

Nothing Hot But the Stove. Visitor: "I have just been to the bakery. I find it too hot to do any baking at home this sultry weather. How do you stand it?"

Why is the soda cracker today such a universal food? People ate soda crackers in the old days, it is true—but they bought them from a barrel or box and took them home in a paper bag, their crispness and flavor all gone.

UNEDA BISCUIT—soda crackers better than any ever made before—made in the greatest bakeries in the world—baked to perfection packed to perfection—kept to perfection until you take them, oven-fresh and crisp, from their protecting package. Five cents.

I see and hear much these days about Orlando's sewerage and the idea that they are to dump it into the deep wells that will at some time reach to the lower spots of Florida, either Kissimmee or Ocala or Palatka getting the sewerage or if not the sewerage at least the contaminations of the same. The matter seems to be up to the state board of health and I am anxious to see them set in the matter at once.

It is related that a great many accidents happen on Sunday and some have the notion that they happen because of the day of the week. It is only a superstition. Such a conclusion is hardly reasonable in view of the fact that Sunday is a day of necessity the ordinary holiday of the week.

There are a few others in the course of the year, but the regular and recurring holiday of the week is Sunday. That day hundreds of thousands who are shut up in factories, in offices of one kind and another, are free to go out doors to get on the water, to breathe the pure air of the country, and so on, and they take advantage of it. It is only natural.

IT IS JUST AS EASY. To say give me a dish of POINSETTIA. Ice Cream, as it is to omit the name—why do you do it, when by saying POINSETTIA you get so much more real VALUE for your money.

Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, however, had the largest list of correctly supplied words and articles, received the prize, a tiny china cup and saucer.

Company Will Be Formed In A Few Weeks For Local River Traffic Line. The Clyde Line and the railroad cannot give Sanford the proper service in freight rates has long been apparent to the business men of this city and after exhausting all other methods and arguments a decision has been made to start something this fall and this "starting something" means that a fleet of new river steamers will be put upon the river from Jacksonville to Sanford.

The police force of Sanford have strict orders to prevent the new sheath gown being worn in Sanford.

The new bond issue means that Sanford will have the lake front bulk headed and should the issue fail to pass no bulk head.

Mr. and Mrs. Fisher have returned home from a trip to their old home in Ohio and report the weather up there as very hot. In fact they came back to Sanford to keep cool.

We hope the city council will push the building of sidewalks from Tenth street to Hughey on Park avenue. Good sidewalks and a brick street to Sanford Heights will leave nothing more to be desired, as the lights and water are already promised.

The Sanford Herald, speaking of the press convention at Tampa, gave an interesting account of the affair and wound up by saying, "We shall tie to Tampa." Gee Whizz! does Seminole county propose to take in the whole state?—Ft. Myers Press.

Yes indeed. The state of Florida and Fr. Myers.

The county commissioners of Seminole county are looking after the people's interests at all times and intend to weigh carefully every proposition before passing upon it. They are giving their time and attention every week without pay, trying to start the new county right and they deserve the assistance of every citizen in the county. Starting a new county is a man's job and we have real men as county commissioners.

It is said that the new hotel regulations will put the Sanford House among the things of the past and that the owners will now have to make it a real hotel or tear it down. While we would hate to see this work of art demolished our grief at parting would be assuaged somewhat by the appearance of the new hotel that would take its place and the dream of Sanford becoming the best tourist resort in the state would then come true.

Editor Howard of the Orlando Citizen has changed his paper to magazine size and asks how we like it. It is fine, Howard and you are to be commended upon the neat appearance of the new magazine. The Citizen has always been in the magazine class and now you have the proper size to give your illustrations the full effect. And then Orange county needs a magazine and who could give us one as well as Howard, who draw pictures with pencil and pen and is successful in both.

Just received the catalogue of Rollins College and they probably want our opinion of it and here it is. If an Orange county college needs to send to Alabama to print their catalogues they can also send to Alabama for free newspaper notices. The Orlando Sentinel for years printed the catalogue for Rollins College and printed it as well, if not better than the one just issued. There are other printing offices in the county that can do this work, why then is it necessary to send to Alabama for printing?

The Sanford Herald is the official organ of Seminole county and in adding new subscribers every day this paper is offering greater inducements to the advertiser than ever before. Now is the time to make your advertising contracts for the ensuing year for the rates are going higher superinduced by the big subscription list. There is no paper in the state that covers the good territory now covered by The Herald and the advertiser who makes a contract now will be greatly benefitted in the next twelve months. The Herald covers the field like the dew and if there is nay person in the new county who does not subscribe for The Herald he reads his neighbor's paper and the advertisements.

The very latest wrinkle for making a greater Sanford is the idea of an independent steamship line incorporated by Sanford merchants and already money enough has been offered to make the initial payments on a fleet of vessels. Cheaper freight rates and better service will be the slogan of the new line and the St. Johns river will at least become what it should have become many years ago—the great highway of trade and travel. The idea of the river traffic being exorbitant in rates is unheard of in any other state except Florida and like the freight rates on railroads can be charged up to Jacksonville and the wholesale interests.

They are afraid that Sanford will become the wholesale center of Florida and the independent steamship line will do much toward realizing this dream.

The idea fostered by some of the anti-divisionists that Sanford was broke receives a rude jolt now with the two banks making statements that they have more money on deposit than ever before and with a new bank and trust company getting ready to start here. If Sanford is not moving forward some of the business could be showing inclination to move here. There are more houses being built, more new stores opening, more new people coming here in the summer and more enterprises of every kind opening up than ever before and all this in the dull months of summer.

Our doughty friend Bates, of Sanford town, presents quite an original "Get Rich Quick" scheme in a recent article to the Times-Union.

He writes as a correspondent from Sanford and says: "Sanford is to make a bond issue of $500,000. The money will be used in retiring certain outstanding bonds and taking up some current obligations, thus placing the affairs of the city ON A CASH BASIS."

"Reminds us of the chap in our old home town who every first of the year went about rubbing his hands and congratulating himself and everybody that he had paid all his indebtedness and was now on a firm cash basis, having renewed all his notes and annual debts in a new loan.

Oh, Bates is a buster of a financier.—Orlando Citizen.

COME TO SANFORD

If the Seminole county people are going to treat us Orlando folks the same as St. Petersburg has been treating their former Hillsborough county brothers, we are going to remain right in the vicinity of Orange avenue where Sheriff Gordon and Chief of Police Smith can take care of us. But we think Bob Holly is about the most dangerous man up there and he is as harmless and good natured as a boy's big sister.—Orlando Sentinel.

We will treat you right, brother. We were poor ones and lived in Orlando.

SANFORD THE COOLEST

Looking over the temperature reports for Florida for the past few weeks will convince any one that Sanford is the coolest spot in the state. The temperature for the morning readings for the last week registers 70, which is cool enough to make the mornings very comfortable and which is cooler than any other locality, according to government reports. This is easily accounted for by the large lakes that almost surround the city and then the breezes from the ocean and gulf are always noticeable to many other residents of other Florida cities. Our summer weather is pronounced perfect. The residents of Sanford easily note the change in visiting other cities on the coasts or the interior. There is never a night in the summer that you cannot sleep in Sanford in comfort and this assertion cannot be truthfully made by any other location in the south, north, east or west, unless it be in Canada or the mountains.

