Navy's Request For 400 Ships Gets Approval

Recommended Outlay
Tops Billion Dollars
In 24 Hours;
Craft To Be Small

WASHINGTON, Jan. 15.—
(AP)—The House Naval Committee
today gave unanimous approval to an urgent Navy request for the authority to spend $999,000,000
for 400 relatively small new ships and for the construction of shipbuilding and ordnance plants.
The action brought to $1,200,- 000,000 the naval outlays which the committee had recommended
in less than 24 hours.

The 400 new ships will consist mostly of subchasers, escort vessels, minesweepers and torpedo craft.

The Ministry of Economic Warfare said yesterday British information tends to confirm, in part, recent assertions that in some ways the United States is still aiding the Axis powers.

The Ministry hastened to add, however, that British authorities believe such help is not deliberate.

In this connection, it was understood British had renewed representations in Washington regarding United States shipments to Vladivostok, Russia.

"Some United States producers
are helping Germany indirectly by selling Russia commodities in which Germany is deficient," the Ministry said. "Of these, cotton is the most important."

"British figures show that between Oct. 15 and Dec. 15, 1940, Russia imported more cotton from the United States than she did from any other source during a full year. In 1940 Russia exported to Germany 100,000 tons of cotton in accordance with the Soviet-German trade agreement and under the new agreement signed Friday it is proposed to increase those deliveries.

"It is clear that such Russian shipments are possible only because of Soviet imports from the United States."

Next time you drive into your favorite filling station to get a tank of gas, don't be surprised if the attendant begins checking your lights, and perhaps suggest that new bulbs be needed.

It's a part of a drive being conducted by William Brooker, State highway patrolman, to maintain the high record of Seminole County with respect to the condition of its automobiles. Mr.
Brooker is calling on every filling station operator in the county,
he said today, and requesting him to check the lights of all the cars he serves.

The lights are faulty, the attendant will advise the motorist to have them fixed.

On Feb. 1, a state-wide drive will be conducted by Florida's highway patrol to see that the lights of each car in the state are in good working order. The county which has the fewest number of cars with faulty lights will be recognized as No. 1 out of the 67 counties.

When the drive begins, a group of highway patrolmen will converge on this section, and be stationed at different points to check the cars. No arrests will be made, but the names of those driving cars with bad lights will be sent to the State headquarters and filed.

At the time of the inspection of motorists for drivers' licenses in November, Seminole County came out ahead of all other counties in the state. No arrests were made here by the eight patrolmen who checked cars for three hours one day, Mr. Brooker said. The rating given was 95 percent.

Checking on drivers' licenses in Volusia, Lake, and Orange counties, the patrolmen spent three days each, in comparison with the three hours they were here, Mr.
Brooker pointed out.

"It is this good record I am seeking to continue," Mr. Brooker said, and asked motorists to join with him in the effort to make good showing in the light inspection drive next month.

Benefit Picture Is Playing In Schools

in the county on Thursday and Friday and proceeds of the show are to go to the Seminole County ty nurse, who is in charge of the program, said yesterday.

Babu, Indian boy actor, plays
the leading role in the picture based on the story "Tomat of the Elephant" written by Edward Kipling.

In the next drive past on by the association, the negro schools of the county turned in a total of $29 for the fund, Mrs. J.
L. Insley, chairman of the association said.

Coast Guard Ship Is Tied Up At Sanford

The Coast Guard ship, Althea, tied up at the Municipal Pier yesterday afternoon to spend the night but no information would be given out as to the reason for the visit to Sanford. This ship patrols the inland waters along the east coast of Florida, according to members of the crew, and has a regular route between West Palm Beach and St. Augustine.

No guns are on board since the duty of the ship and crew is to attend and repair boaters of the inland waters. The visit to Sanford is not in the schedule of the boat but is a special trip to help the ships in this territory, the crew members said.

When fully manned the Althea carries a captain and a crew of eight. Right now one of the men is not on board for this trip, one of the crew said.

Italians Claim That 14 Warships Were Sunk Or Damaged

The British Admiralty today acknowledged the 3100-ton cruiser Southampton was sunk by British forces after it caught fire following damage by Axis bombers off Sicily on Jan 10. Most of the crew were reported saved.

Rome asserted the 22,600-ton
British aircraft carrier Eagle was torpedoed in connection with a running battle with a heavily protected convoy which started
Jan. 9 from the Strait of Sicily.
The British had already disclosed that the aircraft carrier Illustrious had been damaged by German diversubmersibles in an attack Jan. 10.

