Lake Mary's Marionettes perform at the patriotic assembly.

Patriotic Display

Patriotism ruled the day Wednesday at Rock Lake Middle School in Longwood where the curriculum had a big helping of flags, traditional songs and American philosophy.

About 430 eighth graders participated in a patriotic school assembly, said Principal Richard Ross today. While the assembly was planned for eighth grade students, all students in the school were encouraged to wear red, white and blue Wednesday and patriotism was the theme.

A variety of entertainment was offered at the assembly including the school's band playing traditional songs, led by band director John Gorecki, a performance by the Lake Brantley Flag Corp. and a presentation by the Marionettes, dance team from Lake Mary High School.

Emergency Medical Chief Gets Top Citizen Award

By Genie Lindberg
Herald Staff Writer

An Altamonte Springs family physician who is also the Emergency Medical Services Medical Director for Seminole County received the top award for citizenship from the Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

Dr. Benjamin G. Newman was presented with the 1987 Helen Keyser Distinguished Citizens Award at the Chamber's Annual Community Service Recognition Awards Banquet held at the Sheraton-Maitland at 6:30 p.m. The award is named after the Chamber's founder, former Altamonte Springs City Commissioner Helen Keyser.

Seminole Public Safety Department Director Gary Kaiser recommended Newman for the award and said, "I cannot think of anyone more deserving of county recognition for their thousands of hours dedication to our county." Newman is responsible for the medical correctness of all of the Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT's) and Paramedics operating from all county fire and rescue departments and ambulance service.

Kaiser said Newman has assumed his responsibilities for no salary and is furnished an emergency vehicle to respond to medical emergencies and trauma incidents occurring in the county.

"He (Newman) is routinely heard conversing with paramedics in the field, via two-way radio, day and night and on weekends. He regularly responds to severe emergency medical calls anywhere in the county to observe, support and direct paramedics on the emergency scene and he is routinely seen out on the emergency scene at two, three or four o'clock in the morning down in the ditches among the rescuers and victims."

Newman has been performing these services for more than eight years, Kaiser said.

Christensen Sides With Cities Against Fees

By Kathy Tyrity
Herald Staff Writer

At least one county commissioner, Barbara Christensen, made city representatives very happy Tuesday when she sided with them against many aspects of the proposed road impact fee ordinance.

But the board, without her vote or the absent Bob Sturm, who was having gall bladder surgery, reached a consensus at the workshop to enforce the ordinance 10 days after adoption (proposed for March 24) in unincorporated areas of the county and 90 days after adoption in the municipalities. The 90-day window delays the county's option to bill developers directly if the cities do not sign interlocal agreements with the county.

Adoption of the road impact fee ordinance was scheduled for the afternoon meeting but postponed until March 24 because the cities hadn't been given time to make their statements to the full board.

Before the ordinance comes back to the board for approval, it will go to the Land Planning Agency at a public hearing March 4 at 7 p.m. to be sure it is consistent with the Comprehensive Plan. Another workshop with the cities was tentatively set for 10:30 a.m. March 10. Then, a joint meeting with the cities and county is planned for 7 p.m. March 18 at the Agricultural Center Auditorium.

Mrs. Christensen voiced objections to the ordinance's differing costs in each district, saying maybe an equal charge on new homes should be levied throughout the county. For instance, fees are as much as $690 per house in the east district, including Oviedo, Winter Springs and Casselberry. Fees are $445 per house in Sanford and Lake Mary, the north district.

"I don't see equity here," she said. "Oviedo and Winter Springs are getting a double whammy as far as the high cost. Most of the construction will be done in the west." She also expressed concern about cities such as Altamonte Springs which already have an impact fee ordinance.

"Cities are going to have to pay twice.

The ordinance appears unfair to Casselberry, Winter Springs and Oviedo and gives 'absolutely unfair advantage to other areas.'

—Barbara Christensen

and I have a real problem with that," she said.

People will have to pay more to build in the cities than in the unincorporated areas. Mrs. Christensen said, and the developers who put up establishments on city roads will not only have to pay for improvements to those roads but also to arterial and collector roads in the county.

She said the ordinance appeared unfair to Casselberry, Winter Springs and Oviedo and gives "absolutely unfair advantage to other areas."

People in the audience — representatives from most of the cities — began to sigh with relief and many voiced agreement with her, including attorney John Howell with the Home Builders Association, who had other objections, too.

"I have a great concern with this," he said. "It is truly unenforceable within the municipalities if they refuse to go along with it. This is based upon the Constitution, which is superior to the statutes your counsel believes support your opinion."

That was something Commissioner Sandra Glenn wanted to know also — whether the cities could be forced to comply, or if a court battle was likely.

County impact fees counsel Bob Nabors said the only time litigation would be likely is if the city or cities passed an ordinance saying the county ordinance is not effective in that municipality. Meanwhile, the ordinance has a provision that if the cities do not sign agreements with the county, the county can bill directly and place a lien against properties.

Man Guilty Of Hiring To Maim

An Altamonte Springs man was found guilty Tuesday by a 6-person jury in Orange County of attempting to have his former wife maimed and her children killed.

Paul E. Butler, 35, was charged with soliciting to commit murder, aggravated battery and burglary. He sought to have his former wife blinded, paralyzed, and made deaf and dumb. Butler has been held without bond since his arrest Oct. 15. He faces up to 12 years when sentenced May 6 by Circuit Judge Ted Coleman.

The state attorney on the case told the jurors in Orange County that Butler wanted his ex-wife, Carol Morris, 42, of Casselberry, maimed so she would get the "peace and quiet" he said she always said she wanted. The couple divorced a month prior to the alleged incident. They had

Escapee Surrenders Cuffs Still On After 6 Weeks

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

An escapee with handcuffs becoming embedded in his skin after six weeks on the lam surrendered to Seminole County sheriff's deputies Saturday. He had been arrested by Sanford police on Jan. 11, but fled from a patrol car.

Emanuel Cooper, 31, of 510 E. Seventh St., Sanford, was hospitalized after his Saturday arrest. He remained in Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford today after a five or six hour procedure Tuesday in which the handcuffs were cut off. A hospital spokesman said he was in satisfactory condition.

Court records show Cooper escaped from the Seminole County Jail in June, 1980. His initial arrest was December 29, 1979 on charges of grand theft, possession of stolen property, fleeing to elude police, reckless driving and driving under the influence, jail records show.

Saturday deputies discovered the chain links of the handcuffs Sanford police applied had been broken, but Cooper had been unable to free himself from the wrist bands. The cuffs had pressed into his flesh and his skin was beginning to grow over them. The cuffs could not be removed with a key, jail administrator Capt. Jay Leman said today.

When Cooper surrendered to sheriff's deputies at the jail at 8 a.m. Saturday he reportedly told them they wouldn't have to handcuff him, because he was already wearing handcuffs. He dropped his coat and revealed the cuffs on his wrists. Leman said.

Golden Age Games Organizers To Change Triathlon Format

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

Changes in the format for the Golden Age Games triathlon will provide more of a challenge to the stamina of the senior athletes in this year's event to be held Nov. 9-14. Extending the length of the Games and a possible grant were also discussed at a meeting of Games Executive Committee held Tuesday morning at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce.

The Games are hosted by Sanford on the second week of November and offer a variety of events for men and women 55 and older ranging from knitting to the decathlon. This will be the 13th year they have been held here.

Chairman Jim Jernigan announced to the executive committee that the three events which make up the triathlon will be held consecutively and will include a 4-mile run, a 2-mile bike race and a 2-mile canoe race — all on the Sanford lakefront area. They begin at 7:30 a.m. on Tuesday, Nov. 10.

Last year the Triathlon consisted of a 4-mile mini-marathon held at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday from the Sanford civic center followed by the half-mile swim at 10 a.m. at the Parnell Pool, Longwood, and a 5-mile bike race on Friday at Seminole High School, Sanford.

Jernigan said croquet, which McDonald's has been sponsoring, is being dropped from the Games. He said, "I thought we could do a better job for McDonald's and the competitors by tying together the triathlon in order to test the skills of the athletes. It is not geared to be held over two or three days.

Gene Keltner suggested the Games should apply for a grant from a foundation set up by the national governing boards with funds from the financially successful Los Angeles Olympic Games in order to enhance and develop athletics. Jernigan said he would look into it.

POLICE

IN BRIEF

Alleged Gun Threats At Club Lead To Man's Arrest

A 34-year-old Sanford man who allegedly threatened an employee of The Barn on U.S. Highway 17-92 in Sanford, with a gun at about 1 a.m. Tuesday has been arrested by Sanford police.

Police who were called to the scene reported finding the suspect in the parking lot along with an off duty Seminole County sheriff's deputy, who told police of the alleged gunplay.

The suspect was ordered to lie on the ground, but refused and had to be forced down, police reported.

Witnesses said the suspect allegedly threatened a Barn employee with the gun, which was found by police and confiscated, an arrest report said.

Police said there was a bullet in the chamber of the gun. That bullet, police said, had apparently been hit by the gun's firing pin, but the gun had not fired.

James Randall Dawson, of 3202 S. Orlando Drive, has been charged with aggravated assault, possession of a firearm in a felony, carrying a concealed firearm and resisting arrest. He has been released on $1,000 bond to appear in court March 16.

Woman Faces Cocaine Charges

Altamonte Springs police who checked on a woman sitting in a car at TGI Friday's in Altamonte Springs at about 2:30 a.m. Monday, reported arresting her after reportedly finding marijuana, cocaine and drug paraphernalia in her possession.

Debra Scott Fortner, 33, of 3614 Peacevalley, Altamonte Springs, has been charged with possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana, less than 28 grams of cocaine and drug paraphernalia. She has been released on $2,000 bond to appear in court March 16.

Lunch Break Broken By Arrest

Longwood police who pursued a man seen in an alley beside Albertsons Liquor store, State Road 434, Longwood, at about 12:50 a.m. Tuesday reportedly tried to evade police, but was confronted in the alley.

Police said the man had a sandwich and drink in his hands, but also had apparently dropped something onto a stack of paper in the alley. There police reported finding a cigarette pack containing two partially smoked marijuana cigarettes and a plastic bag of pot.

Gary Allen King, 19, of 2311 Summerlin Ave., Sanford, has been charged with loitering and prowling and possession of less than 20 grams of marijuana. He was being held in lieu of $500 bond.

Rash Of Car Burglaries In Wekiva

At least eight persons reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies that their vehicles, parked in the Wekiva area of Longwood, were burglarized late Sunday or early Monday. More than a dozen vehicles were entered, but items were not taken from every vehicle.

Address where vehicles were burglarized include: 409 Evesham Place; 213, 229 and 119 Cambridge Drive; 208 Royal Oak Circle; and 127 Ingram Circle, where five vehicles were burglarized.

Items stolen include golf clubs and a bag with a combined value of $1,250, radar detectors, radios, and clothing, sheriff's reports said.

Burglaries And Thefts Reported

An office manager of Griffith Acura Motors, 2455 S. U.S. Highway 17-92, Longwood, reported to sheriff's deputies that between Saturday and Monday $300 intended to be part of a bank deposit was stolen from a safe at that business.

Christina M. Flint, 17, 343 Goosecreek Drive, Winter Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies that $120 was stolen from her purse in an employee storage area at Friendly's Restaurant, 1271 State Road 436, Casselberry, Saturday.

Two .357 magnum handguns valued at $150 each and 50 rounds of ammunition valued at $18 were stolen from the car of Karl R. Simmons, 22, of 106 Oak St., Altamonte Springs, Sunday or Monday.

Frank Miller, 48, of Kissimmee, reported to sheriff's deputies that his truck was burglarized while parked at 3411 Hunt Lane, Oviedo, Monday. An air compressor and construction gear of unknown value belonging to Jay-Mark, Inc., of Winter Park, was stolen.

A supervisor for McKey Development, Co., of Sanford, reported to sheriff's deputies that 120 cedar trim boards valued at $1,200 were stolen from a Cardinal Industries construction site at State Road 46 at Interstate 4, west of Sanford, Sunday or Monday.

Daniel Mitchell, 34, of Deltona and manager of Pebble Junction, a pebble business located at 702 S. French Ave., told police that between Saturday noon and Monday around 7 a.m., someone broke through the vent window of the company's Ford truck that was parked within the fenced compound of the business and removed a CB radio from the truck and also took the truck's battery from under the hood amounting to a combined value of $105.

FIRE CALLS

Sanford firefighters and rescue workers have responded to the following calls, details based on fire department reports:

Sales Tax Exemption Battle Goes Public

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Florida Chamber of Commerce has denounced Gov. Bob Martinez' proposed tax reforms and offered a substitute plan to preserve tax breaks for businesses but increase sales taxes for most consumers.

Wade Hopping, the chamber's president, announced the substitute plan during a news conference Tuesday. The plan is the product of a chamber study commission and would include:

—A 2-cent increase in gasoline taxes effective Jan. 1, 1988, to be followed by a 3-cent increase July 1, 1988, to raise a total $310 million for road and bridge projects.

—Authority for cities and counties to levy 5-cent increases in local gas taxes, for an additional $310 million.

—Shifting car registration fees from the Department of Transportation to raise $144 million for school construction. The state would make up the loss in its transportation budget through additional gas taxes of 2.4 cents over four years.

—Increasing the sales tax rate to 6 cents on the dollar if the state needs cash for other projects. The extra penny would raise about $1.2 billion if existing exemptions are retained.

Hopping firmly denounced the centerpiece of Martinez' tax reform plan — the repeal of $517 million in sales tax exemptions for fees for lawyers, accountants, consultants, architects, advertising and other services.

The repeal would be accompanied by a rollback in the sales tax rate, from the current 5 cents to 4.5 cents on the dollar. Martinez would count the repealed exemptions toward $1.3 billion in new state taxes and user fees next year.

Hopping endorsed a separate Martinez proposal to let cities and counties raise up to one penny in local sales taxes, subject to voter approval. The local option penny would raise $1.187 billion if every local government levied the full amount.

Hopping compared the Martinez plan to the 1983 unitary tax on out-of-state corporate profits — a tax the Legislature repealed the next year, after corporations threatened to abandon the state.

"This type of tax policy delivers a negative message to businesses considering relocating in Florida," Hopping said.

"This tax policy places Florida businesses at a competitive disadvantage. This tax policy is far more harmful to the state than the unitary tax debacle ever was."

The tax fight is over who should pay for the public works and services needed to keep up with a state population that increases by nearly 900 people each day.

A state commission has predicted it will cost at least $18.5 billion — and probably closer to $30 billion — over the next 10 years to handle the new residents. A Chamber of Commerce estimate places the existing backlog in transportation projects alone at $30 billion.

Florida's sales tax relies almost exclusively on goods. Services, the fastest growing sector of the state economy, are mostly exempt.

The battle pits the business community against a governor that community helped elect.

Three Members Of Family Allegedly Attack Deputy

Two Seminole County sheriff's deputies who responded to a call of a fight in progress at 2219 Driftwood Drive, Altamonte Springs, at about 8:23 p.m. Monday, reported that they were battered by three suspects at the fight scene.

Investigators Jerry Human and Rafael Toledo were met in the driveway of the home by a hysterical woman who said her brother was holding her father down because he was violent. The deputies went inside the home and reported that the "mother and father" were yelling at each other and at the deputies. The occupants of the home were asked to quiet down, but they wouldn't, a sheriff's report said.

When deputies tried to arrest Angel Luis Torres, 36, John Frank Parker, 19, allegedly tried to interfere. They were both told that they were under arrest and Parker allegedly said he wasn't going to jail, the deputies would have to shoot him.

As Human and Toledo struggled to arrest Parker and Torres, Rosa Parker, 41, the mother of John Parker, allegedly pushed and hit Toledo. She was arrested. All three were charged with battery on a police officer, resisting arrest with violence and criminal mischief. They have been released from jail on $1,000 bond each to appear in court March 16.

Suspected Drugs Found In Bags Outside Pine Crest Elementary

Two brown paper bags containing a white, powdery substance that tested positive on a cocaine presumptive test were found on the roadway in front of Pine Crest Elementary School, 400 W. 27th Street, Sanford, and given to police by Billy Chambers, 60, 1525 Mellonville Ave., on Sunday at 5:21 p.m. The substances were then submitted for further testing, a police report said.

powder was also found on the roadway in front of the elementary school by Sanford police Sgt. T. Bernowski. It was submitted for testing also, the report said. The results of the samples indicating whether the substance is cocaine or not should be back from the testing lab in about six months, police said.

Who the drugs belonged to is unknown, police said.

Heavy Snow Heads East

United Press International

A winter storm that dropped nearly 3 feet of snow in the West, forcing schools and major interstate highways to close, pounded the region for a second day today as it plodded into the northern Plains.

"It is not going to move a whole lot in the next 24 hours. It is slowly drifting eastward," said Pete Reynolds of the National Weather Service in Kansas City, Mo. "Snow is already spread across most of the northern Plains."

More than a foot of new snow was expected to fall by early today in the mountains of northern Arizona, southwest Colorado and southern Montana.

Winter storm warnings extended from some parts of Idaho and Montana to Nevada and northern Arizona. Travelers advisories also reached from the mountains of the West to the Dakotas, and a livestock advisory was issued in South Dakota.

