Immunization Law Enforced In Seminole

2,098 Students Not Admitted First Day

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

More than 2,000 students were denied admission to Seminole County schools Monday because they did not present complete immunization records, a school official said today.

Marion Snell, coordinator of health education and health services, said the 2,098 students turned away was about what had been anticipated.

"We really didn't know what to expect," Mrs. Snell said. "As I told the school board last week, we were predicting between 1,000 and 3,000 students would be denied admission."

Mrs. Snell said she felt many parents didn't think the county would enforce the new requirement. "I believe once parents find out, they'll take their kids to the health clinic or their private physician and get immunized."

Children were not sent home Monday, according to school officials. Because many students ride buses, they could not be sent home. The students were permitted to stay with their classes Monday and will spend the day in lunchrooms or auditoriums if they return to school without the proper records, school officials said.

"Hopefully, they'll get their shots and everything by the end of the week," Mrs. Snell said. "This is too bad that they miss the first few days of school. That's when they get their books and find out what they're going to be doing in their classes."

Mrs. Snell said the largest number of students who were refused admission were at the high schools.

Lake Brantley High School had 492

students turned away.

At Lake Howell High School, 317 students were refused admission while 211 were refused at Lyman High School, 145 at Oviedo, 133 at Seminole High School, 122 at Crooms and 104 at Lake Mary.

School District Administrative Assistant Ralph Ray said today, "We really had fewer problems than anticipated from the immunizations."

He said a few students who received the letters distributed to all students who did not have the completed immunization records returned to school without their records. Those students were rejected for admission again.

The new Florida law, passed this year, requires all school students to have been immunized against polio, measles, diphtheria, whooping cough, tetanus and mumps.

Bernice Duncan, of the Seminole County Health Department's Sanford Clinic, said today nearly 400 students were immunized on Monday alone.

"We're expecting that many again today," she said.

She said the Sanford clinic gave shots to 1,998 students last week. "And that's not including the number who brought records in and we gave them the forms for admission."

Mrs. Duncan said the clinics in Sanford and Longwood will continue daily clinics all this week between 8:30 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

At the Longwood clinic, there has been a torrent of people in the past week, a nurse at the clinic said.

Emma Jackson said 200 students were in the clinic this morning.

"That's typical of the last week," she said. "It got impossible Friday. We had too many people in here."

Mrs. Jackson said the problem with the law is that most parents didn't think it would be enforced. "We started back in February notifying parents whose children didn't have records on file with the school board."

She said the health department held clinics in April. "We held them in the evenings so people wouldn't miss work. We'd have nurses staffing them and maybe two people would show up."

In Orange County, 1,137 students were refused admission out of 71,457 students who showed up for the first day of school.

Brevard County reported seven students out of 42,041 had incomplete records.

Osceola County reported 75 students with incomplete records out of 8,880.

Volusia County turned away fewer than 100 of the 33,000 students who showed up Monday.

Ray said tentative Seminole County enrollment, including the students who were turned away, is 34,308 students. He added that the figure will continue to change. An official count, for state records, will be taken in October.

Ray said the number of students was less than what had been expected. "My phone was ringing all summer with new families moving into the county. I guess there must have been some moving out too."

Last year's opening day enrollment was 34,568. The total enrollment at the end of school in May was 36,500.

The Zoo

A Visit To The Central Florida Facility A Treat

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer
(Third In a Series)

When it comes to animals, I think there's a little bit of Dr. Dolittle in all of us. At least, I discovered a touch of the Doc's desire to "talk to the animals" as I strolled through the Central Florida Zoological Park near Sanford.

As I passed through the front gates, I felt as if I had entered another land where tall, swaying palms provided a shading canopy along the winding road which leads to the park.

After parking my car within a stone's throw of the zoo entrance, I ventured into the park after stopping at the cashier's booth where adults aged 13 to 59 pay $3, children 3 to 12 pay $1 and adults 60 and older pay $1.50. Children under 3 are admitted free.

The cashier's booth is not your typical carnival-style metal box, but is situated in a spacious, wooden structure surrounded by plants (which are for sale) and a well-stocked aquarium.

My first encounter of the exotic kind was with a long-armed, black monkey, technically referred to as a Siamang. But my attention soon strayed to a brightly-colored Macaw parrot that shouted "Hello" as clearly as the bright sun on this new day.

I started to respond to the feathered fellow's greeting, but my attention was drawn to a group of young students getting a tour of the zoo. But as I later learned, it was more than just a tour.

"We want these kids to leave here with more than a soft drink and balloon and go home and say, 'Gee, I saw a big snake today,'" zoo director Al Rozon said.

"We give them an education. We talk about conservation, wildlife habitat, urban sprawl, the relationship of man and nature ...," Rozon said. "This is more than just a zoo. It's a classroom."

As I pondered Rozon's statements, I came upon a large fenced area containing llamas, dama wallaby (which look like tiny kangaroos), an ostrich and her baby, fallow deer and gazelles.

(Just before you get to this area, there is a covered pony ride area for children, but no ponies were yet working).

Probably the least shy of the bunch was the ostrich which promptly pranced up to the fence where I stood and poked her beak through the wire mesh to get a better look and hopefully a free snack. She got a better look but zoo officials frowned on feeding the animals anything other than special critter food and I didn't have any.

As far as the tiny kangaroos are concerned, I'd like to take one home with me because they are so cute, small and cuddly. But they also are extremely fleet of foot as they dart about.

While the llamas were a curious bunch, they weren't as excitable as the dama wallaby "kangaroos". They walked nonchalantly past me with heads held high in a rather snobbish pose.

The bouncy, light-footed gazelles are truly a thing of beauty as they leap effortlessly and run with all the grace and poise of a skillfully directed ballet.

Their cousins — the fallow deer — are beautiful creatures as well. Although small in stature, the white-fanned antlers and the white spots on the light brown surface give the appearance that snow has just fallen in this tropical commune.

But my attention was quickly drawn away from the leaping gazelles and pawing deer by the rustle of peacock feathers and a cackling turkey which had crept up behind me. At first I thought the ugly yet interesting turkey's call was someone laughing at a tiny pig wallowing in the mud of his cage nearby.

With lightly falling raindrops beginning to speckle my path, I decided it was time to venture inside the large wooded structure located in the center of the park to see what mysteries lay within.

I knew of at least one animal being housed in the structure before I ever entered when I heard the long, loud "Baaaaaaaa" of sheep and I was reminded of an itchy wool sweater I wore as a youngster.

But the sheep weren't the only animals seeking attention. Three goats scampered for recognition, running back in forth in their cage and standing on hind legs with forefeet placed against the wire mesh that separated them from me. Their faces were so young and innocent.

This shelter also is home for two barn owls whose coal black eyes stared out from a sea of white facial feathers. Meanwhile, a red rat snake and an iguana lurk about glass-encased cages, their tiny, slippery tongues shooting from their mouths in a most sinister fashion.

The rain has stopped for now, so I venture

The peacock at the Central Florida Zoo is beautiful and proud.

STOP For Those Kids

If a flashing caution signal and school crossing warning signs aren't enough to make motorists slow down near school areas, police are issuing traffic citations in hopes of creating an even greater incentive for drivers to obey the law.

"We've been handing out traffic citations to people who are driving too fast through school areas or who are failing to obey school-crossing guards," said Herb Shea, assistant to Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler.

"Our traffic division is at most of the city's school crossing areas and bus stop areas at 7:30 a.m. until 9 a.m. when children are going to school and then again at 2 until 3:30 p.m. when they're on their way home," Shea said. "Most people realize, or they should realize, that school is in session and we are concentrating on the school areas to make sure we don't have a problem. Although we are handing out some citations, the traffic division reports no major problems with enforcement."

"We have been monitoring the school zones throughout the county and once we determine where a real problem exists with compliance to the traffic laws, if any, then we'll target that area with radar and try to put a stop to it," said Capt. Roy Hughey, head of the Seminole County Sheriff's Department Patrol Division.

"Many school zones have the flashing caution lights to warn drivers to slow down but all of the citations are clearly marked, so there really isn't any excuse for not obeying them," he said.

Hughey said that a person charged with speeding through a school-crossing area could expect to pay a $25 fine.

"However, there are a lot of variables that figure into the charge that is actually placed against the person," he said. "Also, if they are exceeding the speed limit by a good bit, they might even be charged with reckless driving."

Seminole County school bus drivers were faced with a perennial problem on the first day of school — breakdowns — but they caused no major difficulties for the 20,000 students who depend on the buses for transportation.

"We had a few of them break down," said Woodrow Burnsed, supervisor of transportation. "But we had 50 standby drivers. When the drivers called in to say they had broken down, we had another bus on the road."

No students were late for classes because of bus failures, Burnsed said.

He explained it takes a few days to get all the bugs out of the buses. "They've all been inspected but they haven't been road tested."

But the biggest problem facing the transportation system is providing for the needs of special education students.

"We've had a few problems with the special education students," Burnsed said. "We're still getting students."

"The real problem is trying to get a bus to them," Burnsed continued, explaining that the 53 buses used to transport special education students do not follow the same routes or take children to the same schools as the other buses.

McCollum Forecasts

Republicans Will Win In '82; Reagan To Run In '84

BILL MCCOLLUM

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Florida's 5th District U.S. Rep. Bill McCollum of Altamonte Springs is predicting the GOP will gain seats in Congress during this off-presidential election year, despite tradition to the contrary.

And he believes that Ronald Reagan, 72, will run for re-election in 1984.

Reagan broke tradition in 1980; becoming the first man in U.S. history to run for election to the presidency at the age of 70. If he seeks re-election he will be 74 and would be 78 before he leaves office.

McCollum qualified his prediction by saying that this is what Reagan will do if his health remains good.

The freshman Republican congressman in an interview Monday said he foresees Massachusetts U.S. Sen. Edward Kennedy as Reagan's Democratic opponent in 1984, discounting former Vice President Walter Mondale as a viable candidate.

"That is unless a dark horse like Askew emerges," he said referring to former Florida Gov. Reubin Askew.

Turning to his own re-election bid in November, McCollum, a native Floridian, said he respects his Democratic opponent in that election State Rep. Dick Batchelor of Orlando and sees him as running a capable campaign in the congressional district that includes all of Seminole and much of Orange counties.

He rejected an issue Batchelor considers major in the campaign — McCollum's reported campaign budget of $335,000.

