YOUR BIRTHDAY Dec. 13, 1977

The coming year should be an interesting and fun one for you socially. Before it's over, it is likely you will have greatly expanded your circle of acquaintances and contacts.

SCITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Something that you have planned for today may not come off exactly as you envision it. However, it should work out better in the long run. Find out more about yourself by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph Letter. Mail $6 cent for each copy and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Astro-Graph, P.O. Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10101. Be sure to specify your birth sign.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're lucky today in things that concern you materially or careerwise, but not so in frivolous interests. Play doesn't pay.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Timing is all-important in turning your dreams into realities today. Start with small steps before breaking into a trot.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The quiet, subtle approach will work wonders you today in accomplishing your purposes. Do what's necessary; sans spotlight.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is a good day to push important plans that have far-reaching effects. Your ideas will make a difference.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Conditions are promising today where just ventures are concerned, provided you take the dominant role. Let your cohorts serve as back-ups.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Allies who have historically proven themselves loyal and true will even more so today. Fortune attends you through your sterling relationships.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Being of worthy service to loved ones today will afford you as much gratification as it will pleasure those whom you serve. Pitch-in where it counts.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Today's happenings should flatter you, for your companionships are likely to be sought by one you truly admire. Let him or her make the overtures.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your inspiration for a second effort will come to you today because of a desire to provide more bountifully for those under your wing.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You have a knack for lifting the spirits of others today by turning everything into fun. Use it. Change the mundane into the light and amiable.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Something good you have done for you looks like it will have a pretty hefty payoff. It will come in over still waters, so don't rock the boat.

Medicine May Be The Answer

Dr. Lamb

A young man I know tried three times to get into the Navy and couldn't pass the physical because his pressure shot way up. During the same time, he saw his own doctor several times, and his pressure was normal on all the visits.

Another young man wanting to prove his innocence on a criminal matter eagerly took the lie detector test, but to his dismay the results came out that he knew about or was implicated in the crime. The young man did not commit the crime, but did have suspicions as to who did.

Wouldn't the lie detector test be the same as the variable results people experience with electrocardiograms and blood pressure readings? Many people became excited or upset during any kind of test, and I cannot see how this stress test could be very accurate.

I appreciate your comments. DEAR READER—At best, it is just a laboratory test, and laboratory tests of all types can be inaccurate for many reasons. The lie detector test depends upon changes in blood pressure, heart rate, and a change in electrical resistance in the skin. All of these can and do respond to stress.

The value of the lie detector test depends a great deal on the experience of the person who gives and interprets the test. A person who is uptight because he is confronted for any reason should show this on the test even when the operator knows he is telling the truth.

Knowing the infinite capacity of human beings to err, I would think any lie detector test results could be challenged and often a second test with a second operator may be indicated.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have some questions about lie detector tests that I think you could answer.

My sister had an electrocardiogram which concerned her doctor, so he had another test done with very different results.

The Seminoles County Port Authority—two governmental bodies which he said need such a plant.

John Krider, a prime mover behind the project, noted today that Keller earlier considered locating the smelter at the Lake-Sunara area of Sanford—a vote committing the city to sponsor an industrial facility that has been opposed locally by area homeowners ever since the proposal was revealed.

Commissioners generally felt that the plant would provide new jobs and economic stimulus to the community, and that environmental restraints on the Keller Industries' plant would provide the city with adequate safeguards against noise and pollution.

The president of a homeowners group said the organization would study closely the Keller environmental control plans when they are presented to the Florida Department of Environmental Regulation.

Stephen Sirkin, president of the Concerned Property Owners Association, opposed to the plant, said the group will take its battle to the DER, rather than seeking legal action against the city at this time.

The lone dissenter to the city vote was Commissioner A. A. McClanahan, who complained that the city is "duplicating and tripling" the bonding power already vested in the Sanford Airport Authority and

DEAR DR. LAMB—I have been on a cholesterol restricted diet for about a year, but my cholesterol is still 274 and my triglyceride count is 360. I am 70 years old. I am not overweight. I do eat a slice of cheddar cheese each morning as I understand a person needs some cholesterol for the body.

A friend of mine takes Atromid-S. Do you think it would be advisable for me to take those capsules also—with a doctor's prescription, of course?

DEAR READER—In patients who have followed faithfully a good dietary program and are not overweight, it is sometimes helpful to use medicines to control the triglyceride and cholesterol levels. Medicines should not be considered as substitutes for sensible dietary management.

Atromid-S is one of the medicines that has been marketed in recent months that your doctor may want to try also.

JAILHOUSE WEDDING...Judge Gives Cupid A Hand

FRANCIS WHITMIRE GETS LICENSE FROM DORIS BRADY

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

A Seminole County Circuit Court judge has ordered assistance for Cupid—a point.

Circuit Court Judge William McGregor has ordered Seminole County Sheriff John Palk to permit wedding of a county jail inmate, Vincent Nicholas Riggio, 21, to his sweetheart, Frances Whitmore, 18, of Orlando, who is studying to be a beautician. Neither have been married before.

A sheriff's department spokesman said today the wedding will be permitted in Chief Deputy Duane Harrell's office at the jail.

