Citizens Support 'Mayor' Board Is 'Helpless' Over A Doomed Dog

KAY DILLON

No. Chain it or fence it.

By CHRIS NELSON

(Editor's Note: The K-9 aid today interviewed numerous Seminole County residents seeking their reactions to the pending death of Mayor, an 11-year-old dog, for his attacks upon people.)

Seminole County commissioners are damned if they do not pass a law, and damned if they do not pass it. If they vote to execute Mayor, the sudden-celebrity Cocker Spaniel facing a death sentence Tuesday.

Mayor, the elderly pet of South Seminole resident Malcolm Altman, endured a two-hour "moment" at the bar of justice this week, and came out on the short end of the eye.

Witness testimony, affidavits, and physical evidence that he bites people.

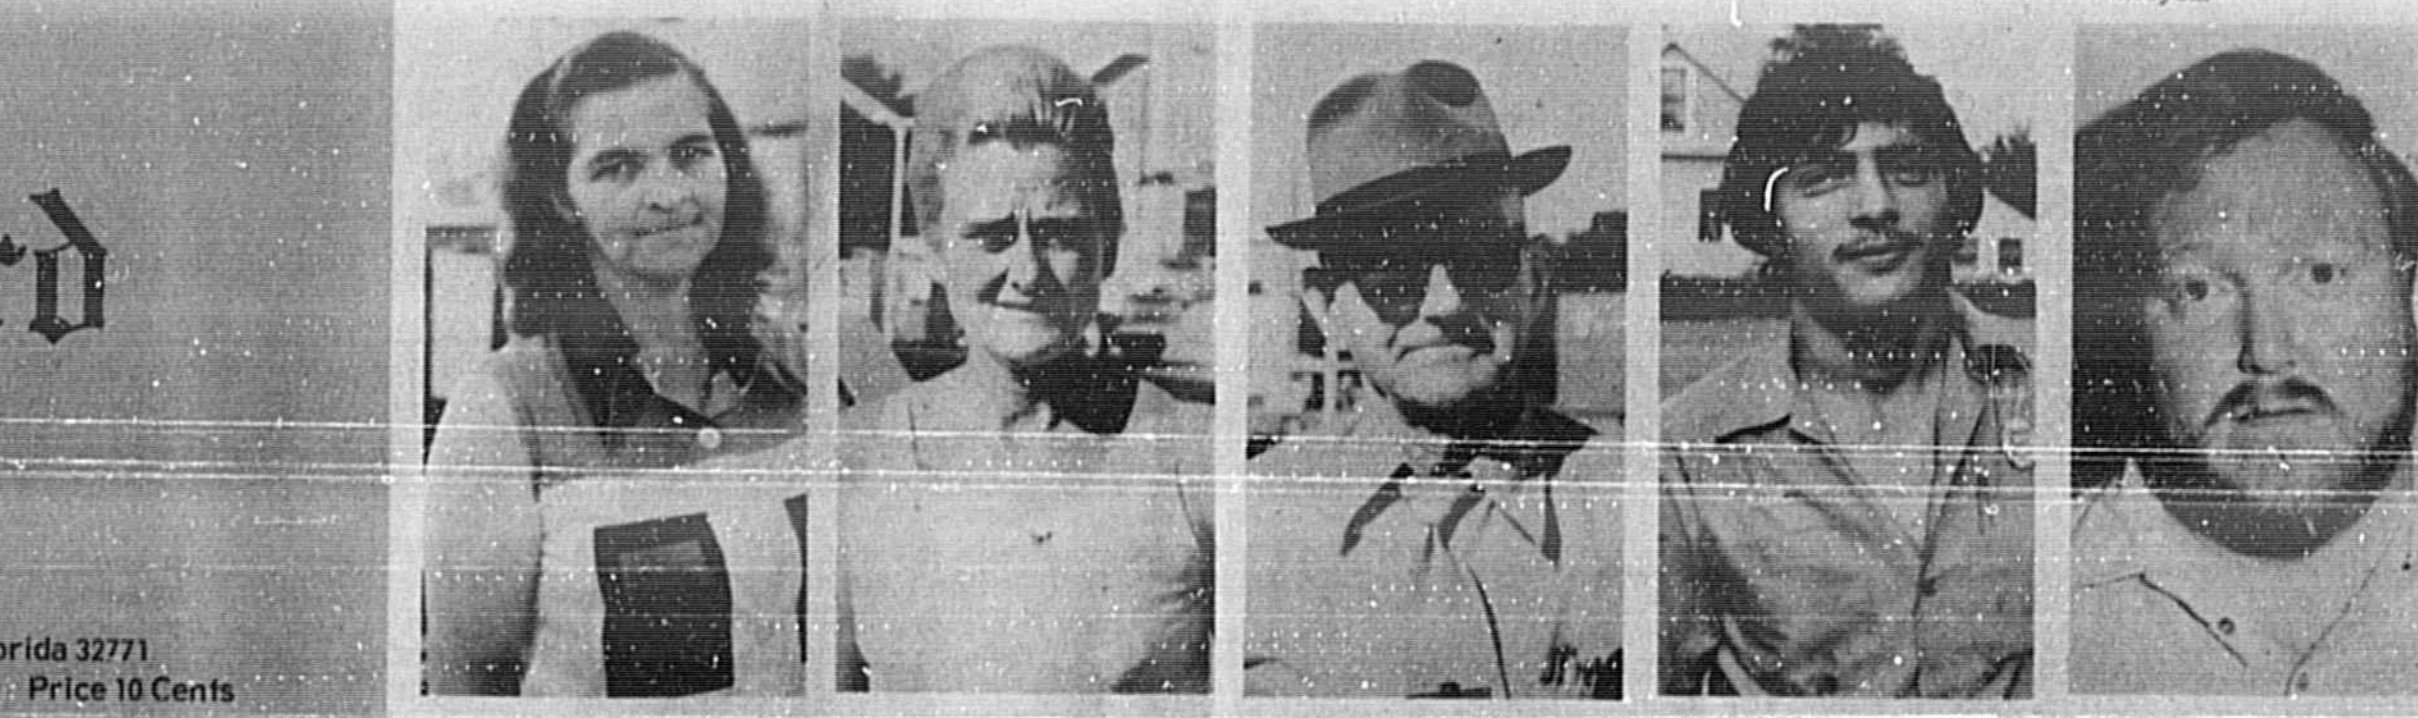

Mayor, it seems certain, has fought his last battle on earth. And county commissioners, having listened gravely to the evidence, sought in vain for a way out. There are no W. C. Fields characters on the commission, and they see no virtue in kicking dogs, or stealing candy from small children.

The clubs did not object to the proposed definitions, but wanted the entire law broadened to a full animal control ordinance, to cover all types of pets.

Chairman Sid Vihlen, who later said he felt he had "no choice" but to vote for Mayor's death, explained the current law is not based on a "one time only" incident.

"The specific case is not the sole problem; there must be a showing over a long period of time that the dog attacks or threatens people or other animals," Vihlen said.

And the evidence, duly sworn as in any proper court of law,

Cagnina Seeks Change In Trial

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

By John A. Spolzi

A Tampa man, accused with Harry Blackburn in a 1971 gangland-style assassination attempt on gambler Clyde Lee, has asked that circuit court trial be moved from Sanford to Tampa because of pre-trial publicity.

A hearing hasn't been set on the change of venue motion filed by Sam Cagnina, 37-year-old father of four.

