

Entirely new motor oils for this "High-Horsepower Age"

Specially created to preserve new horsepower... and give old horsepower a boost

The new High HP Purelube

If you drive one of the makes of cars pictured above, this new High HP Purelube 10W-30 is for you. Naturally, it costs a little more. We believe it is the finest motor oil you can buy. Here's what it does for you:
Assures your keeping the horsepower you paid for in your new car. Helps restore the horsepower you have lost in an older car.
Saves and stretches gasoline. Tests prove that 8 out of 10 motorists can get mileage increases—up to 20 per cent, compared to high-quality 30 grade oil.
Reduces oil consumption compared to 10W and

20-20W grade oils. (Read "Challenging Offer" at right.)
Reduces knock, by cutting deposit formation and reducing "octane requirement."
Keeps hydraulic valve lifters quiet and efficient.
Gives the widest temperature range—multigrade protection.
554,000 test miles in stop-and-go driving, and on race tracks, prove to us how dramatically this new oil saves gasoline, saves motor oil, saves horsepower.
Your Pure Oil dealer has High HP Purelube for you now.

Challenging
99-Day Offer!
The greatest proof of product confidence in petroleum history! Use High HP Purelube and PURE Sensitized gasoline for 1000 miles. If you have been using 10, 20 or 30 grade oils, you will get better gasoline mileage or lower oil consumption, or we will give you any oil which may have to be added in a 1000-mile oil change period. Good to September 30, 1954. See your Pure Oil dealer for details.

And the New SUPER-DUTY Purelube... with a completely new exclusive additive combination

Purelube is no longer just "heavy-duty," but super-duty... Detergency is greatly increased, to give more than 60% improvement in low temperature engine cleanliness. (65% of all car mileage is in the low temperature range.) Hydraulic valve lifter sticking is practically eliminated.

Positive wear protection of all engine parts in all engines is provided... spark plug life is improved... maximum valve life assured.
New Super-Duty Purelube gives superior rust and corrosion protection—minimizes deposits—fights pre-ignition—insures horsepower.

A local typewriter repairman used the following as a test line after fixing a machine at The Herald: "Why smells the goat on your hill; he eats and lives on chlorophyll!"

A new book on guns on display at the Sanford Public Library is entitled "Practical Dupe on Big Bore."

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford McKibbin and their three sons, Clifford Jr., Alex and Bruce, left last week for a camping trip on the Wekiva River. They planned to be on the river by day and to camp on the banks at night, using tents and sleeping bags. They will be gone on the trip about a week.

For the last few days, the lake front has been a scene of much activity. Mullet are running and a large number of people with Crocker poles are taking advantage of the situation.

The Mayfair Inn swimming pool will be closed tomorrow for cleaning, according to Sammy Jacobson, life guard, due to the inclement weather over the weekend, the pool did not get its usual cleaning today.

Chinese Reds Say 30 Yank Civilians Are Held In Prison

GENOVA — The Chinese Communists confirmed today they are holding 30 American civilians in prison, but said one and a number of military personnel listed by the United States as detained were either dead or missing.

This information was passed to the United States in the fourth meeting between representatives of the U. S. and Chinese Communist delegations on the exchange of detained persons.

The United States agreed to permit 15 detained Chinese nationals to leave the United States and return to the Chinese mainland. The Chinese, on their side, supplied preliminary information on the list of approximately 80 American civilians and military personnel believed by the United States either to be in prison or to be prevented from leaving China.

The Chinese said W. L. Winter, a missionary, had been arrested for espionage, but died in prison Feb. 27, 1951. Winter was a mission worker in a leprosiarium in Kwangsi Province.

In the military category, the Chinese said three fliers—P. E. Voorhis, H. D. Weese and A. D. Hart Jr.—had died of injuries received when they parachuted from their plane over Antung, north China.

The United States had listed 11 crew members of a U. S. Navy patrol plane and a rescue plane as probable detainees, but the Chinese representative said that two planes crashed into the sea and the men were missing. The names of these 11 were not disclosed.

The Chinese said one of the 37 listed by the United States, and being in prison was never detained and is now living in Hunan Province. He is the Rev. John B. Mave of Scranton, Pa., a Roman Catholic missionary.

The Chinese did not say when any of those detained would be released—if at all.

Suspect Questioned In Recent Murder Of Demo Nominee For Alabama Post

PHENIX CITY, Ala. — Hope for a break in the A. L. Patterson murder investigation brightened somewhat today with the disclosure that officers have picked up a man they say "might be a suspect."

The man whose name was withheld, was taken into custody late yesterday for questioning, said Sheriff Ralph Matthews of Russell County.

The sheriff declined for the time being to give any information, explaining it might hinder his investigation. But he said the man "looks like the best bet" out of 9 or 10 who have been questioned, since the anti vice crusading Democratic nominee for Alabama attorney general was shot to death in his parked car in downtown Phenix City Friday night.

Meanwhile, a former FBI agent was assigned to help with the investigation while grieving relatives prepared for Patterson's funeral. Services for the 59-year-old lawyer who was to take office next Jan. 17 as Alabama's chief legal officer were arranged for 2 p. m. (EST) at Phenix City's Trinity Methodist Church, with burial at his birthplace near Newste, Ala. Patterson was slain by a hold gunman who fired three bullets in to his body from point blank range while the attorney was seated in his car in a parking area near his office.

National Guardsmen and reinforced squads of highway patrolmen still patrolled the curiously quiet streets of this once roaring gambling town while civilian investigators checked every possible lead that might turn up the killer. Si Garrett, the incumbent attorney general whose place Patterson was to take, assigned two of his assistants, Lee Barton and Maury Smith, to coordinate the murder investigation. Barton is a one time FBI agent, now an assistant attorney general.

While the state Democratic Executive Committee still had not determined how a new nominee will be chosen to replace Patterson, the victim's son announced that he will be a candidate if a special primary election is called.

John Patterson, 32-year-old former Army major and a member of his father's law firm, said he would campaign if there is an election and that if nominated he would "carry out my father's program."

The elder Patterson had campaigned on a platform to rid Phenix City and all of Alabama of gambling and any other organized crime. He charged following the recent primary that racketeers spent as much as $100,000 of money to defeat him.

Mayor Urges Safety In Driving, Walking In Month Of July

Mayor Earl Higginbotham has issued a proclamation urging the observance of July as a month of safety in driving and walking.

The proclamation is as follows: WHEREAS, in the month of July 1953, there were more than 12,000 Americans with persons killed and nearly 3,200 persons injured in Florida; and WHEREAS, this is a period when everyone is thinking of the brotherhood of man and the true spirit of independence and what it means, and the joy of living; and WHEREAS, the Lord did not intend that this should be a period of bloodshed and the unnecessary waste of life, through reckless and careless and drunken drivers and careless and drunken pedestrians; and WHEREAS, the Florida Safety Council is calling on all citizens, American Legion, veterans organizations, civic clubs, enforcement officers and others and is trying to make this month an occasion of solemnity and dignity in memory of those who have, and who are today paying the supreme sacrifice to reckless and careless driving;

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Earl Higginbotham, Mayor of the City of Sanford, Florida, designate the month of July as a safe and careful month, urging that drivers and pedestrians be careful and cooperate.

