Marines In China Cities May Withdraw

Government Is Considering Taking Troops From Three Important Towns

No Decision Is Reached

President Says Move Has Not Been Discussed With Japan

By Associated Press
President Roosevelt today declared the government is considering a withdrawal of American Marines from Peiping, Tientsin and Shanghai, China.

He did not know when the decision will be reached and declined to elaborate.

The President said in reply to a question there has been no discussion between the United States and Japan of the presence of marines in China.

Japan's patience has "reached the point of exhaustion" and her army may strike next at the Burma Road to cut off American supplies to China unless the United States comes to terms with her special envoy, Saburo Kurusu, the foreign office organ, Japan Times and Advertiser, declared last night.

"There is always the possibility, even the probability of a direct march on the Burma Road," the editorial said. "It is for Americans to abandon what is tantamount to direct military operations against Japan at the expense of the American people."

Kurusu's trip by plane across the Pacific was described as "the last opportunity (for the United States) to make demands for a general and complete cessation of Japanese aggression and restore the necessary conditions for an amicable settlement."

Trade envoys, however, said the Japanese government has indicated that it would be willing to discuss the Japanese occupation of the island of Formosa.

Japan has troops in Manchuria, Siberia, and in southern French Indo-China opposite Singapore. She also has a neutrality treaty with Russia and belongs to the Axis pact with Germany and Italy.

Japan sent a sharp protest to Russia yesterday and demanded a prompt reply to her charges that the Russian government was secretly aiding China.

Japan's foreign office also announced that it had received a Russian note in which Japan said with the apparent loss of 140 persons. Another 347 aboard were rescued.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Rev. William Lawrence, 91, of Protestant Episcopal bishop emeritus of Massachusetts, died suddenly Thursday at his Readville home.

PROCLAMATION

WHEREAS on May 20, 1941, with a view to ensuring the most effective correlation and use of the instruments of civilian defense, I established by Executive order the Office of Civilian Defense; and

WHEREAS by my proclamation of May 27, 1941, I declared that an unlimited national emergency confronts this country, which requires that its military, naval, air, and civilian defenses be put on a basis of readiness to repel any and all acts or threats of aggression directed toward any part of the Western Hemisphere; and

WHEREAS it is the manifest duty and desire of every person in the United States to participate in measures essential to civilian defense;

