

3 Local Industrial Revenue Bonds Languish

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Soft bond market conditions — which are being seen around the nation — have hit Seminole County.

Jim Daniel, executive director of the Seminole County Industrial Development Authority (SCIDA), said today there are currently $3.3 million in court-approved industrial revenue bonds, endorsed by SCIDA, which have found no buyers.

The bonds were to be floated to benefit three local industries.

Daniel noted that industrial revenue bonds which have the attractive feature of being federal tax-exempt for investors are finding no seekers currently.

The industrial revenue bonds are also attractive to industry seeking capital because the financing which can be obtained represents 100 percent of the need, and the interest rate is cheaper.

"But," he added, "the market is soft right now. The bonds are not selling because investors can get higher interest rates elsewhere."

The bond issues "on hold until interest rates get a little better," Daniel said, include:

- $2,150,000 for Harcor Aluminum. This industry wanted the money to build a new 240,000-square-foot building on 12 acres in the Sanford area. The firm manufactures aluminum windows and doors for the residential building business.
- $700,000 for Keystone Electric. Keystone planned to buy out Unit Electrical Control of Fern Park and to expand the operation there. Unit Electrical Control manufactures control panels for power generating plants.

— $450,000 for Rush-Hampton Industries of Longwood. Rush-Hampton's major product is a ductless fan for residential and office use which circulates and cleans air within a structure. Rush-Hampton wanted to expand its Longwood Industrial Park plant. It also planned to come back to seek more bonding later to construct a new facility on 12 acres in Sanford.

SCIDA recently approved a bond issue for Stromberg-Carlson for $600,000 square feet of additional space. But Daniel anticipates no problem with selling these bonds.

"Sometimes the larger the company, the easier it is to sell bonds. They have some money markets they can work through," Daniel said.

Of the first three firms, Daniel said those bonds already approved but unsold will probably come back to SCIDA for re-evaluation in the future.

"People can make more money off the commercial market with interest rates as they are. Financial institutions can make more money investing in other areas. They've got plenty of the tax-exempt bonds already," he said.

Meanwhile, Daniel and Seminole County Port Authority Administrator Dennis Dolger will be meeting Tuesday with representatives of an industry which wants to locate a warehouse facility at the Port of Sanford.

Dolger told Port Authority members last week the firm wants a $2.2 million warehouse constructed at the port.

Dolger said today the firm wants to open a new warehouse facility by Jan. 1, 1981 and there may not be sufficient time to prepare an industrial revenue bond. It takes 90-to-120 days for a bond issue to be printed, go through the court process and be sold, he said. He said a minimum of six months is necessary for construction time. Seminole is competing with Pasco and Pinellas counties for the industry, Dolger said.

The firm may wish the port to construct the warehouse and lease the facility or may wish to lease 8.8 acres and build its own facility, Dolger said.

Dolger said it is possible the port will receive as much as $50,000 to $65,000 annually over and above expenses, if it is successful in attracting the industry. This would eliminate the need for a Seminole County property tax subsidy for the port's operation next year.

Under the industrial revenue bonding concept, Daniel said a governmental unit overseas and endorses the bond issue, but the recipient of the funds has all responsibility for repayment of the issue. "Basically SCIDA is an approving pass through agency," he said.

Carter Prepares Iran Sanctions

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Promising an immediate decision on sanctions against Iran, President Carter charged today Iranian "terrorists offered to turn over the hostages to the government and the government refused."

Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini said today the 50 American hostages should remain in the hands of their militant captors until Iran's new parliament convenes, crushing hopes the government would assume custody of the captives, French radio networks said.

Carter flew home from Camp David and immediately met with foreign policy advisers. He told reporters he would decide "in a few minutes" what his next move would be in the 186-day crisis involving 50 U.S. hostages at the American Embassy.

An administration official said Carter would order stringent economic and political sanctions against Iran.

Carter talked briefly with reporters at the White House after spending the Easter weekend at his nearby Maryland mountain retreat.

Carter met with his advisers at 9 a.m. EST after Tehran Radio said Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini had decided against transferring the hostages from the custody of their Muslim captors at the embassy to the government.

He summoned the national security advisers for a final review of the sanctions he was expected to order against Iran. An aide said they would be stronger than originally planned but would not involve the use of force or a naval blockade of the Persian Gulf country at this time.

"We'll have something to say later on," Carter told reporters.

Carter implied the "terrorists" were willing to give custody despite earlier balking at such a move.

Police, State Probe Paddling At Sanford Middle School

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

Local police and state officials are conducting an intensive investigation this morning into a paddling incident at Sanford Middle School which one mother claims left severe bruises on her 14-year-old son.

The mother, Ruby Lettau, 142 C Henderson Lane, reported she was seeing an attorney on the matter this morning and will not allow her son to return to school "until they do something."

Mrs. Lettau said her son, James, and three other boys were paddled by Ronald Hunt, Sanford Middle School dean of students, after they threw candy at the custodian's building.

Hunt said this morning that the boys threw candy and rocks. He confirmed that there was a paddling.