McCollum said his campaign will likely spend $250,000 to $335,000, adding he will not spend as much as the $500,000 to $1 million that some of his House counterparts around the nation will.

And he said he will not take advantage of his franking (postage free) mailing privilege by sending an information mailing to new constituents in the Orange County section of the district, at government expense.

"I will be doing an information mailing to those constituents as part of the campaign, paying for it with campaign funds," he said.

McCollum said he began raising money for his re-election effort a year ago and this is one reason his war chest appears to contain so much money.

Noting that his opponent is walking the precincts door to door in both Seminole and Orange counties to meet the voters, McCollum said he believes in people to people campaigns and will be doing the same. The target precincts for those walks have not as yet been selected, he said.

The election essentially will be an opportunity for the people to assess his performance in office during the past 19 months, he said.

McCollum called deficit spending the worst problem facing the federal government and the major cause of high interest rates.

"You're not going to see stability in the economy until something is done with the deficits," he said.

The average amount of money taken out of the market place by the federal government in the 1960s was 5 percent, McCollum said, adding that the amount reached this year was 70 percent and in 1983 will be 60 percent.

"This is a dramatic statement of what is wrong," McCollum said.

The Federal Reserve Board has loosened the strings on the money supply, but the purse strings can't be let go for very long, he said. "When the money supply catches up, it will slowly go back down again."

The soundest approach, in McCollum's judgment, to reducing the federal deficit is to take substantial "hunks" out of every federal program in an even-handed fashion.

He said the reality is that President Reagan will not touch defense spending or Social Security for cuts in the budget.

He called federal subsidized housing programs in the big cities of the nation a pork-barrel.

IN BRIEF

IBM Gunman Suffered From Vietnam Stress

RESEARCH TRIANGLE PARK, N.C. (UPI) — A veteran under treatment for Vietnam stress who was fired by IBM broke through company security and marched down corridors firing a submachine gun at random. He killed one person and wounded another before shooting himself.

The attack Monday by a man identified by police as Leonard Avery, 39, was the second deadly assault on an IBM plant by a former employee this year.

Avery, whose friends said he had served two tours of duty in Vietnam, fled in his car after the attack, exchanging fire with a highway patrolman in the research and production facility's parking lot. A 15-mile, high-speed chase ended at a roadblock on the outskirts of Raleigh, where Avery shot himself in the head with a .22-caliber Derringer pistol, police said.

He was listed in critical condition after surgery.

Military Payroll To Be Met

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Pentagon, using a cash shuffling scheme devised by the administration, will be able to meet its end-of-the-month payroll today even though President Reagan vetoed the "pay supplemental" appropriations bill.

The Defense Department simply delayed transferring to the Treasury Department about $600 million in income-tax withholding and Social Security payments to meet its payroll. The extra money will carry the military through Sept. 15, the next payday.

Most other federal agencies will not be affected by the lack of money until next week, officials said.

Reporter Won't Testify

BILLERICA, Mass. (UPI) — A newspaper reporter, sentenced to 90 days in jail for contempt of court for refusing to divulge information from a one-time murder suspect, was given a last-minute, 24-hour reprieve so he can take his case to the federal courts.

Boston Herald American reporter Paul Corsetti was ordered Monday by Norfolk Superior Court Judge Robert A. Barton to immediately begin serving a 90-day contempt sentence at the Middlesex House of Correction in Billerica.

Corsetti refused to testify in court about interviews he had with Edward R. Kopez Jr., who allegedly confessed to him he shot and killed gay hustler Curtis Dale Barbre in Lowell in February 1978.

Kopez was later acquitted by a jury.

...Zoo Is A Good Place For Young, Old

 back outside and renew my trek deeper into the wild kingdom.

A sleek cougar appeared bored and, except for the fact that his eyes followed my every step, I hardly think he cared if I've come to see him or not.

The Margay (an animal resembling an ocelot) is supposed to be very acrobatic, but today, this particular striped and spotted animal would rather sleep.

The docile Margay stood in stark contrast to the endless pacing, jumping chattering squirrel monkeys in the next cage.

When I first saw the Jaguarundi, or "Otter-Cat" as he is often called, I had visions of souped-up race car with oversized rear wheels. The otter-cat is fuzzy and black and, like its nickname implies, resembles a mix between an otter and a cat. It has a large torso and hind legs with a small, round head.

And, what would a Florida zoo be without turtles, crocodiles and alligators? This zoo has all three, in addition to numerous water fowl such as ducks and swans.

But as you're gazing at the gators, don't be surprised if you hear the flirtatious wolf whistle of a caged parrot nearby. He's a sneaky fellow, too. As soon as you turn to catch him in the act, you won't hear a sound from him or any of his caged colleagues.

The rain is falling again and a spotted leopard is about as happy about getting wet as I.

I sought the shelter of an umbrella and peaked in at the river otter who was thrilled with the whole situation. While one otter crawled out of his little cubbyhole to see what was going on, yawning and returned to sleep, his roommate decided this was the perfect time to slide, jump and dive in his pool. As cute as they are, a sign says these creatures are extremely dangerous, so I kept my distance.

Venturing further into the heart of the zoo, I watched the nimble jaguar softly padding to and fro against the metal bars of his cage.

Nearby, the huge Bengal tigers pace in their oversized striped skins that look to me like pajamas with feet sewn in.

I decided to conduct an experiment and began pacing right along with the big cats. As I paced, they brushed against their cage as my own kitten often brushes against my legs at home. When I stopped, the tigers continued to pace, but stopped rubbing against the cage. Out of the corner of my eye, I saw two large, black heads swinging side to side and realized, no this isn't Smokey the Bear but two playful-looking black bears.

As I walked on toward the swamp monkey cage, I found that these little creatures are definitely reporter material. As I drew near, they looked me over inquisitively and acted almost as if I were the one in a cage and that they had come to see me.

Feeling a bit uncomfortable, I moved on to the hairy, bearded monkeys in a cage nearby but was greeted as curiously by them as I was by the swamp monkeys.

But the baboon family, dad with his afro hair cut, and momma baboon holding baby baboon in her arm as he nuzzles, were quite an interesting trio. Not only are they odd looking, but the father baboon was intent on trying to grab something someone had tossed near the cage.

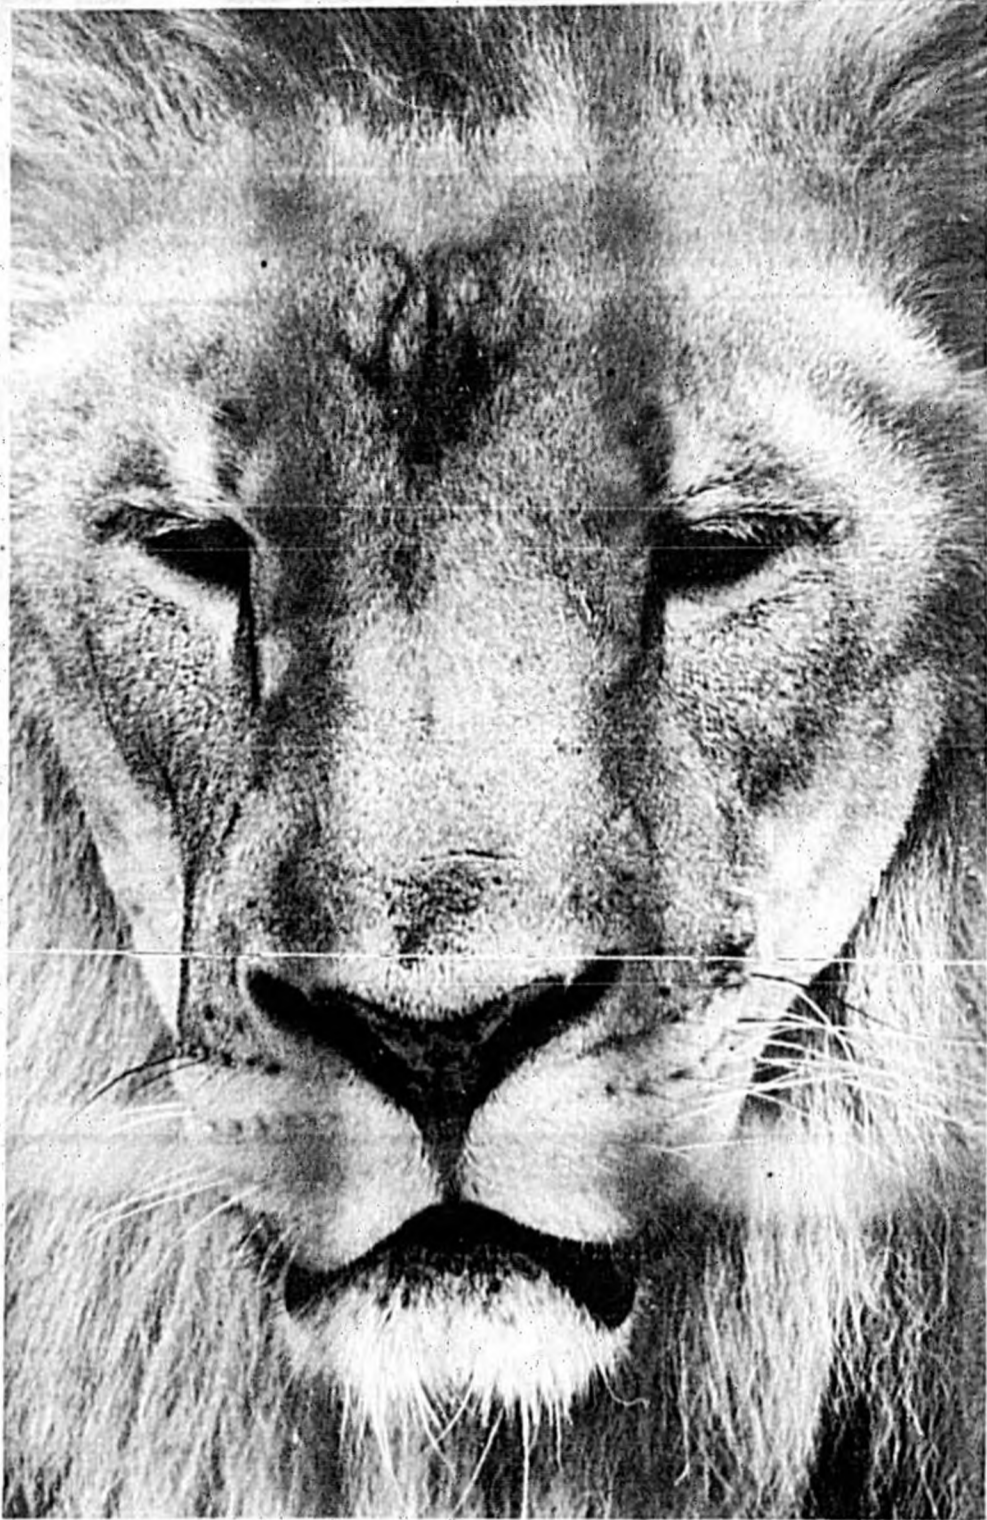

Not to be left out, the baby baboon "assisted" by climbing all over his father until his mother pulled him away by his tail, prompting dear old dad to play tug-of-war with the youngster, pulling his head and body. Mom eventually won. Baby appeared unharmed.

