The 1981 Golden Age Games were declared officially opened at the conclusion of ceremonies at the Sanford City Hall patie by Jim Jernigan, chairman, at 9:45 a.m. today. Sunshine filled the sky as 1,200 to 1,500 persons lined the parade routs and attended the opening curemonies for the seventh annual Golden Age Games at

Jernigan said the week's activities are expected to have well over 1,000 senior citizens, 50 years and older, participating in a variety of activities.

Participants who have registered so far, he said, are from 16 states and Puerto Rico, Others from Canada and the Virgin Islands are expected to register today or later during the week.

The oldest person registering so far, Jernigan sald, is James Mason, 93, of Paris, Ill., who is entered in the bowling and billiards competitions. The special guest for the week of "Fun 'n Fitness," sponsored by the Post Cereals division of General Foods and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, is Dorothy Langkop, Gold Medal winner of the World Olympics in speed skating in 1932 and 1936. Mrs. Langkop, of Dallas, is also heading the Governor's Council on Physical Fitness in Texas. Changing Racial Attitudes

By TENI YARBOROUGH Herald Staff Writer

It's been said that you can take the boy out of the country, but you can't take the country out of the boy.

Well, if that's the case, it could also be said that you can take Ella Gilmore out of Sanford, but you can't take Sanford out of Ella Gilmore. Mrs. Gilmore was born and raised in Sanford and for most of her 39 years has lived in the city. However, with marriage and a job in Orange County, she now lives with her husband and daughter in Orlando. She said she is expecting "a little brother according to my daughter" in a few months.

But although Mrs. Gilmore is no longer a resident of Sanford, she stays in contact with family and friends who live here and is very concerned about events going on within the community, including racial problems, black representation in population, and overall community af-

"You're not going to change attitudes overnight," she says. "For years, people thought our department served only the black community but that attitude is like fuel assistance, about half the people requesting assistance are black and half are white. In our Head Start program, the ratio is a higher percentage of black students, mostly because of the lack of facilities in black areas."

Overall, Mrs. Gilmore says she feels the attitudes between blacks and whites in Orange County are changing, "but change comes slowly." She notes that her department has been in operation for many years, and "just now we are beginning to see some of the gap between the races close as people learn we are an agency for all the people, not just one

"You just don't tell a 76-year-old person who has been told all his life that Republicans are against the poor, the black, the working people, to change his opinion overnight," Mrs. Gilmore says. "Change takes time, and attitudes need to be softened before any progress can be made."

Shuttle Readled For Another Launch Try

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) - With last week's launch snag eliminated, space engineers are once again readying the space shuttle Columbia for its delayed second flight. The new blastoff target is Thursday morning.

An abbreviated countdown gets under way at 8 a.m. EST Tuesday and astronauts Joe Engle and Richard Truly will fly to Cape Canaveral from Houston Tuesday afternoon for another try at becoming the first men to fly a used spaceship.

Miami Mayoral Race Tight

MIAMI (UPI) - With pollsters on both sides saying they can't pick a winner in Tuesday's runoff election for mayor, the two Latin candidates are courting the black vote and making race a key campaign laue. Incumbent Mayor Maurice Ferre, born in Puerto Rico, and challenger Manolo Reboso, born in Cuba, attended services Sunday at churches with predominantly black congregations.

3 More Charged in Murders

FORT MYERS (UPI) - The number of prison inmates facing charges of first-degree murder in the Caloosahatchee River slayings of three Fort Lauderdale area men has jumped from two to five. Originally two men were placed in the Lee County jail Friday on three murder charges, but on Saturday three other men were taken to the fall from the Florida State Prison near Starke.

Thief Gonna Be Surprised

MIAMI (UPI) - Three Mexican beaded lizards stolen from a Dade County 200 have been recovered, thanks to a tip from a sharp-tongued informant named "Lenny."

Hlaleah police said a wise-cracking man who identified himself as "Lenny," as in the character on the popular television show "Laverne and Shirley," telephoned Sunday with a tip that the lizards could be found behind a real estate office in Hialcah Gardens.

Sure enough, the highly poisonous lizards were found stuffed in a white pillow case, but there was no sign of five boa constrictors, three of them deadly Cuban boas, that also were stolen from the Crandon Park Zoo over the weekend.

Priests Wanted To Help

MIAMI (UPI) - A New Orleans churchman says two Episcopal priests from his city charged with helping in the Mariel scalift last year did so in enswer to "cries for help."

The Revs. Leo Frade and Joe Doss, both of Grace Eniscopal Church in New Orleans, were scheduled to go on trial in federal court today for illegally transporting 422 Cuban refugees to Key West from Mariel, Cubs, June 12, 1980.

Police Search For Relic In A Sack

VENICE, Italy (UPI) - Police manned roadblocks and searched the lagoon city today for a 1,700-year-old skeleton of one of Italy's most revered saints, stolen by gunmen from a church and carried off in a sack.

Two men broke a glass panel coffin in the church of St. Geremia Saturday night and took all the remains - except the skull - of the 3rd century martyr St. Lucy.

Police set up roadblocks on the causeway leading out of Venice and made spot checks at all travel centers, including the baggage lockers and halls of the railroad station and

Police speculated the men might seek a ransom for the return of the relic.

Another police theory was that the thieves may have been agents for Sicilian religious fanatics who have asked that the saint's remains be returned to the Island where she was born and executed.

Two masked gunmen in their 20s stole the remains after forcing their way into St. Geremia as the Rev. Gluseppe Manzato was locking up for the night, police said.

One of the men forced Mansato and a honeymooning couple from southern Italy onto the floor at gunpoint while the other broke the front panel of the glass and marble coffin at an altar dedicated to the saint and stuffed the remains into a sack.

