

Numbers Game: New Speedometers Reach Only 85

By JEAN PATTESON
OURSELVES Editor

It's a new twist to the old adage, seeing is believing. You see your new automobile speedometer indicates a maximum speed of 85 miles per hour. You believe it.

At least, the makers of Ford and General Motors autos hope you believe it. "It's part of Ford's new safety campaign," explained Drew Daubner, used car sales manager at Jack Prosser Ford, Sanford. "It's a psychological thing. People tend to push their cars to the limit. If the limit reads 85, maybe they'll hold their speed down to 85."

The lower calibration is also a gas saving ploy, said Daubner.

Of course, the cars can still hit the old top speeds of 100 mph and more. But the old thrill of watching the needle inch past 85, past 95...100 mph. That's all gone now.

At least it's gone with the Ford and GM cars, even the sportier models.

Do customers pick up on that 85 mph top speed indicator? "You bet they do," commented Daubner. "It's one of the first things they notice and they all want to know why."

Sanford GM dealer Joe Creamons doesn't think that marking an auto's top speed a 85 will really stop people from going faster. "If they know the car is capable of going faster, there always are some people who will want to try out the equipment," he said.

He did concede however the law now reads that the maximum speed on any U.S. highway is 55 mph. "There's really no need to have the speedometer read up to 120," he said. "Besides," said Creamons, "85 is about as fast as any speedometer will accurately read. In fact, most are not really accurate after 65 — the other calibrations are estimates."

Nor is it just the top speed indicator that has changed in the late model '77 and new '78 cars. Read the bottom line and you'll see it's marked to a top speed of 130 — but that's 130 kilometers per hour. A check of Chrysler and American Motors Corporation (AMC) dealers revealed that they are also gearing up for the metric system, as are the major imports.

These automobiles have not yet adopted the lower top speed indicator, however.

The Marc Slade Chrysler-Plymouth dealership in Sanford reported that most of their cars indicate a top speed of 125 mph, and some are marked as high as 150.

At the Luke Potter Dodge dealership, most speedometers were marked to 100 mph, and the Charger to 120.

AMC's Pacer indicates a top speed of 90 mph, but other American Motors cars are marked with a top speed of 100.

As for the imports, Bill Baker Volkswagen reported that the Rabbit and Dasher are calibrated to 100 mph and the Sirocco to 120. "VW makes cars for 180 countries and some don't have speed limits, so it would be pointless marking the speedometer just up to 85," said a spokesman.

Ray Datan reported top speed indications of 100 mph on their product, and Jimmy Bryan reported the same for the Toyota line.

Polk Agrees To Accept 13% Budget Increase

By MARK WEINBERG
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Sheriff John Polk has tentatively accepted a 13 per cent budget increase voted by the county commissioners.

This morning county budget officials forwarded to Polk a recommended budget for the fiscal year beginning in September of $3,319,696, a 13 per cent increase over the current sheriff's budget of $2,933,518. Polk had originally requested a 20 per cent increase for a budget of $3,524,117.

"Friday the sheriff indicated he would tentatively accept the $3.3 million figure, but he requested the Board of County Commissioners consider granting additional money if in reviewing the rest of the county budget, they have some funds available," said County Administrator Roger Neiswender.

At this time, Sheriff Polk is not planning an appeal of his budget to the state Department of Administration in Tallahassee, a spokesman for the sheriff said this morning.

Polk's final decision will depend on a review of the commissioners' actions. Under state law, the sheriff has 30 days to decide if he will appeal to the state government, asking for more money to operate his department.

If the sheriff appeals, the department of administration would conduct a hearing, followed by a vote of the Florida Cabinet sitting as the state Administration Commission.

The cabinet could vote more money for Polk's department and order the county commissioners to come up with the additional money to fund the higher budget level.

The budget approved by the commissioners would add three patrol deputies and three detectives to the sheriff's operation and elevate the part-time cook at the county jail to full-time status.

Polk had originally requested 12 new patrol deputies and four new detectives. The increases granted by the commissioners would add six employees to the sheriff's office for a total of 191 persons.

In approving a $3.32 million budget for the sheriff, the commissioners granted Polk $3,350 less than the amount recommended by Neiswender.

The county commissioners will continue their budget review today at 6:15 p.m. in room 203 of the courthouse when they consider the proposed public works budget.

Garbage Rates, Taxes May Rise Sanford Budget Session Set

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission will have its first "read through-familiarization" session on the proposed "unbalanced" budget for the 1978 fiscal year at 7 p.m. today at city hall.

Budget requests total $1,142,705 for general operation compared with anticipated revenues of $1,553,000.

City Manager W.E. Knowles, in submitting department funding requests and anticipated revenue totals, noted in a budget message issued two weeks ago that the requests are $500,000 more than the current year's budget.

Unless alternative actions such as an increase in refuse fees to make the garbage-trash collection service "self-supporting" and reallocation of federal revenue sharing funds are undertaken, Knowles said, an increase in property taxes of $1.18 per $1,000 assessed valuation will be necessary.

The "out-of-balance" sum does not include the $38,000 listed by Knowles under capital improvements for materials for city street and sidewalks for downtown redevelopment nor the $130,000 requested by the Greater Sanford Development Corp. for city projects in the downtown area in the new fiscal year to begin Oct. 1.

Knowles in the budget message suggested that the refuse operation be placed on a

Mortgage Loans Up As New Home Sales Increase

By JANE CASSELBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

Even with today's inflated prices for homes many couples tired of paying rent with nothing to show for it are taking the big step and purchasing their first home.

Home mortgage loans have increased this year in Seminole County and, according to local loan officers, most of these new home buyers are qualifying on the basis of income of both the husband and the wife.

Laws now require that both salaries be considered equally and loan officers are not allowed to query applicants on family planning. They can no longer take into consideration in granting the loan whether the woman might lose her income should she become pregnant and quit her job.

The theory that the couple might not be able to make their payments resulting in the necessity for foreclosure does not "hold water," said Tom Brown, mortgage loan officer for First Federal of Seminole.

"If the wife gets pregnant she normally works up until the last month of her pregnancy and goes back to work six to seven months after the baby is born," Brown said.

"It's not as bad if the wife loses her job because the husband usually is the primary wage earner and at her lower income level she can more readily obtain another job at the same level," Brown added. He said more than half of the wives among couples obtaining mortgage loans, are employed.

Speed Moreland, mortgage loan officer at the Sanford Branch of First Federal of Mid-Florida, estimates in 90 per cent of the mortgage applications in the price range of $25,000 to $40,000 homes (lower to middle income bracket) the wife also is working. However, he points out that in his experience in mortgages for homes of $40,000 or more this trend is reversed, with only the husband working in 90 per cent of the cases.

Mike Ruse, a home mortgage loan officer with American Federal Savings and Loan Association estimates 75 per cent of the couples applying for loans have both husband and wife working, especially young couples purchasing their first home. American Federal, which is active in South Seminole and Sanford is the only area savings and loan institution handling VA and FHA loans. Ruse said the advantage of FHA for young couples who have difficulty making a big down payment required in many conventional loans, is that they offer 100 per cent financing over 30 years at 8 1/2 per cent interest. The house has to meet FHA requirements, however.

Ruse said the number of applicants qualifying for VA loans is dwindling and most are in their thirties or older.

American also has conventional loans at 95 per cent financing over 29 years at 8 1/2 per cent.

He said the average monthly payment of principal and interest for first time home owners is from $250 to $350 a month, while the average payment for home owners overall is $350 to $400 and many range from $400 to $600.

