$130,000 For One Of Kidnapped Missionaries

New Tribes Won't Pay Ransom Demand

By Karen Talley Herald Staff Writer

A $130,000 ransom demand for one of the three New Tribes missionaries being held by Colombian leftist guerrilias will not be paid by the organization, which instead has called for greater governmental assistance in securing their release.

Calling it "a matter of policy" not to give in to such demands, today at Sanford mission headquarters New Tribes foreign secretary H. Mel Wyam said the U.S. and Colombian governments "should be doing more" in securing the release of all three cap-

They were kidnapped by the communist Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia (FARC) from New Tribes' mission outpost in Morichal Blejo on Oct. 5. Wyam said. A fourth missionary, pilot Paul Dye, 45, escaped four days after the kidnapping, according to Wyam. The Cain's two children and Mrs. Estelle and their three children were taken out of Colombia by New Tribes officials.

At the request of the American and Colombian governments, New Tribes held off releasing this information until Saturday, he said.

Now however, "to apply pressure" for assistance, the mission today began mailing bulletina about the kidnappen to state and federal lawmakers and 45,000 New Tribes members in this behalf of the hostages." Thus far, Wyam said, New Tribes' only contact with the kidnappers has been a note from them demanding ransom for Mrs. Cain and stating that there will be no negotiations yet for the release of Cain and Estelle.

The correspondence, which Wyam said also "falsely accused" New Tribes of being responsible for the bombing of guerilla outposts, was delivered on

Art Heist Paintings Uninsured

PARIS (UPI) - Nine famous impressionist paintings stolen from the Marmottan Museum in a precision-timed weekend heist were not covered by insurance, officials at the museum's parent institution said today.

Authorities said they were puzzled at the motive of the robbery because the works, worth at least $10 million, are too well-known to be sold. There was speculation that the thieves would demand a ransom or that the theft was commissioned by wealthy art collectors who planned to keep the paintings.

Five gunmen carrying large-caliber weapons burst into the museum shortly after it opened at 10 a.m. Sunday, taking hostage eight security guards and about 30 visitors while they stripped the walls of nine major canvasses. The heist took only 10 minutes.

The most valuable of the paintings stolen was "Impression - Sunrise." a 1872 Claude Monet masterpiece that lent its name to the turn-of-the-century Impressionist Movement.

French news reports today quoted sources at the Academy of Fine Arts, the Marmottan's parent institution, saying the paintings were not insured because of the "ruinous cost of premiums" and because the works were considered unscliable.

Officials said the thieves knew the museum layout and went directly to the paintings they

'These were connoisseurs. They knew what they were looking for," said museum manager Josette Tavera.

Marmottan curator Yves Brayer said the paintings were worth "millions of dollars, at least," and were "very fragile works" that 'should be handled as little as possible." A museum spokesman valued the paintings at $10

The museum's alarm system had been turned off because of the possibility that visitors would set it off unintentionally. It took the thieves about 10 minutes to grab the paintings.

Relatives Of Hostages Meet With President To Urge Action

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Frustrated and concerned relatives of the American hostages in Lebanon secured a meeting with President Reagan today to urge "an immediate re-evaluation" of U.S. efforts to free their loved

After repeated calls by the families for such a meeting. Reagan welcomed the opportunity to brief them "on our ongoing efforts to secure the release of their relatives." White House spokesman Mark Weinberg said Sunday.

The families, who earlier met with Vice President George Bush and other administration officials, will see Reagan at a time of uncertainty and apprehension in the longrunning hostage drama.

On Oct. 4, Islamic extremists reported killing one of the six Americans, William Buckley, and later distributed a photograph that purported to show his body. U.S. officials said the quality of the photo was too poor for a positive identification. No body has been found.

The American Hostage Committee, representing the families, said the group "strongly believes that the crisis nature of the hostage sistuation has grown ever more serious in the wake of the recent events in the region."

Among those expected to meet with Reagan were relatives of Terry Anderson, Peter Kilburn, the Rev. Martin Jenco and David Jacobsen. Aside from Buckley, the sixth American still missing is Thomas Sutherland. Reagan met with members of the Jenco family during the summer hijacking-hostage saga of TWA Flight 847.

Law Urged To Seize Drug Profits

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Laws permitting states to seize a wider variety of the property of drug dealers could help combat trafficking by denying criminals their profit and working capital, the Justice Department says.

A study, released Sunday by the department's National Institute of Justice, recommended "expanding the types of property subject to forfeiture (seizure) by adopting a provision for real property" and "traceable assets" such as real estate.

"Forfeiture should be a deterrent," said James K. Stewart, director of the Institute, "While a marituana grower might be willing to chance the loss of his or her harvest, the thought that his or her real estate is at risk ought to produce second thoughts about plans to raise an illegal crop.

Forfeiture allows governments to seize property used in the commission of a crime as well as the "fruits" of crime.

Deficit Reduction Plan Defended

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Sen. Warren Rudman says his mandatory deficit-reduction plan forces Congress and the president to keep spending in line, but oppponents call it a gimmick to raise taxes.

The deficit-cutting plan proposed by Rudman, R-N.H., and Sen. Phil Gramm. R-Texas, would require Congress to pass a budget shrinking the deficit by a set amount each year until it disappears in the fall of 1990. If Congress failed to do so, the president would have the power to make across-the-board spending cuts - excluding Social Security — to bring the budget in line.

Rudman, backed by Office of Management and Budget Director James Miller, said critics of the proposal were ignoring the first part of the process: requiring Congress and the president to come up with a balanced budget.