SOREHEADS

We are glad that Seminole county is rejoicing in its freedom from the heel of the oppressor. We have been oppressed at times ourselves, and we realize the terror of the sensation. And the Fourth of July was a fitting time for the celebration of freedom. But as to the good taste of that future gubernatorial candidate with the accent on the candidate—meaning Mr. Donegan being present and accepting a memento for his services on behalf of SOME of the people of his district this was not so happy. A little incident to jar and shock out of plumb the full fledged candor and honesty of the occasion.—Reporter-Star.

Better see the poultryman and get something for that continued case of sorehead. You are poor losers, poor sports, poor politicians, poor ball players, etc. On to the poor house with such a poor bunch.—Senator Donegan was presented with a token of our appreciation which is characteristic of the Sanford spirit. And by the way, we have never heard of Orlando presenting Hon. Sam. Robinson with anything for his gallant fight made against division, alone and unaided except for the wind blowing through the keyhole of the capitol building (per Starbuck, Strozic and Watkins). What a bunch of sore-headed, pessimistic, pin headed pickers live in the capital of Lemon county!

PARTY HARMONY THREATENED

There are indications of a rupture pending in the Florida Democracy. In the first place, there is some dissatisfaction about the distribution of the federal offices. The best of these have been given to radical leaders who style themselves progressives. With the exception of a few postmasterships of the second and third class, the so-called Reactionaries have received no choice plums.

The self-styled Progressives denounce as Reactionaries all who voted for Underwood in last year's primaries, and the extremists of the former element, particularly some of their newspaper mouthpieces, declare openly that the Underwood supporters are entitled to no recognition. The fact that these so-called Reactionaries remained loyal to the Democratic ticket and, not only this but contributed as liberally as their means allowed to the national campaign fund is counted for nothing by the greedy office seekers and their newspaper allies of the radical faction of the party.

Further, the overpowering arrogance of these latter, the assumption that they are the only true, Simon-pure Democrats in Florida and that those who did not vote for Wilson in last year's primaries are political traitors, hirings of corporations, and enemies of the people is in the highest degree offensive to all those plain, simple Democrats who, last year, carried the state of Florida by 8,000 majority for Underwood. It would be wise for those triflers of plain Democrats to remember that majority and to reflect that it has a power to vote the traducers out of the party.

When we consider this condition of things in connection with the intricacies and complications of the Bryan primary law, we cannot but feel that a serious rupture is impending and, if it occurs, the self-styled Progressives will be responsible for it. They are responsible for all the hostile legislation enacted of late against the newspapers. They could not pass the "corrupt practices law" without trying to inflict an arrant injustice upon the newspapers by requiring them to publish free of charge any defence which a rascal/freer for office might make against any paid-for exposure of his true character.

The arrogant attitude of this minority wing, their deliberate efforts to boycott the real Democrats, the complicated primary law and the iniquity sought to be perpetrated upon the newspapers, may arouse the indignant majority shown by the Underwood vote to assert their power, in which event those extremely pure and holy Progressives are quite likely to bolt and join forces with the Roosevelt cohorts. At any rate, a rupture may be expected in the near future, for the patience of the real Democrats is nearly, if not quite exhausted.—Punta Gorda Herald.

Gambler's Superstitions.

Gamblers are generally superstitious with regard to numbers. At Monte Carlo many players lay their stake on the number of their cloak room tickets. The date of a birthday, the sum total of the number on a watch, and the figures on the top coin of a pile are also said to be considered lucky by many players, and the clergyman of the English church at Monte Carlo at one time never gave out any hymn under number 35, as he discovered that some of his congregation had made a practice of noting down the numbers with a view of backing them at roulette.

Spiders Used as Charms.

Spiders, like worms and snakes, were formerly much used in charm cures, and only a year or two since an English shopkeeper was startled by a request for "a nut to put a spider in to cure baby's whooping cough." The spider, according to an old-time prescription, was to be inclosed in a nut and suspended round the child's neck, the idea being that as the insect died the disease disappeared.

Discouraged Fireflies.

During a pause of a brilliant display of fireworks on the circle of friends commented upon the conspicuous absence of the innumerable fireflies that had been noticed several evenings previously. The query as to what had become of them all was promptly answered by my thin boy of five summers, who remarked: "I guess they must be discouraged."—Chicago Tribune.

Slur on Philadelphia.

"A Philadelphia scientist on his way to the Hawaiian islands spent three months studying the habits, evolution and variations of tree snails." We do not believe that a Philadelphian can complete the job in three months, but it must be admitted that he will obtain some valuable hints on speed.—Boston Transcript.

Saving Electric Current.

Repeatedly interrupting the current for infinitesimal fractions of time, permitting the filament to cool but not interfering with the light as perceived by the human eye, a French electrician has invented a lamp which he claims uses but one two-hundredth of the current of ordinary lamps.

French Society Improving.

The latest fad in Paris, it is said, is to play cards in the boxes during a grand opera performance. This is not half so annoying as the habit some persons have of whistling or singing grand opera or other airs during a game of cards.

Maybe They Were.

Little Clara has a habit of sticking her feet out of the bed covers. One hot night on being told not to do so, she obeyed in silence for a little while and then suddenly said, "Oh, mamma, let me put my feet out! They're choking."

Doing Their Sums.

"Do youst thing about 'rithmetic," said Uncle Eben, "is dat a whole lot of folks git de idea dat any kin' o' 'figgerin' is all right if de kin 'niah wif a numbah dat has a dollah ma'k in front of it."

This Poet's Wife Was Practical. "If I can do anything to cheer and brighten the lives of my fellow men I shall be perfectly satisfied," remarked the long-haired poet. "Then," replied his weary wife, "why don't you quit writing poetry and get up a comic series in which the humor is furnished by some one who hits another over the head with a club?"

Primitive Farming in Spain. In some parts of Spain, as in the Seville district, there are many large farms ranging from 1,000 acres up to 10,000 or even more. In other parts of the country thousands of peasants till little plots of from two acres to five acres apiece. There the use of modern farm machinery makes very slow progress.

Thorny Pathway of Genius. An advertisement taken from a Chicago morning paper shows to what a case a genius may come in a great city: "Wanted—A collaborator, by a young playwright. The play is already written; collaborator to furnish board and bed until play is produced."

Nail Will Stay. When a wall is so soft that it will not hold a picture nail, mix a little plaster of paris in a teacup, enlarge the hole to a fair size and insert the plaster, and a minute after, the nail—and let it dry. The nail will be perfectly secure after it has dried.

The Crank. "Is Jinks a confirmed pessimist?" "Yes; he will never try to talk over a telephone because he says that the one of the 9,000,000 in the United States which would be of service to him is sure to be in use."

Didn't Dare to Go to Work. "I say, Tom, lend me another ten, will you?" "Heavens! Why don't you go to work and earn money?" "Don't dare to, my boy. People would think the governor had disinherited me, and that would ruin my credit."

Brevity. Barber (beginning the haircut)—"Have you heard the story about the guy that—(resuming business)—want it short, sir?" Customer (a tired editor)—"Yes; a mere synopsis will do!"—Judge.

She Knew Better. Teacher gave as her morning quotation, "Many hands make light work." Lucy was heard whispering to her neighbor, "Not if you had to wash them as often as I have to do mine."

Succulent Grape-fruit. A fellow by the name of Bear, perhaps the original Bear, makes the remark that "a grapefruit is a lemon that had a chance and took advantage of it!"—The Co-opt-or.

Hunters Contribute to Revenue. One of the important functions of the government in Germany is the issuing of permits to hunters. The revenue thus obtained is about $1,500,000 annually.

