THE OLD GIFTS

The lean year wanes to Christmas. What shall we, The pinched ones, we the empty-handed give, Whose yesterdays are but futility And whose tomorrows with the seal to live Are all but eaten up? We may not bring New gifts, the choice of wealth; but we can take Some old gifts from our earthly garnering And give them to the world for Christ's sweet sake:

For there are still upon life's at-tic-shelf A few old treasures worthy passing on: Courage forgotten; love that knows not self; But only others' virtue men thought gone— We yet may give. If Time's thick dust we stir, We'll find our gold, and frankincense, and myrrh.—Helen Frazer-Blower.

It's hard to do business in Havana. This column wishes all the other paragraphs in the state a Merry Christmas and plenty of new ideas.

Now that federal deposit insurance is about to put a stop to bank runs, maybe Congress can devise something that will prevent runs in silk stockings.

See where the government is going to organize a million dollar corporation for the purpose of underselling existing companies dealing in electrical appliances. Looks like that's something the NRA ought to investigate.

New congressional tax legislation proposes to "soak the rich" in the drive to raise funds for the recovery program. Here's hoping they can find some way of soaking the rich so that they can't pass the sock along to the poor.

An Oregon psychiatrist says there's no such thing as insanity; says Olin Miller in the Miami News. And another psychiatrist says there's no such thing as sanity; that everybody is a little bit cracked, so you can just take your choice.

The Fort Myers News-Press thinks the legal mind is an incompatible something. Attorney General Landis, for instance, once noted that beer was alcohol, and now according to the News-Press, alcohol that whiskey isn't. Well, if a man were consistent, he wouldn't be a man.

Governor Talmadge of Georgia wants to think the Civil Works Administration is paying too much for day laborers. Evidently he thinks that the "forgotten man" is being too well remembered. To all of which Administrator Perkins replies, "Some people just don't seem to see others making things worse. What constitutes being 'worse' however, depends on the point of view."

Toy Soldiers

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, energetic wife of the President, doer of many fine things for coal miners and other depressed people, has recently undertaken a campaign against the manufacture and use of toys such as tin soldiers, toy cannons, tanks and battalions which she insists are so militaristic as to inculcate warlike tendencies in the impressionistic youngsters of the country.

"Very often we sow the seeds in youth for an interest which will later engross the man or woman," is the major premise of Mrs. Roosevelt's argument. "Even toys," she insists, "may have a bearing on the trend of thought." According to this theory, every boy who plays cowboy and Indians grows up to be a cowboy or an Indian. Every kid who dons a fireman's uniform eventually becomes a fireman.

Our experience has led us to believe something of the contrary to be more nearly the truth. In our youth we loved to play with umbrellas and it was freely predicted that some day we would become an umbrella mender. Since then, however, we never even carry one. We have never even owned one, and we would have to draw heavily on our childhood memory even to operate one. A friend of ours was great on drawings. He was going to be an architect. Now he is an automobile salesman.

But if it were true, as Mrs. Roosevelt says, that "the glamour of the gorgeously dressed toy soldiers and the variegated toy armies with different uniforms and cavalry and artillery and bands will somehow create in the boy's mind an excitement which will carry over into manhood and may lead him, when he hears the military band play and sees uniforms and hears the rhythmic tramp of marching feet through the streets, to desire to join them," perhaps even that is for the best.

The last war we got into was not brought on by young men intoxicated by the glamor of mud-caked uniforms or the thrill of rat-filled trenches but by Wall Street bankers who had made loans to European nations and were afraid they would lose them. Once war was declared, perhaps it was all for the best that young men in their childhood days had learned to play with cannons and toy soldiers.

Little good it did him if he had no desire to join up. Little good it would again do if another European war should drag us in. Men who had not learned to play with toy soldiers would be drafted along with the rest. Maybe Mrs. Roosevelt takes the warlike toys away from children, some guarantee should be given that they will not be caught by a draft act when they grow up.

It is a serious thing not to raise your boy to be a soldier when he's got to be one anyway.

Congress Prepares To Meet

With the seventy-third Congress meeting in its first regular session in less than two weeks, many political commentators are beginning to wonder what will happen when the fiery representatives of the people gather on Capitol Hill to discuss the New Deal and make more laws. The consensus of opinion seems to be that as far as the Roosevelt Administration is concerned no unusually stormy weather is anticipated.