The couple may kiss after the ceremony and be returned to his cell to continue serving his sentence.

One of Riggio's inmate friends told a reporter he and other inmates are planning a surprise party in the jail for the groom after the Friday ceremony.

"It won't be exactly the kind of wedding every girl dreams about," said Miss Whitmore today. "But, I'll be at the jail to see him every single weekend until he is free."

She said that she and her groom-to-be met a year ago last Saturday when she went to work at a fast food restaurant in Winter Park. He was the manager of the restaurant and she made hamburgers and worked at the cash register.

"Getting married in jail is different all right," she said. She doesn't know yet who will perform the ceremony. "He is taking care of that," she said.

Riggio pleaded guilty to grand larceny and was ordered by McGregor to serve five years probation and three years in the county jail last Tuesday. Riggio was involved in the armed robbery of a Casellberry restaurant. After his plea of guilty was entered he subsequently testified at the trial of another man involved in the same incident. The other man was sentenced to 150 years in a state institution, court officials said.

Prosecutor in the case was Assistant State Attorney Alan Robinson while Russell Cullen was defense attorney. The two attorneys joined together in asking Judge McGregor to permit the jailhouse marriage.

Miss Whitmore said she knew her fiancé's attorney was going to ask the judge to allow them to get married, but she didn't know the assistant state attorney was going to join in the request. "That was the surprise," she said.

The Sheriff's Department spokesman said that normally a convicted felon is sentenced to serve time in a state institution.

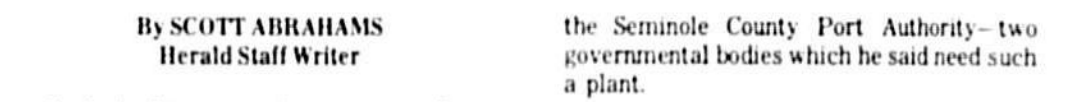

To further assist Cupid, Judge McGregor ordered last Thursday that Riggio be transported to a laboratory for the required blood test, a pre-requisite to acquiring a marriage license.

The blood test was performed, according to the court order, at Berrick and Associates Laboratory.

The bride-elect picked up the couple's marriage license this morning at the county courthouse in Sanford. The application for the license was filed in See JAILHOUSE, Page 5A

Sanford Gives Go For Smelting Plant Bonds

Sanford City commissioners voted 4-1 Tuesday to issue industrial revenue bonds for an aluminum smelting plant in the Silver Lake-Sunara area of Sanford—a vote committing the city to sponsor an industrial facility that has been opposed locally by area homeowners ever since the proposal was revealed.

Commissioners generally felt that the plant would provide new jobs and economic stimulus to the community, and that environmental restraints on the Keller Industries' plant would provide the city with adequate safeguards against noise and pollution.

Mosquito Force Maps Strategy

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Task Force for the Eradication of the Blind Mosquito has called on former-State Sen. Mack N. Cleveland Jr. for advice and assistance.

Cleveland and members of the task force met Tuesday at a noon luncheon to map strategy for pushing through legislation to fund a research program in Seminole County on the midge.

Cleveland and Sanford City Manager W. E. Knowles stressed the importance of gaining support of all four members of the legislative delegation. Both Seminole House of Representatives members, Robert Hattaway—D-Altamonte Springs and Vance Fectel (R-Leesburg), chairman—have assured the group of their support.

John Krider, chairman of the special committee, said he will attempt to set up a luncheon meeting with the legislators, including State Sens. John Vogt and Lori Wilson, before Christmas.

Cleveland emphasized the importance of a unified effort by all members of the delegation.

adding, "Unless you have someone in the pit fighting for you, you have a dismal chance of success."

It was agreed that Krider will seek a line item budget of anticipated costs from the University of Florida for the first year's operation of the research team and representatives, including Cleveland may be required to go to Tallahassee to lobby the measure through.

Cleveland suggested that an addition to having a line item in the University of Florida budget, a local bill be filed authorizing the program.

Dr. John Darby of the university's research center at Sanford has estimated cost of setting up the research program for the first year at $250,000.

Scientists from the university have said that the objective is not to destroy or completely eradicate the larvae from the mudges, which provide fish with food, but rather to keep hatching of the eggs into the blind mosquito stage where they are pests to humans within tolerable limits — DONNA ESTES

Students And Tests

The continuing controversy about those Functional Literacy Tests has raised many questions. To find the answers, The Evening Herald talked with five students at Seminole High School, representative of those who took the test and failed.

Why did you fail? How relevant is the material taught in school? Are your teachers really teaching you? Do your parents help? These were some of the questions. The answers begin Sunday in The Herald in this incisive series.

Somalia Looks To The Arabs

Like the Egyptians and the Sudanese before them, the Somalis have had enough of the Russians. Somalia is telling several thousand Soviet "advisers" to go home, and evicting the Russians from their air and naval facilities at Berbera and Kismayu. For good measure, the Cubans are being shown the door as well.

The Kremlin should not be surprised, nor Havana. Since the Russians and their Cuban proxies began supporting the Marxist government of Ethiopia, which for all practical purposes is at war with Somalia, it was a case of trying to play both sides of the street in the Horn of Africa.

