The run started July 5 at Miami's Bayside Market Place, and is planning to end at Hawkins Stadium, Manatee High School, this Friday evening. In true style of the ancient Olympic games, the torch, to be carried by former olympic participants as well as Florida residents, will remain lit throughout the running of the entire 480 mile course. The overall run has come up the eastern Florida coast from Miami to Daytona Beach, and will be coming southwesterly toward Bradenton as it passes through Sanford.

The runners carrying the torch were expected. weather permitting, to travel south on U.S. highway 17-92 from DeLand, going over the Lake Monroe bridge area from 7:50 to 8:40 a.m., and through the Sanford area near 9:30 a.m.

Faison considered for N.C. Job

SANFORD - Former Sanford City Manager Frank Falson is being considered for a position as administrator of Wake Forest, N.C.

The Town Commission is scheduled to consider offering Faison a job tonight, said Wake Forest Mayor Jim Ray.

He said the former town administrator forced out of office after falling from favor with the commission. A total of six candidates were Interviewed out of 156 applications, Ray said.

Wake Forest, which has a population of about 6,000, is a suburb of Raleigh, Ray said.

Falson served as Sanford's chief executive from May 1985 until January this year. He resigned without explanation in December, later saying the "fit" wasn't the same with current commissioners as it was with the board that hired him.

Strange contestants sought

OCEAN CITY, Md. - William Pearce would normally be considered a threat to law and order for putting a knife to his throat and threatening to slice his jugular.

But in tryouts this weekend for ABC-TV's "America's Funniest People," his behavior was hardly out of the ordinary.

Pearce, 22, a pool water consultant from Gloucester, N.J., was one of a hundred amateur hams competing for a television appearance and a shot at the show's weekly $10,000 grand

He held nothing back - ranting, raving, even foaming at the mouth for the camera. 'Was there enough slobber in there?" he asked. Not to be outdone, three Pennsylvania cousins. Shelby Smith, 7, Troy Myers, 9, and Heather Mycrs, 11, got the crowd giggling with their rendition of a song called "God Bless My Underwear.*

Youngsters and adults lined up to show off for cameraman Gregg Canes and segment producer Dino Vince. The pair not only juggled the technical aspects of taping but also coaxed, cajoled and comforted potential contestants.

Sanford asks pool tax

By MICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The City Commission agreed by unanimous vote last night, to enter into a joint venture with the Seminole County School Board to build a swimming pool. In order to finance it however, a public referendum will be needed.

The pool project is only one of three recreational plans being developed by the city. The other two, to be totally city funded include a recreation center and an outdoor athletic complex. Only the pool however, would be involved in a joint agreement.

In order to pay for the entire package, the city will be seeking to obtain approval of the voters in Sanford to borrow money. Mayor Bettye Smith said, "While we all know the city is lacking in these recreational needs, the entire project is so expensive, we have to take it to the people."

-Mayor Bettye Smith

The swimming pool, to be built on property at Seminole High School, owned by the School Board, would not only serve the school but the general public as well. Overall funding for its construction would be through a 50-50 agreement with the Seminole County School Board.

Speaking about the total three-part project, City Manager Bill Simmons. "The referendum would ask for approval of the city to borrow an amount of money not to exceed $2,500,000." Barring any changes in the meantime, the referendum would appear on a city-wide ballot in October of this

Utilities rate hike in Sanford?

By NICK PPENFAUF Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - Utility bills for Sanford residents may be increasing soon. The matter may be brought to the City Commission for a vote within a

During Monday night's City Commission meeting, the City Attorney was granted authority to draft an ordinance that will generally result in a 20 percent increase. The ordinance could possibly be brought up for its first reading at the next commission meeting, July 22, and for a public hearing and final vote during the August 12 meeting.

The overall increase that was suggested as a result of the consulting engineer's feasibility report calls for a higher customer charge for various meter sizes, as well as increasing both the water and sewer rates.

Sanford Utility Director Paul Moore explained, "The average Sanford customer with a single family home, uses approximately 10,000 gallons of water per month." The average home has a 3/4 inch meter. The current charges in the total bill, for water, sewer, and taxes is $36.91. Under the See Utility, Page 5A

Fire causes $100,000 damage to automotive-repair building

Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - A gasoline fire apparently started by a worklight caused an estimated $100,000 in damage to Jim's Automotive Service on Maple Avenue. There were no injuries.