Near the end of my journey, I entered the domain of Mr. and Mrs. King of the Jungle — the regal lion and lioness. As Mrs. King lay panting, unmoved by my presence, her male counterpart paced to and fro, shaking his large mane, but never once roaring as does the MGM movie company's mascot.

Next, I passed the bobcat cage where this small, kitten-like animal rose from his sleep to greet me.

But as I approached the leopard's cage, my last in this tour of jungle creatures, I was met by a sleek, black cat with steely, green eyes which appeared as cold as the bars that separate us. He paced and, once again, I paced. But this time, there was no brushing of the wire cage in affection. My pacing was met with hisses and growls. As I quicken my pace, so does my "shadow." More hisses and growls. Not wishing to make any enemy here, I decided it was time to go.

But before leaving, I walked through the zoo's gift shop, admiring the trinkets and memorabilia of a day in the park. And, to top it all off, who could resist stopping by the snack bar for a hot dog? I couldn't.

School Board, Altamonte Sued

By TENI YARBOROUGH
 Herald Staff Writer

An Orlando woman has filed a lawsuit seeking damages from the Seminole County School Board on behalf of her daughter while an Orlando advertising company has asked the court to settle a dispute between it and Altamonte Springs officials over a controversial sign.

Jo Ann Welborn, of Orlando, is suing the school board for an undisclosed amount of damages in excess of $5,000 in connection with a 1980 incident at the Bear Lake Elementary School in which her daughter was allegedly injured when she was shoved by a classmate.

The Seminole Circuit Court suit claims that on March 20, 1980, Mrs. Welborn's daughter, Gena Ann, was pushed by another student, causing her to fall into the teacher's chair and injure herself. The suit further claims that the teacher, Cheryl Brown, did not allow the youngster to notify her mother of the injuries nor did she seek aid for the injured and bleeding child.

In addition, Mrs. Welborn claims that Ms. Brown did not have control of her students and allowed them to roam unsupervised.

In addition to damages, Mrs. Welborn is asking the court to order the school board to pay the medical costs incurred as a result of her daughter's injuries. The suit is scheduled to be heard by Circuit Judge S. Joseph Davis, Jr. although no court date has been set.

Meanwhile, officials at the Peterson Outdoor Advertising Corp. of Orlando, have petitioned the court to declare a permit, issued by Altamonte Springs, valid and allow them to continue building an advertising display along State Road 438 near E. Altamonte Drive.

The suit claims that the advertising company was issued a city permit to erect the sign on May 6, 1982 and that on June 2, construction of the display began at a cost of about $5,190.

However, city Building Administrator John P. Waddell notified the company that the permit was revoked because of faulty construction and improper locating of the structure. The suit states that Waddell asked the company to provide him with an engineer's certificate stating the fill at the base of the structure was adequate to support the display.

The advertising company provided city officials with a letter from an engineer who had inspected the structure saying the sign's construction was "adequate" and posed "no danger," court records show.

Officials at Peterson Outdoor Advertising Corp., are now seeking the court's judgment concerning the validity of the permit issued to them by the city and are asking that they be allowed to continue construction which has cost them, to date, in excess of $5,000, the suit states. The case is slated to be heard before Circuit Judge Dominick J. Saffi. No trial date has been set.

GNP Up In July

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's sensitive leading economic indicators went up by 1.3 percent in July, the fourth consecutive monthly increase and a sign "recovery is on its way," the Commerce Department said today.

Seven of the 10 available indicators showed improvement for July. Those that did not showed signs they would improve soon, and August's economic performance virtually guaranteeing another sizable increase when its indicators are measured next month, analysts said.

"Historically whenever the indicators have increased as much as they have since March we have always had a recovery," said a spokesman for the department's Bureau of Economic Analysis that prepared the report.

"I think this is a very good indication that a recovery is on its way."

Those indicators that showed positive movement were the length of the average workweek, claims for unemployment insurance, orders for consumer goods in inflation-adjusted dollars, orders for plant and equipment, building permits, changes in raw materials prices and the money supply.

Negative indicators included stock prices, which in August rocketed upward, as well as the pace of deliveries and changes in total liquid assets.

The composite indicator, designed to forecast economic trends in the near future, had gone up a revised 0.3 percent in June, 0.7 percent in May and 1.4 percent in April.

But the previous 11 months had all been negative, documenting the extent of the recession that started in July of last year, two months after the indicators began pointing down.

The Bureau of Economic Analysis spokesman asked that his name not be used because of a department policy usually applied that only the secretary of Commerce, the under secretary and the chief economist allow their names to be linked to statements commenting on major economic indicators.

The composite index of economic indicators for July was 129.8, compared to a level of 100 in 1967, the department report said. The composite index for June was 128.1.

The July composite did not include two other indicators the department said were not available, changes in inventories on hand and on order and the number of new businesses created.

The business formation indicator has not been included since December, a change blamed by the department on the unavailability of the data usually supplied by private firms.

Casselberry OKs Building Plans

Four site plans have been approved by the Casselberry City Council.

The council gave approval to construction of a Tenneco gas station on the southeast corner of U.S. Highway 17-92 and Seminole Boulevard and the sale of beer and wine for off-premises consumption.

Also approved were plans for Bannigan's Tavern to be built on State Road 436 next to the Tropic Bank at Butler Plaza; Ponderosa Steak House at State Road 436 at Winter Woods Boulevard; and the Whitmore Building, an office building to be built on Normandy Road by Charles Whitmore Jr. of Winter Park. The latter project was on the work session agenda and since the council had no objections to the plan, and there will be no meeting next Monday because of Labor Day, it was moved up for a formal vote.

Action on another work session site plan, the 238-unit Oxford Road Apartment complex, was delayed after the council found several changes the developer would have to make before approval could be granted. The apartments are scheduled to be built on Oxford Road Extension south of the Sandpiper Apartments.

Bill Stripp of Casselberry was awarded a $2,130 contract for water-proofing the Casselberry Senior Multipurpose Center at Secret Lake Park.

Sept. 11 will be moving day into the new City Hall building next door to the present facility at 95 Lake Triplett Drive.

Haitian Invaders Promise To Continue Freedom Fight

MIAMI (UPI)—Seven self-styled Haitian liberation fighters sentenced to probation for violating the U.S. neutrality law have pledged to continue their struggle against President-for-life Jean Claude "Baby Doc" Duvalier.

Bernard Sansaricq, who led the other six on a failed invasion of Haiti, said Monday he would still struggle through peaceful means to free his homeland.

Sansaricq added that he would not violate any U.S. laws in his fight.

U.S. District Judge Joe Eaton sentenced six of the men to three-years probation after they pleaded guilty to violating neutrality laws. The seventh was given two-years probation.

Sansaricq and the six co-defendants had violated U.S. neutrality laws prohibiting "an expedition against a friendly nation" in mid-January when they loaded a small wooden boat with weapons in Miami and headed for the coast of Haiti. The expedition ended when the boat began leaking north of Haiti and they called the U.S. Coast Guard to rescue them.

Cutting Classes At UF

GAINESVILLE (UPI)—The University of Florida's loss of $2.5 million in general education funds because of Gov. Bob Graham's call for statewide budget cuts may force the school to cancel some classes, officials say.

The governor ordered 2 percent spending reductions in all state agencies to compensate for sales tax revenues that fell short of predictions in the state budget.

UF is one of nine state universities forced to operate with fewer dollars because of the spending cuts.

Power Rate Hike OK'd

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Florida Public Service Commission has granted the Florida Power Corp. a $33 million interim rate increase to take effect in 30 days.

The increase will raise residential rates 4.29 percent for Florida Power's approximately 800,000 customers. The company had sought an interim increase of $38 million.

Florida Power is seeking a permanent increase of $169 million. Company officials say the increase is needed to offset inflation, high interest rates and the cost of building more plants.

If a Longwood man had kept his car in a little better condition he might be somewhere other than the Seminole County jail today.

Edward Lewis David Boerngen, 48, of Lodge-On-The-Green, Apt. 10, was being held under $8,000 bond following his arrest at 12:35 a.m. today.

Boerngen, who also told police that his name is Harley David Greene, was stopped along U.S. Highway 17-92 at Dog Track Road for failing to signal a turn and for not having a muffler or stop lights on his vehicle, police said.

After routinely checking the license plate on Boerngen's car, police discovered that the tag had been reported stolen in Orange County. Police said Boerngen tried to leave the area after being told he was under arrest and had to be physically restrained.

Police reportedly took Boerngen to the police department where they learned he was wanted in Key West on felony charges and that he possessed credit cards in the names of Jerry R. Edens and Harley David Greene. Police said Boerngen also did not have a driver's license.

Police charged Boerngen with the traffic offenses along with uttering a forged because he signed the fingerprint card as Harley David Greene, trafficking in stolen property, possession of stolen credit cards, possession of two or more credit cards in different names, uttering a forged instrument, resisting arrest without violence and giving false information to a police officer.

WORLD

Response From Korea On U.S. Defector Awaited

SEOUL, South Korea (UPI)—The U.S.-led United Nations Command asked North Korea for a face-to-face meeting with an American GI who crossed the demilitarized zone reportedly seeking political asylum.

North Korea did not immediately respond to the command request Monday, conveyed through the truce village of Panmunjom, 35 miles north of Seoul.

The interview, in accordance with protocol established by the 1953 Korean Armistice Agreement, will give the Americans a chance to determine whether Pfc. Joseph T. White, 21, crossed the Korean border Saturday of his own free will as claimed by Communist North Korea.

Warsaw Braces For Riots

WARSAW, Poland (UPI) — Poland's military rulers issued an 11th-hour plea for peace to prevent clashes today between pro-Solidarity demonstrators and riot police authorized to use force at rallies marking the outlawed union's second anniversary.

