Little Leaguers Make History

The Altamonte Springs National All-Stars pounded out a 9-3 victory over St. Petersburg Bay Point Thursday night to become the first Major Division (12-year-old) state champion in Altamonte Little League

"Some people thought when we broke Altamonte into two all-star divisions a couple of years ago that is would weaken the league," District 14 administrator Don Crawford told the post-game gathering at the Altamonte Eastmonte Baseball Complex. "But this championship shows, that just wasn't the case. "A week from now and with three more wins, we'll be in Williamsport (Pa.)"

At Crawford's mention of Williamsport, site of the Little League World Series. Altamonte manager Jerrey Thurston waved his hat triumphantly to the crowd and shouted, "And we're going to make it, too."

Before the Williamsport dream can be realized, however, Altamonte needs three straight victories at the Southern Region in St. Petersburg beginning Monday, Aug. 13. Altamonte will play the winner of Monday's Georgia Kentucky game on Tuesday, Aug. 14 at 2 p.m.

Thirteen southern states are represented at the region in the double-elimination tournament. The region is one of six in the World, which sends its winner to Williamsport for the finals.

In addition to the state championship, the Altamonte team has also won division, district and sectional championships. The team record has grown to 11-0 during the playoffs which began June 16.

As has been customary throughout the tournament play-offs. Altamonte's heroes were many. Thursday night, second baseman Greg James and shortstop Jimmy

Musselwhite each hit home runs while relief pitcher Aaron laratola hurled 51/2 scoreless innings and struck out 11 to pick up the

The Nationals will be the second Altamonte team in two years to attend a Southern Region tournament. The Altamonte Juniors (13-year-olds) won the region at Eustis last year and went on to finish second in the World Series at Taylor, Mich.

In addition. Altamonte's Seniors (14- and 15-year-olds) won Thursday night when Mike Schmit hit a two-run home run and shut out Tampa Belmont Heights for a 2-0 victory at Fort Myers.

The Seniors play Belmont Heights again tonight at 6. A victory will earn them a berth in the Southern Region at Coral Springs which begins Monday.

Jobless Rate Up To 7.5%

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Unemployment, spurred by losses for blacks and women, jumped to 7.5 percent in July, the first increase in the Jobless rate since the 1982 recession ended, the Labor Department said today.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said an additional 413,000 Americans went on the unemployment rolls during July and 8.5 million workers are now out of work.

The July decrease crased gains in June, when the seasonally adjusted rate fell from May's 7.5 percent to 7.1 percent.

It was bad news politically for the White House in this election year. There was no immediate reaction from President Reagan who is vacationing in California.

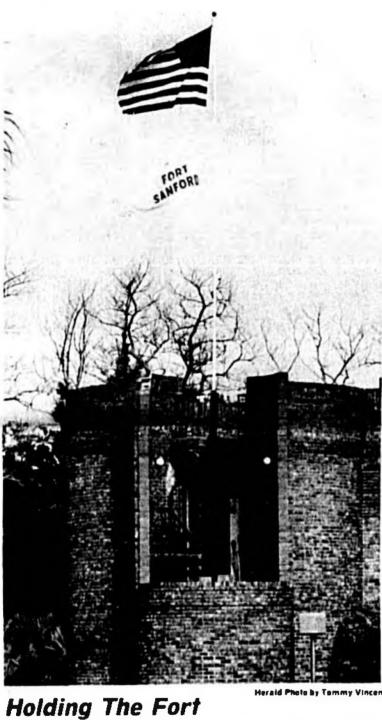

It was the first increase in unemployment since November 1982 - a period of recession and the largest one-month increase since the rate went from 9.5 percent to 9.9 percent between June and July 1982.

The new report showed toblessness increased primarily among adult women, whose unemployment rate rose from 6.4 percent to 6.9 percent.

The rate for men edged up from 6.3 percent to 6.5 percent while the black unemployment rate increased 1.9 percentage points — the largest of any major category - to 16.9 percent.

Black teenagers were particularly hard hit. Unemployment among those youths, which is subject to wide fluctuation, jumped 8 percentage points to 42.4 percent in Today's unemployment report is in line with other government reports this week that show the economy slowing from the rapid growth that marked the first two quarters this year.

Rose Job Hunting

By Donna Estes Herald Staff Writer

Despite protests from County Administrator T. Duncan Rose that he is staying in the county employ until three county commissioners vote to fire him, he is looking for a new Job.

County Commission Chairman Sandra Glenn says Rose has asked her to sign off leave time for him as Job interviews come up.

'That is not unusual," Mrs. Glenn said. "The chairman signs for the administrator to take

You can say I am ready to fire Rose now," she said, adding she is tired of the turmoil created in the courthouse by the issue of Rose's firing.

Commissioner Bob Sturm. who admits he was willing to join with Mrs. Glenn to fire Rose last December, says he is reluctant to fire him because of his own interest in the lob.

Commissioner Robert G "Bud" Feather, does. Feather accused Mrs. Glenn, Mrs. Christensen and Sturm of working deals to get rid of Rose so Sturm can have the job.

