Amtrak Planning 200-Seat Reception Room With Gift Shop

Sanford P&Z Recommends Subdivision Approval

The Sanford Planning and Zoning Commission put its stamp of approval on four site plans, one request for rezoning, one request for a conditional use permit, and a plat for a new subdivision Thursday night.

One site plan recommended for approval is for a larger reception room for Amtrak at 800 Persimmon Avenue. John Lombardi of Amtrak said the new reception room will seat 200 people and include gift shop and vending machine areas. The P&Z recommendations will go to the city commission for final action.

The plat which received the board's approval is Brynhaven, located a block off Sanford Avenue, bordering on Cornwall Road. Bill Miller, Altamonte Springs, developer of the proposed subdivision, told the commission that lots will average $14,750 and homes to be built will be priced in the $70,000-$78,000 range.

The rezoning request recommended for approval is from Robert Seigler, 2524 S. Park Drive, one of the owners of a piece of property on the west side of Airport Boulevard, north of Jewett Lane. The owners want the property rezoned from SR-1, single family, to RI-1, light industrial, for the purpose of developing it for warehousing and light manufacturing.

Several residents of the area objected to the request, arguing that further industrial development would harm their neighborhood. Objecting were G.E. Hodges of 701 Bevier Road, S.B. Crowe of 713 Bevier Road, and Ed Kennedy of 2820 Jewett Lane. Rev. Hodges asked why further industrial development should be allowed in the area when there are several industrial parks in the city. Crowe argued that further development would aggravate drainage problems in the area and Kennedy said it would make traffic problems on Jewett worse. He also complained about his neighborhood, where he has lived for 28 years, being surrounded by warehouses.

The commission recommended approval of that request, despite the objections, but recommended

Baby Killer Gets 'Life'

Judge Sets Aside Death Recommendation

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

Circuit Judge O.H. Eaton Jr. set aside a jury recommendation for the death penalty Thursday in sentencing convicted baby killer Victor J. White to life plus 15 years.

White, 40, of 2903 Oak Lane, Fern Park, was convicted in June of first degree murder and aggravated child abuse. After hearing arguments for and against the death penalty, the jury voted 9-3 to recommend the death penalty. However, Florida law allows the judge to override the jury's recommendation.

White will serve a minimum of 33 years in prison, according to prosecutor Tom Hastings. Under the life sentence he will be eligible for parole after 25 years. However, Judge Eaton ordered that the maximum 15-year sentence for aggravated child abuse be served consecutive to the life sentence. So even if White was paroled after 25 years he would still have to serve the 15-year sentence, and would be eligible for parole from that sentence after eight years of it was served.

In imposing the sentence, Eaton pointed out that White will be 65 years old before he is eligible for parole, and then will be obligated to begin serving the 15-year sentence even if he wins parole.

White was convicted of beating 14-month-old John Lawrence Mias Dec. 10 while he was babysitting with the boy and his 5-year-old sister. White was living with the children's mother, Wendy Mias, 26, at the time.

White left the home after the beating and neighbors found the battered tot. The boy was taken to Orlando Regional Medical Center by helicopter and died there the next day.

White fled to Minnesota, where he was arrested in March on a sex-with-a-juvenile charge. He was tried and convicted of that charge and then extradited to Florida for trial on the Mias case.

Paul Arlt, White's defense attorney, argued at the sentencing hearing Thursday that current Florida case law and a series of standards which the Supreme Court has set up to define cases in which the death penalty is appropriate, do not include crimes such as White's.

Judge Eaton said case law provides that aggravating factors must be shown to support the imposition of the death penalty. He said aggravated child abuse has never been used as the aggravating factor to support a death penalty in Florida, so there is no case law in support of it. He also said there was no evidence of prolonged torture or sexual abuse which would support a finding of a "heinous, atrocious and cruel" crime.

Children's Home Almost A Reality

Ted Carter
Herald Staff Writer

What started three years ago with a Seminole County Circuit Judge's frustration over the absence of adequate care for abandoned and abused children has led to a planned Sept. 1 groundbreaking for a children's shelter.

Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler, at the time a juvenile court judge, was disturbed about the growing number of youngsters in need of help being sent to group homes in other counties.

Why, the judge kept asking himself, couldn't Seminole County help give troubled children an opportunity to continue in school while living in a home-like atmosphere? One day in 1984 Leffler asked the county commission and the county's legislative delegation the same question. "I was very frustrated," he said.

His call for help got the lawmakers and community thinking about the situation, and before long volunteers joined Leffler's cause. Today they are known as Sharing Concern for Seminole County Shelter Children, Inc.

Thursday the circuit judge of 13 years recited a list of the businessmen, tradesmen and civic clubs that have made it possible for a Sept. 1 groundbreaking to be within sight. And it has been accomplished without formal fundraising, he said.

The county this week gave the organization a $1 a-year 30-year lease for 1.5 acres at Dike and Dodd roads for the home.

Donations of time and equipment for building the planned 4,000 to 5,000 square-foot home have come from surveyors, engineers, land developers and construction contractors. The Sanford Rotary Club is furnishing heating and air conditioning systems and the Central Florida chapter of the Florida Association of Electrical Contractors is handling the electrical work. Offers of assistance as general contractors have come from John Warren Builders Inc. of Orange County, south Seminole Rotary Club member and real estate businessman James Gamble, and the Christian Prison Ministries organization.

The Rotary clubs of Casselberry and Longwood have agreed to donate $5,000 and $6,000 respectively. Developer Jenno Paulucci has contributed $5,000.

Leffler said he and the shelter group are concentrating on getting the effort organized. "Between now and groundbreaking we've got to get the commitments together," he said.

Architects are drawing plans for a modern brick veneer home to accommodate up to 12 children, said Leffler. The youngsters who will live there will be between the ages of 6 to 12, though the age limits may be waived in some instances for sibling groups with members a few years older than 12.

Stays at the shelter will range from overnight to several months. Leffler estimates the average stay will be about one month.

Plans are to sub-lease the house to longtime child-care agency Childrens Home Society of Florida, a non-profit organization that Leffler said is well respected throughout the state and licensed by the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services (HRS).

"Our obligation is to get the building built and turn it over to Childrens Home Society," said Leffler.

Childrens Home Society also will help pay for the daily operation of the home. Additional funding to keep the shelter going is expected from HRS and the United Way. Leffler said he also hopes the county commission will provide the money it previously gave The Lighthouse in Oviedo, a children's shelter operated by a religious group. The shelter closed about six months ago.

Leffler's three-year-old vision of a children's shelter in Seminole County is about to take shape. But he indicated it may not be long until it's time to start working establishing a second shelter.

"We have room (on the property) for an additional building of about the same size," he said.

Nofziger Indictment Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — On the eve of an independent prosecutor's announcement today, sources said ex-White House aide Lyn Nofziger had been indicted in a special investigation of his lobbying work for the scandal-torn Wedtech Corp.

Nofziger was unavailable and the prosecutor, James McKay, would not comment, but sources close to the case confirmed that McKay planned to announce the indictment this morning. Two television networks reported the charges involved conflict-of-interest violations in Nofziger's post-White House lobbying work.

According to The Washington Post, the former presidential adviser told his associates he expected an indictment not only for his work on behalf of Wedtech, the New York defense contractor now bankrupt amid scandal, but also on behalf of Fairchild Industries Inc., a defense contractor in Chantilly, Va.

McKay was appointed by a special three-judge panel to investigate Nofziger's lobbying activities for Wedtech in 1982 and early 1983, when the company had hired him and his new partner, Mark Bragg, to help win a $32

Poindexter's Credibility Takes On Pivotal Importance

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The credibility of former national security adviser John Poindexter could prove the pivotal issue in the way history views President Reagan's role in the Iran-Contra scandal.

Poindexter, called back for a third round of testimony to Congress today, has admitted at the Iran-Contra hearings that his memory on key issues relating to Reagan's worst crisis and what he told the president is at best "fuzzy."

Combined with a lack of evidence on some significant points, congressional investigators say it leaves Poindexter's sworn testimony as a crucial factor.

There was a lot of activity that had happened over that previous year and the events of November of 1985 until November 1986 were very far from my current memory," Poindexter told lawmakers Thursday.

The Navy rear admiral stood firm on his key assertion that he alone decided to divert money from secret U.S. arms sales to Iran to support the Nicaraguan Contras after military aid to the rebels was banned from 1984 to 1986. But at least one of the lawmakers probing the case called that issue into question.

"It does not appear logical that a man of his intellect and management skills would arrogate onto himself the responsibility of making what he himself described as a momentous decision affecting the president of the United States," said Rep. Louis Stokes, D-Ohio.

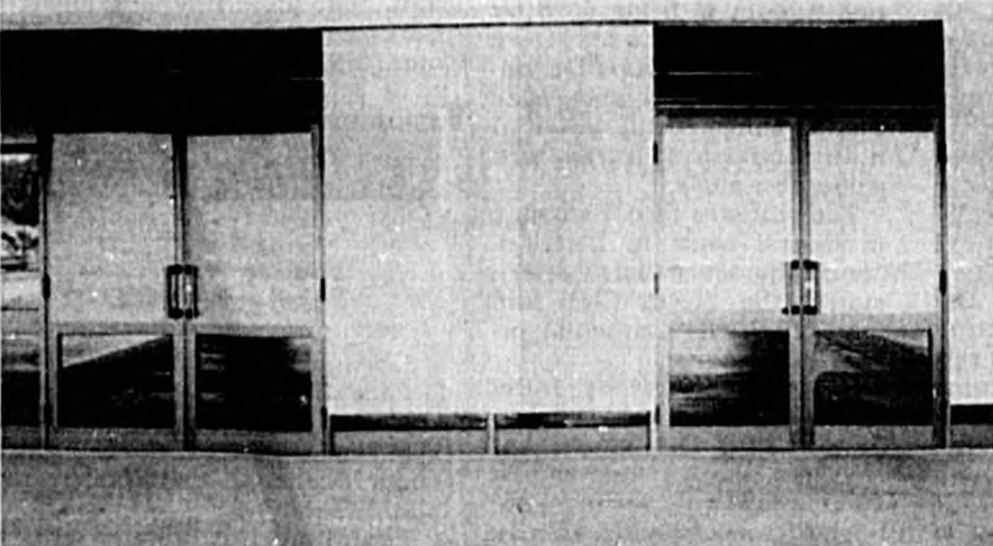

Asked if he believed the former White House aide, Stokes said flatly what some of his colleagues merely hinted at: "No, I don't." Still, he was not willing to say he thought Poindexter did tell Reagan about the operation.

At the White House, with the president again mum on the hearings, spokesman Marlin Fitzwater moved to make a strong case by suggesting Reagan had been hurt by a failure to have "good people making honest and sound judgments."

"Any time the president is not allowed to make a decision that is presidential, he is done a disservice,"

$500 Reward Offered In Vandalism Incident

Broken windows are boarded up at the main entrance to Lake Mary High School. Vandals broke 26 windows at the school and a reward is being offered in an attempt to apprehend the culprits.

Lake Mary High School parent groups are offering a $500 reward for information leading to the arrest of those who broke 26 school building windows causing damage estimated at between $3,000 and $5,000. The reward money has been donated by the school's Parents Advisory Group and Booster Club.

The vandalism was discovered the morning of July 10 by Seminole County Sheriff's Deputy Tony Reynolds. Lake Mary Assistant Vice Principal Donnie Smith said Reynolds is still investigating the case. Smith added there are no suspects yet. Smith said no property had been reported taken from the school.

He said school officials and Reynolds believe the vandalism may have been caused by someone wanting to get back at the school for something.

"We have to start (looking for a motive) somewhere," Smith said. "We might as well start with revenge."

High school spokesman Snady Davis said it appears as though the school windows may have been broken with a baseball bat.

There was nothing on the floor inside of the rooms to indicate something had been thrown through the windows, she said.

"We don't know how it was done though," she added. "I don't believe the police know how it was done either. Davis said sheriff's deputies think it was done by hand."

Davis said the reward is being offered because school officials want people to know the school is serious about stopping these kinds of incidents.

Anyone wishing to report any information on the incident may call Lake Mary High School at 323-2110.

Study Delayed DUI Manslaughter Arrest

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

The Florida Highway Patrol trooper who investigated the accident portion of a traffic case, which Friday led to the arrest of a 23-year-old Winter Springs man on a charge of DUI manslaughter, said the delay in the DUI-related arrest was to ensure development of a strong case in the traffic homicide.

Trooper A.G. Conklin said that within 15 minutes of the accident on Interstate 4, north of the Orange County line in Seminole County in the early morning of May 12, the suspect who had driven from the scene where David Jay Ehlers died was nabbed by Seminole County sheriff's deputies and taken into custody by Conklin. He was nabbed when he stopped to buy gas near Lake Mary Boulevard, Conklin said.

Bryan Lane Pace, of 300 Sheeah Blvd. #602, was taken into custody and because there was a death involved, Conklin said, troopers had the right to and did have a sample of Pace's blood drawn to test for alcohol or drugs. He was not tested through breath analysis immediately and arrested on a DUI charge as a matter of routine. In the routine investigation of a traffic homicide, Conklin said, troopers do not want to initially charge someone with a lesser charge when a continued investigation may lead to a more serious charge. A premature arrest, he said, might jeopardize the case.