"Absence of militant Republican leadership," says the Miami Herald, "makes the minority even less potent as a troublemaker than it might be. Coupled with this is the fact that criticism of the Roosevelt policies at the present stage of the game brings no widespread applause from the people. To the contrary, it draws the raspberry, the Bronx cheer, even, because the Republican party has not yet restored itself to favor in many parts of these United States."

"Investigations of public works expenditures are certain, and may provoke some fireworks. No agency, private or public, could direct the spending of close to three billion dollars without favoritism or the faint aspect of graft creeping somewhere into the picture. The regulations of the senate banking committee may be considered a good antidote for public works disclosures, tending to keep the fires of public indignation against tax-evading bankers burning steadily."

"But when the time comes to vote on matters desired by President Roosevelt, there should be no lack of majorities, and so long as the radical policies he has inaugurated appear slowly to be working out along lines the country desires, congress, and especially its Democratic rulers, will not stand in Roosevelt's way."

"Congress itself has not yet won any considerable favor with the public, from the time it reached an all-time low in popular estimation during the latter years of the Hoover administration. Its only good feature this year was its docile acceptance of the Roosevelt bills, and until it exhibits greater degrees of statesmanship than have been evident in late years, the return of congress to the admiration of the citizens is going to be a slow process."

"For the time being the public expects it to keep its meddling fingers out of the whirling machinery of the New Deal. All indications point to its acceptance of that role in the forthcoming session."

(Continued From Page One) longed, and prosperous life." Rev. E. D. Brownlee, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church: "I feel that Mr. Allen's going will be a bitter loss to the religious life of Sanford. His high moral and spiritual ideals make him interested and active in Church work. He is benevolent treasurer for the Presbytery, and he is active in the local Presbyterian Church. He has served as General Superintendent of the Sunday School, and he is now assisting in the financial affairs of the Church with the Board of Deacons. Personally I regret very much losing him and his family."

Frank Evans, Lake Mary and Sanford civic and business leader: "I see in Mr. Allen's removal to Orlando the beginning of a broader and more active mission in the career of a citizen whom we have all come to know and appreciate. Eagerly interested in his profession and vitally concerned with any endeavor that will lead to a better life for the citizens of Orlando and Orange County which are to be congratulated on having secured as a permanent resident one of the outstanding men in Sanford and Seminole County. I wish him every happiness and success."

Karl Lehmann, trade body secretary: "Sanford and Seminole County have lost one of their most valued citizens, and while the Chamber of Commerce regrets losing Linton Allen as our treasurer and faithful director, we congratulate him on his new opportunities in Orlando."

Mr. Allen came to Sanford from Orlando in the Fall of 1927 to become head of the institution which opened its doors to the public on Jan. 3, 1928. At that time he had more than 18 years of banking experience, the last three of which he spent as the southern representative of the National Bank of the Republic of Chicago, with headquarters at Orlando.

Mr. Allen is a native of Georgia and a graduate of the University of Georgia. Shortly after his graduation, he entered upon his banking career at Brunswick, Ga., where he remained until called to service during the World War.

He served two years in France, and was a member of the Army of Occupation. Following his return from France, Mr. Allen became associated with the American Exchange-Trust Co. of New York City, and for four years he acted as a southern representative for that institution.

Since his arrival in Sanford, Mr. Allen has taken a leading part in many activities, religious, business, civic, and social. He is a director of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and he has been its treasurer for many years. He is a member of the Shrine and of the American Legion.

JAPANESE HEAR THAT RUSSIA IS MASSING TROOPS

80,000 Picked Soldiers Said Assembled on Manchurian Border

HARBIN, Manchuria, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Reports to Japanese military agencies here assert that the soviet union is concentrating 80,000 picked soldiers along the Siberian Manchurian border as precaution against any attempt of Manchukuo officials to oust the Russians from joint control of the Chinese Eastern railway.

The same sources are pessimistic about negotiations for sale of the soviet interests in the road which have been hanging fire in Tokyo. They point out that Moscow wants $200,000,000 gold for its share of the line while Manchukuo is offering only $25,000,000.

The soviet forces are said to have been designated "the special far eastern army" and to be under command of General Blucher, who, under the name of "Gen. Galens," became widely known for his work in assisting Chiang Kai-Shek to establish the present Nanking regime of China.