Heavy rain fell early today around Phoenix, Ariz., with up to 2 inches in some locations, and a flash flood watch was posted for Maricopa County.

The winter storm, which whipped up near-blizzards in Montana and Utah Tuesday, dumped snow from the Rocky Mountains to the southern Plateau, making travel hazardous and multiplying traffic accidents.

Two inches of snow closed part of Interstate 5, just north of Los Angeles, and forced cars to use chains on Interstate 15, the road to Las Vegas.

A 108-mile-long section of Interstate 40, a key cross-continent highway, was forced to close Tuesday from Ash Fork to Winslow, Ariz., and was later opened only to vehicles with chains or four-wheel drive, police said.

The highway was packed with about a foot of snow, and police reported many accidents and stranded vehicles.

The snow Tuesday also closed sections of Interstate 17 from Phoenix to Flagstaff, U.S. Highway 60 between Superior and Miami, Arizona 87 from Payson to Winslow and Arizona 260 between Payson and Heber, authorities said.

"There are plenty of cars off the road and lots of accidents," a Flagstaff city spokeswoman said.

The storm dumped nearly 3 feet of snow on Williams, Ariz. Tuesday. In other parts of the state, 23 inches fell in Prescott and 22 inches in Flagstaff.

"We haven't had a snow like this in quite a few years," said Rita Denning of the Williams, Ariz., marshal's office. Snow was at least knee-high in the town, tying up traffic and forcing schools to close.

Classes were also canceled in Flagstaff and Prescott. In Kingman, in the high desert near the California border, 3 inches of snow fell, the most in years.

Snowfall in Brian Head in the mountains of southwestern Utah mounted up to more than 2 feet, while 2 feet of snow covered Red Lodge, Mont., and 17 inches fell in Big Bear, Calif.

"We're used to stuff like this," said Terry Thompson, police dispatcher in Lander, Wyo., which had more than 2 feet of snow Tuesday. "People know they can't go anywhere, so they stay home."

Freezing drizzle closed northbound Interstate 25 north of Castle Rock, Colo., where state police said several overturned tractor-trailers were blocking the road. Police in Nevada reported a nine-car pileup in Sparks, near Reno, Tuesday. There were no serious injuries.

Thomas Wants To Amend Policy On Reporting Unkempt Lots

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer
One of the two Sanford commissioners who have disregarded a city commission policy for the last two years is asking the policy be changed.

Another commissioner, however, says his two colleagues' practices should be halted and the policy — involving lot mowing complaints — should stand.

Commissioners agreed Monday to take the matter up in a work session.

Bob Thomas wants to amend a policy commissioners set in 1982 requiring that those reporting an unkempt lot live within 300 feet of that lot.

Under Thomas' proposal, the 300-foot limit would be lifted and the city would field anonymous reports.

The policy is tied to a 1976 ordinance which defines lot maintenance requirements and enforcement actions in the event of a violation. "I've read the ordinance and it is very difficult to enforce. The policy circumvents it," Thomas said Monday.

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan disagrees, saying the 300-foot limit was imposed "to keep people from just running around and arbitrarily making reports on any areas that don't have any bearing on them at all."

The city has not refused the reports submitted by Thomas and Commissioner John Mercer, although they do not live within 300 feet of the sites they've reported.

Thomas' recommendation to lift the 300-foot limit for all residents and allow anonymous reports came after media attention was focused last month on his and Mercer's reports.

McClanahan followed up with a recommendation the practice be halted. Mercer said he planned to continue the reports. Thomas said he would reconsider his actions "in light of recent publicity."

Thomas' comments Monday were the first he's made publicly after the press attention. The statements came at the tail end of the meeting, during which commissioners routinely comment on matters not covered in the regular agenda.

McClanahan contends natural growths, like weeds, "unless excessive," do not constitute a safety hazard to warrant enforcement action under the ordinance. And he questions whether reports submitted by Mercer and Thomas are bona fide violations, although the Public Works Department, which handles the reports, says they are.

The commissioners have submitted about 18 reports of unkempt lots during the last two years, city records show.

Chief Harriett: Revered Citizen

"It was his instinct to serve."

A simple enough statement, but one that sums up, perhaps inadequately, certainly only partly, the driving force behind one of Sanford's most revered citizens, Fire Chief George Manning Harriett Sr.

Chief Harriett died Saturday at age 68 after suffering a heart attack at his home.

Perhaps no single human being exemplified the true meaning of community service as did Chief Harriett. He was a dedicated servant who joined the fire department in 1942 as a firefighter, then spent the next 38 years with that department, serving as its chief for 15 of those years until his retirement in 1981. He briefly interrupted that service to spend two years in the navy.

Not content with sitting idle, Chief Harriett after his retirement became a bailiff with the Seminole County Sheriff's Department.

Those who knew Chief Harriett had the greatest respect and admiration for his deep, abiding love for his city of Sanford. And while he was born in Hampton, S.C., Chief Harriett moved to Sanford with his family at age 9 and you couldn't tell him he wasn't a Sanfordinite. He was a soft-spoken gentleman whose love for community, family and fellowman were his trademark.

When Chief Harriett made known his plans to retire in 1981, he told reporters "It is time I retire ... I've had more than my share of opportunities in life ... I have reached the place where it is time to step down and let someone else have a chance. ... The last 15 years have been the challenge of my life. The time has passed so quickly, but when you are busy, time just slips away."

And busy he was. During his tenure with the Sanford Fire Department he saw that agency grow from seven employees and one ladder truck when he stepped aboard to 13 vehicles and 40 firefighters when he retired.

Although the chief is gone, we'll still be talking about "Chief Harriett," hopefully for years to come. Fire Chief Harriett was, of course, father of Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett, who, like his dad, carries on the fine tradition of community service his role model handed down.

Sanford's Fire Chief Tom Hickson said of his former boss: "He was a down to earth, common sense chief. ... He had consideration and compassion for his men and their families."

More than 400 friends, family members and colleagues were on hand Tuesday at funeral services to bid a final farewell to their beloved chief and friend. And they came not just from Sanford, but several other cities in the area. Chief Harriett's popularity as a fine human being was widespread.

Fire Chief Harriett will be remembered for years to come.

We share with the community in extending our condolences to his family.

Help Homeless: Keep Them Off U.S. Dole

With lots of heart but little wisdom, federal lawmakers are trying their hand at curing another social ill.

Already this year, they've approved $50 million in aid for the homeless, and that was just an appetizer. Some legislators are pushing a $500 million package of emergency assistance, signaling a full-scale assault on the problem.

It would be unfortunate if they succeeded. Even if homelessness were growing as fast as some social activists claim, it generally remains manageable at the local level. In fact, it is already being handled there, by busy if beleaguered coalitions of private and public agencies. Federal intervention would distort or undermine these efforts — and along predictable lines.

For starters, private initiative and control of programs would diminish, even though private groups — especially churches — have often led the way in serving the homeless.

Much worse, federal aid would reward cities whose policies actually promote homelessness or whose response to it has been utterly inept.

New York City is a perfect example on both counts. This is a city whose housing shortage is aggravated by rental regulations more suited to Eastern Europe, a city that has squeezed so many landlords out of business that its Department of Housing Preservation and Development owns thousands of vacant buildings containing tens of thousands of empty apartments, and yet a city that spends up to $37,000 a year to house a single homeless family.

Why should the rest of the country underwrite such willful waste?

Why, for that matter, should citizens of such cities as Portland, San Antonio and Minneapolis, which, the U.S. Conference of Mayors reports, have met their local demand for shelter, be double-taxed to care for the homeless in places where a similar commitment has failed to jell?

A final reason to keep the federal government from subsidizing shelters: Among some groups, federal support for the homeless is seen as the spearhead of a wider campaign to reinflate funding for the whole panoply of anti-poverty programs. This goal is implicit in the dubious explanations for homelessness, which include high unemployment, a growing rift between rich and poor, and decreased funding for low-income housing and welfare (as well as more legitimate reasons, such as the release of the chronically mentally ill).

Unfortunately, the current growth in homelessness can't be explained so easily.

Unemployment, for example, has hovered around 7 percent for over six years; cuts in federal housing budgets primarily reduce future construction, not the number of people now assisted; and Congress' own Joint Budget Committee released a study last year that failed to find a significant increase in the concentration of wealth.

True, welfare benefits have shrunk when adjusted for inflation. Even so, today's package of income supports remains more generous than it was during the 1960s, when homelessness failed to rivet the public attention.

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

Old, But Enduring Document

WASHINGTON — We celebrate the 200th anniversary of the U.S. Constitution this year, and are bound to hear criticism as well as praise for the historic document. A recent edition of The Philadelphia Enquirer carried an article by Professor Larry D. Spence of Pennsylvania State University who said that "perhaps we should just declare the Constitution a success and put it away in a museum."

Prof. Spence's principal complaint is that the Constitution is old hat. He said that "Of all the nations in the world in existence in 1787, only the United States has failed to change its form of government to meet the challenges of the 20th century. A nation that prides itself on innovation is proud of nothing else that is old."

Surely Prof. Spence is mistaken if he believes that Americans worship newness in every area of life. They regulate their spiritual life and moral conduct by precepts that are as old as the most ancient books of the Old Testament. They believe in a system of justice rooted in English history. Americans like the instruments of modern technology, but they don't throw out the principles derived from antiquity.

The U.S. is not the "only" nation to keep its form of government unchanged. The British people, with a proud tradition of liberty and justice, subscribe to a monarchial system that dates to Saxon times. The French system of administration and justice is based on the Napoleonic Code and Roman law. Modern constitutions aren't necessarily worthwhile. The Soviet Union's constitution, promulgated in 1936, is a worthless scrap of paper that fails to protect the rights of the people in the USSR.

Prof. Spence complains that the checks and balances set by the U.S. Constitution "keep power fragmented." The American people are pleased that this is so. This separation of powers prevents the centralization of power. Had the checks and balances system not existed in the 1930s, the New Deal might have become a dictatorship. In Britain today, thoughtful people want Parliament to establish an American-style Bill of Rights.

The U.S. Constitution provides for adjustment through the amendment process, and it has been utilized as the need has arisen. This means that the Constitution isn't a rigid system. It preserves principles but allows for a measure of flexibility.

JEFFREY HART

Keep Eye On Ball

There is a lot of talk these days about what the agenda of the Democratic Party will be as it tries to regain the White House after several catastrophic defeats, including its carrying only of Minnesota last time around.

There will be diversions, of course, as there always are — but as they say in sports, keep your eye on the ball. There are only two serious items on the agenda of the Democratic Party, and they derive from the nature of that party itself. It does not really matter whether Gary Hart, Mario Cuomo or someone else gains the nomination. The two items on the agenda flow from the structure of the party itself, and from its core constituencies.

The two items on the Democratic agenda are: 1) Protectionism. This rewards big labor by penalizing foreign competition, at the expense of your cost of living.

And, 2) A transfer of your cash to the minority constituencies of the Democratic Party, most likely through raising your taxes, but also through cutting defense.

According to the Institute for International Economics, the U.S. International Trade Commission, the protectionist measures now backed by the Democratic Party will raise the price of a new car by 25 percent — from, say $7,500 to $10,000. That will be an indirect payoff to the United Auto Workers, and it could mean that you cancel your vacation or send your son or daughter to a second or third choice college.

A pair of women's gloves will go up 30 percent. A shirt will go up 30 percent.

Not only will your own standard of living decline, but there will be political consequences in Tokyo, Taiwan, Hong Kong, Mexico and South Korea.

The second major item on the Democratic agenda involves transferring cash from your wallet to the Democratic Party's minority constituencies.

In our current politics, the Democrats ordinarily get between 80 and 90 percent of the black vote. The "politics of compassion" really means a payoff.

Senator Daniel Patrick Moynihan is currently leading a drive for welfare reform, and he has spent more than 20 years studying the matter. He knows that the Aid to Families With Dependent Children has become, in fact, a subsidy for illegitimacy and a torpedo directed at the nuclear family. To the senator's credit, he wants to do away with it. But if you think that welfare is going to be reduced under Moynihan's reforms, well, you must also believe in the tooth fairy.

However the big payoff is tricked out rhetorically, whether we hear from Mario Cuomo about the "tale of two cities" or about a "caring national family," or whether we hear from Gary Hart about "retraining" and "jobs" programs and some vague promise of high-tech, the actual content is the same. Keep your hand on your wallet.

Of course, the Democrats will appeal to envy, promising to soak the rich, their standard appeal.

VIEWPOINT

Hostage Rescue Doomed

LONDON — There are increasingly numerous demands for military actions against the Islamic Jihad and Hezbollah, the kidnapers of Western Europeans and Americans in Lebanon.

The chances of a military success against the kidnapers, however, are remote. There is no effective government in Lebanon. A general state of anarchy prevails, and the small, fanatical minority of terrorists would not be influenced by military or the majority. The kidnapers would kill the hostages, not release them, as soon as military action started. The kidnapers could in fact benefit in this situation; the relatives of innocents killed might well join the kidnapers in order to take revenge.

Without precise targets, bombing and shelling will achieve nothing. Also, a special forces operation is confronted with enormous difficulties. Twelve years of war has reduced the center of Beirut to rubble. Outside the city, a vast, sprawling maze of shanties has grown up, criss-crossed by narrow passages and alleys in which even the inhabitants can become lost. We don't know where the hostages are or the whereabouts of those holding them.

Special force troops are limited in number. The British have fewer than 1,000, and although the American Delta Force is larger, they would be up against an enemy who knows every inch of the ground, is well-armed, and who has spent the past 12 years street-fighting. The small numbers of special forces could not cover the territory, and they would suffer heavy casualties. The alternative is a landing in force, but it is doubtful that the majority of terrorists would be captured or killed. A large number of civilians would be killed, and this would incur even greater hostility from the Arab world.

The ultimate solution is the restoration of law and order. A possible solution is to have the Syrians take control of Lebanon and create independent and autonomous small states for the Druze and the Maronite Christians. These states would be guaranteed by the United Nations and the great powers. The Syrians could acquire the rest of Lebanon, which they would very much like, together with the fanatical, feuding factions of Islamic Jihad, Hezbollah, the Palestinians, the Amal Militia and the rest — which would probably keep the Syrians fully occupied.

JACK ANDERSON

Shiite Says He's Seen Terry Waite

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The archbishop of Canterbury, Robert Runcie, has been communicating by letter with a prominent Shiite Moslem clergyman since pro-Iranian terrorists kidnapped Terry Waite, the Anglican Church envoy who is negotiating for the release of hostages.

The Moslem cleric, Sheikh Mohammed Hussein Fadlallah, admitted in handwritten messages that he has seen Waite since he was "detained" on Jan. 20 in West Beirut, according to our sources. Fadlallah and the archbishop have been writing to each other about the fate of Runcie's envoy, Waite.

Waite was credited with a major role in the release of three American hostages, and had returned to Beirut for his fifth negotiating mission. His objective was to win release of Associated Press correspondent Terry Anderson and Thomas Sutherland, dean of agriculture at the American University of Beirut.

Despite his long experience, Waite dropped his guard on the night of Jan. 20. He had met twice with members of the Islamic Jihad, the pro-Iranian kidnapers, and was to meet them again that night.

But at their request, Waite left behind his bodyguards from the Druze militia. And the Lebanese Shiite who was to have accompanied him, former health minister Adnan Mrowe, couldn't make it.

According to our sources, Mrowe was summoned to the hospital for an emergency Caesarean delivery. He begged Waite to stay with him, but Waite was anxious to go to the meeting with the terrorists. As he had done before, Waite left a note stating that if he were taken hostage there should be no negotiations undertaken for his release.

When it became apparent that Waite was indeed a hostage, Runcie began writing officials in Lebanon, Syria and Iran for help in freeing his emissary. He got a written response from Fadlallah, who had met with Waite only four days before the envoy's abduction.

Who is Fadlallah? He is the highest-ranking Shiite religious figure in Lebanon and the spiritual leader of Hezbollah (Party of God). U.S. intelligence reports blame Hezbollah for many bombings that have taken scores of American lives and say the group has been active in American hostage-taking.

Fadlallah's admission to the archbishop that he has seen Waite since the abduction confirms that Waite is being held by pro-Iranian Shiites. Fadlallah could be the key to Waite's release.

Though not Iranian, Fadlallah is considered Tehran's man in Lebanon. He has a large portrait of the Ayatollah Khomeini in his home and has been a guest in Tehran of the Khomeini regime.

Fadlallah is widely believed to have played a significant role in the October 1983 bombing of the U.S. Marine barracks at the Beirut airport, which killed 241 Marines. The night before, he reportedly blessed the two truck drivers who were going to blow up the Marine barracks and the French paratroop headquarters nearby, thus guaranteeing the suicide bombers a place in paradise.

U.S. intelligence also places Fadlallah at a crucial planning session in Damascus three days before the bombings, and concludes that he is close to Hussein Mussavi, Hezbollah's chief terrorist in Lebanon. In fact, some intelligence sources believe that Fadlallah is Mussavi's boss. Fadlallah has consistently denied any part in bombings or kidnappings.

The shadowy sheik has been asked by the United States in the past to intercede for Americans held by Shiites. Now the archbishop of Canterbury has turned to Fadlallah for help.

