City Commission Will Open Bids

Opening of bids for the enclosing of Pump Branch, contract No. 8 to the extensive sewer and water improvement program of the City, will be the top item of business on the agenda for Monday night's meeting of the City commission, according to City Manager Warren E. Knowles.

An engineer's cost estimate for the project is $189,000, he said.

Also, a discussion is to be held with the Seminole County board of public instruction and the schools superintendent concerning the expansion of water mains and sewers to the new elementary school being constructed at 24th St. and Laurel Ave.

Premiere Of Picture Offered To Winner In TB Fund Drive

Sanford will be in competition with other cities and towns in the United States, one of which will receive as an unusual and glamorous Christmas gift a holly wood-type world premiere, complete with stars and fanfare, as a reward for its efforts in the sale of Christmas Seals, according to Linkletter, nationally famous radio and television star.

Linkletter, joining with the National Tuberculosis Assn. and Warner Bros. Pictures, said the town of city showing the great mail sale in proportion to population during the first three days of its local Christmas Seal drive will be awarded, as a Vito gift, the world premiere of "The Silver Chalice." Any town, big or small, that can show a Cinema Scope picture is eligible to win the gala event, which is tentatively scheduled for Dec. 17. Based on the famous novel by Thomas E. Scribner, "The Silver Chalice," a Warner Bros. Pictures must present presentations for 1954-1955.

Will Tabulate Mail

Christmas Seal committees will tabulate their mail sales at mid night on the third day of local drives and telegraph results to the National Tuberculosis Assn.

The winning town or city is to be named by officials of the National Tuberculosis Association on the basis of these returns and will be announced early in December by Linkletter in his "House Party" program.

Launching his far reaching drive to sell Christmas Seals, Linkletter announced he will be aided by appearances of famous guest stars on his program. He also plans to appear on other CBS shows personally to aid the humanitarian drive to eliminate tuberculosis.

9 Floats Entered In Parade

With nine organizations entered in the event, tomorrow will be the final deadline to make application to place a float in the Annual Christmas Parade, Junior Chamber of Commerce president Herb Rolley said today.

The parade is sponsored by the Jaycees in conjunction with the Sanford Merchants Assn.

Rolley said "I urge each and every merchant to enter a float so this will be a bigger and better parade than last year." The nine floats already entered will represent the Sanford Garden Club, the Sanford Tourist Club, the Beta Sigma Phi fraternity, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Post, the Elks Club, the Woman's Club, Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co., the Sanford Boat and Sailing Club, and Seminole High School.

Entries should be turned in to the Jaycee Information Booth at Lake Shore Blvd. and N. Park Ave. by tomorrow, Rolley said. "We expect this year's parade to be much better than last year's success since we have received more tender and more and better decorations than were seen in the past. Seminole County bands and others from surrounding towns will participate," he added.

This Herald Issue Last At Old Stand

Yule To Be Happier For French Village Because Of Pilots

The little town of Vinomont, France will celebrate a birthday "Yulefest" this December, and with good reason. In the past 20 years, this Norman village has resumed a normal productive life dramatically changed by the replacement of two mail-delivered Christmas packages in 1944.

Devastated by bombed during World War II, Vinomont has received largely through the aid of the 36 Pilot Club in Pilot International. The women of Pilot eager to contribute to better understanding among the people of the world, organized in 1949 as a rare opportunity, the projected program of aid to the French village.

Since then "Charm Magazine" reports in its December issue that the need for food, medicine, clothing has helped provide a new hospital and rebuild community facilities and more important, renewed hope and optimism in the hearts of the villagers.

Materials Sent

Among the contributions of the Pilot Club of Sanford are eight dozen silver plated teapots for a children's luncheon, Christmas boxes of clothing, toys and candy and one box going to a family of nine children and the widowed mother. Groceries, fuel and stationery were bought by club members, the proceeds in which were used toward purchasing stained glass windows for the cathedral.

The new cathedral windows are the result of a special Pilot project and have been replaced in addition to continuing gifts for the material needs of the village.

Area Girl Scout Council Plans Are Discussed At Meeting Here

Report Of Four-County Committee Presented At Session Attended By Representative Of National Organization

Plans for an area Girl Scout council were discussed here last night in a meeting held at the parish house of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church with representatives from four local councils. A report made by the Atlanta regional committee and by Mrs. Theodore Scott, president of the Orlando council, were the main items of discussion.

"No council larger or smaller than the people in it could stand on its own feet," Mrs. Scott said. "The council must be a cooperative, working together to help the girls."

The council must be a good job. If the council is wanted, she said, it will need help.

The meeting was held at the parish house of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, 102 Washington Ave. The meeting was held at 7 p. m. and was held in the parish house of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, 102 Washington Ave.

Scenes For Training Film Are Shot At Photolon 62

This week found a Navy motion picture camera crew from the Naval Photographic Center, NAS Anacostia, D. C., at Photolon 62 to shoot scenes for a new Navy training film for the T-11 aerial camera.

The photographic center is the only command in the Navy that produces Navy training films and when any motion pictures are needed by the Navy, which can be made by naval personnel, they will be a crew of men from the motion center carrying out the assignment.

A complete script of the movie is made and approved prior to any footage made, and only after many hours of preparation by a crew, such as this one, arrive to make the movie scenes where equipment is in actual use.

Shoot Camera

The movie crew making the film shot the necessary scenes of the T-11 aircraft camera in the fighter plane reconnaissance type aircraft in Jacksonville last week and completed the scenes required at Photolon 62 of this type of camera in the AJ-2P aircraft. VJ-62 uses this type camera on all the detachments and in the training program here in Sanford. The squadron also can carry at least seven of the cameras in simultaneous action of consecutive views.

The T-11 is an aerial camera equipped with mapping and reconnaissance camera. It is employed in making the precise aerial photographs required in the preparation of topographic maps. It is one of the most precise mapping cameras ever made that is in production for military use in the United States.

The crew after finishing its movie work has returned to the Naval Photographic Center where the film will be completed in the 12 mm picture section. The film must be edited, printed, narration must be recorded and applied in synchronization with the film. When the training film is completed, it will be distributed throughout the Navy to help instruct Naval photographers in the proper care and use of the T-11 aerial camera and how it is used in various type of Naval aircraft.

 How the spiritually correct view of God and man destroys anxiety and restores peace of mind will be brought out at Christian Science services this Sunday in the Legion Sermon entitled "Soul and Body."
 Scriptural selections include the following from Psalms (42:1): "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for I shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God."
 Among the passages to be read from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy is the following (399:49): "We cannot deny that life is self-sustained, and we should never deny the everlasting harmony of soul, simply because, in the mortal senses, there is seeming discord. It is our ignorance of God, the divine Principle, which produces apparent discord, and the right understanding of Him restores harmony."

 The Gospel of the destruction of Jerusalem and the end of the world, Jerusalem was destroyed seventy years later just as Christ predicted. Therefore we can be sure that the end of the world, and of all material things will take place as he promised. The corn is drying in the fields . . . the sky overhead seems shades bluer than it has ever been before and the autumn air is a tonic, bracing and cool. And on this, the most American of all holidays, thoughts go back to the first Thanksgiving and what it really meant.

It was a bare bounty for which the Pilgrims knelt to thank God. Their harvest was not a rich one, they faced the prospect of a long, bleak winter to be followed by an uncertain Spring. But still, those who had survived the rigorous year just past were deeply thankful for all that they had . . . and did not dwell upon that which they had not.

It was their faith and the faith of others like them which has enabled our country to survive and flourish. Today, more than ever, we and our children need faith like that. We need to kneel in thanks for a bounty far richer than that known or dreamed of by the Pilgrims. In the church of our choice let each of us praise and thank Him for our blessings.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Cathedral Service Launches Program For Entire Nation

NEW YORK—A national capital Thanksgiving observance at the Washington Cathedral at Mount St. Alban, Washington, D. C. at 4 p. m. Sunday—replete in huge colorful processional and massed choirs and with high dignitaries of church and state, and embassy and legation officials in attendance—will launch a nationwide chain of tens of thousands of similar services to be held throughout America during Thanksgiving week, dedicated to the share-our-surplus program of 35 major Protestant denominations through Church World Service.

Invited guests at the national capital service, a joint observance by Washington churches, are President Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Mrs. Eisenhower, the President's official family and other national government leaders, embassy and legation representatives, and National Council of Churches officials and other representatives from denominational and inter-denominational church life.

Millions of pounds of surplus foods, it was announced today by the Rev. R. Norris Wilson, executive director of Church World Service, will be distributed free to the needy of foreign lands through the three-year share-our-surplus appeal beginning with these services in the great cities of the nation, in hamlets and villages, in city auditoriums, in taverns, in great edifices and in humble rural churches.

Literally millions of Americans, he said, will demonstrate, in these Thanksgiving week services, recognition of their privilege in sharing in brotherhood with all humanity—the material abundance with which they have been endowed by Providence.

Through the share-our-surplus program, surplus foods can be distributed in areas of distress abroad at a cost not exceeding one dollar for every $20 worth of food, Mr. Wilson declared. Recent national legislation, which has both greatly increased amounts of government surpluses available to the world-wide relief program of the churches and provided for their transportation abroad, has made possible this program under which the churches' distribution of such necessities of life are expected to at least quadruple previous schedules, Mr. Wilson said.

Aim of the program being participated in by the 35 major Protestant denominations is a minimum distribution, during the next three years, of 500 million pounds of surplus foods in addition to their regularly scheduled and continuing world-wide relief, reconstruction and rehabilitation efforts.

Mormons To Meet In Orlando Sunday

Sunday is fall conference day for members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints, Orlando, commonly called "Mormons" or Latter Day Saints. All Mormons are urged to attend and the public is cordially invited. No offering will be taken. The public meetings will be at 10 a. m. and 2:30 p. m. with a separate gathering of local missionary members at 5 p. m. the same day.

Each quarterly conference is a time to which all "Saints" look forward because at this time they are generally visited by a noted church authority who brings a message of importance and sometimes special instruction. From Mormon headquarters, so called because the prophet, first presidency and 12 apostles of the Church make their base of operations at Salt Lake City.

