Confederates in Congress

The passing of Charles M. Steadman, the last Confederate soldier to be elected to the Congress of the United States, was the occasion for recalling in the mind of J. Ben Fuqua a number of other notable Confederates who served their states as senators or representatives after they had served as soldiers. Mr. Fuqua writes in the Tampa Tribune that the following "not only gave their best to the South and the Southern Confederacy, but also reflected the very best and highest in statesmanship as the South's representatives in Congress after the war":

"General Joe Wheeler, hero of two wars, General John T. Morgan, father of the ocean to ocean canal, and the venerable Edmund W. Pettus were Alabama's contribution to that period of our history. Augustus H. Garland, of Arkansas, was a member of the Confederate Congress, and served as Cleveland's Attorney General. George G. Vest, member of the Confederate Congress, and Gen. Francis M. Cockrell, United States Senator from Missouri. Gen. Edward C. Walthall, James Z. George, L. Q. C. Lamar, served as Mississippi's representatives in the Senate, Lamar serving in two Cabinets and on the Supreme Court of the United States. Gen. William Mahone and John W. Daniel, 'the lame lion' served in the Senate from Virginia. It is also a fact not generally recalled that Gen. Joseph E. Johnston served one term in Congress from Virginia.

The late John H. Reagan, Postmaster General and Secretary of the Treasury in the Confederate Cabinet, represented Texas in the Senate for many years. Gen. Mat Ransom, Zeb Vance and Gen. Marlon Butler, Confederate soldiers from North Carolina, represented their state in the Senate after the war. Gen. Wade Hampton, who commanded Lee's cavalry, after the death of Jeb Stuart, together with Gen. Matthew C. Butler, represented South Carolina in the Senate. The immortal Ben Hill, perhaps America's greatest natural orator, and Gen. John B. Gordon, who led the last charge of Lee's veterans before the surrender, immortalized themselves as Georgia's representatives in the Senate after the war.

"Stephen R. Mallory, Secretary of the Navy in the Confederate Cabinet, was perhaps Florida's greatest Senator. Isham G. Harris, Tennessee's war Governor, and Gen. William B. Bate represented that state in the Senate for more than a quarter of a century. Senator Harris served on the military staff of Gen. Albert Sidney Johnson, and was by his side and eased that great genius of war from his horse when he was mortally wounded at the battle of Shiloh. Four Confederate soldiers became members of the Supreme Court of the United States after the war, Edward D. White, of Louisiana, L. Q. C. Lamar, of Mississippi, Howell E. Jackson and Horace H. Lurton of Tennessee. Judge Lurton was in Morgan's cavalry and was with Morgan on his famous raid into Ohio."

Advertising Florida

A new book has just been published on "Florida—Empire of the Sun" by the Florida State Hotel Commission and was brought to The Herald office this morning by George McRoy. The book is "A description of the living advantages of Florida cities . . . the pleasures, recreations and resort facilities now available to visitors and prospective residents" and contains innumerable attractive illustrations from practically every city in Florida. Of Sanford it says: "On beautiful Lake Monroe, head of navigation on the St. Johns River, is the interesting town of Sanford. Many miles of boating may be enjoyed in this vicinity. Hunting and fishing are excellent. It was formerly called Mellenville, as the site of Fort Mellen, favorite meeting place between whites and Seminoles in early days. In 1879 General Sanford, U. S. ambassador, brought Sweden as settlers for the orange groves, but since the great freeze of '05 it has developed even greater prosperity as a celery and trucking center. Fresh peppers, celery, beans, squash, eggplant, and lettuce are produced on surrounding farms. "A municipal pier, band shell and fine yacht basin are but a few of Sanford's many facilities for entertaining visitors. Between here and Longwood stands one of the oldest trees in the world, an enormous cypress, whose age was determined by cutting a section to measure its rings. It was found to be twenty-seven hundred years old and is called the 'oldest living Floridian'. Nearby, Wekiva Springs has a fine pool fed from five sources, surrounded by a moss-draped oak grove which is set aside as a park."