A Sanford man stopped for having a bumper too high on his vehicle was arrested on a charge of possession of marijuana.

According to a Sanford police report, an officer stopped the vehicle at 7:46 p.m. Friday for having a bumper too high above the road. The stop was prompted by a state law that went into effect Oct. 1 which makes it illegal for most private vehicles to have a bumper higher than two feet from the ground.

Double Standard Discriminates

Several weeks ago. Assistant Attorney General William Bradford Reynolds denounced public schools that use an inferior double standard for educating minority students. More recently, Mr. Reynolds asked the U.S. 5th Circuit Court of Appeals to overturn a lower-court ruling that helps perpetuate such a double standard in Texas.

The Justice Department's legal brief challenges a federal judge's authority to ban the use of a teacher-training admissions test mandated by the Texas legislature. Because a so-called disproportionate number of blacks and Latinos have failed the test, the judge decided last August that the competency exam is discriminatory.

Never mind that basic skills tests are an essential part of the nationwide drive to upgrade the quality of American education. Or that the National Education Association endorses such exams as the most equitable means of screening prospective teachers. A coalition of civil rights groups argues that Texas ought to provide minority children with "minority-role models," regardless of their qualifications.

That convoluted reasoning patronizes minority teaching candidates. Worse still, it penalizes future generations of minority students who are subjected to teachers lacking basic skills.

Teacher competency tests are not noted for their difficulty. If a disproportionate number of black and Latino students, who aspire to be teachers, cannot pass these exams, the fault must lie somewhere within the system. The Texas judge suggested as much when he criticized state officials for failing to organize remedial programs to help minority students prepare for the test.

But the judge misses the point. Remedial education should precede the granting of a high-school diploma. Put another way, students who lack fundamental learning skills should not be in college, regardless of their race or ethnic origin.

To argue otherwise is to condone the destructive double standard that is correctly deplored by William Bradford Paynolds.

Menu Adventure

The betting line on new enterprise goes like this: small businesses, risky: restaurants, riskier: ethnic restaurants, riskiest. As a recent story noted, a restaurant owner who wants to make "empanadas" (Argentine meat ples) as American as french fries has no easy task. To bring novel, as well as "nouvelle," cuisine into American culture requires faith. hard work, and a willingness to gamble that there is room on the American menu for foods like "empanadas" or "falafel." It also requires that what the restaurant trade calls "adventurers" - intrepid customers willing to look at a sign announcing Peruvian-Malaysian food and walk through the door instead off to the atlas.

And a good thing, too. America, as most immigrants quickly learned, was a great place to live, but you wouldn't want to eat there every night. Meat and potatoes have their place on the table, but sooner or later chicken-fried steak and New England boiled dinner get a bit old. Without restaurants serving up veal picatta, tostadas, chicken teriyaki, or prawns in black-bean sauce, American taste buds might have long since perished from underuse.

Tipton: Goal-Line Work Was Difference

By Sam Cook

Herald Sports Editor Seminole's Fighting Seminoles didn't exactly make themselves at home near the Lyman goal line Friday night. In fact, they visited just one time, midway through the fourth quarter. But the visit was a successful one as big blocks from fullback Eddie Banks, guard Carl Tipton and tackle Jack Jackson paved the way for Dwayne Willis to slip in from one yard out with 6:20 to play. J.J. Partlow's all-important point after kick was the difference in a 7-6 Seminole Athletic Conference victory for the Seminoles. Coach Dave Mosure's Seminoles Improved to 2.5 while Lyman leveled off at 3-3. The Tribe travels to Oviedo Friday while Lyman hosts Spruce Creek. Oyledo lost a tough one to Lake Mary, 15-12, Friday, Lake Mary, 4-2, plays Mainland at Daytona Beach Thursday night in a big District 5A-4 game.

The big fourth-down play, which went over the left side off the Tribe line, was a reversal of fortunes for the Seminoles and the Greyhounds. For the past few weeks, it was Lyman which had made the big play while pulling out three consecutive wins and Seminole coming up short while losing five of six games.

Tipton, a senior, said the difference this time was that the Seminoles had spent most of the week practicing the goal line situation. "We worked on goal line all week." Tipton said. "We knew they (the Greyhounds) weren't as good as our defense. We beat our defense about half the time, so we thought we could push it Tipton said the pressure build up was Immense on the do-or-die fourth-down try. "There was really no way to describe he said. "We were put into the situation where we had to score or the game was lost. Jackson, also a senior, said it was the ultimate feeling for a lineman. "It was a great feeling." he said. "If we score we get the publicity. If we don't, it makes it tough to go home." And face the parents. "I was tired of going home and telling my mom and dad that we came close (to winning) again."

Along with the goal line success, the Tribe received another fine defensive effort from coach James Paul's 11. For the seventh successive week, the 'Noles allowed less points than the week before. The totals in sequence are: Astronaut (24-0 loss). Titusville (20-13 loss). Lake Howell (14-13 loss), Lake Mary (13-12 loss). Lake Brantley (17-10 win).

Seabreeze (7-0 loss) and Lyman (7-6 win).

"This is cerie." Paul said. "I've been coaching and playing 17 years and I've never seen anything like this where the point given up goes down each week. I guess we're getting better."

The game was not without its heartstopping finish, though. Lyman had two chances to pull out the game in the final 36 seconds but field goal attempts by Kelly Greene fell wide right on the first try from 38 yards and the second one from 28 yards was partially blocked by Eddle Banks.