The United States and the West can take some satisfaction in seeing the Russians lose their welcome at Berbera and Kismayu, which have given the Soviet navy convenient ports to support operations in the Indian Ocean.

We can anticipate, however, that the Russians will try to land on their feet by coming out all the stronger for "demilitarization" of the Indian Ocean, hoping to discourage acceptance by India and other neutralist countries of the expanded U.S. naval facility on the island of Diego Garcia.

Be that as it may, Moscow is left with one faltering ally on the African Horn, an Ethiopian government trying to hold together the old empire of the late Haile Selassie. Rebel forces backed by Somalia have taken control of much of the Ogaden desert.

Rebels in Eritrea are threatening to cut off that coastal province. Ethiopia could become landlocked if Eritrea is lost and the newly independent state of Djibouti, with its majority of Somali-speaking people, should deny the Ethiopians the use of its port.

The question now is how far the Russians and Cubans are willing to go to prevent such developments. An Ethiopian collapse would be a serious blow to Soviet credibility in Africa. With no further reason to try to placate the Somalis, Soviet and Cuban aid to Ethiopia can be stepped up in hopes of recapturing the Ogaden and putting down the Eritrean insurrection. A bigger war could be the result of the recent developments.

Because the United States has been keeping a low profile in the picture — offering economic aid to Somalia, but not military aid — it can be presumed that Somalia would not be denying the Russians at this time without some promises of support from elsewhere. The elsewhere is surely the Middle East.

Saudi Arabia and the Persian Gulf sheikhs have been worried about the threat of Soviet influence in those countries of the African Horn which command the Red Sea and the Gulf of Aden. The route of oil cargoes bound for the West. Their economic aid has helped Egypt and the Sudan carry out their break with the Russians and adopt an independent stance. Somalia may now be shopping for arms with Arab money.

The expulsion of Russians and Cubans from Somalia is by no means a decisive development. The ethnic and territorial disputes which have led to warfare in border provinces of Ethiopia remain unresolved. Indeed, if the Russians believe the success of their African policy now hinges on the victory for the Ethiopian government, and commit more weapons and Cuban troops to the cause, there may be much more bloodshed in store for the Horn of Africa.

Exactly what is the Pupil Progression System? And what does it have to do with your child? Recent inquiries into the system and the way it relates to statewide assessment testing makes it worthwhile thinking about this system again.

The first report card of this school year, issued a few weeks ago, reflected the use of Pupil Progression Levels instead of grades.

Under pupil progression levels a child does not move through elementary school beginning with the opening of first grade and moving through the end of fifth grade. Instead he moves from the beginning of level one through the end of level 20. Each of the 20 levels is scheduled to take nine weeks of ordinary academic work, but a child may finish the work in much less — or much more — time than that.

A child is graded at the end of each nine weeks on the progress level he is working on, and the report card shows an "X" on levels he has already completed. Each progress level represents a specific set of skills, established by the state Department of Education, which a child should be able to do in order to move to the next level.

A child in levels one through four would be doing what amounts to "first grade" work, although he might be attending school for the second year. The decision to keep him at first grade level would not be made by his teacher or principal, but by the fact of whether or not he has accomplished skills the state says he must accomplish in reading, language and mathematics.

The law does allow for "administrative" promotion, but in order to prevent "social promotion" which would move a child to a higher grade just to keep him up with his peers, the law also provides that administrative promotion be justified in writing, in a child's permanent school record.

Seminole County School Superintendent William P. Layer says that social promotion is dead in this

Officials Fear Leukemia Link With Bomb Test

ATLANTA (UPI) — Federal health officials have found six cases of leukemia among 100 persons who were in the vicinity of a Nevada nuclear test 20 years ago and fear the discovery of more cases would tend to link the disease and the blast.

Dr. Glyn Caldwell, chief of the cancer branch at the Center for Disease Control, said Tuesday he would be concerned if even a few additional cases of leukemia are discovered as officials locate and test more than 3,000 Army and civilian personnel present at the atomic test called "Smoky" on Aug. 31, 1957 at Yucca Flats.

Reprieve For Tax On SS?

WASHINGTON — At long last, the powers that be in Congress are realizing the whopping tax increases they have proposed to shore up the Social Security system constitute a political time bomb of fearsome proportions.

With the ticking noise from back home growing louder by the day, Senate Finance Chairman Russell Long appears to have concluded that House-Senate conferees should postpone final action on the Social Security financing package until early next year.

Such a reprieve could, of course, prove to be merely a stay of execution. But there is a faint chance it will lead to a much-needed rethinking of the whole benighted scheme to drastically increase payroll taxes over the next decade.

In their anxiety to restore Social Security trust funds to financial health, members of Congress have heretofore shown a baffling indifference to the impact massive new payroll taxes will have on the economy as a whole and on individual workers and employers.

Only in the past few weeks has it begun to dawn on Congress that voters are at least as worried about the state of the Social Security tax bite as they are about the solvency of the trust funds when it is their turn to draw benefits.