The reports further assert that the red army is equipped with tanks, both large and small, with scout and bombing planes, heavy and light artillery and chemical weapons.

Three principal air bases are listed, at Vladivostok, Nikolai and Spassk. Additional airdromes are said to be located along the Amur River.

The Japanese agents claim too that the Soviet union has been withdrawing the peasant population from frontier towns and villages, moving them westward toward China and replacing them with trained army reservists who know how to handle rifles and gas masks. Bombproofs are reported to have been excavated at many of these places.

It is the Japanese theory that if the situation developed into an open rupture, the Russians would wage a vigorous defensive campaign, prolonging hostilities. In the theory that Japanese-Manchukuo finances would not permit the alliance to keep up a long struggle.

This defensive would, the theorists argue, be punctuated by numerous air raids over Hatching, Mukden and Dairen, chief cities of Manchukuo. They might even be extended to Japan for the Russian air fleet is believed capable of taking off from Vladivostok on raids which conceivably might reach Tokyo.

Support Sought By Religious Body For Roosevelt Program

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21.—Earnest support of President Roosevelt's efforts for national recovery is bespoken in a statement issued by the Administrative Committee of the National Catholic Welfare Conference here.

Asserting that the President "needs in need of friendly cooperation and helpful advice and he has not shut himself off in sulter isolation from his fellow-citizens to work out his problems alone," the statement declares that "the program he is seeking to carry out is the best he could construct, and any attempt to make partisan profit out of the present misery and distress is a crime against fair-dealing and humanity."

That the President will, at times, make mistakes, and that which is now the law of the land," he added, "the national compliance division will transmit the facts in each case to the federal trade commission or to the attorney general for action."

Under the new schedules, the minimum prices which can be charged for cleaning and pressing men's suits and women's plain dresses will be 50, 60, 70 and 75 cents according to the trading area instead of the now prevailing 65, 75, 85 and 95 cents rates.

Johnson said "the minimum prices for other cleaning services would be reduced proportionately, so that the recent cleaning price hearings showed the rates originally approved were reasonable and fair for the quality of cleaning which the public has a right to expect."

Hopkins said he intends to see that there is no shortage of labor in the rural areas. He expressed the belief that despite any complaints, the benefits laborers would get for the winter months would outweigh any objections. They are being paid 30 cents an hour on highway work, he said, the same scale provided by the bureau of public roads.

Sleeping Girl To Have Own Christmas Tree

CHICAGO, Dec. 21.—(AP)—Oak Park's sleeping beauty, Miss Patricia Maguire, victim of a form of sleeping sickness for nearly two years, will have her Christmas tree even if she is unable to see it.

Patricia's sister yesterday supervised installation of a large Yule tree not far from the 29-year-old girl's bed and already packages addressed "to Pat" nestled about it.

"Pat" will be all dressed up for Christmas, the sister said, and for the first time since the strange malady struck her as she was homeward bound on an elevated train a year ago last February, she will have her picture taken.

those he has called to his assistance will sometimes be in error, is to be expected, "but a good augury for the future is to be found in the fact that, so far, he has been so often right in the midst of so many possibilities for error, "the statement declares.

"We, ourselves," it concludes "have not escaped the effects of the general calamity. Our schools are in many places crippled, the demands for relief have increased a hundred fold, but we must go on and rededicate ourselves to the cause of education, of preaching and of religion, to every function of the sacred ministry that promotes the salvation of souls, and in this way we shall aid most effectively in the restoration and reconstruction of our country."

Miss Crosby Is Married To Clarence Welsh

Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Crosby announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Vivian Rosella Crosby, to Clarence Conger Welsh, son of Mrs. F. C. Welsh and the late Mr. Welsh. The ceremony was performed Tuesday night at 8:00 o'clock by the Rev. F. M. Marler in the presence of the immediate families of the couple.

The bride had her sister-in-law, Mrs. Wallace L. Crosby, as her matron of honor, while her brother, Wallace L. Crosby, served as best man.

Mrs. Welsh wore for the occasion a black and white traveling suit of falles silk with harmonizing accessories. Her shoulder corsage was of pink and white rosebuds tied with white satin ribbon.

