," said Hearns, who dislikes think I have to kill them," he said. "If I revert to the original figure.

Benitez, 24, is a superb boxer and counterpuncher. A native New Yorker who now lives in Puerto Rico, he has a 43-1-1 record with 26 knockouts.

He has held three titles in different weight divisions, also having once held the WBA junior welterweight crown. His last fight was 11 months ago when he scored a 15-round unanimous decision over former lightweight and WBC welterweight champion Roberto Duran. Hearns, of Detroit, is 34-1 with 32 knockouts and possesses a punishing left jab and powerful right hand. According to the tale of the tape, he has a whopping 8-inch reach advantage and is 3 inches

"When you get two fighters into the ring like Benitez and Hearns, a couple of inches in height or reach is not going to make any difference at all," said Jim Jacobs, Benitez's manager. "This fight will go to the fighter who wants to win more. It will probably go into the late rounds and that's when we'll see who has more of a will to win.

"Height and reach is one of the biggest falsehoods perpetuated in boxing. And besides, the tale of the tape is wrong. He doesn't have that big a reach advantage."

How To Select And Care For Your Christmas Tree

The Christmas tree orginated in western Germany several hundred years ago. German settlers introduced the custom into Pennsylvania in 1816 and by 1850 the Christmas tree had become fashionable in the eastern states. Today the Christmas tree is one of the most popular and beautiful symbols in Christmas.

It is important to choose a fresh tree and keep it as fresh as possible so that your tree will remain lovely throughout the holidays. First of all select a tree with good needle holding ability.

Florida's warm weather causes trees to quickly wilt and drop their needles. This can be severe enough to completely defoliate a tree and necessitate buying a second tree before Christmas. Also choose a tree with an attractive color and a full, bushy appearance.

Those skinny, "see-through" trees should be avoided. Most people also prefer a conical, symmetrical shape to their tree. The branches should be sturdy enough to hold ornaments and other decorations such as small gifts.

The more recent the tree has been cut the better. Freshly cut trees will have good needle holding quality and will have better resistance to ignition. These points are extremely important. Scotch and white pine and Douglas and Balsam fir naturally have good needle holding qualities. Spruce trees tend to lose needles quickly. Bend the needles to against the wall, turn it daily to allow the A well-watered tree in a cool location determine the tree's freshness. The branches to retain their shape. When you will hold its needles longer and retain its needles should be supple and springy. Also feel the stump. The sap should be sticky and moist not hard and caked. After you have selected your tree, follow these tips to maintain color and minimize Stand the tree in a large bucket of cooler the better. If the tree has to lean or other heating units.

Place the tree in a suitable container which contains water. In most homes a tree can absorb up to a quart of water a day so keep the reservoir filled. A floral flower arrangements added to the water will help keep the tree fresh.

quality. It will also be the safest as far as carefully check all Christmas tree lights for loose connections or worn wires. Avoid over-loading lighting circuits and unplug lights when leaving the room.

Take the time to properly select and preservative, such as those used for care for your tree this Christmas and you won't have to buy a second one before the great day arrives.

Librarian Wins Zeta Xi Award: 'Lady Of Year'

The saying, "He is greatest who is most useful to others," could well be the theme for Beta Sigma Phi's new Service Award, "Lady of the Year."

Members of Zeta Xi Chapter met at the home of Myra Michels, president, to present their first annual "Lady of the Year" award to librarian Bernice Hughes for her service and devotion to the community.

Mrs. Hughes, librarian at Sanford Public Library, has 26 years in library service. She has two years remaining before retirement.

Mrs. Hughes was presented with an engraved plaque, certificate of appreciation, a yellow rose and the best wishes of Zeta Xi Chapter.

Bonnie Gilchrist was made an honorary member of the chapter for the time, service, support and joy she has brought the chapter. Her daughter, Bonnie Jones, is a member of Zeta Xi.

Mrs. Gilchrist was presented with a ceramic doll dressed in 100-year-old black lace that she had previously given to the chapter to use on any projects needed.

Here's how my father solved the problem: He actually set up a bed in the garage and went to sleep at 9:30! It was OK, but I remember how emberrassed I was when a couple of guests walked near the garage and heard him snoring! I have a nice father, but he's a little weird.