"But I don't know about any bruises," he said. He would make no further comment on the incident.

Mrs. Lettau said her son's backside was black and blue and 30 minutes after the incident he had to be operated for a rupture.

The doctor, she said, could not determine whether the rupture was caused by the paddling.

"But the bruises were put on by that paddle," she said.

Mrs. Lettau said her son got "five licks" with a wooden paddle after he was forced to bend over a chair.

"It was all uncalled for," she said.

Sgt. W.R. Bernosky, Sanford police detective, said this morning he has just begun an investigation into the matter and "it will be thorough." He said he has photographs of the boy after he was paddled which show the bruises.

Florida Health and Rehabilitative Services child abuse case worker Karen Malcolm also confirmed this morning the HTS is investigating the incident.

"We will talk to everyone involved," she said. "Whether or not it is determined to be child abuse, it depends on many factors such as whether or not it was deliberate, justified or done in a fit of anger."

Mrs. Lettau said the school called her just after the paddling and asked her to pick up her son.

"He was in so much pain I took him to the hospital," she said.

Shirley Livings, mother of another one of the boys involved in the incident, said she was at the school when her son, Mark Manley, got "two licks" with the paddle.

"That Sanford Middle School is something else," she said.

"I went up there because Mark said he did not do anything and would not let them hit him," she said. "He said he was just out there when the other boys did it. "But they said he would have to get a whipping or get kicked out of school. Mr. Hunt wanted to give him five licks but he finally agreed to give only two, so Mark said he would take the licks rather than get kicked out."

Sanford Middle School Principal Dan Pelham said this morning Florida statutes permit the schools to paddle students. But, he said, the school does not paddle a child when the parents request their child not be paddled.

"We don't go over the parent's head," he said.

But, Pelham added, if a parent does not allow the school to paddle a child, the child will be kicked out of school as the alternative.

"Mark didn't want to be kicked out of school," Mrs. Livings said.

Pelham said he does not inform parents that they have a right to stipulate their children not be paddled.

Both Mrs. Lettau, Mrs. Livings and Mrs. Nellie Boyd, whose son, Robert, was also involved in the incident, said they were not informed they could refuse to have their children paddled.

"It's in the handbook somewhere," Pelham said.

"I was in the office when my son was paddled," Mrs. Livings said. "If I hadn't been there it's hard to say what he'd have done to him."

"You say you find out what goes on at that Sanford Middle School. My kids have been jerked up by the shirt, thrown against file cabinets, thrown against the school bus and slapped in the face. If when my 15 year old went there they gave him a treatment — don't you think they did it?"

Eric Hamgardner, whose son, George, was the fourth student accused of throwing rocks, said she had no complaint against the paddling — if the students were guilty.

"But not to the extent they get bruised," she said. Her son was not bruised, she added.

Mrs. Boyd said her son was not bruised, but "he's tough and well-paddled."

"But this was the first time the boys threw rocks," she said. "They could have been just warned this time," she said.

She added her son had been paddled before or after dressing for gym.

Seminole County School Superintendent William Lyster said this morning he hopes no one was bruised.

He said he has been contacted by both the Sanford Police and HTS, but said he is not conducting an investigation of his own.

"I don't know that anyone was injured," he said. "That has to be determined by somebody."

10,000 Cubans Huddle At Embassy

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — More than 10,000 Cubans hoping to leave their country have taken refuge in the Peruvian Embassy in Havana, but Lima says it can only accept a limited number and called on its neighbors to accept the others.

Peru sent a special group of diplomats and security agents to Havana to try and establish some control today over the chaotic situation, sparked by the sudden removal of police protection Friday from the diplomatic mission.

In a stunning reversal of past policy, Cuban President Fidel Castro said during the weekend Cuba would grant safe passage out of the country to any national who could obtain a foreign visa.

Exiles Show Support In Miami

MIAMI (UPI) — About 4,000 Cuban exiles, whipped into a patriotic frenzy by their community leaders, jammed around a building housing a Spanish language radio station early today in an outpouring of support for the thousands of Cubans reported seeking refuge in the Peruvian embassy in Havana.

The exiles poured from their homes by the hundreds to collect and buy food and medicines at late-night markets then cart the supplies in boxes to the Royal Trust Bank building on southwest 27th Ave., just off Calle Ocho (8th St.), the main thoroughfare through Miami's Little Havana section.

They also donated cash, more than $4,000 in two hours, according to Felix M. Caceras, an accountant coordinating the collection of money.

(Dr. Luis Perez, Sanford cardiologist who helps inform on developments in his native Cuba through sources in Miami, said today Cubans in this country are concerned about just what is behind Castro's latest action.)

"We are afraid Castro will use this as an excuse for more repression," said Perez. He said the 10,000 persons who crowded in and around the Peruvian Embassy in Havana after the Cuban government withdrew police guarding the gate have created a lot of problems. There is not enough food and water and the fact the government would not permit them to bring in portable toilets has created a bad sanitary problem.)