SHIFTING ASSETS COVERED CRACKS IN DETROIT BANK

Pecora Discloses How Apparent Liquidity Was Secured Easily

WASHINGTON, Dec. 21. —(AP) A practice of shifting assets between subsidiaries of the Guardian Detroit Union Group Inc., for the purpose of showing complete liquidity of all units when liabilities actually existed was described yesterday before the senate committee investigating the Detroit banking collapse.

Robert O. Lord, who was the president of the holding company, at first denied that "some process or device" was used to show no bills payable, but finally agreed that methods were used to give this impression when it was not true.

The "device," referred to by Ferdinand Pecora, a committee counsel, as "window-dressing" was described as one through which certificates of deposit or other assets were lent temporarily to institutions having liabilities, and which were returned after examinations.

Disclosure of this practice, which Pecora announced he would penetrate more deeply today, was the major development of yesterday's proceedings, which included also the announcement that Edsel Ford will be called before the committee before the inquiry is finished, and Pecora's pursuit of his contentions that the parent company dictated the dividend rate to be paid by each unit.

When Pecora asked why methods were used to show liquidity when bills actually were outstanding, Lord said:

"Because there has existed for a long time among bankers the belief that the books should show no bills, and because of their desire to show a good record. They are ashamed to show borrowed money. Foolishly, the public has been educated to believe a showing of borrowed money is not good banking."

"Who were these educators?" Pecora inquired.

"The bankers themselves," Lord replied. "They are to blame."

"Were you one of those bankers?" Lord was asked. He answered that he "probably was."

HELEN KELLER ILL

GLASGOW, Dec. 21. —(AP) Miss Helen Keller, deaf and blind authoress, described by her physician as in a slow down condition, is a patient in a nursing home here. Her companion, a Miss Macy also is receiving treatment in the home. Her doctor is a well known Scotch specialist who has been attending her for years. He said her health was poor and with a view of restoring both women to normal health he had prescribed treatment for them in the home.

Bus-Train Crash Probe Is Halted Until January

(Continued From Page One) said Niles told him he had been stuck in the turnway to the east of the tracks.

Gautier further testified that the previous Board of Public Instruction had considered the 67-year-old man one of its best drivers, and for that reason, despite that Niles' bid for the work was the highest received, he had been given the job.

Replying to a question from a juror, Gautier said in his opinion it was safer for the bus to cross the railroad than to turn around on the paved highway or to the east of the tracks.

R. A. Howell, engineer of the freight train, told the jury he started blowing his whistle when 35 or 40 car lengths from the crossing. He was going about 35 miles an hour and stopped within 1,300 to 1,400 feet.

Frequently overcome with emotion, Engineer Howell declared: "God knows I would rather have lost my own life than those children, for I have lived the best part of mine and they were just facing the future."

It would have been impossible, Howell said, to stop his train to avert the crash.

Tears streamed from the engineer's eyes as he told how he had pulled the whistle cords some distance from the crossing and how, with hand still on the cord, he saw the bus suddenly lurch out of the fog.

Mulvey, the filling station man, said Niles frequently asked him to repeat questions and that he held his change close to his eyes to count it.

J. M. Reynolds, chief of police here, said he knew the crossing where the tragedy happened for some 25 years and that it always had been considered a private crossing.

J. J. Elliott, Atlanta, Ga., policeman, testified he was driving on the paved highway alongside the freight train, at the time of the crash.

It was very foggy, said Elliott, and he heard the train whistle, then change the whistle to more urgent tone, continuing until the crash.

Elliott said he was a train length from the crossing and the crash. He ran up to the place but could see nothing on account of the fog. He heard a woman crying "It's the school bus."

As he then approached the scene, Elliott said he saw the wreckage and bodies scattered about. He saw Niles lying on his back, with one leg crumpled under him.

Elliott said he asked Niles what had happened and the bus driver repeated his question to him.

Mrs. J. Robinson said she was at the Goodwin home, near the scene, and saw the bus approaching the crossing. She then closed the door of the house. She believed the bus must have stopped or stalled on the tracks, since it was 15 seconds after she heard the train whistle blow, before the crash.

She said she and her family used the crossing and had frequently stalled. Goodwin testified trucks sometimes stalled in getting over the tracks.

the home loan corporations. The NRA echoed this renewed spirit by disciplining for the first time an employer charged with violating the collective bargaining guarantee of the industrial law. The recovery administration announced it had withdrawn its blue eagle emblem from the J. J. Martin Company, Roxbury, Mass., furniture movers. The administration said the company had publicly asserted that no union or union men would be tolerated in the business.

