Loitering, suspicious behavior now illegal in Seminole County

By J. MARK BARPIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - It will now be a crime in Seminole County to loiter or act suspiciously in a neighborhood known for drug sales.

Seminole County commissioners, voting 3-2, approved the controversial ordinance Tuesday. It will now be a misdemeanor to lotter in a drug neighborhood or act in a manner to suggest to police that you may be participating in illegal activities. Punishment will include up to $500 in fines and a 60-day county jall term.

The ordinance, proposed by Sheriff John Polk. will take effect when it is recorded with the Secretary of State in about two weeks. The ordinance will be effect in cities as well as the unincorporated areas unless they choose individually not to accept the ordinance.

Proponents of the ordinance say it is necessary to stop curb-side drug sales. Lt. Don Ealinger, commander of the sheriff's City-County investigative Bureau (CCIB), said he doesn't know how many additional arrests law enforcement officers can make with the new ordinance. Bee Leiter, Page BA Eslinger said the ordinance will be used primarily to stop curbside drug sales.

'In most of the drug sales we see, the buyer does not know who the dealers are when they come into the affected areas." Eslinger said. The dealers come up to their cars to sell them drugs. That's what we're looking at."

The ordinance includes provisions that allow the officer to question a suspected dealer when he sees objects passed in "furtive" manner. Ealinger said law enforcement officers can stop a person suspected of drug dealing, but cannot arrest him under current laws. The ordinance would allow the person to be arrested and searched.

Water cutbacks may be enforced here, elsewhere

By J. MARK SARFIELD Herald staff writer

Mandatory restrictions on the outdoor use of water likely will be enforced beginning next week in Seminole and 18 other rain-short countles in the St. Johns River Water Management District.

The district, stretching from Jacksonville to Vero Beach on the East Coast and inland from north Okeechobee County to northwest of Orlando, is an average 3.25 inches below normal rainfall for the past three months.

And some coastal communities such as Melbourne and Vero Beach are 15 inches or more below normal for the past year, said district apokesman Ed Albanesi.

The staff will be recommending to the board (today) and I expect it will be approved, that they enact restrictions of the first phase," Albanesi said.

Cindy Johnson, a district spokesman, said the proposal considered today calls for homes with odd-numbered addresses to restrict watering lawns to Monday, Wednesday and Saturday between 4 a.m. and 8 a.m. Even-numbered homes can water their lawns on Tuesday, Thursday and Sunday during the same hours. Johnson said the watering restrictions and schedules apply to households on private wells as well as those served by local governments and private utilities.

Johnson said rinsing of homes and sidewalks will be prohibited, but pool levels may be maintained.

Businesses also would be subject to the restrictions, as would agriculture and golf courses. If approved today as expected, the restrictions would take effect Aug. 19 at 12:01 a.m. Violations are a second-degree misdemeanor, punishable by a maximum $500 fine and 60-day jail term. Some mandantory restrictions have been in place this year in other parts of Florida, including Volusia County. No mandatory restrictions have been in effect in Seminole County. In Volusia County, where the county has had restrictions for about three weeks, the response has been "super." said Stephen Kintner, director of that county's Environmental Management Department. He said his department gets between 300 and 600 telephones inquiries daily about the program. You see isolated cases of violations here and there, Kintner said. "But when you stop and talk with them, they are usually more than willing to comply."

County water, sewer bills rise 11%

SANFORD - Water and sewer users served by Seminole County will pay an average 11 percent higher bills beginning Sept. 1, the Seminole County Commission decided unanimously Tuesday night.

A typical resident who has paid an average $38.05 monthly charge for county water and sewer services will see an increase of $3.95 to $40 per month. A county consultant said the county won't need another increase until at least 1994. It is the first time in II years water rates have been increased and the first time in two years for sewer

Only five of the county's approximately 20,000 utility customers with climbing expenses expected to outpace fees by January, commissioners raised the user rates.

County Manager Ken Hooper said expansion of the Greenwood Lakes wastewater plant, construction of the new Yankee Lake wastewater plant and other county service improvements have driven costs over the amount collected from water and sewer fees.

Harbor master says boating rules changes would be 'public nuisance'

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Take the blind mosquito mess, add a set of more stringent boating regulations - including a 30 mph speed limit on inland waterways - and local boaters might just jump ship, the Monroe harbor master said today.

"If something like (the proposed regulations) would pass. It would, indeed, hurt the boating industry," said John Lucarell, harbor master for 19 years at Monroe Harbour.

The proposed rules were developed by the state Department of Natural Resources and are designed to help stop the rising tide of deaths of people and manatees on the state's waterways. Other elements of the proposed rules include mandatory education for boaters and higher license fees to help pay for stricter enforcement of the boating laws.

Hearings on the rules are scheduled in Orlando next week, and the opposition is expected to be strong and noisy.

Lucarell said he believes the regulations may be an

Officials say the new rules are needed due to an increase in fatalities, both human and wildlife, on Florida's waterways:

*There were 105 boating accident deaths in Florida last year, more than twice the national everage. •Thus far this year, 103 manatees have died.

•Thirty-seven of the 103 manales deaths have been attributed to boats and barges. *Last year, 93 manatees were killed during the same period with 26 deaths blamed on boaters.

Jury says city guilty of sex discrimination against officer

MIAMI — A federal court jury decided Tuesday that the city of Miami Beach discriminated a a female police officer and created a hostile work environment by allowing co-workers to taunt her with pornographic photos and sex toys. However, the three-man, three-woman jury found that Officer Sunday Sanchez was not entitled to damage money because she was not deprived of training and advancement op-portunities in the Police Department. "Obviously, I'm more pleased about this than anything I sought to do in my life. I'm glad they saw fit to rule in my favor," said Sanchez, 28. "It won't be tolerated any longer."

Sanches, an officer since 1982, had saked for up to $30,000, claiming sexual harassment interfered with her job and prevented her from advancing.

The jury verdict came on the fifth day of trial. Based on the verdict, U.S. District Judge Sidney Aronovitz is expected to issue an injunction against further harassment.

Sanchez said the trial was a difficult ordeal, but was worth the effort.

"I knew that I wanted to stay with the Police Department and if I'm going to retire from there, it's going to be in 30 years. You can't just quit and run away. Sometimes you need to make things change, to make something better," she said.

Everglades cleanup plan due today

WEST PALM BEACH - Water ers are scheduled to release a blueprint for saving the Everglades Wednesday and pre-liminary drafts suggest taxpay-ers and farmers will split the cost of cleaning polluted farm runoff.

The plan by the South Florida Water Management District seeks to protect the 3.500-square-mile Everglades. which filter much of the region's drinking water. It must balance the needs of urban water consumers with those of the agriculture industry and wildlife.

The biggest problem is phosphorus and other chemicals that pollute the water draining into the Everglades from the sugar, vegetable and cattle farms on its northern border.