(Perez said food and medicines for the refugees being donated in Miami will probably be distributed through the Swiss Embassy in Havana if the Swiss agree. An effort to get the U.S. delegation in Cuba to administer the relief effort will probably fail in view of its effect on Cuban-U.S. relations, Perez added.)

"As long as the Cuban police are not guarding the Peruvian Embassy, if 200 people are removed another 200 will come in," Perez said. "They can only get 200 on a plane and the Peruvian government would have to pay for the flights. I would take some time and nobody knows what is going to happen."

Officials To Meet Governor Friday

Gov. Bob Graham's office confirmed today that a meeting between the governor, Lake Mary and Sanford city officials and industrialist Jeno Paulucci is tentatively scheduled for 11 a.m. Friday in Tallahassee.

Paulucci arranged the meeting to give officials of the two Seminole County cities an opportunity to discuss with Graham assistance needed to gain federal and state funding for local projects.

1975-78 Triumph TR7 Coupes Recalled

DETROIT (UPI) — Jaguar Rover Triumph Inc. said today it is recalling all 1975 through 1978 Triumph TR7 coupes because of a potential defect in the mechanism which raises the retracting headlights.

A total of 47,776 vehicles are included, the company said.

Corrosion could cause the electric motor which raises the headlight to fail,

Committee To Consider Track-Conversion Bill

Greyhound dog racing could be underway as early as the summer of 1981 at the Seminole Harness Raceway if legislation placed in the hopper passes during the current session of the Florida Legislature. There is little chance, if any, that legislation will be considered creating a harness track facility in Lake Mary.

State Rep. Robert Hattaway, D-Altamonte Springs, said he has prefiled legislation to permit greyhound racing at the Casselberry facility. He said the legislation is expected to be considered by the part-stated wagering committee of the Regulated Industries Committee next week.

Before the committee considers the legislation, House Speaker Hyatt Brown must appoint a new member to the committee to replace an ill legislator, Hattaway said.

Hattaway said the legislation he is sponsoring would permit the Casselberry harness raceway to have not only greyhound racing, but also harness racing, if its owners choose. It also would permit the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club in Longwood to have harness racing if its owners wish.

Hattaway said while the grandstand at the harness track can be used for greyhound racing, it will be necessary for the Casselberry owners to build a new track for the dog racing.

Meanwhile, the Altamonte legislator said the proposed creation of a harness race track in Lake Mary is all but dead in his view.

Hattaway said he asked Mark Robinson of Longwood, a spokesman for a group of investors who were considering building a track in Lake Mary for a financial statement to prove the group has the financial means for such a venture to be successful. He said a financial statement was not submitted.

Other than conversations, nothing else ever surfaced over the proposal, he said. Lake Mary city officials and the Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce are opposing the proposal.

The legislator said he will have in hand today a bill he is sponsoring to levy a 15-cent tax per person attending pari-mutual wagering establishments. The tax revenues would be distributed among the cities of Florida, he said.

Hattaway, who earlier said he doesn't believe the taxing proposal has much chance of passage, said today the bill is "subject to negotiation."

Another bill with local significance which Hattaway is sponsoring calls for a change in the ratio of population to liquor licenses when the 1980 census becomes official in 1981.

While state law permits one license per 2,500 persons, the bill would change that ratio to one per 4,000. Hattaway said the cities and the unincorporated areas of Seminole are included in the change.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Israeli Soldiers Kill Hostage-Takers At Dorm

MISGAV AM, Israel (UPI) — Israeli troops today strangled a children's dormitory in a kibbutz on the Lebanese border to free hostages seized nine hours earlier by gun-blazing Palestinian guerrillas and killed all five raiders. A kibbutz child and an adult also were killed.

The Israeli military command said 11 soldiers were wounded in the action at the front line kibbutz of Misgav Am. Four other children and another adult also were injured.

The Iraqi-backed Arab Liberation Front claimed responsibility for the operation which it said was carried out to demand release of 50 Palestinian prisoners.

Prime Minister Menachem Begin was kept abreast of developments through the night. Defense Minister Ezer Weizman, at a hastily called news conference at the site, dodged a question on possible retaliation, saying, "You'll hear about it afterward, not before."

Military sources said the guerrillas, armed with Soviet-made Kalashnikov submachine guns, infiltrated Israel from Lebanon shortly after midnight, sneaked into the heavily secured farming settlement located at Israel's northernmost point and stormed the "baby house," where kibbutz children, attended by several adults, slept.

Leftists Release 3 Hostages

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Leftist guerrillas barricaded inside the Dominican Embassy have released three more hostages and Colombian officials hoped today's negotiating session could lead to "concrete" progress toward gaining the release of the 20 other captives now held for 41 days.

The release Sunday of the three hostages leaves U.S. Ambassador Diego Asencio, 17 other diplomats — including 12 chiefs of mission — and two Colombian civilians still held in captivity.

The three released hostages emerged late in the afternoon Easter Sunday, accompanied by a Red Cross official identified only as R. Kobell, who entered the mission eight hours earlier. They were immediately taken to a military hospital.

