

Sanford 6, Kowismee 3
The heading tells the tale and there is hardly more to tell. The Kowismee cow boys were not smooth enough for the Collegians and the game went to Sanford as a matter of course.

The report here before the boys went down to Cow Town was that they had strengthened the team and would put it all over the Collegians and there was some fear expressed that by adding nine new players from New York or Jacksonville or Eustis or even from Orlando the Cowboys could put it over on our team, but although their intentions were good they did not connect with the good players in time, and the good players on hand could not connect with the ball and—why transgress further.

Those boys down there in milk and creamery land are nice boys, but it just seems like they can't play ball with us. They have tried all the league players like Carson and Fred Bass, all top notch-

Orlando Takes Advantage

Orlando took advantage of the rainy season yesterday and put one on the Collegians to the tune of 4 to 2.

Frequent showers made the crowd chicken hearted and the attendance was very slim for Thursday. The Tourists started off bravely and in the second inning squeezed in three runs, getting another one in the fourth, followed by the Collegians who were forced to tag along behind until the ninth, when their grand opportunity to win out three men on bases slipped through their fingers and the Tourists copped off the game in easy style. The Collegians were disheartened by the accident to second baseman Edwards who fractured his ankle and was forced to leave the game.

Following is the sadness by special weeps:

Orlando on the Fourth

There will be something more than the two games between Sanford and Orlando the excitement will be enough to attract a large crowd to the court house by the lakes. The Sanford-Orlando games of the Sandspur League are attracting the attention of ball lovers all over the state and they are all keeping up with the diongs of these two teams. The games on the Fourth are bound to attract the crowds not only from the two towns most interested, but from all the towns in this vicinity. There will be cheap rates on the railroads and the holiday will give every one a chance to attend the games. While there are many attractions in other places in the county and in the state the Sanford-Orlando games will draw a crowd because every rooter that has the price will be in Orlando when the bell sounds. As yet the committee on arrangements has not announced the full program but the people of Orlando can always be depended upon to show the visitors a good time and the Fourth will be no exception to the rule.

Items of Interest Gleaned From Various Sources

HAPPENINGS DURING THE WEEK

Here the Readers Will Find a Brief Historical Spring Flowing For Hurried Readers

It is estimated that over three hundred people were killed and property loss of $10,000,000 entailed by a tornado, which, after a day of thunderstorms and high winds, struck Regina, Saskatchewan, at 6 p. m. All wires except one telegraph wire are down. This one wire is crowded with private messages from people who wish to send word of their safety to friends and relatives. A special train left Winnipeg shortly after 9 o'clock with doctors and nurses and telegraph and telephone repair men. The magnitude of the calamity which befell the city is being estimated as the rescue work proceeded, could not be fully estimated at a late hour tonight. It seemed certain, however, that the casualties would roll up a total of between 400 and 500, and that the property loss could hardly be under $4,000,000 at the lowest estimate.

Plans for the spread of the coastwise seamen's strike was developed further today when at a meeting of the Association of the National Transport Workers of America, resolutions were adopted unanimously to call from their work on Atlantic coastwise steamers every man affiliated with the organization. If the orders are heeded, the walkout will come today. The effect of the resolution will be to call out at least 20,000 men, including longshoremen, along the water fronts of Manhattan, Brooklyn and New Jersey, according to a statement made by the chairman of the meeting, Secretary James Vidal, of the marine firemen, oilers and water tenders union of the Atlantic and Gulf. The longshoremen are affiliated with other associations of sea laborers and the cooperation of many, it is declared by strike leaders, is counted upon.

The deadlock in the Baltimore convention threatens to continue the embarrassment of the executive departments of the government, due to the failure of Congress to pass the necessary appropriation bills for the new fiscal year which begins tomorrow. When the house and senate meet at noon tomorrow it is not likely that a quorum of either will be present and unless unanimous consent is given for the passage of the Fitzgerald resolution, continuing last year's appropriations during July, the government will have to struggle along without funds until the Democrats nominate a candidate for President and permit the absent statesmen to return to their seats in Washington.

Negro Boy Filmmans Preachers

A negro boy's shrewdness, coupled with a negro's proverbial love for getting something for nothing is at the bottom of a very neat case of filmmaking that occurred here last week. A negro boy was walking out the road with three negro preachers. Just why they were walking out the road together and what tale he used to get them to walk out is not known. As they walked along the railroad tracks the boy suddenly stooped down and picked up a pocket book which upon being opened disclosed a $100 bill and one silver dollar. The boy carrying out his part acted like he was scared to death and asked the preachers what he should do with it. They told him to give it up to the authorities but the boy said he had to leave on the next train and had no time to hunt up a policeman, but that if they would give him five dollars apiece or fifteen dollars in all he could give up the pocketbook and they get the reward. Maybe the preachers intended to give it up and maybe they did not, but the African spirit in them was too strong to turn down a ten to one shot like that and they all dug. The boy dug too and has not been seen yet. The pocketbook was a clever plant and the $100 bill was a counterfeit. The preachers have taken up the matter with the authorities all right, but they do not expect to get anything back, although they may catch the young filmmaker. He is just a trifle too smart to be at large and should be placed where his talents in the bunco line will not have such a large scope.

THE WATER QUESTION AGAIN

Citizen Writes About Water Brought From The Lake

In a casual way I have heard several citizens express themselves on the water works subject, which through your papers have been brought before the public. There are a few who think that we should continue to use the lake water, and that a cast iron pipe should be used for conveying by gravity the water from lake to present reservoir, and it is for these that I wish to make the present statement.

About thirty years ago the city supply was taken from a lake less than three miles from the city and brought to the pumps through a 6 inch cast iron pipe. In the early nineties it was found that both from the lowering of the level of the lake and from the size of pipe that a change was necessary. The change was made by changing the source of supply to Lake Adair, a lake five miles distant and the supply brought into the city through a 15-inch cast iron pipe. At the time this pipe was placed in the lake it was some two or more feet below the level of the lake at that time. Three months ago I was told that this pipe instead of being below the surface was about four feet above the surface, in fact for a number of years the water has had to be pumped into this 15-inch pipe.

Looking at this from a financial point, it looks like a doubtful investment as the lake seems inadequate to the demand. The cost to furnish and put in place this line of five miles of cast iron pipe would be approximately as follows:

950 Tons at $30 per ton	$28,500.00
Unloading at car and delivering at ditch, $2 per ton	1,900.00
52,800 lbs caulked lead at 5c per lb	2,640.00
2200 lbs oakum at 5c a lb	110.00
Ditching and putting pipe together, 40c per ft	10,500.00
Making a total of	$43,630.00

This is a low estimate based on light cast iron pipe to carry only forty three pounds pressure, yet it is possibly equal to the present entire water works system. I will state here that I am not in a position to put a proper valuation on the present water works plant.

This is not the only expense that would have to be made. Having only one reservoir it is impossible to clean it out properly, for to do this all the water has to be drawn out of it and this cannot be done without leaving the city with out fire protection.

To sum the matter up it looks as though the expense is too great to expect it being done in the near future and as any change would be preferable to the present, we had better take up some other plan and one that can and should be carried out.

MOONSHINE IN SANFORD

Negro Had Complete Outfit For The Making Of Liqur

The grege awakened ancient Rome when their enemies were upon them but chicken-fried chicken-carried the officers to a still in operation here last Saturday night.

About midnight the officers on duty heard the report of a pistol on Magnolia found that a negro had been seen opening the refrigerator on the back porch of the By-elo and extracting some fried chicken therefrom had been fired upon. The officers took up the trail again getting hot after the negro on Sanford avenue ran him into a house and discovered him under the bed. While searching the house they also discovered a still in operation and though crude the worm and other appurtenances were working just as nice as they ever worked on the old Blue Ridge mountains. The mash was made from tomatoes or so the negro responsible for the moonshine said and he was making a very good grade of tanglefoot for the regular Sunday trade. He goes by the name of Joyce or Jordan and after a preliminary hearing is being held for the Federal authorities. He will get a sentence in the Federal prison, being a step in advance of the ordinary blind tigers.

The officers are to be congratulated for their find, for if distilleries were allowed to flourish there is no telling where we could find one next. Everybody seems to be doing it and some enterprising moonshiner might attempt to start a still in the city hall or under Mayor Spencer's desk.

Indications For Awhlie Pointed to Gov Wilson Friends Here Hope

Convention Hall, Baltimore, Md., July 1.—With thirty-three ballots taken the Democratic national convention has failed to make a choice.