"We photographed this man. We got his address. We knew he was not going to leave the area," Conklin said. Pace, Conklin said, could have been arrested on a charge of vehicular homicide that night, but troopers, as a matter of routine, opted for further investigation, which led to a more serious charge of DUI manslaughter. The blood was drawn, rather than a breath test given, as a matter of routine in a death case, so that the determination of the blood alcohol level would be more precise, he said.

The investigation into the homicide was continued by trooper Ron Davis and included the results of the blood alcohol test, which allegedly established that Pace was under the influence of alcohol when his vehicle collided with Ehlers' motorcycle.
After Davis' investigation was complete, the State Attorney reviewed the findings and issued a warrant charging Pace with DUI manslaughter, leaving the scene of a traffic fatality, leaving the scene of an accident with property damage and driving with a suspended license.
Pace surrendered Friday to sheriff's deputies at the Seminole County Jail and was released on $10,000 bond to appear in court July 27.

Thief Stalks Chilean Lane

Three victims on Chilean Lane, Winter Park, reported Tuesday or Wednesday losses to a burglar.
Melvin G. Baker, 53, of 1816 Chilean Lane, reported to sheriff's deputies that a $500 portable generator, a $270 weed cutter and a $150 battery charger were stolen from his home.

And at 1482 Chilean Lane, Al J. Gurinkas, 54, reported a lawnmower, edger, battery charger, tools, sleeping bags and other items with a total value of almost $2,000 were stolen.
Carl M. Naquin, 37, of 1549 Chilean Ave., reported that $550 worth of tools were stolen from his car.

Man Faces Bugging Charges

A man who allegedly listened to and tape recorded telephone conversations between his estranged wife and others without permission has been arrested on a charge of interception of wire communications.
Troy Joel Campbell Jr., 33, of 550 First Avenue, Altamonte Springs, was arrested at 1 p.m. Wednesday in Altamonte Springs by Seminole County sheriff's deputies. Investigators alleged that several times since Jan 1986 Campbell listened to and recorded telephone calls of his wife from her home at 533 N. Western Drive, Altamonte Springs, after they separated.

Campbell has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court July 31.

4 Nabbed In Cocaine Deal

City County Investigation Bureau agents reported meeting and arresting four people at a Fern Park home where the agents allege they bought a gram of cocaine for $100 and made a deal to buy 1/4-ounce later.
One man arrested, Michael Anthony Namli, 28, of 800 Pine St., Fern Park, where all the arrests were made, allegedly bought from an agent $20 worth of the cocaine the agent had bought in the gram deal, a police report said. He was charged with possession of cocaine and was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.
Also arrested at 9:45 p.m. Wednesday was Rebecca Ruth

Low, 19, of 108 Carolwood Blvd., Altamonte Springs, who allegedly brought the agents to the home to make the deal. She has been charged with conspiracy to sell and deliver cocaine and was being held in lieu of $1,000 bond.
Released on $2,000 bond each and scheduled to appear in court Sept. 3 were: Jeffrey James Daniels, 27, of 2544 Clairmont Ave., Sanford, and Ricky Lee Cook, 27, of 640 Birch Blvd., Altamonte Springs. They were arrested at the same time and both were charged with possession and sale and delivery of cocaine and conspiracy to sell and deliver cocaine.

Thundershowers Cool Southwest

By United Press International
Scattered rain and thundershowers followed cooler air across the northern and western reaches of the country early today, bringing relief to the desert Southwest and cooling parts of the northern Plains baked by record heat.
Early today, a thunderstorm in central Texas produced 2 inches of rain and golf ball-size hail near Alamo Village.
Strong thunderstorms developed late Thursday along a cold front pushing across the Dakotas. The storms slashed through Grand Forks, N.D., unleashing golf ball-size hail and wind gusts of 50 to 65 mph. More than an inch of rain fell at Grand Forks in less than 30 minutes.
Strong thunderstorms also spread over Nevada, spawning a tornado at Amorgosa Farm, 75 miles northwest of Las Vegas. There were no injuries or damage reported. In western Arizona, a late evening thunderstorm brought wind gusts to 70 mph at Bullhead City, causing minor property damage.
Earlier in the day, temperatures in the northern Plains had soared well into the 90s and reached the 100 degree mark as strong southerly winds gusted to over 40 mph at Aberdeen, S.D.
Rapid City, S.D., set a record high of 106 degrees, in contrast to the record low of 39 degrees set just three days before.
Rain and clouds in the Southwest allowed steamy temperatures across the desert region to abate. In Arizona, rain ended Tucson's streak of 39 consecutive days of 100-degree heat. The day's high was 93 degrees.
Summer turned to spring in Southern California Thursday when the high temperature in downtown Los Angeles of 70 degrees broke a 73-year-old record for the lowest maximum reading for the day. The mark for a record-cool July 16 was notched at the Civic Center in the afternoon, breaking the record of 73 degrees set in 1914. National Weather Service spokesman Dave Cooper said.

The cool high, more than a dozen degrees lower than normal for this time of year, was due to a low pressure system that sent deepened cloud layers from the ocean inland, blocking out the sun, Cooper said.
"That really knocks down the maximum temperature," Cooper said. "It happens sometimes, (but) normally, you wouldn't expect that much this time of year. This is ridiculous."
Earlier Thursday, temperatures were in the 50s and 60s over most of the country, with a few readings in the upper 30s and 40s over the northern Plateau region. Record lows Thursday included 39 degrees at Klamath Falls, Ore., 40 at Alpena, Mich., 43 at Traverse City, Mich., and 50 at Binghamton, N.Y.
The Environmental Protection Agency is being sued by seven states and five environmental groups for failing to get rid of pervasive haze that obscures scenic vistas in many national parks and wilderness areas.
The suit was filed Thursday in federal court in Portland, Maine, by seven northeastern states, the Sierra Club and four other environmental organizations.
Howard Fox, attorney for the Sierra Club Legal Defense Fund, said in a statement that EPA had issued regulations in 1980 to deal only with "plume blight" — an easily seen streak across an otherwise clear sky caused by one or more sources of smoke or other vapors.

Grant Gives Seminole $75,000 For Handicapped Voc-Ed

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School Board has been awarded a 3-year, $75,000 federal grant for a program to help severely handicapped students find competitive employment.

The program is to be an offshoot of JET, the Job Experience Training program for those with mild handicaps. JET gives students job experience at four businesses in Seminole County.

Shirley Allen, Program Zone Coordinator for Seminole County schools, said the grant money will provide students with handicaps too severe to let them participate in the JET program the opportunity to receive vocational training.

She said the JET program places students in real working situations under the supervision of special trainers employed by the school system. These trainers, Allen explained, work with the student until they have learned to perform the skills necessary to do the assigned job.

This year 29 students participated in the JET program. Work sites included Florida Hospital Altamonte, Morrison's Cafeteria, Spectrum Industries and Ramada Inn of Altamonte Springs. Students worked at these sites at service type positions under the supervision of the four work experience teachers.

Allen said the program that will be provided by the grant was modeled after one in Virginia. The two work experience teachers Seminole County hires to work with the students here will travel to Virginia to receive training on how the program runs there.

Allen said the training should start sometime in early September.

Unlike the JET program, students involved with the new project will be working one-to-one with their teachers while learning to perform tasks assigned. Allen said she feels this will help the student adjust to the workplace and its responsibilities.

She said the program needs businesses to offer the participating students employment.

"We're looking for the students to work at least 20 hours a week," she said.

The program needs businesses to offer employment.

The county will be seeking minimum wage for the students in the program. "We're seeking strictly competitive employment for our students," she said.

Allen said hiring a handicapped individual is good for the employer. She cited the record of handicapped employees in the areas of attendance, attitude and time spent on the same job, as advantages to having them on the payroll.

"The goal for the work experience program will be to put 24 moderately to severe handicapped students out in the work force," Allen said. She added the project should begin with about eight students sometime in June.

"I'm hoping that will be pushed up to sometime in Jan.," she said.

Allen said Seminole County's program will be used as a model for other school districts should they want to begin a similar one. That is could be a model, and was already on the drawing board were facts instrumental in winning the grant, Allen said.

Of the 16 school districts that applied for the grants only five got them. "There was really stiff competition," she said.

Based on the success the JET program has enjoyed since its inception, Allen said she feels good about what the new program will accomplish.

"I know it (work experience program) can work," she said. "I've had a sample of it."

Sanford Set To Light Last 17-92 Stretch

An appropriation of $40,492 has been approved by the Sanford City Commission to install street lights along U.S. Highway 17-92 between Airport Boulevard and Lake Mary Boulevard.

It is the last stretch of 17-92 within Sanford city limits without street lights.

Robert Kelly, Sanford Public Works Director, said the next step will be to draw up specifications for the project and let bids. In the meantime, application will be made to the state Department of Transportation for a permit, since the lighting will be along a state road. Kelly said the DOT has already informed the city that it does not allow light poles to be placed in the median, so they will have to be installed along the sides of the highway.

The lights will be 100-watt high-pressure sodium lamps, which the city is installing whenever new or replacement lights are purchased. The 100-watt sodium lamps shed as much light as the old 200-watt lamps. The lights will be installed on 35-foot concrete poles.

Wal-Mart Staff Plan Fundraiser

The Wal-Mart Fund Raising Committee will sponsor a "Sunday in the Park" carnival July 26 to raise money for the Arnold Palmer Children's Hospital and Perinatal Unit in Orlando.

The committee, made up of Wal-Mart employees, will host the carnival in Ft. Mellon Park in downtown Sanford between noon and 5 p.m.

Liz Lawson, a spokesman for the group, said events planned include children's pony rides, a flea market, watermelon eating contest, and a dunking booth. Contestants in the watermelon eating contest must register by 2 p.m. for the 2:30 contest. The dunking booth will feature professional wrestler Jack Towers between 2 and 3 p.m.

Hot dogs and soft drinks will also be available at the site.

Apply Reason In Embassy Row

Former Defense Secretary and CIA Director James Schlesinger has reported to the president and Congress on what to do with the new U.S. Embassy in Moscow that is riddled with Soviet listening devices.

Rather than tearing down the unfinished structure, as many in Congress have called for, Schlesinger recommends that at least part of the building be salvaged. He suggests that the top three floors of the eight-story building be removed and replaced with pre-fabricated parts from the United States, with the work done by Americans. He also recommends that a new, secured six-story annex be constructed next to the new embassy for the staff's most sensitive work. The cost of these changes: about $70 million.

Schlesinger's proposals make the best of a bad situation, and the House was right in following his advice and rejecting Senate demands that the entire embassy be razed.

But Schlesinger also has some pertinent — and surprising — remarks regarding what to do with the new Soviet Embassy in Washington on Mount Alto, a site that makes it easy to engage in electronic spying. Trying to evict the Soviets, as has been suggested, is a waste of time, according to Schlesinger. He calls the improved Soviet monitoring capability of Mount Alto only "marginal," and he points out that even if the Soviets are evicted, they still could use several other Warsaw Pact embassies for the same job.

Schlesinger's remarks should be carefully weighed by Congress and the administration. This has been an embarrassing and costly lesson, and it reinforces the old warning: When dealing with Moscow, leave nothing to chance.

Wise Decision

The European Community has wisely decided not to tax imported vegetable fats and oils, an action that could have affected U.S. soybean exports. The proposal to impose such a tax was designed to reduce the Common Market's $6 billion budget deficit. Backers of the tax said it could raise $2.3 billion.

The idea could have caused more problems than it solved, however. The U.S. government, from the White House and Department of Agriculture officials to both houses of Congress, had indicated a willingness to retaliate if the Common Market went ahead with the tax. Retaliatory measures proposed in Congress would have cost the European Community billions of dollars.

Donald Nelson, assistant U.S. trade representative, said, "In addition to the cost, the whole issue had the potential to poison the atmosphere between us and the European Community, and neither side wanted that to happen."

Britain and West Germany led the fight to kill the tax proposal. Instead of taxing the oil products, Common Market delegates voted to reduce some of the subsidy payments to farmers, a process that is similar to what is going on in American agriculture under the 1985 farm bill.

The European Community's decision to reconsider its subsidy policies instead of imposing import duties should be welcomed by the Common Market's trading partners. This apparent signal that Western Europe is open to a more reasonable approach to agriculture and trade relations couldn't have come at a better time.

Our Covertness Better Than Glasnostness

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional investigators appear to have established that Lt. Col Oliver North perferred to conduct White House covert operations in secret.

That, I gather, was the chief upshot of the former National Security Council aide's testimony last week before a joint Senate-House Iran-contra committee.

North's testimony is, of course, now on the record and you can draw your own conclusions from it. Only a few of the upshots are still up for grabs.

I insist I'm entitled to choose covertness as a policy as opposed to Soviet President Gorbachev's famed new policy of "glasnost," or openness.

A covert operation is by its nature not overt. That is, it is not easily observed.

I'll leave it for you and other pundits to decide, whether the White House should have been conducting covert operations in the first place — in other words, whether the United States can convince other nations that our system is superior by emulating the Russians.

Oh, I am aware of arguments that as long as the Soviets conduct covert operations, we have no choice but to do likewise.

That argument embraces the theory that until the communists announce to the world that they are openly supporting the Sandinista regime in Nicaragua, democracies are obliged to supply covert aid to the contras, as long as Congress doesn't support them overtly.

Those arguments are better left to wiser heads than mine. Ollie North's, for instance. I'm merely talking about some of the upshots of congressional testimony here.

One pundit has cited as an upshot that the hearings showed members of Congress are overtly politicians. Fancy that!