The visiting speaker this Sunday will be Marion D. Hanks, a member of the group just beneath the 12, the first council of the 70, of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints. Elder Hanks was sustained to this office on Oct. 4, 1953. Just 33 years old, Hanks is an instructor in religious subjects, is active in youth work, and is assistant director of the bureau of information on Temple Square. There, he and his co-workers greet thousands of tourists with the message of the restored gospel each year. Brother Hanks is an instructor of religion at the University of Utah and he served as a full-time missionary for two years in the northern states mission.

After wartime military service during which time he met his wife to be and married in the beautiful Hawaiian Mormon Temple, Elder Marion Hanks completed his preparation for his profession by finishing law school at the University of Utah. There is no formal clergy in the church. Everyone is invited to hear him speak at the Latter Day Saints Church Building located on Lake Dab, just south of Colonial Dr. in Orlando. The quarterly conference has more than 2,000 members of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in the Central Florida area. Any and all interested members of the public are urged to visit with the Mormons at one or both of the conference sessions.

ETHEL BARRYMORE UNDER DOCTOR'S CARE
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Ethel Barrymore's studio says she is under a doctor's care and won't be able to attend the funeral today of her brother Lionel.

A spokesman said yesterday that the 75-year-old actress is not ill but just broken up over Lionel's death Monday.

from the churches of the sponsoring Washington Federation of Churches and national and local leaders of the United Church Women and other great interdenominational organizations.

Principal speaker at the Washington observance will be the Rev. Dr. Richard Campbell Raines, Bishop of the Indianapolis Area of the Methodist Church, recently returned from a round-the-world tour during which he personally visited many of the areas into which the vast stepped up program of free food distribution to the distressed and destitute will be made possible by the share-our-surplus endeavor.

Congregational U. S. Will Build

Continued From Page One) the church's entrance. It contains classrooms, a kitchen and rest rooms, and is shaded by a fine oak tree. There will be a drinking fountain available in the church foyer.

Gus Schmah, chairman of the church building committee, has been much complimented on the plan of the church, which was worked out in detail by Architect E. J. Moughton Sr. The Rev. Fred Ensminger also played an important part in the construction of the religious structure.

Pastor Long Time
Dr. Root has been minister of the local congregation since 1928 and has hosts of friends. He is quite happy about his new church. The former edifice, which was located 21 blocks north of the present site, was badly damaged by a hurricane. It was of a Gothic type of architecture and was of considerable height. The new structure is heavily reinforced with steel and could be a refuge in the worst hurricane.

The Congregational Church was organized here in 1891. In 1931, the old Christian Church, which in the South was an offshoot of the Methodist Church, joined in a national union with the Congregational Churches. The local body was incorporated as the Sanford Congregational Christian Church.

The church building indeed is definitely an attractive addition to the city. It owns a frontage of 218 feet along Park Ave. It hopes to be an advantage to the Christian faith.

Says Starting Work
However, in September 1953, the Western Electric Co. announced it was starting work, under a contract with the U. S. Air Force, of the first experimental units of a "distant early warning line." That announcement said the project was started in December 1952, and that the first units were being installed on Barter Island, off the northern coast of Alaska.

In response to questions, an Air Force spokesman said the first experimental units have been linked to the continental defense system.

Prospects Appear Good For Widening Of Badly Deteriorating French Ave.

Widening of French Ave. appears now to be a good possibility.

According to the legislative delegation of Seminole County, assurances of work on the project have been given by State officials up through Acting Gov. Charley Johns.

Cecil Webb, State road chairman, has requested that bids on the widening project be in by Dec. 7.

Local legislators plan to be on hand at the letting of the contract for the work, to see that the contractor is bonded immediately. In this way, the solons expect to speed up work on the long-delayed construction.

However, there might be one fly in the ointment. There is a possibility that LeRoy Collins might turn thumbs down on the project after he becomes governor.

Rep. Volle Williams remarked that Gov. Elect Collins said he will reevaluate all the road contracts let by this administration to see which were political and which were for roads really needed.

Well, Mr. Collins needs but to look back at previous State Road Department budgets

Americans Welcome At 'Nuts' City

BASTOGNE, Belgium — If there is any place abroad where an American can be sure of a warmly sentimental welcome, it is here in this small Belgian town made world famous by a word — "nuts!"

"Nuts," is the reply an American general is supposed to have made to surrender demands of Germans besieging Bastogne during the Battle of the Bulge.

Whether that is the word the general really used — or, as some claim, it was the army censor's translation of an even more forthright bawdy term — it summed up the determination of the men who fought here. It helped immortalize Bastogne.

Today this is still known as "The Nuts City." There is a "Nuts Museum" that preserves wartime memories. Visitors find a slab of nuts on their table at mealtimes.

Other engagements in the Battle of the Bulge were perhaps as important as the heroic stand made here, but Bastogne remains as the great symbol of Allied victory in Adolf Hitler's last massive offensive against the West in 1944.

Here the 10th Armored and 101st

Airborne Divisions held the key Bastogne area for vital days at the start of the offensive, a stand that caught the attention of the world. Less well known, but even more bloody, was the fight that followed soon after when Hitler, the real purpose of his drive defeated, massed his troops and again assaulted Bastogne, a pincer he hoped would restore morale on the German home front.

Shelled by ground fire, bombarded nightly by Nazi planes, the civilians of Bastogne suffered aide by aide with their American defenders.

Casualties were heavy. Of some 10,000 homes in the Bastogne area, nearly 9,000 were destroyed or heavily damaged, and this takes no account of the public buildings reduced to rubble.

Bastogne has made a great comeback. Today between 80 and 85 per cent of the buildings have been reconstructed, and are high to look to discover signs of the war. But there are still many empty cleared spaces where dwellings once stood.

The wartime camaraderie had endured. It is hard, when you have lost members of your family and your home in a war, to feel grateful to your "victorious defenders." But the people of Bastogne do still like and welcome Americans wholeheartedly.

"We were together," is the way a townsman expressed it in a group of visiting U.S. newsmen.

The entrances to Bastogne are still guarded by American tanks that saw combat here. Some 400 yards from the point where the Germans thrust closest to the town stands a great six-shaped memorial raised by the Belgians in tribute to the 70,000 Americans killed, wounded or missing in the entire battle of the Ardennes.

The memorial lists the names of all the units of the men who fought in this vast wintry action, beneath it is a chapel where memorial services are held for the different faiths of these men — Protestant, Catholic, Jewish.

In a series of high tablets the entire story of the Battle of the Bulge is told in letters of gold. After 10 years, these few sentences capture the triumph and the tragedy.

"The folk of the Ardennes open-

By WALTER CRAMBLIN JR.

The unwilling adoption by the Eisenhower Administration of a stepchild... a Democratic Congress... into the family will produce far more discord than harmony.

The stepchild from the very outset, will have a lot of ideas that will differ materially from those of its family. For instance, the stepchild will be inclined to spend money rather freely and will have a lot of other ideas which it inherited from its father, Mr. Truman, from its grandfather, Mr. Roosevelt, and from its good friend, Adlai Stevenson.

President Eisenhower told the voters that if he were forced to make the adoption there would be political chaos and at another time he referred to the adoption as establishing a cold political war. Now Mr. Eisenhower thinks maybe the words were a little too harsh but there are a number of Congressional Republicans who feel that the President eventually will find that he chose the right words.

In fact one Republican was reminded of a Washington taxicab driver showing a visitor the high spots of the city. As they drove by the Archives Building the visitor noticed the inscription there which is: "The Past is Prologue."

The visitor asked the cab driver if he knew the meaning of the phrase. "The Past is Prologue," the Washington cab driver who has all the answers to everything replied immediately that it means "You are not going to get anything out of the past."

At the outset it would seem appropriate to quote two statements. One is by the House Democratic Leader Sam Rayburn who will be home House Speaker in the 84th Congress. He said:

"We'll try to make the farm program more serviceable to farmers. We'll look the tax structure over and iron out any inequities. We'll make a tax bill that will be fair to all people. We still believe for a strong foreign policy and we'll try to make it a non-partisan policy. We feel we should have a strong national defense as we had when the Democrats were in, as long as the world is in danger and in the shape it is now."

This Rayburn statement would imply more farm subsidies, an increase in the personal income tax exemption... no tax relief for business... more foreign spending... and more spending for defense.

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon Johnson who will be elevated in majority leader if the Democrats take control, has issued this program:

1. A gigantic development program of natural resources including huge reclamation and conservation projects in the west to provide for expansion of western industry and population.
2. A material increase in funds for national defense.
3. A revised and improved farm program to insure the farmer and rancher a greater share in the total national income.
4. Modification and improvement of standards of living giving both the employee and employer the dignity to which they are entitled.
5. Permit the fullest utilization of all the great facilities of free and private enterprise without permitting a payoff to a shiftless class of campaign contributors.

Mr. Johnson you will note, is exactly in line with Mr. Rayburn except that he goes further.

The Johnson suggestion to give the employer and employer the dignity to which they are entitled is viewed by some to mean that labor will get a lot of consideration. And his phrase, "a payoff to a shiftless class of campaign contributors," can easily mean that a higher rein will be placed upon big and medium sized business.

Watch out for all kinds of investigations. The Democrats will investigate the Dixie-Vales contract and the whole field of private power development including

Solons Are Given Much Immunity

WASHINGTON — The difference between an ordinary citizen and a member of Congress is while Congress is in session. Nothing worse than the rebuke can happen to Sen. McCarthy at this session unless, by something else he does, he infuriates his fellow senators into throwing him out. It's unlikely.

If an ordinary citizen is called to testify before a congressional committee, but ignores it, he can be cited for contempt of Congress. That is followed by trial in federal court. If convicted, he goes to jail. Not so with a member of Congress.

Several years ago a Senate subcommittee, investigating McCarthy's financial dealings, asked him to appear and answer questions. He didn't. He had no need to worry he might go to jail for contempt of Congress. He was protected by the Constitution.

To give members of Congress as much freedom as possible, the Constitution says a senator or representative cannot be arrested during a congressional session except for treason, a felony or breach of the peace.

Censure is merely a rebuke, an expression of opinion that a member's conduct has been unbecoming. But he doesn't lose his seat.

McCarthy, in declining to go before the subcommittee, argued it had no jurisdiction in investigating him. Besides, he said, the committee was dishonest. Nothing happened to him, at least then. He was not cited for contempt. But his treatment of the committee was not forgotten.

It came back to haunt him this year when another committee, headed by Sen. Watkins, a Utah Republican, was specially created to look into charges that McCarthy had been contemptuous of Congress on a number of occasions.