NATION IN BRIEF

Veterans Simon, Streisand, Winwood Win Grammy Awards

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Paul Simon's controversial "Graceland" album, a sentimental song benefiting AIDS research and a string of industry veterans made the biggest waves as the music industry celebrated its own diversity at the 29th annual Grammy Awards.

Simon pulled down the most prestigious award, "Album of the Year", for "Graceland," partly recorded in South Africa with black musicians.

Burt Bacharach and his wife and collaborator Carole Bayer Sager donated the proceeds from "That's What Friends Are For" — now amounting to $750,000 — to AIDS research, and Bacharach said the song, which won "Song of the Year", was his favorite of the string of hits he has composed.

The bulk of the awards — 54 of them — were handed out in a brisk two-hour ceremony preceding the televised portion, which ran 15 minutes over the planned three hours. Only 14 awards were presented on-camera.

Barbra Streisand, who won her first Grammy 24 years ago, took home her eighth, for "The Broadway Album."

Another veteran, British rocker Steve Winwood, won the most Grammys, bagging three trophies — for record of the year and best pop vocal performance for his No. 1 single "Higher Love" and best-engineered recording for his album "Back in the High Life."

North Files Lawsuit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Independent federal prosecutor Lawrence Walsh is committed to a court battle with Lt. Col. Oliver North, vowing to fight a lawsuit by the fired White House aide that would stop Walsh's criminal investigation of the Iran-Contra scandal.

North's defense tactic, filed Tuesday at U.S. District Court in Washington, argues the law under which Walsh was appointed is unconstitutional because separation of government powers gives the president sole authority to appoint prosecutors in cases involving offenses against the United States.

The suit asks the court to enjoin Walsh from continuing his criminal inquiry and to stop Attorney General Edwin Meese from aiding the independent counsel's office. Both Walsh and Meese were named as defendants.

Governors Laud Welfare Reform

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Job-based welfare reform is becoming a "motherhood" issue in government, drawing favorable reactions from every quarter, but the fight looms over how to pay for it.

The National Governors' Association endorsed a $1 billion welfare reform plan Tuesday, and called for three-quarters of the money to come from the federal government.

President Reagan went along with the concept in principle, but not the money. Congress was also skeptical of where the money was going to come from, though the Democratic-dominated House Ways and Means Committee seemed to look favorably on the plan.

Sam Hall Book Nears Completion

DAYTON, Ohio (UPI) — Self-styled freedom fighter Sam Hall, in Florida since his Nicaragua spying escapade, spends his time lifting weights, going dancing at night and sipping up offers from movie and television producers who want to document his adventures.

Hall is feeling fit and has regained most of the 17 pounds he lost during six weeks of a rice-and-beans diet in a Nicaraguan prison, he said in a telephone interview Tuesday from the St. Petersburg home of his friend, Jim Bonbright.

Reagan: 'I Think It Is Possible To Forget'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's apparent answer to the key question of whether he approved the first shipment of U.S. arms to Iran is that he cannot recall, but a new question looms in the Tower Commission's reported conclusion that the policy began with an eye to allowing Reagan to deny he approved it.

Sources told United Press International today that Reagan, who reportedly gave conflicting answers on the prior-approval question in two interviews with the Tower board, sent a follow-up letter last week to the three-man commission he appointed to review aspects of the Iran arms-Contra aid scandal.

In the letter, The Washington Post said today, Reagan wrote that he "honestly had no recollection" of when he approved the arms deal "and may have allowed myself to be influenced by the recollection of others."

The influence of others is one of the areas examined by the Tower Commission for its report, due Thursday, and The New York Times reported today that the board had information Reagan talked with senior aides about the need to form an Iran policy he could deny approving if it ever were exposed.

"The Tower Commission ... has received notes taken at one of the first meetings on the program, in August 1985, and they show that participants used the word 'deniability,'" one unidentified source told the Times.

The newspaper, saying its sources were officials familiar with the Tower report, said the

"Everybody that can remember what they were doing August 8 of 1985, raise your hand."
—President Reagan

report concludes Reagan was not removed from the Iranian deals but rather was briefed on them regularly as they developed.

The commission also found the president's participation in such discussions was minimal, the Times said, with him often simply asking questions about the Americans being held hostage in Lebanon and telling anecdotes.

Reagan for weeks has waved off questions about the Iran-Contra scandal on grounds the panel he appointed under former Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, will answer many of them.

But he came close to a crucial one Tuesday when he publicly suggested he simply cannot recall if he gave prior approval in August 1985 for the first shipment of U.S. arms to Iran from Israeli stockpiles.

Asked if he was upset with reports his memory is faulty on such a major foreign policy point, Reagan responded to journalists at a picture-taking session with black economists in the White House Cabinet Room:

"I'd like to ask one question of everybody. Everybody that can remember what they were doing on August 8th of 1985, raise your hand." When no one did, he said, "I think it's possible to forget. Nobody's raised any hands."

The question of prior approval is the heart of a dispute in sworn testimony by Reagan's ex-national security adviser Robert McFarlane, who has said the president did give an advance OK, and White House chief of staff Donald Regan, who contends the president reluctantly agreed to the deal after the fact.

The president reportedly backed McFarlane's version in speaking to the Tower Commission Jan. 26, but then consulted with Regan and changed his story Feb. 11 to conform with the chief of staff's version.

The Tower report, which may number more than 300 pages, is expected to be bluntly critical of Reagan and his White House operations — and how the document deals with Regan's involvement in the arms deals could weigh heavily in whether the embattled chief of staff keeps his post.

On another point of contention, ABC News reported Tuesday night that although Reagan gave "vague and contradictory" answers about whether the Iran sales became an arms-for-hostages deal, the commission lacked proof and accepted his assertion that the policy was designed to open channels to Iran — and that the release of U.S. hostages by pro-Iranian captors in Lebanon was a side benefit.

But ABC also said the report finds Vice Adm. John Poindexter, who succeeded McFarlane in December 1985 as national security adviser, and Lt. Col. Oliver North, his fired National Security Council deputy, were fully aware the Iran deal was working as an "arms-for-hostages swap."

The New York Times added that the report also describes what one official called a "pattern of freelancing" by North and says he carried out policies that went far beyond what the White House intended.

In other developments: —Attorneys for North filed a lawsuit Tuesday to block special prosecutor Lawrence Walsh's investigation on constitutional grounds. Walsh was appointed by a special three-judge court, but North's suit asserts only a presidential appointee may prosecute offenses against the United States. Walsh defended the statute and said he would fight the legal action in court.

—Both congressional committees probing the scandal said they plan to consider Thursday granting immunity from prosecution to some peripheral figures in the scandal.

Washington Beats Byrne

CHICAGO (UPI) — Mayor Harold Washington rode a tide of nearly monolithic black support and added enough white votes to claim his second straight Democratic primary victory early today over former Mayor Jane Byrne.

Washington, who became Chicago's first black mayor after unseating Byrne in 1983 from her one term as the city's first female leader, declared his victory after midnight before hundreds of supporters at a downtown hotel.

With 97 percent of the city's 2,900 precincts counted, Washington had 558,168 ballots or 53 percent compared with Byrne's 499,579 or 47 percent.

In the April 7 general election, Washington will face Republican Don Haider, a former Democrat who teaches at Northwestern University, and two old-guard machine Democrats running on third-party tickets.

KITES, KIDS AND POWER LINES CAN BE A DEADLY MIX.

For your child's safety, make sure there is nothing metallic on the kite, make sure that the string for the kite has no wire or metal in it, and don't let kids fly kites near power lines.

Ordinarily, power lines are quite harmless. But when a kite gets caught in a power line, it could become electrified. Tell your kids to let go of the string and leave the kite alone. Otherwise, the result could be deadly.

Always look up. Whether you're picking fruit or pruning trees, installing antennas or doing any activity that puts you in possible contact with overhead lines.

Don't be a victim of your own carelessness.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Iraq Repels Renewed Iranian Offensive

ATHENS, Greece (UPI) — Iraq said its troops repulsed Iranian attackers striking toward Iraq's second largest city in a renewed offensive, but Iran claimed its soldiers killed or wounded 900 defenders as Iranians fought through Iraqi positions.

The Tehran newspaper Kayhan reported Tuesday that Iranian troops continued an initial offensive Monday with another attack west of Iraq's Jasim River, running south from Fish Lake to the disputed Shatt al Arab waterway between the two countries.

The Jasim River lies about 2 miles inside Iraq near Basra, the second largest Iraqi city after Baghdad and the chief Iraqi port. Iran claims it took control of Iraqi territory along the river's east bank in an offensive it launched on Jan. 9.

Parents Refused Visit With Son

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — South Africa is refusing a French couple permission to see their son, jailed in a black tribal homeland, as part of a "political game" to force French recognition of the enclave, the man's mother said.

The couple, Andre and Jeanne Albertini, arrived in South Africa Sunday without visas for South Africa or the nominally black independent homeland of Ciskei. Their son, university lecturer Pierre-Andre Albertini, is being held in Ciskei as a witness in a terrorism trial, officials said.

The couple has not been allowed to leave the international transit area of the airport.

Albertini said the refusal apparently was a South African ploy to force France to recognize Ciskei as an independent nation.

Indirect Peace Talks Begin

GENEVA (UPI) — Afghanistan and Pakistan agreed at the start of their latest round of indirect peace talks to exchange new proposals on a timetable for withdrawal of Soviet troops, U.N. mediator Diego Cordovez said today.

Cordovez declined to reveal details of the new proposals, which will be presented at the 10th session of indirect peace talks since the U.N. mediation effort began in 1983.

Syrians Kill 22 Pro-Iranian Fighters

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Syrian soldiers sent to west Beirut to separate the city's warring factions stormed an apartment house and shot and bayoneted to death 22 militiamen from the pro-Iranian party Hezbollah, police and hospital sources said.

A Hezbollah source charged the victims were unarmed when the Syrians attacked. A statement issued by Hezbollah called the killings a "massacre."

The incident was the worst since 7,000 Syrian soldiers poured into west Beirut from the Shouf mountains Sunday to crush three years of Moslem militia control that cast west Beirut into lawlessness, destroyed its economy and drove off its foreigners with a wave of kidnappings.

Hezbollah said that after the killings Tuesday in the Basta neighborhood, a hotbed of Moslem fundamentalism, the Syrians dumped the bodies of the militiamen in the beds of military trucks, covered them with vegetables and drove them to Beirut Hospital.

Syrian officials did not confirm the reports, but Brig. Gen. Ghazi Kenaan, head of Syrian military intelligence in Lebanon, vowed that the Syrian troops would move against all gunmen and called on them to immediately get off the streets.

"We do not differentiate beween gunmen in this armed faction and gunmen in another party," he warned. "Every gunman is an enemy of the city. Withdraw and leave your positions to spare further bloodshed."

Despite the Syrian thrust into Basta Tuesday, authorities have said a similar deployment in the southern suburbs — the center of power for Hezbollah and the Shlite Amal militia — is not scheduled for the near future.

Syrian troops Tuesday closed at least 54 offices used by the Amal militia and the Druze militias of the Progressive Socialist Party, driving them from west Beirut with volleys of machine-gun fire and rocket-propelled grenades.

Hezbollah militiamen resisted Syrian orders to turn over their barracks, believed to be the spot where some of the 29 Westerners held hostage in Lebanon were sometimes incarcerated, and then set fire to the structure.

Hezbollah said in a statement that its militiamen withdrew from the burning barracks to a nearby apartment house when the Syrians stormed in and arrested several dozen members of the pro-Iranian group.

It said the Syrians "obliged them to raise their hands and tied up some and then shot them, killing them all. Then they took the bodies to military trucks and covered them with vegetables to cover the massacre, then took them to Beirut Hospital."

Beirut Hospital Manager Abdallah Nawfal reported that 22 Hezbollah fighters were dead on arrival, and a 23rd underwent surgery for gunshot wounds and was in critical condition.

Nawfal said some of the dead were shot but others were bayoneted or knifed to death. Hezbollah said it would bury the dead militiamen in Beirut today.

A police source confirmed that Syrian forces stormed a building in Basta and killed Hezbollah members inside. He gave no casualty count.

Christian Voice of Lebanon radio reported that the Hezbollah members were killed in a firefight with the Syrian forces. But a Hezbollah source said its fighters were unarmed when the Syrians arrived.

Security sources said the Hezbollah forces emptied the barracks Sunday night and on Tuesday threw flaming tires into the building.

Philippines Celebrate Aquino's Anniversary

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — President Corazon Aquino, celebrating the first anniversary of the "people power" military revolt that ousted Ferdinand Marcos, told the armed forces today it was their responsibility to defend the nation's freedom.

"Our people are watching with pride as you cleanse and fortify the institution of the military and make it both a pillar to hold up our democracy and a sword to defeat our enemy," Aquino said. "Our people turned out to defend your lives. It is your part now to defend their freedom."

A year ago, hundreds of thousands of Filipinos in a surge of "people power" took to the streets to back a military revolt against Marcos.

Aquino — who has grappled with at least three coup attempts by disgruntled soldiers in her first year in office — spoke at a nationally televised flag-raising ceremony at military headquarters.

The military has remained on full alert since the start of the celebrations on Sunday amid fresh reports of leftist and rightist threats against the Aquino government. Authorities deployed 12 fire trucks and 1,000 riot police at the presidential palace, but no incidents were reported.

In downtown Manila, about 150 Marcos backers staged a demonstration, criticizing Aquino and playing old speeches of the deposed president.

President Reagan Tuesday congratulated the Philippines on the anniversary of the popular revolt, saying in a videotape broadcast nationally on state television that Americans were proud of the country and willing to help rebuild it.

War Sparks Starvation In Mozambique

By Philip Williams

NICOEDALA, Mozambique (UPI) — The boy wearing the filthy khaki rag lifted a pencil-thin arm and poked at his runny nose. The effort left him gasping for breath as he lay in the dirt of a camp for Mozambican war refugees.

A British nurse standing over him shook her head in despair and pointed to the youngster's sunken chest, his protruding ribs, the yellowed skin and the broken fingernails. She turned and told the boy's father he must take his son to a nearby clinic for treatment.

The child, 5 years old but looking like 2, has diarrhea and to the north, where South African-backed rebels of the Mozambique National Resistance maintain sanctuaries. The refugees fled the rebels a month ago, walking through the bush for three nights to reach government-held Nicoedala.

There is little to do in camp. Men stand around in homemade shorts, children in tiny loincloths and women barebreasted with plastic sacks tied to their waists by strands of dried palm leaves. No one has shoes.

A visiting reporter spotted one woman staring at the dust 6 inches from her bruised toes. She was in deep shock, a symptom of the trauma of hunger, and answered questions in monosyllabic whispers. She said she was hungry, though she ate twice the day before — brown beans and a small portion of maize gruel.

The cost of conflict has left the government unable to feed the people

That also was the menu for her baby with a belly bloated by parasites.

Relief workers said the 2-year-old infant will die without a high-protein diet. Already, skin droops from his joints, his face is puffy and his woolly hair is tinged with gray and orange — telltale signs of acute malnourishment.

"There are lots of skin diseases here, too. Many are what we would have to call severely malnourished. They lack hygienic care. Unless they get attention, they are on the way downhill," said a representative of the Save The Children Fund, a British charity.

The French agency Doctors Without Borders says more than 10 percent of children at the agency's hospital in Macuba, in central Zambezia, are badly malnourished.

Dr. Aldo Marchesini, working in a shabby hospital in Quelimane, believes the situation is even worse outside government-controlled areas.

In a measure of the severity of the crisis, a special malnutrition ward was set up at the hospital. On a recent visit, all eight beds were occupied by babies with matchstick arms and legs and shriveled leather-tough skin.

The children were refugees from rural areas who fled into the city just before the government imposed travel restrictions on civilians. The ban now keeps the sick from hospitals.

"I spoke with priests, doctors and nurses that come here (from the countryside). They all said the same thing," Marchesini said. "In the country areas, the problem is terrible. They are dying from malnutrition, lots of children."

possibly tuberculosis, the nurse said.

"If he goes, perhaps he stands a chance," she said. "I don't know, perhaps he can be brought back."

The hunger stalks children first. Before it is over, relief workers believe as many as 3.5 million of Mozambique's 14.2 million people, trapped by a decade-old war between the leftist government and right-wing rebels, could starve to death.

The cost of the conflict has left the government unable to feed the people, and the fighting has driven farmers from the land they need to grow their own food.

The problem is starkly evident in the northern province of Zambezia, where starving refugees displaced by the fighting crowd towns and villages, clamoring for a plate of food and a place to eat it.

No one really knows how many people are starving in Zambezia because workers cannot reach more than half the region. "What we can see is bad enough. What we cannot must be so much worse," one weary worker said.

The refugees that can be reached get by on meager rations from the government as relief agencies struggle with the nightmarish logistics of moving food into the province.

In a report this month to the Senate Subcommittee on Immigration and Refugees, Rudy Ramp, a CARE official in East Africa, said the harvest in Zambezia might be down 30 percent this year, despite adequate rainfall, because of the curtailment in farming due to the fighting.

"By the end of 1986, insurgent activity had reached such a level that it is very likely surpassing drought as a cause of hunger in Mozambique," it said. "Mozambique has evolved into a chronic food deficit country."

Aid agencies like CARE, Oxfam and UNICEF, and the U.S. Agency for International Development have backed government calls for international intervention to feed the people. U.N. Secretary General Javier Perez de Cuellar will appeal for emergency aid later this week.