Imagine a politician running for elective office. Fortunately, it could never happen in this country. In the United States, any politician seeking a seat in Congress would at least be covert about it.

Although he denies it, I'm convinced that Ollie North, for example, is a covert candidate for something. Denial is one of the first activities of a covert candidate.

I mentioned this to a campaign manager I know whose tiger successfully ran for a statewide office last year and he agreed that denial of political ambitions is one certain way of recognizing covert candidates.

This person also said a covert candidate should keep his name off the ballot, hand out campaign buttons reading "VOTE FOR —" and persuade politician action committees to supply funds for TV advertising that would be certain to blur his image with ghosts.

Getting money for a covert candidate should be duck soup for someone who has raised funds for the contras.

This is one reason why I insist that North could be his own covert campaign manager.

Reading Public Neglected

WASHINGTON — In this era of book publishing conglomerates and chain book stores, many distinctive and important books fail to reach the attention of the reading public. The nation is poorer for the neglect of serious works that aren't boosted by the cultural establishment.

I was reminded of this after I read a fascinating new book "Doorways Through Time: The Romance of Archaeology" by Dr. Stephen Bertman who teaches at the University of Windsor in Canada. In it, Dr. Bertman affirms our debt to the past and gives readers splendid insights into "the forms of life lived long ago" in the classical world, ancient Europa and China, in the New World of Mayan times, and other civilizations from which moderns have become disconnected.

After I discovered and read this book, I entered into correspondence with the author and learned that it had received not a single review. I knew of other cases where this happened. For years, book publishing, book selling and book reviewing have been subject to conglomerate pressures and a kind of thought control mechanism. The conglomerate pressures are well-described in a recent issue of The New Republic.

Dr. Bertman has important things to say which are applicable to our life today. In a recent letter, he pointed out to me that the ancients lived in a world of security and stability. Today, he observed, we live in a period in which "everything is disposable, where there are no guarantees or promises." He noted that he tells his students that in our time there is "emphasis on the individual and his immediate (and illusory) gratification, with everything reduced to self and devoid of commitment beyond one's self." He added that "we surround ourselves with quick-make things" and "wordlessly communicate the pace at which we should live."

These brief quotes indicate the thoughtfulness of the author of "Doorways Through Time." I am sure that many readers of this column would enjoy reading it. The publisher is Jeremy P. Tarcher Inc., 9110 Sunset Blvd., Los Angeles, Cal. 90069.

It's impossible to calculate how many important books fail to receive any attention. And, of course, many valuable works aren't published because they don't enjoy the approval of the powers that be in various fields.

Solutions to the problem of neglect or exclusion don't come easily to mind. As in so many areas of American life, however, centralization and concentration have become tremendous forces.

Haitian Leader Linked To Duvalier Funds

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — A member of the three-man military junta that has ruled Haiti since the flight of dictator Jean-Claude Duvalier last year was apparently paid $10,000 from a Duvalier-controlled "development fund" during the dictator's heyday.

The payment to Gen. Williams Regala, currently minister of defense and interior, appears in a document from Haitian government files. There had long been rumors that Regala, 50, a career military man, had links to Duvalier and to the Ton-Tons Macoutes, the dictator's murderous security force. But until now there has been no documentary evidence to support the rumors of the Duvalier association.

The disbursement record we obtained is among more than 24,000 documents the Haitian government turned over to American lawyers.

ROBERT WALTERS

Big Oil Keeps Trying

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The domestic petroleum industry, undeterred by repeated rebuffs, persists in its get-rich-quick attempts to artificially inflate the price of crude oil through government intervention.

When the price of a barrel of crude oil soared to $30, $35 and even higher earlier in this decade, domestic producers cited the sanctity of the "free market" in adamantly rejecting suggestions that government action was needed to recover windfall profits on behalf of consumers.

But now that price has slumped to about $20 per barrel, government "meddling" is characterized as necessary to rescue a sick industry.

The most recent formulation involves a petition to the International Trade Commission, a federal agency, claiming that domestic petroleum firms have been adversely affected by increased crude oil imports and therefore are entitled to five years of "temporary relief" in the form of import quotas or tariffs.

But the ITC is an inappropriate forum for the oil industry, which is unwilling to acknowledge that the nation has been a net importer of crude oil ever since production in the 48 contiguous states peaked in the early 1970s. (Even the discovery of vast reserves in Alaska has not altered that.)

Thus, domestic producers no longer are able to unilaterally fix prices. Instead, they must adapt to their new role in a global economy where some sectors are dominated by foreign competitors.

Rather than accept that reality, they repeatedly have sought to justify an import tax by invoking the specter of "foreign" oil from the "unstable" Middle East flooding into the country.

Fuel taxes are indeed justifiable as a means of encouraging conservation by reducing waste. In addition, some form of energy tariff might be a logical source for the revenues needed to make up the estimated shortfall of $15 billion to $20 billion in next year's federal budget.

But the domestic industry seeks to limit the tariff to imports only. That would conveniently provide the U.S. producers with a bonanza totaling billions of dollars annually because they could raise the price of their untaxed oil to match the post-tax price of imports.

In another recent maneuver, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, sought congressional approval of a measure aptly described by critics such as the Citizen/Labor Energy Coalition as an effort "to impose an oil import fee by 'backdoor' means."

Bentsen's bill would have required the White House to annually produce a three-year projection of domestic oil supply and demand patterns. If imports equaled 50 percent of consumption in any of those years, the president would have to immediately devise a program — possibly including import tariffs — to keep dependence below that level.

In fact, most experts expect U.S. reliance upon imported oil to begin regularly exceeding 50 percent in the early 1990s. (The figure now stands at 40 percent, up sharply from 27 percent less than two years ago.)

But Bentsen confuses import dependence with vulnerability. His 50 percent level is arbitrarily selected and will not necessarily produce any ill effects when crossed. (Japan's domestic energy security is not threatened even though 60 percent of its oil now comes from the Middle East.)

Earlier this month, the Senate voted 55-41 to reject Bentsen's bill — but his increasingly aggressive friends in the oil business refuse to accept the repeated rejections their schemes have from both the executive and the legislative branches of the federal government.

Canned Tuna Has Omega-3

By Rob Stein
UPI Science Writer

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (UPI) — Canned tuna is apparently as rich as fresh tuna in fatty acids that are suspected of helping prevent heart attacks and strokes.

A new study found that the canning process does not appear to remove substances known as Omega-3 fatty acids.

"Many people feel that because tuna is canned, it does not contain significant amounts of Omega-3," said Arthur Clifton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Sea Grant Program. "That's not the case."

Researchers believe Omega-3 fatty acids may help prevent heart attacks and strokes by preventing blood platelets from blocking arteries narrowed by fatty buildups on the artery walls.

Working with Foster-Miller Inc., a private research company in Waltham, Mass., the MIT researchers analyzed five popular brands of canned tuna for their Omega-3 content.

They found that white tuna contains the most Omega-3. A 6 1/2-ounce can contains about 1,800 milligrams of Omega-3 — about 1 percent of the weight. Chunk light tuna contains about 0.5 percent.

White tuna comes from the albacore species of tuna while chunk light tuna comes from bluefin, skipjack or yellowfin tuna.

Although cooking removes a significant amount of the Omega-3, the canning process apparently does not, Clifton said. Fresh tuna would only offer more Omega-3 if it was eaten raw, he said.

While several types of fatty fish such as salmon, mackerel and sardines have more Omega-3 than tuna, canned albacore has more than double the amount of Omega-3 found in such commonly consumed fish as cod and haddock, he said.

Compared with fish oil capsules sold in drug and health food stores, the study also showed that canned tuna contains much more Omega-3, said Clifton.

A 6 1/2-ounce can of white tuna has more than three times the amount of Omega-3 found in a 1,000-milligram capsule of fish oil because only about 50 percent of the contents are actually Omega-3 fatty acids, he said.

Many health officials do not recommend taking fish oil capsules because safe levels have not been established and the long-term health consequences are unknown. Some doctors, however, recommend eating two to three servings of fish each week.

(Douyon). We didn't used to deal together."

There is indeed no way of determining from the documents whether Regala ever actually received the $10,000.

The Haitian government is trying to regain some $120 million with which Duvalier and his satraps absconded. Part of this effort is a suit in the District of Columbia Superior Court to recover 56 Haitian paintings that Douyon allegedly bought with money stolen from the Haitian government. The paintings, valued at more than $1.3 million, were discovered in a Washington warehouse where Douyon allegedly stashed them.

Disclosure that Regala was apparently the recipient of a cash payment from a special Duvalier-controlled bank account comes at a time when the Haitian military junta is trying to deal with the country's worst political crisis since Duvalier fled for his life 17 months ago. At least two dozen Haitians have been killed in the recent wave of anti-government protests, strikes and riots. Among the protesters' complaints is that the military junta is more devoted to Duvalierism than to democracy.

The immediate cause of the civil unrest came in late June when Lt. Gen. Henri Namphy, head of the junta, seized control of the Provisional Electoral Council, an independent panel set up to oversee the November presidential election that is supposed to restore full democracy to Haiti. The protests were apparently successful: Namphy gave in and returned control of the election to the Electoral Council.

Last week the U.S. State Department issued an ultimatum to all parties in Haiti, threatening to cut off aid if the return to civilian rule is interfered with. U.S. aid amounts to $100 million this year — 20 percent of the Haitian government's budget.

Replacing Future Growth Panel

New Sanford Committee Would Advise On Fees

By Brad Church
 Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission has approved the first of three required readings of an ordinance which would establish a "Systems Development Advisory Committee."

The committee was originally to be called an "Impact Fee Advisory Committee" but the commission decided to change the name because of the negative connotations of the words "Impact fee."

The ordinance, in creating the new committee, would simultaneously abolish the present Future Growth Advisory Committee.

Bill Simmons, city engineer and planning director, says the Future Growth Advisory Committee's charter was drawn too broad, and it overlapped with other existing city departments or commissions, including the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The proposed committee would make recommendations to the city commission on development fees and monitor the city's comprehensive plan, with particular attention to the capital improvements part of that plan, Simmons says.

He points out that the state Growth Management Act says cities and counties cannot allow growth without facilities to handle it. This necessitates local governments having the means to constantly monitor the comprehensive plan and the capital improvements contained in that plan to make sure they are adequate to meet population and industrial growth.

Simmons says an important part of the proposed ordinance is a requirement that its membership be split 50-50 between development and non-development interests.

The proposed ordinance calls for the committee to be made up of not more than 12 members to be appointed by the city commission. Initially, four members would be appointed to one-year terms, four to two-year terms, and four to three-year terms.

The members are to be selected from one or more of the following organizations, according to the proposed ordinance: The Chamber of Commerce, local chapters of the American Institute of Architects, American Institute of Planners, and American Society of Landscape Architects; the Home Builders Association, Bar Association, Planning and Zoning Commission, a local bank official, the city commission, a local Realtor, a local environmentalist, and members of the community at large.

The city commission is expected to pass the second reading of the ordinance at its next regular meeting.

Emigres Jam Soviet Consular Offices

TEL AVIV, Israel (UPI) — Soviet emigres Thursday jammed the first Soviet consular offices in Israel in 20 years, many seeking visas to visit family members in the Soviet Union.

"I haven't seen my mother in eight years," said Alex Esipovich, 28, an aspiring Leningrad-born filmmaker who lives in Tel Aviv with his wife and son.

Esipovich said he came to the Soviets' makeshift consular offices to obtain a copy of his high school record and found the Soviets handing out visa applications. He said he would apply.

Not since the Soviet Union broke relations with Israel during the Six Day War in 1967 have the Soviets made it so easy for Jewish emigrants living in Israel to apply for visas for trips back home.

The easing of procedures coincided with a visit to Israel this week by an eight-member Soviet consular delegation — seen as a sign of improving relations.

An elderly man looked incredulous as one of the eight Soviet diplomats on the consular visit handed him an application form.

Tears streamed from his eyes as the diplomat explained he should fill out the form, printed in both Russian and English, and return the application with 20 shekels ($12.50). He turned to his wife, switching from Russian to Hebrew, and said, "Praise the Lord."

The man said he had not seen his daughter or brothers since he left the Soviet Union nine years ago to make a new life in the Jewish state.

Yevgeny Antipov, who is leading the eight-member delegation that arrived Sunday on 90-day diplomatic visas, said visa applications from Israelis would be referred to the Supreme Soviet and the applicants would be notified by mail if they were approved.

Because the two nations have no diplomatic ties, Israelis with approval would be required to travel to a nation with relations with the Soviet Union to pick up the visa at a Soviet Embassy.

Several dozen Soviet emigres crowded inside Antipov's temporary offices Thursday morning chatting in both Hebrew and Russian as they waited to see the officials.

The delegation's stated purpose for the official visit — the first since ties were broken 20 years ago — is to inspect Soviet property in Israel, largely Russian Orthodox Church holdings, and to meet with Soviet passport holders living in Israel.

Antipov said his delegation also decided to take visa applications, although they cannot issue the visas in Israel.

The Soviets' arrival at their office, a satellite of the Finnish Embassy, was delayed about 30 minutes Thursday when five women laid down in front of the diplomats' car outside their seaside hotel.

The women said they were protesting Kremlin emigration policy, which they said bars 400,000 Jews from leaving the Soviet Union.

Protester Ruth Katz called the Soviets' decision to hand out visa applications "a public relations ploy," but said she did not condemn the Soviet Jews for wanting to return home.

"I can understand the dilemma of people who have been separated from their kin for 10 to 15 years," she said. "It's very personal."