President Carter, to his credit, grasped this rudimentary political fact from the start, which is one reason he originally proposed a market resort to income tax revenues to prop up the Social Security funds during times of recession, when the economy — and individuals — can least afford rising payroll taxes.

But House and Senate tax-writing committees rejected Carter's proposal out of hand, concluding — without much supporting evidence — that the public wouldn't stand for any change in the 40-year system of funding Social Security exclusively from payroll taxes.

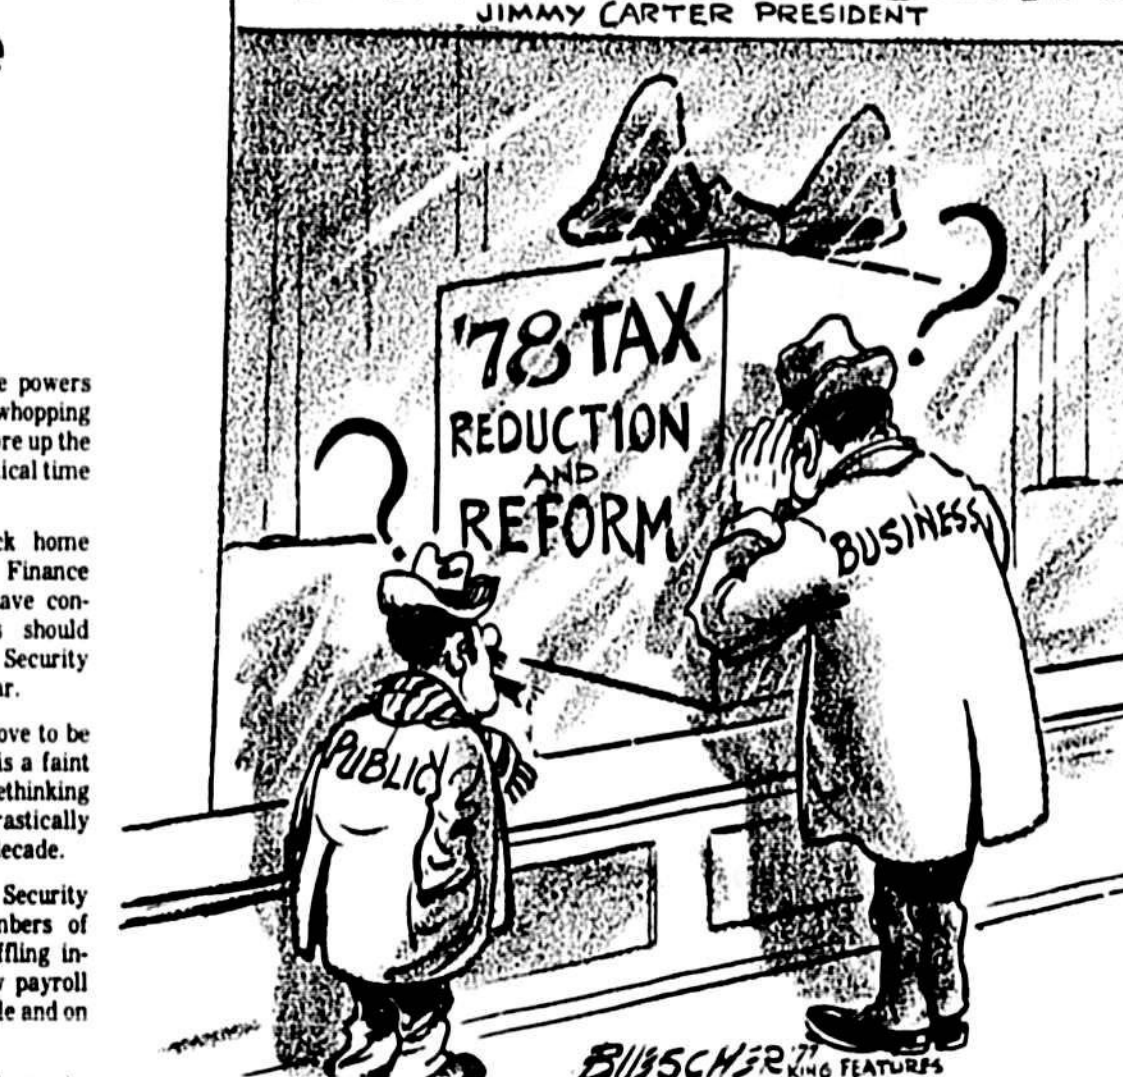

The problem with such flat-rate taxes is that they are inherently regressive, hitting low-income workers far harder than high-salaried employees, and that they are utterly inescapable. There is no way of wigging out through deductions or tax credits; the Social Security tax must be paid.

Carter and Congress hope to ease the blow on middle-income workers by "substantial" income tax reductions next year. But that's no comfort to low-income workers who already pay no income tax and can't afford higher Social Security levies.

Furthermore, two separate congressional committees have produced analyses which show the Social Security tax hikes presently contemplated by Congress will have a devastating effect on the economy.

Both the Congressional Budget Office and the Joint Economics Committee project a massive drain on the gross national product over the next five to eight years, a significant increase in consumer prices and a loss of jobs that CBO estimates could reach 400,000 by 1982.

