Survey: Kids want to help stop crime

By MCK PPEIFAUP Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - "There are very many more good teen-agers than bad ones these days," said Sanford police Chief Ralph Russell. He agrees with the results of a nationwide survey released today that found an overwhelming majority of them willing to join programs that could help reduce or prevent Russell said the youngsters who are truly concerned about their society are often overshadowed by the publicity given to just a few who are causing the problems and committing the crimes.

Take our Police Explorers unit as an example, he said, "they are a prime example of how dedicated many of our teens are here in Sanford."

Officer Greg Allen Smith, current head of the Explorers program said the youngsters virtually knock themselves out in everything they do. "And they do it without pay or any benefits." Smith said. "For example, this Saturday, the Explorers will be hitting the streets trying to get people to sign up to the new BAAT program (Businesses Against Auto Theft). That's when people agree to put stickers on their cars which allow officers to stop them any time they are seen on the streets between 1 and 5 a.m. □See Crimes, Page SA

Judge: No evidence DeLisio falters in new story

By IKE PLONES
Associated Press Writer

SANFORD - "Mr. Elmer" Leidig, 83, is convinced Anthony DiLisio made his peace with the Lord by telling the world he had lied to convict a defendant of murder 20 years ago.

DiLisio wanted to "clear himself spiritually . . before anything fatal happened" to that defendant, the slow-spoken Leidig told a judge Wednesday.

Joseph "Crazy Joe" Spaziano, left, listens Wednesday to testimony by Anthony DiLisio, right. DiLisio testified he lied to convict Spaziano of

A friend who counseled DiLisio about religion over the past few years in Pensacola, Leidig was referring to the acheduled execution of Joseph "Crazy Joe" Spaziano. The former Outlaws motorcycle gang member was to die in Florida's electric chair last summer — until DiLisio stunned authorities by recanting his 1976 trial testimony.

Leidig, who helped repair machines at DiLisio's auto-restoration shop, quoted DiLisio as saying that "the law coached me on what to do and what to say" in court as a teen-ager.

Others had different ideas about why the troubled, drug-addicted youth may have lied and later recanted his testimony in the knife slaying of 18-year-old Laura Lyn Harberts.

Prosecutor Tom Hastings accused DiLisio, now 38, of changing his story because of renewed threats by Outlaws gang members and a desire for notoricty. DiLisio denied fearing retailation by the Outlaws. He admitted, however, that he always carried a weapon in the belief he would be killed because of that testimony. DiLisio had testified that Spaziano, now 50, had bragged about torturing and killing women and the biker had taken him to see two mutilated bodies at a Seminole County dump site in 1973. DiLisio described his situation between the trial and last June as "a fear I had inside myself" rather than direct threats or intimidation. But he told Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton Jr. that his father and a brother had been warned he might be harmed, and DiLisio said he worried about his sister Anna's longtime association with the motorcycle gang. Eaton is to decide whether to grant Spaziano a new trial. The judge told lawyers that without prejudging the truth of Spaziano's recantation, he had no far 'heard no evidence" that DiLisio had wavered in telling his new story. The statement came after See Spaniano, Page 5A

As the plane flew over the backwater areas of east Central Florida at high speeds, the "All American" B-24, also known as the "Golden Girl," shuddered and shook from the load placed on its airframe by the four 1,200 horsepower

Resident appeals city sewer charges Sanford amends rates for 14 citizens on septic tanks

By NICK PFEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - An appeal by one Sanford resident to the City Commission regarding sewer charges is expected to help 14 other residents. In early December, Rose Dillard wrote to the commission regarding sewer charges of $9.09 which had been added to her city utility bill earlier in the year.

"I've lived here for 30 years and all of a sudden. I get hit with sewer flow charges," she wrote, "and I'm not hooked up to a sewer, I have a septic tank."

In her written appeal to City Manager Bill Simmons, she described her relatively low income and health problems. Even though it is a small amount to many people. she explained that it was nonetheless producing a financial burden for her.

During discussion of the letter at the commission work session Monday, Simmons said that while the charge may not appear to be proper, it was brought about by a city ordinance regarding sewer hookups. "It is city policy that any home which is within 50 feet of a sewer line shall hook up to that line," he explained. "If the homeowner refuses to do so, then the sewer fee is to be charged anyway."

Responding to a question. Simmons explained that he believes there are 14 such residences within the city limits which are on septic tanks but within the 50 foot distance of city sewer lines.

Simmons said a sewer impact fee of $1,700 would have to be paid plus hookup charges if the residents want to become hooked to the city sewer service.