Antipov bristled at the scattered protests that have dogged the delegation since word of their arrival was released Monday, saying it was interfering with the delegation's business.

"We can't prevent people from demonstrating, expressing their wishes and ideas. But it should be done in a civilized way," complained Antipov, wearing a tennis Jersey in the heat.

Antipov also said among the Soviet Jews visiting his office were several asking to return to the Soviet Union, although none of the people in the office said that was their intent.

Esipovich said he knows of some Jews, all of them elderly, who do want to return to the Soviet Union.

Wakulla County Sheriff's Office officials said they were notified Thursday...

George P. Rosenberg is on July 13, when Rosenberg said officials he was attacked by a 10-foot alligator while hunting tropical fish, the Tallahassee Democrat reported. Wildlife officers sent to the site could not find the alligator.

The following day, on July 3, an alligator attacked a dog near a boat dock further downriver. Officials killed a 10-foot alligator at the site.

Rosenberger said he was swimming in about 15 feet of water near a boat landing just downriver from the state park on July 2. He surfaced from a dive, looked down and saw an alligator's jaws about to close on his right foot.

Rosenberger jerked his foot up and shoved his fish-collecting net and pole into the alligator's mouth.

"I could feel the vibration of his teeth hitting and crunching on the pole," he said.

Rosenberger then swam toward shore with the alligator in pursuit. Several bystanders on a nearby highway bridge screamed at him to hurry because the alligator was gaining.

"I was having a tough time. I was panicky. I said, 'He's going to get me.' But I knew I had to try," Rosenberg said.

The alligator gave up the chase when Rosenberg reached shallow water near the bank. He suffered only a bloody toe, possibly nicked by the alligator when it went for his foot.

After his attack, Rosenberg contacted the Democrat and asked the paper to do a story on the dangers of swimming in the Wakulla River, but the newspaper abandoned the story after the Wakulla County Sheriff's Department inaccurately told a reporter no attack had been reported.

County Pleased With Water District Action

County Administrator Ken Hooper said Thursday a lot of work went into obtaining permit approval for the first phase of Seminole County's Yankee Lake sewer treatment plant by the St. Johns River Water Management District.

"The county is very pleased. We put a great deal of effort into the permitting process," Hooper said.

Tuesday the water district board approved the county's plans for controlling surface runoff at the site.

The permit approval was needed before the county could begin building the initial 2.5 million-gallons-a-day treatment plant. Jim Bible, director of Seminole's environmental services department, said this week the county plans to seek bids for the construction within the next three months.

The county, however, must still obtain approval from the water district of plans for handling the discharge of effluent into wetlands on the nearly 3,000-acre Yankee Lake site. Plans are to seek the permit after plant construction begins, said Bible.

The county also expects to receive a plant construction permit from the state Department of Environmental Regulation, which recently issued a notice of intent to approve the permit. Opponents of the plan, however, have appealed the notice and are seeking an administrative hearing.

IN BRIEF

NASA: Booster Tests On Track; Launch Date Still June 1988

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — Despite the addition of at least two extra booster test firings, a top NASA engineer says the agency will meet its planned June 1988 launch date for the first post-Challenger shuttle flight.

John W. Thomas, manager of the shuttle booster redesign program, told a news conference Thursday that to ensure the shuttle's twin boosters will work as planned, engineers will test two and possibly three additional rockets before the scheduled launch.

Those firings will be added to the five already scheduled, including the first test firing of the redesigned booster rockets next month at the Morton Thiokol Inc. rocket plant in Brigham City, Utah.

Killer Fire Out Of Control

United Press International

The first rain in several weeks helped slow down an erratic 7,200-acre forest fire that killed two lumberjacks and leveled eight homes in Oregon, while firefighters in Washington mopped up a blaze that burned down 24 houses.

Volunteer fire departments from several Oregon villages saved another 30 to 40 homes along the South Umpqua River on Thursday as 400 firefighters waged an uphill battle to control the deadly blaze that exploded from 100 acres to more than 7,000 in half a day.

The firestorm raced over lumberjacks Mark L. Giles, 30, and James R. Moore, 55, killing the two men while they tried in vain to take shelter under the expensive logging equipment they were attempting to save from a burning ridge.

Alcohol-Related Deaths Said Up

CHICAGO (UPI) — The role alcohol plays in premature death has been grossly underestimated, and drinking may be a contributing cause in nearly a third of all deaths of young men, government researchers report.

A study of U.S. Army veterans found that only a sixth of the deaths involving alcohol as a significant factor were officially reported as alcohol-related on death certificates, the federal Centers for Disease Control said in today's Journal of the American Medical Association.

Dr. Daniel Pollock, a CDC epidemiologist, said the finding suggests alcohol plays a more significant role in premature death than previously estimated, and may approach the death toll attributed to tobacco use.

Faldo Shoots 69 For 5-Under Par

MUIRFIELD, Scotland (UPI) — Nick Faldo, playing in a steady morning rain, today walked off the course with a 2-under-par 69 in the second round of the British Open moments before overnight leader Rodger Davis was to tee off.

Faldo is at 5-under 137 through two rounds of golf's oldest championship. Davis took advantage of better weather conditions Thursday to take the lead with a 7-under 64.

"To get in under par on a day like today is hard work," Faldo said.

The Briton, starting the day at 3-under, picked up birdies at the short fourth and the eighth to reach the turn 2-under for the day and 5-under overall. He said the key to his four-birdie, two-bogey round was being able to grab a dry towel halfway round.

"The grips started getting wet. I would have been struggling if I hadn't been able to get a dry towel at the 10th from the locker room," he said.

Tom Watson, who is vying for a record-equaling sixth Open title, had a mixed start, dropping a shot at the first and fourth holes, but birdied the two holes between to stay at his overnight 2-under par.

He birdied the fifth and settled to the challenge of the rainswept links, progressing as far as 5-under before dropping a shot at the 14th.

Nick Price of South Africa shot 71 to remain 3-under 139, while defending champion Greg Norman matched five birdies with five bogeys to post his second 71 of the tournament.

Two-time champion Seve Ballesteros of Spain struggled through a topsy-turvy round, but after birdies at the 15th and 16th was heading for a level par 71 to stay 2-over for the tournament.

The weather that tries the patience of almost every British Open title hopeful almost every year made all the difference Thursday. Davis played in the sun and what little win he faced was favorable.

Norman, like all the later starters, had to contend with rain, chill and a distinctly unhelpful breeze out of the east.

Golf

However, Norman, Player of the Year in 1986, was quick to acknowledge that whatever the conditions, a good score still must be earned.

"The conditions this afternoon got colder and there was a little bit more breeze for us. Especially the breeze coming from the east, that makes the golf course play harder than any other breeze," he said.

Norman said he heard conditions were much better when Davis played the front nine — and Norman slept.

"I guess Rodger took advantage of the situation. The greens were obviously perfect for him, being in the early groups out, no wind, warm weather — I saw a lot of guys playing in shirt sleeves — when you're in that situation and playing well — heck, shoot your 64 and try to get a jump on the field if you can," Norman said.

Davis, 36, left the 6,393-yard course Thursday with a 3-shot advantage over the field.

He chalked up eight birdies — many because of his long putting — against one bogey, at the 10th where he changed his mind and used a driver instead of a 1-iron off the tee.

"It's silly to say you're unlucky in shooting 7-under but a couple of putts from eight on through ... could have been anything with just another inch or two with the pace," Davis said.

His nearest rivals were a trio of Americans: Ken Green, Bob Tway and the veteran Lee Trevino, who won at Muirfield 15 years ago.

They all returned 67s. Trevino and Tway with surges of birdies. Green with an eagle at the 17th, where he chipped in from 58 yards.

Paul Azinger, leading money winner on the U.S. Tour this year, made a steady debut to sit in a group of four on 68, along with Faldo, Nick Price of South Africa and U.S. Masters champion Larry Mize.

Lee Trevino, who won the British Open at Muirfield 15 years ago, was in the hunt after shooting a 67, three strokes behind leader Rodger Davis.

COAL VALLEY, Ill. (UPI) — Dave Rummells credited advice from his caddy for his first appearance at the top of a PGA Tour event leader board.

Rummells, a West Branch, Iowa, native looking for his first tour victory, Thursday altered his putting style at the bidding of caddy Mark Lyman. The result was a torrid, 7-under-par 63 for the first-round lead in the $500,000 Hardee's Golf Classic Thursday.

"My caddy noticed yesterday in the pro-am that I wasn't rolling the ball very well," Rummells said.

3 TIE AT BOSTON FIVE

DANVERS, Mass. (UPI) — For Sally Quinlan, the pressure of being the local favorite makes the Boston Five as great a challenge as the U.S. Women's Open.

Quinlan, Amy Alcott and Cathy Marino each fired 5-under-par 67 Thursday to share the opening-round lead at the $300,000 tournament.

Oviedo Bounces Altamonte, Ends 10-Year Drought

OVIDO — The Oviedo Senior League All-Star baseball team must like to have its back up against the wall.

After an opening-round loss in the District 14 Tournament, Oviedo was one game from being eliminated, but came with consecutive victories over Mount Dora and Kustis.

Thursday night, Oviedo continued its winning ways with a convincing 7-3 victory over Altamonte in the Division II, Area I Tournament before 155 fans at the Oviedo Little League. It was the first time an Oviedo Senior team had beaten Altamonte in 10 years, according to manager Jimmy Boston.

The victory means that the two clubs will face off again tonight at 7 at Oviedo for the Area I championship. Altamonte manager Duke Plecones said that Curt Prom will be on the hill for his club. Oviedo manager Jimmy Boston said that either Marvin Fore, Dwayne Clark or Danny Mello will pitch for Oviedo. The winner of the game will advance into the district tournament while the loser will be eliminated.

Oviedo used a nine-hit attack that was led by Todd Tocco. Tocco cracked three doubles, two of which were two-run smashes, giving Oviedo its offense fire-power.

"Altamonte has a big reputation," Tocco, who made several flashy plays in center field, said. "After we lost to them the first time, I knew that we could beat them. We came out with a lot of confidence tonight."

Altamonte, on the other hand, came out and looked rather lackadaisical for the first five innings. "We were flat," Plecones said. "Once again, we just didn't hit the ball tonight. But if they beat us tomorrow, they will have to beat our best (Prom)."

Boston said that the win will give his team a lot of confidence going into tonight's contest. "Now that they we know we can win, anything can happen," Boston said. "This was the first time in 10 years that Oviedo has beaten Altamonte at the Senior All-Star level, and it sure feels good."

Baseball

Oviedo pitcher Rob Slavik, a junkball throwing southpaw, kept the Altamonte bats in check with a slow curve. "They got pretty frustrated," Slavik, who fanned two while walking six and spreading out eight hits, said. "I got into a few jams, but my defense played well, and my offense gave me some runs to work with."

Oviedo got on the board first with three runs in the top of the second inning. After Jon Williams walked, Fore reached when he hit a grounder that forced Williams. Clark then walked. Slavik then hit a grounder that forced Fore. Clark proceeded to steal third and scored when Steve Coffie singled to center. Tocco followed with a solid double to right-center that plated Slavik and Coffie.

AMERICAN BOWS OUT

Marc Loyd kept the Altamonte Senior Americans close for five innings Thursday night, but Altamonte could not get on track offensively and eventually dropped a 13-0 decision to Rolling Hills in losers' bracket play of the District 14 Division I Area II Tournament at Ocoee.

Altamonte, which exploded offensively in a 21-10 victory over Apopka on Wednesday, managed only two hits off winning pitcher Juan Duncan and was eliminated from tournament play.

"We went from one extreme to the other," Altamonte manager Jay Williams said.

Chris Haney's single to lead off the game and Shawn Bullock's fourth-inning single were the only hits for Altamonte.

Juniors Move To Final — Bellhorn No-Hits Mount Dora

By Sam Cook

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Altamonte's Juniors, making the most of three hits, advanced to the championship game of the Little League Baseball District 14 Division II Area I All-Star Tournament Thursday night by holding off Mount Dora, 6-5, before 122 fans at Eastmonte Park.

Altamonte, which trimmed Oviedo, 5-2, Saturday, will play Eustis, Oviedo or Mount Dora Sunday for the title at 2 p.m. The losers' bracket survivor would have to beat Altamonte twice to advance to district finals. The II-1 winner plays the II-2 winner Monday at Altamonte at 7 p.m.

"We'll go with either Jason Goodpaster or T.J. Hamilton Sunday," Altamonte manager Gil Vogler said.

Right-hander Kevin Morro weathered a 12-hit Mount Dora attack to pick up Thursday's victory. The right-handed Morro struck out eight and walked four.

Mount Dora, which trailed 6-2, entering the bottom of the seventh, struck for three runs and had the tying run on third but Morro said he was not worried. "Even though the tying run was on third, the next batter up (Mike Haaf) was pretty weak," he said. "I thought I could strike him out." Morro did, catching Haaf with a 3-2 fastball to close out Mount Dora.

Altamonte jumped on loser Greg Harley for four runs in the second inning to take a quick lead. Gil Vogler III jumped on Harley's first pitch and scorched it into center field to start the inning. Harley then walked Kevin Scott, Trent McNaull and Morro in succession for a 1-0 lead.

Leadoff hitter Shane Odom and second sacker Chris Barfield also drew free passes to push the lead to 3-0 before Harley got the hook in favor of Jason Perry. Perry whiffed Dana Dearth and Hamilton but Kevin Monahan singled home Morro for a 4-0 lead. Barfield, though, was thrown out trying to go to third to end the inning.

