Robbers Shoot Sanford Detective

The shooting of a Sanford police officer Wednesday night almost turned into a double tragedy when a fellow officer opened fire on an off-duty sheriff's deputy at the scene.

Detective Ron Nance, 37, a nine-year veteran of the Police Department, is expected to be transferred to Shands Teaching Hospital in Gainesville today for treatment of shotgun wounds in his right eye, face and abdomen, police said.

Nance was shot about 10 p.m. by a man believed to be one of two armed robbers who held up a Sanford bar just moments earlier, police said.

According to Police Sgt. William Bernosky, Nance was involved in a drug investigation stakeout when he was alerted via police communications that two men were "heading his way" from George's Tavern, 1011 S. French Ave., which had just been robbed.

"The call about the robbery came in as a burglar alarm," Bernosky said. "But when an officer responded to the bar, he found out it was not a burglary but an armed robbery by two masked men in their twenties carrying a shotgun. We then put that information out and Nance, who was in an unrelated drug investigation just a few blocks away at W. 13th Street and Holly Avenue, saw two men running toward him, shined his light on them, told them to stop, and that's when the one guy fired at him."

Bernosky said Nance, who is an expert marksman and has won numerous awards and trophies for his shooting skills, fired six shots at the men but apparently did not hit them.

"Ronnie probably did not even know he'd been hit in the eyes when he started shooting," Bernosky said. "It's instinctive to return fire. But it's understandable that he missed them, because he just couldn't see. Also, they fired more than one shot from the shotgun. They meant to kill someone."

Fellow investigator Ray Bronson got to the wounded Nance first and summoned help, police said. Herndon Ambulance personnel rushed Nance to Seminole Memorial Hospital, Sanford, where he was listed this morning in satisfactory condition, awaiting transfer to the Gainesville hospital.

Police said today that they had "good leads" concerning the shooting and added that they have recovered the shotgun, shotgun shells and a mask believed to have been used in the incident.

But the night didn't end with Nance's being taken to the hospital and police, along with deputies, police dogs and police helicopters, combing the area unsuccessfully for the two suspects.

At least five shots were fired from a Sanford police officer's revolver at an off-duty sheriff's deputy who responded to the scene.

"Thank God he wasn't hurt," said Sheriff John Polk concerning Deputy Charles Reynolds, who reportedly was shot at after he arrived at the scene and was mistaken as one of the suspects.

One of the shooting suspects was wearing a light-colored shirt and dark pants, police said, and so was Reynolds. The deputy and the two suspected armed robbers are black, police added. Officials said the incident occurred when Reynolds apparently approached the scene of the shooting to offer assistance and Sanford Police Officer Gordon Reid opened fire on him. Reynolds reportedly "hit the dirt" and was not injured in the incident.

"We are conducting an internal investigation of the incident," said Herb Shea, assistant to Police Chief Ben Butler. "It would be premature for me to comment further."

"I'm not going to say anything to Chief Butler about the officer shooting at the man," Polk said today. "I just want us to sit down as we do in these cases, and we'll look back at it, critique it, see what we can change and what we did right. Then we'll set up guidelines and parameters to avoid such situations and be better prepared."

Polk said he is "not blaming anyone" for the reported incident between Reid and Reynolds.

"I'm sure there were some errors made by all concerned and that we will learn from those errors," he said. "It's very unfortunate, but not uncommon, that things like this happen in such tense situations."

Meanwhile, Bernosky said his department has received "nothing but support" from area agencies which he says "have offered to help us and Ron in any way they can. There's been a real show of camaraderie among the departments."

Shea said he expects Nance will be hospitalized "at least a week and not be back at work on light duty for at least a month."

The Arkansas-born Nance and his wife, Betty, have two sons, Rodney, 11, whose birthday is today, and Bradley, 4.

Seminole Included In Hospital Appeal

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

A state Division of Hearings officer has ruled that hospital beds allotted to Florida Hospital for Orange County will be included with those in Seminole County in an appeal by the Hospital Corporation of America (HCA).

The state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS) had granted Florida Hospital a certificate of need last November for a 50-bed addition at its Altamonte Springs facility, while rejecting HCA's request to build a 150-bed hospital in Longwood.

In its appeal, HCA included 134 beds which the HRS had given Florida Hospital-Orlando in Orange County. Florida Hospital had requested that the Orange County beds be excluded because HCA had not made any application in Orange County and Florida Hospital was not the only hospital in Orange to be allotted new beds.