Cagnina says Blackburn and his "alleged lieutenant," William A. "Willie" Fox are notorious figures in Central Florida due to "an extreme amount of publicity" in the news media "as alleged underworld figures."

At Tuesday's county commission meeting, both had set in motion the need to clear a controversial issue, not without charges and counter-charges of "liar" being uttered.

We had to call Mayor Swafford to get his reaction to this invitation. His response was, "As I told Greg, if he and I don't feel they should take it, I don't object. I'm willing to take any kind of a test at any time."

So, with the two acceptances received, next on our agenda is to set a date and see what happens, eh?

Excuse me please, but I'm having a little trouble remembering who it was that said something to the effect that "I would abide by any definitive direction".... something about whether he would release some tapes, or something!

Certainly that couldn't have been our President, now could it? Cause as I understand all of the comments coming from either The White House or San Clemente, he's not about to give them up.

Maybe Judge Strica wasn't "definitive" enough.....

WINTER SPRINGS - Council decided Wednesday night to delay the clean-up of polluted Gey Creek until it has more information.

City Engineer Richard Mattis explained the Department of Pollution Control refuses to allow mechanical equipment in the creek area for the clean-up.

He said CASSUCCO, the pollution control department and Winter Springs agreed to attempt the clean-up by using the natural flushing action of the water in the creek and a settling pond where solid wastes would settle and be gathered and disposed of after one year. Water thus purified would continue down the creek.

He said the problem would not be perpetuated because Casselberry is going onto a new treatment plant within 10 days.

Mattis explained the success of the project depended on the flow of water in the creek. "If we have good rains and the water is flowing fast, I see no reason why the project should not work," he said.

Council said it would not sign the agreement until it had specific information regarding disposal of waste from the settling pond, provisions for fencing the settling pond area, and details regarding flood control. It also said it wanted to see the completed engineering plans.

More about earlier comments on the gas situation - locally you may expect four more stations to close this week. Nah, it's not that they're out of the petrol.

The "biggies" have decided that they'll put the onus onto the local jobbers to decide where and how they will sell the stuff....and in the crunch, four more will bite the dust.

Most guarantees are worth as much as the one that says you get your money back if your purchase fails to open.

Askew Limits Contributions, Levin Quits For Campaign

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) - David Levin said today he would resign in October or November as chairman of the state Pollution Control Board in order to campaign for the reelection of Gov. Reubin Askew.

He said it was part of the effort to avoid the appearance of undue influence that led Askew to limit campaign contributions to $300 per individual next year.

Levin, a former law partner of Askew, said the governor had directed that any members of state regulatory boards who participate in the campaigning must step down from the boards.

Levin, another member of the Pollution Control Board, George Ruppel of Clearwater; three of the five members of the Board of Business Regulation and a member of the Board of Regents took part last weekend in Askew's campaign planning meeting at a lodge in Sopchoppy.

Askew's press secretary, Don Pride, said the governor wanted to separate his campaign from state government as much as possible. Pride said he and five other Askew aides, including Bernie Farris and Harvey Cotten, would take leave without pay early next year to begin campaigning. Levin said, "The governor and I have discussed it and we do not feel it would be proper for me to continue as chairman of a major state board if I am going to be in partisan politics."

Casselberry Sends Attorney Job Pact

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

CASSELBERRY - The city council Wednesday night agreed to have the city attorney review the proposed employment contract submitted by City Manager Ron Bergman.

The agreement was reached after 30-minute intensive discussion in which Councilman Edith Durr, Richard Wirt and Tom Embree supported the contract with slight modifications, but John Leighty and John Zacco insisted it conflicts with the city manager ordinance.

"It is foolish for us to go through the contract until the city attorney reviews it," Leighty said. He maintained one section which would allow Bergman to accept teaching or lecturing jobs is contrary to the ordinance that has been adopted by the city manager.

Bergman said while some money would be received from teaching and writing for professional publications the work is principally for his professional development.

"You must either work for the city or be a consultant. I expect a full time city manager," Zacco said.

Embree said he didn't feel such work would be an additional job.

Bergman's quoted comments that he will no longer attend city advisory board meetings since the council reduced his salary increase request from $16,000 annually to $18,700 was mentioned.

Bergman is presently paid $18,000 a year. Wirt told Bergman he will have to attend certain meetings to assist in the planning of the planning board. But, Wirt said, he does not object to Bergman taking time off during the day.

Bergman pointed out while other city employees are guaranteed benefits and job security under civil service he has no formal relationship with the city.

He said the lack of a contract is a "double edged sword" and while he has no job protection, the city is not protected either by a requirement that he give notice before accepting other employment.

Wirt said if he were "caught in the crossfire between the mayor and the city council he would want a contract."

Embree added, "If I were in his position, I'd sure want one."

Former Candidate Says It's 'Just Politics'

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) - A former Republican candidate for the U.S. Congress has pleaded innocent to charges of violating election laws and defined the incident as "just politics."

Jack Insko said his indictment by a federal grand jury was no more important than a traffic ticket.

"I'm not the least bit concerned," Insko said.

Insko, of New Fort Richey, was charged with two counts of publishing and distributing bumper stickers last fall that linked the ultimately successful campaign of his rival, U.S. Rep. William Gunter of Orlando, to the campaign of Democratic Presidential candidate George McGovern.

Insko said he was singled out and claimed that other candidates circulated campaign literature without attribution.

Nixon Resists Court Order, Considers Appeal On Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon has vowed to resist an historic court order commanding him to deliver secret Watergate tape recordings for a judge's private inspection.

Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered Nixon Thursday to produce the tapes demanded by a special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, but temporarily withheld the effect to allow time for an appeal.

Nixon refused to obey the order. The White House, in a statement from San Clemente, Calif., said without elaboration that the President's lawyers "are now considering the possibility of obtaining appellate review or how otherwise to sustain the President's position."

The order and a companion 23-page opinion fueled the President's clash with the courts and the Senate Watergate committee over access to the tapes of his conversations with key advisers implicated in the Watergate scandal.

The dispute has been carried further than any similar confrontation over presidential power in U.S. history. On a key point, Sirica squarely disputed Nixon and ruled that it is not the president but the court which has ultimate authority to determine whether material sought in a criminal investigation is protected by executive privilege. Nixon has claimed that a president's confidential records are privileged from disclosure. The existence of the tapes became known last month when a former White House aide told the Senate committee that Sirica routinely recorded his Oval Office conversations.

Cox, acting on behalf of the Watergate grand jury, subpoenaed tapes of eight meetings and one telephone call between Nixon and his advisers at the White House and John D. Ehrlichman.

The committee also filed suit to compel disclosure after its own subpoena was rejected by the White House, as Cox's had been. Cox and the committee say the tapes are vital to resolve contradictions in the testimony of Dean, Haldeman, Ehrlichman and others allegedly involved in the Watergate cover-up.

Cox said he was "very pleased" with Sirica's ruling. Watergate committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., called it "a great victory for the search for truth."