The situation has eased somewhat in the more easily accessible provinces of central and western Mozambique. But unless massive quantities of food, medicine and supplies are shipped soon to the north, a catastrophe looms.

"Unless we get the food we have asked for in our emergency program, there will be a disaster here," the area's chief government aid official said. "If we cannot make up the deficiency, large numbers of people will die of hunger."

It is hard to starve to death. It takes a long time. Along the way, victims face horrifying bouts with diarrhea and diseases such as malaria and measles.

At Nicoedala, 18 miles northwest of the provincial capital of Quelimane, about 160 refugees have taken shelter in huts that once housed guards from a Portuguese colonial prison.

Most are from the area along the border with Malawi, 70 miles

Supernova Tracked

TORONTO (UPI) — Satellites and telescopes throughout the southern hemisphere today tracked the brilliant burnout of a dying star, a supernova believed to be the brightest in 383 years that was discovered accidentally by a Canadian astronomer in Chile.

Astronomers said Tuesday the celestial find by Ian Shelton of the University of Toronto's Las Campanas observatory in north-central Chile will help scientists measure distances from Earth to the far reaches of the universe.

"It's a massive star — more massive than the sun — which has exploded," said Robert Garrison, an associate director of the observatory.

Lehder Jailing Aided By 'Fed-Up' Citizens

By Tom Galan
BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — The capture of international narcotics kingpin Carlos Lehder at a ranch house hideaway was triggered by disgruntled neighbors who thought he and his holed-up bodyguards might be rebel guerrillas, cocaine cookers or even "a bunch of marijuana-smoking homosexuals."

As surprising as the capture, however, was that police were tipped off at all in this nation where drug dealers are looked on as Robin Hoods and cocaine is considered a Yankee problem.

Police Maj. William Lemus, who led 30 officers and soldiers in the raid on Lehder's hideout, said it is apparent the public is getting fed up with the drug mafia.

"We received a complaint from a neighbor of the ranch where Lehder and his 14 bodyguards were holed up. He said he thought the group might be guerrillas," Lemus said in an interview.

"Another person called us to say there were a bunch of marijuana-smoking homosexuals there. Someone suggested the ranch might be a small cocaine laboratory. And another person went to the U.S. Embassy and insinuated the ranch hid somebody important, without specifying who it was." Officials say Lehder's capture and extradition Feb. 4 has encouraged even more people to turn in drug dealers.

"This is the biggest result of the Lehder bust. In 10 years of intense work in Colombia, we've never seen anything like the amount of information we're suddenly getting," a veteran Drug Enforcement Administration agent said.

"The phenomenon is uncanny. Even though we offer rewards for information, we are getting people who don't want the money. They are just fed up. They feel the mafia has gone too far. They say these hoods have begun to tread on them and they don't like it."

By most counts, Lehder's arrest actually will do little to stem the flow of cocaine out of Colombia. Officials believe smaller operators quickly stepped in to take over his business.

"The big three of the so-called Medellin Cartel — Lehder, Pablo Escobar and Jorge Luis Ochoa — have been on the run so much in the last three years they've been practically forced out of business. We now suspect that they've been replaced by scores of new operators, many of whom are absolutely unknown to us," the DEA agent said.

"Let me put it this way: In 1983 you had three billionaires dominating the business and now you've got 100 millionaires doing most of it."

Authorities cite two factors in the upswing of resistance to the nation's $8 billion drug industry: Colombia's growing internal drug abuse problem and the rash of killings of prominent and ordinary citizens in the last few years.

In 1986, six judges, including a supreme court magistrate, were killed by gunmen supposedly hired by the drug mafia. In the last four years, 17 Colombian journalists have been killed after denouncing drug trafficking. Two foreign journalists have been run out of the country by mafia threats, according to the Colombian Foreign Press Association.

"Cocaine dealers wanted to eliminate Peru and Bolivia as producers of coca paste, the raw material they import to Colombia to process into cocaine hydrochloride crystal. So in the early 1980s, they brought coca seedlings here and literally bombarded fields in the flat eastern grasslands," said Col. Gregorio Campos, the former head of Colombia's anti-narcotics force.

3 Top 20 Teams Spice District 4A-9 Tournament

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Boasting three teams ranked among the top 20 in the state, the Class 4A District Basketball Tournament opens tonight at Seminole High School's Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

Here's a look at tonight's opening games:

- Seminole, ranked 20th and seeded No. 1 with a 16-2 4A (non-tournament) record, takes on Lake Howell at 8:30 p.m. Howell is seeded No. 8 with a 2-12 record. The game will be broadcast by Sanford's WUEZ-AM (1400) beginning at 8:20 p.m.

- Port Orange Spruce Creek, ranked 16th and seeded No. 2 with a 10-3 record, takes on Lake Brantley at 7 p.m. In the opener, Brantley is seeded No. 7 with a 2-10 mark.
- Thursday's games complete the first round:
- Daytona Beach Mainland, ranked 14th and seeded No. 3 with an 8-3 mark, battles DeLand at 7 p.m. DeLand is seeded No. 6 with a 5-10 mark.
- Lyman, seeded No. 4 with a 9-5 record, meets country rival Lake Mary in Thursday's second game at 8:30 p.m. The Rams are seeded No. 5 with an 8-7 mark.

The coaches see the tourna-

Basketball

ment as a toss-up. Seminole, Spruce Creek and Mainland are all evenly matched although the homecourt advantage will give coach Bill Klein's 'Noles a slight edge. Lyman and Lake Mary are the darkhorses. Each finished the season in strong fashion and could surprise the three favorites if they let down. DeLand, Brantley and Howell are the longshots as each lacked the size or quickness of the other five.

Seminole, 24-5, has won eight consecutive. This came after a 10-game winning streak was interrupted by Daytona Beach Seabreeze. That is 18 wins in the last 19 games for the Tribe, which destroyed Lake Howell in the season finale Friday by 40 points.

"That big win Friday won't help us now," Klein said. "Lake Howell will be fired up and we'll be a little cocky. We have to play well in every game, though, from now on out."

Klein said Walter "Tipman" Hopson will continue to start for his Tribe in place of 6-8 Craig Walker who was sidelined several weeks ago — but is now healed — with a cut to the inside of his mouth.

Hopson, a quick 6-4 junior forward, gives the 'Noles a faster lineup as he teams with Andre "Smooth" Whitney, Jerry "Stick" Parker, Mike "Spud" Edwards and 6-4 Roderick Henderson.

Whitney, a 5-11½ guard, led the county in steals (3.7) and assists (6.7) while averaging 10.7 points and 5.3 rebounds. Parker averaged 15.7 points and 4.7 rebounds. Henderson averaged 16.2 points, 7.6 boards, 2.7 steals, 4.8 assists and 1.6 blocks. Walker had 9.8 rebounds and 3.8 blocks.

Coach Greg Robinson's Silver

Hawks, meanwhile, play a deliberate game with 6-3 sophomore Steve Johnson and 6-4 Alonzo Robinson as the keys. Robinson, a junior, leads Howell with 10.3 points and 8.4 rebounds.

In tonight's first game, Brantley coach Steve Jucker said the Pats will have to play their deliberate style to stay with Spruce Creek. "We were within four points with two minutes to play before losing to them early in the year," Jucker said. "We can play with them. We just have to play smart."

Brent Bell, the county's leading scorer with 18.1 ppg, is the Brantley workhorse.

Lady 'Cats Wipe Out Lake Mary

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY — Although they owned two forfeit victories over Lake Mary, Winter Park's Lady Wildcats were eager to prove they could beat the Lady Rams on the basketball court as well.

Winter Park ran its half-court offense to near perfection while sluggish Lake Mary could not put together an effective half-court offense of its own as the Lady 'Cats roared to a 68-37 rout in the 4A-5 Region playoff Tuesday night before 951 fans at Lake Mary High.

"We were looking forward to this since the last time we played Lake Mary," Winter Park junior guard Mimi Jones said. "We knew there was no way they could beat us three times."

Winter Park, 28-1, advances to the 4A-3 Section playoff Saturday night at home against Region 6 winner Merritt Island which advanced with a 60-56 victory over West Palm Beach Twin Lakes. The winner of Saturday's game goes on to the 4A State Tournament next week at Winter Park High. Lake Mary, which forfeited 22 victories due to an ineligible player, finished at 8-25.

"We came out flat and weren't playing up to our past performances," said Lake Mary coach Bill Moore after his final game at the helm of the Lady Rams. "We were not taking advantage of our opportunities early and you don't get second chances at this level."

About everything that could go wrong did for the Lady Rams

Basketball

Tuesday night, Point guard Tonya Lawson and center Teri Whyte both got into early foul trouble and Lake Mary committed 17 turnovers in the first half compared to Winter Park's seven.

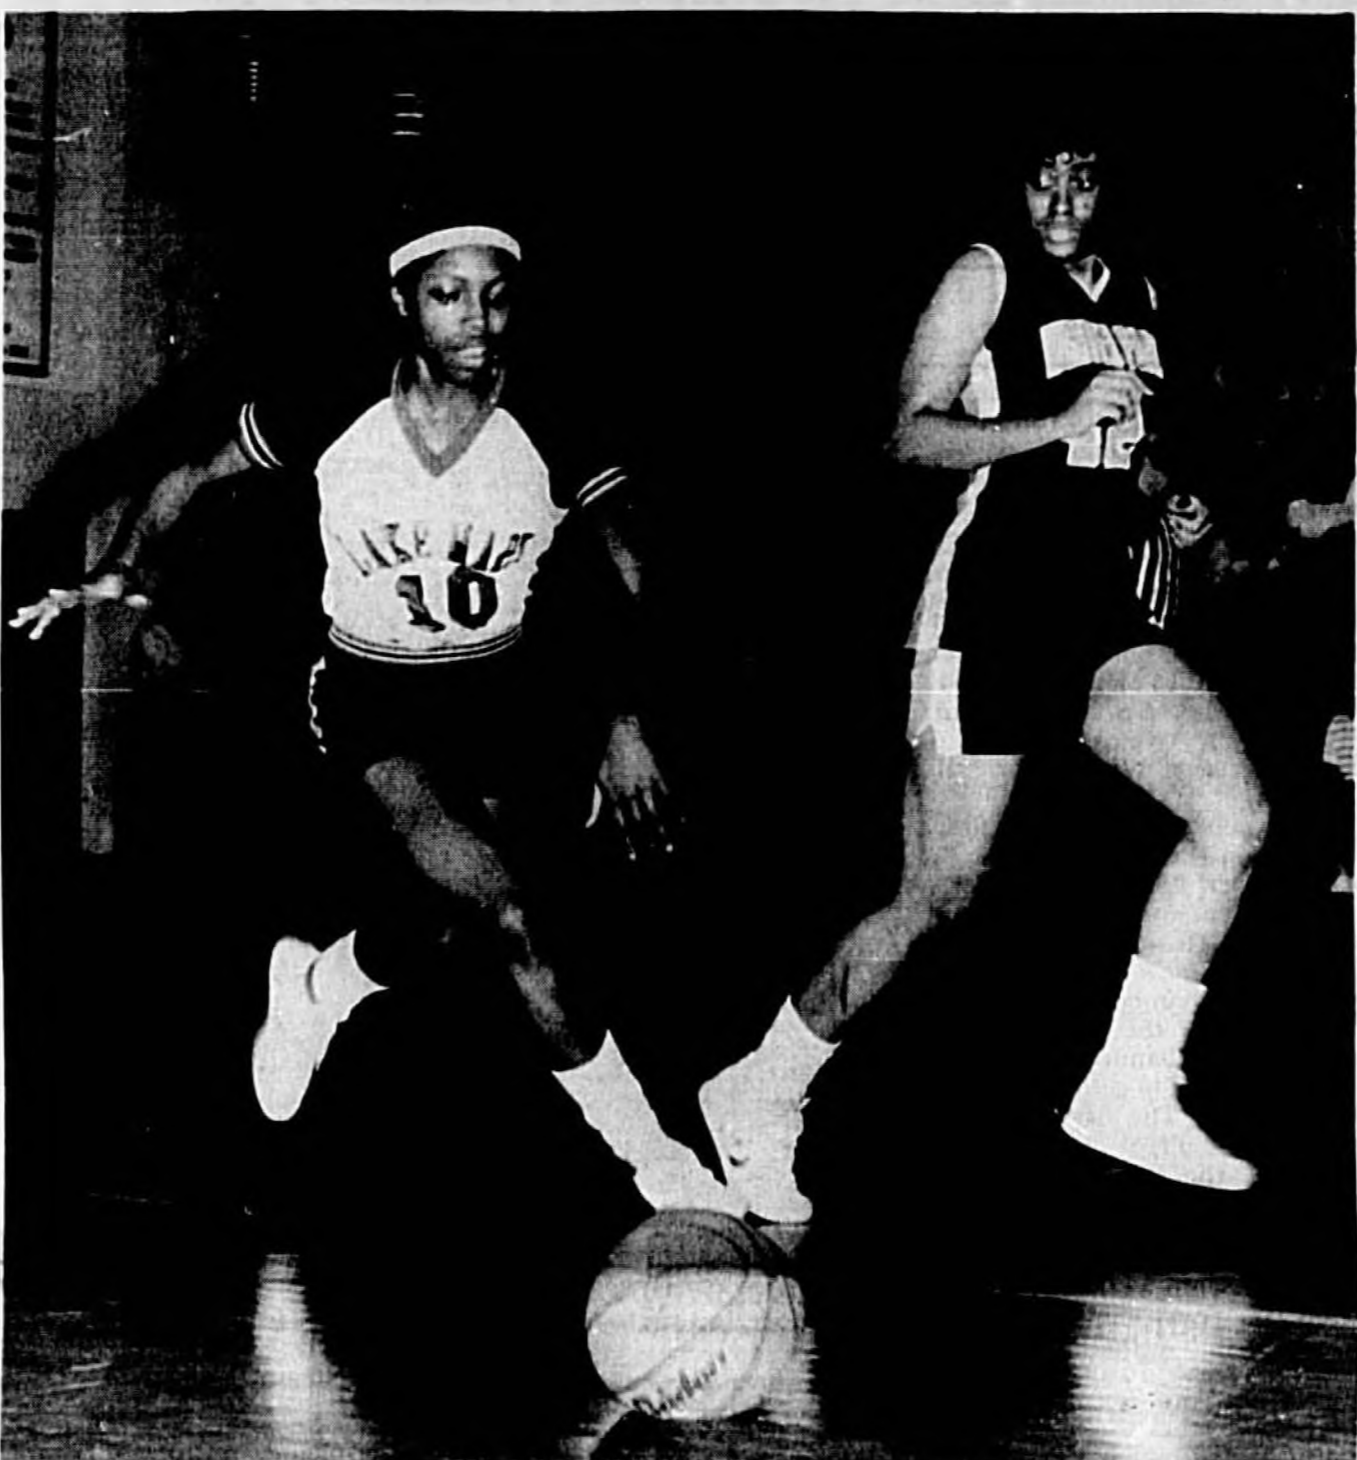

"It was a nightmare," Lawson, a senior, said. "We couldn't get anything going all night."

Sparked by senior point guard Astrid Soulette, Winter Park took a 12-4 lead after one quarter and took a 19-6 lead early in the second. Lake Mary stayed within 10, 21-11, with under two minutes left in the half, but the Lady 'Cats then reeled off eight consecutive points, four by Jennifer Scherer, for a commanding 29-11 halftime cushion.

"We came out in the first half and played about as well as we could," Winter Park coach Kerry Patrick said. "We played excellent defense and I feel whenever we play good on defense we can beat anybody."

The Lady Wildcats put the game away in the third quarter, outscoring the Lady Rams, 22-11, for a 51-22 lead. Any chances of a Lake Mary miracle comeback were dashed when both Whyte and Lawson fouled out in the third period.

"Winter Park never let up on us once they got the lead and that's the sign of a good team," Moore said. "We went out of our game plan and didn't do what has been successful for us all year."

Scherer, a senior forward, had an outstanding night for the Lady 'Cats with a game-high 16 points and nine rebounds. Jones tossed in 15 points and Soulette added 11 points and seven assists. Helle Ljungstrom and Suzanne Dodd added six points apiece.

"This was a true team effort," Patrick said. "Everyone who played for us did an excellent job. The girls came in confident that they could win."

Senior Cynthia Patterson's 12 points were high for Lake Mary while Sharon Bonaventure added six points and six rebounds.

WINTER PARK (48) — Lowrey 2, Dodd 6, Parks 5, Scherer 16, Soulette 11, Carter 2, Jones 15, Ljungstrom 6, Wutscher 5. Totals: 27-26-34-68.

LAKE MARY (37) — Patterson 12, Lawson 3, Thomas 4, Whyte 3, Roldan 0, Davis 5, Bonaventure 6, Frey 0, Mulholland 4, Dawson 6. Totals: 16-5-15-37.

Halftime — Winter Park 29, Lake Mary 11. Fouls — Winter Park 15, Lake Mary 24. Fouled out — Whyte, Lawson, Dawson, Technical — none.

Chambers Too Heavy For Hawks

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

Bucky Chambers, Clint Johnson and Travis Barfield teamed up to lift the Lake Howell Silver Hawks, 74-62, Tuesday afternoon in Seminole Athletic Conference track and field at Lake Howell High.