Additionally, the Health Systems Agency of East Central Florida, which accepts applications and makes recommendations to HRS, works on a county basis.

The appeal by HCA will be heard in Orlando in hearings June 8-11 by the state Division of Administrative Hearings.

HCA has included in the appeal a challenge of the Health Systems Agency's methods of determining the number of beds needed. HRS had based its decision on the conclusion that Seminole County will need only 56 more medical-surgical beds by 1986.

HCA, which will open its new Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford early in June, has been granted a conditional use for its proposed site by the Longwood City Commission, which backs its efforts to build a hospital in the city.

"It's really a hearing of the Health Systems Agency itself," said Melinda House, spokesman for Florida Hospital, "and its methods to determine the number of beds. That is the real issue, and we feel the final ruling will uphold HSA and its planning."

"The bottom line," she added, "is that we are overcrowded and don't have enough beds for the patients we are currently serving. We feel confident our needs will be recognized."

Kim Beaton, HSA executive, has pointed out that should either party be dissatisfied with the June ruling, it can still take its appeal to district court.

The hearing judge also has the option of granting HCA's 150-bed request, in addition to Florida Hospital's 50 beds.

Keeping Drug-Bust Money Alleged

Tony Brooks Being Probed

By JOE DESANTIS
Herald Staff Writer

A former Sanford police detective is under investigation today by his new employer, the Monroe County Sheriff's Department, following allegations that he kept $10,000 from a drug bust in Sanford in January.

Lawyers for William Robert Allmond and Paul Mann, co-defendants in a drug trafficking charge, have alleged that former Sanford Detective Tony Brooks has a tape recording showing he kept $10,000 from the two men he arrested in a Sanford motel in January on charges of dealing in Quaaludes.

Defense lawyer Alan Braverman of Fort Lauderdale made the allegations in Seminole Circuit Court on Wednesday before Judge Robert B. MacGregor.

The co-counsel in the case, lawyer Bruce Randall, also of Fort Lauderdale, said this morning he expects to submit testimony June 2 that will show Brooks kept $10,000 of an alleged $40,000 drug bust.

"Right now we can't prove he has the money," said Mann. "But one of the officers was wired and Brooks has a tape recording of the alleged transaction."

"Brooks recorded it, and when he left

Ex-Officer Jones Charged In Arson

Former Sanford Police Officer Walter L. Jones is facing two additional charges in the 1980 torching of his home in the Goldboro section of Sanford.

Jones was charged Wednesday with second-degree arson and third-degree burning to defraud an insurance company, according to papers filed by the state attorney's office.

A charge of solicitation to commit arson in connection with the December 1980 fire was filed against Jones in February after he was indicted by a grand jury. During the February hearing the state argued that Jones had solicited three people to set fire to his home at 1839 Jerry St. so he could collect on an insurance policy.

The three co-defendants — Sharon Lee Meeker, 31, of 606 Park Ave., Sanford;

James Michael Williams, 35, of Union Park, and Williams' ex-wife, Patricia, 34, of Lake Mary — all have confessed to their participation in the arson.

The three testified they were to be paid $2,000 from money Jones was to collect from an insurance policy but that they never received any of it. Ms. Meeker testified she committed the act for love of Jones and not for money.

Ms. Meeker is expected to be sentenced to 15 years' probation in exchange for her guilty plea to the arson charges, while Mrs. Williams is currently serving a sentence of 10 years' probation. Williams was sentenced to one year in the county jail in addition to probation. All three also were ordered to make restitution of payment to the insurance company that paid on the claim.

Previous court testimony revealed that Williams admittedly was the one who actually ignited the blaze after splattering the home with fuel.

Circuit Judge Dominick Salfi rejected a request by Williams' lawyers for sentence reduction at a hearing Wednesday.

All three co-defendants are expected to be asked to testify in Jones' trial, for which no date has been set. If convicted, the former 13-year veteran police officer could face up to 25 years in prison.

The state also is expected to refile insurance-fraud charges against Jones in Orange County, since payment for the destroyed home was made to him through a company in that county.

Jones is currently free on pre-trial release. — TENI YARBOROUGH

Seminole's State Senators Must Run Again This Year

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County's three state senators called for in the legislative reapportionment approved by the Florida Supreme Court must run for reelection this year even though they were elected to four-year terms in 1980.

But that's not the only bad news they — Sens. John Vogt, D-Cocoa Beach, Richard Langley, R-North Minneola, and Toni Jennings, R-Orlando — received from the high court Wednesday.

