Deed To Light and Air Above Building Decreases Its Value

DELAND, Aug. 25.—(AP)—A deed to the air and light above the first story of a brick business block, obtained in 1921, caused the same building to sell for about half the amount similar property of about equal location has been commanding.

The block was owned by H. A. Windhorst, who purchased it from Miss Mary F. Cordington for $100 a front foot, which was considered a record price at that time, who erected the single story structure. The late Chris O. Cordington obtained a deed from Windhorst for the light and air above the building in order to convert his theater building adjacent into an apartment house, in return for the use of his wall.

In the early eighties, Col. C. O. Cordington, who owned the lot on which the theater stood, exchanged his property for a sow and a litter of pigs. The pigs ran away and the Colonel became displeased with his trade and forced the other party to return the land holdings. Today, the property is said to be worth a million dollars.

HIDE VERSE FOR TODAY
GOD IS GRACIOUS:—Thou art a God ready to pardon, gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness. Nehemiah 9:17.

WHY I AM A FARMER
Some think the farm work slow and hard,
With never any pleasure;
Their work is always poorly done,
They sow with scanty measure,
I love the fields where nature dwells,
With nothing to alarm her,
I love the live stock, too, and that is why I am a farmer.

Some think a country life too tame,
They leave it for the bustle
Of city life and city ways,
With constant grind and hustle,
I love the farmer's quiet life;
He wears no shining armor,
But wears a happy heart, and that is why I am a farmer.

Some think the country lads are green,
The country lasses ditto;
But when they try to prove the thing,
They fail a single bit to.
The country home's a guarded spot,
And vice doth seldom harm her,
This full of peace and love, and that is why I am a farmer.

"The nation's safeguard is the home."
Is often said and quoted.
I doubt not that the country was
The home of him who wrote it.
Then let us be the nation's joy,
And strength and honor give her,
The farms raise true patriots,
And that's why I'm a farmer.

—Atwood Miller.

What they are saying in Florida really circles: "Life is on subdivision right after another."

With the baseball season nearly over, attention should be called to the fine condition of Sanford's golf course. With one of the finest golf courses in the state located here, it is a shame that more Sanford people don't take advantage of the facilities furnished by the city along this line. This winter should see hundreds of persons at the country club every day.

No matter what the public in general may say, we still have many publications that print nothing but the truth, no matter if it does sound harsh. For instance there's the editor of the Oxford, Ia., Lender, who, in his personal column, says, "John Cantman, who 'killed' the Lender out of a year's subscription, was in town Tuesday with a load of watermelons."

Today's best laugh: Picture postcard of a hotel carry this message: "This hotel is fully equipped with automatic sprinklers. Statistics show less of life has never occurred in a sprinkled building. In case of fire you may get wet, but not burned."

To one traveler this brought some thought and he wrote thereunder the following prayer:
"Now I lay me down to sleep,
Statistics guard my slumber deep.
If I should die, I'm not concerned;
I may get wet, but I won't get burned."—Everybody's Magazine.

The Punta Gorda Herald says: "The next time you hear a citizen of Punta Gorda yell about a typographical error in his home paper, or any other paper, just hand him these few figures to stop his tongue. In an ordinary column there are ten thousand pieces of type. There are seven possible wrong positions for each letter; there are seventy thousand chances to make an error, and millions of possible transpositions. In this one sentence 'to be or not to be' by transposition alone, it has been figured out 2,769,022 errors can be made. Newspaper people, from the 'devil' up to the boss, and other high officials, are merely human and liable to err. Don't be nosing around for errors, but read for the information you can get and the good that you can get. You'll find error enough in your daily walk through life without having to hunt for them in the newspapers."

The Florida Craze

Criticism usually invites investigation. Investigation, as a rule, brings out the actual facts as they exist. And so when some paper up north jumps on Florida, the result is a greater crowd of newcomers to this state. It fills the highways with automobiles headed south. It creates the necessity of increased transportation facilities on the part of railroad and steamship lines, and causes a housing problem that is hard to solve.