One car and possibly a second were destroyed in the fire, which sent dense black smoke from burning tires billowing into the clear sky. The smoke could be seen from Lake Mary. At least six other cars in the building at 201 Maple Ave.

were not damaged, sald owner Jim Dunn. Dunn said he would be able to resume work today with portable equipment, despite damage to the repair shop's pneumatic air tool system. After the scene was secured, only a coating of black soot in the open ceiling of the two-story building and a few drifting ashes remained of

The burned-out shell of a Flat sports car, with its seats and steering wheel reduced to metal frames, was the main victim of the fire. Next to it, the Fiberglas body of a Camaro was eracked and blistered. The passenger side window had shattered. The fire was first reported at 2:09 p.m., according to Sanford Fire Department records. Three fire engines, one aerial truck and 19 firefighters began arriving one minute later. The fire was extinguished 33 minutes later, the reports state. The aerial truck was used to cool the roof of the steel building which was coated with foam insulatation. Large ashes of burnt foam and paint drifted throughout the industrial neighborhood. Dunn said the main damage to the building

Would this road by any other name be as safe?

LAKE MONROE - Seminole County officials say Old Monroe Road should be changed to avoid confusion - and possibly save lives with nearby Monroe Road.

But several residents of the area immediately west of Sanford say. "Why bother?"

"It seems kind of silly," says Sylvia Howe, a four-year resident of the parrow country road. "It's a lot of bother and for what? We have a lot of problems that are here instead of ones that could be.

Today, county commissioners were to decide whether to change the decades old name of the road to White Cedar Road. It is a name that received nine votes from street residents. Residents rejected "Day Lilly Road" and "Pepperwood Road.

Margaret Fountain, the county's addressing supervisor, said the initiative to change the names of both Monroe Road and Old Monroe Road dates back to 1988 before former county commissioner Bill Kirchhoff left the board. Fountain said Kirchholf asked the county to resolve any confusion caused by similar names.

Fountain said an effort to change the name of County Road 15 north of State Road 46 from Monroe Road" to "Upsala Road," its name south of SR 46, caused such a controversy the effort was dropped. Since the first of the year, Fountain things.

said she has tried to gain acceptance for three other names for Old Monroe Road, but they were rejected in March.

The rejected names were those of Lake Monroe pioneers and oldtimers. They were "Swaggerty Road," "Oglesby Road" and "McKinney Road."

Fountain said the name should be changed before a life-safety problem

"All it takes is one fireman that's new on an engine and somebody dies," Fountain said. "Then everybody comes in yelling 'Why didn't you do something? Well that's what we're doing. We're doing something about it now before something like that happelis.

Community spokesman and his torian Betry Mann said changing the name of Old Monroe Road is another attempt by the county to climinate the character of their community.

"It's a crying shame the community can't retain the names that were originally given to them." Mann said. "They could leave us with a little dignity. Mann said the road, which once served as the main route to First Street and Santord, has been "Old Monroe Road," for at least five generations. She said Monroe Road. was once known as "Lake Monroe Road.

"I realize Sanford's growing but I see no reason why they have to march out here and try to change

MIAMI - The Alec Owen Maitland, an ill-fated freighter that ran aground in the Florida Keys in 1989, sank while carrying 175 tons of bundled lumber and 30,000 gallons of fuel about 400 miles southwest of Miami, the Coast Guard said.

The crew of six was rescued safely by the Coast Guard, the fuel tanks appeared secure, and the bands on the bundles were cut to reduce their danger to other ships. Petty Officer Veronica

The Cubans were taken to shore. But most of the Haitlans except for six who were airlifted to Jackson Memorial Hospital for treatment of exposure and dehydration - were sent back to

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Study: Parents share custody

GAINESVILLE - In most child-custody disputes. Florida judges are likely to award shared custody to parents, a university study shows.

"Past studies suggest that judges prefer to give the mother custody, particularly if the children are under 12," said Erik Sorensen. who did the research for his University of Florida doctoral dissertation in clinical psychology.

"But our study found little tendency either for guardians in a state program to recommend children live with their mothers or for the courts to award custody to mothers over fathers," he said.

Judges awarded shared custody with the mother as primary custodian in 43 percent of the cases and shared custody with the father as primary custodian in 33 percent of the cases, the study showed.

In 5 percent of the cases, parents split responsibilities as primary custodian, the study showed.

We found little tendency either for guardians in a state program to recommend children live with their mothers or for the courts to award custody to mothers over fathers.

-Erik Sorensen

Sorensen and UF psychologist Jacquelin Goldman studied judicial decisions in cases involving 60 families referred to Florida's Guardian Ad Litem program in the past two years. The cases had been referred because of contested custody disputes.

State guidelines call for shared custody except in those situations where it is shown to hurt the child's best interest. Sorensen

"Generally, judges appeared to approach these cases with the presumption they would award shared custody." he said.