Football Coverage
I just wanted to take this opportunity to thank you for the great coverage of "Big Blue" football this season.

Yes, it was a great year for us, but most of all I believe it was a great year for Seminole county football. The interest and enthusiasm of the whole community in the game during this year was outstanding. Without your help and the support of the people in our own communities, the high school athletic programs could never exist. Few people in Seminole County realize this, but all equipment, transportation, officials and playing fields are paid for and kept up by local booster clubs and the monies taken in at the game during football games.

Football is our number one money-maker. If we don't make it in football, then all other sports suffer as our athletic budget is based on what we make in football monies.

Your paper has taken many positive actions toward helping us raise our gate receipts and for your interest we are thankful. Choosing an all county team and a player of the year in Seminole County has helped make it easier for us to motivate our kids.

Thank you again and thanks to the many people in Seminole County that have helped the "Big Blue" or any other football program in Seminole County. May we as parents, teachers and coaches always remember that the youth of our community is the main and only thing we play the great game of football for. Let's all help to make their quest for success — so important to them.

Empires Having Bad Days

Empires and crowns have been much in the news, but when all is said and done, the only empire-building that seems to be flourishing these days is that which goes on in Washington bureaucracy.

Take the case of the new Central African Empire. Jean-Bedel Bokassa, ruler of the dirt-poor, landlocked nation for 12 years and a great admirer of Napoleon Bonaparte, crowned himself Emperor Bokassa II the other day amid 19th Century pomp and splendor.

Despite the dancing girls, gilded coach, parades and martial music, Bokassa couldn't hide the fact that his $30 million party amounted to a quarter of the country's annual income and he had extracted it by special levies on his poverty-stricken subjects.

Even the Carter administration's human rights people had to take notice. They took time out from cooling our allies to announce that future U.S. aid would be withdrawn from Bokassa's "empire" because of human rights violations and his extravagance. About all Bokassa can hope to now is attract tourists to see him in his regalia.

The world's only full-fledged imperial power — Soviet Russia — has taken some lumps, too. The U.S.S.R., which had been slowly, but consistently, expanding its influence in the crucial Horn of Africa, so as to dominate the West's oil route from the Persian Gulf, ended up letting off the wrong horse. It had nearly had Somalia fully in its camp as a client state — building a deep water port installing "technicians" and so forth — when it also decided to back the Marxist regime in Ethiopia.

There was a nasty move when the Ethiopians are the Somalia's arch-enemies and it is likely they will lose the Ogaden territory to them. While the two neighbors war in the Ogaden, the Somalis have kicked the Russians out, stock and samovar.

Even a relic of ancient imperialism may not fall within the Soviet orbit. The Crown of St. Stephen, which was used by every Hungarian king since Pope Sylvester crowned the first one in the year 1000, has been safely stored in Fort Knox since the early 1960s.

At the close of World War II it had been given to U.S. forces in Austria for safekeeping by the Hungarian Crown Guards.

Recently, the State Department announced it would send the crown to the Communist regime in Hungary as a "gesture" toward improved relations.

This raised a storm of protest from Hungarian-Americans. Congresswoman Mary Oaker (D-Ohio), who represents many of them in her Cleveland district, said, "It may be going on public display in Budapest, but the Freedom Fighters who were forced to flee Hungary in 1956 still are regarded as criminals there for seeking their freedom." She has introduced a bill in the House to prevent the crown's return without congressional consent. A similar bill is in the Senate.

Was Torrijos Marked For Assassination?

WASHINGTON — Shadowy rumors that the Watergate plotters marked Panamanian dictator Omar Torrijos for assassination have suddenly taken on more substance. But with Torrijos and President Carter now cosigners of the troubled Panama Canal treaty, the White House would like to keep the lid on the story.

The first hint that Richard Nixon's "plumbers" might be plotting Torrijos' demise appeared in June, 1973. Newsweek magazine reported that John Dean was going to tell the Senate Watergate Committee that "low level White House aides" had hatched a scheme a grid of Torrijos.

The ringleader was said to have been Waterbugger E. Howard Hunt. Torrijos' name was placed on the White House hit list, Newsweek wrote, because he was allegedly implicated in smuggling drugs into the United States.

Dean never made the statement at the senate hearings, presumably because all he had was hearsay evidence. But meanwhile, those tantalizing tidbits have surfaced:

— After he emerged from prison, Hunt told a Boston television interviewer that there was "concern" over Panama's drug smuggling and, therefore, that "if Torrijos didn't shape up and cooperate, he was going to be wasted." After casually raising the specter of a head of state being murdered, the Watergate planner added: "I didn't know any of the people asked to participate other than the people in the plumbers' unit. They had that as part of their brief."

Hunt's lurid claim was not taken too seriously. He not only has a dubious reputation for veracity but, as an author of spy thrillers, he often confused real-life events with fictional exploits.

However, we have now obtained some corroborating evidence from a far more reliable source than Hunt. It is a significant segment of a secret memo prepared in 1973 by Dade County, Fla., investigator Martin Dardis.