The order of leadership was reversed on the third ballot, when, by shifting of fourteen votes of Iowa's twenty-six from Clark to Wilson and Vermont's eight from Foss to Wilson, the New Jersey governor came out with 460 votes to 455 for Clark. Underwood gained ten votes on this ballot, that number coming to him from the Harmon vote in Ohio.

On today's vote, from the twenty-seventh ballot, which was the first taken after the convention assembled at 11:03 o'clock, to the twenty-third, Wilson had gained seventy-one and one-half votes; Clark had lost twenty-one and one-half and Underwood had lost eight and one-half.

From the first to the twenty-third ballots Wilson had gained 151 1/2, Clark seven and Underwood lost fourteen.

Wilson has been the only consistent garner. Clark has been the in-and-out in the race.

Progressive leaders are canvassing the field to find a man to break the deadlock in the event of failure to nominate Wilson. Representative Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania is being considered as an available candidate.

The Wilson forces made a great demonstration when Wilson went into the lead. They are very hopeful. It is now reported that Illinois will go to Wilson.

EDITOR JORDAN'S EXPERIENCE

Tells What The Insurance Trust Did To Him In Leesburg

The DeLand News is to be highly commended for the vigorous fight it is making against the Fire Insurance Trust. This only stands second as a robber to the Southern Express Company.

Compared to it, the Standard Oil Company, the Steel Trust and the Tobacco Trust are paragons of public spirit and nation-wide benevolence.

The editor of this paper, while conducting a paper at Leesburg in the 80's and since coming to Punta Gorda, has several times called attention to the Insurance Trust and demanded its suppression, but, being a very small and insignificant fellow, his assaults attracted no attention.

It is earnestly hoped that the DeLand News will be more successful in its efforts toward the repression of this infernal fresh-boat of the commercial world, which is annually robbing the people of Florida of millions of dollars. This modern Captain Kidd operates in the southern states chiefly through an agency known as the Southeastern Tariff Association.

Since the Federal government has been making war upon trusts, or pretending to do so, it is passing strange that it has overlooked the worst one of all, viz: the Insurance Trust. But this one robs the people of enough money to enable it to buy up many congressmen, legislators and judges, and this may account for the fact that no effort has been made by either Federal or state powers to suppress it.

Are congressmen, legislators, prosecuting attorneys and judges afraid of it? Do they fear that the Insurance Trust has hired incendiaries to burn property of those who oppose it? Do they fear assassination, or are they paid for keeping hands off?

P. S. Since the above was in type, Tampa reports that she paid $419,000 the past year for fire insurance and received in return $34,000 in payment of losses. This shows what a prodigious profit the fire insurance companies are making.—Punta Gorda Herald.

A merry party came up from Geneva by launch last Friday, returning in the afternoon. Among the party were Mrs. J. V. Wicks, Misses Della Jones, Jessie Grant, Nannie Harris, Belle Eichner and Culver Etheredge, all of whom visited Mrs. David Spear.

SCORCHED BRYAN ON FLOOR

Delegate Stanchfield Reads His Record To Convention

Convention Hall, Baltimore, Md., July 2.—The sixth day of the session of the Democratic national convention was called to order by Chairman Ollie James at 11:03 o'clock, just three minutes after the hour named.

Soon after the opening prayer Colonel Bryan appeared in the hall. A cheer greeted him and it was spontaneous as he strode up the aisle to take his seat with the Nebraska delegation. The commoner was smiling happily and he talked animatedly with several delegates.

After appointment of a committee to secure validation of return railroad tickets, the time limit on which is about to expire, the twenty-seventh roll call was ordered. When New York was called Abraham I. Wilkins, of the eleventh New York district, announced that he cast his vote for Wilson and a crowd of cheers greeted him. Then William J. McAdoo followed with a vote for Wilson and the applause grew.

When the name of John B. Stanchfield, the Buffalo lawyer, was called, he took the platform to explain his vote: "I come," he said, "from a state whose electoral vote is vital to Democratic success. We represent 10,000,000 people. He then proceeded to review the history of New York politics and the delegates showed signs of impatience. He paralyzed the personnel of the New York delegation, declaring it included jurists, lawyers and business men of known standing.

"It is by common consent that this is the most representative delegation that ever came from the state of New York to a national convention," he shouted. "If these be 'puppets of wax,' as we are referred to by Mr. Bryan, we say that the office seeking publicity hunting marplot of Nebraska—Stanchfield could not finish his sentence. It was drowned in a burst of cheering. Bryan sat silent, smiling occasionally.

"The vote of New York is vital to the success of the Democratic party," continued Stanchfield, "and no man can go forth from this convention stigmatized and branded with the mark of Bryanism and come within half a million votes of success. When Mr. Bryan makes the statement that these delegates from New York state are under the influence of Morgan and Ryan, and belong to the 'plutocrats' of this convention, he omits one name. Outside of the three he has named the richest and most powerful plutocrat on the floor is the gentleman from Nebraska himself. If the New York delegation is to be prevented from participating, then any man who has been writing for pay from the floor of the Republican convention in favor of Mr. Bryan's partner and ally, Roosevelt, he ought also to be excluded."

Col. Bryan never intended to support the candidate of this convention unless that candidate was Mr. Bryan himself. We have all heard for months that Bryan was combatting Underwood here, Wilson there and Clark here and Harmon there, working all the time in his own selfish interest to produce a deadlock here."

In conclusion Stanchfield threw the convention into disorder with the declaration, "I cast my vote for Woodrow Wilson."

Fancy Work Circle

Mrs. W. H. Milteer entertained the fancy work circle Friday afternoon. After the enjoyment of pleasant conversation and their pretty work delicious ice cream and cake were served by the hostess. Mrs. Milteer's guests were Mrs. J. J. Purdon, Mrs. T. S. Davis, Mrs. Roberts, Mrs. H. H. Hill, Mrs. W. T. Johns.

Kissimmee's new street sprinkler, sweeper and grader have arrived and much improvement is looked for in the appearance of the streets. The machinery is of the latest improved pattern.

Beginning July 1st the Miami post-office will be advanced to the first class order. There are only five first class postoffices in the state, including Miami. The other four are at Jacksonville, Pensacola, Tampa and St. Augustine.

The corn crop in Ocala county is pronounced by many Michiganders equal to any ever seen in the Wolverine state, the stalks having from one to four well developed ears.—Kissimmee Valley Gazette.

News comes from Titusville that several orange buyers have been in that section recently looking over the groves with the view of purchasing the crop.

The Jacksonville team won the pennant in the first half of the South Atlantic Baseball Association series. May the same good fortune attend the effort of the team in the second half of the series.

E. B. Embry, lessee of the Hernando Tobacco Company farms, Brooksville, has finished gathering his crop and reports a yield of almost 1,000 pounds per acre for both shade and sun-grown stock. Although the yield has been greater per acre in years past, Mr. Embry says he has never seen grown in the state or anywhere else a finer quality of tobacco.

The citizens of Lakeland were successful in their undertaking of building a church at Dixieland in one day. At six o'clock in the morning the first nail was driven by Bishop Henry C. Morrison of Leesburg, and although the rain poured down nearly all day the structure was finished and services were held there that night.

Struck on the back of his head with a long iron bolt, knocked senseless and robbed of his week's wages, Edward Guerra, night watchman at the Tampa Steam Ways, was found yesterday morning at 3 o'clock on the porch of the engineer's cottage at the water works. Guerra had crawled to the porch when consciousness returned to him after the assault, but fainted again before he could call for help. He was taken to the Gordon Keller Hospital where City Physician Stringer found that he had been struck behind the ears with some smooth instrument. He will recover.—Tampa Tribune.

Tampa manufacturers of clear Havana cigars are finding the new crop of Cuban tobacco the finest in many years. The new crop is being used generally in the factories of the city, some of them having run out of the old stock and their output now being made up from the new crop.

The faculty and law students of the university of Florida are to be congratulated upon securing the services of Professor Thomas W. Hughes, who will begin the fall term as successor to Dean A. J. Farran, recently resigned to accept a position as a member of the law faculty of the University of Alabama. While Dean Farran's resignation was accepted with a great deal of regret by President Murphree, every member of his faculty and the student body, it is believed that the university has been extremely fortunate in the selection of Professor Hughes, formerly of the University of Michigan, but more recently of the Louisiana State University.

Report says that several days ago there was sold ten thousand acres of Everglades land lying between Lake Okeechobee and West Palm Beach. The board of internal improvement received from the company purchasing this land $25,000 in cash, which in addition to what they already had, gives them the required amount necessary for the digging of the canal 100 feet wide from Lake Okeechobee to West Palm Beach. The contract for digging this canal will be let in the very near future.—Fort Myers Press.