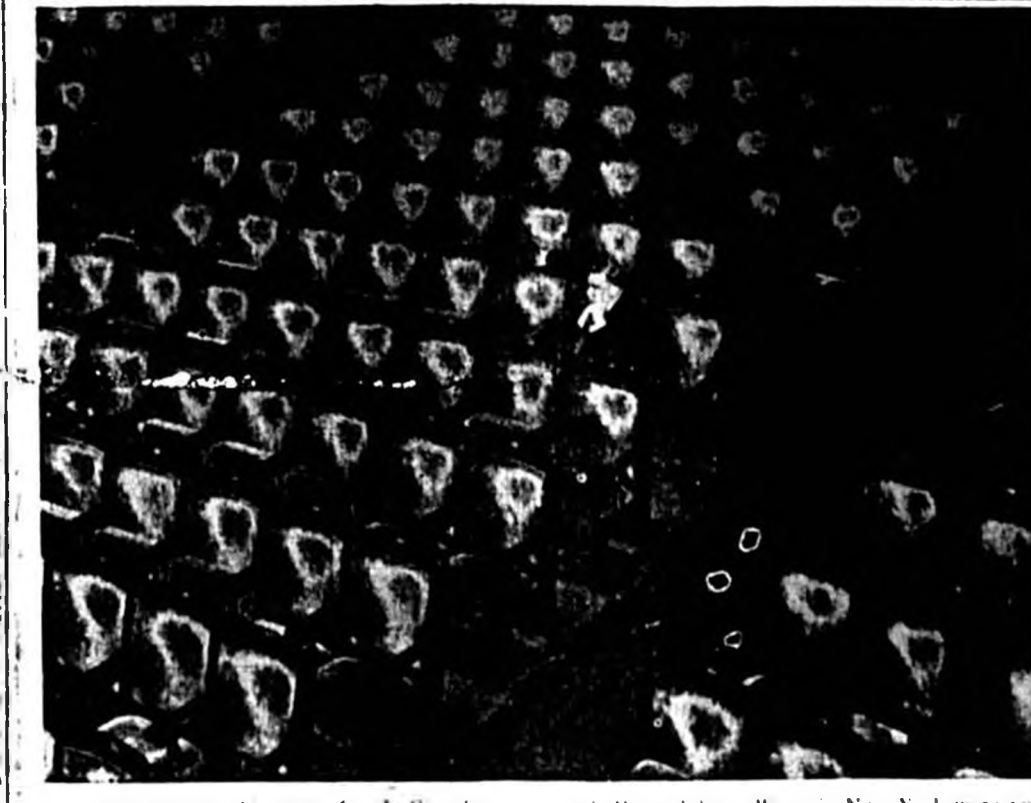

NOW, THEREFORE, I, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT, President of the United States of America, do hereby designate the period commencing on Armistice Day, Tuesday, November 11, 1941, and continuing through Sunday, November 16, as a time for all persons throughout the Nation to give thought to their duties and responsibilities in the defense of this country, and to become better informed of the many vital phases of the civilian defense program and of the opportunities which it offers for the participation of every individual American in the defense of our precious heritage; and I request the Governors of the several States, Territories, and possessions of the United States to issue similar proclamations.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed.

Done at the City of Washington this twenty-second day of October in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and forty-one and of the Independence of the United States of America the one hundred and sixty-sixth.

Stalin Is Optimistic In Speech

Red Premier Says Reich Is Bleeding To Death And Facing Disaster

No Gains Claimed By German Forces

Soviets Advance In North And Hold Ground In South

By Associated Press
Premier Joseph Stalin, in a speech to the Russian people today, reflected optimism in the fight against Germany, and said "Germany is bleeding to death and facing disaster." He also predicted the Reich would "burst under the weight of her own crimes."

The speech marked the 24th anniversary of the Bolshevik revolution. Stalin added that "German invaders are straining their last forces."

The counter-attacking Russians reported they were driving the Germans into retreat in the Volokolamsk sector, northwest of Moscow, and were continuing the push after recapturing several towns. In the South, the Germans admitted stubborn resistance to their guards harrying the invaders in the Crimean Mountains.

German military commentators acknowledged the halting of the Moscow offensive by bad weather and the Germans' appearance in force for a bleak winter in the trenches around Leningrad and Moscow.

The British reported that they are considering opening a new fighting front. The British press association said the time might be near for the establishment of a new front.

The Germans appeared last night to have about given up efforts to take Moscow and Leningrad and there were plausible suggestions that Hitler now was preparing to turn the main force of his northern and central armies southward soon to join his already immense southern columns in a great struggle on the Caucasus and the Crimea.

First, there was a report by British informants that most of the German aerial squadrons were being withdrawn from both Moscow and Leningrad fronts, some being sent directly to the south and others going back to Germany for refitting and reorganization of pilot personnel.

This substantial concession of Moscow offensive—London described it as so, indeed, it seemed to be on the basis of the available information—was attributed principally to the inability of the air arm to smash the extremely strong Russian outer defenses before Moscow and Leningrad as it had done in so many other theaters. The British thought, too, that the lack of supplying advanced aerial bases over 1500 miles of contested communication lines had proved too great.

Second, in Berlin, there was speculation of the possibility of a grand offensive down upon the broad Caucasian Isthmus between the Arax and Caspian Seas. An operation of such scope would imply the use not only of the existing southern German armies, which are approaching the Caucasus from the west, but a thrust to the south of the strong forces now all but immobilized before Leningrad and Moscow.

Informed London sources said today the Russian counter-attack on Volokolamsk appears to be developing into a powerful offensive which may completely reopen Moscow-Leningrad communications and relieve the siege of Leningrad.

The official Finnish radio circulated abroad an important statement of aims which said Finland's war with Russia may be ended "as soon as the threat of a renewed attack has been removed and frontiers have been made secure."

TWENTIETH-CENTURY

(From The Providence Journal)

Take, oh take the speeding highway complete with clover leaf,
 Forty, fifty, sixty, slow down to thirty flashing through the main streets Where the natives gawk and the children scream, oh, oh, on,
 on,
 Take the highest hill as smooth as a bird, then dive Like an eagle into the valley, trees, barns, fenceposts, an unending blur
 Take her up on the smooth stretch, sixty, seventy, eighty hold her there,
 The heart beating a little faster, while the mind registers the brief thought
 We are only beginning to live now, the tempo is becoming plainer
 And the ears ring with the humming motor and the faint streamliner with all the latest features Leap ahead to where and for what, and who the hell cares and I think we've been here before.

