Modernization Delayed As Tenant Urges Turbo-Fans For Housing Authority Units

The $100,000 federally funded modernization program at Redding Gardens, one of six public housing units in Sanford, has been delayed.

The Sanford Housing Authority Board (SHA) of Commissioners Wednesday night voted to delay the project after a tenant and new Commissioner E. Wain Cummings questioned the scope of work in the modernization plan. Teri Buratti, a tenant in the project, said if turbo-fans are not installed on the roof of the 100-unit apartment complex for senior citizens, the proposed insulation of walls and installation of ceiling fans in apartments would be a waste of money. The goal of the modernization project is to reduce heat in the apartments during the summer time, she reminded. Turbo-fans are installed on roofs of buildings to provide ventilation of attic space.

Newly appointed Commissioner E. Wain Cummings, a county building inspector by profession, said insulation "only slows down heat, it doesn't stop it. If you don't get ventilation, insulation will be inefficient," Cummings said.

Maurice Parks, SHA director of plants and operations, said the major goal of the modernization program is to reduce the heat in the Redding Gardens apartments in the summer. He said when hot weather begins in late Spring, apartments' temperatures at Redding Gardens rise into the high 90s and stay at those high temperatures until late October.

He said the modernization plans call for installation of hoods over ranges to take up heat from cooking and vent it to the outside. The plans also include changing heating thermostats in the apartments to permit fans to operate not only for heating, but also for air circulation in the summer as well, he said.

Ms. Buratti insisted turning on the fans via the thermostats without ventilation in the attic space would be a waste of money. She said the temperature in her bedroom in the apartment complex, since there is no cross ventilation, at times reaches 113 degrees. "It's a sweat box," she said. A tenant's participation meeting will be held to consider the matter.

Boy, 11, Killed In Crash

An investigation is continuing today into the death of an 11-year-old Casselberry boy killed when he was thrown from the fender of the pickup truck his mother was driving.

The dead boy is David Matthew Federinko, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Federinko, 1820 Center Drive, Casselberry, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

Investigators said the accident occurred Tuesday shortly after noon not far from the boy's home. They said the boy was riding on the right fender of the pickup truck his mother, 36-year-old Patricia Federinko, was driving.

Mrs. Federinko's pickup truck was traveling west on Center Drive when it collided with a car driven by Debra Peterson, 29, of 1815 Center Drive, Casselberry.

Mrs. Peterson had just driven her car out of her driveway and was attempting a left turn to head east on Center Drive when the accident occurred, investigators said.

The boy was thrown from the fender on impact and landed under the Peterson auto, FHP investigators said. The boy was pronounced dead at the scene, they added.

No charges have been filed against either driver, pending completion of the investigation.

Moving Day For SHA

Sanford Housing Authority employees began moving from office space at the Sanford City Hall today to former quarters at Castle Brewer Court on West 10th Street in the city.

The move will save the authority about $1,237 in monthly rental fees to the city.

Within days after Joseph Caldwell became chairman of the housing authority board of commissioners he said the administrative offices would be moved back into one of the city's public housing projects not only to save money, but also to place the administration of the public housing back in the projects themselves.

Currently the authority administration operates 400 housing units in six public housing projects in the city.

Although the authority had a lease with the city of Sanford extending until February, 1982 for the space, the city at the authority's request canceled the lease.

$11 Million Jeopardized

Iron Bridge Hook-Up Pact Falls Through

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

An agreement that would facilitate hook-up of Seminole County and area cities with the Iron Bridge regional wastewater facility could not be reached Wednesday, jeopardizing an $11 million federal grant.

The grant would be used to purchase $8 million in bonds to fund the installation of wastewater transmission lines to the Iron Bridge facility once an agreement is reached.

According to Ernest "Pat" West, executive director of the South Seminole-Orange County Wastewater Transmission Authority, the balk by Casselberry, Winter Park and Seminole County "in the final hour" could "seriously jeopardize an $11,852,000 federal grant and $8 million bond issue."

The Transmission Authority was created in a special act by the Florida legislature to help facilitate the hook-up of wastewater transmission lines from government entities to the Iron Bridge facility. According to West, the Authority is also responsible for helping secure grant monies for the hook-ups.

According to Casselberry Mayor Owen Sheppard, the agreement's penalty clause concerning excess flow is the cause of consternation among Casselberry officials.

City Council vice-chairman Frank Schutte said that Casselberry is allowed 2.8 million gallons of wastewater per day, according to the agreement. "The (revised) penalty clause which we learned of Tuesday night from the mayor states that any excess water will invoke a penalty cost of one month's charge for each day of excess use," Schutte said.

Sheppard, chairman of the transmission board, said he neglected to tell the council members until Tuesday night of the July 15 meeting at which board members approved the revision of the penalty clause.

The original clause, approved by council members, called for a penalty of one percent of the total fee for any use in excess of 200 percent of the original allocation, Schutte said.

Schutte said Casselberry will be the greatest user of the system and has already peaked at the proposed use allotment.

"We would be fined every day," Schutte said. "Not only would we probably go over the allocation through normal use, but there are leaks in the lines and rainwater often infiltrates the lines. This would definitely push us over the amount."

Schutte added that the penalty for Casselberry exceeding its allocation would be approximately $3,000 a day.

"I can't and I have told the mayor that we should not support any penalty clause," said Ed Keuling, Casselberry utility director.

Winter Park, on the other hand, does not feel the charges are distributed equitably, according to assistant city manager John Linton.

"We feel it's front-end loaded," Linton said. "We don't want to pay 30 percent while we're only using 18 percent. Eventually, the amount might be reduced but we think we should pay for only what we use."

Linton said. "We don't want to pay for someone else's growth."

The Seminole County Board of Commissioners said they feel Winter Park's claims have merit, according to Assistant County Administrator Jim Easton. Easton said the commissioners met Tuesday night and decided to hold off on the agreement until the issues are settled.

"The Commissioners feel that Winter Park's issues need to be settled to determine not only the impact that will be made on the city but on Seminole County as a whole," Easton said.

According to West, the Authority will be working with Casselberry, Winter Park and Seminole County officials to "iron out these differences."

At Wednesday's hearing, Circuit Court Judge Kenneth Leffler granted the Authority a continuance until Sept. 11, three days after the anticipated completion date of the Iron Bridge facility construction.

The Iron Bridge facility, owned and operated by Orlando, is located in Oviedo and has capacity to treat 24 million gallons of wastewater a day, according to Raymond Hodell, construction project coordinator.

"We've already begun testing at the plant to determine its capabilities," Hodell said. "And, when the facility is fully operational it will serve Orlando for the first year and then hopefully Seminole and North Orange County."

Any changes made in the original interlocal agreement must be unanimously approved by all participating cities before bond validation can be made, West said.

Housing Authority Audit Set

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

While the federal government continues its probe into why it cost the Sanford Housing Authority (SHA) $533,000 to buy, renovate and re-sell seven houses to low-income families, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) has instructed the SHA to do an audit of that program to find whether it actually owes the housing authority money.

Linda Williams, SHA interim director, told housing authority commissioners Wednesday night, HUD wants an independent audit done of the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program from its inception in 1977 to the present time.

Although the program has been discontinued, one staff person, who is completing details of the program, remains on the housing authority payroll.

The federal agency also recommended that the authority contract the work from the Sanford accounting firm of Greene and Dycus, which recently completed an audit of other SHA accounts. Mrs. Williams said currently she is negotiating with the accounting firm for the additional work.

Greene and Dycus recently completed an audit of other SHA accounts for the period of July 1, 1979 through June 30, 1981. The work cost the authority $3,500.

Mrs. Williams said although the Federal Bureau of Investigation seized records of the CDBG program, the FBI is giving the authority access to those records for auditing purposes.

She said the new audit of CDBG is to begin on Sept. 8. The city of Sanford sponsored the federal CDBG program through the SHA. Its purpose was to buy houses in need of repair, to renovate and repair those houses and then re-sell them to low income families.

Last April Sanford withdrew its sponsorship after City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles discovered that $534,238.07 in federal money had been spent while only seven houses had been acquired and repaired and that only two houses had been re-sold.

Earlier this summer, FBI agents seized records of the program and one agent was quoted as saying the records were to be turned over to a federal grand jury.

The HUD through its Jacksonville office, however, in a 14-page management review report noted that the CDBG program may actually owe SHA money, and that funds of the federal program and the housing authority program may have been "co-mingled."

The report noted that the former housing authority director devoted half his time to the CDBG program while his entire salary was being paid from regular housing authority funds. In addition the report notes that commissioners and the director

Rhyming Lawsuit Set To Tune Of $1 Million

ROANOKE, Va. (UPI) — It's not exactly Shakespeare, and it's not quite Clarence Darrow. But it's a lawsuit, and it rhymes.

Jeffrey Goldstein didn't leave home without his American Express traveler's checks. But when they were stolen and he didn't get the quick refund the firm promises, his lawyer filed a rhyming, $1 million false advertising suit.

Here's how the poetic pleading goes:

"He was much impressed
"With the advertisement of American Express.
"He knew by heart — it could not be doubted:
"When going abroad, don't leave home without it."

Goldstein's lawyer, Burton L. Albert, knew the poetry wasn't Shakespeare, but he told the University of Alabama freshman he decided to write in rhyme because the predicament "lends itself to a little humor."

Goldstein alleged American Express reneged on its advertising promise to promptly replace stolen or lost traveler's checks.

Goldstein, 18, went to Europe after working through high school to save money for the trip. But his traveler's checks were stolen and he alleged the company waited six days before refunding the $720 he lost.

"Jeffrey Goldstein, a pathetic soul,
"Had lost his checks, had nowhere to go.
"And when he went to American Express,
"Their response created great distress."