In one of the biggest shows of force since martial law was imposed Dec. 13, 1981, authorities stationed water cannon, armored personnel carriers and scores of other police vehicles — plus hundreds of fatigue-clad riot police — in key areas of Warsaw and other cities.

GOP Expects House Losses, Senate Wins

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's political advisers expect Republicans to lose fewer than 20 seats in the House this fall — less than half the average for the party in power.

At the same time, they anticipate the GOP will pick up one or two seats in the Senate, where the party now holds an edge of 51 Republicans to 46 Democrats.

Rejecting forecasts by some political pundits that the GOP will lose 30 to 40 seats in the House, one White House adviser said: "The expectation for us is to have minimal losses. We don't expect to lose even 20 seats."

In the Senate, he noted, the Democrats are defending 22 incumbents to the Republicans' 11, and the trends are "heading our way."

"We expect to pick up a seat or two," in the Senate, he said. The House currently has 242 Democrats, with one vacancy, and 192 Republicans.

Traditionally, the president's party loses an average 38 House incumbents in the off-year election.

The Federal Election Commission reported Sunday the Republican campaign committees are raising nearly eight times more money than their Democratic counterparts for the 1982 elections.

It said the three major GOP committees have raised $146 million to the $19 million raised by four major Democratic groups. White House aides still are working on their political strategy and decisions on the extent of Reagan's campaigning.

There is some difference of opinion on that, but deputy press secretary Larry Speakes told reporters in Santa Barbara, Calif., he expects Reagan to do a "good bit" of campaigning for GOP candidates after Labor Day.

One political adviser, who did not think it would be "wise" for the president "to go on the hustings," predicted Reagan will do "a good mix" of campaigning on the spot and from Washington in support of Republican candidates.

"All things being equal," he said, "I think the president can help more by not flying all over the place. Economically it's tough and it's tough on the president."

But he said Reagan can do a lot from the White House, posing for photographs with candidates and doing television spots.

Home-Owning, American Style THE COST GOES UP

It's no secret to home-owners that housing costs are up across the board. How much is the subject of a national study by savings associations, the primary source of mortgage money. Between 1979, when the last survey was taken, and 1980 the median price of a home in the United States and carrying costs rose to new highs. So did buyer income, but that's not all good news. Higher prices are squeezing out younger buyers. The 25-35 age group accounted for 17 percent of first-time buyers in 1979, but only 13.5 percent in 1981.

Average New House Cost Up To $91,000

WASHINGTON (UPI) — New houses became still more expensive and fewer were purchased during July, the government reported, but the ailing construction industry expects a slow but definite improvement from now on.

Sales of new single family homes slipped 49 percent to their third lowest annual rate on record, the Commerce Department reported Monday.

Most striking, prices continued to climb with the average price for a new house reaching a record $91,100.

The median price, midway between top and bottom, also set a record at $73,600, the department said.

The median price is less influenced than the average price by the relatively few sales of exceptionally expensive units.

And analysts warn the government tends to exaggerate sales prices by missing much of the price cutting that goes by the name "creative-financing."

About 226,000 new homes were sold through the first seven months of this year — 22 percent fewer than in the same period last year. Another 250,000 remain on the market unsold, the department said.

In July alone about 31,000 single family houses were sold, bringing the annual rate of sales after adjustment for summer buying trends to 353,000 units.

July's modest improvement in mortgage interest rates and the bigger declines that followed in August won't be enough to raise the year's sales above 1981's depressed level, said Michael Sumichrast, the chief economist of the largest construction trade group, the National Association of Home Builders.

"We've written off 1982," he said. The association's newly revised forecast shows 1982 becoming the worst year for housing since 1946, Sumichrast said, with 30,000 units less than last year's depressed total of 1.1 million housing starts.

But the slight easing of interest rates could mean the worst is over, he added.

"I don't think it is going any further (down). We are clearly reaching the point where we see some hopeful sign of housing coming back, but not necessarily in the next few months," he said.

The subsidized Federal Housing Administration and Veterans Administration mortgage loan rates dropped to 14 percent this month while unsubsidized rates, covering the other 89 percent of home loans, are available at about 15 percent.

Immigration Reform Needed

The immigration reform bill recently passed by the Senate belongs at the head of the agenda for action by the House of Representatives after its Labor Day recess. We urge passage of the Simpson-Mazzoli bill even while acknowledging that it may be only the beginning of the process of resolving the problem of undocumented workers in the United States.

The bill is the first rewrite of our basic immigration laws in 30 years. It has been a long time in coming, and represents political compromises on issues that remain highly controversial.

The measure would end a glaring inconsistency in our labor laws, which now make it illegal for undocumented aliens to work in this country but do not prohibit employers from hiring them. Henceforth, employers would face civil and criminal penalties for knowingly hiring illegal immigrants — those who cannot show documentary evidence of their right to work.

There would be an "amnesty" offering permanent resident status and the right to work to those aliens who entered the country before Jan. 1, 1977, and temporary status to those who entered between 1977 and 1980. The amnesty is expected to affect the majority of aliens who have been working here under the fear of deportation.

There would be a streamlining of the process of admitting foreign workers under temporary permits, especially for seasonal agricultural jobs. Aliens not qualifying for resident status because of the 1980 cutoff date of the amnesty offer could qualify for employment when the Labor Department establishes a need for their services.

The bill also would revise the schedule of immigration quotas, with special consideration for immigrants from Canada and Mexico, and it embodies long-needed reforms in laws covering entry of refugees seeking asylum.

All of this promises to introduce a degree of order into what has become a highly disordered flow of foreign citizens into the United States. Whether the terms of the legislation will fulfill that promise remains to be seen.

Enforcement of the employer sanctions may be difficult, at least until the government produces the counterfeit-proof identification card which the bill calls for within the next three years. The amnesty provision, however, should vastly reduce the number of aliens seeking to hold jobs in an illegal status. It will also be incumbent upon the Labor Department to see that the sanctions do not result in discrimination against American citizens and legal residents, as some representatives of Hispanic organizations fear.

A provision that would deny welfare benefits to alien workers for three years after they achieve permanent resident status raises both moral and constitutional questions. The potential impact of the amnesty offer on the demand for welfare services is subject to conjecture. In this respect and others the legislation will be subject to review and amendment in the light of experience.

The Senate passed the bill by a vote of 81 to 18, a substantial majority considering the uncertainties it poses for the future. Obviously there is a conviction in the Senate that our present immigration laws are hopelessly inadequate to deal with what is happening along our borders and in the shops and on the farms where illegal immigrants are finding employment.

The Simpson-Mazzoli bill may not be the final answer to the problem, but it is an answer that attempts to bring the law into tune with reality. If the House is equally willing to face the circumstances that have overtaken immigration laws that are unrealistic and unenforceable, it will follow the Senate's lead and pass the bill.

BERRY'S WORLD

"George, whatever happened to El Salvador?"

By SAM COOK

The opening night of the 1982 football season is less than two weeks away and there doesn't seem to be a clear-cut favorite in the Five Star Conference.

Coach Jerry Posey's Seminoles are once again an unknown entity just like last year, and you know what happened last year. Seminole fashioned the only undefeated season ever in the Five Star and also took the district championship before bowing to eventual state champ Vero Beach in the regional.

Defensive backs Tim Herring and Harold Gaines lead the way. While the Seminoles are in the dark as to where they may finish, big things are expected of coach Bill Scott's Lyman Greyhounds who were 5-5 last year.

The Hounds return speedy and powerful Vince Presley, a 6-2, 185-pounder who has a 9.5 100-yard dash clocking to his credit. Presley will team with rifle-armed quarterback Jerry Axley and glue-fingered receiver Todd Marriot to give the Lyman crew an explosive offense.

Chris Tschieder, a second-team all-star last year, returns to bolster the offensive line from his guard position. He is also an excellent kicker.

Elsewhere, Lake Howell should also be good. Coach Mike Bisceglia returns two of his best offensive linemen — Dan Rae and Billy Norton — along with junior quarterback Troy Quackenbush.

Junior Billy Lang is a headhunter in the defensive secondary while Charles Hodges is also a seasoned defender. Upfront noseguard Wendall Kerry is tough.

Bisceglia, who got off to a disastrous start by losing his first six games last year, is in his second year after a fine coaching career at Hialeah which includes a couple of district titles.

Lake Brantley, which sent several players to major colleges last year, will be rebuilding. John Desmet, a hard-nosed lineman, is about the only standout to return for coach Dave Tullis.

"We're awful young," points out Tullis. "If these kids can get over the usual mistakes of inexperience we should be all right."

Turning to 3A, Oviedo should be strong while Lake Mary faces a tough schedule with its first varsity squad.

The Lions have a solid backfield headed by quarterback Dwayne Johnson and powerful running back J.W. Yarborough. The offensive line is solid with David Wilson, David Butterfield and Craig Wheeler.

Lake Mary was 4-4 last year with sophomores. The freshman team was 5-0 and should send several good prospects to coach Roger Beathard's varsity.

Give the Rams credit, however, they didn't go around scheduling all the weak sisters of the 2A and 3A. They put together a tough schedule including Oviedo, Lake Brantley and several other strong 3A schools.

Juniors Greg Shatto and Ned Kolbjornsen are two Rams to watch. Kolbjornsen is a tough tackle and Shatto is a flashy running back. Sophomores Charlie Lucarelli and Pat Murray are speedy backs while Jeff Hopkins and Billy Caughell are top hitters defensively.

Trinity Prep, with half the school in Seminole and the other half in Orange county, was a junior-dominated squad last year.

Coach Ron Vierling returns a super running back in Gerald Sutton. Fullback Richard Milliman and junior quarterback Steve Philips are also quality performers.

Bacterium Linked To Arthritis

By AL ROSSITER JR.
UPI Science Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Government scientists in Montana have isolated from ticks a spiral-shaped form of bacteria that may be the cause of Lyme arthritis, a peculiar disease discovered in 1975 in Connecticut.

If so, the finding would climax a six-year search by medical detectives trying to find the cause of the puzzling disease. And it might aid the overall effort of scientists trying to understand other forms of arthritis.

Lyme arthritis, named after the town where the first cases were discovered, was recognized because of the geographic clustering of cases in the adjoining Connecticut River towns of Lyme, Old Lyme and East Haddam. Most victims lived in heavily wooded or sparsely settled areas.

