Gurney 1st Senator Indicted In 50 Years

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Sen. Edward J. Gurney has been indicted by a federal grand jury in connection with a $233,000 fund-raising effort involving contractors and developers seeking U.S. housing contract influence.

The Florida Republican was charged with bribery, conspiracy, taking part in a cover-up and lying to the special prosecutor. The panel returned the indictment Wednesday after a 10-month investigation. Conviction on all counts could bring up to a 42-year prison term.

No arraignment date was set for Gurney or six other men indicted.

Gurney, the first U.S. senator in 50 years to be indicted while in office, said he is innocent: "I have an abiding faith in the American system of justice and firmly believe that I will be proved innocent of any wrongdoing in this affair."

Gurney, 60, of Winter Park, a member of the Senate Watergate committee and a staunch supporter of President Nixon both on the committee and off, is up for re-election this year. Florida Republican Chairman L.E. Thomas said the indictment "dealt a mortal blow" to Gurney's re-election bid.

The grand jury probe began after The Miami Herald reported that a Gurney aide obtained funds in Gurney's name from builders hoping to win his influence with the Federal Housing Administration.

Indicted with Gurney were: James Lee Groat of Washington, Gurney's former administrative assistant; Earl M. Crittenden of Orlando, former Florida GOP chairman; George Anderson of Winter Park, the senator's 1968 campaign treasurer; Joseph Bastien, the head of Gurney's field office in Winter Park; and FHA officials Wayne Swiger of Tampa and Ralph M. Kooz of Jacksonville.

The 33-page indictment also

Rep. Mooney May Run To Clear His Name

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A state legislator who was named as an undicted co-conspirator in the federal indictment of Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla., says he'll probably have to run for re-election to clear his name.

Rep. Eugene Mooney, R-Fern Park, said he had been planning to get out of politics. But he said the fact that he was named in the Wednesday indictment would probably force him to reverse those plans.

Mooney, 31, was one of 42 people named as undicted co-conspirators in the indictment returned by a federal grand jury in Jacksonville.

"I had about six or eight months ago made the decision not to run again because of my wife's health," Mooney said. "But this is just about going to force me back into the race to prove my integrity."

Charges lodged against Gurney include perjury and bribery counts in connection with an alleged scheme to collect $233,000 in kickbacks from contractors hoping for Gurney's influence in getting federal contracts.

"I don't know why I was indicted," Mooney said. "The

For goodness sake. Look at what Ole Blue Eyes (Frank Sinatra) has started down here in Australia. Tak, tak...you shouldn't call press by such names Frankie, boy!

He's kissed-and-made up with the Aussies — but now he's getting it from the folks back home.

Broadcast executive Stan Kaplan said Sinatra records will never again be played by three radio stations in Florida and North Carolina as a result of the singer's run-in with Australian unions.

They've even editorialized against Sinatra by saying "he's a national disgrace."

Yesterday's high 92 low 72. Partly cloudy today with a chance of afternoon and evening thundershowers. Highs in lower 90s except upper 80s along coast. Lows tonight in the low to mid 70s.

Rain probability 50 percent today, 30 percent tonight and 50 percent Friday.

Daytona Beach tides for Friday-high 1:22 a.m., 2:04 p.m.; low 7:32 a.m., 8:10 p.m.; Port Canaveral-high 1:06 a.m., 1:56 p.m.; low 7:33 a.m., 7:56 p.m.

Extended Florida forecast Saturday through Monday-widely scattered mainly afternoon and evening thundershowers. No important temperature changes with afternoon highs in the upper 80s and low 90s. Lows mostly in the 70s with low 80s along the southern beaches, and Keys.

Thundershowers remained along the Carolina coast and in parts of the Midwest today, but storms had diminished elsewhere leaving most of the nation clear and warm.

Temperatures were in the 70s from North Dakota through Iowa and east into Virginia overnight, and in the 80s through much of the central and southern Plains.

Askew: Power Costs May Take Dip

Gov. Reubin Askew, in San Francisco Wednesday with his new running mate Sen. James Williams (D-Orla.), revealed a ray of hope for beleaguered state residents reeling from astronomical electric bills — the cost for power might soon take a dip.

Askew, on a subdued campaign swing through Central Florida, told The Herald, the state's tough anti-spill law aimed at tankers, had been modified during the last legislative session.

"This means," said the governor, "that insurance rates went down for the carriers, and those few ships and firms who boycotted Florida's ports while the law was so stringent are coming back."

The newly-modified bill, Askew explained, means more oil will be coming into Florida, and with the transporters and suppliers paying smaller surcharges, the price of fuel oil should soon drop.