Only 8 percent of the mothers received sole custody and just 7 percent of the fathers received sole custody, the study

Mothers were more likely to get custody in cases where children expressed a desire to live with their mothers or had lived with them after the parents separated, Sorensen

Judges also favored the mother if she had more time than the father to care for the children, he said.

Women with high occupational statuses were more successful in getting custody. possibly because they are less dependent on their husbands, he said.

'Conversely, fathers got custody more frequently if there was only one child, making it appear that judges don't think men can care for more than one child as well as mothers can." Sorensen said.

Statue of Johnny Reb divides city

Associated Press

OCALA - Some blacks here say they are offended by the return of a statue of a Confederate private to a position of honor in front of the Marion County courthouse.

"I don't have a problem with the statue or what it stands for," said probation officer Neal Faulk of the Johnny Reb statue. "I have a problem with the location - in front of a courthouse. This is not an example of what a community should stand for."

The statue was removed in 1987 for courthouse construction and later put back in place. Commissioners say they can't see spending $20,000 to move the statue again.

Marion County Commissioner Don Greene calls the statue "simply a part of history." sion Chairman Gien Florello says the majority of his constituents don't find the statue offensive, and commissioner Parnell Townley says taking the statue down would be a slap in the face of all veterans.

Budget cuts force closing of center popular as 4-H camp

Associated Press

WELAKA, Fla. - State budget cuts are forcing the closing this fall of a 2,300-acre University of Florida education and research center that also serves as a 4-H

"The decision was made that, that facility was not as high a priority as some others." said Don Poucher, spokesman for UF's Institute of Food and Agricultural Sciences, which runs the center.

The move is designed to save money and is part of the state mandate to eliminate 115 jobs.

Center supporters say the facility provides valuable services even though it is remote, located about 20 miles south of Palatka and more than an hour's drive from Gainesville.

"This is the only center in the state that has this kind of facilities. My concern is if you are going to cut, get out of the office and look around," said UF Associate Professor Ed Johnson.

Johnson is an extension specialist who oversees 4-H activities in Florida. Although partly supported by private donations, 4-H also receives state money and is operated under the state university system.

The center costs the university system about $200,000 a year.

The five employees will be offered positions in similar facilities, such as the one at Hastings, Poucher said.

have not been any major research projects at the center. used in the past in long-term research projects, including some in botany, fisheries. zoology, entomology and

Forestry and other classes also have used the facility.

Although its research use is slim, 4-H clubs from about 30 counties will have used the center by summer's end.

In the past 10 years, 4-H has built three horse barns, four arenas, a breaking corral. storage areas, a covered auditorium for demonstrations and an apartment.

Most of the improvements, pick up the deed.

In the past two years, there estimated to cost about $100,000, were paid for by donations from 4-H clubs and not with state money.

> "To me it's a critical component of the 4-H program," Johnson said.

> State Rep. Kelley Smith Jr., D-Palakta, sald he wants to see if there is a way to keep the facility from being closed.

He believes the property. which was donated to the university by the U.S. Department of the Interior in 1954, may revert to the federal government

Political contributions may be banned in bond industry

Mellon Park, Sanford.

By JACKIE HALLIFAX Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE - A proposal to ban political contributions from people who work on state contracts for bond sales apparently goes further than any other regulations in the country, officials said.

'It does seem to be really at the cutting edge," Danny Fuchs. a Cabinet aide to Gov. Lawton Chiles, who proposed the rule, said Monday.

"I don't think anyone's come out with a blanket prohibition." Bill Sweeney, executive director of the Division of Bond Finance, sald Monday.

A proposal on today's agenda for Chiles and the Cabinet would ban political contributions from bond underwriters and their attorneys and financial advisers in election campaigns for the governorship and Cabinet posts.

In the last 12 months, the state sold nearly $2 billion in bonds to buy land or to build schools and roads. All bond sales must be approved by the governor and Cabinet at several different stages.

The draft rule also forbids unofficial communications between those in the bond business and state officials during solicitation periods.

Under a policy adopted several months ago, the state now includes in each contract a provision that there is to be no unofficial communication between the parties of a pending bond issue.

Another provision of the rule would require the state to hire an independent financial adviser to evaluate negotiated contracts

DUI cases drop but speeding increases

By HICK PPEIFAUF Herald Staff Writer

Law enforcement officers are pleased with the low number of DUI cases in Central Florida over this past July 4th holiday weekend. The writing of speed-ing tickets however, was higher than normal.