Goldstein said he did not starve, but he had to eat sparingly and drop some stops from his itinerary. He expected the prompt refund the advertisements trumpeted.

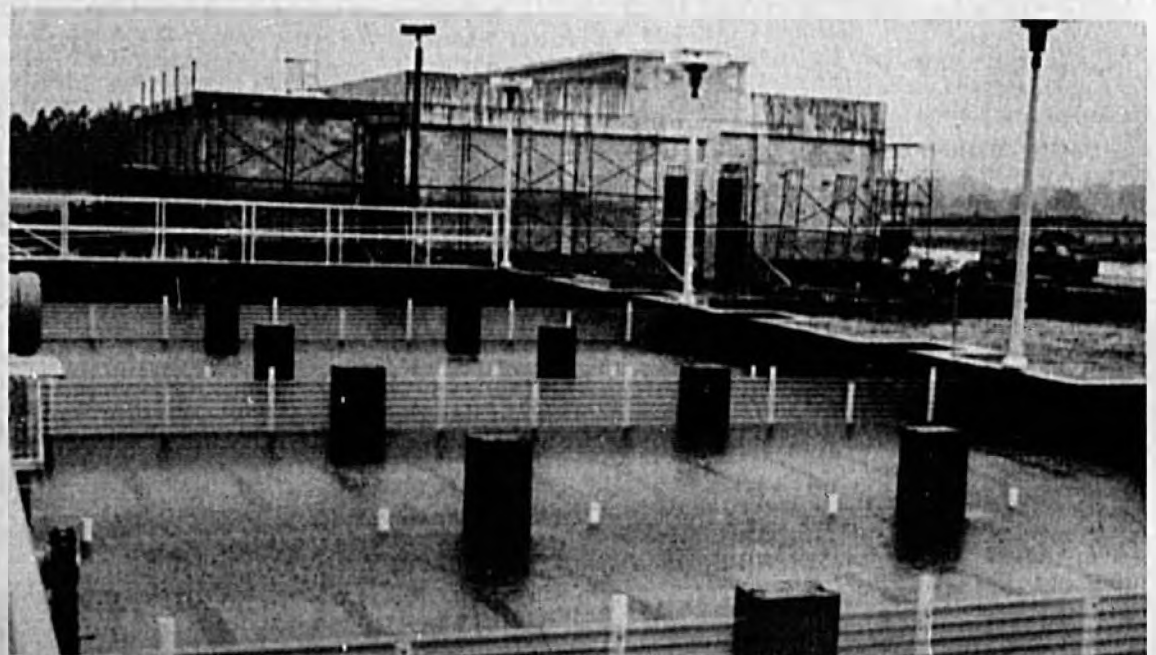

"But, as the tale of Jeffrey will reveal,
"AMEX sometimes reneges on their deal."

While he waited, Goldstein contended, American Express refused to give him a small amount of money to tide him over.

The suit accuses the company of "intentional infliction of emotional distress ... breach of contract" and "... a third claim allowed by our laws

"For damages incurred by advertising false."
Nancy Muller, an American Express spokeswoman, said Goldstein's problem seemed unusual and suggested "mitigating circumstances" in the case.

Spokesman Paul Feldman said in Europe it usually takes longer than the advertised 12 minutes — but not six days — for check replacement. He said records showed Goldstein's replacement authorization took one day.

Charter Revisions On Ballot

Those proposed changes to the Winter Springs city charter are back on the November ballot for public approval, but the voters will get to voice their opinion on only some of the changes which took a 13-member commission months to agree on.

By a 3-2 vote, the council Tuesday night decided to "permanently table" an ordinance which would have repealed the ordinance spelling out the recommended changes.

What that means is that on the fall election ballot, city voters will see only what councilman Hap Arnold called "cosmetic" charter revisions—extending councilmen's terms from two to three years, and changing the council's name to commission.

In May, the 13-member charter revision commission presented council members with two additional changes—switching the method of electing councilmen from the present at-large system to a series of five single-member districts, and mandating that Winter Springs have a city manager instead of leaving it up to the council to decide whether the city has a chief executive officer.

The council, however, scrapped those two proposals and agreed to submit to the voters in a fall referendum only the name change and extension of councilmen's terms.

On July 28, commission member Gary Massey complained about the council's "linking" with the commission's recommendations. Massey chided councilmen as doing a "diservice to the 13 people who worked so hard on that commission and to all the citizens of this city."

WORLD IN BRIEF

Angola Calls For U.N. Help; Warns Of Worsening Battle

LISBON, Portugal (UPI) — Angola called for U.N. pressure to halt a South African invasion, began a full military mobilization and threatened to throw its 20,000 Cuban troops into the "worsening" battle if world pressure does not end the attack.

At the United Nations, a spokesman said Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim cut short a vacation to return to New York today to direct diplomatic efforts. The spokesman said the attacks were "a dangerous escalation of fighting in the region."

Angola, warning the four-day South African attack on guerrillas could cause a wider war, Wednesday called for the Security Council to "take measures likely to avoid confrontations of greater amplitude," the Angolan news agency said in a dispatch monitored in Lisbon.

Haig May Attend Talks

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (UPI) — An Egyptian newspaper says Secretary of State Alexander Haig will represent the United States at the start of the resumed Palestinian self-rule talks agreed to by Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin.

Despite the Alexandria summit agreement Wednesday by the two Middle East leaders to resume the talks in late September, Egyptian newspapers noted the United States has not named a new chief negotiator to the talks, which were suspended more than a year ago.

But the newspaper Al Akbar, in a dispatch from Washington, quoted "well-informed American sources" as saying Haig will represent the United States — presumably to host the resumption of the talks. It gave no further details, saying only Egypt hopes the next round of talks will be in Washington. There was no comment from Washington on the report.

Sanford Eyes Land Deal Profit

The Sanford City Commission has agreed to pay off $756.77 in delinquent taxes to acquire a piece of property on which it may be able to make about $2,000 in profit.

City commissioners earlier this week voted unanimously to pay off the taxes to obtain a lot 194 feet by 50 feet north of W. 15th Street between Southwest Road and Oleander.

The lot assessed value of the lot is $2,600. City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles in a memo to the city commission recommended the city acquire the lot for the taxes owed and sell it at its assessed value.

For Armed Robbery

Sanford Man Gets 3 Years To Life

By BRITT SMITH
Herald Staff Writer

Twenty-four-year-old Sylvester Davis of Sanford will spend at least the next three years in prison, possibly the rest of his life, for his part in a New Year's Eve armed robbery in the parking lot of a local grocery store.

Davis, of 58 Redding Gardens, was sentenced in Circuit Court in Sanford Wednesday to six months to life imprisonment. Because a firearm was used in the crime, he will have to serve a minimum of three years behind bars. In addition to the jail time, Circuit Judge Kenneth Lefler also gave Davis a 15-year probationary term on a conspiracy to commit robbery charge.

Davis was convicted on both counts April 21.

He was accused of robbing James and Nella Jones at gunpoint in the parking lot of the Pantry Pride store, 2944 Orlando Drive, Sanford. Taken was $30 cash and a payroll check belonging to Jones' brother.

Shortly after the hold-up, Davis was stopped in DeLand for a routine traffic check, but disappeared when he was allowed to enter a nearby home supposedly to get his drivers license. A sawed-off shotgun was found in his car and he was later arrested.

In 1979, Davis served as a key prosecution witness against Gregory Mills who was being tried for the shotgun murder of retired Sanford businessman James Wright. Davis received immunity for burglary and robbery charges in return for his testimony, and Mills was convicted. Mills is awaiting execution.

CONVENIENCE STORE ROBBERY

The Shop & Go at Wiley and Sanford avenues was robbed of $63-80 by a masked gunman late Wednesday. Judith Shelton, the 28-year-old store clerk, told Seminole County sheriff's deputies that a man with a stocking over his face entered the store just before midnight brandishing a revolver.

The bandit went behind the counter, emptied the cash register, and fled on foot, Shelton said.

DROWNING VICTIM RECOVERED

The body of a 37-year-old Goldenrod man who drowned Sunday while fishing in Orlando's Lake Fairview was recovered Tuesday afternoon.

Richard Anthony Paton of 7313 Blue Jacket Place in southeast Seminole County fell over the side of a boat while fishing in the middle of the lake Sunday afternoon, according to an Orange County sheriff's report.

He apparently sank and became entangled in some weeds, the report said. It took divers until 1 p.m. Tuesday to find the body.

TEED OFF

Arden Jensen could be really teed off. Jensen, 33, of 338 Spanish Trace Drive, Altamonte Springs, reported to sheriff's deputies that someone broke into his car Monday and stole a set of golf clubs and a pool cue. Total value of the stolen merchandise was estimated at $800.

New Trains On West Coast

Amtrak Cuts Spare Central Florida Area

Amtrak management has proposed a train service cutback of about 10 percent, mainly in the East and Southwest, but plans to add two new trains on the West Coast.

Neither Sanford nor the central Florida area will be affected by the cutback in service, according to an Amtrak spokesman at the Sanford terminal.

"We have two northbound and two southbound trains — the Silver Meteor and the Silver Star — out of here every day," the spokesman said. "And that's the way it's going to stay."

The two new trains include a Spokane, Wash.-to-Portland, Ore. connection for the Chicago-Seattle Empire Builder and a new overnight train between Los Angeles and Sacramento.

The recommendations made Wednesday are subject to approval by the Amtrak board. They reflect a boom in demand for train service on the West Coast, Amtrak officials said.

However, cuts were deeper than expected in the East, where Amtrak recommended cutting back three of the 27 New York-Washington trains, one of the 10 New York-Boston trains and five of the 12 New Haven, Conn.-to-Springfield, Mass. trains.

