Man killed in cycle accident

SANFORD — A west Seminole County man was killed Sunday evening when his motorcycle struck one car on west State Road 46, throwing him into the path of another automobile. Richard L. Fletcher, 23, 8131 Via Borita, located off Longwood Markham Road, died at the scene of the three vehicle accident at about 9:15 p.m. at the intersection of Orange Boulevard west of Interstate 4, a Florida Highway Patrol spokesman said this morning. There were no other injuries in the accident.

The spokesman said Fletcher was westbound on SR 46 when a 1982 Oldsmobile, driven by Wendy A. Young, 25, of Lake Monroe, drove into his path from Orange Boulevard, the spokesman said. Fletcher's motorcycle struck Young's car, throwing him from the vehicle. He was then struck by a 1987 Oldsmobile driven by a Mount Dora man.

An investigation is continuing and charges are pending.

End of an era

WASHINGTON — The U.S. Army has quietly begun an exodus from Europe — a shift in recent weeks that's brought home 40,000 soldiers, 48,000 spouses and children, 10,000 pets and 15,000 cars.

The reduction in forces, made possible by the end of the Cold War but put on hold during the Persian Gulf War, is in full swing.

Some days, as many as 500 military men and women leave their posts. No one replaces them.

Gen. Gordon Sullivan, the Army's top general, said the move reflects the reduced Soviet threat and changed U.S. military strategy, which relies more on forces based at home to deal with crises around the globe.

"It is a different world in 1992 than the world of the last 40 years," the four-star general said in an interview. "We would be foolish not to respond."

Plans for the "drawdown" of Army forces in Europe means that by 1995, its four divisions of 213,000 soldiers will be slashed to two divisions made up of 92,000 men and women. Overall some 150,000 U.S. military personnel are to remain in Europe, but budget pressures may force even steeper cuts.

Two tickets split grand prize

FALLAHASSEE — Holders of two tickets for the latest Lotto drawing will share a $30 million grand prize, lottery officials said Sunday.

Computer records showed the winning tickets were purchased in the Okaloosa County town of Mary Esther and Sebastian in Indian River County. Each is worth $15 million.

More than 477,000 other Lotto players can collect after Saturday night's drawing.

Those holding one of 389 tickets with five of the six numbers won $4,522. The 22,811 four-number tickets are worth $112.50, and those bearing three matching numbers will bring their 151,416 holders $5.50 each.

Next week's jackpot is estimated at $7 million. The numbers chosen Saturday were 9, 12, 14, 37, 38 and 45.

Utility purchase challenged

Customers organize to become involved

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD — A group of Sanlando Utility customers organized to challenge the $25 million purchase of the water and sewer company are seeking greater involvement in the public information to be given out about the acquisition and polling of customers over the proposal.

"Our primary objective is to get answers to unanswered questions," said Tricia Madden. "It may turn out to be a real good deal, but I have a real problem with the price."

Madden, an Altamonte Springs lawyer who lives in the Wekiwa area west of Longwood, is co-chairman of S.U.R.E., Sanlando Utility Rate Payers and Inquirers. Madden said about 30 people have attended S.U.R.E. meetings and about 100 people stay abreast of the organization's information gathering.

Madden has written officials of Wekiwa Utilities Inc., a non-profit group of Sanlando customers who have formed to buy the company, asking for involvement in the information dissemination process. Madden said she has not received a response from her Dec. 18 letter to Wekiwa Utility officials.

Madden said the group was formed when questions arose over the proposed ratepayer takeover of Sanlando Utilities, which serves about 10,000 households and businesses in the western areas reached by State Road 434.

A group of residents formed Wekiwa Utilities, headed by former Wekiwa Hunt Club Homeowners Association president Dick Harris, and developed a scheme to purchase the utility company by selling tax-exempt bonds approved by Seminole County. The bonds would be repaid by an increase in rates, which Harris asserts will remain below most other central Florida utility rates.

When the bonds are repaid in 20 to 30 years, ownership of the company will revert to the county without cost. The county had turned down a $21 million offer to buy the company from Lester Mandell and other Sanlando Utility owners, in part, because it was too much. Longwood and Altamonte Springs officials have turned down similar offers.

County commissioners hesitated giving formal approval of the deal in November over resident concerns. They directed Harris and Wekiwa Utilities to give residents more information about the acquisition and to poll residents about it.

Couple in Utopia at Monroe Harbor

Cruiser sails 2,350 miles to Sanford

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Capt. Jim Morris and his wife Bea have been living aboard boats for three and half years. Nowadays, they live on board the 70-foot Utopia in the Monroe Harbor Marina.

"We love it here in Sanford," said Morris who came to Seminole County from St. Louis, Mo. A mechanic with Trans World Airways in Orlando, he is almost ready to retire and the couple will, however, be moving to Key West where they have recently renovated a house.

The 2,350 mile trip from St. Louis to Sanford took 17 days and 2,450 gallons of diesel fuel.

"But it was a wonderful trip," he said.

Choosing to travel along the Mississippi River from St. Louis to the Gulf of Mexico, rather than the shorter Tennessee-Tombigby Waterway, Morris said people on and along the river are friendly.

Most pleasure boats take the Tenn-Tom, but there are two factors in favor of taking the Mississippi," he said. "One, the current on the Mississippi is about four and a half knots on the Tenn-Tom it is about one knot. Second, there are no locks. There are 18 locks between St. Louis and New Orleans on the Tenn-Tom."

Besides, he said, the trip south on the Mississippi is beautiful.

"Most people these days take

SANFORD — It's a spacious three-story home on Lake Monroe.

The Utopia, a 70-foot cruiser, is home to Capt. Jim and Bea Morris. Docked in Monroe Harbour, the vessel is not the largest boat docked off downtown Sanford, but the Morrisses say it's just fine.

According to Denise Darrow of the harbor staff, quite a few other live-aboard boats are larger.

"We have an 85-foot, a 94-foot and a 98-foot boat here year round," she said.

Jim Morris said he and his wife have lived on their boat for three and one-half years. They are in Sanford while he completes his tenure as a mechanic with Trans World Airlines when they will move to a home they have renovated in the Keys.

"It used to be that people lived on their boats because it was more cost effective," he said. "These days with insurance and just operating expenses it's not cheap."

Morris said he does not call the vessel a yacht.

"It's just a live-aboard vessel," he said.

Morris jokes that "the Arabs" paid for the vintage.

AIDS supporters celebrate creation of research chair

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Several months ago, with some assistance from the University of Miami Medical School, the Thomas E. Whigham AIDS Superchallenge reached their goal of a million dollars to finance the creation of a research chair at the university.

On Jan. 25, there will be a celebration aboard the Rivership Grand Romance on Lake Monroe in Sanford. The party will be to cheer those who helped the group reach their goal.

The all-night event on the boat is not a fund-raiser rather a celebration that the goal was met and the money for the chair is in place so that research can begin.

Donations of $50 per person are being solicited to pay for the group's expenses in staging the event.

Sanford first city to win Comprehensive Plan OK

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The City of Sanford's Comprehensive Plan has been totally approved by the State. Sanford is the first city in Seminole County to win full approval.

According to City Planner Jay Marder, "We have received word from the Department of Community Affairs that our plan has been fully accepted and approved." Although no evaluation other than the approval was related, Marder said, "It is my understanding that the specific department reviewer believed it was a very good plan."

The East Central Florida Regional

Planning Council also reviews the plans. "They found Sanford's plan was consistent in support of their Comprehensive Regional Policy Plan," Marder added.

Longwood and Lake Mary are still working on revisions in their Comprehensive Plans. Lake Mary City Planner Matt West said, "The City Commission adopted a plan several months ago, but it was found to still require some changes."