Askew also took a swipe at the Nixon Administration's handling of the fuel crisis, and delivered a scathing condemnation of the Venezuelan government, which he says used the Middle East crisis to drive up the price of crude oil.

"Venezuela is where most Florida electric firms get their oil, and when they backed the Arab boycott, we in Florida suffered immediately," he said.

"If Venezuela wants to," he continued, "let's play hardball. Fuel is the most important commodity we're offering. Venezuela so if they want to play hardball, well, we just ought to tell them that unless they lower the oil price, they can't any of our food."

The governor, who said he turned down a chance to run as Democratic vice president John Polk over Polk's political office.

"I just want to do the job I'm doing, and serve the people of Florida," he continued.

From the last legislative session stems from the controversial public disclosure law, which is aimed at compelling public officials to reveal their sources of income.

"It's just not tough enough," Askew said, adding that those officials who are resigning rather than complying with the new law "are making a decision they must feel is right for them."

He said the state now has a $165 million working capital reserve, more than $200 million in state taxes have been repealed during the past four years.

"When I came into office the state didn't have any money in the bank," said Askew, adding, "so I ran on a tax reform platform."

visited Herald office. Williams responds, Askew listens to address the National Convention of the Elks Clubs of America in Miami this week, as their feature speaker.

Commissioners agreed unanimously to kick the proposal back to Polk with a polite but firm request that the 37 page document be resubmitted in the same form as other county departments.

The action came after board members spent nearly four hours wrestling with Polk's figures, attempting to compare approved spending for the current year with the department's actual spending.

After some juggling with last summer's budget hearing records, the board found it had approved salaries for three captains last year while the sheriff hired four, that seven lieutenants were approved but only six names, that 11 sergeants were approved while 15 were employed and that 41 deputies were approved but only 36 were hired. Polk is requesting seven more deputies in addition to the 51.

The check by Jones and Commissioner Dick Williams also showed that no corrections sergeants were approved but five were hired and Polk wants four more. The request for Correction II officers remained at the currently approved eight. Polk is asking for 12 new "correction officers" in another category while the 12 "confinement personnel" approved have not been hired. His request for four matrons remains the same as currently on officers remained at five. The communications officers were approved to join the 14 employed and approved.

The commissioners were somewhat miffed when they found special pay raises they approved in mid-year for lower paid deputies were also given by Polk to certain higher-paid sergeants.

According to law, Polk does not have to follow the commission's line item approvals and he "resigned" last year, holding over on his behalf the possibility he will appeal the board's decisions to Tallahassee," said Ashby Jones, county finance director.

Commissioner Greg Drummond suggested that the board approve a lump sum for the sheriff, based on the 1968-'69 budget updated to reflect population increases and the raise in the crime rate.

Polk, elected November, 1968, upon taking office in January, 1969 inherited his predecessor's budget. Peter Milliot, a Republican was appointed sheriff in late 1967 by then Gov. Claude Kirk, also a Republican, to replace resigned Luther Hobbs.

Milliot submitted a $500,000 budget and appealed the slashing of $200,000 budget from the request by the all Democrat county commission to a three-man Tallahassee board which included the governor or his representative as a member.

The commissioners' reductions were upheld unanimously. Polk's proposed $2,556,290.70 budget, up from $1,534,400 approved for the current year raises road deputies pay to $10,150 minimum; increases captains' pay to $14,331 minimum; ups sergeants to $14,900 minimum and raises requested salary increases for Chief Deputy L. D. Harrell to $17,500, up from $15,400. Polk's salary will be raised from $20,820 to $24,384, as required by law.

A brand new parks and recreation department budget recap sheet has been distributed to commissioners — the third from the department.

WALL STREET

Money Is There For The Wise Investor

Mention Wall Street to the man on the street and you're most likely going to get a glazed glare if the conversation becomes technical in even the slightest sense.

That's wrong, according to Louis Rukeyser, host of "Wall Street Week," one of the most popular programs on public television.

To explain why The Herald is presenting a five-part series adapted from Rukeyser's new book, "How To Make Money In Wall Street."

The editors feel that this entertaining series will help break forever the mystique surrounding the world of high finance and out it into its proper perspective; that a little caution can yield profits to the wise investor.

The series is simple to read and understand, and if the critics are right, a lot of people turning to the market today are bearing with them more knowledge than most first-time investors.

