Fast arrests

LONGWOOD — Seminole County sheriff's deputies made two arrests Sunday within a short time after arriving at the scene of a home burglary.

According to sheriff's spokesman Ed McDonough, a couple returned to their Longwood home on Ruth Boulevard shortly before 10 a.m. to find two men burglarizing their home. The homeowner took his handgun from his car while his wife phoned 911, and subsequently detained one of the men in a bedroom, holding him at gunpoint. The man was identified as 18-year-old Paul Moss, who is a Lake Mary High School student, but claims to be homeless.

After deputies arrived, they located the second man, identified as Mark Beloch, of 457 Sun Lake Circle, Lake Mary, within a block of the residence, and placed him under arrest.

Each of the two was charged with burglary to a structure and criminal mischief. McDonough did not indicate that anyone was injured during the incident.

School district explains need for more tax money

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Certainly, school taxes are going up, Seminole County district officials admit, but it's not as bad as you might think.

"It's an increase," said John Pavlechak, the district's executive director of finance, "but it's not a huge increase."

According to Pavlechak, the average homeowner will pay less than $20 more in school taxes this year than they did last year if the property assessment remains the same. The owner of an average $100,000 home with $25,000 homestead exemption will pay $775.28 in school taxes, $18.30 more than the $756.98 on the last bill.

Still, the difference in millage rates from 1991-92 to this year is not as much as it could have been, Pavlechak said.

In 1991-92, he said, the millage rate was 10.089, the next two years it dropped to 10.071 and 10.043 respectively. Last year, despite a slight decrease in the capital improvement millage, the figure jumped to 10.093. "We kept it down as best we could," Pavlechak explained. While the district has increased taxes slowly, he See Taxes, Page 5A

County deals with Springs flooding

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Lovely large homes, manicured lawns and lush landscaping in a parklike setting complete with a springs and waterway is a dream place to live for many but even such an idyllic place might have a few problems.

Some residents of The Springs, a development near Longwood, have encountered flooding problems, especially during the rainy season caused by a buildup of sediment on the Little Wekiva River.

Larry Sellers, director of public works reported to the Seminole County commissioners Tuesday the work has been delayed waiting for permits from the various agencies with jurisdiction. The St. Johns River Water Management district had given the county the green light to deal with the sediment removal on an emergency basis within 60 days. The county was unable to do the work during that two-month period, putting the job back through the regular permitting procedure before the water management dis- See Flooding, Page 5A

Page Private School adds second site in Sanford

By VICKI DeSORMIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — Turn the page to a new branch. Page Private School already has a Sanford campus on Airport Boulevard, but with the impending opening of the Seminole Towne Center and the growth of the northeastern corner of Seminole County and southern Volusia County, the chain of prestigious private schools is expanding.

A few years ago the Living Waters Church occupied a unique sanctuary at the corner of State Road 16 and Aero Street. Water once cascaded down the northside of the roof, now Spanish tile covers that path and a school is emerging around it.

Really, this facility has lent itself very well to a school, director Pam Carper said.

The pews, lights and other eccumenical fixtures were donated to other area churches, she explained. Some of the other items from the physical plant, such as a large water tank, were also easily given away.

Sunday School classrooms were turned into classrooms for the school.

A large hands-on science lab has been included on this Page campus. Such a facility is not yet available at the other Page campuses, but it will be after the concept has been piloted at the Seminole Towne Center campus.

Classes at the new school are scheduled to begin on Sept. 11 and Carper said an open house will be hosted at the new school on Saturday, Aug. 25 from 10 a.m. until noon.

Carper said that many of the families that have already enrolled in the new school or who have expressed an interest in attending are employees of the Seminole Towne Center mall, Siemens Shomberg Carlson or Central Florida Regional Hospital. Residents of several of the subdivisions on and near Rimhart Road are also interested in the school.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

Governor names Women's Equality Day

TALLAHASSEE — The "strong-willed, dedicated and visionary women" who pushed for their right to vote will be honored Saturday in Florida on Women's Equality Day, Gov. Lawton Chiles said.

Women's groups will hold an 11 a.m. to 3 p.m. rally with readings, performances and music in the Capitol courtyard to celebrate the 75th anniversary of women's suffrage.

Women's right to vote was written into the U.S. Constitution Aug. 26, 1920, when Tennessee became the last of the necessary three-fourths of the states to ratify the 19th Amendment.

Doris Weatherford, historian for the Florida Commission on the Status of Women, described a hard-fought battle for the vote, with liquor, tobacco and gambling interests fighting against women's suffrage.

Before final passage by Tennessee lawmakers, Weatherford said, "there were quorum calls and there were people who were actually kidnapped and taken over state lines to keep them from voting."

Florida lawmakers didn't ratify the amendment until 1969, when Chiles was in the state Senate.

Now, there are six women in the state Senate and 25 in the state House, Chiles noted at a news conference in the Capitol Rotunda.

"I am happy and proud that women have a loud and strong voice," he said Tuesday.

Women make up 52 percent of Florida's population and 54 percent of its registered voters.

"The fact that women have been in those offices now has shown others they can run," said Secretary of State Sandra Mortham, formerly the state House Republican leader. "Women are being received well now in the political arena. They are able now to do political fund-raising and that has not always been true."

China Coast restaurants close

ORLANDO — Darden Restaurants will expand into other dining concepts and begin an aggressive acquisition strategy after closing its 51-restaurant China Coast chain, the company says.

Darden, an Orlando-based spinoff of General Mills Inc., announced Monday that strong local competitors had made its China Coast restaurants in 10 states money losers.

Darden, which said it expects to announce a new restaurant line in December, operates 717 Red Lobster and 475 Olive Garden establishments. It is the nation's largest full-service restaurant company.

China Coast's $71 million in sales represented only 2 percent of Darden's $3.2 billion in total sales in fiscal year 1995. The 5-year-old concept was a test that didn't work out, company officials said.

"It wasn't meeting our financial targets, and we don't believe that it ever would," said company spokesman Rick Walsh. "And even if we had fixed it, it never would have been at a rate that we would have been comfortable with."

Jettisoning China Coast will allow the company to accelerate its acquisition strategy, along with new internal developments. Darden has a new head of acquisitions, Stoddard Crane, who joined the firm from General Mills headquarters in Minneapolis just a week ago.

Closing China Coast will free up some $40 million in cash flow and result in $25 million in savings by converting half of the properties into other Darden restaurants and selling the other half, the company said.

The closing will reduce Darden's first-quarter earnings by $45 million, or 28 cents a share, after taxes.

But company officials said there would be minimal job loss, with most the 3,000 China Coast employees shifting to other company-owned restaurants.

"The new management team wanted to give China Coast a chance to work," Walsh said. "We did make some gains in (improving) the food, the service and the operation. But it wasn't enough. It's a very competitive segment, and these independents do a very good job."

Nature trails to be developed

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County Commissioners agreed to move forward Tuesday with the development of two trails using money from the Natural Lands program, not the county general fund.

The commissioners agreed to approve $155,000 from the voter-approved fund used to buy and preserve sensitive lands for the design of Seminole Wekiva Trail and Cross Seminole Trail as well as preparations for a countywide trail system. The decision will be formalized at a regular meeting.

Senior Planner Colleen Rotella in the proposed action plan sought $55,000 from the general fund in FY 1995-96 for the work on the two designated trails and an additional $50,000 in FY 1996-97 for the countywide trail plan.

Commissioner Dick Van Der Weide said the trail program appeared to blend nicely with the Natural Lands Program. The county has already acquired some of the property where trails will be developed.

Public access to the property purchased and preserved under the Natural Lands Program was part of the proposal, noted Commissioner Daryl McLain. Development of the trails would help fulfill that promise.

With the commissioners' go-ahead, county staffers will aggressively pursue federal and state grants for development of the county trails. Commissioner Win Adams and BCC Chairman Randy Morris both speculated federal funds currently available for this type of project may fall victim to cuts by Congress in the near future.