Work on the new Palm avenue Baptist church in Tampa has been started and will be rushed to completion. The cornerstone will be laid next Tuesday or Wednesday.

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A Chief Is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, He'll Preat 'Em"—So Says Saunterer.

¶ Sometime. I am inclined to think that those who prey upon the human family far exceed the number who sincerely pray for them. According to statistics, the industrial phalanx numbers not over one-fifth of the people. In other days they used to call certain classes who lived on the people leeches; but we have become more polite, although there were never so many of these parasites upon the people as there are today. Those who live by their wits by the earnings of others in America are twice as great in number as the regular army; and if we could only see those who wear "the garb of heaven to serve the devil in," we should behold a host. I do not wonder men in general are no better, for it is a matter of surprise that the delvers are not worse. One great example is not all the world needs; but millions of good examples. The under dog gets so little salad and so much "sads" that he can growl better than he can hope; and who is to blame.

¶ And now for a few days politics will be as important as base ball. Taft will be nearly as well known as Ty Cobb and Roosevelt will be as much talked of as Lajoie. Whether the platforms of parties and factions will be as generally understood as the rules of the national game is more doubtful. But for all his discomfort, the umpire of a championship game holds a sinecure compared with the committee which is trying to say who is out and who is "safe at Baltimore."

¶ A fair college dame who says she is tired of afternoon teas declares that they are composed entirely of four G's. "Gather, gabble, gobble and git."

¶ The bank collects the small savings of many thrifty people—savings each powerless to work efficiently in producing wealth—and loans them in larger amounts to the active business leaders of the community. If 10,000 people each have $10 in pocket, this money does slight service; but this $100,000 in a lump in a bank becomes a powerful agent in wealth production.

It will move trainloads of wheat from the wheatfields of the northwest to the flour mills of Minneapolis, and across the country to the Atlantic seaboard, and thence overseas to foreign buyers; it will build a factory giving employment to hundreds of men and making useful goods for thousands of people, it will do its share in vitalizing industry and trade—in speeding up the machinery of wealth production.

Banks are reservoirs of capital. A bad banking system will periodically break down and the flow of capital will stop, with losses to all the people. Ours is the only big country that hasn't provided against credit collapses. No bank is ever in a position to pay all its depositors cash in full on demand. But every sound bank in a good banking system has its resources in such form that it can obtain cash on short notice to meet the most extraordinary demands of its depositors. If a sound bank cannot always obtain cash on short notice, then there is something radically wrong with the system of which it is a part. In 1907 many sound banks could not meet their depositors' demands for cash. In no other great commercial nation is such a thing possible. Our banking system will be woefully weak until we have made it impossible for sound banks to be without the means of paying cash in time of financial alarm.

¶ Now is the season of our discontent when the small boy is laying for us and when we least expect it will touch off a cannon cracker under our feet and blow us up with a loud explosion. The day was when I enjoyed the Glorious Fourth as much as any of the small boys of today, but age makes you more squeamish of loud noises and the daily reports of the children getting injured is apt to get you on the sane and safe side and promulgate the idea of stopping the boys in their fun. Sanford has an ordinance, I believe, regarding the shooting of fire crackers in the fire limits but it has never been rigidly enforced and as every one will be away that day the small boy is more than apt to enjoy himself. It does seem like a restriction on the youngsters to prohibit the use of fire crackers on the Fourth, for the boy is apt to think he has been badly treated in the matter, and if he can't shoot to his heart's content on the Fourth when can he enjoy it to his heart's content?

¶ I certainly hope the election for bonds for brick roads will carry, for if ever a section needed good roads the Sanford section does. We have the best country in the world, but it is rather hard to convince a stranger of this fact when he is bouncing over the rough roads or sinking into the heavy sand at every step. There is nothing that so thoroughly disgusts a prospective home-seeker so much with a new country as rough or miserable roads and in this respect all of Florida is deficient. Let us have the bond issue by all means, and let us have it this time, for the opportunity will never present itself again in a life time.

¶ Either we get that new hotel or we die of dry rot. You can sing of your beautiful climate, of your fine streets, of your splendid opportunities and endeavors to get the stranger to locate here, but an evening spent in your so-called hotel will convince him that Sanford is no place for him. You have to show the stranger that you have faith enough in your town to build or buy property here. Just let that truth sink into your ossified think tank, you old codgers who have lived off of grits and gravy so long and think everybody else can do the same. The time has come when you will either join the gladsome throng that wants to build a city or else you can whittle a stick on the platform where the depot used to stand and watch the crowds go by. Don't delude yourself with the idea that Sanford will build up by itself. It won't. Don't delude yourself with the idea that you can trade on adversity as you formerly did. You can't. Times have changed and the man in Sanford who thinks he can induce people to locate here by the name alone is badly mistaken. Other cities that have the proper facilities will get the real live ones and Sanford will be a dead one and receive the dead ones—the tin can tourists.

Although several weeks late the watermelon crop of this section is beginning to move and within another week will be passing through here in solid train loads. The lateness of the crop is due to the late winter and general unfavorable weather conditions, which prevented the melons from being planted and later from maturing early. Nearly 1,000 acres are planted and it is expected that the yield this year will be larger than ever before in what is known as the watermelon belt of West Florida. The melons are very large and if the crop could have been marketed a few weeks earlier the planters would have reaped much larger sums from their sales. Pensacola Notes in Times-Union.

A Kissimmee firm has secured the contract for the building of the new court house at Bushnell. The structure will be two stories high, surmounted by a tower, and will be of reinforced concrete with pressed brick sides. It is to cost about $60,000 and will be handsome architecturally and ample in size for the use of Sumter county for many years.

The executive committee of the Florida Educational Association met last Friday and Saturday at Gainesville for the purpose of preparing a program for the next meeting of the Association, which is to be held in Ocala December 31 of this year and January 1 and 2, 1913. Supt. J. H. Brinson of Ocala, a member of the executive committee of the association was appointed to represent the association in the making of all arrangements for the meeting, and all local committees of Ocala's citizens are requested to cooperate with Brinson to this end.

Five or six doses of "666" will break any case of chills and fever; it acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken.

The Sum and Substance of being a subscriber to this paper is that you and your family become attached to it. The paper becomes a member of the family and its coming each week will be as welcome as the arrival of anyone that's dear. It will keep you informed on the doings of the community and the bargains of the merchants regularly advertised will enable you to save many times the cost of the subscription.

The Power of the Press.
A newspaper can drop the same thought into a thousand minds at the same moment. A newspaper is an adviser who does not require to be sought, but comes to you briefly every day of common weal, without distracting your private affairs. Newspapers, therefore, become more necessary in proportion as men become more equal individuals, and more to be feared. To suppose that they only serve to protect freedom would be to diminish their importance; they maintain civilization.—De Toqueville.

The Way to Meet Work.
The beauty of work depends upon the way we meet it—whether we arm ourselves each morning to attack it as an enemy that must be vanquished before night comes, or whether we open our eyes with the sunrise to welcome it as an approaching friend who will keep us delightful company all day, and who will make us feel at evening that the day was well worth its fatigues.—Lucy Laroom.

Mental Diseases.
Fear and apprehension make people nervous and sick. The thousand and one needless worries over the future are simply providence for the morrow gone mad. Fear of disease and death are normal; but to allow the mind to dwell on these things is to become a hypochondriac with no more stability than the leaf of the aspen.

Pupils and the School Clock.
High school pupils do better work when their eyes are not fixed on the clock. This opinion was expressed unanimously by the school board yesterday afternoon and a proposal to put a clock in every room in the city's high schools was abandoned.—St. Paul Pioneer Press.

England's Forests Gone.
The forests for which England was at one time famous have vanished or only exist in the attenuated form of carefully preserved woods and parks, from which can be obtained only a fraction of the supplies needed.

Medicine Cabinets.
The most attractive medicine cabinets for the bathroom wall come from the old town of Nuremberg, where they are hand carved and painted to imitate the fronts of ancient houses of that quaint town with their characteristic gables and chimneys.

Sympathy Counts.
We often do more good by our sympathy than by our labors, and render to the world a more lasting service by absence of jealousy and recognition of merit than we could ever render by the straining efforts of personal ambition.—Farrar.

Comforting Religion.
People like their religion to be what they call comforting. I want my religion to give me self-respect and courage. This sort of faith really overcomes the power of death.—Bernard Shaw.

Noble Practice.
Let us all resolve—first, to attain the grace of silence; second, to deem all fault-finding that does no good a sin; third, to practice the grace and virtue of praise.—Harriet Beecher Stowe.