Feather said Rose is doing a good Job, despite Mrs. Glenn's "Interference." He said Mrs. Glenn is a strong leader and she and Rose have a personality conflict.

Knowing Mrs. Glenn's desire to terminate Rose, Feather said Mrs. Christensen's recent announcement to him that she would be the third vote to fire Rose led him to believe some kind of deal was made.

Mrs. Christensen said she told Rose she had lost confidence in him and would vote to fire him.

"I don't remember what the blow-up was about," Mrs. Christensen said. "Rose had let a lot of things slide. The department heads don't give him credibility and that makes him ineffective. There is a definite conflict and the department heads have no respect for him."

County department heads are unwilling to state their complaints against Rose on the record. And Rose said he is baffled on how he can handle

Diablo Canyon 'Hot' For Startup; Opponents Heading For Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Opponents of Diablo Canyon nuclear power plant say they will go to court to prevent the $5.1 billion facility from operating at full capacity.

But the plant's owners say the plant is "hot" and prepared for startup.

The Nuclear Regulatory Commission, clearing the last regulatory roadblock for the plant. Thursday voted 3-1 to grant the owners, Pacific Gas & Electric Co., a full-power operating license, effective Aug. 15.

In April, the NRC reinstated a low-power test license for Diablo Canyon, sparking several huge Easter Week demostrations at the plant.

Opponents have complained about nuclear power in general and supposed design flaws which they claim make the plant susceptible to earthquake damage.

Research Begins At Dioxin Site

TIMES BEACH, Mo. (UPI) - The entrance fee was $5.500, but the prize could be worth millions of dollars to private companies who have paid for the right to enter a dioxin-disposal "contest."

Researchers wearing white protective suits Thursday began digging in dioxin-contaminated soil at Times Beach to find ways to destroy the toxic chemical.

Times Beach is largely vacant because much of the business and residential property has been bought by the federal government using $33 million in Superfund monles. City officials said only nine people still live in the town, which once had about 2,400 residents.

Times Beach was declared uninhabitable because of dioxin contamination, which unknowingly was mixed with waste oil spread on the streets as a dust control measure in

Kids Sexually Abused At Center

NEW YORK (UPI) - Three day care center employees. including a 60-year-old woman, have been charged with sexually molesting at least 10 children. Prosecutors also say a city department tried to block their investigation.

The three were accused Thursday of sexual attacks on youngsters ranging from 4 to 8 years old. The attacks allegedly began last April at the center run by the Puerto Rican Association for Community Affairs.

At a news conference, Bronx District Attorney Mario Merola charged that the HRA, which funds the center, interfered with his investigation by instructing center employees not to cooperate with police.

Merola complained to Mayor Edward Koch and the HRA and the agency then released its records to investigators.

Poverty In America

Report 'Smoking Gun Of Reagan Unfairness'

Bureau report showing that poverty grew slightly in America in 1983 is escalating the election-year debate over whether President Reagan's economic policies are hurting the House Speaker Thomas O'Neill says the study, which shows nearly 6 million more people dropped below the federal poverty level since 1980, is "the smoking gun of Reagan unfairness."

The White House, however, contends the report is evidence Reagan's programs have slowed down the poverty rate. And it predicted - as it inaccurately did last year · that the figure would drop significantly within 12 months.

The Census Bureau report, issued Thursday, found that the median family income, adjusted for inflation, climbed 1.6 percent to $24,580 during 1983's economic recovery — the first jump in four years.

At the same time, the government's official poverty rate climbed slightly, from 15 percent to 15.2 percent, with the estimated number of people below the federal poverty line rising from 34.4 million to 35.3 million.

In 1980, the year before Reagan took office, the poverty rate was 13 percent, or 29.3 million people.

The bureau described the small increase in the poverty rate last year as "not a statistically significant change." But critics seized the numbers as political ammunition.

While the number of Americans below the poverty line is growing. so is the tax burden they must shoulder. Story and graphic on page 3A

House Speaker Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neil called the "smoking gun ... of the Reagan administration's unfairness to the poor."

The White House drew encouragement from that portion of the report that showed while poverty rate rose in 1983, the increase of 0.2 percent was smaller than in each of the last several years.

The study, "Money Income and Poverty Status of Families and Persons in the United States: 1983," showed that the rate was 11.7 percent in 1979, climbing to 13 percent in 1980, the last year of the Carter administration.

In 1981/the first year of the Reagan administration and the recession, the rate climbed to 14 percent, reaching 15 percent last year.

Gordon Green, a Census Bureau assistant division chief for socio-economic statistics said the new poverty rate offered no answer to the question of whether Reagan's policies have hurt the poor. The bureau released an accompanying report with "experimental figures," poverty rates based on a person's gross income as well non-cash benefits, such as food stamps, school lunches, public housing and Medicald and Medicare. The government's official poverty rate is based on gross income, with the poverty line for a family of four being $10,178.

Members of the administration have raised the ire of many in Congress by arguing that non-cash benefits should be considered in determining the poverty rate.