Dardis has substantiated within the memo after an interview with the late Manuel Artime, who led the Cuban exiles on the Bay of Pigs expedition. He was close to Hunt and was considered an enigmatic but trusted man.

Dardis recounted in his memo that Artime told him "he had in fact been approached by Howard Hunt to recruit a team of Artime's former associates to locate and kill Hunt — take care of the situation in Panama."

"The Nixon Administration was highly concerned that the flow of narcotics into the United States was being filtered through Panama and was being done with the aid of the Panamanian governments."

Artime said Hunt had avoided using the word "assassination," but had stressed "something had to be taken care of in Panama."

Asked for the murder mission, the exile leader replied: "He told me to go to Panama and work in Panama. He said he was working with (Bernard) Barker in Panama." Barker was the name of the man who led the Watergate break-in. Artime said the project apparently was shelved, but Dardis quotes a reliable Cuban source as telling him the plumbers "were going to bump off Torrijos at the race-track" in Panama.

Artime's statement is the only first-hand account of the alleged conspiracy against Torrijos. But Michael Ewing, once an aide to former Sen. Harold Hughes, D-Iowa, has offered some additional intriguing leads to the Senate Intelligence Committee.

These involve (1) a front, with a fictitious subsidiary in Panama, linked to Waterbugger Barker; and (2) a mysterious Miami "labrador" arrested off the coast of Panama with such lethal fishing gear as rifles, shotguns and 8,000 rounds of ammunition.

Take your refrigerator's temperature.

Fall's here. The temperature's dropping. Your air-conditioner's probably becoming less and less necessary. And chances are, your electric bill is dropping accordingly. But we want to help you save even more.

Look around your kitchen. That refrigerator sitting there is usually the third largest user of electricity in the home. And though food preservation's essential to the home 12 months a year, the costs of your refrigerator — and many of the other necessary appliances in your kitchen — can be reduced. Here are a few suggestions:

Check your refrigerator gaskets for leakage. Close the door on a dollar bill. If you can't freely pull it loose, you may have to replace the gaskets. And try to avoid putting your refrigerator next to a stove. If possible, place it in the coolest area of the kitchen.

Begin Meets With Carter As Talks In Cairo Begin

CAIRO, Egypt (UPI) — Egypt and Israel today sat down at the bargaining table to open a new era of face-to-face negotiations and Israeli Prime Minister Menachem Begin flew to the United States for top-level talks with President Carter.

Egyptian and Israeli negotiators sat down at a large, leather-covered round table in the Mena House Hotel within view of the Great Pyramids and the Sphinx. The meeting began 33 minutes late at 4:30 a.m. EST.

The parity, billed as a preparatory session for resuming a full-scale Geneva peace conference, is an outgrowth of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat's breakthrough visit to Israel last month. President left Tel Aviv on a flight to the United States where he will confer with Carter Friday on the historic Israeli-Egyptian talks.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said Begin's sudden trip was undertaken to hand Carter fresh proposals covering Israeli withdrawal from captured Arab lands and for a solution to the Palestinian issue.

Begin, in an interview in today's New York Times, said Egypt and Israel would exchange treaty proposals at the 10-day Cairo meeting. But he said the two major issues of contention — a Palestinian state and Israel's return of captured Arab land — would not be discussed in the initial session.

Secretary of State Cyrus Vance flew today from Damascus to Saudi Arabia for the sixth and last stop of a Middle East tour.

Vance failed to soften hard-line Arab condemnation of Sadat and his Cairo peace conference.

Isolated by the storm of Arab criticism, Sadat has embarked on a road that could lead to a separate peace between the two main Middle East adversaries, despite pledges by both Israel and Egypt to seek an overall settlement.

Sadat Tuesday compared the Arab criticism to a "curse sent down by Allah to sow grudge, bitterness, ignorance and stupidity in the Arab people."

The talks are taking place in the thickly carpeted Hubayd dining hall — named for Omar Khayyam's poem — where an antique bronze chandelier diffuses a pale yellow light against a high, ornately-carved wooden ceiling.

The area around the historic 108-year hotel bristled with rifles and marksmen sealed off the huge pyramids so no sniper could open fire from their peaks.

Both Washington and a U.N. delegation at the talks sought a neutral stand and rejected Egyptian invitations to preside over the parity. Cairo announced late Tuesday it would preside as host.

U.S. officials described the American role as secondary, but one of them said, "If the talks bog down, the United States will do what it can to help the situation."

Egypt's chief delegate is Hosni Mubarak, Meguid, Israel's is Eliahu Ben-Elissar and Washington's is Alfred Atherton.

Begin Visit Boosts U.S. Role In Mideast

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration women who attend the International Women's Year Conference in Houston, including his wife Rosalynn.

Begin's trip to Washington helps restore a more visible role for Carter in the fast-moving developments in the Middle East.

Since Egyptian President Anwar Sadat made his historic trip to Israel to talk peace, the public role of the United States at the Middle East middleman has diminished. The administration, long favoring a comprehensive peace conference at Geneva, at first was cool to Sadat's one-man statement. But officials since have praised the Sadat initiative.