McCarthy didn't attempt to ignore this committee when it called him to testify. If he had, his Senate friends would have pointed to this as proof of a contemptuous attitude.

The Watkins committee recommended McCarthy be censured on two counts:

1. That he had been contemptuous of the Senate in ignoring and insulting the earlier subcommittee.
2. That his conduct had been "reprehensible" in the treatment given Brig. Gen. Ralph W. Zwickler, who had been called before McCarthy's own subcommittee to answer questions about the handling of Communists in the Army.

Then McCarthy repeated what he had done to the earlier subcommittee: he poured insults on Watkins' committee and on Watkins himself. He said the committee was the "handmaiden" of the Communists and Watkins was ineffectual and cowardly.

This so infuriated the usually mild Watkins that he attacked McCarthy head on last Tuesday in a detailed Senate speech that traced the long history of McCarthy's relations with the subcommittee which tried to examine his finances.

He didn't go into the question of McCarthy's constitutional protection in not going before that earlier committee. Watkins, reminding the Senate McCarthy had called him a coward, asked:

Why had McCarthy, whose integrity and honor had been challenged by investigation of that earlier subcommittee, not gone to defend himself but, instead, from the "safety" of his office fired insults by letter?

Then, since it had happened under their own eyes, Watkins asked the Senate to censure McCarthy on a new and third count: contempt of the Watkins' committee. Watkins had been set up to find out whether he had been contemptuous.

McCarthy, who didn't sit in the Senate to listen to Watkins, went into the hospital the next day with an injured elbow.

NATURE COOPERATES
SUGALESE, Ariz. (AP) — The Arizona Land Department held a hearing to determine whether a large part of the Santa Cruz River valley should be declared a "critical" groundwater area.

Immediately after the hearing one of the heaviest rainstorms of the year hit the area. State Water Commissioner Roger Ernst is expected to make his decision in a few weeks.

Designation of an area as "critical" prohibits the drilling of any more wells.

New Ways to Fight Crippling Polio Virus

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

DAY by day, we are getting closer to the time when we will tame the dread polio virus. Medical science is attacking the problem from many angles.

One new method of combating poliomyelitis is being explored by Dr. Albert B. Sabin, professor of research pediatrics at the University of Cincinnati's College of Medicine.

Dr. Sabin is endeavoring to develop active immunity against this crippling disease by vaccination with live viruses, which will not damage the nerves but will cause the body to form antibodies against poliomyelitis.

Now this procedure differs greatly from the Salk vaccine method currently being tested by hundreds of thousands of children in various sections of the country.

The Salk vaccine consists of virus killed by chemical means. The Sabin vaccine, if developed, would consist of live virus altered so as to remove its power to cause disease.

Sometimes Occurs Naturally
This alteration, which makes the virus capable of conferring immunity, occurs naturally in some cases. Several investigators, Dr. Sabin reports, have found in children with minor illnesses the strains of polio virus which had only limited power to cause disease in monkeys.

Such an alteration, Dr. Sabin says, can also be brought about in the laboratory.

Similarly transformed live virus material now composes the vaccine used against yellow fever. Some Success Reported
In his experiment on monkeys, Dr. Sabin already reports some degree of success.

Maybe the answer is not the Salk vaccine. Perhaps it is not the proposed Sabin vaccine. But whatever the answer is, medical science will undoubtedly find it.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Mr. H. B.: The bottom of my right foot started burning. What is the cause of this?
Answer: A disorder of this type usually is due to some disturbance of the circulation, which might come from hardening of the arteries of the leg. You should have an examination made by your doctor to find the cause and then proper treatment can be started.

Glamor Girl Must Be Well Prepared To Tour Country

SAN FRANCISCO—How does a glamor girl get out on a personal appearance tour?
With six furs, 20 pairs of shoes and limitless gab, if she's Debra Paget. These were some of the statistics I gleaned from the doll as I observed first-hand what it's like for Hollywood stars to meet the public.
Debra Sherrin North, Jeffrey Hunter, Rita Moreno and Tommy Noonan made up the filmfare contingent in the world premiere of "The Street" which was sponsored here by the San Francisco-Oakland Newspaper Guild. Debra and her mother walked off the plane, head down with furs and garment bags. I wondered at the equipment a girl must take along when she exposes herself to the public glare.
She was only to be gone a few days here and in Chicago. But she confessed to taking along a full length mink coat, a pink fox stole, a blue fox stole, a white fox stole, a brown mink stole and a white mink stole.
She and her family bought them all, she explained, her folks having saved 45 bills, until they had enough to buy the mink coat.
She said she took along four bags, which included among other things: three formal gowns, 12 street and cocktail dresses, and 20 pairs of shoes. She's nuts about shoes, has 200 pairs at home.
I need all these clothes when I go on tour," she argued. "I usually wear 12 different outfits in one day. I need a new dress for every interview."
Interviews go on all day while she's out touring. She's plus her studio's pictures. She's up at 6 a. m. in order to be alert for her first broadcast. That's usually at 8. She'll do an average of eight radio interviews, the same number of TV, plus two or three to newspapers.

Further plans were discussed for the club's Christmas party to be held Dec. 8 at 7 p. m. at the Yacht Club for families and friends of members. Mrs. W. E. Baker was appointed chairman in charge of place cards and Mrs. Helen Constantine was appointed chairman in charge of Christmas gifts to the girls of the Ocala Industrial School.

Biggest Crowd Of Season Expected For Miami, Alabama Orange Bowl Tilt

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Miami's potent Hurricanes and Alabama's slumbering Red Elephants meet Friday night in the Orange Bowl here, what is expected to be the South's biggest football crowd of the season—close to 67,000 fans.

The Hurricanes, who won six straight before Auburn upset them, 14-13, in Birmingham two weeks ago, are 13 1/2 point favorites over the 7 1/2 point Alabama squad which hasn't scored in 14 quarters and lost to Georgia Tech last Saturday, 20-0.

Alabama went through scoreless ties with Georgia and Tulane before the Tech game, and the Hurricane coaching staff hopes the speedy Crimson Tide doesn't get hot for this one.

"If they ever score, they're liable to go berserk," said Miami Coach Andy Gustafson, who warned his squad, "we'll have to be at our very best, or the same thing that happened against Auburn will happen again."

What happened against Auburn was that Miami had a 13-point lead with 11 minutes left to play when the Plainsmen struck for two touchdowns and won the ball game.

Alabama, usually a tough team in November, is still nursing

Patterson Expected To Defeat Slade In Garden Tonight

NEW YORK (AP)—Floyd Patterson, the precocious, 19-year-old light heavyweight contender, is expected to beat ring-wise Jimmy Slade in an important eight-rounder at Madison Square Garden tonight.

The winner of this short test might wind up as the next title opponent for 135-pound champion Archie Moore.

NBC will broadcast and telecast the bout at 10 p.m., EST.

Patterson, winner of 17 of 18 pro bouts since he won the Olympic middleweight crown, is facing a toughie along the lines of Joey Maxim, the ex-light heavy king who outpointed him in June. Like Maxim, Slade relies on his shifty style and cleverness.

Matthews Retires From Fight Game After 109 Victories

SEATTLE (AP)—Harry Matthews' fistic trail, strewn with 100 victories, 6 losses and the death of his heavyweight championship hopes, came to an end Thursday night.

Matthews announced he has hung up his gloves, once and for all, after discussing the matter with his friends and his wife—but not his longtime manager, Deacon Jack Hurley.

At first reluctant to confirm his retirement as reported by the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Matthews made it official in a late television program.

"Yes, it's true," he said. "This is final."

Hurley, who guided him from the role of a secondary preliminary fighter to the doors of the light-heavyweight and heavyweight throne rooms, expressed surprise and disappointment when advised of his protégé's decision.

"His decision," Hurley said, "if he has made such a decision, was made without my knowledge. Personally, I think he still is a top-notch fighter and could command top purses."

Matthews' announcement came slightly over three months after he was stopped by Don Cockell, British heavyweight champion to whom he had lost two previous decisions.

He lost his three losses to Cockell, Matthews was knocked out in the second round of a fight with Rocky Marciano on July 8, 1952, a few months before Marciano became heavyweight champion.

No baseball man we have talked to doubts that Matthews is destined to be one of the game's great pitchers. He throws the smallest ball, as Casey Stengel describes it.

Sports Roundup

NEW YORK (AP)—There was talk just the other day of hiking the membership of the American League to 10 teams. This turns out to have been the wildest kind of rumor mongering.

What the men who hold the fortunes of the younger circuit dear to their hearts really had in mind was to reduce their roster to seven clubs.

This is the only conclusion we have been able to reach after digesting the remarkable deal which deprives the Baltimore Orioles of practically all their big league athletes and transfers them to the New York Yankees, so that the Yankees will not face the ignominy of finishing second again next season.

If the reader should gather from the foregoing that this corner thinks Paul Richards, Baltimore's new general manager and guiding genius, was given a fast shuffle by George Weiss, the one-man brain trust of the Yankees, he is setting warm. The feeling here, actually, is one of incredulity.

The Yankees, in exchange for nothing they needed, are in receipt of two of the most highly regarded young pitchers in baseball today, Bob Turley and Don Larsen, plus a shortstop who more than likely will resolve all their worries about Phil Hizard's fast-fading talents, Billy Hunter. Those were the players the Bombers needed to beat Cleveland next year, and they got them in one swoop. The Indians' acquisition of Ralph Kiner two days ago becomes almost meaningless by comparison.

No baseball man we have talked to doubts that Turley is destined to be one of the game's great pitchers. He throws the smallest ball, as Casey Stengel describes it.

Revamped Orioles Seek First Division Spot After Yanks Trade

BALTIMORE (AP)—"I think we can now be automatically considered first-division challengers."

That's confident Paul Richards' appraisal of the million-dollar trade he pulled with the New York Yankees yesterday.

"As far as I'm concerned this puts us in business," the Oriole manager-general manager said before he left for Chicago, where he hopes to do some more swapping.

The big deal brought veteran outfielder Gene Woodling, shortstop Willie Miranda and catcher Hal Smith to Baltimore along with pitchers Harry Byrd and Jim McDonald, first baseman-catcher Gus Tirandos and three others to be named later.

For these nine Yankees, Richards had to pay dearly—some fans think too dearly—by passing to New York young Bob Turley, fireballing strikeout king of the American League; hard-luck pitcher Don Larsen; and colorful Billy Hunter who made the near impossible plays at shortstop but missed the easy ones.