Astronaut to retire to FSU

TALLAHASSEE -- Norman Thagard has spent more time out of this world than most people. But he's decided to come home — to Florida State University.

The retired astronaut has joined the engineering faculty as a visiting professor and also is being considered for a permanent position. His first course this spring will be an upper-level electronics class.

"We are pleased to welcome Dr. Thagard home," said Florida State President Talbot Sandy D'Alemberte. "With his knowledge and experience in space, engineering and medicine. we're honored to have him teaching here."

Thagard earned bachelors and masters of science degrees in engineering science at Florida State in 1965 and 1966.

He retired from NASA Jan. 3, holding the U.S. record for the longest space flight, the 115-day flight on the Russian Mir 18 space station in 1996, and the longest accumulated time spent in space for any American: 140 days. Thagard was also the first American launched into space on a Russian rocket and the first American on Mir.

The coalition includes Florida State University and the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, the Florida Sheriff's Association, the Florida Police Chiefs Association, the Florida Criminal Justice Executive Institute, the Tallahassee Police Department, and the state chapter of the International Association of Law Enforcement Planners.

1st Union gives money to help schools

TALLAHASSEE - First Union Bank of Florida is donating $250,000 to attract business leaders, hoping they will become more scrive on county school boards and school district citizens stivitory panels.

Better schools are an urgent priority for businesses that too often must look outside their county or farther to find qualified employees, said Lakeland business executive Hunt Berryman.

The Polk County group is a pilot project of a WorldClass Education Center formed by the Florida Chamber Foundation, a Florida Chamber of Commerce affiliate.

The grant money will help get business leaders involved in similar efforts elsewhere, said Ray Goode of Ryder System Inc., in Miami, the foundation's board chairman.

Berryman said the Polk County group has 25 members serving various citizens' advisory committees and two running for board of education posts.

FAMU lures more of the nation's best, brightest black students

TALLAHASSEE - When a recruiter promised a home away from home, a brilliant engineering student turned down scholarships at Miami and Auburn to accept one at Florida A&M University.

"She told my mom she was going to be like my second mother on campus." Anton Thomas, 18, one of the St. Petersburg's Center for Ad-vanced Technology's top graduates, said Wednesday.

Another scramble for one of the nation's brainlest black students was won when Florida A&M used the personal touch to out-recruit Yale and Dartmouth and land National Achievement Scholar Mandisa McCalla.

For the second time in four years, the historically black 10,324-student Tallahassee college has outrun Harvard University and the rest of the nation's most prestigious centers of higher learning in the flerce race for the most talented black scholars.

That's an important coup in a higher-education jungle where nothing succeeds like success in pumping in the life's blood of financial contributions and drawing more top students, Florida A&M President Frederick Humphries told a news conference.

Apple Computer to reorganize

SAN FRANCISCO - Apple Computer Inc. said it will reorganize and record a loss of 968 million for the October-December quarter because of flerce competition that forced it to alash its prices.

Industry analysts said they expect Apple to lay off more than 1,000 people. The announcement Wednesday came at an awkward time for Apple, as tens of thousands of people gathered for today's opening of Macworld Expo, the annual trade conference devoted to its popular Macintosh line.

TAMPA - Though it will be several days before they are sure, it seems most Florida growers dodged a bullet during the recent cold snap.

After two days of frigid tem-peratures, the Sunshine State enjoyed clear skies and a war-ming trend Wednesday as farmers returned to the fields to check citrus, strawberries, and vegetables for damage.

"It was not as bad as everyone expected," said Morgan Roe of William G. Roe and Sons, a Haines City company that grows or manages 10,000 acres of citrus in Central Florida, which holds the heart of the state's $1.5 billion citrus industry.

"Statewide, from an industry perspective, the cold probably isn't going to be a significant event." Roe said Wednesday. "But when you bring it closer to home that can change if 10 or 15 percent of your grove has low pockets and you lose fruit."

Catch a piece of history

The display of World War II aircraft at the Orlando Sanford Airport through tomorrow afternoon, may not be for everyone, but there will be an unbelievable amount of nostalgia, especially for former service personnel who may have flown in aircraft of that type.

Featured are a B-17 Flying Fortress, and a B-24 Liberator. These two aircraft, and thousands of others just like them, conducted the majority of bombing raids during the war. If victory through air power is credited with helping end the war, the B-17 and B-24 should rank at the top of the list of credits.