Amtrak also decided on deeper cutbacks than expected in the West Virginia area, but by cutting the Chicago-Washington Cardinal back to only a Chicago-Cincinnati tri-weekly service, and by dropping a weekend train from Washington to Martinsburg, W.Va., used mainly by sightseers and backpackers.

The recommended cutback is a drop in the bucket compared to the reductions that would have been forced by President Reagan's original budget proposals.

Reagan recommended a $613 million federal subsidy for Amtrak, which could have killed long-distance passenger service.

The board was expected to haggle over some specific cutbacks, and there was no guarantee final approval would come quickly over them.

According to Amtrak and industry sources, other elements of the plan management was prepared to recommend included:

— The Pacific International, from Seattle to Vancouver, British Columbia, would be terminated.

— The North Star, from Chicago to Minneapolis and Duluth, would be killed. But the Chicago-Seattle Empire Builder, which normally operates three times a week in the winter, would operate daily between Chicago and Minneapolis so the Twin Cities would continue to have one daily train to Chicago.

— The Washington-Cumberland, Md., section of the Washington-Cincinnati Shenandoah would continue because the Washington section of the Chicago-New York Broadway Limited would be rerouted to operate over the Chesapeake System east of Pittsburgh, instead of its current route through Philadelphia.

— The Chicago-Texas Interamerican would continue to operate, but only three times a week south of St. Louis. In addition, the train would be halted at San Antonio instead of Laredo, and the branch to Houston would be killed. However, there would be a new connection with the New Orleans-Los Angeles Sunset Limited, allowing service for the first time from such cities as Dallas and Little Rock.

NATION IN BRIEF

North Korean Missile Fired At U.S. Spy Plane

WASHINGTON (UPI) — North Korea fired a surface-to-air missile that exploded within several miles of a U.S. spy plane flying a "routine mission" in South Korean and international airspace, the Pentagon says. The incident occurred Wednesday, one week to the day after the dogfight over disputed Mediterranean waters in which two U.S. Navy fighters shot down a pair of Libyan jets that had fired at them.

"The incident posed no threat to the aircraft, which landed safely," Lt. Col. Jerry Grohowski, a Pentagon spokesman, said of the missile firing.

The Pentagon, in its official announcement, said: "On Wednesday, Aug. 26, the crew of a U.S. Air Force SR-71 flying in South Korean and international airspace reported sighting a contrail and subsequent air burst several miles distant."

Oil Royalty Ripoff Probed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A congressional watchdog agency estimates the public will be shortchanged by as much as $400 million this year on oil royalty payments — just the latest episode in a continuing 20-year ripoff.

Today, a special five-member investigative commission appointed by Interior Secretary James Watt was to convene the first in a series of hearings that will attempt to put an end to the scandal.

As lead witness, acting Comptroller General Milton Socolar was to present the General Accounting Office's findings on the dimensions of the royalty ripoff and some unrelated thefts of oil from federal and Indian lands.

More Elderly Victims Found

DETROIT (UPI) — Five more elderly people, shuttled secretly from a boarding home in Florida to Detroit, have been discovered by police in raids on two homes. Two additional victims were found in licensed homes.

The raids Wednesday morning were at boarding homes in the city and suburban Oak Park believed to be operated by daughters of Lucille Walker, 56, who faces five kidnapping charges for forcing five elderly women to come to Detroit from her Miami boarding home in early August.

In addition, authorities said two other victims of the Miami-to-Detroit connection have been located. The two, John Flowers and Frank Connor, both in their 60s and from Miami, were staying in licensed foster-care homes.

Protests Mark Equality Day

By United Press International

In Washington, 21 women chained themselves to the White House fence. In Seattle, three women staged a Federal Building sit-in. And in Salt Lake City, a woman climbed atop a statue of Mormon pioneer Brigham Young and smacked a policeman with her shoe.

The protests were among hundreds of events Wednesday that marked Women's Equality Day — the 61st anniversary of the 19th Amendment giving women the right to vote and the designated start of a last-chance push for the Equal Rights Amendment.

Thirty-five states have ratified the ERA. Three more are needed by next June 30 for it to become part of the Constitution.

Rallies, marches and demonstrations were the order of the day and women in Washington, Seattle and Salt Lake City got themselves arrested to call the nation's attention to their determination to win full equality.

To Subsidize Housing

Builders Ask For Housing Finance Authority

By DARLENE JENNINGS
Herald Staff Writer

Members of the Seminole County Home Builders Association appealed to the Seminole County Commissioners to pass, by resolution, an emergency ordinance declaring a housing emergency in the area.

The ordinance would clear the way for the county to establish a Housing Finance Authority so citizens interested in low-interest housing bonds could apply for them.

Members of the H-B-A asked the county once before to approve the Housing Finance Authority, but the county turned them down saying the board needed more information about the program than the members had presented.

The H-B-A members told the commission they do have the support of the mayors of Sanford and Altamonte Springs on the bond issue and that one survey reveals 90 people are in favor of the bonds in one subdivision alone.

The deadline for beginning the bonding program is Sept. 1, and to beat it, the commissioners will have to pass an emergency ordinance before next week's commission meeting.

M.O. "Bill" Soforenko, chairman of the Duval County Housing Finance Authority says Jacksonville was the first U.S. city to pass a single-family bond issue and he believes it would be a real public service if the citizens of Seminole County could benefit from the program.

"The program helps young people live in good, clean shelter, and it helps the American Dream come true," Soforenko said.

The Duval official said he also believes the low-interest bonds have a "rippling effect" on older adults whose households have been reduced after their children have gone out on their own. The bonds then allow them to replace the bigger house, which they no longer need, for a smaller home at low-interest rates.

Jerry Feinstein, a partner for the building firm of Residential Communities of America, says there is a need in Seminole County for housing in the $35,000 to $37,000 price range.

"This housing can be produced and people can afford it at lower interest rates. People can afford $400 and less payments a month," Feinstein said.

Two commissioners expressed disfavor with the bond issue for low-interest housing. Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said he would like to see the Housing Finance Authority discouraged in Seminole County.

"The federal government sees problems with it and the program is not as broad as it once was. I would propose shared appreciation mortgages. It is being discouraged at the national level and by informed entities on the local level," Kirchhoff said.

The Message Won't Be Lost

In one sense, what happened the other day in the Mediterranean skies 60 miles off the Libyan coast was a simple enough affair.

Two U.S. Navy F-14s from the carrier Nimitz were intercepted and fired upon by two Soviet-built SU-22 Libyan fighters in air-space the world recognizes as international and thus open to the planes of all nations.

The F-14s returned fire with Sidewinder air-to-air missiles and downed both Libyan fighters. The dogfight took only 60 seconds, and there isn't likely to be another unless Libyan dictator Muammar Khadafy is willing to lose more of his mostly Soviet-supplied air force.

But the significance of the encounter goes far beyond the facts cited above.

In truth, the U.S.-Libyan confrontation has been building for some time.

The xenophobic Col. Khadafy claims absolute sovereignty—as opposed to simply resource ownership—over all Mediterranean waters within 200 miles of the Libyan coast.

He extends this same arbitrary claim to air-space above that 200-mile limit.

These claims are disputed, and hence unrecognized, by almost every other nation on earth, including the United States.

Even so, it's one thing to contest the territorial claims of an unpredictable strong-arm type like Khadafy and quite another to deliberately challenge them by sending a Sixth Fleet battle group into the Gulf of Sidra, as the United States did.

The Reagan administration is denying that any of this was deliberate, but it can hardly have been otherwise.

The Libyans have been harassing Navy planes that fly within Khadafy's 200-mile limit for many months.

But even these provocations might not have been sufficient to prod Washington into insisting on exercising the Navy's rights of free passage were it not for Muammar Khadafy's international conduct.

Kadafy is more than just a regional troublemaker and a particular threat to such U.S. friends as Egypt, the Sudan and Israel.

He is also an indisputable link in the international terrorist network that threatens countries throughout the non-communist world.

The Khadafy regime is the conduit for Soviet-bloc arms and technical assistance to terrorist groups in Europe, the Middle East and Asia.

Khadafy also shells out large quantities of his own petro-dollars to bolster anti-American causes from Central America to the Philippines.

And finally, Khadafy has permitted Libya to become a vast storehouse of Soviet weaponry available for transshipment to places like South Yemen, the Western Sahara and Ethiopia.

For all of these reasons, and because Khadafy had attempted to establish his own terrorist ring in the United States, the Reagan administration expelled Libyan diplomats last May, an act just short of a formal break in diplomatic relations.

And now, the administration has demonstrated that it doesn't intend to permit Col. Khadafy to bar the Sixth Fleet from international waters or the skies above them.

The message won't be lost on the rest of the world's Khadafys, or those they serve.

BERRY'S WORLD

"I'm trying to figure out how I can delegate EVERYTHING, so we could spend the rest of our term, here, on the ranch!"

By DIANE PETRYK

To the gentleman I met at Gooding's supermarket in Altamonte this weekend: I destroyed your cigarettes.

The store's restaurant didn't have its, "Please Wait To Be Seated" sign out, so you said you were just going to sit down.

I noticed you were smoking, so I made a point of choosing the opposite side of the room saying: "Where's the non-smoking section?"

"I don't think they have one," you replied.

"It's wherever I sit," I said.

You continued to smoke through dinner, but when you were leaving you approached my booth.

"Will you do me a favor?" you asked while handing me your pack of Kool Filter Kings. "Get rid of these for me. I've tried to quit 20 times and it just never worked."

You left before I could assure you they would be crushed, torn asunder and thrown out with the used kitty litter. With pleasure.

You also left before I could tell you there's help available if you can't quit smoking on your own.

