President Says U.S. CINDY FIRES Will Cut Navy With AT OPENERS (Any Other Country OF TARIFF BILL

Declares It Is Up To Rest Of World To Determine Extent Of Reduction In Arms

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—(INS)—“We will reduce our naval strength in proportion to any other. Having said that, it only remains for the others to say how low they will go. It cannot be too low for us.”

This message, held for several days, was first given by the president at the Washington conference when he was asked to say how low they will go.

It concludes the discussion of American naval policy to be followed at the London conference, when the president will be asked to say how low they will go.

“How much will you do?” is the question asked by the British representatives of Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy.

Franklin already has indicated that he will propose the reduction of the great capital ships, and will construct and maintain great Britain wants to abolish the submarine, so as to be equal to us.

Probably neither of these proposals can be accepted in its entirety by the London conference, for Britain places a certain emphasis on the capital ship in its protection of its far-flung trade routes and dominions, and France is an enthusiastic advocate of the submarine.

RAT TEAM READY FOR GAME WITH GEORGIA MONDAY

Lakeland Boy Proves To Be Outstanding Candidate For End

By FRANK S. WRIGHT
GAINESVILLE, Nov. 11.—John Woodall, Lakeland boy, who has displaced McQuitty at right end for the Florida freshmen, has furnished the most outstanding development of the past week in "Baby Gator" gridiron circles. So notably has Woodall progressed that he seems certain to start the Armistice Day game between the Florida and Georgia flits to be played at Lakeland today.

Another former Dreadnaught athlete, "Doc" Melton, who has been stationed regularly at right half this fall and playing splendidly, will be in the starting lineup Monday, Coach Brady Cowell stated.

Woodall with play opposite Spurgeon Cherry, Leesburg boy, who has gone exceptionally well this year at left end. From all indications, Guy Toph, of Tampa, and Irving Ashkenazy of Tallahassee, will get the tackle assignments against the Georgia flits. The guard posts are still being battled for desperately, with Anderson, Wynn, Causey, Moss and Larrh figuring in the scrap. Anderson and Wynn have shown marked improvements of late.

Lawenberg, Norfleet, Cornelius and Bilenski, are others in the running for recognition at tackle. Bilenski, shifted recently from fullback, has made rapid strides at his new post.

No change in the center setup has been indicated. John Knight, a Plant City boy, and George Gunn, from Jacksonville, have been staging a merry race all season. Knight will start Monday's game.

Sherill, a youngster from West Palm Beach, has been victimized by Oliver at the quarterback slot, but Al Rogers, passing and kicking left halfback of much promise, and Joe Jenkins, 200 pound fullback, are in command of their positions. McIntyre and Derrard, among the "B" flits; Back, Hartman, Pittman and Bar, among the halfbacks, and Vanlandingham and Diebold among the fullbacks, are other "Baby Gators" getting into the spotlight with their recent performances.

Coaches Brady Cowell, A. P. Pierion and Jim Clemens, have been putting their trash thru long and rugged scrimmage sessions, and a general all-around improvement has been noted. The flit will start Friday eve, the varsity "B" squad should give the young Gators just enough of a taste of victory to plunge into the Georgia flitups with a vengeance today, Monday.

With the exception of Parker, a kid, the Florida squad should be in fine condition for the engagement.

Young Publisher To Face U.S. Judge For Contempt Of Court

MAON, Ga. Nov. 11.—(INS)—William Lavarie, youthful newspaper publisher, is scheduled to face Federal Judge Bascom S. Deaver, Monday for the second time in two weeks to answer a contempt of court citation.

The latest case, like the last one, grew out of Lavarie's alleged failure to follow a court order directing him to turn over stock of four southern newspapers to J. T. Webb, Jr., commissioner appointed by Judge Deaver to administer affairs of the paper.

Webb told Judge Deaver Friday that Lavarie had refused to disclose the stock of South Carolina an attachment Lavarie issued on the stock of the newspapers, and that he refused to turn the certificates over to the commissioner.

Lavarie had been given until last Wednesday by default, the attachment proceedings in South Carolina under an order issued by Judge Deaver several weeks ago.