Statistics show a total of 18,479 Liberators were built, as were a similar number of Flying

The local sponsor of this event is Gerry Corrigan. In Central Florida, the sponsor is Dr. Paul Vasconi of Melbourne, who serves as the director of the Collings Foundation which Is involved in the restoration of these and other WWII aircraft.

The aircraft will be parked at the National Air Charters area at the airport. Admission to tour the planes is $7 for adults and $3 for children. The money is to be used in the continuing restoration, as well as supporting the cost of operating these aircraft, estimated at approximately $2,000 per flying hour.

At one time, the B-24 was altered in body appearance, replacing the double tail with a single tail. It became the U.S. Navy's PB-4Y aircraft, which eventually saw considerable service at what was then the Sanford Naval Air Station, Many local residents who served with, the Navy at Sanford will remember them. Some may also recall the sound they made whileflying over the city.

LETTER

Humans vs. trees

In reference to your editorial in the Sanford Herald Jan. 3, 1996, I feel compelled to write this letter on behalf of my friends (trees and shrubs).

We do not seek to inconvenience the highly intelligent human species.

Because you as humans are intelligent we expected you to plan ahead, find out where you were going, and how to get there, not to just strike out headlong down the roadway until suddenly you spot the place you seek.

Far be it from us to prevent a driver from using his cell phone or applying makeup or reading a map while driving on our congested roadways. They certainly do not need distractions from lowly trees and shrubs.

Forgive us for believing that this highly intelligent species would provide for our pruning and maintenance when they planted us along the raodways and near their buildings.

We only seek to share the environment with you - to cool the earth, clean the air, reduce noise, and provide visual beauty.

If any of us have offended these intelligent humans, we are sure you will make the correct decisions regarding our fate and yours!

And to close with a personal note, I regret that the offending trees or shrubs were not identified so that corrective action could be taken. If these offenders were trees and shrubs, they were certainly my friends.

Jesse Jackson's eyes on the prize

As the budget imbroglio continues and the organizations, NOW, the Rainbow (Coalition) and over convenience. political season gets hot, keep your eye on Jesse

What has been going on seems to be a political triangle. It is not. The three prominent players are Bill Clinton. Bob Dole and Newt Gingrich, and they are seen to represent, respectively, the center-left, the center-right and the right. There is some mild commonality of policy rhetoric between them: a turn from ever-larger government. But where's the left?

It has not gone away. The American political diagram likely has four sides, not three. The left is the party against slowing down government. and for the moment is playing its hand through the offices of Clinton, hoping that he will protect

But the framework of the budget deal now on the table - seven years to balance, using nonpartisan numbers, with a tax cut - already has 'Republican' stamped all over it.

What happens if a deal does not protect the government-spending interests of the left? In a recent interview. Jackson told me that an acceptable budget deal must save the "Roosevelt social safety net." thereby saving the downtrodden. He says that Clinton is under pressure from "Gephardt, labor, civil rights PUSH." The effort of this coalition of the left, says Jackson. is designed to see to it that Clinton does not "cave in." Jackson says he does not think Clinton will cave in.

But what if, in Jackson's judgment. he does?

Jackson says: "If Clinton caves in, the dam will break... he will be drowned... he would be indistin-guishable from the Republicans." And what would Jackson do about it? He says: "I would not stand idly by... ! would protect the people...

But wouldn't that split the Democratic Par-triangle. It is

He says: "I would put conscience and survival

Now, that is not exactly an ultimatum declaring that if the Roosevelt social safety net is not maintained then Jesse Jackson will run as a third party candidate for president. But it is pretty close.

Jackson has been out of the headlines recently, but he has been busy. He is promoting "Target 1421396," an effort to regain Democratic control of Congress. It involves voter registration drives in key congressional districts, "direct action" in those districts, and "coalition building." Jackson is recruiting allies from labor. black and Hispanic activist groups, and the National Organization for Women to work with Jackson-led organizations, the Rainbow Coalition and People United to Save Humanity.

Jackson has dreamed of leading a national coalition of the political left. He is now 54 years old. If he waits for four more years, it may be too late. He can define a budget deal as he sees fit, and "cave-in" is one legitimate way. This would be his third run for the presidency, a field where experience counts. Once again, Clinton is falling in the polls. Third party sentiment is in the air. Jackson's eyes are on the prize.

JOSEPH SPEAR

Welcome to Fruitcake Nation

One thing about the Spear Foundation we hope you've noticed is that we don't just throw an idea out and let it go to seed. Other think tanks will do that. They'll come up with a new thought on something, issue a press release, get a little story in the next day's paper, then file it away and forget it.