All three also will have to run for reelection again in 1984. They will actually face the voters three times in four years.

The Supreme Court ruled that those 20 state senators in odd-numbered districts — and that includes Sen. Jennings, Vogt and Langley — must run again this year because their new districts are substantially different.

A "little surprised" at the ruling, Sen. Jennings said today the decision doesn't seem fair.

"The Constitution is fairly clear that senators run for four-year terms even though reapportionment has taken place," she said.

She said her senatorial campaigns have become almost identical to those she conducted while in the Florida House — every two years. She was elected to the House in 1976 and 1978, both two-year terms, and thought that when she was elected in 1980 that it was for four years.

"The Legislature may bring forth an amendment to clarify that part of the Constitution," she said. "I don't think the Legislature or the people intended that half the Senate should be treated differently from the other half."

The 20 state senators elected in 1978 will also be running for reelection this year, but their terms will be for four years.

She said the Supreme Court was obviously concerned that part of the people — those included in a different senatorial district — would be disenfranchised if they could not vote for or against their senators.

Sen. Jennings said the majority of her district before reapportionment was in Orange County, with a small portion in Lake County. Her new district includes a large part of Orange and about 40,000 residents of Seminole. The Seminole portion lies south of State Road 436 and west of Maitland Avenue.

While the old district contained about 500,000 persons, the new one has about 226,000. The district size also has been reduced geographically.

Noting that she has been actively involved in the Maitland-South Seminole Chamber of Commerce, Sen. Jennings said the Seminole part of her new district is familiar to her. "The Seminole portion is a compact area and has much in common with Orange County," she said.

While she hasn't formally announced plans to seek reelection, Sen. Jennings said she will be doing so within the next few days.

She said the Seminole portion of her district lends itself to her type of door-to-door campaigning.

And she hasn't as yet compiled a budget for her campaign. Noting that she spent $85,000 on her Senate campaign in 1980, she said she had both primary and general election opposition that year.

She said she will have a smaller area with a smaller constituency this year, and that costs will depend on whether she has opposition or not.

The numbers are in on this past TV season. They aren't good. They aren't a surprise either, if you watch a lot of TV.

This has been a surprisingly punchless season. The three networks combined failed to generate either a commercial or critical hit series. There was no new "Mork and Mindy" this season; no "Hill Street Blues." No new stars.

Nor was there a big event this season — a "Roots" or a "Shogun." At least, not on the three networks. Recently, a lot of attention was focused on "A Woman Called Golda," the four-hour Golda Meir bio starring Ingrid Bergman. That was an Operation Prime Time project that appeared on an ad-hoc network of independent stations. Not good enough for the big three networks, apparently.

"Brideshead Revisited" also drew a lot of talk during the past three months, reviving public interest in the literature and fashion of 1920s Britain. That was on PBS.

CBS won the series ratings derby again, followed closely by ABC and distantly by NBC. Not much changed there. What did change was that the pie got smaller. The big three lost another million viewers to cable and enterprising local stations, which have been eating away at them for several years.

Overall, the networks were off by 2.3 ratings points from a year before. Each rating point is supposed to be worth about $70 million in advertising revenue. As in the case in any business, the weakest outlet will suffer most. NBC is absorbing much of the loss.

The situation at NBC is bleak, bleak enough for there to be industry rumblings that the third-place network may not continue in its present form much longer. One rumor is that NBC's parent company, RCA, may try to unload it. Another is that NBC may simply pull out of the competition for mass-market series and concentrate instead on miniseries, specials and other sorts of prestige programming.

That latter idea makes good sense — NBC failed to land one series in the top 20 this season. Its best show was "Real People," in 22nd place.

CBS had the top three with "Dallas," "60 Minutes" and "The Jeffersons." CBS also placed "Alice" (6th), "Dukes of Hazzard" (7th) and "M-A-S-H" (10th). Only one new CBS show, "Falcon Crest," landed in the top 20, but its success is tainted by the fact that it follows "Dallas" on Friday nights. And it didn't generate any new interest in series TV. It is simply yet another prime-time sooper. Nothing original.

The same can be said of ABC's "Joanie Loves Chachi," a recent spin-off of "Happy Days," that placed fourth overall in the ratings. ABC also placed "Three's Company" (5th), "Too Close for Comfort" (8th) and "The ABC Monday Night Movie" (9th) in the top 10.