Besler plans, Webb said, to file a motion for a rehearing of a petition for a writ of habeas corpus, and to ask the court to withhold action on the stock flitups until the motion has been heard. The commissioner was appointed by Judge Deaver and the stock ordered into his hands as the result of a contempt of ownership instituted by Harpal Hall, and decided in his favor.

The four newspapers, in South Carolina and Georgia, were purchased with money borrowed from the International Paper and Power Company.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

UNUSUAL YOKE

The smartly tailored coat frock, in its many variations, is a well earned place in every woman's wardrobe, for it is always ready to go on a shopping expedition, and yet is perfectly suitable for the less formal afternoon occasions. This season it appears in ranton crepe, wool crepe, or fine tulle. An unusual yoke is a distinctive feature of the model shown here, a yoke which stimulates review. The sleeves are long and loose, with pointed, light-fitting cuffs. Pockets of buttons accent the side chain, and, of course, the trunk manages to wear a trim belt.

CHOICE OF GATOR BACKFIELD GIVES COACHES WORRY

Goodbread And Sauls Are Both Lined Up For Same Position

GAINESVILLE, Nov. 11.—A rather unexpected November football problem has developed at the University of Florida.

By virtue of his excellent game against Harvard last Saturday, there is a general belief here that Ed Sauls will finish the season at right half back for the Gators.

If he does, then what happens to Royce Goodbread, who very likely will be in good condition again when Coach Charlie Backman resumes practice next Monday for the homecoming game with Clemson?

Goodbread had injured himself in the Georgia game and was excluded when the Gators clashed with Harvard. Ed Sauls, fullest opportunity to Captain Rains-Cawthon, went into the winter battle with no halfback training and played a bang-up game.

If Ed hasn't cinched the job, he's got Mr. Goodbread worried. There is no chance for "Red" Bethea to be displaced at left halfback, and few are willing to dispute the ability of Clyde Cullbert at quarter and Cawthon at full.

Goodbread started the season like a proverbial "milk and honey," lumped against Georgia Tech but arose against the Georgia Bulldogs the following week to play very fine ball.

Neither Goodbread or Sauls are strangers to Florida. Royce has played two seasons of varsity ball and finishes his career on Dec. 7. Sauls is a junior, but has heavy weights and a nimble unusual speed, with his own way of power. Both are versatile, but Sauls probably has an edge due to his frequent kicking assignments.

For a while, the Goodbread-Sauls halfback duel with the interesting to watch.

Transforming Sauls into a halfback leaves Link Sileo, a young sophomore, as the second-string fullback.

Backfield Coach Joe H. H. H.

and the Head Grid General, Charlie Backman will probably go into several huddles upon the latter's return from New York this week, for one change, and possibly others, are threatening the Florida ball-carrying brigade.

When Vicks introduced the better method of treating colds externally it was especially appreciated by mothers because it avoids "dosing," which so often disturbs children's delicate digestions.

Just rubbed on, Vicks gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled, and, at the same time, acts through the skin like a plaster.

The death of my grandpa last week Friday night seems like a needless waste of life. It would have been so easy for Allison to have kept him from starting out along the Florida Highway. Motorists who saw him laughing along from one side of the road to the other, scarcely realize even under bright headlights, more than fifty feet away, might have picked him up and brought him to the police station if necessary. And the driver who first struck him, hardly to be blamed considering the dense fog. Certainly should have stopped and asked what assistance he could. It is only an unfortunate accident because over a man unwise such circumstances, but it is a downright disgrace to run away leaving him in the middle of the road to be run over again by other motorists.

Agriculture In Florida

While we have always contended that Sanford, the county seat of Florida's most fertile and productive county, should supplement its agricultural wealth with tourist entertainment, it cannot be denied that fruits and vegetables constitute not only the backbone of this county but the entire state as well. The state chamber of commerce has recently issued some rather startling figures on Florida agriculture, starting in that they show to what unusual lengths this state has progressed agriculturally almost without knowing it.

Between 1924 and 1928, a period which included the boom when almost every farmer became a real estate dealer, Florida's gross income from crops and livestock was $1,940 per farm, while the per capita income based on farm population, was $498. Leading South Carolina, North Carolina, Alabama, and Tennessee by a tremendous margin, the Florida average was over eight hundred dollars more than that of its closest rival, Georgia, where the income per farm was $1,040.