Chambers won the shot put with a heave of 52-½ and also won the discus with a throw of 135-3. Chambers also long jumped 19-3 and ran a time of 24.1 in the 220-yard dash, both performances were good for second place finishes.

Barfield won the triple jump with a leap of 39-10 and won the long jump with a distance of 20 feet-2 inches. He also finished third in the 100 meter dash with a time of 11.8.

Johnson won the 100 with an 11.5 effort, he also finished second in the high jump clearing 5-2 for the Patriots.

Lake Howell had a trio of fine performances also as Chuck Buster, Jeff Van Buskirk and Greg Mier all turned in fine performances.

Buster won the mile with a time of 4:40.4 and the two-mile run at 10:03.6. Van Buskirk won the 440-yard dash with a 52.8 clocking and ran the 880, just one event later, winning with a time of 2:10.4.

Mier won the 120 high hurdles finishing with a time of 15.9, he later finished second in the 330 intermediate hurdles running a 43.6 effort.

"It was a real close and good meet," Lake Howell coach Doug Blackwell said. "We each had eight winners and quality performances."

Hammontree Ignites Girls

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

Kim Hammontree won four events as Lake Howell easily defeated Lake Brantley, 82-36, in a Seminole Athletic Conference dual meet on Tuesday afternoon at Lake Howell High.

"I was pleased with our performance today," Lake Howell coach Tom Hammontree said.

The victory ups Lake Howell to 2-0 while the loss drops Brantley to 1-1. The teams will both compete in the Lake Howell Invitational on Saturday at Howell.

Hammontree had a great meet as the senior won four events. Hammontree started off by winning the 100 meter dash with a time of 13.0. She continued her winning ways in the 220 with a 26.9 time.

Hammontree furthered her dominance in the jumping events as she won both the long and high jumps. Hammontree high jumped 4-8 while she jumped 15-8 to win the long jump.

Lake Howell's Bonnie Oliver also had a fine meet as she won two events. Oliver won the 110 high hurdles with a time of 18.2. Oliver took the 330 high hurdles with a 49.7 time.

Howell controlled the meet as the Lady Silver Hawks won 11 out of the 14 events.

Lake Howell's Martha Fonseca dominated the long distance events capturing the one and two mile runs. In the mile race, Fonseca finished with a time of 5:37.2. Fonseca came back and won the two-mile event in 12:09.9.

Jennifer Burrows led the way for Brantley with a second and a third place finish.

"It gave us a good opportunity to see how everyone can do in an actual meet," coach Hammontree said.

Seminole Sweeps Rams In Big Way

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

LAKE MARY — Seminole swept Lake Mary in a big way Tuesday in a Seminole Athletic Conference dual track and field meet before 102 chilly fans at Don T. Reynolds Stadium.

The Lady Tribe trounced the Lady Rams, 82-36, while the boys also dominated, doubling up the Rams, 91-45.

"We had a real good meet," Seminole coach Ken Braumen said. "The seniors had good performances as well as the younger kids."

Seminole was led by Senior Eric Petersen who turned in the day's best performance with a 49.6 effort in the 440-yard dash. Martin also ran a leg on the boys 440 relay team that won finished first with a time of 43.7.

Seminole won both the relays and shut Lake Mary out in 120-high hurdles, triple jump, and 330 hurdles to ensure the win. Arthur Hersey won each of the hurdle events with a 14.8 effort in the 120's and a 44.6 in the 330's.

Eric Petersen led the Rams, finishing first in the mile (4:37.5), and taking second in the 880 (2:09.9) and 2-mile run (10:46). Brad Smith finished second in the mile (4:39.2) and won the 2-mile with a 10:18.

Shownda Martin led the girls, winning the mile, 880 and helping the Lady Tribe's winning mile relay team (3:38.2) while finishing second in the high jump with a leap of 4-8.

Adrian Hillsman, who just joined the team after a superb basketball season, won the 220 with a 26.9 effort, and finished second in the long jump with a leap of 16-9. Kwadja Floyd won the long jump with a distance of 16-11.

Martin and Hillsman teamed up with LaShon Cash and Tracy Hall to overpower the Lady Rams in the sprints, middle distances and relays.

Sonya Montgomery and Andrienne Smith teamed up in the weights as Lake Mary could not come up with a point in either the shot or disc events. Montgomery won the disc with a throw of 102-8.

Bowers 2-Hits Lake Howell, 7-0

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

CASSELLBERRY — The Oviedo Lions must not be aware that the high school baseball season is just starting.

On Tuesday afternoon at Lake Howell, the Lions, ranked second in the state 3A poll, looked as if they were midseason form, cruising to a 7-0 Seminole Athletic Conference victory before 111 chilly fans behind the two-hit mound effort of senior Scott Bowers.

The contest was the first SAC game in the county this season.

"I'm real happy with the way our team played today," Oviedo coach Howard Mable said. "We played sound defense and had a solid team game."

"We looked pretty flat out there today," Lake Howell coach Birto Benjamin said. "We didn't have a lot of enthusiasm and you can't without that."

The victory ups Oviedo's record to 3-0 overall and 1-0 in the SAC. Lake Howell, meanwhile, dropped to 3-3 and 0-1. Lake Howell will return to action today at 3:30 at Orlando Oak Ridge.

Mable wasn't joking when he said that the entire team did its part in Tuesday's win.

Right-hander Bowers gave up just two hits while striking out five and walking only one. Bowers kept the Silver Hawks guessing as the lanky righty mixed up his pitches. "Scott pitched a helluva game," Mable said about his 2-0 pitcher. "He really mixed it up and his 'slurve ball' confused them."

Mable said that Bowers throws a pitch that is a half slider and a half curve. Whatever the pitch was, the Howell hitters couldn't handle it and hit several ground balls that became easy outs.

"I thought that they would be hitting a lot better," Bowers said of the Silver Hawks. "They had a very off day at the plate."

Oviedo pounded out 10 hits as several Lions had sound games at the plate. Center fielder Mark "Renegade" Merchant, who finished second in the SAC batting race last year, had a solid game as the senior switch-hitter went 2 for 4 with two runs batted in.

"We played pretty well today," Merchant said. "I didn't hit as well I can today."

SMU Gets 'Death Penalty'

DALLAS (UPI) — The NCAA today suspended the SMU football program for one year and said the school could play no home football games in 1988.

The governing body of college athletics thus enforced its so-called "death penalty" for the first time, providing the severest sanctions in its history against the most scandal-ridden football program in the country.

Inventory Time For Parents Who Pressure

It was a bad scene. I had been in athletics as a player or coach for almost 40 years but I was still shocked.

The player's father had come out onto the court after his son's match. His son had lost in the semifinals of a top 14 and under sanctioned tournament. It would adversely affect his state ranking. This was evidently too much for the father to handle. He whipped his son right there on the court. The player was wet with sweat, dirty from the long, hot clay court match and exhausted from trying so hard to win. There he stood in the middle of the court, crying like a 2-year old as his father cursed him.

At that moment I wanted to get out of the game forever. I did not want to be a part of a game that could cause people to act like this man was acting. I wanted no part of a game that could cause lasting hurt to such a fine young player. Anyway, it was a very unfortunate situation and one that I will never forget.

As bad as that incident was, it is really not unusual. In one form or another it is happening all the time. We are simply putting too much pressure on our young people to win matches. Too much pressure to achieve a higher state ranking, too much pressure to improve, too much pressure to beat a certain player, etc., etc.

The burden that many of these young players face day in and day out is just too much to carry. Their games suffer sure, but that is the least of it. Their mental and emotional health also suffers. They go through life thinking that their individual worth completely revolves around their "performance."

If they perform well they feel a high level of self-worth. If they lose, they feel (or are made to feel) that they have no self-worth. These kids grow up thinking that they need to be "perfect" in their sport and when they fall short of perfection, they beat themselves up emotionally.

Larry Castle

It is a real problem for everyone concerned. There is so much pressure on these players to do well. Pressure not only comes from the parents but from friends, teachers, coaches, etc.

The young high school player walks down the hall at school on the day of a big match and all he hears from friends and teachers is, "Are you gonna win today?" or "Hope you kill that guy (or girl) today." The parents have already told him at breakfast this morning how important the match is to his future, his ranking. (Their future?).

By the time the match starts, the young player is so anxious that he can hardly hit the ball. Many tennis players get so nervous that they hyperventilate, their arms go numb, they get sick at their stomach or get dizzy.

Some are so scared that they won't even come to school on the day of a big match or they will "tank" the match. ("Tanking" is a very common way of dealing with the anxiety). Many young players cheat just so they can win a big match. It's a huge price for the young athlete to pay, and it often has a lasting influence on their lives.

When the match is over the player is never asked, "Did you enjoy your tennis?" or "Did you have fun?" They only ask, "Did you win?" It is so bad for a great number of players that they do not even play to win anymore, they just play not to lose. They can't stand the feeling of losing.

Many of you are thinking "that's garbage." "he doesn't know what he's talking about!" or "that ain't the American way." Those players reading this though know exactly what I'm talking about. They know the feeling well.

In fact, most of us have been a part of it either as the player, the friend, the parent or the coach. Most of the time we do not even know it's happening; it has just become a way of life.

Now is the time to take inventory. If you are putting too much pressure on yourself or your daughter or your son or a coach, your player, back off. Work to play hard, play fair and have fun. Let the wins and losses fall where they will and enjoy this game for what it is.

Otherwise the price you pay will not be worth it.

Rain Provides Obstacle For Lipton's Top Seeds

KEY BISCAIYNE (UPI) — Rain provided the biggest obstacle to four top seeds Tuesday at the Lipton International Players Championships.

No. 1 seed Ivan Lendl, No. 2 Stefan Edberg and fifth-seeded Mats Wilander along with women's No. 3 seed Steffi Graf hardly were bothered by their competition in coasting to straight-set victories in the $1.8 million, two-week tournament.

After two brief rain delays during the day session — played under cloudy skies — a steady drizzle forced officials to cancel the evening session. That postponed the first-round matches of top-seeded Martina Navratilova and No. 4 men's seed Yannick Noah. Their matches, along with that of sixth-seeded Helena Sukova, were rescheduled for today. Noah was trailing Claudio Panatta 0-1 in the first set when play was stopped.

Lendl topped Ricardo Acuna 6-2, 6-3, 6-2; Edberg defeated Peter Carlsson 6-3, 6-3, 6-2; Wilander beat Jonny Levine 6-1, 6-2, 6-4; and Graf cruised by Manon Bollegraf 6-1, 6-1.

Former Seminole Community College standout Mikael Pernfors, who is seeded 11th, had his match with Marcel Freeman suspended by darkness after four sets. It will be resumed today.

Other seeded players to win Tuesday were: seventh-seeded Zina Garrison, a 6-4, 6-1 winner over Kris Kinney; No. 9 Claudia Kohde-Kilsch, a 4-6, 7-5, 6-2 winner over Jana Novatna of Czechoslovakia; and 10th-seeded Andres Gomez, a 4-6, 6-1, 6-1, 7-6 (7-4) winner over Carlos Kirmayr.

Several of the lower-seeded players were upset. Wally Masure upended Emilio Sanchez, the 13th seed, 6-2, 6-7 (5-7), 3-6, 6-4, 6-4; Danie Visser defeated No. 14 Martin Jaffe 6-4, 4-6, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3; and Yvonne Vermaak topped No. 15 women's seed Wendy Turnbull 6-4, 6-4.

Also scheduled to play first-round matches today are: No. 2 Chris Evert Lloyd, No. 3 Boris Becker, No. 6 Jimmy Connors and eighth-seeded Joakim Nystrom.

"In a tournament like this, you want to have the easiest match possible," Wilander said. "It's always a relief to get through the first match. The first round is always difficult."

Lendl, the world's top-rated player, needed just 1 hour and 28 minutes to eliminate Acuna in a match delayed 30 minutes by rain. Lendl said neither the delay nor his month off from tournament play bothered him.

Graf, winner of last week's Virginia Slims of Florida, defeated Bollegraf in just 48 minutes in a match also delayed by rain.

"I think maybe I wasn't concentrating 100 percent," said Graf.

Oviedo's Scott Bowers grimaces and throws. Bowers was too tough for Lake Howell, blanking the Hawks on two hits.

Shakar Whiffs 18, Blanks 'Dogs, 2-0

By Chris Fliter
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Mary southpaw Steve Shakar didn't just handcuff DeLand's Bulldogs Tuesday night, he also arrested them, read them their rights and booked them.

Shakar struck out a school-record 18 batters, including 10 in a row over the last four frames as the Rams, ranked second in the state in Class 4A, blanked the Bulldogs, 2-0, at Conrad Park in DeLand.

Lake Mary, 4-0 for the season, returns to action Saturday at home against Orlando Boone.

Along with the 18 Ks, Shakar allowed just three hits and walked only two. In four games, Lake Mary pitchers have tossed a pair of one hitters, a two hitter and a three-hitter. The Rams' mound staff has give up just one earned run for a 0.27 earned run average.

"Shakar had his best stuff and was mixing up his pitches really well," Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle said. "He struck out the side four times and had at least two strikeouts in each inning."

Baseball

Lake Mary managed just five hits in the game off a pair of DeLand pitchers but got two runs out of it and that was more than enough to support Shakar. In the top of the second, Anthony Laszale ripped a double and took third on Wes Weger's ground out. Shakar then reached on an error to put runners on first and third. Billy Jenkins followed with a grounder back to the mound but Shakar broke up the double play at second to allow Laszale to score.

The Rams scored their second run much the same way as, in the top of the fifth, they had runners on the corners and Shane Letterio broke up a double play at second, enabling Jeff "Lefty" Hagan to score.

TRIBE GAME CANCELLED
The baseball game between Seminole and Umattilla was cancelled Tuesday night. No explanation was given, according to coach Mike Ferrell.

...Oviedo

Senior third-baseman Glen Reichle also went 2 for 4, and had three RBIs on the day. Senior Shortstop Tony Bellflower contributed offensively by going 1 for 3 with a run-scoring double. Designated hitter Alar Greene had the long hit of the day as the senior smashed a solo homer in the second inning.

Oviedo played strong defense, and except for a pair of throwing errors by Bowers, played perfect defense. Bellflower made several flashy plays at short, while Steve Hofmann had a good game at third.

"I was pleased with the way that Tony and Steve played today," Mable said. "They made a lot of tough plays look easy." Lake Howell got some bad news earlier in the week as senior pitcher Craig Wagner quit the team. "Craig decided that he needed to study more," Benjamin said. "It hurts our pitching staff quite a bit." Wagner has signed a football contract to play football at Memphis State and needed to spend more time studying, according to Benjamin.

Howell pitcher David Frelsner worked the entire game for the Hawks. Frelsner fanned three while giving three free passes. "I thought that Dave pitched a good game," Benjamin said. "We just didn't give him a lot of support."

Howell hurt itself in the field as the Hawks committed four costly errors and made some mental mistakes that cost them as well. "We have got some work to do in the field," Benjamin said. "We just had a bad outing today."

Oviedo started the rout in the top of the second inning, Greene hit Frelsner's first pitch over the newly constructed temporary fence in left field.

The Lions added to their lead in the top of the third. Merchant led off the inning with a single to right. After Merchant stole second, Bellflower doubled off of the left field fence sending Merchant to third. First-baseman Reichle followed with a single to center scoring Merchant and Bellflower. It gave Oviedo a 3-0 lead after two and a half innings.

Howell's best chance to score came in the fourth frame. Third-baseman Ernest Martinez led off the inning by doubling off third base. Designated hitter David Bauss followed with a bloop single that kept Martinez at second. The rally was killed as the Lions turned a double play and Bowers fanned Steve Sheppard.

"I think that our defense was outstanding today," Bellflower said. "We have been working hard on it and so far its paying off."

Oviedo blew open the game in the sixth with four big runs. A pair of singles and an error loaded the bases. Merchant then got a gift as he hit grounder to second took a funny hop going through the infield for a single allowing Shawn Lee and Randy Ferguson to score. Gary Pelzer advanced to third on the play and Merchant took second on the throw to the plate. Bellflower then walked to load the sacks.

Reichle then got his third RBI of the day; a sacrifice fly to center that scored Pelzer and allowed the other runners to tag up. Merchant ended the scoring when Greene reached on an error.

"I just hope we keep it up," Mable said. "We are just going to play one day at a time and see what happens."

Lions Whip Astronaut

Oviedo's Lions posted their first victory over perennial powerhouse Titusville Astronaut in three years Tuesday when Greg Lampe and Greg Brick picked up a victory in the No. 1 doubles for a 4-3 decision at Red Bug Lake Park in Casselberry.

"Astronaut has been district champion the past three years," Oviedo coach Don Gustafson said. "It's quite an accomplishment for us to finally beat them."

Lampe, the Lions' No. 1 player, also whittipped Brian Sloan, 8-5, in singles while Brick earned an 8-6 victory over Todd Nelson. Oviedo's Jeff Griffin also picked up a decisive 8-4 decision over Jeff Brown at No. 4 singles.

Oviedo's Pat Schurmann dropped an 8-4 decision to Paul Lineaux while teammate Scott Lugering lost to Phillip Jamier, 8-3.