Critics are already prepared to attack the plan. "The unwillingness of the pollutors to clean up their own water on their own land is what's at issue." said Jim Webb of the Wilderness Society.

Ed Barber, an environmental official of the Florida Sugar Cane League, said the plan would cost $100 million or more, yet is based on untried principles and does not specify exactly how the cleanup would be accomplished.

"It's a big gamble," Barber said. "That would never fly in a vacuum - if you took away the politics and the public pressure.

U.S. District Attorney Dexter Lehtinen filed a lawsuit in 1988 to stop the water management district from pumping farmpolluted water into the Evergiades. Lehtinen suspended action on the suit until Sept. 5. pending a review of the plan.

The district's governing board will begin debate on the plan Wednesday and hopes to put it into effect in early 1991. A preliminary version of the plan suggests the polluted water should be cleaned at its source. Farmers could reduce the phosphorus pollution by changing some farming practices, the early version said.

Farmers fear that means they will be required to install expensive pumps.

Plan could overhaul mental health care at state prisons

TALLAHASSEE - Florida prison officials are overhauling their mental health care system to focus on those inmates who need the most help.

instead of concentrating on the overall prison population of 38,000 prisoners, treatment will be concentrated on an estimated 4.560 inmates who have mental disorders.

"Once we have that kind of delivery system operation, then we can look at providing services to other, non-disordered inmates." the prison system's director of mental health services said last week.

"I think that we have such major deficits at providing adequate care to the mentally disordered inmate that we need to develop a good delivery system to those individuals." Rod Hall told the Correctional Medical Authority.

The plan was developed in response to problems identified by the state Department of Corrections and a courtappointed pyschologist in a 17-year-old lawsuit challenging prison conditions. It calls for the establishment of 13 prisons as "regional mental health centers" and the designation of five others as "intermediate treatment" facilities.

Mental health staff members who are currently spread throughout the state prison system will be reassigned to those designated centers. A few will remain at other prisons to identify inmates who need treatment and make referrals. Hall said.

The Correctional Medical Authority, which was established by the Legislature in 1986 to oversee prison health care, has endorsed the plan, but has not yet recommended its enactment.

Unsafe roads seen in five years

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE - Florida's lack of funding for transportation improvements could result in unsafe driving conditions on many of the state's roads and bridges within the next five years, according to legislative documents.

The documents are part of the hundreds of pages of material being provided by the state Department of Transportation for a special legislative session in November on transportation.

The Tampa Tribune said the state's maintenance engineer said in a Jan. 5, 1989, memorandum said that unless DOT gets more money it won't be able "to protect the safety of Florida's motoring public or protect Florida's investment in bridge structures."

The memorandum from Marshall L. Stivers says if more funds are not provided, the department might be forced to impose weight restrictions on some bridges, and moveable bridges won't operate for passing boats. Stivers also warns that Florida may lose federal highway money because 392 state bridges haven't been weight tested, as required every two years by federal law.

Martinez and the cabinet, sitting as the state Board of Education, ultimately voted to proceed with the higher test scores for English language skills and reading that are scheduled to take effect this fall.

School board may pay for asbestos removal

By VICKI Document Herald staff writer

SANFORD - The school board today will be asked to approve emergency purchase orders for asbestos abatement projects at Seminole High thool in Sanford and Bear Lake Elementary School in Apopha.

Both projects have been awarded to Cross Construction Company of Zephyrhills, who presented bids that were on average $10,500 lower than those of competing companies.

"Actually, the work has already been done." assistant superintendent for facilities and transportation Richard Wells said. "It was part of the construction projects at the schools. I believe it was done M weekend or the weekend before. We just need to make the board aware of what we've done.

Wells explained that rather than go through the lengthy bidding process which would have delayed the removal of the asbestos as well as the construction at the school, the facilities department contacted three contracting firms which were known to do asbestos abatement projects and got quotes from them.

The Seminole High School project was done at a cost of $4.100 and the work at Bear Lake cost $4,400.

Wells attributes the large differences in price to the nies charge for rush jobs and weekend work. "We wanted it done fast and over the weekend when it would not interfere with anyone at the school," he said. At Bear Lake, the floor tiles in the administration building were found to contain asbestos. They had to be removed according to Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) standards. Seminole High's band room was found to have some asbestos around the heating pipes. That, too, needed to be

EPA regulations enacted in early 1988 said asbestos, used in the 1950s and 1960s for fire prevention, had to be removed from school buildings because inhaling its fibers might cause lung disease and cancer. Seminole County was fined $47,000 in 1987 for having 15 violations of the Asbestos Hazard Response Act. At that time, asbestos was found around boilers and heating pipes at Sanford Middle School. Longwood Elementa-ry. Milwee Elementary and Casselberry Elementary. The district was also fined for not testing for asbestos at Seminole and Lyman high schools. All those problems have been fixed. Wells said. In other business, the board will be asked to approve the job description for an Integrated Learning Systems Technician so that position can be advertised. They will also be presented with the and the Seminole County Sheriff's Office for traffic control services.

Ozone threat primer

Incredibly enough, there is a small bright spot in the new, gloomy finding that destruction of the ozone layer protecting the earth from excessive solar radiation has spread from one pole to the other.

One benefit from learning how the North Pole ozone shield has been depleted by 6 percent or more is that we can measure the magnitude of the problem we have created for ourselves.

Fortunately, we appear to have the opportunity to avert catastrophic damage to the atmosphere if we take the rigth steps. The beginning of wisdom about ozone depletion is the realization that we must live with our mistakes. The irrevocably destructive process set into motion by the ozone-destroying chlorine gasses already released into the atmosphere will continue for decades.

A single chlorine molecule breaks down tens of thousands of ozone molecules during its century-long lifespan in the stratosphere. The ozone measurements made up to this time reflect only the gases that were released from sources such as broken refrigerator coils and hair sprays during the 1970s. Gases now rising up from he earth's surface won't reach the stratosphere to begin their destructive work for another seven to 10 years.

Until recently, we knew that there was a seasonal hole in the ozone layer over the South Pole. Now we know that measurable ozone depletion is taking place over the North Pole as well.

What does this mean? According to one scientific panel, every 1 percent loss of osone allows roughtly 2 percent more harmful ultroviolet light to reach the earth's surface. Already, South polar ozone is completely gone at some altitudes and the ozone layer, overall, in A persent thisner than it was in 1986. Ultra-violet radiation reaching populated areas could rise as much as 5 to 20 percent early in the next century.

A fringe benefit from the alarming news on ozone depletion is that it is galvanizing public appreciation of planetary peril.

Because corrective measures to save the earth's protective atmosphere will be expensive, they are not likely to come about so long as world leaders conceptualize the danger merely as a gradual increase in skin

This consideration alone requires action. but the ozone crisis has several ramifications. including the possible collapse of Antartica's ecosystem. A fuzzy acknowledgement of such a possibility won't do. The whole world must understand the mortal threat of he South Polar phytoplankton — the grass of the sea — from increased ultra-violet radiation.