It was an ironic twist for Banks, who was called for roughing the kicker on the first field, which gave Greene a chance to be a hero on the second. It was a tough night for the usually dependable Lyman kicker who also missed an extra point to the right of the goal post.

Nevertheless, Lyman coach Bill Scott stuck with his junior until the end. Scott said the Greyhounds might have been able to get a little closer since Banks' penalty set up a first down at the Seminole 11, but Lyman was out of timeouts and Scott didn't want to risk the chance of the clock running out.

"If we would have had a timeout left. we would have done it differently," Scott said. "But he (Greene) had just missed on the other one by a little bit. He was in the same spot on the field and we thought

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) - With eight games remaining in the NPL regular season. Miami coach Don Shula says he's going to find out whether his Dolphir sink or swim.

"We're really at the crossroads now." Shula said Sunday following the Dolphina' 31-21 aetback to the Detroit Lions. "Our defense in the last three weeks has played very poorly. We have to get things together in the last half of the season if we're going to have a chance at all.

"I'm very disappointed in our football team. We did everything losers do in losing this one. We gave them every opportunity in the world to win and they did." While Miami (5-3) searches for its identity. Detroit (5-3) continues to bask in the glory of upsetting last season's Super Bowl teams on consecutive weeks - a feat never done before in NFL history. Last week, the Lions surprised the San Francisco 49ers, 23-21, and Sunday, the Dolphins were the victims. "It's pretty sweet right now." said Lions quarterback Eric Hipple, who hit 14 of 19 passes for 239 yards and four iouchdowns. "I can't describe it.

The Lions earned their win with a combination of Hipple's passing. Jame Jones 114-yard rushing performance and a near-flawless effort by the de-Detroit's "3-4" defense, de-

Wayne Fontes. "We were successful in taking away the big play. I kept telling the players during the week, 'whatever you do, don't panic.' I told them if they stop the big play and we'll While Fontes' defense stopped Miami's big play, it was a different story for the Dolphin defense. Hipple hit passes of 48. 30 and 20 yards. "Hipple did one heck of a lob today." Shula said. "He seemed to hit every one of his passes when he needed to. And other

Vandeweghe's 25 Spark Blazers

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - Portland Trail Blazers coach Jack Ramsay judged the success of his team Sunday night by who didn't score.

After Kiki Vandeweghe's 25 points paced Portland to a 116-99 victory over the Golden State Warriors, Ramsay focused on the way his team shut down Golden State's Joe Barry Carroll.

"Sam (Bowle) did a very good job on Joe Barry Carroll, Carroll didn't get a field goal until the final period." Ramsay said.

Vandeweghe scored 11 points in the third quarter, as Portland put the game away early.

Kenny Carr led Portland in rebounds with 13 to go with his 12 points. Carroll had 9 rebounds and 11 points for Golden State.

Portland's regular season record is now 2-0, and Golden State has dropped to 0-2.

BRIGHTON, England (UPI) - Chris Evert Lloyd regained the No. 1 world ranking Sunday when she defeated Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria, 7-5, 6-3, to win the$175,000 Women's Classic.

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Developing patience is paying off for Jim Thorpe on the PGA Tour.

Thorpe took home $150,000 for the win, placing him fourth on the money list this season with $379,091. Thorpe's previous highest finish in earnings was 46th in 1983 with $118,197.

Pizzolato Repeats As Marathon Champ

NEW YORK (UPI) - Last year, Orlando Pizzolato came out of nowhere to win the New York City Marathon. This year, he only had to come from 20th place.

The 27-year-old from Vicenza, Italy, applied a painful lesson learned in last year's race to repeat as champion of the glamourous road racing event, finishing in two hours, 11 minutes, 34 seconds. This year, the lesson was Ahmed Saleh's to learn.

In 1984. Pizzolato surged to a huge lead after the halfway point, but extreme heat and humidity produced leg and stomach cramps that forced him to slow to a walk nine times. He struggled to cross the line first. Sunday, Saleh tried to run away from the pack, and failed.

Grete Waitz won the women's division for the fourth straight year, her seventh victory in the last eight years, finishing in 2:28:33. The 32-year-old Norwegian battled early intestinal problems and pulled away from second-place finisher Australian Lisa Martin. Italy's Laura Fogli finished third.

Pizzolato, content to run as far back as 20th in the early stages of the 26.2-mile race, overtook Saleh in the final three miles. Saleh, the pre-race favorite from the tiny

Running

East African nation of Djibouti, wilted in the 71-degree heat and strong sun, and finished second.

"Last year was just inexperience." Pizzolato said. "There's a big difference between running first in New York and coming from behind."

The crowd lining the streets of the city's five boroughs, estimated at over 2 million. kept Pizzolato informed of his status. He trailed Saleh by a minute when he came off the Queensboro Bride, 16 miles into the race, and steadily made up ground until he caught the leader after 23 miles. Saleh, the 29-year-old winner of the World Cup Marathon at Hiroshima, Japan in April. battled gamely, regaining the lead several times during a mile-long duel through Central Park, but Pizzolato pulled away for good on the course's last hill.

"I was worried when he came back after I passed him," said Pizzolato, who finished sixth at Hiroshima. "But I could see he wasn't cutting the corners, and that's a sign that he was probably in trouble."

Saleh was second in 2:12:29, and Pat Petersen of Lake Ronkonkoma, N.Y., was third in 2:12:59.

Pizzolato, who won last year in 2:14:53, adhered to pre-race strategy to run a strong second half. At Hiroshima, he ran a 1:03:46 second half, one of the fastest in history.