In addition to the advertising being space in papers throughout the many thousands of dollars worth of advertising space in papers throughout the country, Florida is deriving valuable publicity at the hands of those who are attempting to stop the flood of northerners who are headed this way. Without realizing what they are doing, many publications that try to picture the Florida boom as just a temporary affair and predict that it will soon blow up, are calling the attention of their readers to Florida and are exciting their curiosity. And when their curiosity is aroused these people decide to take a trip to the state that is causing so much excitement so that they may see for themselves what it is all about. On their arrival here they find there is no "boom". They find it is a solid, substantial growth caused by a wonderful climate, a productive soil, and a decidedly progressive people. They make up their minds to stay. They invest their money and add impetus to the already sensational development of the state.

And all the time some of the out-of-state papers, both big and little, keep Florida in the limelight in their attempts to put an end to the Florida craze.

In a recent issue of a paper published at Hillsboro, Illinois appeared a long editorial about Florida. In this article the writer had much to say regarding the way things are being done here. He showed his lack of knowledge of his subject by the statements that he made. But even at that this state would be doing well to send a vote of thanks to the publisher for his generosity in giving such valuable space without charge. The Illinois paper says:

One of the most interesting phases of psychology at the present time is the phenomenon, of real estate speculation which started in Florida a year or two ago and has worked itself into a national delirium!

Nothing like the wild, unrestrained and frenzied Florida boom was ever before seen in this country. The rush to California in 1849, after gold was discovered there, was but a feeble movement as compared with the stampede to Florida this summer.

Jesse Bremer, who left Hillsboro for Miami, Florida, last week, wrote while enroute that the Dixie highway is crowded to the curbing with automobiles, all headed for Florida. Another former resident of Hillsboro writes that hundreds of visitors to Miami are sleeping on the sand and the park benches because they cannot find rooms. Owners of apartment houses are asking $1500 a year for the rent of a cramped little four-room apartment! Real estate agents crowd each other off the sidewalks, and in order to beguile the "tenderfoot" who happens to go down there with money, into buying property, they put on fake sales to each other at fancy prices, to make the gullible northern suckers believe that there is a mad rush for city lots and land, and they must "hurry" or they will all be gone.

We have witnessed such phenomena before in this country, but nothing like the Florida real estate phantasm. Southern California experienced a boom something like it, but small in comparison. It lasted twenty years, being kept alive by the constant stream of tourists that overflowed that state. But since the tide of tourists has been turned to Florida the Southern California boom has collapsed and we are informed that there are over 18,000 "For Rent" signs on residences and business houses in Los Angeles. We have passed through the Oklahoma boom, the Texas boom, and several little side booms, such as the Wichita and East St. Louis booms, and while those who were in on the ground floor and had sense enough to get out in time, made money, hundreds and thousands lost everything they had.

The Florida boom will rage for a few years unless the speculators get too eager and "flush" it by boosting prices clear out of sight, which now seems probable, then it will collapse and catch many a guileless speculator who has allowed his eager avarice to stampede his judgment. But after the fitful fever of the Florida boom has cooled down the state will enjoy a period of steadily expanding prosperity, for it is an ideal place for the idle rich and, in some parts of the state by the use of great quantities of expensive fertilizers, citrus fruits can be made to grow. The American people need a playground, and by the way the popularity of the game of golf is growing, the time may come when the golf links in the north, will be moved to Florida, and that state converted into a vast golf course, with the fairways extending from Tallahassee to the Dry Tortugas, using the Everglades as a natural hazard!

Arthur Brisbane predicts that the time will come when the wealthy business men of New York, Boston, Cincinnati, St. Louis and other northern cities will maintain winter homes in Florida, and will take their golf sticks and jump into their airplanes Saturday morning and fly to Florida for the week-end, returning to their business Monday morning. This prediction may be fulfilled sooner than any of us realize, for there is nothing impossible in these radio and airplane days!

THERE IS NEVER any real danger in allowing a pedestal for a hero. He never has time to sit on it. One sees him always over and over again kicking his pedestal out from under him, and using it to batter a world with.—Gerald Stanley Lee.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

By IRVIN S. COBB

A friend of mine has a friend who has a friend who, according to his other two friends, went abroad while Victoria, the beloved, was still on the throne of Great Britain.

In London one night the traveler saw Madame Bernhardt play in "Anthony and Cleopatra."