Deputy county attorney Lonnie Groot said, in his opinion, the Natural Lands funds could be used for the trails.

Walking, hiking, biking and even horseback riding may be recreational activities developed on some of the proposed trails. The county staff will work gathering public input and coordinating actions with cities affected by the trail paths. On the countywide program, a 20-25 member countywide task force will be established to review collected data, graphics/mapping and the conceptual plans.

The commissioners discussed the program at a Tuesday morning work session before their regular meeting.

Known as "Making Tracks," the local trail system will provide multi-use facilities to provide recreation benefits, serve as neighborhood connectors to schools, parks and nearby business as well as an alternative transportation option.

The trail projects on a larger scale, would connect to regional networks enhancing local economies and tourism.

Morris, who recently visited County Wicklow, Seminole County's sister county in Ireland, noted the Wicklow Trail was the first one done in Ireland setting up the national trail system. Development of the local trail system might be noted on a monument or marker, linking the similar projects, he suggested.

Jobs are still available for stores in the Seminole Towne Center, shown in an artist's rendering.

expected a great number of jobs will be filled during this weekend's job fair.

County asks public to help design seal

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Break out the drawing pencils and dust off your artistic ability. The county commissioners are looking for a logo portraying the best of Seminole County to be used in a county seal.

After viewing several sample drawings, most prominently featuring a Florida map noting the county's location, BCC chairman Randy Morris suggested a contest. The samples presented were enclosed in plain and decorative circles or rectangles.

The seal could be used on everything related to the county, from official documents to flags or banners.

Morris said he would like a more natural feeling illustrated on the seal, perhaps featuring the natural beauty of the St. Johns and Wekiva rivers, rather than a map showing the county's location. He was told the modern day trend in seals is map logos. Seals featuring artistic renditions were the trend in the 1940s, county manager Ron Rabun explained.

The commissioners will seek the help of groups such as the Seminole County Arts Council and the arts department at Seminole Community College to screen the entries. The commissioners would select the winning entry from the pared-down list or have the right to reject all entries.

Morris proposed a $500 prize be offered for the winning entry. Specific requirements for the contest will be formulated and announced soon.

Schools' plan for benefit dollars

By VICKI DeBORNIER
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — For those who can't wait to get into the Seminole Towne Center mall for a little shopping ahead of the crowd, the Foundation for Seminole County Public Schools is offering the perfect opportunity.

As part of a fund-raiser for three non-profit organizations including the Foundation, the mall will be open to those who want to take a look around and get a jump on the other shoppers who won't get a chance to get into the facility until three weeks later.

The other beneficiaries of the event are the Orlando Science Center and the Central Florida Zoo.

The Foundation will receive $20 from each of 200 tickets sold by the board. Each of the other beneficiaries will earn a similar amount from the sale of their $25 tickets.

Only tickets sold by the Foundation will benefit the schools directly.

The money the Foundation collects from the fund-raising effort will be used to finance programs such as the teacher mini-grants and many of the Teacher of the Year activities.

Teachers sometimes need a little extra financial assistance to pay for programs that take students beyond the standard curriculum to a higher plane of learning. The mini-grants help the teachers purchase supplies for their programs.

For example, the multicultural programs at Idylwild Elementary School expose youngsters to the traditions, costumes and dining habits of people in other countries. At the end of the curriculum students, teachers and families gather for a feast featuring the foods of many nations.

The grants are usually in the amounts of $250 to $500 each.

The funds raised are also used to pay for student incentive programs for youngsters who need a little something extra to help them push harder in school.

The fund-raising effort, sponsored by Burdines, will take place from 6:30 to 9 p.m.

It will include hors d'oeuvres, a fashion show, door prizes and a 10 percent discount at Burdines for that evening only.

The school district hopes the public will support the schools by purchasing a ticket to the event.

To buy a ticket that will help the Seminole County schools, call the Foundation office at 322-1252, ext. 384.

Disaster training for county residents

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Are persons entrusted with the safety of others well versed in disaster preparedness? Seminole County is offering two free classes on the subject this Thursday and again on Friday.

While this information will be educational and informative, the classes may be more necessary than had been perceived when they were planned. At the present time, we have Hurricane Humberto and two tropical depressions heading for Florida. What problems they may present remain questionable, but experts predict Florida will have more than the usual number of tropical storms and hurricanes this year.

The classes are called "Helping People Help Themselves" and Emergency Management coordinator Ken Roberts says it's an excellent opportunity to gather information. It is particularly designed for people interested in helping coordinate disaster preparedness for their community such as homeowners' associations, not-for-profit organizations, schools, churches, and others.

Cooperative Extension Service Director Barbara Hughes-Gregg says this educational information will help people learn how to better prepare for hurricanes.

Included in the two-day program are discussions on how to talk to people on the phone who are in a crisis, house preparations, safe drinking water, refrigerator and freezer outages, calling 911, emergency shelters, small and large pets, insurance, and the need for volunteers especially to help man phones during disasters.

Two seminars will be held. The first is Thursday, Aug. 24 from 6:30 until 9 p.m., with the second one on Friday morning from 9 to 11:30 a.m.

Advance reservations are required. Phone Nancy Lodge at 323-2500, ext. 5559.

All aboard, for historic Ybor City

By NICK PFEIFAUF
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Museum of Seminole County History is now taking reservations for an upcoming trip of historical sites in the Tampa area. The trip is being planned for Sept. 22.

According to museum spokesperson Kay Bartholomew, the all-day excursion will focus on the Henry B. Plant Museum with its exotic veneer of Moorish Revival architecture featuring minarets, the lustrous onion domes.

The museum, a national historic landmark, was built by Henry Plant, a railroad giant who left an indelible mark in Florida, including the city of Sanford, with his buildings and railways. Locally, his name is directly associated with Sanford's Pico and Welaka Buildings in downtown Sanford, both of which are on the National Register.

In addition to the museum visit, the Seminole County historical group will partake of a tour of the Ybor City State Museum, and lunch at the original Columbia Restaurant in Ybor City.

Disaster preparedness

We have all heard the words of warning about what to do if a hurricane threatens our area. Anyone who is unfamiliar with recommendations to have bottled water, home protection (windows etc.), and other needs, probably hasn't been here very long.

Most people however, have at least gone through Hurricane Erin if not others in our past. They know how to protect themselves.

Now, Seminole County is offering to help people who are or will be faced with helping others. They are looking for homeowners association representatives, church and school officials, heads of clubs and organizations, and members of the general public who may be willing to volunteer their services.

Take just one of these groups. Most of us who have never managed a condominium complex or been responsible for a neighborhood association or neighborhood watch. If we were in that position, would we be prepared to help whenever and wherever needed should we be threatened?

What would you do if someone calls to say that the roof of a building has collapsed? Do you call the police, fire department, public works, who?

Seminole County is offering two opportunities to obtain this information. The first will be held this Thursday evening from 6:30 until 9 p.m. The second is Friday morning from 9 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. It doesn't cost anything to attend, and the information you may be able to obtain could be invaluable.

Keep in mind, this is supposed to be one of the most serious hurricane seasons Florida has had in several decades. We still have over three months in the official hurricane season to go. We have probably not seen the last of the damage and destruction one can cause.

Then too, there are other disasters about which people must be concerned, such as forest fires, major sink hole problems, heavy rainfalls, and the worst of them all, tornadoes.

Even if you have no immediate responsibilities for other than your own family, Seminole County is seeking persons willing to volunteer time to help in such areas as handling phone calls through the Disaster Training Team Phone Hotline.