Saleh, who won the World Cup in 2:06:09, third-fastest time in history, took up competitive running upon joining the Djibouti army four years ago.

"I started the race like I usually do, but around the 19th mile I got a cramp in my right leg," Saleh said. "I've had this problem before, especially at the end."

Waitz pulled away from Martin after 11 miles. "There was a slight tail wind the first part of the race, and that made us run faster," Waitz said. "We paid for it the last part."

"I knew she (Martin) was in good shape and really wanted to beat me this time. It was an inspiration to me to run together that long."

Pizzolato and Waltz each received $25,000 and an automobile valued at over $20,000.

Buoniconti's Injury Similar To Stingley

JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (UPI) - Citadel linebacker Marc Buoniconti's condition remained critical but stable after he suffered a critical cervical injury similar to that which paralyzed former Boston Patriot Darryl Stingley, officials said. Buoniconti, 19, a middle linebacker for The Citadel, a South Carolina military school, and son of former Miami Dolphin all-pro linebacker Nick Buoniconti, was injured while tackling a runner in his team's 28-21 victory over East Tennessee State Saturday.

We could not give a prognosis right now because of the nature of the injury. It takes a while for the initial shock to wear off." Aubrey Lee, Johnson City Medical Center chief spokesman, sid

"He is still critical but stable. He is medicated but alert and able to communicate."

Tests were conducted Sunday to determine the extent of Buoniconti's injury, particularly to his spinal cord.

"With injuries of this type there is always an exception. and we are hoping this is the exception," said Walt Nadzak, atheltic director for The Citadel. "The doctors were able to get his

Howser: Royals Had Winning Look Before Game

KANSAS CITY (UPI) - Dick Howser said he could see it in the eyes of his players

He could tell, he said, merely by looking at his Kansas City Royals before Sunday night's seventh World Series contest with the St. Louis Cardinals that nothing was going to keep them from becoming baseball's new world champions.

Mike Ferraro, the Royals third base coach, had something else to say in the middle of their boisterous champagne quirting celebration.

He said the only ring Jim Sundberg ever got before in his 12 years in the majors was a ring around his collar. Now, finally, he was getting the one he wanted, the one all the Royals wanted that cherished World Series ring.

Bret Saberhagen, the World Series MVP and a proud father for the first ime all inside 24 hours, said he felt the world was at his feet. What more could be ask for?

Joaquin Andujar, one of the Cardinal victims of the big fifth inning tornado who seemed dead bent on blowing away plate umpire Don Denkinger all by himself, said hey, man, you think he'd be so dumb as to hit an umpire? Get serious, will you. He'd never do anything as crazy as that. No matter how hot he got.

Out of all the things that were said on both sides, out of the entire rubble of that devastating Sunday Night Massacre in which the Royals buried the suddenly impotent Cardinals under an 11-0 avalanche for their first world championship ever, Pat Sheridan's comment struck home most and covered it best.

"We deserved it," declared the Royals outfielder who helped Kansas City beat the Blue Jays in the playoffs and contributed four hits, including a pair of doubles against the Cardinals.

'It was such an uphili battle for us all year, in the playoffs as well as in the World Series, that it was no more than right that we should be able to sit back for at least one game like this one. It was as if someone was looking over us and saying ithat's enough. You've earned it."

Few who watched the Royals come off the floor and battle back after being down three games to one to the Blue Jays and after trailing the Cardinals by the same margin could argue that they didn't deserve to win.

One or two of the Cardinals, perhaps taking their cue from their manager Whitey Herzog, harkened back to Saturday night's ninth inning in which they thought a call against them by Denkinger, umping at first this time, cost them the ball game. Denkinger called pinch hitter Jorge Orta safe leading off the inning and the Royals pushed over two runs afterward to win, 2-1, and tie the Series

When the Cardinal manager came out to argue a 2-and-2 pitch from Andujar on Sundberg in Sunday's game, he told Denkinger:

'We shouldn't be here. You screwed us Saturday night.'

Denkinger kicked Herzog out. That marked the first time a manager had been ejected in a World Series since Billy Martin was tossed in the fourth game of the 1976 Series.

One pitch after Herzog was chased, Andujar joined him when he charged toward Denkinger menacingly after the ump called ball three on Sundberg.

"I think it was hard for all of us to swallow the umpire's decision in Saturday's game because we felt cheated a little bit," said Cardinal right flelder Andy Van Slyke.

Like some of the other Cardinal players. Van Slyke also found it a bit difficult to defend Andujar's erratic behavior. The Cardinals' hardthrowing right-hander went after Denkinger so angrily that it looked as if he was going to physically fight him.

"I don't condone what Joaquin did. but I understand it," said Cardinal first baseman Jack Clark. "We are a class outfit and we let it pass when they took the sixth game from us. The National League umpires did a good job. The American League umpires did not."

Van Slyke said he felt badly about youngsters having to see the way Andujar acted, kids of 10 or 12.

"They may think that's how all ballplayers are," he said. "I think some adults might be able to understand what happened, but it would be hard for kids to do it, especially the ones who look up to the Cardinals."

Before Sunday night's showdown began, it had been advertised as a classic confrontration, but it was anything but that.

It got that billing because of the two starting pitchers: Saberhagen, who had won 20 games for the Royals during the regular season and beaten the Cardinals in Game 3, and lefthander John Tudor, who won 21 for the Cardinals and beat the Royals in Games 1 and 4.

Saberhagen had a cakewalk.

Tudor, cuffed for five runs and five hits in the 2 1.3 innings he worked. was so infuriated over his inefficiency that he banged his hand against a metal object after being removed from the game and had to go to a local hospital for stitches.