The total average of Florida's gross income from crops and livestock for the five-year period, says C. V. Palmer, director of research for the Florida state chamber of commerce, is $114,912,000. The total for 1928 was $125,901,000. Average cash income over the same five years was $102,404,000 of which $87,062,000 was derived from farm crops and $15,342,000 from livestock. Figures used in this comparison are taken from United States department of agriculture tabulations just released.

Estimated gross income from farm and livestock production in Florida during 1928, by commodity, is as follows: Corn, $1,292,000; oats, $100,000; cotton lint, $1,672,000; cotton seed, $199,000; tobacco, $2,687,000; Irish potatoes, $8,282,000; sweet potatoes, $1,368,000; truck crops, $30,364,000; hay and sweet sorghum forage, $38,000; cow peas, $23,000; peanuts, $959,000; peaches, $147,000; pears, $18,000; grapes, $40,000; strawberries, $1,886,000; pecans, $112,000; oranges, $30,550,000; grapefruit, $13,950,000; other fruits, $64,000; sugar cane and sugar, $1,133,000; farm gardens, $2,126,000; nursery products, $986,000; forest products, $3,112,000; green house products, $860,000; cattle and calves, $3,763,000; hogs, $6,623,000; sheep and lambs, $53,000; poultry (chickens), $2,478,000; eggs (hen), $3,561,000; milk and milk products, $5,904,000; wool and mohair, $58,000; bee products, $228,000. Total crops and animal products 1928, $125,901,000.

Attitude Toward Florida Changes

We remember well in the summer of 1925, Florida was a joke on almost every tongue. Every vaudeville actor, every musical comedy star, every wisecracker had something funny to say about the boom, about equities and real estate. And Florida itself, in the final analysis, was the butt of these jokes. Herbert Folke, editor of the St. Augustine Record, has recently returned from a trip through the East and has this to say about the changing attitude toward Florida:

"We heard no joking about Florida. The boom is a thing of the past as far as the mind of the North is concerned. There is much interest in Florida and more than a little of sincere sympathy for the people of this state because of what they had suffered from the fruit fly and the closing of certain banks.

"The one outstanding impression gained from our interviews with men of affairs in the nation's metropolises was that Florida people are more worried about their own and their future than anybody else. We need to take inventory of ourselves and readjust our viewpoint. We need to get more hope into our hearts. We have become blue-minded, and nobody wants to come to a state or invest in a state where the people are not optimistic. True, we have been through with enough to discourage us, but that is water over the dam. Yesterday was one day, tomorrow will be another, and the morrow will be a brighter day than yesterday or even today.

"The world loves Florida, is seriously interested in knowing the truth about Florida, and it is our duty to tell the world about Florida. Advertising is always desirable and a stimulant for better business, but in the case of Florida at this time, it is imperative."

TELLING THE WORLD

BY SEAL O'HARA

AFTER THE SQUALL WAS OVER

"How are you, Jake?"
"I'm a little better."
"I didn't know you were sick. What was the trouble?"
"I had a complication of troubles. First I had dizzy spells looking at the ticker tape. Then I got a lump in my throat big enough to be a gopher. After that my heart was so heavy I'd feel as if I had a leaden anvil on my chest. And to add to all that I got a cauliflower ear just answering my broker's calls."
"You must have been pretty near wiped out."
"Wiped out? Boy, I'm so deep in red ink it's like swimming in a vat of Hargrady."
"It certainly was serious, wasn't it, Jake?"
"I'll say it was serious. It was like sending my suit out to the cleaners with me in the end."
"How'd your wife take it?"
"Like a brick she got plastered all over."
"What are you going to do now, Jake?"
"Well, I'm spending the next few weeks counting Palm Beach vacations. Christmas presents, post house loans and a thousand odds and ends like that."
"You aren't going to Palm Beach this winter, then?"
"Not unless they build a poor house down there."
"What are you going to do, Jake?"
"I'm going to get a job."
"I thought you had one."
"I thought I did, too, till this crash came."
"Our Board of Directors all got hit, so they curtailed the payroll 50 per cent."
"What kind of a position are you looking for now?"
"A strong technical position where I can't go down and out."