Not the SF. We get an idea at our humble little establishment, we hone it. Some critics say we chew it to death, but we like to think of It in more positive terms.

Take the Conspiracy Crisis which bubbled to the surface again during the past year. Thousands of Americans are convinced that hidden hands are manipulating every ominous thing that happens. We have Militias, Patriots, Survivalists, White Supremacists. We have preachers who say "European bankers" are messing with the economy. We have ordinary citizens who suspect the government is tapping their phones and poisoning their dogs.

We have suggested two ways of dealing with the national paranoia problem. One is to create a congressional committee, similar to the old House Un-American Activities Committee which specialized in finding communists on college campuses and similar breeding grounds, and which launched Richard Nixon's career. The new panel would exist for the sole purpose of ferreting out schemers who are plotting to do us in. We would call it the Committee on Oddball Conspiracies, Chicanery and Intrigue. That would be COOCCI, for short, pronounced "kooky,"

The second idea is for the tederal government to purchase the 20 percent of Nevada it does not already own. We would then build a wall around the state and give it to the fanatics who are convinced that sinister forces are plotting America's demise. Let them have a nation to call their own - the nation of Fruitcake, we would call it. We would retain Las Vegas (but insist the Fruitcakes keep Wayne Newton), and connect it to Arizona with a little pathway similar to the Posavina Corridor that connects the two sections of Bosnia controlled by the Serbs.

This would leave the rest of us to live routine lives while the flakos, wackos, weirdos and cultists do whatever they want - write a constitution with no First Amendment, legalize howitzers and ICBMs, elect Pat Buchanan as president, whatever.

Now for the new twist: Since the rest of us would be back to normal and uninterested in conspiratorial hallucinations, perhaps it would be best for the new Fruitcake legislature to set up the Kooky Committee. We would suggest it be organized into two subcommittees - Classic Conspiracies and New Conspiracies.

The first could take up the John and Robert Kennedy assassinations, the Trilateral Commission, the Council on Foreign Relations, the Federal Reserve Board, DDT, Zionists, the CIA, the United Nations, the Anti-Defamation League, Vince Foster, Hillary Clinton, the American Civil Liberties Union, the fluoridation of water. New Age gurus, socialists in newsrooms, black helicopters, the "Committee of 10" and the "Council of 30."

The second could look into some new theories, such as:

.. Disney did it. This is the latest plot uncovered by religious zealots who believe the Mickey Mouse people are sending subliminal messages to their children. In a scene from "The Lion King," they detect swirls of dust that spell the word "sex." In "Aladdin," they say they hear the title character importuning the young:
"All good teen agers take off your clothes."

Some critics say we chew it to death, but we like to think of it in more positive terms.

-- Time did it. You saw how they doctored Newt Gingrich's "Man of the Year" cover photo. They gave him a five o'clock shadow and a black eye. So what if they once ran a negative of Bill Clinton that made him look like he ate a radioactive Moon Pie. The leader of the revolution deserves better.

.. Calvin Klein did it. His underwear ads featuring models who look like teen-agers are depraved. He's probably working in cahoots with Disney. The Kooky Committee could find

CIA spook honors a scary standard

WASHINGTON .. Senate Intelligence Committee Chairman Arlen Specter, R-Pa., has heard secret testimony from a retired CIA official that sheds new light on the mindset that allowed the Aldrich Ames spy scandal to go undetected for nine years. One of the most disquieting disclosures was the extent to which this former CIA officer remains in deep denial: He rejected claims that he had a duty to warn top U.S. officials that intelligence about Moscow was based on information from sources who were known or suspected of being controlled by the Kremlin.

Current CIA Director John Deutch has admitted that; Ames helped Mongowep non d disinformation to senior U.S. policymakers from April 1985 to February 1994 in what Deutch troubling" part of the scandal. Moscow used this disinformation campaign to exaggerate its milltary might, which may have led to billions of dollars of unnecessary defense spending on the part of the United States.

The Interrogators were shocked by the arrogance of the official.

Specter wanted answers from the retired CIA reports officer, a 42-year veteran whose specialty was Russia. High blood pressure and a bad heart had prevented the man, who is in his 70s, from testifying on Capitol Hill. Fearing that the former official's health might deteriorate, or that he might grow reluctant to tell his story, Specter drove to the man's Virginia home last November. Specter - along with a committee aide, a CIA official and a court reporter -- debriefed the retired spook for more than two hours. The former official, whose identity intelligence officials asked us to keep secret, denied he had acted improperly.