The biggest attempt at stopping motorists under the influence of alcohol was undertaken by the Florida Highway patrol. All troopers were called to duty over the weekend, with vacation times and other days off prohibited for the troopers. The actual cases involving persons driving under the influence of alcohol was described as unbelievably low. "It was one of the lowest numbers we've had during a holiday weekend in a long time," said FHP Lt. Chuck Williams. He added, "That's apparent when you look at the statistics. We estimated 36 fatalities across the state for the 4 day weekend, and only 26 were killed." He said "the only two in Central Florida were in an accident in DeLand."

"The two areas where arrests were higher than normal in our district." Williams said, "were speeding and lack of scat belts." He said the FHP handed out 1,100 tickets for speeding and 209 for improper use of scatbelts during the 4 day weekend. Williams is spokesman for the caution during normal days as FHP in Seminole, Orange, Os- we do for future holiday ceola. Volusia. Flagler, Brevard weekends that lie ahead."

Local law enforcement officials were also pleased with the lack of DUI problems. Mike Kolundo with the Sanford Police Department said, "We had no DUI arrests at all over the weekend." Capt. Sam Beiflore with the Lake Mary Police Department said the same thing. "Lake Mary drivers really cooperated. We didn't have any DUI problems."

None were reported by Longwood Police Chief Greg Manning who commented, "I think people have finally begun to realize that if they drink and drive, they're eventually going to get into trouble. I'm very proud of of the fact that we had no DUI arrests over the holiday."

The Seminole County Sheriff's Department paid particular attention to the problem. "We had only a few additional troops out," said Seminole County Sheriffs department spokesman George Prochel, "but those who worked did concentrate on DUI cases." He added. "Cracking down on drunk driving was the primary weekend goal of our Tactical Response Team."

FHP Lt. Williams cautioned that a good July 4th weekend does not mean safer times ahead. "This seven county area has one of the highest potentials for highway accidents caused by DUI," he said. "We have to continue exercising just as much

Mitchell: Race figured in Thomas' selection

By JAMES ROWLEY Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON - Senate Majority Leader George Mitchell is disputing President Bush's assertion that race played no role in his selection of Clarence Thomas to be the nation's second black Supreme Court Bush was fulfilling a racial quota

By nominating Thomas to succeed Thurgood Marshall, the first black to sit on the high court, Bush showed he is "against quotas for every position except the Supreme Court," Mitchell, D-Maine, said Monday.

"I do not accept the president's explanation that race was not a factor at all in this nomination," Mitchell told reporters after he met briefly with the conservative Thomas.

Bush, a frequent critic of racial hiring quotas, has denied that Thomas' race figured in his decision.

Mitchell made his comments as Thomas, accompanied by Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., met with key senators who will be voting on his confirmation when the nomination is considered. probably in September.

Thomas was making more courtesy calls today, including a meeting with Sen. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina, the ranking Republican on the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., rejected as "totally wrong" Mitchell's view that by selecting Thomas.

If Bush had "sent up liberal activists ... you wouldn't hear Senator Mitchell or Democrats saying anything about quotas." Dole said after meeting with Thomas.

Dole acknowledged that the 43-year-old nominee's youth and relative judicial inexperience could be issues in the confirmation hearings.

"Certainly they are going to go after experience," he said. 'That's an appropriate place for inquiry."

But Dole said Thomas had compiled an impressive career as an assistant state attorney general in Missouri, a Senate aide to Danforth, as chairman of the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission and as a federal appellate judge.

Sanford, Lake Mary chime in

Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD - The Sanford City Commission has agreed to support the Lake Mary City Commission, in calling for a reduction in phone charges to Orlando. The vote in favor of the project was unanimous.

Lake Mary has already petitioned the Public Service Commission, asking for a review of the local service calling area. The request is for extended area service from Southern Bell Telephone Company and United Telephone Company. It would classify telephone calls between Sanford and Lake Mary to Orlando and Apopka locations as local.

In its petition, passed and adopted on June 6 of this year, Lake Mary had told the PSC that the present situation is a disadvantage to local business and residential telephone customers. They wrote, "The present telephone base rate disparity inhibits the growth of business and industry and quality of life in the Sanford/Lake Mary Southern Beil Telephone service area of Seminole County.' The vote during the commission meeting was unanimous. Earlier in a workshop, concern was expressed by Sanford Mayor Bettye Smith. "While this appears to be a good move, we won't want to lost our local calling privilege to the northern areas." Sanford presently can place local phone calls to many areas of Volusia County such as DeBary, Deltona, and Orange City.

Earlier, J. Craig Spearman, Chairman of Lake Mary's Business Avdivory Board had stated that it would be several months and underlain with undrinkable before the Public Service Commission would begin to discuss the matter. He said there were at least 20 other communities seeking changes in phone call charges in other parts of the hydrology.