Brown said the average monthly principal-interest payment is $270 to $300. He said there are a lot of people who can't qualify for

...youth in action

It's the forest, primarily! It's Florida's lush, green heartland, unspoiled and unspoiled. It's also a breathtakingly beautiful area of flora and fauna known as Big Tree East Park.

Changing the area into an environmentalist's delight, by backing trails and growing palm trees, are a group of young high school students, members of the Youth Council of Seminole County. Why are these young people so interested in environmentalism? "I'm a member of the Environmental Studies Center in the Park," Mike Weaver, Oviedo High School Junior, admitted he liked to work in forestry. "Also, I'm saving money to get a car and clothes," he said. Bruce Hollenbeck, Seminole High School Junior, said, "I feel I needed the money this summer, so I'm working at a job. I'm saving money to get a car."

They're right, Lyman High School Senior, Joanne Pringle, a Seminole High School senior, plans to save money. "I needed the money to go to college," she said.

Ms. Betty Palmer, principal of the program, County Public Schools, praised the staff members, saying, "They have organized the students and have done a great job. They are as enthusiastic as the youngsters." Staffers in charge John Thomas, Oviedo High School; Bill Bore, Lyman; Jack Fine, Lyman; and Pat Bore, Oviedo Elementary School.

The program, a group of students, chosen by computer from 300 applicants, learn to 800 per week, except three students, who are on a special program. The program is funded by the United States Department of the Interior. Working from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m., the group is completing a greenhouse at Lyman, and building an outdoor amphitheater and study site at Lake Orient Elementary School. In addition to the nature trails, picnic tables, boardwalks and bridges at the County Park, students from Seminole County will be able to identify plants and nature this coming year.

An old lunchroom, formerly located at Lawton Elementary School, was moved to the Park site by the County School Board. It is being completely renovated, with one bathroom built by the students. New windows, ramps and interior are being completed. Signs along the nature trails were water proofed by Lyman. A trap for water pythons was set up at Lyman. A trap for cougars many kinds of large birds with huge nests silhouetted against the sky in old cypress trees. Turtles and alligators sun lazily, while huge bullfrogs croak out a throaty warning.

This is not a poverty program, "according to Ms. Palmer. It is a work-learning project, which is an academic credit. These students are learning and they've never been exposed to before, and they're doing a fantastic job. The boys may kid the girls about not doing their share, but these girls grabbed palm trees and carried cross ties just like the young men here!"

Some students, like Eric Mayhew, Lyman, are doing special research. Said Eric, "I'm getting about 100 samples of trees to use in teaching about the age and rings of a tree without cutting or harming it."

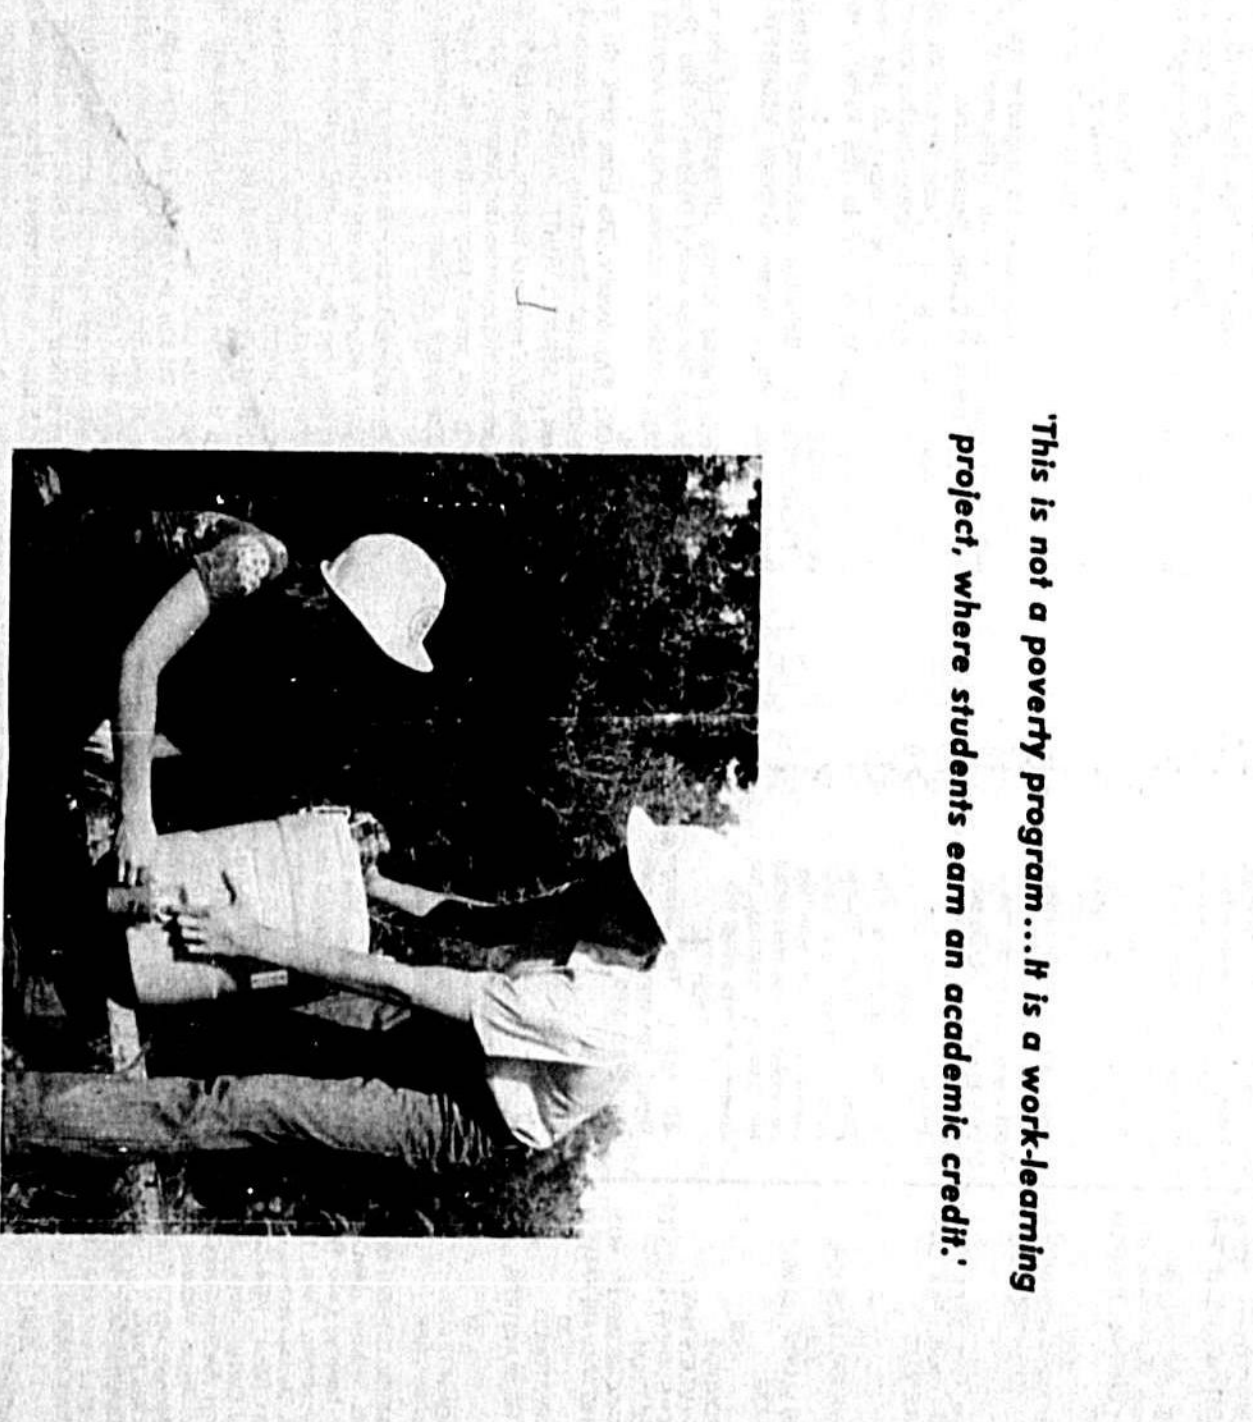

It's been hard work. But fun and congeniality have also been experienced. Said one enthusiastic young woman, "I hope everybody comes out to see what the youth of Seminole County can do!"