The fact that neither ABC nor CBS was able to create interest in a new, trend-setting show is especially significant because two of their strongest fixtures — ABC's "Barney Miller" and CBS' "M-A-S-H" — are on the way out. The talents want to move on. You don't replace long-term hits overnight. The seeds should have been planted this year and they weren't.

This overall viewer downslide has clearly caught the big three unprepared. They are used to captive viewers. While they have long competed vigorously with each other, each has done so with the same kind of junk the other guy was selling.

Now more and more Americans are being offered quality alternatives, and the networks don't know how to compete with that. The producers they're used to working with, people like Aaron Spelling, specialize in cut-rate junk. Not quality.

Soap Star Supports Tibet

NEW YORK — When Mala Danziger (Katy Whitney on "The Doctors") isn't working on the soap she's most likely involved with the Tibetan Survival Relief League, an organization she helped found after making trips to India. The non-profit organization helps the Tibetan people by sending clothing, vitamins and medicine.

"I'm very lucky and make a good living," says Mala, who supports a 7-year-old

"Without this work," she says, "I think everything else in my life would be very hollow and empty."

CAST CHANGES: Joining "As the World Turns" as Craig Montgomery, Lila's son, is daytime newcomer Scott Bryce; and Hugo Napier is Gunnar St. Clair Stenbeck, the handsome gentleman who's confusing Barbara Stenbeck's life.

Over on "Ryan's Hope," Peter Haskell has joined the cast as millionaire Hollis Kirkland III. Peter was seen in "Bracken's World," a night-time soap that aired several years ago.

Marion Lines plays Libby Webster on "Edge of Night" and "The Young and the Restless" has added several names to its cast, including Christopher Holder as Kevin Bancroft; Jerry Douglas as John Abbott.

Cancelled Shows: Are They Victims Of Bad Timing?

DEAR DICK: I've been wondering — are most TV shows (past, present) that are off TV taken off because they were wrongly scheduled? M. POCHA, Saginaw, Mich.

That's like saying, 'Are most major-league baseball teams that finish badly rotten because they had bad managers?' It's very iffy, and you can believe what you want to believe. The networks say no, that shows are taken off because the public simply didn't like them. But producers will often blame the lack of success on the scheduling. I personally am inclined to agree more with the network position — I feel that a really good program will be discovered by the viewers, no matter what time it is on.

DEAR DICK: My brother and I have been watching the mini-series "The Flambeards," on PBS. We were wondering if the shots of airplanes in flight were done with radio-controlled models or piloted full-size aircraft. CHRIS WAGGNER, Tucson, Ariz.

According to my PBS sources, the planes you saw were full-size models. They were built to size for the series, but without flight capability. For the filming, these full-scale models were (in my PBS informant's delicate phrase) "maneuvered artificially."

DEAR DICK: At the start of "The Best of the West," they show a stage coach passing through a town. Was that scene shot at Virginia City in Montana? PAT LENZ, Taber, Alberta, Can.

No. Just another example of how you can find — and film — anything around Hollywood. That was shot at the Paramount Ranch, which is not far from Los Angeles.

DEAR DICK: My husband and one of his work buddies have a bet going. This guy says that Clayton Moore, who played The Lone Ranger, is dead. We say he is still alive. Which one is right? PAMELA BALL, Seneca, Mo.

DEAR DICK: Could you tell me whether William Powell is still alive? ANITA LEIGH FINCH, Cranbury, N.J.

DEAR DICK: I'd like you to settle an argument for me. My fiancée says Bobby Van, Elaine Joyce's husband, died of some kind of cancer. I say he's still alive. Who's right? S. COOK, Mercerville, N.J.

DEAR DICK: Recently, I read an article about Mike Connors. Seems to me that some time ago I read where he had passed away. What goes here? Would like to know if he is living or not. CECILE J. HILL, Vicksburg, Mich.
Moore, Powell and Connors are still living. Bobby Van did die, the victim of a brain tumor.

DEAR DICK: Are Ron Ely and Wink Martindale the same person? V. JOHNSON, TUV. JOHNSON, Tucson, Ariz.

No. Where did you get that odd idea?

...Into The Wild Blue Yonder With The Band

Band, features those familiar sounds of the South — Dixieland jazz.

This outstanding group is composed of full-time Air Force musicians from throughout the United States. Their vast talent and capabilities enable them to perform at a variety of military functions and community events.