IN BRIEF Agent Killed, One Hurt In Drug Deal Shootout

MIAMI (UPI) - For the first time since the formation of the president's south Florida task force against crime, a federal agent has been shot and killed. Artel Rios, 28, of four-year veteran of the bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, died after being shot in the face during a gun battle in a "Little Havana" motel Thursday. Also wounded in the gun fight with suspected drug dealers was Alex D'Atri, 36, a 13-year ATF Veteran assigned to the south Florida task force shortly after it was formed in March.

The two agents were inside the Hurricane Motel attempting to purchase 148,000 worth of cocaine when somebody started shooting, according to police.

Miami To Stage 1992 Fair

MIAMI (UPI) - The U.S. Commerce Department has given a tentative green light for Miami's 1992 exposition celebrating the 500th anniversary of Columbus' discovery of the New World.

"Basically, we've been told that If we don't compete directly with Chicago the government will recognize Miami's fair, which will make us eligible for federal funding," sald Randy Coleman, president of the business-backed 1992 Florida Columbus Exposition

Coleman's organization lost their bid to Chicago for President Reagan's nomination as the 1992 World Fair host city.

Economy Still Staggering

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Factory workers are suffering under the 15-month-old recession that is stubbornly hanging on, but construction workers are getting a little hope from increases in new home sales.

New factory orders, especially for large items like appliances and cars, dropped in October to the lowest level in more than two years, the Commerce Department said

At the same time retailers reported their sales were up in November compared to a year ago, but analysts said that was mostly because November 1981 sales were so poor.

Construction workers could take hope from a separate report showing sales of new houses remained above the 400,000 unit-a-year rate for a second month, perhaps inspiring some new residential construction.

Yet industry analysts said the improvement came too late to keep 1982 from finishing as the worst year for house sales on

On Wall Street the stock market finished mixed for the second day Thursday. The Dow Jones industrial average gained 2.02 points to close at 1,033.11.

But gold buyers, reflecting some new economic pessimism, drove gold $7 to $11.50 higher an ounce on world markets as the dollar slumped against major foreign currencies Thursday. The factory orders report was particularly bad news for

Cowboys Take To The Dance Floor

By MICHEAL BEHA Herald Staff Writer

Clogging-it's an old American dance that's getting a lot of attention these days.

At the heart of the revival is the increased popularity in country music. As country music and cowboy hats have swept the nation, city and country folks alike have taken to the dance floors in ever-increasing numbers. But traditionalists take note. Not everyone out there who's clogging is doing the same steps as you are. The traditional Appalachian folk dance has gone through a metamorphosis over the years. Now, everything from the two-step to line dances are going under the guise of clogging.

Perhaps that's because of the muddled past of the dance itself. According to historians, it's ancestor is the morris dance of England, France, Scotland and Ireland.

The morris dance is the predecessor of many American folk dances and came with the immigrants to the shores of the New World.

Originally, the morris dance was a fertility dance, practiced by pagans for more than 10 centuries. Clogging, a step using three contact points—the toe, the ball of the foot and the heel-was devised to let one or two dancers show off their talents while the others got a drink.

TV critic David Handler's review of NBC's 'Remington Steele' is somewhat schizophrenic. On the one hand, Handler calls the show "classy and breezy" and then blasts it as "badly acted and sexually outmoded." Page 5.

Voice Out Of Sync On 'Knight Rider'

Phyllis Davis did not sound the way she has in the past. I also noticed that her lips did not match what was being said on occasion. Was another voice used to replace hers? G.H., Fort Mill, S.C.

No, that was her voice. But a lot of that show was "looped," meaning the voices were added after the scenes were shot, and so it could have been a little out of sync.

DEAR DICK: I have been wondering for some time if Paul Hartman, of "The Andy Griffith Show," is the same actor who played Weasel on "The Little Rascals." Their mouths and features are so similar. E.T., Catawba, S.C.

No, but Paul Hartman and his wife, Grace - they're both gone now - were a famous dance team for years, in vaudeville and on Broadway and in many early film musicals.

DEAR DICK: How much longer do we have to watch the likes of Maxi-Pad; "A little dab'll do ya"; Intellivision vs.

Atari, etc.? These are only a few of the commercials we are forced to watch that are very corny and have terrible actors, doing their bit over and over. Isn't there some law about how much the viewers are forced to see if they watch TV? Help, somebody!! T.L.F., Brush Prairie, Wash.