Richards, who admitted it was "tough . . . to trade off a guy like Turley, who could be a great pitcher," said there was no way of improving the Orioles without putting the 24-year-old speedball pitcher in the deal.

"Frankly, you're not going to win the pennant with one ballplayer like Turley."

He said acquisition of the Yankee siskone "might put us two years ahead on our farm system." He thinks the trade already gives the Birds a team he could field if he had to that would be better than the one that closed the past season, in seventh place, with 100 defeats.

Bob Turley, strikeout king of the American League last season, was the hero of the Baltimore baseball public while he was winning 14 games for the lowly Orioles.

He received, among other gifts, a new automobile and $1,000 in popular player contests sponsored by local firms.

Today, at least to one Oriole fan, Turley is just a member of the opposition.

When the young fireballer came out of his home Thursday, he was lettered in the dust on his automobile trunk two distinct words: "Damn Yankee!"

Vols, Vandy, Auburn, Miami Picked As Weekend Winners

By MERCER BAILEY, Associated Press Sports Writer

Alabama's Crimson Tide returns to the scene of one of its most lopsided triumphs Friday night, but not even the most optimistic 'Bama fan is expecting history to repeat itself.

The Tide meets Miami's powerful Hurricanes on the same field where Alabama crushed Syracuse 61-0 in the 1953 Orange Bowl.

And, after playing 14 consecutive quarters without scoring, 'Bama is a touchdown underdog—or nine—in the Hurricanes, who have lost only once this year—a 14-13 loss to Auburn.

Unless Alabama beats Miami or Auburn in its two final games, the Tide will finish with its first losing season since 1943. Losses to Miami and Auburn would give Alabama a 4-5-2 record for the year. It was 3-4 in 1953.

Saturday brings several other big games, although six of the Southeastern Conference teams are idle. Kentucky is at Tennessee in the only SEC battle Auburn enters. Clemson, Villanova is at Vanderbilt and Louisiana State meets once-beaten Arkansas in Shreveport, La.

Kentucky will be seeking its first victory over the Vols in Knoxville since 1924—and a triumph could mean bowl consideration and a share of the SEC championship. The Wildcats, by beating Tennessee, could tie with Florida for the title. If Mississippi State beats Mississippi Nov. 27 and the Georgia-Georgia Tech game ends in a tie.

Auburn, too, has bowl possibilities. If the Plainsmen beat Clemson and Alabama they will have a 7-3 record.

Picking 'em:

MIAMI OVER ALABAMA: Alabama has the size but speed is lacking in the line. The Hurricanes have a terrific fast ground attack which 'Bama will find difficult to contain.

TENNESSEE OVER KENTUCKY: Strictly a long shot against the odds. But the Vols' home ground "Jinx" and Tom Tracy's running could do it.

AUBURN OVER CLEMSON: Auburn has some big guns and they quit firing blanks several weeks ago. But the nation's fifth-ranked defensive team could give the Plainsmen a rough afternoon.

VANDERBILT OVER VILLANOVA: Both are without a victory this year but usually it is wise to take an SEC team over an Easterner.

ARKANSAS OVER LSU: The Razorbacks' powerful single-wing, which has swept aside all foes except SMU, will be too much for the weary, short-handed Tigers.

100 Drivers Start Pan-American Race

TUXTELA GUTIERREZ, Mexico (AP)—About 100 drivers from 13 countries took off from this tropical border town early Friday on the first leg of the 1,900-mile, five-day Pan-American automobile road race with its $117,200 in prizes.

The first-day's goal is Oaxaca, 329.3 miles away over winding, climbing, rough and dangerous roads. This leg took six lives last year—two Italian drivers and four pedestrians struck by racing cars.

The finish line is at Ciudad Juarez, on the Texas border. It will be crossed next Tuesday. But many who started Friday will not last that long.

Looking Over

All Florida

NEXT WEEK This one will be sort of an unofficial Navy edition, as our sea-going protectors hit the "jackpot" in two stories. Author John H. Holmes gives us a dramatic picture of the Navy's humane hunters and, incidentally, exposes the "diary" of a mean woman—Hazel, the hurricane that recently cut a wide and destructive swath over a goodly section of the nation's eastern seaboard. The second salty yarn deals with the rescue efforts of the USS Monterey's helicopter crews in the recent Honduras flood disaster.

THIS WEEK A new author for All Florida, Kathryn Mitchell, has an interesting report on racing pigeons on pages 14 and 17. Kathryn is an extremely able newspaper woman from Delray Beach and promises us some more features in the near future.

COMING The dramatic struggle of three young men to produce the first All Florida full length motion picture. The troubles of a green camera crew, inexperienced directors, and a cast working on a financial shoestring in the middle of the swampy Everglades, makes for an unusual success story. The picture, completed amid difficulties that would discourage ordinary men, is now "in the can" and scheduled for its world premier in Orlando the end of this month. Orlando is the birthplace of the idea and the company, Empur Studio.

MORE GANGSTERS Our recent two-part story of the notorious Ashley Gang, written by P. O. Gorder, has generated a regular flood of queries as to whether All Florida Magazine is interested in printing other stories about famous criminals of Florida.

A LITTLE SECRET Don't tell the editor we told you, but that sad little lad on the cover this week won his point. Daddy didn't swing the axe, he went out and bought a turkey—the softy.

OH! THANKSGIVING!

..... Letters TO THE Editor

CONFUSING, ISN'T IT?

Your answer to Mr. Roger Thias (Oct 31) fails to inform him that fish (as well as birds, snakes, insects) are animals, but they are NOT mammals. However, of course, all mammals are also animals, including the whale, the manatee and man. Everything that is alive is either animal or vegetable, at the bottom of the scale it is hard to tell the difference between animal and vegetable.

A TOURIST

(Dear Tourist: Mr. Thias wrote us to take issue with the fact we called the manatee an animal. Mr. Thias labored under the delusion that a manatee, or sea cow, is a fish. We didn't get involved over the status of insects, etc., but admit they are, in the strict sense, animals. In reference to lower forms of life, we again agree. We have several friends who make it difficult to tell whether they are vegetable or animal—one has a hard enough time to be termed mineral.—The Editor.)

A CHALLENGE

In your article about sailfishing "Sails Sighted," Nov 11) you say, or the author, John M. Richey says, that Stuart is the best sail fishing grounds off the coast of Florida. How about Key West?

Down here we have to chase them away from the boat so we can catch the really big fish. Just send a couple of those Stuart fishermen down to see us if they want to know what sailfishing is. They can take the eight footers back home for their kids to play with.

JOHN E. LEBINE, Key West

THEM'S HARSH WORDS, PARDNER

Your sports writer, Bob Balte, states in the Nov 7 issue of All Florida Magazine that the sound of racing outboard motor boats is a "symphony," in fact he calls the article a "Symphony in Sports." Has he ever lived alongside a lake where these marine hot rodders tear around all day? No. Otherwise, he would call his article something that means just the opposite of symphony. Symphony hymphony, I wish they would take their (deleted) boats and go to the bottom.

CARLYLE SWAIN, Winter Park

OUR COVER

We honestly don't know whether All Florida's photographer, Trent Rogers, just happened along as four year old Bert Bailie pleaded to save the family pet from destruction, or he posed what we think is a mighty appealing study of a crisis in a young man's life. In either event, Bert looks pretty sad over the impending fate of his gobbler. We suspect trickery, but Trent won't break down and confess. Our cover hero, however, did admit that he wants to keep his turkey and eat it too—a characteristic not uncommon to the human race. Bert's daddy is David Bailie, Marion County agricultural agent. His is the hand holding the axe.

Florida Puts The "F" In Football

By BOB BALFE
All Florida Sports Editor

FLORIDA colleges, which once roamed far afield in search of football talent, have discovered the quality of the home-grown crop. On the varsity squads of five Florida colleges this fall, 103 Florida youths are performing in varying degrees of distinction. The Gators at Gainesville had 40 Floridians on a squad of 68; Florida State University at Tallahassee had 21 natives in a squad of 44; Tampa University had 18 home-staters; the Stetson Hatters in DeLand had 16 Florida boys on a squad of 38.

This trend is more pronounced each year. Sole exception is the University of Miami, which this year lists only seven Florida gridlers on a squad of 51. The Hurricanes have 18 from Pennsylvania, which appears the height of irony when you consider that the Florida Gators alone have nine gridlers from the city of Miami.

Only a few years ago it was a sad but true condition that many Florida grid prospects jumped at the chance to get athletic scholarships elsewhere, some of them gaining fame, such as Arnold Tucker, the Miamian who quarterbacked the great Army teams of the Blanchard-Davis era; Pistol Pete Williams of Navy tradition; any number of others such as Dick Plasman of Vanderbilt, Gene Ellenson of Georgia, Orville Vereen of Georgia Tech, Jack Whelan of Notre Dame.

There are still Florida grid grads attracting attention in colleges outside the state. Right now there are Florida prep products on the squads at Alabama, Georgia, LSU, Vanderbilt, Tulane, Georgia Tech, Tennessee and Mississippi State, to pick just a few.

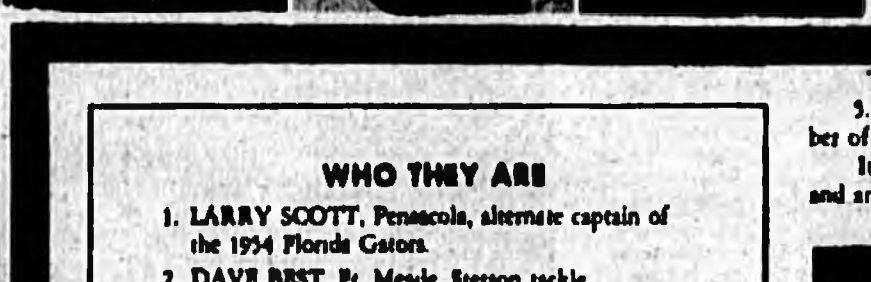

But the emigration is not as popular as it was once. Of 52 boys selected for this fall's Florida High School All-Star game, 35 picked Florida colleges for the future.

Some of the factors in swinging the pendulum to Florida's favor have been:

1. Revival of fortunes and outlook at the University of Florida after long, lean years for the Gators.
2. Florida State University's determined bid to go "big-time."
3. Efforts by Stetson and Tampa to attract Florida gridlers and maintain a sensible balance in athletics.
4. More active alumni scouting salesmanship on the "stay in Florida" theme.