Investment scene and are equally available to you. I have held for last your most obvious source of investment information because I think you will make more effective use of it if it is not your only source; your broker. The major brokerage firms provide him and you with extensive analyses of the economic outlook for the country, rundowns on the prospects for specific industrial groups and fact sheets with recommendations on individual stocks.

Your ability to judge the quality and scope of the research effort of your own broker house will be helped if you have some understanding of how the analysts operate.

An excellent analyst will operate much like an excellent journalist, and is approximately as rare. He will be expert at unearthing information but will be skeptical about those who give it to him.

He will talk not only to a company's authorized officers but to other employees, to suppliers, to customers and to competitors. He will visit industry associations and government agencies. He will read trade journals and anything else he can find. And when he puts it all together, the analysis will be his own. One of the starting points for the analyst is the annual reports of the companies in his industries. Actually these reports are not as intimidating as they appear. Reading a financial report is a skill you can master more quickly than you may suspect.

Lewis Gilbert, an annual meeting gadfly who has been studying corporate reports for 40 years, said that when the report begins, "Last year was a year of transition for the company," you can be sure it means the company lost money.

Another of Gilbert's observations is that if the auditors' report runs more than two paragraphs, it's time to start asking a lot of questions about the accounting methods the company has decided to use. Finally, said Gilbert, if the small print footnotes are in especially small print, you can bet there is something going on that the directors would rather not have the stockholders read about. So read them and weep. No matter how you pick your stocks, in the long run how well those stocks do or don't do comes down to one thing: earnings. The price-earnings ratio, which aficionados customarily abbreviate chummily to "the PE," purports to give both sides of the investment equation: what you are getting and what you are going to have to pay for it.

It's not hard to figure a price-earnings ratio. You simply divide the net earnings per share into the selling price. If XYZ Company earns $10 million a year net profit and has five million shares outstanding, its earnings per share are $2. Let's say the current market price of XYZ stock is $36 a share. If you divide $2 into $36, you find that the stock is selling for 18 times earnings; its PE is 18.

Finding a stock's PE is easy; knowing how to interpret it is what separates the investors from the amateurs. Inexperienced investors often leap at a low price-earnings ratio, assuming that since you are paying less for the same amount of earnings, you are automatically getting a bargain. The growth stocks with the highest PE's are expected to live up to their names without

Wimberly Murder Trial Postponed

The first degree murder trial of a 28-year-old Sanford woman charged with the April 11 shooting of a 37-year-old Sanford field worker has been continued until August 19.

Circuit Court Judge Volle Williams granted the motion to continue trial of Leola Wimberly after Roger Berry, specially appointed public defender, told the court he had not had enough time to prepare a defense.

Mrs. Wimberly, of Apt. 30, Higgins Terrace, also faces charges of shooting into an occupied building and using a firearm in the commission of a felony. She was arrested April 12, in connection with the death of Johnnie McGivany of Apt. 28 Higgins Terrace.

School Sites To Be Purchased

The Seminole County School Board tapped the uncompleted Barclay Woods site in Altamonte Springs but took no action on the 10 acre tract that the board has been working on obtaining for months.

In another report the board learned that there may be a delay and a lawsuit in connection with the construction of the Tusawilla Middle School.

The board learned that some of the water fixtures purchased by a subcontractor do not meet specifications and the distributor has threatened to sue.

A separate report by Hugh Carlton, director of auxiliary services, informed the board the recommendation of the fire marshal that the board put fire hydrants at all new schools would be expensive, to nothing to protect lives and little to save property.

Carlton said the schools are being constructed primarily of block and concrete, therefore there is little chance of a devastating fire. "Any school in the county can be vacated within two minutes," he pointed out to give credence to this theory. He pointed out that expenditure would do little to save lives of students. He said by the time the board installed water lines and hydrants the cost could run over $15,000 per site. Utilities hook-ups were also the subject report by Carlton who said it may be cheaper for the board to go into the sewer business, except the law requires schools to be connected to utilities line. If the lines are within 100 feet of the school. "No two utility companies have the same standards and the specs for the county are different as well," he said. "An estimate to hook the school to the lines," he said, "would run about $25,000 because the utility companies don't come to you, you have to go to them with sewer lines and in a sense that would mean we would be funding their expansion. It's quite shocking!"

However, he pointed out there would be a rebate when other hookups were installed in the area.

In other action the board approved a request by John Colbert, supervisor of finance, to designate all "known banks" in the county as school board depositories.

Designated banks must be listed and sent to the state and Colbert said the reason for designating all county banks was to insure that none of the board's money would be "lying around dormant and not making money."