He continued, "We sent a number of recommended changes to the DECA but as of right now we are still awaiting the completion of an appendix to add to what has been forwarded." He explained.

Orlando hosts figure skating finals for Olympics

By IKE FLORES
Associated Press Writer

ORLANDO — Unlike as it may seem, Orlando is host this week for the U.S. Figure Skating Championships, which will help determine this country's 1992 Olympic competitors.

The nation's premiere figure skating event — being held for the first time in Florida — will bring some 250 top skaters to this ice-free tourist city, more commonly known for Mickey Mouse and Under the Sea.

The single days of figure skating beginning Saturday will determine national champions in men's and ladies' singles, pair skating and ice dancing.

Selections for the World Championships and 1992 Winter Olympics in Albertville, France, will be made at the close of the Orlando event.

The major factors in bringing the national championships to Orlando, says chairman Jerry Varney of the local organizing committee, were the city's new 15,000-seat arena and its reputation for wholesome family entertainment.

Florida also is being perceived in skating circles as a new frontier for sponsoring champions. Many of the country's top skaters now train in California.

Orlando had some soft competition when local organizers threw in a bid for the prestigious event in 1988.

We were definitely the superior going into the race to land the championships," said Varney.

"We were up against Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, New Haven, Conn. and Greensboro, N.C. — cities with legions of skating enthusiasts and skating clubs with experience in organizing national competitions."

Orlando had no other legions nor experience.

But strong local support and good preparation won out over the other bidders, Philadelphia.

The host Orlando Figure Skating Club expects the event to draw about 90,000 spectators to the sessions at the plush home of pro basketball's Orlando Magic.

Organizers hope to bring in more than $12

Miami march trendy, wacky

MIAMI — A dozen "Marching Kennedys" who dropped their trousers and chugged champagne on cue stole the show at the King Mango Strut, a wacky, wicked cousin to the Orange Bowl parade.

Police said about 2,500 people watched the 10th annual march through Miami's trendy Coconut Grove neighborhood Sunday, which also included the "Marching Freds," who were all named Fred, and a real, live drill team, who all carried power drills.

Like Tuesday's dazzling, nationally televised King Orange Jamboree in downtown Miami, the strut enlisted a grand marshal named Joe DiMaggio. But the guy leading this parade was a coffee salesman from New York, no relation to the baseball legend.

It's a safe guess that the strut's mainstream alternative would not have invited the "Kennedys," who wore blue blazers and boxer shorts under their khaki pants and followed a woman in a black dress and pearls whose face was covered with a blue blob.

Baseball injuries treated differently

HOLLYWOOD — Baseball injuries were treated differently when Joe DiMaggio played.

"All my life, I played hurt. They had a saying back then, 'Spit a little tobacco juice on the injury and play,'" the former New York Yankees great said Saturday. "Today you get a hangnail, and you're out for three days."

The three-time MVP said job insecurity kept players on the field.

"We were always looking over our shoulder to see who would replace us," said the veteran of 10 World Series.

The publicity-shy DiMaggio remains quiet about his private life, but he has opened up this year in honor of the 50th anniversary of his unbeaten hitting streak — 56 straight games in 1941.

Noriega judge determined to finish trial

MIAMI — U.S. District Judge William Hoeveler expects to be home from the hospital New Year's Day following triple bypass surgery and is unshaken in his plans to complete his duties presiding over the trial of Manuel Noriega.

"I am determined to finish it," the 69-year-old judge said Saturday from his hospital bed.

Hoeveler underwent surgery on Christmas Eve and was taking brisk walks around Mercy Hospital by Friday, the same day his office announced a three-week trial delay because of his condition. Half-day sessions are set to resume Jan. 27.

Hoeveler, on the bench for 14 years, went to his doctors during the trial's Christmas recess to diagnose troublesome chest tightness that had bothered him for about a month, and they found 99 percent blockage in one artery.

Cake flies first class

PALM BEACH — A California baker made a delivery out of the ordinary. He flew a cake first-class across the country to Florida.

Ron Shore, owner of a California coffee shop and bakery, bought a $540 first-class ticket to bring a four-layer cake with him for his parents' golden wedding anniversary Saturday.

The 2½-foot-tall, 20-pound cake undoubtedly was the sweetest occupant ever in seat 3A aboard Delta Air Line's Flight 283 to West Palm Beach on Friday.

"I couldn't have my parents' cake fly coach," quipped the 31-year-old son of Joseph and Beverly Shore.

Shore, the youngest of the couple's six children, baked it Thursday, encased it in a red canvas container and boarded a late night flight from Los Angeles.

Changing planes in Atlanta, Shore borrowed a wheelchair to move the cake.

"That aroused a lot of curiosity," he said. "Some people asked me if I was transporting body parts."

The 160 guests invited to the 50th anniversary party get to enjoy the yellow cake with raspberry-lemon filling and decorated with butter-cream figures sprinkled with gold dust.

Charges against San Pedro dropped

MIAMI — The U.S. attorney's office in Miami milked witness Alberto San Pedro for information, then set him up for a fall, says a federal judge who dropped remaining racketeering charges against the Hialeah businessman.

U.S. District Judge Jose A. Gonzalez said in a strongly worded 39-page order issued Friday that federal prosecutors maneuvered San Pedro into lying before a grand jury so they could tear up their promise not to charge him with past misdeeds.

Prosecutors then indicted San Pedro, dubbed the "Great Corrupter" of Hialeah, on drug smuggling, money laundering and murder conspiracy charges.

"The government's treatment of Alberto San Pedro was wrong," Gonzalez wrote. "For this court to permit this prosecution would be equally wrong."

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Private sector may help state

Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — In line with efficiency in government, Florida Commerce Secretary Greg Farmer has a plan to turn many of the state's business recruitment activities over to the private sector.

Farmer will ask the 1992 Legislature to approve a public-private, non-profit partnership called Enterprise Florida, for which private industry would help foot the bills.

Enterprise Florida stems from studies by the Florida Chamber of Commerce on how to make Florida's economy compete with other states and nations. It also is part of Gov. Lawton Chiles' push for a leaner state government.

The partnership would develop statewide strategy to lure promising, high-paying businesses such as those in the electronic, biomedical, recycling, aerospace and defense fields, Farmer said.

It would pass the strategy on to local development groups that would do the actual recruiting, a move that worries some local officials.

But Farmer said the approach would do away with fragmented state and local development efforts, allowing partnership leaders — decision-makers such as the governor and business executives — to steer the state away from an economy dominated by low-wage service jobs.

"We have strategic planning for everything else except our economy," he said.

Local officials agreed the state needs to change the way it pursues economic development, especially when rising workers' compensation rates, tax reform and tough growth management laws hurt Florida's business image.

Pump gives lease on life before transplant

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — A retired accountant with a 10-year history of heart trouble got a five-day lease on life from a heart pump that kept him alive for transplant surgery.

Lawrence Siegel, 60, of Delray Beach was admitted Dec. 16 to Shands Hospital for bypass surgery, but the organ failed two days later.

Surgeons implanted two Thoratec ventricular assist devices Monday to take over the pumping action of his diseased heart, making him the first heart pump recipient in the state.

About 100 people have been fitted with heart pumps, which became available in Florida this month when the U.S. Food and Drug Administration approved its use at Shands.

Although more than 2,200 people are on a national list of people awaiting a heart transplant, a match came quickly for Siegel, and surgery was performed Saturday morning.

"He's still in critical condition, which is routine after a transplant, of course," said hospital spokesman Ralph Ives. "He'll probably remain in that condition for up to 72 hours."