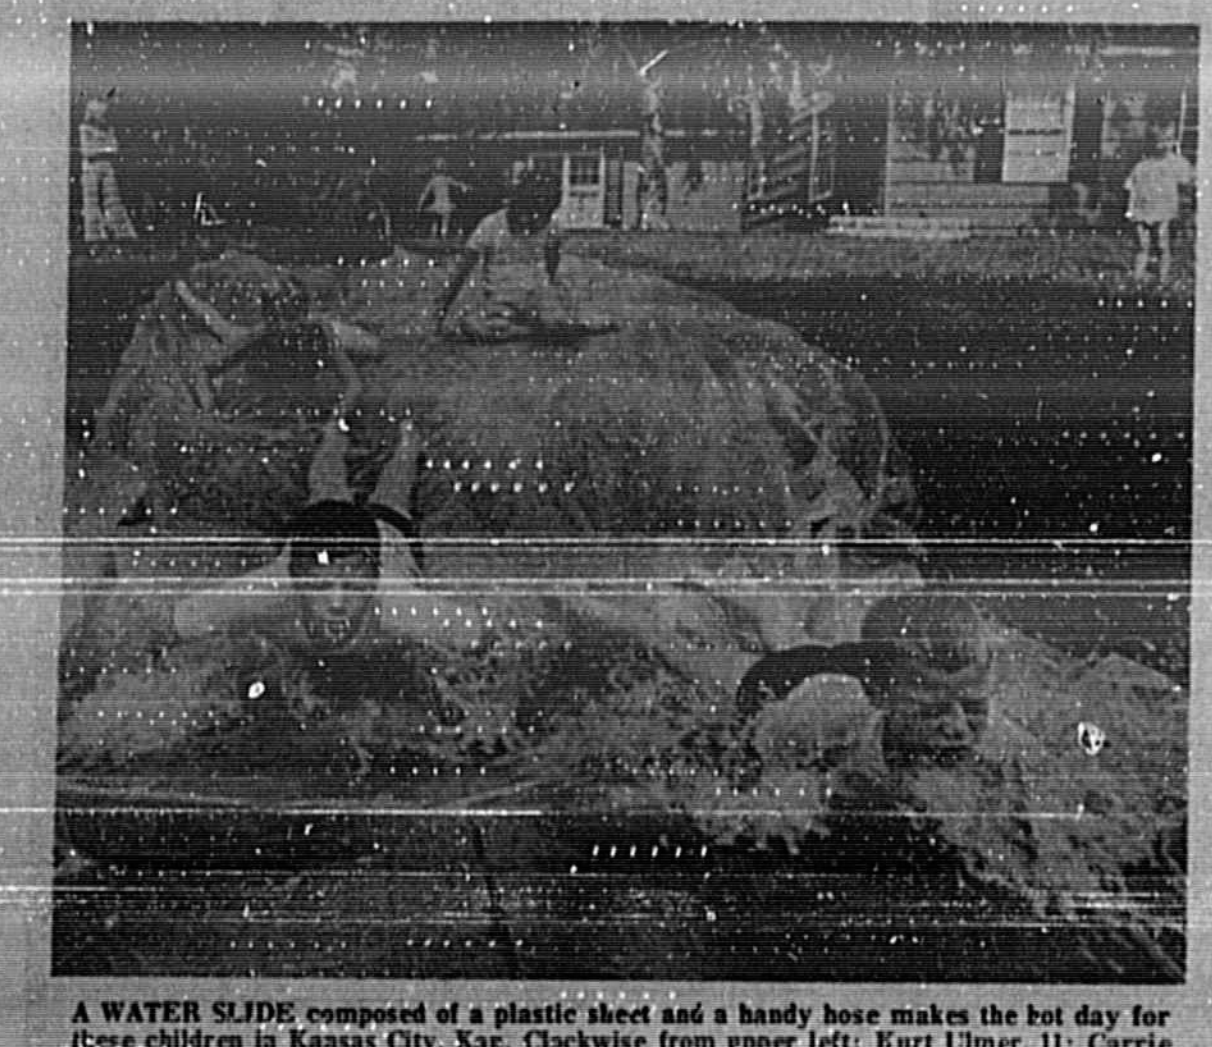

Sirica recognized the President's need for confidentiality in the formation of public policy, but disagreed with Nixon's claim "that it is the executive that finally determines whether its privilege is properly invoked."

He stated: "For the courts to abdicate this role to presidents or anyone else, to make each officer the judge of his own privilege, would dishonor the genius of our constitutional system and breed unbearable abuse."

Sirica added that he was not suggesting Nixon "could not be trusted as his own judge in matters of privilege," but said he could not set a precedent "that might permit or encourage some future high executive officer to become a despot."

There have been 883 arrests in Nassau and Freeport since 1968, when there was seven, Crawley said. He said there has been an 80 per cent increase each succeeding year since then.

"Far and away, the majority of those taken into custody are Americans," Crawley said. He added that some Bahamians are intermediate dealers, warehousing the illegal weed until it can be moved to other buyers.

Ascetic Life Is Described In Nigerian Refugee Camp

MARANDIT, Niger (AP)—A camel saddle sits in one corner. A sheepskin water bag hangs from the rickety roof. Sand covers the floor. Outside, the desert sun beats down ferociously.

On a metal-fremed cot of cowhide a young Tuareg in blue robes and a white turban reads aloud from the Koran, the holy book of Islam.

Another, squatting on the ground, scrawls prayers with an old ink pen on a small paddle-shaped sheet of wood.

Three others in the center of the hut of braided grass mats propped up by trimmed tree branches sit crosslegged and brew tea over burning coals in a small brazier.

"Do you hear it?" one asks.

A white plane drones in the sky, then swoops down over this sprawling nomad camp on the scabrous edge of the Sahara to land.

By now, hundreds of people have emerged from scores of other straw-clored huts that are shaped like large beehives. The crowd silently moves toward the outskirts of the un-mapped settlement to greet the plane.

The DC3 is bringing food from Agadez—sacks of grain for these tough nomads, who have lost almost everything in the savage West African drought.

In the past year, the 4,000 to 5,000 Tuaregs now stranded here have watched most of their camels, goats, sheep and cattle—the basis of their nomadic existence—perish in the region's worst dry spell in six decades.

Over the months, these proud people have steadily trickled into Marandit, where there is still well water, abandoning their nomadic life-style to become refugees.

The plane flying to Marandit, about 99 miles southwest of Agadez, is the camp's main source of food.

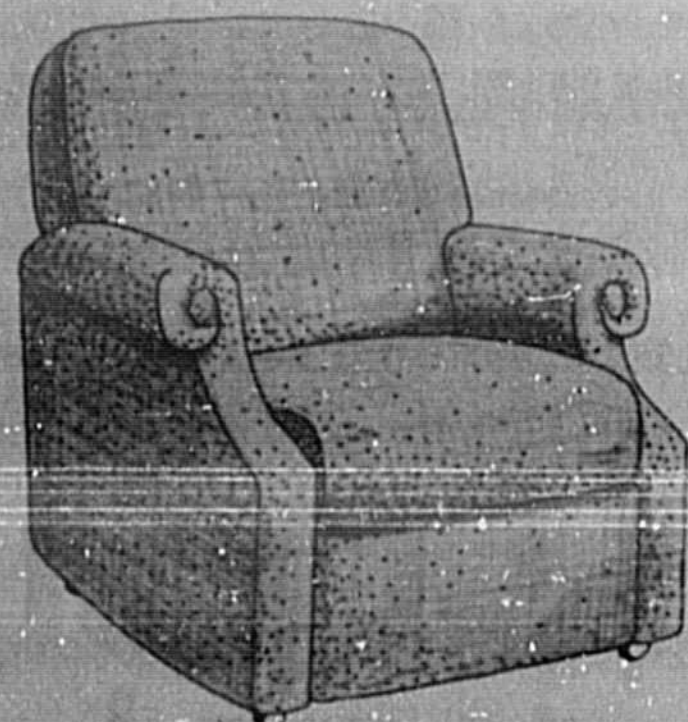

Carrying about 1.5 tons of grain on each flight, it comes down in a cloud of swirling sand on a bumpy strip of semi-desert land the nomads have cleared of rocks.