Sure, there are regulations about the amount of commercial minutes permitted, and stations and networks scrupulously obey those laws. I don't like those repetitious commercials, either, but consider the alternative - no commercials equal rotten programs, because it is the money from commercials that permit networks to bankroll good shows. (Maybe you don't agree that the shows are good, but they'd be much worse without them.) They have no commercials in England, and most of the time the English watch documentaries on the manufacture of vacuum cleaners. And that's the literal truth, because such a program was on when I was there last.

DEAR DICK: Who was the girl who was Donald O'Connor's co-star, as a tap dancer and comedian, when they were young? I think I saw her in a "Hawaii Five-O" as an office worker, D.D.S., South Branch, Mich.

That was Peggy Ryan, and, yes, she was on "Hawaii Five-O." In fact, for a few years, she was a semi-regular on that program. She has lived in Hawaii for a long time.

Is Acceptable

To Its Catholic Stars, 'Monsignor'

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) -It is easy for non-Catholics, like Frank Yablans, the producer, and Christopher Reeve, the star, to shrug off the opposition of Catholics to their movie "Monsignor," but how do Catholics involved in the production feel about it?

"The script surprised and shocked me a little," says Genevieve Bujold, who was educated in a French Canadian Catholic convent school for 11 years. "I am not worried about what the sisters in the convent school will think about it - they will never see it."

She adds that the film's content, variously described as anti-church and simply anti-everything, won't bother her own family. She says they just care about her own performance.

As for Fernando Rey, the Spanish actor who plays a cardinal in the film, his Catholicism is no longer an

"I was born in a Catholic family," Rey says, "but I don't practice it any more. The Spanish people are very Catholic, of course, but I don't believe they will have any special negative reaction to it."

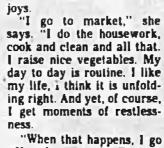

Genevieve Bujold believes her convent upbringing helped her when it came time for her to play a postulant in "Monsignor.

"I didn't feel unfamiliar in that uniform," she says. "Those black-and-white, itchy stockings. I knew what they felt like! I loved the beauty of the convent, but, then, I have a tendency to remember the good things."

She lives, these days, in

She does some drawing -"no talent, but lately I am drawing acceptable mouths. happy mouths" - and she acts a little still. She says that once Emmanuel is in school, she will do other things.

Her teen-age son. Matthew, for a time was fascinated with acting. But she discouraged him - "I didn't want him to be a child actor, because I've seen the way they treat child actors" - but he has outgrown the urge, temporarily, at least. His present passion is motor-biking

Fernando Rey is best known, probably, as the object of Gene Hackman's persistent attention in "The French Connection" films His original name, if you have a few minutes, was Fernando Casado Arambillet Vega Rey.

We have many surnames in Spain," he says. "When I decided to become a professional actor, I had to pick one for my stage name. Casado was my father's name and, because he was a noted general and a fighter against Franco, the name was too famous.

"Arambillet was too complicated a name for an actor. And Vega was much too common. So I took my fourth surname as my professional stage name."

He will dub the Spanishlanguage version of "Monsignor," and will be much more comfortable saying his words in his native tongue. And he feels that when the Spanish people see the film, they will not be upset about what some see as its anti-church

"There is an old church and a new church in Spain," Rey says. "I think the new church will understand, and the old church will

tucky, West Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee brought their dances with them and throughout America's colonial history, clogging was practiced primarily in those mountain regions while the rest of America was doing the waitz and the cotillion dances.

Perhaps because of various influences within the isolated pockets of Appalachia (the same ones which affected how we speak) different clogging forms emerged. In some areas, clog steps are tied into regular square dance moves. In others, cloggers are permitted to use only front and back movements of the legs. Other treat clogging as a free-for-all.

Today, the rule is anything goes. Cloggers still use the three contact points. Many also use metal taps on their toes and heels to create a rhythm similar to tap dancing.

Clogging groups compete in competitions and the dance is now taught along with other traditional folk dances. Many clubs which have country music also offer lessons.

The Barn, on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford, offers lessons on Tuesday nights. Lessons are also available at 7 p.m Thursdays at the Osteen community center.

With a little luck and some work, who knows, maybe you'll be good enough to enter the state championships March 18-20 at Auburndale.