Foolish Egotism. The true egotist is the man who imagines he is attracting attention to his particular line of comedy in a crowd of baseball rooters.

Frequently Happens. A man may work so hard running after a band wagon that when he over-takes it he's too tired to get any pleasure out of the ride.

THE REAL FLORIDA

Cannot be Judged From Car Window Observations

The tourist or homesweeper who comes to Florida and sizes up the state from the car window misses his guess in every instance and frequently returns home by the next train a disgusted man, to abuse and revile the Land of Flowers forevermore.

In truth the great uncultivated acres of Florida do not look inviting from the car window and it is not surprising that the man who is satisfied to rest his judgment on that superficial, fleeting view of things uses his return ticket as soon as possible. So it has always been with new lands awaiting development, for their least pleasing aspects are most obstructive to the visitor and if he be of the early "quitter" variety he fairly runs away from the opportunity and leaves it to others of clearer vision and better staying qualities to get beneath the surface of things and exploit the rich field abandoned by the quitter.

The DeLand News masses the concrete testimony that the car window expert is mistaken in his hasty appraisal in the following pregnant paragraph: "Citrus fruits brought approximately $14,000,000 into Florida for the season just closed. Besides citrus fruits, Florida ships annually many train loads of Irish and sweet potatoes, lettuce, watermelons, cantaloupes, tomatoes, eggplants, celery, pineapples, guavas, peppers, squash, beets, cabbage, strawwren rice and other vegetables, fruit and truck, cotton, fertilizer, cattle, hides, lumber, shingles, laths, crossties, brick, pottery, clay, phosphate, rosin and turpentine, cigars and tobacco. It would be interesting to learn the amount of money brought into the state since last July for all these and other products. When Florida people learn to work up all these materials and ship the finished product, our population will increase four to six times its present number.—Lakeland Telegram.

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery.

Pomeroyton, Ky.—In interesting advices from this place, Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good.

I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Theodor's Black-Draught, and out taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it.

I have now been taking Theodor's Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it.

I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me."

Theodor's Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous poisons, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest.

UNCLE'S QUEER WILL

Young Legatees Discovered That He Was Not So Very Hard Hearted.

BY J. M. PRICE.

Lucy and I looked at each other when the lawyer came to that clause in Uncle Jabes's will. We did not look straight but out of the corner of our eyes. At least, I saw that Lucy was looking at me, and so I infer that she saw that I was looking at her. Then we each stared hard at the wall-paper.

"To my nephew, Arthur Bowen, the sum of fourteen thousand dollars and my property on Madison avenue, consisting of the apartment house, known as 'The Maple Vine,' on condition that he shall not marry the said Lucy Stokes within a period of twenty years, the said property and capital to be held in trust for him during that period and the interest paid to him quarterly," the ferocious old fellow had written. "And to my niece, Lucy Stokes, the sum of thirty thousand dollars, to be held in trust for her for twenty years following my death, and the interest to be paid to the said Lucy Stokes quarterly, contingent upon her not marrying the said Arthur Bowen. And should the aforesaid legatees marry during that period the capital and property aforesaid shall revert to the person whose name is in the possession of my lawyer, Mr. Griffin Coleworth."

It did not run exactly in that way, but that was the sum and substance of it. And the point was that Lucy and I had never wanted to marry each other.

"I congratulate you both heartily," said Mr. Coleworth, when he had finished reading the will. He shook hands with us. "I presume that the contingency is not likely to press unduly hard upon either of you," he inquired blandly.

"No, indeed no," said Lucy haughtily. "I assure you that Mr. Bowen and I have always felt quite an aversion toward each other."

"Yes, indeed," I stammered. "The thought of a union has never entered our minds at all."

"Quite so—quite so," said Mr. Coleworth, rubbing his hands. And Lucy turned away and began talking to Mr. Jabes Stokes's housekeeper, who, attired in deepest mourning, was contentedly meditating upon her own ample legacy of fifteen thousand dollars.

As I have said, I had never given a thought to Lucy. My revered uncle—our revered uncle—had been a suspicious old man, and what is popularly known as a "killyoj." If he thought he had done us an ill turn he was grossly self-deceived. And yet—well, I had never noticed it before, strangely enough, but the way Lucy turned her head away was quite fascinating. Her dress became remarkably, and she was—yes, positively pretty. If only Uncle Jabes had made our marriage conditional upon our inheriting the legacy, what would—what would Lucy have done?

She answered that very question. "Aren't you glad, Arthur, that it wasn't the other way round?" she asked. "Suppose he had insisted upon our being married—why, that would have been dreadful, wouldn't it?"

"Horrible!" I agreed. "And poor Mr. Richardson would have been just crazy," said Lucy. "Not that that would have made any difference, though. I mean so far as we are concerned."

Mr. Richardson! Why, he had been hanging round Lucy for five years at least. Then she must have been secretly engaged to him! Her furtiveness in not telling me aroused the bitterest anger in me. I am afraid that we did not part good friends. It must have been three months later, about the time when I received the first quarterly installment, that I read the account of Mr. Richardson's marriage to Miss Bunting. Oddly enough, I experienced a sudden lighting of my emotions, as though I had been relieved of some dreadful burden. And then I understood. It had actually been jealous of Mr. Richardson! Yet Lucy and I were utterly incompatible in temperament, as we had agreed a thousand times.

We ran across each other at Atlantic City that summer and stopped to chat.

"Dear old Uncle Jabes!" said Lucy ecstatically. "Do you know, Arthur—I don't mind confessing it to you now—at one time I positively had a sort of tender feeling toward you. That was a long time ago, of course, or else I wouldn't have told you. I really believe the keen old man must have detected it. Wasn't it providential, that clause in his will?"

"Yes," I said, and I was thinking all the time that Lucy's eyes were bluer than any eyes I had ever seen. And her hair was positively coppery in the sunlight. I really could have fallen in love with Lucy, if she had given me the least encouragement! "When did this feeling possess you?" I asked her.

"O, ages ago," she said evasively. "Long, long before dear Uncle Jabes died. I wouldn't have told you, only—well, I may be engaged, shortly."

"Who is he?" I yelled, starting out of my chair.

"You are very impertinent," she answered, and walked away with her head in the air, looking like a Titian angel.

I don't know why it was, but I felt utterly crushed. And presently I began to realize what was the matter with me. I was in love—and with Lucy! Yes, positively my heart was beating like a boy's when he first experiences the divine passion. It meant everything in the world to me! I couldn't wait; I hurried after her. I found her entering her hotel upon the arm of a smart, dark-haired fellow in that sort of suit that is advertised as "a forty-dollar suit for nineteen cents fifty." She bowed to me and walked into the hotel. With that man! A girl of Lucy's taste! It sickened me. At least I hoped that she would have shown a little discrimination in her choice of a mate instead of selecting or being selected by a tailor's dummy! I wrote her a letter asking for an appointment next afternoon for three o'clock.

I spent a night of torture. I passed the morning walking up and down the board walk. At three o'clock I was at her hotel. Her maid handed me a letter. I opened it.

"I am sorry, Arthur, but I have an engagement with Mr. Clements this afternoon," I read. "Perhaps some other time will do? I am leaving this evening for—"

I dashed the letter upon the floor and strode out of the room. I had reached the front door of the suite when I heard a voice calling me. I looked back. There stood Lucy at the door, dressed all in white and looking like a saint.