The disease has since been reported in other Northeastern states, in the Midwest and in the West.

The initial symptoms of the illness, similar to juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, often include fever and aches, followed by swelling of the joints such as the knee, wrist or elbow.

Researchers at Yale University, who first reported the disease, said the first sign is a red spot that grows into an expanding red circle.

The Yale doctors suggested that ticks of the genus Ixodes might be responsible, but they were unable to find an infectious agent.

Researchers at the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Disease's Rocky Mountain Laboratories, Hamilton, Mont., collected ticks from vegetation on Shelter Island, N.Y., where the disease has been identified.

The scientists detected the spiral-shaped bacteria, known as spirochetes, in 61 percent of the ticks collected. Some ticks examined under electron microscopes had only a few of the microorganisms in their guts while others had clumps of them.

Rabbits exposed to the ticks in the laboratory developed skin conditions like those found in human victims of Lyme arthritis. And blood from the infected rabbits contained antibodies that their immune systems presumably made to combat the invading organisms.

The scientists also discovered that blood of patients recovering from the disease contained antibodies apparently formed in response to an infection by the spirochetes.

Blood of 14 people from New York and Montana with no history of Lyme arthritis contained no antibodies that reacted to the spirochetes.

The report on the findings was published in the June 18 issue of Science magazine. Dr. Willy Burgdorfer, head of the study effort, noted that characteristics of spirochetes were said to be associated with similar skin conditions in Europe as early as 1948.

Adding to the evidence that a spirochete is responsible for Lyme arthritis is the discovery that the disease appears to improve in patients treated with penicillin, a drug effective against bacteria.

"It is suggested that the newly discovered spirochete is involved in the etiology (cause) of Lyme disease," the report said.

Conte-Proxmire Tangle Turns Comic

WASHINGTON — The rules and customs of Congress prohibit one member from disparaging another. Rep. Silvio Conte, R-Mass., would like to make an exception of Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis.

Conte possesses a refreshing contentiousness, a rousing hatred for a fellow legislator and all his works that evokes nostalgia in these tepid days of the bland politician.

The irrepressible Conte resents having to operate under what he calls the "Marquess of Queensberry rules" that govern congressional debate. He simply can't bring himself to refer to Proxmire as "the honorable gentleman" or "my distinguished colleague," as parliamentary protocol requires.

The two of them tangled over a $75-a-day tax deduction that Congress voted for itself last year. Conte was an unabashed advocate of this backdoor pay raise. But the parsimonious Proxmire raised such a howl over it that he succeeded in killing it.

WILLIAM A. RUSHER

Reagan: 'What A Man!'

NEW YORK (NEA) — President Reagan's latest double-whammy — piloting his tax bill through the House with bipartisan support and achieving agreement on the PLO's evacuation of Beirut — sent him off on his belated California vacation with the inescapable words on everyone's lips: "What a man!"

There is no need and no justification for conservatives to snarl and grumble that they have been "betrayed" or that Reagan is now embarked on a course diametrically opposed to the one he set in 1981. Nothing could be further from the truth.

Ronald Reagan came into office determined to cut the huge monster of federal government down to size, and during the 1981 congressional session he led a coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats in a heavy two-prong assault: slashing federal expenditures beyond any levels theretofore seriously proposed and drastically reducing income taxes in a three-year sequence that was guaranteed to force still deeper budget cuts in the out-years.

Unfortunately, two circumstances — one anticipated and the other unanticipated — interfered with the absolute purity of Reagan's design.

The anticipated circumstance was the desperate need to rebuild the strength of the U.S. armed forces, which a combination of presidents and Congresses of both parties had, in a truly staggering display of bipartisan irresponsibility, allowed to degenerate into so much flab. That rebuilding job would cost money — lots and lots of money — and there was simply nowhere to hide it in the federal budget. It would force this most frugal and financially responsible president since Calvin Coolidge to preside over a budget clearly in deficit, but he swallowed his pride and agreed: America's security must come before all else.

The unanticipated blow was the onset of the current recession, which sharply reduced the tax revenues the government had been counting on to keep the budget a good deal closer to balance. Our superheated economy, accustomed to getting a "quick fix" of inflationary loose money from the Federal Reserve System every time it threatened to collapse, wilted into near-immobility when Federal Reserve Chairman Paul Volcker refused to give the economy its customary snuff of laughing gas.

The rate of inflation promptly fell, and the aches and pains of a genuine economic shake-out were felt in the land: bankruptcies of overextended companies, unemployment of workers in industries that could no longer yield to union demands or compete with more efficient foreign producers, etc. Worst of all, interest rates — which had gyrated all the way up to 21.5 percent under Jimmy Carter, when double-digit inflation was the name of the game and nobody who loaned a dollar knew what kind of funny money would be offered to repay it when the time came — took their own sweet time about coming down.

From almost every side, Reagan was pounded with the same advice: Reverse your field; raise taxes to cut the deficits. Note carefully how he responded: He designed (or encouraged the crafty Sen. Robert Dole to design) a tax bill that did little or nothing to undercut the main thrust of his dramatic 1981 slashes in income taxes during the next three years. Instead, it tightens enforcement of a whole series of taxes that have long been on the books (tips, interest and dividend income, etc.) and slaps new surcharges on a series of items (air fares, cigarettes) that, if not exactly luxuries, are a long way from being the special consolations of the poor. It will all add up to nearly $100 billion in revenues.

Then Reagan let the pressures mount until the famous "unpopularity of raising taxes in a recession" had been distributed across almost the entire spectrum of American politics: He actually engineered TV scenes of Tip O'Neill begging his fellow Democrats to vote for the bill! That was not, ladies and gentlemen, the performance of a routine politician, or even of a routine president. It had a panache, even a genius, all its own. And the stock market responded with a Nijinsky-like leap of delight. Even the stubborn interest rates sank toward more normal levels, and one could sense a clean, brisk, autumnal breeze sweeping through the economy. Beirut was just the maraschino on the sundae.

What a man!

DON GRAFF And Now The Facts

By any definition, the Wall Street Journal is a remarkable journalistic operation.

Not least in the ability of its editorial writers to remain oblivious of so much of the superior reportage the Journal's correspondents contribute to the news pages.

What brings this on is an editorial in the Aug. 19 edition on the subject of Nicaragua, and the sorry mess into which the Sandinista government has gotten that country.

To summarize: The regime is increasingly repressive, censoring the opposition newspaper La Prensa, harassing Catholic and Protestant churches and kicking around Indians who don't want to be part of the revolution.

The bare facts of the indictment so far are true enough, but they lead the Journal's writer to a conclusion that falls considerably short of the whole truth:

The Nicaragua revolution was not one that the U.S. struggled against. In the two years after the Sandinists took power we gave Nicaragua twice as much aid as we had given it in the two years before. We did not force the regime into repression and intolerance; the Sandinists took that path because the political philosophy with which they came to office made repression not only possible for them but easy. It is time for people to stop defending what the Sandinists have become, or pretending that any cozying up by the U.S. could have made them otherwise.

Now wait a minute. That point about a struggle is at least arguable. But in the space and time remaining here let's examine the aid business in detail.

For one important thing, aid to Nicaragua was not an issue in the two years preceding the Sandinist victory. Almost up to the end, the Somoza government was receiving massive loans from American and European banks.

As a consequence, the Sandinists inherited a $82 million debt to more than 100 banks, but none of the actual funds. Those were in Somoza bank accounts abroad — a fact well known in Washington. The Sandinists nevertheless declared their intention of honoring the Somoza rip off and negotiated a 12-year repayment deal with the banks. This was reported in the Wall Street Journal on Dec. 15, 1980.

Now for post-Somoza aid. In the months immediately following the change of government, $216 million was made available — all to private Nicaraguan organizations. A $75 million package was approved by the House of Representatives on Feb. 27, 1980. Conservative opposition led by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., delayed Senate concurrence until May 19.

Most of the package was again earmarked for private recipients. Only $15 million was to be at the direct disposal of the new government, hardly a princely sum for a country recovering from a destructive civil war and looted by the fleeing Somoza.

Further, release of the funds required presidential certification that Nicaragua was not abetting acts of violence in other countries. Read El Salvador. The conservatives, leaking intelligence reports on Cuban arms and other horrors, managed to drag out the process until Sept. 12, when Jimmy Carter finally signed the release order.

break. "I hear senators saying, 'I have two or three kids in college and I'm having a hard time making ends meet,'" he said. "Well, welcome to the club."

Proxmire also defended his home-state travel expenses, noting that he stays only in the cheapest hotels and fixes his own meals rather than eating in restaurants. As for the hair-transplant tax deduction, he claims that his accountant had filed this claim without his knowledge. As soon as Proxmire learned about it, he withdrew it.

Conte, meanwhile, tried to limit the amount of money senators can earn from speaking engagements. He was beaten.

Then he introduced a measure to prevent members of Congress from claiming automatically the $75 maximum per diem for travel, but limiting them to the actual expenses they incur. This is a practice Proxmire follows anyway.

Meanwhile, there is nothing that produces as much exhilaration as an old-fashioned, protracted political vendetta.

the government for trips around Wisconsin. "Would it be out of order to call him a cheap, irresponsible demagogue?" Conte disingenuously asked Rep. Jamie Whitten, D-Miss., the committee chairman. "Yes, it would," Whitten replied, amid chuckles from the members.

Conte told my associate Peter Grant that he thinks Proxmire is hypocritical for fighting the congressional tax break while charging home-state travel expenses to the taxpayers and taking in more than $20,000 in speaking fees last year.

Proxmire declined to retaliate at Conte's level of personal vilification. But he got in a sly dig of his own, implying that his opponent was merely a victim of heaping. House members "were really unhappy about losing that tax break," he explained. "They didn't like it, and their wives didn't like it. He is taking it out on me."

Proxmire pointed out that members of Congress already earn more than 99 percent of what Americans earn and don't need a tax

Lions Look For Return Ticket To 3A Playoffs

"We've got the senior-dominated defense and the young backs. It's going to depend on how well our young kids play with our seniors on how well we do."

---Jack Blanton

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Oviedo first-year football coach Jack Blanton doesn't know whether to feel like a senior or a sophomore.

Like his upperclassmen, he has logged numerous years preparing for his shot at being head coach. Like his sophomores, though, he's new at the game and isn't quite sure what to expect.

If everything runs true to form, however, Blanton can expect to win. Because winning is something the Oviedo Lions have done better than anyone else in Seminole County the past five years. They were 7-4 last year with another playoff trip.