The 4-1 Lions travel to Leesburg today. — Sam Cook

Cardinals' Question Marks Concern Herzog

United Press International
The way St. Louis Cardinals Manager Whitey Herzog assessed his team the first day of full-squad workouts, you would think he was talking about the 1962 Mets, considered to be one of the worst teams to play in the major leagues.

"We've got more question marks than any team in history," Herzog said Tuesday.

Herzog said some of the injuries that contributed to the Cardinals' 79-82 record last season are a concern to him.

First baseman Jack Clark, the club's top power hitter and RBI man, suffered a thumb injury that limited him to 65 games, and 1985 Most Valuable Player Willie McGee played on a bad knee that required off-season surgery.

The pitching staff also had its share of injuries. John Tudor, who has won 34 games in two seasons for the Cardinals, missed the last three weeks of the 1986 season with shoulder problems. Jeff Lahti, a right-handed reliever who missed virtually all of last season with shoulder problems, has been set back by a broken left foot suffered in an accident at his home last month. X-rays will be taken Thursday to determine when he can begin workouts.

Ken Dayley, a left-handed reliever, is recovering from elbow surgery, and right-handed reliever Ray Soff has a sore elbow.

Herzog said he envisions a 10-man staff for the start of the regular season, with as many as six left handers. He can't be sure who those pitchers will be.

"It depends on how many guys are hurt," Herzog said. "Is John Tudor all right? Is Jeff Lahti all right? Is Ken Dayley all right? Is Ray Soff all right?" In other training camp news:

— Marc Sullivan is preparing for an arduous trial as the starting catcher of the Boston Red Sox. With the departure of Rich Gedman, the club's regular catcher since 1982, Sullivan moves up to the starting role under pressure-filled circumstances.

"I'm not afraid to handle the heat," said Sullivan, who has appeared in 77 major-league games. "I've been a starter my whole life up until the big leagues. I know how to start."

"I look at it as a great challenge. This is terrific."

— First baseman Glenn Davis, a key to Houston's pennant-winning club last year did not report to camp because he is locked in a $70,000 contract dispute with the club. Davis is seeking $240,000 for the 1987 season and the Astros have offered $180,000. Davis hit .265 with 31 home runs and 101 RBI last year, when he earned $120,000.

— Fred Lynn and Ken Gerhart, the outfielders whom the Orioles hope will play side-by-side often this season, reported to camp a day early. General Manager Hank Peters would like to see Gerhart, a rookie, in left field opening day and batting leadoff.

The San Francisco Giants signed third baseman Chris Brown to a one-year contract believed to be worth $400,000. Brown, 25, hit .317 last season in 116 games and was named to the NL All-Star team. Brown missed part of the season because of a shoulder injury.

— Dave Winfield and Rickey Henderson of the Yankees were missing at camp. Winfield was given permission to report a day late because of business interests in New York and Henderson received permission to report two days late for personal reasons.

Moore's 3-Run Blast Lifts SCC Past VCC

By Scott Sander
Herald Sports Writer

Danny Moore pounded a three-run homer to lead Seminole Community College to a 6-3 Mid-Florida Conference baseball victory over Valencia Community College on Tuesday afternoon at Orlando.

Moore broke open a 2-1 game with the blast in the top of the seventh inning. The victory ups the Raider's record to 4-12 overall. SCC will travel to Bradenton today at 3 to take on Manatee Community College in nonconference action.

Sophomore pitcher Jeff Rood pitched eight innings for the Raiders as Rood spread out 11 hits, while striking out two and walking three. Richard Bolt pitched the ninth inning for Seminole.

Seminole was held to eight hits, but the Raiders can thank Matador third-baseman Jose Morales for some of their runs. Morales committed five errors.

SCC got things going in the top of the first frame. Shortstop Brian Span reached when Morales made an error. Span proceeded to steal second and third base and scored when Morales committed his second error of the frame.

Valencia recaptured the lead in the bottom of the frame with a pair of runs but SCC knotted up the game in the fourth inning. Longwood's Kevin Hill reached on another Morales error.

Rangers Capitalize On Chances, Appease Esposito With Victory

United Press International
The New York Rangers appeased Coach-General Manager Phil Esposito Tuesday night by rallying to defeat the Buffalo Sabres and Coach Ted Sator.

Esposito fired Sator Nov. 21 after the Rangers go off to a terrible start. Sator was hired as Buffalo's coach Dec. 22, and last week in Sator's first trip to New York as Buffalo's coach, the Sabres pounded the Rangers. Prior to Tuesday's victory, the Rangers had lost three straight games, and Esposito had threatened changes.

A 6-3 victory on Buffalo's home ice snapped the Sabres' five-game winning streak and may have saved some Rangers from demotion.

"Friday night, we didn't take advantage of our chances," Esposito said of Buffalo's 6-3 victory in Madison Square Garden. "Tonight when we got the chances, we capitalized."

New York trailed 3-1, but scored five straight goals, and goaltender John Vanbiesbrouck stopped several scoring opportunities late in the game. Tony McKegney collected three goals and an assist to help defeat the team for which he played from 1978-1983. Pierre Larouche added two goals for the Rangers.

Elsewhere, Quebec nipped Minnesota 5-4. Pittsburgh whipped Edmonton 5-2. Washington routed Detroit 8-2. St. Louis edged the Islanders 3-2. Calgary blanked Vancouver 2-0 and Los Angeles clobbered Winnipeg 8-3.

Daniels' To Face Hearing May 8

NORTH LAS VEGAS, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada-Las Vegas basketball recruit Lloyd Daniels was ordered Tuesday to appear in court May 8 for a preliminary hearing on a charge of attempting to possess a controlled substance.

Daniels, 19, was one of 60 people arrested Feb. 9 during a police surveillance of a residence where cocaine was allegedly sold.

The day after Daniels was arrested, UNLV Coach Jerry Tarkanian said Daniels would never play for the Runnin' Rebels.

Daniels, considered by many to be the best high school basketball player to come out of New York City since Lew Alcindor, was described by Tarkanian as the best player he ever recruited.

Daniels transferred to UNLV this spring and Tarkanian's staff had hoped the 6-foot-8 player would be eligible in December.

Tarkanian said he expects Daniels to complete the semester at UNLV and then transfer to a junior college or another four-year, Division I school.

The coach said it was possible that Daniels, if he is cleared of the drug charge, could play professionally in Europe.

Louganis Takes Owens Award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Greg Louganis owes his success in diving to talent and hard work. He may owe his life to a meeting he had with a 12-year-old boy.

In 1983, the year before he won his two Olympic gold medals, Louganis saw a 12-year-old diver smoking a cigarette near the pool. When Louganis told him he should not smoke, the boy responded: "When I grow up I want to be just like you. I've seen you smoking cigarettes."

That jolted Louganis and it played an integral role in helping him to quit smoking and admitting to himself he had a drug and alcoholic dependency. Louganis stopped smoking and drinking in November 1983, 10 months before he won his gold medals in Los Angeles.

Three years later, however, Louganis is being recognized for his achievements and Tuesday was honored as the winner of the 1987 Jesse Owens International Trophy Award as the world's outstanding amateur athlete.

Louganis received 91 points in voting from a worldwide panel of judges to outpoll Jackie Joyner-Kersey, the world record holder in the heptathlon. Joyner finished with 70 points.

Lady Patriots Open With Bang

A six-run second inning paved the way as Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots opened the 1987 season with an 8-2 victory over Winter Park Tuesday in prep softball action at Merrill Park in Altamonte Springs.

Stacey Brandenburg was 3 for 3 to lead the 13-hit Brantley attack while twin sister Tracy Brandenburg was 2 for 4 with a double and two RBIs. Nikki Burke, Heather Meyer, Kim Robinson and Deana Jeffers had two hits each while Pam Wittig was 1 for 2 with a triple.

"It was a good way to open the season," Lake Brantley assistant Debbie Frank said. "The girls looked sharp and ready to play, hit the ball well and played solid defense."

Robinson was also the winning pitcher as she gave up just four hits, struck out one and walked two.

Lake Brantley, 27-6 and district champions last season, returns to action today at 4:15 against Orlando Evans at Merrill Park. The Lady Patriots go up against Orlando Boone Friday afternoon in a rematch of last year's region playoff which Boone won, 4-2.

Torrid 'Hounds Net Another Win

The Lyman High School boys' tennis team improved its record to 3-0 on Tuesday afternoon as the Greyhounds defeated Orlando Oak Ridge, 6-0, at Oak Ridge High.

"We are playing good tennis right now," Lyman coach Jack Bloomingdale said. "I think that we have one of the better teams in the area."

Lyman will travel to Lake Mary today to take on the Rams.

Lyman's number one player, Eric Hochman (4-0) started things out for Lyman by defeating Drew Yourka, 8-3.

Steve Westmoreland followed with an 8-4 win over Mark Deutsch. Steve Huber shut out Mike Kimball, 8-0. Matt Albert handled Brian Bauller, 8-0. Todd Heiser defeated Matt Deboard, 8-2.

In doubles action, Hochman and Westmoreland defeated Yourka and Deutsch, 8-2. The final doubles match was rained out.

Tribble Surrenders To Police

HYATTSVILLE, Md. (UPI) — Brian Tribble, charged in connection with the drug death of basketball star Len Bias, surrendered to police Tuesday to face other charges stemming from an alleged police chase.

Tribble, 24, accompanied by his attorney Thomas Morrow, arrived at the Hyattsville police station Tuesday morning. He was released on personal recognizance after a brief hearing before a Prince George's County District Court commissioner, police Lt. Wayne McCully said.

Tribble also was given permission to retrieve his 1979 Mercedes 450SL, which police impounded Feb. 16 after it was found abandoned following a brief chase through part of the city, McCully said.

Stocks Slightly Off

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices opened slightly lower today in active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.

The Dow Jones Industrial average, which rose 6.74 Tuesday, was off 1.83 to 2221.45 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 570-393 among the 1,413 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape.

Early turnover amounted to about 14,746,000 shares.

The stock market finished higher Tuesday in subdued trading while investors sought a clearer view of the Brazil debt situation and waited for Thursday's Tower Commission report on the Iran-Contra affair.

Traders said a strong bond market, an easing of price declines in the stocks of money center banks and some buoyancy among pharmaceutical issues helped equity prices.

"The market is trading water while people try to get a better flavor of what will happen with the dollar and oil prices," said Ernie Rudnet, manager of block trading at Mabon Nugent & Co.

Rudnet said unless "irragate" developments get "totally out of hand," they will not raise much concern on Wall Street.

"It was very quiet," said Jack Baker, head of the equity block trading desk at Shearson Lehman Brothers.

...Fees

For those cities which have an impact fee ordinance, Nabors said a separate interlocal agreement would be necessary so that the county would get some money but the developers wouldn't be charged twice for the same improvements.

Nabors explained there are two types of road impact fees a county can adopt — one of them allowing the cities to opt out.

The first is an improvements-driven system such as the county is considering. The other is a standards-driven system. The difference is that the improvements-driven system starts with a specific list of road work to be done and formulas charges to cover it. "In that type of system, the county roads must include the municipalities. Legally, we have the right to impose this." In the standards-driven system, he said the cities have the right to opt out.

One of the major concerns expressed by Roger Neiswender, chairman of the 17-member

Gold Moves Higher As Dollar Declines

By United Press International

The U.S. dollar opened lower in light trading on major world currency markets today. The price of gold moved higher.

In earlier trading in the Far East, the dollar closed at 153.55 yen, down 0.24 from Tuesday's close of 153.79 in light trading.

On the European currency markets, the dollar traded within very narrow limits, and traders were reluctant to open new positions, a London analyst said.

"Fears of Central Bank intervention remain in the background and there are U.S. durable goods statistics to consider later Wednesday afternoon," the analyst said.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at 1.8225 German marks, down from 1.8388 and in Zurich, the dollar opened at 1.5422 Swiss francs, down from 1.5567.

The rate in Paris slipped to 6.069 French francs, down from 6.118 and in Brussels, the dollar opened at 38.21 Belgian francs, down from 38.62 on Tuesday.

In Amsterdam, the dollar opened at 2.0620 Dutch guilders, down from 2.078.

In Milan, the dollar slipped below the 1,300 lire mark to open at 1,296.50, down from 1,307.50 and in London, the pound opened at $1.5405, compared with $1.538 on Tuesday.

In early New York trading the dollar was mixed against major foreign currencies in light trading.

The price of bullion opened $4 an ounce higher in Zurich at $403 and gained 75 cents an ounce in London to $402.50.

The morning fixing in London was $406.70, up $4.95 from Tuesday's close.

Silver opened 5 cents an ounce higher in Zurich at $5.45 and also opened 5 cents higher in London at $5.50 an ounce.

In earlier trading in the Far East, gold closed at $403 an ounce on the Hong Kong Bullion Exchange, up 75 cents from Tuesday's close.

Interest Rates, Dollar Drop Foreseen

TOKYO (UPI) — Leading economist Henry Kaufman predicted today that sluggish economic growth and continued trade problems will bring a further decline in both U.S. interest rates and the dollar's value this year.

Kaufman, chief economist for Salomon Brothers Inc., said at a news briefing he expected U.S. interest rates would dip by 0.5 to 1 percent before year's end and the dollar would fall to 140 yen from the current 153 level.

He said the U.S. Federal Reserve

Impact Fee Review Committee, was that low cost homes would be charged as much as luxury homes even though it was a much greater percentage of the total cost. This, he said, would mean an inequitable charge for those least able to pay.

"Affordable and low cost home generate fewer trips than the large-scale houses," Neiswender said — and traffic generation is the major consideration in charging the fees. He said there should be a tap on the general fund to subsidize fees that would otherwise be charged to builders of low-cost and affordable housing.

He also suggested that government facilities be charged the same impact fees as developers, which was not in the ordinance.

Finally, he said, if legal fights ensue and the cities won't participate, "We think you should revisit the issue."

Commission Chairman Fred Streiman wanted to waive a lien provision in favor of getting interlocal agreements, but the board decided the liens might be necessary after the 90-day wait on the agreements.

Mrs. Glenn had some serious concerns about whether the right roads will be on the fix list for the future. She said some roads in the cities take as much traffic as collector roads, "and maybe we need to expand our county road system." She was told there would be an annual update of the ordinance for that type of thing.

But she was also concerned that the state was dropping some of its roads to the cities and counties and they would also need fixing. She also suggested that alternative fees should be possible if less impact could be proven. And she said some cities have roads less than 3 1/2 miles which are still "connectors" to other major roads even though DOT hasn't labeled them as such.

County Administrator Ken Hooper reminded the board they had already approved the fix list in 1983 when local option gas tax came into being.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff voted with Mrs. Glenn and Streetman, while Mrs. Christensen dissented to having the ordinance go into effect in full after 90 days.

Jernigan and Dave Farr, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, plan to attend the first National Senior Olympics to be held in St. Louis, Mo., June 27-July 2. Jernigan said they hope to see some of the athletes who qualfied at the Sanford Games to compete in the Nationals there.

He said the committee will discuss entry forms, look at the fee schedule and finalize the 1987 schedule at the March meeting.

been married two years, according to reports.

A detective for the Ft. Lauderdale Police Department who posed as a hired killer told jurors Monday that Butler offered him $2,500 to break into Ms. Morris' apartment and wait for her return. He was then supposed to maim her. He said Butler told him there were worse things than death. He said Butler also talked about the possible maiming of Ms. Morris' 14-year-old daughter and killing her 20-year-old son. The detective was brought into the case after Butler reportedly called another man in Ft. Lauderdale and tried to arrange the incident. That man called the police.

The detective said he flew, at Butler's expense to Orlando, first met with police who wired him to record conversations, and met with Butler. Butler was arrested shortly after he and the detective left Morris' apartment parking lot.

He also thanked his two sons, one who was away at American University in Washington, D.C. and one who was in prep school and present at the banquet. Newman said his son at home likes to listen to the police scanner and often rides along with him to an emergency.

"I really appreciate his companionship," he said.

Newman also thanked his assistant Mark Winstead and said, "I really depend on him," and added that without the support of his medical office staff who take charge of his patients when he is called out suddenly to an emergency, he could not do it.

He credited the people he works with during the emergencies such as the police, firefighters and paramedics. These people are the "players in the game. The players who are really in the ditches."

Rock Lake Middle School principal Sal Manfre explained his reasons for nominating Mrs. Secor in his recommendation letter which said in part "in my professional judgment, Cindy greatly deserves this award because of her caring and innovative teaching strategies and continued zest for learning and love for teaching. It would make me extremely happy if every undergraduate student in education today would experience their internship with Cindy to better enhance their own growth in the educational field."

Mrs. Secor has taught in Seminole county for 14 years and at Rock Lake for eight and says she believes that students should feel good about themselves and have the right to feel successful in everything they do.

"I feel that reaching each child, on their ability level, is the best thing I can do to make them develop a good self-concept. I try to make English appeal to their interests, to their world and to their needs," she said. "My most important goal is for the student to feel as excited about English as I."

Mrs. Smith said she was "very, very proud" to present the public servant's award to Haddock. "Not only is Johnnie a hard taskmaster requiring a degree of excellence in the refuse pickup area, but he displays an uncommon concern for his employees. He trains them well and advises them of their opportunities.

She added that Haddock "brings a great deal of credit on himself, his division and the city as a whole. We are a better work place for having Johnnie with us."

