☐ Florida Gabrielle may spare Florida

Hurricane Gabrielle continued to steam toward the northwest today and may threaten Bermuda within the next 24 to 36 hours. forecasters say.

Floridians can breathe a bit easy because of the storm's most recent movements. Officials with the National Hurricane Center in Miami say it's highly unlikely Gabrielle will strike Florida but did warn east coast states to the north to pay attention to the storm's movements for the next few days.

Bogus 'police' rob family

WINTER PARK - When Gary Wade answered his door Tuesday, he met three armed men who were dressed in black and wearing gas-type masks. The men said they were police.

The three forced entry into Wade's home, 1230 Gladiolas Drive, rural Winter Park, and said they were looking for drugs, according to Wade. The three bound Wade and his wife Denise with duct tape. The couple lay on the floor while the robbers went through their house. The Wades' 12-year-old son hid under a kitchen table.

The family told Seminole County sherilf's deputies the robbers stole $600 along with gold jewelry and other items with a combined value of about $4,500.

NATO to speed up arms accord

WASHINGTON - NATO later this week will propose wide-ranging constraints on military maneuvers in a move to speed an East-West conventional arms accord. The Washington Post reported Wednesday.

Bush said in June an East-West treaty cutting conventional forces could be reached within six months to a year.

Drug war supported

From staff reports

SANFORD - Seminole County public officials and residents alike expressed support today for President Bush's plan to win the war on drugs although some said it does not go far enough and others said it will likely be a long time before its effects will be felt.

Lake Mary Dick Fesa, for example, said 41'm glad to see the President say enough is enough. To coin an old phrase, 'we're mad as hell and we're not going to take it anymore." We've already started in Seminole County. Now we need Congress to support the effort."

Seminole County's state legislators also supported Bush.

However, they said it will likely require an increase in spending by the state Legislature, which may along with other state legislatures be hit with an expensive bill.

"I support the president's pro-gram," Rep. Art Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs, said, "It will place pressure on the state budget. We'll have to take a critical look at programs that are already in place to see how they're functioning."

Rep. Frank Stone, R-Casselberry, said "I always worry about Congress funding something like prison beds and then not giving us any money to pay the costs of keeping the inmates there." Sen. W.W. "Bud" Gardner, D-Titusville, said he thinks Florida residents would support some form of tax increase if the revenues are dedicated to drug fighting. "I think

By VICKI DeSORMIER Herald staff writer

Peers, a drug education program designed by Seminole County educators, is gaining national attention.

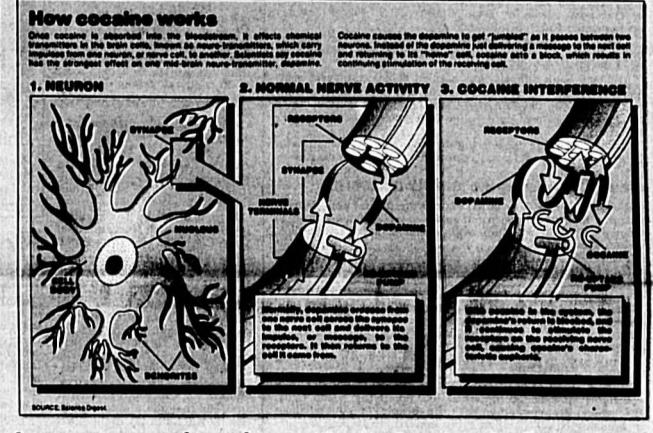

Roger Beathard, the district's director of health education, said the Healthfly Involved Peers (HIP) program has become a model for similar programs across the country. "When we started HIP last year," he said, "it attracted the attention of the local Drug Enforcement Agency (DEA) office which wanted to make the Seminole County program a model for similar programs across the country."

The DEA made a few minor modifications to the program before presenting it to a workshop that included anti-drug educators from Washington, D.C., St. Louis, Detroit and Camden, New Jersey.

SANFORD - James D. Tesar. administrator of Central Florida Regional Hospital since the hospital was bought from the county in 1980, will be leaving at the end of this month to assume a new job with the hospital's parent company. Tesar said he has been transferred to the special projects division of the group office of Hospital Corporation of America in Jacksonville. The company has yet to name his successor, he said.

Tesar was named administrator of the Sanford hospital in March. 1980, as the first act of the hospital's board of trustees after the board was chosen to assume control following the purchase of Seminole Memorial Hospital by HCA. Tesar, then assistant administrator of Lawnwood Medical Center in Fort Pierce, was the only candidate nominated for the position by HCA. Tesar oversaw the construction of the new Central Florida Regional Hospital on Lake Monroe and the move from the old building on First Street, which is now the county administrative building.

Man jumps from hospital window

TALLAHASSEE - A man who had been hospitalized after one failed suicide attempt overpowered a staff member early Monday, dove through a closed window on the hospital's seventh floor and plunged to his death, officials said Tuesday,

The victim was identified as Dave Barker, 46, of Taliahassee. He was admitted to the hospital Aug. 30 following the earlier suicide attempt. Officials withheld details of the earlier attempt, citing patient confidentialty rules.

Hospital employees sat round-the-clock watch on Barker by his doctor's order. The female nurse technicism with him at the time of the incident tried to restrain Barker, but was shoved aside, Tallahassee Memorial Regional Medical Center spokesman Ron Brafford said.

The incident occurred shortly before 2 a.m., said Phili Kiracofe, spokesman for the Tallahassee Police Department.

FPL burglary ends with electrocution

MIAMI - A Miami man who police believe was a crack cocaine user was electrocuted early Tuesday morning as he apparently attempted to break into a Florida Power a Light

Miami police found Islah Mitchell, 32, dead at the site about 1 a.m. Police said a pipe used to smoke crack cocaine was in his pocket and a supermarket shopping cart was outside the outer sence.

Mitchell apparently was electrocuted when he touched a transformer as he used pliers to unfasten a fence surrounding it, police said.
About 200 amperes at more than 7,800 volts, enough to power a house with all its appliances operating, electrocuted Mitchell, killing him instantly.

Residents called to report lights flickering, and an FPL computer registered a problem about the same time.

Officials speculated that Mitchell was going to steal aluminum, haul it away in the cart and resell it to buy crack.

Post offices receive fake $100 bills

MIAMI — Dade County post offices received 93 counterfeit $100 bills over a three-day period, prompting Miami division postal service offices to temporarily stop accepting them, officials said Tuesday.

On Aug. 25, 28 and 29, patrons passed the fake bills at several post offices in Dade County, U.S. Postal Service spokeswoman Karen Schultz said.

"They were using the counterfeit $100 bills to buy money orders, and it's very common for patrons in South Florida to use $100 bills," Schultz said.

Although bank officials first notified postal employees that some of the bills were counterfeit Aug. 25, local postal officials had to wait two days for permission from Washington, D.C. headquarters before they could quit accepting $100 bills, Postal officials are considering the installation of machines in their offices that would detect counterfeit money, Schultz said.

New pilot rules raise safety concerns

JACKSONVILLE - Aviation experts are uneasy about a new rule that makes it cheaper and easier to get a pilot's license, a change that could add thousands of novice flyers to Florida's already crowded skies.

The Federal Aviation Administration created a new license category, effective Sept. 1, in an effort to draw more people into, flying. The new rule allows someone to fly after only 30 hours of training, 10 less that it used to be.

The RAA hopes the weaker rules will make more people interested in flying and beef up the number of would-be airline pilots. According to the Florida Times-Union, however, critics say the regulations on the license are unenforceable, and the w rule will only put more people in the air without the proper training.

"One of these recreational pilots easily could blunder into controlled air space commercial jets are flying," said Celia Riechsteln, a spokeswoman with the Airline Pilots Association in Washington, D.C. "It is a big concern to us and we are opposed to it."

Pan Am adds service to East Coast

MIAMI - Pan American World Airways said Tuesday it will expand its Florida service by nearly half this year by adding 22 flights a day linking Miami and Fort Lauderdale with East Coast cities and the Caribbean.

The planned expansion, to be completed Dec. 15, follows similar increases by other carriers, including Eastern Airlines, which has begun to rebuild its business in the wake of a crippling strike and bankruptcy filing.

Eastern announced plans last week to add 101 daily flights on Oct. 1, with Florida and the Northeast providing the focus for that expansion. Eastern now flies 390 flights a day, but plans to expand to 601 flights Thursday.

"It looks like the island of Bermuda is probably going to be affected by this in two or three days," said Joel Klein, a meteorologist at the National Hurricane Center in Miami.

"As it's going right now, we don't anticipate it affecting the mainland United States, but people on the East Coast should pay attention."

Gabrielle was a gigantic hurri-cane, with tropical-storm-force winds extending 300 miles from the center in every direction.

The threat has greatly diminished for Category 1 hurricane is the Florida and the Carribean.

-meteorologist Ed Rappaport

It had followed a straight northwesterly path since its birth off the Cape Verde Islands last week. Steering currents in a high-pressure system in the Atlantic weakened Tuesday night, allowing Gabrielle to turn to the north, said meteorologist

Ed Rappaport.
"The threat has greatly diminished for Florida and the Carribean." Rappaport said. "It would be highly unusual for the hurricane to reverse its path and head in that direction."

At 6 s.m. EDT Wednesday, the center of Gabrielle was near latitude 23.6 north, longitude 59.2 west, or about 700 miles south-southeast of Bermuda.

Gabrielle was moving toward the north-northwest at 12 mph and was expected to continue on that path through Wednesday. Gabrielle's maximum sustained winds were near 135 mph

Wednesday, making it a Category 4 hurricane. Under the system used by the National Hurricane Center to but forecasters predicted that heavy surf conditions may affect the northern Leewards through at least Wednesday. Island governments posted small craft warnings and heavy surf warnings.

Probability charts issued by the hurricane center said there was an 11 percent chance Gabrielle's center would pass within 65 miles of Bermuda by Seturday.

Hepatitis outbreak worries officials

United Proce International

LAKE WALES - An outbreak of hepatitis in the Lake Wales-Babaon Park area has prompted health officials to order day-care unless parents can show they have been immunized against the disease.

Roberta Autorino, communicable disease coordinator for the Polk County Health Unit in Winter Haven, said Tuesday 24 people do not see a doctor, she ported before the Labor Day weekend and another 30 "highly suspect" cases were reported during the weekend.

"Its hard to say how many because the only way to confirm the disease is through blood tests," Autorino said. Because symptoms of the disease, which is not fatal, are similar to those of a flu, many cases of hepatitie A were re- said. There is no cure for the disease and it usually goes away if the patient gets, a lot of rest, eats a proper diet and drinks plenty of liquids.

Dr. Kevin Sherin, acting confirmed cases there have been director of the health unit, said the original cases were traced to six child-care, church nurseries and a private home.

She said the symptoms of the disease are fever, lethargy, nausea, jaundice, diarrhea or dark urine.

Fewer ducks will migrate south this year, report says

United Press International

ATLANTA - The honking and quacking of migrating geese and ducks, a sure harbinger of fall, will be heard soon in the southern skies, but this year there will be fewer ducks making their annual trips south.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, in its annual duck fall flight report, estimated this year's migratory flight will number 64 million ducks, down from 66 million in 1968.

"It is the second lowest fall flight index since such projections began in 1969," the service said. The record low was 62 million ducks, set in 1985.

But the service said the outlook for fall flights of most goose populations is more optimistic, with numbers of geese in most flights remaining the same or increasing.

As a result of the surveys showing that duck numbers remain low, the fish and wildlife service said it is proposing to continue restrictions on duck hunting this fall. Proposed regulations for some goose hunting seasons are more liberal than last year, however.

This year's breeding duck population dropped because of the severe drought in 1988, "which devastated prairie wetlands where ducks nest and resulted in fewer young birds being produced to enter into this year's breeding population," according to the service.