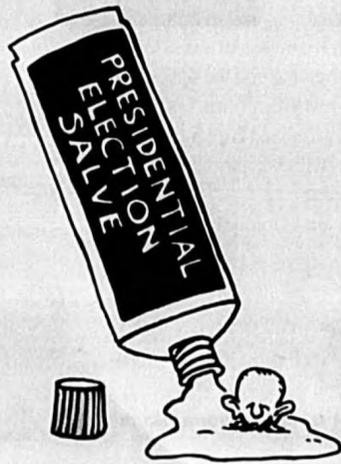

Whether or not an individual is in a supervisory or managerial capacity, these courses need your attendance.

Advance reservations are required. Phone Nancy Lodge, 323-2500, ext. 5559 and sign up for one of the classes. Not only you, but many others will be glad you did.

The capital isn't suffragette city

When the National Women's Party presented a marble bust of three women's suffrage leaders to Congress in 1921, the gift was flatly refused. The year before, Congress had ratified the 19th Amendment, granting women the right to vote, but actually honoring the women who had emancipated half the population... well, the men on the Hill weren't ready for that.

The Women's Party delivered the statue anyway, and the likenesses of Susan B. Anthony, Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Lucretia Mott were finally accepted and given a lavish reception in the Capitol's rotunda, the most honored spot in the Capitol. Within three months, however, the monument had been shunted off to the Capitol's crypt, which was then a dark and dirty storage area beneath the rotunda. Our former leaders also whitewashed the inscription, part of which read, "Woman, first denied a soul, then called mindless, now arisen herself an entity to be reckoned." Such words were considered radical and even offensive.

But that's history, right? These days we're all much more sophisticated, much more evolved. Our leaders in Congress may not be perfect feminists but they must at least understand the symbolic significance of keeping our founding mothers in the Capitol's crypt, directly beneath monuments to George Washington, Alexander Hamilton, Roger Williams and Martin Luther King. And they must certainly understand how terribly unwise it would be to let the 75th anniversary of the 19th Amendment go by without letting the statue see the light of day.

Well, guess what. They don't understand, at least members of the House of Representatives don't understand. Due to the House's failure to act, some of the most revered women in American history will remain in the crypt. Granted, the crypt is much cleaner and well lit these days, and some tours do go through the area, but it is still the most subordinate position in the Capitol.

Karen Staser, whose husband works for Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, stumbled upon the 8-ton monument when she and a friend decided to exit the Capitol through the crypt. "I saw a statue of three women and I was very excited, since I had never seen a monument of a woman in the Capitol before," says Staser.

Once Staser learned of the statue's history, she contacted Sen. Stevens. Stevens was particularly close to this issue because the woman who raised him, his grandmother, was a suffrage activist; he swiftly introduced a bill that called for the suffrage leaders' promotion. The bill passed the Senate unanimously last July.

Then it went to the House. And wouldn't you know Speaker Gingrich never brought it up. Aides say he merely ran out of time, but Gingrich is reported to have said that he didn't bring it up because he didn't want to be associated with "a bunch of liberal women." At press time, Gingrich's office had not returned my phone calls.

It's certainly no surprise that Newt Gingrich doesn't give a hoot about women's history. What is a surprise is that he failed to recognize this incredibly painless way to give a nod to the women of this country.

Then it went to the House. And wouldn't you know Speaker Gingrich never brought it up.

SOON THIS COMMON HOUSEHOLD DEVICE WILL COME WITH A CONGRESSIONALLY-MANDATED ELECTRONIC V-CHIP TO BLOCK OUT VIOLENCE.

THIS WON'T.

Using kids as a smokescreen

Pornography offends the sensibilities of many Americans. Nonetheless, most of us defend the right of flesh merchants to publish their glossies and produce their films.

Most Americans believe that Timothy McVeigh and O.J. Simpson committed cold-blooded murder. But, again, most of us defend the right of these accused men to a fair trial before an impartial jury.

It's not that we condone the actions of pornographers or certainly not murderers. We simply recognize that, by conscientiously defending the rights of even those we find reprehensible, we protect the rights of the entire citizenry.

That's why authentic civil libertarians ought to be alarmed by President Clinton's politically transparent campaign to reduce - he says - teen-age smoking. The president's real aim is to kill the cigarette industry through draconian government regulation. And he's using kids as a smokescreen.

Indeed, it already is against the law to sell cigarettes to teen-agers. And state and local governments throughout the country have gone several steps further from taxing up the price of cigarettes (making them less affordable to teens) to banning cigarette vending machines to forcing tobacco companies to pay for anti-smoking ads targeted to teen-agers.

The government is doing about as much as it can to discourage underage smoking. The only remaining step - the Final Solution - is a de facto ban on cigarettes, which would affect not only teen-age smokers, but also the nearly 50 million adults who choose to smoke.

And that is precisely what's behind Clinton's anti-smoking proposals. Last week he gave the Food and Drug Administration clearance to declare nicotine a drug. This maneuver is intended to usurp the Federal Trade Commission's regulatory authority over the tobacco industry and place it in the hands of the FDA's grand inquisitor, David Kessler.

Kessler shares Clinton's desire to regulate the tobacco industry out of existence. He can hardly wait to summon executives at Philip Morris and R.J. Reynolds and Brown & Williams to his chambers and tell them to cut the nicotine content in their cigarettes.

The problem is that the president does not have the power to give the FDA jurisdiction over tobacco. It is Congress that created the FDA, that determined the agency's regulatory authority and that retains the sole power to expand that authority.

The FDA's mandate is clearly spelled out in the federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act, which specifies that the agency has purview over "drugs" or "devices" only if they are "intended for the use in the... treatment or prevention of disease in man." In other words, the only drugs that the FDA may legally regulate are medicines.

If it were not bad enough that Clinton is trying to circumvent federal law in his crusade against smoking, he also is trying to take away the tobacco industry's constitutional right to market its products.

Indeed, Clinton proposes that the government tell tobacco companies in which newspapers and magazines they could advertise. He also proposes that cigarette makers be barred from being title sponsors of sporting events like Marlboro Cup auto racing or Virginia Slims tennis.

The pretext for the administration's abrogation of the tobacco industry's First Amendment rights is provided by Health and Human Services Secretary Donna Shalala, who insists that "children are being bombarded with images that smoking is cool."

The Clintonites seem to think millions of teen-agers would abstain from smoking were it not for the Joe Camel cartoon character. But the average American teen-ager is far too sophisticated to be duped into smoking because some advertising display features a cartoon.

Yes, there have been studies that suggest that kids are influenced by Joe Camel. But those studies were produced by highly biased groups with an anti-smoking agenda.

One need not be a teen-ager or a smoker to be concerned about President Clinton's political campaign against cigarette companies. If the government can get away with trampling on the tobacco industry's free-speech rights, if it can get away with all-but-banning smoking through regulation, it will be that much easier for the government to limit the rights and freedoms of other industries and individuals that it vilifies.

Pornography offends the sensibilities of many Americans.

Suspicious slip-up closes base

WASHINGTON - An internal report by the U.S. Navy suggests that sloppy paperwork may cost nearly a thousand workers their jobs in Louisville, Ky. - while a company that once employed Defense Secretary William Perry stands to reap the financial rewards.

Officials at Chicago-based FMC Corp. aren't hiding their joy at the demise of the Naval Surface Warfare Center (NSWC) in Louisville, Ky. The Louisville plant, where more than 1,000 civilians help make surface warfare equipment for the Navy, was one of the bases recently pegged for closure by the Independent Base Closure and Realignment Commission (IBRAC). With the Louisville base out of the way, FMC is now the only remaining source of this equipment for the Navy.

Perry sat on the board of FMC until February 1993, when he stepped down to join the Clinton administration. Pentagon spokesman Glenn Flood told us Perry had "no direct involvement" in the Navy's BRAC process and has performed no favors for FMC or any other defense contractor.

The Louisville base, also known as the Ordnance Center, was finally put on the closure list this year - which marks the final round of military base closings that began in 1989. BRAC was created by Congress in 1988 to take politics out of the base closure process by having an independent panel of experts choose which bases should close. The list is based on statistics submitted by the individual bases, which are then evaluated by each service branch before the list is sent on to the Pentagon. Once the commission submits its list, Congress must vote it up or down without amendments.