Cook Of The Week

After New Jersey, Central Florida Offers The Best Of Country Living To Homemaker

By Dorothy Greene
Herald Correspondent

Our Cook of the Week, Elaine Mosler, is a far cry from her New Jersey roots, but has settled very easily into the Central Florida lifestyle, and loves it. Since leaving her home state in 1972, Mrs. Mosler has enjoyed "country living" at its best, combining her own flair for cooking with some of her husband's fresh garden vegetables and her mother's Holland-Dutch home style recipes, which she treasures.

In the bright and cheerful kitchen of her beautiful home on the Little Wekiva River in Longwood, our cook can often be found turning out her light and delicious Crown Cake, the perfect accompaniment to a cup of coffee. She also enjoys making some old-fashioned family dishes such as Hot Holland Slaw, "It's made with mashed potatoes, hard boiled eggs, bacon and kale — it's a whole meal in itself," says Mrs. Mosler. Citing that her mother was a good cook, Mrs. Mosler picked up many other favorite recipes just by watching her mother cook. She also recalls the times when she and her brother, Charles, spent happy afternoons at the movies. "On a Saturday afternoon Mother would pack us up and take us to the movies," she says. "Then, when we got home, she'd make grilled liverwurst and onion sandwiches and, oh, that was good. Mother worked, so Saturday and Sunday were our days."

After her years at Ridgewood High School in New Jersey were over, our cook was a switch-board operator for several years before going to work for State Farm Insurance Co. as a claims clerk. During those years, her daughter, Patricia Ann, came along. Patricia is married to Robert Vanderway and lives in Pompton Lakes, N.J. "We can't convince her to come down," says Mrs. Mosler. "She loves the snow and calls to tell me when it's snowing up there!" Mrs. Mosler's daughter works as a paralegal for a real estate firm and enjoys her career.

Even though her daughter is hundreds of miles away, Mrs. Mosler has several decorative wall hangings, gifts from her daughter, and each with its own meaningful phrase, to wit: "A Mother Holds Her Children's Hands For A While — Their Hearts Forever," and "Mothers Are Great, Especially Mine," and another which reads "Some People Are Special." Each one is a personal tribute to our cook of the week.

When Mrs. Mosler made her decision to move to Florida, she had been widowed for several years and made the brave move with a New Jersey neighbor who was also a widow. A lucky job transfer made it possible for Mrs. Mosler to live in DeBary and work in Daytona for State Farm. She met her "gem," Harvey J. Mosler, who was a widower at the time also, at a dance and they were married in June, 1973 after a very short courtship. Harvey is a retired builder of custom homes, many of which he designed himself. Mrs. Mosler remembers having a great deal of fun and excitement during the time her husband was building their own home. "He pulled out some plans he had made of a house with a wedge-shaped kitchen, and I said, 'Don't go any further. I like that one! That kitchen is perfect,'" she exclaims. "So that's how this house started," she adds. After several modifications at her request, their home was complete, comfortable and inviting, and, says Mrs. Mosler, "It was fun. It was the first time I had ever done anything like that."

Together, the Moslers find flea markets and garage sales a great way to spend time and have fun. "We just bought a new motor home," says Mrs. Mosler, "and I guess we'll be making trips in that. You can almost always find something growing in the Mosler garden year 'round and Elaine Mosler gives her husband all the credit for his green thumb. "He does the gardening, and I do the canning," she laughs. "We work together with things like that." Lauding her husband's talents in woodworking, Mrs. Mosler proudly displays an adjustable frame he fashioned for her embroidery work which can be adapted to any height or angle she prefers while doing her needlework. Another example of Harvey's handiwork is a beautifully crafted wooden chest which houses all of his wife's embroidery thread and tools in a neat and orderly fashion. "He's a remarkable man," says Mrs. Mosler, "and a gem. And I'm so lucky."

Through her husband's son, John, and his wife, Eleanor, Mrs. Mosler became a grandmother the very moment they were married and she enjoys their visits and close family ties. Their

"and when Barbie visits she loves to cook. She says, 'Now, Grandma, you go sit down and I'll do this and I'll do that.' She made a super supper for us. And if I'm cooking when Pam comes, she helps, too."

An occasional card game with friends is a pleasant pastime for the Moslers, but, as far as hobbies go, gardening is at the top of the list. "It keeps us in a good supply of fresh vegetables," says Mrs. Mosler. "He grows two crops, a winter crop and a summer crop." Beats, turnips, kohlrabi, peas, cauliflower, onions, tomatoes and cabbage are the mainstays of Harvey's healthy winter crop, and when the summer time comes he'll be harvesting corn, green beans, tomatoes, onions, radishes, lettuce, squash and a whole lot more. Freezing and canning is a must and the Moslers enjoy their home grown gifts of nature all year long. "This past year," adds Mrs. Mosler, "we had the best crop of oranges since the big freeze and we put juice up in the freezer. It's a joint effort when we do anything like that. I'm a city girl, and he turned me into a farmer," she laughs, "but I love every minute of it. I had to learn so much, but everything is a challenge and everything is a pleasure. Thank goodness for Better Homes and Gardens' canning book. I don't know what I would have done without it!"

Mrs. Mosler prizes a small collection of tea cups she has on display in her cozy kitchen, each bearing its own sentiment, but a much larger collection is hidden behind a cupboard door — cookbooks galore! An additional

Mr. and Mrs. Gregory Michael Cusumano

Gail Pappas, G.M. Cusumano Repeat Vows

Gail Marie Pappas of Altamonte Springs, and Gregory Michael Cusumano of Orlando, were married Jan. 30, at 8 p.m., at the Altamonte Chapel, Altamonte Springs. The Rev. William Butsko performed the traditional, double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Gillies, Winter Park. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph A. Cusumano, Orlando.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose for her vows a formal gown fashioned along the Victorian silhouette. The basque bodice featured a stand-up collar, floured log-of-mutton sleeves and a satin ribbon at the yoke which was defined in lace-trimmed ruffles. The lace-floenced hemline gracefully cascaded into a sweeping chapel train. The bride wore diamond earrings and a gold necklace and diamond pendant especially made for her and given to her by her late grandmother. Her Gibson girl hairstyle was highlighted by a white rose brocade hairpiece. She carried a bouquet of wine-colored roses, fern and baby's breath accented with an iridescent bow and ribbon.

Polly A. Berger attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore a dark wine-colored gown styled with a sweetheart neckline and short gathered sleeves. A double tie sash wrapped the bodice of her asymmetrical skirted gown. She wore an antique pearl necklace and wine satin shoes. She carried a single white rose accented with fern, baby's breath, an iridescent bow and ribbon.

Adam Soloman of Fern Park served the bridegroom's best man. Ushers were Michael Rydell of Orlando, and John W. Burr of Mt. Dora. The bridegroom and best man wore light grey Carrington-style formal wear. Ryan Pappas, 10, son of the bride, and Jamie Cusumano, 8, son of the bridegroom, also wore light grey tuxedos.

A buffet dinner, dancing and entertainment at the Elk Club, Winter Park, followed the wedding. Assistants were sisters of the bride, Sandy Gillies and Gigi Morris, and her husband, Jeffrey Morris, and Polly Berger.

A rose theme and the colors gray and white were carried out at the wedding and reception. The bride designed all of the bouquets for the bridal party and flowers at the altar. She also designed the 4-tier wedding cake.

Out-of-town guests included the bride's grandmother, Mrs. Edna Wright of Leesville, La., and Charlie and Dawn Brownlie of Enfield, Conn.

Free Community Seminar

"Senior Power: Winning Ways to Wellness" is the topic of a free community seminar sponsored by West Lake Hospital and South Seminole Community Hospital on Wednesday, March 11 from 7-9 p.m. The seminar, which is geared for senior adults, will be held at the Medical Office Building Classroom on the South Seminole Medical Complex.

A panel of medical experts will lead the workshop, and include

Nicholas Mabry, M.D., family practice; Gayle Phillips, R.N.; Judy Coughlin, T.R.S., activity therapist; and Donna Roblison, A.D.A., dietician.

Two continuing education units will be offered to seminar participants.

Attendance is free but reservations are requested by calling West Lake Hospital's Community Relations Department at 260-1900, ext. 102.

...Cook

bookcase houses many, many more. "and I just bought two more today," she laughs. "Yes, I do collect cookbooks."

Perhaps the most difficult task for our cook is preparing meals for two in small amounts. "If you have a recipe and it serves six," she says, "what can you do? I just made a chicken pie and it'll take us another couple of days to finish it," she chuckles.

For special times, our Cook of the Week calls on some of her favorite dishes that have been requested time and again. Included in her collection below are her mother's and her husband's own recipes:

DUTCH DOUGHNUTS
1 1/2 cups milk, scalded
1 envelope, plus 1 teaspoon dry yeast
3 cups all-purpose flour
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons chopped raisins
2 tablespoons chopped, candied orange peel
1 1/4 teaspoons grated lemon rind
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons sugar
vegetable oil
powdered sugar
Cool milk to lukewarm (105° to 115°); add yeast and let mixture stand 5 minutes. Combine flour, sugar, salt, raisins, orange peel and lemon rind in a large bowl; stir. Add yeast mixture and eggs; stir until dough is smooth. Cover and let rise in a warm place (85°), free from drafts, until doubled in bulk. Stir dough down. Pour oil in skillet to a depth of 1 inch. Heat to 375°. Drop dough by tablespoonfuls into hot oil. Cook 5 to 7 minutes, turning once, until brown. Drain on paper towels; sprinkle with powdered sugar. Yield: about 2 1/2 dozen.

HOT HOLLAND SLAW (WITH MASHED POTATOES)
Add to 6 or 8 large boiled and mashed potatoes: 1 small chopped onion, 1 hard boiled egg, broken in pieces, 4 slices crisp fried bacon, crumbled, a few leaves of washed, snipped Kale, 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1/2 teaspoon sugar, and salt and pepper to taste.

CHICKEN PIE
A 2 1/2 to 3 pound fryer, cut up. Cover with water in a Dutch oven or large pot. Add a teaspoon of salt and simmer for about an hour. Drain the chicken. Reserve about 2 to 3 cups broth. Set the chicken aside to cool.
To the reserved broth, add the following:
2 large carrots, scraped and sliced
1 small can of peas, or 1 cup of fresh peas
2 potatoes, scraped and diced
2 ribs celery, sliced
1/2 teaspoon poultry seasoning
Bring to a boil, then reduce heat and simmer for 20 minutes, or until vegetables are tender.
Add 3 tablespoons flour to 1/2 cup milk and mix well. Add to vegetables and broth, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove chicken from bones and cut into pieces. Add chicken to the broth and vegetables. Place in a casserole and top with your favorite pie crust recipe or your favorite biscuits. Bake at 400° for about 20 to 25 minutes. Brush top of pie crust or biscuits with butter, if desired. Serves 6 to 8.

HARVEY'S SWEET 9-DAY PICKLES
Place cucumbers in a crock in salt water. Use canning salt, not table salt. Add enough salt to water to float an egg. Cover with a plate and weight it down with a heavy object to submerge the plate below the level of the brine. Leave pickles in the salt brine for 5 days.

On the 6th day: pour off the brine and cover the pickles with fresh boiling water. Place the plate on top of the pickles again, weighted down.

On the 7th day: pour off the water. Place horseradish leaves or grape leaves in bottom and between each layer of pickles. Then for each gallon of pickles, add 1 tablespoon of powdered alum and cover again with boiling water. Place the plate on top, weighted down.

On the 8th day: pour off and save the alum water and reheat to boiling. Pour back over the pickles and cover as before. Let stand for one day.

On the 9th day: pour off alum water and cover with fresh boiling water. Let stand for one day.

10th day: Split or slice pickles into quart jars. Cover with hot syrup.

Hot syrup — 1 batch:
3 cups sugar
1 cup vinegar
1/2 tablespoon pickling spice
9 batches:
9 cups sugar
3 cups vinegar
1 1/2 tablespoons pickling spice
Bring syrup to a boil and ladle into brined pickles in jars. Seal. (You will need about 3 batches of syrup for each gallon of pickles.)

MEATBALL SOUP
1/4 pound chopped beef
1 egg yolk
1 tablespoon grated Romano cheese dash of salt
1/2 slice bread, soaked in water and squeezed dry
1 teaspoon parsley
Mix all ingredients together and shape into small meatballs the size of marbles.
Bring to a boil the following:
2 cups beef broth
3/4 cup soup pasta
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
Add the meatballs. Simmer for about 5 to 7 minutes or until the pasta is cooked to your liking. Serve with grated cheese. Enough for 4 to 6 people.

CROWN CAKE
Measure into large bowl:
2 cups flour, sifted
1 1/2 cups sugar
1/2 cup Crisco
1 teaspoon salt
3/4 cup milk
Mix for 3 minutes with electric beater.

Add: 1/2 cup milk 2 unbeaten eggs, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 3 teaspoons baking powder. Beat until blended. Bake in a greased and floured tube pan at 350° for 30 to 35 minutes. Dust with powdered sugar when cool.

FISH PARMESAN (Microwave)
1 pound filet of sole
1/4 teaspoon seasoned salt
2 tablespoons butter or margarine
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/2 cup mayonnaise
2 tablespoons chopped green onions
paprika

Wipe and dry fish. Arrange fish in glass baking dish. Sprinkle with seasoned salt. Dot with butter and cover with waxed paper. Microwave on high power for 2 minutes. Blend Parmesan cheese, mayonnaise and onions. Spread cheese mixture over fish. Cover with waxed paper and microwave on high for 2 to 3 minutes. Sprinkle with paprika before serving. Serves 2 to 3.

DIVINE CHICKEN (Microwave)
3/4 cup fine, dry bread crumbs
4 tablespoons minced parsley
1 cup melted butter or margarine
2 teaspoons salt
6 tablespoons lemon juice
3/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 clove garlic, crushed
4 chicken breast halves, boned
dash of paprika

Blend bread crumbs, Parmesan cheese, parsley, and pepper. Combine melted butter and garlic with salt. Dip chicken into butter then into crumb mixture, coating thoroughly. Roll each piece into firm roll and skewer with wooden toothpick. Arrange in a 12x8-inch casserole dish. Sprinkle with lemon juice and drizzle remaining butter over chicken. Cover with waxed paper. Microwave at medium high for 12 to 15 minutes. Let stand 3 to 4 minutes before serving. Sprinkle with paprika before serving. Serves 2 to 4.

MOM'S LEMON-FILLED SPONGE ROLL
Cake:
3 eggs
grated rind of one lemon
1 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
1 cup sifted flour
1/2 cup water
1 1/2 teaspoons baking powder
In a bowl, beat the eggs until light and fluffy. Gradually beat in sugar until well dissolved.

Blend remaining sugar, flour and salt together in a saucepan. Add the grated lemon rind, water and beaten egg. Cook, stirring constantly, until sauce is thickened. Remove from heat and stir in the butter and lemon juice. Chill thoroughly before spreading over the unrolled cake. Roll and sprinkle generously with confectioner's sugar. Slice and serve. Serves 10.

COCONUT-PEACH CHIPFON PIE
1 cup drained, diced cannon cling peaches
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 package orange Jell-O
1 1/4 cups hot water and peach juice
1 cup heavy cream
1 tablespoon sherry extract
Coconut (cut fine)
1 baked 9-inch pie shell
Sprinkle peaches with lemon juice. Dissolve Jell-O in hot water and peach juice. Chill until slightly thickened. Place in bowl of ice and water and whip with rotary egg beater until fluffy and thick like whipped cream. Add 3/4 cup of cream and stir mixture until thickened again. Add sherry extract, 1/4 cup of the coconut and peaches. Continue stirring in ice bath until again thickened. Turn into pie shell. Chill. Before serving, whip remaining cream and pile lightly around the edge of pie. Sprinkle with remaining coconut. Garnish with mint leaves and additional peaches.

Remove top crust from thoroughly chilled Camembert. Place cheese on a triple-fold of aluminum foil and crumple the edges around the cheese to form a flat pan. Place cheese under a broiler with cut side up about 3 inches away from the source of heat. Broil just until the top surface of the cheese is soft and melted, about 1 minute. Remove from broiler.

To spread melted cheese, scrape across the top with a serving knife and spread on thin slices of biscottes. Replace cheese in broiler and repeat melting and scraping until cheese is gone. Raise the boiler pan as the cheese gets smaller to keep cut surface 3 inches from the source of heat. Serve warm. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

CAMEMBERT EN CROUTE
1 package pie-crust mix
1 8-ounce wheel Camembert
Prepare pie crust according to package directions. Divide dough in half. Roll each half into 8-inch-by-8-inch squares and cut into four 4-inch squares. Cut Camembert into 8 wedges and wrap each wedge in a 4-inch square of pie-crust dough, sealing the seams. Bake in a 425-degree oven for 10 to 15 minutes, or until crust is brown. Serve hot or chill before serving. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 8 servings.