Military training camps in Florida where thousands of these boys are stationed are expected to be a big boost to the tourist business this winter.

Florida ranks next to the highest in the national death rate. Another record of which we cannot be proud and about which something should be done.

Lake Mary is getting a good example to other progressive Central Florida communities by making preparations to restrict the lake out there with regulations. A good many of our lake resorts could do with a little watching. There is a number which appeals quite so much to the average tourist as a well looked lake.

The idea of swapping troops from one continent to another seems to be a rather new idea in our country. The idea of swapping is a good one. Nobody knows in what climate American soldiers will have to fight the war. It is over-looked that we hope the soldiers will get sent to England and the New Englanders to Mexico.

How did the fish in that pond die? The fish in that pond died because they were not fed. We hope the soldiers will be fed. We hope the soldiers will be fed. We hope the soldiers will be fed.

Growing Pains

The city of Orlando seems to be having growing pains which Sanford thus far, fortunately or unfortunately, has largely avoided. A little while ago it was the parking problem which seems to have been satisfied to the mutual satisfaction of nobody. Now it is one-way traffic which has every automobile driver in a hopeless snarl and the leading business men on the war path.

The Orlando newspapers have gone to great lengths in an effort to acquaint the motoring public with the various intricacies of the one-way system and the police officers are showing the utmost courtesy and discretion in warning motorists not to turn in the wrong direction and in advising them to back out of streets on which they are driving the wrong way or with which they have otherwise become hopelessly involved. In spite of all this, and in spite of the rather prominent arrows displayed at every street intersection indicating which way to go, the average driver still has the greatest difficulty, not in telling which way the one way is, but how to get where he wants to go in order to arrive on the right side of the street. The problem, of course, is further complicated by the fact that most of the city streets are now blocked to traffic anyway on account of repairs and the detours invariably take you back out into the country in spite of everything you can do.

The "Now a merchants' committee has been organized to see that business is not hampered by the one-way system. It is because the streets under the new system run in the wrong direction. Heretofore a merchant gathered his business from traffic going in both directions. Now he has only one source of supply to call upon and he figures it that all moves away from him. The frightful plight in which Orlando now finds herself is a result of the incident which occurred under similar conditions in Miami about 15 years ago. The one-way system had just been put into effect there, the boom was on, and traffic was in a hopeless jam. A country boy from Florida had pushed his Model T all the way down the East Coast looking for the proverbial pot of gold and was taking everything in his stride until he got lost on Miami's one-way streets. Between the bottlenecks, the streets under repairs and the detours, he had just about lost his mind, when he wound up in a blind alley going the wrong way.

"Say, where in the hell do you think you're going," a motorcycle cop cut loose.

"I'm going back to Georgia, by Gawd!", the cracker came back.

Gene's Newspaper

When the Atlanta Journal and the Constitution and most other leading Georgia newspapers began jumping on Gov. Gene Talmadge for the monkey he was making of himself over the school situation, Georgia's Governor promptly announced that he was going to start a newspaper of his own in order to give the people the truth. Most newspapermen, we might add, looked forward rather eagerly to see just what Gene's first publication would be like.

Unfortunately, however, he has now decided life is too short and publishing a newspaper is not worth the effort. "The editorials just had to be written too fast," said the Governor. As the Savannah Herald Tribune explains it, "The explanation apparently seemed to fall in the requirements in Gov. Talmadge's mind, but to the newspaper man a number of things other than editorials have to be written fast. Among these are checks. Even a small newspaper has to write checks and write them pretty fast and more frequently than formerly. The cost of newspaper publishing is going up. What used to be considered a pretty good profit now goes to the government in the form of taxes, regardless of whether the newspaper makes a profit and these are a lien even before the employee gets their pay checks. Furthermore, equipment is more expensive and more of it is required; when it comes to fast check writing the governor should look into that. A modern linotype machine costs upwards of $4,000, with equipment extra. A good newspaper press and other equipment can be gotten for a matter of a couple of hundred thousand, or could if the priorities system hasn't intervened. So the writing of fast editorials wasn't the factor that intervened with Gov. Talmadge and his journalistic aspirations. It was the fact that newspaper publishing has become too expensive for even the richest and best entrenched politician or other vested interest that really changed his mind. For even the kind of lucrative politics in which Gov. Talmadge is engaged will hardly bear the burden of many the freight. The ray of the political newspaper is rapidly nearing its sunset if, indeed, it is not over."