Indeed, damage ot phytoplankton in the Antarctic region is already being measured. The phytoplankton are essential to the shrimplike krill that feed virtually all fish and marine mammals around the Antarctic.

Moreover, krill offers a significant food source to mankind. A 10 percent harvest of the 550 million to 770 million tons of protein represented by the krill could equal the entire fish catch of the world, and several nations are studying use of such a protein source.

The truly alarming reality is that ozone depletion has become a genuine threat to life on this fragile planet.

We choose to endure terrorists

The recent dramatic return of world attention to the problem of the hostages held by terroriots in Lebanon should at least serve to remind us that we are in this mess largely through our own choice.

The hostages, to begin with, were in the Middle East in the first place because they chose to live and work there, even though they were all (like the rest of the world) on notice that it was a highly risky place to hang out. It is a good question — and it has been saked — just how high a price, in blood and treasure, the major Western nations can reasonably be asked to pay for their release.

As a matter of fact, there seems to have been a tactt agreement, on the part of Washington and other Western capitals, to let them languish in captivity for some indefinite period rather than knuckle under to the demands of their captors.

That policy, however, was knocked into a cocked hat by the apparently unilateral decision of the laraeli government to kidnap Sheik Abdul Karim Obeid, one of the Shitte leaders who has been deeply involved in the kidnappings. That triggered — and the israelis certainly ought to have known it would trigger — outraged responses by his followers and alites. (As a matter of fact, it is worth wondering whether the laraeli action wasn't a deliberate attempt to israeli action wasn't a deliberate attempt to worsen relations between the Western powers warmer recently.)

In any case, I have long been in favor of retaliation against the terrorists. The trouble, h o w e v e r , w i i h t h i a it was retalistory but that it was only an episode. An isolated act of retalistion, like this one, will promptly be met (as this one was) by reciprocal and, if possible, overwhelming brutality.

The only kind of retaliation that would be effective against the terrorists in the Middle East to one that would nec-essarily involve acts as merciless and om as their own. If we ordered all Western nationals

Sehan Valley for every Western hostage put to feath, we would certainly diminish the local enthusiasis for killing hostages — and they would run out of hostages to kill long before we lid, even at a rate of 10 for one.

But we in the West choose not to behave that way. And the Shitte terrorists, not themselves whichest by any religious injunctions to turn the other cheek or leave vengeance to the Lord, know this and count on it, it gives them a simply inhestable advantage in the pame of tit-for-tat.

President Bush is well aware of this, and patabally limited, as a result, in what he can do. Courge Mitchell, the Democratic leader of the Senate, lead up squarely behind the president in any action he might take, but (please note) "hebind" him, not beside him, let alone in front of him. Let's you and him fight, Mr. President: I'll hold your cost.

But if Mr. Bush ordered some really effective bry action, and so much as a single body-bag carrying an American casualty reached these shores, some less compromised colleague of Sen. Mitchell's would rise to estion the wisdom and/or necessity of the whole enterprise. The usual media would chime in, and within a week Gallup would be telling us that the American people, by 5-to-1, think Mr. Bush "overreacted."

PHILADELPHIA - The tourists take the train from the airport and arrive downtown on a Saturday afternoon looking for their hotel. One of them, a suitcase over his shoulder, sake the first, young man who peaces them for directions.

The man points vaguely toward the east and then without skipping a beat asks for a dollar. "so I can get something to eat." The tourist, now feeling like a rube, looks at this native Philadelphian more carefully. The aluminum but the young black man is carrying is not for the Little League game. He reaches into his pocket and coughs up some change.

The tourists wend their way to the hotel. They have chosen this place not merely for its weekend rate but for its location, Rittenhouse Square. A posh and pleasant urban space, where they could all and talk or read a paper on a summer's day.

But this summer's day, the tourists count one, two, three outstretched hands, open palms. They decide not to linger under the Hours later, the tourists head for the birthday party that is the focus of their trip. It's six blocks away, an easy evening walk through the Center City of shops and restuarants.

But at every other corner of the high rent districts there is a young man with a paper cup. At half a dozen doorways, there is another pair of eyes to be avoided, another message to heed or ignore. How about some money?

The tourists are surprised to find themselves so affected by this. They come from a big city themselves. They have seen, walked by, stepped over panhandlers, beggars, at all the famous addresses. Union Square. Fifth Avenue. Dupont Circle.

Maybe it was their coming from a country weekend that increased their sensitivity. Maybe it was summer that increased the trash. the bodies, the encounters. Or maybe it's getting worse.

Sunday morning, reading the papers in their hotel room instead of the public square, they were struck by seeing their sentiments all across the Philadelphia Inquirer's editorial page: "Enough's enough." The city's paper called for a harder line against the now "typical" street dwellers - young, malesubstance abusers camping on the city streets and parks.

This most troubling tribe among the homeless, they wrote, should have access to shelter if they can abide by the rules, and to drug-treatment programs if they want to change their lives, and to sympathy. But. wrote the paper's editorial writers, citizens should stop giving money to panhandlers and the city should adopt a policy against sleeping on the streets, perhaps by making it a civil

The bottom line? "If hard-working, productive citizens become increasingly uncomfortable on the streets of Philadelphia, the city is going to be in deep trouble."

Going to be? By the tourists' calculations, the cities they count on their well-traveled fingers are already in It's not just the rate of real crime, but the accumulated small experiences of uncase, the multiplied moments of dread, that erode city life. A dozen drug addicts in a park can turn that public space into a private and feasome conscious seminars debated the ethics of giving and not giving money to panhandlers. This summer, more are privately talking about begging as a form of blackmail, a protection racket.

Chalk it up to the much-vaunted "compassion fatigue." Chalk it up to self-defense. Chalk it up to the growing numbers and aggressiveness of those who work the streets. More are echoing the word: enough.

A conservative, they used to say, is a liberal who has been mugged. Perhaps a moderate is a liberal who has been hit up again and again on the way to work or school or dinner.

The beggars break into the consciousness of the middle class and confront us - in our faces! - with poverty and drug abuse. We can't ignore what's in front of us. But such confrontations ratchet up anger at the erosion of the community.

The response that the politiciana label "liberal" is for more shelters and drugtreatment centers, for attention to the roots of the diseases seen on the street. The one they label "conservative" is a call for law and order. The response we call "workable" would merge

Today at least, this tourist walking from one block to another, one cup to another, one city to another wants to join in a citizens' chorus. "Enought's enough."

Dairy cows die from power surge

WASHINGTON - America's dairy cows are being shocked to death by electrical power surges in automatic milking machines. Thousands of cows have been slowly zapped to their eternal reward while farmers have tried in vain to get help from the federal government.