Army trucks from Belgium, drive across the Sahara from Morocco to Niger, are also helping distribute food to outposts in the region.

But the arrival of the plane, chartered by the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization, or FAO, marks the first time in six days the isolated camp has received food from abroad.

Richard Burton

NEW YORK (AP) — "She's absolutely adorable. I love her," says actor Richard Burton about his wife Elizabeth Taylor.

But Burton's companion, attorney Aaron Frosch, says "I don't expect them to be reconciled."

A spokesman for the couple announced in New York July 31 that the pair would seek a divorce in Switzerland, the country of their legal residence.

Burton arrived here from Rome Wednesday. He replied "What divorce?" when asked about marital differences between the couple.

Burton is expected to visit Frosch at his Long Island home for two weeks. The actor is taking a rest from movie making in Italy.

Robert Lange, Sr.

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — The uncle of a boy stripped of the 1973 All-American Soap Box Derby championship for using a magnetic speed device has been charged with encouraging a minor to violate state law.

Boulder County Dist. Atty. Alex Hunter said the misdemeanor charge against Robert Lange Sr. on Wednesday. Lange, in a letter to sponsors of the race, said he advised his nephew, James Gronen, 14, to put an electromagnet in the nose of his gravity-powered racer.

Lange was unavailable for comment on the charge, which stemmed from an investigation by Hunter's office begun immediately after the Aug. 20 disqualification.

Hunter also said Wednesday he was continuing to probe the 1972 derby, which was won by Lange's son, Robert Jr.

Lange said his son's car did not have a similar magnetic device, which helped trigger his nephew's car to a faster start.

Mrs. Bair

OGDEN, Utah (AP) — When Mrs. LaVile Bair noticed cars swerving to miss a large box on 24th Street, she decided to go pick it up.

The box was filled with two dozen top sirloin steaks—a stranger than normal test of honesty in these days of meat shortages.

Justice was meted out, however, when she called a local meat firm whose name was on the box.

Her reward for return of the missing steaks was a roast and package of patty meat.

"I keep telling myself that we really don't like steaks anyway," Mrs. Bair said Wednesday.

France Ahead Of Inflation Due To Compulsory Raises

EDITOR'S NOTE: Inflation in France has been running at a rate of about seven per cent this year and Frenchmen have been finding ways to stay ahead of it. One of them, a postman, does it with a garden hoe and a working wife.

By ELIAS ANTAR Associated Press Writer PARIS (AP) — Jean Larrandaburu, a French postman handy with a garden hoe, says inflation is not really hurting him. But it would be quite another story if he didn't have his vegetable garden, his wife didn't work overtime and he didn't work overtime.

All that plus regular merit raises and a salary system which keeps French wage earners a step or two ahead of the inflationary wind enable him to keep his head above water, Larrandaburu says.

"I've had no difficulty making ends meet for the past few years because I've had the possibility of working overtime at night to add to my income," he said. "Food is more expensive now but I live about the same way I did five years ago."

"If I didn't work overtime it would be tighter of course. We probably could still make it but..."

Larrandaburu, 42, has been a postman in Paris for the past 18 years, always in the same district on the Left Bank. He intends to continue in his job until he retires at 55.

He is married to Maddy, a woman who like himself is a native of the Basque district in southwestern France. They have one son, 18-year-old Robert, who has just finished high school and wants to become a teacher.

The French are being hit by inflation which so far this year is running at an annual rate of seven per cent, almost the same as last year. To head off protests and diminish the pain, the government a few years ago began a system of compulsory wage increases to keep incomes ahead of inflation.

This system is now in effect in most sectors of the economy. So far this year, the national average wage increase is running at an annual rate of 13 per cent.

If the trend continues unchanged it would mean that by the end of the year wage earners will have gotten an average increase keeping them about 6 per cent ahead of the increase in inflation.

Larrandaburu said that in the government sector the wage increase to combat inflation runs not at 4 per cent, which is below the national average.

His mainstays in the fight against inflation, therefore, are his overtime income and his wife's salary.

In September he's going into the teacher training institute. "That will cost a bit for textbooks and so on, but tuition is free," the father said.

Plea To Dentists Fails To Help Identify Body

Authorities said today a plea to area dentists for help in identifying one of two decomposed corpses found Aug. 22 in an Altamonte Springs dump has yet to produce any results.

One body has been identified from dental records as Laura Lynn Harberts, 18, an Orlando hospital clerk missing since Aug. 5.

Seminole Sheriff's Lt. George Abbigy issued a plea Tuesday to area dentists for help in identifying the second body, believed to be a male about 20 years old with light brown hair worn in a short pony tail.

Despite a specific description of a unique molar filling Abbigy said he has received no response from dentists.

District medical examiner Thomas Hegert's office said today an unnamed anthropologist is still conferring with Dr. Hegert in attempts to discover more information about the unidentified body.

Hegert's office said there is no evidence at this point to indicate that the corpse was in the open air grave for as long as eight months as had been reported earlier.

Abbigy said he believes Miss Harberts left her house with someone she knew the day she disappeared. He indicated that the person "might be" the person found in the makeshift grave with Miss Harberts.

"We believe that she left home with someone she knew because she changed her clothing before she left," Abbigy said.

Abbigy said neighbors did not see anyone pick up the woman.

Investigators are interviewing everyone that knew Miss Harberts but the investigation has bogged down "because she knew so many people."

"We have a lot of leads to follow up on but it is a time consuming process," Abbigy said.

Abbigy said no new evidence has been turned up at the dump, and he doesn't believe more bodies are at the site. Initial search of the grave area turned up a pair of black panties and a ring, both believed to be linked to the bodies.

Abbigy said he is still hoping that the ring will provide a substantial lead but so far neither the parents nor friends of Miss Harberts recall her wearing such a ring.

Medical examiners have determined that both bodies received severe blows to the head prior to or at time of death.

Pathologists say their work has been hindered by the advanced decomposition of the bodies at the time of discovery.

The bodies were found by an unnamed Eatonville man who walked 24 hours to report the find to authorities because he was afraid he would get in trouble for illegal trash dumping at the site west of SR 431 and south of SR 436 near Lake Lotus.

Gurney Asks Probe Of Payoff Charges

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. Sen. Ed Gurney has asked for a Justice Department investigation of charges that payoffs were made by a Florida builder to an Orlando man representing himself as a Cursey aide.

A Justice Department spokesman said Gurney, a Republican member of the Senate Watergate Committee, telephoned Asst. U.S. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen Wednesday from the Caribbean, where Gurney is vacationing.

Gurney's request comes on the heels of a weekend report in the Miami Herald that a Miami builder paid more than $170,000 to Larry Williams, 28, an Orlando real estate developer.

Casselberry Cuts Drug Committee

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Funding requests for additional street lighting and the drug action committee were shaved by the Casselberry City Council Wednesday night, out money was placed in the budget for Christmas lighting at city hall.

Despite pleas from City Manager Ron Bergman that the $35,000 tentatively approved would not be enough to pay for new subdivision lighting and other increased power needs, the board refused to allocate the additional $5,000 requested. Bergman stressed that $5,000 has been spent during the current year.

He pointed to the city's new policy, as well, of paying outright the $100 cost per light pole, rather than a $1 monthly rent each.