NATION IN BRIEF

'Son Of Sam' Killer Strikes, Claims Two More Victims

NEW YORK (AP)—“Son of Sam,” the .44-caliber killer, marked his first year of terror by shooting a young couple who sat in a parked car watching the full moon over New York harbor. His 12th and 13th victims were shot in Brooklyn. His prior attacks took place in the boroughs of Queens and the Bronx. Stacy Moskowitz and Robert Violante, both 20 and from Brooklyn, were in critical condition at Kings County Hospital, both shot through the head.

Peace Tour Underway

WASHINGTON (AP)— Secretary of State Cyrus Vance is beginning an 11-day tour of the Middle East by discussing chances for an Arab-Israeli peace settlement with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat. Vance departed Washington Sunday night, saying he hoped to help set up a new Geneva peace conference. But the secretary did not reveal what message he may be carrying to Middle East leaders from President Carter.

830,000 Acres Destroyed

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP)— Alaska's worst fires in eight years, have burned an estimated 830,000 acres — about 1,300 square miles — and are forcing fire fighters to retreat in order to protect native villages. The federal Bureau of Land Management said Sunday that one of the 68 separate fires had burned 300,000 acres, about 100 miles northeast of Nome, while a 80,000-acre fire threatened the village of Shungnak 300 miles west of Fairbanks.

Mortgage

home loans because of the high cost of homes and down payment and they do not have sufficient income. The average down payment Brown pointed out is between $2,000 and $5,000 unless they can secure VA or FHA loans, or for a small down payment take over an existing mortgage.

Moreland said the average cost of a new home tonight is now $47,000 and young and low income families are being priced out of the market. With an 80 per cent mortgage for 25 years maximum monthly payment would run $541 and with taxes and insurance, probably $423. On a 90 per cent mortgage on a $25,000 home at 8 1/2 per cent interest monthly payments would average $175 for principal and interest alone.

"The guidelines we use in granting mortgage loans are: not over 25 per cent of the family income should be used to make payments as it takes the other 75 per cent to live on or we take the gross income of the family multiplied by two and a half to get the maximum price range of a home anyone should buy. Thus if income is $10,000, the maximum cost of the home should be $25,000," Moreland explained.

"You make a judgment of the potential buyer by trying to anticipate what might happen. How secure is his job? How stable is his position? Does he change jobs often? How is his credit, are bills paid promptly? How many children do they have?" Moreland said.

Raise said American Federal has experienced a sharp increase in home loans since the first of the year and the market is much better now.

Budget Chief Glisson Quits

Seminole County budget director Pat Glisson became the second high-ranking official who has decided recently to leave the county courthouse where he announced he would be resigning in about six weeks as finance director at DeKalb County, Ga.

Last week County Atty. Joe H. Mount announced he would resign at the end of this week due to his inability to sell his family to Seminole.

Glisson, has headed the county's Office of Management, Analysis and Evaluation (OMAE) since February of 1976. He has received an annual salary of $34,000.

"My last day of work will be between Sept. 1 and Oct. 1," Glisson said. "I have committed myself to complete the Seminole County budget process. I'll probably leave around the middle of September."

Glisson described his new position as "a good career opportunity for me. I've been happy here. I've enjoyed the year-and-a-half I've spent here. But when opportunity knocks, I have to listen." DeKalb County, the second most populous in Georgia, has about 500,000 residents. The county is located in the Atlanta metropolitan area.

Trio Arrested

Sanford Police Probe Weekend Burglaries

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford police have arrested two men and a juvenile boy in connection with a series of weekend burglaries. Officers said four felony crimes were uncovered after the trio was arrested early Sunday morning for misdemeanor prowling at a produce firm at 12th St. and French Ave.

Jailed in lieu of bonds totaling $10,500 each were Donnie Ray Bowen, 24, of Geneva, and Lawrence Deon Evans, 24, of Oviedo Route One. The 14-year-old boy was released to his parents.

The men were charged with burglary of a building, two counts of burglary of motor vehicles, and attempted grand larceny.

Police said the trio was charged with burglary of a building used as the Holiday Inn warehouse on North Myrtle Ave. near the lakefront.

Officers said nothing was believed taken in the break-in. At a nearby Florida Power and Light Co. building, 301 N. Myrtle Ave., police said attempts were made to hotwire two vehicles, a pickup truck and a sedan.

Richard Deane and Joe Dillard reported a window was smashed to gain entry to the sedan and keys and a wrist watch were taken.

SCHOOL VANDALIZED
Weekend vandals, believed to be juveniles, vandalized offices, a lounge and the library of Midway Elementary School, Jitway Ave. south of Main St., east of Sanford.

Sheriff's deputies said extensive damage was discovered when officials opened the buildings at the school this morning.

The administration building was entered by smashing a plexiglass safety panel in a door. Furniture and office machines were overturned and papers scattered on floors of the offices and lounge before the white powder spray from a fire extinguisher deposits and immediately furnishing. The library and an inside audio-visual equipment room were entered in the same manner and moderate vandalism done to furnishings.

Officers could not immediately determine if anything was missing from the school pending an inventory.

Fugitive Stork Nabbed

BROOKFIELD, Ill. (AP) — A giant African stork that escaped from Brookfield zoo has been recaptured near Lake Geneva, Wis., zoo keepers say. Zoo officials said late Sunday night that the bird was shot with a tranquilizing dart and it fell out of a tree near the resort city but was in generally good shape. The fugitive stork is one of six brought to the zoo two weeks ago from Kenya. When they arrived, all the birds had their wings clipped to keep them grounded, but zoo keepers said that the feathers of one stork were not cut back adequately. "It was out in the Rhine yard with the others, when it took off and flew around the park for about two hours," said Brookfield's bird expert Dennis DeCoursey. "We were trying to figure out how to get the thing down from a tree, when I just took off," he added. "I'm not going to tell you the explication I repeated."

HEARINGS SET

A man and woman arrested Friday by Sanford police on felony child abuse charges remained in county jail today. Bonds for Mrs. Ester Fraser Medlin, 26, and Paul Allen Sturgis, 38, both of 1506 W. Third St., have been reduced to $5,000 each. They are scheduled for preliminary hearings on the charges at 2 p.m. Tuesday in county court.

Police said the charges were made in connection with the alleged beating of Mrs. Medlin's three-year-old son, Wayne Eugene Medlin, with a wooden paddle as punishment for playing in a bathtub. A police investigation of the child's injuries began after officers received complaints that a small child, had been begging for water and had severe bruises on his backside and leg.