WASHINGTON DAY BY DAY

By Robert Barry

Every now and then there is more news in Washington in what a man leaves unsaid, rather than in his choice of words for a formal statement. That has been especially true for about eight years. There has been a greater to-do over what a President meant to say than over what he did say. Illustrations could be provided almost without number. Two ought to suffice.

No one can point to this day to anything Calvin Coolidge said, stated or authorized, wherein he declined a renomination for the Presidency in 1928, prior to the Kansas City Convention.

The most audacious interpreters of Herbert Hoover's cautious phrases are unable to point to anything in any of his tariff utterances as a revelation of approval or disapproval of the Grundy schedules in the defunct Hawley-Smoot tariff bill.

It is not novel therefore, that when Joseph R. Grundy, dean of the Pennsylvania tariff lobbyists in one of our history's most audacious expressions of reactionary opinion, wishes to deprive impartial opinion of the country of opportunity to appraise a Pennsylvania-New Jersey-Connecticut tariff draft, exceptions and qualifications follow.

Grundy ruled out everything and everybody not in complete and abject harmony with the Pennsylvania tariff idea. He was a bit liberal, despite his conviction, and that Key should pay the penalty, while Lake should go free. On the other hand, we have numerous comments offering the contention that Key should not suffer while Lake is freed of all charges.

It appears that the Supreme Court, reversed the conviction and sentence of Lake on the ground that the Grand Jury which indicted him was illegally drawn and impaneled. Nullifying the action of the Grand Jury, this decision counted all the indictments which that body found, including the four upon which Lake was tried and convicted and the 32 still pending against him. So he can't be tried again, and he can't be prosecuted again because of the statute of limitations. Yet, the Grand Jury which indicted Lake also indicted Key—they were jointly indicted and Lake went to jail and was convicted while Key went to jail and went to the penitentiary, where he was under a five-year sentence. We know nothing of the relative comparative guilt of Lake or Key, whether either is really guilty or innocent—but we do know that if the Grand Jury was legal in its indictment of Lake, then it was equally illegal in its indictment of Key—and, if the latter's conviction and sentence were nullified, then the conviction and punishment of Lake may not be law, as technically interested, but it is a common sense and justice. The only difference is that Key paid his while Lake got free from a jury.

In this connection, we have the telegram from J. S. White, State Attorney of the State of Florida at Tallahassee, where Key is serving his sentence:

Permit me to commend you for your able and timely editorial in today's issue concerning the pardoning of J. R. Key, who was indicted by the same Grand Jury as was Forrest Lake. Since the Supreme Court virtually freed

Senator Reed's tongue in check defiance to Schall on the basis of the President's willingness to sign a Borah-Simmons tariff bill as a substitute for the Hawley-Smoot modification.

Here is the program: If the Senate coalition writes a tariff bill satisfactory to agriculture without being destructive to industry, the President will use his influence to force the House leaders accept it.

There is not so much intelligence or spine among the Republican leaders of the House to justify Washington in believing that the White House would counter any Chinese walls of opposition.

In turn the Senate will have to back down on the flexible tariff. The idea is that if agriculture obtains the kind of tariff bill Borah and Norris and Schall believe it ought to be relatively simple for the Senate to back down on the flexible proposition since he could not do much to limit industrial schedules even if he were so inclined, which he is not.

To make such a compromise possible it will be necessary for three anti-Hoover votes on the flexible tariff to shift over to the Administration side of the fence, and, as reported in the Evening World, the three votes on which the White House is counting are those of the following:

- Schall of Minnesota.
- McMeister of South Dakota.
- Nye of North Dakota.
- All of the trio of prospective floppers are Republicans.

"WHEN DO WE EAT?"

TECHNICALITIES—IN TWO CASES

TAMPA TRIBUNE

Our brief remarks on the Supreme Court's decision in the Sanford bank case have brought various comments, pro and con. We hear from friends of Forrest Lake that his guilt was never established, despite his conviction, and that Key should pay the penalty, while Lake should go free. On the other hand, we have numerous comments offering the contention that Key should not suffer while Lake is freed of all charges.