NATION TODAY

Human Nutrition

CHICAGO (AP) — Human milk is overlooked as a natural resource in the search for more food to feed the world's growing population, a California public health specialist says. Lamenting the decline in breast-feeding in some developing countries, he said that if all the mothers in the world suddenly started bottle-feeding their babies there would not be enough food to go around. Dr. Derrick B. Jelliffe made his comments Wednesday at a symposium for health professionals sponsored by La Leche League International, an organization that promotes breastfeeding. Jelliffe is professor of public health and pediatrics at the University of California, Los Angeles.

Inspired Police Work

ROXANA, Ill. (AP) — When this community's police chief admonishes "Thou shalt not ...," he says it with authority. He's a priest. Chief James Loyd, 39, is a self-taught, ordained minister in the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon). The sect, with headquarters at Independence, Mo., has priests, as opposed to the elders of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon) of Salt Lake City, Utah. Loyd says he often draws his sermons from police experiences of the previous week.

IRS Probe Appalls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Democratic Chairman Lawrence F. O'Brien says he is "completely appalled and disgusted" by a report that White House aide John D. Ehrlichman pressured the Internal Revenue Service in hopes of getting O'Brien jailed before the 1972 election. The Senate Watergate committee staff quoted Ehrlichman as saying in sworn testimony, "I wanted them to turn up something and send (O'Brien) to jail before the election and unfortunately it didn't materialize."

Simon To Mideast

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon headed for the Middle East today to try to strengthen U.S. economic ties with Saudi Arabia and Egypt, two countries that hold important keys for world peace and prosperity. If the trip is successful, it may result in lower world oil prices, flow of investment funds from Arab to Western countries and closer relations between the Arab countries and the United States.

Hammer Getting Emmy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Writer Earl Hammer is getting an Emmy Award after all because the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences changed its mind. Hammer, creator of "The Waltons," wrote "The Thanksgiving Story" episode in story form. Joanna Lee adopted it into a script. Miss Lee was awarded an Emmy at the recent ceremonies. Hammer received a certificate in accordance with academy policy. "But a spokesman said Wednesday that the academy's national committee has decided that Hammer should get an Emmy because his story was written exclusively for television. That policy will be followed in the future, the spokesman said."

Mass Murder Trial

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — A pathologist who "denuded" five victims in the Houston mass murders — disposes more cross examination by lawyers for Elmer Wayne Henry today. Dr. Joseph A. Fachinzycki, the medical examiner for Harris County (Houston) testified Wednesday that two of the 27 victims died of suffocation. He said gags were crammed in their mouths and their faces were covered with adhesive tape. Fachinzycki also told how a LuKin, Tex., pathologist, Dr. Jack Pruitt, missed three bullet wounds in one of the victims and certified that Homer Garcia, 15, died of strangulation.

St. Clair Requests Dean To Toll Of Hunt Money

WASHINGTON (AP) — John W. Dean III, who once said his most difficult problem was "how I could end this mess without mortally wounding the President," faces questioning in the impeachment proceedings he helped to initiate.

It was Dean's Senate testimony a year ago linking President Nixon with the Watergate cover-up that helped set the stage for the current inquiry by the House Judiciary Committee.

His testimony now has been requested by James St. Clair, chief of the defense of the defense of John D. Ehrlichman in the plumbers trial.

The jury of six men and six women hears final arguments today from defense and prosecution lawyers.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said Wednesday he will allow two attorneys for Ehrlichman to make a final appeal to the jury.

The closing arguments are expected to last about five minutes for two years before moving to the Justice Department early in the Nixon administration.

Funds To Re-Elect Nixon Tied To Expensive Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee says contributions to President Nixon's 1968 campaign were used to buy his wife expensive diamond earrings and may have financed thousands of dollars of luxury items for his Florida home.

The committee said its investigators also built a strong circumstantial case suggesting, but not proving, that C.G. "Bete" Rebozo, the President's closest friend, may have diverted for his own purposes at least part of a $100,000 contribution from billionaire Howard Hughes.

A White House spokesman called the report "warmed over baloney" based on "unsubstantiated allegations."

The 350-page report said investigators circumvented Rebozo's refusal to cooperate in furnishing requested financial statements by subpoenaing the records of Key Biscayne contractors who might have worked either for Rebozo or the President.

The effort produced information that in the 1968-1972 period Rebozo spent more than $60,000—much of it in $100 bills—for the President's benefit, buying such items as a 20-by-40 foot swimming pool, a fire-place, major architectural changes and a $1,200 pool table.

It also led to the discovery that Rebozo was using four separate trust accounts in his name but in that of his attorney, Thomas Wakefield, the report said.