Froelich has proposed to dig the large 40-acre pit on 116 acres south of State Road 46 and a half mile north of the Cochran Road intersection.

Campaign reform

In his State of the Union message, President Bush challenged lawmakers to clean up the process by which they finance their re-election campaigns. But the prospects of a cleansing are no more encouraging in the 102nd Congress than they have been in previous sessions.

Recently, 56 senators approved and sent to the House a bill that would restrict specialinterest funding of congressional campaigns.

The measure would eliminate political action committees, as the president has proposed. But it also contains provisions for public financing and campaign spending limits that he has vowed to veto.

The veto scenario assumes, of course, that the bill even reaches Mr. Bush's deak. A similar campaign reform measure was am-bushed in the House last year. The same thing is likely to happen again this year because House Democrats adamantly oppose a ban on PAC funding, which accounted for nearly half of their campaign contributions in the 1990 elections.

If the House and Senate agree on a campaign reform measure, it is likely to be so freighted with unacceptable provisions as to guarantee a veto. Thus lawmakers can posture back home that Mr. Bush thwarted their efforts to clean up the process. And the public will become increasingly distillusioned with politicians whose careers are financed by special interests.

There is no legislative silver bullet to prevent greedy lawmakers from grubbing for dollars. But several things could be done to foster a greater degree of competition in political contests.

To begin with, ban all PAC contributions from corporations, labor unions and trade associations. These funds, which flow primarily to incumbents, are designed to influence legislation. Last year, for example, PACs -contributed nearly $80 million to incumbents and a mere $5 million to their opponents. Former Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., had it right when he said such contributions amount to bribes.

Second, require that candidates raise virtually all of their campaign funds from within their home states. This would help ensure that politicians solicit funds from the people they are supposed to serve.

Third, ban the carryover of campaign funds from one election to another. Incumbents routinely use this advantage to amass huge war chests, thereby discouraging potential challengers.

Fourth, end the soft money abuses that undermine current contribution limits. Soft money consists of funds provided to candidates indirectly by an independent organization. In 1986, for example, Calif. Sen. Alan Cranston's re-election campaign received $85,000 that was ostensibly earmarked for a Democratic get-out-the-vote drive.

Finally, prohibit lawmakers from abusing the franking privilege to flood their districts and states with campaign literature at election time. Lawmakers should not be permitted free postage unless they are responding to a constitutent's query.

These reforms are not a cure-all. But they would go a long way toward cleaning up a corrupt process that insulates incumbents and freezes out serious challengers.

GOP troops to take health care stand

When the nation's gover-nors hold their annual con-ference in Seattle

beginning

A u g . 1 7 , health care reform will top the agenda.

WASHINGTON — Back home, people are talking about the high price of health insurance, and congressional Republicans don't want the issue to go to the Democrats by default.

So they're putting together their own plan to overhaul health care, rather than waiting for the White House.

Sen. Alan Simpson of Wyoming, the deputy Republican leader, says the administration will have to present a health care program, too.

That may be months away. It's under study, with no announced deadline. President Bush has proposed legislation to control medical malpractice costs, but no broader reform.

And the subject keeps coming up when members of Congress talk with constituents.

"In my town meetings, it's been the issue of cost, premium cost," said Simpson. "I don't know how volatile it is."

The political volatility of the health care issue may be headed upward. The visibility certainly is.

Senate Democratic leaders are pushing a plan to guarantee health insurance to all Americans.

the Democratic presidential nomination. When the nation's governors hold their annual conference in Seattle beginning Aug. 17, health care reform will top the

The American Medical Association heard a Republican warning that unless doctors act to make health care more affordable and available, they will face public demand that the government take it over.

For all of that. there is no real likelihood that basic changes in the health care and insurance system will be enacted this year or next. The cure is a matter of dispute, the government is divided and the president isn't pushing.

In those circumstances, Republicans need to get their own terms onto the table for debate, for bargaining — and to show the voters that they're trying to fashion answers, too. Sen. John H. Chafee of Rhode Island is taking the Republican lead on health care as sponsor of the coming Senate GOP proposal. But he said it is widely recognized that nothing will happen on health care legislation before next year, if then.

It is going to take artful balancing to get any health care overhaul past the powerful and competing interests involved — the doctors and hospitals who provide care, the businesses and employes who pay for it, and the health insurance industry though which much of it is

There are 34 million to 37 million Americans without health insurance, and 60 million others with coverage inadequate to protect them against soaring costs.

'We're going to have to do something complete, more complete than we've ever done, Sen. Simpson said.