Councilman Tom Embree, who arrived late for the meeting, insisted that $300 of the $500 cut from the promotion budget be returned for city hall Christmas lights.

Embree's support for the drug action committee kept $500 requested in the budget temporarily pending an attorney's opinion on the legality of donations.

Councilman Edith Duerr, John Lightly and John Zaccaro opposed continued funding for the committee with Lightly pointing out at least two other cities have not contributed.

Duerr also said Police Chief George Karsher does not believe the committee is effective.

Engineer Cut

The $15,000 to hire a full-time engineer approved by the council one week ago was stricken from the budget.

Mayor Bill Grier recommended the cut. He has supported employing a planner full or part-time.

Bergman said he spoke with County Planner Roger Nelsender who turned down a request to contract planning work with the city on the grounds it would be a conflict of interest.

Bergman said Nelsender suggested city officials discuss with the county commission using the county planning department on a contracted basis.

With the full-time engineer cut, Bergman insisted allocations for the consulting engineer be increased the $15,000. Council approved a raise hike of $5,000, pending advice from Engineer B.C. Conklin.

Bergman: 'Cut More'

The recreation board successfully blocked efforts to cut its budget which Bergman had already slashed.

The recreation board asked for $58,978 budget. Bergman's recommendation to the council was $29,195 and tentatively approved by council was $30,345.

A summary Bergman presented Wednesday night shows $125,000 must be cut in expenditures for a balanced budget since the city refused to levy an ad valorem tax thus losing $185,666 in expected revenues.

Cong Make Ground Attacks

SAIGON (AP)— Viet Cong forces made artillery and ground attacks on two positions in Dinh Tuong province southwest of Saigon Wednesday. Military sources in Saigon said this is part of a Communist campaign to cut off the Vietnamese capital from the Mekong Delta and its rice fields. In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian government claimed its troops drove back Khmer Rouge insurgents trying to break through the outer defenses of Phnom Penh at several points 8 to 25 miles south of the city.

10,000 Buildings Coming Down

MEXICO CITY (AP)— After a tour of the earthquake in southeast Mexico, President Luis Echeverria ordered some 10,000 unsafe buildings in more than 50 towns demolished and prefabricated housing brought in for the homeless. Nearly 500 bodies have been recovered, but officials predict the death toll may reach 1,000 when the search of the ruins is completed.

Abduction Charges Filed

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)— Abduction charges have been filed against the two convicts who held three women and a man hostage in a Stockholm bank for five days. Jan-Erik Olsson, 32, who started the whole thing, was charged with abduction, unlawful threats, armed robbery, attempted murder and extortion. Clark Olofson, a 26-year-old life-term prisoner, was charged with abduction and unlawful threats.

Terrorist Bombings Continue

SOHLHILL, England (AP)— Two bombs exploded Wednesday night in the town of Southill, 96 miles north of London, and officials feared the wave of terrorist explosions that has plagued the British capital since Aug. 18 might be spreading. Scotland Yard believes the Irish Republican Army is responsible.

Shopowners Continue Strike

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP)— Shopowners continued their strike against President Salvador Allende for the third day today, and Interior Minister Carlos Briones promised military protection to all truck drivers who would abandon the 35-day-old trucking strike. In Rancagua, 60 miles south of Santiago, militant leftists and rightists battled through the town.

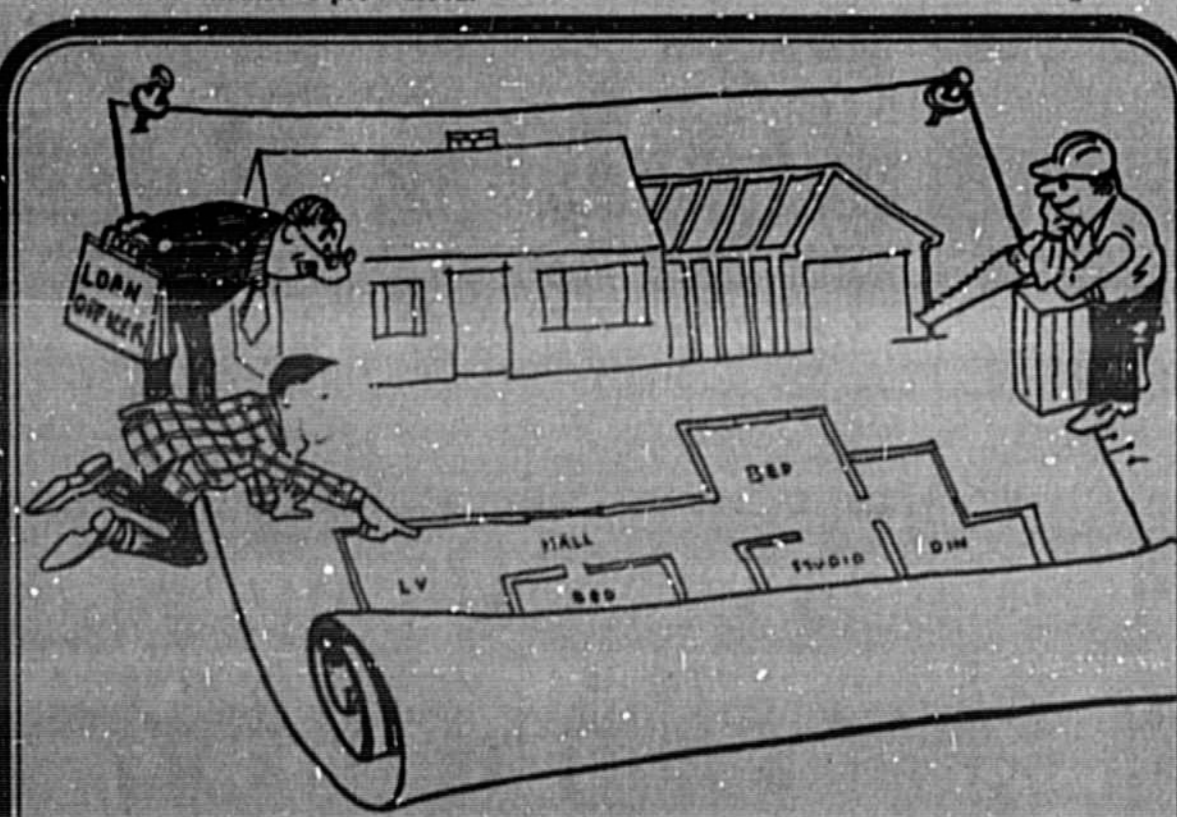

Rail Strike In 8th Day

OTTAWA (AP)— The Canadian House of Commons meets in special session today to adopt legislation to end the national rail strike, now in its eighth day. Labor leaders say the trains probably won't be rolling before Monday or Tuesday.

Space Agency Officials To Decide On Mission

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)— Space agency officials decide today whether it is safe for the Skylab 2 astronauts to continue their marathon mission aboard America's orbiting space laboratory.

Skylab 2 astronauts Alan L. Bean, Dr. Owen K. Garriott and Jack R. Lousma, in the 14th day of man's longest space flight, are still in excellent health and officials said they expect top space agency officials to give a go-ahead for the men to stay in orbit. Skylab 2 is scheduled as a 59-day mission, but medical data on the men is examined each week. Based on these studies, officials decide whether to proceed with the mission. A go-ahead today will clear the mission to continue until Sept. 8, the 10th day. Bean, Garriott and Lousma are to conduct hours of telescope camera studies of the sun today, and planned to take pictures of selected sites on the earth, including areas in Africa hit by drought and by locust swarms. A medical re-evaluation is required because long term space flight causes conditioning of muscles, including the heart, in weightlessness, the heart, in effect, becomes weaker because it doesn't have to work against the tug of gravity to pump blood.