Denkinger Gets Last Word, Twice

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) - American League umpire Don Denkinger, criticized by the St. Louis Cardinals throughout the World Series, had the last word twice Sunday night.

"You're gone," he said to trate Cardinal manager Whitey Herzog, then issued the same order to pitcher Joaquin Andujar one pitch later.

Andujar, the fifth Cardinal pitcher of the night. got the thumb in the fifth inning for arguing a ball-four call on Jim Sundberg - an automatic ejection according to the rule book. Andujar also bumped into Denkinger as he argued.

Herzog was first into the dispute. But he actually began his tirade against Denkinger in the Cardinal clubhouse Saturday night after Game 6. Herzog said American League umpires, and Denkinger in particular, were biased in the

"Whitey came out and started yelling," Denkinger said of his decision to eject the manager. "He was using vulgarity. He was gone. We got ettled down, started again, (had) Andujar starts again. He's gone."

Andujar, who began jawing at Denkinger after his 2.2 pitch to Sundberg was called ball 3, said he was simply calling for catcher Darrell Porter to ask Porter about the location of the pitch.

"The umpire may have misunderstood," said Andujar, who lost game three and has pitched very poorly over the last six weeks.

In game six. Denkinger said pinch hitter Jorge Orta beat out a grounder to second baseman Tommy Herr. The call brought an trate Herzog from the Cardinal dugout for a lengthy argument.

Orta's single resulted in pinch runner Onlx Concepcion advancing to second and kept the inning alive for Dane lorg's two-run game winning blow that tied the series 3-3.

Piniella Sunday was named by general manager Clyde King to replace Billy Martin as the manager of the Yankees. Steinbrenner, who personally chose all of his team's managers in the past, left the decision on Martin's fate up to King.

Piniella comes to the helm as the 14th manager for the Yankees since Steinbrenner took over primary ownership of the team from CBS in 1973.

Intermittent Showers Postpone New Smyrna Racing One Week

NEW SMYRNA BEACH - After trying to warm up the race cars and dry the track in between intermittent showers, Saturday night's stock car racing program at New Smyrna Speedway finally had to be postponed to this coming Saturday night, Nov. 2, at 8 p.m.

End of the Month Championship events will then be run. with the super late models going for 50 laps on the brightly-lit, high-banked, half-mile of pavement.

It will also be a double-point night, and the last points program of the 1965 season.

Also on the loaded card is a 100-lap enduro. The cars will go counterclockwise for 50 laps, then, without stopping, will go down pit row and turn around to run the last 50 tours in clockwise fashion.

The winner's share has been set at $500, with the top 40 finishers also receiving part of the lucrative purse. The Eighth Annual "Florida Cracker 200" Late Model

State Championship has been scheduled for Sunday afternoon, Dec. 1, 1985 at New Smyrna Speedway. A night earlier, Saturday, Nov. 30, at 8 p.m., the late models will run a 50-lap "Cracker 200" tune-up event.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - Portland Trail Blazers coach Jack Ramsay judged the success of his team Sunday night

by who didn't score. After Kiki Vandeweghe's 25 points paced Portland to a 116-99 victory over the Golden State Warriors, Ramsay focused on the way his team shut down Golden State's Joe Barry Carroll. "Sam (Bowie) did a very good job on Joe Barry Carroll. Carroll didn't get a field goal until the final period," Ramsay said.

Vandeweghe scored 11 points in the third quarter, as Portland put the game away early.

Kenny Carr led Portland in rebounds with 13 to go with his 12 points. Carroll had 9 rebounds and 11 points for Portland's regular season record is now 2-0, and Golden State has dropped to 0-2.

Patient Thorpe Tops Renner

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — Developing patience is paying off for Jim Thorpe on the PGA Tour.

Before this season, Thorpe had never won a PGA tournament, and his highest finish had been a tie for second place. But he broke into the winner's column earlier this season at the Greater Milwaukee Open, and won again Sunday with a 4 and 3 victory over Jack Renner at the Tucson Match Play Championship.

Thorpe took home $150,000 for the win, placing him fourth on the money list this season with $379,091. Thorpe's previous highest finish in earnings was 46th in 1983 with $118,197.

Pizzolato Repeats As Marathon Champ

NEW YORK (UPI) - Last year, Orlando Pizzolato came out of nowhere to win the New York City Marathon. This year, he only had to come from 20th place.

The 27-year-old from Vicenza, Italy, applied a painful lesson learned in last year's race to repeat as champion of the glamourous road racing event, finishing in two hours. 11 minutes, 34 seconds. This year, the lesson was Ahmed Saleh's to learn.

In 1984, Pizzolato surged to a huge lead after the halfway point, but extreme heat and humidity produced leg and stomach cramps that forced him to slow to a walk nine times. He struggled to cross the line first. Sunday, Saleh tried to run away from the pack, and failed.

Grete Waitz won the women's division for the fourth straight year, her seventh victory in the last eight years, finishing in 2:28:33. The 32-year-old Norwegian battled early intestinal problems and pulled away from second-place finisher Australian Lisa Martin. Italy's Laura Fogli finished third.

Pizzolato, content to run as far back as 20th in the early stages of the 26.2-mile race, overtook Saleh in the final three miles. Saleh, the pre-race favorite from the tiny

Running

East African nation of Djibouti, wilted in the 71-degree heat and strong sun, and finished

"Last year was just inexperience," Pizzolato said. "There's a big difference between running first in New York and coming from behind."