He said he believed the information about Russia was true and that disclosing that it had come from controlled sources would have made it harder to "seil" to U.S. policymakers. The interrogators were shocked by the arrogance of the official, who declared that he -- not some senior policymaker -should be the one who decides the circumstances under which potentially tainted information should be passed on.

"It's flabbergasting, mind-boggling," one intelligence source told our associate Ed Henry. "It shows the CIA's mentality and attitude. They think they know better than anybody.'

The CIA's inspector general has declared that while obtaining information from controlled sources is a fact of life in the intelligence world. "such disseminations are legitimate only if the consumer is made aware of the context of the acquisition of the information so that it may be evaluated accordingly.'

Intelligence sources have confirmed to us, for example, that one of the very first intelligence reports that Bill Clinton received about Russia as president-elect was based on tainted information. In mid-January 1993, Clinton and then-President Bush each received copies of a hand-delivered "blue border" report -- named for the blue lines around the pages which signify the highest level of classification for extremely sensitive information from human sources.

While the specifies of that report on Russia are still secret, making it impossible to know if it affected policy decisions, one intelligence source noted that any blue border report that made its way to both Bush and Clinton was obviously urgent. At the very least, Deutch said in the report to Congress, the disinformation hurt our ability to understand Moscow's foreign policy, "particularly (Borts) Yeltsin's policies on nonproliferation and Russian involvement in the former CIS

To be technical, the 8-17 Flying Fortress has a 103-foot 8.3-inch wingspen, is alightly over 74 feet long, has a meximum weight of 72,000 pounds, and is powered by four 1,200 hp Wright P-1820-87 engines; but then, who's counting. Operated by a crew of 10 servicemen, it is armed with 13 machine guns. Spectators admire the B-17 on display through tomorrow afternoon at the Orlando Sanford Airport.

With the wind whipping down its hollow fudelage, everything had to be stowed or tied down. Everything, that is, except for the two people standing alertly at each side gunner station.

Even the ammunition feeding the two .50 caliber machine guns had its place capable of holding several hundred rounds. Nearly 40 years ago, the bomber's mission had been to harass Japanese shipping, attack Axis military targets and supply reconnaissance data to Allied Forces.

Wednesday's flight was not a search and destroy mission. Rather it was a mission to promote the world's deadliest war, in which 55 million people died, including 300,000 Americans.

Even though it was not a military sortie, the pilot skilifully made a "strafing" run down the center of the Shuttle Landing Pacility at Kennedy Space Center, with the permission of Air Force and NASA officials.

The side gunners took aim at the shuttle, the Vehicle Assembly Building, other sir-craft and the runway, However, rather than hear the just south of the airport flying thunderous roar of machine gune firing, the sound of the two gunners' camera's clicking away were not even audible. Not even to the side gunners inside.

After making its strafing run over the Kennedy Space Center, the bomber's crew turned its attention to New Smyrna Beach, where it would rendezvous with a second bomber, a B-17 Flying Fortress called the "Nine-O-Nine.

For nearly 15 minutes, the Golden Girl circled ominously over the communities of Edgewater, New Smyrna Beach and Samsula awaiting the second bomber.

Shortly before 2 p.m. the Nine-O-Nine took off from the New Smyrna Beach Municipal Airport to join the B-24 enroute to Sanford.

Like an image out of a World War II film the two bombers set a heading for Sanford, where they would make a second strafing run at the Sanford Orlando Airport.

Flying in tight fermation only yards spart, the two bombers swooped down out of the sky only a few feet off the deck as they strafed the runway in Sanford.

The roar of the engines and their sudden appearance over Seminole County alerted residents the vintage bombers had arrived.

The bombers circled overhead for a few brief minutes before setting down at the airfield, where the bombers would kick off their 1996 tour.

The planes which are owned by the Collings Foundation of Stowe, Mass., will be on display today and Friday at the airport. For a small donation, aviation and World War II enthusiasts can get a close up look at two of the planes that were an integral part of the Allies air command.

Flights can also be arranged for a fee. Porceeds from the tours and flights are used to pay the upkeep and operation of the vintage aircraft.

much. But despite findings that the carefree attitude synonymous with the teen-age years has been replaced by concerns about personal safety, crime and violence, the poll provided reason for hope.

More than 80 percent of junior and high school pupils surveyed said they were interested in joining one or more community-based programs, although they generally were doubtful that they can do anything personally to help prevent crime.

More than 70 percent would prefer participating in communication or youth leadership programs. And many teens already volunteer their time, mostly at school or their places of worship, the survey found.