Lake because of that body having been improperly impaneled, I feel the Sanford Board will extend clemency to Key. I have recommended same.

Adding to a bit of "partly political talk" on the "party of this paper last week, the Columbia Gazette prints the following paragraph: "Really, it's rather early to talk about the governorship for 1932 but we'll admit that Live Oak can furnish some fine men for the job. John Harrell, Cary Hardee, and perhaps one or two more that could do at least as well as many past governors." Any man from North or West Florida could do as well, Ed, and the ones you name could do as well as a lot better.—Live Oak Democrat.

COSTLESS

COMFORTS

You own an automobile. It's warm today... you hop into your car and spend gallons of gasoline and wear and tear on your car hunting a cool spot and don't think anything about the cost. You can do it, but you don't have to. For the insignificant price of a single gallon of gasoline, twenty-five cents, you can keep cool right in your own home seventy-two hours or three days of twenty-four hours each. Electricity and a ten inch Electric Fan will do it. By comparison you will admit electricity is costless comfort.

Mrs. Baker Hostess To Club Last Friday

Honoring the members of the Thirty-three Club, Mrs. J. E. Baker entertained with a bridge party on Friday evening at her home, 1500 West First Street. Several progressions of bridge were enjoyed during the evening and at a late hour scores were added and high score prize, an embroidered scarf, went to Mrs. Jampa Huff.
At the supper hour, refreshments were served with coffee by the hostess. The rooms where the tables were placed were decorated for the occasion with wild flowers in shades of lavender and gold. The tables and other appointments were emphasized a color scheme of lavender and gold.

Sargasso Sea Forms Romantic Setting Of Milane Feature Film

When Columbus, making that celebrated East-to-West hop in 1492, encountered a vast world of seaweed so thick that it impeded the progress of his vessel, his men became frightened.
To avoid it, he veered North, and so discovered islands off the coast of North America, instead of the South American mainland.
Since that time, the Sargasso Sea has been both a scientific truth and a legend. The only deliberate attempt to explore it and prove that, as theory has it, a variable solid floating island of seaweed and wreckage exists at its center, was made a century ago by the famous Friedrich von Humboldt. His scientific expedition found land animals and wreckage, such as floating trees, from three continents there, but he could not penetrate the center.
"The Isle of Lost Ships," a National Vitaphone special film coming to the Milane Theatre Wednesday and Thursday with light and sound penetrated the sea. Highly dramatic and imaginative, this picture nevertheless is based on scientific fact. Great pains were taken in research to make the backgrounds for the fast-moving, stirring story order officially accurate. As a result, the filmed truth is even stranger than the fiction of Her latest talking picture is "The Racketeer," in which she is featured with Robert Armstrong.

Mrs. Tolar Hostess At Meeting Of D.A.R.

The regular meeting of the San Diego Chapter of the D. A. R. was held on Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock with Mrs. R. E. Tolar at her home, 807 Magnolia Avenue, with Mrs. W. T. Fields, regent, presiding. During the business session it was decided that the organization should sponsor a "barnyard" bridge party to be given on Nov. 22 at the Woman's Club with a turkey, chicken, duck and quail for prizes.
The members of the chapter then voted to support the following bills: (1) Senator Fletcher's bill providing for an investigation of a national park survey of an area in Florida. Trade has called her country for a national park known as "Tropic Everglades National Park." (2) Senator Fletcher's bill to establish a branch home in Florida for disabled war veterans, and (3) the Hon. J. Charles Lathrop's bill of Maryland providing that the "Star Spangled Banner" with words by Francis Scott Key, be adopted as the national anthem. A short program in honor of Armistice Day was then participated in.
After further business, the meeting was brought to a close and a social hour enjoyed when refreshments, consisting of individual pumpkin pies and coffee, were served by the hostess, assisted by Mrs. H. H. Pattishall, Miss Fannie Bea Munson and Miss Mary Elizabeth Tolar. A profusion of Fall flowers in shades of lavender and gold were used for decorations in the rooms where the members were assembled.
Those present included: Mrs. W. T. Fields, Mrs. A. T. Rossetter, Mrs. George Davis Hart, Mrs. A. Barthold Peterson, Mrs. J. N. Whitner, Mrs. John Meach Jr., Mrs. G. I. Loucks, Mrs. L. P. Younger Set Is Given Party By Miss Tolar