The crowd lining the streets of the city's five boroughs, estimated at over 2 million, kept Pizzolato informed of his status. He trailed Saleh by a minute when he came off the Queensboro Bride, 16 miles into the race, and steadily made up ground until he caught the leader after 23 miles.

Saleh, the 29-year-old winner of the World Cup Marathon at Hiroshima, Japan in April, battled gamely, regaining the lead several times during a mile-long duel through Central Park, but Pizzolato pulled away for good on the course's last hill.

"I was worried when he came back after I passed him," said Pizzolato, who finished sixth at Hiroshima. "But I could see he wasn't cutting the corners, and that's a sign that he was probably in trouble." Saleh was second in 2:12:29, and Pat

Petersen of Lake Ronkonkoma, N.Y., was third in 2:12:59. Pizzolato, who won last year in 2:14:53, adhered to pre-race strategy to run a strong second half. At Hiroshima, he ran a 1:03:46 second half, one of the fastest in history.

Salch, who won the World Cup in 2:06:09, third-fastest time in history, took up competitive running upon joining the Djibouti army four years ago. "I started the race like I usually do, but around the 19th mile I got a cramp in my right leg," Salch said. "I've had this problem before, especially at the end." Waitz pulled away from Martin after 11 miles. "There was a slight tail wind the first part of the race, and that made us run faster," Waitz said. "We paid for it the last part.

Pizzolato and Waitz each received $25,000 and an automobile valued at over $20,000.

Similar To Stingley JOHNSON CITY, Tenn. (UPI)

- Citadel linebacker Marc Buoniconti's condition remained critical but stable after he suffered a critical cervical injury similar to that which paralyzed former Boston Patriot Darryl Stingley, officials said.

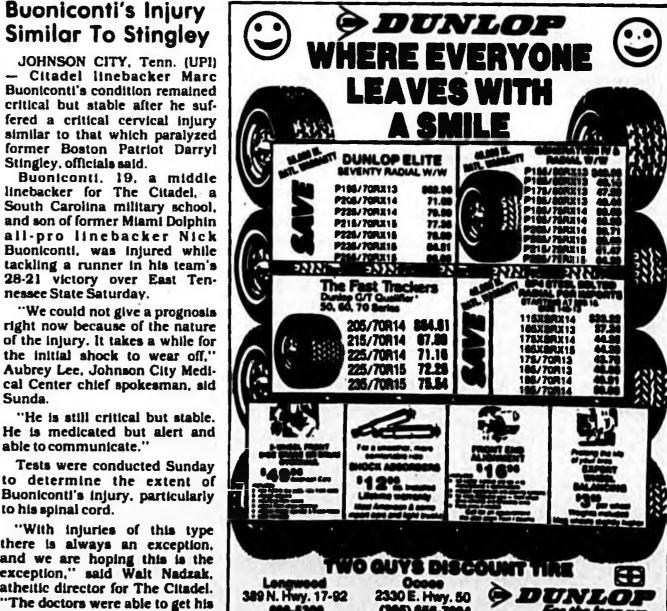

Buoniconti, 19, a middle linebacker for The Citadel, a South Carolina military school, and son of former Miami Dolphin all-pro linebacker Nick Buoniconti, was injured while tackling a runner in his team's 28-21 victory over East Tennessee State Saturday. We could not give a prognosis right now because of the nature of the injury. It takes a while for the initial shock to wear off," Aubrey Lee, Johnson City Medical Center chief spokesman, sid

"He is still critical but stable. He is medicated but alert and able to communicate.'

Tests were conducted Sunday to determine the extent of Buoniconti's injury, particularly to his spinal cord.

"With injuries of this type there is always an exception. and we are hoping this is the exception," said Walt Nadzak, atheitic director for The Citadel. "The doctors were able to get his neck lined up again."

Howser: Royals Had Winning Look Before Game

KANSAS CITY (UPI) - Dick Howser said he could see it in the eyes of his players.

He could tell, he said, merely by looking at his Kansas City Royals before Sunday night's seventh World Series contest with the St. Louis Cardinals that nothing was going to keep them from becoming baseball's new world champions.

Mike Ferraro, the Royals third base coach, had something else to say in the middle of their boisterous champagne squirting celebration.

He said the only ring Jim Sundberg ever got before in his 12 years in the majors was a ring around his collar. Now, finally, he was getting the one he wanted, the one all the Royals wanted - that cherished World Series ring.

Bret Saberhagen, the World Series MVP and a proud father for the first time all inside 24 hours, said he felt he world was at his feet. What more ould he ask for?

Joaquin Andujar, one of the Cardinal victims of the big fifth inning tornado who seemed dead bent on blowing away plate umpire Don Denkinger all by himself, said hey, man, you think ie'd be so dumb as to hit an umpire? Get serious, will you. He'd never do anything as crazy as that. No matter how hot he got.

Out of all the things that were said on both sides, out of the entire rubble of that devastating Sunday Night Massacre in which the Royals buried the suddenly impotent Cardinals under an 11-0 avalanche for their first world championship ever. Pat Sheridan's comment struck home most and covered it best.

"We deserved it," declared the Royals outfielder who helped Kansas City beat the Blue Jays in the playoffs and contributed four hits, including a pair of doubles against the Cardinals.

"It was such an uphill battle for us all year, in the playoffs as well as in the World Series, that it was no more than right-that We should be able to sit back for at least one game like this one. It was as if someone was looking over us and saying ithat's enough. You've earned it."

Few who watched the Royals come off the floor and battle back after being down three games to one to the Blue Jays and after trailing the Cardinals by the same margin could argue that they didn't deserve to win.