Siegel suffered a heart attack in 1981 and was diagnosed with 95 percent artery blockage after he complained about chest pains three weeks ago.

"Mr. Siegel would not be alive if it were not for this pump," said Dr. Edward Staples, director of Shands' artificial heart and transplant program.

No information was released on the heart donor.

the shorter way and miss the beauty and the history," he said.

Along the way the Morrisses made stops in Memphis, Tenn., Vicksburg, Miss., Natchez, Miss., and Baton Rouge, La.

The people one meets on boats along the way are interesting, he said. In Memphis, Willie Nelson, Barbara Mandrell and other celebrity boaters came aboard.

In Vicksburg, they camped at historic battlefields and in New Orleans, they ate.

"New Orleans is a real lively town and it's not a good place to be on a diet," he said. "The food there is scrumptious."

Next, they took a day and a half across the Gulf of Mexico where they encountered a bad thunderstorm and 10 to 12 foot waves.

"Boating is supposed to be fun," Morris said, half joking. "People are not supposed to be getting seasick. But we survived just fine."

From the Gulf at Ft. Myers, the Utopia made its way inland via the Intercoastal Waterway to Lake Okeechobee to the Intra-coastal Waterway near Ft. Lauderdale and north toward Jacksonville.

"But coming down the St. Johns was the most beautiful part of the trip," Morris said. "The lush vegetation. The manatees. It is beautiful."

The St. Johns is one of only two rivers in the country that flows northward.

"That was interesting," Morris said.

The couple chose to settle here in Sanford while he works in Orlando because of its proximity to the city and to the natural beauty of the St. Johns. The mobility of their home makes it easy to "pick up and go."

The Morrisses plan to spend most of the month of January traveling.

"We'll be busy," he said.

"It paid very well," he said. Stepping onto the boat, one finds an oriental carpet in the sitting room which is still decorated for Christmas. Almost hidden from view behind a tidy wooden bar is the steering wheel and navigation equipment for the boat.

Lush green plants are everywhere. In the forward part of the vessel a white carpeted living room with powder blue furniture sits above the diesel engines.

To the front, there is a cramped galley with little counter space and even less working space. A tiny eating nook is big enough for four slim, friendly people.

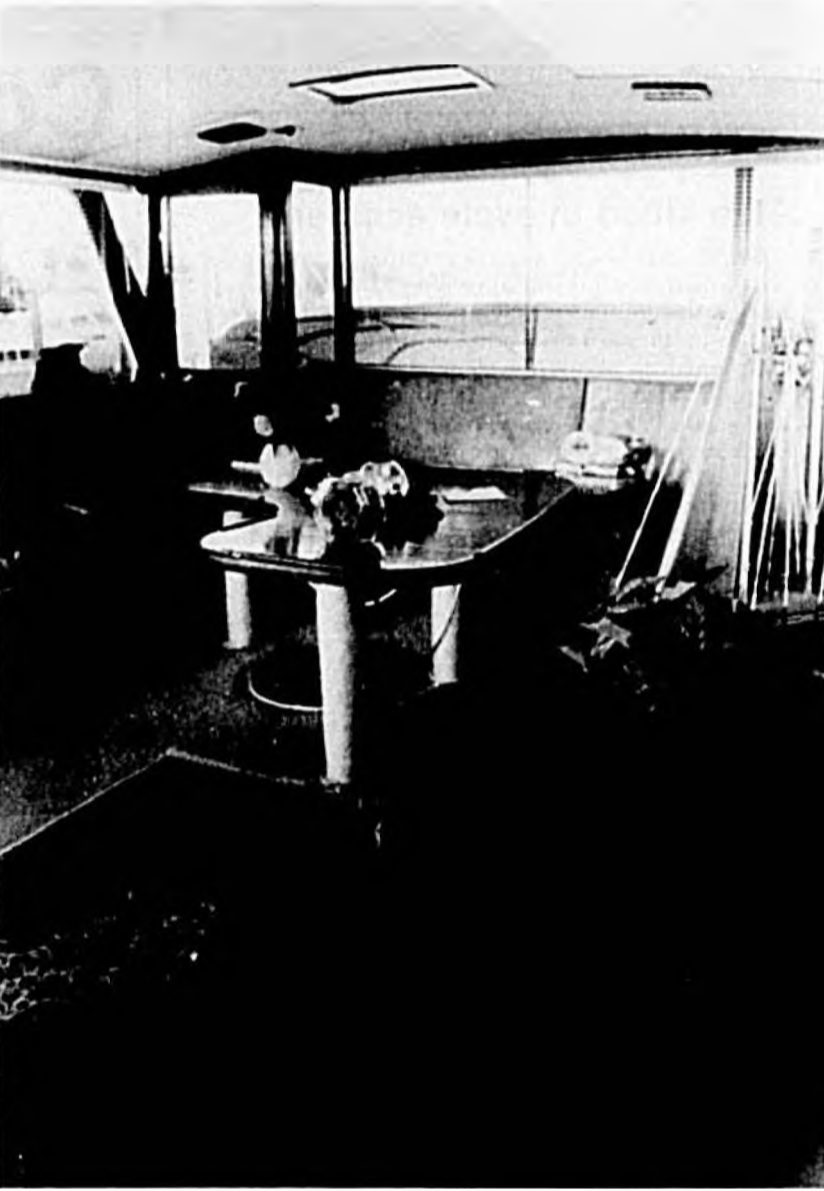

Two staterooms and three heads are toward the aft of the boat.

"The only problem is a lack of closet space," Morris said. A stateroom at the front of the boat, behind the galley has been converted into a large closet.

Outside, a one-eyed, 12-foot-long alligator they've dubbed George swims silently by toward a less populated part of the harbor.

"We don't feed him," Morris said.

"The Sanford city water is good to drink," Morris said. The Morrisses like having a home they can take with them anywhere in the country. Five and one-half months ago they left St. Louis and traveled 17 days to Sanford.

"It was a lot of fun," he said.

Soup kitchen center of controversy

Associated Press

GAINESVILLE — Recession has swelled the number of people seeking out St. Francis House, and the downtown soup kitchen and homeless shelter has tentatively agreed to seek a new home itself.

Business owners involved in a multimillion-dollar redevelopment project complain about garbage in front of their offices, transients in their malls and panhandlers in their outdoor cafes.

St. Francis House executive director Bob Fancig said the 15 bed shelter is turning away growing numbers of homeless and hungry people, when it ought to be providing more food and more beds.

The shelter was seeking a home when downtown redevelopment began eight years ago

HRS has another tumultuous year

Associated Press

TAMPA — The state's social service agency continued to reel under controversy in 1991, as a new agency head took over to face massive budget cuts and new cases of alleged neglect and incompetence.

Gov. Lawton Chiles proposed a radical reorganization of the immense Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, and a new department split off to handle state services to the aging.

At the same time, however, state budget cuts forced by the revenue crisis curtailed the Medicaid program that provides health care for the poor. When the Legislature met in December, lawmakers made $247 million in cuts to the state's $4.3 billion Medicaid program.

The year began with the resignation of scandal-plagued HRS secretary Greg Coler, one day before Chiles' Jan. 8 inauguration.

As Coler's replacement, Chiles picked Bob Williams, an 18-year HRS employee and deputy secretary who formerly supervised the state mental hospital at Chattahoochee.

Documents made public as a result of a lawsuit by The Tampa Tribune revealed numerous cases of incompetence and neglect at the agency.

A 3-month-old Broward County boy died of child abuse despite eight reports to HRS over the preceding four years that his parents were emotionally disturbed, violent and abusive.

Child abuse workers failed to investigate thoroughly as many as half of the cases they labeled unfounded, according to the Tribune.