Stray voltage is to a dairy farmer what drought is to a grain farmer. But while dead corn and wheat can bring Congress or the Agriculture Department to the rescue, dead cows have been curiously ignored. The excess voltage enters electric milking ma-chinery that is hooked to the cowe's udders. Though the charge inn't enough to kill the cow, she emerges from the experience a undder but wiser bovine.

breed. Cows have been similarly shocked from the floors of their barns and from watering troughs. Farmers tell us that their cows drink the urine of other cown rather than venture near the water trough. The farmers say constant exposure to stray voltage weakens the cows' immune systems and they die of various diseases. During their slow death, the cows withhold their milk.

Dairy farmers must force their reluctant cows to be milked, at least until the cows die. so the farmers can stay in business. A few farmers blame stray voltage for putting them out of business. Some have successfully sued utility companies and the milk-machine installers for losses due to stray voltage. Many of the cases are quietly settled out of court and that keeps the controversy from gaining national attention.

But farmers now want their issue on the table. In Wisconsin, they have been fired up by a court decision awarding $1.1 million to Wallace Daggett of Random Lakes, Wis. Daggett sued the Wisconsin Electric Power Co., claiming stray voltage had cost him 600 cows over a 10-year period. Daggett now gets calls every day from farmers who want to know what to do about stray voltage.

One of those calls came from Robby Webb of Powderly, Texas, who claims to have lost more than 400 cows to stray voltage, Webb told our reporter Tim Warner that his creditors are breathing down his neck and he is awaiting the outcome of his lawsuit against a milk-machine installer.

While waiting for his day in court, Webb has appealed to his elected representatives in Washington, D.C., for an emergency Farmers' Home Administration loan. He gets sympathy, but no action from Reps. Jim Chapman and Charles Stenholm, both Texas Democrats. Maybe their real sympathies are elsewhere. Chapman annually collects 62,000 in honoraria from the Northeast Texas Electrical Cooperative. Stenholm was on the receiving end of $2,000 in honoraria from the National Rural Electric Cooperative and $6,000 from the American Milk Producers Inc. in the last five years. Both congressmen say the money did not buy their influence on this lasue.

Stenholm, chairman of the House Livestock. Dairy and Poultry Subcommittee, said he would be more than willing to consider legislation on stray voltage, but that no solution for it has been found.

TOKYO — Toshiki Kaifu was elected by parliament today as Japan's 48th prime minister and handed the tasks of cleaning up a government riddled by scandal and leading the nation into crucial trade negotiations with the United States next month.

The powerful lower house of the Diet, or parliament, elected the 58-year-old Kaifu over his closest rival, Socialist Party leader Takako Dol, by a vote of 294-142, making him Japan's second youngest postwar leader. Kaifu was scheduled later to announce his choices for Cabi-net, which is expected to include a woman minister - a rarity in Japan's male-dominated politi-cal world.

Kaifu, a former education minister, was elected as the 14th president of the ruling Liberal Democratic Party Tuesday. which assured him of the pre-miership because of the party's overwhelming majority in the lower house.

In the LDP presidential vote Tuesday, Kaifu won 279 party yotes against 120 votes for former Welfare Minister Yoshiro Havashi, 62, and ex-Transportation Minister Shintaro lehihara's 48 votes. Kaifu is expected to name both rivals to his Cabinet along with other

The water management district's restrictions will be more stringent than those currently in Volusia County, Kintner said. That county, already on a three-day staggered watering schedule, allows 14 hours of watering daily beginning at 7 p.m. Kintner said the district's restrictions will apply and supercede the county's restrictions.

Even during the hottest of Florida days there would still be plenty of water for lawns and plants under the plan. Most garden experts advise irrigating the landscape only twice a week and early in the morning when the least water is lost to evaporation.

Bernard Myer, a resident of Stockbridge neur Altamonte Springs, said he paid $514 last year for 168,000 gallons of water and sewer. Yet he said his daughter, who lives in the nearby Wekiva Hunt Club community serviced by Sanlando Utilities, paid only $433 for 523,000 gallons. "I, don't understand this." Myer said.

Cindy Wright, acting county environmental services director. said Sanlando Utilities discharges its treated wastewater into a tributary of the Wekiva River. She said such a disposal method is much cheaper than the county's more environmentally sound treatment methods.

Mrs. Higgins: No time for recriminations

WASHINGTON — Maj. Robin Higgins, dressed in her Marine uniform, stood ramrod straight and with a firm voice advised against anger or recrimination for the slaying of husband Lt.

Col. William Richard Higgins in Lebanon.

With true esprit de corps. Mrs. Higgins, 37. appealed for "calm reflection" and said she will pray for President Bush "as he tries to save the living and end the suffering" of the other American and Western hostages in Lebanon.

It was her first public acknowledgment that the ashen-faced figure seen hanging by a rope from a gallows in a videotape produced by pro-Iranian Moslem extremists in Beirut was her

"Rich went to Lebanon in the service of the United Nations because he believed he could be useful, that he could help, and that he was needed." Mrs. Higgins told Pentagon reporters, reading from a statement she drafted herself.

"He always had a need to fulfill a destiny. ... He wrote in his high school yearbook his goal was 'to always make my family proud of me.' He succeeded." said Mrs. Higgins, a public affairs officer at the Pentagon.

Fire sweeps through rooming house

LYNN, Mass. — Fire swept through a four-story brick rooming house early Tuesday, killing at least three people and prompting panicked residents, some clinging to mattresses, to leap out windows, authorities said. Three people remained unaccounted for Tuesday night.

Nearly a dosen people were injured in the six-alarm blase, including two firefighters and two police officers. When firefighters arrived they found the building engulied in flames and residents perched on ledges.

The building lacked fire escapes, and rooms were equipped with ropes. Smoke alarms may not have worked at the time of the blaze, and the building lacked sprinklers in the rooms as required by state law, authorities said.

"(Residents) were standing on ledges, some sitting on ledges, some were hanging on windows all around the building," police Capt. Frederick McGovern said. "We were trying to talk them into staying on the ledges, not to jump." LYNN, Mass. - Fire swept through a four-story brick

Chattanooga government violates law

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. - A federal judge ruled the city's 78-year-old at-large commission form of government is unconstitutional because it violates the voting rights of blacks.
"There is a God in heaven!" Tommie Brown proclaimed

Tuesday after learning of the ruling in the suit she filed along with nine other black leaders in 1967. "Yes, it does work — the American justice system does work."
U.S. District Judge R. Allen Edgar decided that Chattanooga's at-large system of government dilutes the voting strength of blacks in violation of the Voting Rights Act of 1965. His 50-page ruling noted that under the system, adopted in 1911, no black ran for a commission post until 1955.

Since then, 16 blacks have run for seats on the commission. but only one has been elected, even though blacks make up roughly one-third of the city's population.

Edgar gave the city 75 days to propose a form of government that complies with the Voting Rights Act. He said the government may continue to operate under the at-large system until he approves a new system, but elections may not be held.