One or two of the Cardinals, perhaps taking their cue from their manager Whitey Herzog, harkened back to Saturday night's ninth inning in which they thought a call against them by Denkinger, umping at first this time, cost them the ball game. Denkinger called pinch hitter Jorge Orta safe leading off the inning and the Royals pushed over two runs afterward to win, 2-1, and tie the Series.

When the Cardinal manager came out to argue a 2-and-2 pitch from Andujar on Sundberg in Sunday's game, he told Denkinger: "We shouldn't be here. You screwed us Saturday night." Denkinger kicked Herzog out. That marked the first time a manager had been ejected in a World Series since Billy Martin was tossed in the fourth game of the 1976 Series.

One pitch after Herzog was chased, Andujar joined him when he charged toward Denkinger menacingly after the ump called ball three on Sundberg.

"I think it was hard for all of us to swallow the umpire's decision in Saturday's game because we felt cheated a little bit," said Cardinal right fleider Andy Van Slyke.

Like some of the other Cardinal players. Van Slyke also found it a bit difficult to defend Andujar's erratic behavior. The Cardinals' hardthrowing right-hander went after Denkinger so angrily that it looked as if he was going to physically fight him.

"I don't condone what Joaquin did. but I understand it," said Cardinal first baseman Jack Clark. "We are a class outfit and we let it pass when they took the sixth game from us. The National League umpires did a good job. The American leggue umpires did not."

Van Slyke said he felt badly about youngsters having to see the way Andujar acted, kids of 10 or 12.

"They may think that's how all ballplayers are," he said. "I think some adults might be able to understand what happened, but it would be hard for kids to do it, especially the ones who look up to the Cardinals."

Before Sunday night's showdown began, it had been advertised as a classic confrontration, but it was anything but that.

It got that billing because of the two starting pitchers: Saberhagen, who had won 20 games for the Royals during the regular season and beaten the Cardinals in Game 3, and lefthander John Tudor, who won 21 for the Cardinals and beat the Royals in Games 1 and 4.

Saberhagen had a cakewalk. Tudor, cuffed for five runs and five hits in the 2 1-3 innings he worked. was so infuriated over his inefficiency that he banged his hand against a metal object after being removed from the game and had to go to a local hospital for stitches.

The Royals' joy over winning was unrestrained. It overflowed the moment Motley grabbed Van Slyke's high fly in right field for the final out in the Motley jumped in the air twice and Willie Wilson rushed over from center field to grab him and embrace him. Royals reliever Dan Quisenberry. coming across the field from the bullpen, hugged and danced with any of his teammates he could find.

"People say we were loose," Howser said, an unopened champagne bottle in his hand. I don't think we were so loose. I was worried there for a while.

"When we got out of St. Louis alive and they didn't put us away there, I felt we had a good chance. Our players were always confident, I'm not talking about a rah-rah kind of confidence. You could just see it in their eyes that they just thought they could win."

Denkinger Gets Last Word, Twice

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) - American League umpire Don Denkinger, criticized by the St. Louis Cardinals throughout the World Series, had the last word twice Sunday night.

"You're gone," he said to trate Cardinal manager Whitey Herzog, then issued the same order to pitcher Joaquin Andujar one pitch later.

Andujar, the fifth Cardinal pitcher of the night. got the thumb in the fifth inning for arguing a ball-four call on Jim Sundberg — an automatic ejection according to the rule book. Andujar also bumped into Denkinger as he argued.

Herzog was first into the dispute. But he actually began his tirade against Denkinger in the Cardinal clubhouse Saturday night after Game 6. Herzog sald American League umpires, and Denkinger in particular, were biased in the

"Whitey came out and started yelling." Denkinger said of his decision to eject the manager. "He was using vulgarity. He was gone. We got ttied down, started again, (had) one pitch, Andujar starts again. He's gone,'

"Andujar came off the mound screaming that a pitch was inside. I told him one more (outburst) and he's gone.

Joaquin Andujar

Jim Sundberg

Andujar, who began jawing at Denkinger after his 2.2 pitch to Sundberg was called ball 3, said he was simply calling for catcher Darrell Porter to ask Porter about the location of the pitch.

"The umpire may have misunderstood," said Andujar, who lost game three and has pitched very poorly over the last six weeks.

In game six, Denkinger said pinch hitter Jorge Orta beat out a grounder to second baseman Tommy Herr. The call brought an Irate Herzog from the Cardinal dugout for a lengthy argument.

Orta's single resulted in pinch runner Onix Concepcion advancing to second and kept the inning alive for Dane lorg's two-run game winning blow that tied the series 3-3.

Martin Gets 4th Ax - Pinella Takes Job

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) - Lou Piniella may last longer than any New York Yankee manager in recent times. George Steinbrenner did not hire him - leaving open the possibility he may not fire him.

Piniella Sunday was named by general manager Clyde King to replace Billy Martin as the manager of the Yankees. Steinbrenner, who personally chose all of his team's managers in the past, left the decision on Martin's fate up to King.

The firing offically made the Yankees' long and rocky relationship with the controversial Martin a unique one for baseball annals. No other major league manager ever has been fired four times by the same club.

Piniella comes to the helm as the 14th manager for the Yankees since Steinbrenner took over primary ownership of the team from CBS in

"Lou has become one of our most popular players." King said in a prepared statement. He made the announcement jointly with Woody Woodward, team vice president of baseball

Hurricane Juan Swirls Toward Central Louisiana

NEW IBERIA. La. (UPI) -Hurricane Juan swirled toward the central Louisiana coast today with drenching rains and 85-mph winds, smashing two offshore oil rigs, tossing seamen from their ships and driving floodwaters over weakening levees.