The freed hostages were identified as Jamaican honorary Consul Alfredo Byfield; Guillermo Triano, a Colombian Foreign Ministry official; and Tito Lúbio Barreto, a former secretary at the Dominican Embassy.

U.S. Mayors Visit Jerusalem

JERUSALEM (UPI) — Jerusalem, with its unique mixture of races and cultures, played host today to a dozen U.S. mayors who hope to learn more about their own cities by studying the way Mayor Teddy Kollek governs his.

The Americans, who include such key figures as Chicago's Jane Byrne, also hope the trip organized by the American Jewish Congress will give them a better understanding of Israel's role in the Middle East.

The mayors attended a conference at the invitation of Kollek and the A.C.J., which paid their way. Mayor Clay Shaw of Fort Lauderdale said he expects to apply what he has learned from Kollek's handling of Arab-Jewish interaction to the problems involved in having 200,000 Cuban immigrants in southern Florida.

Anti-Gandhi Party Formed

NEW DELHI, India (UPI) — A new opposition party to the government of Prime Minister Indira Gandhi has been formed out of a split within the Janata Party, whose recent disintegration had crippled the opposition movement.

The Bharatiya Janata Indian People's Party was established Sunday after the Janata Party split the day before to resolve a long-standing intra-party dispute, triggering a split within its ranks for the third time in nine months.

The new party is headed by the well-known Atal Bihari Vajpayee, a religious right-wing opposition leader who says the party seeks "to mobilize the people against the growing challenge of dynamic dictatorship."

Midway Youth, 16, Held In Car Theft

A 16-year-old Midway youth was arrested early this morning moments after she stole a car, by a deputy stopping her for failing to maintain a single lane, the Seminole County Sheriff's Department reports.

The youth, arrested at 2:30 a.m., allegedly stole a 1973 Pontiac owned by Jessie Staley, Water Street, Midway, which had been left in front of his house with keys in its ignition.

The youth was arrested at the intersection of Brisson and Coley avenues by a deputy who stopped her to ticket her for failing to drive in one lane.

When asked for her license and registration, the youth reportedly told the deputy she did not have them, since she had just stolen the vehicle.

The youth is also wanted in connection with a burglary, deputies say.

Merkeron was charged with grand theft, Pryor with being an accessory to a grand theft and the two were held in lieu of $5,250 bail.

Sadat Heads For Washington Amidst Squabble

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Egyptian President Anwar Sadat flew to Washington today in a bid to revive the deadlocked Palestinian autonomy talks, but Cairo accused Israel of trying to obstruct peace by setting up new Jewish settlements on the occupied West Bank.

Word leaked from Israel work has begun on two Jewish settlements in the Jericho area in the occupied West Bank — a move interpreted by Egypt as a slap in the face.

A Foreign Ministry communiqué said the settlement construction "initiates additional developments because it immediately precedes the Washington talks, which aim at realizing a just solution of the Palestinian problem."

"The Israeli measures are null and void and constitute an obvious attempt to obstruct the progress toward peace," the communiqué said. "It is necessary that they should be halted and that already existing settlements in occupied Palestinian soil, including East Jerusalem, be dismantled."

Israel's intention in starting the settlements apparently was to signal Prime Minister Menachem Begin will firm when he visits President Carter April 15 on the Israeli declaration of right over the West Bank.

Egypt angrily made it clear it expects Carter to press the Israelis into freezing settlement activity.

Sadat begins three scheduled sessions of talks with President Carter Tuesday, and there is cautious optimism about the outcome of their first summit since the signing of the Egyptian-Israeli peace treaty a year ago.

The semi-official newspaper Al-Ahram played up a Washington Post interview in which Sadat anticipated a trip to the United States, Camp Davidville, within several months.

It followed broad hints in the controlled press that Egypt might soften its position on the May 30 termination date for the Palestinian autonomy talks.

But the weekly newspaper Al-Siyasi cautioned: "The only possibility of going beyond the target date of May 25 arises if the Israeli hard-line position changes. If that is the case the talks will continue, but not beyond mid-July."

Israel annexed Arab East Jerusalem shortly after capturing the region with the West Bank of the Jordan River from Jordan in June, 1967.

Patrolmen have not released the name of the driver of the car which hit Frazier, nor filed any charges in the incident.

Arrests For Grand Theft

Two men and a juvenile were arrested Friday on charges of breaking into the Crown Pawn Shop and making off with $2,500 in rings.

Police responding to an alarm at the pawn shop, located at 1924 S. French Ave., say they arrested Herman Pryor, 21, of 1802 Collier Ave., Sanford, Willie Merkeron, 19, of 1804 Harding Ave., Sanford, and an unidentified youth who was tried to court.

Merkeron was charged with grand theft, Pryor with being an accessory to a grand theft and the two were held in lieu of $5,250 bail.

Sports Parade

By MILTON RICHMAN

A Glance At The Races

NEW YORK (UPI) — Everything works in cycles these days. For example, the 1980 major league baseball season opens Wednesday, but no firm assurance can be offered yet it will be completed until the owners and players agree on their hot issue over a new contract.

More than likely they will, in time, and if that's the case, I look for the season to run full cycle and culminate in the coldest World Series yet.