Rare Among Men.
The ability to secure your own way and impress others with the idea that they are having their own way is rare among men; among women it is as common as eyebrows.—T. B. Aldrich.

Valuable Petroleum.
Petroleum gives us asphalt paving, permanent ink for printing, dyes of brilliant hue, and all kinds of rubber articles which without the oil could not be manufactured.

There's the Rule.
"I always make it a practice to let tomorrow take care of itself." "That's easy enough, but it's forgetting yesterday that causes trouble for so many of us."

The Amateur Gardener.
The trouble with being an amateur gardener is that usually the things that come up and look like weeds aren't; and the things that don't look like weeds, are.

Just So.
"The bridegroom is a pleasant man—he has that certain something—" "I'd rather have a man with something certain."—Satire.

Cause of Suffering.
Consider how much more you often suffer from anger and grief than from those things by which you are angered or grieved.

WILSON

As we go to press the news is flashed from Baltimore as follows:

On the forty-fifth ballot Wilson 629, Clark 306, Underwood 99, scattering vote 54.

Wilson lacks 96 and one-half votes of having enough to nominate and his nomination is now assured and may occur any moment.

INDEPENDENCE DAY

The Fourth of July kept green in the memory of a grateful nation as the natal day of American independence assumes a new phase this year with the Democratic hosts in Baltimore choosing a nominee for President who will break the bonds of thralldom made secure by the wealthy plutes of the Republican party. As we have celebrated the Fourth for so many years as a free nation for the past twenty years there has been no freedom in this country for the man who was subservient to the beck and nod of the money power and today is the first time in the long stretch of years when the progressive wing of the Democratic party has been able to show some speed and not only dominate the convention but almost exclude the minions of Wall street from the convention hall.

Independence day for the oppressed, for the poor plodders who at the present rate will soon be forced upon the streets, for the man who getting a dollar a day can make it go twice as far as it does now. For the long suffering public that has been under the heel of trust oppression for years without hope of betterment. Independence Day for the mighty hosts who have long held the balance of power in their hands by the ballot and have been afraid to use it.

The Democratic party of today is a different party in many ways. While standing firm for the creed as set forth by Jefferson the leaders have recognized the handwriting on the wall and have advanced their ideas to keep in line with the advancement of the needs of the nation, and if the Democrats will stand together man to man after the Baltimore convention the country will be saved from the corruption that has so long held sway and gained strength from the money powers and the longevity of office holders.

Independence Day as the following new platform upon which the Democratic party will stand indicated by the following:

Reaffirms party's devotion to the principles of Democratic government as formulated by Jefferson.

Declares for a tariff for revenue only and denounces "the high Republican tariff as the principal cause of the unequal distribution of wealth.

Favors immediate downward revision of present duties, especially, upon the necessities of life. Also, favors gradual reduction, so as not to interfere with or destroy legitimate industries. Denounces President Taft for vetoing tariff bills of last Congress. Condemns Republican party "for failure to redeem its promises of 1908 for downward revision."

Takes issue with the Republican platform as to the high cost of living, contending it is largely due to high tariff laws.

Favors vigorous enforcement of the criminal features of the anti-trust laws. Demands such additional legislation as may be necessary to crush private monopoly. Favors prohibition of holding companies, interlocking directors, stock watering, etc.

Condemns Republican administration for "compromising with Standard Oil Co. and Tobacco Trust."

Denounces as "usurpation" the efforts of Republicans to deprive states of their rights and to enlarge powers of the federal government.

"There is," says the platform, "no twilight zone between the nation and the state in which exploiting interests can take refuge from both."

Urges people to support proposed constitutional amendments pending in various state legislatures, providing for an income tax and election of United States Senators by direct vote of the people. As justification of the demands of the party for publicity of campaign expenditures, attention is directed to the "enormous expenditures of money in behalf of the President and his predecessor in the recent presidential contest."

Declares for presidential preference primaries.

Directs national committees to provide for selection at primaries of members of the national committee.

Pledges party to enactment of law prohibiting campaign contributions by corporations and unreasonable campaign contributions by individuals.

Favors single presidential term, and making President ineligible for re-election.

Felicitates Democratic Congress on its record, enumerating important achievements and pledges an adequate navy.

Denounces Republican administration on charge of extravagance, and demands return to simplicity and economy befitting Democratic government.

Favors sufficient supervision and rate regulation of railroads, express companies, telegraph and telephone lines and a valuation of these companies by the interstate commerce commission, and also legislation against over-issuance of stocks of these corporations.

In connection with a demand for such a revision of the banking laws as will give temporary relief in case of financial distress, there is a denunciation of the Aldrich bill prepared by the monetary commission. The present method of depositing government funds is condemned and the party is pledged to the enactment of a law for the deposit of such funds by competitive bidding in state or national banks without discrimination as to locality.

Recommends investigation of agricultural credit societies in Europe to ascertain whether a system of rural credits may be devised suitable to conditions in the United States.

So in the celebration of our natal day in the year of 1912 we can make merry in the thought that better days are in store for us and the staunch old Democratic party under new and progressive leaders will lead us out of the wilderness of despair and utter helplessness into the haven of hope and better days.

Independence Day dawns again for the whole nation.

ABOUT OUR BOND ISSUE

On the 13th of this month the Sanford special road district will hold an election for bonds for brick roads for good reasons too numerous to mention. It is our only hope and the only way. In this issue is an able article from the pen of Thomas Emmet Wilson, who has lived here since Sanford was placed on the map and who is an authority not only on good roads but on finances, and his exposition on the cost of roads under the proposed bonding system should be carefully perused by the tax payers of the new road district. Now is the time to consider this vital question that means so much to every one of us who have property interests and expect our favored section to go forward and become the greatest section in the south. Read the article in this issue.

FINE FLORIDA MAGAZINE

There is a new magazine published in Jacksonville called the Automobile and Good Roads Magazine with D. Kelley Roberts as publisher and William Henry Beers as editor.

The magazine is a dream of fine printing and good articles on automobiling and good roads and good things for the south in general. Every issue is embellished with fine half-tone cuts of beautiful places in Florida and other parts of the south and ought to do a great work in getting the automobilist to come south in the winter season. The Advocate deserves all the patronage an appreciative public can give and we congratulate Beers and Roberts on their good work. It takes nerve and brains to issue such a magazine in Florida.

"A merchant would not think of taking his sign down for a few days, but now and then one is found who drops his newspaper advertising "for a while—until I get up something new." The very day your advertising does not appear possible customers look at the space it was wont to occupy and find the advertisement of some one else—and some one else gets the business that might have come to you.—Lakeland Telegram.

An article appearing in the Sanford Herald which was addressed to the Florida Grower, is one of the best boosters for Florida, and especially in portions of it that we have seen anywhere. It is from one who says he is not a "car window" expert, but has visited and seen for himself. He puts Sanford, Fort Myers, Miami, and generally speaking, a few other towns, in a class all by themselves. We are in a position to speak forcibly, knowing it to be one of the best towns that exists anywhere, regardless of location.—Fort Myers Press.

Associated Charities

Associated Charities has at last become an assured thing for Sanford. Last Monday morning Mrs. J. C. McDaniel began active work as general secretary of the new organization. Her office is being established in the real estate office of Mr. J. N. Whitner, which is an ideal location in the heart of the business district.

Mrs. McDaniel's office hours will be from 9 to 11 each morning and from 4 to 5 in the afternoon. A telephone has been placed in her house and she can thus be reached at any time. The public are urged to refer every case to the office before any other relief is attempted. This is especially applicable to the stranger who comes to the door. However good a story he can put up—and many are experts in this direction—it is better that his needs be passed upon by the Associated Charities. The citizens may be assured that no worthy person will ever be denied immediate help. Any families or persons residing in Sanford, known or suspected to be in need should also be reported to the general secretary.

The new Board of Directors met last Thursday and Friday nights and completed the organization. The officers of the Associated Charities were made the officers of the Board. Chairman C. R. Walker, after consulting with a special committee, named the following standing committees, who will have the work of the society in charge:

Executive Committee: S. O. Chase, chairman; F. P. Forster, G. B. Waldron, Mrs. Henry Wight, Mrs. J. W. Wildman, C. H. Summers. This committee also acts as advisory committee or a committee on cases.

Membership Committee: C. H. Lefler, chairman; E. B. Rourke, T. S. Davis, H. C. DuBose, Mrs. R. L. Peck.

Finance Committee: B. F. Whitner, chairman; Mrs. W. H. Hynes, D. L. Thrasher, W. A. Lefler.