RACLETTE AU CAMEMBERT
1 8-ounce wheel Camembert (or Brie), well chilled
French biscottes (rusk-like slices of toast) or French bread
Remove top crust of Camembert and scoop out cheese, leaving shall intact. Cut Camembert in small cubes. In a bowl, place apple, celery, walnuts and Camembert. Mix lightly with a fork until blended. Pile mixture into reserved Camembert shell to serve. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

CAMEMBERT A LA RITZ
1 8-ounce wheel Camembert
1/4 cup chopped apple
1/4 cup chopped celery
1/4 cup chopped walnuts
Remove top crust of Camembert and scoop out cheese, leaving shall intact. Cut Camembert in small cubes. In a bowl, place apple, celery, walnuts and Camembert. Mix lightly with a fork until blended. Pile mixture into reserved Camembert shell to serve. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 6 to 8 servings.

CHEESE... ..Some Like It Hot
By Aileen Claire
NEA Food Editor
Simple dishes often receive the most compliments. Cheese lovers will enjoy their favorite butter-smooth Camembert or Brie en croute, as a raclette (version of fondue) or with apple, celery and walnuts. Even though some cheese purists object to the current trend of baking or deep frying cheese, you and your guest will enjoy cheese served hot as an appetizer or snack. A sparkling cider or fruity red wine goes well with these cheese treats.

Microwave Magic A Variety Of Vegetables Is On Market Now

Many Florida vegetables are coming on the market at this time. Cabbage, a major crop of Seminole County, is available and reasonably priced. At a local farm stand it was three heads for $1.00. Carrots and onions are in good supply from our area and green peppers are coming to market from south Florida. I recently spoke with Sam Brashear, manager of the State Farmers Market in Sanford who said that local produce will continue to be abundant through the early spring months with corn harvested in May.

Now is a good time to frequent farmers markets. Road side stands, especially those operated by a farmer and used as an outlet for his produce, are usually good places to buy fresh fruit and vegetables too.

If you used your microwave oven for no other reason than to cook fresh vegetables it would be worth the investment. No other cooking method can provide the texture and color, and preserve the nutritive value in such a short cooking time.

The general "rule of thumb" for microwaving of fresh vegetables is: use 100% power, cover the container, allow 6-8 minutes per pound of fresh vegetable and allow 5 minutes standing time to complete the cooking.

Cabbage is a good source of vitamin C. It is high in fiber and low in sodium and calories. Micro-cook the cabbage first until it is fork tender to preserve the nutritive value and strong flavor and odor.

Try different kinds of cabbage for a change of color and texture.

RED AND GREEN CABBAGE SAUTE

6 slices bacon
3 cups shredded green cabbage
1 cup shredded red cabbage
1 tablespoon sugar
½ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons vinegar
Dash of pepper
Arrange bacon on rack in 12x8 inch dish. Cover with paper towel. Microwave on 100% 6 minutes. Let stand. Crumble bacon. Remove rack from dish and discard all but 3 tablespoons bacon fat. Add crumbled bacon, cabbage, sugar, seasonings and vinegar to the dish. Cover the container lid or plastic wrap. Microwave on 100% power 5-6 minutes or until cabbage is tender, stirring after half the time. Serves 4.

Many years ago a student taught me to make this Hungarian dish. It has been a favorite, but I often now make this microwave version.

CABBAGE AND NOODLES

4 cups shredded cabbage
1 small onion, thinly sliced

3 tablespoons butter
¼ teaspoon poppy seeds
¼ teaspoon salt
Dash of pepper
2 cups cooked egg noodles
In a 2 quart casserole combine all ingredients except noodles. Cover. Microwave on 100% power 5-6 minutes, or until cabbage is tender, stirring after half the cooking time. Stir in noodles. Microwave 2-3 minutes until cabbage and noodles are heated through. Serves 4.

Pigs in a blanket or cabbage rolls provide a one dish meal. The large outer leaves can be wilted easily by using the microwave oven.

CABBAGE ROLLS

4 med-large cabbage leaves
Filling:
1 pound lean ground beef
½ cup cooked rice
1 egg
¼ cup chopped onion
¼ cup chopped green pepper
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
½ teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon prepared hot mustard
¼ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
Sauce:
1 cup tomato juice
½ teaspoon basil leaves
½ teaspoon oregano leaves
Microwave whole cabbage on 100% power 2 minutes or until outer leaves can be separated easily. Trim stem from each leaf. Arrange leaves in a 12x8 inch baking dish. Cover with plastic wrap. Microwave on 100% power 2-4 minutes or until leaves are tender.

Blend all filling ingredients. Place ½ of meat mixture on base of each leaf. Fold in sides of leaf, roll up. Place seam side down in 12x8 inch baking dish.
Combine sauce ingredients. Pour over rolls; cover. Microwave on 100% power 7-12 minutes or until centers of rolls are no longer pink, rearranging rolls after half the cooking time. Serves 4.
For the smaller household of 1 or 2 persons, try this meat and vegetable meal.

CABBAGE AND WURST

1 fully cooked wurst (brat or knockwurst) cut into ½ inch pieces.
1 cup shredded cabbage
2 tablespoons shredded carrots
1 tablespoon apple juice
½ teaspoon salt
½ teaspoon dry mustard
½ teaspoon celery seed
Fresh ground pepper
Combine all ingredients in 15 ounce individual casserole. Microwave on 100% power 2-3 minutes or until cabbage is tender and wurst is heated. Stir several times during the cooking. Serves 1 - Can be doubled, but use a 1 quart container and increase the cooking time to 4-5 minutes.

Southern Cook Shares 50 Years Experience

By John DeMara
UPI Food Editor

The biggest secret Camille Glenn reveals in her monumental new book on Southern cooking is not her age — which she quickly avows to be 78 for anyone keeping track of such things.

The biggest secret is the recipe for her Golden Cointreau Cake, a confection that at the start she could not even afford to make but after 50 years in the kitchen still strikes her as her very best dessert.

The openness with which this caterer, cooking teacher and newspaper food columnist sets forth the recipe in "The Heritage of Southern Cooking" (Workman, $14.95) reflects her realistic awareness of time's passage.

"Of course I'd like my book to have a big sale," said Glenn. "Look at my age. If I'm to be a success, I'd better hurry up."

Clearly, Glenn is going all out, as is her publisher. The first printing is an ambitious 100,000-plus. Already, the volume has been chosen as a main selection of the Quality Paperback Book Club and an alternate of the Book of the Month Club's cooking and crafts division.

GOLDEN COINTREAU CAKE

8 large eggs
1 ½ cups sugar
1/3 cup fresh orange juice
1 cup all-purpose flour

1 ¼ tsp Cointreau
¼ tsp vanilla extract
¼ tsp salt
¼ tsp cream of tartar
Cointreau Frosting

Preheat the oven to 325 degrees. Separate the eggs, putting the yolks in one large mixing bowl and the whites in another large mixing bowl.

Beat the egg yolks with an electric mixer until they have thickened and are smooth. Beat in the sugar slowly, then continue beating until the mixture turns a lighter shade of yellow and is smooth. Add the orange juice and blend thoroughly.

Measure the flour, then sift it twice. Sprinkle the sifted flour over the egg yolk mixture and gently fold it in by hand with a whisk or rubber spatula, or with the electric mixer on very low speed. Fold in the Cointreau and vanilla.

Add the salt to the egg whites and beat until they begin to turn white and foamy. Add the cream of tartar and continue to beat until the egg whites hold a stiff peak but are not dry and grainy, about 4 minutes more.

Fold a few spoonfuls of the egg whites into the batter to lighten it. Then add the remaining egg whites to the batter, gently folding them in.

Spoon the batter into a 10-by-4 ½ inch ungreased angel food cake pan (a tube pan with a removable bottom). The pan should be no more than three-quarters full.

Place the cake pan on the middle shelf of the oven and bake until a cake tester inserted into the center of the cake comes out clean, or until the cake springs back at once when lightly touched, about 1 ¼ hours.

Remove the cake from the oven, turn it upside down on the tube pan legs and allow it to rest overnight before frosting.

Loosen the cake with a thin sharp knife and unmold it. Put the cake on a plate or on a flat surface covered with wax paper or foil. Spread the frosting over the cake. Serves 12 to 14.

COINTREAU FROSTING

1 stick unsalted butter, cut into pieces
2 ¾ cups confectioners sugar, sifted
¼ tsp salt

1 large egg yolk
6-8 Tbsp Cointreau, or more as needed
Put the butter in a large mixing bowl. Add the confectioners sugar and salt. Beat well with an electric mixer. Add the egg yolk, then slowly add 6 tablespoons of the Cointreau.

Combine to beat the frosting until it is smooth, thick and pliable, or 3 minutes. Add more Cointreau as needed — it usually takes at least 8 tablespoons. This frosting must be thick.

Frost the cake generously in a swirl design. Allow the frosting to firm for 30 minutes, then lift the cake to a serving platter.

Easy Fingerlickin' Spareribs

Make finger-lickin' spareribs in your microwave in half the time it takes to bake or grill them. This recipe includes a special sauce that's also ready in minutes in the microwave.

RIBS WITH ITALIAN PRUNE SAUCE

2 pounds country spareribs
1 tablespoon flour
¼ cup chopped parsley
3 tablespoons chopped onion
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1/3 to ½ cup packed brown sugar
1 ½ tablespoons cornstarch
½ teaspoon each ground cinnamon, ginger and salt
¼ teaspoon each anise seed and pepper
1 cup orange juice
1 to 2 tablespoons vinegar
3 cups sliced Washington Italian prune-plums

MICROWAVE METHOD: In medium-size microwave-safe container, microwave onion in butter at High for 1 minute or until tender. Stir in brown sugar, cornstarch, spices and salt. Add orange juice and vinegar. Microwave at High for 3 minutes or until mixture thickens and boils; stir twice during cooking. Add prunes; microwave at High for 8 to 10 minutes or until mixture comes to boil. Adjust seasoning with salt. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 3 cups.

To Prepare Ribs: Shake 1 tablespoon flour in large oven cooking bag. Place spareribs on microwave-safe rack in cooking bag; seal and puncture bag as directed on package. Microwave at High for 5 minutes; rotate ¼ turn and microwave at Medium for 10 minutes.

Open bag and spoon 1 ½ cups Italian Prune Sauce over ribs. Reseal bag and microwave at Medium for 10 minutes; let stand 2 minutes. Microwave remaining Italian Prune Sauce at Medium-High for 5 minutes. Remove ribs to serving platter; sprinkle with ¼ cup chopped parsley. Serve with Italian Prune Sauce. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Court Issues Balanced Decision In Rapist Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court opened up the confidential files of rape victims Tuesday to judicial review in a carefully crafted decision designed to balance the rights of victims and the accused.

The case was of particular significance for women's and victim's rights groups that feared wholesale review in open court of confidential reports filed by people who were raped or sexually abused. But the court took a middle ground in balancing the conflicting rights of defendants to confront their accusers and victims to protect their privacy.

The court, in a 5-4 ruling by Justice Lewis Powell, said the defense is permitted to have the material reviewed, but only by the trial judge, who must determine if it relates to the case.

"We find that (the defendant's) interest ... in ensuring a fair trial can be protected fully by requiring that the ... files be submitted only to the trial court for (an in chambers) review. ... To allow full disclosure to defense counsel in this type of case would sacrifice unnecessarily the commonwealth's compelling interest in protecting its child abuse information," Powell wrote.

Powell was joined in his ruling by Chief Justice Rehnquist and Justices Byron White, Harry Blackmun and Sandra Day O'Connor.

In dissent, Justice William Brennan said the defendant should have full access to the records in order to question the word of his accusers. Such questioning, guaranteed by the Sixth Amendment of the Constitution, is a key factor in criminal defenses that seek to show a defendant has been falsely accused of a crime.

Nancy Wasser, an attorney representing the Pennsylvania Coalition Against Rape and the Pennsylvania Coalition Against Domestic Violence, said the Supreme Court modified a Pennsylvania Supreme Court ruling that allowed a more extensive review.

"And that's much more livable than a fishing expedition," Wasser said, but added: "Anything less than complete confidentiality isn't enough."

The case was brought to the high court by Pennsylvania authorities, who challenged the decision that the lawyer representing the convicted rapist had a right to see Child Welfare

Services records.

The records included information from interview sessions with the convicted rapist's daughter — who was the victim of the sexual attack — and other members of his family.

The Pennsylvania court ruled last year the convict, George Ritchie, should be given a new trial unless the state can prove that failure to give his lawyer child welfare records did not affect his case.

However, the Supreme Court sent the case back for further review by the trial judge who may order a new trial after reviewing the Child Welfare Services material.

Ritchie was convicted of incest, deviate conduct and rape of his junior high school-age daughter. He was sentenced to two concurrent terms of three to 10 years and 2 1/2 to five years.

In other action Tuesday, the court:

—Ruled 6-3 a career gambler is engaged in a trade for tax purposes and may deduct his losses at the track from his income tax. The case involved Robert Grotzinger, who, at 58, began full-time gambling on dog races in 1978 after losing his 20-year position at a Peoria, Ill., truck manufacturer.

—Carved out another exception to the exclusionary rule and voted 6-3 to allow the use of evidence seized by police while conducting a search of the wrong third floor apartment.

—Ruled California courts lack jurisdiction over a lawsuit filed against foreign tire makers by the survivor of an accident between a Honda motorcycle and a tractor.

In its appeal of the rape case, Pennsylvania and the women's rights groups argued the state statute protecting the secrecy of the records was enacted to encourage complete reporting of child abuse.

The victim's right to report a crime in confidence outweighs that of the defendant to learn information about his accuser, they said.

"Obviously a crucial source of information regarding sexual offenses against children — the family member or friend who relies on the anonymity of the statute — is gravely threatened," the appeal said. "It is unrealistic ... to expect that the anonymity will be long preserved after it has been disclosed to counsel for a defendant."

Tower Report: Source Of Details On Reagan's Roll

WASHINGTON (UPI) — When the Tower Commission issues its report Thursday about the Iran arms-Contra aid affair, reporters, investigators and the public will be looking for details about President Reagan's knowledge of the scandal that threatens to reshape the last two years of his presidency.

The report will be the first public disclosure of what President Reagan has told investigators about the affair. The panel interviewed Reagan twice and may be the only investigators to question him directly about the secret sale of weapons to Iran and the alleged diversion of profits to the Contras.

The commission, in probably the most comprehensive probe so far into what has become the administration's worst foreign policy fiasco, will take up whether White House officials attempted a cover-up to protect the president once the arms sales became public.

The Tower Commission has been able to compile an extraordinarily detailed account of the Iran-Contra affair because it talked to Reagan twice and examined his personal notes. The Senate Intelligence Committee issued its own report last month but did not reach conclusions about the affair.

The Tower Commission, given a broad mandate to investigate the foreign policy operations of the National Security Council, is led by former Sen. John Tower, R-Texas, and includes former Secretary of State Edmund Muskie and former Air Force Gen. Brent Scowcroft, President Ford's national security adviser.

Among the questions that still may be unanswered once the report is released Reagan's precise role in the affair and when he authorized the first shipment of arms to Iran. Reports have said Reagan has given differing accounts of when he gave the authorization and told the panel he does not recall precise details.

It may add to what is known about the scheme to divert profits to the Contras, but still not conclude what happened to the money.

The commission is not expected to spare some key Cabinet officials from criticism, including Secretary of State George Shultz and Defense Secretary Caspar Weinberger, who opposed the deal, for not having worked harder to stop the sale of arms to Iran.

And it will have a direct impact on the future of two key administration officials — White House chief of staff Donald Regan, under pressure to resign for his part in the scandal, and Robert Gates, who is awaiting confirmation to be CIA director.

Other things to look for in the report: —Was the diversion of funds to the Contras authorized by White House officials with higher rank than national security adviser John Poindexter and his aide, Lt. Col. Oliver North? Both men lost their jobs because of the scandal.

—What was the role of Israel in the Iran arms deal? Did it instigate the deal or was it acting, as it has said, to help a friend and ally?

—What was the role of other countries in the arms sales as well as the diversion of funds to the Contras?

—How deeply was CIA Director William Casey and other top administration officials involved in the affair?

—Were any laws broken including perjury and obstruction of justice in the affair or were attempts to cover up Reagan's role made?

—Did the administration embark on the arms sale to open channels to moderates, as it has said, or was it a deal to swap arms for hostages being held in Lebanon.

—What recommendations are being made to change the National Security Council as well as how the president's foreign policy operates?

—How does the report affect the Senate and House committees investigating the sale and will it make it easier to get testimony from key witnesses who have so far refused to testify?

Eat out at home.

Sometimes, a restaurant meal just isn't the answer to a busy family's schedule. Everybody needs to eat at different times, and they all want different foods. And besides—you're on a budget! But you can enjoy the convenience and variety of restaurant meals by keeping your freezer well-stocked with fresh frozen foods from Publix. It's a wholesome and delicious way to keep your family well fed, no matter how busy they are.

SCAMPI CON VONGOLE
 (Shrimp in Clam Sauce)

2 tablespoons Olive Oil
 1 pound large, peeled and deveined shrimp
 1 can (10 1/2 ounces) Progresso White Clam Sauce
 1/4 teaspoon oregano leaves, crushed
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 3 tablespoons Progresso Italian-style Bread Crumbs

In a large skillet heat olive oil until hot. Add shrimp. Sauté just until shrimp turn opaque. Do not overcook. Add white clam sauce, oregano and lemon juice. Sprinkle bread crumbs evenly over shrimp. Cook over high heat, basting shrimp with sauce, until sauce is slightly thickened, about 1 minute. Serve over pasta, if desired. Yield: 3 to 4 portions.