Under the direction of Master Sergeant Keith Kindle, with his 20 years of Dixieland experience, Dixie Express has performed throughout the Southeast, Puerto Rico, Panama, and St. Thomas and St. Croix, U.S. Virgin Islands.

Dixie Express received a "Best Band" award for its participation in one of the parades during the 1981 New Orleans Mardi Gras. The award was presented by the people who marched in the parade, the Krewe of Thoth. This entertaining group truly offers a musical visit to the Old South.

Master Sgt. Charles V. Mincey is the Master of Ceremonies and featured vocalist with the band. Upon entering the Air Force in 1968, Sgt. Mincey was assigned as an administrative specialist until joining the Air Force musical field in April, 1974. During that period, he performed with several popular musical groups at military bases. He also completed a tour in the Eastern Mediterranean area with the prestigious "Tops in Blue," a show made up of Air Force talent contest winners.

As with all the members of the Band of the Air Force Reserve, Sgt. Mincey is an active duty Air Force musician, working in support of Air Force and Air Force Reserve recruiting and community relations objectives. In addition to his musical duties with the band, Sgt. Mincey is the Unit's First Sergeant.

Sgt. Patricia White is one of the featured vocalists with the band. In addition, Sgt. White performs as a vocalist with the "Mellowtones" protocol combo. A native of Tampa, she is a 1977 graduate of Hillsborough High School.

Prior to her enlistment in November, 1977, Sgt. White sang in a 14-member vocal group in high school, "Sound System 77," which in turn led to an interest in full-time singing. She recently performed in radio commercials in Tampa, and Macon, Ga., and also recorded vocals for the Air Force Reserve radio-TV commercial "There's Only One Number One."

Sgt. White performed with the Band of the United States Air Force Reserve's popular rock combo, "Reserve Generation," for two years. During that time she competed in the Search III, Macon division talent competition, placing third overall and first among vocalists.

Slim Goodbody Teaches Health With Captain

Using entertaining rhymes with a message is one way Slim Goodbody teaches young children about health, week-day mornings on "Captain Kangaroo" on CBS. The CBS children's series, with Bob Keeshan as the Captain, broadcasts "Slim Goodbody's Top 40 Health Hits" every Tuesday and Thursday from Slim's Station W-E-L-L.

Underwritten by Kraft Inc., the one-minute songs, which feature a variety of puppet characters as well as musical formats, are designed to teach youngsters about how their bodies work as well as good nutrition and health habits.

The Goodbody character was created in 1974 by New York actor John Burstein. In 1978, the twice weekly series was introduced as "The Adventures of Slim Goodbody in Nutri-City."

Talking to children about why they sometimes hurt, Slim explains that pain is the body's way of signaling that something is wrong.

"The message shouldn't be ignored. I tell them to talk to an adult first, who will find out the best way of helping their body."

Slim emphasizes that the body's own natural healing powers can usually solve the problem, although sometimes a little help is needed from the outside.

"It's important for children to realize that a bandage doesn't heal a cut," says Slim. "The body takes care of itself. But you have to put yourself in the right place to allow this process to work."

"That means maintaining a balance in every area: physically — getting plenty of exercise and eating the right foods; emotionally — knowing what to do with your feelings, not repressing them; intellectually — using your mind actively; and spiritually — feeling good about yourself."

"I tell children that there are germs out in the air all the time. But the body is strong enough to fight them off as long as it is balanced."

Slim wears a bodysuit painted with bones, muscles, organs and the various systems to help show children how everything works together. His message is one of preventative medicine.

Parents play a crucial role when dealing with a sick child, Slim says. "Pain often causes fear. Parents can stoke the fire of fear and make the child feel worse. Concern is one thing, but becoming overwhelmed by the condition is another."

Slim suggests: "Present a calm picture to the child. Help him to understand that pain is part of a process. It's a feeling that will pass."

"Touch is very helpful in soothing a child. Being hugged and loved goes a long way toward getting well."

Sanford, Florida — Friday, May 14, 1982

The Air Force Reserve Band, shown here in full dress uniform, takes a pause from its busy schedule. The group will perform in Sanford Monday.

With The Air Force Reserve Band

An Evening Of Music On The Patio

The 36-member United States Air Force Reserve Band will bring its multi-faceted show to town Monday, May 17 for a free public concert at the Sanford Civic Center on Sanford Avenue.

Sponsored by the Evening Herald and the city of Sanford, the outdoor performance will begin at 7:30 p.m. and last about 1½ hours.