The saint's skull was left behind when it became unattached as the man pulled on the skeleton, Manzato told police. The thieves did not take a silver death mask occasionally used to cover the face of the fragile skull.

Another Convenience Store Robbed

until it was all over, but they say they can identify the two males who held-up the Handy Way store, 5700 Red Bug Road, Casselberry, at about 11:30 p.m. Saturday.

Store clerk Christine Sappenfield, 19, of Sanford, said one of the bandits entered the store, walked directly to the counter, pulled a handgun and said:

"This isn't a loke. Give me all the money." Ms. Sappenfield reported she got a brown paper bag and filled it with an unspecified amount of currency and six rolls of assorted coins. She observed another male standing outside the store's front door at that time, according to a Seminole County sheriff's report.

While the holdup was in progress, two witnesses drove up to the store. The man standing outside entered the store and told the clerk to act like nothing was wrong.

After the witnesses entered, the two robbers fied. Ms. Sappenfield reported. The customers were then told that a robbery had just occurred.

In describing the thleves, the witnesses said they were both black males about 30 years old.

The armed robber was described as between 5-feet, 10inches and 6-feet tall, about 175 pounds, wearing a brown jacket, blue jeans and a baseball cap. He had "an overall dirty appearance" they said.

LONDON (UPI) - The charred remains found beside Adolf Hitler were not those of his mistress Eva Braun, raising the possibility she may have escaped the Berlin bunker where she was thought to have died 36 years ago, a British medical journal says.

The British Medical Association News Review, citing evidence gathered by University of California actentists, reported that Miss Braun's dental records did not match the woman whose body was found with Hitler's as the Russians advanced across Germany in 1945.

Who's Governor Of New Jersey?

TRENTON (UPI) — Polls closed more than five days ago but it remains uncertain whether Republican Thomas Kean or Democrat James Florio will be New Jersey's next governor.

Clerks in the state's 21 counties were to certify their respective votes today, but it may be several more days before a winner is determined. Latest figures showed Kean with a 1,947 vote lead - less than 1 percent of the total vote. Secretary of State Donald Lan was expected to make the figures official today after the certification. But he predicted a demand for a recount would follow and could hold up the final tally until later this week.

The election was held last Tuesday.

A request for a recount must be made before Saturday and filed with Superior Court judges in disputed counties.

The losing candidate requesting the recount would have to pay between $2 and $25 for each election district contested: New Jersey has 5,647 districts.

The state Supreme Court ruled Monday to allow the counting of emergency ballots in Essex County, which could be important in determining New Jersey's gubernatorial race. Although the court's order was effective immediately, officials did not know when the vote count would begin. The court voted 6-0 at 12:30 a.m. to uphold a lower court decision to count the ballots, which were sealed after voting machines in the county broke down in Tuesday's election. Lawyers for Florio Saturday presented a legal brief requesting that the ballots be opened and counted, but Kean's counsel

The officers, dressed in T-shirts and jeans, reportedly split a man's head with a flashlight, knocked out one's teeth, threw another down the stairs and held a pistol to a woman's head on their trip to the Delta Apertment Hotel early last Wednesday. Police said none of the victims was hospitalised.

Police Chief B.K. Johnson relieved all 10 officers of duty Friday, but police have been reluctant to discuss the incident. Department spokesman Larry Troutt said the internal affairs division is investigating. "There have been no formal complaints received by internal affairs about any specific officer in connection with this incident," Troutt said. "Internal affairs division is investigating reports of misconduct by off-duty officers."

A detective, who declined to be identified, said the officers allegedly began drinking about 1 a.m. Wednesday behind the northeast patrol substation. He said they later went to the hotel in Houston's predominately black Fifth Ward section to "beat up some dope flends."

Adell Criswell, 49, a painter, said the men beat eight people "I thought they were the Ku Klux Klan," said another tenant. "It took me back to the slave days."

Lake Wayman Cleanup On Tap Tonight

Herald Staff Writer

Removing duck feces and debris from the shores of Lake Wayman to prevent the body of water from "dying" has caused a considerable furor, said City Administrator David

City residents living near the lake, however, said they are angry because workers removed the debris only from the shoreline of one homeowner's property. Ben Beckner, the lakefront resident who first benefited from city clean-up efforts, said about three-quarters of the lakefront is now debris-

Despite Beckner's assertions, however, another Lake Wayman area resident is scheduled to address the Longwood City Commission about the condition of the lake's shoreline

"Every year we're told the city would come out and clean it (the lake shoreline) out," said Diane Ryan, who lives on Georgia Avenue bordering the lake. "They've used various excuses.'

Chacey said that even though Lake Wayman was considered private property, he still needed a permit from the state. Department of Environmental Regulation to clean up the shoreline. A copy of the permit is on file at City Hall, he said.

"The DER said the lake would die if we didn't get the (duck) excrement out," Chacey said. "We cleaned out around there and then started on the outlet."

Beckner estimated that more than 40 Muscovy ducks were living on the lake when he moved in last year. Despite protests from some neighbors who did not live directly on the lake, Beckner trapped the ducks alive and removed them.

"Muscovy ducks multiply like rabbits," Beckner said. "We. got approval from lakefront property owners, trapped the ducks alive and took them to Animal Control in Sanford." Beckner said he plans to bring two mallard ducks down from Atlanta around Thanksgiving and introduce them to Lake Wayman. He said the high levels of duck excrement had been keeping the lake's bass population from breeding. Another complaint Lake Wayman area residents said they filed with the city many times over the years involves the poor condition of Georgia Avenue. Mrs. Ryan said the road's deteriorating shoulders caused drivers to become stranded from time to time.

"Georgia Avenue is in as good a shape as any unpaved city street," Chacey said. "We try to keep the street hard without making it dusty."