The 1989 breeding population for ducks in all surveyed areas was just under 31 million, down 8 percent from last year and 24 percent below the longterm average from 1955-1988. Nine of 10 key species declined with canvasbacks showing the only in-

Bush plan calls for $7.9 billion anti-drug effort

WASHINGTON — President Bush suggested Tuesday that Congress divert $716 million from other programs to meet the $7.9 billion first-year price tag of a drive to cut the flow and use of drugs and reclaim America's streets.

Bush urged a concerned Congress, an angry American public and a desperate South America to embrace his anti-drug plan so the war against narcotics can finally be won.

"We need this program fully implemented — right away," Bush said in a nationally televised address Tuesday night that was also broadcast live to cocaine-ravaged Colombia.

in amounting his long-awaited strategy, Bush pledged to increase the bettle on all fronts education, treatment, law enforcement and interdiction.

The plan Bush unveiled would increase the federal stake in the drug fight by $2.2 billion next year, some 30 percent, with the largest increases earmarked for law enforcement.

At the same time, the strategy would take the war beyond U.S. shores and rely on unprecedented cooperation of foreign governments as well as the U.S. private sector to attack the supply and demand ends of the drug equation.

As promised, Bush sent Congress specific ndations on how, at a time of strained federal budgets and deficit-reduction requirements, the drug war could be escalated without.

Of the $7.864 billion he would commit in flocal 1990, 73 percent would go toward crime-fighting. with sharp increases for prison construction and a $251 million "Andean Strategy" — rising to $2 billion over five years - to disrupt the cocaine trade in Colombia, Bolivia and Peru.

The budget numbers, however, told only part of the story. Bush wants to enlist the sesistance of state legislatures, local authorities, schools, churches and corporations in an urgent campaign against drug use.

The national strategy urges drug testing for prisoners, parolees, arrestees, job applicants. workers in sensitive jobs and participants in treatment programs, as well as tough crackdowns in schools and public housing projects.

Its broadest short-term objective seems modest: a 10 percent reduction in monthly drug use over two years, compared with a recently reported drop of 37 percent from 1985 to 1988. However, federal drug policy director William Bennett, the architect of the plan, warned that rising use of crack cocaine in America's inner cities "is an acid that is fast corroding the hopes and possibilities of an entire generation of disadvantaged young

They need help. Their neighborhoods need help." Bennett wrote in a preface to the anti-drug plan. "A decent and responsible America must fully mobilize to provide it."

Though heavily weighted toward the punishment of drug traffickers and users, the plan was touted by budget director Richard Darman, another of its architects, as one whose "unusual virtue is its comprehensiveness; it's integrated."

The $7.864 billion cost represents an increase of $716 million over earlier drug-related administration budget requests. The administration recommended the increase be drawn from projected spending on programs ranging from economic development to juvenile justice.

The Department of Health and Human Services would be asked to forgo $320 million in immigration assistance that Darman said states have not been able to spend. Fifty million dollars would be taken from the $75 million Congress wants to provide above Bush's request for public housing subsidies, while the Pentagon would be asked to postpone a new communication system in order to provide $132 million for the Andean

'If the notion implied by the term 'war' is to be taken seriously, funding for the drug war should be treated as more important than funding for several other areas," Darman said. "The flip side. of course, is that some other program areas should be treated as less important.

It was that "flip side" of the Bush budget proposals that prompted the first outcry from Capitol Hill, with Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., complaining that Congress should not be forced to "go back and nickel and dime" other accounts to pay for something as crucial as the fight

Nervous about transforming the drug debate into a budget fight. Darman offered to work "cooperatively and constructively" with Congress on such alternatives as using unobligated funds or an across-the-board cut in fiscal ,1990 appropriations to cover the added costs of the □See Bush, Page SA

changing values a key element

From UPI reports

WASHINGTON - Florida Gov. Bob Martinez and a GOP colleague, releasing a survey of states' anti-drug Initiatives, said Tuesday that solving the nation's drug crisis must involve changing values, not just throwing more money at the problem.

The remarks from Martinez and Delaware Gov. Michael Castle came hours before President Bush annunced his 1 strategy for the nation's war on drugs.

"Money is not the complete answer to the drug problem," said Castle, chairman of the National Governors Association's Justice and Public Safety Committee. "The whole way we look at drugs is even more important perhaps."

He said spending more money does not necessarily solve the problem "because sometimes you create so many programs that it becomes somewhat superflous and you start to apin your wheels alot because there's alot of duplication and ineffective programs."

While noting Florida's acute problem with drug Importation, Martinez agreed with Castle that changing people's values about drugs is perhaps more important than spending more money to deter

WASHINGTON - President Bush's strategy for the drug war received a generally warm welcome from governmental leaders, but Democrats accused him of trying to solve the problem "on the cheap," ignoring an obvious need for a tax increase.

One word - financing summed up the consistent criticiem of the anti-drug plan Bush laid out Tuesday night in his first nationally televised speech since he became president.

Democrats applicated Bush's intentions but said they feared money from other social programe, and not defense, may be used to pay for the plan.

Chairman Dan Rostenkowski. D-III., of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, said Bush's campaign is hopeless unless the government has enough money to pay for new law enforcement officers and programs for drug treatment and education.

Rostenkowski suggested Bush may have to break an election pledge of "no new taxes" to make his strategy a success.

"Unless we are willing to finance this war, we will fail." Rostenkowski said. "Unless the president supports the tax increases that will be necessary to fight this war, the drug dealers are going to win.

Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Narcotics Committee, said Bush is asking Congress to take $716 million from other federal accounts to cover the full first-year cost of the program.

war and developed a domestic policy and a foreign policy and then we have to go back and nickel and dime from the different committees to raise $700 million - it just doesn't seem as though we're sincere," Rangel

While commending the president on his strategy, Sen. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., said it fell short.

"I believe that the president's strategy seriously shortchanges three of the most critical fronts in the battle: aid to state and local law enforcement ... education ... and treatment on request for addicts .... Kennedy said.

More critical of the strategy, Ron Brown, chairman of the Democratic National Committee. said: "President Bush has said enough to start a skirmish, but to win the war on drugs we will need heavy artillery. Americans want action, not speeches. And however much applause. It was a speech about a strategy for a no-win war."

Sen. Joseph Biden, D.Del., representing his party in a nationally broadcast response to the president's program, said the plan "is not tough enough, bold enough, or imaginative enough to meet the crisis at hand.

"The president says he wants to wage a war on drugs, but if that's true, what we need is another D-Day, not another Vietnam - not a limited war.

Colombia, U.S. agree that the war will cost time, dollars and blood

BOGOTA, Colombia - The government has struck deeply at the powerful czars who control the world's cocaine trade, but both Colombia and the United States agree that the war to crack the drug cartels will cost time, billions of dollars and more

Despite the South American government's recent offensive. its most successful strike at the cocaine cartela, the duration of the war may be unlimited and demand significant U.S. support. say officials involved in the anti-drug effort.

"One doesn't win a war overnight," said a U.S. official who spoke on condition he not be identified. "In my opinion, we will be fighting this problem into the 21st century. We (the United States) have got to be in it for the long haul." After years of growth in cocaine production in which the cartels always rebounded from government crackdowns, antidrug forces launched a series of offensives in January.

The successful raids provoked a bloody backlash that culiminated Aug. 18 when the cocaine cartels allegedly assassinated Sen. Luis Carlos Galan, the leading presidential candidate of the ruling Liberal Party.

good war now has begun

b The key to winning the so-called war on drugs is the same whether the locale is Seminole County or elsewhere. It is for a substantial shift in societal opinion against the use and users as well as suppliers and sellers of illegal drugs.

As President Bush said last night, everybody is responsible for what truly is a national epidemic, whether you are a user, a seller or a non-user who looks the other way.

. The feeling registered this morning in Seminole County is that the President has done the right thing by focusing national attention on the need for a coordinated war on drugs.

An important tactic in the overall strategy. the President said, is drug education that must begin in the home and in the neighborhood.

On that, the President is right.

Nevertheless, he already is being criticized for not advocating spending enough money to really mount an all-out-assault, thereby Eraising false expectations or forcing state and local governments to somehow come up with the money.

But emphasizing proper values doesn't have to cost a penny. It can be done in the home, in church and in school, with existing resources, used creatively.

To a certain extent, that already is the case rin Seminole County as school, police and other officials have pointed out. But much more needs to be done and President Bush has provided an impetus.

One is that there is more to the problem than agreeded values. There are bone-crushingly severe societal problems of poverty and despair that must also be addressed to give people hope and opportunity.

- Unless the program is accompanied by a new effort to provide better lives and opportunities in the inner city, what alternatives are the young being offered to the allure of the money and the excitement that drugs purportedly bring? Say no to drugs; say yes to what?

Drug Czar William Bennett is asking the people of the inner cities to risk a great deal by resisting drug dealers in their neighborhoods; what sacrifices are the comfortable citizens of this nation being required sto make in return?

The second note of caution is that while we are pursuing our campaign of high moral Ivalues, we must take care not to relinquish 'control to zealots who would conduct witch hunts for anyone who didn't conform to a too-narrowly defined idea of what is good and proper.

The note of optimism is that fewer Americans are using illegal drugs, even though of those who do use them, more are becoming addicted.

The news, reported the other day in the results of the 1988 National Household Survey on Drug Abuse, is at once encouraging and alarming. It shows that most people respond rationally to sound information and education about the dangers of drug use. But it also demonstrates that the nation has yet to commit adequate efforts and resources to helping those most seriously addicted.

That is why President Bush's proposal is welcome as a new first step.

"I'm thinking of doing some LEVERAGED BUYOUTS and getting myself out of the poverty cycle.

The prospect of drying up cocaine supplies appears dim as well, since South American farmers grow far more coca than North Americans consume. Interdiction seems equally hopeless. A single large cargo plane could probably supply the entire U.S. market with the drug for a year.

Turn up the heat in Colombia, and the drug chieftains will simply relocate. Most coca isn't grown in Colombia anyway but in Peru and Bolivia — in dirt-poor regions that could care less about U.S. anguish over crack houses. Even if the Peruvian government wanted to clamp down, it's already fighting a victous war against communist guerrilles and barely controls large coca-producing areas.

Let the Colombian government of drug levis for its own reasons, not o transchers have patiented Colombia terrorising officials and undermining a law. To the modest extent the United help that country, we should.

Meanwhile, we should combat the menace of drugs here at home by reducing demand — by changing public attitudes toward the sub-stances, building on the success of the past few

Drug war involves politics, too

WASHINGTON — It will not shock you to know that there's a certain amount of politics in the big anti-drug crusade President Bush is set has unleashed with his Oval Office set has unleashed with his Oval Office television speech Tuesday. Any time an issue hits the top of the list of voters' concerns, as drug abuse certainly has, the politicians pay attentin. All of them will be sounding off in the hours and days following the Bush address.

The politician with the most riding on the issue, both substantively and politically, is drug exar William J. Bennett. The director of the White House Office of National Drug Control Policy is the principal architect of the strategy the President will present. And he is also a man of vibrant political ambition.

When he comes up for re-election in 1992, George Bush will be graded on his handling of many issues, foreign and domestic. But Bennett's hopes of Ldvancement rest entirely, for now, on his success or failure in a job no for now, on his success or failure in a job no one else ever has had, as the man charged with ridding the nation of the hideous plague of drugs.

When I asked him the other day whether he thought he had been sent off on a fool's mission, he shook his head, then added: "If it is, I volunteered for it." Indeed he did, calling Bush during the transition and making his "availability" known.

During the campaign, Bush had talked about

"availability" known.

During the campaign, Bush had talked about making the Vice President his "drug esar," but since the election, he has dropped Dan Quayle into the dark hole of amorphous duties he learned so well himself during the Reagan years. To be renominated as Vice President, Quayle has to satisfy only one person — Bush, But to become the Republican presidential nominee in 1996, he will have to best back the competition in the Republican primaries and prevail at the GOP convention.