Despite the 4-0 advantage, Altamonte coach Dave Scott said he thought the Juniors lost their aggressiveness after the big inning. "We went into our prevent defense" after we got those runs," Scott said. "Our lack of aggressiveness kept them in the ball game."

Baseball

Perry, a 5-10, 170-pounder, limited Altamonte to just one hit over the final five innings but the Juniors used manufactured two more runs in the fourth to take a 6-1 lead.

Barfield led off the frame with a liner to right center, but slipped between first and second and settled for a single. Dearth followed with a groundball to shortstop but the relay to second was poor and both runners were safe. A wild pitch moved both to second and third.

Hamilton then sent a medium-deep fly ball to right field, and although the peg home had Barfield beat, he slipped under the tag for a 5-0 lead. Matt Parks then sent another flyball to right field which scored Dearth for what proved to be the winning run.

Dearth and Barfield also combined on the defensive gem of the game in the fifth inning which cut short a Mount Dora rally. John Skarelli blooped a soft liner just over Dearth's reach at first base but Barfield scrambled behind him and tossed to Dearth for the inning-ending putout.

"Dana (Dearth) jumped as high as he could, but it tipped off his glove," Barfield said. "He sprinted back to the base and I got it to him in time."

Vogler III, Barfield and Monahan had the Altamonte hits. McNaull stole two bases.

OVIDO'S ACE WHIFFS 15

Mount Dora was breaking out the Pepto Bismol even before Thursday night's game began. When they saw who was taking the mound for the Oviedo Majors, they could not help but getting a little upset in the stomach.

On Monday, Mark Bellhorn threw a one-hitter and struck out 16 as Oviedo dealt Mount Dora an 8-0 defeat. Mount Dora came back to win its next game, only to go up against Oviedo in the losers' bracket Thursday night.

This time, Bellhorn fired a no-hitter and struck out 15 as Oviedo rolled to a 14-3 victory over shellshocked Mount Dora in the Little League Baseball District 14 Division II Area I Tournament at Mount Dora.

Oviedo advances to the losers' bracket final tonight at 7 against Casselberry at the Oviedo Little League Complex. Tonight's winner will go up against unbeaten Altamonte National in the Area I championship Saturday night.

While Bellhorn stumped Mount Dora again, Oviedo also had a big night on offense as it pounded out 14 hits. Bellhorn had three hits, including two doubles and a homer and drove in five runs. Drew Jackson smashed a double and single and scored three runs while Chris Wisdom, Steve Whitley, Jay Busse and Chad Shaw drove in two runs each.

Oviedo broke the game open early with eight runs in the second inning. Doubles by Jackson, Bellhorn and Shaw were the big hits in the inning while Whitley had a two-run single.

Wilander Recovers, Drops Perez

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — Top seed Mats Wilander, frustrated when tossed off his cautious baseline game, recovered to reach the quarterfinals of the $375,000 U.S. Open Clay Court Championships.

Wilander, ranked No. 2 in the world, defeated Diego Perez 7-5, 7-5 in a third-round match Thursday. The Swede threw his racket when Perez, the No. 16 seed, took a 3-1 lead in the second set. Wilander won the next four games and later broke the Spaniard's serve to win the match, taking the final point when Perez double-faulted.

"He played very well," Wilander said of Perez. "He kept me away from the baseline. I found it hard to do some things. The ball was quick and it bounced high. He kept it away from the baseline and I had to concentrate a little more to come back."

Wilander was forced out of position and spent much of the match scrambling across the court. "It was good now to do some running," he said. "Every match gets tougher so it was very important."

Wilander, the only player ranked in the top seven at Indianapolis, said he does not have to play at his best to win at events such as the Clay Courts and the U.S. Pro Championships, which he won Sunday.

"Last September I was feeling pretty bad," he said. "I wanted to play tourneys like Boston and Indianapolis because they are tough, yet you can go less than 100 percent and still win the tournament. And I love to play on clay."

Wilander said the most crucial point of Thursday's match came when Perez, leading 5-4 in the first set, missed a chance to win the set. Wilander smashed an overhead winner to reach deuce and went on to take the set.

In today's quarterfinals, Wilander meets Richey Reneberg of Houston. Reneberg, the only American in the final eight, eliminated Blaine Willenborg of Miami 7-6 (7-2), 6-0. Argentina's Martin Jaito, the No. 4 seed, eliminated the last remaining U.S. seed, No. 14 Andre Agassi of Las Vegas, Nev., 4-6, 6-4, 6-2.

NO. 2 SEED ROLLS ON DESPITE ERRORS

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Lori McNeil is one of the best athletes on the women's pro tennis tour — which is why she can commit 34 double-faults in two matches without losing.

The No. 2 seed in the $150,000 Virginia Slims of Newport, McNeil defeated Jane Forman 7-6 (7-2), 6-3 in a second-round match Thursday despite 14 double-faults.

"She is a great athlete," acknowledged Forman, a wild-card entrant. "She has a lot of power. She hits a lot of shots other girls aren't able to hit."

Cowboys Waive Hill

IRVING, Texas (UPI) — Tony Hill, the second-leading receiver in Dallas Cowboy history, was waived Thursday with the NFL team claiming he had become overweight and did not participate in offseason workouts.

Hill, who said Thursday he hopes to play this year in the NFL, will become a free agent if no team selects him off the 24-hour waiver wire by Friday.

The 10-year veteran, who caught 49 passes for 770 yards last season, learned of his release during a meeting.

Nationals Rout WS; Americans Up Next

The National League used a 20-hit attack in an 18-4 thrashing of West Seminoles in the Pony District Bronco baseball Tournament on Thursday night at the Five Points Complex.

Manager Bob Carr's Nationals will advance into tonight's best-of-three series against manager Jim Withrow's Americans. A double-header will be played on Saturday if it is necessary. The Americans' clobbered West Seminoles, 15-1, on Wednesday night.

The best-of-three series will be a rematch of last week's series in which the Americans edged the Nationals, 2-1.

"I'm really looking forward to playing them," Carr said. "That was a great series, and I'm sure that this series will also be good."

Carr said that Chris Mayberry will be on the mound for him tonight. Americans' coach Jim Withrow said that Matt Freeman will be on the hill for his club.

Every player in the starting lineup recorded a hit as Jeremy Chunal and Edgar Aviles highlighted the offense with home runs.

Matt Boyd was the starting pitcher as went two innings and gave up one run. David Eckstein and Brian Sturges came on in relief.

"This was a good game for us," Carr said. "It gave everyone a chance to play, and prepare for the series."

Comfy Mattingly Drives In 7 Runs

United Press International Don Mattingly, who has raised his batting average almost 100 points over the last six weeks, says he is finally beginning to feel comfortable at the plate.

Mattingly drove in seven runs, four with his fourth grand slam of the season, and tied an American League record with a homer in his sixth straight game to power the New York Yankees to a 12-3 victory Thursday night over the Texas Rangers.

"I just found my swing a few days ago," Mattingly said. "It happened all of a sudden. I can't explain it, but all of a sudden I got in a good groove."

In his last 41 games, Mattingly's average has soared from .240 to .337 but in the past six games he has added some power. Of the 16 hits in his last 33 at-bats, eight have been home runs. He also has 20 RBI over that period.

"Mattingly has been hot lately, there's no doubt about it," Texas Manager Bobby Valentine said. "I think he's as dangerous a hitter as there is right now."

Mattingly hit his 15th and 16th homers of the year and his four grand slams equaled a club record first set in 1934 by Lou Gehrig. He is one short of the league record established by Jim Gentile in 1961. He is also the seventh player to hit homers in six straight games, the last being Reggie Jackson in 1976.

"I don't care about records and all that stuff," Mattingly said. "None of that stuff is going to help us down the road. We're in a dogfight and all that matters is that we win games."

In his last five appearances with the bases loaded, Mattingly has hit four home runs and a single.

Ron Guidry, 2-4, allowed seven hits through 5 2-3 innings in his seventh start of the season. Charlie Hough, 10-5, gave up six runs in the first two innings thanks in part to a league record-tying five passed balls by Texas catcher Mike Stanley.

Youmans, Brooks Lift Expos To 4th Straight

United Press International Floyd Youmans and Hubie Brooks, who spent much of the first half of the season on the disabled list, were healthy Thursday and showed what impact they can have for the Montreal Expos.

Youmans fired a three-hitter and Brooks drove in two runs to help Montreal win their fourth straight game with a 2-0 victory over the Atlanta Braves.

Youmans, 7-3, walked five and struck out five in pitching his second complete game of the season, both shutouts. The right-hander allowed just one Brave to reach third base.

"My confidence has never been so high," said Youmans, 23, who has won six straight decisions and had been on the disabled list twice this season with back problems. "Every time I go out there, I just feel like I am going to get the batter out. Tonight it took me until the second inning to get into the groove. I guess that's because I hadn't thrown in a week."

"I'm sure I can beat last year's win total (he was 13-12 in 1986)," he said. "That's always a pitcher's goal. Hopefully I'll move my way up so that soon I'll be up there in the 20-win category."

Brooks also spent time on the sidelines due to injury in the first half. Because of hand and thumb injuries, he played in only 80 games last year, batting .340 with 14 homers and 58 RBI and missed the first month and a half of this season.

Facing Atlanta starter and loser Doyle Alexander, 4-6, he brought home Tim Wallach with a sacrifice fly in the fifth and smacked a solo home run, his eighth in 42 games this season, in the seventh.

Brooks led off the seventh by belting a 0-2 pitch over the left-field wall for his eighth home run of the season, giving the Expos a 2-0 lead.

"I'm feeling better than ever," says Brooks. "Things are definitely going my way. They must be. I've always had trouble at the plate against Alexander."

Indians Can't Stand Pat - Call On 'Doc'

CHICAGO (UPI) - Superior hitting was supposed to rocket the Cleveland Indians to the top of the American League East Division.

But the failure to match expectations was not the reason manager Pat Corrales was fired, according to team members and officials.

At Houston, Ken Caminiti, playing his first major-league game, homered and scored the winning run to push Houston past Philadelphia. With one out in the ninth, Caminiti walked off Mike Jackson, 3-7, and moved to third on Craig Reynolds' single.

Recognition Luncheon To Honor Foster Grandparents

The Foster Grandparents of the Florida Senior Programs Inc. will be honored at an annual luncheon on Tuesday, July 21, at noon at Quincy's in Sanford. The luncheon will be hosted by the four child care centers in which they volunteer: Happy Acres, Sanford Early Childhood Center, Child's World and Sanford Child Development.

The program was established to provide older adults with a way to serve their communities by serving others. Sally W. Schaber of Sanford Child Care Inc. said, "These grandparents give children the experience of having an extended family in these times of economic and mobility changes by bringing them love, joy, and laughter."

Girl Scout Volunteers Needed

Volunteer leaders, consultants and trainers are needed to help develop Girl Scouting for all girls in the Sanford area.

A public awareness program will be held Saturday, July 25, from 9 to 11 a.m., in the meeting room of Florida Power and Light Co., 301 N. Myrtle Ave., Sanford. This program will provide details on what Girl Scouting is all about.

According to Florence Korgan, volunteers are desperately needed. For information, call 322-8254, 321-7293, 322-8086 or 323-5908.

SCC Program Receives Cadillac

Seminole Community College's Automotive Technology Program was the recipient of a 1986 Cadillac Eldorado. This vehicle was donated by Cadillac Motor Division and Willett Cadillac-Oldsmobile of Sanford.

The Eldorado features the linking of five on-board computers and will allow students to be involved in hands-on training in state of the art electronic control systems, according to Jim Cox, SCC instructor.

SCC is a certified General Motors Satellite Training Center and regularly holds training classes for General Motors technicians.

SCC's automotive program was honored as the top post-secondary program in Florida in 1986 by the Motore Vehicle Manufacturers Association and has been certified as a MASTER program by the National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence.

Vacuum Cleaners Recalled

Barbara Gregg, Seminole County Extension Home Economist, warns consumers of a recall on three models of Kenmore vacuum cleaners. In cooperation with the Consumer Product Safety Commission, Whirlpool Corporation is recalling three models of Sears Kenmore canister vacuum cleaners.

The canister wiring must be checked because it could create an electrical short. The vacuum cleaner host may catch fire, and there's a potential for electrical shock, Gregg said. Thirty-three thousand of these vacuum cleaners were sold between November, 1986 and May, 1987. Consumers who have purchased these vacuum cleaners should stop using them until they've been checked by a Sears technician, Gregg added.

The models concerned at 116.2643581, 116.2643583 and 116.2645082. For more information call the Consumer Product Safety Commission at 1-800-638-2772.

Provide Care For Plants While On Vacation

By Dr. Robert J. Black
IFAS Extension
Horticulturist

Many of you will probably be going on vacation this summer. It is important to get your landscape and garden plants in order prior to departure for vacation.

During a one to two week period away from home, considerable damage may be experienced by plants if care is not provided. This is especially true for plants growing in containers — both indoors and outdoors. If asked, a neighbor will probably check on the plants while you are gone. It is important to give this person proper instructions on the needs of each plant. Needs may vary considerably and a friend may not have the same type of sensitivity for plants as the owner.

A little time spent in readying your home for your absence may spare many extra hours of work upon your return. Perhaps the following checklist will be helpful.