"Youths are ready to roll up their sleeves and be involved," said Jack Calhoun, executive director of the National Crime Prevention Council, a private, nonprofit group that works with the public and private sectors to make communities safer.

Calhoun said too few programs include young people, but that increasing the availability of such opportunities needn't be difficult, time-consuming or expensive. It simply requires a 'shift in attitude and a willingness on the part of adults to share power," he said.

Calhoun added that many schools also have begun to involve kids in programs ranging from graffiti removal to mentoring to peer counseling.

Teens, Crime and the Community is a joint program of the council and the private, nonprofit National Institute for Citizen Education in the Law. with funding from the federal Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention.

STATE OF THE PARTY OF STREET AS A PROPERTY OF

Buying the president: Special interests and top candidates

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - The leading contenders in this year's presidential race all come with career-long ties to a host of special interests largely unknown to voters, according to a new study of money and presidential politics. Among the study's findings: -NationsBank loaned the Democratic Party $3.5 million on favorable terms two weeks after President Clinton signed a bill that would save the bank an estimated $50 million a year. Bank President Hugh McColl had become one of Clinton's closest advisers on banking matters.

-Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole has received $381,000 in support over his long career from an interest far from Kansas - California's Gallo winery. Dole has supported tax and regulatory policies worth many times that to the company.

-The top support for Texas Sen. Phil Gramm has come not from his state's oil industry, but from the National Rifle Association, which gave him 8440,200. The favor has worked both ways; Gramm also has written letters soliciting donations to the gun-rights group.

"The point is, we're not just electing politicians." said Charles Lewis, director of the Center for Public Integrity and the study's primary author. "It's a package deal. We're also electing their patrons and their should know what these alignments and entanglements and relationships are."

Safire: 'Marcia Clark type' needed to question first lady

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK - Columnist William Safire says if Hillary Rodham Clinton is called before congressional committees a "Marcia Clark type" should be hired to question her. Safire, in today's New York Times, responds to President Clinton's threat, through a spokesman, to punch the pundit's nose for calling the first lady "a congenital liar."

In his column today, Safire writes that everyone he knows has been calling to get ringside tickets to the fight.

"Sorry, guys," he says, "direct your requests to the promoter. White House press secretary Mike McCurry.

It was McCurry who said Clinton would have liked to deliver "a more forceful response to the bridge of Mr. Safire's nose" in response to Safire's Monday column about Mrs. Clinton.

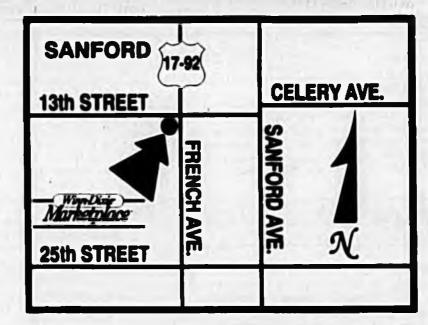

He also says it would have been sexist to give Mrs. Clinton "a free pass" over her role in the Whitewater affair and the firings at the White House travel office.

Safire asks: "What should the committees do when she requests the Joan of Arc role before their inquisition? Answer: Avoid the sexist trap. Hire a Marcia Clark type and assign her to penetrate Mrs. Clinton's lawerly obfuscations, to go after the originals of potentially fraudulent billing or expense records, to compare her public statements with contemporaneous notes, and to contrast her sworn statements with conflicting testimony."

Short-term spending bills

WASHINGTON - With chances waning for a balanced budget agreement this year, House Speaker Newt Gingrich mays he may try to pass a series of short-term spending bills that would keep the government operating at reduced levels until the November election.

With no new negotiations likely before the middle of next week, Congress finally took a break Wednesday after its leaders and President Clinton failed to come to terms on a seven-year budget-balancing plan that would resolve the threat of another government shutdown Jan. 27.

Stock and bond markets tumbled Wednesday shortly after Gingrich, speaking in Casper, Wyo., predicted: "The odds are better than even, as of today, that there will be no agreement."

Talking with reporters later in Scattle, Gingrich, R-Ga., said Republicans were looking at the possibility of approving so-called continuing resolutions — temporary spending bills that would keep the government in business. The current short-term spending bill expires Jan. 26.

Bill hits a snag

WASHINGTON - A bill overhauling the nation's telecommunications laws has hit another snag, this time over a provision that Senate Majority Leader Bob Dole calls a 'corporate welfare" giveaway to the TV industry.

Dole objects to giving television broadcasters free use of extra channels they will need to air the next generation of television that promises near movie-quality images and CD-quality sound. He wants to make them pay the government up to $70 billion for use of the channels.