"We're looking forward to doing well," said Blanton Monday. "I think we could be good enough to win them all."

The Lions have an excellent mix of experience and youth. Blanton feels if the sophomores blend in quickly, it could mean a return ticket to the state playoffs for Oviedo.

Blanton has a seasoned staff to assist. Ken Kroog is the offensive coordinator and works with the defensive backs. Paul Greer is the defensive coordinator while Ken Cain handles the defensive line. John "The Enforcer" Horn takes care of the offensive line and discipline.

Oviedo lost several excellent players on offense last year, but Blanton is quick to point to a youthful backfield to fill the void left by the graduation of wide receiver James Hamilton, running back Lamar Smith and tight end and kicker Kipp Sopp.

J.W. Leads Young Backs

The best of the backs is J.W. Yarbrough, a tank-like 205-pounder who runs the 40-yard dash in 4.5 seconds. "J.W. would just as soon run over you," said Blanton about his 5-11 junior. "He'd be a fullback on most teams."

The reason he isn't a fullback is because Larry Grayson spent the summer in the weightroom. Grayson, a sophomore, grew to 190 pounds of muscle and took over the fullback spot.

Another junior, Barry Williams, will also see a lot of action at tailback. "He's a cutter, a slasher," says Blanton. At wingback, Howard Lingard, a 6-1, 180-pound junior, and Charles "Pop" Bowers, a 6-0, 175-pound sophomore, give the Lions more depth.

Handling the quarterback job will be senior Dwayne Johnson. The 5-8, 172-pounder played at Lyman last year, but has always lived in the Oviedo district. Kroog calls Johnson "the best thrower we've had at Oviedo since I've been here."

"We have the skilled athletes in this area," points out Blanton about his backfield. "Except for J.W. though, none of them have ever played a varsity game."

While the backfield is strong, the Lions' offensive line is its pride and joy. Only the absence of senior Scott Gastley, who decided his career was in baseball, keeps it from being complete.

"Center is the only position we're undecided upon," said Blanton. "Tim Willis (sophomore) and Alex Tolbert (junior) will fight it out for that spot."

Offensive Line Is Strong

Right guard David Butterfield (6-0, 175) and right tackle David Wilson (6-2, 215) are the leaders. Left guard Craig Wheeler (6-2, 205) and left tackle Vernon Beckstrom (6-3, 195) complement those two. Dan Lott takes over for Sopp at tight end. Either Kenny Ashe, George Dumas or Alan Fidelo will start at split end.

"They're a good group. But we can't afford to get anyone hurt. The guys behind them are small," said Blanton.

Defensively, the biggest hole was left by Darrell Tossie, who like Hamilton, went to Sterling (Kans.) College on a football scholarship.

The defensive ends will be Lee Boots (6-1, 170) and Eric Putman (6-2½, 195). Wilson and Wheeler will double up at the tackles with help from Butterfield. Kevin Yentz (5-11, 185) is tough at noseguard.

Johnson Hunts Heads

Senior Tommy Johnson is a headhunter at linebacker. Clark Herman will handle the other spot. David Chickowski and Tim Turbyfield are the defensive backs. Senior Jodie Huggins rooms at free safety and John LaPorta handles the strong safety spot. Gus Kratzer, a transfer from New Jersey, is Blanton's "utility man" who can fill in defensively and at tight end.

"Our defense has good size," admits Blanton. "We don't have a real heavy person but we'll use our quickness and shift around a lot."

Quintana: 43 Yards A Boot

Turning to the kicking game, Blanton feels he has one of the best in John Quintana. The Lion senior averaged 43 yards per punt last season with an excellent "hang time."

Soccer player Rob Moody will handle the field goals.

"He doesn't have the distance that Sopp had," said Blanton. "But he's very consistent inside the 30-yard line."

Blanton sees St. Cloud and Osceola as the Lions main competition preventing another district playoff appearance.

"We've got the senior-dominated offensive line and the young backs," said Blanton, who previously coached at Lake Brantley. "It's going to depend on how well our young kids play with our seniors on how well we do."

Watson's Blast Lifts Braves

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Bob Watson has found out that he has to be ready for just about anything in his new role as a benchwarmer for the Atlanta Braves.

The 36-year-old veteran discovered a new characteristic Monday night, that of a guy who sits for nearly eight hours and then is expected to produce at a key time in an important game.

But Watson scraped off the pine splinters and blasted a three-run pinch-hit home run with one out in the 12th inning to give the Braves an 11-9 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies in the four-hour, 13-minute nightcap of their twilight doubleheader.

The win earned Atlanta a split of the twin bill. Dick Ruthven spun a three-hitter at his former teammates in the opener, sparking the Phillies to a 6-1 triumph.

Watson, batting for winning pitcher Steve Bedrosian, came up after singles by Terry Harper and Bruce Benedict put runners on first and third. He cracked a high 0-2 screwball off loser Tug McGraw, 2-3, over the left field fence to give the Braves to a half-game National League West lead over Los Angeles, which lost 3-1 to St. Louis.

"But it wasn't easy. I hadn't done something like that before tonight," Watson said of his extended sitting time. "I had to run up and down the runway three or four times to warm up. I took batting practice at 4:45 (p.m.) and I came up to pinch hit at about 12:35 or 12:40 (a.m.). That's a new experience for me, but all I want to do is help the club win."

"With the runners on third, I was trying to drive the ball to the outfield and get the run home. The home run was added insurance."

America's Team

Injuries limited Watson to 59 games last year but he had never played in fewer than 129 games in the decade prior to that. His role for Atlanta is different — Monday night's appearance gave him just 92 atbats in 43 games.

"Sure, I'd like to play a lot more," he said, "but my role here is not as much a player as it is helping the guys with the inside game, giving them a few tips and offering some encouragement. I don't claim to know everything but I help out and hope the things I tell them help us win."

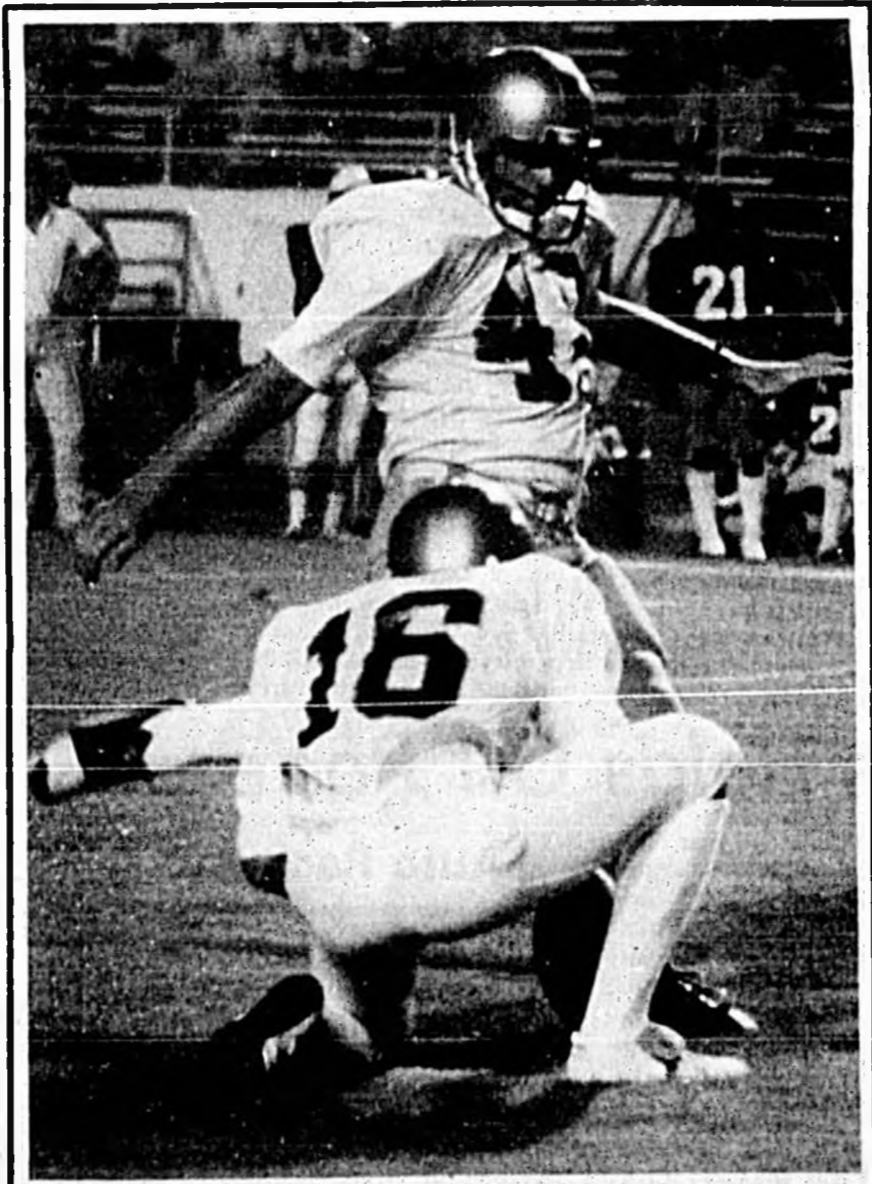

The Braves blew leads of 4-0 and 7-2. The Phillies tied the game in the seventh with a pair of runs on a run-scoring single by Garry Maddox and Ivan DeJesus' RBI double. But Maddox was thrown out at home trying to score the lead run on DeJesus' hit.

Bedrosian, 7-6, the fourth Atlanta pitcher, then slammed the door on the Phillies for the next four innings. He allowed one hit and struck out five.

"I don't care what happens early in the game," Bedrosian said when asked if he felt a little more pressure because the Braves had blown a lead. "I do what I have to do. I go out and block the fans out and pitch my game."

"Bedrosian has got a great fastball," Philadelphia manager Pat Corrales said. "It's one of the best we've seen all year. He did a fine job."

The Braves finished with 18 hits — four by Glenn Hubbard, including three doubles — and 11 walks and left 18 men on base.

CHINKY ARMOR

There were a few chinks in Scott Ryerson's All-America armor Saturday night at the Tangerine Bowl. The Central Florida field goal specialist missed on three attempts during the Knights' Black and Gold game.

Upshaw: Players Could Call Strike At Anytime

CHICAGO (UPI) — The NFL Players Association has authorized its negotiating committee to call a strike at any time.