The Italians claim 14 warships and two merchantmen have been sunk or damaged in an Axis air
drive in the Mediterranean
since Jan. 9.

The seafarer aircraft carrier,
Illustrious, attacked for seven hours on Jan. 10 by German dive-bombers, came into a Mediterranean
port under her own power
yesterday.

Forty to 50 Nazi planes, making the heaviest attack upon a single British warship of this type, flung torpedoes at the Illustrious and 100,000 pounds
of high explosive bombs at her flight deck in an unsuccessful attempt to put this newest of Britain's carriers under water.

The German pilots, during heavy gunfire, splattered the decks
with machine-gun bullets and distributed bombs on the Illustrious port and starboard sides.

3500 local loans were made during the year.

meeting the directors met and

Lion Island?

Yesterday a news item published in The Herald showed how a little thing like Monkey Island may be the means of securing another resident for Sanford throughout the winter season.

This particular attraction, which is proving so popular with old and young alike, with life long residents as well as tourists, cost the taxpayers a mighty little money.

We hope that this will not be the end of the expansion of the Sanford Municipal Zoo which was started a good many years ago in the back of the fire station and has been enlarged from time to time until now it is the largest in Florida.

It might be possible as time goes on to do for the lions what has already been done for the monkeys. In order to avoid charges of special privilege or something like that, it seems to us that the lions too should have a home of their own, not one where they are confined like criminals to narrow limits behind iron bars, but to an island home of their own where they can roam at large as in their natural habitat, restricted only by a moat filled with water.

Something of this nature has already been done at a lion farm near Fort Lauderdale where Clyde Beatty, the famous animal trainer, raises lion cubs, pacifies them more or less, and teaches them tricks for his circus acts.

Though we do not have the rock quarry available at the zoo, it should not be much more difficult to construct a lion island than a monkey island, and judging from the success of the Fort Lauderdale lion farm we believe it would prove almost as popular, if not quite, as our present Monkey Island.

Cod Liver Oil

As the influenza epidemic continues to spread throughout the country, until practically everyone has it, has had it, or is about to have it, more and more efforts are being made to find some sure cure, or better yet, some sure preventive for it.

Not the least of these is the old fashioned one which has been used in Florida ever since we can remember, consisting largely of baking soda and grapefruit juice. In more recent years efforts have been made, not without success, to popularize this treatment in northern states, partly for humanitarian reasons, and partly on account of the grapefruit surplus.

The Associated-Press reported the other day that the Continental Machines, Inc., of Minneapolis had met with considerable success in reducing colds among its employees by a free distribution of vitamin pills throughout the winter months.

Our personal experience with cod-liver oil capsules and other vitamin tablets, when taken consistently during the winter months is that they build up an effective resistance to colds, a Continental executive explained in "Steel" magazine. "Recently we decided to ration these capsules to our men so that this coming February we will not lose any such number of man hours."

Under the Continental plan, every employee receives daily a folding paper cup with the following statement printed on the bottom:

"This contains one capsule which may be taken internally to add essential vitamins to the diet."

To attract attention, a different health slogan is printed every day on the "vitamin cups." Some of them are:

"If you can walk to and from work, leave the car in the garage and you will both last longer."

"The difference between natural and emotional fatigue is that a good night's sleep will take care of the former."

"If you can expand your chest at least two inches and hold your breath for seventy-five seconds, don't worry about your lungs."

Of course it is not pretended here that cod-liver oil will cure a cold or the flu after a person has it, but if taken regularly throughout the winter, it undoubtedly will build up a person's health and resistance to colds so that he will be much less susceptible to them.

After a person has the flu there really isn't much he can do about it but go to bed.

Duell, Sloan & Pearce, Inc. have just announced that a feature condensed version of "Born in Paradise" by Armine von Tempel will appear in the February issue of the Reader's Digest.

"Mrs. Miniver" by Jan Struther has been purchased by M. G. M. to be made into a movie. It is rumored that $50,000 was paid for the rights.

Random House will publish on May 15 "Invitation to Learning," a book based on the weekly radio feature of the same name. This book will contain 27 discussions of the great books of all times by Huntington Cairns, Allen Tate, and Mark Van Doren, as well as special guests invited from time to time to join in discussion dealing with subjects and books on which they are particularly informed.