The blanket code or agreement was originally drawn up by the President to serve for industries until they had agreed on and signed with the government permanent codes of fair competition and labor practices. More than 100 such codes have been approved by Roosevelt to date and he indicated yesterday he expected the remaining codes would come into existence before the four months renewal for the blanket agreement had expired.

The NRA instituted, shortly after it began functioning early last summer, a nation-wide census of employers, seeking information to show the increase directly attributable to the national industrial recovery program. This census, handled by the federal census bureau has not yet been completed. With the totals of this count yet to come, it was disclosed yesterday that the government had begun another tally of business, to be completed by Feb. 25.

The census director, William L. Austin, said that the recent decision by the civil works administration to hire 10,000 white collar workers, now out of jobs, to make the count would result in a canvass of 2,400,000 American retailers, wholesalers and all others engaged

GREEN FILES REPORT ON FORD STRIKES

Labor Federation Head Offers Affidavits Alleging Several Violations Of Code

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(A.P.)—William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor has filed with the N.R.A. a report on the strikes at the Ford Edgewater, N. J. plant, accompanied by affidavits alleging several code violations by the automotive manufacturer.

The report has not yet been examined by General Hugh Johnson but from his previous utterances it appears likely that if any convincing evidence is contained he would refer them to the attorney-general for action.

Ford employees at the Edgewater plant made a local union and went on strike early in the fall. The plant, after a brief shutdown, went on functioning normally with the strikers locked out. The National Labor Board sought to intervene and through indirect negotiations succeeded in establishing some exchange of views between the workers and the management but this was never proceeded to a point of actual negotiations. Since that time the board has taken no action and Green took on the task of assembling a record of the case.

Robineau Corrects Press Story Of His Views On Gambling

S. Pierre Robineau, Miami attorney, who has been quoted in an Associated Press dispatch as wanting to legalize general gambling throughout Florida, points out in a letter to The Herald that the Associated Press, learning that Mr. Robineau had denied the statement attributed to him, had sent out a correction, which The Herald did not carry in its columns.

Mr. Robineau's denial is contained in the following statement: "What I did say," Mr. Robineau stated, "was that horse and dog racing was legalized in Florida in response to a widespread public demand that was so insistent that it had to be met, in order that the state should get the revenue and the people be fully protected. Some day something may be said about a popular demand arising for legalizing other forms of gambling, at that time comes it will be for the full protection of the public and to give the state revenue, and allow the state to regulate such enterprises."

"Public policies are made by the public, and in response to the popular demand, and not by representatives in the legislature or in other offices which belong to the people. When the people have made up their minds, their elected representatives should reflect that will."

Relentless Drive Begun On Bombers In City Of Havana

HAVANA, Dec. 22.—(A.P.)—A relentless drive on bombers was begun here today.

Police and sailors scoured the streets in search for terrorists. Persons who were regarded as suspicious in any way were searched and even pedestrians were called upon for an examination.

It was the government's answer to long-continued violence emphasized by incendiary earlier in the week. It was followed during the night by four sharp explosions.

Last night's bombings were in Havana's busiest downtown section. There was no casualties but many were shattered and other property was done.

Official family of President Gomez, Martin seemed drifting about today. Two more resignations were placed on his desk by the Mayor, Alejandro Yegorov, who was from his personal secretary, Ramiro Capellan, and secretary of public works, Oreste Morano. The president said he wouldn't accept the Mayor's resignation.

Roosevelt Orders Mints To Coin Newly Mined Silver On 50-50 Basis With Producers

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(A.P.)—President Roosevelt last night ordered government mints to coin silver on a fifty-fifty basis with producers.

Stocks and commodities rallied enthusiastically for a time today on the news of the President's silver program, but the speculative ardor subsided later, and prices reacted.

His proclamation, formally ratifying the London silver agreement, provided that half of the annual production of 34,000,000 ounces of silver shall be returned in dollars to the producers and the other half kept by the treasury in reserve.

This will give a price, estimated at the White House, of 64 1/2 cents an ounce for silver—or half of the legal price of $1.29 an ounce—and considerably above the current market price of about 43 cents.

Roosevelt stipulated in his proclamation that: "The present ratio in weight and fineness of the silver dollar to the gold dollar shall, for the purposes of this proclamation, be maintained until changed by further order of proclamation."