Miss Mary Eliza Tolar was hostess to the members of the younger set with a bridge party on Friday evening at her home on Magnolia Avenue. High score prize, a compact, was awarded to Miss Helen Wilson at the conclusion of the bridge games, while low score prize, a novelty doll, went to Miss Gladys Henderson.
Lavender and yellow were the colors chosen for decorations and party appointments. Vases and bowls of goldenrod and lavender flowers were placed in various places about the rooms. The tables and other bridge accessories emphasized the chosen color motif.
Late in the evening, individual pies and hot chocolate were served by the hostess, assisted by her mother, Mrs. R. E. Tolar, though the plot.

COLORING SHOES

Perhaps you would like to continue wearing those comfortable white shoes. Why not do so? Leave them at a reliable shoe polishing shop to be changed into the brown color that is so fashionable now. They will look like new and the color will never wear off if you polish them regularly. You can do this yourself. Just mix twenty drops of saffron and two tablespoonsful of olive oil and rub this over your white shoes. It may be necessary to give the shoes two applications to secure the desired color. If you would like to change your light brown shoes into a new dark tan rub them with a cloth dipped in ammonia. When the

ORLANDO BEATS SANFORD OUTFIT BY 39 TO 0 SCORE

Langston, Crenshaw, 2 Backfield Aces, Direct Winning Attack

With the two backfield aces, Langston and Crenshaw, leading its attack, Orlando yesterday administered a 39 to 0 defeat to Sanford at Tinker Field. Langston and Crenshaw each accounted for two touchdowns, while Cooper and Hotchbiss made one apiece.

Langston chased 35 yards for a touchdown and Spiera picked up a fumble and ran 40 yards over the goal line, but both were called back and the Tigers had to remain content with a total of 39. Crenshaw was also called back, but came right back to run his way over in the final period.

Hall, left halfback for Sanford, was carried off the field in the second period with an injury that attending physicians said while not serious was painful. It was feared yesterday that the Celeryfields halfback had suffered one or more broken ribs.

The Orlando attack functioned perfectly behind well executed interference yesterday while the forward line charged in at full speed after the Sanford assault that after the first period it reached the line of scrimmage. The effectiveness of the Tiger defense is seen in the fact that the Celeryfields failed to reach a single first down while the Orlandoans piled up a total of 12 for their day's work.