The World Series is scheduled to start Oct. 14 in the National League city. I think it'll open in Montreal, and it'll be so cold, even Bowie Kuhn will be wearing his overcoat. The way I see it now, it won't be much warmer three days later when the Series shifts to the American League site — Milwaukee.

With so many impediments, not the least of which are possible injuries between now and October, none of the managers or players I talked with this spring was that sure of finishing on top. All used the word "if."

Montreal's Dick Williams was as confident as any although he employed that same word, too.

"In our division, there are four teams who can finish anywhere from first to fourth," he said. "Pittsburgh, Philadelphia, St. Louis and us. We won 95 games last year and lost by two games. I think if we win 95 again this year, we'll win it."

Milwaukee also won last season and ended up eighth games back of Baltimore in the A.L.'s Eastern Division on George Bamberger, the Brewers' manager, begins this season on the sidelines recovering from open heart surgery. He's due back June 6, and until then the team will be handled by one of his coaches, Buck Rogers. Both feel Milwaukee can win, especially with what appears to be a sound-again Larry Hale. I picked the Brewers last year. Maybe I was just a year too early.

Assuming we have an abbreviated season this year, meaning it will continue past May 22, the deadline the players have set for their new contract, here's the way I'm picking the division finishes:

NHL's Top 16 Teams Begin Playoffs

Now that the regular season has ended, the NHL's 16 best teams have one day to prepare for the beginning of the playoffs Tuesday night. And for the Hartford Whalers, one day might not be quite enough to prepare them for the Montreal Canadiens.

"We've got to play very hard both ways against Montreal," said Whalers' Coach Don Blackburn Sunday night after Hartford topped the Detroit Red Wings, 5-3. "We can't afford to turn over the puck and end the game."

Blaine Stoughton's 56th goal of the season and second of the game snapped a three-period tie and lifted him into a tie with Charlie Simmer of Los Angeles and Danny Gare of Buffalo for the league goal-scoring title. The goal was also the 302nd of the season for the Whalers, the most ever for a first-year expansion

Young Lands In Winners Circle

RANCHO MIRAGE, Calif. (UPI) — The 15-year LPGA career of Donna Caponi Young has been liberally sprinkled with glowing moments.

She scored back-to-back victories in the U.S. Open in 1969-70, in 1979 she captured the LPGA Championship; and in the eight years between those accomplishments she won 11 tournaments.

It came as a surprise Easter Sunday when, following her two-stroke victory over Amy Alcott in the $250,000 Wingers Circle tournament at Mission Hills Country Club, she proclaimed it "probably the greatest day of my life."

Young, 35, of Los Angeles, earned $37,500 plus a new automobile for the win, her second of the year, and vaulted to the top of the 1980 money list with $89,098.

She entered the final round with a one-stroke lead over Alcott and played a steady round, carding three birdies and a pair of bogeys, including a meaningless bogey-6 on the 18th hole. Her 72-hole total of 134-under-par 275 over the 6,272-yard Mission Hills layout was a tournament record, besting the 276 of Sandra Post in 1979.

Alcott earned $24,500 for her runner-up showing, while third-place finisher Jane Blalock had a 279 total and earned $17,500. Pat Meyers was fourth at 281 with Jo Anne Carner fifth at 284. Nancy Lopez and Beth Solomon tied for sixth place at 286, with Sandra Haynie, Jo Ann Washam and Debbie Austin another stroke back at 287.

All-Stars Score In Opener

The Sanford All-Stars, an independent baseball squad opened their season Saturday at Sanford Memorial Stadium in impressive fashion.

The local crew scored a 14-1 win over Mt. Dora and followed up with a 8-1 decision over Reddick to post an early season 2-0 record.

Clarence Cain provided the magic in the first game by tossing a no-hitter and striking out nine batters against Mt. Dora. Cain also did a solid job at the plate, collecting a double and single while driving in three runs for the All-Stars.

Sam Raines notched a pair of RBIs on a single. In the second game the Sanford squad got another superb pitching performance. Solomon Hardy fashioned a one-hitter and fanned 13 Reddick batters to handout the opportunity.

Henry Daniels provided the fireworks at the plate with a home run to account for the lone Reddick run. In addition to his strong mound effort, Hardy added a pair of singles to his credit.

The All-Stars will be home Sunday against Royal, Florida, and will have a drawing for a portable ball and white television set.

Momentum Key To N.H.L. Playoffs

NEW YORK (UPI) — If momentum is the key ingredient for winning the National Hockey League playoffs, three teams will win the Stanley Cup.

Obviously, that can't happen, but with the post-season fun beginning Tuesday night in eight different cities, three teams — the defending Cup champion Montreal Canadiens, the Buffalo Sabres and the New York Islanders — are all solid bets to go at least as far as the semifinals.

Throw in the Philadelphia Flyers, who lost only 12 games all year, the Boston Bruins, who ran up 105 points, and several others who could provide surprises, and what you have is probably the most exciting playoff picture in the league's history.