Formed in 1941, the band is headquartered at the Robins Air Force Base in Georgia. Since its founding, the band has serenaded presidents, visiting heads of state, and thousands of Americans and foreign citizens.

The band performs a wide range of musical pieces including jazz, pop, classical and show tunes, many featuring vocal solos and the band chorus.

In recognition of its efforts as the Air Force Reserve's musical ambassadors, the Band has received multiple Air Force Outstanding Unit Awards as well as many civilian awards for its outstanding showmanship.

Monday's concert will be lead off with the American Legion March to be followed by the "Jericho Rhapsody," a musical version of the story of Joshua at the battle of Jericho.

"Reflections," the second movement of the "Ballet for Jazz," and a trumpet melody, "Triplets of the Finest," will be the next offerings. Then, a pops version of Rossini's "William Tell Overture," "William Tell Rides Again."

The latter portion of the concert will be composed of contemporary classics — "Maria" from "West Side Story," "I'm Glad There Is You," Roberta Flack's hit, "Killing Me Softly," "For Your Eyes Only" from the latest James Bond movie, and the Beatle smash, "Can't Buy Me Love."

The show will conclude with "America the Beautiful" performed by the Air Force Reserve Singers.

Within the large concert show band are several multi-talented subunits. These groups include the "Mellowtones" protocol combo, the New Orleans-flavored "Dixie Express," the marching band, a big band jazz ensemble, and the "Highlanders" bagpipe unit.

Severe Depression Has No Easy Cure

DEAR DR. LAMB—About three years ago my husband had a severe depression. We took him to a well-known doctor in a psychiatric clinic. He was given 14 electroconvulsive treatments (ECT) and placed on medicine. He got along very well and seemed to be in very good health. Recently the depression has returned and he is in the hospital again. They plan to give him three more ECTs.

He is 66 years old. He did drink some until he got sick. He has not drunk a drop of alcohol since, during the past three-and-a-half years.

I do not understand depression. I am told it is a chemical imbalance. If this is true can't the chemical that he has too much of be identified and something be done to correct it? I did not expect this condition to return. Can you help me understand the condition better?

DEAR READER—Your letter is an example of the right things to do about severe depression. Such individuals do need professional help. And the more than three years of freedom of illness is an example of what can be done with modern management.

Yes, they do tend to recur. And, yes, they may be related to chemical changes but we don't know enough about these to correct them simply as yet. And there may be associated inherited tendencies. Just how environmental stress, inherited tendencies and brain chemistry work together is still under research. But as your husband's case exemplifies, much can be done to help people with such a problem.

It is dangerous to neglect such problems or try a do-it-yourself approach. Professional assistance is mandatory.

At lesser degrees we all have mild depressive reactions, mood swings. Depressive reactions occur in response to change in life. Disappointments may usher in a depression. Loss of a love relationship may be cause.

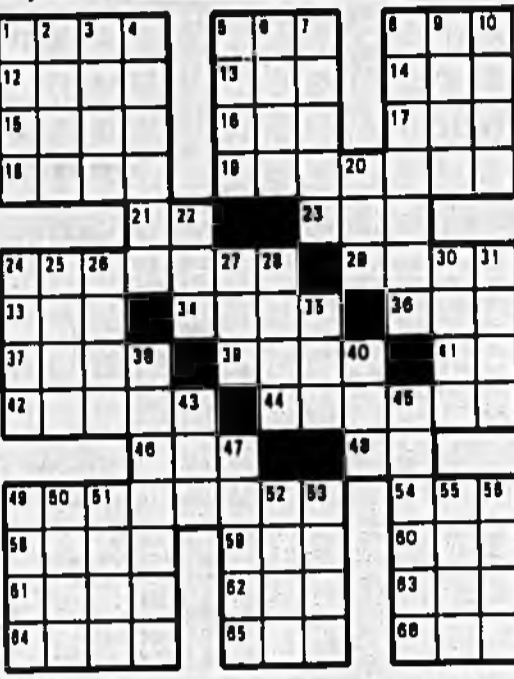

Young people are subject to depression because of changes in life. These depressions are part of personality growth, and are not ill itself.

To help you understand the spectrum of depression better I am sending you The Health Letter number 10-10 Depression: The Ups and Downs of Life. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am a 26-year-old woman with a lump in my groin area about the size of a child's marble. I know of course about lumps in the breast but what about the groin? I've had it for about five years and lately it seems to have gotten a little larger. Out of stupidity I gave it a good squeeze and experienced a tremendous amount of pain. It did partially flatten out but eventually returned.

