Plant City Woman Is Seriously Injured When Infernal Ma- chine Touches Off

PLANT CITY, Fla., Apr. 24—(AP)—Mrs. J. L. Waller, 55, was probably fatally injured by a bomb that exploded under her home here today. H. B. Willard, a neighbor, reported discovering four infernal machines under his house and heard according to local authorities Mrs. Waller was removed to a hospital.

The bomb at the Waller home exploded about daylight this morning, as the elderly woman crept to the back door leading from the kitchen to a back porch. The explosion had been placed in a tin can, with powder and connected with the doorposts by a string in such a manner that a jerk of the door would set off the machine.

The explosion destroyed the porch and wrecked the kitchen. Investigation showed that the door was closed. Mrs. Waller was lying in bed with her husband and several children, all in bed, were awakened.

Willard said he would like to cover a stinging area under the window. Investigation showed a line fuse attached to a dynamite stick. Three inches of the fuse had been cut off.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

1st Reading: Genesis— All that shall be saved, as it is written, there shall come out of Sion
 the De-Event, and shall turn away ungodliness from Jacob. For this is my covenant unto them, when I shall take away their sin:—
 Romans, 11:26, 27.

Prayer:
 O Thou God of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, ratify this promised gift.

POETRY

I turn the leaf-green down
 Gaily now,
 And paint the meadow brown
 With my plough.

I dream with silvery gull
 And heaven crew,
 A thing that is beautiful
 I may know.

Tranquility walks with me,
 And in care
 O, the quiet ecstasy,
 Like a prayer.

I find a star lovely art
 In a soul,
 Joy that is timeless, O, heart
 That knows God!

The Hawaiian and his beer are well known throughout the civil food world. In no country is beer regarded as so much of a necessity as in Germany, but the business men that the Minister of Finance, in order to raise money, possibly to raise bonds, has firmly decided to do a twenty-five per cent tax upon beer, is creating a real hot issue. But that gives us an idea for Florida. Why not put a luxury tax on shoes?

As might have been expected an investigating committee was immediately appointed to determine the cause of so great a loss of life in the recent Ohio penitentary fire. It seems that one of the prison officials was so afraid
 some of the convicts might escape that he would not let them out of the cell blocks which were being swept by flames. That is a perfect idea of our sense of duty. It seems to us that it ought to be a good idea for the Congress of the United States to add to its long list of investigating committees another one on prison reforms.

"Seein' Things!"

Some weeks ago a number of persons called The Herald office and asked us if we knew ex-President Coolidge was in town. We thanked them for the information and immediately dispatched a reporter to the Municipal Zoo where it was said "Silent Cal" had just been seen. When our reporter arrived there, within two minutes after the first telephone call, the ex-President was nowhere to be seen, and no one in the vicinity had seen him.

The reporter started back to The Herald office, and a dozen different persons asked him if he had seen Mr. Coolidge. None of them had actually seen him, but they had heard he was in town. Our reporter ran down every bit of information he could get, he traced Mr. Coolidge all over town, but never could find him, and never could find a single bit of authentic evidence that he had been here. Weeks later people asked us why we had never had a story on Mr. Coolidge's visit to Sanford.

It is of course possible that Mr. Coolidge was in Sanford at some time during the winter. He spent several weeks at Mount Dora and visited at least on one occasion in Winter Park. Very likely he did pass through Sanford. But no one, so far as we have been able to find out, actually saw him. And neither has anyone, so far as we have been able to determine, actually seen the "naked negro" who has been terrorizing residents of Goldsboro for the past week or two days.

At least a dozen people have said to us, "Why don't you have a story on this nigger who is raising hell in Goldsboro. He doesn't wear any clothes; and mysteriously appears at doors and windows, frightening women and children. Last Sunday night he was seen in one of the churches. And Chief Williams took a shot at him as he ran down an alleyway after breaking up a dance by his unexpected appearance."

And so we have tried and tried to get the low down on this "naked negro." We have been unable to find anyone who has actually seen him. Chief Williams says he has not seen him and did not shoot at him. And while he has heard many stories concerning this mysterious apparition, he has been unable to find anyone with any first hand information about him. The situation reminds us of the rumors which were rampant during the summer of 1918 about when the war was going to end, and at that time there was a story which went like this:

"Absolute knowledge I have none, but my aunt's sister's washerwoman's son heard a policeman on his beat say to a laborer on the street that he had a letter just last week written in the finest Greek from a Chinese coolie in Timbuctoo who said the niggers in Cuba knew of a man in a Texas town who got it straight from a circus clown that a well society female rake had heard the news from a gang of South American jews when the war is going to end."

So if anyone has seen this "naked negro," we would certainly like to know about it.