The London silver agreement proposed by Senator Pittman, Democrat, Nevada, at the economic conference provided that the silver producing nations would absorb 35,000,000 ounces of silver annually for four years from their mines in return for a promise by the silver using countries of India, China and Spain not to mint or debase their silver coins.

"This proclamation," said the president in a statement, "in accordance with the act of Congress, opens our mints to the coinage of standard silver dollars from silver hereafter produced in the United States by its possessions, subject to the depositors of such silver surrendering to the government one-half of it as seigniorage and to cover all usual charges and expenses."

"The dollars coined from half of such newly-mined silver will be returned to the depositor. The other half will be retained in the treasury."

Senator Pittman and others from the silver producing areas of the nation have advocated the free coinage of silver.

Coinage of the silver is subject to the desire of the producers under the arrangement announced. If fully exercised it would mean the coinage of about $13,000,000 of silver dollars.

The presidential proclamation is effective until Jan. 1, 1938, in accordance with the four-year provision of the London agreement.

India already has ratified the London silver pact and the president said: "I understand other nations concerned are about to act." Australia, Canada, Mexico and Peru are the other silver producing nations which agreed to absorb the total annual 35,000,000 ounces of silver produced in their countries.

"From investigations made by me," said the president in his proclamation, "I find it necessary, in aid of the stabilization of domestic prices and in accordance with the policy and program authorized by Congress, which are now being administered, and to protect our foreign commerce against the adverse effect of depreciated foreign currencies, that the price of silver be enhanced and stabilized."

Police Chief Hands 10 Badges To Patrolmen

Ten young men, members of the safety patrols which have been operating with success at Seminole Junior High School, today are the proud possessors of gleaming silver badges which tell the world that they are either captains or lieutenants in local safety patrols.

Presentation of the badges, resembling police badges, was made yesterday by Chief of Police Roy G. Williams on behalf of the Safety Committee of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Two of the badges are for the patrol captains, while eight of the badges are for patrol lieutenants.

It was announced today that Prof. C. W. Isbill of the Lake Mary school had asked the Safety Committee to arrange for the creation of a sponsored safety patrol at that school.

The work of the patrols has had a great influence in making pupils at Seminole High and Junior High safety-minded, according to Prof. R. F. Cooper and Leonard McCune, who direct the activities of the patrols. The boys in the patrol corners of the school lot before and after school, and during recess period, to direct traffic and warn their schoolmates against careless play along the curbs edge or crossing of streets.

Patrolmen are: William Speir, Beryl Higgs, J. W. Altman, Billy Zachry, Chum Stanley and O. P. Herndon at Seminole High and Volie Williams, Jr., S. J. Nix Jr., Henry Tamm and Harry Joe Minarik at Junior High.

Americans Prepare To Plead Freedom In French Courts

PARIS, Dec. 22.—(A.P.)—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Switz, of East Orange, N. J., held in two separate trials, prepared today to face a French judge with a plea that they have been ensnared innocently in a French police net cast to trap a mysterious band of dealers in international military secrets.

Investigators sought a clue to the invisible powers behind the organization they claim to be directed against the military power of France.

The Secret Service fears that the trails of hidden sources of alleged espionage have been cut by overzealous police in the premature arrest of the mere tools of master minds. These trails, they believe, lead to the frontiers of Finland and Germany.

Van Der Lubbe Is Only One Of Five Charged With Firing Reichstag To Die, Says A.P.

BERLIN, Dec. 22.—(A.P.)—A sentence of death for one of the men accused of firing the German Reichstag last winter and acquittal for the other four defendants will be contained in the verdict of supreme court judges before whom the men have been tried, the Associated Press learned yesterday from a usually reliable source.

Simultaneously Chancellor Hitler and Reichminister Hermann Goering, apprised of the nature of the verdict which will be handed down Saturday, faced a supreme test of their statesmanship, for civilian extremists threatened that three Bulgarian communists, for whom acquittal was said to be in store, would not reach the German border alive.

The informant said Marinus van der Lubbe, a young Dutch brickmason, will be sentenced to death by beheading; that Ernest Torgler, a former communist whip in the Reichstag, will be acquitted on the arson charge, and that the Bulgarians, George Dimitroff, Blazoi Popoff and Wassil Taneff, will be acquitted and expelled from Germany.