And there's no federal money available for the purpose. The government health insurance envisioned under the Democratic plan would cost 86 billion; the sponsors said they'd decide later how to raise the money.

A midget to fill giant's shoes

It is a minor but bitter irony that Thurgood Marshall, the giant, made the Supreme Court safe for Clarence Thomas, the midget. But that is not all that the president's appointment of Thomas, the faithful Reaganite loyalist, il-lustrates. As Marshall exits the high court and Thomas awaits his almost certain Senate confirmation, the contrast between the two men underlines the contrast that history will draw between the two quite different, but equally activist, courts their appointments reflected and fulfilled. It is the latter point that deserves the most attention. The new Nixon-Reagan-Bush court is not particularly interested in judicial restraint. It has an openly political agenda and is far more contemptuously dismissive of precedent and congressional intent than any majority ever put together within its liberal

Chief Justice William Rehnquist apparently believes that stare decisis, the doctrine that rules laid down in previous decisions should be followed unless they contravene the ordinary principles of justice, is for wimps. Real men stare it in the face, kick hard if they don't like it, and keep moving, or so he all but said in two decisions in June that overturned previous high court rulings rendered as recently as last

Only a hypocrite would contend that political agendas on the bench are something new. Unlike the $3 trillion national debt, creative court decisions that fashion legal doctrine out of thin air, ideological smoke and philosophical mirrors are not a legacy solely of the 1980s. In 1954. Chief Justice Earl Warren led a unanimous court to rule that racial segregation under the theory of separate but equal was not constitutionally acceptable, despite 60 years of precedent which said just that. An earlier, quite conservative court passed its magic interpretive wand over the 14th Amendment to the Constitution and decreed that a corporation was a "person" as described within the amendment. That the 14th Amendment was passed by Congress and ratified by the states primarily to bestow upon the former slaves the full rights of American citizenship was bifthely ignored.

Nor can liberals cry overlong because the court is no longer receptive to their causes. What cannot be won in presidential elections will not be long sustained by the third branch of government, a fact of life American conservatives had ample opportunity to ponder for most of the preceding half century. People of my general outlook had a long. happy succession of legal victories to cheer and now we don't, primarily because we lost five of the last six presidential elections. The moans will change to cheers again only when the White House is returned to prolonged control by progressives, a day as inevitable as it is

But we can continue to insist that the new court, like the presidents it reflects, has a constipated view of the proper balance between assertion of the majority's interests and protection of the minority's rights. More concerned with asserting the royalist pre-rogatives of the state than the individual's central place in a free society, this court will never cut new ground or expand American freedom because it quite frankly does not believe either is necessary. The old court majority proudly asserted both as its mandate and responsibility. It is literally inconceivable that the Rehnquist Court. transposed in time but not in temperament, could ever have found in favor of equal justice and against segregation 40 years ago. Which brings us back to Thurgood

The new court has a con-stipated view of the proper balance.

Marshall and Clarence Thomas. Marshall, the first and only black man on the court, was architect of the 1954 decision as the NAACP's lawyer. He is a great man, a towering figure in the law and on the court. Thanks to him, black Americans are far closer to full equality before the law than they were before he led the charge against state-imposed segregation. Because of him, it is no longer inconceivable that black Americans might serve on the Supreme Court or in any other office the nation offers. Thanks to his trailblazing, the undistinguished Clarence Thomas, black hitman for the campaign against affirmative action, now has a highest court. Of course, it is possible that, if and when confirmed. Judge Thomas will find a more creative role to play. It is possible that the Rehnquist Court will reverse course and decide it is better to comfort the afflicted than automatically ratify the pronouncements of

Gorbachev wants to retain Baltics

GULF OF RIGA, Latvia - One thing comes into focus on a beach overlooking this vast body of ice-free Baltic water. The primary reason Mikhail Gorbachev doesn't want to part with the three Baltic republics is military strategy. He needs these warm waters south of Leningrad as ports for the ships and submarines of his Baltic fleet.

On principle, Gorbachev doesn't want to lose any of three Baltic states because it would encourage other Soviet republics to break away, too.

But we have learned from sources in the Baltics and U.S. intelligence sources, that Gorbachev is already planning for the pos-sibility that the three states, and their to his control.

Top military sur-veyors have been making plans to buttress port facili-ties at Kaliningrad, a small Russian enclave on the Baltic Sea between Lithuania and Poland. If Gorbachev's troops based in the Baltics

have to retreat to the port at Kaliningrad, there is only one way to do it - through Lithuania. Our sources tell us that while making public demands for a total withdrawal of Soviet troops, Lithuania is willing to negotiate safe transit for them, and maybe even willing to allow some of them to Lithuanian Foreign Minister Algirdas Saudargas hinted as much to us when he said it might be "necessary" to keep some Soviet troops in Lithuania as part of the Soviets' defense needs. "I regard this as a realistic compromise." he said. "Any presence of Soviet troops on Lithuanian territory is a compromise.