The program, "Invitation to Learning," has had an interesting history on the Radio. Begun last May as a sustaining feature by the Columbia network, the discussions have attracted a steadily growing audience that today numbers over 3,000,000 every week.

Carson McCullers, author of "The Heart is a Lonely Hunter" and of the forthcoming "Reflections in a Golden Eye" was born Smith in Columbus, Ga., Feb. 18, 1917, which means that she will soon be 24. She began writing at the age of sixteen with a play that began in a graveyard and ended on a catalogue. When she was 19 Story Magazine accepted two of her stories. Three years ago she married Bayo McCullers.

Publishers are busy now announcing the titles which they intend to feature during the next few months. Of 24th St. House and Schuster will publish "You're Only Young Twice," a book for women approaching and over forty. It tells how to achieve a new figure without taking a course of weight-reducing pills or years' treatment without introducing a radical or expensive treatment; gives simple health tips; shows how to keep beauty through middle age; and how to keep growing without taking medicine; demonstrates how the woman who is a woman now should be a woman who is a woman tomorrow.

Construction In Lake County Hits Two Million Mark

TAVARES, Florida, Jan. 16.—More than $2,000,000 in construction, remodeling and repairing buildings and the sale of real estate took place in Lake County during 1940, according to a statement from the Lake County Chamber of Commerce this week.

The Florida Telephone Corporation reports more than 250 new telephone connections during the year in this county. While the Florida Power Corporation and the Triangle Gas Company have all had a satisfactory year's business, with substantial increases in the services sold to the people of this county.

Leesburg, Lake's largest city, has been in the lead in this program for 1940 with $407,000 expended in new buildings, remodeling and repairing, in addition to which there has been $50,000 worth of other real estate sales.

Besides more than half million dollars in real estate sales and development in 1940 in the Leesburg area, 40 acres of citrus groves have been set and 3300 acres of new land has been brought into cultivation for other agricultural purposes, largely in the production of Sea Island cotton and watermelons.

Mount Dora was third in its record this year with nearly $300,000 reported during the year. Of this amount $125,000 was in the construction of new buildings, remodeling, and improving older buildings, while $150,000 worth of real estate sales were reported.

The Sylvan Shores section of Mount Dora has had an additional $30,500 reported during this year in the construction of new homes and $35,000 in real estate sales.

The Clermont section of Lake County has pushed along with an available record this year which includes construction and real estate sales in excess of $115,000. Groveland had some $70,000 development, $60,000 of which was in a new and remodeled buildings, $7,500 in grove sales, while 150 new acres of citrus land and 250 acres of other land were brought into use.

More than $42,000 of development and real estate sales took place in the Montverde area this year, $30,000 of which was for new and remodeled buildings, $11,000 in real estate sales, but the most interesting development during the past twelve months in the Montverde area was 400 acres of new citrus groves and 300 acres of land brought into cultivation for other agricultural crops.

out of duty; and Clory, who is one of the most appealing women in modern fiction. In the larger frame it is the story of Mormon colonizations, the back-breaking labor in desert country, the starvation, the epidemics, twenty years' agonizing striving for security. Hard as the life was, polygamy seems to have been the worst trial the Saints had to bear. Only religious conviction can explain why they stood it as long as they did. But, perhaps, Miss Whipple's greatest achievement is in getting on paper the social history which brings the period into focus. This is a big book in every way, and exciting reading for anyone interested in the American Past.

Value Of Citrus In Treatment Of Flu Is Stressed

Newspaper Advertisements Carry Message Over Country

LAKELAND, Jan. 18.—(Special)—The value of Florida citrus fruit in avoiding and treating influenza, grippe and common colds, now prevalent in several sections of the nation, is being stressed in a series of newspaper advertisements and radio announcements released this week by the Florida Citrus Commission.

While the series of ads and reports for the radio announcements have been prepared for some time, it was not until this week that the commission felt it was justified in placing the copy which is headed "How to Fight the Flu."

The newspapers ads, in 600- and 100-line sizes, are being placed in those areas where press associations quote authorities on reported from day to day. There is an attempt in the ads to throw the reader or listener to take no chances, but instead of trying to call a doctor upon the first sign of a respiratory ailment.

Scientists have known for some time that proper intakes of citrus fruits supply vitamins and other requisites for proper health and to build up resistance and stamina which help to ward off the attacks of common colds and such ailments.