There will be eight first-round series beginning Tuesday night. The first round is best 3-of-5 with the three ensuing rounds being best-of-seven. In all, it is possible for a team to play 26 playoff games before winning the cup.

Olympic Committee Feels Pressure

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo. (UPI) — Under pressure from the White House to make its decision now, the U.S. Olympic Committee's House of Delegates convenes this week to consider President Carter's proposed boycott of the Summer Olympics.

The question of an Americanized boycott of the Moscow Games remains a major priority with the Carter administration, but it also is an issue which Carter appears to be losing ground.

With reports the boycott proposal is losing its momentum internationally, Carter and the State Department want the USOC to take a stand now. As

State Department spokesman Harding Carter noted last week, "We are positive that a number of other countries would publicly and privately endorse this effort as soon as our (USOC) body... makes its decision public and final."

The USOC, however, has repeatedly avoided the confrontation and there is no assurance the House of Delegates will vote on the issue now, since the USOC has until May 24 to accept or decline the Soviet Union's invitation to the games.

A major factor in the House of Delegates' voting will be the delegates from the 21 sports governing bodies, who control 1,228 of the 2,451 total votes within the body. It is also from that group most of the opposition to the boycott is coming.

"The great majority of them have become very militant about the situation," noted F. Don Miller, executive director of the USOC. "That militancy is fueled by the fear this country may be the only major power that does not go to the Olympics this summer. Miller last week met with National Olympic Committee members from 16 countries and reported most of them favored going."

Recently, a delegation of Olympic athletes has held several meetings with State Department and other administration officials in an attempt to reach a compromise. But Carter has remained firm in his stand.

Several of the athletes now say it is conceivable some U.S. athletes may try to enter the games without the sanction of the government or the USOC, an act which would require approval from the IOC. Even that is possible, since the IOC has hinted it might consider changing its by-laws to allow individual entries in the event of a boycott.

This possibility has stirred even more pressure from the White House.

Promoters Negotiating Leonard-Cuevas Bout

HOUSTON (UPI) — Promoters representing Sugar Ray Leonard and Mexico's Pippino Cuevas are negotiating to stage a world welterweight title fight, an unusual event missing since the boxing world was split in half last decade.

Bob Arum of Top Rank Inc. said such a first-rate match was a near certainty and he expects to announce it next week.

One matter holding it up was a cut over Cuevas' right eye he suffered in his fifth-round knockout of South African southpaw Harold Volbrecht Sunday. In attendance were Arum and Leonard.

Behind that, he estimated 7,000 supporters of Cuevas held aloft banners proclaiming him the welterweight king of the world. One of them said, "Pippino No. 1; Leonard No. 2."

Cuevas, 22, has been the World Boxing Association champion since July 1976. He had to beat Volbrecht to receive an invitation from Arum to fight Leonard, but that was a virtual certainty judging by his confident performance against the fifth-ranked WBA challenger.

He only counterpunched through four rounds and when he opened up the fifth, one of the few hard lefts he sent Volbrecht to the canvas. Leonard is the World Boxing Council champion. He was in ringside doing television commentary and after the fight, he commented, "That man hits like a heavyweight. I will have to use speed and ability."

No site has been mentioned for the Leonard-Cuevas match but Cuevas handlers said they would like to see it held May 16 in Houston. In Sunday's fight, Cuevas started slowly and absorbed some punishment through the first three rounds. With the partisan crowd chanting "Mexico! Mexico!" to start the fifth round, Cuevas used a roundhouse left to send Volbrecht, 23, to the canvas. He rolled onto his side and was counted out.

The knockout was Cuevas' 10th in his 11 title defenses since 1976. Volbrecht appeared to have Cuevas concerned in the early rounds, but the champion apparently was waiting until the challenger wore himself out. It was Volbrecht's third loss in 25 professional fights.

Ill-Bred Commuters Ride On Express Bus

RHONDA HELLER

DEAR ABBY: Since the gasoline crunch has become a fact of life, I have stopped driving my car to work in favor of taking the express bus.

I am appalled at the total lack of breeding exhibited by those who ride the buses. They discuss the most personal things at a shouting pitch.

Without wanting to, I have learned what color shorts one woman's husband prefers, and even more personal preferences expressed by tasteless loudmouths who ride the bus.

The other evening, on returning home, a group of regular riders passed around cans of beer, large bottles of wine, potato chips, salami and cheese!

When I was 19, I married a man with five sons ranging from 9 to 16 years old. His wife had been dead for two years.

When he offered me his first wife's rings, I felt honored. To me it symbolized that he loved me as much as he had loved her. Furthermore, I felt that if I could accept five human beings that were her flesh and blood, I could certainly accept the rings she had worn.

Although it was hard for the boys to accept me at first, after two years we have a loving family relationship.

Blood Pressure Pill Can Cause Headache

Dr. Lamb

DEAR DR. LAMB—Three years ago at age 51 my blood pressure became quite high. My doctor checked me for six weeks and then put me on Ser-Ap-Es. He said that once I started the medication I would have to keep taking it. He warned me about potassium loss and advised me to drink orange juice or eat fresh fruit, especially bananas. I'm 5 feet 8 and weigh 148 pounds but I'm not really overweight. He also took me off salt.