"Let's fix this one corporate welfare provision before we ask members to vote on it," Dole, R-Kan., said on the Senate floor Wednesday.

Barely educated, he built up a narcotics empire and carved out a veritable kingdom for himself in the jungled valleys of the Golden Triangle, complete with satellite television and surface-to-air missiles.

Now, Khun Sa has handed over his weapons and is trying to negotiate the best deal he can with Burma, or Myanmar, as the military government has named the country it rules.

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS - Jimmy Adamczyk scored 19 points Wednesday to lead Lake Brantley past Arrow Force IV 61-55 in Seminole Athletic Conference boys basketball action.

Johnson again succeeds a legend, takes Dolphins job

By STEVEN WINE AP Sports Writer

DAVIE - The job Don Shula held for 26 years was vacant less than a week before Jimmy Johnson agreed to become the Miami Dolphins' coach.

Johnson's decision came after just one meeting with team owner Wayne Huizenga. An announcement was planned for this afternoon, Johnson's mother told The Associated Press late

"Jimmy is very happy," said Allene Johnson, speaking by telephone from her home in Port Arthur, Texas. "He just loves coaching and he's very happy to be getting back in it."

Johnson, 52, is expected to sign a four or five year deal that will average less than $3 million per season in salary and other inducements but still makes him the highest-paid coach in the NFL. The Miami Herald reported.

A Dolphins representative and a source close to Hutzenga would not confirm the hiring and said they knew of no news conference scheduled for Huizenga and Johnson talked for four hours Wednesday at the team's training complex. Two forces hastened the negotiations: the job was the one Johnson wanted, and Johnson was the coach Huizenga wanted.

Johnson has long coveted the post Shula held until retiring last week. Shula, 66, was widely criticized by fans for the team's disappointing 9-7 record in what he said was the toughest of his 33 NFL scasons.

Johnson replaced another legend, Tom Landry, when he became coach of the Dallas Cowboys in 1989, and was undaunted by the challenge of suc-See Dolphins, Page 2B

ceeding Shula, who holds the league record for victories with Coaching the Dolphins will allow Johnson to work near his home in the Florida Keys. And by inheriting a team that many - including Johnson - picked to reach ahe Super Bowl this season, he becomes an immediate threat to capture another NFL title.

"This makes the Dolphins a very dangerous team." said Dallas Cowboys running back Emmitt Smith. "It's also going to make them a very lean team. Jimmy's going to go in there and trim out all the fat - the guys just sitting around collecting checks. If I were some of those guys, I'd be a little worried." Johnson won the Super Bowl with the Cowboys in 1992 and 1993, then left coaching to become a TV analyst.

"The only way I'd ever go back into coaching was if I looked into the future and saw a Super Bowl," Johnson said following his meeting with Hulzenga. "There's no question the opportunity is here. When you have an owner like Wayne Huizenga, who is going to go out and do whatever it takes to be the very best, that gives you the opportunity as a coach. Not only can it be a very productive relationship, I think it can be very exciting and a lot of fun."

Johnson coached the Miami

Hurricanes from 1984 to 1988 and kept a home in South Florida even after becoming coach of the Cowboys.

"I have a strong emotional feeling toward South Florida," Johnson said. "People here have been fantastic to me. Some of the greatest times I ever had in my life were when I was at the University of Miami and the success we had there. This is a place where I wanted to be for a long time. That was one of the reasons I left the Dallas Cowboys because I have that kind of affection for the people and area of South Florida. Johnson made a joking phone call to his mother's home in Port Arthur, disguising his voice and pretending to be a radio reporter from Miami.

"He was asking me a lot of questions about Johnson and other things," his mother said. "But I knew he was just kidding me because I recognized his voice."

Johnson's hiring means a shakeup in the Dolphins staff.

Personnel director Tom Heckles may be replaced with Bob Ackles of the Philadelphia Eagles, the Herald reported. Ackles is reportedly having trouble with Eagles coach Ray Rhodes.

General Manager Eddie Jones and assistant GM Bryan Wiedmeier will likely be re-

Navy officer lends support to NATO

D- MATTHEW A. GOWAR Special to the Herald

ONBOARD USS ARCHERFISH - David Ruff, son of Dr. Carol Ruff of Winter Park: also sonin-law of John and Marnita Carli of Sanford, and his 125 ahip-mates onboard USS Archerfish have received the greatest gift of all — they made it home for the holidays and greeted the new year with family and friends.

Archerfish recently returned from a six-month deployment in the Mediterranean Sea in support of special forces and NATO operations in the Adriatic Sea.