Harriet Quimby Killed

Boston, Mass., July 1. Miss Harriet Quimby of Boston, the first woman to win an aviator's license in America and the first woman to cross the English Channel in an aeroplane, was instantly killed with a passenger W. A. P. Willard, manager of the Boston aviation meet at Atlantic City, tonight when her Bleriot monoplane fell into Dorchester Bay from a height of a thousand feet.

The accident happened when Miss Quimby and Willard were returning from a trip over Boston Harbor to Boston light, a distance of twenty miles in all. The flight was made in twenty minutes. The Bleriot, one of the latest models in military monoplanes, circled the aviation grounds. Circling back into the eight-mile gusty wind, Miss Quimby started to volplane.

The angle was too sharp and one of the gusts caught the tail of the monoplane, throwing the machine up perpendicular. For an instant they poised there. Then sharply outlined against the setting sun for an instant. Then hurling over the two figures shot down striking the water twenty feet from shore. They splashed out of sight a second before the monoplane plunged down fifteen feet away.

It was low tide and the water was only five feet deep. Men from the yacht club in motorboats were on the spot quickly and leaping overboard dragged the bodies out of the mud into which they had sunk deeply. Death probably was instantaneous. Both bodies were badly crushed. Several of Miss Quimby's bones were broken and there were many large bruises. Willard, who weighed 190 pounds, hit the water face first and over one eye there was a gash from which the blood was flowing. He too sustained several fractures and bruises.

Next Sunday Night

Union monthly Sunday night meetings will be resumed at the Star Theatre next Sunday night. These meetings are under the executive committee of the Men and Religion Forward Movement. The June meeting was omitted because of the services at the tent, but it is hoped to carry them on regularly once a month through the summer. Rev. George B. Waldron, who is to be away from the city during August and September, has been asked to deliver the address next Sunday night. Services open at 7:30. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. The committee previously in charge of the music is asked to act again.

Rub-My-Tam will cure you.

Wilson Nominated NEW JERSEY GOVERNOR LEADS DEMOCRATS

At 3 o'clock today the result of the Democratic Convention is announced as follows: On the Forty-Sixth ballot Woodrow Wilson received 990 votes and will be declared the Nominee.

Great confusion in the assemblage.

Mrs. J. C. Ensminger and daughter Miss Carrie, Misses Clara and Sina Miller and Miss Edith Stewart were a pleasant party who left yesterday afternoon to spend the summer in Waynesville, N. C.

Mrs. J. D. Davison has returned from a trip to New York City and her old home in Vermont.

A. P. Connelly has returned from New York. He dropped in at the Baltimore convention for a short time and reports the animals as very ferocious in the big show.

Capt. Minnick is visiting his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Minnick of Cameroff City. The Captain has been changed to a new post at Watertown-Armory near Boston. Miss Aileen Minnick returned with him and will remain with her parents during the winter.

Albert Brady is visiting home folks this week. He is engaged in the hardware business in Miami and likes the Magic City almost as well as he does Sanford.

Mrs. W. H. Williams and son, Horace, are revelling in Georgia chicken and other good things. They expect to stay at Lumkin for several weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Culppepper of Geneva spent a portion of last week with Mr. and Mrs. David Speer at their home on Park avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Hinton of Dublin, Ga., have arrived in the city and are located at the Stephens house on Park avenue.

J. N. Whitner returned Saturday night from a business trip to New York.

Little Miss Lucile Gordon, daughter of Judge Gordon of Tampa, is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Hill this week.

Mrs. D. L. Thrasher and daughter, May, and Mrs. Samuel Puleston and children, accompanied by Mrs. Collier, Mrs. Puleston's mother, left Tuesday afternoon for Warm Springs, Ga., where they will remain for some time.

Miss Mamie Hill left Friday night for Walterboro, S. C., where she will be the guest of relatives. She will also visit several points in South Carolina before going to Columbus, Ohio, to spend the summer with her sister, Mrs. Walter B. Howard.

Mrs. M. H. Bowler and Miss Mabel returned to the city Friday evening after a month pleasantly spent with friends in Raleigh, Weldon and Wilmington, N. C. They also spent several days in Jacksonville on their return from North Carolina, the guests of Mrs. P. J. Croghan. Mrs. Bowler's sister, Mr. Bowler went to Jacksonville Thursday afternoon to meet them, returning with them Friday evening.

Split in Florida Delegation

Baltimore, July 1.—A break in the Florida Delegation came on the thirty-seventh ballot, Mayes and Griggs voting for Wilson. Governor Gilchrist protested, stating to the chairman that under the primary all delegates were instructed to vote for Underwood as long as his name was before the convention.

Robert E. Davis, in a fiery speech, declared that delegates could not honestly change their votes. Senator O. Gorman, temporarily presiding, ruled that each Florida delegate could vote as his conscience dictated. The roll of the delegation was called and the vote stood ten for Underwood, and two for Wilson. Much excitement prevailed in the Florida section during the poll.

Severe criticisms of the action of Mayes and Griggs in voting for Wilson are being made by other members of the delegation, who point out that not only were they instructed by primary, but by a resolution adopted by the delegation in caucus that no change should be made except by a vote of the majority of the delegates. They acquiesced in this resolution.

In stating the case to the convention Governor Gilchrist said: "Every man in this delegation is bound in honor to vote for Underwood until his name is withdrawn."

TRANSPORTATION, THE PROBLEM

People of Florida Need Relief in This Most Important Matter

There is only one great question confronting the people of Florida today. When that question is rightly settled all others will practically adjust themselves.

It is not a question of river and harbor improvement, for that concerns comparatively but few. It is not the question of land drainage, for we have an abundance of land already drained that yet remains fallow. It is not the question of frauds perpetrated upon home-seekers by land sharks, for the state is not supposed to act as guardian for people who persist in purchasing a pig in a poke. It is not the question of what crops can be produced with the most profit in this soil and climate. South Florida can raise thousands of car loads of winter vegetables for the snow covered north and west every winter not to mention our immense citrus fruit crop—without any waterway improvements, without any land drainage and despite the "black eye" given the state by the land sharks, and without any experimental work with soils and fertilizers. We have passed the experimental stage in the matter of growing winter vegetables. These are all of secondary consideration. The paramount problem is getting our products to the northern markets, and it is as stupendous and perplexing as it is important. This problem must be solved before Florida can hope to reach that high pinnacle of prosperity to which the endowments of nature entitle her. We must open a way to market, and the work should enlist the efforts of every man who feels an interest in the welfare of Florida.

The problem is two-fold, and begins with a good road from the farmer's home to town. He demands this, for he will not improve our rural lands to raise products that he cannot haul to a shipping point. The progressive citizen would soon solve this problem by issuing bonds and building the roads.

That is one side of the question, but the other is far more perplexing: What would it profit the farmer if he raise all the truck he can haul to town over a good road, if the railroad or express company stands ready to rob him of it by taking all his profits to pay the freight? This is the all absorbing question that is engrossing the minds of everybody everywhere except the predatory politician. He is pondering over senatorial courtesy or the tariff, or the pension grab, or the vindication of the Immaculate Lorimer, or the grand opening of the "pork barrel" that will enable him to get that appropriation, upon the promise of which secured his election. He has too many special interests to look after to concern himself with trifling matters like railroad regulations.

Meanwhile the express companies and railroads retain their strange hold upon the public throat with one hand and fish out fat dividends on watered stock with the other.

Next winter New York will want our vegetables at a fancy price, but the fancy rate fixed by the railroad will make the fancy price look like a nickle's worth of radium. We will enter a protest with bristles on it, and show that the railroads of other nations charge less than half the rates we pay, but the only response we will get from the railroad will be: "What are you going to do about it?" And that is a question every man should seriously apply, personally. "What am I going to do about it?"

He is strong hearted indeed who can ponder over this momentous question without becoming pessimistic.

Our state government is powerless to cope with it. We have tried the strenuous Son of Toil for two terms and he proved a political owl all fess and feathers. We have weighed Taft in the balance, and despite the great strain on the balance he has been found wanting.

The only man upon whom the country could reasonably rely to lead the fight against organized greed and squeeze the water out of railroad stocks so that the public would not be required to pay dividends on fictitious values, has been howled down at Baltimore and the leadership of the Democratic party has been turned over to traitors like Mruphey, the Tammany boss; Fitzgerald, the Joe Cannon Democrat; Guffey, the Pennsylvania black-leg; Eggert, the French-liek gambler, and men of their ilk, who have helped to defeat the party in the last four campaigns but one.