The bureau released three sets of poverty rates, which used gross income as well as an assortment of non-cash benefits. While all were lower than the official poverty rate, each showed increases the past four years.

Counting food, housing and all medical care benefits, the so-called market value approach produced the lowest poverty rate, 10.2 percent, compared to a rate of 10 percent in 1982 and 9.0 percent in 1981, the bureau said.

The bureau's report found that the official poverty rate for white families rose from 12.0 percent in 1982 to 12.1 percent last year. For families it also rose slightly, from 35.6 to 35.7. But it dropped for families of Spanish origin from 29.9 percent to 28.4 percent.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) - John De Lorean sighed "thank God" as his attorneys rested their defense against federal charges the former automaker tried to save his dying company by conspiring to peddle $24 million worth of cocaine.

She said the county commission is accustomed to a management style where the county administrator and the staff "produce original ideas for Seminole County" as was done under Neiswender. For example, she said, Neiswender and staff produced a statistical study showing what the judiciary system in the county needed and how much it would cost.

Mrs. Glenn said she liked the county management program produced by Neiswender that showed how the county is growing, how services should be expanded, the costs to implement the expansion considering inflation.

Ex-President Accused In Bloody Repression Being Held For Trial

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (UPI) - A former president and army commander accused of masterminding a bloody repression will go on trial for ordering the kidnap, torture and murder of hundreds and perhaps thousands of Argentines.

Gen. Jorge Videla, who overthrew former President Isabel Peron in 1976 and led a three-man military junta until 1981, was detained Wednesday and taken to an army base outside Buenos Aires after four hours of testimony before Argentina's highest military court.

Videla and eight other former junta members are charged with ordering a campaign of repression against leftists during which hundreds of people were killed and at least 8,800 adults and children disappeared and were believed to have been tortured and killed.

The charges were levied by the 8-month-old civilian government of President Raul Alfonsin, who pledged during last year's election campaign to punish those responsible for what the armed forces called the "dirty war" against leftist "terrorists."

Israeli Gunboats Off Tripoli

BEIRUT. Lebanon (UPI) - Israeli helicopters and gunboats cruising offshore reportedly fired flares at the northern port of Tripoli where rival militias battled in the streets following the assassination of a top Sunni Moslem.

The Tripoli street battles were triggered by the assassination Thursday of a close aide to Sheikh Saced Shaaban, the leader of the Sunni Moslem Tawheed militia which controls most of the port city, police sources said.

The assassination was the second in 48 hours directed against the Tawheed, which has been fighting a longrunning feud with the "Pink Panthers," a smaller pro-Syrian group whose members wear raspberry-colored

Peres To Get First Try

JERUSALEM (UPI) - President Chaim Herzog probably will give Shimon Peres, leader of the opposition Labor Party, the first chance to form Israel's 20th government, Israell newspapers reported today.

The president is expected to make an announcement

New Use For Old Newspapers

MELBOURNE (UPI) - Scientists say a new fuel additive made from old newspapers, sawdust and other waste cellulose products promises better mileage and lower cost than widely used ethanol-enriched gasolines.

Chemist John Thomas, who heads a small team of researchers at the Florida Institute of Technology, says the cellulose products react with acid and steam at relatively low temperatures and pressures and the resulting levulinic acid can then be converted into a variety of materials. including fuel additives.

Nobody Will Take Trapped Rebels

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) -Spain offered to give four leftist guerrillas Treasury police, said Spanish diplomats had safe conduct to its embassy today if they released more than 100 hostages seized in a botched bank robbery.

A Salvadoran official said the government had decided to let the rebels leave, but no country had been found to give them more than temporary refuge.

The guerrillas stormed the bank Thursday and killed a guard but were trapped inside the two-story Banco Agricola Comercial in the working-class suburb of Soyapango by air force paratroopers who surrounded the building.

"It is better that we resolve this situation and that the terrorists leave," said Ricardo Acevedo Peralta. El Salvador's deputy foreign minister.

Guerrillas and bank officials said 127 customers and staff were in the bank when it was attacked. But three women freed by the rebels late Thursday said they estimated 60 to 80 hostages remained in the building.

Col. Rinaldo Golcher, commander of the granted initial approval to "give political asylum to the four terrorists.

They (the Spanish) could take them out and send them to their embassy, but another country has to give them asylum." Golcher said.

Diplomatic sources said officials from El Salvador, Spain and the United States were trying to find a European government which might accept the four gunmen, who killed bank guard Jesus Humberto Hernandez, 39, when he tried to resist the assault.

Foreign Ministry and Spanish authorities were in contact with Sweden to see if it would accept the guerrillas.

A U.S.-made UH-1H "Huey" helicopter flew over the bank early today with a spotlight illuminating the dark streets of the Soyapango neighborhood.

Golcher said the police had received a tip that guerrillas were infiltrating to help the rebels inside the bank, but the helicopter flight detected no movement of the leftists Golcher said police were demanding that the rebels free the women hostages, surrender their guns and turn over money they took in the robbery before they could leave

"They are not going to take out one single cent." Golcher said outside the bank.