Ladies First!

Just as customs and manners change with time and usage, words go through many varying stages in their existence, and a word, which may be very powerful, full of strong meaning, in one century, may have been so prostituted by misuse that it has but a shred of its original value in the next. We have in mind the word, "lady," as a striking example of the vicissitudes in the life of English terms.

Time was when to be called a lady was one of the greatest honors that could be bestowed upon a woman. The word meant all that it was supposed to imply, and was employed only in speaking of persons of the finest type and character. In England, it even came to be a title, used to dignify the women of the nobility. There were, of course, and still are, for that matter, peasant women, ignorant, untutored, of humble birth, who so conducted themselves that the world recognized them to be ladies at heart, just as one finds "nature's gentlemen" in every walk of life.

Nowadays, the term, lady, is applied indiscriminately to any person of feminine gender whether she merits the distinction or not, in fact, it is no longer a distinction. The word has lost its original purport by being used where it should not have been used. Even the women of the street are called "ladies of the evening," and a play of that title was running on Broadway two years ago. Any female from the most refined gentlewoman who possesses the gracious ways that come from goodness of character shining from within, and breeding, and beautiful manners, to the coarsest drunken harlot is often called, in common parlance, "a lady."

Not long ago, we heard a real lady say that she felt that the word, gentlewoman, had now more character and was more significant than lady. It has not been so much handled and still retains its original freshness, flavor, and meaning. One finds that often a lady these days, prefers to be called simply a woman, for certainly, there is nothing derogatory about that term. To be called a real woman is as big a compliment as to be considered a real man. It is curious to note that it is usually a woman who by no stretch of the imagination could be a lady who insists most vigorously upon her right to this title.

UNCOMMON SENSE

BY JOHN BLAKE

Inasmuch as everybody is not equally interested in getting money, it is wrong for moralists to argue that money-getting is fully as good as anything else. I have read many disquisitions on this sort by people I happened to know personally.

None of them ever refused to take money when they could get it, or to work as hard for it as they knew how.

The song writer assures us that "the best thing in life are free," but to those who have had any experience with life, his words are not convincing.

However, there is a difference between getting money all out of a legitimate—and making a good deal of it.

It is my misfortune to know two or three old gentlemen who have made or inherited more money than they can possibly use, and who are still earnestly trying to increase their wealth and trying even harder to keep from spending what they have.

The result, is, of course, unhappiness.

Nobody is so unhappy as a miser—the person popularly called a "tightwad."

Nobody is as suspicious. Nobody feels such a miserable life. Fortunately a great many of the men who make large fortunes have discovered the satisfaction of spending their money wisely, for the good of their countrymen and their fellow men in general. The "foundations" which have

Telling The World

BY NEAL O'HARA

Listen, children and you will get the picture in the midlight ride of the Maypole. Maguire was one of the oldest jobs they ever had around Boston. It had a horse, and he was riding ways resembled Peter Pan.

It was April 12, 1929, when the Battle of Lexington and Concord was fought. Many total abstainers are still alive who remember that famous day and year. Some of them even recall the month.

Pol Maguire was having a heavy shipment come down from Montreal that night. According to the bills of lading, forty cases were to be dropped off at Lexington and the rest hauled through to Concord, Mass. All packages were labeled potatoes.

On account of a Western Union mistake, Pol Maguire was confused. The wire from his buyer in Montreal said, "Gasoline and water shipment left here today. Arrive Boston mid night."

Pol didn't know whether "gasoline and water" meant the horse was coming half way by truck and the rest by the way by boat, or whether it was a frank description of the ingredients. (Some of that Boston home tastes like that.) So he decided to take no chances.

He arranged with his right hand man to hand searchlights from the top of Bunker Hill Monument, to tip him off when it came. On searchlight if the goods came in by truck, and two if they came in on a schooner. It was the simplest way to outwit the Coast Guard, which was searching the port of Boston and also sampling the sherry.

A Jack would have it, Pol Maguire got stowed that night. When he looked at the Bunker Hill tower, the searchlight looked like two to him. "Here the staff came in by boat," said he. "Now to tip off the customers to get ready." So Pol perched astride his trusty horse and was galloping toward Lexington and Concord.

"The red-eye is coming," Pol screamed to his minute men, as he was fond of calling suckers and customers. "Get ready for the heavy artillery of brewery trucks and remember this staff is all O. O. D." Thus he rode through every Middlesex village and roadhouse.

The women and yester all had delirious approval.

"But," Pol went on, "the army and navy gets the tip, they're liable to be here first. These yards will do anything if they smell a leak."

"Aye, aye, good Pol Maguire," the men said, "but what shall we do if the army and navy come?"