Threat against Bush investigated

DETROIT - The U.S. Secret Service is investigating the possibility that a suspected bank robber may have plotted to assessinate President Bush during a speech near Detroit but was thwarted by security precautions, agents said Tuesday.

John Spencer Daughetee, 34. who was arrested in Oakland. Calif.. Friday following a bank holdup, indicated to police during questioning of the robbery that he wanted to kill Bush. said Jim Hughes, special agent in charge in Detroit. Daughetee made "some threatening remarks" about the president, he said.

Agents in Detroit said Daughetee apparently planned to carry out an attempt on Bush April 17, when he gave a speech at City Hall in Hamtramck.

Hughes said Daughetee apparently had made diagrams of the area where Bush gave the speech.

Daughetee allegedly tried to get inside a building with a line-of-sight approach to the podium where Bush spoke, but agents said the speech was over before Daughetee could get in place.

Hughes said Daughetee apparently was put off by such security precautions as metal detectors, which the Secret Service used on those who approached the area, Richard McGrew, special agent in charge in San Francisco.

CIA predicts more Chinese unrest

WASHINGTON — The CIA said China's economic reforms in the post-protest period probably will bog down over the next few years, causing social and political unrest in the 1990s.

The report Tuesday said persistent inflation "will fuel social unrest by eroding standards of living." but enforcement of austerity programs would swell "the ranks of unemployed. embittered workers whose income subsidies do not keep pace with price rises and anger farmers paid with IOUs for their

The CIA said the preoccupation of China's leaders with "consolidating power, restoring ideological orthodoxy and maintaining social order" probably will keep them from putting together new solutions for the economy.

"Consequently, China's reform program is likely to be bogged down for the next few years," the report said. 'Continuing economic problems will stoke social and political unrest in the 1990s."

Masive ballout of thrifts becomes law

WASHINGTON — In what promises to be the biggest overhaul of the nation's banking system since the Great De-pression, the Bush administration pre-pared today to start bailing out the savings and loan industry.

President Bush acheduled a White House ceremony to sign recently passed legislation to reacue the troubled industry at the cost of upwards of $300 billion over the next 30 years.

A new federal agency, Resolution Trust Corp., was to meet afterwards to start overseeing the effort. The RTC. created by the new bill, is charged with managing insolvent S&Ls and ultimately selling off their assets.

The S&L measure is more expensive than the combined costs of federal ballouts in the 1970s of Chrysler, New York City and Lockheed. It amounts to the largest overhaul of the thrift industry since the Great Depression, when a wave of bank failures prompted the creation of new agencies to monitor the industry.

In recent years, hundreds of thrifts have failed - some as the result of bad economic times, many because of poor management and others due to theft and

Wedtech principals convicted

United Press International

NEW YORK - E. Robert Wallach, convicted of using his influence to get lucrative government contracts for the troubled Wedtech Corp., said he was guilty only of "being in the wrong place at the wrong time."

After seven days of deliberations, a Manhattan jury on Tuesday found Wallach - a close friend of former Attorney General Edwin Meese - guilty of racketeering for accepting about $425,000 in illegal payments from an obscure machine shop that later grew into a prominent defense contractor.

The U.S. District Court jury also found W. Franklyn Chinn. 47. and "Rusty" Kent London. 46. guilty of racketeering and conspiracy for accepting $1.1 million in illegal payments from the Bronx firm. Wallach, 55, was cleared of conspiracy and one count of receiving an illegal payment of nearly $100,000, but faces a prison term of up to 45 years and a fine of up to $250,000. Wallach, Chinn and London will be sentenced Oct. 16, Judge Richard Owen said.

All three were charged in a December 1987 indictment with receiving illegal payoffs — total-ing about $2 million — to influence Meese and other top Reagan administration officials to help Wedtech get defense contracts.

"I am guilty of nothing except being in the wrong place at the wrong time with the wrong people," said Wallach, who said he would appeal the conviction. Wallach called it a conviction for a "contorted and contrived white-collar crime" and denounced what he termed the "ambition" of former U.S. Attorney Rudolph Giuliani, who brought the charges against

Ariene 4 rocket leunched

KOUROU, Prench Quiana — A Prench-built Ariane 4 rocket roused into space Tuesday and deployed a communications antellite and an ultra-precise star mapper, lifting off on a second try with just 7 minutes left in the acceptable launch period.

The Ariane got off the ground at 7:26 p.m. EDT. Liftoff had been acheduled for 6:47 p.m., but the countdown was halted just seconds before ignition, apparently because of a computer gittelt. The problem resulted in a retractable fuel-line arm remaining attached to the vehicle and the countdown being re-set at the 6-minute point.

The hunch was the 15th straight success for Arianespace, the European consortium that markets Ariane boosters, and the 29th in 33 missions dating back to 1979.

Leland's plane took off Monday morning and was listed missing when it failed to return to Addis Ababa or land at the village of Fugnido by the 5 p.m. local time curiew for civil aviation. Leland had been scheduled to visit a refugee camp at

Dominant PLO faction adopts policy statement

TUNIS, Tunisia - The dominant Fatah faction of the Palestine Liberation Organization elected Yasser Arafat president

The statement called on Washington to recognize the right of the Palestinian people to self-determination and an independent state, and urged "the abandoning of the policy of alignment with Israel and of the unlimited support" to the Jewish state.

It also urged the Bush ad-ministration "to annul all laws and regulations hostile to the Palestine Liberation Organization" and restated its support for an international peace conference on the Middle East.

The delegates firmly endorsed Arafat's strategy adopted last November in Algiers, Algeria, by the Palestine National Council, or parliament in earlie, which led to the opening of the U.S.-PLO

Val Monico of Lake Howell High School paced the Magic offense through the tournament, leading the team in hitting with a .500 average (7-for-14) while sharing the pitching duties with Lake Brantley High School's Kristen Bates.

Leslie Barton, also of Lake Howell, hit .464 during the tournament with seven doubles and two triples while Corrie Lawson of Oviedo hit .412. WINTER PARK - It'd been the kind of day Heathrow's Chris DiMarco was ready to forget.

Having already missed a bunch of birdle putts. his tee shot on the 14th hole at Interlachen Country Club struck a rake beside a fairway bunker and bounced into the sand.

This was the second round of the 36-hole U.S. Amateur Sectional Qualifler and he had no more strokes to give in Tuesday's final round, being 2-over par for the day and 6-over for the tournament after Monday's 4-over 76.

His second shot on the 14th found the back left bunker. It was either get up and down for a 4 or face failing to qualify for the U.S. Amateur Championship, scheduled for Aug. 22-27 at the prestigious Merion Golf Club in Ardmore, Penn. DiMarco, the Southeastern Conference cham-event, arrived just in time to watch Chris throw his seven-iron second shot six feet from the hole on No. 16. Korf was not only an interested spectator, but knew what the rest of the field was doing and relayed pertinent information to the DiMarcos.