My doctor retired and moved away and I've gone to a new doctor. He said that my blood pressure was low at 110 over 70 and he didn't think I needed that much medicine. He put me on Aquaten and now my blood pressure is low enough, you might ask him to try you without any medicine at all. If your blood pressure stays normal without any medication, then the problem will be to deal with the question of your doctor but if your pressure is low enough, you might ask him to try you without any medicine at all. HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, April 8, 1980

YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 8, 1980

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
You and your mate could be poles apart on a major issue today. One of you will have to be a peacemaker. Assume the role.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Take great care today not to blurt out things to others that you may deem offensive, even though this isn't your basic intention. Loose lips cause confrontations.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Impulsive spending today could do your budget a great disservice. You know the limit of your resources, so try to live within your means.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Have your many irons in the fire today will prove self-defeating. Keep your pictures in order. Don't take on more than you can manage.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18)
Be very careful today about jumping to conclusions before all the facts are in. Premature judgments are apt to be erroneous.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20)
Be helpful to others today, but confine your aid to non-material ways. Sound advice will do more good than dipping into your purse.

County Threatens To Take Library Books From City

By DIANE PETRYK
Herald Staff Writer

County Attorney Nikki Clayton said she is prepared to tell Seminole County commissioners today the county may legally keep all of the books at the downtown Sanford library, regardless what the city of Sanford does.

But City Attorney C. Vernon Mize Jr. said that opinion can be disputed. The county leaves the present library building at East First Street and Palmetto Avenue from the city.

If the county should decide not to renegotiate the lease, which expires soon, it could leave the city with an empty building it will lose to the federal government.

Under an agreement with the U.S. General Services Administration, the city must see that a library is maintained at the building until April 17, 1983.

But the county's lease expires Oct. 1, 1980. And City Manager Warren Knowles said at a special city commission meeting April 2 it would be virtually impossible for the city to stand by its agreement with the GSA if it does not have any books.

Apparently in an effort to retain the 40,000 volumes for the city, officials hand-delivered to the county a lease cancellation notice on April 2.

Under a cancellation clause in the lease entered into on September 23, 1975, either party can end the agreement with written notice to the other party. But the clause further states:

"But such notice must be delivered at least one hundred eighty (180) days prior to October 1 of each year, to take effect on Oct. 1 of such year."

City officials met the deadline by acting April 2.

But the cancellation notice directs the county to "vacate the premises on or before September 30, 1980."

"The notice is not in conformity with the lease," Clayton said Monday.

Section 18 of the lease calls for any cancellation to take effect on Oct. 1, not Sept. 30, she pointed out.

Under Section 6 of the lease, early termination of the agreement by either party would mean "possession of all books, materials and items of equipment shall revert to the city."

But that section stipulates if the agreement is carried out to its natural expiration date of Oct. 1, 1980, the books and other items become the property of the county.

"I will tell them (the commissioners) the lease will expire by its own terms and we will own the books," Clayton said.

Mize, however, said there is a conflict in the lease. Another section, he said, stipulates that the lease is to be for five years.

"We take the position that Sept. 30 is the last day of the 5th year," Clayton said. "On Oct. 1, 1980, as termination date, the lease is intended to be for five years."

Knowles said the county should study the lease in its entirety.

With the lease cancellation notice, the city also delivered a proposed new lease for the county to consider. It was similar to a county-proposed lease, with one exception. It deleted the county's proposal that, upon expiration on April 17, 1983, the city shall deed the property to the county.

According to Commission Chairman Bill Kirchhoff, the county needs to own the building to justify spending money to renovate and expand the facility.

"If leases can be canceled like the city is trying to do now, how can we count funds for capital improvements?" Kirchhoff asked.

Kirchhoff said the library should remain in downtown Sanford.

Iran Thumbs Nose At U.S. Reprisals

By United Press International
Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini today called President Carter's reprisals against Iran for holding the 50 American hostages a "final victory" that gave Iranians "every reason to believe" in their Revolutionary Council action.

U.S. officials shrewd Iranian diplomats.

Stories on Page 2A

Tension rises in Persian Gulf.

The Revolutionary Council said Iran had been "expecting" American imperialism to demonstrate its ugly greed toward the people and the revolution.

"They also expected conspiracies by the big satan, and all their expectations were fulfilled," it said.

In severing diplomatic relations with Iran, Carter warned Monday that other tougher steps would be taken unless the 52-day-old crisis is ended quickly.

Khomeini, in a message broadcast by Tehran Radio, said: "If Carter has done one thing in all his life which can be said to be in the interests of the oppressed it is this: he has risen to free itself from the claws of international plunderers and a world-devouring plunderer."

"We consider this break to be a good moment since it is a sign the U.S. government has cut its hopes from Iran," Khomeini said. "Our fighting nation has every reason to celebrate this good news of final victory that has forced a cruel superpower to break its relations, thus putting an end to the plundering."