5. Better high school coaching and a resultant increase in number of good prospects turned out each year.

It is all adding up to improved college football in Florida—and another cause for native pride.

WHO THEY ARE

1. LARRY SCOTT, Pensacola, alternate captain of the 1954 Florida Gators.
2. DAVE BEST, Ft. Meade, Stetson tackle.
3. DICKIE HARTE, Mulberry, U. of Tampa end.
4. ARCH CASSIDY, Jacksonville, Gator tackle.
5. BILLY ODOM, Mt. Dora, PSU halfback.
6. ALAN RODBERG, Miami, U. of Miami tackle.
7. BUDDY REYNOLDS, West Palm Beach, PSU halfback.
8. KAYE GREEN, Sparr (Ocala High), Gator guard.
9. FRED ROBINSON, St. Petersburg, Gator quarterback.
10. STAN MARKS, Miami, captain of Stetson Hatters.
11. AL LEATHERS, Bell Glade, Tampa U fullback.
12. CHARLES MANNING, DeLand, Gator end.
13. MIKE SKAROULIS, Tarpon Springs, Tampa U, quarterback.
14. BOBBY MORRIS, Panama City, PSU guard.
15. GENE STEPHENSON, Winter Park, Stetson halfback.

PICASSO

faithfully reproduced in Full Color
—Framing size 11 x 15 inches

Picasso

Note: ALL PRINTS ARE EXTRA LARGE FRAMING SIZE 11" x 15" LARGER THAN THIS WHOLE PAGE

The Genius of PICASSO

Pablo Picasso is the most important painter of our day and, in the opinion of many, the greatest of all time. His energy is prodigious. His creative production, encompassing over half a century, includes realism, the melancholy romance of his famous Rose and Blue periods, primitivism, cubism, abstraction, and more. For his fellow artists, he is always a challenge, leading the way to new discoveries. For the poet and musician, he has been a constant inspiration. And for art lovers, his canvases symbolize the most exciting achievements in all modern art!

Acclaimed by Critics

"Monumental reproductions . . . The unusual quality of the color plates comes nearer to exact reproduction of color and brush work than any we have ever seen." Brooks Watson, Editor, American Artist Magazine

"The series is sumptuous, so low priced so amazingly low it will make you blink in disbelief. The art lover who doesn't take a look at these is doing himself an injustice." Dr. Louis Globe Dipolch

Now You Can Collect the World's Greatest Art Masterpieces—At a Fraction of the Usual Cost!

Imagine in your own home the treasured paintings from the world's great museums, galleries and private collections, as though the celebrated masters had painted them especially for your pleasure. This rare privilege is now yours, thanks to the remarkable new plan of ART TREASURES OF THE WORLD.

How To Put Your Hostess At Ease

By WOODSON ALLEN

WITH the coming of autumn, our thoughts turn naturally to a somewhat different type of entertaining from that which we have so thoroughly enjoyed during the lazy summer. We don't want to say that fall fun is more formal ("formal" is so stuffy) so let's say that it is just a bit less "informal." At this season, guests are even allowed to come inside the house, and even in warm climates it is not unusual for the gentlemen to wear shirts.

Since this represents a change from the free and easy hot weather party, perhaps it will not be out of place to offer some suggestions to our readers which may help them to reap the greatest possible pleasure from the season.

The really knowing guest will arrive early. Nothing is so flattering to a hostess as to have her 8:30 guests show up at 7:50 thus delicately showing their eagerness to help get the party off to a good start. An additional advantage is that you will find the family in a delightfully "natural" mood, finishing their dinner at the kitchen sink. If you will consent to eat the strawberry shortcake, which was to have been the one edible component of their otherwise leftover repast, you will be firmly established as a family favorite.

This early popularity can readily be augmented, and with little effort. A husband and wife team can easily occupy the bathroom for 25 minutes, and in this short period, a reasonably diligent couple can crumple several towels, apply an adequate coating of powder to all of the fixtures and the floor, as well as test, and bitterly ridicule, the host's electric shaver.

This is doubtless your first invitation to this home, so many of your invitations are "firsts," and you will be likely to see a good many people whom you have never met. It is your duty to make these strangers as comfortable as possible. You can often put a doctor quite at ease by asking if he has lost any good patients lately. Most lawyers will respond warmly to your question as to whether he knows the law or knows the judge. A lady novelist will adore being told that the story line of her latest book, though not to be compared with your favorite "Girl of the Lumber-land," is at least better than most of her stuff. If you will offer to give her the plot of the Great American Novel which you just haven't found time to write, she'll be speechless.

You must never forget your obligation to your host, to keep the party alive. No matter how loudly you must shout to drown out the dull gabble of the other guests, force yourself to do so. Your truly magnificent sense of humor is your best weapon for this purpose, and you will do well to cling to the two basic principles for entertaining mixed groups: (1) Anything involving sex is funny per se. (2) The other guests don't know about Red Skelton.

At the first hint that the company is about to disperse, you must rally to your host's support. An unfailing line here is "Stick around, we'll open a bottle of glue."

The moment of your own departure is necessarily a sad one for your host, but you can brighten it by asking "Did you invite that bunch of dodos from choice, or are you trying to get them to endorse a note?"

TREASURE HUNT UNDERWATER

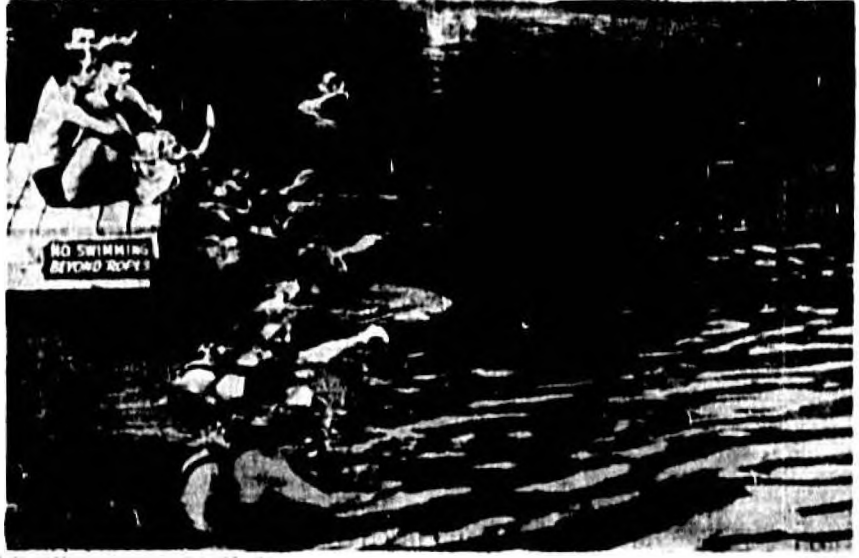

A NOVEL and exciting Florida style "treasure hunt" recently was launched at Rainbow Springs where a large group of the state's ever growing legion of "fin swimmers" competed over (or under) a tough course at the bottom of the glass clear waters.

The snorkel equipped submariners had to fight the swift current of Rainbow River for better than a half mile, stop to sign their names underwater at nine way stations, retrieve a gold coin from the "pot o' gold" at the half way mark and return it to the judges. It was one of the first tests of its nature conducted in Florida for the benefit of aqua lungers.

In the picture above two swimmers are shown rounding an underwater "pylon." Upper right is Betty Hutchinson, winner of the women's free for all race. On dry land she is a model from St. Petersburg. Inserted in upper right picture are Charles and Florence McNabb, man and wife team from Brooksville, who won the treasure hunt swim. Just below, some of the fin swimmers can be seen waiting for the starting gun. At lower right is one treasure hunt contestant "signing in" at one of the turns on the treasure hunt.

Competitors in the events were registered from many parts of Florida and several other states, including California.

Although providing fun for the snorkel swimmers, the treasure hunt proved a constructive means of illustrating the value of such underwater swimming equipment for more serious purposes, according to contestants. The use of aqua lungs and other underwater swimming equipment for fishing, commercial deep sea diving, marine life study and just fun is gaining in popularity over the entire nation—and these underwater conventions are just the beginning, say swim fin adherents.

FLORIDA'S WAR ON FLOWERS

ALONG ONE of Florida's waterways an airplane is spraying the hyacinth plants that are a menace to both navigation and irrigation.

Men, Machines, Chemistry Wage Never Ending Hassle

By P. O. GORDER

WITH Florida, by definition, history, legend and fact, known as Land of Flowers, the title of this article may appear shockingly incongruous, but it is not.

For more than a half century a war has been waged in Florida against one of the most beautiful flowers in all creation. And the flower, highly prolific, has been winning the war. Furthermore, it appears that the war must go on endlessly, at constantly increasing expense, as complete eradication of this gorgeous flower has been widely accepted as impossible.

Described as a menace to health, a hindrance to navigation and flood control, an obstacle to anti-mosquito campaigns, and deadly to fish and other forms of wildlife, this flower is the well but not favorably known Water Hyacinth—a fiend in floral garments.

But Florida has not been alone in this war. Before the turn of the century the hyacinth situation had become so serious that the Federal government stepped in to help in combatting the menace which had spread rapidly through the Gulf States in a comparatively few years since 1884 when the Water Hyacinth was brought to the United States from South America as an innocent exhibit at a cotton exhibition in New Orleans.

How did it get into Florida?

The most frequently heard explanation is that soon after the New Orleans festival, a small quantity of hyacinths was deposited in the St. Johns River near Palatka as a beautification project. And from that small, innocent venture the hyacinth grew and spread into the lakes and streams of a major portion of Florida, until today it is estimated that more than 500,000 acres of fresh water areas have become infested, with worst infestation in Central and South Florida. North and Northwest Florida are almost free of the pest because of annual frosts.

The Water Hyacinth is a beautiful lavender flower, not unlike the orchid, and on one of its petals is found a small orange-color spot centered in dark blue. Nourishment comes from fresh water through roots extending below the surface while its large leaves float on top. Reproduction is at a terrifically rapid rate, and plants form a thick and heavy mat which soon becomes a tight lid over the water's surface, killing fish and other marine life by choking off the supply of oxygen, and water fowl are deprived of their nesting grounds. This damage alone runs into millions of dollars.