BUYING A MOUNTAIN
Among last week's important real estate transactions was the sale of Ben Lomond, the famous Scotch mountain, to a syndicate. We'll tune you in on a meeting of the board of directors following the sale.
CHAIRMAN—Gentlemen, we had just made a very valuable acquisition in the purchase of Ben Lomond Mountain.
ANGUS—Aye, Mr. Chairman, but now that we have a mountain, what are we going to do with it?
CHAIRMAN—Our first move is to charge folks for looking at it.
JOCK—I presume the stockholders can always take a wee glance free?
CHAIRMAN—Aye, the stockholders can look at Ben Lomond gratis. But I wouldn't advise overdoing the thing.
DOUGLAS—Mr. Chairman, now that we have acquired this very valuable mountain, I suggest we take out burglar insurance on it at the earliest possible moment.
CHAIRMAN—Aye, Douglas; that will be done.
ANGUS—Are ye sure we had a bar-r-r-gain in this mountain, Mr. Chairman?
CHAIRMAN—Aye, a ver-r-r good bar-r-r-gain. The seller threw in the mountain gratis free.
ANGUS—An' how will ye make this mountain pay?
CHAIRMAN—Well, Angus, our first move is to start charging people to look at Ben Lomond. They've had a lot of prizes for climbing the mountain.
JOCK—What might the prizes be?
CHAIRMAN—We are charging a shilling to climb to the peak of Ben Lomond—and no refund, mind ye, in case the summit be not reached.
JOCK—Aye, and what else of

WORLD'S WINDOW

By PIERRE VAN PAESSEN

Some of his admirers have seen in Signor Mussolini a sort of reincarnation of the first Caesar. His words, his gestures and even the Duce's features reminded them of the dictator-conqueror who flourished in the beginning of our era. It was not known, however, until a few weeks ago that Mussolini was a descendant of an illustrious aristocratic family. A Roman author has just finished writing two fat volumes in which he traces the genealogy of the Duce back to the year 996. The title of the book is: "The Counts of Mussolini." There were Mussolinis in the service of the Venetian Republic at the time of the Crusades. But the great push for the family came in 1434 when the Emperor Sigismund passed through Venice. Sigismund had been over to Rome to receive the crown. As he stepped from his carriage in Venice, he carried in his hand an document signed by the Pope, wherein he was named Ruler of the Holy Roman Empire. Somehow, the paper slipped from his hands, however. Sigismund, observing some burghers standing at a respectful distance, said, beckoning to one of them: "I pray you, dear Marquis, pick up that paper from the gutter!" One of them hurried forward and handed the Kaiser his diploma. This man was one John Mussolini. In handing over the paper, John observed to his Majesty that he wasn't a marquis. "I have called you marquis, and a marquis you are!" said the monarch. This incident, it is now discovered, happened on April 21, date of the anniversary of the founding of Rome so that around the present Benito there hovers the double glory of classic Rome and of the Holy Empire. The Duce is said to be very pleased with the outcome of this research in his family record. One wonders how his father, an Alsatian, the ferocious revolutionary blacksmith of Furel, would have liked the notion of being an aristocrat.

Jean Patou, one of the recognized masters of the fashion business, has turned writer. He has just published a little volume entitled "Changes and Novelties of Feminine Fashion." The author allows us a glimpse in the secret war councils of the general staff of the clothing business. "My, alm has been," he writes, "to create a fashion for ladies! I have tried to build up a certain hierarchy of feminine clothing, or rather in reature it." In the future he sees two distinct tendencies, first the elegant fashion adopted by the woman who possesses her own automobile and, secondly, "the fashion of the common public. We are coming back, he thinks, from the generalization of fashion. Things will gradually return to a point where they should be if we only know how to fight the dangerous system of democratization. It's against democratization that I'm battling. This is in itself quite fashionable. The cry, "Away with democracy!" has become quite familiar since the coming in the world of Mussolinis and pseudo-Mussolinis. Now the question of feminine clothing is to be added to the problems of the day. It appears that the wags and gowns had a tendency to help democracy take root. The great designers are against this. Hence they want to create one fashion altogether out of reach of the common girl. "We are living in a kingdom of luxury. Let us stay therein," calls M. Patou at the end of hisopus. Stay therein and keep athena out, of course. What a battle cry at the beginning of a winter which will bring the highest figures of unemployment for decades in the entire world. The same mentality speaks here as that of the aristocrat who thought that the people might eat grass if there was no bread.

Almost alone of all the countries of the world France has until now maintained her reputation of being the home to which a political refugee from any other country would flock. This week a certain number of public men, including a former Radical Minister, Francois Albert, Jean Plo, the editor of "Deuxieme" Moro-Giafferi, the leading Brictor, and Georges Poch, a well-known Radical journalist, addressed a meeting to protest against certain measures, recently taken by the Government, which seem to threaten this noble tradition. They demanded that the decree of expulsion against the Italian professor Berneri, be withdrawn, and that the Spaniard, Blanes, be released, and they condemned the handing over of the agitator, Pons, to the Spanish police, about which they say that "they feel sure that this will be the last crime committed against the sacred liberty of man and against the freedom of thought."