Khomeini blamed Iran's recent problems with Iraq on the United States and he called on the Iraqi army and nation to "cut off the hand of America protruding from Saddam's sleeve."

Saddam is Saddam Hussein al-Takriti, head of Iraq's Revolutionary Council, whom Khomeini called "anti-Islamic" and "inhuman."

Khomeini, fueling a crisis that threatened to break into open war, urged Iran's army to "join the people" and overthrow the Iraqi regime.

President Abolhasan Bani-Sadr said, "Thank God things have happened as they have. It is in our interests. We should be united. No matter what group or faction we belong to, we should forget past grievances and unite in the fight to ensure our political and economic independence," Bani-Sadr said.

Bani-Sadr said he believed Iran would have been threatened regardless of circumstances, since its move toward independence would be impossible without getting out of the system imposed by the superpowers. "Therefore they would have started the attack in some way. The attack has taken this shape now." "These are not their last weapons," Bani-Sadr said. "There are other weapons which they will use later, since this is not our last act."

The Soviet news agency Tass said Carter's decision was prompted by "imperialist interests" rather than concern for the U.S. hostages.

In London, officials of IWA and Pan Am refused today to allow Iranians aboard flights to the United States. The airlines said a provision of the U.S. Immigration Act calls for a $5,000 fine for every Iranian passenger they carry now that President Carter has imposed his strict sanctions on Iran.

Carter announced the sanctions hours after Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini held the hostages would remain in the custody of the militants holding the U.S. Embassy in Tehran until the captives' fate was decided by new parliament, which may not meet until summertime following runoff elections.

In abandoning hope a conciliatory, diplomatic approach could diffuse the crisis, the president warned: "Other actions may become necessary if these steps do not produce the prompt release of the hostages."

Carter made no mention of military force, but the government has said such action has not been ruled out.

Carter had been set to announce a series of sanctions last week but held off when Bani-Sadr appeared to be working out an arrangement to have the hostages transferred to the custody of the Revolutionary Council.

But fighting between Bani-Sadr and the council's religious faction severely damaged the chances of a transfer and Khomeini's statement Monday finally put the question to rest.

Besides the 50 hostages in the embassy, three other American officials are under virtual house arrest at the Iranian Foreign Ministry, where they sought sanctuary when the militants stormed the embassy Nov. 4.

Carter said the United States would consult with its allies on the sanctions and other possible actions against Iran.

Diplomatic observers said the U.S. retaliatory steps were seen as a victory for Bani-Sadr and other more moderate members of the Revolutionary Council.

Khomeini's statement on the hostages' fate came shortly after Bani-Sadr and Foreign Minister Sadegh Ghotbzadeh met with him, apparently in an effort to convince the religious leader to support a transfer.

Carter's action came at a time when Iran is gravely concerned with its relations with neighboring Iraq.

The populations of the two countries belong to differing Modern sects — Iran derives from a Shiite while Iraq is predominantly a Shiite while Iraq is Sunni. Relations between the two countries have been worsening for months.

McGovern Urges Blockade, Bombing

By United Press International
Sen. George McGovern, who ran for president in 1972 as a liberal, anti-war candidate, says the United States should be planning a blockade and selective air strikes against Iran to break the hostage stalemate.

McGovern, D-S.D., Monday agreed with President Carter's decision to break diplomatic relations with Iran, but said Iranian diplomats in the United States should be taken into custody instead of expelled.

He also said, "The administration should begin planning for long-term action, including a blockade and selective air strikes if necessary to resolve this unprecedented and outrageous kidnapping."

McGovern said U.S. allies must join in the economic sanctions and realize if those measures fail, "it is difficult to see how the United States can avoid more drastic action."

Republican presidential frontrunner Ronald Reagan called Carter's moves against Iran "more of the same" and an extension of policies that were "wrong from the first."

But Democrat Edward Kennedy and the other two Republican presidential candidates, George Bush and John Anderson, supported—with reservations—Carter's decisions to break relations and impose strong sanctions on Iran.

Both Kennedy, in Philadelphia, and Anderson, in Los Angeles, emphasized the need to win full cooperation from U.S. allies in Europe and Japan if the sanctions are to be effective.

Bush, in Washington, charged Carter had "manipulated the news media for the benefit of his own re-election campaign. It is time the American people recognize our Iranian policy for what it is: one of failure, inaction and even calculated deception."

EXPLOSION RIPS HOME, VEHICLE
Gutted remains are all that are left of two cars and part of a home at 102 Academy Drive, Sanford, following an accidental gasoline explosion at 4:20 p.m. Tuesday, Sanford firefighters say. Charles Henderson, 71, was siphoning gas from the tank of his 1973 Buick LeSabre in order to drain and repair it, when gasoline vapors spread across the floor. The vapors were sparked by a nearby gas-fired water heater, they say, causing an explosion which ripped through Henderson's home and carport, burning him and causing about $15,000 in damage to the home and two cars in the carport. Henderson was taken to Seminole Memorial Hospital, where he was in satisfactory condition this morning, suffering from second-degree burns on his arms and legs and first-degree facial burns.