In an apparent move to meet the demand, the guerrillas freed six women Thursday night. Earlier, they had freed three children and a pregnant woman, who were whisked away in a Red Cross ambulance with tears streaming down their faces.

Ines de Arguelles, the Charge d'Affaires of the Spanish Embassy in the capital, said the rebels had petitioned Spain "not for asylum but for some securities" to leave El Salvador under Spanish protection in exchange for the hostages.

A similar hostage crisis in May ended when the Mexican Embassy gave five rebelgunmen asylum and safe conduct to Mexico

Cub Fan Orwell Can't

It's August and the Chicago Cubs are in first place. It's definitely a weird year. Well, it is 1984. Maybe George Orwell was a Cub fan.

Even Stop 1984 Swoon

Sam

Cook Sports Editor

The Cubs can grow on you. Ernie Banks was probably the most irresistible. He was such a fun-loving guy. If you didn't appreciate his talent. you had to love his exuberance. Others liked him out of pity. They felt sorry for his plight. With those three things going for the Cubs, how did they lose? They weren't any good was the biggest

When Ernic was running around saying things like, "It's a beautiful day, let's play three," the Cubs were floundering in last place. Banks was iwice most valuable player in the National League when the Cubs finished last.

That's a respect for talent. In fact, 25 years ago Ernie won his last MVP. That was 1959. incidentally, that was the same year the "hated" White Sox won the pennant on the Southside. But they didn't let Chicago down. They lost the World Series to the Dodgers.

Maybe there is an omen there. Twenty-five years is a long time in baseball. Go back 14 more years to 1945 and you'll find the last Cub pennant. The Cubbies didn't ruin the whole year. though, they lost the World Series. 4-3, to Detroit. Charlie Grimm was the manager, and fittingly. there were some grim years to follow

Getting back to the White Sox, there are no Cub fans who would admit to being anything less than white Sox hater. And, vice-versa. In some cities, when one team is down, fans pick up on the other

Not in Chicago, though. That's the easiest way to find youself in the Chicago River. They fished one guy out one time who had on a Cub hat and a White Sox T-shirt. They were lucky they even Sound that guy. Cement must not have been on sale that day.

So, the obvious question is can the Cube win the pennant? Of course not. There is a simple reason for this they aren't good enough. When the Manila Folders (borrowed from 1969) begin their annual swoon in a couple of weeks or a month, however, the Cub fans jump upon the standard reason for this year's demise.

Too much heat. Since the Cubs play all those day games, they become more tired than other teams. When September rolls around, the heat and humidity become too much and the Wrigley Field's darlings just melt. They used this one in 1969. That was a 914 game lead in August. Of course, that was the year of the "Miracle Mets" and the "Miracle Jets." It had to be a miracle year, I graduated from high school.

Schmit's Revenge

Mike's Dramatic 7th-Inning Homer Tops Belmont

By Chris Pister Herald Sports Writer

FORT MYERS - Altamonte's Senior League All-Stars finally defeated arch-rival Belmont Heights - and the victory can be summed up in three words. Number one - Desire. Number two - Mike.

Number three - Schmit.

Schmit pitched the best game of his Little League career Thursday and snapped a scoreless tle with a dramatic two-run home run with two out in the bottom of the seventh to give Altamonte a 2-0 victory in the Little League Baseball Senior State Tournament at Chuck Ross

Altamonte and Belmont Heights square off tonight at 6 for the state championiship and a berth in the Southern Region Monday at Coral Springs. Either Neal Harris or Bill Henley will start on the mound for Altamonte.

Althought he was pitching with only one day's rest. Schmit said he great about his opportunity to finally tame Belmont Heights. "I didn't think I'd feel too loose with just one day's rest," Schmit said. "But there was just something about the way I warmed up. I felt real good and I sensed right away that I would have a good game. It was the best game this year in Little League.

My control was as good as its ever been." Schmit, who threw 89 pitches, struck out nine and walked just two, one of which who was cut down trying to steal second base by catcher Ryan Belmont managed just four hits, three of which came in the first two innings. From the third inning on until two out in the bottom of the seventh, Schmit was in complete control. But Belmont threatened to take an early lead in the top of the first. With out outs, Maurice Crum ripped a single to right and Joe Green blooped a single down the right-field line. Crum, who was going with the pitch, tried to score but was thrown out at the plate by Altamonte second baseman Shane Letterio. ."That play was one of the keys," said manager Gene Letterio. "It took the wind out of their

Schmit gave up a two-out single to Albert Jenkins in the top of the second, but Robbie

Small to fly to center for the third out. Altamonte put a runner on third with one out in the bottom of the second, but Sheffleld's blazing fastball overcame Dan Beaty and Anthony Laszaic for crucial strikeouts to escape the jam. Belmont got its leadoff man on in the top of the third as number nine hitter Chris Mitchell drew a walk. But he wasn't on the base paths very long as he was cut down trying to steal second base on a crisp throw by Lisle. From that moment on, Schmit retired the next 13 hitters, striking out six of the batters with excellent spotting of his fastball.