A birdie at 16 and Chris was off to No. 17, a 201-yard par three. A radar-like four iron left him a 10-foot putt for birdle. He drained it on the way to a 148, which tied him with Orlando's Cliff Kresge.

Kresge, 30th in the Florida Open two weeks ago, reached the semifinals of last week's Florida Amateur Match Play Championships.

Running back Larry Kin-nebrew is happy to have shuf-fled off to Buffalo.

At Mentor, Ohio, Cleve-land Coach Bud Carson wants linebacker Eddie Johnson to forget talk about retiring. Johnson, entering his ninth season, has been unhappy with being the No. 3 middle linebacker in Cleveland's new 4-3 defensive scheme.

While Johnson is stuck behind Mike Johnson and Barry Krauss, Carson has been impressed with Eddie Johnson in the limited time he's been on the field.

"He's a guy I want to keep around here," Carson said. "I don't want any of the physical players on defense to get out of here and he's a physical player. It's a new system, we have three guys sitting there that are contenders."

Rose continues legal fight with Giamatti

CINCINNATI - Pete Rose fought Tuesday to have his lawsuit against Commissioner A. Bartlett Giamatti returned to a court in the baseball legend's hometown of Cincinnati.

Attorneys for the Cincinnati Reds manager asked the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals to switch the case from federal court in Columbus to Hamilton County Common Pleas Court in Cincinnati, where Rose originally filed his suit.

The appellate court gave no indication when it would rule, but Rose's lawyers urged quick consideration because of the public interest in this celebrated litigation."

Filing the appeal, however.

made it likely a scheduled Monday hearing in Columbus before U.S. District Judge John Holschuh would be postponed. Holshuch ruled last week the federal court system was the proper location for Rose's awsuit and said a hearing on Rose's request for a preliminary injunction — indefinitely barring Giamatti from deciding Rose's fate - would be Aug. 14.

Rose filed suit against Giamatti June 19, claiming the commissioner had decided even before holding a disciplinary hearing that Rose had gambled on Reds games and was ready to ban him from baseball for life. Rose denies he ever gambled on

Rose won a temporary restraining order against Glamatti from Hamilton County Common Pleas Judge Norbert Nadel June 26, but Giamatti's lawyers moved it to federal court July 3 by filing a notice of removal.

In his ruling, Hoischuh agreed with Giamatti's lawyers, noting Rose lives in Ohio and Glamatti in New York, creating a "diversity of citizenship" - one element necessary in having a case tried in federal courts.

Rose's main argument in his appeal was that his lawsuit was not only against Giamatti. but also against major-league baseball, which operates in Cincinnati, and the Cincinnati

Reds. ... The district court erroneously concluded that the primary relief sought by Pete Rose was to stop Giamatti from conducting a disciplinary hearing." Rose's attorneys argued in their appeal.

"That is only one aspect of the relief sought by Pete Rose. The primary relief sought by Rose is an order preventing all defen-dants from barring him from participating in major league

Rose's appeal also contained emotional wording linking Rose with America's pastime.
"Pete Rose is attempting to remain a part of the sport to which he has given his life professional baseball - despite the efforts of professional baseball to ban him through proceedings which Rose alleges are in violation of baseball's governing agreements," said Rose's appeal.

Tampa opened the acoring in the bottom of the first inning as it loaded the bases on two walks and an error. David Reyes followed with a run-scoring single, but West Seminole pitcher Tommy Origg was able to get out of the inning with no more damage being done.

Grigg went the distance for West Seminole and improved to 4-0 in the playoffs, allowing nine hits, striking out 10 and walking six.

West Seminole tied the score in the second as Matt DeSart and Steve Sandman opened the frame with back-to-back singles. An out later, Casey Wynn walked to load the bases. DeSart then scored on a passed ball.

Tampa regained the lead in the third with a run thanks to a West Seminole error and a double by Phil Cusmano, but West Seminole bounced right back with two runs in the fourth. After an out, DeSart and Sandman hit consecutive doubles. K.T. Slawson then reached on error to score Sandman and gave the team a 3-2 advantage.

In the fifth inning, Tampa came up with two runs to retake the lead, Jason Sparks and Reyes connecting for run scoring hits. Tampa added another run in the sixth to establish a 5-3 lead heading into the seventh and final inning.

West Seminole, aware it was time to do or die, came alive with a five-run outburst to take the lead and game away from Tampa.

"We got to the seventh and the bats woke up." Foranoce said. "We hadn't done a whole lot offensively until that inning." Keith Walsh opened the inning with a walk before Grigg singled. After the pair moved up on a passed ball, Scott Hanningan singled to bring in a run. He then stole second before DeSart followed with a single Sandman then walked to load the bases before Slawson ripped a two-run double. A wild pitch scored Sandman and gave West Seminole an 8-5 advantage heading into the final half-inning of play.

Tampa tried to rally in the bottom of the seventh as the first batter walked and move to second on a passed ball. The second batter walked and both runners moved up on another passed ball. After two outs, two more walks brought in a run and left the bases loaded.

Reyes then grounded up the middle to Walsh, the West Seminole shortstop, who went deep in the hole to come up with the ball and threw out Reyes to end the game.

"These kids have given their coach a few gray hairs," Forancee said. "But with their spirit and determination, it has been real fun to work with them. Like I said before. they're confident but not cocky."

Rob Shamblin (left) drove in one run and winning pitcher Jason Sewell (right) drove in the other two as District 14 defeated Eagleton, Tenn., 3-1 in the opening round of the Big League All-Star Southern Regional Tournament.

Earlier in the day, District 14 ta team consisting of players from Altamonte Springs and other Central Florida Little Leagues) knocked off Eagleton.

Now District 14 is off until Thursday, when it will play the survivor of tonight's elimination game between Texas and Charleston, W.Va. (which eliminated Tennessee 7-6 on Tues-

A win in either the 6 p.m. contest or the "if necessary" game at 8:30 p.m. on Thursday will give District 14 the Southern Regional championship and a berth in the Big League (16, 17 and 18-year-olds) World Series.

On Tuesday night against Texas, Jackson was 3-for-4 with a home run, a double, five RBI and three runs scored while Miceli tossed four innings of two-hit shutout ball in relief, striking out seven and walking

"I'll tell you what, it's a little scary being just 21 outs away from the World Series," said District 14 manager Woody Woodard. "But I think that the only way we're going to lose it now is if we give it away.

"Everybody will be ready on Thursday. We're going to go for it as hard as we can in the first game because we don't want to play a second game. I hope the sticks are on because that would make it easy."

Jackson, who played at Lyman High School, gave Dis-trict 14 an early 2-0 lead with a monstrous two-run home run in the bottom of the first inning. But Texas capitalized on the control problems of District 14 starting pitcher Richard Cobb of Oviedo and tied the game in the top of the second.

Then, in the bottom of the second inning. District 14 put the game away with a six-run explosion.