The newspaper and radio advertising of citrus as an important aid in avoiding and fighting colds will continue as long as the situation warrants, the commission said, pointing out that while no cure for the common cold has ever been discovered, the use of citrus in such cases has generally proved very beneficial.

Home Demonstration

By REVA D. ANDREWS

"If every farm in the nation would become an independent unit in the matter of a necessary food supply for the family, it would be one of the greatest contributions that agriculture could make to national defense."

This statement by W. T. Nettles, district agent with the State Agricultural Extension Service, is one which all farmers and rural home-makers will do well to consider in their plans and activities this year.

While accomplishment of this purpose may not be possible in a few areas where climate and soil limit production to specialized crops, it can be achieved on most farms in Florida and other states.

In making his statement, Mr. Nettles explained that such a condition—sufficient food for the rural family—is important all the time, in times of emergency or other, but it is vital in national defense.

By producing and conserving sufficient food for their family, the farmer and his wife not only safeguard their health and the health of their children, but they also help themselves from the economic standpoint and, should the occasion arise, make it unnecessary for them to appeal for food for other sources when and if it is needed by others.

"Plenty of food, produced on the farm, is health insurance for the farm family. It means that the children of the farm will grow into strong and healthy adults capable of making a living, becoming good citizens, and making the nation strong. A strong nation is necessary to withstand any force or idea that is contrary to our way of life," he asserted.

How can this—the adequate farm food supply—be achieved? Well, here are Mr. Nettles' suggestions (and they're part of the live-at-home gospel he and other Extension Service workers have been preaching for years): First to 10 acres of good permanent pasture; a "real" milk cow; chickens for eggs and meat; a big year-round garden; fruit trees; feed crops sufficient for poultry and livestock; and canning vegetables and other products for future use. A farmer will want to produce one or more of the so-called "cash" crops of course, but an adequate food supply is the most important consideration of all.

An award of $3,600 to the University of Florida to continue for another year a project in applied economics started last year, was announced last week by the Alfred P. Sloan Foundation of New York.

Pointers On Farm Problems Offered

By Research Men

(Note: Information in this column comes from workers at the State Experiment Station in Gainesville.)

While poultry manure is good for any crop, it should be used with caution as it is relatively high in nitrogen and will severely injure young plants if placed too close to them. If used with watermelons, not more than two tons per acre should be applied. If it is used at the rate of as much as two tons per acre, the nitrogen in the manure for other plants should be reduced to 2 percent.

In all emulsion spray is the most effective and economical control measure for whitefly on grapefruit.

Alyce clover usually responds to applications of potash and phosphate. About 20 pounds of 15 percent superphosphate and 50 pounds of 50 percent muriate of potash per acre, applied broadcast before or at planting, has been found effective for stimulating growth of this crop.

It is best to establish the tobacco plant bed on new land at least 100 feet from last year's bed. The site should also have been free from flow of water from old beds or drainage ditches. These details will insure success of the beds, according to Extension Service workers.

Protection from cold wind, if possible, is another point in establishing the bed. If it is necessary to make the bed in the open, make a tight frame and use a cover cloth free of holes to protect plants from heavy rain and wind.

LARGER ACREAGES

RUSHNETT, Jan. 18.—(Special)—Sumter county's acreages of spring cucumbers, tomatoes, string beans, eggplants, and peppers will be larger than last year, reports to County Agent W. J. Platt, Jr., indicate. Planting is now under way.

Many Crops In State Increase Winter Acreage

ORLANDO, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The United States Department of agriculture Sunday reported important increases in many crops for winter and spring harvest over acreage for harvest a year ago, but said dry weather resulted in a decreased acreage of straw berries in Florida.

Crops of increased acreage were listed as including winter tomatoes. Supplies of winter vegetables were expected to be heavier than a year ago, the Florida truck crop bulletin said, with a substantial increase prospective in artichokes, snap beans, beets, carrots, kale, lettuce and spinach. The outlook was for a sharp reduction in winter strawberries with the coming of early cabbage and spring-crop shallots somewhat less.

The bulletin said carrot shipments were "somewhat light" during the late December due partly to year-end holidays and partly to unfavorable weather for harvesting.

Loadings were gaining in volume and shipments would be active during January, the bulletin reported. Acreages of commercial truck crops reported to Jan. 10 in the fall, winter and spring producing areas total 110,000 acres for the season compared with 354,080 in 1940—an increase of 10 percent, the agriculture marketing service reported, adding last season's acreage for winter and spring crops was restricted by unfavorable weather.