The union maintains it is as unified and ready to strike against owners as ever, but representatives from all 28 NFL teams emerged from a marathon meeting Monday without detailing when they would go on strike.

They also refused to say whether they would disrupt the scheduled start of the pro football season Sept. 12 with a work stoppage.

Instead, the players reiterated their demand owners come to the bargaining table to address the players' demand for 55 percent of the teams' gross revenues.

It was the first formal meeting of the NFLPA since last May.

"We will strike if the ownership will not sit down with us," said union President Gene Upshaw of the Los Angeles Raiders. "Why should I sit down and tell you when ... we are still following our game plan?"

"Some 1,300 players have signed a strike authorization and we have allowed our management council to call a strike at its discretion to get a just and fair agreement," Upshaw added.

The NFL Management Council will meet again Wednesday but there are no new negotiation sessions planned at the present time.

The owners claim there are a growing number of defections within the union on the move to support a strike.

Ed Garvey, the union's executive director, claimed the opposite was true.

Garvey said he noticed some weakening among the owners in the past week, adding there is a willingness among individual owners to step in and bargain directly.

Martina Favored In U.S. Open

NEW YORK (UPI) — More and more, Martina Navratilova is beginning to feel like a million-dollar baby.

And the best part — she's achieving it in reality.

In the next two weeks Navratilova will attempt to complete what would be the most incredible year in tennis by winning the U.S. Open Championship. It's the one major title she has yet to capture, and one that would elevate her to unparalleled heights.

The powerful 25-year-old lefthander has won 64 of her last 65 matches, the only loss coming to Sylvia Hanika in the final of an indoor championship in New York. Her successes have included the English, French and Australian championships, and if she can add the U.S. Open she'll become only the third woman to hold all four Grand Slam titles concurrently.

And, Navratilova already has won $1,992,005 in official earnings this year. On top of the prize money, a victory in the U.S. Open, to begin this morning, would earn her a million-dollar bonus for completing another of four tournaments.

Veselic's 5-Hitter Dims Suns; Twins Do Or Die Tonight

When Bob Veselic was demoted from Toledo to Orlando last July, he didn't greet it with the usual reaction of a 26-year-old right-handed pitcher taking a step back.

"I felt great. I didn't get off to a good start at Toledo," Veselic related. "I needed a new surrounding. My wife's from Orlando and now I'm with a team that wants to win."

And nobody wants to win more than Bob Veselic. He proved that again Monday night, hurling a five-hitter as the O-Twins turned back Jacksonville, 5-1, before 1,071 patrons at Tinker Field.

The Twins' win sets up a winter-take-all game tonight at 7:30 at Tinker for the second-half championship of the East Division of the Southern League. Orlando manager Tom Kelly will send left-hander Lee Belanger against the Suns' Theo Shaw.

"Bob Veselic deserves another chance at a higher level," observed Kelly after the win. "Some guys that are sent down from AAA don't give you much of an effort. Bob's been fantastic since the first day he got here."

"He's enthusiastic, he coaches the bases and really picks up the club."

His biggest pickup Monday came with his right arm. Veselic, 33 with a further diminishing 2.69 earned run average, struck out six and walked four. In no inning did he allow more than one base hit.

Jacksonville scored its lone run in the first on a triple high off the right field wall by Dave Leeper and a sacrifice fly by Butch Davis.

He was in trouble only one other time. That was in the sixth when Jax loaded the bases on a single, an error by shortstop Greg Gagne and a walk.

Baseball

Gagne, however, atoned for his miscue one batter later with a sensational leaping catch of a Bob Ferris line drive. Veselic later induced Russ Stephens to fly out to end the inning.

"That's the sign of a great player, what he does on the next play after the error," pointed out Kelly about Gagne, who was obtained from the Yankees. "He came back with a super play. That may have turned the game around."

While Veselic was holding Jacksonville in check and Gagne was taking hits away, Dave Meier and Mark Funderburk continued to show the way at the plate.

Each rapped three straight hits as Orlando picked up two runs in the first and added single tallies in the fourth, fifth and sixth frames.

With two outs, Ivan Mesa doubled and then scored on Meier's single to center. Funderburk followed with his first triple of the year for a 2-1 lead.

In the fourth, Meier singled, Funderburk singled, Mike McCain sacrificed and a batter later Gagne brought home the run with a fly ball to center.

In the fifth, Mesa singled, stole second and scored on Meier's single. Catcher Chino Cadahia plated the final run in the sixth with a fly ball to center after a walk to Ken Foster and a single by Gagne.

The victory was the second straight for the Twins over Jax after losing four in a row to the Suns. "There's no love lost between these clubs," informed Jack Hobbs, whose two-hitter kept the Twins alive Sunday. "We've got Edgar Allan Momentum on our side now."

"With (Twins' announcer) Ralph Mueller firing up the mike and 25 cents beer night this place will be wild Tuesday."

In And Around Seminole

AAUW Chapter To Begin Year

"School days, school days, dear old golden rule days. Reading and writing and 'rithmetic" will be the order of the day for 36,500 Seminole students heading for the halls of learning.

Our county health department clinics are busy giving shots as students are not being admitted without health records being up to date.

I stopped into the Longwood Health Center, and personnel there were extra efficient. They had a few reassuring words for each patient.

The Seminole County Chapter of the American Association of University Women will hold its first meeting of the 1982-83 year Thursday at the Casselberry Branch of the Seminole County Library in Seminole Plaza (U.S. 17-92 at State Road 436). The meeting will begin with a social hour at 7 p.m. followed by a program at 7:30. Jean Rhein, the county librarian, will discuss the library referendum, which will be on the Oct. 5 ballot. Mary Balk, publicity chairman, says all prospective members and guests are invited to attend the meeting.

I spoke with Fay Brake, coordinator of the Leisure Time Program at Seminole Community College. She has the most exciting selection of courses yet offered. These courses are self-supported by student fees at no expense to the taxpayer.

Two courses of special interest to the consumer were "Home-Fix-It" and "Become Intimate With Your Car." Students in the fix it course will learn how to repair, clean or replace leaky faucets, lights that flicker, curtains that fall, paneling, doors, floor tile, hot water heaters and correct ways to read a ruler and measure square footage.

Becoming intimate with your car will include basic instruction in the maintenance of your car. The students will learn the language of the technicians and will get involved with some "hands on" experience.

Ladies, this is our chance to put our husbands and boy friends to shame. This is not a man's domain. We can do all those things.

Excitement was high in Casselberry as the Casselberry Multipurpose Senior Citizen Center celebrated their first birthday Aug. 21. Such a good time was had by the 180 people attending, they should be talking about this party for years to come. Dinner was catered, entertainment provided and the evening was topped off by dancing.

With special smiles on their faces at this event were Leo Ware from Casselberry who worked with the city for six years as a volunteer to get this project started, and Leona Cadenhead, who was the grant coordinator for the actual construction of the building. Valerie Barber manages the center, and as everyone is quick to report she is indispensable.

The building is a credit to Casselberry, and more than 150 Seniors utilize the center every day. The Federation of Senior Citizens has a feeding center there, and in September classes will start in square dancing, sewing and needlepoint, art, exercise and of course every Thursday and Friday there are card games. Mrs. Barber is quick to stress that you do not have to live in Casselberry to participate and members come from all over the county.

Happy Birthday to George Hoffmann who celebrated his 75th birthday. He is a member of the Board of Advisors for the Senior Citizens Center. Active does not even begin to describe him. Many, many more happy returns of the day.

Cheering on the Tampa Bay Bucs from the 40 yard line several weeks ago were fans Ed and Norma Bishop from Apopka. Several times during the season, they zoom over to Tampa to do their bit for the Bucs.

Ed looks great following a speedy recovery from an operation.

Cathy Huffman of Casselberry will be tying the knot in Hawaii this September. Her intended is Tracy Landry, and he is in the Navy. Of all the beautiful places to call home, Hawaii probably wins the prize. We will miss you, Cathy, but if you mail us orchids, we will send you oranges.

A young lady on the go is Missy Sterling of Casselberry. She is planning to attend Seminole Community College this fall. She works for an answering service and still finds time for her special friend, Jeff Shroyer.

Many civic and service organizations find themselves in need of a good public speaker. The Seminole County Mental Health Center maintains a Speakers Bureau and will gladly provide a program for your monthly meetings. A wide range of topics are available, such as Children of Divorced Parents, Parenting, the Aging Process, the Process of Grief, Stress Management and Assertiveness, just to name a few. Simply call Cheryl Werley at 831-2411 to arrange for a speaker.

Mary and Barney McCarthy of Winter Springs have just returned from a five-week trip to Canada and New Jersey. While in New Jersey they visited their family and took advantage of the opportunity to see the Broadway show "Sugar Babies" with Anne Miller and Mickey Rooney. Mary looks much rested and has returned to her job with the Indian Ridge Patio Homes.

Three Seminole County students will be heading for college in Wilmore, Ky. Kevin Black and Mike Bowdoin, both of Sweetwater Oaks, will be freshmen at Asbury College and Kim Brugman of Altamonte Springs will be a senior. All three students are a source of pride to the Community United Methodist Church, Casselberry.

WANDA AND DON PURYEAR

Couple Start Band As A Paying Hobby

By DEE GATRELL
Herald Correspondent

"I sing country music. Ninety-nine percent of me is country. I have to be. I'm a Nashville girl and I love it," says Wanda Puryear, country singer with "Crossroads."

Wanda and her husband, Don, started the Crossroads band eight years ago after having been a part of several other bands.

"My wife and I worked with other groups but bands tend to fall apart. We decided to start our own band," says Don.

When hiring for the band Don says that although talent is important, he feels "personalities are more important than talent." He feels if band members cannot get along well with one another, the band won't come across well to the audience.

Wanda and Don both say their band members are all compatible. Because of that they can laugh and cut up with their audiences. "We have a happiness that reflects in the songs we do," says Wanda.

While Wanda sings country music, each member of the band does his own thing. Each member selects his own music and no one complains. "If we hear something we like we just do it," says Don.

Other members of the band include Bill Thompson, lead guitarist, Daphne Thompson, back-up singer, Stash Duzlak, drummer, and Ken Joyner, keyboard player.

Stash sings many Neil Diamond tunes while Bill likes singing contemporary music. "We try to please our audience. Our music is a mixture of different types of music with half of it country," says Don. Don says the younger people tend to like music from the '50s.