A WEBSIDE ARRESTS
In other weekend arrests, Kenneth Wayne Platt, 29, of 2515 S. Orlando Drive, Sanford, was jailed in lieu of $5,000 bond on a charge of battery upon a police officer. Sanford police said the felony charge was made after Platt, who had been arrested on a traffic charge "turned a table upside down" on officer L. E. Monti during booking at the city station. Sheriff's deputies arrested Lloyd Melvin Gumpster, 38, of Orlando, on an aggravated assault charge after an incident in which a man allegedly pointed a rifle at another man in south Seminole.

Sanford police reported an unidentified man grabbed a credit card imprinting machine from atop a gasoline pump Sunday night at the 66 Pump Store, 801 Celery Ave., and fled in a blue-colored van.

At the Park and Shop Supermarket, 329 Sanford Ave., vandals broke into a soft drink vending machine and made off with an undisclosed amount of money plus 200 canned drinks, police reported. The missing drinks included an assortment of RC Cola's, root beer, and strawberry, grape and orange sodas, officers reported.

Mass Murderer Described

MIAMI (AP) — One of the killers who left six dead in Miami's largest mass murder was a tall, young, slim, black male with a "baby face," according to one of two survivors of the blood bath.

"That's close, very close," Margaret Wooden, 24, said as she looked at a police sketch of a man she let into a home posing as a utility employee. The man in the sketch, which was released Sunday, is described as 26 to 28 years old; six feet, two inches tall; 150 pounds with broad shoulders and a short Afro haircut with one-inch sideburns.

He had a "baby face," smooth skin, large dark eyes and possibly a mustache.

Utilities Hiking Deposits

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Public Service Commission Chairman Paula Hawkins says she may propose a rate to stop the state's two largest electric utilities from requiring additional deposits from customers who pay their bills late.

Mrs. Hawkins said she has received a number of complaints that Florida Power & Light Co. and Florida Power Corp. have demanded additional security deposits, sometimes ranging in the hundreds of dollars, from customers who miss payments by a few days.

Laetrlie Factory Studied

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — State officials plan to seek an opinion this week from Atty. Gen. Robert Shell on a request by a Florida firm to manufacture the controversial substance Laetrlie, claimed by some to be effective against cancer.

Officials at the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services are in a quandry about whether to grant permission to Gurley Enterprises, an offshoot of Southern Plasma Corp., to set up a manufacturing plant.

Florida Tourism Up 15-20% Over Last Year

By The Associated Press
Officials say the tourism industry is alive and well in Florida this summer, with many areas registering a 15 to 20 per cent increase over last year.

At least seven major attractions in Central Florida say business is booming after a spring slump partly because children whose schools were shut down by the harsh winter up north attended make-up classes and delayed family vacations.

Disney World's Magic Kingdom is packed. Its campground is turning down reservations. Sea World, Circus World, Stars Hall of Fame, Cypress Gardens and Weeki Wachee are reporting gates 15 to 20 per cent higher than last summer.

Medical Billing Conflict

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — Contradictory medical billing procedures are scaring elderly patients away from the doctor's office and needed care, a state official says.

"We are ending up with a dead person in cases where we could have had a treated person," Bentley Lipscomb, director of the State Office on Aging, told a weekend hearing on problems of paying Medicare and Blue Cross bills.

Witnesses said elderly patients often run into problems where health care programs demand itemized bills before reimbursing patients. But some doctors and hospitals won't issue itemized statements until they have been paid.

Execution Rules Limit Witnesses, Surprise Media

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Emergency rules established by prison officials restricting the number of witnesses to Florida's first execution have taken the normally competitive media by surprise.

Those who will be allowed to witness executions include: One each from The Associated Press, United Press International, CBS, NBC, ABC and PBS, and two each from the Florida Association of Broadcasters and the Florida Press Association. Of the last four, two must be from the county in which the prisoner was convicted.

There was scant support for televising the executions, but some news executives say that the decision should be left to the stations. A federal judge in Texas ruled earlier this year that prison officials in that state couldn't bar television coverage because executions could be seen on a closed-circuit television screen.

Reporters would be allowed to take only a pad and pencil to the execution site. One of six condemned men whose appeals have been exhausted. The rules also prohibit making artistic sketches of the execution.

About all cameras and recording equipment being carried, George said. "The department chose to impose the prohibition. We don't think it's a good taste. I'm not sure that the public has any interest in watching this.

Department officials say another 12 witnesses will be allowed into a viewing room next to the death chamber, and "a few staff" will watch when the first condemned prisoner meets his fate.

Gov. Reubin Askew is expected before the end of the year. It must be carried out in a week. Simmons says the 12 witnesses will be "anyone we choose to let," and that Supt. David Drier will have the final say.

Ken Small, executive vice president of the broadcasters group, will choose the two radio and television pool members.

"I was asked nothing. And I don't like it," Small said. "I don't like having the responsibility. I don't know what they're doing, but I wish they'd do it themselves. It looks to me like they're ducking their responsibility."

Heid G. Miller, Miami bureau chief of The AP, said she got some of the state's newspapers and broadcast stations might protest the rules.

Simmons said Miss Chubbuck, the station's director of public affairs, was well liked and was missed after her suicide.

"It happened in July (July 15, 1974)," said Simmons. "Mention was made that day in the newscast, three years later, that today is the day."

"She was an extremely intelligent girl and a good reporter, a real asset to the news department," he said.

But he said her death didn't cause any philosophical changes in the station's newscast.

"We even phoned the story in to the Associated Press when she shot herself," he said. "We wanted the information to go out correctly."

Members of Miss Chubbuck's family said at the time that she had been extremely depressed and under psychiatric care be-

Carter: Tells It Like It Is

One characteristic of Soviet behavior since the end of World War II is a suspicion of Western motives that borders on paranoia. In his recent speech at Charleston President Carter obviously was telling the Russians that they're reading threats into his foreign policy that aren't really there.

The speech was carefully crafted — delivered to an audience of American legislators but directed to Moscow. If the Russians will take it at face value, it may help remove the chill that has descended on détente since Mr. Carter began advancing the theme of human rights in foreign policy while at the same time trying to broaden the goal of arms negotiations with the Soviet Union.

The Soviet response depends on how well the Kremlin leadership resists its own habit of looking for hidden meanings in the language of diplomacy. This is asking a lot of Moscow, where saying one thing and meaning another is a fine art.

Says Mr. Carter, "Our policy is exactly what it appears to be." Calling attention to issues of human rights around the globe arises from a moral conviction that is deeply ingrained in American history. New approaches to strategic arms limitation simply recognize changes in the art of weaponry and the need to pursue limitations and cutbacks without upsetting the balance of deterrent forces on both sides.

Soviet accusations that Mr. Carter is trying to wreck détente — embarrassing the Russians on human rights, and taking unreasonable positions on arms issues — simply don't make sense. The President would be wrecking his own domestic program if a collapse of détente leads to an expensive runaway arms race and a new period of confrontation with the Russians.

So why is Mr. Carter nettling the Russians for the treatment of dissenters? The answer is that the Kremlin has made itself a target in terms of human rights to the same extent that many governments much more friendly to the United States have done so. If the Russians would look beyond their noses they would see that our policy has stirred up as much resentment among some of America's friends — Argentina and Brazil for instance — as it has in their own foreign office.

Moscow has known all along that under détente it would have to deal with Western democracies that take a far different view of personal and political freedom than the Communist system permits. Moscow has known all along that the United States would not willingly and knowingly accept arms limitations that open the door to a strategic imbalance. So why the fuss?

Mr. Carter did not back down on his commitment to human rights and to an arms policy that does not compromise our security. That is as it should be, and he is inviting the Russians to continue the diplomacy of détente on those terms. The terms are not unreasonable nor do they represent any underhanded anti-Soviet thrust in our foreign policy. Mr. Carter is simply telling it like it is.

