Dictatorial Power

The efficiency of a dictatorship makes for good government... providing you have a benevolent dictator. Yesterday the German Reichstag conferred upon Adolf Hitler the authority to rule Germany by decree throughout the next four years.

There recently, however, Austria has resorted to dictatorial rule, and even in the United States, the "hand of the law," the recent powers conferred upon President Roosevelt are unquestionably of dictatorial character.

The primary form of Democratic government, calling for decisions by the will of the majority, necessitate long hours of debate, protected public education, and exacting compromise, some of which has its place in an era of depression involving innumerable complicated problems and constantly changing conditions.

An Unwise Course

Assurance that Americans in Russia need not fear for their security has been given by Josef Stalin in answer to a request for a statement clarifying the status of citizens of this country following the recent arrest on charges of espionage of four English subjects employed by Metropolitan-Vickers, Ltd.

Stalin is anxious to obtain U.S. recognition in order to permit free interchange of trade, and also is anxious to obtain a greater proportion of the American tourist business which ordinarily carries to Europe hundreds of millions of dollars annually.

Germany's course at present seems to be one quite to the contrary. There is no way of knowing whether or not the massive reports of attacks on American citizens are serious because of a strict censorship imposed by the Hitler regime.

By foreign relations: "We desire to live at peace with all nations, but only on a basis of equality. Our hand is stretched out to every people willing to forget the old past."

Time after time his words were cheered by cheers and applause, and outside a rousing crowd of thousands shouted without ceasing: Give us that enabling act or there will be a fire!

When he had finished delivery of his message the Reichstag adjourned, reconvening in the afternoon to do the work cut out for it.

Carl Stenning, leader of the Socialist party, was arrested as he was entering the Reichstag hall on a charge of inciting to violence for purposes of propaganda.

"Take your liberty, take your lives, but leave us our honor!" he cried. "If you (Nazis) really want social reconstruction you would need to such law as this!"

The Reichstag, who had listened to every word, was now on its feet with a bound to honor the Socialists for "forty years of persecution of the Nazis."

The Socialists may charge persecution now, he cried, but they did the same thing to him in the years gone by.

Wasson, secretary of the house, and one of Hitler's chief aides, took up the attack on the Reichstag where the chamber was left off.

"So long as the foreign Socialist papers print his name, as you'll have to suffer for it," he told the Reichstag.

"You can't say anywhere in Germany and you won't find a stone or a wall that has been desecrated. You can go to any newspaper or any Jewish conspiracy and you won't find one that isn't full of lies about me."

He then turned to the Reichstag and said: "I am not a Jew. I am a German. I am a man of the people. I am a man of the people. I am a man of the people."

Trading Inland in San Francisco With Renewed Optimism

Business in the San Francisco Bay area is recovering from the recent holiday lull with a new note of optimism injected into the situation.

Banking conditions throughout the state are now virtually back to normal, more than 400 state and national banks, in addition to hundreds of branch banks, having opened for regular business with no restrictions as to withdrawal.

Stock markets in San Francisco resumed operations after the bank holiday with an unusual show of strength and activity, with all classes of issues participating in the movement and transactions on the San Francisco Mining Exchange amounting to a new high daily record for this year and most of last year.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company reported during the last week that net income for 1932 amounted to $2,877,000, compared with $2,822,000 for the preceding year.

TROTSKY THINKS U.S. WILL GAIN BY DEPRESSION

Believes Country Will Become More Capitalistic Than Ever

STANBUL, Turkey, Mar. 24.—The United States will emerge from the present crisis more the master of world capital than ever, believes Leon Trotsky, called Russian revolutionary leader, but he believes in happy world for the masses to come.

From his place of exile on Pelee Island, near New York, Trotsky said that the world will see a "great change" in the next few years.

"You not my opinion of the 'capital crisis' as said in French. 'Capitalism technically this crisis will see a fever. From the broader aspect the question needs a serious examination beyond the scope of an interview."

Trotsky, 47-year-old, who in 1917 I often affirmed that world capital would develop under the increasing hegemony of the United States, especially under the hegemony of the dollar over the British sterling.

"America's excessive and precipitate growth gave the country's economic structure a mixed character—inheritance from the last war, with the mingling of human strength's greatest capacity. The leading system especially evident this contradiction."