One of the largely unremarked and unique one of the largely unremarked and unique features of the Bush administration is the way the President has stacked his Cabinet with potential challengers for the presidential nomination. In addition to Quayle, those of an age, background, temperament and ambition to be considered hopefuls would include Secretary of State James A. Baker III, Secretary of Defense Dick Chency, Attorney General Dick Thornburgh, Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Jack Kemp and (if ing and Urban Development Jack Kemp and (if her husband is not again a contender) Secretary of Labor Elizabeth H. Dole.

To that list must be added the name of Bennett. He proved in his previous service as Secretary of Education his flair for making a position of no great bureaucratic weight the center of controversy and public conscious-ness. Even his early critics (including this columnist) had to concede that Bennett shaped the nation's thinking — and some of its practices — as Education secretary. Had the Democrats won the White House last November, no one who knows him doubts that Bennett would even now be out on the mashed-potato circuit, drumming up conservative support for a 1992 presidential bid.

The new job offers far more rewards and risks than his education post, and no one recognizes them more than Bennett, If the drug problem were to be contained and controlled by the mid-'90e, that would be an accomplish-ment which a politician far less skilled in self-promotion than nett could parlay into a presidential cam-

Bennett faces some daunting challenges before he gets to that point. It is notable, for example, that in large measure the success of the drug strategy depends on sterling and coordinated performances by the agencies led by Thornburgh, Baker. Cheney and Kemp — all potential rivals. It also depends on financing on the cooperation of budget director Richard G. Darman, who always has a political agenda of hie own.

If Congress,

the states and cities and the people do their part, we can win.

Bennett, however, is copping no excuses in advance. "If the strategy is accepted," he said, "if Congress, the states and cities and the people do their part, I'm confident we can win." He is committed to providing in Tuesday's blueprint specific standards for measuring success — a timetable of reductions in drug abuse. And, he said, "the (policy) choice I'm proudest of is to take on the hardest part of the problem — the ravages of drugs in the inner cities, where the problem is getting worse and the vulnerability is the greatest."

Bennett also predicted, presumably on the basis of his own knowledge, that Bush will not try to shunt responsibility for dealing with the drug problem onto other people. "The President will say the federal government has a major role to play. He will ask people to hold us accountable."

He knows there will be virorous debate, some genuine, some politically motivated, in the 12 separate congressional hearings he faces in September, and in other forums as well. But he is ready to give it his best shot. If he survives and succeeds, maybe he deserves to be President.

FBI steered away from Iran-contra

WASHINGTON — The investigation of the Iran-Contra affair was bounced through enough congressional committees to set a record. It is on the rebound again on Capitol Hill with startling evidence that one Senate committee. Imper crucial information and office to the constitution with its contraction.

failed to do anything with it.

The fumble happened in April 1967, when the Senate Intelligence Committee was quizzing William Webster about his qualifications to become director of the Central Intelligence Agency. Behind closed doors, the committee asked Webster; who was FBI, what his agency had known about a delivery of American missiles to Iran.

Webster said that the FBI had monitored a shiparms to Iran in 1985. Elsewhere on CapitolHill that day, the Iran-contra committees were furiously assembling evidence to begin hearings on the scandal. But apparently the Senate In-telligence Committee never bothered to tell the Iran-contra committees about Webster's bombahell. "We blew it." a staffer for the Intelligence Committee confided.

As we reported last month, the FBI developed intelligence about the arms shipment on its own, but was quickly told by the CIA to mind its own business because the shipment was a "White House operation."

The information has heated up the congressional Iran-Contra investigation again. It is important because it indicates that the FBI may have known more about the Iranian arms sales than was previously acknowledged, and failed to do anything about it. even though the the shipment violated arms

The fact that the CIA told the FBI to butt out also raises the possibility that the CIA was trying to cover up for Oliver North and the National Security Council as early as 1985. The arms-for-hostages deal wasn't exposed and stopped until 1986.

Our associate Stewart Harris asked the two ranking senators on the Senate Intelligence Committee why they didn't tell the Iran-Contra committees about Webster. Both of those senators. David Boren. D-Okla., and William Cohen, R-Me., also sat on the Senate Iran-contra committee.

Boren declined to talk to us about it. Curiously, Cohen's office said that the information was passed on to the Iran-contra committees. But none of the former Iran-Contra committee staffers we talked to knew about it.

Cohen's office also contends that the issue came up in open sessions of Webster's confirmation hearing and was public knowledge. But it is nowhere to be found in the transcript. Congressional sources who have reviewed the record of the open and closed hearings on Webster confirm that it came up only behind closed doors.

Today, the question of what the FBI knew and when it knew it is still bouncing around. The Senate Governmental Affairs Committee learned in July that the FBI had been warned away from investigating the arms shipment in 1965 and that committee investigators have been quietly quizzing the FBI.

But the Senate Intelligence Committee found out and took charge of the investiga-tion — the same information it apparently mishandled back in 1967.

Among other things, the senators should find out why the CIA never gave the Iran-contra committee its only record of the FBI information — a memo written by a CIA desk officer in 1987, at the time of Webster's confirmation hearings.

counseling at its offices at Oak Avenue and Second Street in Sanford. The majority of those clients are referred to the program by the court.

The other publicly-funded drug treatment program in Seminole County is the Crossroads, a residential facility at 300 S. Bay Avenue which in an arm of the HRS-Seminole County Health Department.

Daryl Brock, service director. says Crossroads has six beds for intensive treatment, and 12 for long-term care, with priority given to Seminole County real-dents who have not had prior treatment. Patients are all voluntary admissions and undergo an intensive 35-day treatment program. Then most move into the ong-term care for three to aix months of living at the center while they find jobs and adjust to life outside the institution.

Brock says 75 percent of the program's funding comes from the state and county and the rest from citent fees.

"We could always use more beds and I would like to begin a program of sending recently reformed addicts into the schools to talk about drug and alcohol abuse. But we need the money to pay for additional services."

The only publicly-funded residential facility in Central Florida for juveniles with drug problems is also run by The Grove. The juvenile drug-offender treatment program is in Winter Springs and serves the Seminole, Orange. Osceola and Brevard county areas. The residential facility has 17 beds and the demand for such facilties far exceeds what is available, Vister

Bush program. As important as the amount of money to be channeled into the assure it is spent in a focused and coordinated way.

But even as Bush attended the inaugural meeting late Tuesday afternoon of the two inter-agency groups that will oversee implementation of his grand strategy, he faced nagging doubts about whether bureaucratic interests can be integrated enough for a forceful and unified government-wide effort.

No fewer than 12 Cabinet departments and eight other agencies or offices are involved. Despite the assertion of leadership from the top, they must overcome the kind of infighting and competition that hampered drug wars in the past.

by 50 percent over the next 10 years, will not be noticed locally for quite some time.

Roger Beathard, Seminole County school district's ccordinator of health education, said, "It may be a while" but, because the President has "taken a stand against drugs, state and local sources will fall toto line

Other officials said some of the particulars of the proposal may seem familiar to Seminole County residents because they are already in place here.

Fess, for example, said his city
"started years ago" drug education programs in the achool system. "Lake Mary High School was the first high school to support and implement 'Just Say No To Druga," he said. And, he said, last year, elementary school children signed contracts and turned them into the administration in a pledge to be drug free for their entire lives. A balloon release was done in confunction with the event.

School Board President Anne Nelswender also mid, "The state legislature has already mandated a drug free work place as a prerequisite for receiving state funding and we have been working together in this fight. One institution can not solve the drug problem. We already know

Law enforcement officials seemed more enthused about the program than residents and some officials.

Lt. Donald Eslinger, commander of the City County Investigative Bureau (CCIB), the principle anti-drug law enfrocement agency in Seminole County, said he's excited by Bush' proposal, mainly because it has everyone talking. Now, Ealinger said, "Let's quit talking and do something. The citizens of Seminole County have always been willing to take care of business."

A majority of Sanford residents surveyed this morning said the President's plan will not go far enough in fighting the war on drugs.

Nevertheless, of the residents randomly interviewed who had heard Bush's speech, most did agree that his plan is a step toward a remedy for crime and violence related to drug abuse. Bill Corso. a Sanford builder. said. "By the time you spread it across 50 states and 10,000 cities, it's not enough. But something's better than nothing.

Lethoy Smith agreed that the president's plan will not put money where it is needed.

"I think they should impose more security in the drug area around the schools and downtown where most of the drugs are sold," Smith said.

Curley Burfield, a Sanford Democrat, said he supports Bush's plan. "But he should have had a lot more to it." he

Burfleid's brother Jim, an Osteen Republican, said he also supports the plan, but thinks the president needs to make major changes in the corrections system to accommodate drust

"I think Bush should make all prisons self-supporting and put those guys back on the farms and on the roads," Jim Burfield

Vivian Dyer, 83, said Bush was not innovative enough in his plan to fight drugs.

"I don't think he has anything in his plan that is snything different than what has been going on. He's just asking pe to spend more money." said. "He has got to have a lot more ideas than he has at this moment if he is going to get rid of this stuff."

Wannetta Wise of Sanford said the plan is a late start on battling drug problems in the country.

"I think what he said is good. but he didn't say enough. We don't have enough jails to put all these people in," Wise said.

"They started a little too late on it," she added.

While Senford City Commissioner Bob Thomas said he supports Bush's plan, he said the strategy should go further to impose the death penalty for drug dealers convicted three

"We have to protect civilized society with uncivilized methods," Thomas said. "It should be like in baseball: Three strikes and you are out.

City Commissioner Whitey Eckstein said. "A national strategy whose goal is to reduce drust use by 10 percent over the next two years will not end the war on drugs.

"Keeping the thousand points of light burning in America will require more than $7.9 billion," Eckstein also said.

City Commissioner Lon Howell said the president's plan will not allocate enough money to local government for fighting the drug war where it is most fought on the cheap, and destined for stalemate and human tragedy." Biden said. Speaker Thomas Foley, Ding any program will require time to be effective. "I've said many times, 'I think it's going to be many, many years," he said.

But, Howell said, "I think it is a good start."

Wash., was more cautious, say-

Echoing the concern over funding was Houston Mayor Kathryn Whitmire, president of the U.S. Conference of Mayors: "Because of the enormity of the drug problem, we must be concerned about the impact of this strategy, or any strategy, if it is not backed by adequate federal resources, if it is not equipped to get those resources to where they are most needed, or if it takes funds away from other badly needed programs and services in cities.

Civil rights leader Jesse Jackson, who, like Biden, sought the White House in 1968, said Bush should look at the defense budget to help pay for the anti-drug program.
"What about real money to fight a real threat." Jackson told the Cable News Network. "To fight a war on drugs, it must be adequately funded. This is a bit little and a bit late."

The mayor said news reports overemphasized allegations of racism and police brutality in the near riot that erupted during the holiday basis known as Greekfest, which attracts students and youths from all over the East Coast.

More than 130 businesses were damaged or looted during the melce, police said, and nearly 70 people were injured.

New study finds no pill-breast cancer link

WASHINGTON — Resouring millions of middle-aged women, Harvard researchers released a major study that failed to find any link between past hirth control pill use and breast cancer.

The study released Tuesday did not, however, provide new evidence about whether younger women taking the pill are at increased risk for breast cancer — a controversial question that has recently caused considerable concern.

Reporting in the Journal of the National Cancer Institute, the Harvard team said it found women over 45 who had used oral contraceptives in the past did not have an increased risk for breast cancer — even it they had taken the pill for more than 10

The findings contrast with three recent studies conducted in the United States and Britain that found long-term use of oral contraceptives appeared to atgnificantly increase the risk for breast cancer in women under 45.

BUTNER, N.C. - On Tuesday. Tammy Paye Bakker's evangelist husband was still behind bars in a cell at the Federal Correctional Institute in Butner, waiting for doctors to advice a judge whether he was psychotic, as his psychiatrist said, or able to continue his fraud and conspiracy trial.

"They wouldn't put someone in prison who had an appendix attack, who had the flu, who had a heart attack," she said, her eyes welling with tears. "But they threw Jim in prison. They didn't help him at all by putting him in a celi."