Chacey said that although he needed DER approval to clean the lake's shoreline this time, it is actually the property owners' responsibility to maintain it. "We maintain the shoreline along city streets and they maintain (shoreline) on their own property," he said.

"The whole Issue has been blown out of proportion," Chacey said. "Never have I been so maligned for trying to improve. The lake looks better than it has in 10 years."

Economic Recovery Seen By Mid-1982

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The Reagan administration, which admits the nation has slipped into a recession, insists it has "laid the foundation" for an economic recovery by middle of

Citing record tax and spending cuts as well as reduced federal regulations and a sinking inflation rate, White House chief of staff James Baker was confident Sunday there will be better fiscal times in 1982.

"Admittedly we see a recession today, but the foundation has been laid to recover from that and to see an economy that is productive and that is vibrant and that is healthy by the end of next spring or the start of next summer," he said.

Baker, appearing on NBC's "Meet the Press," said Reagan's "supply-side" economic plan has been in effect for only about 40 days and said "most people are willing to give the president time" to see if his approach will work.

He said further cost-cutting measures - beyond the additional $13 billion in cuts Reagan asked for in September - will be proposed in the next few weeks in the so-called entitlement

Better Economic Era Beckoning

It is hard to fix your gaze on the economic horizon when there are so many cries of distress in the foreground. Yet, America must consider the long term as well as the short if it is to make wise policy. Furthermore, a look beyond today's problems may lift droopy spirits.

Completely aside from the impact President Reagan's economic program may or may not have, some favorable economic forces are at work.

One of the most important elements, as the Wall Street Journal noted in a recent news article, is the population distribution. Fewer young persons will be entering the labor market in the 1980s. That could translate into less tax money spent on unemployment compensation, welfare and economic stimulus programs; more reason to install labor-saving machinery, boosting the level of productivity; fewer problems with product quality-control as the present work force becomes more experienced. It might also mean less public expenditure on crime suppression, since violent crime correlates closely with youth.

There also will be fewer housewives to enter the work force, since so many of them already have done so. That trend, too, may help the productivity rate, as labor-saving devices take over jobs that people would have filled in other times.

Another favorable element is the prospect of relatively stable energy costs. Prices may continue to rise, especially during the period of gas deregulation, but it seems unlikely that the country will experience price jolts of the magnitude that rocked the economy of the 1970s. And thanks to the conservation lessons learned in the '70s, industry is bound to be more energy-efficient.

But what about the regulatory cost burden that receives attention nowadays? Again, much of the expense has already been absorbed. Most industries have adapted to occupational health, consumer safety and pollution abatement rules. In fact, recent reports have indicated that many industrialists are not particularly keen on Reagan's regulatory relief campaign. Could it be that they have already spent the necessary money on compliance and don't want new competitors to escape similar expenditures? We'd prefer to think the industrialists have become convinced that the protection of health, safety and the natural environment is good for the whole society, the business sector included.

An optimistic long view of the economy doesn't mean that acute troubles can be neglected today. The government still needs to manage its affairs in a way that will help break the psychology of inflation and to target its tax incentives in adroit ways that will reward productive enterprise. tMindless military spending and excessive tax slashing, 1981 style, aren't likely to do the job.) Industry and labor need to find better techniques of price and wage restraint, with more White House prodding than they have had recently.

Meanwhile, the president and Congress in devising short-term remedies, should move prudently so as not to destroy governmental programs of proven value. Careless action could damage even the economy itself, just when its own recuperative powers were almost ready to help put it back on its feet.

Eleven Lake Mary Elementary School students played the roles of city officials this past week in Lake Mary. For the first hour of the regular city council meeting, they discussed whether outdoor drinking fountains at their school should be repaired; whether a muck bed should be cleaned out and be replaced by parking facilities and a garden and whether the city hall should be preserved as a historic monument in the future or used for community activities.

Once the youngsters got started a lively debate ensued in the program sponsored by the Lake Mary Rotary Club and with assistance from the

Their performances were video-taped for later ahowing by Sanlando-Storer Cablevision.

Susan Neiswender, an 11th grader at Seminole High School, was appointed by Gov. Bob Graham as a delegate to this past week's Florida Conference on Children and Youth held in Orlando.

Miss Neiswender is the daughter of County Administrator Roger Neiswender and Ann Neiswender, assistant personnel director for the Seminole County school administration.

State Rep. Bobby Brantley, R-Longwood, attended the first annual Florida Informed Parents Convention at the Hyatt House in Sarasota this past week. He was invited by Attorney General Jim Smith to participate in the conference.

Brantley was joined by Susan Dawson representing United Parents of West Seminole Inc.; Ruth Dumond, representing United Parents of East Seminole and Carolyn Streby and Pattl Brantley, representing the Seminole County Drug Awareness Task Force.

The three day conference was aimed at bringing together lawmakers from the state and federal level and parents groups from throughout the state for discussion of Florida's drug problems, and possible solutions.

Feds Not Always At Fault

WASHINGTON (NEA) — After months of negotiations, the proponents of commercial nuclear power have convinced the White House to endorse their technology as "one of the best potential sources of new electrical energy supplies."

But President Reagan's rodomontade on behalf of the industry is not matched by recent developments — including cancellations, postponements and embarrassing mixups involving nuclear power facilities throughout the country.

An extraordinary statement issued last month in Reagan's name claimed that "revitalization of the United States industry's efforts to develop nuclear power" was being thwarted principally by unwarranted government meddling:

"Unfortunately, the federal government has created a regulatory environment that is forcing many utilities to rule out nuclear power as a source of new generating capacity...

"Nuclear power has become entungled in a morass of regulations that do not enhance safety but that do cause extensive licensing delays and economic uncertainty."