The chancellor and Goering, it was stated in political circles, will give strict orders that the verdict even though it may be disappointing to Nazi followers, must be respected at all costs.

Ways, Means Group Approves Tax Measure

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(A.P.)—The House ways and means committee today tentatively approved a liquor tax bill estimated to bring in $470,000,000, including the revenue from beer.

By a vote of 13 to nine, Republicans also voting, the present committee adopted a levy of $2.00 a gallon on distilled spirits estimated to bring in $90,000,000 during the first full post-repeal year.

Letters To Santa Indicate That Local Boys And Girls Seek Gifts For Others

Selected at random from a large batch of letters to Santa Claus, the Christmas Editor of The Herald today discovered that even the last minute messages contain requests that indicate that Sanford boys and girls are not selfish in that they almost all urge Santa to remember the poor children.

McKay Trulock of 104 West 10th Street writes to say that "I am nine years old and I want you to please bring me a pump air rifle that will shoot 60 times, some shot and a pair of shoes."

Roy Reel, who lives at 915 Elm Avenue writes that "I am a little boy two years old, and I live on Elm Avenue. I have been a good boy this year and I wish that you would bring me a wheelbarrow, a tricycle, and a big red wrecker like my grandpa's."

Dorothy Boyd of West First Street, taking a motherly interest in her six sisters and brothers, as well as all poor children writes, "Dear Santa: I am writing you again this Christmas to thank you for what you sent us last Christmas. We hope that you don't forget us this Christmas for our father is not able to work and this is what we want: J. D. Boyd wants a shirt and a rifle; James Boyd wants a football and a shirt; Georgia Boyd wants a ring, some beads and a dress; Theodore Boyd wants a baseball and bat and belt; Betty Boyd wants a doll carriage and a dress; Lois Bracey Boyd wants a tricycle and wagon, and I want a dress, some socks and some beads. Don't forget some candy and nuts for us all."

Hattie Robinson, who is 12 years old, writes, "My oldest brother, 17, does not want anything but

REGULATION OF FRUIT SHIPMENT TO BEGIN DEC. 25

ORLANDO, Dec. 22.—(A.P.)—Regulation of shipments of citrus by grades and sizes will begin at 12:01 A. M. Christmas Day, the Florida citrus control committee decided at a meeting here yesterday. An assessment of one cent on each standard box (1.6 bushels) to defray operating expenses under terms of the marketing agreement was decided on.

The committee ordered shipments of Marsh seedless grapefruit to begin at 12:01 A. M. Jan. 20, 1934, which meant that shipment of that variety was prohibited from now until that time.

The statement was taken to mean that a shipper could use his own brand or trademark representing a standard United States grade, provided the trademark is registered with specifications at the office of the committee here by Dec. 28.

The committee decided shipments of citrus, except lemons, lemons and satsumas, grown in Florida, would consist of the following United States grades:

United States fancy No. 1 (bright), No. 1, No. 1 (rust), combination No. 2 and No. 2 (light). Shipments of oranges were ordered limited to "the sizes of 250 and larger and not to exceed 10 percent of 260s."

Lamb Issues Schedule For CWA Workers

Roland F. Lamb, disbursing officer for the local CWA announced today that all workers are to be paid off on the projects to which they are assigned at the usual hours tomorrow except the men under the following foremen who will be paid off at the Fire Station at the time designated:

Engineering crew, 4 to 6 o'clock; James Moughton's crew, 5 to 6 o'clock; Thompson crew, 5 to 6 o'clock; Calhoun crew, 5 to 6 o'clock; Britt crew, 5 to 6 o'clock; Rumbley crew, 5 to 6 o'clock; W. A. Dixon crew, 5 to 6 o'clock; F. A. Dixon crew, 5 to 6 o'clock.

Approximately 800 checks are to be delivered during the day, and the payroll will approach $11,000. This sum brings the total amount released in this county during the past month for payrolls alone to nearly $35,000.

Wall Street Firms Forced To Abandon Yuletide Bonuses

Wall Street, once a lavish Santa Claus, is letting the rest of the country set the pace in Christmas bonuses this year.

Some profits of the brokerage and banking business were cited today as a reason "The Street" is unable to revive its custom of the yuletide days when the payment of bonuses was a year end custom.