Florida Hospital offers 3-day How-To-Quit courses on a regular basis. The next session will be held at Florida Hospital-Altamonte Oct. 18-22.

But if you're in a hurry there's one beginning Sept. 20 at Florida Hospital-Orlando.

The course begins at 7:30 p.m. and no pre-registration is required. There's a $20 fee, but think of all the money you're going to save.

I just want to add there's a good reason I choose to sit in non-smoking sections whenever available.

According to the American Lung Association studies have shown there is twice as much tar and nicotine in sidestream smoke than in the smoker's inhale. There's three times as much of a compound called 3-4 benzyrene, which is a suspected cancer-causing agent. Five times as much carbon monoxide, which robs the blood of oxygen. And 50 times as much ammonia. Other compounds in sidestream smoke are being investigated.

Carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless gas. One study shows that after only thirty minutes in a smoke-filled room the carbon monoxide level in non-smoker's blood increases as well as the blood pressure and heart beat.

When non-smokers leave a smoky environment, it takes hours for carbon monoxide to leave the body.

Researchers have found that smoking seven cigarettes in one hour — even in a ventilated room — created carbon monoxide levels of 20 parts per million. In the seat next to the smoker the level shoots up to 90 parts per million, twice the maximum output of carbon monoxide allowed for industry.

Some studies indicate at the levels of carbon monoxide commonly found in smoke-filled rooms people become temporarily physically impaired.

They may not be able to distinguish relative brightness, lose some ability to judge time intervals and take longer to respond — such as to car taillights.

These levels of carbon monoxide in the blood also create physiological stress in heart patients.

A smoker inhales and exhales mainstream smoke for about eight or nine times with each cigarette for a total of 24 seconds. But the cigarette burns for about 13 minutes, constantly polluting the air with sidestream smoke.

Studies are also linking sidestream smoke with the harmful, long-term effects we all know so well.

So if you care about your family, friends and co-workers, make your 21st try the successful one.

DON GRAFF Budget Hassle As Usual

If there is one thing every new president of recent times has in common, it is the necessity of rethinking — and sometimes rethinking and rethinking — the budget.

Now it is President Reagan's turn to return to the fiscal drawing board, only earlier than most of his predecessors. He has barely had time to savor multiple congressional triumphs on a cost-trimming budget and the follow-up tax-cutting bill giving him almost everything he really wanted. Now the word is out that there is something like a $20 billion misunderstanding in his projected budget deficit for 1982.

It is not going to be the $42.5 billion estimated just weeks ago but, as the administration's own economists now see it, in the neighborhood of $60 billion. That is an expensive neighborhood, but well-populated by now. Jimmy Carter moved in earlier, as did Gerald Ford. The latter's $65 billion shortfall bequeathed to the former still stands as a record that even Reagan may be unable to top.

The problem, it now appears, is that the economy is not behaving as expected just weeks ago. Interest rates continue abnormally high — although this has been the situation for so long now that it may be approaching time to regard them as the new normality. And the economy has continued more sluggish than hoped, meaning that it is not going to generate the tax revenues anticipated even with the coming cuts.

This is pretty much what critics of Reaganomics were predicting just weeks ago when the White House was having its way on Capitol Hill. But never mind, that was weeks ago.

Today, all the president's budget men are looking for ways to cut additional fat out of a budget that in the social services area is already almost a candidate itself for food stamps.

Will they succeed? Probably, on paper. Will the economy then behave as expected? If so, it will be to almost every realist's surprise.

Will they have to try again? Possibly. They might even go for Carter's record in that category — three attempts at deficit-trimming budget revision in his last year.

And he still left incoming Reagan holding a $60 billion bag.

But that is now history — that is, months, not just weeks, ago.

What we are now seeing is another validation of some already well-known truths, that 1) forecasting and managing economic trends remain more guesswork and chance than anything resembling a science and 2) even allowing for this built-in imprecision, federal budget-making continues to be as much an exercise in wish-fulfillment as a realistic counting of the costs of government.

The Reagan administration, we are still being told, is engineering a radical reversal in the trends of government, American style, of the last three or four decades. But when it comes to budgeting processes, it's beginning to look just like old times.

CIA's Secret Plan Sounds Like Minefield

WASHINGTON — The Central Intelligence Agency is quietly returning to its old ways of stirring up secret mischief abroad. But because its own covert capabilities have been dismantled, the CIA is using foreign forces, some of them of dubious reliability, to carry out its clandestine activity.

Of course, the CIA is keeping these plans hush-hush. But intelligence reports indicate that the intended victims usually are the first to learn about covert activities directed against them.

The CIA may have acknowledged the real reason for concealing its change of tactics from the American people. A top-secret planning document warns that openness "could panic an American public which has not yet recovered from the Vietnam morning-after syndrome."

CIA strategists are actively planning undercover operations in cooperation with such countries as Egypt, Israel, Turkey, Pakistan, Guatemala, South Africa, South Korea and

BUSINESS WORLD

How To Fire And Be Fired

By LEROY POPE
UPI Business Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — The way business is going nowadays, executives have to learn much more about how to fire people gracefully. They also have to learn how to accept being fired themselves.

This sobering advice comes from Laurence Stybel of Babson College at Wellesley, Mass., who also runs an outplacement agency in Boston that uses retired executives to find job matches.

The accelerated pace of mergers and acquisitions is causing a lot of firing, Stybel said, but inflation, high interest rates, severe competition and the need for technological or strategic policy change also get people fired. Indeed, Stybel added, firing is now so common that much less stigma attaches to it than in the past.

Being fired seldom is the end of the world. Stybel said 80 percent of fired executives who avail themselves of outplacement services find a new job in three to six months and 65 percent find a post that pays better than the one they lost.

Most people still react to being fired with anger and depression. It is a harrowing experience and most chief executives find it almost as difficult to have to fire someone.

Firing someone or accepting your own firing is, like truth, often a highly relative matter, Stybel said. He offers suggestions on how to bring some grace into the proceeding.

For those who are fired, he suggests: —Recognize that being depressed over dismissal is normal. "Don't run to a psychoanalyst's couch."

—Recognize at once that your bargaining power for a good severance settlement is high. The company that doesn't treat fired managers generously will have trouble recruiting executives. So hold out for a good settlement.

—Cut your losses and complications. Avoid a "business as usual" attitude. Devote all your efforts to finding a new job; forget other social and business obligations.

—Try to progress rapidly to the "let's-get-on-with-it" stage. Too often the fired executive goes through several other reaction stages: "It's not happening to me!" "Why did it happen to me?" "If only..." "I'll show those SOB's!"

For the executive who has to do the firing, Stybel offers these suggestions:

—Always fire on Friday. That gives the victim a weekend at home to think things over.

—Be precise. There's no way to cushion the blow. Trying may just lead to false hopes of reconsideration. Stybel cited one case in which the CEO was so timid the victim didn't even get the message and showed for work the next day as if nothing had happened.

—The best month to fire is January because that's when the fired person will have the best chance of finding a new job rapidly. The worst month is June.

—It's best to give the exact reason for the decision to fire.

—The severance package should be negotiated in complete detail and put in writing. The dismissed person should be given continued medical and insurance benefits for a substantial period.

—Too long a severance pay period is no favor. It may only encourage the fired one to take a long paid vacation and put off job hunting until it's too late.

—It's often an excellent idea to let the fired executive continue to have desk space and use the company phone for job hunting.

WASHINGTON WORLD

Smoke Filled Rooms?

By CLAY F. RICHARDS
UPI Political Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Separate committees of the Republican and Democratic parties last week began the job of overhauling the way Americans elect their president.

A third commission, the Duke University Forum, headed by the school's president and former presidential candidate, Terry Sanford, has already completed its research of the topic and is writing its final report.

Members of all three groups have made it clear there will be some fundamental changes in what they believe is a system that is unwieldy, too expensive and most of all does not result in the best person being elected president.

Except for the liberals, who are largely responsible for the system the way it is, almost everyone is calling for what in essence is a return to the smoke filled rooms.

Both parties want to see fewer primaries, a shorter primary season, a greater role by party leaders in picking candidates, and thus a diminished role by rank and file who otherwise are not involved in party politics.

There is also a desire to see the party convention return to play a dramatic role in the nomination process, rather than a dull four-day television show.

Whether Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan go down in history as good presidents, it is perceived as wrong that the best way to win the White House is to be an unemployed former governor with lots of time to campaign.

The current system, politicians argue, requires a two-year, full-time campaign, blocking out such hard working public officials as Senate Republican Leader Howard Baker, who lost to Reagan in 1980, and Rep. Morris Udall, D-Ariz., whom Carter beat in 1976.

The political pros are also unhappy with the fact that party discipline is so weak that candidates think nothing of challenging a sitting president of their own party as Reagan did Gerald Ford in 1976 and Sen. Edward Kennedy did to Carter last year.

In both cases the party squabble left the incumbent president weakened in the general election battle and both, of course, lost.

While it is unlikely that system will revert to one dominated by the political bosses, many would like to see conventions where favorite son governors of New York, California, Ohio and Florida wheel and deal their big delegations.

And they want to find a way where the race for the presidential nomination is not completed sometime shortly after the January Iowa precinct caucus and the February New Hampshire primary.

The bottom line is that politicians believe a strong party system makes a stronger democracy. Up until Reagan, every recent American president since Dwight Eisenhower tended to ignore the party that elected him. And none ever served a second term.

expedient more appropriate to second-story men than to upright members of Congress: They fished an envelope full of Republican amendments on its way to the printer.

The incident made Rep. Bob Michel, R-Ill., the normally placid minority leader, hopping mad. He complained heatedly to Speaker Tip O'Neill that members of the Democratic Study Group had waylaid the envelope and peeked at the contents, thus giving the Democrats advance information on the GOP's budget strategy.