The second came when Cleopatra receives news of Mark Anthony's defeat at Actium. Bernhardt was at her best as Egypt's fiery queen that night. She established the unfortunate slave who had borne the tidings to her, stormed, raved, frothed at the mouth, wrecked some of the scenery in her frenzy and finally, as the curtain fell, dropped in a shuddering, convulsive heap.

As the thunderous applause died down, the American heard a middle-aged British matron in the next seat remarking to her neighbor in tones of satisfaction:

"How different—how very different from the home life of our own dear queen!"

As Brisbane Sees It

To President Coolidge:
Please Kill Mosquitoes.
Hanging Men in Egypt.
The Federal Judges.

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

(Copyright 1925)

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, instead of selling the Los Angeles to private individuals that can well afford to build their own dirigible, why not use the Government's two big airships in a campaign against the nation's mosquitoes?

You will be remembered for many things when you retire from the Presidential office in 1932. Perhaps you will have built canals from the Great Lakes to the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic. And undoubtedly you will encourage the airplane industry in a way that will make this country safe from future enemies.

THIS IS to suggest that you use the big dirigibles to destroy an ever present menace, the mosquito. ALL OVER THE UNITED STATES.

To destroy mosquitoes would be to destroy malaria, and all possibilities of yellow fever. To wipe out malaria would add to the wealth of the United States an amount far greater than our national debt five times over.

THE THING has been tried successfully by the Agricultural Department in Louisiana at Tallulah. There flying machines have scattered over swamps, the breeding places of the mosquitoes a dust destructive to the mosquitoes, harmless to men and animals.

WIPING OUT mosquitoes in one place does no good. They travel from place to place on trains, automobiles, etc. A campaign to exterminate mosquitoes all over the country would be worthy of any President, more profitable in saving than anything ever done by any President.

LOS ANGELES and Shenandoah could be employed usefully and productively every flying day in this work, earning a thousand times the cost of the work.

SEVEN MEN were hanged in Cairo last Saturday for murdering the British Sirdar, Sir Lee Stack, Governor-General of the Sudan.

Of the seven hanged, forty minutes apart, to make the hanging more impressive only one struggled against his fate.

One, asked "have you boasted of killing twenty-five Englishmen?" said "no; it was thirty-five."

Another, as they put the rope around his neck, exclaimed: "I did this for God. He knows whether I am guilty or innocent."

THERE IS a bitter hatred of British domination in Egypt, India, China and other places. But you observe that in the end the British have their way.

In Egypt seven men are hanged for killing one. Ghandi, who tried to upset British rule in India, was put in jail and kept there, the three hundred million Asiatics ruled by a few British in India offering no resistance.

The British Empire knows how to rule other countries and other races. And it's about the only Government that does know how.

THIS SHOULD interest some of the dodos in our army and navy, unaware of the flying machine's importance in war.

It certainly will interest President Coolidge, keenly alive to the fact that future wars will be won and lost in the air.

THE BRITISH CONSIDER TRADING GIBRALTAR, THE MIGHTY FORTRESS, FOR AN AIR STATION ON THE OTHER SIDE OF THE STRAITS IN AFRICA.

A FEW years ago that would have been unthinkable. Great Britain felt that with Gibraltar in her hands she held the door to the Mediterranean safe forever.

But the British Generals, Ashmore and Steele, Vice Marshal of British Air Forces, having investigated the famous Gibraltar rock, declare that it would be worthless against attack. And they advise offering Gibraltar to Spain, if Spain, in exchange, will give Ceuta on the other side of the Straits for an air base.

SENATOR BORAH objects to the debt settlement with Belgium, not because it was generous, but because it was based on the assumption that a war President, mistaking himself for Divine Providence, could bind this nation by promise that he had no legal right to make.

SENATOR BORAH'S objection is sound. The fact that Woodrow Wilson promised what he had no right to do is no excuse for the present government basing any action on President Wilson's illegal acts.

THERE IS no knowing what inflated presidents we may have wandering around the world in days to come. Other countries should know that the United States is managed in accordance with the wording of the United States Constitution, not in accordance with the philanthropic hallucinations of men in office or their "delusions of grandeur."