SOME DAY!

THIS AND THAT

Mayor Mackey appointed a commission to abolish noise in Philadelphia. Some of the natives must have started to snore. Columbia University experts have just discovered an infant taught only to attract attention. It also does pretty well in that line when it cries. Admiral Byrd's new book is out. He might have made it a continuation volume of Lindy's "We" by calling it "n. a." instead of "Little America."

Ben Lomond, Famous Scotch Mountain Sold—Headline. And they probably made them throw in the valley for good measure. When the sale of the Scotch mountain was recorded, it would have helped business. If they'd mentioned the peak price.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8—(AP)—The government administration of Indian Affairs was accused yesterday in Senate testimony of mismanagement of the trust funds of the Indians.

The Senate testimony, given by the Indians' Commissioner, Charles F. Smith, in the House of Representatives, charged that the government had allowed the Indians' trust funds to be depleted and that the Indians had been misled by the government's officials.

Smith testified that the government had allowed the Indians' trust funds to be depleted and that the Indians had been misled by the government's officials.

BERNARD SHAW SAYS RUSSIAN FILMS BEAT THOSE OF HOLLYWOOD

LONDON, Dec. 8—(AP)—Bernard Shaw compared Russian music films with those from home and from Hollywood yesterday in words calculated to make American and British producers hang their heads in shame.

"I don't know whether it is possible to make Hollywood blush," he said, "but I am quite sure it is impossible to make Hollywood's British imitators blush."

"When you see Russian films," he said, "and remember that never for a moment have they had to fall back on that last refuge of denying art—a sex appeal which we could make arrangements for the soviets to come here and take charge of our educational affairs."

WEEK'S FOOTBALL SEASON IS DRAWN TO FINAL CLOSE

Alabama And Tulane Are Leading Teams To Represent South

ATLANTA, Ga., Dec. 8.—(AP)—Duke's turbulent football campaign, which saw all early favorites beaten and two clash home above—Alabama and Tulane—dunk about to tie for the conference crown, has passed into history, but Alabama's preparation for the Rose Bowl game with Washington State will serve to attract genuine enthusiasm for a while yet.

Neither Tulane, which lost more matches from the 1926 titular position, nor Alabama were figured to be much more than the season's consolation prize. But the Green Wave and the Crimson Tide swept through Dixie with a rush, spoiling the hopes of many teams.

A dozen Dixie teams answered the final call to arms last week-end with Tennessee's 13 to 6 defeat of Florida furnishing the principal excitement.

Buddy Backman's job yard manhood was in the shining moment after intercepting a Florida pass, enabled Tennessee to knock a 4-4 deadlock and close their season with a win. The Yub scored in the second quarter as Duke passed to Backman, but Florida matched the next quarter with a long touchdown pass from Digno to Powell.

In the final game for 12 Tennessee seniors who had lost one game in four years of college competition, Tennessee's limited honors, with the fullback Backman and Duke as it held Florida on several occasions, one touchdown victory, one tie four down on the 4 yard line.

Georgia won its annual game with Georgia Tech but got into a terrific battle, which found the Golden Tornado playing its last ball of the year.

Georgia triumphed, 12 to 0. North Carolina and Duke played in a scramble in a Chapel Hill stadium resembling a quagmire. It was Duke's last game under Coach Jimmy Duffell and, although held to a tie, the Blue Devils scoring eight victories, two and one defeat in the best ever made by Duke.

Legion of New Orleans downed Duke 9 to 6 to finish the best season since Clark Shaghtons' tenure its greatest director. The Louisiana played no less interesting games than any team in the country—seven—and won them all.

Rich Western Maryland, which lost but a game since 1925, closed on a final quarter touchdown, after a 52-yard advance, to beat Maryland 7 to 0 in their annual battle. William and Mary beat Maryland 7 to 0 in their annual battle. William and Mary beat Hampton-Sydney 12 to 0.

Western Kentucky downed Miami of Florida 19 to 0 and Princeton of Georgia beat Rollins 12 to 6.

Princeton of South Carolina closed Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association honors with six victories within the circuit.

BELGIUMS QUEEN VISITS AREA HIT BY DEADLY FOG

Her Majesty Listens To Stories Of Victims About Malady

BRUSSELS, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians, accompanied by her staff, visited the death-stricken villages of the Meuse valley Sunday. She entered the homes of several of the sick and sympathized with the bereaved.