The Democrats then hurriedly tried to copy the material to head off the GOP's moves, but there wasn't time; the last-minute confusion took a mess out of the amendments, which took House budget experts a long time to untangle.

O'Neill, abashed at the disclosure, confirmed his party colleagues' misbehavior and apologized to Michel. "A couple of people were responsible, and the rest of us had no knowledge of it," he said.

is directed, according to intelligence sources, out of an office in the presidential palace. The victims have included health workers who merely agitated against the distribution of baby-food formula that, in some places, is mixed with contaminated water.

The CIA is also giving Cuban emigres commando training again, apparently un-mindful of the lessons of the Bay of Pigs. Plans have been discussed to parachute them into Cuba and to use them to harass Cuban economic missions and intelligence fronts throughout Latin America. They will also open a Radio Free Cuba, with U.S. technical and financial assistance.

In the Middle East, the CIA is working with Israel to disrupt the radical elements of the PLO. But the Israelis have used the same operations to destabilize Saudi Arabia, which happens to be a staunch American friend and oil supplier.

LIGHTFINGERED LAWMAKERS: In their losing battle over the budget earlier this summer, House Democrats resorted to an

He complained heatedly to Speaker Tip O'Neill that members of the Democratic Study Group had waylaid the envelope and peeked at the contents, thus giving the Democrats advance information on the GOP's budget strategy.

The Democrats then hurriedly tried to copy the material to head off the GOP's moves, but there wasn't time; the last-minute confusion took a mess out of the amendments, which took House budget experts a long time to untangle.

Seminole High junior Michael Wooten is expected to be one of the main men on first year Coach Ted Tombros' cross country team along with Tyler Johnson and Eugene Zeigler. Area high schoolers get their taste of top-flight competition Saturday when Terry Long hosts the Seminole Community College Cross Country Jamboree. Seminole Community College Jamboree Kicks Off Season

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Terry Long's Ninth Annual Seminole Community College Cross Country Jamboree kicks off the running season Saturday with four class divisions.

Long, SCC's highly successful track and cross country coach, said 30-40 high schools will probably attend. He also stressed that the meet is open to everyone.

"It's a semi-formal get-together which gives the coaches a chance to see their runners in a competitive situation," said Long, an ex-Florida State running standout. "The vast majority of the coaches run two or three teams to indicate just where their runners stand."

A $2 fee will be charged for each runner. The schedule of time and events is as follows:

- 1:30 p.m.
age 10 and under boys and girls one mile run
- 4 p.m.
age 10 and under girls two mile run
- 6:30 p.m.
open division four mile run for men and women
- 7:30 p.m.
age 18 and under boys three mile run

Plaques will be awarded to the top girls and boys teams. The top 10 finishers in the one mile run will each receive a T-shirt. A T-shirt will also be given to the top 20 finishers in the girls, boys and open divisions.

All participants in the jamboree will receive a ribbon. Team entries must be registered prior to the meet. Registration will take place from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday in the SCC gym. All races will start from the gym.

"We want to give everyone a chance to run under a casual yet competitive-type situation," said Long. The former 9.7 sprinter feels the Seminole County teams will be in the thick of things Saturday. "The (Tom) Hammonree girls will be very strong and David Huggins has done a good job at Lyman for 10 years, so they'll be tough," said Long when assessing the county chances.

Hammonree, Lake Howell's hard-working coach, returns three girls from last year with 1980 times under 13 minutes. All three are juniors.

Kerry Ryter leads the trio with a 12:18 clocking over two miles. Kathy Compton is nine seconds behind at 12:27, while Shelley Carlson ran a 12:45.

Huggins returns a fine sophomore in Doug McBroom along with three seniors — Alan Demino, Craig Stapleton and Brett Stockdale — to the Greyhound boys team. "We are looking forward to the meet because it's our first all-out competition and it gives us a chance to see where we stand," said Huggins Monday night.

Lyman's girls coach Joe Laughlin returns Susie Bringardner, sister of ex-Greyhound Kathy, who had a fine year at Austin Peay, and junior Angie Diello. Bringardner is a senior.

While Lake Howell and Lyman have established programs, Long is also looking to Lake Mary and Seminole to enter the picture along with perennial powerhouse Trinity Prep.

"Mike Gibson was a prime contender at Lake Brantley and you can't count him out," Long said about the Rams' track and cross country boss. "But he's probably still a year away. Both Nate Perkins (girls) and Ted Tombros (boys) have generated some interest at Seminole and I'm anxious to see them step into the picture."

Taking over for Gibson at Lake

Brantley will be Jim Marshall. Marshall is inheriting an established program enhanced by senior-to-be Tracy Bonham, an outstanding distance runner last year.

Leading the Sanford step will be Michael Wooten. The tall, graceful junior was a top-notch halfmiler for Coach Hank Daviero's Tribe trackers.

The 27-year-old Tombros teaches at Wilson Elementary School in Paola. Seminole is his first coaching job, but he is no stranger to cross country.

Tombros was an all-county and all-conference cross country and track selection at Vineland, (N.J.) high school. While at Marietta, (Ohio) College Tombros ran in the nationals his sophomore year.

"I think Michael (Wooten) and Tyler Johnson will pretty much battle for the number one spot," said Tombros. "I think they will pretty much anchor the team throughout the year."

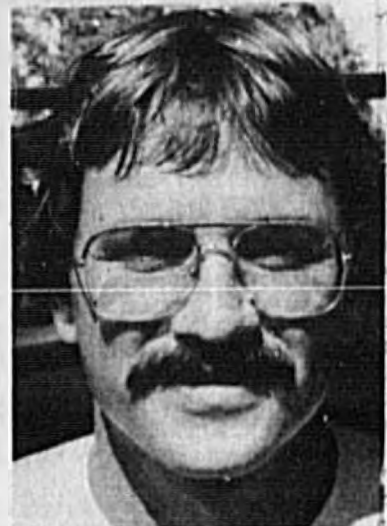

Eugene Zeigler, another returnee along with Johnson from last year, will lend experience to the Seminole squad. "Between those three we have a solid nucleus to build around," added Tombros.

While the Fighting Seminoles are a bit on the inexperienced side, the same can not be said about George Austin's small school powerhouse, Trinity Prep.

"Trinity is going to be good. Of course, they're always good," pointed out Long about the Southeast Seminole County outfit. "Anyone that beats them has gotta be tough."

Making Trinity tough is a familiar name — McNulty. Shannon, a Lake Mary resident, is a three-year veteran for the Preppers, who have won two state titles in the past three years.

Tracy Johnson, who along with Alinda

TED TOMBROS
... generates enthusiasm

"Punky" Lingle, is the senior half of Austin's "Sanford Connection." Lingle is a junior. Both with McNulty give Austin a formidable trio.

McNulty, however, will not partake in Saturday's jamboree since she is on vacation.

"Shannon and Tracy run very competitively," observed Long. "If they stay at that level, Trinity will be very competitive at any level, not just A or AA."

Gibson, one of the biggest contributors to girls track in the state of Florida, is starting over at Lake Mary. "Our goal this year is to develop a team that can be as competitive as Trinity Prep."

"If you can beat Trinity Prep, you can go somewhere in this area," assured Gibson.

That already seems to be a foregone conclusion.

Watson Readies For World Challenge

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Although he's not playing particularly well, Tom Watson is ready to accept the challenge of defending his World Series of Golf title.

Watson and 26 other top world golfers will be shooting at a $400,000 purse when they tee off today, with the winner walking off with $100,000.

"I'm playing mediocre golf," said Watson, who still leads Ray Floyd by some $13,000 in the PGA money-winning race. "I'm not doing anything particularly well. Last year, I was doing everything well when I came here."

Watson shot three 65s around a second-round 73 last year for a 73-hole score of 270, good enough for a two-shot victory over Floyd on the 7,173-yard, par-70 Firestone Country Club course.

Gunning for a record fifth straight PGA Player of the Year Award, he said he felt the Firestone course was playing faster than usual.

"I think the scores will be really low because you're getting a lot of roll," he said. "I shot 65-75-65-65 last year and I think you're going to have to shoot that type of score again this year to win."

The field of 27 players includes the top 15 money winners on the U.S. tour plus the top players from around the world, including Japan's Isao Aoki, who was in a much better frame of mind Wednesday after his stolen golf clubs were returned.

German Bernhard Langer, South Africa's Mark McNulty and Britain's Peter Oosterhuis, who also had his clubs stolen and returned, are among the other foreign competitors.

Watson said the World Series probably will be his last U.S. appearance of the year, although he left the door open.

"I'll play in the Ryder Cup (in Great Britain) and in one or two tournaments in Japan in November," he said. "Other than that, I'm finished for the year, but if it comes down to deciding the money-winning title I might change my mind."

Watson is battling Floyd and Bruce Lietzke for the money title, and those three also appear to be the most likely choice for PGA Player of the Year.

Among those who just made it into this year's World Series, and also one who must be considered a prime challenger to Watson, is Jack Nicklaus.

"I'm playing fairly well," Nicklaus said after his practice round Wednesday with Lee Trevino. "I have played well most of the season."

Evert Top Open Seed

Pro Tennis

NEW YORK (UPI) — John McEnroe and Chris Evert Lloyd, the defending champs, have been named top seeds for the men's and women's singles competition of the U.S. Open Tennis Championships.

The tournament begins next Tuesday and continues through Sept. 13 at the National Tennis Center in Flushing Meadows.

McEnroe has won the Open the last two years, and also added the Wimbledon championship he won last month from Bjorn Borg.