But an internal Navy report obtained by our reporter Aaron Karp found that "higher echelon" Navy officials altered some of the data submitted by the Louisville base "without appropriate justification and supporting documentation." According to the report, these changes appeared as if they were part of the original information submitted by Louisville officials. The report does not mention which officials were responsible for altering the original figures.

For FMC, the decision to close the Louisville base is a long-standing dream come true. For several years, FMC has lobbied hard for shutting down the Louisville operation, arguing that a private contractor like itself could do the work better. Yet those appeals fell on deaf ears within the Pentagon, as Louisville was spared during the 1993 closure process on the grounds that the numbers failed to justify closing the base.

At one point, a top FMC official became frustrated enough to invoke some Reagan-era vernacular in describing the competition. In a March 16, 1993, intraoffice memo, FMC employee Jim Orr referred to the Louisville base as the "Evil Empire":

"We have just lost round 1 of the 1993 Base Closure fight to the Evil Empire a.k.a. NSWC Louisville." Orr wrote. "It is certainly frustrating and discouraging for Louisville to have totally avoided the DOD list.... It is us or them! The market place is not big enough to sustain both of us."

A spokesman for United Defense, FMC's Minneapolis-based Naval Systems Division, told us that FMC did not try to influence the closure process this year, but that it did respond to the Navy's request for information and opinions about the Louisville base.

said, the state funding for the district has not kept pace with inflation. During the current school year, the district would need to receive $4,295 per student per year. This year, the district will get $4,051 per student.

In addition, Seminole gets less money than any of the Central Florida counties. Neighboring Volusia County gets $4,226 per student; Orange County earns $4,141 for each student; $4,093 goes to Osceola County and Lake County earns $4,084 per student.

"The gap is not as great as it used to be, but because we have traditionally been a bedroom community with a lower tax base, we've gotten less money."

Supt. Paul Hagerly recently explained the school district budget proposal to a gathering of Rotarians in Sanford.

Pavelchak said.

The introduction of new industry and businesses, such as the Seminole Towne Center mall, has increased the district's tax base and should bring more money to the students, he noted.

District officials say they are hoping the increase will help them meet the increasing cost of operating the district. Construction of two elementary schools, the completion of Winter Springs High School and the reconstruction of Lake Howell High School are the major construction programs taking place this year.

Technological upgrades are also taking place at most of the schools in the district. "We're just trying to keep up," nk said.

trict and the Army Corp of Engineers.

The permit request was pulled from the August meeting of the SJRWMD Board of Governors after a permitting condition was added at the request of the Friends of the Wekiva. The condition was added after the required public notification and without the county's knowledge. Sellers added, "Notwithstanding our disagreement with the condition." The condition dealt with additional wetlands planting and its location.

Sellers said the matter will be on the water management district's Sept. 12 meeting agenda. Barring unforeseen obstacles, the engineer added work will begin after the permit is approved.

"The scope of this maintenance project is the removal of accumulated sediment and debris along the Little Wekiva River, within the Springs development, specifically targeting the road crossing at Woodbridge Road and two of the pedestrian bridge areas," outlined J.R. Ball, stormwater programs manager. "The dredged material will be stockpiled onsite for drying. The debris will be removed from the site and the dried-out material will be spread on the land between the River and the clubhouse to form a 'beach' type area for recreation."

The plans have been given verbal approval from the water management district and Friends of the Wekiva. Ball added and staff is in the process of obtaining approval from the Springs. Written approvals from all parties will be obtained, he added.

The commissioners expressed concern money obtained through the legislature to deal with problems in the Little Wekiva Basin will be directed outside the populated areas which flood.

Initially $450,000 was requested but the legislature allocated $150,000 for work in the basin. Where to spend the allotted funds is being discussed by the Little Wekiva River Restoration Work Group. In addition, talks with Rep. Stan Bainter to obtain more funding are planned.

About 12,800 acres or 20 square miles (48 percent) of the entire Little Wekiva Basin is outside Seminole County.

"There is much that could be done to improve the Basin," Ball states in a memo to Ron Rabun, county manager. "The primary problem appears to be that there is a lot more water in the river than there has been in the past. Add to that development within the flood plain (the Springs and other places) and you have a problem. And, Mother Nature is simply doing what she always does: finding an equilibrium point where the water and the river are in harmony. That translates into the river gouging-out more channel area to carry the increased flow and depositing the sediments (gouge) where the river's forces can no longer carry them down stream, usually referred to 'alluvial plains.'"

Sediment and erosion control measures within the Basin to diminish sediment deposited downstream in Seminole County appears to be the approach of choice, Ball adds. "The idea of modifying the river to accommodate the increased flow, at least in some specific places, in my view, is appropriate."

The onset of the rainy season will have some residents of the Springs keeping an eye on the rising water.

"We've really had a lot of interest from people coming to this high growth area for the mall and the other businesses that are coming in," Carper said.

Though the school is expected to house students from age two to fifth grade, she expects there will be few fourth and fifth graders in the campus' first year of operation. Unless people are really dissatisfied with their youngster's educational situation, she noted, they are unlikely to transfer them during the last years of elementary school.

Carper said the school will provide transportation to the other Sanford campus for middle school age siblings of students at the Seminole Towne Center campus.

"We are looking forward to exciting growth in the Page family every day," Carper said.

a decade and, frankly, activities director John Cullum said, he was getting a little smelly.

"No one wanted to get in there any more," Cullum said.

So, some school supporters, including Walt Disney World vice president Billy Higgins, got together to create a replacement for Sammy.

Sculptor Prayong Deeying from Disney first made a small clay sculpture based on the rendering of the historic Seminole chief used in the school's logo.

From that, a staff of volunteers from Disney sculpted a polystyrene head and shoulder similar to the character heads used by the characters at the theme park.

The school boosters paid $300 for the materials used to create the mascot, $500 less than they expected to pay for a prefabricated model.

"It's really big," Cullum said, "but it's light, so it shouldn't be a problem for anyone to wear."

The student who first gets to wear the Chief Osceola costume has not yet been selected. Applications for the honor will be accepted from the student body starting today.

Cullum said that while other institutions, like the Atlanta Braves and the Cleveland Indians, have been chastized for using a Native American caricature as their mascot, such has never been the case at Seminole High.

"And I think because Chief Osceola is reproduced so tastefully there won't be a problem," he said. "He won't be as clownish as the others."

Chief Osceola will make his debut at the Seminole's football game against the Lyman Greyhounds on Friday, Sept. 1.

City decides where adult entertainment allowed

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The city's proposed adult entertainment ordinances are scheduled to be brought up for public hearing and second reading this Thursday night. The city staff as well as the Planning and Zoning Board have recommended approval of both of the items.

The first pertains to designating adult entertainment establishments to be permitted in the M-2A zoning district. State law says a city must provide a place, designated in a specific zoning category, where this type of establishment can be allowed. The laws are based on the U.S. Constitution pertaining to freedom of expression.

City Attorney Donna McIntosh

has told the commission that there must be land somewhere in the city that can support an adult entertainment establishment.

The first, Ordinance 762, also defines the various types of adult entertainment and explains the wording which may be utilized.

The second, Ordinance 763, pertains to regulations which must be followed by anyone seeking to establish an adult entertainment establishment.

Among individual types of businesses outlined in the two ordinances are: adult bookstore, adult entertainment establishment, adult massage establishment, adult motel, adult performance establishment, and adult theaters.

Alcohol is to be banned in any adult entertainment establishment.

The ordinance also adds wording to the city codes pertaining to distance requirements from such establishments near any pre-existing school, church, business that sells alcohol for consumption on premises, park, or land designated as or being used as residential.