Events in the weeks preceding and following distribution of that statement suggest, however, that the troubled industry suffers from serious problems that extend far beyond the "arbitrary federal policy" blamed by the president.

The Boston Edison Co., New England's largest utility, has announced that it is abandoning plans to build a second nuclear facility at its Pilgrim generating station near Plymouth, Mass.

The projected construction costs of the new plant have increased tenfold during the past decade, from approximately $400 million to $4 billion, the company explained.

The Northern Indiana Public Service Co. has cited almost identical construction cost increases in announcing its decision to scrap plans for its Bailly nuclear power plant near Dune Acres, Ind., on the shore of Lake Michigan.

The Washington Public Power Supply System has suspended construction of two nuclear facilities, located near Richland and Satsop, Wash., after the projected construction costs more than tripled to $12 billion.

In each of those instances, industry defenders have sought to ascribe a substantial portion of their difficulties to the evils of excessive federal regulation — but that excuse cannot explain the problems faced by the country's currently most controversial nuclear power plant.

That facility is the Diablo Canyon generating station, owned by the Pacific Gas & Electric Co. and located near Avila Beach, Calif., midway between San Francisco and Los Angeles.

After spending $2.3 billion and almost 15 years to construct a pair of nuclear power units, PG&E still cannot operate the plant — because of a series of errors committed by its own scientists and engineers.

Among the recent mistakes to be publicly indentified is what PG&E euphemistically calls "a design discrepancy" — a company mixup of the blueprints used in designing earthquake supports for piping in the reactors.

'Abolish My Department'

(NOTE: This employee of the Department of Education necessarily writes under a pseudonym. Even in Reagan's Washington, he requires that protection.)

ABOLISH MY DEPARTMENT —
By DEEP THROAT

I work for the federal government. My department is wasteful, it lacks purpose, it interferes with state and local governments, it costs $16 billion per year, and it has produced few results.

My department, the Department of Education, ought to be abolished.

This synopsis could be applied to many other departments in Washington. Indeed it has: Ronald Reagan has meant an expansion of the politically possible. Such matters as the elimination of departments now fall within the range of the thinkable.

From 1958 to 1978, federal spending on education increased by a factor of more than

To understand the magnitude of such increases, assume the defense budget had kept pace with the education budget since 1958 as a percentage of federal expenditures.

If it had, we would be spending enough money in the next five years to place a MX missile silo in every other home in America. No wonder the Department of Education, with its more than 100 separate spending programs, had a hard time even pretending efforts.

A Rand Corporation study conducted in 1978 found that the Education establishment was sponsoring so many different programs that some students were pulled from their regular classes five times a day to participate in that there was any central strategy behind its various target programs.

In one school, 90 percent of the students were in regular classes for only 90 minutes each day: the rest of their time was spent in cultural adaptation sessions, counseling, psychological testing, and other programs.

Some black students who had been bused more than an hour each day in racial integration programs spent less than two hours per day with white pupils, because they spent whose funds could not be mixed with general funding under federal law.

My point is that federal education

all their time in special instruction programs programs grew especially quickly and with precious little strategic thinking. They were scattered under more than 50 various departments and agencies and grew through a process of ad hoc accretion.

Carter's solution — grouping those programs together and tacking a Cabinetlevel secretary on top — was in some way the ultimate extension of the logic that led to their creation in the first place.

The real aim was to strengthen education's lobbying position with the Congress. In two years, education spending soared 66 percent, prompting Carter to jubilantly compare his spending increases with the "halcyon days of Lyndon Johnson."

Meanwhile, during 18 years of increasing federal spending, scholastic achievement, as measured by the Scholastic Aptitude Test and standardized reading examinations, declined every single year.

Removing the department's status as a department will take away an important psychological club as its programs come up for reconsideration and its regulations are published for imposition on local schools.

But there is one caveat for Reagnites: keep your eye on the ball. Elimination of the department is a means, not a goal.

One bill which is likely to come before the Congress would preserve about two-thirds of the department's current programs and employees, and "eliminate" the department by simply turning it into a foundation.

These and other legislative curve balls are likely to appear just as the screams about the new budget cuts get loudest.

If the elimination of the department is to have real meaning, the president will have to use his considerable rhetorical skill to keep the debate focused on the real conservative objective: a reduction in federal spending, and federal interference, in the nation's schools.

Some Losers, Winners

If nothing else, the Senate AWACS vote answers a question that has kept some of us in moderate suspense for months:

What could President Reagan possibly do as an encore after his spectacular budget and tax-cut performances on Capitol Hill of the summer past?

Now we certainly know. The president's victory was if anything even more impressive this time out, considering that he came from so far behind and at such a late hour to achieve it.

But in the process, the contest became considerably more than a question of whether it is advisable for strategic reasons to sell the super-sophisticated spy planes to the super-rich Saudis.

It became a question — one of potentially lingering divisiveness — of foreign influence upon American foreign policy, also of primacy in the shaping of that policy, of American credibility abroad and of congressional ability to use effectively powers acquired as a consequence of Vietnam and intended in large part as a check against a recurrence of a trauma of similar nature.

And ultimately and decisively, it became a question of presidential leadership.

On that point, the president emerged the clear winner. In his moment of victory, he was magnanimous enough to seek to share it, observing that in the close but decisive vote "I think we've seen the upper chamber at its best."

Not really. What we saw was that chamber's susceptibility to presidential pressure expertly if tardily applied, and at the price of its own credibility. It was a confrontation of the Senate's own making, with the intention of taking a stand on an issue of both practical policy and principle declared well in advance. But the stand became a retreat when the White House began to use the considerable means of persuasion at its disposal.

In that respect, Congress, at least its public image, is a loser.