"O, Mr. Bowen, I didn't go out after all. I had a headache," she said. "What was it you wanted to see me about, Arthur?"

I reached her in four strides. "Lucy," I said, making no bones about it, "I have found out that I love you. Will you marry me and let Uncle Jabes go to—the deuce?"

I was so keyed up that I didn't know what I was saying. But Lucy gazed at me—my darling Lucy, who has never failed me in anything from that day to this. She put her arms round my neck and laid her head down on my shoulder and cried:

"O, Arthur," she said, two minutes later, "do you know I have loved you all the time?"

"How long?" I asked jealously. "Always, Arthur. Tell me, when did you begin to love me?"

"Always," I replied. "And as for Uncle Jabes—"

"We'll let his money go," she said. "I don't care, so long as I have you, dear."

So we were engaged, and we took the train back to town next day to see Mr. Coleworth. I had my last and first instalment of the income ready for him. Lucy had spent most of hers, but I was determined to make it good, even if it meant delaying our marriage for a few months longer. Mr. Coleworth came out of his office at once and led us back into a cozy corner beside a real, old-fashioned fireplace.

"So you two young people have found out that you are in love with each other?" he asked quizzically.

"Yes, and we are going to get married," I answered, and planked down the interest upon the table. "There is my share and Miss Stokes will pay you—"

"O, pshaw!" said Mr. Coleworth. "You don't have to pay that back. It just has reference to the future, you know. I'm afraid—I'm very much afraid that the capital must go to third party now."

"Who is the third party?" I demanded savagely. "I'd like to know just out of curiosity, because I'm sure the old scoundrel's money won't do him any good either."

Mr. Coleworth turned round. "I cannot allow you to refer to the late Mr. Stokes in that way," he said. "To be frank with you, it was with my connivance that he put that clause in his will. He wanted you to get married and thought that was the best way to bring it about."

"Well, he's had his wish," I answered angrily. "Who gets the money now?"

He pulled the will out of a drawer and read:

"If the said parties shall marry, then I bequeath the said property to the first-born issue of the said marriage, or be shared among all the issue of the said parties, the principal to be held in trust for the said legatees by the parties aforesaid."

That was the time Lucy looked very hard at the wall-paper. (Copyright, 1912, by W. G. Chapman.)

Buzzing Sounds Made by Insects.

The different humming or buzzing sound in insects is caused by the vibration of the wings, and the more rapid the vibrations the sharper the sound. Scientists have estimated that the common house fly vibrates its wings about 335 times a second, and the honeybee 400 times, though a tired bee moves its wings more slowly and makes a different sound from a fresh one. The butterfly is content to move more slowly and makes no noise.

RIVERVIEW LOTS

JACKSONVILLE, FLA.

$10.00 DOWN AND $5.00 PER MONTH

NO INTEREST OR TAXES FOR 2 YEARS FROM DATE OF YOUR CONTRACT

It is only a matter of a few years but what all this Riverview property will be a repetition of Riverside and Springfield.

We have the Bell telephone service which all know is the finest in the land, and our motor car service which gives Riverview people a 5c fare to the business centre of Jacksonville, is a far better service than is rendered in many other parts of Jacksonville and its suburbs. To those who desire to make a small modest investment of only a few dollars every month, with a positive and absolute certainty of making big money on their investment, Riverview offers this opportunity.

We lie right out beyond Springfield, one mile beyond North Jacksonville. We have a fine brick and macadam street leading from the Post Office in Jacksonville to and through Riverview. We already have 40 homes, mercantile houses and varied industries. We have 14 miles of streets, all of which are set out in shade trees. We have free public docks, boat and bath houses, an 8 grade grammar school, and new developments rapidly taking place.

Now is a good time to buy your lots. Our prices range for inside lots $350 to 450 the lot. Corners $450 to 550. Terms the same on all. $10 down and 5 per month.

We will make special terms on 4 lots, but not more than 4 lots sold to any one person. No lots sold to colored people.

Ornamental Telephones.
The palm must be awarded to the manufacturer of telephones. In one of the loud-speaking telephones manufactured in Paris and designed to be used for communication within the house, the instruments are hidden in flower vases, which may be placed on the dining room table, on a table or mantel in the living room, or in the bedrooms. The receiver and microphone are mounted in the base of the vase. A push button is attached to the connection with the battery. A push button rings a bell in the kitchen or servants' rooms, and the woman of the house can transmit her orders without having to call the servants to her. There are several variations of the idea, such as for instance, as an ornamental dish holder, or an odd-looking ornamental figure.

Triangular Smile.
No lady is suitably equipped now for any big function unless she has contorted her face into what is known as the "triangular smile." This "expression" is supposed to represent simplicity and innocence! It is formed by lifting the center part of the top lip to form an apex of the triangle, the lower lip then representing the base. The upper teeth are thereby revealed, and some women are wearing tiny rosebud diamonds in their teeth. Others are wearing under the nostrils a band fastened to the top of the head, thus drawing up the nose and top lip. Woman's model for next month is to be Mephistopheles! Her hair will be adorned with the long, curved feather of the cap of Mephisto, measuring anything up to two feet in length.—New York American.

NOTICE OF INCORPORATION
Notice is hereby given that we, the undersigned, intend to apply to the Honorable Park Trammell, Governor of the state of Florida, at Tallahassee, Florida, on the 15th day of August, A. D. 1914, for letters patent incorporating the Seminole Co-operative Mercantile Company, under the following proposed charter, the original of which is now on file in the office of the Secretary of State of the state of Florida.
Articles of Incorporation of the Seminole Co-operative Mercantile Company.
We, the undersigned, have agreed to associate ourselves together for the purpose of forming a body politic and corporate under and by virtue of the laws of the state of Florida and to hereby adopt the following articles of incorporation:
Article 1.
The name of this corporation shall be "The Seminole Co-operative Mercantile Company."
The place of business shall be in the county of Seminole, Florida, in the city of Sanford, Florida, but it shall have the power to transact business in any other county or counties of the state of Florida.
Article 2.
The general nature of the business to be transacted by said corporation shall be to manufacture, produce, purchase or otherwise acquire, to hold, lease, mortgage, pledge, sell, assign, transfer or otherwise dispose of, trade and deal in and with timber, lumber, naval stores, turpentine materials, fruits, farm products, live stock and all other goods, personal property, money and merchandise of every class and description which may be calculated directly or indirectly to facilitate the business of the state of Florida, and to erect and construct houses, buildings, works, and factories of any kind on the property of the corporation, or on the property of others.
To secure loans and secure the same by pledge, mortgage of trust or mortgage of or upon the whole or any part of the property held by the corporation, and to well and validly cash bonds for the corporation, and to issue and when the board of directors may determine, to loan and borrow money on notes, bonds, mortgages or other securities, and to guarantee or otherwise secure the same, and to otherwise acquire, sell, transfer, assign, mortgage, pledge or otherwise dispose of the same, and to execute all contracts of any kind whatsoever for the furtherance of the business and purposes of the corporation, and while the owner of such stock, bonds or other obligations, to exercise all the rights, powers and privileges of ownership thereof, and to exercise voting powers thereon to the same extent that the owner thereof might exercise.
To make contracts of any kind whatsoever for the furtherance of the business and purposes of the corporation, and generally to exercise such powers as may be incident to the purposes and business of said corporation, and to have, exercise and enjoy all the rights, powers and privileges in law and equity conferred and existing under the laws of the state of Florida.