They strip-searched him in front of a whole room full of men," she said. "As he was bending over to be stripsearched, they were counting his money. He was saying, 'That's all the money I have in the world and I have to pay the rent.' But they counted his money and then they took it away from him.

"He was manhandled, stripsearched, paraded naked in front of other men and treated like a freak at a carnival show," Bakker said.

"He says he can't sleep at night because of the noise," she said. "He hears the other men shrieking. Even after everyone is asleep, Jim can hear the attendants in the hallway with their keys. All night long he hears the keys rattling.

CHARLOTTE, N.C. - PTL founder Jim Bakker, held for the past six days at a government psychiatric hospital, was ordered back to court for a competency hearing to determine whether his fraud and conspiracy trial can resume.

U.S. District Judge Robert Potter sent marshals to the Federal Correctional Institute at Butner, N.C., to fetch Bakker, who has undergone psychological evaluation, after receiving a report Tuesday afternoon from the facility's chief psychiatrist, Dr. Sally Johnson.

Potter also ordered jurors to return to court Wednessy afternoon, a clear indication the judge expects the 49-year-old television evangelist to be fully recovered from what appeared to be a total emotional collapse last Thursday.

At the time Bakker's doctor and lawyers told Potter that the defendant was suffering psychotic depression, hallucinating and unable to assist in BEIRUT, Lebanon - The United States evacuated all Americans from its Beirut embassy Wednesday, saying protests by angry Lebanese Christians created "deteriorating local circumstances" that hindered the embassy's operations.

Two U.S. military helicopters landed before dawn in the embassy's compound in the northeastern suburb of Awkar and whisked U.S. ambassador John McCarthy and 29 American staff members to Cyprus about 7:30 a.m., U.S. and Lebanese officials

The evacuation came one day after Lebanese citizens loyal to Christian military strongman Gen. Michel Aoun began what they called a "peaceful siege" around the embassy buildings.

United Press International

The Varig Airlines Boeing 737-200 was found in a clearing at a remote farm about 435 miles southwest of the Amazon port of Belem, the flight's original destination. Air Ministry spokesman Col. Ronaldo Alencar Borges said.

Eight of the 54 people aboard the plane were killed in the crash landing, but the 46 survivors were believed to be in good condition. Borges said.

"Although we do not have complete details on what happened, we cannot deny that a miracle has happened," Borges said. "It was also a demonstration of the pilot's skill."

Air Force planes dropped food and medicine to the survivors but rescue efforts were hindered by the dense jungle and nightfall.

Borges said Air Force rescuers were hacking through the jungle to the crash site and were expected to be able to evacuate the remaining survivors and the eight bodies by Wednedsay.

Four survivors were flown out of the area Tuesday after they hiked for an hour to a nearby farm and called for help.

Rescuers found the plane about 4:30 p.m. Tuesday after radio reports from primitive indian tribes in the Xingu River valley and from a Treasury Ministry official who reported sighting the downed plane in the area, Borges said. The Xingu is a major tributary of the Amazon.

The Air Ministry spokesman said an investigation of the crash would begin immediately.

she didn't meet his sexual demands. He then took her to an alligator farm at an unknown location and told her she would look good being esten by gators, a sheriff's report said.

The woman said she was sexually assaulted several times and traveled in Orange. Seminole and Volusia counties with the suspect during the two day ordes! She said they spent some time in a motel north of Daytona Beach. The woman said the man returned her to her house at least twice, but she returned to him on his command because she feared he would cause trouble for her family.

The woman was returned to her house at about 3:30 p.m. Tuesday. She told deputies she's not sure if she wants to press charges, because she doesn't think the man will try to hurt her anymore, the report said. Deputies have the name of a suspect.

WINTER PARK — A 19-year-old Orlando man reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies he was sexually assaulted by a man who picked him up on Colonial Drive in Orlando at about 11 p.m. Tuesday and took the victim to his rural Winter

At the suspect's house, the victim reported, he was given a couple of alcoholic beverages. He said he was lured into the bedroom by the suspect who said he wanted the victim to talk to a woman on the phone.

The victim told sheriff's deputies the suspect put a pornographic tapesin the video player and launched an attack on him while he sat on a bed. The attack reportedly included forced sexual contact.

The victim said the suspect ran out of the house when the victim swung a glass jar at him. Outside, the victim called to a neighbor and saked that police be called. As the suspect drove away from his own house, the victim broke a window of the suspect's car with his hand. The victim suffered cuts and was treated at Winter Park Memorial Hospital. Deputies have the name of a suspect in the case.

Director Jim Jernigan submitted yesterday a point-by-point rebuttal to the city manager, Jernigan mid last week the report presented by Robin Riggins, who led a group of about 80 citizens in petitioning the city commission Aug. 28, "was orchestrated for her audience" and was "full of fictitious information."

"full of fletitious information."
Riggins complained that maintenance and programming at Westside Center, a city recreation facility on Persimmon Avenue, is lacking compared to that at the downtown youth center in city half. She said the building's exterior needs lighting and painting, the reof leaks, air conditioners don't work, and the pool tables are Jernigan countered each complaint, saying the recreation center is regularly maintenanced and improved. He said lights and paint have been purchased but work was delayed until after children returned to school. Air conditioners are repaired as problems are reported, he said.

Jernigan gave the city manager a list of 19 work orders for maintenance jobs beyond daily juntarial duties done between October 1988 and July at Westside Center. He submitted an additional list of 11 maintenance and repainting jobs to be done at the center this budget year.

Billiard tables at Westalde were purchased when the building was constructed in 1969, Jernigan said, but no used tables have ever been placed there. The recreation department spends $400 to $500 annually reconditioning the tables, he said.

Last week's complaints about the recreation center were heard at the city commission's regular meeting. Riggins was followed by a group of citizens who claimed mismanagement of the city's baseball leagues, then by another group who claimed the city does not provide adequate police protection, recreation and drainage in black neighborhoods.

The complaints came as a response to the city recreation task force criticisms of parks and recreation programs, and the subsequent city commission decision to split the receation department.

About criticisms of city baseball leagues. Jernigan only said the organization of the leagues is a separate issue that "piggybacked" complaints about the recreation center.

munity." Faison nevertheless recommended appointing ombudamen to each of the city's four districts; they would hold cognized throughout the com-regular neighborhood meetings to discuss concerns and city commission actions. He said the ombudsmen would attend commission meetings and work sessions, and would meet with staff when questions or problems arose.

He also suggested city commission meetings in each dis-trict "remote from city hall." The meetings would be chaired by the commissioner representing the district or the mayor, he said.

The citizens who had com-plainted claimed that police patrol black neighborhoods less than white communities, and that Westside Center on Persimmon Avenue has been allowed to deteriorate. However, City Commissioner A.A. McClanahan last week used police records to refute the claims about protection of black neighborhoods and Recreation Director Jim Jernigan has submitted a rebuttal of the criticisms of Westside Center.

BALTIMORE — Cal Riphen Jr. batted in two runs with his 20th home run and a double to ruins with his 20th home run and a double to power the Baltimore Orioles to a 3-1 victory Tuesday night over the Cleveland Indians.

Ripken's club-high 24th double drove in Steve Finley to break a 1-1 tie in a two-run seventh inning that made hab Milacki, 10-12, the winning pitcher over John Farrell, 8-14.

Gregg Obson pitched 1
2-3 innings to notch his

24th save and set an American League re-cord for rookies. Doug Corbett of Minnesota set the previous rookie re-cord with 23 saves in 1960. Farrell struck out 10 for the third time in his last six starts, but could only get two outs in the seventh inning as the Indians lost their fifth straight game.

In other action Tuesday it was Detroit hammering Kansas City 10-2: Toronto ripping Chicago 6-1; Minnesota drilling Texas 8-4: Oakland flattening Boston 13-1; New York whipping Seattle 12-2; and California downing Milwaukee 5-4.

Collingsworth set free

CINCINNATI - Cris Collinsworth says he has no hard feelings about being cut by the Cincinnati Bengals.

Rams want to avenge spoiled perfect season

Promistall reports

LAKE MARY - Revenge to a great motivating factor.

Last year, the Lake Mary High School boys' volleyeball team put together an impressive 13-0 record to start the season, only to have Lake Howell spoil it in the last match of the season.

This year, the two teams will pick up where they left off, meeting on Thursday night at Lake Howell High School for the first Seminole Athletic Conference match for both

To get ready for that early-season showdown, Lake Mary coach Bill Whaten scheduled a match for his Rame against Bishop Moore on Tuesday night. "When we got the conference schedule, I saw that Lake Howell was our first match," explained Whalen. "I didn't want Lake Howell to be our first match, so I found someone outside the county to play to help us get through those first match litters."

Whalen's instinct's served him

weil. The Bishop Moore Hornets took advantage of some early mistakes by the Rama and jumped out to a 4-1 lead in the first game. Then the Rams got their act together and ran on a 15-5, 15-2

"We had some first-game jitters and got flown 4-1," said Whalen. They gave us a scare. But we got things together and played pretty good the rest of the way."

Chris Davidson led the Rams with six kills, three service aces and a total 10 points served. Cghris Doran had a pair of aces while serving six points and Dale Whitman had two aces as he served eight points.

"We did real well serving."
Whalen said. "I thought that was going to be our weakness. But it turned out to ge our strength tonight. We only missed one serve."

The Rama will need a similar performanceon Thursday night at Lake Howell. Whalen said his team, which includes quite a few players from the team that got best by the Silver Hawks last year, will be ready

"I made it very clear to the guys after the match tonight that we need a strong practice tomorrow," said Whalen. "If we don't prepare for them, we won't get out of there with a win. We're not taking them lightly.

"From a spectator's point of view, it should be a hell of a match."

The Lake Mary/Lake Howell boys match is scheduled for 6 p.m. Thursday between the girls junior varsity match (5 p.m.) and girls varsity contest (7 p.m.).

Loch Lowe hopes to keep winning Prom staff reports

Loch Lowe Prep started a winning tradition last year in softball and Coach Tina McFerren hopes that positive attitude carries over to the 1989 volleyball team this year.

This will be the second year for Loch Lowe playing volleyball, hav-ing suffered a tough 1-19 innagural season. The team, though, is in much better spirits since three members played on the softball team and have brought a winning spirit with them.

"To put it mildly, we're un-tested," McFerren said. "I really won't know how good we'll be until we're in a game situation."

McFerren will get to find out how much her players have improved today when it travels to Melbourne for its season opener. Loch Lowe will then play Lake Highland on Thursday before participating in the Trinity Prop sournament this

"All I know is we'll be stronger than last season," McFerren said. "I don't really know just how good we'll be, but the girls are working real hard in practice and lo so far."

Loch Lowe has just seven players on its team and will have to stay away from injury to continue playing. The team is senior-dominated with returners Kris League and Tiffany Morgan and newcomers Chrise Raab and captain Camilla Kennedy, who are in the first year with Loch Lowe.

Rachel House, a junior, is the only other returning player. Sophomore Cindy Zapp and freshman Betty Weaver are beginning their first

The team will have more size this vear as four of the seven players are 5-8 or tailer.

"We will have some height this season," McFerren said. "Those are both necessities when it comes to blocking and attacking."

Five of the players played softball last year on a team which finished second in the district and put together the school's first winning season in a girls sport.

"These girls know what it takes to win," McFerren said. "I know this will be a successful season with the type of attitude that the girls have."

Evert's career comes to end with loss

NEW YORK — Chris Evert, shedding a nostalgic tear. bid farewell to a brilliant tennis career Tuesday when she lost her quarterfinal match to Zina Garrison at the U.S. Open.

The final performance of her championship career was a sad one as she blew a 5-2 lead in the opening set to fall to her Federation Cup teammate 7-6 (7-1), 6-2. "I'm not disappointed that this was my last match at the U.S. Open, but in isolating the match I'm disappointed in how I played it," the 34-year-old Floridian said.

"I played a great match two days ago and today I was flat. That's the way it's been all year. That's why it's time to say goodbye."