In the inning. Jackson singled in another run while third baseman Joe DiFrancesco of Lake Mary had a double, single, one run scored and an RBI. Mount Dora's Joey Fisher doubled in two more runs and scored a third run on an error. Carlos Abreu of Bishop Moore drew a pair of walks, scoring one run and driving in one. Cobb also singled and scored a run.

Texas tried to rally in the top of third, getting a run back on two doubles and a single. But with runners on second and third and none out, Dr. Phillip's Miceli came in and got out of the jam without allowing another

"Danny was on big time," said Woodard. "It was the Danny Miceli Show on defense."

Miceli got a little more breathing room as his teammates scored two more runs in both the third and fifth tings. In the third inning. Trevor Moore of Lake Mary hit a bases-loaded infield hit that scored both Shane Stufflet (also of Lake Mary) and Jackson.

It was fitting that Jackson deliver the last two runs as he ripped a double in the fifth inning to score Lake Mary's Aaron latarola and Lake Howell's Luis Guevera.

The game was stopped after five and a half innings by the midnight curfew.

"Kenny Jackson put on a fireworks show," said Woodard. 'I don't know how he can play any better. The scouts said we were going to face a left-handed pitcher with heat. Well, Jackson (who hits left-handed) hit him for the home run."

On Tuesday morning, Lake Mary's Jason Sewell struck out six will allowing just two hits as District 14 beat Tennessee 3-1. Sewell also drove in two runs while Rob Shamblin of Lake Mary drove in the third run.

Defensively, shortstop Abreu helped District 14 turn three double plays to continually thwart the Tennessee offense. "Every time they got something started, we shut them down." said Woodard. "Sewell would throw that ground ball pitch.

"It was so good to play a game. We've been here since Sunday. We had our uniforms on three times before we had a chance to play. We've been chomping at the bit to get on the field."

YOKOHAMA

passes Sanford's Martin for Mini Stock win Osteen's Sears

Sanford's Bill Martin jumped out to an early lead Friday night in the Mini Stock final at Orlando Speedworld but a late surge by Osteen's Bobby Sears spoiled his chance of a victory.

Martin led for 11 laps. Then, with four laps remaining. Sears carefully picked his way through traffic, took over the lead and went on to take the win.

On Saturday night at New Smyrna Beach Speedway. Apopka's David Russell drove the K-92FM radio/T.J.'s Pub Pontiac to victory in the FASCAR-sanctioned 25-lap Late Model feature. Right on Russell's back bumper was his shop foreman. Pete Orr of Montverde.

In the closing laps, young Jeff Yates came out on top of a tough battle for third with early race leader Bill Posey. Rounding out the top five was Bruce Lawrence of DeLand.

From his 12th starting spot in the Sportsman feature, Jimmy Sills took over first place at the halfway point. Sills, in the Certifine Fruit Co. Camaro, went on to win, besting Mike Kubanek, Marc Kinley, Ricky Marshall and Sanford's Joey Warmack.

The Florida Modified division's point chase leader. Gary Salvatore, led all the way to win the feature.

For the 15th time this season, the "A" Bomber final went to Allen Rhodes. Second-place finisher Dave Savicki had plenty of horses under the hood of his "Purple Plymouth" as he led the early goings, but he was loose in the corners and Rhodes took advantage of that situation.

Bobby Sears won the Mini Stock feature over teenage sensation Dwayne Cochran, who is doing wonders with inferior equipment while competing in the speedway's most competitive division.

In "B" Bomber action, after a wheel-to-wheel battle for the lead coming off turn No. 4 down to the checkers. Jim Harris scored his first feature win ever. Finishing strong second was John Ripley of Sanford, whose engine is still overheating, even after he flushed out the "mud dobbers". Wayne Marshall, who celebrated his birthday at the track on Saturday, won the V-8 Enduro.

First beseman W.L. Gracey (right) and his Adcock Roofing teammates ended their summer season with a 6-6 tie of California's Mater Dei on Tuesday at Sanford Stadium, Adcock Roofing, which finished second in the Buddy Lake League with a 13-9 mark, had an overall record of 16-13-1.

out to the mound and told our pitcher. Tony Chavers. to take a little off his fastball and throw changeups. He doesn't know how to throw a changeup but when he took a little off his fastball, he began to confuse them.

Mater Dei added its final run of the game in the top of the second after Cale Carter reached second on an error by Adcock Roofing's second baseman. Jim McCarthy grounded out to short to advance Carter before Dave Gonzalez reached on an error that allowed Carter to score.

Adcock Roofing had a chance to get back in the game in the bottom of the second as Harvey Clinger and Steve Wilbur led off the frame with consecutive walks. Ray Adcock then dropped down a bunt base hit to load the bases before Chavers hit a chopper to short.

The ball was booted, though, bouncing away from Blanton and rolling into the outfield. Clinger scoreed but Wilbur failed to stop running on the play and was tagged out in a rundown. After the tag, Mater Dei caught Chavers napping off first base and tagged got him in a rundown to complete the odd double play.

Adcock cut the lead to two in the third as Jon Eltonhead and Mike Taylor drew walks before W.L. Gracey dropped down a bunt single to load the bases. Mike Senechek then ripped a double to plate all three runs. but he was thrown out on the play trying to stretch his hit into a triple.

After strong defensive plays by Wilbur, Senechek and Eltonhead kept Mater Dei from scoring more runs in the fifth, Adcock Roofing was able to tie the score in the bottom of the inning.

"They loaded the bases in the fifth, but Eltonhead made a real nice diving catch in the inning." Powers said. "He also threw to third to double up the runner. who had jogged home thinking the ball wouldn't be caught."

Adcock Roofing tied the score in the bottom half of the inning. Taylor led off with a walk and moved to second on a wild pitch. Senechek then grounded out to move Taylor to third before Clinger and Wilbur walked. Ray Adcock then reached on an error that scored two to tie the score.

"We took advantage of most of our opportunities." Powers said. "If we had done so on all of our chances, we would have won.

"I'm happy with the way we played. We hung tough. We wanted to keep playing, but Mater Dei wanted to play the Baseball Academy after the rain. so the game was called."

She learned culinary arts on farm

By TERM Atom Herald correspondent

LONGWOOD - By the time she was 11 years old, our Cook of the Week was tending her four younger brothers and sisters and doing much of the family's cooking. Her mother had to work in the fields of their Ohio farm, so child care and cooking became early facts of life for Areva Barnes.

A typical meal prepared by her in those days consisted of pork chops or beef, fried potatoes, homemade bread and gravy. The gravy always gave her trouble, she said; her mother would smooth out the lumps for her each time. Barnes usually baked the bread in eight-loaf batches twice a week.

Her parents made sure their children knew the skills necessary for farm life. "Mother taught all us kids how to cook, including the boys," she said. Barnes' father was the outdoor instructor, teaching them all aspects of how to work a farm. including plowing with a team of horses. "When you turned 12 years old, you knew how to cook, how to hunt and how to farm," Barnes said.