Altamonte missed another scoring chance in the bottom of the third. With one out, Letterio walked and Schmit followed with a single up the middle to send Letterio to third. Harris looked at a fastball on the outside corner for a called third strike and Henley tapped into a fleider's choice for the third out.

Belmont Heights had an opportunity to break the deadlock in the top of the seventh with two portunities in almost every inning against loser outs when Derrick Pedro singled to center, stole

Then Altamonte's biggest nemesis - Derrick Bell — stepped to the plate. Bell, who led Belmont to a second-place finish at the Little League World Series three years ago, had personally taken care of Altamonte in the past years.

This was the classic confrontation with the game on the line. Schmit, nevertheless, was the better man this time around. He came with his heat for strike one. Then dangled two curveballs' on the outside corner and Bell waved at both for the final two strikes to end the inning.

"I didn't want to give him anything that he could drive," Schmit said about Bell. "I just wanted to keep it low and on the outside corner." Altamonte finally broke through on Schmit's blast in the bottom of the seventh. Laszaid popped to left field for the first out and Sheffield got ahead of Lisle one ball and two strikes, but Lisle worked the count to 3-2, then fouled off the payoff pitch before drawing ball four. Sheffield, though, battled back to strikeout Letterio for the second out. Sheffield's first offering to Schmit was high and inside for ball one. His second offering was a fastball right down pipe. Schmit took a good cut and fouled it straight Sheffield then came back with another fastball, but this didn't get by the left-handed hitting Schmit. He blasted it 330-feet over the left-center field fence for the 2-0 victory.

The Altamonte flooded the field in celebration. "I thought he was going to come with something off speed," said Schmit. "I didn't expect a faatball. But he gave me the fastball and he got it up and I drove it. That was the only ball he got up on me the whole game."

For manager Letterio, the victory was the sweetest of his career after four heartbreaking losses the past three years in state tournament finals to Belmont Heights.

"Belmont Heights is the few teams that I've never beaten," said Letterio. dil wanted to beat them at least once before I hung it up. It was really a great team effort, with an outstanding individual performance by Mike Schmit.

"The kids really wanted this one. Now, tonight's game is up for grabe." And the Altamonte Seniors will no doubtedly reach for it with both hands.

How To Divide, Repot And Keep Orchids Healthy

Orchids are one of the most spectacular plants you can grow in your home, greenhouse, or in your landscape. Last week you found out how easy orchids are to care for and will usually do well with the basics of good cultural care. But, when they reach a certain point in their growth, they need to be divided and repotted.

To keep orchids growing well, most need periodic divison and repotting. Depending on variety, there are many ways to do this. For the sake of clarity, I'll mention one kind — the Cattleya which is the most popular orchid grown in Florida. When a mature Cattleaya has grown over the rim of it's pot, then is the time to divide it. Timing for this procedure is not tritical - do it when you have the opportunity. Begin by separating the plant from the pot, being careful not to damage

Now, inspect the plant closely. You'll see a number of enlarged bulb-like formations on the tem. These are known as pseudobulbs. And, it's from these pseudobulbs that new plants will grow.

Several new plants can be started from one mature Catlleya. Use a clean, sharp knife, make clean cuts, leaving three or four pseudobulbs in each division. Place the divided secions on a clean surface, being careful not to let the cut surface come in contact with the old potting medium. It's a good idea to dip the divisions in a solution of a fungicide, such as Captan. then, rinse them with clean water, and dry them off. Cut off any diseased or damaged roots those which are brown or black. The healthy roots you'll want to save are white and firm.

Use only sterilized containers for potting the orchid sections. Best to use a special orchid pot - one made of clay with slits down the sides. Always begin with brand new potting medium. Fill the container. Then, place side of the pot, with it's growing eye pointed towards the center. Pack the potting medium around the roots. The orchid should actually sit right down on top of the medium. But, it's roots should be securely held in place by the potting medium. The final step is to stake the plant securely to hold it in place while the new roots are forming. You can purchase orchid stakes at your favorite garden supply shop or make your own with fifm wire tods and twist ties. That's all there is to it! Soon. you'll have a number of healthy new orchids for your collection. Last week, I mentioned, most orchida need a warm, moist environment. But, such conditions are just perfect for disease development. Frequent inspections and fast action are vital.

One of the most common orchid ailments in Black Rot, or seedling damping off, caused by a fungus known as Pythium. This problem starts as small, water-soaked black spots. For light infections, carefully removing and destroying the affected parts may clear up the problem. For a severe infection, you may have to dip the plant in a special fungicide, available from your garden supply shop. Avoid overhead watering and make sure they're all getting good aeration.

Fungus leaf spots are fairly common on orchids. These may be yellow, light brown, or purple in color. There is a bacterial leaf spot, called Brown Leaf Spot. also. Most of these diseases can be controlled by strict sanitation practices, keeping work benches clean, and disinfecting tools by washing them in a mild bleach solution. Also, make sure you're providing good ventilation, and avoid overhead watering.