Borg, the beaten finalist to McEnroe last year, and still seeking his first Open crown, Wednesday was seeded second among the men while 18-year-old Andrea Jaeger was seeded No. 2 behind Evert. Although Jaeger has yet to win a major championship, she recently was elevated to second in the women's rankings, also behind Evert.

Ivan Lendl, seeded 10th last year, has moved up to No. 3, while three-time Open champion Jimmy Connors fell back to fourth.

Completing the men's seedings are No. 5 Jose-Luis Clerc, Guillermo Vilas, Gene Mayer, Eliot Teltscher, Roscoe Tanner, Brian Teacher, Peter McNamara, Johan Kriek, Yannick Noah, Wojtek Fibak, Vitas Gerulaitis and Brian Gottfried.

Tracy Austin, who handed Evert only her second setback of the year in the final of the Canadian Open last Sunday, was seeded third among the women while Hana Mandlikova, the beaten finalist to Evert in 1980, was only No. 5 behind Martina Navratilova.

Fouts Flings To Best NFL Pass Catchers

COACH DON CORYELL: "We want to improve in every phase because we're competing in one of the strongest divisions in football. I honestly believe any of the five teams can win. On the Chargers, we feel that Chuck Muncie and Mike Thomas proved we can run the ball as well as pass it."

OFFENSE
PASSING Super. The arm belongs to Dan Fouts, who threw for 4,715 yards in '80; there's no reason he shouldn't do it again. Young Ed Luther moves into backup spot. There is no better receiver contingent than J.J. Jefferson, Charlie Joiner and Kellen Winslow. They like the looks of Eric Seivers as spare TE. Notre Dame's Pete Holohan has chance to make it. EXCELLENT

RUNNING Chuck Muncie may be controversial, but he has spectacular ability. If Chargers can wheedle full season out of him they'll have balanced attack. He'll team with Mike Thomas. They drafted pair of interesting, under-sized rookies, James Brooks and Amos Lawrence, for spot duty. VERY GOOD

BLOCKING Prime question is Russ Washington. Can they lure big tackle off his Pacific Isle? Is his knee rehabilitated? For insurance, they have Jeff Williams from Washington. Guards are old and still devastating — Ed White, Doug Wilkerson. Don Macek is steady at center. They are bringing along young linemen like Bob Rush and Chuck Loewen for protection. VERY GOOD

DEFENSE
LINE Three Pro Bowlers plus Leroy Jones add up to imposing front four.

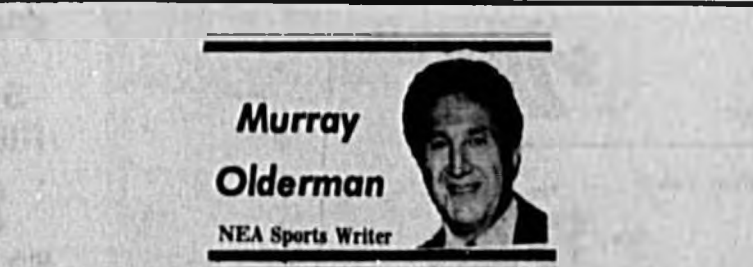

There can't be any better pair of tackles than Gary "Big Hands" Johnson and Louie Kelcher. In addition, they signed pass rushing Don Reese as free agent and visualize Keith Ferguson as a rookie Fred Dean-type. In their standard 4-3, Chargers are equally strong against rush and pass. EXCELLENT

LINEBACKING Woody Lowe is untouchable on right side; the other incumbents — Bob Horn in middle and Ray Preston on left — stay on job because of seniority. There are interesting prospects in Linden King and 11th round draftee Carlos Bradley, but they'll still go with the experience. FAIR TO GOOD

SECONDARY Some juggling is likely at free safety and left corner, where Glen Edwards and Willie Buchanan, respectively, are showing some slowing. They have high hopes for rookie Ervin Phillips, impressive athlete. Pete Shaw's return from knee injury means big boost at safety. Mike Williams has become most dependable coverage man in Chargers' scheme. FAIR TO GOOD

PROSPECTUS
This is obviously one of the powerhouse teams in NFL — exciting to watch, always threatening to stampede an opponent. Without real weakness. And they brought in assistants Jack Pardee and Jim Wegstaff to jack up deep defense.

PREDICTION First in AFC West; should win handily.

Williams Wants To Play, Dolphins Say 'Elsewhere'

Pro Football

MIAMI (UPI) — Running back Delvin Williams says he finally wants to play ball, but the Miami Dolphins say that if he does it will be elsewhere.

Williams has been the subject of controversy since late last season and earlier this summer refused to report to training camp because he says he was mistreated in Miami. But Wednesday he let the Dolphins know through a representative he planned to show up Thursday.

"I told the representative to advise Delvin that he could save himself the trip," Shula said. "We have continued to try to trade Delvin Williams and been unable to work out any deal."

Overweight Stabler Joins Oilers

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Houston Oilers believe Kenny Stabler, who ended his five-week retirement Wednesday because of quarterback Clifford Nielsen's injury, may be ready to run the offense against Los Angeles in the team's regular season opener.

Stabler returned to Houston from his Gulf Shores, Ala., home and met with the Oilers officials and the media for the first time since the end of last season. The 35-year-old NFL veteran said

"We will make our decisions on the people here in training camp. I am going to put Delvin Williams on waivers tomorrow (Thursday)," Shula said.

Williams' agent Greg Lustig said he finally convinced Williams to report after arguing for six months, but now he has to go looking for another club. Williams is under a $70,000 contract.

Williams had charged during the offseason that coaches, players and fans at Miami had made his life miserable and demanded to be traded.

when Nielsen tore a shoulder muscle in last Saturday's game with Tampa Bay — an injury that will sideline him for several weeks — he decided to rejoin his teammates and end his surprise retirement.

"I made up my mind a couple of days ago," said Stabler.

Coach Ed Biles said it was conceivable Stabler could be the team's starting quarterback for the Sept. 6 regular season opener.

Tight Ends Expect To Help Chiefs' Teepee

COACH MARV LEVY: "We're young but starting to get experience. Our quarterbacks, in their third year, will make a difference. We have big play capability. We drafted tight ends for the spot where we were hurting and now should take another step forward after finishing 8-4 last year."

OFFENSE
PASSING Job up in air after Bill Kenney's strong finish last month of '80. Steve Fuller, with first claim to job, can't relax. He's good leader with mobility, still unproven arm. Willie Scott or Maurice Harvey at TE will make all difference in receiving corps. They'll even make returning wide receivers Henry Marshall and J.T. Smith look better — maybe. FAIR TO POOR

RUNNING Chiefs profess unconcern about shipping Tony Reed, who was their best, to Denver. They drafted Joe Delaney, a small speedster, to back up Ted McKnight, lone proven threat, at halfback. Strong finish of Jim Hadnot leaves him in line for fullback job, backed up by ex-TE Mike Williams. POOR

BLOCKING Biggest area of improvement expected. Brad Budde shows signs of becoming stellar guard. Matt Herkenhoff seems OK after couple of knee-plagued years. They hope to coax another season out of veteran center Jack Rudny, team leader. But holdovers like Tom Condon and Charlie Getty also must show progress if Chiefs are to stabilize their offense. GOOD

DEFENSE
LINE It will be unmatchable if Mike

Bell can finally play full season, after knee and bicep problems. He's in class as pass rusher with Art Still, who was all-pro end last year. They have a tough nose guard in Don Parrish, and some experienced people lurk behind every position. EXCELLENT

LINEBACKING Except for Gary Spaul, the work of Chief linebackers has been disappointing. Frank Munuakanga, a physical type, hasn't developed as expected. Whitney Paul has been hurt. Thomas Howard will have to hustle to stay ahead of Dave Klug at outside spot, and Larry Blanton threatens to oust Manu. There's no apparent rookie help in sight. FAIR

SECONDARY The starting quartet is young, swift and impressive. But Chiefs are looking for suds to step into emergencies. Gary Green is all-star cornerback, and high-priced Eric Harris, once most untracked last year, wasn't far behind. Gary Barbaro is tops at free safety, but rookie Lloyd Burrus will challenge SS Herb Christopher. VERY GOOD

If the Chiefs are dragged down below .500 again, it'll be because of a lagging offense. Levy has to settle on a permanent cast of characters and get a running back who'll scare people. But that defense is overpowering.

PREDICTION Third in AFC West, and .500 again.

Cards Red Hot, Templeton Act Inflames Herzog

United Press International
The St. Louis Cardinals are hot, but Manager Whitey Herzog is even hotter — at shortstop Garry Templeton.

Herzog fined Templeton $5,000 and suspended him indefinitely without pay for making obscene gestures at fans during Wednesday's game with San Francisco. The Cardinals won, 9-4, to remain atop the National League East.

"If he wants to play, he will have to make a public apology," said a flummoxed Herzog. "Nobody will do that to the St. Louis fans while I'm manager."

Templeton made the gestures three times and was ejected from the game in the third inning. As he got to the St. Louis dugout, Herzog grabbed him by his shirt and pulled him into the dugout and a brief scuffle ensued.

"I told him to wait for me and he's gone," said Herzog. "He didn't say anything. It was a situation where everybody could see something coming by the way he's been going about his work."

Dane Iorg went about his work in a different way. He rapped a bases-loaded, pinch-hit triple to the left-center field wall in the eight-run St. Louis fifth inning.

"It kind of got us fired up," Iorg said. "I think from the way we played that was obvious."

"It had nothing to do with what happened," said San Francisco Manager Frank Robinson. "It was just bad pitching. They can say it fired them up, but we just didn't make good pitches."

NL Baseball

Cubs 9, Padres 7
In Chicago, reserve third baseman Steve Dillard smashed a two-run homer with two out in the bottom of the ninth to lift the Cubs.