Evert is not cutting tennis from her life completely. She will play in the Federation Cup in Tokyo starting Oct. 2, compete in exhibitions with Martina Navratilova and play an occasional tournament. But she says her big championship career is over.

Mentally, playing so many matches in my career has finally caught up to me," Evert said.

Garrison termed herself a "villain," adding, "It was good for me, but not a good moment for me. That was probably the hardest match of my life because it was such an emotional one." Twice in the opening set Evert double-faulted on break point, and she was unable to catch her younger

"At least I'll be remembered." said Garrison, who now has reached the semifinals of the U.S. Open for the second straight year. Last year her quarterfinal victim was Navratilova, whom she will meet again in Thursday's semifinals.

Navratilova needed 46 minutes to roll past seventh seed Manuela Maleeva, 6-0, 6-0 in the evening's quarterfinal match. The four-time Open champion rushed the net at every opportunity, even attacking off the Bulgarian's serve. Not since 1929 had there been a shutout in a round as late as the quarterfinals in the women's singles. The match is the only shutout of the women's draw this year.

"The crowd was getting really loud," Garrison said of the final minutes of her match. "My stomach started to feel sick. I remembered back to last year against Martina when I tightened up and I decided I was just going to go for the serve, and it worked.

"It felt really sad. Beating a champion who we'll never get to see here again. Chris is someone I've always admired. She was always such a lady on the court. When I sat down after the match there was a tear In my eye."

Evert, who had announced she would retire from full-time tennis following the Open, thus was denied what would have been an 18th appearance in the semifinals. She won the national championship six

Erickson said he expects Wisconsin to run the option when quarterback Lionell Crawford is on the field, but when backup quarterback Brad Brekke is in they may wind up in a one-back set, similar to the offense Erickson teaches.

Erickson said Wisconsin Coach Don Morton and his staff had planned to visit him at Washington State last spring to help learn the one-back offense. But after Erickson left for Miami. a future opponent, they went to Wyoming instead.

Erickson is going to start defensive tackle Cortez Kennedy over projected high NFL draft pick Jimmie Jones because of his consistency. Shane Curry, a starter most of last year, will back up Willis Peguese at end.

but Erickson said it is almost like there are no real starters.

"Up front I see seven or eight people playing a lot of the time." he said. Another competitive position is cornerback, where Kenny Berry gets the nod over Robert Offensively, junior quarterback Dennis Erickson will get his first start as the successor to Walsh, who gave up his final year of eligibility to move on to the NFL.

Leonard Conley will be the running back, and junior college transfer Wesley Carroll, Dale Dawkins and Randal Hill will be the receivers. Tight end has become a problem because Rob Chudzinski pulled a muscle in his calf and will probably not play. Randy Bethel is out with a fractured fibula, so Dennis Kelleher will start instead.

The injuries will hamper some of Erickson's plans to play with two tight ends and two wide receivers on certain downs.

Mandarich

Mandarich, a 6-foot-5, 315-pound tackle from Michigan State, came to Green Bay for a physical Tuesday and later attended a practice in sweat clothes although he did not take part in drills.

He will not play right away and is expected to see his first action Sept. 24 against the Los Angeles Rams. The Packers said they have been given a two-week roster exemption for Mandarich.

Mandarich, the second player selected in the draft, had started out demanding a contract comparable to the $11 million deal quarterback Troy Alkman, the No. 1 pick in the draft, received from the Dallas Cowboys.

The Packers initially offered $4.1 million for five years. Mandarich later came down to $1.5 million a year and the Packers moved up slightly.
"The number was $1.25 (million), always," said Mandarich.

"But I came out saving $2 million. I mean, what am I. stupid? I know I'm not gonna get $2 million. "So that ($1.25 million) was the number Vern (his agent Vern Sharbaugh) and I had, and we

it. I've missed too much already." Sharbaugh was asked if the contract was a victory for the Packers because Mandarich came down from the figure he wanted.

at $1.1 million. I'm happy with "You might say that," Sharbaugh said. "but you have to look at all the circumstances involved and his deal compared to other offensive linemen. He got the money he wanted right from the start.

The turning point may have been when the Packers finally raised their offer from five years and $4.1 million to the near-million-a-year point, giving each side room to maneuver.

Another break came when a decision on deferred money was made. None of the money will be deferred, meaning Mandarich's salary will be worth more in today's dollars than it would have been if deferred to the future.

Tom Braatz, the club's executive vice president of football operations, said the steroid suspensions of starting tackles Mike Ariey and Keith Uecker last week didn't speed up negotiations.

Mandarich said "They didn't hurt. The last thing in the world I wanted to see was what happened."

Braatz also said the cutting of well-paid veterans Randy

Wright, Phillip Epps and Walter Stanley Monday did not break the logism, but added he wasn't surprised the holdout ended this week.

"The timetable usually is the first regular season game because that's when they start missing game checks," he said. Braatz said there was another turning point when Mandarich returned to Michigan after spending the summer in California. "I think he changed," Brantz said. "I think that was the breaking point."

There were reports Michigan State Coach George Perles was involved in the situation, but Mandarich denied them. "I talked to George about his opinion, but that's it." he said. Mandarich also said he returned to Michigan to attend a wedding and possibly finish his work toward a degree at Michigan State if there was no signing. With the negotiations over, both Sharbaugh and Braatz described them as even-tempered throughout. "It never got bitter." Braatz said. "I've been in negotiations with a lot more name-calling, a bent and they bent and we met lot more slanders." "Tom handled himself very professionally and I hope he'd say the same about me,' Sharbaugh said. Sharbaugh saw two major reasons for the slowness of the negotiations — the issue of how much any offensive lineman is worth in the NFL market and the salary given Aikman.

"Some of the NFL teams said 'We can't let this filter on through, so there was kind of a freeze at the top," Sharbaugh Mandarich arrived in Green Bay Tuesday morning, but waited until Sharbaugh arrived in the early afternoon to actually sign the contract. We had some things.

basically terminology to get finished, when some payments would be due," Sharbaugh said.
"But it was basically finished last night." Mandarich took the occasion to talk about his much-discussed bid to fight heavyweight cham-pion Mike Tyson. Mandarich said boxing promoters had come to him, not the other way around. The promoters had a $5 million contract ready.

"I said to Vern 'Great, but if i'm gonna fight Tyson, it had better be worth my while."
Mandarich said. "After I said $10 million, it kind of faded away. I used it as a negotiation ploy, but it didn't work very well."

World Cup to have beefed-up security

STOCKHOLM, Sweden Employing the nation's heaviest security for a soccer game, police girded for Wed-nesday's World Cup qualifier between Sweden and England in which hundreds, perhaps thousands, of English fans threatened to arrive without tickets.

Two English fans were arrested and another three held overnight after minor street fights Monday night, the first two incidents in Sweden leading to the European Group

Two qualifying game.

Two policewomen wearing street clothes saw three Englishmen attack two Swedish youngsters. They called for assistance and two of the Britons were charged with assault and battery, while a third was detained overnight. No one was injured in the fight and all were expected to be released Tuesday.

Earlier Monday night, some 10 drunken English fans crashed a restaurant window after a brawl with the bouncer. They dispersed when police arrived, but two were caught Police spokeswomen Sanna Granback called the incidents "minor fights that happen every night in Stockholm," but added information police picked up from English fans during the night was more worrying.

"We have talked to many of them on the streets tonight and they say 500 of them already are here," Oranback said. "They expect to be 2,000 at the game and they don't have any tickets. They believe they will be allowed to enter they will be allowed to enter the match anyway, thinking we'd rather have them on the stands than on the streets.

"But." Granback added. "we don't and there will be trouble."

Swedish police had counted on 500 English fans at the game and called in "one pogame and called in one liceman for each hooligan."

The English attending the game were already branded troublemakers. No tickets were sold for the game in England and signs posted at ports said none would be available in Stockholm.

Pharmacy sells steroids to investigator

illed Press Internations

TORONTO - An undercover investigator was sold veterinary anabolic steroids by a Toronto pharmacy after employees de-cided she looked "horsey" enough, a government inquiry heard Monday. Debbie Lloyd, an investigator with the Ontario Veterinary Association, testified she paid the Canadian equivalent of $65 to the pharmacy for a supply of Winstrol-V in injectible form.

Drugstore employees told her their boss told them they could sell steroids as long as the customer looked "horsey" enough, said Lloyd.

"What did you think about that?" asked Justice Charles Dubin, who heads the inquiry into drug use in Canadian amateur sport.

"I didn't know what to think of it." Lloyd said. "I knew my hips were big, but, gee."

Winstrol is a brand name for stanozolol, the banned steroid found in Ben Johnson's urine sample at the Seoul Olympics last year. The Canadian sprinter was stripped of his gold medal in the 100-meters and suspended from competition for two years.

Lloyd also said she has made nine undercover purchases of Winstrol-V and Equipose, another veterinary steroid, at three Ontario veterinary offices since 1987.

Veterinarians often prescribe steroids for "dilapidated" horses and dogs to rebuild wasted muscle, said Lloyd. But veterinarians are not allowed to sell steroids under the association's rules.

The three veterinarians were admonished and seem to have stopped selling steroids since Lloyd's attempts to make repeat purchases failed.

A Montreal bodybuilding in-structor also testified that three years ago almost one-third of his teammates on an American-style football team in Paris were using steroids

Mario Chagnon, who played for the Paris Blue Angels in a senior French football league in 1986, said that 10 of 28 teammates used steroids.

"Our team was hated by the other teams because they were huge, strong, bigger and faster," Chagnon said.

Chagnon said he tried steroids in 1987 while playing football for Bishop's University.

Johnson-

In Toronto, Johnson was spotted weahing a dog in the backyard of his suburban home. He refused to answer reporters' questions and his mother tried to persuade reporters to leave the sprinter alone.

Johnson has indicated he plans to return plete in Sept. 25, 1990 and has started to make anti-drug speeches to youths.

In addition to his 100-meter record, Johnson will be stripped of his world indoor 60-meter mark set at the World Indoor Championships in 1987. American Lee McRae will inherit the record.

It is believed Canada's Angelia Issajenko will lose her indoor records in the 50-meter

Under the IAAF's new rules, a statute of limitations will be added to those athletes who admit using banned drugs. If an athlete admits to taking performance-enhancing drugs within six years of setting a record. ten. II ne coni six-year period, the record stands.

An amendment to reduce the statute of limitations to three years was defeated, but the confusion was so great the debate had to be reopened. When the session ended several members expressed dissatisfaction concerning Johnson's treament.

Jamaica's Herb McKinley, a 400-meter medalist at the 1952 Olympics, said: "Johnson has already been punished more than any athlete who's ever taken drugs. It's completely contradictory. How can you accept him as world champion, but not his world record. All this decision does it to tell the athletes, 'Shut your mouth or you are going to be dropped.

"We all knew that Johnson took drugs, but we did not take the opportunity to do something against it. Let's be honest, we were frightened that one or two of our own athletes could be caught."

Olympic boxers fare well in Nevada

United Proce International

STATELINE. Nev. — Olympic boxing medalists Michael Carbajal and Ray Mercer scored impressive victories Tuesday night over a pair of opponents in eight-round bouts.

Carbajal, a light flyweight, dominated opponent Jose Luis Herrera, but could not knock out the Mexicali, Mexico native. Heavyweight Mercer, meanwhile, wasted little time dispatching karate champion Dino Homsey with three knockdowns in the opening round.

On the same card, up-and-coming heavyweight Tommy Morrison scored a first round TKO over Carbajal, who came into the contest on the crest of six straight knockouts, never was threatened by Herrera. Through six rounds, the silver medalist had thrown 545 punches, landing 273.

In the fourth round, Carbajal, of Phoenix, sent Herrera to the canvas with a thundering upper cut. Herrera managed to stagger to his feet at the count of nine and held on.

Mercer, from Essex County, N.J., stalked Homsey, who tried to dance away from the Olympic gold medalist. At 2:10 of the first round. a thundering right hand put Homsey down. Less than a minute later, a stiff uppercut sent Homsey to the canvas again.