Place your outdoor potted plants in a shady location. This may be near the side of a building having a northern exposure or within the protective cover of a heavy foliage plant.

Potted plants may be placed in the ground up to the rim of the container. A thick layer of mulch will conserve moisture and reduce the number of waterings needed while on vacation.

When caring for indoor plants, place them in a room which receives indirect light. Direct sunlight will dry the soil quicker. Do not leave plants in a darkened room, because leaf drop will surely result. The last thing to do before leaving on a trip is to thoroughly soak the plants. If the vacation extends over a two-week period, move house plants outdoors and sink pots in a shaded and cool garden bed.

Mow lawn just prior to leaving, if possible. An unkempt lawn is a tell-tale sign that no one is at home, as well as being bad for the lawn grass to get out of hand. Perhaps mow a little shorter than usual if your stay will be long. Water the lawn well prior to leaving, or make provisions for sprinklers to be turned on. Treat for chinch bugs and/or fungus, if signs of these pests are present.

Give garden beds and plants, particularly those recently planted, a final and good soaking prior to leaving. It will help to mulch plants with leaves, pine needles, compost or bark to conserve moisture.

Cut flowering annuals just before leaving. Annuals which go uncut will soon cease to bloom. Plant food is used to nourish developing seed instead of production of new flowers and foliage.

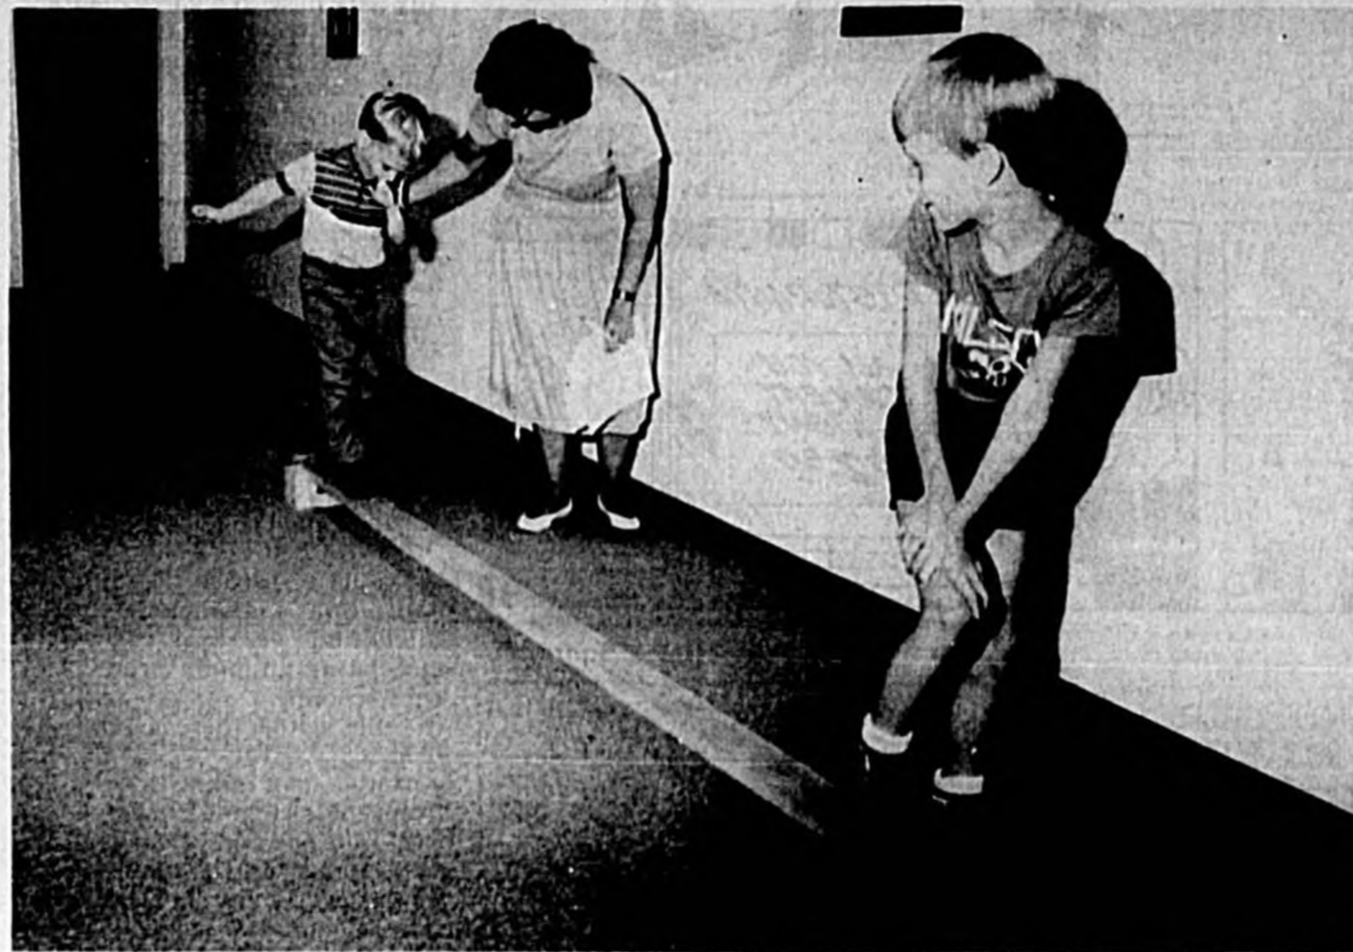

Give plants a good spraying or dusting to protect against harmful insects and diseases.

Provide a good over-all weeding prior to departure. If weeds are allowed to go to seed while away, you can expect a much harder job of weeding later in the season, or next year when the seeds sprout. Weeds also rob desirable plants of food and moisture.

Harvest all ripened or nearly ripened fruit and vegetables prior to leaving. Vegetables will continue to produce if harvested often. Make arrangements with a neighbor to harvest and water the garden in payment for vegetables and fruit.

Woman Who Wears Pants To Hide Legs Would Like To Wear A Dress

DEAR ABBY: I have never seen my problem in your column, so I finally decided I couldn't wait any longer.

I am very happily married (19 years) and have three good children. My problem is that I am bowlegged. I would like to wear shorts, but I don't wear them outside the house. I also don't wear dresses even though I would like to. My wardrobe consists of nothing but slacks. I feel self-conscious wearing anything that shows my legs. My husband gets mad at me because I don't like to wear dresses.

Is there any surgery or exercise that can be done to help bowlegged women? I would really feel much better about myself if I wasn't bowlegged. Thanks a bunch.

BOWLEGGED AND SELF-CONSCIOUS

DEAR BOWLEGGED: I consulted Dr. Bernard Morrey, consultant in orthopedic surgery at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn. He said: "Bowed legs cannot be corrected by exercise. However there is an operation known as a 'high tibial osteotomy' which is well-known by orthopedic surgeons everywhere. This procedure is used to relieve severe knee pain due to bowed legs and not generally done for cosmetic purposes. The woman who wrote to you should consult an orthopedic surgeon in her own community for an examination and evaluation."

DEAR ABBY: Another girl and I have shared an apartment for three years and have a great relationship. Her boyfriend slept here occasionally, but for the past year or so he has been living with us 98 percent of the time. He has a key to the apartment, washes his clothes here, eats and sleeps here. There are times when my roommate has been out of town on business, but the boyfriend sleeps here anyway. I really don't mind because he's a nice guy, but I think he should pay rent, or a third of the utilities. I've mentioned this to my roommate and her boyfriend, but they think I'm being petty. Am I? If you think I am, I'll back off. If you think I have a valid complaint, I'll mention it again. What do you think?

USED IN THE SOUTH

DEAR USED: I think Mr. Nice Guy should pay a third of the rent — and a third of the utilities. As things stand, he's a very expensive house pet. Mention it again. This time, with more conviction.

DEAR ABBY: I had an appointment with a doctor I had not seen before. My appointment was for 11:15 and I arrived 10 minutes early. At 12:10 I had been moved to one of the inner examining rooms, but still had not seen the doctor. I had other obligations for the afternoon and was getting nervous, so I went to the receptionist and told her to reschedule another appointment for me.

I realize that doctors are sometimes unavoidably delayed, but no one relayed this information to me. My question: How long should one wait? Doctors are notorious for this, and I feel we have let them get away with this sort of thing too long. My time is important, too.

IMPATIENT PATIENT

DEAR IMPATIENT: How long one "should" wait depends on how much time one has, and how urgent the problem. Personally, I would rather wait, see the doctor, and get it over with than schedule another appointment and start again from "square one."

DEAR ABBY: I have a suggestion for "Motormouth," who asked for hints on how to refrain from talking too much.

I had that problem, and I keep reminding myself of the saying: "Blessed are they who have nothing to say, and the courage not to say it." It has helped me through the years.

IDA FROM SEQUIM, WASH.

DEAR ABBY: In regard to pastors making surprise calls upon church members: I always telephone for an appointment to make sure the husband will be home. This prevents any possibility of gossip when a man visits a woman alone in her home.

"REV. BOB,"
TEMPLE HILLS, MD.

Floppy Mitral Valve Not All That Unusual

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I visited several doctors for chest pain, fatigue and tachycardia, and my ailment was diagnosed as Barlow's syndrome. What is the prognosis?

DEAR READER — The prognosis is excellent. Barlow's syndrome, or floppy mitral valve, is a surprisingly common abnormality among middle-aged people, especially women. One of the two umbrella-shaped leaflets of the heart's mitral valve becomes weakened and doesn't shut completely. This allows a tiny jet of blood to squirt backward, through the valve, when the heart contracts, producing an extra heart sound — a murmur or click. Usually called "mitral valve prolapse," Barlow's syndrome needs no treatment and does not cause heart disease. However, patients with the syndrome should be checked regularly by their doctors to make sure that the floppy portion of the valve doesn't weaken to the point where a serious valvular abnormality develops.

Most important, patients with mitral valve prolapse — indeed, any patient with a valve disorder — should receive antibiotics before and during extensive dental work, colonoscopy (examination of the large bowel with a tube) and cystoscopy (examination of the bladder), because these procedures release bacteria into the bloodstream. Such bacteria can produce infection of abnormal valves, and this can result in serious medical consequences.

DEAR DR. GOTT — A doctor gave me a blood test and said I have myasthenia gravis. Later, I found out that a blood test is not the way to diagnose this disease. What should I do now?

DEAR READER — Myasthenia gravis is a disease of unknown cause that is characterized by a fluctuating weakness caused by circulating antibody proteins to acetylcholine receptors (AChR). In other words, there is a natural blockage of the chemical that permits nerve impulses to travel from the nerves themselves to the muscles they supply. In myasthenia gravis, the patient manufactures antibody neutralizers against nerve conduction; weakness and paralysis result.

This neutralization can be overcome by certain substances called cholinergic drugs. When given intravenously to myasthenia patients, these drugs produce marked improvement in muscle strength within a minute. This reaction forms the basis for the traditional diagnostic test for the disease: the Tensilon test.

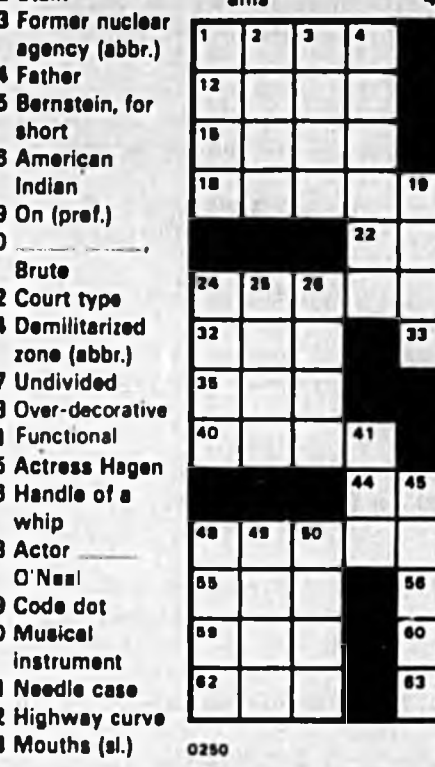

However, your doctor is correct: There is a blood test for myasthenia. The AChR antibody analysis measures the presence of this abnormal protein in about 85 percent of patients with myasthenia. The blood test obviously has limitations: 15 percent of myasthenia patients are negative for AChR antibody. Most experts recommend confirmation of diagnosis (with a Tensilon test) if the blood analysis is negative.

I believe that your doctor is on the right track. Certainly, you are entitled to a second opinion, but I doubt that this is necessary.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

The more high cards you have, the more tricks you will take. That's a good general rule, until a deal comes along where you have just enough high cards to steer you into the wrong percentage play for your contract.

South, playing in six hearts, saw one of his worries disappear with the opening lead of the club jack. He crossed to dummy with a trump and took a spade finesse. West won and continued clubs. Now declarer cashed the spade ace, got to dummy with a second heart and ruffed a spade. But the jack did not fall. Eventually South had to take a losing diamond finesse and went down a trick. Unlucky, yes. But well played? No. Suppose declarer had a low spade instead of the queen. After winning the opening club lead, surely he would have immediately played ace and a spade. He could then get to dummy with hearts twice to ruff out two spades. That would make the last spade in dummy a winner. As so often happens, poor declarer was mesmerized by the spade queen. Sure, he would make a trick with it 50 percent of the time by finessing. But it's better for declarer to play ace and queen of spades to make the contract whenever the spades split no worse than 4-2.