The largest Christmas bonuses thus far announced for the year in Wall Street is that of Redwood and Company, a stock exchange from which will give its employees bonuses equivalent to 20 percent of the individual's yearly wage.

Some houses on Wall Street indicated today that the question of bonuses for its clerical workers will be decided tomorrow.

A few firms have announced that bonuses of from one to two weeks' stockings.

Without exception, major Wall Street banks will refrain from extra compensation to their employees this year. Firms in other parts of the United States generally are following the rule of all depression years during Yuletide, and for the most part extra compensation is abandoned.

Suggestions Made On Plans For Celery Week

Florida Celery Week, Feb. 19-24, can best be set for the residents of Florida and its visitors in large and attractive displays of the product at strategic locations in Tampa, Miami, Jacksonville, and St. Petersburg, in the opinion of a group of local shippers who met at the Chamber of Commerce office Wednesday afternoon to lay plans for this county's part in the statewide program of observance.

This suggestion and another having to do with an advertising tie-up between grocers and Sparks Theaters in Florida will be sent to the state committee in charge of arrangements.

It is proposed that grocery stores in all Florida cities having a Sparks theater should display and feature Florida celery in their stores during the week and that the theater manager should donate a month's pass to his theater for the best recipe in which celery forms the base of the prepared article.

P. J. FEITNER IS SUCCESSOR TO L. E. ALLEN

Well Known Southern Lumberman Named As President Of County's Only Bank

Peter J. Feitner, widely known leader in the Southern cypress mill industry and vice-president of the Sanford-Atlantic National Bank since its organization in 1927, has been chosen to succeed Linton E. Allen as president of the bank, effective as of yesterday. Mr. Allen had resigned to form a new business connection in Orlando.

An association, S. L. Ingrey, assistant cashier of the Atlantic National Bank of Jacksonville had been named to succeed Mr. Feitner as vice-president and executive officer of the institution.

Mr. Feitner's selection to head the only bank in Seminole County came during a meeting of the Board of Directors on Wednesday. It was learned today.

Official announcement of the selection was released by John T. Walker, Jr., chairman of the board of directors and president of the Atlantic National Bank of Jacksonville, who presided during the meeting.

It is understood that Mr. Feitner, whose duties at the head of the Osceola Cypress Co., will prevent his devoting his entire time to the presidency, will rest the responsibility for the management of the bank in Mr. Ingley and Arthur Branan, cashier of the bank.

As president of the cypress company which has operated in the northeastern section of this county for many years, Mr. Feitner is at the head of one of the largest cypress mills in the south. He is widely known in the industry, from the Mississippi east.

Before coming to Florida, Mr. Feitner was prominently identified with the banking business in Orange, N. J., where he resided for many years.

Mr. Ingley is expected to arrive in Sanford shortly. According to Mr. Branan, Mr. Ingley is one of the most capable executives in the Atlantic National system. He has been assistant cashier of the Atlantic National Bank in Jacksonville for the past 15 years, and he will come to this city with the best wishes of scores of members of Florida's banking fraternity.

Mr. Branan stated today that the administration of the bank's policy will continue as it always has in the past.

DOCTORS ACQUITTED

ROCKVILLE, Md., Dec. 22.—(A.P.)—The state yesterday gave up its attempt to convict Dr. Harry R. Street, of Washington, and Dr. Sherwood Ferris of Chevy Chase, Md., of manslaughter as a result of the alleged cancer saline death of Mrs. Cora Britton, of May's Landing, N. J. The two physicians were found not guilty upon direction of the court.

AUTO PRODUCTION UP

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22.—(A.P.)—Automobile production in November was shown by department of commerce figures yesterday to have totaled 63,904 vehicles, as compared with 42,818 in November last year. Total production for the first 11 months of 1933 was 1,875,186 compared with 1,263,325 for the same period of 1932.

Meat Curing Plant To Close Until March 15

Seminole County farmers or other residents who have been planning to butcher a hog and have it cured in the meat curing plant which is operated by Seminole Chapter Future Farmers of Florida are reminded today that tomorrow is the final day in which they may bring meat to the plant for curing.

Talmadge Metts, plant operator, stated today that the plant will be closed until about the middle of March so as to permit all meat to be cured properly.

Decision to close the plant for further reception of meat came during a regular meeting of the Chapter at the school on Tuesday night. Reports rendered included one which indicated that the recent Father-Son banquet was a social as well as financial success.