The final knockdown under Nevada rules came seconds later when Homsey buckled under a flurry of punches. Referee Mills Lane stepped in and stopped the fight.

"I knew he was in trouble, so I went in and finished him off," Mercer said. "I just have to keep on working and keep on getting better.'

Evert bows out with a record 101 singles victories at the Open, the tournament where she first made her reputation by reaching the semifinals as a 16-year-old in 1971, against 13 defeats.

During her career, which includes 18 Grand Slam championships. Evert won 1,304 matches and lost 146.

Garrison, a loser of nine of 10 previous matches against Evert all but one of them in straight iets — jumped to a 2-0 lead as Evert committed two successive double-faults to close the second

But Evert, fresh from one of the more brilliant performances Sunday when she routed Monica Seles, came back to sweep the next five games. During that span Evert conceded merely five points and she seemed on her way to another semifinal date.

Garrison, at this point, changed her tactics, attacking the net more often. Once again she was assisted by Evert, who double-faulted on break point in the eighth game.

score at 5-5. The fifth seed from Houston held at love, serving the only two aces she would register all day on the final two points. and she broke Evert at love to force the tie-break.

At 1-1 in the tie-breaker, Evert double-faulted for the fifth time in the set and Garrison swept the final six points.

Evert squandered a break point in the second game of the second set, and the two women exchanged breaks for 2-2. Garrison then gained the decisive break in the fifth game on a forehand crosscourt on which she took a little off her motion and caught Evert flat-footed.

Eyert had a last chance in the final game when she reached break point, but she was unable to capitalize as Garrison closed the 93-minute match when Evert netted a forehand service return.

"My career really began here at 16," Evert said. "I have excellent memories of Forest Hills (the previous site of the Open) and Flushing Meadow."

Evert's defeat prevented a Garrison held at 15, then Navratilova, a long-time rival

Cornucopia of fruit waits to be utilized

The fall fruit harvest has begun to be apparent with an abundance of pears, grapes and (soon) apples. You will want to take advantage of the fresh produce that is reasonably priced and of the best quality at the height of its season.

As a rule of thumb, produce at its peak is firm, crisp and bright in color. Avoid the overipe. blemished and bruised.

Pears are one of the few fruits that are best if picked before they are fully ripe. If allowed to ripen on the tree, the flesh becomes mealy or gritty. Usually pears will not be ripe when bought in the store, but can be ripened at room temperature. They are at their peak when the flesh at the stem end gives readily when pressed. The best apples for cooking are tart varieties that are firm, crisp, and well colored.

Pears are plentiful throughout the fall months and can be used in many simple desserts and salads as well as snacks and lunch box treats.

COCONUT PEAR CRUNCH 5 cups peeled, sliced pears (5 medium) 2 tablespoons flour

1 tablespoon lemon juice

4 cup margarine 1/2 cup brown sugar

1/2 cup all-purpose flour

1/2 cup flaked coconut 1/2 cup chopped nuts 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon

Combine pears, 2 tablespoons flour and lemon juice in 8- or 9-inch round glass dish; mix lightly and spread in dish. Set aside. Microwave butter on 100 percent power in glass mixing bowl 20-30 seconds or until softened. Mix in brown sugar, flour, coconut, nuts and cinnamon until crumbly. Spoon over pears. Microwave on 100 percent power, 9-10 minutes or until pears are tender.

Let's just call this a honey of a fruit salad.

FALL FRUIT SALAD 1/2 cup orange juice

1 tablespoon cornstarch 2 tablespoons honey 14 teaspoon salt ¼ teaspoon paprika

16 teaspoon dry mustard 4 medium apples 1 can mandarin oranges.

1 cup seedless green grapes 2 tablespoons cream

drained

Combine orange juice, cor-nstarch and honey in 2-cup glass measure. Stir in salt, paprika and mustard. Microwave on 100 percent power 2-21/2 minutes or until mixture boils and thickens, stirring once. Cool. Refrigerate

To serve, stir cream into dressing. Combine dressing and fruit in serving bowl. Refrigerate until served.

Hints: Other combinations of fruits can be used with this dressing. For a creamy salad, fold in 1/2 cup sour cream or whipped cream along with the dressing. ☐See Fruit, Page 7B

At times the body may grow allergic to itself

DEAR DR. GOTT: What is temposi arteritis? Can it be fatal if I do't get help? I'm taking ne for it now, but it is ruining my diabetes and blood pressur, making me dizzy and causing headaches. Please explain DEATREADER: On occasion, without warning or apparent reason, he normal human body become allergic to itself; otherwise healthy immune system mistakenly identify normal asue as "foreign." This sets int motion a complicated series & chemical reactions which, uite literally, begin to destroy his healthy tissue.

These diseases—including rheumatoid arthritis. polymyagia, pernicious anemia and thybid inflammation—are called attoimmune disorders. Tempora arteritis is such an affliction it is seen as a chronic inflammaton of the temporal arteries, he blood vessels lying over the temples, or temporal bones, of the skull. Most cases occur in patients over 50. The inflammaton causes low-grade fever, heldache, thickening of the arters and—sometimes— visual difficulties.

The diagnosis is established by a biopsy, is which a small piece of an affected artery is removed and examined under a microscope for he telltale changes of inflammaton and characteristic "giant cels" present in the arterial wal. Treatment consists of prednisone (pirified cortisone) to shut off the body's inappropriate immune rection. The medicine is usually alministered for up to two years, after which time it can be discontinued because the disease ordinarily becomes inactive.

Unfortunitely, prednisone has aide effects including worsening of diabetes. fluid retention, bone brittleness, bleeding tendencies, changing ficial characteristics, acne and susceptibility to infection. As you have discovered, prednisone can make your diabetes more difficult to control and your sypertension more severe. However, I'm afraid these are necessary trade-offs because you need the medicine to reduce arterial inflammation-before the temporal arteritis leads to visual dif-ficulties or strokes.

Schedule an appointment with your doctor to discuss the pros and cons of prednisone and whether small doses, which would minimize side effects, would be advisable.

To give you more information.

Second wife lies low, gains family friends DEAR ARRY: My heart went out to "Upact in Minnepota." who had saved his money to splarge on a nice Father's Day brunch, only to have his father

show up with his new wife. No doubt "Upset" was looking forward to a father-and-son

I notice so many letters in your column contain problems created by the second wife who always wants to be "in the picture," so to speak. In most cases, the second marriage is a traumatic experience for the children, who deserve more consideration than they really get.

As a second wife, during the early years of our marriage, I encouraged my husband to attend his family's graduations, weddings, family reunions and special occasions without me. Though etiquette decrees that the spouse should be invited. there is nothing that says the spouse cannot decline, and I found it was very much appreci-ated when I did. I might add that the rewards I have received for insisting that my husband attend without me have far outweighed the small ascrifices I

Now, in my old age, I have the love and friendship of these children—and their children.

I'd been divorced for about a year when another woman persuaded me to go to a singles

They are a part of my family.

A WELL-REWARDED

SECOND WIPS

DEAR SECOND WIFE: Most second wives have two strikes against them when they marry a man with a ready-made family. And second husbands usually have to try harder when they're No. 2.

I admire your sensitivity and Insight. It paid off handsomely. Other "seconds" could learn from you.

DEAR ABOY: I had to chuckle when I read the letter from the reader who asked if it was appropriate to compliment a lady on her perfume. It re-minded me of an experience I

I'd been divorced for about a dance. A gentleman asked me to dence. I accepted. In the middle of the first number, he leaned over and whispered in my ear. "What's the name of that perfume you're wearing? You emeli just like my dead aunt." With that, he walked off the Another fellow asked me to dance. The band started off with a real fast number, and he split his pants when he attempted to do the splits. He backed off the floor, leaving me standing there.

It was quite a while before I attended another singles dance.
TWO-TIME ILOSER

DEAR LOSER: Thanks for passing on your chuckle. Not every man who asks "Shall we dance?" turns out to be Yul. Brynner.

DEAR ABBY: Your advice to "Frustrated in Phoenix." who was upact about close friends who were always late, brought back a hilarious memory. (You advised: "If you want them there by 7 p.m., invite them at 6

I was chronically late to everything, so when "Alan" and "Julie" invited me to dinner at 7 p.m., it was Julie's idea to tell me to be there at 6 p.m. Alan didn't like the idea, but Julie insisted. Little did they know that a dear friend had just sat me down and lectured me on the Importance of punctuality! I arrived at Alan and Julie's at 6:03 p.m. When Alan answered the door, he was laughing so hard he could barely get the door open. Julie, who had just stepped out of the shower, was running down the hallway to the bedroom trying to cover her backside with a less-thanadequate towel.

So. Abby, when you advise people to invite the "chronically late" an hour early to be sure that they'll arrive on time, tell them to shower early, or have a very large towel handy.

PETER PUNCTUAL. YINTA, CALIF.

DEAR PETER: You'll get no argument from me. But my sympathies are with Julie in Vista, whose embarrasament you so graphically de-tailed.

I cup ostmesi % cup butter

14 cup chopped walnuts

Vi teaspoon salt 4 cups sliced apples

2 tablespoons lemon juice

I teaspoon cinnamon 4 teaspoon nutmeg

15 cup granulated sugar Combine brown sugar, flour, ontmeal, butter, nuts and salt. Mix with a fork until crumbly. Spread 4s of this mixture into bottom of 12-by-8-inch baking dish. Arrange apple alices over crumbs. Sprinkle with lemon juice if apples are not tart, then sprinkle with sugar-cinnamon mixture. Cover with remaining crumbe.

Microwave on 100 percent power for 15-80 minutes, or until apples are tender. Serve warm with whipped cream. Microwave hint: Test apples for doneness before the cooking time if complete. Some varieties cook faster than others.

Despite complaints about 26-hour days with no time for extras, cooks of all ages have rediscovered home canning and freezing. They prepare favorite apple or pear butters, for example, to serve friends or give as gifts, beaming with pride at their kitchen expertise.

Safety is the uppermost factor when putting up foods in the home. And, reflecting today's concern with health, an increasing number of recipes are lower in calories and have less fat, sugar and sodium.

With this in mind, registered dietitian Gail L. Becker of Gail Becker Associates in Great Neck. N.Y., recently oversaw the creation of a booklet that contains 22 new fruit and vegetable recipes. The finished products were tested by the Department of Food Science at the Pennsylvania State University College of Agriculture for safe levels of acidity and safe-vacuums. The recipes appear in "Preserving the Bounty, Conserving the Calories."

Becker points out that safe canning procedures may change and it is important to use only current information. When in doubt, she suggests contacting the local county extension agent before canning. Do not use recipes or procedures from old cookbooks, she stresses.

Canning procedures have changed. Today, the only methods of home canning considered safe are the bolling-water-bath method. which is safe only for high-acid foods, and the pressure-canning method, which is essential for low-acid foods. Throw out that paraffin since paraffin seals are no longer considered safe for 8 00 8 30 9 00 9 30 10 00 10 30 11 00 11 30

Today's home canning techniques are safe and make fresh fruit and vegetables, such as pears and peaches, available for year-round use.

Foods can be either the packed" (cooked in liquid before being put into the jars) or "raw packed" (put into the jars raw and covered with boiling liquid). When canning, it is essential to follow recipes exactly and not deviate from the processing time seed specified in recipes.

CANNED PEARS

OR PEACHES

2 quarts water 2 tablespoons bottled lemon 4 pounds firm ripe pears or peaches

1 tablespoon granulated sugar substitute (Sweet'N Low)

In a large pot, combine water and lemon juice. Peel, halve and core pears or peaches, adding them to water-lemon mixture to prevent browning. Drain off the liquid. Add water to cover. Over medium-high heat, bring to a bull. Reduce heat to medium-low and simmer 5 minutes.

With slotted spoon, remove fruit to hot sterilized jars, allowing 1/2 inch headspace for follow manufacturer's instructions if different). Reserve 1 cup liquid and discard remainder. Add granulated sugar substitue to reserved liquid.