—Steven Michael Rowland, 21 months old, died three days after Christmas 1989 from bruises to his head and loss of brain function. In part because HRS workers in Orange County didn't inform Escambia County workers the child's family had moved to their county, the newspaper reported.

—A 23-year-old retarded woman who died last year of a Tylenol overdose spent her last night in a Lakeland group home under contract with HRS lying in her own feces, vomit and urine while staff members slept.

—Ricco Longley, 2, of Largo died in October, about a week after HRS returned the child to his mother and stepfather, Sherri and Marlon Eugene Thomas. He was charged with murder, she with felony child abuse.

—Joshua Trudeau, 3, of Port Richey died of abuse Aug. 31, more than two months after his aunt reported suspicions of child abuse to HRS investigators. Walter Schell, a former boyfriend of the child's mother, was indicted on a murder charge.

—In November, state records revealed that a state child welfare supervisor had admitted ordering subordinates not to report a rape by other residents of a 12-year-old retarded girl in a Sarasota home for abused and neglected children. A contractor operated the home for HRS.

When the Department of Elder Affairs opened for business in October, it was the culmination of years of work by elderly activists and the beginning of what may be a major reorganization of HRS.

The Legislature approved the new department in its 1991 session only after intense lobbying by Chiles and elderly interest groups. The governor appointed longtime aide Bentley Lipscomb secretary of the new department.

Chiles has proposed more changes in HRS, including carving out new service districts, creating local governing boards, curbing Tallahassee control and shifting 4,000 jobs to other departments. Lawmakers are expected to take up the proposals in the 1992 session.

Credit due

Prudence A. Jones of 1234 Fifth St. has a spotless credit history — or so she thinks until she applies for a car loan. That's when Jones discovers that a computer mixed her up with that maven of missed payments, Prudence O. Jones of 1234 Fifth Ave.

The recent settlement of lawsuits brought by 19 states and the Federal Trade Commission against the nation's leading credit-reporting agency won't help people pay off the credit card bills, but it should go a long way toward solving Prudence A. Jones' problem.

TRW Inc. agreed to promptly resolve complaints about errors, provide understandable reports to consumers for free, notify consumers when an adverse credit report is issued that could hurt their chances of landing a job, and revamp its computer programs to prevent mixups of people with similar names, addresses or Social Security numbers.

Far too many Americans have applied for car loans, credit cards, insurance and even jobs, only to find their plans blocked by an unfavorable credit report that inexplicably included a family member's late mortgage payment or a complete stranger's bad debts. An exponential rise in requests for credit during the past decade and the sheer volume of information kept on 170 million Americans have swamped the credit agencies.

In one Consumers Union survey, 48 percent of the reports reviewed contained errors, nearly half of them serious.

TRW was already in the midst of a massive effort to improve accuracy and service and was willing to cooperate. The new consent decree means the company now must answer to the government. It also puts the nation's other credit-reporting agencies, including the more resistant Equifax Inc. and Trans Union Corp., on notice that they, too, must be more responsive and accurate.

Though anyone with apprehensions of Big Brother will take a dim view of the government's expanded involvement with keeping information about citizens, the reforms are badly needed. The giant credit-reporting bureaucracies wield far too much power over people not to be made to act responsibly.

Tax revolt - chapter 2

In November, New Jersey voters, angry at the $2.8 billion tax increase approved by the Democratic Legislature and governor, threw the Democrats out of the Legislature — they won't get at the governor until 1993 — and elected a state Senate and a state Assembly dominated by veto-proof majorities of Republicans.

But now that the Republicans are in, the pre-election anti-tax song is beginning to have a sour ring, even to those who sang it most enthusiastically. The other day, when the leaders of the state's biggest business groups, which vehemently opposed the taxes last year, came to testify, they said there would be chaos if the taxes are withdrawn. Such a move they pointed out, will ruin the state's business climate. Nonetheless, the Democrats, who will not leave office until the end of the month, are determined to sunset the tax increases in June, thereby putting the onus on the no-longer-so-triumphant Republicans to solve the state's fiscal problems.

That would leave the GOP two choices: restore most of the taxes next year or cut billions of dollars out of the budget — a move that is widely regarded as impossible. By one estimate, cutting $2.8 billion from the budget would mean eliminating every one of the 65,000 jobs in state government.

The Republicans, not surprisingly, are trying to block the move to sunset the taxes by boycotting hearings and refusing to attend legislative sessions.

All that may suggest that running for office is easier these days than holding office, or that politicians are all the same.

But it also may indicate that at a time like this, the problems for the states, many of which face similarly severe budget problems, may in fact be tougher than most people imagine. That may be inevitable in a recession, particularly when Washington has so eagerly dumped so many burdens on the states.

Did someone do this to us, or did we do it to ourselves? The answer is both.

SARAH OVERSTREET

Seeing it my way for the new era

One of the great ironies of my life is that while I was a cub newspaper reporter, with my heart still wired in the "back to the land" movement and dreaming of a cabin in the woods, the yuppie era dawned and my editor decided I would be the new "trends" columnist. I was plucked from the cab of my small pickup truck and slung head-first into the unfamiliar world of Zinfandels, BMWs and American Express gold cards.

As I trod gingerly through the dog droppings of licentious consumption, my most memorable feeling was, "Where was I when all this was starting?" When did all these people get interested in all these expensive foreign cars and fine wines, and how did the vintners have the foresight to mash enough grapes to satiate a whole generation about to throw their Budweisers into the salvage yards next to their American cars? I know how Rip Van Winkle must have felt when he woke up.

But the dawning of the present decade didn't catch me napping. By the time the soothsayers said the yuppies were dead, I'd already seen the hearse pull by carrying them to the Consumer Credit Counseling Service where a cordial but frank gentleman cut up their credit cards with scissors. While the trends columnists were still talking about wines and what kind of radio to put in your BMW, the Sharper Image was putting in a budget line and the news pages were talking about the 34 percent of U.S. firms that wouldn't even spring for a Christmas party this year.

How wonderful to be on the winning side of the forecast for the next era. The folks at the Socio-Economic Research Institute have just come out with the yearly trends report with which they christen each new year, and this time, by golly, they and I were watching the same movie.

Their first prediction is that because of salary reductions and widespread "downsizing" of companies (for you language purists, that means "firing people"), we'll be choosing quality over effete snobbery when it comes to buying, and that brand loyalty is out. In other words, we'll stop paying more for a bar of soap that was probably manufactured by some old coot's snot-nosed grandson who inherited the outfit and couldn't care less if your kids didn't get to college because all those years you'd wasted 43 cents a bar buying his soap instead of the generic.

Our leisure time will decrease because of this "downsizing," the Institute tells us next, because companies are making fewer of us do the work that more of us used to do. Brilliant observation, guys, but could you clarify the term "leisure time" just a little? Is that the weekends I spend working my second job or the vacation I spend painting the house?

The Institute also opines that after a decade of companies becoming more brazen about abusing labor laws and hiring part-time workers because part-timers don't qualify for benefits, we're starting to think maybe labor unions aren't such a bad idea. That sure bears out what I'm hearing in the ranks.

I know how Rip Van Winkle must have felt.

HODDING CARTER

'Pay the Piper' is '90s slogan

The Federal Reserve's decision to cut the discount rate a full point as a Christmas present to the markets, and the economy, was more than a welcome act. It was solid evidence that the political mainstream is coming to grips with economic reality — belatedly, grudgingly but inexorably.

It has taken everyone in authority an unconscionably long time to admit what the average American knew by painful, firsthand experience. The old recession was deeper than first recorded or acknowledged. The much-heralded recovery was a faint blip on a large screen. And the deeper economic difficulties facing the nation are far more difficult to resolve than virtually anyone wants to say publicly. There will be no magic wand for the troubles that affect us.