CARDINAL DUBOIS, of Paris, criticized for urging all French Catholics to subscribe generously to the new loan, explained yesterday his reasons:

"The safety of France is in question. Can we with indifference see her credit founder in revolution and anarchy?"

The Cardinal says that failure of the French loan would mean the coming in of a violently radical socialist ministry and "blood-stained oppression."

TO FRANCE, England, Italy, Spain, the possibility of rebellion, so far away in this country, is an immediate, pressing danger.

WHERE IT HURTS

WHAT'S YOUR REPUTATION WORTH?

TRI-CITY NEWS

If you were thrown into a predicament where you had to realize on your reputation in the community, what would it be worth to you? You have often heard the proverb that a good name is more to be coveted than great riches, but did you regard it as mere "Sunday school talk." Or a demonstrated fact?

If the report was spread today that you had been shot—would the public say, "The bully always meets his match; I knew he'd get what's coming to him some day?" Or would they say, "I never knew him to start trouble—must have been the other fellow's fault?"

Or if the news came that you had shot the other fellow—would the public, from its knowledge of your reputation, decide that you were an aggressor, the trouble maker, the "bad man?"

If people should hear that you were in a serious auto wreck, would they exclaim, "Ah-hah! Drunk again; I've been looking for it. Gasoline and liquor won't mix," etc. Or would they decide that you were a sober, careful driver and the other fellow must have been to blame?

If you were handling o.p.m. and found short in your accounts, would people say, "Flying too high noting more than could have been expected; you can't live a Packard life on a Ford income." Or would they make more charitable remarks and say, "He never gambles, he's not an extravagant; he's strictly honest; must be some mistake; he never took a dollar that didn't belong to him?"

People will talk about you whether their remarks are just or unjust, and they will speak according to their general knowledge of your general conduct from day to day; and that's your reputation. There is no telling what moment you will have to lean heavily on that reputation, and you will find whether or not it is an invaluable asset or a serious liability.

It takes time to establish a good reputation in the community, but it takes longer to live down a bad one. A merchant who sells shoddy goods and gives short weight will soon play out. Or he can build up a good rep and sell it out; and then he is through. Acres of advertising won't do him any good. Here is a story from an exchange which illustrates the point very fully, and it's not "Sunday school talk," but every-day business.

"There was a baker who had built up a wonderful trade on his doughnuts. There wasn't anybody who had ever made such doughnuts as his. They were almost as popular as legal tender."

"And then that baker began to monkey with his doughnut recipe."

He changed this a little and he changed that a little, until finally the doughnut that he was putting out wasn't any more like his original doughnut that the flower or vegetable that you grow resembles its picture in the seed catalog.

"His doughnut trade began to drop off. It fell away in bunches and lumps. People suddenly stopped eating his doughnuts."

"Then the baker attempted to come back. He returned to the old formula. But there was nothing doing. People had learned there was one kind of doughnut they did not want—and that was his. He had educated them not to eat his doughnuts."

"He found, like a great many other people who get their well advertised goods in bad, that publicity can have a mean back kick. It is a lot easier to interest people in something they never heard of before than to make them like a thing that they have made up their minds they don't like."

"And there was a minister. He went to a fair sized town, and from the start he was the ant's ankles. The whole town fell for him. They elected him president of the Rotary club and made him chairman of the civic improvement league. He was invited to address every meeting of the ladies aid society."

"Everybody who was going to be married wanted to be married by him, everybody who was going to be buried wanted to be buried by him. They had chairs in the aisles Sundays and folks flattened themselves against the walls."

"And there was a reason. He was smart. He was handsome. He was witty. He was a good mixer and he had lots of spizzerington. And then he began to monkey with the formula that had made him successful. He grew cocky. He used his wit to string people. He liked to get the laugh on folks. He became intolerant of other people's opinions. He rejected everybody's suggestions. He completely changed the personality formula by which he had gained his elevation."

"And then some folks began to oppose him. And the rest lost interest in him. And then he tried to come back. But he couldn't do it. They had his measure. They already knew him. Publicly, he had become a dead one, and the public isn't interested in dead ones."

"And after that it wasn't long before the church had a new minister, and the Rotary club had a new president, and the civic improvement league a new chairman, and somebody else addressed the ladies aid society."

It is a mighty dangerous thing for a man to prank with the policy that has made him successful."