Rusts often attack orchids. These appear as pustules of powdery yellow or orange spores on the undersides of the leaves. Cut off and destroy any infected foliage, and keep infected plants isolated from others that haven't been attacked. There is no approved anti-rust fungicide for orchida. Severe cases may require destruction of an entire plant.

Botrytis Petal Blight is a fungus that attacks erchid flowers. To guard against Botrytis, keep humidity as low as possible, and eliminate old flowers and plant debris. If petals become infected, spray again in six to eight days.

Baterial Soft Rot is another common orchid disease. It's often foul-smelling, starts as small, water-soaked areas on leaves. The only remedy is to cut off and destroy infected parts. Keep knives and tools sterilized with a flame, and disinfect them with a bleach solution before other use.

Since orchids are subject to a number of diseases, you should inspect your plants often and take prompt action if trouble is seen. Don't let these problems discourage you from growing orchids — the blooms are well worth effort!

Happy Gardening!

Young Guests' Body Odor Poses Offensive Problem

DEAR ABBY: Last summer, a very dear friend of mine who lives in France sent her two daughters, ages 16 and 17, to be my houseguests for the summer. They were very intelligent. good-looking girls. Although they showered every day, they used no underarm deodorant, and their B.O. was noticeable.

Without making an issue of it. I gave them some deodorant and told them what it was for. They thanked me politely, returned the deodorant and said, "We never use it." The friends I introduced them to were put off because of their B.O.

The girls are returning soon for another visit. Should I mention it again? And if so, how can it be done without offending them or their mother?

NAMELESS IN FLORIDA

DEAR NAMELESS: By all means mention it again - only this time call or write their mother, and inform her that in the United States, underarm deodorant is essential to good grooming. Tell her that last summer when you noticed her daughters needed a deodorant. National Finals will be held in you offered them some, but they rejected it.

What Makes 'Wheel' Spin?

By David Handler

"Wheel of Fortune" is the No. I game show in America these days. It's also the top syndicated program in the primetime access slot. The show is an unqualified hit.

I'm totally mystified.

To me, "Wheel of Fortune" is just like any old TV game show you'd see at 10:30 a.m. in remember watching when I was home from school with the

Everything about it is bland and ordinary and stale, including the game itself, which is basically electronic Hangman, for crying out loud.

Host Pat Sajak, who has absolutely no personality, holds forth from a studio filled "fabulous merchandise" with cars, jewels, cruises, furniture, his or her warm-up suits, all told "over $96,000 in prizes waiting to be won!"

There are no celebrity guests here. Just three average citizen contestants. Pat doesn't Josh around with them. He is un-failingly polite to each. He calls "ma'am" and "sir" them and is always prepared with a personal interest card.

"I understand you collect old ink bottles," he says to one elderly contestant. "Been doing that for a long time?" "Oh, six, seven years," she replies.

Fascinating.

Each game features a Big Puzzle from a certain category. such as a Famous Person, like Julia Child, or a quotation ("All men are created equal.").

The puzzles tend not to be too hard. What I mean is, I don't think you get into watching the show for the fun of Contestants take turns spinning the money wheel, which will stop at a certain money value. Then they ask for a letter. If that letter is in the puzzle, the money is theirs and they keep on guessing letters until somebody figures out what the puzzle is. Vowels you gotta pay for.

Vanna White, our lovely hostess, claps her hands at each spin of the wheel — the audience actually oohs and aha - and if the contestant calls a letter that appears in the puzzle she will turn over the illuminated tile. She doesn't speak.

Each game's winner gets to buy studio merchandise with their loot — the silverware, the matching luggage, you name it. Then Pat says "Now here's Jack to tell you all about it." Jack Clark, the announcer, chuckles "Well, Mike, you've chosen the versatile..." And so on, just like old times:

The day's big winner gets to play a game all alone. If they figure out the puzzle they can win the big trip or the shiny

After 'Star Wars' And TV, Guinness Returns To Stage

CHICHESTER, England (UPI) Sir Alec Guinness is back on stage this summer to scale one the summits of classical acting, the role of Shylock in Shakespeare's "The Merchant of Venice.

nearly two decades, and he hasn't played Shylock since his student days. What's more, Guinness has been away from the theater itself for so long he can hardly credit the gap of time.

"Perhaps I have been kidding myself." he told one interviewer. "I thought it was three or four years, or perhaps five. But when they told me it was six — well, I was appalled."

Actually it is seven. Guinness, one of the theater's most noted actors, has been occupied since 1977 with movies and television - the "Star Wars" films and two TV series as John Le Carre's master spy Smiley.

When he turned 70 a few weeks ago, Guinness was still before the cameras. He was in India, playing an eccentric Indian philosopher in director Sir David Lean's movie, "A David Lean's movie, Passage to India."