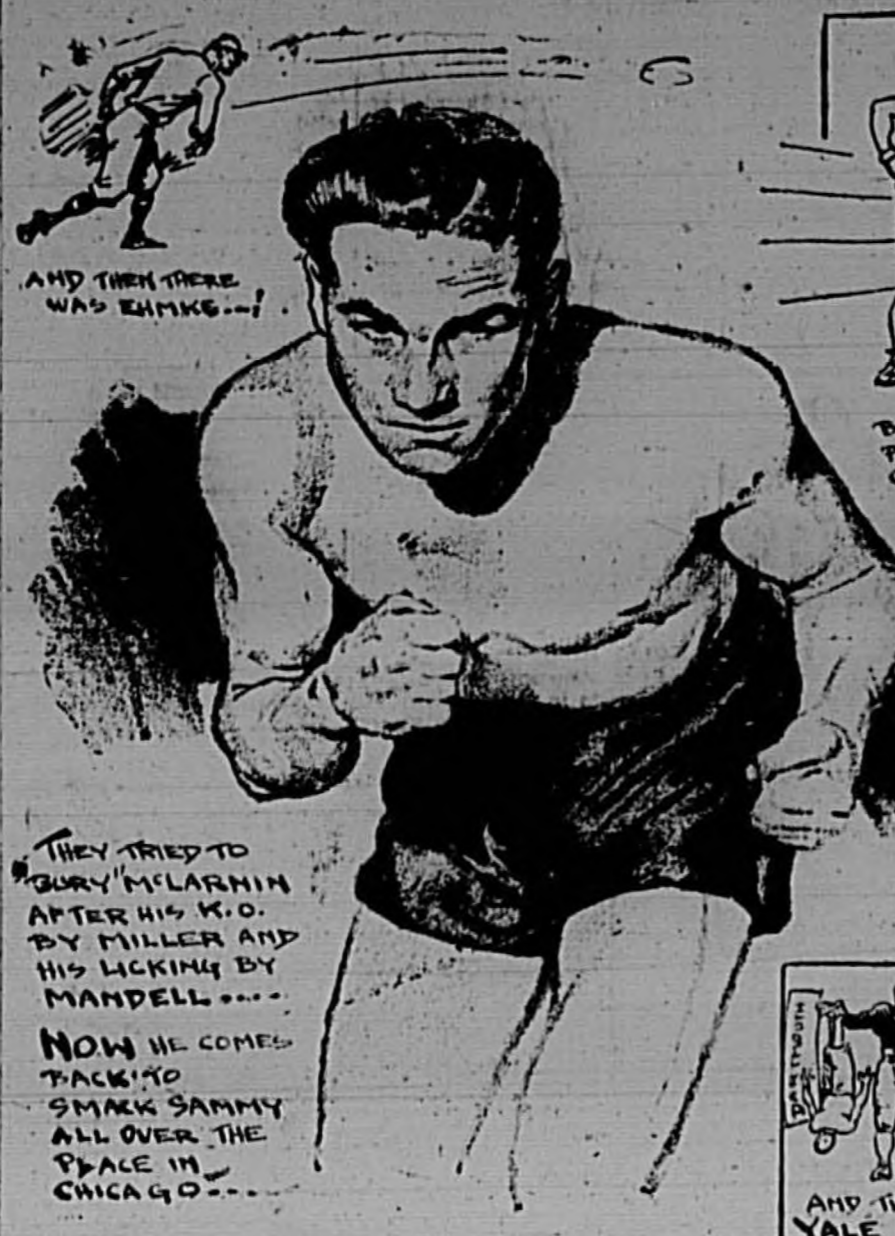

After battling an almost even game for the entire first period the Tigers opened up at the opening of the second. Langston ran along behind a screen of interferers for twelve yards and the first touchdown, charging over around his right end. Orlando was awarded the extra point when Sanford was off-side on the play. A moment later, Orlando got the ball in midfield and was charging toward the goal line when Langston tossed an arching pass to Cooper for 30 yards, and the Orlando end stepped over the line for the second touchdown of the period.

The third period opened with the Tigers eliciting in every department. Langston got away in midfield and stepped through the Orlando line to reach the goal line, but was called back because he was pushed back by the 25 yard attack. However, Orlando regained possession of the ball after an exchange of punts and Hotchbiss broke away through the center of the line and raced 65 yards for the third touchdown. Taylor kicked over the extra point. Langston went around eight end for the fourth number in the same period after a sustained drive had placed the ball in scoring position. A few minutes later, Spiera picked up a fumble and charged 30 yards for a touchdown, but this time the Orlando end had a chance to call him back and the ball put in play where he recovered it.

Freak Football Plays

By Will B. Johnstone

IN THE EXCITEMENT 'RIGELS' RUTGERS KICKED THE BALL THE WRONG WAY AND SCORED FOR PRINCETON

The early overemphasis "distracted" the students from studies. Rutgers beat the Tigers in practice this year, 7-6, which gives them first and last blood.

Had the first game been re-played something like this would have been the modern way it would be played.

After time out for shin plaster there was an exchange of kicks that resulted in a freak play. Albie Abadiah "Riegels" Rutgers, in the excitement kicked the ball the wrong way and tied the score for Princeton. Then the ball broke. Play was resumed and with a minute to go the Scaled and batted and kicked its way to two scores, winning, 6-4. Rutgers rosters poured of the fence and joined in a snake dance, throwing their bell-topped high hats over the goal posts. There was no charge of subsidized players.

COMMITTS SUICIDE NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—State Banking Supt. Joseph A. Baderick today announced that his men had completed their examination of the books of the County Trust Company, whose president, James J. Mr. Broderick said, "confirms what I said last night that the bank is, not only liquid, but is in splendid condition and worthy of every public confidence."