Egypt, Libya Merger Proceeds

CAIRO (AP)— Arab unity advanced another small step Wednesday night with the announcement that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Libyan strongman Moammar Khadafi had agreed on the procedure by which their two countries would merge.

The agreement was a victory for Sadat, who had insisted on a cautious, one-step-at-a-time approach to unification instead of completion of the merger by Sept. 1, as Khadafi wanted. The two leaders agreed that the first step would be the creation on Saturday of a 100-member constituent assembly to draft a constitution for the still unnamed new state. The assembly will include 50 members of Egypt's Parliament and 50 members of the Libyan Popular Revolutionary Committee.

After the constitution is completed, it will be submitted to the people of both countries at a referendum. But no timetable was specified for completion of the constitution or proclamation of the union. The agreement specified that Sadat and Khadafi will remain in power in their respective countries until the merger is completed. The constituent assembly is to nominate a president for the new nation, and Khadafi has said he will step aside in favor of Sadat.

The convening of the constitutional assembly on Saturday was viewed as a face-saving device for Khadafi. He had wanted the merger to be accomplished on that day because it is the fourth anniversary of his revolution that overthrew the Libyan monarchy, and the agreement gives him something to put before his people as an anniversary present.

The two leaders also invited other Arab countries to join their union and agreed to create a new common currency called the Arab dinar to replace the Egyptian pound and the Libyan dinar. No date was set for

Troops Reopen Supply Highway

PHNOM PENH (AP) Government infantrymen reopened one of Phnom Penh's two supply highways today and a convoy of more than 100 trucks sped into the capital.

In South Vietnam, the Viet Cong increased attacks southwest of Saigon in a drive to isolate the Mekong Delta and its rice from the South Vietnamese capital, military sources said. The Cambodian troops blasted through the last rebel bunkers along a two-mile stretch of Highway 5 that leads to Battambang Province to the northwest. The province is a major rice producer.

The highway has been cut since Saturday at a point 35 miles to the northwest, causing food shortages and leaps in food prices. The Cambodian command said operations were continuing to respect the capital's other major supply route to the coast. Highway 4, blocked at Mola Saing, about 30 miles southwest of Phnom Penh. Hard fighting also was reported farther south on Highway 4 at the Prek Tnom Dam, 23 miles beyond Mola Saing. A communist said government forces repulsed several Khmer Rouge attacks. "The enemy suffered some losses, and our side suffered seven killed and 10 wounded."

The military sources in Saigon said the Communist command's goal is to cut South Vietnam's Highway 4, the main highway through the Mekong Delta to Saigon. The drive now is centering on the districts of Cai Be and Cai Lay, areas of traditional Viet Cong control in Dinh Tuong province in the northern delta.

The South Vietnamese command said three government soldiers were killed and 20 soldiers and civilians wounded Wednesday when the Viet Cong hit the Cai Lay area 45 miles southwest of Saigon with 120 mortar and artillery rounds. Viet Cong troops also shelled a militia post two miles from Cai Lay and followed up with a ground attack, killing four militiamen and wounding 11, the command said. There was no report of Viet Cong casualties.

Egypt is attracted to the merger, however, by Libya's rich oil reserves. Libya has only 2 million people to benefit from the oil wealth, while Egypt, with a population of 35 million, has long been mired down in poverty stemming from unchecked population growth, a massive armament program, and a lack of natural resources.

Bank Mergers Announced

Wilton Manors National Bank in Fort Lauderdale, and its affiliate, Lauderdale Beach Bank, have reached an agreement with First at Orlando Corp., the Orlando-based bank holding company, for applications to be filed with the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System to join the 34 member bank group.

The applications will state that First at Orlando Corporation, upon the approval of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, would offer to exchange First at Orlando common stock for a minimum of 80 per cent of the voting shares of the two banks. If approved by the Federal Reserve Board a registration statement will be filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission covering the proposed exchange of stock in the offer to acquire the two Ft. Lauderdale area banks.

Survey Shows U. S. Businesses Planning Foreign Expansions

KANSAS CITY (AP)— Despite uncertainties in international economies, numerous U.S. firms are going ahead with overseas acquisition plans, a Midwest research organization reports.

Midwest Research Institute of Kansas City surveyed 1,300 firms and about 20 per cent responded. Results were reported in a study entitled "A Profile of U.S. Corporate Growth: 1973."

The survey found about 75 per cent of the responding firms planned to make acquisitions this year. About one-third of those involved foreign acquisitions, despite uncertainties over exchange rates, the balance of payment situation and the use of the dollar as principal means for financing foreign trade.

About 80 per cent of the firms that already have foreign operations indicated they planned to expand them this year.

Gary R. Nuss, who directed the MRI study, said the sampling included public and private firms, those with domestic, international and multinational operations, and both manufacturing and nonmanufacturing concerns. The study was sponsored by Corporate Diversification, Ltd., New York, through a grant to MRI, a private, nonprofit organization.

Firms surveyed showed little concern about effects of the first re-evaluation of the dollar. Only 14 per cent said re-evaluation would be unfavorable. Most felt it would have no effect and about one-third said it would be favorable.

The survey was taken prior to the 1973 devaluation, but Nuss said the 1973 devaluation may not concern corporate planners any more than the earlier changes.

The survey showed firms put little short-run emphasis on President Nixon's foreign policy moves toward China and Russia. But about half the respondents, although seeing no short-run gains because of the delicate with the Soviet Union, saw major opportunities opening by 1975.

Nuss said only a minute number of firms regard the expanded European Common Market as a threat to their own growth. He said changes in the Common Market were overwhelmingly viewed as favorable.

The survey showed 95 per cent of the firms expected at least 15 per cent rate of return on overseas investments, with domestic rates of return several percentage points lower. Nearly a third demanded a 25 per cent return overseas and 57 per cent wanted at least 20 per cent.

Nuss said if the 1973 devaluation has an effect on corporate planning, it may be in this area, with planners stiffening their position on expected returns from established overseas operations.

He said larger firms were skewed toward the upper ranges on expected return, smaller firms toward the lower end.

The 1973 survey again showed Western Europe to be the overseas area believed to have the greatest potential for American firms. But new emphasis was put on Latin America, especially Brazil, and the Far East. Although the African continent as a whole was not viewed favorably, South Africa was singled out by 4 per cent of the respondents as a favorable area of investment.

Nuss said businessmen think of markets as people, not governments, and the people of Russia and China have much less withdrawal for the purchase of American goods than Western Europe and other strongholds of U.S. business activity.

Roast Beef Now A Luxury Inflation Hardships Hit British

EDITOR'S NOTE—Inflation is hitting Europeans, too, perhaps harder than it is Americans. Associated Press correspondents in Europe looked in on three families, all of them headed by postmen, to see how they are faring. In London, postman Jerry Hodges brews his own beer. A French postman tills his own vegetable garden. An Italian is making it on tips. The first of three articles follows.

By HARVEY MORRIS Associated Press Writer LONDON (AP)— Terry Hodges is a London postman, an average wage earner and family man. He hasn't had roast beef on the dinner table since Hodges says he is keeping his family going by working 20 to 22 hours overtime a week. His regular work week is 43 hours and for this he is paid the equivalent in pounds of $67.50.