DEAR READER—Everyone should know that if you have a lump anywhere—breast, armpit, groin or wherever—and don't know what it is you should have your doctor check it. A lump anywhere can be cancer. In many instances it is necessary to biopsy it or cut it out to see what it is. Doctors always say, check it if it gets larger. But since we are usually not born with it is clear that any lump must have gotten larger sometime—starting from nothing to become a recognizable lump.

You may have an enlarged lymph gland. It may be a small hernia or a fatty tumor. Let your doctor decide. Never squeeze a lump. If that is a small hernia, squeezing a loop of bowel is not too swift.

YOUR BIRTHDAY

May 14, 1982

Rather than make work or career changes this coming year, strive to make the most of the field in which you are already familiar. Conditions will begin to improve for you as each month passes.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Where your ambitions are concerned today, co-workers and associates will be supportive only up to a point. Don't overstep your boundaries. Predictions of what's in store for you in each season following your birth date and where your luck and opportunities lie are in your Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If playing competitive games with friends today, play for the fun of it. Don't make the play a measure of who is the better person.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) You're a good starter today, but you might not be a strong finisher. If you undertake something, stick to it until it's completed.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Seek companions today who enjoy the same types of activities that you do. Inviting one in who is out of synch might spoil the fun for all.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You should get along quite well with business associates or those with whom you deal commercially today. However, you might not handle your social involvements as smoothly.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) When operating in familiar fields you should be able to get the types of results for which you hope today. An excursion into untried areas could be a burner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You are capable of handling difficult situations well today, provided you are free from outside interference. When others butt in, all could go awry.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Business and pleasure aren't apt to mix too well today, so try to keep the two separate. When the lines cross, complications are likely.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Cool and practical tactics will work well for you today in matters relating to your career or finances. Warmth must be added, however, when dealing with friends.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Good plans and ideas will count for little today if you fail to execute them as outlined. Be sure your actions do not deviate from your blueprint.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Today you must be very selective as to whom you reveal confidential matters. Certain people may not treat the information as sincerely as you do.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be careful in activities with friends today where each is required to pick up an equal share of the cost. Unless it is calculated in advance, complications are likely.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Bridge hand details including North-South and West-East scores, vulnerable status, and dealer information.

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

A scientific pair of bidders would probably stop short of a slam. If they did bid the slam scientifically, they would telegraph a diamond lead and the slam would be kept.

Today's hand was played at New York's Regency

Whist Club. South was the late Kenneth Kontam. He was taking a day off from the world championships, which his British team was in the process of winning. To play a few rubbers.

The unscientific bidding got Ken to six and he received the favorable lead of the nine of hearts. Dummy's jack was covered by East's queen and Ken's king.

Ken was in and played his ace of trumps. East discarded the eight of clubs and Ken had to stop to regroup. Usually a very fast player, he thought for a full minute before figuring out the only winning play.

He took his ace of diamonds, led a trump to dummy's nine and cashed the king of diamonds to discard his losing club.

Then he led a small diamond from dummy and ruffed low.

West made the best defensive play he could. He discarded a club.

Now Ken cashed a high heart. West couldn't afford to ruff and discarded another club. Now Ken ruffed one low heart with the king of spades and discarded his last loser on a good diamond. West could take his trump any time, but the slam was borne.

ERA Supporters See Hope In Redistricting Ruling

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Equal Rights Amendment strategists see new hope in the Florida Senate now — a chance to pressure several ERA opponents suddenly facing unanticipated elections this fall.

Gov. Bob Graham has been planning a June special session on the amendment for weeks, but it appeared a futile effort until Wednesday when the Florida Supreme Court ruled that all 46 senators have to run this year because of reapportionment.

"We're very encouraged," Florida ERA coordinator Gloria Sackman Reed said Thursday. That ruling is going to have a dramatic impact on several senators opposed to the ERA. "They hadn't expected to have to run until 1984 and they had figured people would have forgotten their stand on the amendment after two years."

Welder Charged In Murders

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — A 37-year-old welder is being held without bond on charges of first-degree murder for the slaying of the wife and two young daughters of a Westinghouse Corp. executive.

Allen Lee Davis, a welder at Jacksonville Shipyards Inc., was charged with three counts of first-degree murder and held at the Duval County Jail after he was refused bond during his first appearance in court Thursday. Davis' parents live next door to the slain woman, Mrs. Nancy Welles.

Police said they have no motive in the case.

