Downtown Shopping Mall Project Fizzles Out

Property Owner's Refusal Blamed

A multi-million dollar project to revitalize portions of the downtown area into a shopping mall have fizzled out, the Herald learned today.

The ultimate scope of the project would have spread from First St. to Lake Monroe and would have included free parking spaces for more than 150 cars.

Prominent business people have worked quietly for many months to bring the project into realization. Five of the property owners agreed to form a corporation but one refused to go along with the project.

The project would have included tearing down many old buildings along First St. and putting up modern structures.

Each of the willing property owners received a letter this week, as well as city officials who were vitally interested in the project, telling them of the failure to complete the program.

The letter states in part that "after months of exploring all possible methods to develop the PENSACOLA (UPI)—Gov. Farris Bryant told a Pensacola audience Wednesday that he will recommend that planning for a new four-year college here begin "within a matter of days."

Bryant said he will ask the Legislature for immediate release of the $50,000 planning funds appropriated by the 1961 Legislature.

Dr. Donk S. Campbell, president emeritus of Florida State University, has agreed to take the job of executive director of the Quality Education Committee created by the 1961 Legislature, Bryant announced. JACKSONVILLE (UPI)—The number of mentally ill in Florida outnumbers the beds available for their care by five to one, a state health official said Wednesday.

Dr. Wayne Yeager, director of the Mental Health Bureau, told a legislative delegation headed by Sen. W. C. Herrell of Miami Springs that at least 80,000 Floridians need mental care, but the state has only 10,000 beds for them.

Florida Nipped Again; New Cold Blast For North

By United Press International
Frost nipped Florida again early today and a new cold wave threatened the Northern border states.

But Wednesday pretty hostesses donned bathing suits at a tourist station near Tallahassee to prove that it was warm "as always" in the Sunshine State, but Wednesday's early morning temperatures were below freezing as far south as Miami.

Gov. Farris Bryant of Florida denied state chamber of commerce reports that tourists were fleeing the state in search of warmth.

The temperatures dropped to 27 degrees Wednesday near Miami and farm fields were frosted white. Water from lawn sprinklers turned to ice in Miami's suburbs.

Miami's low temperature of 38 Wednesday set a record for the date, as did Miami Beach's 46-degree reading.

Florida's frost warning service said there was little damage to citrus crops from the cold but vegetable crops such as beans, cucumbers and tomatoes were nipped again. The cold caused fog blamed for a 19-car accident near Miami.

Gusty winds scattered rain from coastal areas of the Pacific northwest to Idaho and Montana mountains.

Light snow fell in a bolt from northern Minnesota to New England early today. There were snow-ers in East Texas.

Cold wave warnings were up today for the Dakotas, Minnesota, Nebraska, Iowa, Maine, Vermont and New Hampshire as a result of a polar air mass which dropped temperatures as much as 30 below zero in parts of Canada.

Foster Parents Keep Florida Boy

CINCINNATI, Ohio (UPI)—A 10-year-old boy will remain here with his foster parents rather than be returned to his natural parents in Florida as the result of a court decision.

Common Pleas Court Judge Louis J. Schneider refused Wednesday a writ of habeas corpus by Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Stausen, white of Pinellas Park, Fla., for return of the boy.

Schneider said to grant the writ would be contrary to the best interest of the child as the Florida couple had neglected the boy for nearly 11 years.

The boy, Wilfred, was one of four children put out for care by the Stausens 10 years ago. The couple said they were unable to care for them at that time but got the other children back during the past 18 months.

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI)—Bitter violence between European and Moslem factions raged through Algeria on the fourth day of the new year today, bringing a mounting toll of dead and injured.

At least 40 were killed and 75 wounded Wednesday alone, according to official sources.

The latest attacks were centered mainly in Algiers and Oran. Three persons were reported killed in Oran, including a European terrorist shot by police. Most of 14 persons were wounded, most of them Moslems, police said.

In Algiers, there were three gun attacks and one grenade attack.

Police sources said almost all the Oran violence was caused by young European terrorist bands attacking Moslems.

Mayor J. H. (Jimmy) Crapps will sign over 200 proclamations this year and have his picture on the front page shaking hands with somebody about 20 times.

Three names were inadvertently left off the Junior High School Honor Roll, which was printed last week. From Mr. Joiner's eighth grade, Connie Colvin, Linda Conn and Nora Butler also made the honor roll. Apologies and congratulations, girls. Keep up the good work.

The County Agent's office will be moved to the stockade at the County home property despite talk about an agricultural center.

City Manager W. E. Knowles will once again ask that the commission put in the budget money for a city hall parking lot and once again it will be stricken out.

Sanford Stores To Stay Open Friday Nights

'People Want It,' Merchants Assn. Finds

The Sanford Merchants Assn. voted Wednesday to continue staying open on Friday nights until 9 p. m. "because that's what the people want."

E. C. Harper Jr., re-elected head of the merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce, called the representatives of all stores and downtown businesses to get a rump Wednesday to discuss plans for the coming year, and this was their main topic of discussion.

"I don't think we have any alternative," said John Ivey, "this is what our customers want and expect."

Finishing the drawing up of an outline for the year's activities, by Harper, Co-chairman Charlie Robinson and Treasurer Ralph Cowan, it appears unlikely that prizes will be given every week. However, some prizes, gifts, certificates and "bigger" winnings will apparently be drawn at stated intervals.

Harper said that he believed that a flexible dues structure should be set up for the entire merchant's association, whereby businesses with the largest net income pay more, medium sized stores less, and small businesses, still less, in order to let each person pay his pro rata share, according to the profits he would be able to receive.

Plans were discussed for a second sales forum, modeled along the lines of a recent one conducted by the University of Florida, a downtown survey and general improvement plan, the use of decals on windows of participating merchants, and the variation of prices to be offered.

Robinson, manager of Panay's Store emphasized that "we must work together or not at all. We must have the cooperation of all the merchants."

Employer compensation for Friday night sales was discussed with the majority opinion apparently that sales clerks deserve compensation, either in the form of overtime pay, or extra time off.

A plan of leaving store lights on in display windows until midnight was brought up when one merchant said that the town was dark and dead after closing time.

"People like to window shop," he said, "and if they like what they see, tomorrow they will come in and buy it."

One store manager brought out the fact that when he had a drawing during which people signed their names and addresses, "you'd be amazed where these people come from to shop here. There is a complete diversification of shoppers from all over the county, and even from surrounding counties."

Disarmament Talks Planned Mar. 14

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States and Russia, after nearly a year of haggling, have tentatively agreed to start 18-nation disarmament talks in Geneva March 14.

The agreement depends on approval from eight unaligned nations which would be included in the talks with five Western and five Soviet bloc countries.

The talks would resume, in expanded form, the 10-nation general disarmament talks which broke off June 27, 1960, in Geneva when Russia walked out.

In 1960, the talks included the United States, Britain, France, Italy, and Canada for the West and Russia, Poland, Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria and Romania on the Communist side.

For the renewed talks, Brazil, Burma, Ethiopia, India, Mexico, Sweden, Nigeria and the United Arab Republic would be added to that list.

The 18 nations would discuss disarmament of conventional weapons and manpower.

London Staggered From Fog

LONDON (UPI)—Britain, which considers central heating unhealthy, was dealt another blow from Old Man Winter Wednesday night when a fog slipped in and brought new misery to a nation that is staggering under the worst cold wave and snowfall in decades.

Murky fog blanketed many roads and resulted in scores of accidents. In London, crowds heading home were caught during the rush hour by transportation slowdowns.

In Birmingham, the mercury plunged to three degrees above zero — the coldest temperature there since they started keeping records back in 1886.

The temperature hovered in the lows in this area and more fog was forecast today.

Adding to the nation's miseries was a postal slowdown over a pay raise fight. In addition, vegetable prices were soaring because of the cold wave.

Following the deaths of two babies due to the cold, the British Medical Association warned mothers not to leave their children in unheated rooms.

The effects of the weather have been damaging. Construction jobs have been slowed down, movie attendance is reduced and soccer games have been cancelled, causing havoc in football pools, with the possibility that more games this Saturday will be called off.

Bodies Found Of Three Who Died In Blizzard

RATON, N. M. (UPI) — Three young boys who hiked onto a cold, snow-covered mesa last Thursday—only to meet death in near blizzard conditions—will be buried Saturday.

Searchers found the last body, that of Joe Darras, 13, Wednesday huddled beneath a spruce tree on nearby Johnson Mesa. The bodies of Morris Salazar, 9 and his brother, Carlos, 7, were found on top of the 20-square mile mesa New Year's Day.

The three and Darras' brother, Billy, 17, started out to hike to the top of the mesa on Thursday. They were found on a snow-covered foothill last Thursday. Billy Darras, speechless and nearly paralyzed, stumbled into Raton Friday.

His story of the hikers, who had taken no food, matches or extra clothing, touched off a search by 120 policemen, deputies, National Guardsmen and volunteers.