Her majesty and Red Cross delegates listened to stories of the slowly recovering victims who told of an intense prickling sensation in the throat immediately after they entered what they called the poisonous fog.

Three more deaths, bringing the total to 67, and the fact that many still are suffering despite the lifting of the fog were advanced as an argument that the deaths were caused by noxious fumes released from an industrial plant.

Seventy-eight of the sufferers have caused the judicial authorities to proceed with post mortem examinations despite official statements that the deaths were due alone to the cold fog.

CROSSMOUNT, Yorkshire, England, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Four that the mysterious fog-borne malady which has taken a toll in men and horses in the Meuse valley of Belgium, may be spreading to England was caused Sunday by the inexplicable death of 10 cattle on a farm near here.

Veterinarians here said they never encountered a similar outbreak, although they have definitely concluded the symptoms are not those of any notifiable disease.

NOTICE IS SERVED BY NAVY THAT IT WON'T BE SET-UP

Army Gets Warning In Way Academy Beat Penn On Saturday

NEW YORK, Dec. 8.—(AP)—Charity failed to benefit as much as might have been expected from Saturday's benefit football games in the east.

But notice was served on the fans, charitable or otherwise, that they can expect a great battle next Saturday when the Army and the Navy meet in New York for their 'big benefit game.

A Navy team which has had a rather poor season rent out a warning to the Cadets by smashing a favored Pennsylvania eleven down to a 26 to 0 defeat.

Colgate managed to keep its record against eastern rivals unblemished, defeating New York university, 7 to 6, at Yankee stadium. Only about 20,000 fans turned out for this benefit game while last year's game drew the attendance down to 5,000 as Carnegie Tech rumped to a 26 to 0 victory over Washington and Jefferson in another charity affair.

Another 20,000 fans paid their share for charity as the Marines defeated the Coast Guard, 7 to 0, in the annual game for the president's cup.

WOODRUFF IS NAMED TO FILL MILLER'S SEAT

At the regular meeting of the City Commissioners held at the City Hall, Frank L. Woodruff, at the request of Commissioner...

City Attorney Fred R. Wilson notified the Commissioners that according to a decision of the Supreme Court...

The meeting opened with all members of the Commission present. The minutes of the past three meetings were read and approved.

Commissioner Speer said "I don't recognize the right of the Chamber of Commerce or any other political organization to dictate to the members of this Commission as to whom they should appoint to succeed any member of the Commission."

Mayor Lehman asked if any Commissioner wished to suggest any other resident, since two of the members were not in favor of Mr. Byrd's selection.

Commissioner Speer answered Mr. Woodruff by saying that he believed that since you have from the very outset been in complete touch with the affairs of this City and become important...

French Senator Is Laboring Hard To Construct Cabinet

PARIS, Dec. 9.—(AP)—A newcomer in leading French political circles, Senator Pierre Laval, noted lawyer, worked feverishly last night to construct a government where an older hand had failed.

Laval, however, a close friend of Aristide Briand, foreign minister and former Premier Andre Tardieu, appeared last night to have better chances of success than Doumergue had.

Commissioner Speer asked that the City ordinance referring to the selection of a commissioner be read. After the reading he declared that he thought someone should be appointed for the ordinance "clearly compels us to do so."

NAVAL PROGRAM CALLS FOR SUM OF 134 MILLION

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9.—(AP)—The first administration naval construction program laid before Congress since President Hoover entered the White House calls for an outlay of $134,000,000 beginning in the first fiscal year.

Secretary Adams presented the program to the House Naval Committee yesterday behind closed doors. Immediately thereafter Chairman Britten introduced the administration measure and announced hearings would begin Wednesday.

The measure calls for seven ships to be built at a cost of $82,000,000, 165 airplanes, an aircraft carrier, a flying deck cruiser and a light cruiser in 1931.

Bondholders' Representatives Accept Invitation To Hold Adjustment Parley

Prospects for an early settlement of Sanford's bond problems and for a re-adjustment of the high millage ordered levied under the recent Supreme Court mandamus grew brighter today when a telegram was received by Carey D. Landis, one of the attorneys representing the City, in which it was stated by attorneys for the bondholders that they are willing to attend a conference for the purpose of effecting a more reasonable rate of taxation and of settling all pending litigation.

At a meeting of the City Commissioners last night it was unanimously voted to extend an invitation to representatives of the Sanford bondholders to attend a conference with the City Commissioners and their attorneys for the purpose of settling an extension of time for compliance with the preliminary writs of mandamus ordering sufficient taxes levied to provide for past due and current interest payments, and for the purpose of obtaining a readjustment of the tax rate on the millage which might not be unreasonably high.