Pour ¼ cup liquid over fruit in each jar. Wipe rims with clean cloth dipped in hot water. Close according to jar manufacturer's instructions and process in bolling-water bath 20 minutes. This tested recipe makes 4 pints:

135 calories per cup.

PICKLED BEANS

2 pounds fresh green beans I pound fresh wax beans 4 cups distilled white vinegar

4 cups water ¼ cup plus 2 tablespoon dill

2 tablespoons satt

I tablespoon plus I teaspoon granulated sugar substitute (Sweet'N Low)

Trim beans; cut long ones in half. In large pot over high heat. combine remaining ingredients and bring to a boil. Add about a third of the beans and cook 3 to 4 minutes. With slotted spoon, remove beans and pack in hot sterilized jars to within 1/2 inch from top of jar. Pour in enough liquid to cover beans, allowing 1/2 inch headspace (or follow manufacturer's instructions if different). Wipe jar rims with clean cloth dipped in hot water.

poaching solution if needed. Process in boiling-water bath 20 minutes. This tested recipe makes 5 pints: 35 calories per 1/2

6 pounds firm ripe tomatoes (about 12 large)

I pound onlons (about 2 large) I pound green peppers (about 2 large) 1 large red pepper -

1 1/2 cups distilled white I tablespoon plus I teaspoon salt 2 teaspoons dry mustard

2 teaspoons granulated sugar substitute (Sweet'N Low)

2 teaspoons chili powder I teaspoon garlie powder

44 teaspoon ground cumin 15 teaspoon ground black pepper h teaspoon crushed red pepper flakes

Peel chop and seed tomatoes: allow to brain in a columber! Meanwille, chop onlons and peppers. In large pot over high heat, combine all ingredients: bring to a boll. Reduce heat to medium and cook, stirring occastonally, 45 minutes to 1 hour Near end of cooking time, stir frequently to prevent sticking. Spoon into hot sterilized jars, allowing 4 inch headspace for follow manufacturer's instructions if different). Wipe rims with clean cloth dipped in hot water. Close according to jar manufacturer's instructions and process in boiling-water bath 20 minutes. Makes four 8-ounce.

Is Tribe up to challenges of '89?

By TORY Description
Herald Sports Editor

"That which doesn't kill me will certainly make me stronger."

Welcome to Seminole High School football, circa 1989.

Coach Emory Blake and his Fighting Seminoles have a series of challenges between them and a successful season. If they meet the challenges and survive. then the 'Noles may be the suprise team of the year. If not, well ....

To begin with, the new construction going on at Seminole High School has left the football team without lockerrooms or a practice facility. The players must walk to a distant corner of the campus, where they practice without restrooms or water foun- this year's Seminole

Coach Emory Blake

Seminole's advanced offensive attack.

Then factor in the fact that Blake has a spirited but young staff working with him. That's probably just as well, because team is a pretty young bunch.

And the kicker is that Blake has installed an intricate, tricky offense and turned it over to junior quarterback Kerry Wiggins. With eight different sets and three dozen or so plays, the 'Noles will either be confusing to oppopaling defenses or just plain confused.

Luckily for Seminole. the Florida High School Activities Association was kind in its new alignment of districts. Right now, Seminole is in 4A-District 7, which is one of the two smallest districts in the state with just three teams.

What that means is that the 'Noles could win just two games - beating district opponents Leesburg and Orlando-Edgewater - and still qualify for the 4A state playoffs.
"If we only win our district games, we'd take it." said Blake, who played at Bethune-Cookman College before going on to play in the Canadian Football League. "Hopefully, we'll be better than that. But the important thing is to get into the playoffs."

The 'Noles almost did that in 1988, which Blake (then in his first year guiding the Semi-nole squad) termed a rebuilding year. Despite a 3-7 record overall. Seminole was 2-1 in the district, which earned them a berth in a three-way playoff against Leesburg and Oviedo (which was moved up to 5A this

Blake hopes offense will burn opponents

By TOMY Descrition Herald Sports Editor

Emory Blake, the Seminole High School football coach, is playing with fire.

In his second season guiding the Fighting Seminoles, Blake has drawn on his experiences in the Canadian implemented a wideopen offense with eight different sets and over 30 different plays.

There are those observers who would question the wisdom of such a move. After all, asking teenage athletes to execute such a complicated offense would seem to be like, well, playing with fire.

But Blake obviously doesn't agree.

"Most kids will flock to an offense that's going to do the things we're going to do," said Blake. "Robert Moore, who is going to start at tight end for us, came was going to be a big part of the offense. We have him running sweeps and in pass patterns."

The presence of Moore, who also plays varsity basketball and was second in the 3A ☐ See Offence, Page 13

Most coaches should be so lucky to have the talent to draw on for a transitional season. After losing only four defensive starters to graduation last year and having an offense built around returning starting quarterback Shane Willis, the Knights should be able to hold against a Typically, all the schools enter the 1989 season with guarded optimism. If the "ifs" happen and the "buts" don't, then this could be the year for any of hem.

Dennis Erickson may have been laughing, but the first-year football coach at the University of Miami knows just how serious his situation is.

"The one nice thing about this job is that there's not that pressure to win," said Erickson with a self-mocking roll of the eyes. "The fans here don't mind if you lose a couple of games."

Of course, he doesn't believe that. Erickson inherits a program that won national championships two of the six years. In the 1980s, the Hurricanes have lost just 15 games while winning 81. And Miami football fans expect that trend to continue on into the 1990s.

"We're really excited." Lake Mary coach Doug Peters said. "We had a good spring and we hope to build on that. We want to carry on the great tradition here."

Peters will be in his first year as head coach for Lake Mary and is welcoming the challenges. Peters steps in for Harry Nelson, who built a solid program at Lake Mary. Also the head coach of Lake Mary's highly successful wrestling team. Peters feels the lessons learned there will help him in taking over the football taking over the football

"I'm looking forward to the new challenges." Peters said. "I like to be in control. Then I get to see the progress the team makes throughout the season and year by

The only thing Peters needs right now is more experienced players. The lack of depth and lack of experience will be the biggest obstacles for the Rams this year.

"We're young and un-tested," Peters said. "I think we have some tal-ent, they just need to get some experience. I'm hoping to know a lot more after the jamboree and which areas we must improve at."

The defense will be anchored by Spencer Calvin (the only return-ing starter) and Dale Coberly, a transfer from Texas who has been doing a good job on the line. Carlos Smith will be a spot player for the Rams in the linebacker position where he started last

Lake Mary High School will be looking to continue its rich football tradition while following a new phi-losophy as Doug Peters steps into the head coaching position for the Rams

Peters fills the slot vacated by the resignation of Harry Nelson, who built a very respectable program in his six years with Lake Mary. ☐See Tradition, Pg 17

Last year, the Oviedo Lions had one of the best sensons in school history. They finished 9-3 and advanced to the 4A Sec-tion II title game, where they lost to Titusville in overtime.

This year, they are being asked to move up to Class 5A. How much tougher will it be?

Cas the Buildogs of DeLand High School overcome the disap-pointment of a 5-7 season and return to the glory days of yesteryear? Or will they continue to alide?

The DeLand program had been one of the best in the state for several years. Conches and players of opposing teams dreaded playing the trusts and astronoive Buildogs. of opposing teams dreaded playing the tough and aggressive Bulldogs. Then several close losses last year removed some of the luster from the program.

So Caseh Dave ites and his staff tried to put an early end to any negative thinking by the players by getting them out of DeLand for a week and putting them through a Marine-style boot camp for a week where the players lived, breathed and talled football.

"The camp was very beneficial," said Hiss. "The kids and coaches have grown closer together. If takes three things to have a successful season: trust in each other and the coaches, love towards themselves and each other, and a commitment to the See Buildegs, Page 17

Maturity and experience will be important factors for the Deltona High School Wolves this season as they attempt to play a full 10-game varsity schedule in just their second season.

Despite playing a varsity sched-ule, the team will remain an independent for at least two more seasons since changes in standing with the Florida High School Activities Association can only be made every two years.

Coach Bob Wallace said that lespite having the majority of the earn back from last season, the iquad still only has four games of squad still only bas varsity experience.

"Last year, we had a 5-4 record but the four losses were to varsity teams," he said. "I felt we could have won two of those contests but we had no chance in the other two games. If we had won the first two contests, we might have had enough confidence to go un-

"You have to weigh the fatigue and injury factor, "Bisceglia explained."The more you carry the ball, the more tired you get and the better chance for an injury. We could line up in the 1 formation and run him every time but when you run the I, everyone keys on the running back and he gets hit everytime.

"Besides, when you have a fullback with the ability of a Cortez Graves and a quarterback that can run and throw like Vercek, why not mix things up and give the defense more things to worry about."

But the offense is not the only news at Lake Howell. They have a very good .. lest year defense also.

"We will be much quicker defensively this year than last," said Bisceglia. "Our overall speed and pursuit has been the best part of pre-acason practice so far."

The defense will be anchored by senior lineacker Dave Coilins (5-10, 180 ib.), who takes over after playing in the shadow of Greg Astic last season.

Biaceglia said. "He had 119 tackies and caused seven fumbles. He's quick and a hard hitter. He can cover the fleid from sideline to sideline. He should come into his own this year."

A real surprise has been junfor defensive end Tom Demps (6-2, 185 lb.), who was a standout in basketball that Kansas Hebreaker, the fact that they came so close to playing for the regional championship whet their collective appetites. Then Seminole threw a pair of shutouts in the spring amboree and the outlook for 1989 was looking better and better.

"The team that gets going at the right time will be the winner," said Blake, pointing out that an 8-2 record would be meaningless if both losses were to district oppo-nents. "The important thing is to win the district and get into the playoffs."

Blake is counting on junior quarterback Wiggins, who started or Seminole last year, to lead the Noles into the playoffs. According to Blake, that year of experience gained last year has proven in-valuable to Wiggins and the

"Kerry knows every play in the playbook," said Blake, ruffling the pages of a playbook of impressive size for a high school program. "We've been doing our

Of course, it won't be up to Wiggins alone. Seminole boasts possibly the best pair of receivers in seniors Bernard Eady and Brandon Cash, Robert Moore figures prominently in the attack at tight end while running backs Henry Williams and Julius Bennett give the offense balance.

According to Blake, all six run the 40-yard dash in 4.6 or better. That, in turn makes a solid offensive line that much better. With the rule change that allows offensive linemen to extend their hands while blocking, Wiggins should have no problem getting the three seconds Blake estimates he'll need to get most plays off.

So Seminole shouldn't have much trouble moving the ball or scoring points. All that remains for the 'Noies to enjoy an outstanding year is keeping the opponents from doing likewise.

"We have a balanced defense with a good secondary, aggressive linebackers and a quick defensive line that can penetrate and put pressure on the quarterback," said Blake.

According to defensive coordinator Greg Register. Seminoie will once again play pre-dominantly a 4-3 set on defense. In the spring, they experimented with a 5-2 look, but decided to return to the 4-3.

"Last year, we had six sopho-mores who started for us on offense and defense," said Regis-ter, who was Seminole's freshman coach last year. "This year, we have three juniors starting on defense who have had a full year of experience.

"We should be pretty solid all the way around."

The Seminole linebacking corps is anchored by Bernard Brown and Robert Aime, who spent the summer working out in the weight room. Defensive tackle Islah Thomas has good speed and good strength while Jimmy Franklin and Darayavaus "Duck" Grayson are returning starters at cornerback. Then there's Eady, who will also play free safety.

One thing working in the defense's favor is the presence of the Seminole offense. Having to work against the likes of Wiggins, Cash, Eady et. al. every day in practice goes a long way to helping a defensive unit improve.

the triple jump, is just touching on the athletic ability that Blake has to work with. Bernard Eady and Brandon Cash, two other Seminole varsity banketball players, combine to form what may be the best tandem of wide receivers in the county.