But it is not alone. The Saudis — who themselves have subordinated the original strategic issue, publicizing the vote as a "great political victory for Arabs everywhere" — may have lost more psychologically than they stand to gain in hardware. Never overly popular, they are less so now — which could tell in future votes in a Congress not happy with the way this one turned out.

They may, in fact, have lost more than the Israelis, whose hard image has been softened somewhat by a presidential reprimand and the failure for once of their legendary lobby on Capitol Hill.

And then there is the president — again. True, he is the winner in the leadership test and his credibility as architect of foreign policy has been upheld. But it required the expenditure of a great deal of political capital and left wounds that may have negative legislative effects in the long run.

As a matter of fact, the long run is what is important here.

The Senate vote is actually only the end of the beginning of the AWACS deal. The planes are not to be turned over to the Saudis for several years, and then only if the administration — assuming all last-minute promises are kept — has involved them constructively in Mideast peace efforts.

How U.S. Mercenaries Helped Qaddafi

WASHINGTON — American mercenaries reportedly participated in the takeover of Chad by Libya's radical ruler Muammar Qaddafi. In one operation, they helped to ransack the hastily abandoned U.S. Embassy in Chad, intelligence sources believe.

Highly classified documents and coding equipment apparently were delivered into Libyan hands. This was the conclusion of a team of U.S. agents who slipped into Chad last December and checked out the embassy.

"The safe and vault areas had been penetrated," reported Donald Norland, the last American ambassador to Chad. "Papers were strewn around."

He assured my associate Dale Van Atta that no important secrets had been stolen. But intelligence sources said the embassy had been picked over by professional experts "with internal, in-depth knowledge of U.S. Embassy workings and classified intelligence

One source compared the looting to the work of a professional jewel thief who knows the most valuable jewels to steal from a safe.

The takeover of the U.S. Embassy occurred in March 1980. It attracted little attention at a time when the world was absorbed with the Iranian hostage crisis. But the American personnel vacated the embassy abruptly to escape hostile invaders.

"Our people got out by the skin of their teeth," recalled a State Department official. Declared another: "They left the embassy as if it were a house on fire."

In a telephone interview, Ambassador Norland said the embassy "was not defensible." He got his people out with French help, he said, to safety in Cameroon.

There wasn't even time to carry out a 30minute emergency drill they had practiced to dispose of secret files. Everything was left behind, including the most sensitive documents and equipment.

Intelligence authorities in Washington are convinced that American mercenaries, some of them with backgrounds in the CIA and special forces, assisted in the expert looting of the embassy safes and files.

Witnesses have identified fugitive ex-CIA agent Edwin Wilson as the man who recruited the mercenaries. He now operates a world-wide export-import business from a seaside villa in Libys. His lawyers say he recruited some mercenaries for Qaddafi but had no control over how they were employed.

The witnesses claim that Wilson's mercenaries conducted more than one operation for Qaddafi inside Chad. At least one commando raid was attempted against the main airbase at the capital city of Ndjamena. The mercenaries reportedly swept into the base aboard an American-made DC3 but were driven off.

One of the mercenaries is quoted as saying he flew into Chad several times aboard a DC3, ferrying cargo and troops to the hattlefront. He described the missions as "black" — an intelligence term meaning they were highly secret and strictly unofficial.

He told of being captured once by Chadian troops, along with four crew members. They were expected to be executed. But, unaccountably, they were released after three days to fly back to Libys.

In exchange for Libyan petrodollars, these American soldiers of fortune have served not only Qaddeff but other anti-American dictators, including the Ugandan depost and mass murderer, Idi Amin.

WHAT NEXT? — The Chad civil war began as a dispute between the president and the defense minister. Qaddafi sent his troops to support Pres. Goukouni Oueddei, who ultimately triumphed. Now 6,000 Libyan troops "oversee" Chad in what officials describe as a "shotgun wedding." Using similar tactics, Qaddafi is preparing to send his troops next to back up a dissident faction that seeks to take over Sudan.

Vikings Put Freeze On Bumbling Bucs

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) -Minnesota may rank 13th in the NFC in rushing offense but Vikings coach Bud Grant says that doesn't mean they can't run well.

Led by workhorse Ted Brown, the and 228 yards passing to defeat Tampa Bay 25-10 Sunday and regain sole possession of first place in the NFC Central Division.

Brown, who leads the NFL in receiving, rushed for a career-high 129 yards on 31 carries and one touchdown and caught eight passes for 48 yards.

"We felt going into the game that we could run on them," Grant said. "But I'm not sure that we don't feel that way every week. We were able to run well and that encouraged us to run more."

While Tampa Bay's defense kept a close eye on quarterback Tommy Kramer, who ranks second in the NFC in passing, Brown and his cohorts galloped for their first 200-plus game since a 39-14 victory over Washington a year ago.

Both Brown and backup running back Tony Galbreath individually outgained Tampa Bay. Galbreath, who replaced Brown in the third period when Brown on 11 carries.

Buccaneers

"The coaches have great confidence in Ted and Rickey (Young) and I realize that," said Galbreath, who was acquired from New Orleans at the start of the Vikings rambled for 205 yards rushing season. "It means I have to try to play hard whenever I get the chance. That's what I'm here for."

The Buccaneers had 193 yards total offense and were held to four first downs after three quarters. Quarterback Doug Williams completed 13-of-28 for 154 yards and a 1-yard touchdown throw to Jimmie Giles, but also was sacked in the end zone for a safety by linemen James White and Mark Mullaney.

"It was just one of those days when nothing went right for us and everthing went right for them," Williams said. "Kramer didn't beat us, Minnesota beat us. Minnesota threw, ran, did everything."

Tampa Bay coach John McKay also was disappointed.