English Women on Golf Links.
A very noticeable thing about English women golfers of today is the great change in their appearance on the links. It used to be considered necessary and thoroughly sporting to look as unconventional as possible when playing the game. Shapeless tweed costumes, hopeless hats and great clumsy boots were the proper wear, but now this is quite changed. At Turnbury women and girls wear dainty skirts and blouses and silk awnings of pale shades, with elegant caps and hats, or no head coverings at all, and the effect was distinctly pleasing. Two played their final match, the one in white with nothing on her hair, the other in a French gray sailor blouse and neatly cut skirt with a little cap out of the same material.

When Irving First Met Bernhardt.
It is related by an American man who was Sarah Bernhardt's escort to the London Lyceum theater the first time the Frenchwoman saw Irving that the English actor sent an invitation to the actress begging her to take supper with him after the performance. In the famous Beefsteak rooms of the Lyceum it was the first meeting of the two great players. Sarah spoke no English, Irving no French. Nevertheless they discussed art and showered each other with compliments until nearly four o'clock in the morning. Sarah's American escort, a ready linguist, acting as interpreter. This is a fair example of how Irving spent his nights—and he paid the price.

Motoring Across Canada.
It is not possible to make a journey entirely by automobile across Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific. The nearest approach to such a tour was made this fall, when on October 15, a motor car reached Victoria, B. C., 49 days after it had left Halifax. The actual running time was given as 41 days, and the mileage covered was 3,900 miles. But in addition to the 3,900 miles, 700 miles in New Ontario were covered under other than the car's own power, owing to the absence of trail or road. As far as North Bay no shipping had to be undertaken, although this was the first car that had ever come through all the way from Halifax to that point.

Lived With Bullet in Brain.
Of wounds in the brain here is another example which may be considered wonderful. During the Indian mutiny, a loyal native was struck by a bullet upon the forehead, just above the left frontal sinus. The bullet wedged its way into the bone. The skin eventually healed over the wound, and the man resumed his duties as before. Twelve months later, however, he suddenly fell down in convulsions, and died within a couple of minutes of his seizure. The post-mortem examination revealed a truly remarkable state of things. The unfortunate man had lived all this time with quite two-thirds of the bullet embedded in his brain.

Naming the Cat.
One evening last summer my neighbor's bright little son, aged four, took dinner with us. After we had finished, Clyde became a little hilarious, and in order to quiet him I said, "Go and call the kitty in out of the yard." He immediately went to the door, and at the top of his voice began calling, "Come, kitty! Come kitty! Come kitty!" "Oh," I said, "call her gently, then she'll come." Then he yelled, "Come, Gently! Come, Gently! Come Gently!"—Lippincott's

THE GROWERS LEAGUE

Much Important Work To Be Begun Soon As Organization Is Completed

Encourage Mr. Hamner By Helping Complete The Work He Is Doing Without Any Charge For His Services

Have you joined the League yet? Never before in the history of the state have the Florida growers been more highly favored in the matter of having an able man who would give his time and attention to the organization of this badly needed association.

Growers who were at Tampa on April 17th recognized the fact that the League could save the growers of the state hundreds of thousands of dollars every year. The report of the secretary of the old Growers and Shippers Protective Association showed that over TWO MILLION dollars had been saved the growers of the state, at an expense of less than $10,000. Comparatively few growers were members of the old association, and EVERY grower in the state received the same benefit of the work of the old association.

The committee selected at the growers' meeting on April 17th selected Mr. Hamner as managing secretary to perfect the organization. He is doing a GREAT work for which he is not receiving one cent of pay. He is devoting his time, labor and private funds to launch the League in a progressive, up-to-date manner, so that it will be an assured success. EVERY grower of fruit or vegetables is EXPECTED to do his part in organizing this League. He will get the benefits of its work, and funds expended. He cannot dodge receiving the benefits.

There is not a shipping community in this state that does NOT NEED the League. Membership is only ONE DOLLAR. Every shipping point must certainly have at least ONE public spirited man, who will give a little of his time to get his neighbors together some night SOON, and get their names on a list, as members of a local branch, and send it with each man's dollar to B. L. Hamner, Gas Building, Tampa. THAT IS THE WAY to help along this GREAT work. The News hopes every shipping point will get busy this week and send in their memberships. COURAGE Mr. Hamner.

The League is not a private affair by any means. Mr. Hamner did not originate the idea. It is a public and purely a growers' organization to handle all matters of mutual interest and benefit to the growers such as freight and express rates, tariff and other questions of importance that should be taken up by organizations, not by individuals. Individuals cannot accomplish much alone. Neither can Mr. Hamner. If growers could only realize his hard, difficult task they would quickly rally to his assistance and PULL along with him as suggested.

The League is not a profit making body. It will have no politics. As soon as it is organized there will be an election of officers for the first year and the gentlemen who have been assisting in the work of organizing will retire after turning the League over to the duly elected officers. Mr. Hamner will retire. He will not take any office, but his advice or assistance will be cheerfully given at any time. His heart is in the work of making the League what it should be, THE BEST organization of its kind in the United States. He feels he will have done his duty as a citizen, and to the growers of the state.

Just take a minute, Mr. Grower, and sit down in the shade, and ask yourself this question: "Would I spend MY time and MONEY, and work day and night to organize a league of growers, like Mr. Hamner is doing, without being paid ONE CENT for doing it?" Well, that IS JUST WHAT HE IS DOING. Have YOU sent your dollar in yet? Better do it, hey? Oh, yes, I do not want my neighbors to do all this kind of work.

YOU cannot invest one dollar to better advantage. You can go to sleep at night and know your interests will be taken care of. If you have been reading The News regularly you know the railroads are asking for increased freight rates. Do YOU want to pay higher rates? The League MUST be in shape this fall to contest the railroads' claims. The League can get lower rates from Jacksonville north. YOU are paying at least ten cents per crate too much to both the Clyde Line and the Merchants and Miners Transportation Co. These companies are owned by cold blooded financiers who are SQUEEZING THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS EVERY SEASON out of YOU AND YOUR NEIGHBORS, who have sat still and let the companies bleed you.

The League CAN and WILL get you JUST rates from Jacksonville north. Do not simply say, "Oh, yes, that's so," and let it go at that. Stick your dollar in an envelope and send it to Mr. Hamner and WISH HIM LUCK. Get busy and make the League STRONG in NUMBERS. That is what the transportation companies like to see. They WILL deal with STRONG organizations but they merely smile at weak ones MAKE THE LEAGUE STRONG.—Florida Growers News.

Pertinent.

It is the fashion in England to attach to houses names that in many instances are absurd or misleading—as "Applecol," where the only trees are figs; but, as this London Chronicle story shows, fitness and humor sometimes govern the choice. A retired Indian civil servant, on his return to England, yielded to his wife's importunities, and said that she might have a new house. "But mind," he emphasized, "it must not cost above three thousand pounds." It cost double that amount, as houses have a way of doing, and when it came time to name the place, the owner had considerable fine masculine feeling to put into it, so, not wholly in memory of India, he called it: "Myora Place."

Shooting From Aeroplanes.

Aeroplanes shooting parties are becoming all the go in France. One great drawback to the new sport has developed, the difficulty in finding the birds or hares after they are shot. To help out in this most aggravating emergency Vedrines is perfecting a new kind of landing frame or chassis, which will enable an aeroplane to come to earth without a shock. Ved-rides has become a busy gunner's air guide and from his present headquarters at Etampes he takes out daily parties of flying sportsmen. They shoot in surrounding districts and rarely fail to provide a fine game dinner of partridges and other delicacies of the hunting season.