Carter's press secretary, in response to questions, said Begin's visit is "an affirmation of the United States role — the role that has been there all along."

Powell said he knows of no plans for Sadat to make a similar trip for face-to-face talks with Carter while the Cairo conference is in progress.

But he told reporters that Egypt's reaction to the Begin trip to Washington was "positive."

Of Casselberry Bank Holdup Robber Suspect Pleads Innocent

Gregory McCoy has pleaded not guilty to robbery in connection with the holdup Friday of the Tropic Bank of Seminole in Casselberry.

Trial for McCoy was scheduled for Jan. 30, 1978, before Seminole-Brevard Circuit Judge J. William Woodson.

Police said McCoy demanded money from bank teller Barbara Covino after driving up to her drive-in window and threatening to blow up the bank's alarm system with a bomb if she sheathed the alarm button.

McCoy surrendered to Casselberry after a chase and officers recovered $17,000 in cash from his automobile.

Good Samaritan: An Open House

The community will have the opportunity to view the new dining room addition to the Good Samaritan Home, 1704 W. 9th St., Sanford, Thursday, 2-4 p.m., at an open house and dedication sponsored by the Deltona Woman's Club.

The 24 by 44 foot, eight-inch dining room was built and furnished from a $30,000 grant from the Edith Bush Foundation. Contractor for the addition was Shoemaker Construction Co. of Sanford.

Mother Ruby Wilson, founder and president of the Good Samaritan Home, said the ribbon will be cut by James Holmes who entered the Home in 1955 after polio myelitis left him paralyzed from the waist down. Another Longwood resident, Will Jones, who has been at Good Samaritan ever since the old County Home closed will offer the invocation.

CHARGES DROPPED

The Seminole-Brevard state attorney's office has dropped charges against three men arrested for drug possession charges because the evidence apparently was flushed down the toilet at Sanford police headquarters while parents were taking custody of juveniles involved in a marijuana bust.

Chief Assistant State Attorney Joe Dick dropped possession charges against Dennis Costello, Longwood, and Dan Fricke, and Adrian Boyd, Lake Mary.

C-C Officers Take Posts In January

The new officers of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce will assume their posts at the Chamber's first meeting of the new year, scheduled Jan. 3, 1978.

Elected president has been Tom McDonald, president of the Abstract Corp. of Sanford and Deltona. He replaces Tom Hunt, manager of Southern Bell in Sanford. Vic Arnet, vice president of the mortgage department of First Federal Savings & Loan of Seminole, has been elected vice president, replacing Howard Hodges, president of the Atlantic Bank of Sanford.

Chosen treasurer is Janice Springfield, vice president, Flagship Bank of Sanford.

Executive committee members John Y. Mercer and W. Garnett White have been replaced on the chamber's executive committee by Scott Burns, group manager of Florida Power & Light Co., and Bob Dahlen.

The finance committee will be headed next year by Gub Edmonds, president of First Federal Savings & Loan of Seminole. He replaces Ralph Perold.

Sanford Mayor Lee P. Moore of Chase & Co. will remain on the executive committee.

Evansville Tragedy Wipes Out Dream Team

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (UPI)—A dream died Tuesday night. The University of Evansville basketball team, long a power in NCAA Division II, joined the "big boys" in Division I this season with great expectations for the future.

the Aces and new coach Bobby Watson when their chartered plane crashed in dense fog shortly after takeoff and burst into flames.

Watson was hired from Oral Roberts, where he had been an assistant since 1974. Among McCutcheon's other star players were Larry Humes, Ed Smallwood, Hugh Ablering, Gus Dorner and Don Buse, who led the NBA in steals and assists last season as a member of the Indiana Pacers.

COLORFUL HOLIDAY SALADS

For The Holidays

Fresh Citrus Salads Add Zest To Menu

The vibrant colors traditional to the winter holiday season originated, it is said, to dispel ancient fears of the long winter darkness...

Even today, colorful fare enhances the holiday spirit and kindles the warmth of the season. And what dishes are more enticing to both eye and palate than vivid, fresh holiday salads?

The season's bounty of fresh oranges, tangerines and tangelos lend Fresh Holiday Citrus Salad its luminous golden hue. Chunks of the fresh citrus and chopped green celery combine with unflavored gelatin, fresh orange juice and creamy cottage cheese...

Allowance of this important nutrient. Avocados contain good amounts of B vitamins. And spinach contributes vitamins A, C and B6 as well as iron.

Choose firm, heavy, well-shaped citrus with no soft, discolored spots. Keep it refrigerated for maximum freshness.

Avocados may vary greatly in weight, texture, shape and color. Every type, however, should be selected with an eye to unbruised skins. Hard avocados will ripen after a few days at room temperature. Test for ripeness by inserting a toothpick in the stem end; if it flows in and out easily, the avocado will keep from 2 to 4 weeks in the refrigerator.

Wash spinach and drain well; remove stems and tear leaves into bite-size pieces. Cut avocados in half lengthwise. Drain; remove seed. Peel and slice 3 avocados halves. With melon baller, scoop half Sprinkle avocado with lemon juice in large bowl, toss with spinach leaves, pour over chilled gelatin in mold. Chill until firm, about 4 hours. Makes 6-8 servings.