"Treat 'em just like they were revenue cops," said Pol. "And that means when you treat 'em, it's on the house." And with that he was off for Concord Green.

Time passed and the grumble of the soldiers and sailors was heard. Why shouldn't they grumble? They were good and thirsty. At last they marched into Lexington. "Has any one around here got a drink?" roared Capt. Giffy of the army and navy detachment. "If you haven't there's going to be war."

"Then come in and have some 'brewery' stuff," said the spokesman of the yeomen. For stealthily had Pol Maguire's big truck brought the booze in by the back door.

The Captain entered the road house and they plied him with one drink. One was enough. It made him woozy. "You guys are all right," he blathered to the yeomen. "I'm gonna call this war off right now."

And his word was as good as his bonded breath. Lurching out of the front veranda he surveyed his trusty troops. "We are lost," the Captain shouted as he lay propped down the stairs. Then, summing his company, he screamed, "Company, attention! About face!" And they did.

So the army and navy marched back to Boston and the Captain rode in a hack. That was the finish of the Battle of Lexington and Concord in the year 1929. The moonshine the yeomen gave the Captain was the shot that was heard around the world.

Good news travels fast!

GOOD NEWS used to have the reputation for speed. But such is the demand for the good things of life today that good news travels even faster.

The carriers of many of the good tidings that every one is eager to hear are right before you. They are the advertisements in this newspaper. They bring good news about soap and cereals, sedans and cigarettes. Good news for the housewife. Good news for the business man. Good news for every one who believes in comfort and happiness.

Let an automobile maker in Detroit or an orange grower in Florida develop a finer product. You will hear about it—not in a couple of years, not just "some time." The whole new story will be rushed to you on the wings of the greatest good-news service in the world—advertising.

Advertisements are filled with the kind of good words you like to find. They tell you of new products, new improvements in well-known merchandise, new values and new ways to increase your well-being. And always they tell you not only where and how to purchase goods of assured merit, but also the way to be certain of obtaining 100 cents' worth of value for every dollar you spend. Woman's Club Group Holds Last Meeting

The last regular meeting of the club year of the Literature Department of the Woman's Club was held yesterday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the club room with the chairman, Mrs. Walter L. Cooper, presiding over the business session and Mrs. Robert Meriwether, Mrs. Walter L. Cooper and J. T. Newby as hostesses. The subject for the program for the afternoon was "Literature of 1929."

During the business meeting minutes of the previous meeting and the treasurer's report were read by the secretary after which Mrs. Cooper led in a discussion of plans for the annual social meeting. The date of this meeting was changed from May 11 to May 15. Plans for next year's work were then discussed and the meeting adjourned for the program.

Mrs. Marguerita Martin gave an account of the drama of 1929, emphasizing some of the plays which had been a success and also discussing some that had been failures. Mrs. Holland L. Dean then presented a resume of the poetry of 1929 which included criticisms of American and English poets. She also read selections from each poet to illustrate her remarks. A social hour followed when refreshments were served by the hostesses.

Lawrence Tibbett Is First Opera Star To Appear Upon Screen

The talking-picture debut of Lawrence Tibbett, internationally known Metropolitan opera star, will take place at the Milane Theatre Thursday in "The Rogue Song," a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, directed by Lionel Barrymore and filmed entirely in Technicolor.

The picture, the first approach to an up-to-date film, is considered to be one of the most important productions of the year and on-failed elaborate preparations. The scenario, based upon the operetta, "Gypsy Love," was written by Frances Marion with dialogue by John Colton of "Rain" and "Shanghai Gesture" fame; music by Franz Lehár and Herbert Stothart. The lyrics are the work of Clifford Grey. Besides Tibbett's songs the musical innovation of the production include an aria sung by Elsa Albert, Wagnerian soprano, and numbers sung by Wallace MacDonald accompanied by a large male chorus.

There is also an Albertina Koch ballet of 100 girls, who dance to special music contributed by the nondescript composer, Dimitri Tomkin. The producers of "The Rogue Song" state that despite the elaborate music, ballets and color details, the picture is not "high brow." Barrymore making it a point to submerge the music to the interesting plot and using the songs only at strategic points in the narrative where they will be heard as a natural part of the story.

"SHADOWS HUGER than the shapes that cast them"

(Alfred, Lord Tennyson, 1809-1892)

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW*
By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper figure, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuse. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky Strike instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Lucky Strike, the finest Cigarette a man ever smoked, made of the finest tobacco—The Cream of the Crop—"IT'S TOASTED." Everyone knows that heat purifies and so "TOASTING" not only removes impurities but adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

Your Throat Protection—against irritation—against cough.

*Be Moderate! Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quick "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form.