UN Action Is Taken On Revolt

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. — The U. N. Security Council called unanimously last night for a cease fire in Guatemala and for all UN members to withhold aid from the fighting.

The action came after the Soviet Union cast its 10th veto in council history on behalf of Guatemala's leftist government. The veto deflected a resolution to order the Guatemalan complaint of aggression to the Western Hemisphere's regional organization, the Organization of American States.

U. S. Delegate Jeanne C. Cabot Lodge Jr. council president for June said the Soviet veto showed obviously the Russians have "deliberately" sided with the Americans. He waited shortly.

"I say to the Soviet delegate, stay out of the Western Hemisphere. Don't try to start your plan of aggression against Guatemala. Despite the Russian veto, Guatemala has already asked the five member inter American Peace Committee of the OAS to help stop the invasion."

The committee scheduled a meeting in Washington late today. The cease fire call was voted after Guatemala's delegate, Eduardo Castillo-Arriola, charged neighboring Honduras and Nicaragua backed by the United States and the United Fruit Co. had conspired in an aggression against Guatemala's territory by necessary extradition orders.

Lodge loudly defended his government and denied the charges. He said information available to the United States "strongly suggests that the situation does not involve aggression, but a result of Guatemalan misgovernment."

The council took no action on Guatemala's request that it send a peace observation commission to Guatemala.

Desperate Convicts Attempt To Force Way From Prison

JANSING, Kan. — Escaping themselves with six terrified prison guards, six desperate convicts tried to force their way out of the Kansas State Prison yesterday.

A veteran guard was killed and six others wounded in the attempt to force their way out of the administration building.

The convicts were armed with three circle 22 pistols and six knives, all made within the prison.

The six men rushed into the visitors' room where about 25 visitors were talking with prisoners. They seized the hostages, including two children and rushed to the administration building.

For Kenneka, an armed guard supervisor with 25 years of service, encountered the group at the administration building and was shot in the chest.

Inside a vestibule the convicts were stopped by two gates. Three of the hostages, they yelled for gatekeeper Andy Hildebrand, to open the gates. He refused and they fired at him.

Warden Charles E. Edmondson rushed into the corridor and drew fire from the convicts as they shot. He screamed hysterically.

The warden got a rifle and stepped into the corridor again as armed guards approached the convicts from the ward in the rear on the east side of the building.

"I knew we were going to have a showdown, and that we were going to have it right there," the warden said.

He was arrested in getting the hostages out, as well as about 20 other visitors in the visitors' hall," he said, "but you just can't get out of a prison by opening the gates because of pressure from inside."

The convicts started shooting out surrendered when the guards opened fire.

The wounded convicts were taken to Ray Collins, 24, Kansas City, shot in the hip, and William Henry Parker, 24, Gage, Okla., wounded in a finger. The other convicts were Donald E. Davis, 27, Shurtz, Mingo, Missouri, May 31, Topeka, Kan.; Robert Leroy Knight, 24, Pieher, Okla.; and James Earl, 22, Ponca City, Okla.

Mrs. Frankie Scroggins, 28, Kila, Kan., was wounded in the shoulder. Warden Edmondson said the six convicts would be charged with first degree murder for Kenneka's slaying.

Fishing Camp Changes Hands

According to a deed filed in Seminole County Clerk O. P. Hendon's office Saturday the Seminole Fishing Camp which is located on the Wekiva River has been sold to Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Thomas.

Tax stamps affixed to the deed indicate that a value of $25,000 was set by the prior owners, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Yearkle.

The camp includes several buildings, both and a picnic area.

Martial Law Declared In Guatemala; Government Readies Against Rebels

More Iowa Areas Flooded As Rains Start Second Week

DES MOINES — Floods hit more areas in Iowa today. Haging water claimed one life and caused hundreds of fresh evacuations. A flash flood in this capital city drove scores of families from their homes and closed U. S. Route 6 through Des Moines.

The torrential rains in Iowa and northeastern Nebraska were part of a belt of thunderstorms running eastward through northern Illinois, southern Wisconsin and lower Michigan.

Walsh and Winnebago, Neb., small towns south of Sioux City, Iowa, were flooded. Flood water in Nebraska blocked highways 25 near Norfolk and 35 at Winside and was threatening the town of Peck. Two fatalities were reported in Nebraska but no damage was reported.

The storms brought only limited relief from the stagnant, sultry heat that in Chicago, on this first day of summer, approached a record of 91 degrees.

Similar readings are forecast for the rest of the week. The temperature is expected to fall, and were expected to drop today.

The western Dakotas, eastern Nebraska and northwest Nebraska were a lot cooler, but to the west and south it was even hotter. Sunday readings of 110 were common in the desert Southwest, and Yuma, Ariz., had 115.

Most of northern Iowa was polka-dotted with small lakes created by torrential rains. Crop experts said damage would run into millions. Highway and rail traffic were interrupted at many points.

The north-central Iowa city of Paul Dodge was among the new flooding points. South City, in western Iowa, and Mason City, near the northern border, rode out flood crests and now face new rains.

Today was the beginning of the second week of daily outbreaks of thunderstorms, occasional hail and high winds flaring up to squall proportions. Hains have ranged to 15 inches and gusts of 50 miles or more have been common throughout the northwest and northern sectors.

Two Are Arrested On Shine Charges

In two separate raids Saturday night, Seminole County sheriff's deputies arrested two county residents on charges of "possession of untaxed liquor," according to reports at the sheriff's department.

Boy "Big" Gross, approximately 25 years of age, was arrested at his home in Midway. Deputies A. E. Evans, O. G. Owen and M. L. McDaniel had been watching the house since May 29, it was said.

After entering with a search warrant, the deputies found approximately two gallons of moonshine buried in the back yard about 100 feet from the house.

The second Seminole resident arrested was Willie Grant, about 45, of Woodbridge, which is situated near the county line. More than 15 gallons of moonshine were found in his home.

Both men were jailed under $150 bonds.

Sewing School Resumes Activity

The vocational school for White freed workers was resumed by Fred Murray, County director of vocational and adult training, at Brookfield Mills.

Applications for the school may be made at the school or by applying to Herman Jacobson at Roy-Jay's or A. L. Wilson at Wilson Master furniture company.

Classes are operated in the evening and most graduates will find jobs waiting upon completion of the course.