Directions: remove seed. Peel and slice 3 avocados halves. With melon baller, scoop half Sprinkle avocado with lemon juice in large bowl, toss with spinach leaves, pour over chilled gelatin in mold. Chill until firm, about 4 hours. Makes 6-8 servings.

School Board Firm, Tables Resolution Unpaid Claims: It's Up To The Court

SEA ATTORNEY JOHN CHAMBLEE ADDRESSES SCHOOL BOARD

But Coming To Head In Seminole

Questions Complex On Weapons Permit

By MARK WEINBERG Herald Staff Writer

(First of Two Parts)

Should private citizens be allowed to carry concealed weapons? Is the Seminole County Commission required by an April Florida Supreme Court decision to issue concealed weapons permits to anyone who is at least 18 years old and "of good moral character?"

Should county commissions be in charge of issuing the permits — which are valid only within the borders of the county in which the permit is granted — or should there be a state-administered, statewide system?

In the current system workable, and is it fair to the county who apply for them?

The issues are coming to a head because of Harvey Morse, an Altamonte Springs private detective who wants a permit to carry a concealed weapon. He says the Seminole County Commission is required to grant him the permit because he has met all the requirements.

Commissioners have imposed the issuance of a permit for the instance of a permit.

All but one, anyway — a majority vote by the commission to grant the permit. Commissioners last week voted 32 not to grant Morse the permit. Two commissioners who voted against Morse's permit — Bob French and Bill Kirchhoff — say he didn't establish a "compelling need" to carry a concealed weapon.

And the county's "super" who made the motion not to grant the permit — Harry Kwiatkowski — says he "just has a personal feeling" against granting concealed weapons permits.

Morse, who has operated Locaters International detective agency in the county since 1974, says he's going to sue the county in circuit court to require the county commission to grant him the permit. His attorney, Mark Habonowitz of Altamonte Springs, will file the suit next week, Morse said.

Morse's application for a concealed weapons permit was the first one considered by the county commission since September, when commissioners adopted procedures for issuing permits. That step was required by an April state supreme court ruling that the state's gun laws "intended that the respective county commissions issue the requested permits to all applicants possessing the qualifications of age and good moral character."

Commissioners weren't happy about adopting the procedures. "I don't really breach of contract," Layer told the board. "We can find no justification for this suit. There is no way we broke the contract," Layer continued.

Stenstrom told the board, "I feel this is not a suit which can be sustained by SEA in the court. It is based on the Lawler's contract with SEA to provide insurance for the employees, with the implication that the insurance would include payment of claims."

School board member Allan F. Keith made the motion to defend the SEA suit, saying "I do not believe we are in breach of contract. I do believe that the conduct of this suit and the outcome of it will resolve the question of whether we have the right to pay this suit out of public funds." The board voted unanimously to defend the breach of contract suit.

SEA attorney John Chamblee told the board that "SEA has been trying as best as possible to act in cooperation with the school board. If the school board is not going to give us something — the resolution — to work with, then we will have to go after this suit with every legal means

Committee Appointments At Issue

Winter Springs Council, Mayor Agree - To Disagree

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The majority of the Winter Springs City Council and Mayor Troy Piland Wednesday night finally agreed to disagree — at least for the time being.

The disagreement over whether the mayor has the power to make committee assignments among the council without the need of council approval is to be ultimately settled by Attorney General Robert Shevin.

The mayor has the power to make committee assignments among the council without the need of council approval is to be ultimately settled by Attorney General Robert Shevin.

But, the city council did not approve the wording of the letter composed by City Attorney Gary Massey to Shevin's office seeking the opinion. Instead, the four — Councilmen John Daniels, Don Sines, Laurent Pelletier and Bart Logan — decided to consider appropriate wording at a Jan. 4 workshop following the regular meeting.

The decision to discuss the letter and its contents Jan. 4 was unanimously approved.

In the interim, Daniels moved to continue the old committee assignments made by Piland last year — Sabatini in charge of public works, Daniels, finance and Sines planning and zoning — with the two new councilmen, Logan to head the fire department and Pelletier to head the police department. The motion was approved 4-1. Sabatini voted "no."

The Piland appointments on Dec. 5 of Logan and Sines, planning and zoning; Pelletier and Sabatini, fire; Daniels and Pelletier, police and Sabatini and Logan, public works were rejected by the four.

Another controversy, the structure of the zoning board was also placed on the agenda for the Jan. 4 meeting. Massey ruled that the zoning board should not remove the last two appointments made by "lame-duck" councilmen after the November election but prior to the newly elected councilmen taking office.

He said the two could be removed only "for cause."

Daniels insisted that he had been among those who opted for the ordinance creating a seven-person planning and zoning advisory board, adding that the ordinance wasn't working out. He said that an ordinance restructuring the board, should be adopted. Earlier he said that "the fairer sex" should be represented on the board.

Sabatini said that "not enough time" has been given to determine whether the new ordinance will work.

Logan said the zoning board "has become