A 500-foot setback will also be required from such arteries as Interstate 4, Rinehart Road, Lake Emma Road, and Lake Mary Boulevard. The setbacks have been added because the only areas within the city which can be zoned M-2A, are west of Rinehart Road and Lake Emma Road.

Rather than being listed on the city commission agenda among other ordinances to be considered, the city has separated these adult entertainment ordinances and will have special public hearings near the beginning of the meeting.

The Lake Mary City Commission meeting will begin with a special workshop at 5 p.m. this Thursday. The regular meeting is to begin at 7 p.m., or as soon thereafter as possible.

Lake Mary City Hall is located at 100 N. Country Club Road.

Lake Mary agenda

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — The Lake Mary City Commission meets this Thursday evening. Prior to the regular meeting, a special workshop has been called beginning at 5 p.m., to discuss budgetary matters.

Finance Director Jackie Sova is expected to discuss various methods of financing capital improvement programs recently approved by voters in a city-wide referendum. Commissioners are also scheduled to examine the police department vehicle inventory as it may pertain to the fiscal year 1995/96 city operating budget.

Mills was waived-injured after reaching a financial settlement with the team. Rookie quarterback Kelly Holcomb and offensive line-man Sean Love also were cut.

CHICAGO — Steve Decker hit a two-run homer and Jeff Conine had a two-run double in a four-run second inning as the Florida Marlins ended a five-game losing streak with an 8-6 win over the Chicago Cubs.

Pat Rapp (8-7) won his third straight game, pitching five innings and giving up six hits, four runs and two walks with one strikeout. Robb Nen, the fourth Marlins pitcher, struck out the side in the ninth for his 18th save.

With Florida ahead 2-1 in the second inning, Andre Dawson was hit by a pitch and Decker followed with a homer into the left-field bleachers. Jesus Taveras was then safe on second baseman Todd Haney's fielding error and was sacrificed to second. After Kurt Abbott hit into a fielder's choice, Conine hit a two-run double for a 6-1 lead.

Greg Colbrunn had an RBI double in the fourth and a run-scoring single in the sixth.

Longwood advances to Winner's Bracket finals

Special to the Herald

KINSTON, North Carolina — Championship teams find ways to win.

A day after saying that he figured it would be hitting that would be his team's saving grace, Longwood manager Andy Westervelt had to rely on pitching, defense and execution as the Southeast Regional champions advanced to the Winner's Bracket finals of the Babe Ruth Baseball Prep World Series with a 2-1 victory over the Mid-Atlantic champs from Upper Darby, Pennsylvania Tuesday night.

Longwood will now have today off as the Loser's Bracket takes center stage. On Thursday, the local 13 year old squad will meet the other undefeated team in the tournament, East Regional champion Trumbull, Connecticut, with the winner advancing to the championship round. The worst that either Longwood or Trumbull can now finish is third place.

J.T. Williamson and Kevin Graves combined to hold Upper Darby to one hit, a scratch single in the top of the first inning, but the Pennsylvania nine still had plenty of chances to score.

"Williamson did a good job," said Westervelt by phone Tuesday night. "But he had trouble with his control all night. He walked seven which is very unusual."

Longwood was not much better with the bats, being held to an all-star play low of four singles, one each by Justin Hawarah, Jose Rosado, Kevin Melillo and Jeff Epperson, but the locals executed when they had an opportunity to score.

Upper Darby got its lone run in the top of the first inning and the score remained 1-0 until the top of the fifth inning, when Upper Darby appeared on the verge of putting the game away.

Two walks and a wild pitch put runners on second and third base with no one out and Westervelt had Williamson intentionally walk the Pennsylvania batter to load the bases.

"That was the whole game right there," said Westervelt. "After the walk I brought in Graves and he struck out the next two batters before getting the final out on a tapper back to the mound. He just came in and slammed the door."

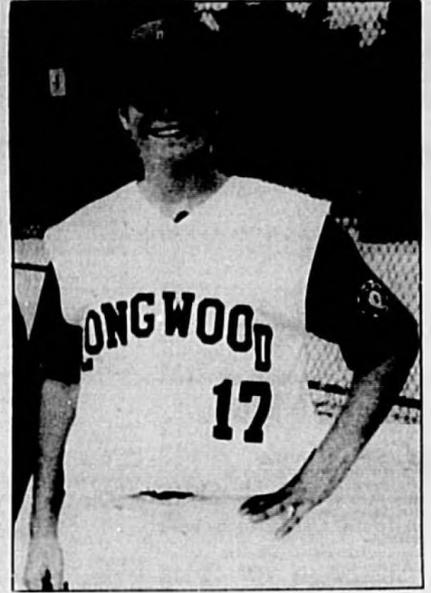

Longwood took advantage of the emotional lift of getting out of that jam, by scoring both of its runs in the bottom of the fifth inning.

Anthony DiFonzo, Longwood's number nine hitter in the lineup, led off with a walk and Graves laid down a perfect bunt. Both runners were safe when the Upper Darby pitcher threw wildly past first base for an error.

"I would have given Kevin (Graves) a hit on his bunt, but the official scorer called it an error. We'll take it though," commented Westervelt.

With runners on first and second and no one out, Melillo put down a sacrifice bunt, moving the runners to second and third. With the infield drawn in for a play at the plate, Hawarah blooped a single over the first baseman's head to score DiFonzo with the tying run and Graves scored moments later on a wild pitch.

With the lead in hand Graves took care of the rest, retiring the final six batters he faced, three on strike outs, to close out Longwood's 15th win in 18 all-star games and second without a loss in the World Series.

Graves, who has been the winning pitcher in both games, has thrown six perfect innings, including striking out 11 of the 18 batters he has faced. In 40 innings of all-star pitching he has allowed just one earned run, an ERA of 0.175.

"He's (Graves) been unreal," said Westervelt. "Right now he's the most valuable player of the tournament. If we go on to win the series, he will definitely be the MVP."

Volleyball jams open prep year

By BARY GOATMAN
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The preseason preparation isn't quite complete for Seminole County High School volleyball teams, but they will be unveiled today and tomorrow at a jamboree hosted by Seminole High School.

Boys and girls volleyball teams from Seminole, Lake Brantley, Lake Mary, Lyman, Lake Howell and Oviedo will each play two games to 15 points as part of the jamborees. Two courts will be set up, allowing for four teams to be in action at once. Each of the games is expected to take 20 minutes.

"This is a jamboree not a classic," Seminole volleyball coach Beth Corso said. "This will tell coaches a few things that they need to know about their teams."

The boys jamboree is scheduled for 8 p.m. today (Wednesday), while the girls action begins at the same time tomorrow night. Admission to both jamborees, which has been set by the Florida State High School Activities Association, is $3 per person. The schedule is identical for both jamborees.

Lake Howell will face Lyman on the A court to open play, while Oviedo and Lake Brantley square off on the B court. Immediately following the conclusion of those games, Seminole sees its first action of the night against Lyman on the A court, while Lake Mary makes its debut against rival Lake Brantley on the B court.

Allison dominates at Speed World

By PAUL MARSEGLIA
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — Port St. John's Jared Allison, the current mini-stock points leader for the National Racing Insurance racing series, outclassed a 20 car field to win the mini-stock feature in FASCAR (Florida Association of Stock Car Automobile Racing) Friday night at Orlando Speedworld.

Meanwhile, Saturday's racing action scheduled for New Smyrna Speedway was cancelled as heavy winds and rain squalls moved through the area.

Allison, who drives the Beach Amoco Ford Pinto, took advantage of starting on the pole to bolt to the number one slot ahead of fellow front row starter Kevin DiMeo. Allison quickly moved to a commanding lead and led every circuit as he raced to his 27th win of the season.

"The car has been on a roll lately," said the 20-year-old Allison, who has only been racing for two years. "We're a little bit down on the motor, but our handling is excellent. We race some tough competition in this division, so I'm real pleased with our performance."

Chasing Allison to the flag stand were DiMeo, Gene VanAlstine, Richard Newton, and Bob Doxie.