WHEN NEWS HELPED

TAMPA TIMES

Recently several newspapers eliminated all crime news and found that the policy was one which did not please the readers. Aside from this aspect of the situation, the printing of crime news often aids the law in rounding up those who have broken the criminal statutes.

For instance, take the California case of Charles Henry Schwartz. Schwartz, a chemist, insured his life for $100,000, murdered a laborer, put the body in a laboratory in Oakland, Cal., and then caused an explosion in the place. His plan included burning the body beyond identification in the fire that followed the explosion. Schwartz disappeared. The charred body was found and Mrs. Schwartz made claim for the insurance money.

But the police were suspicious. They called in a dentist who had worked on Schwartz' teeth and soon they had developed a number of facts that justified their suspicions. Mrs. Schwartz maintained that the body was that of her husband. Meantime a nation wide search for Schwartz had begun, and many newspapers published pictures of him.

Several nights ago the owner of an apartment house in Oakland, where Schwartz had rented an apartment in which to hide, mentioned at a dinner party that one of his tenants was in hiding. Then somebody produced a newspaper picture of Schwartz. A moment after looking at the picture the owner of the apartment had called the police and a short time later they were at Schwartz' door demanding admittance. There was no reply to their demands, and they began to break the door. Then they heard a pistol shot. Inside they found the dead body of Schwartz. He had killed himself, but he had left a note in which he confessed his crime.

It is altogether probable that Schwartz would have eventually have gone free to have enjoyed with his wife the money stolen from the insurance company as a result of murder, if it had not been that the newspapers published the news about the affair.

DAN DOBES

Some marry for money and some to kill.

Today we saw a German dog leaning up against a pole sound asleep.

And two bricklayers in Chicago. But this is as pay is coming down.

Some people hope every be Sunday by and by, are afraid that it will.

Lovely Bridge Party Honoring Miss Keeler Given By Misses Holly

The spacious Holly home on Park Avenue was the scene of a beautiful party on Wednesday afternoon, when the Misses Mae and Mildred Holly entertained at a bridge honoring their house guest, Miss Betty Keeler of Stamford, Conn. There were three tables of players.

Pink and lavender was the artistic color motif chosen for this affair and was effectively carried out with quantities of pink radian roses and lavender southern lilacs. Tally cards in keeping with the color scheme were used for keeping score.

After a spirited game of bridge, it was found that Miss Evelyn Anderson of Chester, S. C., held high score and she was awarded a crystal perfume bottle covered with gold lace. In cutting for the consolation, which was a bridge set, Miss Lydia Langley was the fortunate one. A quaint old fashioned quill pen and holder was given Miss Keeler, as memento of the occasion.

Frozen fruit salad, sandwiches, cheese straws and ice tea, were served at the conclusion of the game, by the hostesses, assisted by their mother, Mrs. R. J. Holly.

Invited to meet this attractive visitor were the Misses Sara Evelyn Williams, Lida Langley of Camp Hill, Ala., Georgia Mobley, Emily Griffin, Lona Bell Hagen, Ellison White, Helen Varney, Katherine Pittman of Tampa, Evelyn Anderson of Chester, S. C., Martha Saxon of Camp Hill, Ala., and Mrs. Munroe Hutton.

Spending a week here as the guests of Mrs. R. L. Shinholser.

Mrs. Virginia Piner and little daughter, Guina, have returned home after spending several months in Panama City as the guest of friends and relatives.

Miss Mildred Hand and Miss Elizabeth Shoemaker are expected to arrive home this afternoon after spending the summer most pleasantly at Camp Jacassee, S. C.

Misses Mae and Mildred Holly and their guest, Miss Betty Keeler, of Stamford, Conn., and Mrs. Munroe Hutton motored to Orlando Tuesday where they attended the bridge party given by Miss Ada Louise Simpson.

Mrs. W. T. Langley and her nephews, Calvin and Martin Teague, leave Saturday for Mountville, S. C., where they will attend the marriage of Miss Mildred Simmons and Edwin Chittenden which will be solemnized Sept. 3.

The many friends of Miss Sara Zachary of Raleigh, N. C., will regret to learn of her illness. She made her home here last winter with her aunt, Mrs. A. K. Powers and was graduated from the Sanford High school this spring.