Tracks made by searchers criss-crossed the area where Joe Darras was found, but the body had not been sighted earlier. The nearest tracks were 50 yards from the body.

Pilot Trapped As Plane Crashes

PICAYUNE, Miss. (UPI) — A pilot who bailed out of his stricken US high-altitude jet plane Tuesday night was rescued Wednesday from a marshland cypress tree where he hung by his parachute straps for more than 10 hours.

A Coast Guard helicopter found the pilot, Capt. Charles E. Stratton, 32, dangling in the tree in a swampy area near the Pearl River. His plane, the same type Francis Gary Powers was flying when he was shot down over Russia, apparently exploded and crashed on the Louisiana-Mississippi border near here.

Anyone Seen Frank?

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — "Bus 392, where's your driver?"

That is what puzzled police asked themselves Wednesday when they were called to the busy intersection of Forbes and Shady Avenues to investigate reports of an abandoned bus.

Frank C. Seitz, 51, an employee of the Pittsburgh Railways Co. for 15 years, walked away from his bus at the intersection after a group of high school students became unruly.

"I could not put up with it any longer," Seitz told police.

"They filled the bus to the doors," he said. "I couldn't get another passenger aboard. They carried on in a sinful, shameful way."

They just "laughed at me," Seitz said, when he told them to close the windows and stop smoking.

When police arrived at the intersection they said traffic was "getting pretty jammed up." They notified Pittsburgh Railways which dispatched a tow truck to remove the bus.

Seitz, along with Gilbert Tietel, president of the bus drivers' union, is scheduled to appear before company officials today.

Kennedy Plans To Trim Stay In Florida

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — President Kennedy plans to trim his stay in Florida by 24 hours and return to Washington late Friday, it was learned today.

The Chief Executive has been here since Dec. 19 when he rushed southward to the bedside of his father-in-law, former Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy suffered a stroke. The elder Kennedy is on the mend and the President has decided to work in Washington Saturday before flying to Columbus, Ohio, for a political speech that night.

Originally the President had planned to remain here until Saturday afternoon, then fly direct to Columbus for a Democratic fund raising banquet marking the birthday of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle.

After Kennedy devoted much of Wednesday and Tuesday to conferences here with his chief defense advisers, White House sources said the President requested an alternate travel plan which would take him to Washington before going to Columbus.

One of the President's closest associates, Theodore C. Sorensen, special counsel to Kennedy, arrived here Wednesday. He and the President planned to devote much of today to the completion of drafting of Kennedy's State of the Union Message. Congress returns Jan. 10 and Kennedy will deliver the message Jan. 11 or 12. He has scheduled a news conference for Jan. 15.

Sometime before Congress reconvenes, the President expected to be in touch directly or indirectly with Republican, as well as Democratic, leaders of the House and Senate. A major conference of Democratic leaders was set tentatively for Monday at the White House.

Castro Draws Wrath Of Church

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — A Vatican official said Wednesday that Cuban Premier Fidel Castro "can be considered to have been excommunicated" from the Roman Catholic Church.

Archbishop Dino Staffa, canonist to the Vatican secretary of state, said that anyone who expelled a bishop was automatically excommunicated from the church under canon law.

Castro expelled the auxiliary bishop of Havana, Msgr. Eduardo Boza Masvidal.

The archbishop, specifically asked by newsmen whether Castro had incurred excommunication by his action against Masvidal, said that "whoever impedes the functions of a bishop in the carrying out of his work incurs according to canon law automatic excommunication."

Castro, he said, "can be considered to have been excommunicated."

Trust Busters In New Heated Clash Over Banks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A new conflict has developed between the comptroller of the currency and Justice Department trust-busters.

The dispute, second clash involving the two agencies in less than a year, is over who should move against banks accused of conspiring to fix their service charges.

Comptroller James J. Saxon, who has been in office less than two months, feels his agency should handle such cases. But the Justice Department filed an unprecedented civil suit in Newark, N. J., Dec. 26 accusing three small New Jersey banks of conspiring to set identical charges for checking accounts, drafts and other services.

Saxon's predecessor, Ray M. Vinson, was ousted from the antitrust division. Gidney, a hold-over from the Eisenhower administration, was forced to resign after he incurred the displeasure of the trust-busters by approving a number of bank mergers. Two of the three New Jersey banks named in the Dec. 26 suit are national banks, and subject to regulation by Saxon. He has assigned bank examiners to make an independent investigation of the Justice Department's charges. On Dec. 2 the Justice Department also subpoenaed 16 Dallas, Tex., bank officers to appear before a federal grand jury with records relating to their banks' service charges. In addition, it has initiated investigations in California, Minnesota and Missouri.

Government Rules Out TV Gimmicks

WASHINGTON (UPI)—No matter how much shaving cream it used, the Federal Trade Commission couldn't shave the grit off a piece of sandpaper.

The commission was intrigued by a 1959 series of television commercials which showed a couple of professional football players with "sandpaper beards" getting close shaves with Palmolive Rapid Shave cream.

To drive home the message, the commercial went on to depict a piece of sandpaper, liberally larded with the shaving cream, being whisked clean with one stroke of a razor.

So the FTC got a piece of coarse sandpaper, a razor and a can of Palmolive Rapid Shave. It did not use football players.

No matter how much of the cream the FTC men squirted on the paper, or how long they left it there, the sandpaper would not be shaved smooth. It just got soggy.

Delving further into the matter, the FTC said it found that the sandpaper in the TV commercial was a fake. What it really was, the commission said, was plastic glass covered with sand.

So the FTC Wednesday ordered the Colgate-Palmolive Co. and Ted Bates & Co., a New York advertising agency, to stop such "false, misleading and deceptive" ads.

Big Job Ahead

Now that J. H. (Jimmy) Crapps has taken over the leadership of the City Commission as mayor we wish him well.

Jim is a successful businessman and well qualified because of his popularity and personality to assume a leadership in matters of public policy.

It will be Jim's responsibility to push for major utility improvements, including the start of a vast water improvement program and sewage treatment plant. These improvements are a "must" for the growth of Sanford.

The mayor, it should be explained, usually is chosen by rotation from among the five-member board and is the "front man" for the city, appearing frequently as spokesman at public ceremonies.

His leadership, his ability in public relations, his grasp of civic matters can make the mission of the City Commission smoother by selling the program to the people.

The job is exacting . . . demanding . . . Frankly we are glad the job isn't ours . . . and we join the entire city in wishing Crapps a pleasant and successful year.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

Notice the dandy hobby that Mr. Schroeder has developed, even though he is now in his 90th year. For hobbies help you live longer. When you stagnate and resign yourself to an easy chair, you are likely to die earlier. Resolve to wear out; not rust out. Then you'll live longer, too.

CASE L-404: Mr. C. H. Schroeder is now in his 90th year. On his 89th birthday, Mrs. Crane and I visited him in Indianapolis for he is a very interesting person.

For example, at the age of 80, he decided he'd like to take up wood carving.

Mind you, he had never done anything like this before! So he fitted out a workshop in the basement of the house and set for books containing colored pictures of birds and fish.

Then he taught himself the delicate art of fine carving. He would often use the same scale employed in the illustrations, so his tiny birds would be no larger than a dime.

On the walls of his workshop are carved fish, too, of both the fresh water and deep sea variety.

He likewise has a complete array of various members of the shark family, all drawn to exact scale and painted in their natural hues.

For Mr. Schroeder not only carves birds and fish but he likewise paints them so they are perfect likenesses of the original.

For many years he has exhibited his sculptured creatures at the annual hobby show.

His hobby is also moderately lucrative, for he often sells his carved birds and fish. In fact, some patrons like to have an entire collection, as of the sunfish family.

For a couple of years I had been hearing glowing accounts of Mr. Schroeder's hobby from Clifton Hirschman, an Indianapolis manufacturer, so when he suggested we stop for a few minutes at Mr. Schroeder's home, Mrs. Crane and I were delighted.

And it happened to be at the very moment he was having a family birthday dinner, honoring his 89th milestone.

Mr. Schroeder is active, alert mentally and a typical hobby enthusiast.

I salute him today as an example for millions of you fine folks who have passed the age of 65 and are dropping out of regular employment at factory or office.

Don't vegetate the rest of your lives! Utilize these Golden Years for launching upon new projects or hobbies.

Many of you will still have 25 years of active life ahead of you, so don't degenerate into "Worry Warts" who just gossip about their "innards" on every possible occasion.

Remember, your gall bladder and heart and bowel and kidneys and joints should be kept PRIVATE affairs.

Why discuss them in public? Keep such things for the private visit with your family physician but for heaven's sake, cut out this widespread bad habit in America of trying to gain the limelight in every social gathering by talk about your aches and pains!

That's negative thinking, anyway, so change over to a POSITIVE outlook and become forward-thinking.

Emerson says you aren't old as long as you are thinking FORWARD and planning for the future, as Mr. Schroeder aptly shows us.