The executive officer, Ruff, is the second-in-command on board the submarine.

Ruff graduated from Hopkinsville High School in 1978 and carned a bachelor's degree in chemistry from the U.S. Naval Academy in 1982 and a master's degree in engineering acoustics from the Navai Postgraduate School in 1966.

A lieutenant commander, he said he's achieved a lot in the

"The Navy has educated me and put me in a position to watch others succeed and become leaders," said Ruff, 35.

Married to the former Maria Carli, the couple and their two children, Greg, 9, and Katie, 6, reside in Connecticut.

Homeported in New London, Conn., Archerfish is one of just three East Coast submarines configured for special warfare missions. Equipped with torpedoes, Harpoon and Tomahawk cruise missiles, the powerful submarine can provide surveillance, intelligence, support Sea. Air. Land (SEAL) commando operations and launch missiles at enemy ships or land targets.

With the aigning of the Dayton peace agreement by the leaders of Boania, Serbia and Croatia, it's likely the efforts of Archerfteh, and other U.S. and NATO vessels have helped ensure the people of Bosnia enjoy peace in the new year.

Father, daughter stay close

DEAR ABBY: You recently published a letter praising divorced fathers who sent child support checks faithfully. Then I saw a letter in your column saying that those fathers were merely doing their legal duty.

Well, Abby, what about divorced fathers who do everything possible to stay in their child's life? 1 am 13 years old, and my parents have been divorced for 10 years. Dad still lives in Chicago, but he calls me every single Saturday morning just to talk. He has done this as far back as I can remember. He never forgets cards for all the holidays, and in between, he writes friendly letters. I visit him almost every holiday and in the summer,

He never says anything mean about Mom.

One letter in your column seemed to say that the only thing divorced fathers do is fill out the check every month. That simply is not true.

JANET REECE IN CINCINNATI

DEAR JANET: Here's a round of appleuse for all those fathers who keep a loving relationship with their children. And another round of applause for a mature and gracious 13year-old who is undoubtedly a credit to both her parents.

DEAR ABBY: I have a friend who calls me occasionally, and I have found out that every time we talk, her husband listens in on the conversation. She doesn't think there is anything wrong with this, but I think it is rude and inconsiderate. When I sense that he is on the phone, I will usually say something like, "Has Tom hung up, or is he still on the line?"

For that reason, I have stopped calling her unless it is something very important. Perhaps I am being overly sensitive, but if I wanted to talk to the husband, I would ask for him. What do you think of grown people who act this way?

We have read your column for many years and I feel that if you respond in the paper, they would certainly read it. Sometimes it is the little things that ruin a wonderful friendship.
OVERHEARD AND HATING IT

DEAR OVERHEARD: Grown people who listen in on the conversations of others are childish, nosy and rude. Please write again and let me know if Tom and his wife recognize them-

(Problems? Write to Dear Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Deer Abby, P.O. Box 60440, Los Angeles, Calif. 80060. All correspondence is confidential.)

Audubon Society activities

Following are the January activities of the Seminole Audubon Society. They meet at the County Extension Service Auditorium, 250 W. County Home Road, Sanford.

Work Party: Jan. 14, 9:30 a.m. Interested participants should meet at Big Tree Park, General Hutchinson Parkway for invasive air potato vine removal. Fregram: Jan. 14, 2 p.m. Since the early 1900s, the Ocklawaha River Basin has been damned and drained for agriculture and development. The result has been a loss of the river, lakes and wetlands. Nurseries for fish have diminished, water quality has suffered and bird and other wildlife habitats have disappeared. Now, the St. Johns River Water Management District, has undertaken a river basin restoration. Dave Walker, field program manager for the Upper Ocklawaha Basin, will present details of the District's activities. Participants should meet at Cooperative Extension Service Auditorium, 250 W. County Home Road, Sanford. The public is welcome and it is free. For details, call 830-4981.

But Mommy, didn't vou sav that you can sell anything in the classifieds?

Yes dear, but not your little brother.

Yes, the Classifieds are a great place to buy or sell just about anything under the sun. And yes, you can make money clearing out those no longer used items from your attic, basement or garage and sell them for cash in the Classifieds. But please note: you cannot sell little brothers through the Classifieds. (For that you'd probably have to take out a full page ad).

> Simply call 322-2611 to place your Classified ad.

East won with the spade ace and returned the diamond two, a suit-preference card showing an entry in clubs. After ruffing. West underled the club ace to East's queen and a second diamond ruff defeated the contract.