Mrs. James Wells and little daughter, Louise, have returned from Chester, S. C., where they spent the summer with relatives. They were accompanied home by the former's sister, Miss Evelyn Anderson, who will be their guest for some time.

There is no truth in the statement that if it rains on St. Swin's Day, July 15, it will rain on 40 following days.

Oak Hill lots will be increased in price on Sept. 1st to $650.00. N. H. Garner.

John H. Uhl, of Wilkes Barre, chairman of the committee, had asked the operators: "Regardless of any statement heretofore made by either party, may we have your assurance that you will resume negotiations at once with the United Mine Workers of America, on the basis that the points at issue will be reconsidered of their merits."

Mr. Inglis, in his reply said: "Our minds are not closed to meritorious demands, and we are fully prepared to discuss fully such demands, but we are not willing to withdraw opposition to demands which we regard as being without reason or substantial merit."

Mr. Inglis said the operators were one with the citizens committee in the desire to avoid a suspension when the present wage contract expires Monday.

"To that end," he offered, "we renewed our proposal that, pending the results of further effort to draw up a new contract, the operators and cessation of operations."

The spacious front porch of the Mathers home was beautifully decorated, white and green being used as the color scheme. At one end of the porch was arranged a bower of green with an arch of palms, beneath which the guest of honor was seated. Little Katherine Louise Parslen, as gift messenger, delivered the gifts from a beautiful white wagon designated as the "matrimonial express." An informal program of readings and music was a very enjoyable feature of the afternoon, as was the reading of advice to the bride, written by the guests.

In a charming, original manner, Miss Collicutt thanked the friends for the numerous and beautiful gifts and for the many honors shown her. Dainty and delicious were the refreshments served by the hostesses.

Sanford Mound Star Strikes Out Six Men In The First Three Innings and Pitches Air-Tight Ball Throughout
Celery-Feds Make 5 Errors During Game
Decision In Eight When Umpire Called Levi Safe At First Base Alters Contest

LAKELAND, Aug. 27.—(AP)—Kidd held the Highlanders tight Wednesday and blanked them in the last game of the series, 4 to 0. He struck out six men in the first three innings, and pitched a tight game thereafter but without as many strikeouts. A decision in the eighth inning altered the game when Meyers called Levi safe at first with one out and two on.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The Tampa Smokers won from the Saints here Wednesday afternoon, 10 to 2, in their last appearance at Waterfront Park during the season. Brewer was hammered hard while numerous bases on balls and ragged spots in infield play contributed largely to the Smoker's score.

Washington Loses Its Fifth Straight Game But Keeps Lead When Athletics Fall Before Uhl's Fine Hurling

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 27.—(AP)—The St. Louis Browns pounded Washington's star hurlers and won from the Senators Wednesday 11 to 8 in the second game of the series. Washington retained the league leadership, however, as the second place Philadelphia Athletics also won. The visitors used five pitchers and the locals four in what turned out to be a slugfest match. Coveleskie was retired after the first two innings. Then Reuther and Marberry were hit for a total of six runs in the third. The Browns got 13 hits for a total of 25 bases. These included two triples by Sisler and home runs by Lamotte and H. Rice. The Senators hit 14 times for a total of 21 bases. Stanley Harris, Washington manager, was ordered from the field in the fourth inning when he started an argument with Umpire Owens. Nick Altrock, Senator coach, also was waved off the field when he started some of his funny stuff. Score by innings:

Giants Win One and Lose One in Cincinnati While Pirates Shut Out Braves; Phillies Trim The Cubs

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—(AP)—New York split a double-header with Cincinnati Wednesday, winning the first game 6 to 5, and losing the second 2 to 1, in 13 innings. As the Pirates won at Boston, Pittsburgh increased its lead to five and a half games. Irish Meusel's eighteenth home run of the season coming in the eighth inning decided the opener in which Frank Snyder also hit a four-bagger. The second game developed into a pitching duel between Jack Scott and Adolfo Luque. Each team scored a run in the first inning. In the thirteenth, Walker got an infield hit, took second on Holke's sacrifice and scored on Caveney's single. With the bases full in the eleventh and twelfth, the Giants were unable to score. Luque allowed only six hits, and but one of them came between the first and eleventh innings. Score by innings:

Billy Evans Says

PURELY IN JEST
Umpiring isn't all serious, the arbitrators do have their happy moments even if they are greatly in the minority.