So develop hobbies, such as growing African violets or roses or grafting fruit trees or making toys at a basement workshop or helping the precinct Captain of your area get the voters to the polls on election day. Wear out . . . don't rust out!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 4 cent stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Diversified BEIRUT (UPI) — The American University of Beirut has an enrollment of 2,970 from 64 countries, according to the university's registrar. That is nearly half again as many students as registered for the last school year.

Women students this year number 654. Arab students account for 78 per cent of the student body. The university dates back to 1866.

Billions for defense but not a cent for a decent road map.

For years my influential voice has whined for road maps which were practical and serviceable, so consequently they have gone from bad to worse.

The only improvement that has been made is that they are now easier to fold. It used to take four strong men, willing to run risks, to get one of the things back together so it would fit in the glove compartment of a car. Now only three strong men, willing to run risks, are needed.

This slight gain, however, has been more than offset by a wild outburst of coyness and cuteness on the part of road map manufacturers. They have taken to illustrating their maps with pictures of the flora and fauna, the flocks and the fowl of the countryside they portray.

I am going to drive to Vicksburg, Miss., next week and have been studying road maps to see how best to get there. Truthfully, I don't believe I will make it unless I throw away the maps and use the old-fashioned method of stopping every mile or so and asking the way. And you know what that brings forth. People always react as if a stranger in their town knew as much about the place as they do. Directions always go something like this:

"You say you want to get back to Highway 16, huh? Well, that's easy enough. Just go down to Oak Street . . . No, better go a block past Oak and turn right. Then cut in by the Baptist Church and take that little alley that'll bring you out by the old Gerold place. Go on straight for two blocks, turn right on Ivy, cross the railroad tracks, and you know where the three roads come together? Well, take the one on the right. That'll get you back to the highway."

I have blundered across this country in this fashion too many times not to long for a road map that is as clear as spring water and is completely devoid of anything fancy. The maps I have gathered for the trip to Vicksburg, with all their colorful pictures, are pretty but mighty near useless. From my town, which is marked by a racing car, I proceed to a place which is illustrated with leaping dolphins. This, I guess, is Marineland. Then I go to a spot on the map marked by an old fort and some ramshackle buildings, which, I take it, is St. Augustine.

After that, it is any man's guess where my trail leads to. I wander through a picture of a luscious bathing beauty, fight my way through a town that is nothing but Spanish moss, tear along a road whose highway numbers are obscured by orange groves, and head west for an abandoned sugar mill guarded by a bearded Spaniard with a steel hat on. Leaving the Spaniard behind, I move to a picture of a large shrimp, and then turn slightly north to wander through what must be miles of cotton and peanut plants.

After this picture is behind me, I go south a bit and pass through a lighthouse, a shipbuilding yard, two monuments to someone's bravery, and a bed of oysters. From the bed of oysters I make my way to a large prairie, which I hope means that I am nearing New Orleans.

After New Orleans, the map calls for me to head to a fat mammy, complete with bandanna and banjo. After that I am confident I can make Vicksburg. Just follow the States' Rights Party but

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — The international situation is kinda umixed here at the end of the year. So it behooves your faithful correspondent to outstraighten things a bit. The idea is to make everything dunkey-hory so that you can get the new year properly inaugurated, with everything in a state of complete confusion.

The trouble is there's so much troublemaking going on the world in. It was big news, for instance, when Russia's Chairman Nikita Khrushchev admitted he could be wrong.

But he didn't say that he ever had been. So there's no change there.

The United Nations General Assembly ended one of its most successful sessions by admitting it would be $170 million in debt by next July 1. It then authorized Acting Secretary General U Thant of Burma to issue up to $200 million in bonds to cover the indebtedness.

This puts the UN definitely on a deficit finance basis, which is the way the United States has been run so successfully for the last 30 years, and there is nothing more to worry about there. The UN is now a going concern. Going broke, that is.

India's Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru—the man of peace and disarmament who must have a fresh rosebud in his tunic every day—came up smelling of something definitely not roses when he used force taking over three Portuguese enclaves.

This is the way he peacefully took over Kashmir when India and Pakistan got their independence in 1947.

But he says he will use force to keep Red China from taking over hunks of India on its northern frontier. In the jargon of the neutralists, this probably means that India will offer no more resistance than it did to the Red Chinese take-over of Tibet.

This may help clarify the definition of a neutralist:

A neutralist is one who is broad-minded, tolerant, doesn't take sides and is peace-loving. He will, however, take money from anyone.

For example, consider the case of President Nasser of the now-since Syria disaffiliated and Nasser himself has disaffiliated Yemen — disaffiliated Arab Republic. Nasser bought—on credit—a lot of Russian arms. He promised to pay for them in Egyptian cotton. But this year Egypt had a bad crop.

So Nasser now wants to "buy" American surplus cotton which he would then use to make a payment due on his arms debt. If he should get this cotton from the U. S., this country would then be paid back in Egyptian pounds, most of which would then be loaned back to the UAR for its internal development. Do you follow?

This deal probably won't be allowed to go through. But if it should, the question would be: "Who is the more neutral, Nasser or the U. S.?" Does that make everything clear? Other U. S. foreign relations are equally clear. The North Atlantic Treaty Organization is firmly united and determined that it will stand together in support of the West Berliners against the East Germans and the Russians.

Except that France won't agree to negotiating with the Russians, and the other 14 NATO nations don't like the U. S. and UN policy on the Congo, disuniting the UN.

The new alliance for progress with Latin America is coming along swimmingly, too. Only four countries have their development plans ready. But the United States is keeping its promise to allocate $1 billion in aid during the alliance's first year. Think what the total will be when they all get plans.

The one Latin American country that won't get any aid will be Castro's Cuba. But don't be too sure that Cuba will be kicked out of the Organization of American States when the foreign ministers meet at Punta del Este, Uruguay, Jan. 22.

Castro was a declared neutral up to a couple of weeks ago, when he admitted he had been a Communist all along. He achieved one distinction by this declaration. It made him the only member of the club to show openly what a neutral really is.

There. That should confuse everything. Happy 1962. Camel humps are masses of fat, not water storage tanks.

Q—I understand there is a great deal of published material on career opportunities. Can you tell me what is available?—J. J. W.

Dear J. J. W.: Not off the press is the newest edition of "The Occupational Outlook Handbook," published by the U. S. Department of Labor's Bureau of Labor Statistics. It describes 660 jobs in 80 major industries, costs $4.50. Chances are, you'll find a copy soon in your school or public library.

New York Life Insurance Company's Career Information Service (51 Madison Ave., New York, N. Y.) has 4 free booklets—each one on a different career.

Also free: booklets from the New York State Department of Commerce, 112 State St., Albany, N. Y.

Write the U. S. Superintendent of Documents, Washington 25, D. C., for a free listing of other career booklets.

Q—Is an insurance annuity taxable under an estate?—N. B.

Dear N. B.: Yes, it is taxable in the estate of the deceased. There are three things you should know about the tax treatment of life insurance: For income tax purposes, the lump sum payments of a policy received in cash are exempt from federal and state taxes. If the proceeds are to be made in the form of specific periodic payments, then only that portion which is "interest" in excess of $1,000 a year is subject to income tax. If the policy is left with the company for future distribution and just the interest earned is paid out, this interest would have to be reported exactly as you are taxed on the interest from any other investment.

Insurance policies are subject to the federal estate tax. However, your estate would have to exceed $60,000, or if you qualify for the marital deduction, $120,000, before being subject to the tax.

So far as state inheritance taxes go, life insurance proceeds paid to named beneficiaries are not subject to taxation in by far the majority of states. Check the ruling in your state.

New House Boss Says He's Demo Who Follows Line

WASHINGTON (UPI) — "I am a Democrat without prefixes or suffixes — a plain Democrat who goes down the line with the main issues of the party."

This self-characterization came today from Rep. Carl Albert, 53, a quiet-spoken Oklahoman who is slated to become the new Democratic leader of the House.

Thus, Albert rejected the description applied to him by Rep. Richard Bolling (D-Mo.) who tried to defeat Albert for the leadership—and failed.

Bolling, 45, who was Albert's only challenger, withdrew from the race Wednesday. He told a news conference he had decided not to put his strength to the test at a caucus of the 258 House Democrats next week because "I do not have enough support to win."

Bolling made it plain that he regarded this as a defeat for liberalism. He called himself a liberal. He described Albert as a "liberal with reservations."

He said the late Speaker Sam Rayburn was "indeed a liberal," but he pointedly refused to characterize Rep. John W. McCormack, 70-year-old Boston Irishman, who will succeed Rayburn as speaker next week.

With no other contenders in sight, it is a foregone conclusion that House Democrats will tap McCormack for the top party post and elect Albert to succeed McCormack in the No. 2 post of floor leader.

Bolling said the "reservations" he had about Albert's liberalism related to civil rights and to problems created by the existence of oil and gas producers in Albert's congressional district.

In an interview with United Press International, Albert said that his overall voting record might be considered liberal by some and moderate by others but that no one would call him a conservative.

Albert's friends were miffed at Bolling's remarks which came in response to newsmen's questions. Albert said he had high regard for Bolling and hoped there were "no personal feelings."