Wanda and Don say they've played to all types of audiences. "We've worn clothes from tuxes and gowns to shorts," says Wanda. They play for conventions, weddings, private parties, clubs and CB benefit dances.

"We find that when the white collar workers book us they say they don't want any country music. But after we are playing for awhile and play a country tune, they respond to it. Good music is good music," says Don.

Wanda and Don say they find the country music fans to be their most loyal followers. They (the fans) will ask around to find where the band will be and follow them.

The "Crossroads" band is what Don calls a "paying hobby." Don owns and operates the "Truck and Body Service" in Orlando, while Wanda runs "Wanda's Custom Draperies" out of her home in Winter Springs. They are the parents of two sons and a daughter, and have one grandson. None of their children have shown an interest in the band.

The next local public appearance Crossroads will make will be on Oct. 9 and 10 when they appear for a benefit dance for the CB Jamboree in Bithlo at the Wagon Wheel. They will perform from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday, and 8 p.m. on Saturday night.

If you enjoy good music and would like to help out a charity at the same time, nousey on out to Bithlo and hear Winter Springs very own country band. You just may become a fan of Crossroads.

Old Goat Can't Keep Hands Off Son's Wife

DEAR ABBY: My husband is infatuated with our daughter-in-law. (I'll call her Louise.) This is extremely embarrassing to our son, and it bothers me a lot, too.

My husband is the type who isn't very good at disguising his emotions, and every time Louise is around you can just see the lust in his eyes. It makes me sick!

Our son is at the point now where he doesn't even want to bring Louise to our home. The poor girl does nothing to encourage the old goat, but he puts her on the spot by not letting her get away with a hello or goodbye kiss on the cheek. He demands that she kiss him full on the mouth. He also does a lot of hugging, patting and pawing. It's disgusting! I have tried to tell him to cut it out, but he denies that there is anything improper about his behavior, and insists that he thinks of her as a "daughter."

What should be done before our son punches his father out?

NO NAME, I'M ASHAMED

DEAR NO NAME: Your son should advise Louise that she does not have to tolerate her father-in-law's inappropriate behavior. Then your husband should be advised that unless he keeps his hands and mouth off his daughter-in-law, he won't be able to set eyes on her either. (If this lustful behavior is something new, perhaps his physician should be informed.)

DEAR ABBY: I am employed as a secretary at a fairly large company. For some time now, we have been receiving obscene telephone calls. These calls are frequent in number but have no established pattern. I am the one who answers the telephone most of the time, and I hear this guy gushing forth with a lot of filthy talk before I can hang up on him. It upsets me just to hear his voice, and needless to say it is most unnerving.

The phone company recommends that we hang up on this caller as soon as we recognize his voice. We do, but it has not discouraged this sicko from calling again. Have you any other suggestions as to how to handle this problem?

SICK OF SICKOS

DEAR SICK: The telephone company's suggestion is probably the most effective. To react to the caller's harassment would only play into his hands and encourage him further. Just be sure that your local telephone company is aware of these calls, and the frequency with which you are being harassed.

"The Best of Dear Abby," featuring Abby's best answers and favorite responses during the past 25 years, is now available. Carriage Cove mobile home community's air-conditioned clubhouse and swimming pool are for exclusive use of residents.

Carriage Cove Rents Adult Mobile Home Lots

Carriage Cove, a Dreyfus Interstate Development Corporation mobile home community, has 476 rental spaces developed. Located on County Road 427 south of Sanford, Carriage Cove still has a few remaining choice rental lots for adults.

One of the largest and nicest mobile home communities in the area, Carriage Cove has continued to expand in planned phases over the past eight years to meet the needs of the many persons who have found the mobile home living the most desirable and affordable housing in today's economy, said Park Manager Marlen Friedman.

All mobile homes at Carriage Cove are individually owned and set up on roomy lots which rent from $90 to $120 a month including city water and sewer service and trash collection, use of all recreation facilities and the underground master antenna system for better television reception. Carriage Cove offers an attractive combination of city conveniences and relaxed country living, churches, banks, shopping centers, entertainment, restaurants and Seminole Community College are all just minutes away.

Several new mobile home models for sale, completely furnished and ready for occupancy, are on display at the park by Gregory Mobile Homes.

Activities at Carriage Cove focus on the exclusive air-conditioned clubhouse with a 34-by-60-foot swimming pool. In the all-adult clubhouse, there is a party game room, lounge and kitchen facilities.

Newly equipped laundry facilities and a fenced-in clothes drying lot are also available.

Closed Sunday, the Carriage Cove office is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

Mrs. Friedman and Sales Manager Shirley Rumney welcome visitors and will be glad to show you around and answer questions. For further information call 323-8160.

Senkarik Paint and Glass Co., Sanford, is headquarters for quality paints and paint supplies.

Everything For The Artist At Senkarik Paint & Glass

Artists preparing exhibits for the annual sidewalk Fall For Art show in downtown Sanford scheduled this year for Oct. 9-10 or art students beginning new courses will find the art supplies which they need at Senkarik Glass and Paint Co., 210 Magnolia Ave., Sanford.

Whether beginners or professionals they will find a large variety of art supplies with quality name brands such as Grumbacher, Delta, Winsor-Newton and Liquitex. If you don't find what you are looking for, they will be glad to order it for you.

To display your art work at its best, Senkarik specializes in custom framing. It has a large selection of frames and several hundred types of moldings in stock.

Senkarik has been the headquarters for paint and glass in the Sanford area since it opened in 1943. It specializes in all types of glass, including table tops, custom residential glazing, mirrors, glass replacement, storefront commercial and auto glass. They also stock Plexiglas in four thicknesses.

Founded by John Senkarik, his tradition of service and quality is continued by his sons, Jerry and Eddie, who now operate the business.

Senkarik carries a full line of nationally famous and Sanford-manufactured Pen Paints and Benjamin Moore Paints for interior and exterior paint jobs as well as all types of painting supplies, brushes and rollers.

They now carry Benjamin Moore's new latex high gloss enamel, Impervex. It is a tough durable latex enamel designed for interior and exterior use. It has excellent color and gloss retention and is safe for children's furniture and toys. Easily applied with brush or spray it dries fast and has no unpleasant odor.

Brushes can easily be cleaned with warm soapy water. It stands up to hard wear and repeated washings indoors on bathroom and kitchen walls, doors, trims, cabinets and furniture. Outdoors it can be used on garden furniture, machines, tools, ornamental iron, galvanized metal, surfaces and aluminum.

Sportsmen looking forward to hunting season can find the low luster spray paint for exterior camouflage that they need at Senkarik.

Senkarik also has a library of more than 100 wallpaper books from which to choose, including photo murals and grass stock.

The store is open Monday through Friday, 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. and 8:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday. For further information call 322-4622.

Attack Leads To Personality Change

DEAR DR. LAMB — My husband had a heart attack. He was dead, heart stopped and pulse stopped. The doctors gave him mouth to mouth resuscitation and he came out of it, but he fought it. Even since the attack he has been hard to live with. He has had a personality change. He doesn't like the things I do and often he won't talk to me. Before this attack we had a wonderful relationship. I love him so much that it makes it very difficult for me. Do you have any suggestions? Will he always be like this?

DEAR READER — One of the dangers of the heart stopping is that if the circulation is not restored quickly the brain may be permanently damaged. That can cause personality changes just as a stroke sometimes does. The good part is that there may be continued improvement in memory and personality for as long as two years after brain injury.

There's some really exciting news about treating people who have had the circulation to the brain stopped, as in a severe hemorrhage. We have always believed that if you could not restore circulation to the brain in four to six minutes there was apt to be brain damage or even death. But new research suggests that in many cases that short time interval can be extended to a "golden hour" without residual brain damage.

brain is not restored within a few minutes there is a mass migration of calcium ions into the walls of the blood vessels to the brain. This stimulates the arteries to clamp down so tight that no blood can pass through the brain or get to the brain cells through small arteries. As a result, even if the circulation is restored as was done in your husband's case, the brain cells continue to go without effective circulation.

Dr. White and his team discovered that if you inject calcium blockers when you restore heart function you can cause those blood vessels in the brain to open up and permit normal circulation to the brain. It looks like the brain cells can go as long as an hour without any effective circulation.

There is a lot of work yet to be done on this area but it offers the opportunity for a major change in how medical emergencies may be handled.

It may save thousands of lives each year. It will not improve or correct brain function in people who already have brain damage from age or strokes.

Everyone should learn how to handle an emergency that involves stopping of the heart or breathing. Courses for this are usually offered by the Heart Association, the Red Cross or the Fire Department. The life-saving techniques are described in The Health Letter number 7-4, Save a Life, which I am sending you.

Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1351, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Wednesday, September 1, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY September 1, 1982
You could do quite well this coming year in ventures or enterprises where you are able to use your imagination and artistic abilities. Find the right outlets for your talents.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22)
You could jeopardize a relationship today and also hurt your image if you fail to share something to which another is entitled. Predictions of what's in store for you in the seasons following your birthday and where to look for your luck and opportunities are in your Astro-Graph, Mail $1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Be a giver today if you're involved with persons who are equally as generous as yourself. However, pull in the reins a bit if your companions are only takers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Your best breaks today are more likely to come from the efforts of others than from those which you expend yourself. Try not to scatter your shots.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
Success will be denied you today if your efforts are too half-hearted. Once you decide to do something keep persisting, regardless of the obstacles.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
Don't enter into any type of business arrangement today which requires partners if you have any doubts about

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Be wary of tendencies today to take too seriously things which should be fun, and to treat too lightly those which should be taken seriously.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You'll have an awareness of your financial limitations today, yet you could yield to extravagant impulses and defeat your purpose. Strive to be prudent.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Others will hold you to your word today regarding commitments to them, so if you say you're going to do something you had better mean it.

what your cohorts can contribute.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Companions or associates who are not in complete harmony with your aims today could set back, rather than advance, your cause.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
Difficult tasks can be accomplished successfully today if you allow yourself adequate time to perform them. Where you rush too much, you could fall flat.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
There's a possibility that today you will be more tolerant and considerate of casual acquaintances than you will be of persons with whom you have strong emotional bonds.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
Of course it's essential to look out for your own interests today, but try not to hurt someone else in order to get what you want.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Be wary of tendencies today to take too seriously things which should be fun, and to treat too lightly those which should be taken seriously.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
You'll have an awareness of your financial limitations today, yet you could yield to extravagant impulses and defeat your purpose. Strive to be prudent.