The reason is that the nation took leave of its collective senses far over a decade. We bought ideas that would have shamed a patent medicine salesman of old. We acted as though all the laws of economic gravity had been repealed. We lived on the cuff and off of accumulated capital — financial, social and political.

It was a great time for a minority of the American people, and that minority framed the terms of the public debate. Wall Street had a joy ride, assuring us that leveraged buyouts were a great thing, debt was irrelevant and Michael Milken was Moses, Mohammed and Jesus Christ rolled into one. Down was up, up was down and supply-side economics proved that both propositions were true.

And now the buzzards are coming home to roost. Count the ways. The savings and loan debacle, criminal in its stupidity and blatant in its criminality, will cost "only" a half-trillion dollars, or so the optimists say.

America's banks, falling at Depression-era rates for several years, teeter precariously near the edge of an S&L-type precipice. Next year, some $20 billion in real estate loans held by banks come up for renegotiation. Either bank failures of unprecedented scope or another massive federal bailout is guaranteed.

Homes values as well as commercial property and land have fallen into a deflationary black hole. The rolling recessions that touched everyone consecutively in the 1980s has become a simultaneous one from New England to California. Homes bought in the last 10 years are suddenly worth less than their cost. New home construction is at the lowest level of the post-war period.

There are no fiscal levers to push at the federal level because the $3 trillion national debt and the soon-to-be $300 billion annual deficit allow for no new spending. The mindless federal budget agreement of late 1990, whose one goal was to protect incumbents of both parties in the off-year election, prevents creative use of existing revenues by freezing funds in preset domestic and military categories.

Most important of all, jobs are being lost by the hundreds of thousands, not in marginal operations but from the nation's industrial giants. The Wall Street Journal reported recently that corporate layoffs have been announced at the rate of 2,600 a day since October. Almost daily, headlines tell their grim stories. GM announces a "major action" to lose 20,000 workers. IBM will cut 20,000 people next year. TRW to "restructure" its payroll and trim 10,000 people. Xerox will reduce its document processing staff by 2,500. With ample reason, joblessness has become the top economic worry of 48 percent of the people, up from 18 percent a year ago.

For each one of these sobering events, there has been a chorus of Pollyanna providing optimistic counterpoint. The layoffs are just an abrupt form of restructuring to "meaner, leaner" fighting trim for the competitiveness wars. The stock market's 1990 rise proves that smart money has already discounted the bad news and expects good times just around the corner. Anyway, recessions are unpleasant but unavoidable in a capitalist economy, and this one was long overdue.

But let me repeat a word: deflation. It is another way of saying depression. The 1980s boom was built on funny money, just like the 1920s boom. High interest rates and a stable political-economic environment, plus low relative costs, attracted foreign money to finance our debt and acquire real property. Low interest rates and imploding values are driving the same money away, just when it is badly needed.

At home, having spent a decade shuffling money and cutting corners, too many of our financial and industrial leaders are unprepared for hard times. Our political system is even more bankrupt, if that is possible, veering between the rocks of protectionism and the shoals of laissez-faire.

If this all sounds excessively pessimistic and doomsday-driven, it should. The warnings were sounded for years, so announcing the crash is a legitimate response to reality.

It was a great time for a minority of Americans.

Query into Angolan plane crash stymied

WASHINGTON — The crash of a C-130 cargo plane in Angola last summer has launched Charles and Clara Hendricks of Mena, Ark., on a mysterious search for the truth.

The couple's 34-year-old son Chuck, an airplane mechanic, was on the plane when it went down June 10, shortly after takeoff from Luanda International Airport. The crash killed 10 people. Three of them were Americans, including Chuck Hendricks and the nephew of Rep. Curt Weldon, R-Pa.

Hendricks had told his parents he was flying famine relief missions for the Angolan government and the United Nations. But when the Hendrickses got official notification of his death, they were told that the plane was bound for a diamond mine in Angola and that it was loaded with whiskey, cigarettes and other provisions.

That wasn't the only puzzle for the Hendrickses to solve. An eyewitness said the plane's left wing exploded shortly after the takeoff. And when the Hendrickses began asking around, they found that the plane was owned by someone alleged to have ties to the Central Intelligence Agency — a man alleged at one time to have ferried arms to Iran as part of the Iran-contra arms-for-hostages fiasco.

Six months after the crash, there has been no formal accident investigation. Why the plane went down and what was really on board remain a mystery.

The Hendrickses have sent queries to President Bush, Vice President Quayle, the National Transportation Safety Board and three members of Congress. The only response they have received from their government is that the United States cannot investigate a plane crash in a country with which it has no diplomatic relations.

The National Transportation Safety Board told the Hendrickses to contact Lockheed, which manufactured the plane, and encourage the company to do its own investigation of the crash. They did, but a Lockheed crash investigator reported back that he had been told by his superiors that he could not look into the incident.

The Hendrickses and the families of the other American victims, hired attorneys and welcomed the help of a private eye who has tried to trace the plane's roots. It was owned by CZX Productions Inc., a Delaware firm. It was leased to Carib Air Transport Corp. of the West Indies and Europe. Unitrann International of Frankfurt, Germany, hired the crew. Majus Aviation of Colorado was another company that communicated with the families of the victims.

The familiar name that emerges from this list is Dietrich Reinhardt, a partner in CZX and the reputed head of Unitrann. He received notoriety during the Iran-contra hearings when it was alleged that an airline he owned, St. Lucia Airways, carried shipments of HAWK missiles to Iran in 1985. During those hearings, St. Lucia Airways was referred to as a "CIA proprietary" airline. The airline was also alleged to have run arms to Angolan "freedom fighters" on a mission for the CIA.

The C-130 that crashed in Angola had an expired tail number that was once assigned to St. Lucia Airways, according to British press reports.

Reinhardt, who reportedly lives in Florida, has consistently denied any involvement with CIA covert activities, but will not elaborate beyond that, except to say that the purpose of the flights in question in the 1980s was classified. Rep. Weldon told us that the CIA confirmed Reinhardt had done some work for them in the past, but emphatically denied that he was doing any CIA missions when the plane went down in Angola.

An eyewitness said the plane's left wing exploded.

raised close to half a million dollars in the Sanford and Miami communities from businesses and individuals in amounts as small as a dollar and as much as several thousand dollars. The remainder of the money raised for the chair was donated by the school's medical school.
The research chair has been named in honor of Whigham, a prominent Sanford attorney who died of AIDS in 1988, and Dr. Joseph E. Berger, the researcher who will occupy the chair and study the neurological effects of the disease.
Whigham's family and friends, through the Superchallenge, have tried to carry out his wishes of educating the community about AIDS.
Whigham, the father of two, contracted the AIDS virus through a blood transfusion in 1985. When he found he had the disease he organized many educational forums to speak to the public about how AIDS can (and can not) be transmitted and how the community must work together to help fight both AIDS and the ignorance of people about the disease.