In 1946 the loss in wildlife and fish habitat reached the staggering sum of $6,000,000, but according to Dean C. Price, assistant supervisor of the State Hyacinth Control Program operating under the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, this loss has now mounted to $12,000,000 annually. And that's exclusive of an un-terminated loss to potential fishing income in Florida, and other forms of an estimated $4,000,000 damage by water pollution. Some crop values in some areas have suffered losses of 50% because of water pollution.

And a considerable amount of money is being spent in Florida in blocking major arterial waterways. The Florida State Highway Dept. has the hyacinth problem in its mind in its planning of major highway economies.

Since the Florida program is a cooperative effort with the Federal Government, through the Corps of Engineers, the Army has spent $1,171,000 to date. The remainder of the cost is borne by the Corps of Engineers in honor of the major waterways of the state. The budget for the current year is $500,000, a small sum for operations. Of this sum, $500,000 was set aside in previous years for control of hyacinths in the St. John River. The remainder is set up for operations in the Withlacoochee River, the Oklawaha Waterway, and the Hillsborough River.

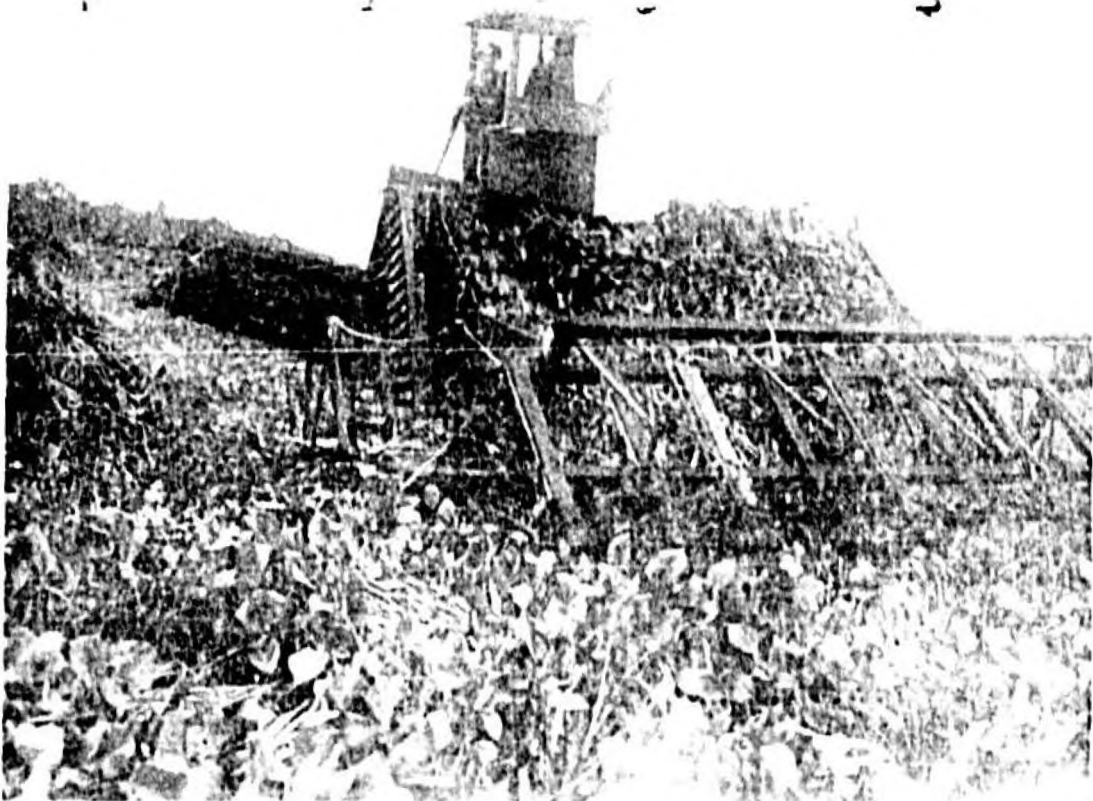

State operations are largely limited to the planting of lakes and streams not under the Federal program. Also, the approximately new Central and Southern Florida Flood Control Districts are carrying hyacinth control programs in rivers and drainage canals in the central and southern part of the state.

On the local level, several Florida counties are carrying out hyacinth control operations, and in some States, such as Florida, plans were made at a meeting in Miami, Fla., to coordinate efforts to control by counties in the State, and to have the State cooperate with the Federal Government, the State Game and Fresh Water Commission, and the Army Corps of Engineers, and to have the State program. Initial work under this program was done in the counties of Volusia, Citrus, Highlands, and Hendry.

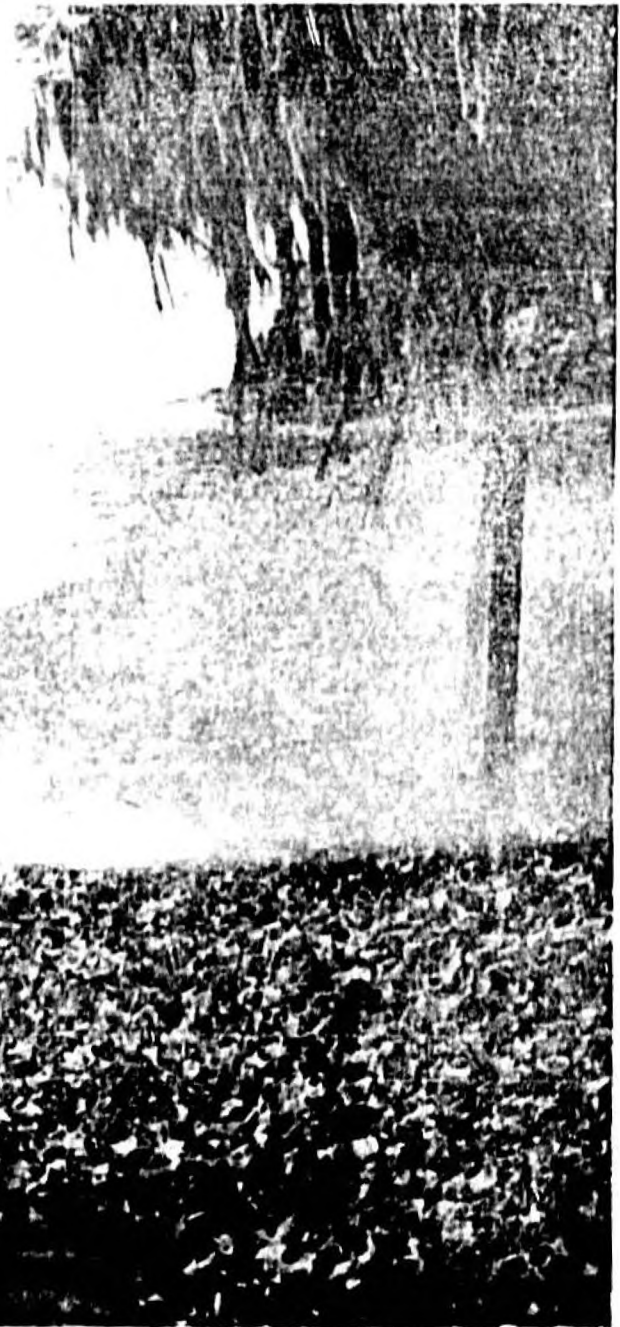

How the control measures are carried out, and what factors are found to be the most effective method of combating the Water Hyacinth.

ANOTHER METHOD of fighting hyacinth is with chemicals. The plants die after a spraying like this, and sink to the bottom where they eventually decompose. The boat is operated by the State Hyacinth Control Div.

THIS MONSTER machine is used to move the hyacinth from waterways to the barge where they are piled up. The conveyor belt picks the plants from the water and tosses them on shore.

MY MEXICAN PHOTO ALBUM

By DICK HAYMAN

MORE and more Floridians are making friends with Mexico at the same time they add college glories to their educational accomplishments. While study time is spent in English-conducted classrooms, free time is spent in absorbing the exotic ambiente of Mexico City and surrounding points of interest.

I am a Floridian and am keeping a picture album of my Florida friends at Mexico City College. Some of my album is reproduced on these pages to show what a wonderful time we Florida students are having in Mexico—besides gaining a liberal and thorough education.

This happy situation has been made possible by Mexico City College, only American-type liberal arts school in Latin America, where almost all classes are held in English, although both student body and faculty are very definitely international and generally bilingual.

Besides combining education with a vacation "south of the border," Floridians enjoy the further advantage of a handful of pesos for each American dollar they exchange. This helps student budgets to stretch very pleasantly, often allowing funds to include some interesting side trips that either tie in with studies or are purely for relaxation and fun.

A representative quarter at Mexico City College finds young and old students on campus, hailing from all parts of our Peninsula State.

One interesting couple are Sam and Pat Hanna of Lake Wales. While Sam's busy working for his Master's Degree in Creative Writing by writing a biographical novel of the Mexican patriot Santa Anna, wife Pat is working for the dean of women in MCC's administrative offices.

The Hannas have been putting their free time to travel use, seeing most of the exotic spots of our southern neighbor. A recent trip took them to the Tehuantepec Isthmus, where they visited the ancient ruins of Monte Alban and Mitla, near Oaxaca.

Tampa's Georgia and Garvin Brown have been one of the most popular couples on campus. A major in the field of Foreign Trade, Garvin is also a champ golfer and has won more than a few tournaments on Mexican links.

Georgia Brown, an extraordinarily artistic G. I. wife, wins her lunch in the practical field of sewing and jewelry making. Adopting old Mexican Aztec designs and hieroglyphics in her handpainting of informal skirts and blouses which she makes out of native Toluca cloth, Georgia is fast turning a hobby into a lucrative "specialty" production. She also fashions and creates ceramic earrings, pins and necklaces to match the designs on her colorfully original play clothes.

Another interesting MCC personality is Clearwater's Nick Tsacrios. A former University of Florida student, he saw action in Korea first in 1947, then again from 1950 to 1952. Only 24 years old, he is soon due to get his Bachelor's Degree in Latin American Studies from MCC. Plans then call for more study and travel in Spain, and eventually an assignment to some foreign post with Nick hopes the government's State Department.

Before he settles down, however, Tsacrios intends to build his bullfighting talents into a short-term, but serious career. Already he has fought becerros, young bulls, with a good deal of success, giving vivid proof of his bullfighting courage and skill.