This morning Mr. Landis telephoned the bondholders' representative in Jacksonville and extended the invitation as directed by the Commissioners. This afternoon the following telegram from the attorneys of the bondholders was received by Mr. Landis: "Referring to long distance conversations this morning in which you told J. P. Engle that Sanford City Commission desires a conference with representatives of the bondholders' Committee, we wish to say that we are ready and willing to attend such a conference with a view to arriving at a mutually satisfactory readjustment of current millage for delinquent and settlement of all pending litigation stop we suggest that Wednesday afternoon at Sanford for conference stop we should like to be advised whether the proposed adjournment would be approved by the newly elected members of the City Commission who would desirably have responsibility of arriving on any plan that might be agreed upon in advance of their taking office early in January stop we are willing to agree on a reasonable extension of time for compliance with both preliminary writs of mandamus stop please telegraph or telephone answer."

SENT TO HOUSE FOR ITS ACTION

Measure Provides For Expenditure Of Hundred And 10 Million To Aid Unemployed

WASHINGTON, Dec. 9 — (AP)— Speeding to act on relief legislation the House received from the appropriations committee today the unemployment emergency construction bill providing for $110,000,000 for highway aid and river and harbor improvements. Eighty million dollars were stipulated for construction so they might go forward with building despite inability to meet federal aid obligations. The fund will be reimbursed over a period of five years on a fifty-fifty basis where states are unable to meet them. The river and harbor work is $22,500,000.

A Democratic uprising in the Senate against President Hoover's unemployment program signalled the reporting yesterday by congressional committees of the first of the emergency measures.

Led by Senator Walsh of Massachusetts, a half dozen Democrats took the floor to denounce the administration proposals as a "drop in the bucket" and to demand a Democratic program of greater dimensions even at the price of increasing income taxes.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who joined in the pledge of party leaders for co-operation on relief legislation, listened intently. Already he has broken from the Hoover program on drought relief.

Walsh compared the Hoover administration to "the fiddling by Nero as Rome burned." He proposed that the government appropriate $100,000,000 to divide with states the cost of unemployment relief. He also asked a five-day week for government employees.

Senator Barkley, (D. Ky.) urged his bill to pay World War veterans cash for the face value of their bonus insurance certificates.

Senators Caraway of Arkansas, Dill of Washington, and Copeland of New York, joined in the Democratic attack and in support of a party program beyond that recommended by the President.

Meanwhile, the House received the $30,000,000 drought relief bill from its agriculture committee and prepared to meet the issue of $30,000,000 demanded for this work by Representative Aswell, (D. La.).

The House will take up the public works measure probably on Wednesday and follow that with the drought relief bill. The end of the week should see both measures through Congress.

For the speedy enactment of this legislation, the Republican-Democratic co-operation pledge is holding intact but after that a dispute seems hovering in political fires over additional legislation.

Senator Vandenberg, (R. Mich.) put into the Senate record the correspondence between himself and Secretary Mellon regarding cash payments on bonus insurance certificates. The secretary flatly opposed such action and the Michi-

The rumored resignation of the national university's fourth new dean within a week, Dr. Carlos de la Torre, was not forthcoming yesterday, and it was indicated Dr. de la Torre might remain to see the institution through its present crisis.

Quiet reigned in Havana yesterday afternoon following an hour of disturbances in which high school students were the chief participants. Two were injured and several were arrested.

The group chose the busy Prado in front of the new capitol building to stage their demonstration, which lasted half an hour.

The police had little difficulty in breaking up the demonstration but were forced to use their clubs.

Senator asked reconsideration. Senator Copeland criticized Secretary Mellon for using post-treasury surpluses for the retirement of the public debt and described as "legalized larceny" the practice of using income tax payments above the requirements of the government for retiring the debt.

Walsh said if increased income taxes were necessary to meet the cost of the expanded program, they should be raised.

"It is folly, it is absurd, it is hypocritical," he shouted, "to talk about relieving unemployment without understanding that it means increased taxes for the rich war was ever won without increasing taxes. I am sick and tired of the absence in high places of sympathy and understanding for this problem."

Caraway interposed that "Many of those cut of work today were those who gave their time to the nation when these rich men were

WARNS PUBLIC

DR. GRACE KIRKLAND, M. D., well known woman doctor, warns against continued use of drastic purgatives.