"Offensively, we had no offense," he said. "Defensively, we absolutely refused to play. We have no excuses, we don't deserve any. I would say it might be the worst game we've ever played."

The Vikings attacked early, opening a bruised his hand, finished with 64 yards yard field goals in the first half. Brown string, Tampa Bay dropped to second in the second quarter with a 2-yard TD run which both coaches agreed was the difference in the game.

Kramer was 8-for-8 in the drive, including an 18-yard pass to Sanuny White en 3rd-and-16 from the Minnesota 15.

Danmeier added a 41-yard field goal with four seconds left in the half and Young caught a 1-yard TD throw from Kramer on the Vikings' first series in the third quarter to open a 23-0 lead.

Tampa Bay linebacker David Lewis intercepted Kramer on the Bucs' 4 but on Tampa Bay's first play, White and Mullaney tackled Williams in the end zone for the safety with 13:08 left in the fourth quarter.

The Bucs scored on a 27-yard field goal by Bill Capece after a fumble recovery by linebacker Andy Hawkins, and the touchdown pass to Giles.

The loss overshadowed a record-setting performance by Tampa Bay wide receiver Kevin House, who caught four passes for 73 yards. House now has 733 receiving yards this season to erase the old team record of 692 set by Isaac Hagins in 1979.

The victory upped Minnesota's record 6-0 lead on Rick Danmeier's 33 and 38- to 6-4 and snapped a two-game losing capped a $5-yard, nine-minute drive in the NFC Central Division at 5-5.

The University of Central Florida. behind the leg of sophomore kicker Scott Ryerson and the running of speedy Vincent Lewis crushed visiting Hampden-Sidney College in the Tangerine Bowl Saturday night 17-0 to put a smile on the faces of the Knight's Homecoming crowd. Ryerson booted field goals of 25, 52 and 48 yards while Lewis broke a single game rushing record with a 136 yard effort to spark the victory. Lewis' output broke the previous record of 127 yards held by John Muldoon while Ryerson also smashed a Knight single season mark of most field goals attempted with eight.

The victory boosted UCF's 1981 record to 4-4 while Hampden fell to 2-

The Knight defense again provided the impetus for the win, smothering Hampden's offensive effort throughout the night.

UCF got on the scoreboard in the after a Knight drive stalled at the Hampden 11 yard line. Quarterback Mike Wood, making his first start since being sidelined with a broken jaw in UCF's season opener, again drove the Knights downfield, but UCF's offense typically sputtered, forcing Ryerson to attempt another field goal. The strong legged sophomore made it from 47 yards out, but an illegal procedure call against UCF moved the Knight's back another five yards. It made no difference to Ryerson who followed up with a 52 varder with 3:30 left in the opening stanza.

UCF again went on the march in the second period and moved from its own 38 to Hampden's 16 yard line, mostly on a 38 yard pass play from wood to Jim Taylor. Back-to-back holding and delay of game penalties killed that drive.

The Knights moved again on their next possession on a pair of Wood passes combined with a face mask infraction against Hampden. UCF finally found the endzone for its only touchdown of the game when Lewis took a pitchout and swept around left end for a five-yard score, then followed up by tacking on a two-point

After all, how many times can you have the same team trailing in the closing minutes and backed up in the shadow of its own goalposts stage a miracle finish on national television? Even the movies can stretch credulity only so far.

But check this Ripley. A year ago, Georgia scored on a 93-yard pass with barely a minute to play to beat Florida, 26-21. Saturday, Georgia drove 95 yards to score with a little more than two minutes remaining and win by that same 25-21 margin. "It just seems we can't pull it out against those guys," said defensive tackle David Galloway after Herschel Walker leaped over the Florida goal line for his fourth touchdown of the game. "When it gets close, they have a knack for winning."

Saturday was the eighth time in the past 10 meetings that the Georgia-Florida game was decided by five or less points. "One thing about the Georgia-Florida series," said Florida middle guard Robin Fisher, "it's never over 'til the fat lady

Saturday's victory gave Georgia a 5-0 SEC record and a tie for the league lead with 7th-ranked Alabama, which had an open date. Miami of Florida, barred from the bowls by last week's NCAA probation, is in line for another disappointment this week. The Hurricanes rose from 19th to 11th in the national rankings after beating then top-ranked Penn State last week but will disappear from the UPI rankings this week despite their 27-19 win at 14th-ranked Florida State because the coaches who make up the UPI board do not include teams on probation.

NFL's Rollercoaster Ride Continues Reaves Rebounds Oilers, Surprising 49ers Win 7th Straight

An All-America quarterback at Florida and a top draft choice of the Philadelphia Eagles in 1972, Reaves has always had the skills needed to excel in the NFL, much like he did Sunday in leading the Houston Ollers to a 17-16 victory over the Oakland Raiders.

But Reaves never quite made it. And the lack of success puzzled his coaches, who were forced to discard him rather than figure out the reason for his failure.

Then, two years ago, the mystery was solved. Reaves checked into a rehabilitation center for drug and alcohol abuse. He has since found religion and a new seal for unusual poise for someone unemployed a year ago.

But his joy was cut short after listening to Coach Ed Biles. "Ken Stabler is still our No. 1 quarterback," said Biles. "If he is 100 percent well next week, he'll start."

Reaves, 31, made it clear the news was not welcome. "I don't see how he can put me on the beach after teday," said Reaves, who is with his fourth NFL clab. "Coach Biles said it was a must game and we won it. I den't know what elae he could want."

The winning pass came on a 4th-and-3 play. Reaves, who last started a game in 1978 with the Cincinnati Bengals, faked a handoff to Earl Campbell and lofted a lazy spiral to Barber, who beat cornerback Lester Hayes. Toni Fritach kicked the extra point to put the Oilers ahead.