His sister Karen Coleman, an assistant principal at Oviedo High School, has continued his work in education. She has made about 200 presentations a year about the disease.
Berger, who will study the ways in which the disease effects the mind, treated Whigham as he succumbed to AIDS. His studies are the only being done on the subject.
The celebration aboard the Grand Romance will begin at 7 p.m. There will be a special program from 7:30 until 9:30 p.m. when the boat will leave for a cruise on the St. John's River. They will return at 11 p.m. and dancing will continue on the docked ship until 1 a.m.
Tickets are available from Marcia Lippincott, president of the Superchallenge, who may be reached at 895-0116 or from Sally Whigham, 322-8640.

female skaters.
Jill Trenary, 1990 National and World champion, announced her retirement earlier this month.
In pairs, Natasha Kuchicki and Todd Sand will defend their title, as will Elizabeth Punsalan and Jerod Swallow in the dance category.
The finals of the U.S. Figure Skating Championships will be televised by ABC-TV on Saturday Jan. 11.

before they met again Feb. 11. Harris said recently information would be distributed through homeowners meetings and other methods by the first or second week in January.
Madden doubts Harris' claim that if the customers don't buy the company, some other entity might raise the rates.
"There's always somebody else out there," Madden said. "No government can pay what we will be paying for it. A private for-profit company will not pay this much. Aren't we being overcharged?"
Harris has said the price is justifiable because rates won't be increased significantly, residents will gain control of the company through their appointed board members and a city or private company that might raise rates dramatically will be blocked from acquiring the company.

Carpet sculptor taught inlay design

LAKE MARY — A Lake Mary resident has completed an intensive seminar at the Carpet Sculpture Gallery in Brea, Calif., in the fine art of carpet sculpting and other Old World European custom inlay design techniques that have been kept secret for hundreds of years.

Lewis Jay Gebhard was among a group of students from throughout the country who attended the seminar conducted at the Gallery by its founder, Volker Bauerle.

"Lewis is now ready to set the home-improvement industry on its heels," said Bauerle, "by having learned to create unique, one-of-a-kind carpets and area rugs — the kind found in the lavish mansions of celebrities, in statehouses and even in the

Lewis Jay Gebhard

White House.

Gebhard said he has learned trade secrets from Bauerle that will enable him to offer custom-sculpted carpets for the same price as regular store-bought carpet.

"With the functional art and marketing techniques I learned from Bauerle, I can now be my own boss and even work out of my own home, if I choose to do so," Gebhard said.

He said Bauerle recently pulled the rug out from under the carpet business when he decided wall-to-wall carpets were just too dull and he began sculpting designs on them.

"People are tired of plain carpets and want something with a personal touch," Gebhard said.

"Bauerle has gone even a step further and has taught us how to create a new art form, which are designs beautiful enough to frame and mount on a wall," he said.

Is it expensive to have your logo carved into your carpet? Gebhard said that for about the same price you'd buy a quality carpet at a department store, he could provide a carpet containing your own personal design or insert it into an existing carpet or rug.

Gebhard said he has learned from Bauerle how to brighten inlays by weaving in fiber optics to give off an iridescent beauty to the design. Bauerle has shared his most guarded secret, which is how he lowers the pile height of a carpet to achieve a 3-D effect. Known as has relief.

Outstanding students

AROUND THE STATE

Bucs don't get their man

TAMPA — Bill Parcells pulled out of an agreement to coach the Tampa Bay Buccaneers on Sunday, ending weeks of speculation that he would return to the NFL after a one-year absence.

Bucs owner Hugh Culverhouse, appearing stunned at a hastily-called news conference, said Parcells had agreed on Dec. 23 to a five-year, $6.5-million contract to run the Tampa Bay franchise, but reneged on the deal at the last minute.

"He had a change of heart and he said he's not coming to Tampa Bay," Culverhouse said. "I feel as though I've been jilted at the altar."

The 50-year-old Parcells, who coached the New York Giants to two Super Bowl victories in the past five years, was not immediately available for comment. Throughout the process, though, Parcells steadfastly denied he had agreed to coach the Bucs.

Magic: 14 and counting

ORLANDO — David Robinson had 23 points and 16 rebounds for the San Antonio Spurs, who outscored Orlando 17-8 in the last 4 1/2 minutes for a 96-87 victory over the Magic Sunday night.

The Magic's Jeff Turner hit two free throws with 4:33 left to tie the game 79-79, but San Antonio, which trailed by nine points opening the period, went on an 8-0 spree. Willie Anderson had a layup and two free throws to spark San Antonio.

Orlando lost its 14th consecutive game, the longest such streak in the NBA this season. The Magic have lost 19 of their last 20 games.

Rod Stricklin added 16 points and 11 assists for San Antonio.

Nick Anderson led Orlando with 31 points, matching a career high, and Jerry Reynolds had 20.

Heat crushed

PORTLAND, Ore. — Clyde Drexler scored 22 points in 28 minutes Sunday night, pacing a balanced attack that carried the Portland Trail Blazers to a 129-96 romp over the Miami Heat.

Reserve Cliff Robinson added 17 points for Portland and starters Buck Williams and Terry Porter had 16 and 15, respectively.

Kevin Edwards led Miami with 20 points and Rony Seikaly had 15.

UCF trips Alcorn

ORLANDO — Forward Darryl Davis led six Knights in double figures with 21 points Sunday as Central Florida beat Alcorn State 96-88.

While Davis scored 15 of his points in the second half, center Ken Leeks led the inside game with eight rebounds and scored 13 points in the victory for Central Florida (5-4).

Ray Carter added 20 points, including four 3-pointers. Albert Legette had 12, Jarrod Demmon had 11 and Sima Phillips made 19.

Left-handed guard Marcus Walton led all scorers with 26 points for the Braves (4-6). He also had six rebounds. Robert Morgan led Alcorn State in rebounds with 10.

Levi Wyatt scored 16 points for the Braves while Derald Spears tallied 10.

Hoyas rout Wildcats

ST. PETERSBURG — Alonzo Mourning scored 20 points and blocked four shots while playing only 16 minutes Sunday night to lead No. 24 Georgetown to a 98-54 victory over winless Bethune-Cookman.

Robert Churchwell and Joey Brown added 12 points each for the Hoyas (7-1), who played mostly underclassmen in the second half of the game, part of a doubleheader in Florida's Suncoast Dome.

Reggie Cunningham led the Wildcats (0-8) with 19 points, while Jeff Robinson added 13.

Greyhounds have sights set on Pizza Hut crown

By ROBBIE STOCK
Herald Correspondent

ORLANDO — After his team's 4-1 first-round victory in the Pizza Hut Invitational last Thursday, Lyman boys soccer coach Pay Sandidge said his team wasn't there just to give its best effort, but to win the state's most prestigious tournament.

And tonight at 7 p.m. at Boone Stadium, Lyman has a chance to exactly that as it challenges defending Class 4A state champion Clearwater Countryside. It is the first time the Greyhounds have advanced to the finals.

In a tournament filled with top teams, including two defending state title-holders, two state runner-ups and three regional champions, Lyman has established itself as a top team in the state.

"Lyman can play with anybody in the state and win," said Lake Mary head coach Larry McCorkle, whose squad lost 2-1 to Countryside in the semifinals Saturday night.

Indeed, Lyman proved it belonged with the state's elite when they downed Class 4A 1990 state champion Miami Killian 3-2 in the semifinals. Killian finished second in the Pizza Hut Invitational last year.

In that contest, the Greyhounds showed a powerful offense, a strong defense and a resilient spirit that allowed them to battle back from a 1-0 deficit and stop a late Cougar rally.

"For the level and competition, it's the best game we've played (this year)," Sandidge said following the win.

Senior forward Brian Fooks has provided four goals in the past two contests, including the game-winner against Killian. Junior Frank Cipolla has been very active, constantly setting up opportunities for himself and his teammates such as Danny McAvoy and Chad Courtney.

The Greyhounds have netted 10 goals in three tournament games and outshot its opponents 68-25.

"As well as they're playing, they'll score some goals," McCorkle said. "Right now, I can't see Lyman not scoring at least two goals."

Countryside, which plays aggressive defense, hammered the Rams at every possible opportunity in its semifinal matchup.