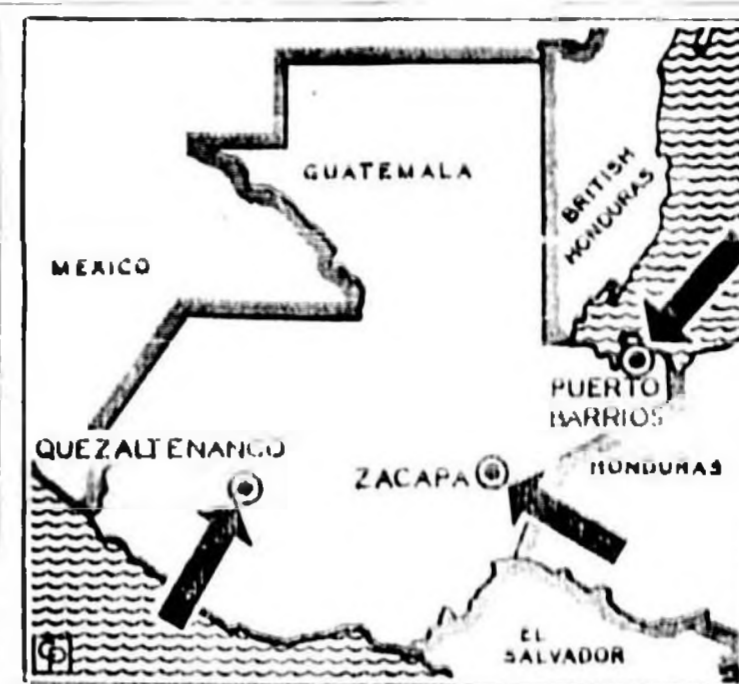

Local Delegates Go To Boys State

Larry Bates, Harold Pate, Joe Hunt, Allen Maffett and John Higgins left early Sunday morning to attend the annual Boys State at Tallahassee.

The activities of the annual affair started yesterday and will continue until Saturday. The boys are sponsored by the American Legion with the cooperation of local civic clubs.

More Than 100 County Boatmen Expected In Cruise, July 3-5

More than 100 Seminole County boating enthusiasts are expected to participate in the first annual Seminole Indian Cruise scheduled to be held July 3-5.

Approximately 150 boatmen will take part in the trip which will begin at Mullet Lake Park, located on the St. Johns River, approximately 27 miles from Orlando.

The participants will spend the night at the park and get underway at 8 o'clock the next morning. The boats will form a double line formation in the canal between the Sanford Boat Works and Lakeland.

The group is scheduled to cross Lake Manatee in formation until it reaches the bridge at Highway 17 92. There they will break the formation and proceed on their own.

First scheduled stop of the trip will be at Cross Hall for lunch. From there, the boatmen will travel to Lake George. If the water is rough, the group intends to use the buddy system in crossing.

The larger boats will proceed to the smaller boats. The group will stop here for the night. Swimming, dancing and other entertainment has been planned.

The Greater Orlando Chamber of Commerce which sponsored the trip in conjunction with the Seminole County W.C. will award prizes for the best Indian costume, according to Ernest Brockenkow's local club manager.

The cruise will start on the morning of July 3. The group will travel to Jupiter Springs which is renowned for its excellent fishing, and return.

Participants are urged to bring their own food and drink. They should also bring their own bedding. Contact H. Stuart Johnson, Orlando Chamber of Commerce, P. O. Box 1943, Orlando, Fla.

Band Lessons Will Be Offered For Boy In Danger Of Rabies Infection

KANSAS CITY — A Missouri family is on a vacation trip to Florida, unaware that a member is in danger of rabies infection.

All police in Southern States have been alerted to stop Mr. and Mrs. Henry Zeller and tell them that their son, Russell, 14, should take antibiotics immediately.

The classes, which will be instructed by Perry Bremer, will be held three days a week on Monday. Classes will be at the O'Quinn School, Tuesdays and Thursdays. The music instructor will hold classes at Lyman School and Wednesday at Sanford Junior High School.

Hours of instruction are scheduled to be from 9 a. m. until noon at each school. The session will run until July 30, according to Miller.

Truman Undergoes Emergency Surgery

KANSAS CITY — Former President Harry S. Truman was reportedly today to have spent a restful night after an emergency operation in which his gall bladder and appendix were removed.

"He slept well last night," reported a nurse who had just come from his bedside at Research Hospital where the surgery took place early Sunday morning.

This was before his physician commented at the hospital to visit the patient.

Demo Executive Group To Meet

The Seminole County Democratic executive committee is scheduled to meet Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the County Court House. The group will recognize and fill existing vacancies within the organization. This will be the first scheduled meeting of the committee since the primary election last month. It was called by James Lee, chairman.

Showdown Battle Expected

FEELING BAD AGAINST U. S.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras — President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman of Guatemala proclaimed martial law throughout his invaded country today as his Communist-backed government mobilized for a showdown battle with anti-rebel forces.

Insurgent leaders claimed their forces were pushing ahead in a three-pronged drive aimed at key rail and road communications in the southern part of the country.

The martial law decree was announced late last night after a government appeal for all private arms to be turned in, to use in moving troops. Reports from Guatemala said the decree would allow a military force that would include 200,000 men and women to be organized within 48 hours.

Associated Press correspondents in Tegucigalpa, Guatemala, quoted Guatemalan army officers as saying no field action had yet been fought. They added, however, that a battle could not be delayed much longer.

The U. S. Embassy in Guatemala City announced it is making plans to evacuate wives and children of U. S. citizens. With a wave of anti-U. S. feeling sweeping the city, the embassy reportedly feared violence might break out against North Americans. There are about 1,500 U. S. citizens in Guatemala.

Part of the rebel force was reported striking toward the Pan-American Highway near the Salvadoran border. This is a 100-mile drive from Nueva Democracia, Honduras, toward the town of Jutiapa.

Another invading column reportedly was moving in from Macaula, Honduras, about 20 miles west of Puerto Barrios, Guatemala's chief Caribbean port. The fight was reported toward Zateca, midway on the vital rail line between Puerto Barrios and Guatemala City.

Rebel sources said their planes also are dropping arms in western Guatemala, where rebel uprisings against the government have been reported.

Oil Hunt Planned In Nearby Area

The ever-growing hunt for oil is a large national oil companies' interest in Seminole County during the weekend, according to records at the county clerk's office.

The call for cooperation has signed an oil, gas and mineral lease with Mr. and Mrs. Howard H. Bybell of Orlando, who own property in south Seminole County.

Most of the property is in the Slave Lake area northeast of Orlando but more than 70 of the 3,463 acre tract lies in Seminole County.

A sum of $100,000 a year rental was agreed upon by the company, according to tax stamps affixed to the agreement filed Saturday.

It is not expected that the gold and silver will drill in the immediate future. No probable start date was given.

City Has Well Trained Firemen

By PETE OSBORNE "We're like a doctor, you would rather not need us, but when you do, you want us quick," was the way Chief Mack N. Cleveland expressed the performance of the Sanford fire department today. According to the statistical report for the first five months of 1954, Sanardites in need have found quick, efficient relief in the abilities of Chief Cleveland's men.

The local fire fighters made 142 emergency runs during the five-month period. 128 of the calls being to actual fires and the remainder to miscellaneous happenings, such as wires smoking.

The fire caused an estimated damage of $16,000 in an average of slightly over $128 per conflagration. "That's a pretty fair record for preventing destruction," commented Cleveland, and one must agree.

The strange thing about the Sanford department is the absence of a fire board, a planning board, a fire department. "We don't have time for those things as a rule," the chief said. "We don't have a fire department as we are continually training to be better equipped to meet any emergency. In the mornings, the first thing we do, we shake down the equipment and apparatus, cleaning, polishing and testing the various pieces.