Jerry Symons, driving the Cowboy's Salon/Park Ave. Auto Parts Chevrolet Cavalier, outclassed the competition to win the 20 lap modified feature. Symons, who started the race from the fifth position, charged through the field to take the point on lap three.

Once in command, Symons was never challenged as he raced to his 11th win of the year. Rounding out the top five respectively were Bill Gunn, Shane Held, Joe Middleton and John Willis.

Raymond Lovelady held off a stubborn Eddie King to win the 25-lap late model headliner. For the major portion of the race, Lovelady and King raced nose-to-tail with Lovelady maintaining the advantage. With four laps to go the checkered flag, Lovelady finally Earnhardt finished 35th in Sunday's GM Goodwrench Dealers 400 at Michigan and finds himself 314 points behind series leader Jeff Gordon, who increased his total to 3,205 with a third-place showing.

Sterling Marlin is still within striking distance with 3,038 points, but Gordon put some breathing room between himself and two other challengers, Mark Martin and Earnhardt.

Both suffered engine problems in Sunday's race and although they maintained third and fourth in the standings, respectively, they find themselves in a hole to Gordon. Martin, who was 38th at Michigan, is 285 points off the lead with just 10 races remaining in the year.

Ted Musgrave remained fifth with 2,845 points, followed by Terry Labonte (2,654), Rusty Wallace (2,637), Michael Waltrip (2,594), Bobby Labonte (2,572) and Bill Elliott (2,560).

The NASCAR Winston Cup Series will travel to Bristol, Tenn., this weekend for the Goody's 500.

Heat may get Riley for draft pick

Associated Press

MIAMI — The battle over the rights to Pat Riley may end with the Miami Heat giving the New York Knicks one of its two first-round 1996 draft picks.

Two Knicks officials indicated the team would be willing to settle its taping claim against the Heat before NBA commissioner David Stern issues his ruling late this week or early next week. The Miami Herald reported Tuesday.

The Sun-Sentinel of Fort Lauderdale also reported that both teams had agreed a first-round draft choice would be conveyed to the Knicks when the Heat signs Riley. The Sun-Sentinel said the Knicks are seeking either the Heat's own 1996 first-round selection or the one the team acquired from Atlanta in a November trade.

Riley walked away from his job as the Knicks' coach in June with one year remaining on his contract. He has indicated he expects to coach in Miami this season.

Dave Wohl, executive vice president of the Heat, said the team will not send Glen Rice or any other player to the Knicks as compensation for allowing Riley to coach this year.

"If there were any compensation issues, there would be no players involved," Wohl said. "We like our team. We like our players."

He would not say what the Heat is willing to give the Knicks, but cash and draft picks appear to be the only options.

Wohl is under a gag order from Stern stemming from the taping charge. He refused to comment on an earlier report that Riley would be given a five-year contract worth an estimated $35 million to coach the Heat.

Riley was a 758-299 record in 13 years as an NBA coach. He won four championships in nearly nine years as coach of the Los Angeles Lakers.

When on assignment, the pictures shot by Herald photographers vary in angle, pose and content, and not all of them are published immediately. From time to time, the newspaper takes a second look at those news and features scenes from around Seminole County.

In memory

The flag at the Sanford waterfront has flown at half-mast this week in honor of diplomat Robert C. Frasure, Assistant Secretary of Defense Joseph J. Kruzel and Air Force Col. Samuel Nelson Drew, a National Security Council aide. The three were killed in an automobile accident in Bosnia where they were part of the peace negotiating team. A reconstituted team has returned to Bosnia while the flag continues to hang lower in Sanford.

HOGs bike for M.D.

Andy Fonda and Amy Thompson of Orlando were among the participants this Sunday, as over 100 motorcycles belonging to members of HOG, Harley Owners Group, conducted a Muscular Dystrophy Association Charity Run. After starting at the Longwood VFW, the cyclists stopped at all "Crazy Wings" locations in northern Seminole County, collecting donation canisters which had been on display. The event ended with a party at the Marina Hotel on Lake Monroe in Sanford.

their fans. On hand for the event were Mark, Tia, Jonathan, Christina, Russel, Janessa, Jay, Stephanie, Ashley-Ann, Aimee, Audrey, Melissa and Stephen.

Testing rough waters on lake

Roy Buehimaier of Paola recently moved to Seminole County from Michigan. He took time one recent afternoon to test the waters of Lake Monroe on his sailboard. Rough waters, shifting winds and the threat of the hungry gators forced him from the water on that trip, but he'll probably be back.

Community activist Rod Layer, right, has been organizing various events to promote Sanford. Jim Carroll, left, has volunteered to coordinate the Fourth of July celebration. Some of the other events Layer is working on include the Miss Sanford competition, the Taste of Sanford and a Civil War re-enactment.

Watchin' the water go by

While the fish weren't biting much on a recent afternoon, Carl Johnson didn't let the opportunity to watch the other wildlife and the rushing waters of Lake Monroe. Johnson's makeshift seat is a comfortable and functional place from which to watch the world go by.

Film review: 'Desperado' shameless ripoff of original hit

By PATRICIA BIBBY
Associated Press Writer

In 1992, a small film came out that was made for just $7,000 and told a fresh, witty story about a young singer mistaken for a gangster. "El Mariachi" quickly became the darling of art-house audiences.

Three years later, its director, inflating his budget almost tenfold, has returned with "Desperado," a part sequel, part shameless ripoff of his original hit, with half the charm and twice as much blood, guts and gore.

Here's a short inventory of elements from "El Mariachi" grafted on to "Desperado": Both have a mariachi with a gentle soul but, remarkably, perfect marksmanship. Both have a cool druglord (one named "Moco," the other "Bucho") sequestered in a luxury estate and tended to by scantily clad women. And both have a beautiful heroine with mysterious ties to the druglord who offers the mariachi safe haven.

Both film sets also are virtually identical, since both movies were filmed in the border town of Ciudad Acuna, Mexico.

Then there are smaller touches director Robert Rodriguez obviously enjoys — the lighting of matches off other people's faces, spent bullet cases falling to the floor and the distinct clanking sound they make, and the self-conscious editing of slow motion and rapid scenes.

What's lost in this more expensive Columbia Pictures update, however, is the light comic touch that made "El Mariachi" so irresistible and winning. Instead, "Desperado" comes off as a bloated, slick redux of the original.

Antonio Banderas plays the mariachi in "Desperado," drawing on a familiar archetype — the misunderstood loner out to avenge the killing of the woman he loved. He has a wounded hand to match his wounded heart, so instead of playing the guitar, he uses the case to tote around an army's arsenal of weapons.

Banderas hides his pretty face behind a thick mop of hair during much of the film, which is probably just as well — he's far too handsome to be taken seriously as the bad boy he's supposed to be here.

He's hunting the elusive Bucho (Joaquin de Almeida), the drug czar who also has dispatched a team of thugs to kill the lonely mariachi.

Along the way, Banderas is taken in by the beguiling and sexy bookstore owner, Carolina (Salma Hayek). And he confers with his buddy, the hilarious Steve Buscemi ("Reservoir Dogs"). (The other notable bit player is Cherch Martin, who plays a bullet-dodging bartender.)

Throughout it all, Rodriguez employs a bloodlust so rampant that several scenes verge on gore orgasms: Scores of men get blown away — point blank — with high-powered guns, and the neighborhood bar keeps a mop on hand to clean up the ubiquitous puddles of blood. Wounds are shown up close, oozing red and floridly meaty.

Like "Pulp Fiction," this R-rated film tries to desensitize viewers by showing such extreme carnage and destruction that it takes on cartoonish characteristics. And, in a clumsy wink to the master of sado-cinema, Quentin Tarantino, "Desperado" also plays its violence for laughs.