Dodgers 16, Pirates 6
Steve Garvey drove in five runs and Ron Cey lashed five singles to highlight a 19-hit attack and lead the Dodgers to a three-game sweep, in Pittsburgh.

Expos 6, Reds 0
In Montreal, Gary Carter, still hobbled by a bad leg, drove in four runs with a two-run homer and a two-run single to back a four-hitter by Bill Gullickson and propel the Expos.

Left fielder Tim Lincecum continued to perk up after an early second-season strike. Lincecum doubled for the second straight day and stole two bases. He leads the major leagues with 56 thefts.

Braves 5, Phillies 3
At Philadelphia, Rafael Ramirez singled home Glenn Hubbard with one out in the 10th inning to spark Atlanta. Winner Rick Camp, 7-1, pitched three when Templeton struck out, but San Francisco catcher Milt May dropped the ball. Templeton made only a half-hearted jog toward first before veering toward the dugout.

The small crowd that had waited in rain for more than an hour for the game to start, began booing and Templeton responded with an upraised arm.

Home-plate umpire Bruce Froemming ejected Templeton before the start of the fourth inning.

"He went goofy and made two immoral gestures," Froemming said. "After the first one he was ejected. He wanted to know why he couldn't go into the stands and challenge the people who were getting on him."

After he was kicked out of the game, Templeton walked toward the dugout, stopped, clutched his genitals and gestured to the crowd. Then he raised his finger before Herzog grabbed him and pulled him into the dugout.

"We had a scuffle, sure," said Herzog.

"Whitey grabbed him and pulled him in the dugout," said Iorg, who was on the bench at the time. "The players went and jumped in and separated them."

...swinging hot stick

scoreless innings. Ron Reed, 2-1, suffered the loss.

Astros 9, Mets 3
Art Howe drove in five runs with a sacrifice fly, a single and a double, helping Houston snap a four-game losing streak, at New York.

Murcer Single Whips Twins

AL Baseball

Yankees 3, Twins 2
Also in New York, pinchhitter Bobby Murcer singled home Dave Winfield for the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning to boost the Yankees.

Royals 6, Tigers 1
At Detroit, Larry Gura pitched a seven-hitter and Cesar Geronimo triggered a five-run fifth inning with a two-run homer to spark Kansas City.

'Mick, Why Don't You Drink Canada Dry? I Did, And A Coupla' Other Countries Too'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mickey McDermott had only one purpose in mind:

He had to get up to his room without anyone seeing him. Four in the morning was no time for him to be coming back to the hotel. Not when he was expected to be in uniform at the ballpark in only a few more hours.

Always resourceful, he entered through the basement and looked around for the elevator. As soon as it arrived, he pushed the button for the fifth floor hoping feverishly he could make it to his room non-stop.

When the elevator got to the lobby, though, it stopped and the door opened. To his unspeakable horror, McDermott suddenly found himself face to face with his manager, the man who handled the New York Yankees, Casey Stengel.

It took only two seconds for Stengel to size up McDermott's condition.

"Drunk again," he growled.

McDermott gave the old man that impish little-boy grin of his.

"Me too," he said.

That was in Boston in 1956 when McDermott was with the Yankees after both the Red Sox and Senators had given up any hope of straightening him out. Sometime later, a friend of McDermott's, distressed by what he was doing to himself with the bottle, suggested to him:

"Mickey, why don't you drink Canada Dry?"

"I did," was the cheerful response. "And a coupla' other countries, too."

When he was 17, the skinny, fireballing McDermott already was making the covers of national magazines and being hailed as "the next Lefty Grove." He broke the American Association record with Louisville by striking out 20 batters in one game and after he followed that up by fanning 19, 18 and 18 again in short order, the Red Sox brought him up in 1948.

Milton Richman
UPI Sports Editor

McDermott took his first drink when he was 21.

"After that," he says, "I thought the Atlantic Ocean was a chaser."

He went from bad to worse, then to rock bottom.

Today, you see a completely different Mickey McDermott.

He has gone through an alcoholic program, hasn't had a drink in two years and is a live, vibrant human being again. He's excited about the work he's doing, representing professional athletes for Barrie Sports Inc., in Las Vegas.

The organization is headed by Tino Barrie, a man who has had considerable success in the entertainment field as well as in baseball. Barrie has been associated with such show business greats as Frank Sinatra, Jackie Gleason and the two Dorsey brothers, Tommy and Jimmy, and now manages the young up-and-coming actress Pia Zardora. Along with his experience as a manager and producer, Barrie operated the Pawtucket, R.I., and Bristol, Conn., minor league clubs with Joe Buzas.

"Once you're an alcoholic, you know, you're never considered completely cured even though you quit drinking," says the 52-year-old McDermott. "They call you a 'recovered alcoholic.' Well, I'm a grateful alcoholic — grateful to a man like Tino Barrie, who had enough faith in me after I came out of the program to ask me what I wanted to do. I told him I'd like to handle ballplayers because I thought I could and he said, 'All right, we'll give it a shot.'

"We've got 52 of them in various professional sports," McDermott explains. "Tony Armas with the Oakland A's and Reggie Theus with the Chicago Bulls are a couple of the ones we handle. Young athletes making the kind of money they're making today need the proper kind of representation someone like Tino Barrie can provide because he has seen a lot of them go down the tubes. I've seen the same thing myself."

"When you're a professional athlete and you're young, you don't realize how quickly it's all going to be over."

Drinking, McDermott says, cost him everything he ever had.

"It cost me a fortune in money, jobs and my marriage," he reveals.

"In the end, it also cost me whatever self-pride I had. I know the one I hurt most was myself."

Shortly before he went on the wagon, McDermott was in a Malibu Beach restaurant when a woman came over asking him for his autograph.

"I'd appreciate it so much, Mr. Hayden," she said.

"Mr. Hayden?" McDermott drew back in his chair.

"You're Sterling Hayden, the movie actor, aren't you?" the lady asked.

"You mean I look that old? Jeez, he must be at least 90, isn't he?"

Sterling Hayden is only 63. The way he was going before he quit drinking, Mickey McDermott never bothered too much about counting.

Bad Boy

Obscene Actions Louder Than Words

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Garry Templeton has been trying to talk his way out of St. Louis for years and he just may find actions speak louder than words.

The Cardinals' gifted, but unruly, shortstop was fined $5,000 and suspended indefinitely without pay after he was ejected from Wednesday's game for making a series of obscene gestures to the crowd.

"When Garry grows up to be a man and publicly apologizes to the fans and his teammates, he can play," said an angry Whitey Herzog, the Cardinals' manager. "Nobody will do that to the St. Louis fans while I'm manager."

"I just don't understand the boy," Herzog said. "I don't know why he has been playing like he has. He really hasn't been giving good effort. He's trying to disrupt the ballclub. I've got 24 other guys busting their tails to try to win. He's kind of just going through the motions."

Templeton's actions overshadowed a three-run triple by Dane Iorg that highlighted an eight-run fifth inning and carried the Cardinals to a 9-4 victory over the San Francisco Giants. The incident started in the first inning when Templeton struck out, but San Francisco catcher Milt May dropped the ball. Templeton made only a half-hearted jog toward first before veering toward the dugout.

The small crowd that had waited in rain for more than an hour for the game to start, began booing and Templeton responded with an upraised arm.

Home-plate umpire Bruce Froemming ejected Templeton before the start of the fourth inning.

"He went goofy and made two immoral gestures," Froemming said. "After the first one he was ejected. He wanted to know why he couldn't go into the stands and challenge the people who were getting on him."

After he was kicked out of the game, Templeton walked toward the dugout, stopped, clutched his genitals and gestured to the crowd. Then he raised his finger before Herzog grabbed him and pulled him into the dugout.

"We had a scuffle, sure," said Herzog.

"Whitey grabbed him and pulled him in the dugout," said Iorg, who was on the bench at the time. "The players went and jumped in and separated them."

"Whitey had to be restrained by coaches, players and everybody else," said Froemming.

Herzog said he told Templeton to wait in the clubhouse, but Templeton quickly packed his bags and left without speaking to reporters. He did not accompany the team to San Diego Wednesday night.

"I told him to wait for me and he's gone," said Herzog. "Whatever the fans said to him he had coming."

Templeton earlier this season had demanded to be traded for the third time in two years.

"I don't think I'm going to have any respect for him if he comes back," catcher Gene Tenace said. "It disrupts the ballclub. We're in a pennant race. We've got to get good personnel here for one guy to ruin it for us. I've lost all respect for him."

San Francisco Manager Frank Robinson, who had a full view of the incident, said, "... I have never seen anything like that and I hope I never do again. It's too bad something like that has to happen in sports. There's no place for it."

Double Ring Ceremony Unites Miss Casselberry, D.H. Welch

Miss Catherine Lee Casselberry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Casselberry, of Casselberry, became the bride of David Howe Welch at 7 p.m. on Aug. 7, at Community United Methodist Church of Casselberry.

Mr. Welch is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester L. Welch of Fullerton, Calif.

Officiating at the candlelight and double-ring ceremony were the Rev. Daniel L. Casselberry, of Neptune Beach, brother of the bride, and the Rev. Wight Kirtley, pastor of Community United Methodist Church.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She designed for her wedding a formal gown of ivory velvet belted with a crepe back satin cummerbund and appliqued at the scooped neckline and cameo sleeves with Alencon lace. The draped hemline, was caught up by clusters of ivory satin rosebuds and ribbon bows which cascaded into a graceful chapel train. Her fingertip veil was crowned with a wreath of white roses, carnations and baby's breath.

She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses, carnations and baby's breath and containing a Bible covered with mother of pearl from the Holy Land.