High Court Chides Judges

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Florida Supreme Court has hinted to judges that they are too often retaining jurisdiction over criminals' sentences to keep them from winning parole.

In a footnote to a routine decision Thursday, the high court said judges have the authority under state law to retain jurisdiction over a third of a defendant's sentence but it "should be used sparingly and carefully."

Bitter that their sentences have no impact on the determination of parole, many judges throughout the state have been retaining jurisdiction to keep the Parole and Probation Commission from having the final say on how much time a criminal spends behind bars.

Israel Cancels Cease-Fire; Reportedly Massing Troops

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Israel declared its nine-month cease-fire with guerrillas in Lebanon "null and void" and reportedly massed two divisions on the border in a possible prelude to invasion.

The opposition Labor Party urged restraint by the government and Palestinians to avoid a full-scale war in southern Lebanon but the state-run radio said Thursday Prime Minister Menachem Begin announced the cease-fire had become "intolerable" for Israel.

Sanford Housing Authority Turns Money Tables On HUD

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

A claim by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) that the Sanford Housing Authority (SHA) may owe it $4,500 for funds improperly used in the defunct Community Development Block Grant program isn't being taken lightly by the Authority.

In fact, SHA is contesting that order, claiming HUD may owe it as much as $9,000 and the federal agency can deduct the $4,500 from that sum and send SHA the balance.

And the city of Sanford plans to hold on to some $59,000 it holds in safekeeping for HUD until the dispute is worked out or until June 10, whichever occurs first.

The city received a letter from HUD giving Sanford until June 10 to clear up accounts concerning the CDBG program. And the agency laid full responsibility on the city for the funding of the SHA-operated program which was designed to buy, renovate and sell houses to low-income families.

The program was stopped in April, 1981 on the recommendation of Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles who notified HUD that while some $500,000 had been spent in the program only eight houses had been acquired, renovated and resold.

The city ordered an audit of SHA accounts for the program and sold properties, materials and vehicles purchased with program money.

The Sanford City Commission was scheduled this week to return the funds realized from those sales — $40,026.42 — plus reimbursement of $19,841 in rental fees paid to the city by SHA for ground floor offices at City Hall and advance utility payments made for the offices.

HUD ruled that SHA could not spend federal grant money to rent a facility — City Hall — built with federal grant funds.

This week, the City Commission delayed forwarding the $59,847.42 ($40,026.42 plus $19,841) to HUD.

The delay was called after Knowles reported that SHA believes HUD owes it some money for unreimbursed expenses stemming from its operation of the CDBG program.

"This has got to be solved before the first dime is paid to HUD," Mayor Lee P. Moore said. His fellow commissioners agreed. Moore suggested the city has until 15 minutes before the June 10 deadline for the SHA to document its claims.

Linda Williams, SHA interim executive director, said by examining authority records she has found that the authority has not received reimbursement for a number of CDBG expenses. She listed: costs of some home repairs, a relocation payment to a family, an underpayment to another family and legal costs for clearing the title to a piece of property.

Mrs. Williams noted that the bills for the money owed have not been audited as yet, but that she hopes to have the documented information ready for the commission by its May 24th meeting.

Mrs. Williams says HUD owes the SHA about $9,000. If HUD wishes to deduct the $4,500 it says the authority owes from that sum SHA will still receive about $4,500.

"Obviously we may be getting some money back," Mrs. Williams said.

Uncle Sam Taketh Away...And Keepeth

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Twenty-two states sent more tax money to Washington last year to fund grants-in-aid than they got back, a research group said Thursday. They were led by Texas, which paid in $1.46 for every dollar it got back.

Texas, which topped the list issued by the Tax Foundation, Inc. for the second straight year, was followed by Connecticut, which paid in $1.41 for each dollar it got back in grants; Florida at $1.33; Kansas at $1.28, and New Jersey at $1.27.

Vermont fared better than any other state, paying out just 56 cents for every dollar it got back in fiscal 1981 grants-in-aid. Next was Alaska at 57 cents, followed by Mississippi and South Dakota at 60 cents, and Maine at 66 cents.

The District of Columbia

paid out just 24 cents for each dollar it got back in grants in aid.

The Tax Foundation economists reported that their fiscal 1981 list for states that paid out more than they got back was one state smaller than the 1980 list.

For the first time ever, Pennsylvania joined the ranks of states getting more than they pay out, while

Michigan went on that list for the first time in five years. On the other hand, Maryland rejoined the list of those