Rolling Along

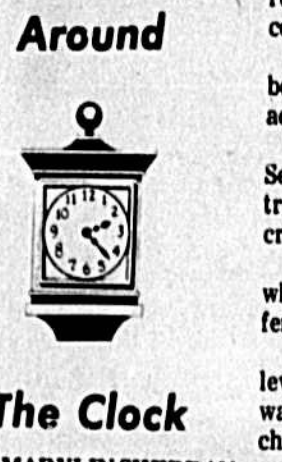

It is hard to find anything uplifting in the admission of Vietnam to the United Nations, but at least anyone who admires the ironies of life could get a momentary twinge of pleasure at the incongruity of things.

BERRY'S WORLD

One day before the U.N. acted, Vietnam signed a treaty with Laos that reduced the letter to the status of a colony. The treaty gives Vietnam complete military, political and economic control over Laos. The presence of about 40,000 Vietnamese troops illegally in Laos forced the treaty and will help to assure its observance.

As for the U.N., we suggest Vietnam's integration into that body being by having Hanoi's new ambassador vouch publicly that Vietnam promises to obey the U.N. charter — particularly that provision that says the purpose of the international body is to remove threats to peace and to help "maintain international peace and security."

The vow might not help Laos, Thailand or Malaysia very much but at least it would give the lovers of irony another momentary chuckle.

ANGLE-WALTERS Is There A GSA Coverup?

WASHINGTON — Only a few months ago, White House aide Walter Kallau was being criticized by the General Services Administration because of irregularities in his handling of President Carter's pre-inaugural finances. Today, Kallau is a $47,500-a-year executive at GSA.

That piece of political ledger-maintenance may have dented Kallau's career but it has not dented his efforts to solve nagging questions about the use of the $2 million fund to pay the Carter administration's expenses during the transition period between last year's election and this year's inauguration.

Kallau, a Carter campaign worker during most of 1976, was in charge of managing the transition fund for the President-elect. But the law which established the fund gave shared authority over the money to GSA, the federal government's "housekeeper" and "purchasing agent."

Scores of White House aides, members of the President's cabinet and other high-ranking administration officials have been forced to return thousands of dollars initially authorized by Kallau in the form of travel advances, per diem subsistence payments and expense reimbursement.

Still being disputed by GSA are numerous other items, including the expenditure of public funds for repairs to the personal auto of a Carter staff member, rental of a tuxedo by a presidential aide who needed formal attire to attend an inaugural week party and the processing of photographs of the President's daughter, Amy.

The official job description for Kallau's new post as an associate administrator of GSA gives him direct authority over the agency's press relations and congressional relations, the most likely sources of troublesome questions about those disbursements.

But Kallau says it is "not contemplated" that he will exercise that authority, and that he plans to concentrate instead on policy and planning issues. Nevertheless, his presence in the executive wing at GSA's headquarters building here has caused lower ranking GSA staff members to have second thoughts about continuing to dispute his judgment in spending the transition money.

But even without Kallau's direct intervention, the impact of the Carter administration's newfound political control of GSA is vividly demonstrated by the handling of a recent letter from Rep. Frederick W. Richmond, D-N.Y., requesting a complete listing of all expenditures on behalf of Carter and his staff during the transition period.

The GSA staff compiled a detailed list in response to the congressman's query, but major alterations were made by their bosses before the reply was mailed to Richmond, along with a covering letter from GSA Administrator Joel W. Soler. One of several Carter loyalists recently named to key policy-making positions at the agency.

If your child is attending a Seminole County kindergarten or middle school this fall he will receive the new report card which has been accepted by the board.

That report card states more clearly than ever before the exact level of learning your child has achieved and what problems he may be having. That report card is also being used only in Seminole County. What happens if your child transfers to another county — where the same criteria are measured in a different way?

Or — what if your child transfers to another state, where the educational program is entirely different? There is a formula for establishing your child's level of education in an institution with less specific ways of measuring the progress made by its children. That formula is a series of complicated mathematical manipulations, but what it amounts to is this: your child's transfer would generally place him at his level of education and accomplishment rather than simply putting him into a grade because of his age.

If your child is seven years old you might ordinarily expect him to be in the second grade — but since Seminole County no longer has grades you will need to check his report card and see what progression level he is working on. If he is at level three in two major subjects and level 4 in another, then the chances are he might be transferred to the second grade in another area — but he might not.

Anyone your child is in the first four progression levels his learning has not progressed beyond what was once first grade. Seminole county now makes provision that he may be promoted to the next progression level (NOT grade) at the end of nine weeks of school — or during the nine weeks when he is not in school but is capable of handling the more advanced work.

So — your child in any of the first four progression levels might be transferred to a first grade class; in the fifth through eighth progression levels, he might be transferred to a second grade class, and your child in the ninth through 12th progression levels might be transferred to a third grade class, regardless of whether he is eight years old or some age unrelated to the others in the class.

The final say would, of course, rest with the child's new school system. Through the Seminole County plan, however, your child would be offered an opportunity for the education possible to his present level of understanding.

The progression level system is much more useful in relating to other Seminole County schools. Since it effectively eliminates grades, it eliminates the stigma of being placed "below your age level"; since it provides the opportunity for a child to learn as quickly — or slowly as is possible, without having to wait for the end of the entire year of school for promotion to more advanced work, it enables him to progress more readily than might be possible in his "home" system.

Rebels Claim They Liberated Four Ogaden-Region Towns

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Somalian-backed rebels in Ethiopia's Ogaden region claim to have "liberated" all but four towns in the arid plateau. The four towns were not identified. There has been no independent confirmation of rebel victory claims in the Ogaden, which makes up about two-thirds of Ethiopia's easternmost Harar province. Ethiopia radio, which usually reports on the conflict, made no mention of it in Sunday broadcasts.

DON OAKLEY ROTC Is Back In Business

Military careers — especially via the college Reserve Officer Training Corps (ROTC) — are beginning to look better to young Americans facing a tight job market.

Army ROTC, largest of the three run by the military services and which willed under the torrent of student protests from 165,430 cadets in 1967 to 33,220 in 1973, has grown steadily each year since. Enrollment now stands at 54,871.