It even includes a protracted cameo with Tarantino, in which he enters a bar with another man. Within a few minutes, the man is shot in the head and Tarantino's face is covered with blood and brain splatter, a la "Pulp Fiction."

The net effect is pure 14-year-old male fantasy: endless scenes of guys blowing each other away, with a few moments of rest while the hero gets naked with a babe, set to a great soundtrack, courtesy of the band Los Lobos.

Rodriguez wore almost as many hats for "Desperado" as he did on his earlier effort: He wrote the screenplay, directed, co-produced and edited it.

You'll get more bang and laughs for your buck, however, by renting the original "El Mariachi" and skipping "Desperado" altogether.

Lighten up with a turkey meat loaf

SENIOR EDITOR

DORIS DIETRICH

Fall will soon be here and with cool weather approaching, it's time to fire up the oven for some hearty and robust foods. Meat loaf, like apple pie and corn on the cobb, is an all-time favorite among all ages. And like all prized dishes, meat loaf is undergoing contemporary changes.

Since turkey is naturally low in fat, calories and cholesterol, it is the perfect beginning for new-style meat loaves.

The following turkey meat loaves, guaranteed to be deliciously different, have been developed by the National Turkey Federation.

TURKEY SPINACH LOAF

1 lb. ground turkey
1 package (10 oz.) frozen spinach, thawed and well drained

1/2 cup seasoned bread crumbs
1/2 cup chopped onion
5 Tbsp. Dijon-style mustard, divided

Vegetable cooking spray
1 jar (2 oz.) chopped pimientos, drained
1/2 cup grated Mozzarella cheese

In medium bowl combine turkey, spinach, bread crumbs, onion and 4 Tbsp. mustard.

In (9-inch diameter) pie plate sprayed with vegetable oil, shape mixture into loaf approximately 6-X 4-inches. Bake at 350 degrees F. 50 to 55 minutes or until meat thermometer, inserted in center of loaf, registers 160 degrees F, and juices run clear, remove from oven.

Spread remaining 1 tablespoon mustard over top of loaf and top with pimientos and cheese. Return to oven and bake additional 4 to 5 minutes or until cheese is melted.

To serve, cut into slices. Serves 6.

Turkey Spinach Loaf is a delicious example of how ground turkey can lighten up meals.

SWEET & SPICY TURKEY LOAF

(Serves 6)

1 lb. ground turkey
1 cup finely chopped onion
1/2 cup crushed herb stuffing mix

2 Tbsp. parsley flakes
1 tsp. each salt and poultry seasoning

1/2 tsp. black pepper
1/4 tsp. dried sage
Vegetable cooking spray

1/2 cup whole cranberry sauce
1/4 cup jalapeno jelly
2 Tbsp. chopped walnuts, toasted

In medium bowl combine turkey, onion, stuffing mix, parsley, salt, poultry seasoning, pepper and sage.

In (9-inch diameter) pie plate sprayed with vegetable oil, shape mixture into a round loaf approximately 7-inches in diameter.

Bake at 350 degrees F. 45 to 60 minutes or until meat thermometer inserted in center, registers 160 to 165 degrees F. and juices run clear.

In small saucepan, over low heat, combine cranberry sauce and jelly. Cook 5 to 7 minutes or until sauce is smooth and bubbly; stir in nuts.

To serve, top with sauce and slice.

TURKEY APPLE LOAF

1 lb. ground turkey
2 medium Granny Smith apples, peeled and grated
1 cup whole wheat bread crumbs

1/2 cup finely chopped onion
1 tsp. each ground ginger and salt

1/2 tsp. each pepper and nutmeg
Vegetable cooking spray
1 Tbsp. apple jelly

In medium bowl combine turkey, apple, bread crumbs, onion, ginger, salt, pepper and nutmeg.

In (9-inch diameter) pie plate sprayed with vegetable oil, shape mixture into round loaf approximately 7 inches in diameter. Bake at 350 degrees F. 45 to 60 minutes or until meat thermometer inserted in the center, registers 160 to 165 degrees F, and juices run clear.

Spread apple jelly over top of loaf and bake 5 to 7 minutes or until jelly melts and forms glaze.

To serve, slice and serve hot. Serves 4.

Feta cheese adds pizzaz to grilled vegetables and open-faced sandwiches.

GRILLED STUFFED VEGETABLES

1 pkg. (4 oz.) crumbled feta cheese with basil and tomato
3 Tbsp. olive oil, divided
1/4 tsp. garlic powder
2 yellow squash, cut in half lengthwise
2 zucchini, cut in half lengthwise

Mix feta cheese, 1 Tbsp. of the oil and garlic powder. Score vegetables along cut sides with knife. Brush with remaining 2 oil. Grill over medium heat for 10 to 15 minutes or until tender. Serves 4.

Microwave a nutty, juicy apple pie

Many American folk-tales have apples at their "core." A carefully polished red apple is sure to please the teacher. Being "the apple of one's eye" is a delightful position. Most of us don't care to "upset the apple cart" but we may find an "apple-pie" (short-sighted) bed amusing. One thing involving apples is certain. There is something truly American and "down home" about apple pie.

Upside-down Apple Walnut Pie is likely to become a favorite version of this dessert. It's nutty, crisp crumb crust, made from crushed cinnamon graham crackers and a generous sprinkling of broken walnuts, is piled high with juicy apple slices. It is micro-baked in only 12 minutes, then turned upside down for a new way to enjoy this old favorite. Whirlpool Corporation home economists recommend loosening the edges before inverting the pie. Then carefully remove the waxed paper. It is delicious served warm topped with a spoonful of whipped cream and a pinch of ground cinnamon.

UPSIDE-DOWN APPLE WALNUT PIE

1/4 cup margarine or butter
1/2 cup broken walnuts
1/4 cup firmly packed brown sugar

1 1/4 cups crushed cinnamon graham crackers (18 2 1/2-inch squares)

8 cups sliced, peeled apples
1/2 cup granulated sugar
3 Tbsp. flour
1/4 tsp. salt

1 Tbsp. lemon juice
1 Tbsp. margarine or butter

Cut waxed paper round to fit bottom of 9 1/2-inch deep-dish glass pie plate. Lightly grease bottom of pie plate. Place waxed paper in pie plate. Set aside.

Melt the margarine in 2-cup glass measure or small bowl at High (100 percent) for 50 to 60 seconds. Pour 1 tablespoon of the margarine into waxed paper-lined pie plate. Spread over paper. Top with walnuts. Sprinkle evenly with brown sugar. Set aside.

Add crushed crackers to re-

maining melted margarine in cup, stirring until well mixed. Spoon into pie plate. Press crumbs part way up sides and onto walnuts and sugar. Set aside.

Combine apples, granulated sugar, flour, salt and lemon juice in large bowl. Spoon into pie plate. Dot with the 1 tablespoon margarine.

Microwave at High for 11 to 12 minutes or until apples are tender, rotating plate a half turn after 5 minutes. Cool 5 minutes. Loosen edges with knife. Invert onto serving plate. Carefully peel off waxed paper. Serve warm with whipped cream or ice cream.

Cornophiles await late summer harvest

By MARIALISA CALTA
NEA Food Editor

About this time each year, my husband looks deep into my eyes and asks: "Which do you love more, me or corn?" and I always have to think about the answer for a REAL long time.

I admit it, I love corn. I'm a corn freak, a corn junkie, a cornophile. Maybe it's all those years when I wore braces on my teeth and was deprived of this seasonal treat, but for whatever reason, I'm addicted.