Here is the moral. Don't let a lot of high cards delude you into making the wrong percentage play for your contract.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY
JULY 18, 1987

Personal benefits can be developed in the year ahead from situations where others have already laid the groundwork. You'll earn your share by contributing what they can't.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Strive to be budget-minded today, especially where your pleasurable interests are concerned. If you waste money now, you may regret it later when you need it. Major changes are ahead for Cancers in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Even though your objectives will be well defined today, you might use tactics or methods that are self-defeating.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you meet someone new today, judge this person by the way he reacts to you and not by things you have been told by others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Be on guard today. You may be forced to share the consequences of a friend's poor judgment.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You may feel compelled to make a commitment that does not serve your best interests just to pacify a companion today. Be congenial, but also be sensible.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Caution and calculation should take precedence over haste today if you are working with unfamiliar tools. Better safe than sorry.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Don't gamble today on people or things you know little about. Your present assessments may be unrealistically inflated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)

The people you try to please the most today are likely to appreciate it the least. Do the best you can, but don't expect miracles.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Fault finding is a sure formula for having others point out your own shortcomings today. Conversely, saying nice things will have the reverse effect.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Your value-consciousness may not be up to its usual high standards today. Be watchful for a crafty huckster peddling something that isn't worth the price.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Pressures from outside sources may inhibit your independence today. If you can't do what you want, at least try to enjoy what you have to do.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) In your financial dealings today, keep your expectations within reasonable bounds. It looks like you'll come out on the plus side, but perhaps not as lucratively as you hope.

Whether Mud-Slip Or Ceramic, It's Art

'Real' Carefree Pets

Sitting firmly on the crafts shelf is the art of those who form molded figures out of mud or a plastic, which dries to a ceramic-like finish.

Susan Harvey, 26, who practices the art of creating ceramic figures from mud (clay) in molds, said this work isn't likely to ever reach into the realm of fine art, but it still has many fanciers.

Harvey works with mud slip ceramics, which must be kiln fired to harden.

Another craftsman, George Peters, 31, who has set up shop in a flea market south of Sanford, creates a similar product, but with a different method.

The base material for Peters' work is a plastic which hardens as it dries — a characteristic of the plastic's chemical makeup. Peters' creations don't have to be kiln fired, but they look as if they have been. Other than that difference between his craft and that favored by Harvey, the end products are almost identical when ready to paint and finish.

Both said a the big favorite of those who want to try their hand at this craft or who special order pieces of the work is the customized likeness of pet dogs.

"Carefree pets," Harvey calls these figures and she sometimes makes special order dog figures to be used as trophies at dog shows.

She began practicing the craft at about age 11 and the art form is one favored by children. Peters, who offers continuous weekends of classes in his craft at the flea market for a fee of $2, plus the cost of supplies, said the mold-based craft doesn't require a great deal of artistic talent and the painting process for some simple pieces can be as easy as painting by numbers.

Other pieces, such as a large Santa Claus, can be a bit more challenging with shading of details. Such a work, Peters said, would take him about three hours to paint after it comes out of its mold and had its seams smoothed down.

Drying time for his work depends on the size of the piece.

Harvey said her clay creations are hollow and they are very fragile after they dry and are out of the mold.

That's when she handles them carefully as she smooths down the seams and may add texturing with other tools. "Any we lose, it's mainly when they collapse when the greenware is handled. It easily crumbles and the more detail, the greater the chance of ruining it," Harvey said.

After firing at about 800 to 1,400 degrees the pieces firm up and are ready to paint either with an acrylic paint, or with a stain. The paint is applied if the piece is not to be fired a second time. Such a piece would get a top coat of protective finish.

Susan Hanvey creates a ceramic snake using clay which must be kiln-dried.

...Pets

If the piece is to be fired a second time to set the coloring, which usually changes shades in the firing, it is colored with special heat-resistant stains, Hanvey said.

She sometimes breaks away from the mold and sculpts a hardened piece of clay into shape by hand. That's the method she uses in creating snakes, which she said are also popular.

One of her most unusual creations she said was a snake made in two parts, a head and a tail. When placed under a sofa with the head and tail in different locations, Hanvey said it looked like there was a 20-foot snake under the couch.

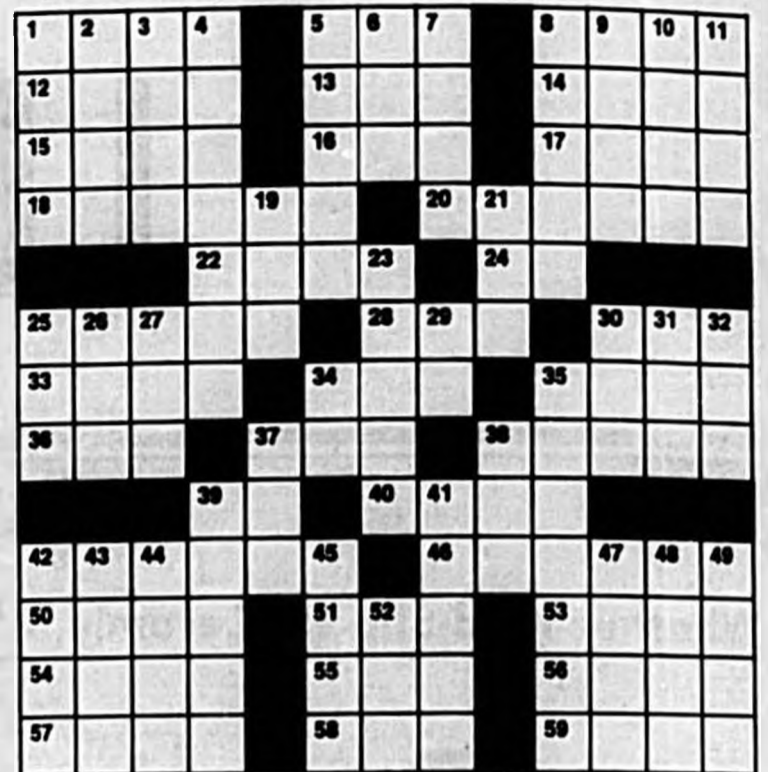

Peters, who picked up his craft about four years ago as an inexpensive, easy way to create items for a church crafts sale, said he took the leftovers to a flea market and found a great demand for his Christmas ornaments.

He continues to create Christmas decorations and has expanded into creating the same types of animals and figures that Hanvey creates in stone.

"Refrigerator" magnets in the forms of pigs and food items, like hamburgers and ice cream cones, are popular.

And Peters, like Hanvey, offers incomplete as well as finished pieces. Those who would like to try the craft without molding their own base form can buy the form and do the creative work on their own, he said.

Although it's not a "fine art," Hanvey, who also paints, said that her mold work is fun and people enjoy collecting the images she creates.

'Gunsmoke' Rides Again

Guy MacMillin

James Arness and Amanda Blake are back in action this summer as Matt Dillon and Kitty Russell. For the past few weeks, they've been working on a "Gunsmoke" TV movie.

Things have changed in the 12 years that "Gunsmoke" has been off the air. Kitty's living in New Orleans now (she actually left the show before its last season). Doc has died. Chester and Festus are gone. Matt is retired and living as a mountain trapper. Newly O'Brien, who used to be Dodge City's gunsmith, is now town marshal.

Speaking of Dodge, you might not recognize it anymore. The TV series was filmed in California, but to save money CBS is making the movie in the Canadian province of Alberta.

The movie's plot is about — what else? — an avenging gunman who comes looking for Matt.

Those of us who were raised on "Gunsmoke" have long thought it was time for a new chapter in the most successful series in the history of television. "Gunsmoke" started on CBS in 1955 and ran for 20 years, often in the top 10.

Milburn Stone played Doc Adams. Dennis Weaver was Chester Goode, Matt's adlebrained assistant. After nine years, he was replaced by Ken Curtis, playing the even more adlebrained Festus Haggan.

"Gunsmoke" began in 1952 as a radio show. William Conrad played Matt, Georgia Ellis was Kitty, Howard McNear was Doc and Parley Baer was Chester.

The new "Gunsmoke" movie will be broadcast next season on CBS, no doubt during a ratings "sweeps" period in November or February. I can't wait.

So you call yourself a "Gunsmoke" fan, too? Well, get a piece of paper and we'll just see about that.

1) What was the radio Chester's last name?

2) Newly is played by Buck Taylor, whose father was once the Durango Kid's sidekick. Who is he?

3) What's Parley Baer doing now?

4) What's the name of William Conrad's new series, planned for CBS in the fall?

5) What was the last TV series role played by Howard McNear?

6) Who introduced the first "Gunsmoke" episode on TV?

7) What was Doc's first name?

8) Who played Quint Asper, Dodge City's blacksmith?

9) Which of Matt's TV sidekicks was played by Roger Ewing?

10) What was the name of Dodge City's bank president?

Answers: 1) Proudfoot; 2) Dub "Cannonball" Taylor; 3) He's the voice of the Keebler elf; 4) "Jake and the Fatman"; 5) Floyd the barber on "The Andy Griffith Show"; 6) John Wayne; 7) Galen; 8) Burt Reynolds; 9) Thad Greenwood; 10) Mr. Bodkin.

ALL MY CHILDREN

Erica was shocked to learn that blood tests indicate that she's pregnant. Ellen rebuffed Mark's physical advances and insisted that their relationship is one of friendship only. Matt found Nina and gave her an insulin shot before she could go into a diabetic coma. Palmer returned to Pine Valley after agreeing to let Matt help Nina search for Cliff. Noelle had more nightmares about the pieces of her past and had flashes of what her father looked like. Mitch gave Hillary a passionate kiss after she admitted that she's afraid of loving someone completely. Upon his return home, Palmer saw Natalie and Ross kissing in the stable. Ross and Natalie later agreed to stay away from each other from now on. Brooke and Tom fumed when a matchmaking Phoebe left them stranded together on a deserted island. During their search for Cliff, Nina and Matt heard rumors of an American doctor being seen in a remote area of South America. Erica was jealous to see Travis with businesswoman, Alicia.

ANOTHER WORLD

Adam walked out on M.J. when she tried to explain her hooker past and the porno tape in which she appeared. Jamie warned John that he may not regain all of his sight, even though his vision seems to be slowly returning. John, who can't stop thinking about seeing Donna, is determined to regain his sight completely. Unaware of the rift between Adam and M.J., Vince and Mary made preparations for Adam and M.J.'s wedding. Jamie cautioned Adam not to throw away his feelings of love for M.J. without giving her a chance to explain. M.J. tried to tell Adam that her past is behind her, she loves him and that she still wants to marry him.

AS THE WORLD TURNS

Everyone was surprised when Tom suddenly returned to Oakdale. Keith, who is an American Indian, took Lily under his wing and introduced her to his mother, Annie, who lives on a reservation. Annie warned Lily that she can't run away from her problems. Lucinda fretted that she hasn't heard a word about Lily's whereabouts. Barbara was relieved that her fear that James had kidnapped Paul was proved wrong and Paul came home under his own steam. Doris urged Duncan not to give up his feelings for Shannon. Dusty arrived on the Indian reservation in search of Lily. Simon and Geraldine Cutler, who secretly work for James, applied for a caretaker-housekeeper job at Duncan's castle. Roy and Nick were skeptical when Barbara said she's received strange notes and packages that she's sure were sent to her by James. Doris told Duncan that James had a collection of small leather boxes.

THE BOLD AND THE BEAUTIFUL

Margo told Ridge that she's not the other woman in Eric's life, as Ridge wrongly suspected. Realizing how much Stephanie really loves Eric, Beth told Eric over the phone that they shouldn't see each other again. Mark reacted with anger when Donna told him she was fired from her job, but he didn't offer to get a job himself. Donna lied to Grandma Logan that she's happy living with Mark. Thorne nixed telling Ridge that Bill is the outside person who had offered Thorne a job.

DAYS OF OUR LIVES

A new girl in town, Eve, spied on Shane and Kimberly. Geoffrey split town, leaving it up to Shane to tell a heartbroken Miss Peach that Geoffrey was a bigamist. Frankie and Jennifer found Sasha after her boyfriend, Nick, beat her up and stole her spending money. Angelica tricked Alex into investing in a bad real-estate deal that later caused him to lose everything he owns. Neil found out Eugene had deserted Calliope months ago, but she'd kept mum about it. Mellina's feelings for Jack deepened, but he's only interested in Kayla. Phillip released Mike and Diana from his compound, but assigned two of his thugs to guard Diana. Kayla and Patch romped in the sack. Jennifer and Frankie suspect that Sasha may be working as a prostitute. Roman lectured Carrie about boys. Patch and Kayla learned that Diana owns a major share of Kava Chemical Company.

GENERAL HOSPITAL

Col. Ramos' men kidnapped Monica and Greta and later Camellia, who they thought was Anna. Tony and Felicia have the unenviable task of telling Bobbi and Jake that Lucy miscarried Jake's baby. Camellia kept mum about her identity to protect Anna. Tom and Simone agreed that they'll get married only if their parents consent to their union. Duke and Anna laid aside their romantic problems and teamed up to rescue their captured cohorts. Sean, Robert and Eric plotted to escape from the jail Ramos is holding them in. Felicia and Dan discussed plans to set up the day-care center that Tania had been trying to get started at the hospital. Camellia insisted to Anna that there's nothing romantic going on between Camellia and Duke. Anna saved Duke's life when he was attacked by Camellia's mysterious would-be assassin.