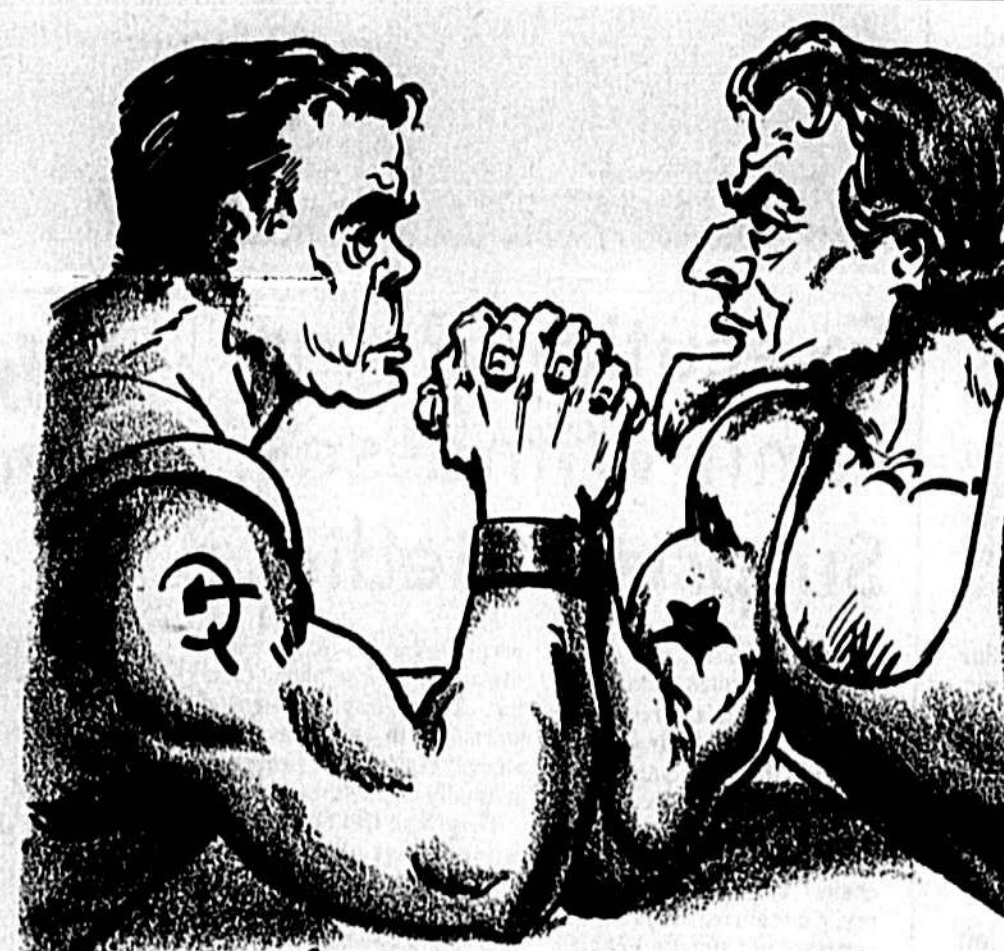

Three reasons are given. First, the Vietnam War, which pygmyed the protests, is over. A new college generation is taking at ROTC with eyes unclouded by disaffection with that wretched conflict.

Then, too, last year's bicentennial celebration brought what ROTC officials refer to as "a tinge of patriotism" to college students.

Most important, perhaps, is the fact that these days the military is a beneficent employer. New second lieutenants start at about $12,000 a year, plus such luxuries as commissary and medical care and a license.

Add to that the fact that even a second lieutenant begins as a boss — in a manner of speaking — and the total sum of all that the military life is not to be denigrated, especially at a time of relatively high unemployment, when holders of advanced doctorates often end up as stockroom clerks.

A successful four-year tour of active duty as a reserve officer is a pretty impressive credential that the young person has learned the principles of leadership and management.

THE LONDON ECONOMIST Shipping Now Protected

WASHINGTON — The latest American industry through a measure of protection is shipping, loaded through it already is with subsidies.

The decision has not been an easy one for President Carter. In principle he is a free trader; in practice he has to remember that during his election campaign he promised to do something to revive the merchant marine and that the shipping and shipbuilding interests, supported by the industry's trade unions, responded generously.

Recently they have been studding the country's newspapers with full page advertisements arguing that it would be better for the country's environment, security and employment if more oil were to be imported in American ships. In the other corner have been the Treasury and the State Department, protesting that such protection would push up prices and make international cooperation over other shipping problems more difficult.

Five times the administration was scheduled to make its decision known to Congress and five times it asked for a stay.

So it is not surprising that when President Carter recently gave in to the shipping lobby, he gave it as small a victory as possible. American tankers will be guaranteed the right to carry only 4.5 per cent of the country's oil imports; that will rise annually for five years to reach 9.5 per cent. Friends of the merchant marine have been

There was one limitation; he had only one of 50 yards of rugged mountain-top road suitable for limousine travel. The proud commander, nevertheless, signed his limousine back to the driver, the 60-year-old archer. A team of orderlies also kept the car highly polished so he could show it off to visiting dignitaries. Now both the mountain-top and the limousine presumably are in communist hands.

Another Laotian warlord, with even more expensive tastes, wanted his own luxury plane. The Air Force obligingly refurbished an old transport plane in Japan and flew it to the delighted general. It was written off as "foreign aid."

Not all the Air Force intelligence operations, of course, were so dubious. A small but ingenious Air Force unit, for example, developed some of the best spies in the business along China's obscure southern borders.

It Will Cost $44 Billion This Year White Collar Crime: A Growing Menace

By SAUL D. ASTOR The Herald Service

Do you know what will cost the American economy more than the entire defense budget authorized by the 94th Congress for 1977?

Crime. Congress authorized $104.3 billion for defense. Crime, says the Joint Economic Committee, cost $125 billion, including 22.7 billion for criminal justice. And what's the largest single element of the $125 billion cost of crime? White collar crime, which cost $44 billion, twice the size of the entire cost of the criminal justice system.

White collar crime is of such dimensions that we cannot conceivably stamp it out. The probability of its reduction does not truly depend on General Caplan, the Director of the National Institute of Law Enforcement and Criminal Justice, states that one of the conclusions of $100 million dollars worth of research into crime, is that government cannot eliminate or significantly reduce crime because the origins of crime lie largely outside of government authority.

Another conclusion, says Caplan, is that a larger police force is useless because the courts and jails are unable to keep up with the present volume of arrests, and in short, there is little prospect of increasing arrests. Still, a third conclusion is that anti-crime technology is not the answer. Government investment in hardware has not borne fruit, says Caplan. Crime does not seem to be the kind of problem that is amenable to soon be the subject of a House-Senate conference to determine the final form of the bill before it is forwarded to the President by his signature or veto.

Kelly is preparing for the month-long congressional recess beginning at the end of this week by growing a beard. "When my colleagues ask me about the beard, I tell them I'm getting ready to change my registration and I want to look the part," he joked.

Kelly doesn't think things are too different in Washington. "Actually I'm getting ready to go off into the woods for a while. I don't know if I'll keep the beard when I come back here."

Continuing his discussion of the financial problems of America's cities, Kelly said, "the federal government is in a hard position. If we send more money to cities, they're going to be an ever-increasing drain on the federal treasury. The solution is to improve management, not send more federal money."

The issue "involves the ability of government to lead, and it involves the public service unions. Are they going to live and let live? If we can't make an adequate response to foreign nations to develop agricultural crops and commodities almost solely for export in competition with U.S. agricultural commodities. The provision is part of the bill passed by the House which will send us the bill," it will have an immediate impact on Central Florida.

The question, Representative Kelly said, "is not should there be unions but will unions be compelled to live and let live? The unions in New York bankrupted that city, and the federal government now are urged to pick up the tab."

And the unions up there are very active politically," the congressman said, "especially in the primaries. New York is predominantly Democratic, and the unions have a narrow constituency. They don't represent the general public. It's not a good situation."

Kelly also opposes mandatory retirement at age 65 for 70 people who want to continue working. "Mandatory retirement at a certain age is not in the interest of the country generally," he said.

Everybody's interest that he is allowed to continue."

Representative Kelly has become interested in the problem as a result of his assignment as ranking Republican member of a new subcommittee on the cities of the House Banking, Finance and Urban Affairs Committee.

Kelly recently led an unsuccessful fight on the floor of the House opposing a $1 billion federal grant preference for the Midwest and Northeast in $12.5 billion Housing and Community Development Act.

Kelly's recent text actions in Congress include: Sponsoring an amendment to the agricultural bill to deny food stamp benefits to striking farmers. The amendment failed by a 249-70 vote.

Leading a successful battle to assemble a coalition supporting a proposal which would prevent American representatives to International Banking Organizations established by the United States from voting in favor of loans to foreign nations to develop agricultural crops and commodities almost solely for export in competition with U.S. agricultural commodities.