His overtime brings it up to $75 to $85. Of his $3,400 annual salary, $1,900 is tax free because he is married. He is allowed $500 tax free for each of his two children. His wife receives a government benefit of $2.25 a week for their youngest child.

From his salary each week, he pays $2 for his pension and $2.20 for health insurance. On his basic salary he pays a tax of $3.10 a week. On the money he receives for overtime work, he pays an additional tax amounting to 20 per cent.

Hodges' paycheck supports his wife June and children, Jacqueline, 5, and Karen, 2. Hodges, who is 35, has been with the Post Office 3 1/2 years. It's a secure job, he says, but the security is offset by limited financial rewards.

An unofficial survey of food prices, issued by a consumer group, suggests grocery bills rose two per cent last month. For the Hodges, statistics on inflation amount to a simple formula: They get less for their money — less food and less clothing, the two areas where

Market Is Offering Rare Chance

NEW YORK (AP)— Europeans who believe there is a future to the United States stock market are being presented with a rare, perhaps once-in-a-lifetime, opportunity.

The situation results from two dollar devaluations in less than two years that have effectively reduced the price of blue chip stocks as much as 40 per cent in terms of certain foreign currencies.

Thus a double possibility for profits exists: one, if the price of stocks moves higher; two, if the dollar recovers its value in relation to other currencies.

Rinfret-Boston Associates, management and economic consultants to industry and government, compiled a list of accounts for stocks purchased in foreign currencies and concluded, "Ye God!"

Based on August 20 prices, when the Dow Jones Industrial Average closed at 877, the equivalent in German marks was $22, in French francs 746 and in Swiss francs 800. "In many ways," it commented, "the extent of the dollar decline against the German mark, the French franc and the Swiss franc has been unappreciated." It went on to explain:

"Most people read in the newspapers that the devalued dollar devaluation since December 1971 is about 9 per cent. That figure includes trade with the entire world, and since Canada is our most important trade partner, the figure is not representative of Europe.

"The reason is that the Canadian dollar is virtually at par with the American dollar." Wise European investors appear to be aware of the advantage, at least based on their buying and selling practices.

FREEDOM SUITS CATCHING ON... New for coming season

Goodies Promised Evaluate Men's Fashions

buyers are snapping them up for winter selling. About 60 per cent of the Rattner suit, sport jacket and slacks production is made of doubleknit, that still popular fabric that stretches, breathes, washes and defies wrinkles.

The rest of the materials are wovens or textured fabrics, with wool showing increased popularity. The colors are light and ice cream-like, even for winter, and very lightweight. Nobody, it seems, wants to wear heavy garments anymore. Layers are preferred.

Patterns are traditional and on the groovy side. Like glen plaid and houndstooth patterns for the board room and stripes and the word is that visiting and geometrics for the dance at the beach. Styling includes a jacket with no vent, lapels that are rounded, visible tucks at the jacket waist to emphasize slowness and sport jackets with contrasting fabric pockets that match the pants pattern.

Rattner is excited about a creation it's offering for the fall trade. Called the "Freedom Suit," it is a true creation, something really new from the shop.

The suit is something between the unconstructed suit which has little or no padding and is little more than a shirt-cout worn outside the pants, and the classic suit with padded, labeled jacket.

Inflation Causes Garden Increase

inflation has really bitten deep. Mrs. Hodges reckons to spend about $30 a week on food. "We used to have roast beef every Sunday," she says. "When I got too dear, we turned to chicken, and pork but now even that is too expensive."

A three-pound piece of beef that traditional ingredient of the British Sunday lunch, now costs $5.50. "With best lean bacon at $1.25 a pound, the family has reluctantly changed to the cheaper and less appetizing 'streaky' bacon."

The prices of salad greens and other vegetables, once almost giveaways in British stores, have also shot up and Hodges wants to start growing his own. He has a small garden, so he applied for an "allotment" — a form of suburban strip farming with small plots of land leased out by local councils. But now there is a big saving in growing your own food and everyone wants an allotment, so Hodges has to go on a waiting list. Price hikes have also been biting clothes, particularly for the children. Mrs. Hodges hopes to save up enough to buy a new sewing machine and make them herself. Hodges bought a pair of shoes a couple of years ago for $5. He said he went to buy some recently and found the cheapest were $11.25 and any worth having would have cost $17 to $30.

He has bought two suits since he was married seven years ago. "I bought another one now it would have to be on credit and I would have to do another hour or so overtime each week to cover the cost. It's just impossible," he says. "The Hodges family lives in the upper half of a rented house in Colliers Row, a working class suburb. It is owned by the local borough. When they moved there in September 1970 the rent plus local taxes amounted to $10.40 a week. In 1972 this was increased to $12.75 and now it is $16.75. House prices have doubled, even trebled, in recent years and the average cost of a home in the area where the Hodges live is about $25,000. But for the Hodges owning a home is out of the question.

From the other side of the coin, however, here's a letter commending at least two of the local employees, signed by Letterwriter Mrs. G. L. Edmondson.
"It is my pleasure to report my experience with two of your personnel, whose names I just learned this morning. Both, I believed, are former Navy men, which may account partially for their fine attitudes toward the public.
"Both men are most cooperative, efficient, and CHEERFUL!"
BOB BOLGER always has a smile, or some friendly comment to make, which doesn't interfere with the speed of his performance. He can take cart of a long line in no time flat and, to some degree, is penalized for this because I've noticed, on my daily mail runs, more people seem to head in his direction, especially the "regulars" like me.
"LEROY NOPPER has, on several occasions, gone out of his way to help me in situations which he could easily have 'sloughed off' or by-passed. Again, it is a pleasure to go to his window. He doesn't seem to mind helping anyone when he can.
"Perhaps there is hope for the postal service after all, especially if more men like these two can be hired."

With school days right around the corner, it's a relief to be advised that smallpox has been declared officially dead in the Western Hemisphere.
According to Dr. Joseph Miller, director of the Bureau of State Services at the National Center for Disease Control, only Brazil is the last stronghold of smallpox in the Americas.

PERFECT PERSON

Mary Jane, why are you so tidy?

By JANE GLENN HAAS Copy Service
All these people in Rinsowhite trousers and slacks are raising my Mary Jane Murphy psychosis again. You know Mary Jane. We all do — except the folk in white. Mary Jane is that perfect person. She could put on her night whites, slide into the front seat of her car and know, in her heart, she would not sit or the residue of last night's banana split from the Tasti-Freeze. I first met Mary Jane in first grade. Unfortunately, I've been running into her ever since. In first grade, Mary Jane had long corker curls. She always got two points higher than I did on every exam and could spell "horax." She could break her arm and look demure and pathetic in her cast. Mary Jane and her counterparts have mystified me for years. They are always popular with both the boys and the girls. Despite the highest temperatures, Mary Jane doesn't sweat. They don't even perspire. Mary Jane has nails that never break; hair with enough natural curl to give it perfect body and white, even teeth. Worse than that, Mary Jane can eat Cokes, french fries and hot fudge sundaes and never get a pimple. Mary Jane passes through high school in a swirl of caution and sugar plums. They are always self-assured. Mary Jane goes on to be president of their college sororities, sweethearts of Sig-