The only question was what other teams would finish high enough to qualify for the regional championships to be held in Titusville Saturday.

The top six finishers will go to the regional meet. The teams and their point totals are: Girls - Edgewater, 69; Winter Park, 70: Lake Brantley, 88; Lake Howell, 123; Deland, 146; and Lyman, 46; Lyman, 77; Oak Ridge, 137; DeLand, Saturday's results were a bit disappointing for Marshall. After coming off a big win in the Five Star Conference last week, he thought his team ready to knock off favored Edgewater. But alas, it was

"We were a little sluggish after coming off some good performances last week,' Marshall said, "We went all out for that of us both emotionally and physically."

As for next week? Marshall says only, But things aren't as bad as Marshall district meet, the Lake Brantley runners were ranked sixth in the 4-A poll, right behind fifth-rated Edgewater. Winter Park is rated eighth and Lyman 10th.

So what does coach David Huggins of Lyman think about his tearn's chances in the regional competition? "I think we can take Winter Park next week," he says. "We wanted to do that Saturday, but we just didn't have five (runners) who could do it. We ran fairly well, but I think we can run better," Huggins said.

"You have to remember that we have some of the toughest teams in the state in our region," he said, "We finished about where we were supposed to Saturday, but we'll try harder next week.

"If we can cut 15 seconds per kid off our times we should be able to be in the top four in Titusville which will put us in the state meet," Huggins said.

Bulldogs End Cowboys Reign In Rec Play 13-12

The reign of the Cowboys has ended.

The Bulldogs battled from behind twice Saturday to beat the Cowboys 13-12 and win the Junior Division championship in the Sanford Recreation Department's Flag Football League. The Cowboys were trying to win their fifth consecutive league championship. The first half was a real defensive struggle. An interception by the Bulldogs and a couple of key penalties against the Bulldogs provided momentary advantages, but neither team could capitalize.

Late in the first half, the Bulldogs drove to the Cowboys 20yard line before their drive stalled and they lost the ball on downs. On the final play of the half Kevin Campbell scampered 50 yards for a Cowboys touchdown and a 6-0 halftime lead.

The Hulldogs stopped a drive by Cowboys in the opening minutes of the second half and shortly after taking over on downs the Bulldogs tied the score on a 30-yard pass from Reginald Bellamy to Bobby Cofield. The extra point failed and it was 6-6.

After the ball exchanged hands a couple of times on downs, Campbell scored on a 10-yard run to give the Cowboys a 12-6 lead. The extra point try failed again.

With time running out, Patrick Williams connected with Perez Perry on a 40-yard touchdown pass to tie the score at 12-12. Williams ran the ball into the end zone for the extra point, which proved to be the margin of victory.

your feelings:

Dear Molly,

We love you.

So, what can you say?

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Newkirk, 203 Tangerine Drive, Sanford, and Mr. and Mrs. Cleburn Chap Freeman, Honolulu, Hawaii. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Augustus Christman of Florence, S.C.

The bride is the granddaughter of Mrs. P.T. Smith of Bennetsville, S.C. and the great niece of Miss Mary Gibson Smith, also of Bennetsville.

Given in marriage by her father and stepfather, the bride chose for her vows a formal white gown of sheer organza and Chantilly lace fashioned along the empire silhouette with a Queen Anne neckline and sheer full sleeves embellished with appliques of silk Venise lace. The skirt, bordered in Chantilly lace, cascaded into a graceful chapel sweep. Her lace-trimmed tiered veil of imported illusion was secured to a lace crown. The bride's only jewelry was a string of pearls, a gift from her grandfather to her grandmother. She carried a semi-cascade silk bouquet of white and pink roses, stephanotis, lily of the valley and gypsophelia backed with lace and showered with double faced white bridal satin.

Miss Beth Freeman of Sanford, attended her sister as maid of honor. She wore a mauve colored gown, empire styled, with an accordion pleated skirt and a basque bodice with spaghetti straps topped with a sheer capelet. She carried a colonial bouquet of American Beauty and dusty rose silk roses interspersed with gypsophelia and mauve lace. Two streamers of matching moire ribbon edged with ecru tatting fell softly to the hemline of the gown.

Bridesmaids were: Miss Elizabeth White, Florence; Miss Joy Hawkins, Greenwood, S.C.; Miss Martha Miller, Bennettsville; Miss Darlene Mackey, Sanford; and Miss Theresa Brooks, Sanford. Their burgundy gowns and flowers were identical to the honor attendant's.

The bridegroom's father served as best man. Ushers were: Steve Christman, Florence; Ron Wise, Charleston, S.C.; Steve Langston, Greenville, S.C.; Johnny Mathis, Florence; and David Brown, Florence.

The reception was held in the church fellowship hall. Following a wedding trip to Gatlinburg, Tenn., the newlyweds will make their home in Sumter, S.C. The bride is a dental hygienist with Campbell Soup Co. The bridegroom is employed in commercial refrigeration and climate control

Russian Winter Demands Fat Body, Stout Heart

MOSCOW (UPI) - How do Russians prepare for the onslaught of their ferocious winters?

Some advise eating more to build up an extra layer of body fat. Others go to great lengths to pickle, can, salt and dry foods that can be broken out during the long months when little fresh produce is available.

Still others do nothing, trusting instead in the predictions of mysterious, irascible, and generally lovable babushkas who are convinced they foresee the future, or at least the future

By mid-October, the cool breeze that brought relief from summer heat has turned to a whistling wind that penetrates sweaters and light jackets.

Most Muscovites had already brought out their heaviest coats and chapkas, the fur hats with ear flaps that they seem to wear constantly. Those who were waiting for the first frost to buy a new leather coat or hat had a rude shock — those items jumped about 30 percent in price in September.