Although he took a less liberal stance on civil rights legislation than Bolling, Albert supported the civil rights laws of 1957 and 1960 in the form in which they were finally enacted.

AF Base Chosen For Nuclear Tests

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Air Force base on tiny Johnston Island in the Pacific will be reconstructed in preparation for possible resumption of atmospheric nuclear testing by the United States.

The Atomic Energy Commission said today the Los Angeles firm of Holmes and Narver had a contract for construction on the island. This followed reports that skilled workmen were being recruited in Hawaii to be sent to Johnston Island within a month.

Defense sources confirmed the work would be part of the Defense Department's preparations for atmospheric testing. The Los Angeles firm did the preliminary construction for previous tests at Eniwetok in the Marshall Islands.

The Defense Department announced Dec. 29 that Maj. Gen. Alfred D. Starbuck had been named to head a task force which would be ready to carry out nuclear tests in the air if President Kennedy orders them.

Johnston Island, only a mile long and a quarter of a mile wide, and only seven feet above sea level—has a 6,000-foot runway and is used by the Military Air Transport Service as a refueling stop.

Thompson Briefs West On Talks

MOSCOW (UPI)—U. S. Ambassador to Moscow Lewellyn Thompson briefed his British, French and West German colleagues Wednesday on his preliminary talks with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko on the Berlin crisis.

British Ambassador Sir Frank Roberts and French Ambassador Maurice Dejean arrived at the U. S. embassy shortly before noon for the meeting.

West German Ambassador Hans Krull arrived 20 minutes before the other envoys and stayed for the joint briefing, which lasted for 75 minutes.

Thompson met for 2½ hours with Gromyko Tuesday.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am an intelligent girl. I hold down a good job, but need a little help with my love life. I have been going with a very eligible man for several months. I know he is crazy about me, and he is the man I want to marry. He can give me everything I want in life—social position, financial security, and the works. I am having trouble getting him even to talk about marriage. I have given him all the encouragement a man could want. I have led this horse to water. Now, how do I make him drink? ANXIOUS TO WED

DEAR ANXIOUS: You can't—so take off the spurs, slatar. This "horse" could turn out to be a camel.

DEAR ABBY: Our son is married to a very peculiar girl. Last month my husband suddenly fell ill and we rushed him to the hospital for an emergency operation. I wrote our son telling him about it, but we heard nothing from him. Finally, when his father was out of danger, I telephoned our son to tell him the good news. He said he didn't know his father had been sick!

Then his wife wrote us a nasty letter saying she never gave our son the letter because she "didn't want him worrying about any of his folks," and, "please not to write him any more bad news." Can you imagine the nerve of that girl! What do two elderly parents do in a case like this? BADLY HURT

DEAR HURT: Call your son, person-to-person, and let him know what is going on. If he wants to put up with this kind of censorship from his wife there is nothing you can do. But if he is interested in knowing of your welfare, ask HIM how you may reach him without any interference.

DEAR ABBY: Once in a while a member of our family will go to bed early to get some much needed sleep. Then someone will drive by, and even though it is as late as 10:00 P. M. they will ring the bell saying, "The lights were still on so we knew everyone was still up." I think this is a whole of a lot of gall. What do you do with callers who don't know any better than that? JUST PLAIN MAD

DEAR MAD: Freeze them out with a chilly reception and it will be a hot day in December before they pull that stunt again.

CONFIDENTIAL TO AMY F., FATHER O'H., and MRS. D. D. K.: I am returning your money. Sorry, but I do not sell my own books. If your local bookstore doesn't have DEAR TEEN-AGER, ask them to order it for you.

We The Women:

By Ruth Millet

A puzzled 19-year-old wants to know why the already married try so hard to discourage young couples from marrying.

"I'm 19 years old," she writes, "and I have had one year of college and one year of working. I am engaged to a fine young man. No one has any fault to find with him. But whenever I mention that we plan to be married when I am 20 all the adults I know try to discourage me.

"They tell me I have lots of time and not to be in any hurry. They tell me that I should enjoy my girlhood when I have the chance and not tie myself down to marriage. They tell me that marriage can be pretty dull. All I hear is discouragement. Why is this?"

To be honest, few people of 40 or 50 really remember how they felt at 20. They don't remember the impatience of youth, or a young person's instinctive need to find a mate and build a home, or how long time can seem to a young person.

When an older person says "Why not wait a few years?" to a young person, "a few years" seems like nothing at all to the older person for whom time flies. But to a young person in love "a few years" can seem like an eternity.

Also, people grow more cautious with age and more material-minded, too. They forget that the young are more idealistic, more romantic, not nearly as cautious.

So young people can't always afford to listen to their elders. Their elders didn't listen to THEIR elders.

They fell in love and married and decided on careers and made other such important decisions on their own. Because they didn't always find the going easy (it never is), they urge caution on the young.

The young can't always listen. They have to trust their own instincts and their own judgment. They have to bet on themselves. That's how it has always been—and always will be.

Young folks' problems are discussed in Ruth Millet's new booklet, "Tips on Teenagers." Mail 25 cents to Ruth Millet Reader Service, c/o The Sanford Herald, P. O. Box 489, Dept. A, Radio City Station, New York 10, N. Y.

Jacoby On Bridge

By Oswald Jacoby

Phil Feldman of New York is one of the best of the new crop of experts. He showed me today's hand as an example of what a defender can do to help declarer mis-guess a hand and I will describe the play in Phil's own words.

"I opened the deuce of clubs against the diamond slam. South went into a long huddle and I could see that he had lots of problems. I sure hoped that he held a singleton heart, as otherwise he would have to try the heart finesse and I would be dead. Finally he took dummy's ace of clubs, cashed his king and queen of clubs, discarded a spade from dummy. Then he led the ace of spades, ruffed a spade, and played the ace of hearts.

Bridge hand diagram showing cards in North, West, East, and South hands, and a table of scores for various deals.

"By this time I was sure of his distribution, so I dropped the jack of hearts under the ace. He led a small heart and ruffed and I continued false-carding with the king of hearts. He ruffed another spade in dummy, led a heart and ruffed with the jack. He looked sick when I followed to the heart since he knew that he had blown the hand. He had to use the ten of diamonds to ruff his last spade and I was able to make two trump tricks."

South had lots of ways to make the hand, but once he started on the cross-ruff he might have ruffed the third heart high, even if Phil had not false-carded, but we must give Phil full credit for an assist.

Baseball Signing Time Again

United Press International
And now big league ball players start to find out whether it really is going to be a happy new year.
The last "Season Greetings" card has arrived in the mail but there's a big, fat envelope due any day: this year's contract. Major league general managers—no Scrooges, they—held 'em back through the holiday season but now it's back to business and don't forget to read the fine print.
The Los Angeles Angels announced Wednesday that 1962 contracts have been mailed or will be mailed by the end of the week. There will be many a yelp of delight but there will also be some screams of anguish when the documents are opened.

"Some will be happy and some will be unhappy when they receive their contracts," said general manager Buzzie Bavasi of the Dodgers, sounding the keynote of management. Bavasi previously had indicated a belief that the Dodgers lost the 1961 National League pennant in the wee hours of the morning and that punitive action could be expected.
Dodgers in line for healthy increases, however, are NL strike-out king Sandy Koufax, 18-game winner Johnny Podres, 328-hitting Wally Moon, shortstop Maury

Wills and rookie relief star Ron Ferranowski.
Vice president Chub Feeney of the Giants said that Orlando Cepeda, whose 46 homers led the NL in 1961, would receive a "good raise" and also indicated that Willie Mays might jump from $85,000 to $90,000. Most other Giants, however, are advised to open those envelopes carefully, lest they receive second-degree burns.
The Red Sox revealed they have sent 1962 contracts to 38 players, including outfielder Jackie Jensen, whose reluctance to fly makes him a doubtful performer this year.
General manager Fred Haney of the Angels said 39 players had been mailed contracts and added: "We feel that we have treated all our men fairly and have rewarded them accordingly."

The Chicago Cubs and the Minnesota Twins revealed Wednesday they have signed important members of their teams.
George Altman, who batted .303 and drove in 98 runs, signed for what is believed to be a healthy increase with the Cubs while Jack Kralick, who had a 13-11 record, agreed to a "nice raise." Altman was the first Cub to agree to terms while Kralick was the third Minnesota player.
The New York Mets, one of the NL's two new teams, also sent out contracts to 35 players.