"Ten years medical practice has convinced me that persons suffering from functional mobility as indicated by pale complexions, faulty digestion, poor assimilation, chronic or occasional constipation, acidity, gas, unrefreshing sleep, nervousness, biliousness and toxic headaches, should shun the frequent use of calomel, salts, pills or other drastic habit-forming purgative drugs.

"After observing the action of Sargon and Sargon Soft Mass Pills in a great many cases I feel free to say I have never seen a formula as uniformly effective as the Sargon treatment for the disorders mentioned above. I have seen countless cases of wonderful results from the use of Sargon, and I consider it a real privilege to recommend this remarkable new treatment."

piling up their fortunes."

Walsh advocated that if income taxes were raised, the increase be confined to incomes of $20,000 and more.

MINUS CHURCH URGED TODAY

"Having won the Eighteenth Amendment, there is no occasion for the dry forces to join in any movement by referendum or other process for its repeal.

"Believing as we do in the Eighteenth Amendment and the laws pursuant thereto as the best governmental policy yet devised for dealing with the liquor problem, we are definitely and unequivocally opposed to the submission of any referendum which would weaken or repeal in whole or in part Amendment Eighteen, or to any rational referendum thereon as contrary to the American principle of representative government."

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the National Board of Temperance, who has advocated a referendum if the wet forces would agree upon a similar initiative to place before the people, was not present at the night session.

He said at his office he would place his proposal before the annual meeting of the board of managers of the temperance board today, and that action probably would be taken upon it. He added this was not necessarily a split with other dry forces on the subject, but merely a difference in the types of strategy they favored.

Meanwhile President Hoover's law enforcement commission put in a full day of deliberation, as to what it shall report about the dry law, and in still another quarter of the capital a small group of wet advocates met in a "national constitutional convention" and listed to an assault upon prohibition and a prediction that this country cannot "endure half-wet and half-dry."

The name of Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant Attorney General in charge of prohibition, and now counsel for a trapezoid concern, was inserted into the discussions of the dry leaders in the form of a motion inviting her to address them. The council, however, declined to consider the proposal and the motion was tabled.

In his discussion of the political situation as it concerns prohibition, McBride asserted there was "an absolute necessity" for the drys to rally into a solid front presenting "even a better detailed organization than we had in securing prohibition." The prohibition issue in the 1932 presidential campaign, he said, will be on trial.

"We can safely anticipate a battle royal in both the major political conventions," he continued. "The right kind of delegates should be chosen. There will be an effort in each convention to write a repeal plank into the platform. The major effort will be to put a wet at the head of the ticket in both of the major parties."

The Republican convention will meet first, and the wets will fight in all probability for two things. First, a repeal plank and second a wabbling wet candidate.

"The second is their great objective. If they succeed in the second, the candidate will, in my judgment, be the worst defeated Republican of any year in the history of the party unless it might be 1912 when they secured but three electoral votes. The real issue will be and should be the attitude of the candidates on this question."

LOAN FOR FOOD IS "NEAR DOLE"

"The road work especially has been proposed with the object in view of giving the farmers an opportunity to find employment during the winter and thus provide for themselves their food and clothing," he said.

The Red Cross, he continued, has undertaken to take care of all cases of distress and its chairman "states that his organization is able to carry the burden."

"There is no more justification for the government to furnish farmers in the drought area," Hays asserted, "than there would be in furnishing food to any other section of the United States, or to any other class of our people who may be in distress. I believe this attitude will be supported by the substantial farmers of the country."

Dr. Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the National Board of Temperance, who has advocated a referendum if the wet forces would agree upon a similar initiative to place before the people, was not present at the night session.

Senate Quickly Approves Doak As Labor Chief

(Continued From Page One) ment while "asleep at the switch," that its phraseology was changed without his knowledge, and that he later condemned it. He conceded many farm rates had been increased, but contended these would prove ineffective.

Broasard said he thought the 1930 act would assist the farmers. He said he had a hand in preparation of the farm statement, a "general denial of any intention to attempt to carry on political propaganda." If he had known it was going to create such a storm of debate in the Senate, as it did, he said, he would not have approved it.