Two people from a capsized ship were reported missing and 80 crewmen were forced to seek safety in "escape capsules" and a covered raft when two oil rigs collapsed this morning in the Gulf of Mexico. Three workers suffered injuries, including broken bones, during a rescue attempt at another rig.

More than 1,000 people had been evacuated west of New Orleans. East of the city, about 250 people were evacuated, and nearly 1,500 others were trapped in coastal villages by flooded roads.

Officials complained most coastal residents - jaded veterans of Hurricanes Danny and Elena this year - were staying put.

At 6 a.m., Juan was centered near 29.2 north and 92 west. about 70 miles south-southeast of Lafayette. The storm, with 85-mph winds, was moving north-northwest about 10 mph. Landfall was expected along the central Louisiana coast during the morning.

Only a handful of people took shelter at a school in New Iberia. where the storm was deemed most likely to make landfall.

"I think they're just too complacent right now," said Joe Norton, the Iberia Parish Red Cross director. "Then they'll holler for the National Guard to pull them out in knee-deep water."

Further west in Cameron Parish, where Hurricane Danny washed ashore Aug. 15, people gathered on the beaches to w tch the storm come in, said Dan Dupont, Civil Defense communications officer.

"There's nothing we can say to them. They've lived here all their lives," he said. "They know what an 85 mile an hour wind is like. We get them two. three times a year about this time."

About 2,000 residents of Grand Isle were marooned by floodwaters cutting off their sole land link to the mainland, Louisiana 1.

"There were no evacuations because it hit us too quick to evacuate." Grand Isle Police Chief Ernest LaFont said. "A lot of people left early on their own but we have 60. 70 percent left on the island."

He said the 7-mile-long island had taken a whipping.

"We had a protection levee the side and we've lost about 3 miles of it on the western end of the days later by sneaking past his island," La Font said.

the scene of the incident. New Tribes has responded. said Wyam, by informing the FARC "we would never pay ransom," and that "taking the lives of these three missionaries would be counterproductive for you. Public opinion would be in favor of the victims."

He explained the kidnapping had occurred while Cain and his wife were boarding a New Tribes plane for transport back to Villaviencio headquarters. Monet's "Impression - Sunrise" gave its name to the French school of painting known as the Impressionist Movement, in which Monet and fellow painters sought to capture in oil the changeable affects of light and weather. The name stuck after a French critic for the publication "Charivari" saw the title and used it in his review of "the impressionists." Brayer said the thieves escaped with five Monets, two paintings by Auguste Renoir, one by Berthe Morisot, the sister-in-law of Edouard Manet, and one by Naruse.

He listed the missing oils as "Camille Monet and his Cousin on the Beach at Trouville," "Portrait of Jean Monet," "Portrait of Poly, fisher at Belle-Isle, and "Field of Tulips in Holland," by Monet, "Bathers" and "Portrait of Monet" by Renoir, "Young Woman at the Ball," by Morisot, and "Portrait of Monet." by Naruse.

In 1971, Monet's son, Michel, donated 65 of his father's paintings to the museum, which built a special gallery for them.

Most of the Monet works were painted at the artist's home in Giverny in the Normandy region of France and are scenes of his famous water lily pond and garden.

parents. Now that more than 60 percent of American mothers work outside the home and approximately 10 million children under 12 years old are coming home to an empty house, this book is a timely treasure. It tells children what to do about accidents - bumps, bruises, burns, cuts, nosebleeds. poisoning, electric shock, stomachaches, etc. It covers every imaginable emergency, including what to do if somebody tries to break in; it stresses the importance of having the phone numbers of police, firemen. paramedics, neighbors and the 911 emergency number taped on every telephone. It tells a child how (and how not) to answer the door and telephone. There are simple recipes for children, and guidelines for parents on how to set up rules to keep peace between siblings. A single chapter titled "Is My Child Ready?" is well worth the price of the book. It contains a checklist for parents to test a child's readiness to be left alone. "Alone After School" should be in every home where children are left unsupervised - if for only a few hours occasionally. it's available at your local bookstore for $8.95. It it's sold out, it can be ordered directly from the publisher by calling this toll-free number: 1-800-238-2333. Or send a check or money order to Prentice-Hall, Englewood Cliffs, N.J. 07632 (add a dollar for postage). You'll be glad you did.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

The incidence of freakish hands at bridge is so slight that even seasoned players fall prey to carelessness when confronted by these distributional "monsters." Against the small slam. West led the diamond eight, a card meant to suggest to partner the return of a spade, which West could ruff. Unfortunately East did not have the diamond king, but even if he did. dummy was void of diamonds.

Naturally declarer ruffed the opening lead in dummy. He West was desperately trying to get partner on lead for the desired spade return. Who had ever heard of a suit splitting 6-7 anyway? In his cagerness to score up his slam, our short-

Actually declarer has enough high clubs to play with complete safety. After ruffing the opening lead, declarer should play a low spade and ruff with the club 10. Now trumps can be drawn in four leads. Next a heart is led to dummy's ace. (Note that this is a safety play to guard against the singleton king with East.) Now declarer plays dummy's ace of really had no way of telling that spades, pitching the diamond king, and ruffs another spade in his hand. He then leads a heart to the jack, queen and king, and the slam is made.

A trump lead would actually set the slam, but I don't blame West sighted declarer became care. for his imaginative lead.