Firearms Are Being Oiled For Opening Season Of Hunting Season Of Two Children

Deer (buck only) Nov. 20 to Dec. 31; Quail, Turkey, Cot squirrel Nov. 20 to Feb. 26; (unlawful to hunt turkey with a dog; Marsh hens or rail, Sept. 25 to Nov. 30; (can be taken from east marshes only); Ducks, doves, geese, brant, snipe, coots, Nov. 20 to Jan. 31; (buck on lakes, lagoons and Jackson in Leon County, Miccosukee in Leon and Jefferson Counties, may be shot on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays only).

The hunter cannot kill as much as he desires or is able; the following rules must be observed: Daily—deer (buck only) 1; quail—15; duck—15; cat squirrel—15; coots—20; gallinules—15; rails or marsh hens—25; rails and gallinules in the aggregate—25. The hunter must at no time have more than one day's bag limit in his possession. The sale of game, both native and imported is forbidden except when sold under special permission from the state game commission.

The county officers together with the state game commissioner appeal to the hunters to use their utmost care in checking the forest fires, by being careful of their camp fires, nitches and cigarettes, tobacco and cigars. A single match is said to have destroyed more game in one day than a dozen hunters.

(Continued From Page 1) had brought him information that Miss Parks had a small child in Atlantic City two years ago. She used the child for purposes of blackmail, Shaw said.

The medical report on file today revealed that the baby, Timothy, received a fracture of the jawbone and a fracture at the base of the skull, the latter causing his death.

"The fractures might have been caused by falling downstairs," said Dr. Isaac Leonard, county physician. "However, they looked more like blows with a heavy, blunt instrument."

Allen Rogers, insurance agent of Woodbury, N. J., father of the dead babies, today said he was convinced that Mrs. Baker killed both Dorothy and Timothy. The prisoner is a cousin of Rogers' dead wife. "I think she must have been insane," said Rogers.

Prosecutor Clifford Baldwin, in constructing a motive for the alleged slaying, said he believed Mrs. Baker was angry at Rogers for trying her movements to limit the children. In addition, Baldwin said, the children had outlived their usefulness in the blackmailing scheme which Mrs. Baker conducted and that she murdered them rather than return them to their father.

Probe Is Begun Into Derailment Of Train

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Nov. 12.—(INS)—An investigation was started today to determine the cause of the derailment of the Ponce De Leon, fast Southern passenger train, near Rockwood, Tenn., yesterday, which was carrying 100 passengers and a passenger and injury to 50 other passengers.

Reports from various hospitals in this section, where the injured were taken, indicated that the death toll likely would not mount. Many of the passengers who were bruised and cut already have left the hospital.

Railroad officials placed little credence in a report that the derailment could have been caused by speed of a faulty track, after a preliminary. They will attempt to learn if the disaster was caused by an obstacle, trailing from a coach.

Disorders Reported In 6 Italian Towns

NICE, Nov. 12.—(INS)—The newspaper Petit Nice today reported grave disorders in six towns of Northern Italy. According to this newspaper, disorder bordering on a state of violence have existed for a period of nine days. At Salmons, anti-Fascists were reported to have killed the governor, expelled all Fascists from the city, and burned the regional barracks.

The revolt was put down according to the newspaper, when Fascist reinforcements arrived and restored order after killing five and wounding about 100 of the anti-Fascists. There was no confirmation of these reports obtainable from any other source.

Fashions for the Smart Woman

There's a decided point to the new fashions. Goodness for attention in the more and more to express their irregular feelings in terms of points that dip at the front. Often the point is further accentuated by a collar which also disappears a slight twist, as in the model shown below. It is developed in printed chafers, a fabric which has received the approval of Paris. The fabric is made silk in draped effect, and the skirt is manipulated on a wrap-over line. The cape collar not only falls in a point at the front, but repeats the point at the back.

JOE JINKS

NOBODY IN SIGHT NOBODY... THE MAN WITH THE BROODING EYES IS STILL HANGING AROUND THE Paddock AND HE HANGS AROUND JOE'S HORSE AS HAS BEEN... TOMORROW I'LL MAKE IT...

LODY DOT DOPE

YOU CAN'T TELL THIS MIGHT LEAD TO A BIG JOB!!