Farm life is never easy, but Barnes looks back on her early years with nostalgia and an appreciation for what her family had: lots of love and an enjoyment of simple, everyday living.

"I wish there was some way everybody now could go back for three weeks and have oldfashioned times on the farm like we used to have," she said. "It was a slowed-down life. Everything's so rushed now." She thinks kids today are so busy hurrying from one club, or sports game, or lesson, to another that they are missing the joys of a less heetle, more family-oriented life.

It would not be surprising if Barnes, having had to cook regularly as such an early age, steered clear of it today, or at lease considered it a chore. On the contrary, she finds it a delight. "I just love to cook, and I love to have company," she said. "It's the limelight of my life."

Her favorite is baking-ples. cakes, cinnamon rolls, cookles, mostly from scratch. (She said she has only recently begun to use mixes for some of her cakes because they are cheaper and casicr.)

She enjoys cooking for her husband, Forest, or "Barney," whose favorite "is anything baked and sweet-it doesn't matter what it is." Mike Smith, her "adopted grandson," lives in an apartment behind the Barneses and takes his meals with them. "Mike loves to eat and his favorite is anything chocolate," she said. Barnes makes all of her family's jams, jellies and pickles; her husband will not eat them unless they are homemade. She also fixes homemade egg noodles; Barney does not like "store-bought" ones and he can tell the difference. "I know better than to fix them," she said.

She loves gardening (she was recently featured in the Sanford Herald's Gardening section) and tries to can 100 quarts of homegrown tomatoes each summer. Barnes' green thumb is evident: Her yard is crowned with beds of flowering impatiens and huge trays of various potted

Years later. Barnes had date set up one May evenag. A member of the young man's family fell ill and, instad of canceling, he sent Byrnetin his place. Barnes's mother was aghast-surely she was no going out with that boy wio had ruined all her dresses!? Int the date, and subsequent one, went well. The two were marrid the following February, and next year will celebrate thei 50th wedding anniversary.

They moved to Longwood in 1958, heeding Barney's detor's suggestion that a wrmer climate would help a painful health condition he had developed (the doctor was correct). The Barnes have two children-Darrell McKinley of Colorado, and Georgia Miller of Paola-nine grandsons, and four granddaughters. They have seven great-grandchildren, all girls, with two more expected soon; they're hoping for boys.

After she came to Florida, and at the age of 41. Barnes returned to school, studying to become a licensed practical nurse. "It was the best time of my life," she said. "It was so rewarding. everybody was so nice, it was just a good time." She practiced nursing for over 20 years, and retired in 1983. Barney retired from his position with the city of Longwood 10 years ago.

Barnes' hobbies include members in a number of clubs (Sweetwater Oaks Garden Club, Historical Society of Longwood, and Longwood Women's Club, to name a few), and painting the woodcrafts Barney makes. She is an active member of the Longwood Church of the Nazarene, and teaches Sunday school for the "Middlers" (third and fourth grades).

Each Tuesday night she visits - See Cook, Page 7B

Longwood Health Care Center, a local nursing home, with a senior adults group from the church. They sing hymns with the residents of the home, teach scripture lessons, and lead exercise songs. On special occasions and holidays, the group takes baked treats along, and brings small gifts on Mother's Day, Father's Day and Christmas.

Barnes' philosophy of life is: "We need more love for our fellow man, more understanding. If you love people, people seemingly always love you."

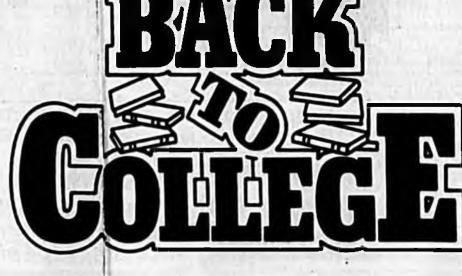

She feels church is extremely important in learning how to find, and share, happiness. "Since we've been going to church in the last 22 years. we've had more friends and are able to share our lives with others," she said.

Genital herpes would seem to run in cycles

DEAR DR. GOTT: My dear sister has contracted genital herpes from her husband. Can this disease be passed through the common use of towels, sink, shower, tub, toilet, hot tub or swimming pool? What cleaning products might be effective to prevent the spread of disease?

Genital herpes tends to run in cycles. It can be triggered by fatigue, illness or genital irritation. It is frequently painful, almost always embarrassing, bighly contacted as and difficult to highly contagious and difficult to eradicate. Herpes can be fatal to newborns who contract it during Acyclovir (Zovirax), a prescription anti-viral drug, shows promise in lessening symptoms of genital herpes and in reducing the frequency and severity of attacks. However, it is not a cure-all. Patients with active lesions must be fastidious in their habits to avoid contaminating uninfected individuals. This includes being especially careful about hot tubs, towels and undergarments — in short, any surfaces that are in contact with the herpes blisters Cleaning solutions, such as household bleach, will kill the virus on objects and clothing. By James Jacoby Has anyone noticed how a high-level pre-emptive bid by an opponent will good a player into bidding even more than he normally might have? That's what happened here. When West Jumped to four spades, North was deprived of normal bidding methods for investigating slam possibilities. The solution was simple — just bid the slam in diamonds and hope for the best. West led the ace of spades and continued with another spade. There was nothing to do but ruff with dummy's king of diamonds. What next? A low diamond was played from dummy, and East followed with the eight. Since West began with nine spades, it was likely that he held only one diamond. It was too far-fetched that the singleton was the queen, and as to the remaining cards (the 10 and seven), it now looked more likely that the 10 was with East. So declarer guessed the right play by putting in the nine of diamonds. A club to dummy's ace let declarer play another diamond to pick up East's Q-10. Declarer now cashed the king of clubs and the king of hearts. West, known to have started with nine spades and one diamond, followed to two clubs and to one heart, and had nothing left but spades. As South ran the remaining diamonds. East was squeezed. forced to give up his guard in hearts or to throw away his high

Wedding guests rewrote her invitations

DEAR ABBY: I'm planning my wedding and have encoun-tered a problem that seems to be common among recent brides.

My parents, who have limited funds, are paying for my wedding, so we sent invitations to those we wanted, and we included a response card.

To our surprise, many of the response cards came back with "and friend" written in-also, some of the couples had added 'and children '

It was very awkward having to telephone these people to tell them we couldn't accommodate their "friend" or children. And can you believe that some people were angry?

I suppose because the response card leaves a blank for them to fill in the number of entitled to invite whomever else they want.

Abby, please make this clear in your column. Brides everywhere will appreciate it.

ONE OF THEM

DEAR ONE: I am in favor of doing away with response cards with "blanks" to fill in to indicate how many will attend. Too many people believe the blank is an invitation to invite as many people as they wish.

The number of guests invited can be found on the envelope of the invitation: If it is addressed to Mr. and Mrs. John Jones, only