"From 9:30 'til noon we hold classes, Assistant Chief W. H. Thomas explaining to the men the new methods in fire fighting, prevention, and conducting actual test drills to keep the department at a high level of morale and efficiency." Thomas is a veteran of nearly a quarter of a century of service with the local force, while Cleveland has been Sanford chief for 29 years.

"By teaching and training we have transformed the men's attitude from that of having just another job in that of a profession, much like the doctor I spoke of," Cleveland goes on. "And though we haven't got the best-equipped department in the country, insurance rates are being lowered because of the force's record."

Regardless of the class schedule and the morning down, a seldom does more than a few seconds elapse before a response is given when you summon the department via telephone. Everything stops.

CARLOS CASTILLO ARMAS (above), former Guatemalan army officer, is reported ready to attempt to overthrow the government of President Jacobo Arbenz. The exiled Armas is said to head a 500-man invasion force organized in Honduras and already on Guatemala's border. Anti-Communists outside the Red-controlled country say large numbers inside Guatemala will join the exile forces when they cross the border.

Joan Foster, Bride

By Alice Ross Colver

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE

In October, Joan decided she would plan several parties and get together with her classmates. Betty Andrews, of course, could come from Poughkeepsie. And Sue Peterson did not live too far upstate in New York to put in an appearance, especially if she stayed overnight at Joan's mother's house. She could bring her twin babies along if she liked. Joan was crazy to see them. Betty would bring her little girl, too. Mrs. Foster would welcome them all for her big house was lonely with Jack away. Jonnetta Peters might get here, too, since she was teaching in nearby Connecticut. And hadn't someone said that Kay Porter was with the United Nations and living in the city these days? If so, she would make a fifth—counting Joan herself. There were probably others lurking in the vicinity, too, if Joan could and her class record with its addresses. Oh, how she would make a fifth month, all right, she told herself happily. A busy month filled with the glitter and glamor of bridal preparations and the pleasant and gaily that goes with entertainment.

The parties went off as Joan had planned. Jack and Diane were informal and irresponsible guests—each suspiciously tasting every dish that came on table and pretending to be very much surprised when each proved palatable, commenting with an owner's pride on the furniture on which he and Diane had the said dishes. The major part of the work, and finally instigating a riotous game of canasta that lasted past midnight. The family dinner was a quiet affair at which Joan and Joan's mother and father were the only ones present. Joan was out in very few places, probably enjoyed herself the most. The big tea for the older women was eminently successful, too, but it was the small reunion with her class mates that gave Joan the greatest delight.

It was as good to see all the girls again! And how unchanged they seemed! Sue, roughly affectionate with her hands—a boy and a girl whom she had called Pete and Pat—and talking to them as she had talked in college to her contemporaries. "Hey, you, Pete!" she would say, "I'm coming on the side, as well, and keep your food down where it belongs. There's no way to act before ladies." Or—"Pat, if you don't hush your howling, I'll get out my kitten which I shall scratch louder than you and will shut put your nose out of joint!" No baby talk for Sue. Yet underneath her bluff manner, which was actually only a curtain for her shyness in a role to which she was not yet accustomed, she was all tenderness and pride and love.

Johnny, too. Dear big Johnny with her deep reverberating voice and her robust enthusiasm for being a physical education teacher. "You're just the same, Johnny, only more so," Joan told her. And Miss Hubbard, now employed in an advertising agency, and Nancy Katsbrook, who was a "girl Friday" for a big executive in a real estate office and Blanka White, who had a minor part in a radio play. Kay Porter had been a teacher at college from the first year. She had always been considered the "brightest" of her class, the most alert, the most energetic, and one of the most attractive. She still was all of those things. She sat there in Joan's living room, small, well-kept, with her feet tucked under her, looking thoughtfully at Joan's picture, much interested in Betty's calm sweet handling of her little girl, warmly amused by Sue's playful professorial drawing out Joan in full of her learning experiences, drawing out Blanka to recount her doing on radio, and listening to speak of her advertising work and of courses tracing Joan to talk about her year abroad, her writing and now her antiquity. Yet all this time she remained slightly aloof, her own interests centered on her college days—the momentous going on in the world in which she was now taking a small but active part at the United Nations gatherings.

"You'll hear of Kay one of these days," Betty said, after the tea was over and only she and Sue, who were to stay overnight with their children, remained. "She'll be heading up some important international committee some time. She'll be in the public eye. Wait and see!"

"Let her have it," said Sue. "I'd rather have my twins."

"And I'd rather have my Beth."

"What a heart you, Jo!" Sue asked curiously.

Joan gave a small laugh.

"Oh, I'm a glutton for life, as usual," she said. "I want my family and a career on the side, as well. Think I can manage?"

"Well, with the career you've chosen, which you can carry on in your own home, I would say so," Betty answered.

"What's the matter, Todd?" Joan asked one night after the last party was over. "You're coming home these nights as if you had just been in a battle all day long."

"Well, I have," he replied. "Don't believe it when you hear that teaching is easy. Or that anybody can do it. I rate myself fairly intelligent and in top physical form, but in telling you that after a day with those kids I'm bewildered and bushed."

He sat himself into the Boston rocker and stared at Joan so glumly that she could not help laugh.

"Are you trying to tell me you're heading for a nervous breakdown?" she asked. "After such a short time? I've always thought you were a man of iron."

"You wouldn't know I'm not. I've always been putty in your hands." He winked with these kids in a rather well-a-mojo.

"Oh, come now!"

"Okay, I'll speak seriously." He ran a hand through his hair and sighed. "I see now why the public schools insist on courses in pedagogy and weeks of practice teaching before they give out certificates to aspiring young teachers. It is too taken pedagogy. I'd have known what to expect from youngsters of eight or ten or twelve years as it is. I don't know. Either I'm overpowered by their stupidity, infuriated when they are machinists or time-bargained when they are erratic, or just about being on a hot seat that's no. It takes courage to face that kind of a little imp every morning. Because they're trying me out and I know it." He looked at Joan with a gleam in his eye. "I'm in his rebellious mood. I don't think they're smart enough to be aware when a teacher isn't sure of himself. Brother!" And he smiled at her. "They've got my number and I haven't got theirs. That's the whole thing in a nutshell. If I'd ever done any practice teaching, I'd at least have a little gumption about this business. No haven't a bit. I feel like a—like a jet pilot who's been asked to do an act on a flying trapeze just because he's used to being in the air. The medium is the blame for both but the training isn't. That's about the size of it."

"You have plenty of gumption!" Joan retorted. "And you'll acquire more in time."

"If I get that long!" He paused. "In this same you learn by doing!"

Story Of Pathos Is Related By Dead Serviceman's Mother

By STEVE BRESLIN

Every one in a while a report runs across a story of such quiet human intensity and courage that its faith in the survival of this stricken world is strongly fortified.

Such is the story of Miss Jean Mayfield who resides in quiet serenity in a small but wholly adequate blue and white cottage just off the Lake Mary Road.