But black market sales of used coats, hats and boots go on openly at most of Moscow's farmers' markets, and business in the past few weeks has been picking up.

Just as much in demand are imperishable foodstuffs. Most of the lush fruits and vegetables from the southern republics of Georgia and Central Asia have disappeared in the capital by now. The staple Items until springtime on most Russian tables will be potatoes, dried fish, cabbage when available, pickled mushrooms and peppers, and whatever meat is available from

A recent excursion to several government produce stores found fatty cuts of beef — unrefrigerated — selling for 2 rubles per kilo ($1.60 per pound), potatoes at 34 kopecks per 3 kilos (about 55 cents for 5 pounds), tinned sardines for 1 ruble ($1.40) and salad greens like dill and parsley for 30 kopecks (42 cents) per handful.

Few Soviets have deep freezers, so produce bought now must be preserved in other ways.

"Now what you do," said a wizened woman, "is boil the potatoes, the fish, the greens with a lot of garlic (sold for about 15 kopecks or 21 cents per clove), then put it in jars. You can eat it all through the winter."

Pickled mushrooms sell at open markets for 9 rubles ($12.60) for a 4 kilo (9 pound) jar. The smiling vendor guaranteed they would last through the winter. They should - they smell like gasoline with garlic in it.

Other women sell mushrooms that have been dried and strung together - an arduous process, apparently, for they command 15 rubles ($21) for about 30 mushrooms. They can be rehydrated by flinging them into soup.

"They're not as good as fresh, of course, but they're mushrooms in the winter," said the persuasive saleswoman. Her stout figure was no accident, and she explained the

"We always eat very big meals before winter. Thin people get sick more in the winter." If that is so, she is a guaranteed survivor. So are the fascinating babushkas - gnarled and wrinkled widows or old maids anywhere between the ages of 50 and 500. With only a little urging they will prognosticate on the specific characteristics of the coming winter — the first snowfall, the length and ferocity of the season's grip on Russia, and the first safe day for planting spring crops with no fear of them being frozen.

Their methods, shrouded in secrecy and legend, could well prove as accurate as those of the most modern meteorologists. And if they are not, there is always next year.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Tuesday, November 10, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY Navember 10, 1981 Partners will play important roles in your affairs this coming year. There is a likelihood you'll form several valuable alliances, each for a different purpose.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be helpful to others today, but don't assume burdens that can take care of themselves. You'll have enough to do tending your own store. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date. SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You are likely to be lucky materially today, but be careful not to boast. Not everyone you talk to will be happy that the breaks are going your way.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Even though it's early in the work week, it may be wise at this time to break away from your mundane routines and spend some hours in fun pursuits.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Conditions are rather unusual today, so don't despair if things aren't working out as you feel they should. Last-minute twists bring victory.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is a good day to you felt you got the short end of the stick. It can now be don't fully understand.

relationship. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you hope to be successful today, be prepared to make a second or even third effort. You may stumble over a few hurdles on your way to the finish line. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) As you were told yesterday, business and financial areas still require a watchful eye. Be patient and prudent and use your best judgment in the dollar department.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) If making any purchases where contracts or warranties are renegotiate a matter in which concerned, read agreements carefully. Sign nothing you

A Way To Enjoy Ice Cream

DEAR DR. LAMB - I am one of those who cannot tolerate milk or milk products. I learned about Lact-Aid and am using it. But what do I do about ice cream, which I love? I like to eat a lot of it in the summer.

Until recently I was able to eat all the ice cream and drink all the milk I desired. Now all of a sudden I can't. Why? I also have arthritis and have had cancer of the breast, if that has any bearing.

DEAR READER - I'm glad you have found out about Lact-Aid. For the benefit of other readers who have intolerance to lactose in milk, this is an enzyme product you can add to milk. Then leave the milk in the refrigerator while the enzyme splits the milk sugar in the same way your own enzymes do in your digestive system if you still have enough enzymes. Readers wanting more information on this product can write SugarLo Company, P.O. Box 1100, Pleasantville, NJ 06232 lactose in some candy. The only solution for the person with a severe problem is to incubate the milk with Lact-Aid at home, then use this milk to make cream sauces, puddings, ice cream and other favorite foods.

Lactose intolerance is usually caused by a gradual disappearance of a natural enzyme as a person grows out of childhood. But it can be caused by infections such as amebiasis, glardiasis and other medical problems that affect the intestines. That sometimes accounts for the sudden onset of milk intolerance in a person who has previously had no problems.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am well except for after-surgery pains occasionally. Is there traces of blood in the bowel movement? Also what causes a floating bowel movement? DEAR READER - You do

Oswald: "Some players are real hand logs. They bid no-trump any time they feel like it and four-card major suits indiscriminately. They just feel divinely appointed to play as many hands as possible and don't want their partners to ever get their hands on the dummy. Alan: "South was one of that ilk. He decided not to open two no-trump with a worthless doubleton and 5-4-2-2 distribution He could have opened a normal one diamond, but if North held four spades North might get a spade bid in first, so South opened a spade."

Oswald: "When North responded one no-trump. South should just have raised to three, but that would have left North to play the dummy, something South considered most undesirable. So South bid three diamonds."

Alan "North might well have bid three no-trump anyway, but North gave a preference to spades and South carried on to the spade game."

Oswald: "Sometimes these hand hogs are bad dummy players also. This South players also. This South could play the dummy preity well. East's ace of hearts took dummy's queen at trick one. The eight came back to dummy's king. Now South settled for his contract by cashing his ace and king of spaces and then running diamonds. West got two space tricks, but that left South with the 10 he needed." Alan "If South had taken the spade finesse, West would win and lead a third heart. East would uppercut with the 10 and the bad bidding would have been pun-ished by loss of the game."