Old Trade Route to Europe.

The great desert of Gobi, that is partly in China, partly in Manchuria, partly in Mongolia, is the oldest transportation line in existence. It has a caravan route over which tea and silk-laden camels have traveled toward Europe for three thousand years and yet from the time when Kublai Khan made the Russian railroad paralyzed it by the competition of steam no one of the merchants who traveled over it turned either to the right or to the left to tell Europe and the Occident of the wonders or the terrors of that unknown land.—Argonaut.

Chorus Girl's First Thought.

Kenneth McGaffey of New York, at a meeting of the Chicago chapter of the Friars recently, told a short story descriptive of the many calls upon the theatrical profession for "benefits" of this or that sort. "Scene is a hall bedroom or Broadway," said Mr. McGaffey. "Two chorus girls are just waking up. One reaches out and gets the morning paper, sees the headlines, and gasps: 'My, Masie, just see this!' she says. The paper says John D. Rockefeller and Andy Carnegie are both dying. 'What do you think of that?' 'O, Gee, two more benefits,' remarks Masie, as she turns over for another 'forty winks.'"

Worth Knowing.

Never throw away pieces of lemon after they have been squeezed with the lemon squeezer, for they come in handy for removing stains from the hands and elsewhere. Dipped into salt they will scour copper kettles nicely and remove stains from brasswork. Lemon like this will take stains, dirt and odor from pans and kettles as nothing else will. The odors of fish and onions can thus be easily removed.

Amusements in Utopia.

After supper they bestow one hour in play; in summer in their gardens; in winter in their common halls, where they dine and sup. There they exercise themselves in music or else in honest and wholesome communication. Dice play and such other foolish and pernicious games they know not. But they use games not much unlike the chess. The one is the battle of numbers, wherein one number stealthily away another. The other is wherein vices fight with virtues as it were in battle array, or a set field. In the which game is very properly shared both the strife and the discord that vices have among themselves, and again their unity and concord against virtue, and also what vices be repugnant to what virtues; with what power and strength they assail them openly; by what wiles and subtlety they assault them secretly; with what help the virtues resist and overcome the puissance of the vices; by what craft they frustrate their purposes, and, finally, by what sleight or means the one getteth the victory.—Sir Thomas More.

Handel in England.

"Handel is not a mere composer in England; he is a sacred institution. When his 'Messiah' is performed the audience stands up, as if in church, while the 'Hallelujah Chorus' is being sung. It is the nearest sensation to the Elevation of the Host known to English Protestants. Every three years there is a Handel festival, at which his oratorios are performed by 4,000 excoitants, collected from all the choirs in England. The effect is horrible; and everybody declares it sublime. Many of the songs in these oratorios were taken by Handel from his operas and set to pious words; for example, 'Requies aeterna dona eis, dona eis requiem' has become 'Lord, Remember David; teach him to know thy ways.' If any one in England were to take the song from the oratorio and set it back again to secular words he would probably be prosecuted for blasphemy."—George Bernard Shaw in Ainslee's.

Going Down.

"This high cost of living problem is getting to be something terrible," observed Mrs. Nutley. "Everything is getting higher." "Oh, I don't know," replied her husband, soothingly. "There's your opinion of me, for instance, and my opinion of you, and our mutual opinion of our neighbors, and the neighbors' opinion of both of us."

Historic Relic in English Church.

The church of the little village of Iken, Suffolk, England, possesses what is probably the rarest alms dish to be found in England. Inlaid in the center of the woodwork is a piece of the bell metal which was saved from the great fire at York Minster, when the famous bell there was entirely destroyed some years ago.

Genius.

Something immortal happens, when man brings love to a thirsting woman. . . . The children of women who hunger after spiritual things—these are the children of genius and drama. These who go out alone and full of yearning to find "the white presences among the hills."—Will Livingston Comfort.

Practical Boy.

Little Harold, aged five years, was visiting his aunt. While at dinner the grown-ups were talking and paying little or no attention to little Harold. He was ready and waiting for his dessert, and to attract the others' attention he said: "Please, Aunt Mame, is that pie an ornament?"

Unique Symbol on Gravestone. The gravestone between Kennesbunport and Cape Poge of one Tristram Tapley exhibits an uncommon and yet most sensible idea. Affixed to the stone in a silver case is inclosed an old-fashioned daguerrotype of the young man, protected from the elements by a cover. One with such a name ought certainly to have been a lover of books.

Current Growing a Greek Monopoly. Many efforts have been made to grow so-called Greek currants in other countries, but always without success, and these very small, very sweet and seedless grapes continue to be a monopoly of certain districts in Greece, where they constitute the chief agricultural industry. The yield in an average year is about 150,000 tons.

Underground Streams Not Made For Sewerage

And Orlando Must Devise Some Other Dumping Ground

Sanford And Other Cities In Artesian Water Belt Will Not Stand For Sewerage

Orlando is putting in an extensive sewerage system, one that will embrace the entire city. The sewerage will flow into a so-called septic tank where it is supposed to be purified and from there will go into the deep wells. For many years these deep wells have been used in Orlando for private sewerage disposal and heretofore there has been no dissenting voice raised against the practice of some of the interior towns disposing of sewerage in this manner, although the state geologist and others have reasoned that the deep wells were the underground currents flowing to the large rivers or to the ocean and the water being a purely underground stream had no chance to purify within a given distance unless it flowed through the natural strata of rock or gravel or sandstone any impurities or germs would remain in the water.

With the advent of the large sewerage system of Orlando all of the adjacent cities in the artesian belt are becoming alarmed and with good reason. No community cares to have even the thought or suggestion of being the dumping ground of the sewerage and a determined effort will be made to force Orlando and every other inland city to use septic tanks and make some of the adjacent lakes their disposal reservoir rather than despoil the natural artesian wells that make the water supply of other cities the purest and best in the world unless contaminated by the deep well sewerage.

Every citizen in Florida should write Hon. F. J. Earnings of Palatka, president of the State Board of Health, and protest against the despoilation of the natural water supply of the state by the interior cities, who would jeopardize the health of the state for no other reason than that of easy method of solving a vexing problem.

The city council of Sanford realizing the value of the artesian water supply and the danger of the deep well disposal of sewerage has framed the following resolutions to be presented to the State Board of Health:

WHEREAS, the Legislature of the State of Florida for the year 1913 very wisely enacted into law an act to protect the purity of the underground water supply of the State of Florida, and in and by said act makes it unlawful to drain any sewerage into the subterranean water supply of the State without first obtaining a permit from the State Board of Health so to do, and

WHEREAS, it has come to our knowledge that the City of Orlando Orange County, Florida, is about to install a system of sewerage for the entire city, using septic tanks, and draining same into the subterranean water supply of the State of Florida, and

WHEREAS, we are reliably informed that the overflow, or drainage from septic tanks is not free from infection and uncleaned, but is germinally effected, poisonous, polluted and noxious, unless a filtration plant is used in connection with said septic tanks, the purpose of the septic tank being to separate solids from liquids and to clarify, but not to purify; and,

WHEREAS the City of Orlando is located twenty three miles southwest of the City of Sanford, and is about twenty eight feet higher in altitude; and,