Not long ago the serenity of this cottage in the pines was broken when there was delivered to it one of those messages from Washington which told her that her only son would never return from Korea.

Her first thought, and that of her husband, was that they could no longer live in the house in which their son had been brought up from childhood. They could not face the everyday reminders of a room which had been his, and in like many another, they planned to move away. But Mrs. Mayfield told you her own story of how she solved her problem.

"When the telegram telling me of Gary's death arrived, my life seemed to go out. Before, whenever I opened the drapes of my living room, I could see the light in the light in the world come into my house. Yet, now it went unnoticed. The world was empty for me.

"Memories of Gary's childhood crowded back into view. How he must have hated war! He could never shoot a bird. He who doctors all the wounded animals he found, who cried at the sight of an injured horse. Somehow I wondered if on that battlefield he felt that all was futile—that the world would never be at peace or free. . . .

"Our last letter from him had been short and full of questions. How would he like to go to the police? He who loved him almost as much as I? Of course he asked about his girl (we'll call her Anna) who had known him since high school. Their engagement had been long and just before he left for Korea. We could see that he wouldn't have to tell us how things were in Korea. But the letter told us more than he realized. Told us of the heartbreak, loneliness, and frustration of one boy among many in Korea.

"After the telegram came, nothing more."

Indians Asked Their Opinion Of New Picture

HOLLYWOOD.—Hecht-Lancaster Productions this week accomplished a notable first in Hollywood history.

They previewed Burt Lancaster's latest "Apache" to a group of Indians, mostly Apaches, and asked them what they thought about it.

"It's the first time in the history of moviemaking," reports Mrs. Steve Standing Bear, group worker at the Indian center here, "that any producer ever has given the Indians a chance to give their opinion of their people. For that we are eminently grateful."

After the preview the Indians held a short pow-wow and came up with their views on the picture. Here they are, both pro and con.

They liked the picture on the whole and thought that the Indians were "very sympathetic" portrayed.

"They liked the absence of scalping or any scenes which showed a thousand Indians descending on one helpless pioneer family."

"Scalping makes the modern Indian shudder," says Mrs. Standing Bear.

They liked the idea that the Apache territory in Arizona is there, are very sensitive about movies which are careless with tribal geography.

They didn't like the constant brutality of Lancaster toward his squaw, Jean Peters.

"When he beat her with a stick and then made her carry heavy loads when pregnant—that's something that no Indian, unless crazy, would think of doing," reports

DEATH OF A TOURNEY

NEW YORK.—Metropolitan New York and New Jersey golfers who shoot holes-in-one no longer have an ace tournament in which they can try to outshoot each other. After 20 years the New York World Telegram and Sun has discontinued its golf promotion.

"The event has become just too large to handle," says the newspaper. Since last August, when 1,164 participants, 532 new entries were registered.

The odds for an ace in this tournament turned out to be 82,000 to 1. Since the event began in 1932, a total of 13,211 players have hit 80,055 iron shots on par 3 holes. Their efforts produced 10 aces.

Oldest hole-in-one in the event was Ernie Grauer's shot in 1952. It hit a fence behind the green and rebounded into the cup.

Safety On Highway Is Dependent Upon Actions Of Individual Driver

It is up to the individual motorist as to how successful campaigns for safety on the highway turn out to be.

The major today is proclaiming July as a month in which to be especially careful in driving and walking in traffic. During July, traffic is generally heavy with vacationers and the chances for accidents increase.

However, 100 drivers may drive with caution and one other driver, who is careless or has been drinking, can prove a menace to all the rest. It is up to every one to do

Lake Boats Returning?

After three years' interruption, there are plans for resuming passenger boat service between Detroit and Cleveland. Except for occasional excursions and a few short local runs, Great Lakes passenger service has disappeared. Companies that operated daily between large lake cities have gone out of business. The Detroit and Cleveland Navigation Co., last to go, suspended in 1951. The automobile and truck had taken away their business.

The same thing has happened to river boats and coastwise passenger vessels. It is now happening to railroads, to whom motorized transportation is doing what years ago the railroads did to the canals. It would be poetic justice if the plane in its further development killed the automobile and the truck.

Apart from its economic aspect lake transportation has afforded a delightful form of conveyance. To many, driving on crowded highways offer no like relaxation.

The promoters of the revised Detroit-Cleveland line are now awaiting adequate pier facilities. The piers formerly used have been taken over for other purposes. Lovers of picturesque travel hope that suitable arrangements may be made.

Cats, Rats, And Men

Those who believe that wars are inevitable frequently assert that pugnacity is part of the make-up of man, as it is with all animals. They cite the so-called laws of the jungle in which the strong prey upon the weak. A Chinese scientist, Dr. Loh Sen Tsai, professor of Psychology at Tulane University, has demonstrated that it is possible to teach animals which are considered natural

Preference Shown For Germany

PARIS (AP)—What is the difference between France and Western Germany today?

Nine years after the end of the last war the average American soldier abroad prefers to be stationed in Germany, the old enemy, rather than in France, the old ally.

This preference annoys some French, affords the Germans a hearty laudation and a heavy blow to the average American tourist, like the U.S. soldier, also nullifies the more impressed by Western Germany rather than any other country in Europe.

Why? Both soldier and tourist, if pressed for a one-sentence answer, probably would reply "It's more like home."

The phrase "more like home" covers more than the superiority of German over French plumbing. Some Frenchmen feel Americans would prefer huts over heaven if the devil would just put in more bathrooms. But the impression Western Germany makes on a U.S. visitor can't be dismissed or explained merely as a psychopathic admiration of better plumbing.

There is a great difference in spirit between the two lands. The visiting American today finds few scars of war left on the face of France, but detects many scars in the Frenchman's heart.

The war scars still stand on every hand in Germany—although rebuilding is going on everywhere—but the German keeps whatever postwar bitterness he has pretty much to himself.

The French give an impression of being tired and resentful and serious, like an old beauty who can't quite forgive time for taking away the curve of her cheeks. Germans are more cheerful, more relaxed and more confident. "Where do you want to go?" they ask in a contented tone—often smiling.

Distractions, according to a woman municipal judge in Toledo, O., are the cause of 75 per cent of traffic accidents. Window-shopping from cars, talking to someone in the back seat, watching something across the street and numerous other careless actions can cause accidents.

Pedestrians should take care to cross streets at designated spots and with traffic lights. Actually, when a car is turning a corner with a green light, the pedestrian crossing the street in front of it would have the right-of-way. Somehow, this right seems to be forgotten for the most part.

Alcohol, speed and carelessness cause innumerable accidents.

Let's all do our part—let's drive safely.

enemies to live together in peace and co-operation.

Experimenting with cats and rats he proved that these animals can be trained to understand that their well-being and the satisfaction of their needs can be fulfilled by co-operation. He succeeded in many tests. The most remarkable was one in which a ferocious alley-cat, with a long record as a rat-killer, was trained to work in co-operation with a rat, a screen which enabled both to get at a dish of food.