Lyman also needs to play solid defense as Countryside employs a balanced attack with crisp passing that has resulted in seven goals during the tourney. Hugh Richeson and Mike Freno have each knocked in two goals for Countryside.

Sweeper Jeff Onderko has anchored a tough Greyhound defense. Paul Klaus, Joel Dewberry, and Mark Ramogosa have also helped prevent

Lyman takes fifth in Lady Wildcat

From Staff Reports

OCALA — Lyman High School girls basketball head coach Steve Carmichael proved prophetic as his Greyhounds came back to win the consolation championship of the Ocala-Forest Lady Wildcat Tournament.

After suffering a hard-fought 36-34 loss to Keystone Heights Thursday night, Carmichael was hopeful his team could win the loser's bracket. And the girls rewarded their coach's faith by defeating Palatka 36-29 in the consolation final.

The Greyhounds had advanced to the final by knocking off Madison County 38-30 Friday night.

"We're happy to come out of the tournament 2-1," said Carmichael. "Now we have to get back to the business of playing in the Seminole Athletic Conference. We'll take a little rest and then start preparing for the SAC where every night is a tough game."

Lyman used a balanced attack to beat Palatka. None

Shae Curry topped Palatka, now 7-5 on the season, with 11 points.

The next action for Lyman, which upped its record to 8-6, will be Wednesday, Jan. 8, when the Greyhounds host a boys' girls doubleheader against Lake Mary.

Lions in 'Kingdom' semifinals

From Staff Reports

OCALA — Oviedo High School's boys basketball team continues to make believers of the experts as the Lions advanced to the semifinals of the Team Logos/Kingdom USA Tournament with a 79-65 whipping of host Vanguard High School on Saturday night.

The win advances Oviedo into tonight's semifinals opposite pre-tournament favorite Christ the King from Middle Village, N.Y. Game time is 8 p.m. The other semifinal pits Marist of Bayonne, N.J., against Pleasure Ridge Park from Louisville, Ky., at 9:30 p.m.

Christ the King was the No. 11-ranked team in the nation in Street & Smith Magazine's pre-season poll. The Royals, who advanced to the semifinals by knocking off Miami-Carol City and Miami-Northwestern, are led by four of the top prospects in the country in seniors Rich Vetere and Jason Cipolla and juniors Kevin Simmons and Jermaine Smith.

Oviedo's 12th straight victory of the season did not come easy as Vanguard led 16-14 after one period of play and 35-34 at the intermission.

But the Lions, ranked ninth in the last Class 4A state rankings before the holidays, came out of the lockerroom smoking and outscored Vanguard 21-13 in the third quarter and 24-17 in the final stanza to win going away.

With '91 on the wane, what will '92 have in store?

Is it over yet?
As years go, 1991 was a — well, it was a — it really.
To put it politely, it defied description.

On New Year's Day, we'll attempt to encapsulate the last 365 days looking back at some of the more newsworthy events, and people involved in Seminole County athletics during 1991.
But what about next year?
While I personally wouldn't want to know what's going to happen in 1992 — half the fun is the surprise of the unexpected — but there are some things I would like to see happen in 1992.
For example, we'd like to see:
• Former Seminole County resident and reigning French Open champ Jim Courier play in the 1992 Prudential Bache Securities Classic tennis tournament.
• Seminole High School graduate Tim Rames have the kind of year he feels he's capable of having and lead the Chicago White Sox into the World Series.
• Jeff Blake, another graduate of

SPORTS

• On April 26, to have Blake to be the first quarterback selected in the NFL draft.
• Lake Howell High School graduate Ed Lamberson become the starting catcher for the Houston Astros.
• A Seminole County high school continue the three-year streak of a county school winning the Class 4A girls' soccer state championship.
• Lake Brantley High School

come up with some way to win a fifth consecutive Class 4A girls' swimming state championship.
• The Lake Mary Recreation Department make the transition from planning to build fields and scheduling construction to planning to field leagues and scheduling games.
• The Sanford Recreation Department to continue the growth of its current programs and expand its scope to include more programs for girls, older teens and young adults.
• Someone to schedule a mid-night softball league for those of us who work at night (just kidding, maybe).
• Seminole County communities begin to incorporate bicycle paths and other road safety features for two-wheeled travelers into their long-range plans to handle growth and accompanying traffic that will take us into the 21st century.
• State championships in football, basketball, softball and volleyball for Seminole County high schools.
• Seminole County schools make the switch to fastpitch softball.
• Boys' volleyball to become a varsity sport recognized by the Florida High School Activities Association.
• The Florida Citrus Salliest set yet another record for participation and enjoy warm, sunny conditions with winds strong enough for all the classes to get in their full complement of races.
• Several more top-notch teams come participate in the Burger King Classic girls' soccer tournament so that the first round isn't a study in foregone conclusions.
• The development of a high school girls' basketball tournament to complete the local winter tournament schedule that includes the Burger King Classic, Pizza Hut Invitational boys' soccer, Central Florida Classic (base, basketball) and Lyman Christmas Invitational (wrestling).
• Finding any of all of these for all of us to gather again the same time next year and figure out what we're going to do in 1993.

job in the second half," said Lions assistant coach Ken Kroog. "We just came out and played better defense. Even guys you wouldn't expect to do that good on defense, namely Kenny (Ken Kroog Jr.) and Ian (Forrest), who helped take away their three-point threats by knowing who they were and putting a lot of pressure on them.

"Leon (Lowman) scoring 15 points in the second half didn't hurt either."

Lowman continued his offensive resurgence by scoring a game-high 24 points, handing out five assists and grabbing six rebounds.

Also having a good offensive night was Devon Green with 13 points and six assists. His brother, Bernard, and Simon Harper were also in double figures with 12 and 10 points, respectively.

Randy Wright topped Oyiedo with eight rebounds, but he was held to only five points. His troubles gave Donta Jenerette a chance to play and the junior responded with six points. Kroog Jr. and Forrest also helped out by hitting three three-pointers between them.

"That's why this team is 12-0," said Kroog Sr. "This team can win even when one of the starters is having a bad night. Like in the Boone game, if you would have told me Bernard Green would score only two points and play less than a quarter and we would still win. I would have told you you were crazy."

Vanguard, now 6-4 on the season, was led by sophomore Bernard Smith (20), 6-foot, 8-inch Alvin Braddock (13) and Brandon Kicks (12).

opponents from getting good scoring opportunities.

"We are going to have to play a good, solid game defensively," Sandidge said. "Most of our goals have come off good defense."

An example of that came against Killian when Onderko fielded a loose ball at midfield and passed to Klaus, who then fed the ball to McAvoy. Fooks took a centering pass from McAvoy in front of the Cougar net and knocked it past Killian goalie Lee Rubin.

One thing Sandidge is not worried about is his team's confidence.

"We believe we're a good team," Sandidge said. "We have a good opportunity. The Killian game showed that we could win a big game. We're not scared; we're not going to try and take it (the game) straight out."

And many of Lyman's players have participated on national or state club teams, experiencing the pressures of big-game soccer.

Last year, Countryside's club team finished second in the nation.

Sandidge feels the school's first-ever Pizza Hut title could come tonight.

"I think they'll (his players) be pumped up," Sandidge said. "I don't know if we have to play better than we did the other day (against Killian). If we come out with that kind of effort, we have a good chance of winning."

Lake Mary will battle Killian for third place at 4 p.m. while Lake Brantley squares off against Tampa Leto in the consolation finals at 2 p.m.