"Red" Faber, star pitcher of the Chicago White Sox, was recently the victim of a retort courteously handed him by Umpire George Hilderbrand. Despite the fact that the bases were filled at the time and only one out, Faber enjoyed the wise crack enough to have a good laugh, regardless of the critical situation he was facing.

Now Faber, as a rule, is one of those pitchers who accepts the rulings of the umpires with little or no objection. He lets the umpires umpire while he does his best to pitch. In the inning I have reference to "Brick" Owens, working the plate, had passed two men with the count three balls and two strikes. In each case the final pitch was just a trifle too low. Naturally Faber would have much preferred striking out the two men rather than have them walk. By his actions he made it apparent that he didn't quite agree with "Brick" on the two rulings. "So you have turned umpire at last," remarked Owens, who was rather surprised, also a bit peeved, at Faber's attitude. Hilderbrand was working back of the pitcher at the time, while I was parked at third base. Almost before Faber had had a chance to digest Brick's remarks, Hilderbrand added:

"And he's still a much better pitcher than umpire." A polite way of letting Faber know that Owens was right in his ruling. Faber offered no further protest.

SMART SIDELINE

It is not unusual for the umpires after the game is over to thresh out among themselves some of the happenings of the battle. In these private conferences the umpires often unfold views that would never be expressed in front of the players. Certain umpires might even go so far as to admit they might have missed a certain play, the decision on which caused a long heated argument. Dick Nallin, veteran American League umpire, aside from his duties of calling the plays as she sees them, is the breeder of thoroughbred hunting dogs. That's his sideline.

A number of dogs from the Nallin kennel have sold for as high as $2,500, while $500 is just an average price. These dogs are the last word of their kind, almost human as to intelligence.

In a recent game Nallin had a number of unusual rulings to make and was positive he hadn't slipped up on a single decision. One of the plays was rather debatable but Nallin always had an answer for any peculiar angle that was suggested. He just wasn't going to lose the argument. Half in jest and half in earnest Umpire George Moriarty ended the debate in a happy manner when he remarked:

"No chance to win that one. Nallin has been associating so with those smart dogs of his he is getting that way himself."

Knute Rockne Says His Team Is Due For About Five Defeats This Season

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Knute Rockne, famous coach of Notre Dame University, said last week just before his departure from Austin for his home in Indiana, that only two football players who would be available in the fall for Notre Dame eleven had convinced him they merited places in his 1925 combination. These two men are Hennessey and O'Boyle, both backfield performers. They played last season with the Notre Dames "Micks" being considered the next best back of the line performers after Strudlefer, Crowley, Layden and Miller, the famed "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame. "While I have a number of capable men who will be out for the team, I face the difficult task of replacing the eleven regulars of the championship eleven of last fall as well as eight first class reserve players who also graduated," said Coach Rockne. "My team necessarily will be a green one, and this team doubtless will lose some games. However, even though my eleven loses as many as five contests, if it fights hard in every battle, I shall feel the season has been a success." The nationally famed football mentor let it be known that he fears Baylor University, as a southwest conference from Waco, which will play Notre Dame September 26, at South Bend. "I figure that Coach Frank Bridge's Bears, practically the same eleven that won the 1924 southwestern conference championship, has at least an even chance to beat Notre Dame," Rockne said. "I have talked to gridiron authorities about the makeup of the Baylor team and I know that such men as Coates, Sisco, Walker, Strickland and Jones will be hard to beat. Coach Bridges is a highly capable coach and will get the most out of the very promising material at hand." He predicted the veteran Baylor eleven would win the southwest conference football championship in 1925. "With Texas University having a green team; Rice weakened by the ineligibility of many promising players; Texas A and M with only fair material and Southern Methodist University with a green team, it must be admitted that the veteran Baylor eleven has the best chances to win the title," Rockne said. Last Friday, Rockne and Dr. Walter Measwell, basketball coach at the University of Wisconsin, completed a two-weeks coaching school at St. Edwards University here.