The Florida torero is studying with Samuel Solis, famed oldtimer of Mexican bullfight glory and manager of many a fine matador.

Nick says, "From books and movies I read and saw, the bullfight bug got me some time ago. I love it and I'm going to make good at it."

From all present indications, he will, too. After graduation from MCC he'll enroll in the University of Madrid to study, but also to keep at his budding torero career and to prepare himself for torero fights in Spain.

Many of these "estudiantes" at Mexico City College are veterans of the Second World War and of the Korean Campaign. They find that their monthly "G. I. Bill" allotments easily meet the low cost of living in Mexico.

Married couples enjoy the luxury of four-room furnished apartments for monthly rentals as low as $10.00 and are able to hire maid-laundresses for only $10.00 to $15.00 a month more.

THE METAL identification tag on a racing pigeon is examined before the start of a race by Charles F. Keels, West Palm Beach.

STRICTLY FOR THE BIRDS

By KATHRYN MITCHELL

ONE of the secrets of nature that man, with all his scientific knowledge, has never solved is the riddle of how the homing pigeon finds its way home. Some authorities on the subject now are considering the theory that extra sensory perception may account for the homing pigeon's remarkable powers of navigation.

However, the members of the Palm Beach Homing Club are not so much interested in what makes their birds come home, as in how long it takes them. These club members—from West Palm Beach, Lake Worth and Boynton Beach—race homing pigeons as a hobby and form one of the links in a vast chain of similar clubs stretched across the country.

According to Raymond S. Keegan, the club's president, the use of homing pigeons is almost as old as mankind. From ancient Egyptian paintings, historians have learned that messages were dispatched by homing pigeons as early as 3000 B.C. Some experts

SPECIAL CANVAS containers are used to transport the racing pigeons to the starting place of a race. Chief Carver is shown here leaving the home loft with a "crate full" of birds ready for a race.

LIKE FIGHTERS the life of a racing pigeon is not all the fun and thrill of a contest, they have to train hard. Above Chief Carver and Seymour Lutz release a group of their pigeons for a training flight, one of many before they will be ready for racing.

THE RACE is over—and a flock of homing pigeons come in for a fast landing atop the home loft. Some of these came from as far as Macon, Ga. in a race against time.

believe the dove sent out by Noah from the ark was, in reality, a Blue Rock pigeon, a species well endowed with homing sense.

The war-time history of these birds is a long and heroic record of countless lives saved through the unerring instinct and the almost magical determination of the pigeon to reach its destination. Frequently flying through enemy shell fire, these small, winged couriers delivered vital messages when other means of communication were impracticable or impossible.

As a peace-time hobby, pigeon racing is attracting new fans daily. Most of these enthusiasts belong to clubs affiliated with the American Racing Pigeon Union, or some similar national organization. Each club conducts its races according to standard rules formulated by the national group. The parent organization also issues numbered, metal bands to its club members, one of which is placed on the leg of each new racing bird, as soon as it is a few weeks old, to serve as a permanent means of identification.

The Palm Beach Country Club has a racing season of ten weeks for young birds and ten weeks for old birds. Young birds are classified as those hatched after Jan. 1 of the current racing year, while old birds are ones which have participated in races in previous seasons. The club releases its birds (approximately 75 to 100 for each race) from various designated communities known as "racing stations." These stations include Fort Pierce, Melbourne, Titusville, New Smyrna,

AFTER LANDING, the racing birds drop through a trap into the loft where the owner removes the temporary racing tag and checks the clock time.

EVERY SECOND counts and here Boynton Beach Police Chief A. C. "Boots" Carver, drops the racing band from his pigeon's leg into the clock which records the bird's racing time on a tape.

Frocks in a will

By PAULA CLARK
All Florida Fashion Editor

PARISIAN GARDEN in bloom is the theme of this resort frock by Aliz of Miami. The designer calls it "Champs Elyses" and highlights a new draped neckline and lower midriff, precursors of the 1955 resort silhouette. Of imported hand-screened pure silk in three multi-colored shades of print, it has tafetized finish. Style No. 2243, sizes 8-20.

VELVET swimsuits, straw with oyster shell capes, Kelly green fox capes and pale yellow shoes.

These are some of the amazing and amusing new fashions bound south from New York for the resort season.

The nylon velvet swimsuit with pushup sleeves and low scooped neckline made its debut at the recent Velvet Ball in New York. The brilliant dyed green fox cape originates on the Pacific coast where another designer has concocted a pink wool jersey jacket with matching pink fox shoulder yoke.

The startling shell cape-collars sports oversized crescents of pearl oyster shell with a fringe of smaller white shells from the Great Barrier Reef near Australia.

On the more conservative side, Manhattan designers are showing lots of white for resort wear, often in cotton twill. Clare Potter, perennial favorite, features knee-length golf skirts and shorts—just a shade longer than Bermuda shorts.

The costume look continues strong, with versions ranging from dresses with camisole tops and matching boleros to soft linen frocks with slim slitted coats.

As for me, you can keep the velvet swimsuit in luscious persimmon nylon velvet. Give me the bumper crop of fox fur. You see, this year may actually see some use out of that nine-foot long black fox boa that I won at a millinery dinner a few seasons back. Until today, it has come out of the mothballs only for special occasions—like the Theta Sigma Phi "Date With the Press" festivities. Mr. Fox has yet to see the audience's side of the footlights. He is becoming a familiar figure, however, with the newspaper fraternity's costume division.

Except for this year. Although we're substituting fashion lampoons for the conventional fashion show at the annual "Date With the Press," I've carefully avoided writing Mr. Fox into the skits.

If fox is finally fashionable, why not flaunt it? Providing the moth balls have done their job, of course.

BROTHER AGAINST BROTHER

By JOHN R. HABERMAN

"Down with the rebels!" That was the cry of the British citizens of St. Augustine in 1776 when news of the Declaration of Independence reached them. A mass meeting was held in the public square, the Parade, to burn effigies of John Hancock and other signers of the Declaration.

Both East and West Florida were much too new as British colonies to have developed within them any strong sentiment for political liberty. Agricultural and other projects for the development of the two provinces were heavily subsidized by the British government, including freedom from taxes for a considerable period of years. The settlers therefore had no strong incentive to resist the established regime, which, as far as they were concerned, seemed benevolent.

Florida was well on the way towards what looked like lasting prosperity, and the people were far too busy in the pursuit of that prosperity to look into the future and see what government by edict and mandate might eventually mean to them personally. Only Chief Justice William Drayton and Dr. Andrew Turnbull of East Florida, with a handful of others, were far-seeing enough to campaign for the right of the people to a representative assembly.

These well-intentioned men were not strong enough to resist for long the dictatorial methods of Governor Patrick Tonyn. As the bloody years of the Revolution wore on, the Governor, after continued wrangling, finally succeeded in getting Drayton permanently removed from his office. And later he had Dr. Turnbull put in jail for a year on a trumped up charge.

But long before that the British forces in Florida came to grips with their American enemies across the St. Mary's River. The struggle began with a projected American offensive urged by the Continental Congress as early as January, 1776. An expeditionary force started out from Savannah to invade East Florida. It was commanded on the march by Colonel William Moultrie of Charleston, a staunch American patriot.

Startling enough, William's brother, John Moultrie, sided with the British and was lieutenant governor of East Florida under the autocratic Tonyn. It was truly a case of brother against brother.

However, the expedition bogged down long before it reached the Florida border. Swamps hampered progress and sickness developed among the troops. The project was abandoned and the American force returned to Savannah.

The remainder of the year, 1776, was spent in comparative quiet along the Florida-Georgia border, except for sporadic raids by one side and the other. Some plantation houses were burned and cattle and Negro slaves carried off. It was alleged that Governor Tonyn's private army of militia, the East Florida Rangers, were particularly active in such sporting pursuits.

"They are nothing more than bandits," railed William Drayton, "a parcel of horse thieves and villains." No wonder the Governor hated him, for secretly, it was charged, that worthy profited from the sale of stolen cattle.

Came 1777—and it was time for the British to take the offensive. Governor Tonyn mustered his Rangers and prevailed upon General Augustine Prevost to undertake a raiding expedition into Georgia.

Tonyn despised Prevost quite as much as he did Drayton and Turnbull, but there was little he could do about it. Prevost was fully backed by the British high command. He was not one to be kicked around by a domineering provincial governor of Tonyn's stamp. Nevertheless, Prevost agreed to launch the expedition into Georgia.

In February, 1777, Lt. Col. Lewis V. Fuser led a combined force of regulars, Rangers, and Indians across the St. Mary's River. The Indians were commanded by none other than the Seminole chief, Cowkeeper, whose allegiance to the British remained unwavering.

On the 18th, a detachment of Rangers, and Indians succeeded in capturing Fort McIntosh, a small stockade occupied by the Americans on the Satilla River. Then the heterogeneous outfit returned to Florida, driving with them almost 2,000 head of cattle.

After returning to St. Augustine, Colonel Brown, who commanded the Rangers, complained of difficulties with the regular troops. "Colonel Fuser looks upon our Rangers as common plunderers," he told the Governor. "And he treats the Indians like small boys." Fuser was an old-line regular officer, and he despised slack-disciplined militia troops.

There was perhaps some justification for his attitude. The burning and plundering wrought by the Rangers and their Indian allies so enraged the Georgians that they sought redress by a counter attack on East Florida. In March the Georgia State Council of Safety appointed Burton Gwinnett to command the expeditionary force. Gwinnett, Governor of Georgia, was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence.

In the beginning he was against armed assault on Florida. "Many people living there under British tyranny favor our cause," he said. "Let us seek to enlighten them on our side."

Gwinnett had bundles of proclamations printed to be distributed in Florida, inviting the people to join the Americans. But before this could be accomplished, he became persuaded that armed invasion would be necessary after all, that there were not enough people in East Florida of a mind to revolt against the British government.

The expeditionary force was mustered at Savannah under the joint command of Burton Gwinnett and General Lachlan McIntosh. However, these two were soon at loggerheads. Gwinnett charged that McIntosh's brother had supplied rice to British Floridians.

In the interest of harmony, the Council of Safety put Colonel Elbert in charge of the expedition. With Elbert in command the Americans were determined that East Florida should be theirs.

THE healthful climate of Florida should be potent with the fragrance of the aromatic and savory herbs that every experienced cook uses in the fine seasonings of foods and in making choice pickles and relishes.