"American capital became a world labor slaveholder, and it still leans on a colonial system of provincial banks, recalling the epoch of 'Gilded Age' Capital."

"On the contrary, France, for instance, with the franc reduced one-fifth, will more than ever learn the difficulty of preserving its provincial system from the torments of world economy. I do not wish to believe that a calm and regular development is assured the United States after announcing the actual dollar crisis."

The second bank crisis and even the whole present industrial crisis. No, it is difficult to depend on 2000 unshakable little banks. It is as difficult to depend on several thousands unstable political organizations of Europe, South America and Asia.

With its own about the way may be dependent upon its world bank. It is difficult to depend on 2000 unshakable little banks. It is as difficult to depend on several thousands unstable political organizations of Europe, South America and Asia.

Social And Personal Activities

WILLIAM PETERS, Society Editor

Telephone: Office 148

Personals

George Williams will leave tomorrow for St. Petersburg to spend the week-end with relatives.

Mr. E. B. Randall, Jr. will return today from Orlando where he spent two days with his mother, Mrs. Anna Amick, who is ill.

Mr. C. H. Shaw will return tomorrow to her home at Douglas, Ga. after spending some time here with her sister, Mrs. Ethel Hall, Park Avenue.

Annual Silver Tea Held In Lake Mary

One of the most attractive affairs ever held in Lake Mary was the First Annual Silver Tea for Girl Scouts at the Chamber of Commerce building on Tuesday afternoon.

The hall was decorated with quantities of cut flowers, green predominating in the color scheme, which is the chosen color of the Girl Scouts.

Presiding over the tea table were Mrs. H. M. Cochran and Mrs. E. Hall, leaders of the Browning Park, the organization for younger girls. The tea table was overlaid with a beautiful lace cloth and centered with a vase of roses between silver candle holders. The guests were served at small tables, Girl Scouts, acted as waitresses.

Following the tea, the Girl Scouts, under the leadership of Mrs. J. K. Mettinger, presented an exhibition of Scout work and flag signaling. This was followed by a group of appropriate songs rendered in charming fashion by Mrs. Maude Alford, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Richard Alingham. Miss Nancy Bonney favored with readings, which were much enjoyed.

The Troop Committee which sponsored the recent organization of the Girl Scout Troop in Lake Mary was in charge of this affair. It is composed of Mrs. James Thompson, chairman, Mrs. W. E. Cole, and Mrs. Frank Evans. The Troop is divided into four patrols as follows: Nectarine Patrol: Lucille Garrett, leader, Eloise Love, Jeanette Brown, Lois Hagan, Grace Whiddon. Daisy Patrol: Betty Brown, leader, Chae Evans, Jane Cochran, Doris Ishill, Laurette Minshew. Pine Cone Patrol: Christine Cole, leader, Thelma Love, Baby Edmondson. Cardinal Bird Patrol: Grace Henkins, leader, Oris Saunders and Ida Robinson. These patrols meet weekly each Tuesday at the Little House on the Country Club Road, with Captain True in charge, assisted by Lieut. Sellers.

Miss Carolyn Collier Gives Piano Recital

The Women's Club was filled to capacity last night when Miss Carolyn Collier, teacher of piano in this city, presented a piano recital before a large group of friends with Mrs. Gladys Morris Williams, contralto, Miss Carmen Guthrie, her accompanist, and Miss Helen Gordy, another pianist, assisting.

A dark green background was formed on the stage by a profusion of palms and shrubs, while two large fern stands, filled with gladioli, snap dragons, and statice, lent a note of color to the scene. Quantities of other fern stands, baskets, and vases, were filled with similar flowers and arranged in various other parts of the room.

The program was presented as follows: Sonata, Op. 27, No. 2, Beethoven; Adagio, Schubert; Allegretto, Chopin; Agitato—Miss Collier; Slave Song, Treves del Eise; Gladys Morris Williams; Improvisata in F, Sharp Major; Chopin; Etude in A Flat Major.

Mrs. V. E. Douglass had a large group of guests yesterday for the flower show Mrs. Charles Finley, Mrs. J. C. Holbrook, and Mrs. Henry Porter, of Orlando.

Miss Helen Douglass has arrived from the Georgia State College for Women at Milledgeville to spend the Spring holidays here with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Douglass, Rose Court.

Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Hamilton announce the birth of a daughter, Shirley Delores, last night at 8:30 P. M. at their home in Lake Mary. Mrs. Hamilton will be remembered as the former Miss Beulah Stewart.

District Meeting Of U.D.C. Held Yesterday

With 75 representatives from chapters in Sanford, Orlando, Kissimmee, Daytona Beach, Leesburg, Eustis, and Apopka, in attendance, a meeting of the United Districts of the U. D. C. was held yesterday at Apopka with the Florence Collier Chapter of Apopka acting as hostess. Mrs. R. C. Woodberry, of Orlando, vice-president of the Fourth District, presided over the meeting and Mrs. Clift, of Apopka, gave the welcoming address. Among important national and state officers in attendance were: Mrs. Alexander White, of Tennessee and Daytona Beach, past president-general; Mrs. F. D. Essel, of Leesburg, past corresponding secretary general, and past division president; Mrs. Marion Dickson, of Tampa, past division president; Mrs. Frank Brown, of Jacksonville, division president; Mrs. Bradford, of Tampa, division recording secretary; Mrs. Lucy Lawrence, of Orlando, past division president; and Mrs. Walker, of Eustis, division cemetery chairman.

Mrs. White gave an account of the recent general convention held at Memphis, Tenn. after which Mrs. Dickson, as state educational chairman, reported that the division is maintaining five scholarships at Gainesville and Tallahassee in addition to individual chapter scholarships.

Reports were given by the various officers of the division and representatives from each chapter reported their chapter work. Mrs. F. E. Roumillat, recording secretary of Nade V. Howard Chapter, gave the report for the local chapter.

The meeting was brought to a close with a reading, "Has the U. D. C. a Responsibility", by Mrs. McLaughlin. Luncheon was then served while a musical program was rendered.

Those attending from here were: Mrs. W. C. Hill, president of N. de V. Howard Chapter, Mrs. D. D. Caldwell, Mrs. L. Y. Bryan, and Mrs. F. E. Roumillat, past presidents; Mrs. G. D. Bishop, Mrs. J. M. Hayes, and Miss Margaret Roberts.

The home without a dependable water heater, not a make-shift used to heat a couple of gallons now and then, is a home that wages a losing battle against dirt and grease.

Make your home immaculate and healthful with an electric hot water service. It isn't expensive with your Thrifty Three, 75-2c electric rate and the comforts and convenience it will bring to you are many. No matches, no dirt. No flames to heat up the kitchen. The electric water heater does not make a sound as it goes about its job of keeping plenty of water hot at all times. A snap of the switch is its only care. Ask any employee or your favorite electric dealer about this healthful way to heat water.

USE OF PLANES IS IMPORTANT IN REMOTE AREAS

Aviation Playing Important Part In Exploring For Mines

BOSTON, Mar. 24.—Importance of aircraft in invading remote areas of the world, over which transportation by land is extremely slow and perilous, is described in an article appearing in the current issue of Technology Review, Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

In this article, entitled "Mining From the Air," written by John J. Rowlands, contributing editor to the Review and director of the news service at Technology, the important part which aviation is playing in both prospecting for minerals and in carrying miners and tools to, and raw products from, the mines, is outlined.

The writer describes the work of mining gold on the Island of Papua which lies in the Coral Sea north of Australia. The cost of transportation by native carriers in pack trains over jungle trails was estimated at nearly $5 a pound or per load. Construction of a roadway, which would take two years and would cost $1,000,000. The airplane has penetrated this area and represents an almost inconceivable saving.

But no country has reaped greater profits from the use of the airplane in exploration and mining than Canada. The article says, "In the discovery of mineral deposits and in their development, the Dominion has accomplished more in the last five years than in the previous 20 years. By airplane, the writer explains, the prospector may now cover in two weeks a territory greater than he could examine by pack train in six months."

"The airplane," Mr. Rowlands explains, "has not greatly facilitated development of the country, but has raised the morale of the people who live far from civilization." At present, he says, "virtually all aviation activities in Canada are centered in the mining country, where quick transportation of men and material provides brisk business for fliers."

Modern heated planes, the writer says, are flying this winter over the old trails of the Hudson's Bay Company's "voyageurs." In a country which seems destined to become one of the most important mining districts in the world.