Dietzel Faces 'Immediate' Legal Action On Offer

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI)—Paul Dietzel today faced threatened "immediate legal action" if he sought to terminate his contract as head football coach at LSU to take an offer for a similar job at West Point.
Meanwhile LSU faced the prospect of being stripped of its coaching staff. Dietzel was considering the Army offer, which reportedly included taking four assistants with him. Also his chief assistant, Charley McClendon, was said to be among top prospects for head coach at Kentucky.
But the way was far from clear for Dietzel to switch over to Army if he wanted to. A member of the LSU board of supervisors Wednesday night threatened going to court to hold Dietzel to a contract here.
Board member Tom Dutton of New Orleans telegraphed Army Secretary Elvis Stahr and West Point officials that he would sponsor a resolution asking court action at any board meeting considering a request to release Dietzel from his contract.
"If and when the question comes before the board, I believe there will be very substantial opposition to Dietzel's release from this contract," Dutton's telegram read.
When Dietzel and McClendon arrived here Wednesday from Miami, Fla., with their Tiger squad that beat Colorado in the Orange Bowl Monday, Dietzel said little and McClendon said nothing.
Dietzel and LSU athletic director Jim Corbett both confirmed the Tiger mentor had not asked to be released from the remaining four years of his contract at LSU.
But Corbett said the matter of Dietzel's status would be cleared up within the next few days.

FICB Race At Stake As Hatters Clash Against Tampa Here Today

Leadership in the Florida Inter-collegiate Conference basketball race is at stake tonight here when the Stetson University Hatters and University of Tampa Spartans clash. Gametime is 6 p.m. at the new high school gymnasium here. A 6:15 preliminary game will send Stetson's Frosh against Jacksonville University's yearling squad.

Coach Bob Lavoy's tall and talented Tampa quintet rules the favorite against the smaller Hatters. The Spartans have raced to six consecutive victories thus far this season and currently lead the nation in scoring with a 105 points per game average. Only once have the Spartans been held to under 100 points and that was in a 95-82 win over tough Georgetown.

Tampa's starting line-up is one of the tallest in college basketball. Gary Kesler, a 6-10, 250 pound giant, will open at center with Don Boyl (6-8) and Chuck Engleking (6-4) at the forwards. Harry Mallis (6-4) and George Shary (6-3) will get the starting nod at the guards. Shary is pacing Tampa in scoring with a 26.0 points per game mark while all five Tampa starters are averaging in double figures.

Kubek May Be Back With Yanks

NEW YORK (UPI)—All-Star shortstop Tony Kubek may trade in his khaki uniform for New York Yankee pinstripes—by order of President Kennedy—early in the 1962 season.
The probability that Kubek will be available to the Yankees this year developed Wednesday when the President ordered the activation of two permanent Army divisions. The action is expected to free from active duty the 32nd and the 49th Infantry Divisions—both National Guard units called to service because of the Berlin crisis.
Kubek is in the 32nd Division.

All-Star Kegler Tourney Play Open

MIAMI BEACH (UPI)—Former All-Star champion Billy Wells of St. Louis led 288 men into opening competition in the 21st annual All-Star Bowling Tournament today at Miami Beach Convention Hall.
The balding Missourian showed the way in a two-game exhibition Wednesday by leading the males with games of 234-22-463.
The men took a back seat to the women, however, as the marathon 11-day tournament got rolling.

Grid Organization Meets To Eliminate Death By Mishaps

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Representatives of the medical profession and sporting goods equipment manufacturers were to deliver talks today before the National Football Alliance of High Schools, an organization that makes rules for some 720,000 high school football players.
The main target of the three-day convention, which began Wednesday, is to reduce the record 22 deaths which occurred during the past football season.
Also attending the meeting are members of the National Federation of High Schools, National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) and the National Junior College Athletic Association.
Lyle Quinn, chairman of the equipment committee of the alliance football rules group, said Wednesday the introduction of the T-formation in football is one of the reasons for an increase in the number of head and neck injuries.
"In the T-formation the coaches teach the boys to block first with their heads," he said. "The face guard was developed to protect that area, but sometimes the guard is used for leverage by an opponent and the neck injuries begin to crop up."
Results of an alliance survey of coaches and school officials to gain an insight into what are considered the major problems backed up Quinn's remarks.
Out of 7,000 replies, 8,094 said grasping the face mask of an opponent was the greatest cause of injury and 5,652 questioned the practice of wearing a face mask.

KEN MCINTOSH of the Seminole County Juvenile Council, Inc., shows So Proud, one of the greyhounds which may be running in the third annual Charity Matinee Friday afternoon at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club. All proceeds from the races will go to the Juvenile Council which aids Seminole County's children from broken homes.

Law Encouraged By Reports On 'Ailing' Arm

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—Right-hander Vernon Law of the Pittsburgh Pirates gets an examination of his ailing pitching arm today from a top specialist after encouraging reports from two others.
Law was to be checked by Dr. Judd Wilson here. Then he planned to head for his home in Boise, Idaho, to "start getting ready" for the 1962 baseball training grind.
"The X-rays the doctors took today looked encouraging," Law said in Pittsburgh after examination Wednesday by two specialists. "But I still have to throw a baseball. I haven't done any throwing since last summer and the best way to tell is to get out there and pitch. I certainly have faith in myself."
"It's no fun pitching with a sore arm. And I don't intend to do it either. I want to make sure it's okay."
He suffered his injury last April 29 in Cincinnati while pitching against the Reds on a chilly day. He said something snapped in his right shoulder. He tried taking his regular pitching turn, but more often than not he was bombed by opposing batsmen.
He was placed on the disabled list by manager Danny Murtagh shortly after the first All-Star Game in July. He finished with a 3-4 record for the season.
The defending world champion Pirates finished the season in sixth place and Law's absence was considered the big factor in their decline.
In 1960 he won 20 games and was named winner of the Cy Young Award, as the top pitcher in the majors. Today his future is a question mark hanging on the testing of his arm.
Forests of the U.S. now are growing more wood than is being removed by harvest or lost to fire, insects and disease.

Fullmer Wants Moore's Crown

WEST JORDAN, Utah (UPI)—NBA middleweight champion Gene Fullmer wants a crack at durable Archie Moore's light heavyweight crown "if the price is right."
Marv Jensen, Fullmer's manager, said here Wednesday night that he has been approached about a title bout with Moore. He said he told New York promoters Jack Fugasy and Lester Matits that Fullmer was interested if terms could be arranged.

Plays In Bowl

RALEIGH, N. C. (UPI)—Quarterback Tom Dellinger of North Carolina State, recently signed by the Buffalo Bills of the American Football League, has agreed to play in the U.S. Bowl game at Washington Jan. 7.

Sauer Inks Titan Pact

NEW YORK (UPI)—George Sauer, with 15 years coaching experience behind him at three schools, has signed as offensive coach of the New York Titans.
Sauer has been out of football since 1958, when he went into the insurance business in Texas. He was coasted out of retirement by Clyde (Bulldog) Turner, the new head coach of the Titans.
Following a collegiate career at the University of Nebraska, Sauer played with the Green Bay Packers. He was head coach at Navy for three years, at Kansas for two years, and at Baylor for 10.

Top Field Set For Kids At SOKC Matinee Friday

A splendid field of greyhounds has been carefully picked to compete in the Juvenile Council Handicap at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club tomorrow afternoon. The afternoon's top feature race is so named because it is the first charity matinee of the season and all profits from the 10-race program will go to the Seminole County Juvenile Council, Inc., a non-profit organization originated for the purpose of aiding needy and unfortunate juveniles from broken homes.
The Juvenile Council is in its third year of operation and an SOKC Charity Matinee helped it get under way. The matinee tomorrow is the third that has benefited the Council.
Council members will be at the track and will assist in the awarding of a trophy to the owner of the winning greyhound. Post time at the matinee is 2 p.m.
G. A. Alderson's front-running Hello Charlie, who likes to avoid trouble by being in front at the first turn, will go to the post as a 5 to 2 favorite on the morning line. Charlie has had four Grade A starts and has been a quiniela factor in three of them, once with a win.
Rounding out the field for the daylight headliner will be Topeka Rose, Fathom, Hard Cutter, Re-

Lake Monroe Jottings . . .