A Christmas Carol At Daytona Auditorium

stage production of Charles Dickens' classic, "A Christmas Carol," will usher in Christmas week in Daytona Beach as Concert Showcase of Florida presents its first attraction of the 1982-83 theatre season, at Peabody Auditorium, December 19, at a 3 p.m. matinee performance.

"A Christmas Carol" is a musical adaptation of the Dickens classic, performed by a professional cast of actors, singers and dancers...with beautiful sets and

A new and different live costumes, and surprising visual effects.

> The music is traditional Christmas carols interwoven into the production, to create atmosphere and dramatic effect. The story of Ebenezer Scrooge, Bob Cratchit, Tiny Tim, and the ghosts of Christmas past, present and future, is faithfully enacted. In its third national tour, the company is making its first appearance in the Daytona area, but in other cities, it has already become an annual Christmas season event.

This first local performance presents an opportunity for parents and children to enjoy the delightful Dickens story together. It will be a 3 p.m. matinee performance, with special reduced prices for children under 14. Adult tickets are $12.75, $10.75, and $8.75. Children's tickets are $7.50, $6.50, and $5.50.

An important beneficiary of the Daytona performance of "A Christmas Carol" will be the Children's Home Society, North Constal Division, a charitable organization devoted to aiding abused children.

'Remington Steele' Almost Makes It

By DAVID HANDLER

NBC's "Remington Steele" is a frustrating show to watch. It comes so maddeningly close to being classy. Here's a breezy caper outing with flashes of suspense and sophisticated humor, as well as glossy production values and a nifty Henry Mancini score.

Meanwhile, here is a show that is so badly acted and so sexually outmoded that it often reminds you more of a Harlequin Romance than it does "The Pink Panther."

Like I said, frustrating. Laura Holt (Stephanie Zimbalist) is a top-flight private eye and liar. She was unable to get work on her own, we are told, because "a female detective seemed so ... feminine." So she invented a high society male boss for herself Remington Steele — and has been deceiving her cashpaying customers ever since.

She has successfully parlayed her little ruse into a winning concern. Her office is elegant and carpeted, and includes a legman with a broken nose, Murphy (James Reed) and a sexy secretary, Bernice (Janet DeMay).

While this gimmlek might have played in 1958, I find it hard to swallow now. There are plenty of women private' eyes. At least there have been on TV. If you're good, you're good.

And, as it happens, Laura Holt is not. At least not the way Miss Zimbalist plays her, which is as a ruthlessly ambitious, college-educated career woman, who is, at the same time, a fresh-faced. hopelessly naive coed - one who yells "Eek!" when somebody points a gun at her, and who lets her heart do her thinking for her.

Particularly as concerns our male counterpoint, a tail, dark and handsome stranger (Pierce Brosnan) with no name, just "his blue eyes and his mysterious past."

In our pilot, Laura (the Steele agency, that is) has been hired to protect $2.6 stick - week after week. million in gems. Our cheap crook" she snaps replies. later. "I'm an artist," he replies, grinning.

And, whoa boy, what a stiff! If I had to guess his past, I'd say it was spent modeling Botany 500 suits. I mean, Leonard Nimoy is jauntier than this guy.

Smelling a sweet deal, our con man sticks around. I spite of the fact that Laura doesn't trust him, that he runs up huge bills to the agency and that he threatens assess a show's failings, but to destroy everything she in this case it's the unhas worked for, she lets him fortunate truth.

Why doesn't she throw him stranger, a high-flying thief out on his ear? Because she and con artist, is one of the has an uncontrollable case of people who wants to steal the hots for him. "He's here, them. When he discovers you're here," advises there is no Remington Bernice. "Go for it." "I can Steele, he steps forward and barely keep him in line convinces the client that he now," says Laura, staring is Steele. Laura is stuck. She dreamily at his picture. "So cannot say a word to refute where does that leave you?" it. "You're nothing but a asks Bernice. "Itchy," she

> He, in turn is smitten with Laura. Though it's hard to figure out why.

While "Remington Steele" has its lapse in logic and believability, they'd be easy to overlook with a better cast. Turn back the clock, put Audrey Hepburn and Cary Grant in the leads and you'd be grinning for a solid hour every week. Maybe that's not a fair way to