White summarizes, says goodbye

Water conservation, pesticide safety, energy conservation, recycling, composting and the environment. These are the issues of the decade. For the last four and one-half years, through this gardening article, I have tried to keep you current on these issues and how they relate to you, your garden, home and landscape.
 As many of you have already heard, I have accepted a position in Orange County as a commercial horticulture agent with the Cooperative Extension Service starting in January. I will be working with nurseries, landscapers and golf courses. This position is a career advancement opportunity for me that I could not pass up. Although I am and about leaving Seminole County and urban clientele, I am excited about the future.

 The Urban Horticulturist position should be filled sometime in March, 1992. In the meantime, the volunteer Master Gardeners will be here to help you with your gardening problems. Please call them at 323-2500 Ext. 5550 or visit them at the Agriculture Center on Monday through Friday from 9:00 A.M. to noon or 1:00 P.M. to 4:00 P.M.
 This gardening article will continue as well by Bette Cannavino, Seminole County Master Gardener. Her articles will focus on gardening and landscapes with the environment in mind.

She will continue with the articles until the new Urban Horticulturist comes aboard.
 I want all of you to know how much I have enjoyed working with you in Seminole County. I have learned so much from you, and your thirst for knowledge about the environmental issues that affect our lives daily, has been inspirational and contagious. Thank you for your support of the Cooperative Extension Service, the Urban Horticulture and Master Gardener program. Best of luck in all your gardening endeavors!

DEAR ABBY: Six years ago, my husband and I went to the Netherlands to celebrate our 35th wedding anniversary. We had planned and saved for the trip for many years. Another married couple, our best friends, were going with us. My mother had had several operations for cancer, but her doctor said she could live another six months to a year.

pass it along. A donation was sent in Robert's memory to the Companion Animal Fund of the College of Veterinary Medicine, Iowa State University. The purpose of the fund is to support pet health research, and to purchase critically needed surgical and diagnostic equipment. Other colleges of veterinary medicine must have similar funds.
 I also received memorials to the local human society - a good idea, too.

DEAR ABBY: I read your "chuckle for today" in which you mentioned my late husband, George Jessel. Thank you.

My "chuckle" for a lot of days: I once wrote a short column for a small monthly newsletter in San Jose, Calif. I mentioned to George that maybe one day I might be famous, too. His only comment: "Honey, your only claim to fame is that you are younger than Shirley Temple."

Honest. I did love him.
MRS. GEORGE JESSEL,
PACIFICA, CALIF.

ROSY KESLER,
CEDAR RAPIDS, IOWA
DEAR ROSY KESLER: In a sense, donations of this kind return to pets some of the physical and emotional benefits they so generously bestow upon all of us. How rewarding to know that research in your pet's name will not only help to perpetuate his memory, but possibly lengthen the lives of other pets as well.

The ins and outs of high blood sugar

DEAR DR. GOTT: How does high blood sugar shut down all organs in the human body and ultimately lead to death? What causes high blood sugar if you aren't a diabetic?

DEAR READER: In a normal person, sugar and insulin are in a constant metabolic balance. When sugar enters the bloodstream from the stomach, the pancreas provides the right amount of insulin to allow the sugar to be used by the cells of the body.

Without insulin, the body's cells are prevented from metabolizing the sugar and must turn to other sources of energy, such as fat. This is where diabetics get into trouble. They don't have enough insulin — or what they have is ineffective. As a result, the blood sugar rises; this produces several dangerous consequences.

First, brain cells are deprived of sugar, their main source of energy, because the sugar circulates in the blood and cannot enter tissue without insulin. Thus, diabetics may slip into coma.

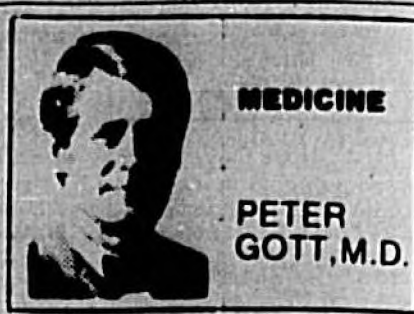

Second, as you probably remember from high school science, fluid with a high sugar content is hypertonic, meaning it attracts water like a sponge. Therefore, in uncontrolled diabetes, large amounts of water pass from the body's cells into the bloodstream and out in the urine. This causes extreme dehydration that can lead to serious tissue damage.

Finally, in the absence of sufficient insulin, the body burns fat for energy. This reaction produces acid, often a great deal of acid, that is toxic to the body's cells.

In summary, it's not the high blood sugar per se that is so dangerous. Rather, the direct consequences of the excess sugar are what lead to coma, dehydration, acidosis and death. The treatment of this medical emergency includes intravenous insulin and fluids.

High blood sugar can temporarily appear in normal people who have eaten high-sugar foods, but the elevated blood sugar doesn't last because natural insulin returns it to normal. Hence, persisting or recurring high blood sugar is the hallmark of diabetes and should be treated.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
Many experts enjoy a sixth sense at the table. Often they will make a play because it "feels" right, not based on cold analysis. That applies to today's deal, which would be solved by most experts, even though, when they made the key defensive play, they wouldn't have seen the exact reason behind it.

To test yourself, cover the West and South cards; you are East. Against six diamonds, your partner leads the club 10. Declarer ducks in the dummy and you win with the king. What do you lead at trick two?

North's two-club opening was strong, artificial and forcing. South's two-diamond response was "waiting": either a bad hand or some values without a good suit to bid. After diamonds were agreed on, North bid what he hoped his partner could make.

WIN AT BRIDGE

The deal is based on one reported by Vlad Racoviceanu of Romania. At the table, East returned his second club. Declarer won in the dummy and ruffed both of dummy's club losers in his hand. It couldn't help East to ruff low or high. Trumps were drawn, dummy's heart loser went on the spade king, and the slam made.

The winning defense is for East to switch to the diamond two at trick two. If South wins in the dummy and ruffs the two club losers with his Q-J of diamonds, East scores a trump trick. If South wins trick two in hand, East can ruff the third club with the diamond nine, forcing South to overruff. Then he can ruff the fourth club with the diamond 10, the setting trick.

It is the old story of leading a trump when declarer wishes to take ruffs in the short-trump hand.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Oso
YOUR BIRTHDAY
Dec. 31, 1991

Partnerships could prove to be very constructive for you in the year ahead, both socially and commercially. It looks like you might get involved in several.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You may be in a more gregarious mood than usual today. Plan something fun that takes you where there is a lot of activity and where you can meet and make new friends. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 plus a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This is an excellent day for you to attempt to breathe new life into something that is in need of revival, especially if it pertains to your vocation or career.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you have to sit in judgment of another today, place yourself in the other guy's shoes. If you do, you could end up making a new friend instead of an adversary.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A joint endeavor, whose worth had you puzzled, could reveal its intrinsic value today. Follow your instincts, pro or con, as to how it should be handled from this point forward.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Adopt a give-and-take attitude today so that you do not disturb the delicate balance in a significant relationship. It can be handled effectively.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Kind words and sensible procedures should come easily for you today. It will enable you and others to do a good job regarding something all of you would rather not do.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Social contacts are of more importance to you at this time than you may realize. In your dealings with others, make it a point to do everything the way Miss Manners would.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The personal identity you may have been searching for can be found today by reviewing your early experiences. The answer lies at the core, where it all began.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You might get involved in a serious discussion today where you will want to offer another what you believe to be constructive suggestions. Be careful that it doesn't become outright criticism.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A chance for personal gain has been available to you on various occasions, yet you've been unable to effectively capitalize on it. Don't let it evade you again today.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You are in a very favorable cycle where you should be able to reap the types of rewards you anticipate from situations you personally create or control.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You have a guardian angel hovering over you today who should provide you with the proper inner resolve to manage anything that comes your way, be it favorable or unfavorable. (C) 1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