The bulletin said production of winter-crop snap beans in Florida was indicated as double the light production a year ago of 1,190,000 bushels.

Indicated production of commercial early Irish potatoes for fall and winter harvest in Texas and South Florida was forecast to be 1,742,000 bushels compared with 1,125,000 last season. Florida strawberry production was forecast as 230,000 34-quart crates, compared with 504,000 last year. The acreage of tomatoes in South Florida for harvest during winter and spring was indicated as 16,000 acres, more than double the 8,000 acres harvest last season.

Acreage Allotment For Cotton Listed

GAINESVILLE, Jan. 16.—Florida's preliminary cotton acreage allotment for 1941 has been set at 72,331 acres by the Agricultural Adjustment Administration in Washington. G. O. Clayton, state AAA administrative officer, has been informed. This is slightly less than the 73,000 acres listed in the preliminary allotment for 1940. Total United States allotments have been reduced a little over 1,000 acres to 95,000,000 acres, Clayton says. Allotments for individual farms participating in the 1941 agricultural conservation program will be made from the state total.

Congress Frowns As Hopkins Visits

By CHARLES F. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S assignment of Harry L. Hopkins to visit war-time London as his personal representative or spokesman or investigator or in some other capacity is not at all clearly defined. It is a capacity which many senators and representatives on Capitol Hill in Washington look with decided disfavor. They're not making formal speeches about it, but it's the subject of plenty of conversation on the two legislative floors. It's to be overheard from Republicans and anti-New Deal Democrats, probably amounting, all told, to a sizable majority of congress membership.

Harry's adverse critics don't dislike him personally, but he's so close to the president that they think perhaps they're a bit jealous of him. As a tremendously active New Dealer, he's held responsible by the "dealer" for a big share in instigating various New Deal policies that they've objected to throughout the current administration. They found fault with his judgment as Works Progress administrator and as secretary of commerce. Ever since F. D.'s famous reference to "Tommy the Cork" they've called Harry "Harry the Hop." That designation is fairly representative of their estimate of him.

First they say that he isn't a suitable man to trust on a mission of great responsibility, like the one the president is sending him on, to London. Having said this, they immediately take it back, agreeing that the complete responsibility of it is what they really object to; if a duly named and confirmed ambassador bungles he can be called to account for it by the White House, and not, adversely, even to that.

What About Salary?
Indeed, a question's raised as to his pay. The executive mansion's version is that he's to be unsalaried; in to receive only his expenses. The Epiphany celebration Jan. 6. The successful one will be given the Bishop's blessing and, according to tradition will enjoy good fortune during the coming year.

penes, plus a per diem allowance.

Yes, rejoin congressional critics, but what's a per diem allowance except a salary under a different name. Their suggestion is that the general accounting office should have a vote relative to the legality of the per diem item, and maybe relative to expenses, too, considering that the whole affair is absolutely ungovernmental.

The trip likewise is compared with the tour made by Colonel E. M. House, in President Wilson's behalf, before our entry into the last World war, and it's significantly recalled that that was preliminary to our own participation in World War I.

When this new Seventy-Seventh congress convened it was freely queried: Will it get on more harmoniously with the president than the last one did?
Congressional comment on the Hopkins selection hints at a bad omen for harmony.

Congress appears to have been decidedly impressed by the widespread editorial emphasis laid by our newspapers upon the fact that we have practically the only legislative body left on earth today that functions independently of executive dictation and that it surely had better stand pat for continued recognition of its rights.

Lawmakers Sensitive

Consequently our lawmakers, on an average, emphatically are sensitive to anything that they believe favors of executive encroachment upon their governmental branch's authority. And a good many of them pretty outspokenly feel that the dispatch of an unofficial White House agent to Britain strongly suggests something of the sort. Anyway, to judge from their talk, Harry Hopkins wasn't the ideal individual to pick for the mission; not from congress' standpoint. He's most likely the president's best friend, but too many congressmen deem him overly amenable to trust—honest and in his way, intelligent, but a freak. If he's a spokesman they're afraid he'll misrepresent us. If he's an investigator they're afraid the information he brings back will be colored by his own peculiar prejudices. Furthermore, they don't want any envoy sent abroad upon whom they haven't passed. They 100 per cent weren't consulted as to Harry and it makes 'em swop.