Now he is at Chichester, 71 It's his first Shakespeare for miles south of London, where each summer four varied plays fill one of Britain's most at-tractive theaters. Guinness calls his appearance "just a lazy occupation for the sum-mer." He makes it much more than that.

His Shylock is best described by what it is not. Guinness's tormented and tormenting Jewish moneylender is not a flamboyant man, not a caricature Jew, not even one to succumb visibly to strong emotions.

Instead - perhaps conditioned by seven years of camera closcups - Guinness gives a quiet, studied, almost clinical performance. Everything is in the details.

"The Merchant of Venice" is one of Shakespeare's most difficult plays for modern audiences. Its anti-Semitism now seems impossibly crude and blatant. Its characters are money-grubbing and selfserving, and its clown is hopelessly unfunny.

Mrs. Patino finds most of her her second favorite and the most unique in her collection, a life-sized doll called a "Beecher" dressed in a christening gown, was picked up at a Kissimmee antique show.

"That was my best deal. The value of her is $800 to $1,000 and I was lucky enough to get her for $300, which I thought was a very good deal.

"It sounds terrible for this piece of dirty old rag, but she's really much more than that with her history. She will never, never lose value.

"I'm not into doll collecting for some excentric purpose," Mrs. Patino said. "I have three little girls of my own and that's one reason I started. I wanted to leave them something." But they were new."

"At the big doll auctions they're pushing the rag dolls as being works of art, on canvas, but in doll form - folk art. I just like them because I'm nostalgic. I'm from New England and this keeps a little bit of home always with me."

When Mrs. Patino makes an addition to her collection she handles it with care, meaning she handles it as little as possible. She cautions the novice collector that it is permissable to clean a dirty rag doll and there are products made to do that without damaging the paint, but repainting is a no-no.

"What I call restoration is strictly for investment OK, to the point of cleanliness purposes. great-grandmother's rag bag could add up to big bucks if somewhere along the line a skilled scamstress transformed those fabric fragments into what would now be an antique rag baby.

TART EDED ESCORT MEN

To our ancestors they were mere toys and, surprisingly, they are fairly easy to find, but a collection of these primitive you're lucky enough to have inherited a few that were handled with loving care by a forebearer.

Longwood doll fancier Estelle Patino, who has a doll collection she values at $50,000, says there's more to an old rag doll than just a jumble of faded, tattered cloth castoffs stuffed and put together in human form. You have a very special hunk of history to hold onto.

"The rag doll is our heritage," said Mrs. Patino, who has about 50 of these fabric treasures. "They didn't really make porcelain dolls." really make porcelain dolla here and all the pioneers went to rags, because that's all they had. They were out in the boonies or traveling across country.

"It sounds ridiculous, being just a plaything, but it was really important and played a big part in our history. A lot of these dolls went across country in covered wagons and things like that. That fascinates me," she said.

One of the main reasons behind the 33-year-old Mrs.

Pationo's ability to collect so many of these cloth toys from the 19th and early 20th cen-

Bits and scraps from your turies is, she said, rather gruesome.

"You would expect these dolls to be hard to find, because they were in the hands of children. But in those days children died very young. A lot of children died of diptheria and a lot of other things very, very young. Their things including thier rag dolls were kept like relics and later soft sculptures can represent a sold with estates and things major investment unless like that. It's morbid, but that is why some have survived so

> In her seven years collecting dolls, sparked by boredom while living in an isolated Texas town, Mrs. Pationo has resewn many arms, refilled the shells of some children's faded dreams and redressed in the style of their day primitive coquettes that still retain the power to charm.

Mrs. Patino points to one of her rag babies and said, "This is a very old primitive from the 1800s. She's lost a lot of her paint, but yet she retains her charisma, even though she's very, very old. They did such a good job. It always amazes

Many of the muslin rag dolla in Mrs. Patino's collection sport faces painted with oil colors, others have embroidered expressions and some have crude ink drawn features. A few have papermache heads. Most are homemade creations, put together by moms who used the materials on hand to met the needs of their own babies to have babes to love. A few were produced and sold by dollmakers who peddled their own wares.

They aren't all beautiful babies, but this basket of rag dolls would delight a child with a feel for cuddly toys, or a collector who knows their value can soar into the $1,000 range.

The two prize dolls in Mrs. Patino's gallery were made by professionals and one was even patented. That "Columdoll's delicate, oil-painted face has aged gracefully over the years. The blushing pink of it's youth has turned to a warm rose which now reflects the deep crimson colors in its original costume which has also survived intact. 'I love the oil-painted

Singers Discovered Standing Around Pool in Their BVDs

NEW YORK (UPI) - Actors Joel Higgins and

Stephen Collins were standing around a Harlem swimming pool in their underwear one day when director Lou Antonio discovered them — as singers.