On an overall basis, the bill at the end of July was about a third of the price higher than it was a month earlier. The rate of overall increase was the same as it was during June, when the marketbasket was higher at the checkout store in nine cities and lower in four.

—Comparing prices at the start of August with those seven months earlier, the AP found the marketbasket index in 15 cities higher in every city, up at average of 9.4 per cent. When coffee was removed from the totals, however, the increase was only 2.7 per cent.

Emerson MVP; Dekle's Gulf Finishes 9th In Tourney

NEW SMYRNA BEACH—Home runs from Neil Miller, Billy Foley and John Emerson propelled Seaboard Coastline to a 14-7 victory as it claimed the state recreational men's slow-pitch softball tournament Sunday.

Seaboard, one of Sanford's representatives in the tournament, won four out of five games. Dekle's Gulf, Sanford's only other entry in the tourney was eliminated in a minimum of two games finishing ninth.

Steve Cooper had four straight hits in the victory. Glenn Robinson, Emerson and Miller each had three each for Seaboard.

Emerson who belted four homers in the tournament was given the most valuable player award.

Lloyd Wolf, although he was hitless in two of the four games he played, also had four homers. A total of 17 homers were hit in all four powerbated Seaboard. Foley had three for the tournament and Miller two. Seaboard advanced to the finals without being

Villas Moves Nearer Crown

By The Associated Press
Guillermo Villas took advantage of his lead to win Sunday's final match in the 1977 Pan American Tennis Classic. Villas, top-seeded in the tournament after winning three of the last four years, beat the seventh-seeded Don S. F. Sunday to move toward today's final match against Eddie Dibbs of Miami Beach, Fla.

Parsons Proves Racing Point

MOUNT COCONO, Pa. (AP)—Benny Parsons wanted to grow something in winning Sunday's 500-mile Grand National Stock Car race.

"I wanted to let everyone know that our team is not taken seriously," Parsons said. "I've been in the sport for 17 years and I know what I'm doing." Parsons and his team showed everybody Sunday, having the best pit stops, leading the most laps, setting new speed records and holding off a desperate challenge by Richard Petty for the victory.

Willis Praises Paul Brown

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Paul Brown recalls the day he broke pro football's racial barrier by summoning a black lineman from the Kentucky State coaching staff.

"I was looking for guys who could play football," Brown said, "men among men. He was the most popular guy on our team. He was the quickest down lineman in football history."

Monzon Still Undefeated, Staying Retired Toughest

MONTE CARLO (AP)—After 13 undefeated years, seven of them as world middleweight champion, Carlos Monzon says he's retired.

"I'm a very poor psychologist if I'm not fighting again by next February," said matchmaker Rudolfo Sabatini after Monzon won a less than glorious 15-round decision Saturday night over Rodrigo Valdes of Colombia.

Falcone Options

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The St. Louis Cardinals have optioned left-handed pitcher Pete Falcone to their New Orleans farm club in the American League.

"It won't be so much for the money, even though he doesn't have anything against it," said Sabatini. "It will be for the fact that Carlo will have a hard time living without it."

Reggie Haynes Joins 'Skins'

CAHISLE, Pa. (AP)—Reggie Haynes, the Washington Redskins' seventh-round selection in the National Football League draft, ended a contract holdout and reported to the Washington Redskins' summer training camp here.

Haynes was announced Sunday night that Haynes, a 22-year-old tight end from Nevada-Las Vegas, signed a series of one-year contracts.

Bears QB Post At Stake

Phipps, Avellini In Battle

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—A battle is brewing for the No. 1 quarterback job with the Cleveland Browns. None of the principals cares to admit it, though.

"I think I can play a lot better," said Todd of his 7-0-18 record, said Todd of his 7-0-18 record.

43-year performance. "They bilked a lot more than I thought they would. They figure they can scare a young quarterback like me."

"I know the fans felt that we (players) were getting, getting paid too much money, that guys wouldn't go out and play their best."

Post Leaky's field goals of 35 and 43 yards gave the Jets a short-lived 40- halftime lead. The Bears went ahead 13-14 in the final period.

McGee Gets Good Bounce

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—On the golf course, Jerry McGee turned to his wife, Jill, and said:

"Honey, today the ball is gonna bounce right. It's bounced wrong so many times before, today it just gotta bounce right."

McGee, under pressure from a late move by Australian Bob Shearer, dropped a couple of critical putts in the stretch and, with a two-putt par-8, scored a crucial victory Sunday in the two-and-a-half-day U.S. Open at the Country Club Classic.

AFS Trip Is Shared Experience

By JEAN PATTESON
 OURSELVES Editor

Roby Sawyers is having a fine time enjoying new faces, places and experiences during his current two-month visit to South Africa as an American Field Service (AFS) exchange student.

But what of his family, Mr. and Mrs. Blake (Joyce) Sawyers, left behind at their Palmetto Avenue Sanford home? How do they feel about their son traveling several thousand miles to stay with an unknown family in an alien land?

"The only worry I had was that he'd be there during a riot," said Mrs. Sawyers, referring to the racial unrest which has disturbed the country during the past year.

"But I never had any worries about his family," she continued. "After the letters they sent us, who could worry? And besides, Roby gets along well with people."

The letter she refers to is one written by Roby's South African "family" before he left for that country on June 20.

"We are all looking forward to Roby's arrival and constantly chat of when our third son will be here," wrote Martin Viljoen, Roby's temporary father. "Roby to you wish to say that you are most welcome and to your parents that you will be one of the family and looked after as our own son."

Roby's first letters home indicate that he is indeed "one of the family" and gets along well with his "brothers," Marius and Greyling, both about his own age.

In fact, Roby has already picked up a few Afrikaans phrases which he uses to end his letters home: "Ek het u lief" (I love you) and "tot siens" (goodbye). He also remarked that he finds himself imitating the local accent.

The school is strict in comparison with the Sanford schools he has attended, said Roby, and more formal. He wears a uniform to classes - including tie and blazer with the country's two official languages, he writes that his teachers are good at explaining the lessons in English for him and for the two other American AFS students at the school, one from North Carolina and one from Virginia.

"Everyone is great - especially the girls!" he writes. Not all of his time is being spent in the classroom, however. He will be traveling with his family, or the families of other AFS students to visit a gold mine, area industrial plants, the black township of Soweto (where last year's rioting was worst) and will spend five days in the Kruger National Game Reserve.

He also has been entertained with the other American AFS students, and a South African student just returned from a year in Alabama, by the major of Vanderbijlpark, Herman Schroeder, in the mayor's "parlour."

"His parents have a clipping out of the Vanderbijlpark newspaper of this event, and say that all who see it are intrigued by the heavy gold chain and seal of office the mayor wears around his neck. "We're not getting everybody in Sanford watching Roby's progress - about 50 families must have read his letters by now," smiled his mother.

"Everytime he mentions something new, we rush to our maps and books to see where he is and what it looks like. We're learning about as much from this as he is." They have also caught a number of television specials on South Africa since their son left.

Mr. Sawyers is equally enthusiastic about the AFS program. He explained that, because it is an exchange program, a Sanford family must host a foreign student before a local student can visit a foreign country.

"It's too good an opportunity for someone else in the community not to go. We must support it here. I think we've got it going," he said, referring to the newly established AFS chapter in Sanford. "There are a lot of kids interested now because of Roby's experience." Roby writes that he has played cricket and has watched the other popular South African sports including rugby, netball and field hockey.

He comments that "the black situation is wierd. They either leave town on buses or live-ins must be off the street by 10 p.m."