CHOU-EN-LAI Chinese Premier

Chou Reveals Plot Against Mao

By JOHN RODERICK Associated Press Writer
TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai, in an important policy speech to the 10th Chinese Communist party congress released today, said Defense Minister Lin Piao attempted to assassinate Communist party Chairman Mao Tse-tung before dying in a plane crash in 1971. Making his first public disclosure of the events which led to the death of Mao's heir-designate, Chou told the congress on Aug. 24 that Lin, a military hero, plotted not one but two coups, the first during the second plenary session of the 9th Central Committee in August 1970, and the second in March 1971. Entitled "Outline of Project 571," the second coup was launched on Sept. 8 that year "in a wild attempt to assassinate our great leader, Chairman Mao, and set up a rival central committee," Chou said. Five days later, on Sept. 13, "after his conspiracy had collapsed, Lin Piao surreptitiously boarded a plane, fled as a defector to the Soviet revisionists in betrayal of the party and country and died in a crash in Urdur Khan in the People's Republic of Mongolia," Chou continued. The text of Chou's speech, approved by the congress on Aug. 23, was distributed by the official Hsinhua news agency and monitored in Tokyo. The five-day party congress, which wound up Aug. 28, condemned Lin and Mao's longtime friend and former private secretary, Chen Po-ta, described as linked to the coup, and posthumously read the shy former marshal out of the party and all his posts. Chou said that Lin, though named in the party constitution as Mao's successor, attempted with Chen to put through a draft in the 1969 9th party congress which would have negated Mao's line that the major struggle in China was between the proletariat and the bourgeoisie. He said that Lin and Chen portrayed the situation as a fight between the Socialist system and the backward productive system, a view Chen had held since the 8th party congress in 1956. Only after his efforts were frustrated did Lin grudgingly accept Mao's line, Chou said. Apparently the setback rankled, for "in spite of the admonishments, rebuffs and efforts to save him by Mao and the Central Committee," he began plotting against Mao's life, Chou said.

Some Papers Face Shortage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Many Florida newspaper editors say a critical newspaper shortage is forcing them to take economy measures to reduce the size of their newspapers such as omitting regular features, cutting down on special measures such as the other papers are taking in the event the newspaper supplies are curtailed," added Gielow. The Jackson County Floridian has had to go farther and suspend publication of its Monday afternoon editions. The St. Petersburg Times and Evening Independent have cut their news columns by 15 percent and advertising space by 25 percent. The Fort Myers News-Press has sent a letter to subscribers saying it is forced to discontinue mailing subscriptions outside the immediate circulation area after Friday. The Pensacola News and The Pensacola Journal are cutting down the size of their comic section and have warned sports fans they will provide baseball box scores only when space permits. "We are cutting down on the size of the papers, but I've determined this paper pinch won't harm the quality of our product," said J. Earl Bowden, publisher of the Pensacola papers.

Case Seeks Newsprint Inquiry

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., asked today for a Senate committee investigation of the newspaper shortage. In a letter to Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, Case said the inquiry should explore the causes of the shortage, avenues of possible relief and ways in which the federal government might assist. Case said six New Jersey weekly newspapers already have ceased publication and others are cutting back to save paper.

Holiday Barbecue Plans Dampened By High Prices

By LOUISE COOK Associated Press Writer
Consumers stocking up for the Labor Day weekend found plenty of beef in the stores for a change, but high prices put a damper on plans for holiday picnics and barbecues in some areas.

Nevado Indian tribe of Window Rock, Ariz. The tribe throws a free barbecue for visitors and reservation residents each year and normally attracts more than 100,000 persons. "Normally, beef is donated by area ranchers," said John Nelson Dea, who is in charge of the 1973 fair which starts Sept. 5. "But the steers are worth so much this year, no one was able to help out." Dea added, "Consequently, the tribe has been forced to purchase the beef and slaughter it."

'Mayor' Gives Interview From Pound 'Death Row'

Editor's Note: County commissioners Tuesday are set to pronounce a death sentence on Mayor, an 11-year-old Cocker Spaniel must convicted of biting several people in the South Seminole Druid Hills neighborhood. With a public outcry being raised, many stories have appeared with the views of commissioners, Sheriff John Polk, pound officer Sam Martin, private citizens, and Mayor's owner, Malcolm Altman. The Herald thought it about time someone talked to Mayor about all this.)
HERALD: Hi, Mayor, how's it going?
MAYOR: OK, I guess. Did you bring me something to eat?
HERALD: Sorry, pal, we're not allowed to do that. Mr. Martin is the only one who's supposed to feed you.
MAYOR: Mr. Martin's a nice man. He came out to my house and picked me up that day. Boy, it sure was a long time ago.
HERALD: Yes, you were apprehended by authorities, as they say, on July 17. Do you remember anything about it?
MAYOR: I'll say. I was running in my yard, like always, when this truck pulled up and this man, who I later found out was Mr. Martin, told me it was time to get in. He said something about biting people.
HERALD: Did he read you your constitutional rights?
MAYOR: That only happens on television. And besides, I'm just a dog.
HERALD: Yeah, you've got a point there. Listen, Mayor, a lot of people are all upset over this. Have you thought about what might have happened. I mean, why did you do it?
HERALD: Why did I do it?
HERALD: All those bad things.
MAYOR: What bad things?
HERALD: Biting people, and chasing people, and terrorizing people. Stuff like that.
MAYOR: It seemed like a good idea at the time. I mean, what's a dog supposed to do? Those people were on my territory.
HERALD: You sound like you've been reading Konrad Lorenz's book "On Aggression."
MAYOR: Is that something to eat?
HERALD: Not exactly. It's a book that started off a whole school of animal psychology, and showed how people can learn about themselves by studying animals. For instance, you said you bite people because they come on your territory.
MAYOR: Yeah, they shouldn't do that.
HERALD: Well, maybe. Anyhow, Lorenz explains that people and animals have similar problems caused by aggressive instincts. He says all animals, including people, are likely to get aggressive when they get overcrowded.
MAYOR: He may have something there. I didn't bite anyone until about three years ago, if that milkman is telling the truth. There sure are a lot of people moving into Seminole County these days.
HERALD: That's remarkable. I didn't know you knew you lived in Seminole County.
MAYOR: I didn't until the county came out and introduced itself.
HERALD: Mr. Martin says you've behaved since you arrived at the pound.
MAYOR: Why shouldn't I be?
HERALD: Some people sort of expect you to keep on biting, if you're really vicious.
MAYOR: Good heavens! I love they are reading Mr. Lorenz's book.

THREE harness racing fans have been sitting all week — and not over winning the horse racing jackpot. (L to R) Silvio Provenzano and Stanley Geocoky of Orlando and Patrick Glavry of Clearwater each landed themselves a whole steer in Seminole Turf Club's "beat high beef prices" drawings held Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday nights this week. The three winners agreed they wouldn't exchange their steers for their weight in gold during these times of threatened shortages and soaring beef prices. (Herald Photo by Jean Pattison.)

Gunman Holds Up Grocery

A youth armed with a pistol held up the Shop and Go store, SR 431, Forest City, late Thursday and escaped with an undetermined amount of cash according to sheriff's deputies. Sue Moody, 27, of Plymouth, told sheriff's deputies a short man about 16-18 years old with shoulder-length blond hair pointed a pistol at her and said, "Open the register and give me the money."
The clerk said she emptied the register and the youth fled through the rear of the store. In other reports deputies said someone broke into Mrs. Karen Davis' home on Dodd Road and stole stereo equipment worth $800.
Mrs. Davis, 34, told deputy Ron Pritchard that she was at work when the incident occurred.