The following recipes are some of my favorites:

CORN, BLACK BEAN, MANGO AND SWEET RED PEPPER SALSA

4 ears fresh sweet corn (to make 2 cups kernels)
1 sweet red bell pepper
1 cup cooked or canned black beans
1 whole mango, peeled and diced (optional)
1 clove garlic, peeled and minced
4 scallions (green onions), chopped (white parts only)
1 serrano chili, seeded and minced (leave seeds in for added heat)
2 teaspoons chopped fresh cilantro (also sold as coriander or Chinese parsley)
3 tablespoons olive oil
1 teaspoon fresh lime juice
1 teaspoon fresh lemon juice
2 tablespoons tarragon vinegar
Salt to taste
Freshly ground black pepper to taste

Preheat oven to 400 degrees. Roast the corn in its husk for 5 minutes. Remove husks and cut kernels into a bowl.
Char the red pepper directly over a stove-top flame or under a broiler, turning it to blacken the skin evenly. As soon as it is cool enough to handle, remove the skin, stem and seeds, and chop

TART BERRY AND SWEET CORN SOUP

2 pints strawberries, rinsed, drained and hulled
3 ears fresh white sweet corn (to make 1-1/2 cups kernels)
1-inch piece of cinnamon stick
3 whole cloves
3 or 4 black peppercorns
3 cups fruity red wine (such as Zinfandel)
1/4 cup fresh orange juice
1 to 2 teaspoons balsamic vinegar
Honey, if needed

Reserve a few berries for garnish and puree the rest in a blender.

Husk the corn and cut the kernels from the ears, scraping the cobs to capture the milk. Add the corn to the blender and puree again.

Grind the cinnamon, cloves and peppercorns in a spice grinder (or VERY CLEAN coffee grinder) and add to the puree. Add the wine, orange juice and half the vinegar, and puree until very smooth. Taste for sweetness and add the rest of the vinegar, or some honey, as needed.

Yield: 4 servings.
-- Recipe from "Crazy for Corn," by Betty Fussell (HarperPerennial, 1995).

Early morning mowing helps to beat the heat

DEAR ABBY: Some of your answers seem to come so easily, it makes one think that not much thought goes into them. Such was your answer to Richard Schuh — a Northerner like yourself who complained about his neighbor's mowing the lawn as early as 8 a.m. You responded with agreement, adding that 10 or 11 a.m. seemed "reasonable."

It is obvious that you've never mowed a lawn in Texas in midsummer, where the temperature by noon is often 95 degrees. The heat combined with the humidity can result in a heat index of more than 100 degrees. (Later in the day, it can reach 115!)

In far northern climes, you can mow later in the day in relative comfort, but not in Fort Worth! My husband and I must have our yard work finished by 9:30 a.m. at the latest. This means we usually begin our mowing at 8 a.m., and make every effort to do it earlier. As I work full-time, and my husband recently broke his arm, this means most of the yard work is done by me on the weekends at a time you consider to be too early.

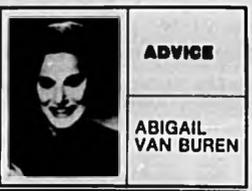

Abby, please rethink your answer, especially since this summer even the North has experienced excessive heat, with many deaths among older people.

As for Mr. Schuh, he can buy himself a pair of earplugs!

A COOL LADY IN FORT WORTH

DEAR LADY: You're right; my answer was a dud, and a number of readers wrote to tell me so. As you and many readers suggested, I should have told Mr. Schuh that earplugs can be purchased at any drugstore or sporting goods store, and that he would be wise to invest in a pair, because it's impractical to ask neighbors to begin their yard chores in the heat of the day during the summer months.

DEAR ABBY: While I realize that many people like to sleep on weekends, it's unreasonable to expect the rest of us to wait until the entire neighborhood is out of bed to start our day.

Most people observe either Saturday or Sunday as the Sabbath. That leaves one day a week for yard work and recreation. While we try to get our mowing done on Friday evening, I will not begrudge my neighbors mowing theirs in the early morning when it is cool, in order to spend the rest of their hard-earned free day with their family. Eight a.m. is neither "crazy" nor unreasonable. After all, construction crews start using their heavy machinery promptly at 7 a.m.

We are becoming a very selfish society to bicker about when our neighbors mow their lawns. Recently we were awakened at 6 a.m. by our neighbor's power saw. It annoyed me very much, but my husband got out of bed, ate his breakfast, and went to help that neighbor reroof his house.

My husband realized that the neighbor had no choice — he had to complete a much-needed repair in the time he had available. I only hope that in the future I can remember to be as generous as my husband was when our neighbor needed him.

KERRI ANDERSON,
OGDEN, UTAH

DEAR KERRI: Your husband is indeed a very generous gentleman; everyone should have neighbors like you.

Can gout attacks be prevented?

DEAR DR. GOTT: What causes gout? I take one allopurinol daily when I experience symptoms. How can I avoid this painful problem in my foot? Do certain foods like animal parts, shrimp or sardines trigger it?

DEAR READER: Gout is caused by a genetic tendency that leads to an over-accumulation of uric acid in the blood and tissues. Uric acid is a byproduct of protein metabolism. Normally, it is dissolved in body fluids. Under certain circumstances (minor injuries, for example), the uric acid crystallizes into sharp, microscopic needles that can inflame joint linings, leading to the painful arthritis we call gout. At the same time, these uric acid spikes may crystallize in the kidneys, causing painless kidney damage. Gout is diagnosed by a blood test or analysis of the fluid obtained from an inflamed joint. The treatment for acute gout attacks is prescription drugs, such as Indocin; however, more powerful medicine, such as colchicine may be required. Gout can be prevented by the prescription medication allopurinol. This drug is not used to treat acute attacks, for which the other products I mentioned are more appropriate, but is taken once or twice daily for an indefinite period. DEAR DR. GOTT: As we are on low-salt diets, we would appreciate your opinion regarding water-softened drinking water. Our home is set up so all water in this house comes through the softener. Would drinking this water be in conflict with our low-salt diet? DEAR READER: Most water softeners exchange a soft mineral (sodium) for a hard mineral (calcium) in the water supply. This leads to an unavoidable but trivial increase in sodium chlo-

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder

Have the courage of your convictions at the bridge table. If you think a bid or play is correct, go for it. In today's deal, East found the winning defense against South's five-diamond contract. South's choice of opening bid wouldn't meet with universal approval because it takes the auction past three no-trump. Many players, especially outside North America, would open with the gambling three no-trump, which shows a solid seven- or eight-card minor with no side ace or king. Here, North passes and the contract rolls home. After South's actual choice, North raised to game, hoping for the best. West led his fourth-highest club, East winning with the ace. What should East play at trick two? East could anticipate two club tricks. If his side had a trump trick, it wouldn't run away. But if South's trumps were solid, the third defensive trick couldn't come from spades. It would have to be from hearts. East's first thought was to return a club to his partner's king, for a heart switch through dummy's ace. But East realized that with this defense South wouldn't lose a major-suit trick. Assuming South had seven diamonds and two clubs, he had only four major-suit cards. After a club return, South would have four winners in the dummy for those cards: the top spades, the heart ace and the established club queen. Taking a slight risk that their club trick would disappear, East switched to the heart two. Partner came through, holding the queen. The third defensive trick was established before the club king was driven out. Phillip Alder's book, "Get Smarter at Bridge." is available, autographed upon request, for $14.95 from P.O. Box 169, Roslyn Hts., NY 11577-0169. Copyright 1993 by NEA Inc.

Special knowledge you've acquired over the past few years can be used to your advantage in the year ahead in your chosen field. You will discover this for yourself if you experiment. VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) When making material assessments today, be logical and realistic, but do not discount your hunches. They will also prove helpful tools. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. seems to need tightening up, volunteer to reorganize it. You can do it. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today you can successfully complete a critical situation that you've been unable to finalize. You will need to make it your top priority, though. GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you have a cause or an idea that you want to promote today, don't delegate the assignment to someone else. You will be the perfect person for the job. CANCER (June 21-July 22) Financial trends appear mixed for you today. You're pretty good at finding ways to add to your resources, but you're also pretty good at spending what you make. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In a group involvement today, you won't have to tell others what to do. The secret will be to lead by example. Emphasize the show and minimize the tell. Copyright 1995 by NEA Inc.