Mysterious Bronze Chest Has State College Puzzled

TALLAHASSEE, Nov. 7.—(Special)—A mysterious bronze chest, securely locked since 1911 by members of that class, presented to the Board of Trustees by the State College of Florida, has puzzled the State College officials.

Supposedly keeper of the key all these years is Mrs. Ira Frye, a resident of Jacksonville, who has refused to disclose the chest's whereabouts. To the best recollection of one of that class, Mrs. George E. Taylor, living in Tallahassee, the chest contains papers of the university. She says she came in those days her class was very close to one another and their younger sisters did not know the chest of the buried chest.

But nobody can be sure what is in the chest until the key is found.

Bikeshaw Causes Traffic Headaches

PRIPING, North China, Nov. 7.—(AP)—A mechanical hybrid between the bicycle and the motor vehicle has caused traffic headaches in this town.

A cross between a bicycle and a rickshaw, the new vehicle has three wheels and carries one passenger behind the cycle. It is a new device, and it is a new headache for the town's traffic.

When the bikeshaw was first introduced, it was a novelty. But it is a new headache for the town's traffic. The bikeshaw is a new device, and it is a new headache for the town's traffic.

Workers Get Only 56c Of WPA Dollar

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—The National Economy League said today that a study of $1,000,000 spent on the WPA program for the last fiscal year showed that relief workers received only 56 cents out of each dollar spent.

The league analysis accounted for the disparity in four ways: Federal WPA administration, 5 cents; salaries of project supervisory employees, 10 cents; wages of special non-relief workers, one cent; materials, 10 cents; and other non-labor costs, $1.00.

LITTLE DUMBO

Badge Of Patriotism

BECAUSE OF GREATLY increased responsibilities in the national defense program the Red Cross has appealed to the nation for a 1941 membership comparable to that of the first World War when more than 18,000,000 adult Americans gave their support. Membership in the Red Cross is more than a sentimental indorsement of good will. The entire machinery of Red Cross peacetime operations has been geared into a vital part of our military and civilian defenses. Red Cross membership dollars thus are transformed into a tangible means of protecting the American way of life.

The Red Cross is on the job with the Army and Navy here and abroad, providing an important link of communication between the service man and his family back home. With 2,000,000 men under arms this task has grown almost tenfold. The corps of Red Cross field directors is assisting with experienced counsel and with financial aid to solve the problems of our service men and their families back home.

Red Cross volunteers are giving their blood for emergency transfusions in the Army and Navy. In the coming year some 10,000 Red Cross nurses will have been inducted for military and naval service. Unformed volunteers are nearing completion of 40,000,000 surgical dressings requested by the Surgeons General of the Army and Navy.

For its part in the civilian defense program, the Red Cross has undertaken the training of 100,000 Nurse's Aides, an auxiliary corps of volunteers to help relieve the current shortage of registered nurses. During the coming year 1,000,000 men and women will be taught Red Cross first aid as a civilian preparedness measure. Disaster relief preparedness is being widened to meet the challenge of sabotage, fire, explosions and to stand as a backing of readiness in the event of sporadic bombing or armed invasion. Nutrition and Home Nursing courses will be extended to additional thousands as protective health measures.

These are the reasons why the Red Cross asks your support this year. Your membership button is a badge of patriotism, a way you can express your belief in America.

Feds Are Underdogs As They Meet Tallahassee Tonight

By Bob Smith. Those conference-leading Leon gridders from the hills of Tallahassee sweep into Sanford today to chew the celery lads to a pulp, though the local eleven is hopeful despite the predictions of Monday morning quarterbacks. It will be the same point gatherers that pushed across three touchdowns against the Baby Tars from Rollins this season so plenty of action is expected when the Leon aggression opens an attack. The cool weather is a point in favor of a peppy game tonight and the local boys may snap out of their losing complex and take the visitors by surprise. Rain, feared during the first of the week seems to have lifted its threat to give the local fans some of the first typical football weather of the year. In downtown circles the odds are definitely in favor of the invaders tonight though no scoring spree is expected as Coach Leonard McClucas has scouted the Leon eleven and has been working out a defense against their attack. An air attack may be planned by Coach McClucas tonight as he will have his left end "Butterball" Herring back in the lineup tonight after a season of the injury line dodging the lanky pass snatcher, starting with the opening game. Two Tallahassee backs will be the headache of the Feds if the local defensive hasn't been developed to stop them. Of course, even Tom Harmon can be stopped and it was proven by a team that used defensive quarterbacking, calling signals and shifting the defensive after mauling the play. The game will be no toss up as the Leon team has the edge but the Feds won't "toss up" the game either.