Not only have planes been used for transporting prospectors, he says, but also for maintaining contact with rangers, and in fighting forest fires. They have been employed, too, in prospecting for oil and the carrying of equipment in the petroleum fields of western United States and Mexico.

SHOLTZ RAPS METHOD USED FOR SCHOOLS

"particularly with reference to its cost."

He charged that "Propagandists, those who have selfish interests, those who are sincere believers that the schools should be furnished with unlimited means, have brought about a picture which is confusing."

The state, he said, now is furnishing the counties seven times as much money for schools as at the peak of boom days, while the counties and school districts are providing less than they did at that time. He said "It is unconceivable to me" that with the state furnishing seven times as much money, counties still cannot keep schools open for regular terms and cannot pay teachers their salaries.

"There is something radically wrong in the school situation and I sincerely hope and trust that the State Legislature, unhampered by school lobbyists, unhampered by selfish interests but facing the situation fully and with courage will cut out this octopus that is breaking the backs of the taxpayer of the state and still not benefitting the school children."

He added that "Plenty of money has been provided from all sources to operate the school the full nine months and pay our teachers and other legitimate operating expenses but much of it has been applied to debt service and other purposes for which it was not intended."

"I feel strongly about it. I believe the people of the state will feel strongly about it when fully informed. Fathers and mothers and Parent-Teacher Associations will rally to my support when they fully understand the true picture and not the picture that is being presented by selfish interests who have only one thought in mind. If ever there was a time for plain speaking it is now."

He said the state has distributed $3,608,733.00 among 67 county school systems since Jan. 10 and that the last apportionment of funds was made Mar. 17. Then he added, "I have today written these officials (county school superintendents, requesters, district superintendents, showing just where this money went."

School organizations, the governor declared, "will make most strenuous efforts to maintain their recent standards of expenditure. Every effort will be made at the next Legislature by school organizations to prevent reduction of personnel and salaries."

Asking why school expenditures should be maintained at a high level in view of general economic conditions, he answered by saying, "There is an aggressive and organized class who think that school expenditures cannot be reduced. In many states teachers are being paid with scrip, or schools are being closed. Florida cannot escape this condition unless tremendous reductions are made."

The people of the state, he said, "do not know that a school lobby came here two years ago and endeavored to obtain $15,000,000 as state aid to schools. Finally by compromise it was reduced to $7,500,000, which was an utter impossibility."

Rigid economy must be enforced, he said, but added "I am not going to advocate anything that will in any way harm the children of our state."

"It is rather strange," the governor continued, "that right at this immediate time, with a session of the Legislature coming on, suggestions are being made about closing the schools in various

DAYLIGHT AHEAD SEEN FOR RETAIL TRADE IN NATION

Revival Of Advertising And Increase In Prices In Prospect
 By HARVEY E. RUNNER
 New York.—Daylight ahead for both the retailer and the manufacturer, a revival in advertising and an increase in both wholesale and retail prices are on the immediate business horizon, Kenneth Collins, assistant to Bernard F. Gimbel, president of Gimbel Brothers, Inc., said recently in reviewing the results of a personal survey of 184 manufacturers and in discussing the effects of the banking moratorium on the future of business.

Prices, Mr. Collins said, would go up and he deemed it wise and prudent for retail merchants to cover up until June 1 on their requirements of staples in a semi-panic. Any rise in wholesale prices, he declared, would be reflected in retail prices from three weeks to a month later. Although prices might decline again early in the summer, he did not feel that they would go below current levels.

FRENCH VINTNERS TAKE STEPS TO GAIN U. S. TRADE

Launch Campaign To Insure Freer Entry Of Imported Wines
 PARIS.—Officials of the American Chamber of Commerce in Paris have already begun active collaboration with French wine interests in an intensive campaign to assure freer entry of French wines into the United States.

Without waiting for Congress ratification—in fact, even before both houses had passed the bill—a group of leading representatives of the French wine industry have been made associate members of the American Chamber of Commerce here, and a special committee has been set up to make every effort to obtain favorable tariff treatment for the alcoholic beverages of France.

Revival Of Advertising And Increase In Prices In Prospect

Business firms which do not start advertising within the next few weeks are not alert to their opportunities, Mr. Collins emphasized.

Not only Frenchmen, but Americans have interested in seeing a revival of the wine trade between France and the United States, are acclaiming Congress's action as the crowning of their many years' struggle against prohibition.