By MRS. H. L. JOHNSON

Well as I said last week, winter is here and brother it sure is and how. I'm ready for spring, aren't you? Here it is already the fourth of January. Seems like yesterday was New Year's day. Wonder how many resolutions were made? And I wonder how many will be kept? Jim and Shirley Hawkins have returned to Cascade, Md., with brand new daughter Kim. I bet Jim's parents, Charlotte and Vic Hawkins, sort of miss little Kim already. Their visit was just too short. And visitors Frank and Eva Brown have gone back to the cold country of Roanoke, Va., after a three weeks visit with son Don and daughter-in-law Virginia and Frank's mother Rose Poff. Eva was recuperating from a serious illness and Frank had fishing fever. I think both were well when they left though. Our sympathy goes out to Mrs. Mary Kinard and Mrs. Marie Hittell on the passing last week of Mrs. Kinard's daughter and Mrs. Hittell's sister, Mrs. Annie Mae Melendy, in Wauchula. Burial was in that city. The O. E. Hunters had as guests for the holidays Theodore Johns and family of Jacksonville, J. C. and Naomi Sapp's guests for Christmas day were the J. H. Barfield family of Tampa. I heard that Freddie and Steve Swaggerty, Douglas and Powell Austin and Lloyd Freeman had a most enjoyable time on a recent camping trip on the Wekiwa. Also heard Lloyd missed a deer. Wonder if he got his shirt tail trimmed because he missed it? D. C. Spivey didn't have to worry because he got one. Ma and Pa Kendrick (W. L.) have been visiting daughter Sammy Lou Keel and family. I'm still trying to get sand in their shoes so they will sell their home in Bainbridge, Ga., and move down here. Guess I will have to get the Chamber of Commerce after them. Brownies don't forget your meeting date next Tuesday afternoon at the school. Linda Stapler went to a baton twirling contest in Orlando and came home with a fifth place medal. Congratulations, gal. The Monroe Home Demonstration Club meets tonight at Louise Thompson's home. Sure hope everyone can attend as it is going to be a very interesting one. A local lawyer will talk on legal matters. The John Laniers spent Christmas day in Orlando with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin. Charles' mother, Mrs. Geneva Martin, of Knoxville, Tenn., was also there. She came home with the Laniers and they took her on fishing trips to the beach and other sightseeing tours. She has returned to Knoxville and I wonder if she sent this cold weather back down here. She said she had a very wonderful time while down here. Be sure and go to church Sunday as it is World Wide Communion Day. The Seminole County Home Demonstration Council held its first meeting of the New Year yesterday. We made plans for some wonderful programs for the coming year. Keep your fingers crossed for the High School Glee Club boys and girls who left this morning for Miami for clinic. I have the pleasure of accompanying them too. So we will be in Miami seeing the sights and in the morning going to clinic to win some honors for our school. Lynn Giles will take over my duties on my bus for two days. The L. J. Lakes of the Monroe Road have had his brother with them for the past two weeks. He is from that cold place of Jackson Heights, N. Y. Our thought this week was given to me by a very nice person. It is on a Christian. I know that you will enjoy it very much.

Richard L. Glendon Christian Science Lecturer Speaks Of Healing Prayer

Richard Glendon, lecturing here last Sunday at Seminole High School under auspices of First Church of Christ, Scientists, Sanford, told his audience that scientific prayer is bringing increasing numbers of people healing, comfort and reformation. On nationwide tour as a member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship, Glendon is from Los Angeles, Calif. He was introduced here by Mrs. Ollie Mae Harrison, second reader. Keynote theme of the address was the promise made by the apostle James pertaining to power of healing through prayer. The speaker pointed to the danger of personalizing the healing power of effective prayer and quoted Mary Baker Eddy's "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" in reassuring that such power is available today.

Guatemala Offers Scenic Vacation... In The Past

PANAJACHEL, Guatemala (UPI)—Against the backdrop of some of the most spectacular mountain and lake scenery in the world, the vacationer can journey more than 200 years into the past—and do it in modern comfort.

Panajachel is the little village where the highway meets Lake Atitlan some 90 miles of constant lightseeing away from the capital of Guatemala City.

A few miles away across the glassy waters of the lake, and with three dead volcanoes looking over your shoulder, you can step from a modern power launch into an Indian village still living for the most part in the 18th Century.

San Antonio Palopo is just one of nearly a dozen villages that climb the mountains rising from the shores of the lake by 12-mile lake that glimmers green under the close-by clouds.

Harness Horses Celebrate Birthdays At Seminole Raceway

By JANE CASSELBERRY
On New Year's Day some 600 harness horses celebrated birthdays at their winter training quarters at Seminole Park Raceway in Casselberry. On Jan. 1 each year all horses automatically become one year older.

Garden Club Helps Beautify North Orlando

Reports that the North Orlando Garden Club has been instrumental in setting out 100 trees in the area were made at the December meeting of the club by Mrs. Mary Rowell, beautification committee chairman.

Other members of the committee which also will head activities during the month of April designated by Mayor Frank Fasula as beautification month are Mrs. Lera Harris and Mrs. Elizabeth Harich. According to Fasula five prizes will be given to the choice lawns and gardens during the month and all water will be at the minimum rates.

In other business of the club's monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Lois Wallace with Mrs. Harris as co-hostess, final plans were made for the group's Christmas party which was held on Dec. 16 at the Home Demonstration Club Center in Sanford. Mrs. Mary Guthrie was elected as club chaplain and announcement was made that Mrs. Betsy Nall had been selected to receive the Garden of the Month award for December.

Chuluota Garden Club Appoints Committee

By CAROL JEPSON
Members of Chuluota's Hills and Her Garden Club appointed Mrs. Marlon Van Wormer, Mrs. Florence Boulden and Herbert Boswell as a nominating committee at the December meeting and Christmas party held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Carlson on Seventh St. Mrs. Van Wormer will serve as chairman of the committee.

Following the business session, a party with games and prizes was enjoyed by the group and packages of seeds and bulbs from members' gardens were drawn from a grab bag. It was suggested that these be planted and reported on at later meetings.

Trustees To Meet

Trustees and deacons of the Altamonte Springs Community Chapel will meet at 7:30 p.m. today in the Chapel Educational Building.

A FIRST PRIZE WINNER in the DeBary Home Lighting Contest during the holidays was the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred H. McLaren of 84 Iris Lane which featured a large decorated native palm complete with surrounding gifts, three jolly snowmen and other lighting arrangements. (Cox Photo) as one of the best places in the country to train trotters and pacers and now, with the addition of several new barns which provide a total of 623 stalls, it is the world's largest training plant.

There now are 81 stables on the grounds and the few remaining stalls have already been reserved.

One of the champions stabled here is "Air Record," all time second fastest mare on the mile track and all time second fastest co-champion mare on the 1/4 mile track. She earned $128,500 this season as a five year old trotter, breaking the world's record for total earnings by a mare in a single season. "Air Record," by "Bomba Away" out of "Torrill Scot," trained here last winter in the stables of trainer George Sholty from Logansport, Ind., who is co-owner with F. E. Ross of Milan, Mich.

The economic benefits to Casselberry and Seminole County merchants and tradesmen can be visualized when one realizes that the weekly payroll to 75 trainers and 250 grooms alone amounts to $18,000 per week. Hundreds of owners are attracted here each winter by the horses and many owners and trainers buy or build homes in the area.

According to Fasula regular staggered terms on the council now customary in most incorporated areas will be set in motion with the 1963 elections when a mayor and three councilmen will be elected.

During the afternoon races a top slate of greyhounds will display their abilities, but more important, all the net profits will go to the county juvenile council.

This organization, under the leadership of Judge Vernon Mixe, is a non-profit corporation which will use the money to aid needy and unfortunate juveniles in the county.

Through the timely help of the council many youngsters have been given the assistance needed to steer them away from trouble's path.

Racing starts at 2 p. m. Try to be there.

Swofford Appoints New Altamonte City Officials

Altamonte Springs Mayor Lawrence Swofford appointed Keith Nixon, new ward one councilman, as vice mayor at a called meeting of the new city officials Monday night.

Other appointments made in addition to that of Grady Hall, Seminole County district six constable, as police chief and acting fire chief included those of Henry Hansen as town clerk and committees for finance, streets and sanitation, parks and recreation, utility, fire, Community House and public building.

On the finance committee will be Nixon as chairman, Frank Gerhardt and Swofford; streets and sanitation, Swofford chairman, John Wolf and Jeff Hodges; parks and recreation, Gerhardt chairman, Hodges and Swofford; utility Gerhardt chairman, Swofford and Hodges; fire committee, Wolf chairman, others to be named; Community House, Hansen; public buildings, Swofford chairman, Nixon and Hodges.

Hodges turned down the appointment to the streets and sanitation committee saying that he "knew nothing whatever about streets and was not qualified for the job."

The mayor asked that Hall also be appointed as a temporary building inspector, however he withdrew the recommendation after objections from the council as to how much available time

Hall would have to spend on the job.

In other action council approval was given Swofford's recommendation to rescind the resolution moving the city's account from the First National Bank in Winter Park to the South Seminole Bank in Fern Park. The resolution was passed in a special council meeting last Friday night along with the controversial zoning ordinance for the town by the former board.

Although the council will meet as scheduled next Monday night, regular meetings this year will be held on the first and third Wednesdays of each month beginning in February.

Longwood Council To Install New Members

Officials elected in Longwood's municipal elections last month will be sworn into office at the 8 p. m. meeting of the City Council today.

County Council Officers of the Seminole County Home Demonstration Clubs met with committee chairmen from 10 a. m. until 2 p. m. Exciting Matches To Highlight Festivities Starting At 7:45

Grand Opening for the newly-constructed Orlando-Seminole Jai-Alai Fronton located in Fern Park at Highway 436 will take place Friday at 7:45 p.m. with special opening matches of the world-famous sport scheduled.

A large turnout of Sanford and Seminole County residents are expected to attend the opening of the million and a half dollar project which promises to be one of the greater sports and entertainment attractions in this area.

Huge neon signs illuminate the gigantic structure which towers high over the small residential community of Fern Park. The words Jai-Alai and Orlando-Seminole Fronton stand out in bright colors and are seen from a long distance.

There will be a Trophy Match played as the final game of the evening with presentation ceremonies on the Jai-Alai court for the winners of the doubles match. This eighth match will be the beginning of a regular trophy match at the Fronton which will be sponsored by a Sanford merchant.