The prospects for relief from the railroad and express robbers who stand between us and the northern markets is not very illuminating, to say the least of it.

But, "What are you going to do about it?"—Arcadia-Champton.

Five or six doses of "666" will break any case of chills and fever; it acts on the liver better than Calomel and does not gripe or sicken.

BUYING UNSEEN LANDS

Purchaser Can Be Stung In Any State In The Union

We have before a copy of "The Free Press," a newspaper published in Tampa, which devotes considerable space to the alleged wrongs of certain parties, who were persuaded by land companies literature to put their money in certain Florida land propositions, and who have been greatly disappointed in their investments.

This paper has repeatedly denounced the methods of conscienceless land grafters, who, by fairy tales, induce the guileless denizen of another section to invest in Florida lands which do not by any means come up to the representations of the highly colored literature. But, at the same time, we feel that in many instances those who complain of being "stung" have shown such utter lack of ordinary common sense that one but wonder how they escaped having their money taken away from them before they ever heard of Florida. It would seem that any person who had arrived at the age of reason would know that, while, there are greater opportunities in some sections of the country than in others, in no place can they expect to find conditions where wealth can be secured without reasonable effort. If such a place ever existed they can rest assured that some one else has beat them to it. Intelligent people beware of propositions that look too good. A good business man, for instance, will have to be shown before he takes hold of any investment that promises to pay more than a "hot ten per cent." He argues no one would be hawking such a good thing around, but that investors would have eagerly gobbled it up before it had to be offered in the highways and byways. The same principle holds good in the matter of lands and location; and, while we sympathize with the principal in the "fool and his money" tragedy, we cannot but feel that such people have only themselves to blame for their misfortune.

There is hardly a reputable newspaper in Florida that has not repeatedly warned prospective purchasers that they should see the lands before buying, or, at least make reasonable investigation. Texas is a great state, and has some of the most fertile lands in the world; yet one may travel for weary miles through certain sections of it, and not find what would afford sustenance to a horned toad. The same statement applies with equal truth to California, and in a greater or less degree to every state in the Union, yet to condemn the lands of these states because of the lack of productiveness of certain portions of them is manifestly absurd. If a Floridian should buy land from a company exploiting western lands for instance, without investigating the proposition, his conservative neighbors would expect nothing else except that he would get the worst of the bargain. Yet people will buy land in Florida sight unseen, solely on the representation of an interested party, and "holler" if they don't find it covered with dollars.

The lands are here—as good as can be found in the country; the opportunities are here—for the settler, the home builder, the investor. It only requires the merest modicum of common sense in selecting one's location to insure that the newcomer to Florida will become one of the happy band of satisfied Florida residents.—Lakeland Telegram.

The Deadly Fourth

A general agitation is going on all over the country in behalf of a sane Fourth. Every year the demand has been growing stronger and stronger for more stringent regulations looking to the safety of the public and this year is no exception. It is to be hoped that here in St. Augustine there will be a continuance of those wise regulations that have proved a most excellent accident preventative.

It is not necessary to put into the hands of children dangerous playthings in order to properly give expression to a spirit of patriotism. There are other and safer methods for an enjoyable celebration. Giant fire crackers, toy cannons and guns and blank cartridge pistols have made the Fourth of July even more deadly than some of the great battles of history, although there is a marked improvement the country over.

A year ago, due to saner methods of celebrating, only 57 persons were killed outright, only 10 died of lockjaw, and only 1,063 were injured by explosions. So there is still some room for improvement and even if the rest of the country wants to blow its head off on the Fourth, let St. Augustine continue along the safe path that means no blighted lives and saddened fathers and mothers.—St. Augustine Record.

The real estate dealers in St. Petersburg have formed an association for their mutual benefit.

The State University

Threshundred and two (302) students from 44 Florida counties and 21 states and foreign countries attended the state university at Gainesville last session, as shown by the latest catalogue, which we have just received. This catalogue sets forth the excellent advantages offered at the University of Florida for broad and liberal and professional education of our Florida boys. The work of the university is divided into the following colleges and divisions:

1. The College of Arts and Sciences, providing excellent opportunities for a general college course. 2. The College of Agriculture, provides for what may be termed the "New Profession." It offers courses in agriculture, horticulture, animal husbandry, dairying, etc. 3. The College of Engineering, gives practical courses in various branches of Civil, Electrical, Mechanical and other branches of engineering. 4. The College of Law makes special provision for young men who intend to practice in Florida. In addition to the work of its able faculty, our Supreme Court Judges delivered lectures there last year. 5. The Teachers' College and Normal School makes provision for the training of teachers for the rural, graded and high schools of the state. It has just received a gift of $40,000 from the Peabody Board for a college building. 6. The Graduate School for advanced study; 7. The Agricultural Experiment Station; 8. The University Extension Division, embracing Farmers' Institutes, Boys' and Girls' Corn and Tomato clubs, and various correspondence courses in agriculture are fully explained in the catalogue.

This book will be furnished on request of the President of the State University, Gainesville, Fla.

WE HAVE A GOOD ONE

New Base Ball Player Should Prove A Winner For Us

The Charlotte Observer has the following to say regarding the new player acquired by our Sanford management: Joe Wofford will not be seen in a Hornet uniform for some time and probably no more, negotiations having been closed yesterday by which he is sold to a team in Florida. It so happened that the manager of this club knew Wofford and wrote him the other day asking if he could find a good outfielder to send down into the Florida city. The local hit phenom. took the matter up with the local officials and the fact that he had recently married, which calls for a honeymoon, dawned upon Joe. He finally impressed the same thing upon the club officials and they yielded to his request that he be allowed to play there the remainder of the season.

Wofford has been a dependable man on the Charlotte team during this season. He led the league in hitting last year as a Hornet outfielder, having a grand average of better than .400. He has been hitting the ball hard this year, having marked up a record so far of .287. He has been valuable to the local club during the time it has been in waiting for McMillan to report. Wofford was stationed on third shortly after the season opened and played a jam-up game at that turn of the circuit. He has more recently been playing right field. He is a dreaded hitter in this circuit, and more than one of the best pitchers will have no regrets other than personal over his going from this circuit at this time.

The local club can well spare Wofford for the remainder of the season. In fact, the officials have been up against a rather hard proposition lately in deciding which three of McMillan, Weiser, Hillix and Wofford to retain, it being necessary to get rid of one of these. Hillix has been under suspension for ten days on account of sickness, but is able to get back in the game this week. He will resume play in the center and McMillan will be shifted to right. This will not only give the Hornets one of the fastest, but one of the heaviest hitting outfielders in the entire circuit.

SANFORD WINS AGAIN

Collegians Down Tourists In Hard Fought Game

Orlando, July 1 When F. Pounds bobbed in the second inning and allowed Roberts to breeze over the pan the locals lost today's game to the Sanford nine.

Wallace in the box for the visitors, pitched an excellent game and had the locals at his mercy all the way. Valden was in good form and though he was touched up more frequently had it not been for the bobble would have pulled through all right. Boyer, Wofford and Wallace were the star stickers, each picking out two good ones one of Boyer's was good for two sacks. These teams meet again in Sanford tomorrow and on the Fourth will pull off a double header on the local grounds; first game at 10 a. m. and second at 4 p. m.

Table with columns: Player, AB, H, R, PO, A, E. Rows include Orlando and Sanford players like Bennett, Leo, Pounds, Boyer, Bowen, F. Pound, Valden, Gore, Beardall, and Sanford players like Farmer, Swink, Moreland, Wofford, Bundy, Lowe, Roberts, Brittain, Wallace.

Score by innings table showing runs, hits, errors for Orlando and Sanford across 9 innings.

Summary: Sacrifice hits, Bowen and Gore. Stolen bases, Wofford. Two base hits, Boyer and Farmer. Double plays, Wallace to Brittain. Left on bases, Orlando 4, Sanford 8. Stuck out by Valden 8, by Wallace 6. First base on balls off Valden 1. Time 1:40. Umpires Moore and Tilden.

Everybody is going to Orlando on Thursday and help the Collegians to trim the Tourists.

My Worst Blunder

FAMOUS "BONEHEAD" PLAYS ON MAJOR LEAGUE DIAMONDS

Explained by Leading Baseball Players to HUGH S. FULLERTON

By HERMANN SCHAEFER.

First Baseman and Utility Man, Washington Club, Who is Acknowledged One of the Smartest Players in the Business.