The Latvians are less accommodating. They will not abide any Soviet troops in a future independent Latvian nation. "We do not see any reason why they should stay in Latvia." Vice President Dainis Ivans told us. He said Soviet generals stationed there now have been asked why they need such a large contingent. The answer is, that the soldiers need to defend Latvia against American imperialism.

But among Latvians, there is no demand for that protection. Ivans said, "Our main goal is to destroy the communist system here and cover it with DDT so it can never grow again."

The Latvians have more reason to be sensitive about the issue than Estonia or Lithuania. The Soviet Union has enforced a "Russification" program in Latvia since World War II that has included replacing huge chunks of the native Latvian population with Russians and others. Joseph Stalin started the program by massive deportations and executions of Latvians. Meanwhile, Russians came in droves to settle in the warmer Baltic climate. Latvia became a haven for retired Soviet military officers the Soviet equivalent of Sun City.

Latvian leaders told us they aren't worried about those Russians who would remain behind when Latvia won independence. In a March 3 advisory vote on the issue of independence, the result was overwhelmingly in favor of breaking away from the Soviet Union, even among voters in cities where the population is no longer predominantly native Latvian. The immigrants want to stay, and they apparently want to their independence from Moscow, too.

But some Latvians are afraid that time is running out for true natives, and that the immigrants will forever change their country. even if it wins independence. Romualdas Razukas, the leader of the Latvian Popular Front, pointed to the number of Soviet troops being pulled out of Eastern Europe who may end up in the Baltics.

$600,000. Simmons said the cost originally was estimated at $700,000, but that the overall the swimming pool finances.

Partial funding of the swimming pool is also being sought the lower figure. Parks Director

Jim Jernigan estimated the annual cost of maintenance, to be paid for by the city, would be $125,000. The city would maintain not only the property area, but all lighting and electrical lines, crucks that may appear in the surfaces or fix-tures. The cost of the maintenance however would be shared on an even basis between the city and the School Board.

White House reviews abortion stand

Accordated Press

WASHINGTON - The White House, laced with heavy congressional opposition to rules that forbid abortion counseling at federally funded clinics, is reviewing the regulations, President Bush's spokesman said today.

"There are no plans to do that.

SANFORD — If the Seminole County School Board approves it at tomorrow afternoon's 3:30 meeting, exceptional education students in Seminole County will know when the bus is about to arrive to take them to school.

crease, the cost would be increased to $44.31. For a smaller use, with a monthly water flow of only 5,000 gallons, the same single family home would have the total bill increasing from $20.82 per month to $24.75. In the home with the least usage of only 2,000 gallons, the proposal calls for an increase from $10.84 to $13.02 per month.

A utility rate survey indicates that even with the proposed rate increase, Sanford bills will be the second lowest in the county in the 5,000 gallon usage. The higher usage however, that of 15,000 gallons per month, would find Sanford bills second highest. Only Lake Mary rates for that amount would be higher, and by only 9 cents.

Moore said, "We're going to be needing this increase in order to keep pace with improvements that are constantly needed in the system as well as equipment." Sanford's future growth needs in utility service as well as continuing requirements by state and federal regulatory agencies will also demand improvements.

The city commission vote to have the ordinance prepared was unanimous.

Lake Mary, Blackhawks pocket wins

by resent stock Herald Correspondent

LONGWOOD - The Lake Mary Mudcats's lineup featured 10 batters.

Bullet coaches Dave Campbell and Bob McCullough sat on the bench, talking and laughing, while their pitchers struggled to find the strike

And the Mudcats had one hitter who batted in two spots, missing with three swings to end the sixth inning and flying to center to lead off the seventh.

It was summer baseball in the truest sense of the term.

Although the July heat makes the action sizzle on the big-league diamonds where teams make their early pennant runs, high-school squads take to the field for fun, not necessarily concerned with wins or losses, but merely how well and relaxed they perform. Lake Mary used three big innings and held off a late Bullets charge and recorded a 12-8 victory in a National American Baseball Federation game that served as a learning experience for all involved. The Mudcats found out that □See Mudcats, Page 2B

DELTONA - Some games only feed the standings. Others test a team's mettle.

For Sanford Post 53 (Seminole High School's summer baseball team), drubbing Deltona 10-0 was the easy part. Sanford then reached deep within its bench and heart to defeat Deltona 9-8 after trailing 5-0 to complete a sweep of the twin-bill held Monday at Deltona High School. The game was originally slated for Seminole Field, but was moved to Deltona because Seminole Field was soaked by the previous night's rain.