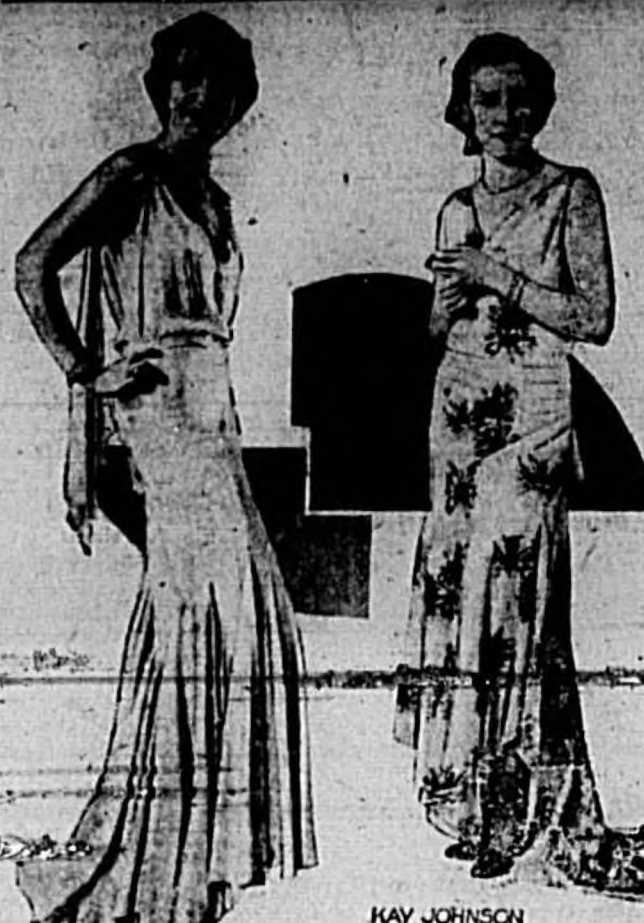

"I think it would be a mistake for a member of the tariff commission to use his position to popularize a tariff bill," he said.

Senator Harrison called Broasard's attention to a speech he made last May, before the bill passed, in which he belittled possible foreign retaliation, and asked if that did not constitute an attempt to popularize the measure.

The Utahian said he based the speech on facts uncovered by the commission and accepted the speaking engagement a month ahead of the time when it appeared the bill would have passed. He promised, however, to make no more speeches if such interpretations as that of Harrison's were to be placed on them.

Dennis, who was examined before Broasard, said he was a "regular Democrat," but had always been a "moderate protectionist."

Blending with the ultra-spectacular backgrounds of Cecil B. De Mille's Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "Madam Satan," are the two evening gowns worn by Kay Johnson in the title role. The Grecian-line gown is of white silk crepe showing a draped neckline with scarf ends, a belted waistline and flared skirt. The other gown is of white moire showing colorful hand-painted flower patterns, and cut in a sophisticated style with a deep-cut décolletage collar ending in a bow which sweeps in line with the short train. The dress is caught in back in a shirred effect giving a slender line to the waist and hips, while a flounce is set on below the hips in an uneven line which gives an uneven finish to the front of the skirt.

Arthur Garfield Hays, attorney for the former judge, said he would raise the question that a man with sufficient provocation has the right to speak out in church and would subpoena Bishop Manning to show there was no intent provocation in the attack on Lindsey's character.

Lindsey admitted the possibility of a slander suit against Bishop Manning and said if such a suit was decided upon he would retain Attorney Samuel Untermyer.

Untermyer issued a statement upholding the right of Bishop Manning to criticize Lindsey's book on companionship marriage, but declaring "if, however, as I understand, the true story of the Colorado persecution of Judge Lindsey had been communicated, Bishop Manning, he had no right to broadcast from his pulpit personal attacks and then to the Judge Lindsey the right to answer it then and there."

"We invade a new field with vast improved cars at the lowest prices in our history"