It is not practical for every gardener to grow a large number of herbs, yet every Florida home should grow at least caraway, basil, Marjoram, chives, coriander, dill, garlic, ginger, lavender, parsley, sage, mint, thyme, tarragon and turmeric, which are most in demand for seasoning.

With the exception of ginger, mint, tarragon and turmeric, the above herbs may be planted at this time of year. These exceptions should be planted in February or March.

The following may be useful for those who are in doubt about the use of the herbs suggested to be grown.

Basil—used in pickling, in gravies, for soups, stews, salads, meats, fish cookery and tomato dishes. Sweet green basil is just the right herb for flavoring turtle soup.

Caraway—used in rye bread, cakes and confectionery, cheese and pickled beers. The young shoots and tender leaves are sometimes used in raw salads.

Chives—used in salads and dressings, dry bean dishes, jellied chicken, hot vegetables, omelets and other mixtures where a flavor similar to a very mild onion is desired.

Coriander—grown for its seeds and used for flavoring bread, poultry dressings, smoked sausage, curries, spiced meat, fish and pickles in the same manner as caraway seed is used. Also used candied, ground for cakes or sprinkled over cookies, sweet rolls or bread.

Dill—used in flavoring pickles.

Garlic—used frequently in almost all forms of savory cooking but in minute quantities.

Ginger—one of the most popular spices. Fresh green ginger is used in chutneys, giving them much of their spiciness and pungent flavor.

Marjoram—the green parts are used for seasoning soups, meat pies and dressings. Sweet Marjoram was used by careful colonial housewives to scent linens.

Mint—(Spearmint) used to flavor iced tea and other cool and refreshing drinks, ices and dessert sauces.

Parsley—wonderful for garnishing. The coarse leaved turnip rooted varieties are used in soups and stews.

Sage—used in seasoning poultry dressing, sausage and other meats.

Savory—like thyme and sage is used sparingly in the seasoning of meats.

Thyme—used like sage for poultry seasoning.

Tarragon—used best in salads, vinegar, mustard and pickles.

Turmeric—used in the popular bread and butter pickles, mustard and similar types.

Puddin' Proof

With each new season, there are many different foods that we have to look forward to on our dinner table. With the fall season in full swing and Thanksgiving our next holiday feast, we just naturally think of fresh, juicy-red cranberries. Many of us wouldn't think of serving a Thanksgiving dinner with roast chicken or turkey without including, as part of the trimmings, cranberry sauce in some shape or form. There are many delightful ways of including cranberries as part of a fruit salad, as a stuffing for turkey, chicken, other poultry to be served, or as a garnish for ham slices. Cranberries put up in any meal. Try it sometime with a sandwich for lunch. You'll never be without it! For your enjoyment we are going to include on our weekly cookbook page some recipes using cranberries in time for your plans for dinner on Thanksgiving Day.

Weekly Household Hint
Tarnish on silver, which has been stored for a long time, can be removed by soaking in potato water for about two hours.

Mexico and MCC hold all manner of adventure for Floridians who make the jump over the Gulf into the Latin world, not so far by miles, but drastically removed by custom and way-of-life from American living.

Over 13 years old, Mexico City College has become alma mater to thousands of students not only from all over the United States and Canada, but from Central and South America, Europe, Hawaii, the Philippines and even Asia, as well.

They follow programs in Spanish, Foreign Trade, International Relations, Latin American Studies, and Anthropology. Art and Creative Writing Centers, too, claim serious artists and authors, beginners and professionals.

All find that Mexico City and the Mexican provinces offer further education and entertainment, aside from MCC's formal courses.

Whether taking a side-trip out to one of the fabulous old pyramids, built hundreds of years before the Spanish conquest, or just enjoying a bargaining session with a flower vendor in an open air Indian market, Peninsula Staters find every day in Mexico a challenge to their imagination.

For an increasing number of Floridians, Mexico has become the familiar home of a more easily understood good neighbor. MCC is making both peoples realize that friendship recognizes no boundary!

Mr. Petra declares that the airboat-airplane combination has proved the most effective mechanical device for controlling hyacinths, and while the U. S. Corps of Engineers also use cutter boats and conveyors to pick up the plants and dump them along the river and canal banks, both agencies use a chemical known as 2,4-D to kill the plants by spraying. The thick masses then sink to the bottom where decomposition sets in, without harm to fish or other forms of wildlife.

Since the hyacinth control program was started in April, 1952, under the State Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, Mr. Petra said that about 22,000 acres of hyacinths have been sunk. Work was recently completed on a 4.5 mile stretch in the Chulohatchee River from Lake Okechobee to Fort Myers, with about 2,000 acres sprayed and sunk.

"If proper interest and ample funds are provided, it is possible to cut the hyacinth infestation from a major to a minor nuisance in Florida," Mr. Petra declared. To obtain sufficient funds he advocates a one dollar fee for resident county lake and pond fishing licenses, and he estimates that this would raise approximately $500,000.

If this plan fails to win approval, Mr. Petra proposes inauguration of a coordinated cooperative control agency comprising 15 to 18 of the major counties where drastic control measures are required.

So the war against this beautiful flower continues, but in this case there is no room for kindly sentiments. It is a fight against a devastating thing, a ruthless killer that has fastened its tentacles in a death grip so firm that authorities doubt that it can ever be completely broken. But it can be controlled and its damage held down to a minimum where it will no longer be a major menace to the state and its resources.

Daytona Beach, Jacksonville, Titon, Ga., Macon and Atlanta.

Each Friday night during the season, the members bring the birds they are racing to the club's headquarters near West Palm Beach where racing sheets are made out, listing each bird entered, its number, color and sex. Temporary rubber racing bands bearing a second number, are placed on the pigeon's unbanded leg. This number also is recorded on the racing sheet as a double check on identification.

The birds are shipped by railway express to the chosen racing station where they are released by the express agent who notifies the club secretary the exact time of release.

Each club member has a specially designed racing clock, box shaped, about 12 inches in length and six inches deep, with an interior mechanism that records on a tape the exact time the clock is set. The racing clocks are synchronized with a master clock at the clubhouse, then are sealed to prevent tampering.

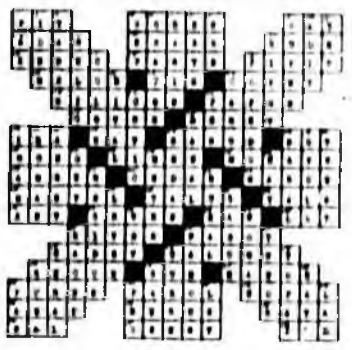

The hours of waiting begin. The winner is not the bird arriving home first, but the one flying the greatest number of yards per minute. It is necessary to determine the winner in this manner since the owners of the birds and the weather. A healthy bird, flying with a tailwind, can average as high as 50 miles an hour in flight. Bad weather and a headwind will cut the flying speed down to 50 or 10 miles an hour. The altitude during these sprints exceeds 1,000 feet.

Homing pigeons are not like their family brothers of the street. They must be cared for and protected and given a well regulated diet. If left to fend for themselves, they may perish. A word of warning to bird hunters—it is a federal offense to kill homing pigeons.

The racing season is now in full swing. All over Florida pigeon fanciers are devoting their weekends to this unique hobby. If you'd like to join in the fun, you will find other clubs located in Miami, Tampa, Deland, Daytona, Jacksonville and Orlando.

REPAIR TOYS—Four Photographic Squadron 62 men play the role of "Santa's helper" as they repair used toys for the Christmas joy of the children at the Mount Dora orphanage.

NAAS Men To Provide Happier Yule For Kids

Squadrons Split Up Preparations For Annual Party For Children

A repeat performance as Santa's helpers is underway by the sailors of Photographic Squadron 62.

The idea caught fire quickly for now even the plumpest of the VJ-62 men had an excuse to eat ice cream as the wrappers took on an air of value.

The plan soon spread over the entire station as NAAS personnel and four units of the Aviation Service Squadron 9 (AV-9) started collections of the wrappers, money and used toys to sound out a strong note of going to St. Nick's.

Mr. Don's Christmas Church home for orphans was selected as the program's focal point.

Other attempts toward the attainment of a modern hospital in previous years had withered away, time and again.

Stemper, studied the situation which centered primarily around a provision in the will of Bert Fish that hospital facilities should be built here, in DeLand and in New Smyrna Beach.

Commission Decides

Reasons listed by the committee for having a hospital were (1) it is vitally urgent that Seminole County have a hospital.

The committee also composed known as the Citizens Hospital of Forrester Beckwith, T. E. Year, Bralley Odham, Karlisle Souleider, John Ivey and W. H.

Bids For Sewer Job Tabled For Study

The City commission learned at its meeting last night that the Bumby and Stimpson Construction Co., of Orlando, including its nearest competitor by more than $200,000 for contract No. 1, the water and sewer program, which takes in the enclosing of Pump Branch.

County schools superintendent R. T. Milrose came before the commission to negotiate for water and sewer lines to be constructed to the new elementary school now under construction at Laurel Ave. and 27th St.

Milrose said he felt the school board could advance the necessary money to pay for the construction outside the city limits as the school board had no area large enough within the city.

Major Earl Higginbotham went along with the requests of Governor William Stearns and J. Denver Condit that a meeting be held jointly among the school board and the city and county commissions to discuss the facts and figures of the program.

Eisenhower Thinks Court Seeks Means For Integration

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower said today he understands the Supreme Court is trying to find some sort of decentralized process for ordering race integration in the public schools.

Eisenhower told a news conference he believes the court, when making its final ruling, will take into consideration the emotional and practical problems involved in ending segregation.

He said he does not believe the court will be arbitrary. Eisenhower made no flat prediction but there was some surprise among newsmen that he ventured even a guess about what the Supreme Court might do in issuing its final order on the desegregation issue.

He said it was his understanding the court was trying to work out the problem under some sort of decentralized process.

This seemed to indicate enforcement of the court's final desegregation order might be left to regional authorities — perhaps to U. S. District Courts.

Several of the states whose present separate schools for Negro and white children would be affected by the final Supreme Court ruling have argued that the changeover must be fitted to local conditions with no absolute, universal formula for instant application everywhere.

Counsel for parents of Negro pupils involved in the controversy, on the other hand, have called for immediate full integration by the opening of next fall's term at the latest.

The Supreme Court postponing oral arguments on the term by its final order, has raised the possibility that it might not even get around to the matter at this time.