WHEREAS, as is shown by the Geological survey of the State of Florida, the subterranean waters of this portion of the State flow in an easterly direction, showing that the artesian water supply of Sanford, which is used for drinking purposes by at least eighty five percent of the citizens of this City, and which is used exclusively by those people living within a radius of ten miles of the city limits, is of necessity from the same subterranean flow that passes beneath the City of Orlando; and,

WHEREAS, we are informed by a unanimous report of the physicians of this City that in their opinion the drainage of the entire sewerage system of the City of Orlando, which has a population of about seven thousand people with the subterranean water supply will contaminate and pollute the said subterranean water supply, and cause same to become unfit for drinking purposes, and to be a menace to the health of the people of this community; and,

WHEREAS, even though the drainage of the entire sewerage system of the City of Orlando into said subterranean ean water supply might not possibly in any way seriously pollute said waters, yet, we do feel, from an aesthetic point of view, that the people of this locality should arbitrarily be compelled to submit to the pollution and contamination of their drinking water supply with decomposed excrement and sterilized urine, which from a scientific point of view may be germinally free, which fact, however, we do not concede; and,

WHEREAS, in the vicinity of Orlando there are numerous fresh water lakes ample in area for the outlet and drainage of the system of septic tank sewerage now being installed by the City of Orlando; and,

WHEREAS, we, as members of the City Council of the City of Sanford, Florida, are charged with the welfare and protection of the health and well being of our people.

THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED, by the City Council of the City of Sanford, Florida, that the City of Sanford does hereby most seriously protest to the drainage of any sewerage system by the City of Orlando into the subterranean water supply of the State of Florida, and that the said City of Sanford hereby earnestly appeals to the State Board of Health for the protection and relief from the threatened calamity about to be forced upon the community, and further requests the Board of Health to refuse to issue a permit to the City of Orlando authorizing said City to drain its sewerage system into the subterranean water supply of the State.

Be it further resolved, that in the event of the fact that a permit has already been granted to the City of Orlando by the State Board of Health, that the State Board of Health reconsider its action in this respect and revoke said permit as provided for in the act protecting the purity of the underground water supply of the State of Florida.

Broward County Defeated

County division was overwhelmingly defeated by the voters at Dania and Hallandale last week, although Fort Lauderdale went practically solid in favor of establishing Broward county, with Fort Lauderdale as the county seat. The vote in the precinct was as follows:

Table with 2 columns: Precinct, For, Against. Fort Lauderdale: 208 For, 3 Against. Dania: 16 For, 57 Against. Hallandale: 10 For, 57 Against.

At Dania and Hallandale the newly registered voters were not allowed to cast their votes, the inspectors refusing on all occasions to permit those to vote whose names were not on the books when they were last revised by the county commissioners.

For the purpose of the election the territory was divided into two districts, one embracing Fort Lauderdale and the country immediately tributary, almost solidly in favor of establishing a new county, and the other including Dania and Hallandale, where the opponents to creating Broward county had their headquarters. A majority vote of both districts was necessary to establish the new county.

The result of the election has put an end to the aspirations of the divisionists for the next two years, at least, as the action of the voters in refusing to endorse the proposition has nullified the act of the legislature in creating the county of Broward.—Ft. Pierce Tribune.

Fancy Work Circle

Mrs. W. J. Hill entertained the Fancy Work Circle Thursday afternoon. The members of the circle and visitors enjoyed the hours socially and with their dainty fancy work.

Delicious fruit jelly with ice cream, cherries and cake were served, by Mrs. Newman, assisted by her little daughter, Olive and Sarah Evelyn Williams. Mrs. Hill's guests were Mrs. J. D. Roberts, Mrs. J. J. Purdon, Mrs. W. L. Milner, Mrs. T. S. Davis, Mrs. W. W. Long, Mrs. R. W. Hines, Miss Bessie Long, Mrs. R. A. Newman.

Who Pays The Freight On The Farm Products

Newspapers Are Taking Active Interest In Question

Payment For Service Makes Prices To Consumer Almost Prohibitive

The great question that is agitating the mind of the general public and especially the people of this section where such a great quantity of winter garden stuff is grown is where does all the money go that the farmer has to pay before his stuff is placed on market and the ultimate consumer at the other end is asking the same question as to the result. It is safe to assert that the common carriers get the money and from the statement of one railroad in Florida the Sanford lands give up every season over $800 per acre to the railroads for hauling vegetables to market. A recent article in the Chicago Record-Herald takes up the matter of shipping poultry from the country to city markets and the facts and figures are worth a careful study. The consumer thinks he is paying a large sum for his poultry and he is and it would seem that the man who raises the poultry is getting a large sum and he is and yet the most of the money seems to be spent between the time the poultry leaves the farmer and gets to the ultimate consumer for instance.

The commission man sells them to the retailer for 12 cents a pound. At least, that was the price in this case. The total for the 96 pounds, therefore, is $11.52, but there are several items to come out of this before it reaches the farmer. First there is the South Water street man's commission of 5 per cent on fruit this is 10 per cent, but on poultry, butter and eggs it is only 5. This comes to 25 cents, which would seem to indicate that this particular middleman is not likely to get very rich handling poultry.

The freight is half a cent a pound, and here enters a nice question. The weight of the shipment was 100 pounds in Boston Harbor and 96 pounds in Chicago, on which should the freight charge be based? However, that is perhaps only an ethical question, for it is given in this case as 50 cents. Then comes another 50 cent item for hauling the coops from the Chicago dock to South Water street at 10 cents a coop making a total of $11.52, but there is one more item to come out of this before it reaches the farmer. The retailer gets them at $11.52 and, selling them at $16.02, had a margin of $4.50, but the cost of dressing them was 2 cents a pound, amounting to $1.92, so he really got only $2.58. However, that was about 24 per cent on his purchase price, a large share of which probably was charged up to the cost of delivery.

Returned to Table Form Here is Chart

Table showing costs for Consumer part, Farmer got, Freight, Hauling, Commission, Dressing, Retailer's profit, Total.

In this case, at least, the consumer has an itemized bill, and it is mighty seldom he gets one—that is, one that tells him where the money goes. Most of them merely tell him what he bought and what he is expected to pay for. The prices charged along the line to not seem to be exorbitant for the service rendered, but it does seem as if all of the service ought not to be necessary. Sixty-four per cent is a good deal to pay for merely getting goods from the producer to the consumer, there being no manufacturing cost between in this instance.

But the consumer pays—pays for hens, for getting them from the farmer to himself, and for the farmer's heavier taxes in addition to his own.

Light Weight Doesn't Pay

Those Cincinnati people have a way to make ice companies deliver the goods. When the trust in that city refused to give patrons the quantity of ice they paid for but shrunk off a few pounds from each nickel's worth the city immediately went into the ice business and not only gave the full amount purchased but just a little bit more. After a little of that sort of work the trust proceeded to injure a few injunctions—and then agreed that they would no longer attempt to cheat the people but would give them a square deal. If the people think they are getting a square deal they feel all right.

whether they are really getting it or not. I've known of men who always knocked the handle off the quart measure in which they ran the vinegar from the keg just so they could run their fat thumb down into the measure so as to "lift it" and the four quarts would be about a gill short of full measure. Yet the buyer was satisfied because he saw the stuff measured! And I have seen a meat slicer hold his hand carefully on the scale just hard enough to weigh the pound and five ounces up to the pound and a half that was called for and paid for. And I have seen ice men get the scales and get the weight when the first jolt of the ice sent the pointer several pounds lower than the real balance was—but the buyer was satisfied.