But the 'Noles won't be strictly airborne. Running backs Henry Williams and Julius Bennett give Seminole an offensive balance uncommon in the high achool ranks.

Then, of course, there is junior quarterback Kerry Wiggins, the trigger man to this wide open, razzledazzle attack. After starting a full season at quarterback as a sophomore, Wiggins knows all the plays, sets and possible combinations that the 'Noles will use. And he also has the option (given to him by Blake) to check off at the line of scrimmage and call another play.

"It's a wide open offense," said Blake, a graduate of the old Crooms High School and Bethune-Cookman College. "A defense can't sit in the blocks and wait for us to do the same thing. We may run from the I, from the Pro Set, from the Power I or with double tight probably have a totally different look the next week."

It's not by chance that Blake has come to use this kind of offense. At Crooms, Blake was a wide receiver in an offense that ran a full-house backfield. It was straight football, no razzle dazzle. Then, at Bethune, he moved to tight end and was in-volved in a more open attack.

Then it was on to the CFL, where he was a running back. But with the different styles and stunts used north of the border to make the game interesting. Blake's responsibilities were many.

Now, as a high school coach, Blake sees the appeal of that kind of football to a bunch of teenagers. No longer are high school players interested in the old "three yards and a cloud of dust." Now, the run-and-shoot approach of the defunct United States Football League and the high-tech at-tack of the San Francisco 49ers is what intrigues young players.

Call It fast break football.

'Today's game is a passing game." said Blake. "When I was in the CFL, it was a wide-open game, doing a lot of things to make the game exciting. And I've had the chance to work with it at different ribsitions. It's exciting."

The other big question mark, or marks actually, is at wide reciever where the Lions will go with a pair of untested sophomores — Darcy Garrett (5-11, 168 lbs.) and Simon Harper Jr. (6-6, 185).

"Simon should be playing junior varsity this year," said Blanton. "But he's the best we have. He's going to have to learn on the job and learn a lot in the first two weeks if we are going to be successful."

Defensively, the Lions lost first team All-State linebacker Wille Pauldo and All-Conference safety Chad Duncan. But with Hector Diaz, Tyrone Gammmons, Barry Coleman, Chris Tabscott and John Knutson all returning with a

years experience, the Lions should be tough again.

Hector Diaz (Frank's brother), an All-Conference defensive back who led the county in interceptions last year with six. Coleman is the hardest hitter on the and registered 95 tackles (7.9 per game) last season. He'll even more imposing this year after gaining 25 pounds over the summer.

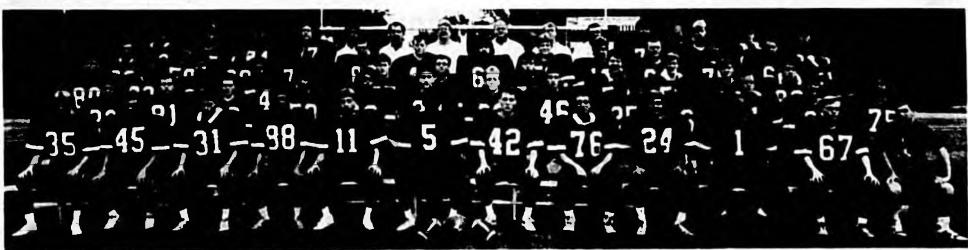

Gammons is a 5-11, 180 lb. defensive back who had 63 tackles last year. Defensive ends Tabacott (a 6-4 225-lb. junior) and Knutson (5-11, 200-lb. senior) were terrors last year, Tabscott registering 75 tackles and three quarterback sacks while Knutson had 57 tackles and three sacks. Tabscott will also see plenty of action this season at tight end.

The Lion kicking game is in capable hands. The punting will be done by Karl Galm, who was third in the county

Coach Almon will give Johnson a chance to throw the ball more this season by opening up the offense somewhat by using the flexbone in addition to their standard wishbone offense.

The key to success for the Patriots offense this season will be the play of the offensive line. Last year's group opened holes for Johnson, Dantzler and company to run through to the tune of over 200 yards per game. But all five of last year's starters had graduated.

They are being replaced by five larger and stronger lineman, but the newcomers are inexperienced and un-tested. If this group can come together and work as a unit, the Patriot offense shoule move the ball as well or better than last year.

As important as the play of the line is to the success of the offense, the overall performance of the Patriot defense will determine if Lake Brantly will repeat as district champions.

"These kids are smaller and slower than the unit from last year," said Almon. "But they are all very smart kids and play smart football."

Gone are defensive ends Pat French and Sammy Smith as well as the entire starting defensive secondary via the graduation route. Seniors David Swane 6-4, 240 lb.) and Jason Varitek (6-2. 205) will lead this year's Patriot defense.

Swane, a solid Division 1 college prospect with exceptional quickness. agility and high academic abilities, will anchor the defensive line from the tackle position.

"We don't have much depth," lughes said. "We have several people it each position but we don't have the type of experience we've had in the past few years. I really wish we did, but the JV players are going to have to step brward."

The offense returns starting center thris Bravo and Smith, who received il-conference status last year as a scale but will be moved to guard this Merthie, who started as a receiver and defensive back last season, was the back up quarterback last year but saw very little playing time.

Joining Merthie in the backfield will be Chris Haney at the tailback and Bob Menello at the fullback.

Haney was a tough runner last year for the junior varsity and is expected to carry a heavy burden this year. Menello, a 6-1, 210-pound transfer from New Jersey, will give Hancy a big blooker to full control of the cont blocker to fallow.

Merthie will have a strong receiving crew to throw to with Chip Leister, at wide receiver, Warren Woodard and Peters was happy with what he saw in last years spring jamborce and hopes the squad will continue to elevate from that level of play. Lake Mary will have to face Lake Brantley in its opener, the same team it edged in the spring jamboree.

"With the spring we had, we've caused a great deal of excitement around the school," Peters said. "I just hope we can get some experience under our belt quickly and win some games."

Peters also knows he will be facing some very formidable opponents who love to best Lake Mary .

"Hopefully, we have started the team toward those three goals. The commitment showed when 44 of the 45 kids stuck out the whole week. This is something we hope to continue for years to come.

Last year's 3-7 record was the worst in five years but with a few breaks, it could have been one of the best records in DeLand history lost to Seminote by three points, and lost another game by one point."

Hisa will have seven offensive starters returning from last year's club to call on this season including quarterback Darren Darby, receiver Denny Hinson, and running back Robert Baldwin.

Darby is a 5-9, 160-lb. senior with a good arm. Hinson (6-4, 200 lbs., with a 4.7 speed in the 40-yard dash) was a very good basketball player last year while Baldwin (6-0, 185 lbs.) averaged 5.5 yards per carry last year.

Wallace feels that the Wolves must play slow and steady football this season, without much fancy stuff. Most of the offense will center around senior running back Les Hewitt, a 5-10, 160 pounder with 4.6 speed in the 40-yard dash speed.

On defense, Scott Mullen has looked very good at the Wolf, or strong safety position, and linebacker Damon Johnson has become a definite college prospect with his play.

Lucitily for Erickson, there's another Erickson to help shoulder the load, third-year juntor quarterback Craig Erickson. A two-year backup to Steve Walsh (now with the Dallas Cowboys), Erickson should extend Mismi's reputation of turning out quality quarterbacks (Bernie Kosar, Jim Kelly, Vinnie Testaverde and Walsh).

"If that Erickson has a good year, then this Erickson will have a good year," said Coach Dennis Erickson.

Luckily, Craig Erickson will direct an offense that features six returning starters: fullback Leonard Conley, tackle Mike Sullivan, center Bobby Garcia, guard Darren Handy, tight end Rob Chudzinski and split end Randal Hill. Place kicker Carlos Huerta also returns to bolster the offense.

On defense, there are also six returning starters: defensive tackies Russell Maryland and Jimmie Jones, defensive end Greg Mark, linebacker Maurice Crum and safeties Bobby Harden and Charles Pharms. Another returning starter is punter Tim

A year ago, Coach Bobby Bowden and his FSU Seminoles were celebrating being the No. 1-ranked team in both the AP and UPI preseason polls. But that didn't last past a $1-0 thumping at the hands of Miami in the season-opening game.

Now Bowden faces a 1989 season with a team that lost 14 starters from a year ago. And the schedule that lay ahead isn't a very forgiving one.

"We lost so many four-year starters last year, guys who had been winning for us," said Bowden.
"They'll be replaced with guys who just about as talented, but they'll be first-year starters.

"Our schedule might not allow us to be as good as we can be. We're going to play eight teams that were in bowl games last year. That might be too tough for

On offense, fifth-year senior Peter Tom Willis finally gets his chance to start. He'll guide a group that features just four returning starters: receivers Terry Anthony and Ronald Lewis, guard Mike Morris and center Michael Tanks

The defense is only slightly better off with five returning starters: safety Dedrick Dodge, nose guard Odell Haggins, defensive tackle Eric Hayes and linebackers Kelvin Smith and Shelton Thompson.

Placekickers Richie Andrews and Bill Mason as well as deep snap specialist David Whittington are other returning starters.

Florida

The long climb from NCAA sanctions suffered several years ago continues this season for Coach Galen Hall and his University of Florida Gators.

According to the Florida media guide, this year's Gator squads ranks as one of the youngest in the nation. Some 74 percent of the Gators' projected 91-man scholarship roster will have two years or less of playing experience.

"We're not back there yet, but we're going to be," said Hall. "I said all along that 1990 would be the year that we'll be back.

"The players are enthusiastic about their chances."

"The players are enthusiastic about their chances

this fall. They believe they have a chance to be a good football team. Our depth is getting better, but we have to stay healthy."

One area where the Gators will be relatively strong is on offense. Led by consensus presesson All-American running back Emmitt Smith, the Gators return six starters on offense: quarterback Kyle Morris, fullback Cedric Smith, wide receiver Staccy Simmons, guard Richard Starowesky and tackle John Durden.

At the other end of the spectrum is the Gator defense, with only four returning starters: linebackers Huey Richardson and Pat Moor cornerbacks Kerry Watkins and Richard Fain.

Placekicker John David Francis is the Gators' other returning starter.

Florida A&M

After a 7-3-1 mark last year, Coach Ken Riley hopes his 1989 FAMU Rattlers can continue their steady climb up the Division I-AA ranks.

"I'm happy with the progress we've made," said Riley, whose team is ranked No. 15 in the presenson Division I-AA poll. "We've made progress every year I've been here

"We're thrilled with the presence ranking, but the layers have to do the job on the field. We really hould be a decent football team this year if everyone comes back healthy and ready to play football."

Riley should have decent depth to work with this year, having lost just 14 lettermen last year while 47 return for the 1989 season. On the other hand, the Rattlers lost 10 starters from last year and have only FAMU's top returners this year include split end Howard Huckaby, quarterback Tony Ezeli, halfback Amir Rasul, tight end Troy Allen, flanker Ronald Vickers, offensive tackle Terry Beauford, fullback Stacy LeMay, linebacker Darryl Davis, cornerbacks Lowell Crawford and William Evers and placekicker Jimmy Vertuno.

Bethune-Cookman

Coach Larry Little and the Bethune-Cookman College Wildcats have a balancing act to do in 1989 while they try to improve on last year, when they won a share of the MEAC title despite an overall record of 5-6-0.

"We're a young team on offense and a veteran team on defense." said Little. "If our defense can carry us until the offense matures, then we should be a good football team.

"We've been hurt the last couple of years by injuries. But we have a little more depth coming back this year, so maybe we can go a whole year without injuries stopping us."

Little and his staff have some impressive talent among the 30 lettermen and 13 starters returning from last year. On offense, returners include wide receiver Stevie Thomas and running backs Michael Thompson, Marty Butler and Donnie Hogan. On defense, the returners include linebacker Amos White, strong assety Cedric McKinnon and defensive back From Taxasses.

back Evan Toney.
"My goal is always to shoot for the top," said Little.
"If we can stay healthy, we can be a good football