Whenever anyone gets to telling me that luck isn't the biggest thing in baseball I always tell the story of the worst break I think I ever made. It was one of the worst anyone ever made, and utterly inexcusable, but it won a game for us. It happened in a game at Cleveland after I went to Washington, and the only way I ever was able to explain it was that my mind got clear off the game. They had us beaten by five runs in the eighth inning and we weren't hitting enough to score five runs in a week. The ninth came and their pitcher got a little wild, and the first thing we knew we had three men on the bases, one run in, and only one out. I was on first. The next batter had two strikes called, and I...

Hermann Schaefer.

...my head that the out ended the game, for the minute I saw where the ball was going I started down to second at top speed. The fact is, when I started I was on my way to the club house. I let out a yell at the top of my voice and started. I suppose everyone in the stands and on the field thought I was crazy. There was the young fellow who was getting a tryout in center waiting to catch the ball. I was within about twenty feet of second when suddenly I saw the runner ahead of me standing on the bag watching the fielder, and it flashed over me that I, who was claiming to be a wise guy, was pulling for a John Anderson. There wasn't a chance for me to get back to first if he made a throw and it was up to me to save myself some way. I could hear the gang telling me about it for the next two years as I stopped as if some one had bumped me. Then I let out a yell that waked everyone within a mile and stood still yelling "Third! Third!" at the top of my voice.

It worked. I saw that fellow catch that ball and make a terrific heave toward third base, and I turned and sprinted back to first the best I could, to cover myself even if the game did end. The fellow in center heaved that ball a block over the third baseman's head, and two runs scored, and I got back to first and then got down to second again before they found the ball—and I tell you I breathed easier to think that I had escaped. The next batter splashed one, and the next one crashed one, tied the score, and we won out in the tenth inning. Queerly enough, no one in the 'bus that night said anything about my break, and I had to tell them what a brainy guy I was to pull that throw before they noticed it. But I've always shuddered to think what they would have said if that center fielder had shied the ball back to first and doubled me up. The mistake won the game for us, so I was a smart fellow. (Copyright, 1912, by W. G. Chapman.)

Race in 1917. Connie Mack states that his present line-up will retain its average strength for about five more years. Looks like a great race in the American league for 1917.

Fishback Played Some Ball They were watching a ball game at Sanford, between the Orlando and Sanford teams. The party was composed of Capt. J. W. Willmott and son, Fred, Davis Fishback, C. M. Mullett and the editor. Sanford had the best of the game by about four scores. Mullett argued that while there was life there was hope, Capt. Willmott agreeing with him. "When I was sailing the briny deep," said the captain, "we had touched at one of the South Sea Islands to get water and were met by a band of cannibals, who had us in a pretty tight place for a day or two, being tied to a tree awaiting our introduction to the dread executioner, but got away, swam to the ship and here I am, so I have always been a strong believer in the 'life and hope' expression." Fishback was reminded of a game in which he took part. "I was living in a little Kentucky town, away back yonder in the early days of base ball, and was doing the twirling for the home team, which had been challenged by the boys of Hickman's Ford, a neighboring village," said he. "When the day arrived for the game both teams were excellent shapes and fourteen innings were played, neither side scoring. It was growing late when the Ford boys came in for the first half of the fifteenth, and you can believe it or not, but they made fourteen runs in that one inning—but we came back in our half and made fifteen, winning the game. What do you think of that for 'life and hope'?" When the automobile reached Orlando on the return trip, the editor got out at home, and spoke for the first time, asking in a puzzled sort of way, "Davis, where did you say that game was played?" Reporter Star.

Have Good Grandstand Now

The baseball association has erected a fine new grandstand at Holden Park and the ladies can be assured of plenty of good seats all the time. The Sanford ladies are the joy and inspiration of the ball players and the dilapidated grandstand has kept the fair sex from participating in the games for the past two weeks. Now that the grandstand has been rebuilt and enlarged we can look for the ladies in greater numbers hereafter.

Edwards Out Again

Edwards, the good old scout who held down the second sack on the Collegians and broke a bone in his ankle last Thursday is able to hobble around on crutches and is shaking hands with his many friends today. He ought to be in bed but you couldn't keep him there unless you put him in a straight jacket. He expects to watch the game of ball today at the park and will no doubt mend quicker if he can attend the games. His physician expects to have him around again in a few weeks.

MORDECAI BROWN'S PENNANT-WINNING FIELDING FEAT

Mordecai Brown.

Brown was fully alive to the situation. He flashed a signal along the line for Harry Steinfield to be ready for a surprise at third. The Cub pitcher's brain was at work to outwit the greatest batting player of the age. The startled fans saw the form of Brown crouch close to the ground, lunge madly at the ball, whirl and fire the sphere to Steinfield. The throw came half a step ahead of O'Leary rushing down on third. The crowd was dazzled and Crawford at second so bewildered that Johnny Kling relayed the ball to Tinker, practically completing a double play that saved the day for the Cubs and gave Chance another pennant. (Copyright, 1912, by Joseph B. Bowles.)

LONG after Mordecai's wonderful right arm of bone and sinew has paid the toll of age—seasons after the three-fingered marvel of the diamond has pitched his last baseball attired as a major leaguer, with the memory of his startling play of brain and skill one bright October day at Detroit cling to those who were fortunate enough to see the exhibition.

The Chicago Cubs with their matchless machine intact had beaten the Tigers twice and George Mullin's great pitching gave the jungle fighters their only victory. Eliminate the wonderful play of Brown and Detroit might have won the fourth game, even up the series and taken the world's championship of 1908.

Singularly enough Brown's pivotal play was not a pitching feat, although it helped win his own game, but a fielding achievement in which quick thinking and clever maneuvering were the all important factors.

Brown's great pitching on that day was effective enough to win the game with good fielding. Tinker's fielding was spectacular all the way through, but Brown's play coming at the danger point, bordered on the marvelous. It was pronounced the greatest play of the world's series of 1908.

Had "Brownie" failed to think in that crisis, Cobb's great speed and perfect bunt would have filled the bases for Detroit and the series might have stood two all. As it was the Cubs won, practically clinching their grip on a second world's bunting.

Charley O'Leary brought a gleam of hope to the Tiger fans in the fourth inning when he batted a single to left. "Wahoo Sam" Crawford drove the crowd wild with cheering when he smashed out a drive to left. O'Leary halting at second. Those desperate fans saw the great Mordecai yet to come to bat. They hoped for a home run that would put Detroit in the lead.

Florida And Her Equable Climate

Michigan Man Tells The Truth About Peninsular State

The lack of accurate information on the part of a great many northerners concerning Florida, its climate, topography, natural resources and products is probably greater than in regard to any other state in the Union.

Its climate is peculiar. The general impression is that the farther south one goes the higher the temperature, especially in the summer. Forty years and over of weather observations by the government show that the mercury in South Florida has not registered as high a degree of heat as in North or West Florida, nor as in every other state of the Union.

There is of course a reason for this. Lying considerably to the south of the other states, and bordered by the waters of the Gulf of Mexico and the Atlantic Ocean, South Florida has a climate which is peculiarly its own, and which is not comparable with that of any other state. The summer season is long and under the direct rays of the almost vertical noonday sun the heat is strong, while in the shade it is not oppressive or debilitating. The air that is wafted from the Gulf or the Ocean daily over the narrow peninsula is life-giving rather than enervating, especially if one is located on the high lands of the coast towns.

By reason of this peculiar situation, and its range of nearly five hundred miles north and south, Florida, although a tropical state in latitude, possesses a wonderfully amiable but diversified climate, adapted to a great variety of methods, from nearly everything grown in our northern states to the tender trees and plants which thrive only in the tropics.

The atmosphere is of remarkable clearness. There is some rain in the winter, but the principal precipitation is during the summer months. The showers will come up quickly, the waters will fall plentifully for a short time, the clouds will pass away and the sun will shine brightly out of the clearest and bluest of skies.

If there is any fault to be found with the climate it is because there is so much sunshine. Fortunately there are people who like less sunshine, greater extremes of heat and cold, and hence all portions of the earth are inhabited; but, it is a noticeable fact, civilization commenced in the milder climates of the earth and under summer skies the world has always been and always will be the most densely populated.

With its temperature and variety of soils there is, probably, a greater diversity of crops produced in Florida than any other state, and the cultivated acres produce a great deal more in value every year than do the same number of acres in any other state—the ratio for Florida being about seven times as much as that of any other section in the United States.

In another respect the state is very peculiar. Each section, while it may and does grow a variety of products, has some particular product for which it is noted, though many of these same products may be and are grown over a wide range of territory. A good deal seems to depend upon what particular product the settlers of a specified locality began raising for the winter supplies of northern tourists and for the early-in-the-season northern market.