But times are changing. As a general thing now every family has scales that are accurate to a hair and when goods are carried home or delivered it is but a moment's work to see how the weight tallies up. And then after there are many errors, so people tell me, a change of dealers is made. Nothing is said—just the change made—that's all.

Old Bill Road tells a story on a woman—a very good, conscientious woman—who had a neighbor that frequently borrowed tea and had a habit of returning less than she borrowed. The good, conscientious woman hit upon a scheme that worked well. She bought a pound can of tea, put it on a shelf and never used a bit of it. When the borrower came the tea was taken from that can; when the tea was returned it was dumped in the can. And when one day the woman came to borrow there was found to be less than half a cup full of the stuff. Then the good woman told her neighbor that as soon as she brought back the pound she already had there she had plenty to lend her. And Bill Road said the weight of short weight returns never went back to Palm Beach County.

Donegan Adds a Tooth

The people of Seminole county, the making of which Senator Arthur E. Donegan had much to do, possess among many others, the splendid trait of gratitude, as was fully exemplified at the big celebration pulled off at Sanford on the 14th, when they presented Senator Donegan with an elegant watch chain in the shape of a tooth. The watch chain was made of gold and was a very handsome affair. It was presented to Senator Donegan by a number of his constituents and was accepted with much pleasure. The Senator responded to the presentation in a manner that demonstrated his list of accomplishments.

Anyhow, Senator Donegan is exceedingly proud of his new tooth, and takes great pleasure in displaying it to his friends here. Kissimmee Gazette.

Contribution From Upsala

Upsala has no charity society, but a list was turned over to Dr. T. A. Neal the other day, which shows that the people of Upsala were willing to give a small sum each towards paying expenses for physician and nurses during illness of A. Nordstrom in the month of June. Below is a list of those who were willing to donate:

Chilson-Gresham

Miss Lola E. Gresham and Charles E. Chilson, were united in marriage at the Congregational parsonage last Sunday night by Rev. F. P. Strong, the pastor. The wedding was performed in the presence of a few friends of the contracting parties after which the happy couple left for a short trip to Paola, where they will remain. The bride formerly taught school at Paola and has many friends in Seminole county. The groom is a resident of Paola and is well and favorably known and the friends of the young couple wish them all the happiness that the world can hold.

Sanford Will Bond For Greater Improvements

Small Issue Now Wanted Will Put City On Better Basis

Election To Be Held For Voting Bonds To Refund The Floating Indebtedness Of The City

At the last meeting of the city council the ordinance providing for the issue of bonds to the amount of $50,000 was passed and the date for the election will be made as soon as mayor Spencer is able to attach his signature to the call. This means that the bonds will be issued to refund the outstanding and existing floating indebtedness of the city. This will place the city upon a much better basis and should this issue carry will mean that the bulk heading of the lake will take place later for with the present indebtedness placed in better shape through bonds the city will be enabled to take on larger improvements.

There is no doubt about the freeholders voting for the bonds as every citizen of Sanford whether taxpayer or not fully recognizes the need of this small issue of bonds. In fact the majority of them want a larger issue but the aldermen were playing safe and did not care to plunge the city into a larger indebtedness upon the eve of their going out of office.

Sanford needs the issue in many ways and should this small issue carry now there will be many improvements made that could never be made under present conditions. Sanford's bonded indebtedness considering her taxable values and the many improvements already made is small as compared with the other cities and the $50,000 issue will make but a slight difference in the assessment of millage. We are just the time when a few dollars can be spent in improvements and it is up to the people now to make a larger city and a better city and the bonds must be floated to make these improvements later. The small issue now asked for will only get ready for the improvements to follow.

Every Week Bridge Club

Mrs. C. M. Vance was the charming hostess of the Every Week Bridge Club on Friday afternoon. Two tables of bridge were played, one of which was a great table. Mrs. W. R. Anno made the high score in the first table and Mrs. Vance made the high score in the second table. The game was very interesting and the players were very much pleased with the results.

The Melting of Snow

The following wedding invitation indicates that R. G. Snow, formerly with John Nix & Co. and well known in Sanford has at last decided to settle down to a life of married happiness. Mr. and Mrs. Henry McCrelous Adams request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Rosa May to Mr. Russell Greene Snow on the evening of Wednesday, the thirtieth of July, at nine o'clock, 211 West Palm street, Fitzgerald, Georgia.

Will Declare A Dividend

It has become a well established fact that the well known and enterprising firm of D. A. Caldwell & Sons have interest of Seminole County and Sanford at heart, and to show it in part they are preparing to declare a dividend with all of their customers by putting on a profit sharing sale, which will begin Friday of this week July 18th, and every one whether near or distant will receive the usual courteous treatment at this sale for which this firm is noted.

Picnic at Enterprise

The girls of the Junior Auxiliary of the Episcopal church, in the care of Mrs. B. F. Whitner, Jr., directress and Mrs. J. W. Dickens, assistant directress of the auxiliary, enjoyed a delightful all day picnic at Enterprise Friday with several other young friends. The launch trip to and from Enterprise was one of the "pleasanteest" features of the occasion. The party went over on the early morning boat, and after finding a suitable place to spend the day in the company of nature, pretty scenes and lovely trees the little folks enjoyed themselves in various ways until it was time to prepare the appetizing lunch which had been brought along and which was enjoyed in real picnic style and spread on the grass.

The delicious salads, tomatoes, sandwiches, cake, lemonade and fruit never was so good before as it was to those happy, hungry young people, in such pleasant company and pleasant surroundings. After the lunch the afternoon was enjoyed with games and in strolling about and viewing the pretty scenery to be found at Enterprise, until the time arrived for the return trip home.

The members of the auxiliary and their friends were Norma Herndon, Serita Lake, Frances Gonzalez, Fannie Reha Munson, Esther Miller, Dorothy Rumph Daisy and Fannie Richards, Elizabeth Whitner, Marjorie Clay, Dorothy Croghan and Arthur Dickens.

WANTS STEAMSHIP LINE

Editor, Sanford Herald,

I have read with much interest your article on the New Steamship Line for the St. Johns river traffic between Sanford and Jacksonville, and your allusion to the trolley line that will be built from Sanford to Kissimmee which will mean the extension, through the progressive cities and towns as far south as Tampa.

If for no other purpose the new county of Seminole has been severed from Orange County at the steamship line and the proposed trolley line materializes the tide of progress for South Florida can never be stemmed and the high cost of living will be a thing of the past.

Fifteen years ago I wrote to the Clyde Line Steamship Company the suggestion that their company construct a trolley line as proposed and that it could react as the greatest southern feeder to their line. I received an answer stating that they had contemplated doing so but that they thought that the proper time had not then arrived.

Today the time has arrived and if the creation of the new county of Seminole carry out the line of conviction the new county was not created in vain but will react as one of the greatest blessings ever bestowed on the inhabitants of the peninsula of Florida and to the entire state, for what benefits a part benefits the whole.

There is a problem now of solution and should be solved at once. Delays are dangerous and if delayed outside capital will step in and harvest the whole crop, and the high cost of living will once more be advanced for the lack of energy and progressiveness. God forbid.

Installing Macebees

Lewis Irbey is in the city getting candidates for the organizing of a lodge of Macebees in Sanford and is meeting with so much encouragement that the lodge will hold the first meeting on night this week and install the officers. Dr. Ira Malnes is assisting Mr. Irbey in the work of obtaining candidates.