GUIDING LIGHT

Reva considered Marah's future when Dinah confessed how important it was for her to finally find her real parents. On his first day of employment with Kaz's construction company, Josh worked late while Reva fretted that he didn't come home on time. Roak is concerned about Johnny, whose new flight-instruction school isn't exactly bursting with would-be pilots. Alan-Michael, who is putting in his hours to get his solo pilots' license, scared everyone to death with his hot-dog flying routines. Mindy barely noticed Shad Baxter, a newcomer who is interested in Lewis Old. Sarah talked with Kaz, who is waiting to have a heart transplant operation. Cameron and Dinah are becoming fast friends with Lacey.

SANTA BARBARA

Paul pulled a gun on Tori, who blocked his way as he tried to kidnap Julia's baby. Samantha Eden (Sam). Tori fired a shot at Paul as the two struggled over the gun. The brakes went out on the van Kelly was driving. Willie kept tabs on Kelly and Jeffrey. Jeffrey was stunned when Kelly admitted that she suspects he's responsible for the "accidents" that nearly killed her. A stranger questioned Eleanor about the whereabouts of the real Eleanor Norris, who's been reported missing. Eleanor later set fire to a dumpster containing the body of the stranger. In her effort to escape from Cain's clutches, Eden decided to pretend that she loves him in hopes that he'll let her guard down. Kelly confronted Jeffrey after she noticed that a page is missing from Elizabeth's diary. Ted and Hayley attempted to talk over their marital problems.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS

Jill named the street bum "Rex Sterling," and insisted that she doesn't want to know what his real name is. Jill then saw to it that Rex was sprung up. Skip told Kay he's interested in her offer to pay him big bucks to keep Jill romantically occupied and thus out of Phillip's life. Skip reported to Kay that Jill snubbed him when he asked her for a date. Paul told Andy that Evan tried to see Faren after her miscarriage. Faren insisted to Andy that she told Evan to get lost because she wants a life with Andy. Phillip fantasized that Cricket loves him. Skip plans to use the money he receives from Kay to open his own photography studio. Steven considered Victor's suspicion that Steven may eventually become romantically involved with Ashley. Nina was upset that Phillip again rejected her physical advances. Danny told Gina he doesn't care about their father, who has been released from jail.

L.A. Secretary Builds Backbone

By Frank Samello
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Susan Ruttan knew exactly what she was getting into when she auditioned for the role of legal secretary Roxanne Melman on NBC's "L.A. Law." A note in the script said Roxanne "would chew off her right arm to marry her boss," sleazy divorce attorney Arnold Becker (played by Corbin Bernsen). Roxanne spent last year's debut season pining for the handsome Becker while he bedded virtually every woman in town — except her.

Ruttan, 35, insists Roxanne is not a nebbish in a world of high-powered attorneys; the diffident secretary is gradually revealing her inner strength and resourcefulness.

"Right now, Roxanne's extremely sympathetic. Everybody likes her," says Ruttan. "But Roxanne has also become much stronger and more outspoken. I'd like to see her go farther — maybe too far. I'd like Roxanne to get into trouble so we could see her blind side. She could push Arnold too far."

If the Oregon-born actress ever gets to show Roxanne's darker impulses, she can draw on her days as a troublemaker in school. Ruttan wasn't exactly a juvenile delinquent, but she loved to torment the nuns at the Catholic boarding school where she had a scholarship.

"I was a good student and graduated second in my class, but I loved to play pranks," admits the three-time class president. "It wasn't bad, bad stuff; smoking in the bathroom, weird things, like hyperventilating."

Hyperventilating. Ruttan adds, was "my contribution to the junior class. If you crouch down and start breathing quickly, then jump up and have somebody grab you around the ribs, you pass out and start having convulsions. It worked great!"

Then there was the time she shaved off her eyebrows. "I looked like a lion," recalls Ruttan. "Mother Patrick rang her bell during breakfast and said, 'Excuse me, I believe we have a new style,' and made me stand up in front of the room while we all discussed my eyebrows. She made me get an eyebrow pencil, and I drew on huge Groucho Marx eyebrows until they grew back."

Ruttan's penchant for the eccentric continued well into adulthood. While managing a bar in Sacramento in the mid '70s, she would wear thrift-shop bridal gowns and assorted animal costumes to work. "Nobody at the bar ever said anything about them," remembers Ruttan, "and it wasn't even Halloween!"

On a recent caper, Ruttan and a friend wore old prom dresses, plastic corsages and giant rhinestone earrings to a Holiday Inn restaurant in Hollywood. Affecting Southern accents, they told the other diners they had just arrived from Jonesboro, Ark., where they had left their husbands behind in search of a good time in the big city.

"It was like live theater. We made a lot of friends. Everybody thought we were for real. I pretended I wanted to stay in Hollywood, and my friend kept telling me I had to go home to my 12 kids," Ruttan laughs.

Despite the actress's high spirits, tragedy has touched Ruttan's life. She was married at 18 to a man who survived four tours of duty in Vietnam, and then died in a motorcycle accident after four years of marriage.

Widowed and morose, Ruttan began working in the Sacramento bar. "I'll be here until I'm 74, with varicose veins, serving beer and calling the boys 'honey,'" she complained to a friend.

Ruttan's next project, scheduled to air on Halloween, is "Bay Coven," an NBC-TV movie about a modern-day witch. But whatever the actress has brewing on the side won't interfere with her determination to increase Roxanne's own witchiness. She admits to fantasizing that next season Arnold Becker finally asks Roxanne to marry him. And Roxanne's response?

"I turn him down!"

Don't Be Misled, Logo Not What It Seems

Dear Dick: While watching "Roomies" with Bert Young, what a surprise! A show about Saginaw University! The logo on the shirt looked like the city of Saginaw logo. Was it? — R.M.J., Saginaw, Mich.

Dear R.M.J.: No. And, by the way, there is no Saginaw University, but there is a Saginaw Valley State College which, I'm told, is trying to become a university but is not, at the moment. About that logo: It is strictly a creation of the show's wardrobe and art departments.

Dear Dick: I have a steak dinner riding on this. My kid sister and I were talking about "Moonlighting." She said that Bruce and Cybill do not get along. I asked then why when this show came up Cybill wanted Bruce to play David. Who is right? — R., Humble, Texas.

Dear R.: Actually, you both are. Cybill Shepherd was cast first and tested with several actors who were auditioning to play David. She liked Bruce's approach to the part — still does, as a matter of fact. They don't get along too well, but that has nothing to do with acting. It's just a personality conflict.

Dear Dick: My future mother-in-law had been trying to find out the name of the movie Lucille Ball and Ricky Ricardo starred in together. They were newlyweds, on their honeymoon, traveling in a mobile home. Do you know the title? — E.K., Morgantown, W.Va.

Dear E.K.: It was "The Long Long Trailer," filmed in 1954, and, incidentally, Ricky Ricardo wasn't the name of the actor, but the character Desi Arnaz played.

Dear Dick: Can you tell me if "Crime Story"

Ask Dick Kleiner

was a miniseries, or will it be back next season? — K.D., Spring, Texas.

Dear K.D.: It wasn't a miniseries but a regular series. And NBC surprised a lot of people by renewing it for next season, so watch for new episodes, beginning in the fall.

Dear Dick: I always watch "Head Of the Class" and "Gimme a Break." They haven't been on for quite a while. Are they coming back or have they been canceled? — C., Oak Forest, Ill.

Dear C.: ABC has definitely renewed "Head Of the Class" for next season, but it looks like NBC gave "Gimme a Break" a broken heart because it isn't on the network's fall schedule.

Dear Dick: I would like to know if George Burns' son is living. Was Betty Grable married to Phil Harris or was it Alice Faye? Did they have any children? — A.K.F., Amarillo, Texas.

Dear A.K.F.: Ronnie Burns, George's son, is alive. Alice Faye was Mrs. Phil Harris — Betty Grable married another band leader, Harry James. The Harrises are still married and have two daughters and several grandchildren.

Dear Dick: Could you please tell my husband and me where the church is located that's shown in the beginning of "Amen" with Sherman Hemsley. It's quite charming and beautiful. — Mr. and Mrs. R.M., Houston, Texas.

Dear R.M.: That is the Mount Pisgah Church, which is located at the corner of 41st and Spring Garden, in Philadelphia.

Dear Dick: Could you please tell me who the guy is who plays John on "The Outlaws"? Also, is Cliff Robertson the announcer for AT&T? — K.B., Saginaw, Mich.

Dear K.B.: I have checked several weeks worth of cast lists of "The Outlaws," and find no John. If there was a John, it must have been a character on only one week. Yes, that is Cliff Robertson who does the commercials for AT&T.

Dear Dick: Please settle a $200 bet I have going with my dad. I say Kelly McGillis from "Top Gun" plays a school teacher on the series, "The Bronx Zoo." He says it's not her. Help! — M.J., Anna, Texas.

Dear M.J.: You're going to need more help, raising that $200. Kelly isn't in "The Bronx Zoo." You must have her confused with Kathryn Harrold or Kathleen Beller, who are in it.

Dear Dick: Are Pat Sajak and Vanna White, of "Wheel Of Fortune," man and wife? Sometimes I think they are but I am not sure. — R.H., Warsaw, Ind.

Dear R.H.: One more time: no. Pat and Vanna are not married or even romantically involved in any way.

No More Mr. Apple Pie

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — If actor Ronny Cox ever decided to run for office, he could get elected on the strength of his profile alone.

Cox has made a career of portraying clean-cut, All-American good guys. He has honest blue eyes, neatly parted straw-colored hair, a Lincolnesque jaw and a guileless demeanor.

He looks like everybody's idea of the model church elder and PTA president.

He has become almost a symbol of virtue in such films as "Deliverance," "Some Kind of Hero," "Bound For Glory," "Vision Quest" and "Taps."

His particular public image was molded in the failed 1974-75 TV series "Apple's Way," in which he played George Apple, unquestionably the nicest guy on the tube. While not exactly a wimp, George would not bring to mind Arnold Schwarzenegger.

"I don't want to seem egotistical but most people perceive me as a nice guy off screen," Cox said. "I'm no angel, but what I look like is pretty much what I am — a guy from New Mexico doing the best I can.

"I could spend my life playing Boy Scout, next-door neighbor, All-American good guy. I admit the apple pie and glass of milk image is closer to my persona than anything else."

But the big grin on Cox's face is not only because his current picture, "Beverly Hills Cop II" — in which he reprises his role as Lt. Bogomill — is the summer's biggest hit.

No. Cox is happy because that apple-pie image gets turned upside down with his latest role, a particularly nasty villain in "Robocop," a new action-adventure saga.

Playing the second richest man in the United States, Cox plots murder to keep his place in the corporate hierarchy of an evil organization, menacing the film's hero played by Peter Weller.

"Robocop" also could offer many acting opportunities that have been closed to Cox.

"It's frustrating that people don't recognize me from picture to picture," Cox said. "That's especially true if you start out in a TV series playing a 'sensitive' character.

"Once you're pegged as sensitive you're mistaken for weak or soft. Not macho. And that is held against you when it comes to playing a lot of good roles.

"It takes courage to play sensitive guys, which is the essence of acting. But you pay the price. In 'Robocop' I play Dick Jones, a really tough corporate character who couldn't be more insensitive.

"I never realized how much psychic energy it takes to play a bad guy. You have to work hard at becoming insensitive yourself, even when you're not on camera. And you have to hold a certain hostility all day.

"I was never so exhausted at the end of a day than when I was doing 'Robocop.'"

Cox says he believes "Beverly Hills Cop II," which has earned $130 million so far, will be just as much a financial success as the original film.

"It's very rare that a sequel will do as well as an original picture," he said. "But 'Beverly Hills Cop II' can do it.

ONE LIFE TO LIVE

Lee reacted with panic when an upset Mari Lynn said that she'd learned that her mother's death certificate had been faked. Later, Lee admitted to Max that she's Mari Lynn's mother, Carole. Cassie, who is working undercover as a waitress in Frankie's disco, saw two armed thugs confront Frankie. Lee told Max that Tom doesn't recognize her because after she had split up with Tom she had plastic surgery because of injuries she received in an auto accident. Tom told Mari Lynn that Carole (Lee) had deserted them, while Lee (Carole) told Max that Tom had deserted her and had taken Mari Lynn with him. Kate assured Cord that as soon as he gets his divorce from Tina she'll quit her research job with Patrick. Tom disapproved of Rick's plans to marry Mari Lynn. Geoffrey passed his bar exams. Tina is worried that Al's life is in danger. Rolo told Chantal he's sure that Gabrielle knows the whereabouts of Dante's antique watch.

RYAN'S HOPE

Mark teamed up with Ryan, who talked with Dr. Humphries' sister, Serena, about Humphries' disappearance. Frank suspects that John is having an affair with Concetta. Beas patched things up with Ben. Concetta reiterated to John that she doesn't believe they have a future together. A guilty John kept silent when Lizzie readily admitted that she's attracted to Ben, but would never betray her love for John. Jack was curious when Emily received a mysterious phone call. Pat and Concetta shared a passionate kiss.

LOVING

Rick confronted Gwyneth, who finally broke down and admitted that she's his real mother. Marty insisted to Ned that she's going to stop drinking and resurrect her photography career. Alan, the mystery man who's been tailing April, applied for a job at Steve's garage. Jim and Shana vowed to spend more time together. Jack believed Lily's lie that she "forgot" to tell him that Stacey had called to give Jack her Florida phone number. Alan wrote in his diary that very soon April will not be seeing so much of Ned.