For his birthday on Aug. 2, his family plans to take him to dinner in Johannesburg, followed by a visit to the opera. Roby is having just one problem, however. "I'm about to die," he writes. "There is no iceed tea anywhere."

"Brothers In Family Of Man"

DEAR ABBY: I love my parents, but the have their faults, and the one that bothers me most is their prejudice against people of other races and religions. They have tried their best to make me believe as they do, but I am happy to say they have not succeeded. I know that children are supposed to honor their mothers and fathers, and I honor mine in most ways, but they will never change, so now I just keep my cool.

I am writing to you, Dear Abby, because some of the stuff in your column has helped to open up my eyes.

Please keep stressing the importance of doing away with bigotry and prejudice.

I believe that we are all brothers in the family of man, and we could love each other if the children all over the world would refuse to accept the prejudices of their parents and society.

DEAR JIMMY: It is, and it's young people like you who give me hope for the future. Thank you for a beautiful letter.

DEAR ABBY: Someone signed SPEAKING FOR TEENS stated in a letter to you that, in Samoa, premarital sex was customary. As a native of Samoa may I set the record straight?

Premarital sex is NOT the custom in Samoa today. We are taught that the very best gift a Samoan girl can give to her husband is her virginity, and to lose it before marriage not only brings disgrace to her family, but automatically places the girl into the category of a prostitute. Thank you.

Aluminum Firm Eying Sanford For Factory

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Keller Industries Inc., a multi-million dollar corporation, with plants in five Florida cities and other facilities throughout the nation, would like to locate a $600,000 aluminum production manufacturing unit in Sanford.

But, at least one Sanford city commissioner — A.A. McClanahan — had reservations as the city commission discussed information presented by City Manager W.E. Knowles and attorney Kenneth W. McIntosh Monday night.

The industry, saying it would employ 15 to 20 people at the proposed Sanford facility, wants to build a 15,000 square foot building to be used as an aluminum smelter to produce concrete pads, casting pit, Keller Industries has agreed in writing to pay a 10 percent deposit of $250 to bind the site presently under consideration for the smelter location, Connors said.

The part that raised McClanahan's concern, he said, was the firm's desire to fund the project with a tax-free industrial revenue bond through the City of Sanford. The firm suggested Henry Knight of Johnston, Brown, Burnett and Knight Inc., of Lexington, Ky., as bond underwriter.

Connors in his letter said that proceeds would be paid out of a construction fund set up with a designated trustee bank and the project would be bonded by the designated trustee bank to be used.

Lawsuit Claims Woman Held 10 Hours In Mental Ward

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

An Orlando area woman has filed a damage lawsuit in circuit court at Sanford in connection with an incident last October in which she was transported protesting from her Pine Hills residence to Florida Hospital North, Altamonte Springs, and involuntarily committed to a mental ward for 10 hours.

The lawsuit, filed for Mrs. Linda Mascia, 25, by south Seminole attorney O.H. Eaton Jr., asks for a jury trial and seeks in excess of $25,000 damages from Florida Sanitarium and Benevolent Association and Joyce Tideman, of south Seminole.

Eaton identified Mrs. Tideman as a secretary in October 1976 for an attorney who was representing Mrs. Mascia.

No hearing date has been set on the lawsuit which has been assigned to Circuit Judge Clarence T. Johnson for trial.

The suit alleges that the night of Oct. 28, 1976 Mrs. Mascia was listening to a phonograph and sipping wine at her residence when she became sentimental and started to cry. She then remembered Tideman advised firemen that Mrs. Mascia had taken "God knows how many pills" and she insisted that Mrs. Mascia be transported to Florida Hospital North for admission.

The lawsuit alleges Mrs. Mascia was transported by the fire rescue team "in shame and humiliation" from her Orange County residence to the south Seminole hospital where Dr. L. Gilliam received "a history of the situation" from Mrs. Tideman and despite protests by Mrs. Mascia that "she was perfectly sane," and denials that she had taken any drugs, she was involuntarily admitted under the "Baker Act" (Florida Mental Health Act) to the hospital's mental ward.

The lawsuit claims that Mrs. Mascia was confined and detained in the mental ward until 12:40 p.m. on Oct. 29, 1976, when another doctor found her mentally competent and she was released.

Negligence is charged against the hospital in the civil action that alleges hospital employees failed to take reasonable steps to determine whether or not sufficient cause existed to involuntarily commit the woman.

The lawsuit also alleges hospital employees failed to have Mrs. Mascia examined by a qualified psychiatrist for "an unreasonable time after she was involuntarily admitted" and that she was falsely imprisoned.

The lawsuit claims Mrs. Mascia has been caused as well as injury to her reputation and will continue to do so.

Oxygen, Gas Pipes Mixed Up In Hospital

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Pipes from tanks of oxygen and "laughing gas" were mixed up for six months in a nearby hospital's new emergency room, and state officials are investigating the possibility that the error killed patients.

"Several deaths may have resulted from this defect in construction," said Richard Anderson, administrator of the 14-bed Suburban General Hospital in East Norristown Township.

Hospital death and medical records are being checked to determine which patients received oxygen and how many patients, if any, died because they instead received nitrous oxide, or "laughing gas," said Alan Sommers, the hospital's public relations man.

Oxygen usually is administered to persons experiencing respiratory or cardiac difficulty. Nitrous oxide usually is used as an anesthetic or relaxant.

About 5,000 persons were treated in the emergency room while the lines were mixed. Some 300 needed oxygen and therefore may have been exposed to the wrong gas, hospital officials said.

Anderson said records show 32 deaths in the emergency room in that period, including some persons who were dead on arrival.

"At this point, they can't really put their finger on any one death and attribute it to this problem," Sommers said.

The emergency room opened last December. The mix-up was discovered July 8 by an anesthesiologist administering what he thought to be oxygen to a patient, hospital officials said. The gas system was immediately disconnected, and state officials were notified.

The problem apparently lay in a built-in gas system and resulted in oxygen being fed into outlets labeled nitrous oxide, and nitrous oxide being fed into outlets labeled oxygen.

Architectural plans for the emergency room were checked by state officials, and the completed facility was also examined, said Richard Zarin, director of quality assurance for the state Health Department.

The hospital has been using portable gas cylinders since the mix-up was discovered. The hospital said the gas lines will not be reconnected until corrections have been certified by the state.

County Public Works Chief Requests Business Manager

By MARK WEINBERG
Herald Staff Writer

Stating that up to 20 per cent of his time is taken up with budget and accounting matters, Seminole County Public Works Director Jack Schuder Monday night requested that the county commissioners create a position of business manager for Schuder's department.

Commissioners Bob French, Dick Williams and Bill Kirshoff voted in favor of the proposal. Commissioners hope to complete their budget review and vote on a final budget figure by the end of this week.

Schuder's department has submitted a budget request of $4,795,905, a requested 34 per cent increase above the currently budgeted $3,120,697. County Administrator Roger Neiswender has recommended an increase of 33 per cent for the fiscal year beginning in October.

Neiswender also recommended a business manager be hired at an annual salary of $15,000.

"We need someone with a business background (as business manager), and he could make some dollar savings in collections and other areas," Schuder told the commissioners.

The commissioners also voted in favor of adding a third survey crew to the public works

LAND PLAN IS TOPIC The Seminole County Comprehensive Land Use Plan was explained at this morning's Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Personality Breakfast. County Senior Planner Joyce Sellen (center) answered questions and received input from the group, which included individuals from various parts of the county. With Ms. Sellen are chamber president Tom Hunt (left), and County Commissioner Bill Kirchoff. A copy of the plan will be available for public view at the chamber and at Room 421 of the county courthouse.