Higgins. co-star of NBC's "Silver Spoons," and Collins (CBS's "Chiefs" miniseries) were actually just waiting to shoot a scene for the upcoming CBS movie

The singing was something they started to do spontaneously to take their minds off the fact that they felt a little stupid sitting around a Harlem swimming pool in their underwear with a large coed production crew looking on.

story of two former Big 10 swimmers who years later are reunited in New York after one of them (Higgins) splits up with his wife and moves there from the

The movie, shot on location in New York, will air

The skivvy scene comes when the two old competitors doff their clothes and dive in to find out

"We felt foolish standing around so we started singing doo-wap music," Higgins said. "The echo was

The soundman recorded the episode and Antonio apparently liked the result because a few days later, when another scene was being shot that didn't have much dialogue, Antonio told them to sing.

primitives. I have an affinity for those," Mrs. Patino said. The problem with these, however, is that the paint darkens and flakes with age. But it is just those telltale signs, along with the type of fabric and thread used in the clothing and the patiently produced hand stiching, that give clues to a doll's age and authenticity, she says.

It takes some research and experience to recognize the Real McCoy, Mrs. Patino said. So don't expect to put together a top notch antique doll collection in a

"There's a lot of monkey business going on out there," Mrs. Patino said. "You have to do some studying, read some doll books and magazines. There are counterfelt dolls out there and they dirty them up so they look old."

When ordering dolls by mail, which you can through doll and antique publications, Mrs. Patino says it's crucial that your sales contract includes a return privilege.

"It's expensive," Mrs. Patino, said of her hobby, "but once in a while you'll luck out. There are bargains left, but you've got to look a lot more than you used to have to. If you buy from dealers, of course, there not too many bargains there, unless the

Sha Na Na's Bauman Is Back To Normal

DEAR DICK: I assume that the Jon Bauman I saw on "Match Game" and "Hollywood Squares is the same John "Bowser" Bauman of the weird outfit and even weirder antics and appearance of "Sha Na Na." If so, why the drastic change? — J.B.W., Wyomissing, Pa.

Bauman is basically a bright, witty and civilized young man. He was playing a part on "Sha Na Na," and now that he has left that group and become a game show host, he has resumed his normal behavior and normal dress and normal actions.

DEAR DICK: I want to submit a script to all of the major TV and film studies in the United States. Can you supply the information or suggest who to contact in order that my script will be read? - A.A., Evarts, Ky.

I don't mean to be discouraging, but it is very discouraging to try to get studio executives, to read unsolicited scripts. They are so afraid of lawsuits [it happens all the time, as writers sue studios claiming their script has been used as the basis of a series or a movie) that they return scripts unopened, unread, Your only real chance is to submit it through a recognized agent. And they are also hard to find and hard to get to read your work. The Writers Guild of America at 8955 Beverly Blvd., Los Angeles, CA 90048, has a list of authorized agents.

DEAR DICK: Will the programs "Airwolf" and "Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer" be renewed for next season on CBS? — C.D., Seymour, Conn.

DEAR DICK: I am going crasy and can't wait for September to find out the answer - will Provo, Utah.

Happy news for both - all three of those shows are on the CBS schedule for next season.

DEAR DICK: I grew up in the '40s with Spike Jones as an idol. Now I would like to know if he is still living and the names of any motion pictures he was in. — L.J., Clute, Texas.

I thought Spike was fun — but an idol? Anyhow, he is long gone. He died in '65. His movies, in the '40s and early '50s, were "Thank Your Lucky Stars," 'Variety Girl" and "Fireman, Save My Child.

DEAR DICK: My father and I have a bet on this one. Who got the grapefruit in the face in "Public Enemy No. 1" — Jean Harlow or Mac Clarke? - N.G., Palm City, Fia.

It was Mae Clarke who got the citrus in the kisser, and the movie was called "The Public Enemy."

DEAR DICK: I would like to know the name of a movie that starred Susan Hayward and Stephen Boyd and was probably made in the late '50s or early '60s. Miss Hayward's husband in the movie was a forest firefighter and was killed. She married Boyd's character, a handyman. He made her son kill a deer and she hated him from then on. I liked the film and would like to get it on tape. - D.J., West Columbia, Texas.

That was "Woman Obsessed," and it was made in

DEAR DICK: I have two questions for you. First, are Linda Gray of "Dallas" and Erin Gray of "Silver Spoons" related? Second, are Eileen "Cagney & Lacey" be back in the fail? - A.M., Davidson and Doug Davidson of "The Young and the Restless" related? - L.A.K., Kalamazoo, Mich.

No. And no again:

The Man," "Cryin" and other hits from his four decades of music-

7:05 WRESTLING

DEAR DICK: Please answer one question. At the time that the series, "Combat," came out, another World War II series came out on a different network. Would you know the name of that series? — D.S., Centralia, Pa.

At that time, there were actually a bunch of series with World War II settings - "The Wacklest Ship in the Army" with Jack Warden and Gary Collins was one, "Twelve O'Clock High," with Robert Lansing was another, and "Convoy," with John Gavin, was yet another. They were all on at roughly the same time as "Combat.

DEAR DICK: "Automan" was on Friday nights. Then it moved to Monday nights. Now it isn't on at all. Can you tell me why? - E.O., Wernersville, Pa.

Sure - that old story, low ratings. So ABC canceled it.