Also symbols T, A, F, W, S, and U are used to designate the expected closeness of play as follows: ABC-Toss up, AB-Close and possible upset, A-Close but team picked should win. SOUTH-Tulane and Alabama rate 2 and 3 in the top contest. Duke wins easily. Although rated behind in team strength, Florida is a good underdog bet against Georgia. Ditto Auburn vs. undefeated Mississippi State. Texas, the national favorite, has a soft touch. MID WEST-Apparition dull card with Minnesota claiming an A rating over Nebraska. EAST-Navy, still rated no. 1 in the East, gets the call over Notre Dame. Pitt will trouble second position Fordham. Harvard upsets Army. FAR WEST-Stanford well over Trojan. California surprising Washington. Unbeaten Duquesne ABC's with St. Marys. The Selections— SOUTH-Tulane S2 over Alabama S1. AB Duke S1 over Davidson. Mississippi S4 over L. S. U. S16. Orlando To See Tilt Of Tars

WINTER PARK, Nov. 7.—(Special)—Inter-sectional football comes to Orlando for the first time in four years tonight when Davis-Elkins College from far-off Elkins, W. Va., tackles the Rollins College Tars at 8:15 o'clock in the confines of Greater Orlando Stadium. The last inter-sectional game played in Orlando was in 1938 when Rollins turned back the great kid of Ohio Wesleyan of Delaware, Ohio, by a 19-13 score. Tonight's grid struggle brings together the two teams who have never before met and who do not play common opponents, so the merits of the respective eleven are hard to judge. However, on the basis of this season's records, the Tars will enter the fray as favorites. In the face of 13 graduating seniors, Jack McDowell has molded a sophomore team together that in the short span of four games has developed skill and confidence. The Rollins defense has yielded points only to undefeated Miami. Ollie Barker, 27 year old senior tackle from Orlando, has been selected to lead the Tars in battle against the Scarlet Hurricanes from West Virginia. After a five year lay-off period between high school and college, Barker has come back to gain a first string berth over young aspirants. Davis-Elkins is pinning hopes for victory on a rugged 198 pound line, 18 pounds per man heavier than the Tars, and a fast backfield led by Johnny Simson, II scholastic back from McKeesport, Pa., and Setar, clever quarterback and signal caller. Captain Tom Hress, 205 pound grant, and Bill Hress, 190 foot, three inch, 185 pound end with the knack of searing passes pass the West Virginia linemen.

Coca Cola Bowling Team Is Downed 3 Straight By Harden Dairy Onslaught

Spencer Harden Dairy hung the horns on the Coca Cola team in the Sanford Bowling League this week by licking the champions in three straight games. Both of the other contests were won three straight for the first time during the tourney as Grapette punched a hole in the winnings of the Life Saver team and the unlucky Lucky Boy keglers were taken to the cleaners by the Pepsi Cola aggregation. Due to a holiday next week the senior club will not bowl next week and captains are advised to watch the schedule posted at the Sanford Bowling Center during the week. All bowlers interested in competing in an individual tourney are asked to get in touch with Forest Taylor or Bill Thorne. Total pins will count in the meets and high pin will receive 60 percent of the entry fees, second place 30 percent and third high 10 percent. Ten High Individual Standings: P. Pezold 181, G. Pezold 177, W. Thorne 173, T. Holly 169, R. Holler 167, G. Haber 165, L. Hopper 164, W. Ludwig 163, H. Moses 163, J. Weaver 162. 500 Bowlers for the week as follows: W. Wells 530, E. Kirchoff 521, G. Cut In Congressman's Wages Recommended

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Representative Kennedy (D, N. Y.) proposed Thursday that members of Congress "set an example for the nation" and take a reduction in pay. He introduced a bill to pay members on the basis of $25 for each day Congress is in session instead of the present $10,000 annual salary. Kennedy estimated his plan would reduce individual congressional salaries to about $5,000 a year. He told reporters that since Congress was calling on the people to make financial sacrifices in the national emergency, "I think the proper plans to begin in Congress." Pacific Coast states' gasoline consumption in the first half of 1941 was 9 to 12 percent higher than in the same period of 1940.