Dr. Tsai is a philosopher as well as a scientist and he sees in his experiments an indication of hope for mankind. To him, his experiments demonstrate the important role that education can play in helping men to eliminate the scourge of warfare and live in harmony and co-operation with his fellow man.

Way Down South In Sanford, Florida

By C. R. Dawson, ISA, MS.
BEEF—There have been rapid developments in the last few years toward cheaper beef production. It has been only a few years since we heard of 500 pounds of beef from an acre of pasture in Indiana. This is all outdated as we get reports of 1000 pounds right here in Florida, as a result of improved pastures.

TERMITES—A termite colony may contain 3 million individuals.
LYCHEE—The lychee, a subtropical fruit tree believed to be native to Southern China, where it has been cultivated for thousands of years, is reported as having borne fruit at Sanford as early as 1883.

CORN—A corn variety that will stik within a two-day period and a good growing season are two very important factors that determine the success or failure of an ear-worm control program in Florida.

BUGS—Nearly 4 tons (7,775 pounds) of aphids have been found infesting a single acre of alfalfa. In many acres, one and a half tons of alfalfa hay per acre is considered a good crop.

YOUNG AMERICANS—Should children be allowed to operate, play on or as extra riders on machinery? At what age should a youngster be allowed to operate machinery around the farm? On the highway?

Germany know where they are going, the French wistfully and fearfully are trying to hold on to something they are losing.

The most striking difference between Germany and France is the difference between this atmosphere of self-confident purpose and this misera of painful self-doubt. The French still yearn for glory, and demand it on the basis of past performance, and the German are back on their feet reaching for power.

In a recent talk to a group of former war correspondents, Dr. Ludwig Erhard, German economic minister, spoke of his hope for a unified Europe that would submerge old rivalries and added: "It has often been said that Germany is the most American country in Europe. There may be something in that and, if there is,

PROBLEM IN ADDITION

Commissions Search

WASHINGTON (AP)—While still fresh in office last year President Eisenhower set up so many commissions to study and find answers for the problems facing him that critics jokingly called it "government by commission."

It is now learning that when a commission gets through recommending, he still has to deal with Congress, and Congress can do as it pleases.

Last January a 11-man commission—headed by Clarence Randall, steel manufacturer—wound up a six-month study by making a list of recommendations on foreign economic policy.

Eisenhower had taken office at a time when it was clear this country was going to have to cut down on the amount of the aid it was shoveling out to other countries. Yet, since the aid was shut off, they'd have to fill the gap somehow to survive, and one of the ways was in more trade with this country. The Randall commission was set up to look for answers.

The perfect commission would be one in which all the members approached their problem with an open mind and sound ideas. It is an answer so obvious that all the members were in complete agreement.

The Randall commission didn't cut close to the ideal group. Individual members had strong, perhaps lifelong, opinions on foreign trade which apparently didn't change.

Among other things, the commission majority recommended that the reciprocal trade program be extended for another three years and some tariffs on foreign imports be lowered sharply over that period.

Under the Reciprocal Trade Act the President can lower tariffs on certain foreign goods coming here if a foreign country lowers its tariffs on certain American goods sent there.

Two of Eisenhower's own Republicans on the Randall commission, key men in Congress, attacked the commission's report on specific details and termed the entire report "vague, indefinite and unsatisfactory."

These two were Rep. Daniel A. Reed of New York and Rep. Richard M. Simpson of Pennsylvania. Reed is chairman and Simpson is a member of the House Ways and Means Committee, which gets first crack at all tariff legislation.

Another Republican commission member—Sen. Eugene Millikin of Colorado, who as chairman of the Finance Committee is Reed's counterpart in the Senate—put in a long letter that was far more dissent than agreement.

Reed and Simpson took the position that tariff lowering, as recommended by the Randall commission, would hurt American business because of the competition of imported foreign goods and cause unemployment.

Eisenhower, following the majority recommendation, asked Congress to extend the Reciprocal Trade Act three years and let him cut tariffs 5 per cent in each of the three years.

But this request landed in the lap of the Reed-Simpson committee. Eisenhower backed up. He agreed to accept a one-year extension, without added authority to cut tariffs. He said he'd work for more improvements in foreign trade next year. The House passed the one-year extension. The Senate is expected to do so this week.

There is nothing unusual about this year-to-year extension of the Summer Brings Problems Galore

NEW YORK (AP)—The sun pushes as far north today as it can, and for many Americans this may well usher in what will come to be known as the summer of decision.

Problems galore will be forced upon you—world-shaking or just plain "skin" things. They range from the male form un-divine and the new rag-bag hairdo for women to the question of how many resort-bound autos can squeeze into one highway intersection.

Already city streets are seeking the first balmy male knees of the torrid season. Clothing men think this will be the summer to decide two of the burning issues of our day: Will walking shorts emerge from the suburbs to become standard summer wear? Will long hose or the ankle sock be the American male's final choice?

In the industry some also see this as the summer of decision for the fibers made by man. Use of synthetics in hot weather clothing may continue to increase at the impressive rate of former one—even though they might have paid into both of the funds. This fall will benefit some 38,000 retired workers—many of whom live in Florida.

Judge Akerman—Will the new Federal judgeship for Miami go to Emory Akerman? Akerman, whose father was a Federal judge, is a former resident of Orlando, now living in Miami. The Akerman family has for years been identified with the Republican party of Florida. Emory's chances are considered to be excellent for the newly created post. His brother, Alex, holds the only Republican appointment in Washington to go to a Florida man—Executive Director of the Federal Trade Commission. Alex's presence on the Washington scene, where he can keep a finger on the political pulse, isn't exactly calculated to hurt Emory's chances for the judgeship.

It may or may not have had anything to do with the closing down of the McCarthy Army hearings, but most of the members took this rare chance to relax. Tennessee Star Signs With Cards
GAINESVILLE—John Hunter, star halfback of Southview High School in Memphis, Tenn., who had accepted a grant-in-aid with the University of Florida, has signed a contract to play baseball with the St. Louis Cardinals instead.

Scheduled to enroll at Florida next fall, Hunter during the past season was selected for All-State and All-Florida squads in both football and baseball.

Hunter, who stands 6' 1" and weighs 180 pounds was considered by Florida Coach Bob Woodruff as an outstanding prospect for the Gators team.

FRANKIE FRISCH, Fordham graduate who is rated one of the great second basemen in major league history, became a scholarly-looking, bespectacled TV announcer, but in his playing days, was an articulate and active member of the old St. Louis Cardinals' "Gas House Gang" that made umpires' lives particularly miserable.

In one game, Frisch had occasion to question a decision by Umpire Dusty Boggess at the home plate, concluding his oration by labeling Boggess a "blubberhead."

"Did you say 'blubberhead'?" roared the red-faced Boggess.

"No, sir," answered Frisch, his voice suddenly subdued and gentlemanly. "I said 'blubberhead.' I always knew you were blind as a bat, but now I discover you're deaf, too!"

The Fordham flash heard the rest of the game via radio in the clubhouse dressing room.