Her matron of honor was Valerie Russell, of Ft. Walton Beach, who wore a red satin gathered full-length skirt topped with an ivory peasant blouse and a fitted vest of black velvet accented with narrow floral trim. She carried a hurricane lamp candle wreathed by a bouquet of red and blue carnations, yellow daisies, and baby's breath.

Matching outfits, all designed by the bride, were worn by the bridesmaids, who included Melenda Edmiston, of Casselberry, sister of the bride; Wendy Jones of Buena Park, Calif., and Susan Welch, of Fullerton, Calif., sisters of the groom; and Lisa Bledsoe, of Casselberry. Their bouquets were identical to the matron of honor's.

The flower girls were Shannon Casselberry, of Casselberry, and Michelle Casselberry, of Neptune Beach, nieces of the bride. Their outfits matched the other attendants and they carried baskets of flowers.

Attending the bridegroom as best man was his father, Lester Welch. Groomsman included Kevin Jones, Buena Park, Calif., brother-in-law of the groom; Richard S. Casselberry, of Casselberry, brother of the bride; Donald Bledsoe, of Casselberry and Patrick Edmiston, brother-in-law of the bride, of Casselberry.

Danny Edmiston, nephew of the bride, was the ring bearer, and he carried an ivory velvet heartshaped pillow with ribbon streamers attached to the rings.

Organist for the wedding was Mrs. Donnaline White and Cliff Ragsdale and Shirley Wallace provided the special music. Sandy Hensel was in charge of the bride's book.

A reception was held in the church fellowship hall. Following a wedding trip to Palm Beach, the couple will be at home in Orlando.

The bride is a costume specialist at Walt Disney World and the groom is a free lance musician.

'Who Am I?' Game May Be Confusing To Older Kin

DEAR ABBY: I work as an aide in a nursing home and I have a message for people who visit relatives and friends in nursing homes. Older folks sometimes get confused and forgetful, so when you walk in, just put your arms around them and say, "Hello, Grandma. I'm Margaret (or whatever your name is), and I've come to see you!"

Abby, my heart just aches when someone comes to visit an older person, and the visitor starts off with, "Hi, Grandma. Do you know who I am? What's my name? Who am I?"

Then poor Grandma feels foolish or too embarrassed to guess because she might be wrong. I hope you have room for this in your column.

LOVES OLD FOLKS

DEAR LOVES: I make room for worthwhile suggestions. I'm sure that most visitors play the "Who am I" game more out of thoughtlessness than meanness.

DEAR ABBY: I am planning my wedding and have hit a snag. I want an outdoor wedding in my backyard, followed by a reception outside, too, but the weather here is very unpredictable that time of year, and if it should rain, we couldn't accommodate that number of people in our house.

I'm planning a 4 p.m. wedding. If the weather holds for the ceremony, but if it starts to rain around the time of the reception, we could move the reception over to the church, which is within walking distance from the house.

If at 4 p.m. it looks like rain, we could have the ceremony at the church, too.

How should the invitations be worded? "Outdoor wedding and reception—weather permitting?" Or, "If it looks like rain, go to the church. If the weather is fair, come to the house?"

PLEASE HELP.

MAKING PLANS

DEAR MAKING PLANS: Since the weather is unpredictable that time of year, some of your guests may predict rain and go to the church, while others may predict fair weather and go to your house. Play it safe and have everything at the church, where you won't have to pray for good weather.

DEAR ABBY: Seven years ago when my husband died I was 42. I thought my life was over. We'd been married 21 years, had no children and was completely devoted to each other.

A year ago I moved from Chicago to Florida and took a job selling in a fine store. There I met the most gorgeous man I'd ever seen. (I'll call him "Dale.") He's the sweetest, most understanding man in the world. Dale is 28 and everything a woman could want in a man, but he is gay.

Please don't think I'm a crazy 49-year-old lady, but we've been living together for six months. No sex, but a very warm friendship. Of course I'd like it to turn into something more, but for the time being, I've never been happier.

Since we've been together, Dale has had only one date, and that was with a 19-year-old male. But Dale promised he'd never see him again because he wants to go straight so he can marry me one day.

Abby, what I need to know is, what are a gay's chances for going straight?

IN LOVE AGAIN DEAR IN LOVE: Slim—even with strong motivation and intensive psychotherapy. I once asked a distinguished psychoanalyst that question, and he replied, "I've had 50 percent success. I had two gay patients who wanted to go straight. I succeeded with one. And with the other one, I failed."

Do you hate to write letters because you don't know what to say? Thank-you notes, sympathy letters, congratulations, how to decline and accept invitations and how to write an interesting letter are included in Abby's booklet, "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Send $1 and a long, stamped (35 cents), self-addressed envelope to: Abby, Letter Booklet, 12640 Hawthorne Blvd., Suite 5000, Hawthorne, Calif. 90250.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL For Friday, August 28, 1981

YOUR BIRTHDAY
August 28, 1981
There is a strong possibility you'll make a new friendship this coming year with one who is extremely kind and compassionate. This person has been business instincts and could help you make money.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 23)
There could be considerable gossiping going on today and, if you take part, there's a good chance you might become the fall guy. Don't listen and don't talk. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the year following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph, Mail #1 for each to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23)
Beware of those peddling pipe dreams today. You're such a nice guy, it wouldn't occur to you that there are persons who aren't to be trusted.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22)
Today's the wrong day to behave irrationally or erratically and, by all means, avoid involvements with individuals about who you know little.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21)
An unrealistic mental attitude might cause you to throw a monkey wrench into social plans, causing consternation and spoiling everyone's good time.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19)
You have the tendency today to get off on tangents and suddenly switch objectives, just when you have the goals within reach. Focus in on one aim.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19)
Coworkers could create confusion and complications today unless carefully shepherded. Be sure they follow the game plan instead of going off in uncertain directions.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20)
It's much too easy to talk yourself into believing how you'd like things to be today, rather than to face the truth. Don't take any gambles.

ARIES (March 21-April 19)
Usually you know your own mind, and act accordingly. This may not be so today, because another could plant so many seeds of doubt that your actions could become erratic.

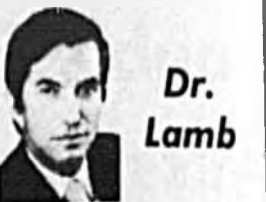

TAURUS (April 20-May 20)
If you can't figure out what the family wants, it's best not to start any new projects in the home today. It's hard enough to finish what you begin, with all this confusion.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20)
Leave those credit cards at home and don't shop unless you have hard cash in your hand. You have a tendency today to spend more than you should.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
If you abuse the family budget today, the entire clan may have to suffer the consequences. Momentary personal gratification won't be worth it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22)
Just when you think you have all the answers is when a surprise could hit you. Your best course of action today is to tread water carefully and slowly.

Surgery No Help For Nerve Deafness

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am writing to you about nerve deafness. I have been told by an ear specialist there is no help for it. One day I read about a woman who had nerve deafness and a surgeon replaced the stirrup bone with a tiny wire which vibrates when struck by sound waves. In her case the bone had become rigid. After surgery the first sound she heard was her husband and two children walking into the room. What can you tell me about such an operation? Is it possible now?

DEAR READER — You are asking about two different problems. I am not familiar with the published story you cite but your story is that of a woman who had otosclerosis. It is a common cause of loss of hearing. The bone degeneration and regeneration that occurs can fix the small bones in the middle ear so they cannot vibrate. Normally the vibrations are picked up by the internal ear which in turn is connected to nerves that go to your brain.

When the little bones are all that is involved there are several operations that can be used for this. Even bone growth over the inner ear (cochlea) that transmits the waves from the tiny bones can sometimes be helped with surgery.

Nerve deafness means involvement or damage of the tiny nerve receptors in the internal ear or the nerve itself between the ear and the brain, or the hearing center in the brain. This is a different process but the nerve endings can be involved too in advanced otosclerosis. Most nerve deafness cases cannot be helped with surgery.

1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

Now some people (but not all) with some degree of nerve deafness can be helped with hearing aids designed to fit their particular type of hearing loss. A detailed evaluation by an audiologist to identify the nature of the hearing loss is helpful in such cases and should be done before attempting to select a particular instrument.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Does chicken liver have much iron in it like beef liver? And why is it you never see liver or cabbage served in hospitals? I thought both were healthy.

DEAR READER — As a matter of fact chicken liver contains more iron than beef liver. Liver is one of the few good food sources of iron. Some other food sources contain iron that cannot be absorbed readily by the digestive system. One hundred grams of chicken livers contain 7.9 mg of iron. Beef liver contains 6.5 mg. But call liver contains 8.8 mg. For a real iron boost you might want to use hog liver which contains 19.2 mg per 100 grams.

Liver is a good food except that it is relatively high in cholesterol. That should only be important if you need to limit your cholesterol intake. One hundred grams of liver contain 300 mg of cholesterol.

To help you understand the mechanism of hearing and the different causes of hearing loss, I am sending you my new issue of The Health Letter number 18-8, Your Vital Hearing. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box nine easy tricks, but needed 10. There were two ways to get the 10th. One would be to get to ruff a heart. The other to set up dummy's fifth club for a discard. South should find a way to have his cake and eat it, too.

At trick two he cashed his king of clubs. Then he leads a low heart. If East wins it turns out that he can't lead a trump. South will get to play a second heart and get to dummy with the ace of diamonds. Of course, South will chuck his losing diamond on the ace of clubs somewhere along the way.

If West wins and leads a trump, South will play the nine from dummy. It will hold. Now South can play and ruff a small club. Enter dummy with the ace of trumps. Play ace and ruff a small club and get to dummy with the ace of diamonds to get a heart discard on the last good club.

Suppose East produces the 10 of trumps on the second trump lead. Trumps will have broken 3-2 and there would be no way to stop a heart ruff.