This very general survey of some of the peculiarities of Florida's climate and soil, renders it quite essential for prospective settlers—even more so for them than for winter visitors who want homes of their own amid pleasant surroundings—to carefully consider the particular branch of agricultural industry in which they wish to engage, before investing their money in Florida real estate, as a prosperous orange and grapefruit grove in Duval county, in the northern part of the state would be about as doubtful a proposition as a successful apple orchard on the shore line of Lake Okechobee in South Florida.—E. HAPPENINGS DURING THE WEEK

Going home to spend the Fourth, thirty-five passengers on a Lackawanna railroad train were killed and fifty injured in a rear-end collision between passenger train and express.

Yesterday's observance of the national holiday in Washington was strictly of the safe and sane variety.

The Minnesota Progressive Republican league will back Woodrow Wilson, Democrat, in his coming campaign for the presidential election.

Another fake prize fight was pulled off on the glorious Fourth of July, this time in New Mexico, when a so-called pugilist named Flynn stood up to Jack Johnson for nine rounds and was finally stopped because he attempted to butt the champion negro with his reversing the racial trait.

Yours truly, GUY A. BALL, Manager.

EDITOR WOODS ON BRICK ROADS

Favors Our Plan For The Building Of Good Roads DeLand, Fla., July 4, 1912. Editor Sanford Herald:

I sincerely hope your people will support the movement for brick construction of county roads. I never read a more convincing argument than that in your issue of June 31, signed "Executive Committee, by Thos. K. Bates, Secy."

I come from the section of Kentucky known as the Blue Grass, with its world-famous McAdam roads. The material is near at hand there for building and maintaining the roads.

But here in Florida where you have little or no hard stone for surfacing your roads, you simply have got to come to BRICK ROADS, or continue to pave your roads with silver dollars—sand!

I have studied road construction. I know something of wood blocks, asphalt, bitulithic, concrete, McAdam, brick and sand.

Vote for brick roads, and solve for all time the vexing question of "good roads" in Florida! Let Sanford lead the way!

Two New Stars Added

Washington, D. C., July 4. Two new stars were added to the national flag today, denoting the addition of Arizona and New Mexico to the sisterhood of states.

The law governing the subject is contained in the act of congress approved April 1, 1912. That act provides as follows:

On the admission of a new state into the Union, one star shall be added to the union of the flag and such addition shall take effect on the 4th day of July then next succeeding such admission.

This is the first time since 1890 that more than one star has been added at a time. In that year stars were added for the five new states of Idaho, Washington, Montana and North and South Dakota.

Igou Was There

The following from the pen of Sam Sanborn at the Baltimore convention will interest the Sanford friends of the gentleman:

"State Senator W. M. Igou, of Lake county, who came up as A. P. Jordan's alternate, was 'in good' all the time. Igou looked very much like Underwood and he was mistaken for the matchless leader and had people rubbering at him, saying 'That's him,' and coming up to give him the good right hand every day. Well, Igou deserved it all because he is not only good looking but a dandy Democrat."

Launch Party

A launch party consisting of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Gormly and son, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Dresser, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Alton and son, Dennis, all of Cameron City and Mrs. A. Simon, Miss Isabelle Simon, Miss Virginia Brady and Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Haynes enjoyed a very pleasant trip to Blue Springs on the Fourth. The trip was made with Roy Tillis in his launch "Nettle" and a very fine time is reported by all.

OUR FIRE DEPARTMENT

Being Brought Up To Greater Efficiency

CITY TO BE SECOND CLASS

Many Changes To Place Sanford In The Front Rank Of Protection

Sanford at last has a fire department that is destined to be second to none in the state in a few months. The new auto truck purchased by the former council and that caused so much adverse criticism at the time has proved to be one of the city's best assets.

Chief Underwood, since taking charge of the fire department, has removed the fire truck to headquarters in the city hall building, where Messrs. Paxton and White have full charge of the machine and are on the job both night and day.

In a few weeks Chief Underwood expects to put on another driver for the hose wagon thus insuring sufficient service to reduce the insurance rate in Sanford and put our city in the second class.

The Sanford Fire Department can be depended upon to handle the situation at any time and unless the fire reaches a stage that would be impossible to control there is no danger to property in the near future.

At The Imperial

Last night the patrons of the Bobolink Theatre were given a treat in the vaudeville acts by the little Waldo sisters in their dancing, singing and acrobatic feats.

Safe And Sane Fourth

Sanford passed a very quiet Fourth yesterday and one that could be truthfully called safe and sane.

Entertained The Children

The Sabbath School class of young girls taught by Mrs. C. H. Summers, wife of the pastor of the Methodist church assisted by Mrs. Summers, entertained the class of boys, taught by Mrs. T. A. Newlan, and also the class of boys taught by Mr. Smith, at a moonlight party in the park, Monday evening.

Special Notice, Masons

There will be a called communication of Sanford Lodge No. 62 on Friday evening, July 5th, at 7 o'clock. The Master degree will be conferred.

BUILDING BUSINESS INCREASES

June Permits For Building Operations Show Increase

Sanford is building as never before and the increase in new property is not a boom, but a good, healthy growth that will land this city in the big business class in a short time.

Seeing so many new buildings and having a vague idea as to the number, the Herald scribe casually inquired of Clerk Lovell as to the number of buildings for June and was agreeably surprised to be informed that during the month of June the permits totalled in dollar marks $45,155.

This is indeed a most flattering report and demonstrates the great and abiding faith that people have in Sanford's future. Every stranger that comes to Sanford these days sees nothing but the brightest prospects for our hustling city.

All concede that nothing can retard the onward march of progress and Sanford has the best season in prospect that has ever confronted her citizenry.

CULLED FROM THE STATE PRESS

An Epitome of the Week's Most Important Happenings in the State's Domain.

Will English, a negro, charged with assaulting a young white woman, was lynched near Bradentown, Manatee county Tuesday night by a mob which went to the jail, broke in the door, overpowered the jailer and secured the prisoner, hanging him to a tree near historic Braden castle.

The plans are at least complete for the erection of the handsome new home of the Board of Trade in Miami. The building will be constructed of reinforced concrete, will be two stories high, the second story to be the office of the board. The first floor is to be used for mercantile building.

Peaches grown in Ocala county have been retailing in the northern markets for an average of ten dollars a box and upward. Think of that! And yet some say that peaches cannot be grown successfully in Florida.—Kissimmee Valley Gazette.

The Southern Steel and Iron Works, a newly incorporated enterprise in Jacksonville, has just received its charter from Tallahassee. This enterprise is capitalized at $100,000, there being 1,000 shares at $100 each.

Work on the new Capitol City Theatre in Tallahassee is progressing rapidly and the theatre will be formally opened on the 12th of September.

News comes from Plant City that during the season just closed there have been shipped from the Plant City platform approximately $300,000 worth of vegetables and fruits, not inclusive of oranges. Some of the principal products were strawberries. These figures do not include shipments from the points near there.

It is currently reported that Fort Meade is to have a new railroad, extending from Tampa via Ruskin and from Ruskin to Fort Meade, thence to Arcadia and points east.

The Rock Island Sponge Company has been organized in Carrabelle and officers elected for the new organization. The best sponge in the world it is said are the Rock Island sponge that are caught 35 and 40 miles east of Carrabelle. The company is capitalized at $100,000.

The first canning party of the season was held at the home of Miss Lena Loper on Monday, June 24. She canned under the direction of Mrs. C. H. Bishop thirty-six pounds of tomatoes. As she has a fine plot of tomatoes, she hopes to run well in the race for the board of trade prize. The Carrabelle Tomato Club No. 1 will hold a canning party at the club home the 29th and will send notes next week. Madison Enterprise Recorder.

The steeple of the Methodist church in Titusville was struck by lightning a few days ago and badly wrecked. The southwest corner of the church was also badly damaged.

Held A Lawn Fete

The Junior Epworth League of the Methodist church held a lawn party Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. L. R. Phillips, the superintendent of the league. The tables and the lawns were tastefully decorated with flowers and flags.

The children served ice cream, cake and candy, with punch to about two hundred visitors. It was both a pleasant occasion and a financial success, as the young leaguers cleared $29.28, which will be used for the benefit of the orphanage at Enterprise and locally. The young people of the league have as a result of their efforts, enterprise and willing efforts, made several appreciated contributions to the parsonage improvement fund during the past winter and spring. In more ways than one, this Juniro League is receiving very valuable training for future usefulness.

Presbyterian Church

Rev. J. F. McKinnon will preach at the Presbyterian church next Sabbath morning and evening. All are cordially invited.