Holland Honored—Senator Spearard Holland has just been named, with the President of Venezuela, Marcos Jimenez, to receive the American Road Builders Association 1953 Pan American Highway award. A silver plaque will be presented to each of these men at the 6th Annual Pan American Highway Congress in Caracas in July—for their work in furthering the advancement of highway progress in the Western Hemisphere. Holland, a member of the Senate Committee on Roads, was instrumental in having the U. S. put up money to help finance the Pan American Highway now being built to South America.

Senate 'Jury' In Probe Agrees To Reach Its Findings By Aug. 1

Strolling In Sanford

Mr. and Mrs. Irving I. Prewer have returned home after a vacation of two weeks with relatives and friends in the North. On June 12, they attended a 20-year reunion of the 1934 class of Wicomico high school at Salisbury, Md. Mrs. Prewer had been secretary of the class and at the banquet she gave the roll call of 116 graduates. She was presented the award for having gone the farthest distance to the affair, a gift, and $5,000 in play money and a road map to assist her in getting home.

Boy In Danger Of Rabies Found

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—An 11-year-old Missouri boy who needs treatment for rabies was located here today and hurried to a hospital. The youth has been sought since Friday when he was reported by a skunk at his home at Blue Springs, Mo. He and his parents left on a trip to Key West before the skunk was found to be rabid. A Florida highway patrolman spotted the car of the Henry Zellners near Florida State University shortly before noon. Russell Zellner was taken for treatment immediately. The patrolman said the boy had to be found within two days if his life was to be saved.

County Commission Allocates $6,000 For Area Zoning

The Seminole County board of commissioners held its regular semi-monthly meeting this morning and voted to allocate $6,000 toward establishment of County zoning. The allotment, available from the State, is being used to plan zoning for Leon County.

Raymond Ball, spokesman for a committee appointed by the commission to investigate various forms of county zoning, reported that a Mr. Brannon, director of the Leon county zoning commission, had offered his services gratis to come into Seminole County and help with the preliminary planning necessary to establish zoning. Brannon further suggested, according to Ball, seeking the services of George W. Simons, a zoning consultant, to advise and help zone the various districts of the county. Simons' talents are tendered at approximately $60 per day.

The commission postponed a definite commitment until the money is available, but advised Ball to call on Mr. Brannon for a zoning director. Mr. Brannon feels that the first year of zoning is the most difficult, costing about $7,500 but will be the easiest for the second year.

The commissioners adopted Mr. H. C. Dodd's motion to appropriate the $6,000 in the next budget. It has been the case for the past three years, the commission voted to appropriate $1,500 to the U. S. Geological Survey which is making an extensive study of water conditions in Seminole County. According to a confidential report in the hands of the members of the commission, the Geological Service is analyzing over 700 specimens from wells in all parts of the county.

Acting on a letter from Miss Myrtle Wilson, Home Demonstration agent, $75 was allocated to a 4-11 Camp for Seminole County children.

Commr. Dodd moved that the County buy a harrow to use in cleaning rights-of-ways and for use at the County Home. Cost was estimated at about $300 but the motion was defeated. "They're borrowing a harrow and the County ought to own one anyway," Dodd stated. He added that he didn't mind lending his harrow, but the County ownership of one would be worthwhile.

Commr. Dodd further reported that Sheriff J. L. Hobby had requested him to look into the possibility of acquiring a fan for use in the County jail kitchen, but no action was taken when Commr. John Meisch suggested moving the "prisoners out to the Mayfair Inn where they can have a swimming pool."

It was a short meeting, lasting only slightly over two hours.

Jenkins, Aide Picked To Draft 'Balance Sheet'

WASHINGTON (AP)—The senatorial "jury" in the McCarthy-Army hearings agreed today to try for a verdict or verdicts by Aug. 1. Sen. Mundt-B-S-D, announced after a meeting of the hearings subcommittee that there was "a general recognition" that unless findings are reached within a week after Congress adjourns, it may be impossible to reach them until after the November election.

Mundt said the subcommittee had unanimously assigned Ray H. Jenkins, his special counsel, and Charles Maner, his aide, to draft "a balance sheet of testimony" to guide the subcommittee in writing the report.

The "balance sheet," Mundt explained, will list "salient points of controversy" between Sen. McCarthy and Army officials. The "pro and con" points made in testimony, and have an index where the pertinent evidence is to be found in the two million word hearing record.

The senator told a news conference that the subcommittee also agreed to consider a later meeting: 1. Whether a demand by H. Struve Hensel, assistant secretary of defense, for fuller vindication than he feels the subcommittee has given him, merits special consideration in writing the official report or verdict.

2. To ask the Defense Department why it has withheld for more than a year requested security clearance for two members of the regular staff of the Senate Investigations subcommittee which McCarthy heads.

Officers Installed In Legion Post

Utilizing his past performance and experience, Sanford Post 22 American Legion last night installed R. Z. Johnson Jr. as local commander for the 1954-55 year. Johnson also served as commander during the year 1952-53.

Installation ceremonies were conducted by Sixth District Commander Ovid E. Weaver of Altamonte Springs Post 193.

Also installed at last night's meeting were the following: George O. Maybury, first vice commander; H. D. Russell, second vice commander; Mathias Kudac, third vice commander; Robert W. Deane, finance officer; E. A. Monforton, post chaplain; F. T. Ludeke, historian; and Carey Harfield, sergeant at arms.

The officers, all of whom have had considerable Legion experience, were installed before a large turnout of members.

Man Sentenced On Liquor Counts

George W. Pike of 1410 West 12th St., yesterday was fined a total of $300 plus court cost on two counts of possession of untagged and illegal liquor in City Court. Pike was caught red-handed as he received two gallons of illegal liquor, according to police. Chief of Police Roy Williams stated that Pike had been retailing the moonshine at a local ice house without the knowledge of the owner or manager.

He was arrested by officers C. C. Dodson and Harrison Seiboth of the City police department. He was employed at the Hunter Ice and Fuel Co.

Rec. Areas Swamped First Day

Sanford's recreation areas were swamped yesterday when more than 500 youngsters attended ceremonies opening the City's annual summer recreation program.

The program was kicked off yesterday afternoon. Ceremonies were followed by a full-length motor picnic at the Municipal Pool.

Under the direction of John Angel, Seminole High School instructor and coach, this year's program is not only providing recreation for Sanford's younger generation, but goes further by teaching the various sports.

Training is being held in swimming, boxing, baseball and craft to mention some of the activities. These are being held each day beginning at 8:30 a. m. and continue until noon for children between the ages of 6 and 15.

Other directors of the program are Fred Gannas, Seminole High School coach, who supervises at the high school area a varied program of games and handicraft activities; Howard Gordie, Junior High School instructor, who conducts outdoor recreation at the Ninth St. and Laurel Ave. area in conjunction with a program of handicraft activities supervised by Miss Ellen Briggs, Stanton University education major.

The lake front area is supervised by Angel Miss Helen Michels and Miss Joan Fines, both recent SBE graduates. This area is planned to cater particularly to the young fry from 6 to 10.