"We played really well in the first game," said Sanford manager Kenne Brown. "Their pitchers got into trouble with walks and we took advantage by getting hits when we had to.'

Brown credited his bench, good execution, and key hits from Matt Freeman for the victory in the second game.

Home-course advantage helps Grassing win JGA

By ROBBIE STOCK Herald Correspondent

WINTER SPRINGS - Florida International University sophomore Keith Grassing has been one of top competitors in the Juntor Golf Association of Central Florida this summer. On Monday, he used the homecourse advantage to put him above the field.

Grassing, a Longwood resident who plays and practices every day at Winter Springs Country Club, posted an impressive even-par 71 on his home track to capture the championship flight title by four shots over Chris Boylan. Grassing entered the final hole at two under par but suffered a double bogey.

His outstanding play highlighted the summer tour's fourth event, where 220-plus golfers challenged the tough, hazard-laced layout with all they had. Once again, three gross and four net trophies were given away in first through sixth llights while the two girl's divisions and the Pee Wees competed with just gross scores. All ties were decided by chip-offs.

Jeremy Anderson took third in the championship flight with a 77. He shot a one-under par 34 on the back nine. Paul Irvin won the net division with a 68. He was followed by Mickey Rudd (third, 69). Scott Boone (fourth, 72), and Kevin Ach (fourth, 74).

Brian Lumpke, who ripped through third flight last week. might be on his way to championship flight after a 74, which won first flight by three shots ☐See Golf, Page 2B

Giardia present in animal fecal matter

DR. GOTT: Do fish. crabs, shrimp, etc. become infected with giardia and thus become part of the life cycle? Does giardia survive mest processing, or does one only acquire it from fresh water when con-taminated? In New Orleans we are addressing urban runoff, and your past information seems a persuasive argument for pet owners to place their pet's fecal matter in sewage systems rather than allowing it in drainage systems or landfills.

DEAR READER: Giardia lamblia are tiny parasites that are shed in the feces of infected animals, most of which are wild. The parasites infect humans when contaminated water or food are ingested.

Giardiasis in humans may cause diarrhea, flatulence, ab-dominal cramps, nausea and weight loss; symptoms are often minimal or absent in mild infec-

Giardiasis is diagnosed by stool analysis. Flagy (metronidazole) is the usual treatment.

Giardia parasites are not found in fish or shellfish because the microorganisms require a warm-blooded host. They are killed by heating, cooking or processing. Therefore, the usual method of transmission is by drinking untreated fresh water. Giardiasis exists worldwide. In this country, beavers are a major source of the infection, hence the sobriquet "beaver fever" for the disease. Domestic pets can also contract the infection.

Pet owners in urban/suburban communities should clean up their animals' excrement. This is more a matter of etiquette and consideration than of public health. Wild animals constitute a more serious threat to drinking water. In fact, in my rural community, use of the reservoir has been discontinued because giardia (from beavers) were found in the water and could not be eradicated by chlorination.

attention to pet animal waste is a telling argument for controlling groundwater contamination in contamination in most cities. There are other environmental reasons for addressing this issue; the lowly glardia are not one.

(C)1991 NEWSPAPER EN-TERPRISE ASSN.

By Phillip Alder

Every Mothers' Day weekend. the Cavendish Invitational Pairs Championship takes place in New York, with the proceeds going to charity - about $12,000 this year.

The 1991 victors were Anders Wirgren and Johan Bennet of Sweden. This is the third time in four years that the winners have come from foreign soil. In third place with 12 boards remaining. they had an enormous final session (aided by plus 2300 on one deal) to leapirog into the winner's circle.

Winning a star-studded event like this demands sound play and a little luck. On today's hand, which was played during the last stanza, the luck came when North did too much bidding, and the skill came when Bennet assessed the defense accurately.

North and South were

Germans using a canape-style bidding system, which means that they bid a four-card suit before a longer suit. Hence North's one-heart opening and two-diamond rebid (though with such a limited hand, surely a two-spade raise is better than two diamonds). After that, South's preference to two hearts indicated three-card support. (With four, South would have raised immediately.) Two hearts would have escaped undoubled. but then North overbid badly. continuing with two spades. South, expecting a much better hand, aggressively bid game.

Knowing his partner had a singleton heart. Bennet (West) doubled. He led the heart ace and gave his partner a heart ruff. Wirgren cashed the club ace. and West still had three trump tricks to come. The penalty was 500, a good plus score on the way to the title.