President of the Orlando-Seminole Fronton is Stephen Caulder of Fort Lauderdale, one of the chief financiers of the project. Caulder is ill at his residence in South Florida and will be unable to attend the opening night festivities.

The first of eight games to be played on opening night will take place at 7:45 p.m. Team manager Tony Andrea will select players to compete in opening night matches. The scheduled matches will be announced on opening night.

Executive Vice President Norman Stabell in charge of the Orlando-Seminole Fronton has estimated that the total receipts for the 1962 season should run somewhere between three and four million dollars.

Players of this particular game of Jai-Alai are unusual in one respect. Unlike players of other singles and doubles matches, these sportsmen have a real fear of the game and of the fast-flying ball which is ever-threatening.

Jai-Alai is a sport somewhat like a three-wall handball court with a length of 180 feet and a width of 51 feet. The players in the sport have to catch a ball or pelota on the fly or on the first bounce and send it back to the granite wall.

The stance and position of the player as he hurls the ball is somewhat akin to the fluid motion of a second baseman whirling through a double play.

This sounds quite easy but there are hidden complications to the game. First the ball must be caught by the player in a gloved basket not unlike the baskets used for serving bread.

Secondly the speeds attained by the ball have been known to contribute to fatalities when the player is hit by a ball traveling close to 200 miles per hour on the fly and close to the hurled speed on the rebound.

Jai-Alai is a game played in Italy, France, Spain, the Canary Islands, and some sections of South America. The Basques have a corner of the sport in degree of perfection and excellence. Other Spanish players regard the Basque as egotistical and cancelled partly because the only flat levels in Basque country are the courts used for the game of Jai-Alai.

Game Of Kings

With the various luxury appointments adorning the modern courts of Jai-Alai and the pleasure derived from the universally-known sport, the game might veritably be termed the game of kings.

Seating 2,200 spectators in reserved seats and additional balcony seating to come, the Orlando-Seminole Fronton offering pari-mutuel betting on a deluxe and mechanically-operated scale will really be a pleasure for the avid betting fan to enjoy. Satisfaction from the unique and spectacular layout could ease the disappointment of losing money.

Coming later to the Fronton will be additions of a bar and restaurant as well as the closed-circuit television which will enable viewers to see the matches from the lower level betting area.

Exciting New Jai-Alai Fronton To Seat 2,300

Plenty Of Seating Capacity At Fronton

The huge spacious amphitheatre of the new Orlando-Seminole Fronton will seat 2,300 persons in modernized cushion-padded reserved seating arrangements. Pictured here as the seating sections near completion, comfort is the keynote of the luxury-appointed furnishings.

Slanted on a low angle rising far above the arena as in the ancient Greek outdoor athletic theaters, the more than two thousand reserved seats provide a wide, unobstructed view of the famous Latin game of Jai-Alai.

Behind the large reserved seat area will be standing room enclosed by large horizontal sections of glass which will provide a wide-angle view of the court for those spectators who wish to remain closer to the betting areas. Standing room facilities will include closed-circuit television giving a full picture of the game, and, between games, the scoring boards.

A box-seat section directly in front of the reserved seat area and stretching the length of the wire-enclosed playing area, will give the extra touch for groups of fans who wish an even more intimate connection with the Jai-Alai game. It is not planned to install the balcony at this time; however, the main structure of the building has been so designed that the balcony may be added at a future date.

All seating will be theatre type, upholstered seats with the larger portion consisting of the more expensive seats fully upholstered (backs and seats) in an aqua color, and the remainder of the seating having plywood backs and gold color upholstered seats. The interior steel framing of the main auditorium is exposed and is painted an aqua color to match the seating upholstery. The interior of the sidewalls is likewise exposed and is finished in white aluminum. The ceiling is finished with a white plastic.

Patrons will be presently served by two betting levels. The first level is entered directly off the entrance level which contains offices, pari-mutuel equipment and future restaurant-cocktail lounge facilities as well as betting facilities. From this level one may walk directly into the playing court level of the main auditorium or proceed up stairways to the second betting level. This level is at the rear of the main seating group and contains three concession stands, toilets and overflow standing room as well as the major portion of betting facilities. The third level when constructed will contain bet-

Tapers Move

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Washington Tapers of the American Basketball League have transferred their franchise to Commack, N. Y., and will play their first game at the Commack Arena on or about Jan. 16.

JOHN BURTON

Architect For
Jai-Alai Fronton
Is John Burton

Architect for the newly-completed Orlando-Seminole Fronton is John A. Burton IV, designer of many buildings in the Sanford and Seminole County areas.

The architectural firm of John A. Burton has been in operation in Sanford for six years. Burton has continued a 33 year old business of industrial design which he completely took over at the death of Elton J. Moughton.

Among the numerous buildings which the firm has designed in Sanford are the Seminole High School, The Sanford Civic Center, the addition to Seminole Memorial Hospital, the Florida State Bank, and the Seminole County Health Center.

John A. Burton IV received his degree in architecture from the School of Architecture at Clemson College in South Carolina and has gained recognition as one of the foremost architectural designers in this area.

With main offices in Sanford, the Burton Architecture Firm operates both in North Carolina and Florida. Burton is a resident architect in both states.

Scoring Points, Matching Players, Handicapping, Rotation Explained

The game of Jai-Alai will be new to the many Sanford and Seminole County residents who will be attending the game for the first time at the opening of the Orlando-Seminole Fronton in Fern Park. It is with this thought in mind that the following information on the sport is presented:

SCORING POINTS: The players must catch the ball on the fly or first bounce and return it so it hits the front wall on the fly and then lands in fair territory . . . just exactly like three-wall handball.

If the player fails to do so, or if he overthrows or underserves to his opponent he loses the point. Fair territory is everything inside the red boundary lines.

WINNING THE GAME: The number of points necessary to win is one less than the number of players or entries, except in the American Elimination System games. Your program will designate such games, and also show the rules applied for these games only.

Ties for place and show are played off under rules approved by Jai-Alai authorities and the Florida State Racing Commission. Consult your program for these rules.

HANDICAPPING AND MATCHING THE PLAYERS: Remember how you used to holler "first bat" in a game of scrub baseball? By the same reasoning, the player or team in Post Position Number One or Number Two has a definite advantage in that he usually gets more chances to play than Player Six.

And, if, for example, Post Entry One or Two would "get hot" during the first round, it might have four points before Post Entry Six had its first chance to play.

For this reason, the best players or teams are ordinarily placed in the last post positions.

HOW DO THE PLAYERS ROTATE IN PLAYING POSITION? For the first round they always follow their post position order. For example, Red Number One plays Blue Number Two. The winner then plays White Number Three and so on until Gold Number Six has been played.

Meanwhile, losers have been returning to the waiting bench (to the left of the playing area) and "moving up" a space as each subsequent loser goes to the waiting bench—until it is his turn to enter the court again.

Follow your selection on the post position board to the left of the large scoreboard mounted on the long wall.

HOW CAN YOU TELL THE PLAYERS? Look at the large scoreboard on the long wall. Note that Number One in the Upper Left Hand Corner is outlined in Red. The Red Shirt is always Post Position Number One; Blue Shirt is always Post Position Number Two; White Shirt always Number Three; Green Shirt always Number Four, and so on.

Players' names are to the left of the post position number. The post position numbers are on the fronts and backs of the shirts.

Each player has eight different colored jerseys and he wears the color for each game which coincides with his post position.

Watch the boys practice . . . get their names from the board or from your program. Check your program for the player's Season Record to date, and check the game page of your program for his record in that particular game.

HOW DO YOU BET? Just like the horse and dog races. You can bet the player or team to win, to place, or to show. For your added enjoyment wagers are also sold on DAILY DOUBLE. (You must pick both winners) Quiniela and Correctas.

Mutuel Windows are plainly marked to show the type of ticket sold. Sellers' windows are to your right when approaching the betting line. Cashiers' windows to your left.

When you go to a mutuel window, ask for the Player's Post Number first, then the Pool, then the number of tickets, for example, Number Five to Win, two tickets; or Number Seven to show, one ticket; or Number Three and Five Quiniela, two tickets.

HOW TO BET THE QUINIELA AND CORRECTA? Quinielas (rhymes with twin-Ellas) are as simple as this—you pick two entries in one game to finish first and second. If either of your two selections finished first and the other finishes second, you win. For example, you decide to bet a 3-5 Quiniela. If either Three or Five wins, and your other selection (of the Three and Five) comes in second, you have won your quiniela wager.

The Correcta, which is sold on all games, is another separate pool. You must pick the winner and second place in the exact or correct order of their finish. See the program you receive at the Fronton for details.

Naturally, the prices paid on Quinielas are generally much higher than on the winner, and the Correcta usually pays the highest price of all, although each of these pools are computed separately and apart from the Win pool and have no relation to the Win odds shown on the Odd Board and large scoreboard.