Also Miss Edna Chittenden, high school librarian, is conducting an extensive program of literary activities, which include a planned program of reading book binding, story telling, etc. The library is open each morning for reading or checking out books. The book binding course should be of interest to local Boy Scouts who need a merit badge in that field. The Sanford Public Library will also cooperate in this phase of the program.

The afternoon program will be varied from week to week. Ever Angel said that literary activities are being offered at least once each week, among these, tennis, archery, golf, and fishing instruction, a directed by Gannas and Hugh Carter, elementary school principal at Lake Mary. One water skiing lesson are being given as members of the Sanford Boat and Ski Club to boys and girls who meet certain safety requirements.

Each Tuesday, during the eight week period, the department is directed by the recent death of State Senator Lloyd F. Boyle.

The chairman stated that there will be no resident jobs in the building. The third will be used for the present by the city as a storage room for the city's stock of tools and service at the city's hospital. The building can hold 125 beds.

Because of its construction, the building can be easily enlarged when the city grows in size. The estimated cost of the proposed hospital can hold 125 beds.

Called Special N-2et The Sanford City civil service board has called a special meeting to elect a representative to handle the affairs. The position was left vacant by the death of State Senator Lloyd F. Boyle.

The meeting will be held in the City Hall at 5:30 p. m., July 1, according to N. O. Garner, assistant secretary of the group. The election will be followed by a short business meeting.

Name most prominently mentioned to fill the position is that of Mack Cleveland Jr., recently appointed County attorney and Sanford lawyer.

Birds To Get Bird; Scarecrows To Go

MIAMI BEACH (AP)—Listen, birds: science is catching on to your tobbles. The director of the Florida Agricultural Experiment Station says something better than scarecrows is going to be used to scare you.

Wilford M. Field of Gainesville, the director, says the new system will be to use your own recorded voice to set you flying from a field in 10 more years. There won't be any scarecrows, that says Field, human beings have got to learn one thing: they won't send only your alarm clock over the loud speaker.

If they send a mauling call by voice, you'll flock in instead. Field spoke before the Florida Poultry Assn. convention here yesterday.

Hospital Chairman Tells Lions Plans For New Facility

Tom Tucker, chairman of the Seminole Memorial Hospital board and president of the Florida State Bank, was featured speaker at today's regular weekly meeting of the Sanford Lions Club.

Tucker spoke on the physical aspects of the new hospital, which is now under construction. The building will be of reinforced concrete, which will be covered both inside and out with clay tile. The front of the exterior of the first floor will be covered by Roman tile, according to the board chairman.

The hospital will consist of 100 rooms, 10 of which will be used by the county's Nurses. The building will also feature a segregated delivery room system with separate operating rooms for Negroes.

The three-story building will cost approximately $1,210,000 in construction and equipment, stated Tucker. It will be 200 feet long, only a little less than the length of the hospital, and contain two elevators.

The first floor of the completely air conditioned hospital will be devoted to such offices and rooms as the administrative office, bar, emergency room, etc. The second will be given over to the 100-bed Negro section and several special rooms, while the third will be devoted to semi-private and private White rooms, according to Tucker.

The chairman stated that there will be no resident jobs in the building. The third will be used for the present by the city as a storage room for the city's stock of tools and service at the city's hospital. The building can hold 125 beds.

Tax Evader Gels Stiff Sentence

TAMPA (AP)—Harry Blumberg, Lakeland, a 39-year-old owner and operator of a business, was sentenced to 3 years in prison today for evading $200,000 in taxes. He was convicted May 29.

The government charged Blumberg with evading income taxes in 1946 and 1947 and evaded $200,000 in taxes. He was convicted May 29.

Judge Bryan Simpson denied a new trial and refused to set an appeal bond but he stayed execution of the sentence until July 1 to give time to take the case to the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals.

Chileans Support Leftists

Uruguay Hits 'Aggression'

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Chilean students and workers burned President Eisenhower in effigy last night in support for President Jacobo Arbenz Guzman's leftist government mounted on Latin American campuses.

Most American governments officially maintained a "hands off" policy toward the war in the Central American republic, but Uruguay's Chamber of Deputies by a two-to-one margin—38 to 20—adopted a resolution condemning the "aggression" against Guatemala.

Newspaper comment reflected various shades of opinion. In Havana a newspaper called Fulbright's statement "aggression" and called for a "boycott" of Fulbright's visit to the country. He also charged that two American planes crashed landed in Mexico and were advanced after American-made planes bombed Guatemalan cities, internationally.

Those in Chile were the most violent. Students and workers in Santiago stoned windows at the newspaper "El Mercurio," which attacked Russia yesterday for her Security Council veto of the resolution to transfer the Guatemalan seat to the organization of American states. The paper accused the Soviets of trying to create discord in the Americas and of trying to widen differences between the United States and Latin America.

After listening to a speech denouncing the United States, the Santiago demonstrators set fire to an effigy of the U.S. President. Other groups paraded in front of the U.S. Embassy and the Institute of North American Culture, but heavy police guards prevented further violence.

Students at the University of Casapalca, Ecuador, also held a meeting and called for a parade and arrested a number of leaders. In Quito, the Ecuadorian capital, the Federation of University Students began recruiting volunteers to "defend Guatemala's sovereignty" and sent messages of support to Arbenz and the Guatemalan leaders.

University students in La Paz, Bolivia, also issued a protest against the invasion and expressed support for the government. Police guarded the American embassy as about 100 persons paraded through the streets in support of Cuba's Federation of University Students named Arbenz an honorary leader. The group made plans for a giant demonstration in Havana to demand police restrictions on such meetings.

Panama's students were divided. One group raised the Guatemalan flag on the National University campus last night, called a 24-hour strike for today, and said the flag would stay up "as long as the Arbenz regime is under attack."

Meanwhile a group of anti-Communist Panamanian youth organized a message of support to Gen. Castillo Armas, urging volunteers of the insurgents needed them.

In Buenos Aires, the semi-official newspaper La Esposa strongly implied the United States was to blame for the fighting in Guatemala. The paper, which usually reflects the views of Argentine President Juan D. Peron's government, linked Washington's campaign against Communist influence in Guatemala to Guatemala's desire to annex neighboring British Honduras and its efforts to end the "inhuman exploitation of the fruit fruit."

By contrast Mexico City's leading newspaper "Excelsior" came out strongly against the Arbenz government. Though Mexicans generally have sympathized with the Guatemalan president, Excelsior accused him of "an alliance to introduce into America the terrible danger of communism."

Fighter-Bombers To Go To Europe

LANGLEY AIR FORCE BASE, Va. (AP)—Secretary of the Air Force Harold E. Talbot announced today that Tactical Air Command's 21st and 36th Fighter Bomber Wings will leave the United States for Europe this fall.

Talbot's announcement was released by Tactical Air Command headquarters here.

Assigned to TAC's Ninth Air Force, the two wings are the North American F-86F Sabrejet fighter-bomber as their operational aircraft. The overseas deployment of these units to Europe marks the second time that fully-equipped F-86F wings will go to the United States Air Forces in Europe for duty with the NATO defense forces. Last year TAC deployed the 50th Fighter Bomber Wing to Western Germany.