BY WILLIAM J. McANEANY
President, Hudson Motor Car Company

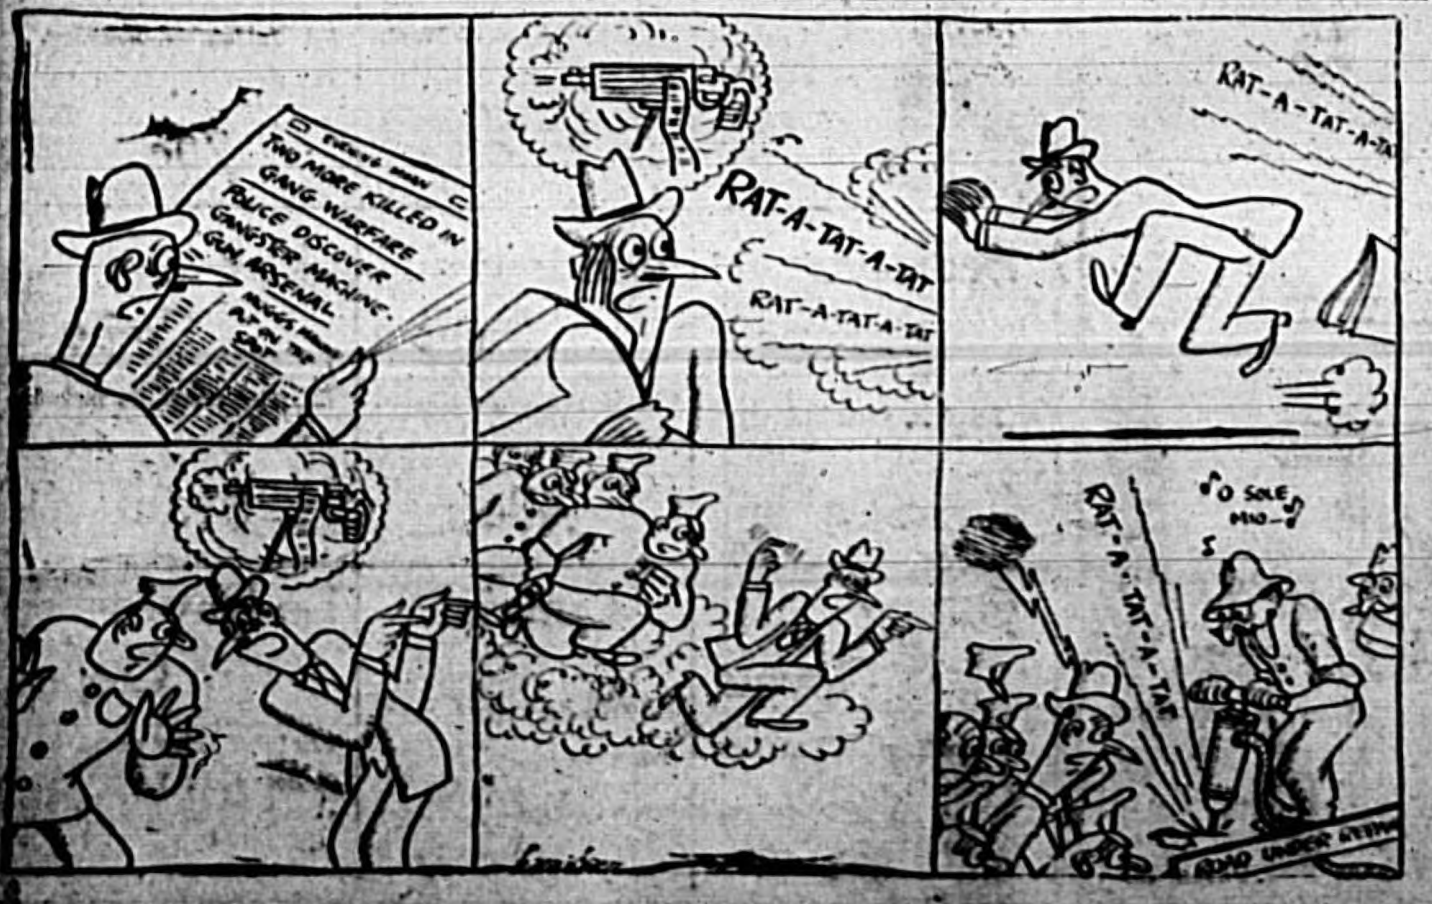

WE have built these models up to and beyond the 1931 standards of performance and quality in every way, and have never in our history offered so many improvements. Quality is greater down to the last detail. Every phase of performance has been greatly improved, and the luxury we have built into the cars is substantially greater than ever before. Motors are larger and more powerful. An efficient system of oil cooling is introduced. A marked improvement in carburetion increases flexibility and economy. Bodies are longer and wider. These cars possess the finest, easiest riding qualities. For the first time, such comfort is available at these low prices. Only great manufacturing economies and the fact that our large resources permit us to take the fullest possible advantage of reduced commodity prices have enabled us to offer the public the greatest combination of quality and low prices in our entire history.

Owner-Management Permits Exclusive Value Advantages
Owner-management enables Hudson-Essex to give you outstanding advantages in quality and price. The men who are now guiding its destinies have been with the company since its inception twenty-two years ago. Its department heads and principal distributors are its controlling owners. Their independence is backed by unusually large resources in capital and plant facilities. It enables Hudson-Essex to lead in design and engineering quality. It permits economies in manufacture and distribution that bring exceptional quality direct to the public at distinct price advantages.