The strikingly-modern display of efficient industrial creation was built at an estimated cost of a million and a half dollars and rises 209 feet above the ground. Frontage of the building extends for a length of 287 feet.

Robb has been with the Carroll Daniel Construction Company since 1918 and began work in contracting and construction after World War II. He attended the University of Wyoming at Laramie, Wyoming, which is his home state, and is a graduate of the School of Civil Engineering.

Ball In Jai-Alai: It's Just Called 'Pelota'

The ball used in the sport of Jai-Alai is called a Pelota, which is the literal Spanish translation for the word ball. The ball is smaller than the American regulation-sized baseball and has an estimated cost of $35.

The scoop-shaped basket which the players use to catch the pelota and hurl it back and forth across the court is known as a cesta and resembles an Italian bread-basket.

The Orlando-Seminole Fronton has in its employ a full-time basketmaker and ball repairer to recondition balls and keep cestas in playing condition.

The ball or pelota, so called, travels at an estimated speed of 200 miles per hour on its flung flight toward either wall. The consistency of the ball is such that on its return or rebound from the wall, the speed is lessened only around 25 miles per hour on its rebound.

The ball has a harness somewhat akin to that of a golf ball and in its flight has the qualities of a deadly weapon. However, few players are hit as shrewdly and quick reflexes as well as past experience enable them to stay out of the path of the well-flung pelota and keep their cestas in its direction.

The court for Jai-Alai is a three walled playing area with the dimensions of 180 feet long and 51 feet wide. The wooden area running the length of the court and directly in front of the reserved seat area is out of bounds for the game and causes a foul if the ball hits the wooden floor.

The wall area of the court directly to the right of the seating area surrounded by red is called the front wall, or technically the frontus. It is made of a special granite to withstand the force and punishment given the wall by the speed of the ball. Its thickness is close to two feet.

The red area that surrounds the granite is made of a springy material that deadens the ball that is off its course. When the pelota hits this material, a foul is called and the point is lost.

The back wall and the side wall consist of specially-made concrete of almost indestructible hardness to withstand the constant battering rendered it by the force of the flung ball. Ordinary concrete would chip and crack at the pressure and force that these walls must withstand.

Sound emanating from a ball which hits true to its course re-sounds with a sharp crack from the hard granite. When the pelota is flung out of the area in which it must be thrown, a dull thud is heard indicating that a foul has been committed.

The playing area is screened off from the spectator area to protect from a wrongly thrown ball? A screen also exists to the top of the Jai-Alai court which designates an elevation boundary. If the pelota hits this top screen, then also is a foul committed.

A scoring clock and board is situated in the center of the playing area and at the top of the back wall, indicating the numbers, odds, and colors for the audience. The closed-circuit television carries coverage of the scoreboard to spectators in standing room area.

Longwood Moves To Halt 434 Paving

Charges State, County Ignore Specifications

Longwood councilmen agreed at a meeting Thursday night to turn over to their attorney the matter of filing an injunction against the state and county to halt construction on SR 434.

The action is under consideration by the city in protest against the width and depth of drainage ditches along the highway which are being left open. Original plans called for tiled drainage.

Mayor Al Lormann told the council that he had talked to one of the county commissioners just prior to the meeting who asked, "What do you want down there... a boulevard?"

Lormann said that when he informed the commissioner of plans for the injunction suit, the commissioner "just laughed and turned away."

"I feel that this is an engineering error which could be corrected, although levels on the town paving are being completely ignored," he said.

Chairman R. C. Carlson pointed out that on numerous previous occasions the city had consulted the County Commission and the District State Road Board officials without being given any consideration and that the state is quite arbitrary when building primary roads and "will do just what it wants to do."

A report from Attorney Webber Haines will be on the agenda for a meeting scheduled next Thursday night.

Bulletin

Casselberry Mayor Joseph Laird today released Attorney Kenneth McIntosh as the town's legal representative and advised the lawyer that his services would not be needed at Saturday's 9 a. m. meeting called by two members of the Board of Aldermen.

French, Arabs Fight In Oran; 13 More Killed

ALGIERS (UPI)—French troops traded bullets and bombs with Arab "commandos" in the heart of Oran Thursday, boosting Algeria's new year toll to 76 killed and 106 wounded in four days.

The wave of violence and terror left 13 dead and 46 wounded Thursday alone. Most of the casualties were Arabs, but five of the dead and 15 of the wounded were Europeans.

Terrorists opened fire on a hearse here Thursday night, wounding one Arab and one European.

The "battle of Oran," in which at least 9 persons were killed and 30 were wounded, began when Arab tommygunners raked a native cafe with bullets, killing a soldier and a policeman.

Regular troops of France's famed Zouaves, supported by an armored car, harried the Arabs with hand grenades and submachine guns.

The Arabs, who had fled to the shelter of a house near the scene of the original attack, replied in kind.

Police held back a mob of Europeans who cheered on the troops with shouts of "Kill them! Kill them!"

Sanford Comes Through In Fire Disaster - - And How!

Clothing, Food For Family Piled High

"That's enough! That's enough!", cried Lene factor Cotton Brown, Pig and Whistle manager today, as contributions and gifts of clothing, shoes, food, bedding, furniture and money continue to pour in for the Joseph family who lost their home and two of their children in a tragic New Year's Day explosion and fire.

Brown said that he has five pickup truck-loads of things, most of it "real good stuff, not junk," on hand now and more coming in all the time. He also has calls from persons with furniture to be picked up.

"The overwhelming response of the people of Sanford is something unbelievable," he said.

"I'm in a position to know for I remember how good and kind people were to our family when our home and contents were destroyed by fire following a plane crash a few years ago. (Seven persons died in that crash and fire, including all but one member of the Lowe family who lived next door to Cotton Brown.)"

"By trying in my small way to help these people in their desperate need, perhaps I can repay some of the wonderful help that was given to my family in our time of need," he added.

The Joseph's 18 month old daughter Carolyn, who suffered critical burns, seems to be progressing satisfactorily, according to hospital authorities. They said that she is eating now, but will have to remain in the hospital for an indefinite time.

Brown described the Joseph family as a fine young couple, who had bought a shell home, finished it inside themselves, furnished it nicely, and surrounded it with an attractive well-cared-for yard.

Warning Issued As Tract Burns

Fire raged over 200 acres southwest of Geneva for about five hours Thursday afternoon causing an untold amount of property damage and loss of timber.

Florida Forest Ranger Lewis Williams of the Longwood station this morning again warned of the dangers involved in such incendiary fires and repeated the urgent plea for cooperation of residents.

Ground moisture is at a record low and fires spread quickly especially after a few frosty mornings, Williams warned.

Instrument recordings show that 30 inches less rain fell in 1961 than in 1960 according to the ranger who also reported that 600 more acres in Seminole County were burned last year than in 1960.

Grand Opening Set Tonight

Grand opening for the newly-constructed Orlando-Seminole Jai-Alai Fronton, located in Fern Park at Hwy. 17-92 at 438, will take place tonight at 7:45 p. m. as first nighters get an introduction to Seminole County's newest attraction.

A capacity turnout, made up largely of Sanford and Seminole County fans, according to box office reservations, will witness the opening of the $1,500,000 entertainment attraction.

A special trophy match will highlight the opening program. Winners will be presented with a player trophy sponsored by a merchant.

Sponsor for tonight's trophy will be George Stuart.

A preview press party for special guests was held Thursday night. It was attended by several city, county and state officials.

Exhibition matches were played, with explanation of the rules and explanation of the numbers and colors used by the teams.

Executive Vice President Norman Stabell and other officials of the Jai-Alai organization were on hand Thursday night to welcome guests and introduce out-of-town Jai-Alai organizers.

Outstanding planners, architects, contractors, engineers, Florida School officials, both administrative and instructional, who have had practical experience in the use of educational television will present information on planning and using educational television in the schools.

I'd Fire Many, Says Bryant, Irked About Merit System

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—Gov. Farris Bryant told his news conference Thursday that he is not opposed to the Merit System and doesn't want it abolished—but that there are a lot of state employees he would fire if the Council weren't protecting them.

Bryant said his administration inherited many employees "who got their job status because they happened to be there when the system went in and not because of any particular qualification."

"There are agencies," said the governor, "where we feel substantial personnel changes should be made for the benefit of Florida, but because of the merit system we have left them alone. We do not believe they are doing a job, but we can't prove it to the degree required by the Merit System Council."

Bryant refused to cite either employees or agencies by name.

Bryant said the Merit System Council needed to come to some sort of understanding with his administration. "This administration is almost being governed by the council," he said.

"For some time, Bryant has sought to remove several "policy-making" jobs from Merit System protection. But he said he and the Cabinet Personnel Board have overriden the Merit System Council only once, the case of the five highway engineers who were fired for taking payola, ordered reinstated by the Council, and still off the state payroll because the Personnel Board refused to take them back.

Bliss stressed that road plans were changed at the council's request "and an additional $25,000 was added to the cost of the project."

Bliss explained that it was a "compromise" by the County Commission to satisfy the major portions of the objections.