Through these accounts money was channeled to buy diamond earrings for Patricia Nixon on her 60th birthday on March 22, 1972, it said.

Federal campaign law does not prohibit using campaign funds for personal expenses, but the Internal Revenue Service says any funds so used would have to be declared as taxable income for the individual involved.

President Nixon's income taxes for the years 1969 through 1972 do not list any such gifts. The earnings, containing 20 diamonds mounted in platinum, were ordered from New York jeweler Harry Winston and cost $5,500.

But the President paid only $569 with a personal check drawn on a Washington bank, the committee said. It said his secretary, Rose Mary Woods, supplied another $99.

The remaining $5,000 was supplied through the Rebozo-Wakefield trust accounts in the Miami area and most of that amount originated in the 1968 Nixon campaign, the report said.

It traced this complicated series of transactions: After the 1968 Nixon campaign, Rebozo closed out the account in his Key Biscayne Bank of the Florida Nixon for President Committee and transferred $6,000 to a special account in Wakefield's name. Small parts of that total were used to defray certain Nixon expenses and to pay certain expenses of John Caulfield, a White House investigator. The remainder—4,563—remained untouched for nearly three years.

It was then transferred to the trust account maintained in Rebozo's Key Biscayne Bank by Wakefield's law firm, and soon after channeled to the firm's account in the First National Bank of Miami.

On the same day, $5,000 was withdrawn from that account and used to buy a cashier's check made out to the New York Jeweler.

Rebozo told the committee an executive session that the monies remaining in the Florida Nixon for President account was owed him as payment for his expenses in the campaign. Investigators said they could not substantiate that point because Rebozo refused to provide the necessary documents.

The committee did not question Rebozo about the diamond earrings because, the report said, he had left the country and was traveling in Europe, unreachable by a subpoena. Rebozo has maintained in all his appearances that he is free of any misconduct or impropriety in relation to campaign funds.

Even though the committee has gone out of existence, Rebozo's attorneys are pursuing a court suit to enjoin the committee from pursuing its investigation of from seeking contempt of Congress action against him.

In its investigation in Key Biscayne, the committee found $45,821 in expenditures made for Nixon's benefit by Rebozo which were not reflected in Nixon's statements of assets and net worth reported last year by an accounting firm.

The report said that as much as $32,000 in currency, mostly in $100 bills, may have been involved and that from an analysis of Rebozo's financial position, the only large amounts of cash to which he had access were the $100,000 payment from Hughes and a $50,000 contribution from an executive of the Winn-Dixie Corp.

The report said that Rebozo had authority to draw on Nixon's personal account in the Key Biscayne Bank and that investigators could find no apparent reason other than consent of trust accounts to pay for improvements at the Nixon home.

Action Stalled On Fire Plan

CALNO County of Local Governments members representing six of Seminole's seven municipalities and the county commission have tabled action on County Fire Administrator Gary Kaiser's comprehensive master fire protection plan.

The plan calls for abolition of fire control districts throughout the county in favor of consolidation of protection into one unit in the unincorporated areas or consolidation of city county fire departments.

The hard-hitting 227-page study while noting the majority of fire protection in Seminole is provided by volunteers, states that many volunteers are "sometimes physically unable to safely perform firefighting activities or capable of being trained or educated in many firefighting skills and techniques."

Although Kaiser began his firefighting career as a youth volunteer with the Altamonte Springs department, he said "more often than not, such personnel create more problems than their assistance is worth."

Fire hazards from the flammable liquid storage tank farm at the Port of Sanford are pointed out in the report, emphasizing that in no fire department protection is available nor are the special equipment and extinguishing agents needed to combat flammable liquids fire available anywhere in the county.

Poor fire protection at the Sanford Airport is blasted. Kaiser said the "mechanically unreliable vehicles" at the base do not have minimum firefighting equipment and maintenance personnel to man the trucks and have very little firefighting training. "The effectiveness of the vehicle during crash firefighting operations is marginal," the report states.

The report is critical of public fire protection at both the Osteen Bridge Marina and the Holiday Isle Marina. Public protection is non-existent at the Oosten Bridge Marina and fire protection at the Holiday Isle Marina "does not reflect proper consideration of the potential fire loss," Kaiser said.

The CALNO group at its Aug. 7 meeting at Sanford city hall is to consider again Kaiser's study.

Wimberly Murder Trial Postponed

The first degree murder trial of a 28-year-old Sanford woman charged with the April 11 shooting of a 37-year-old Sanford field worker has been continued until August 19.

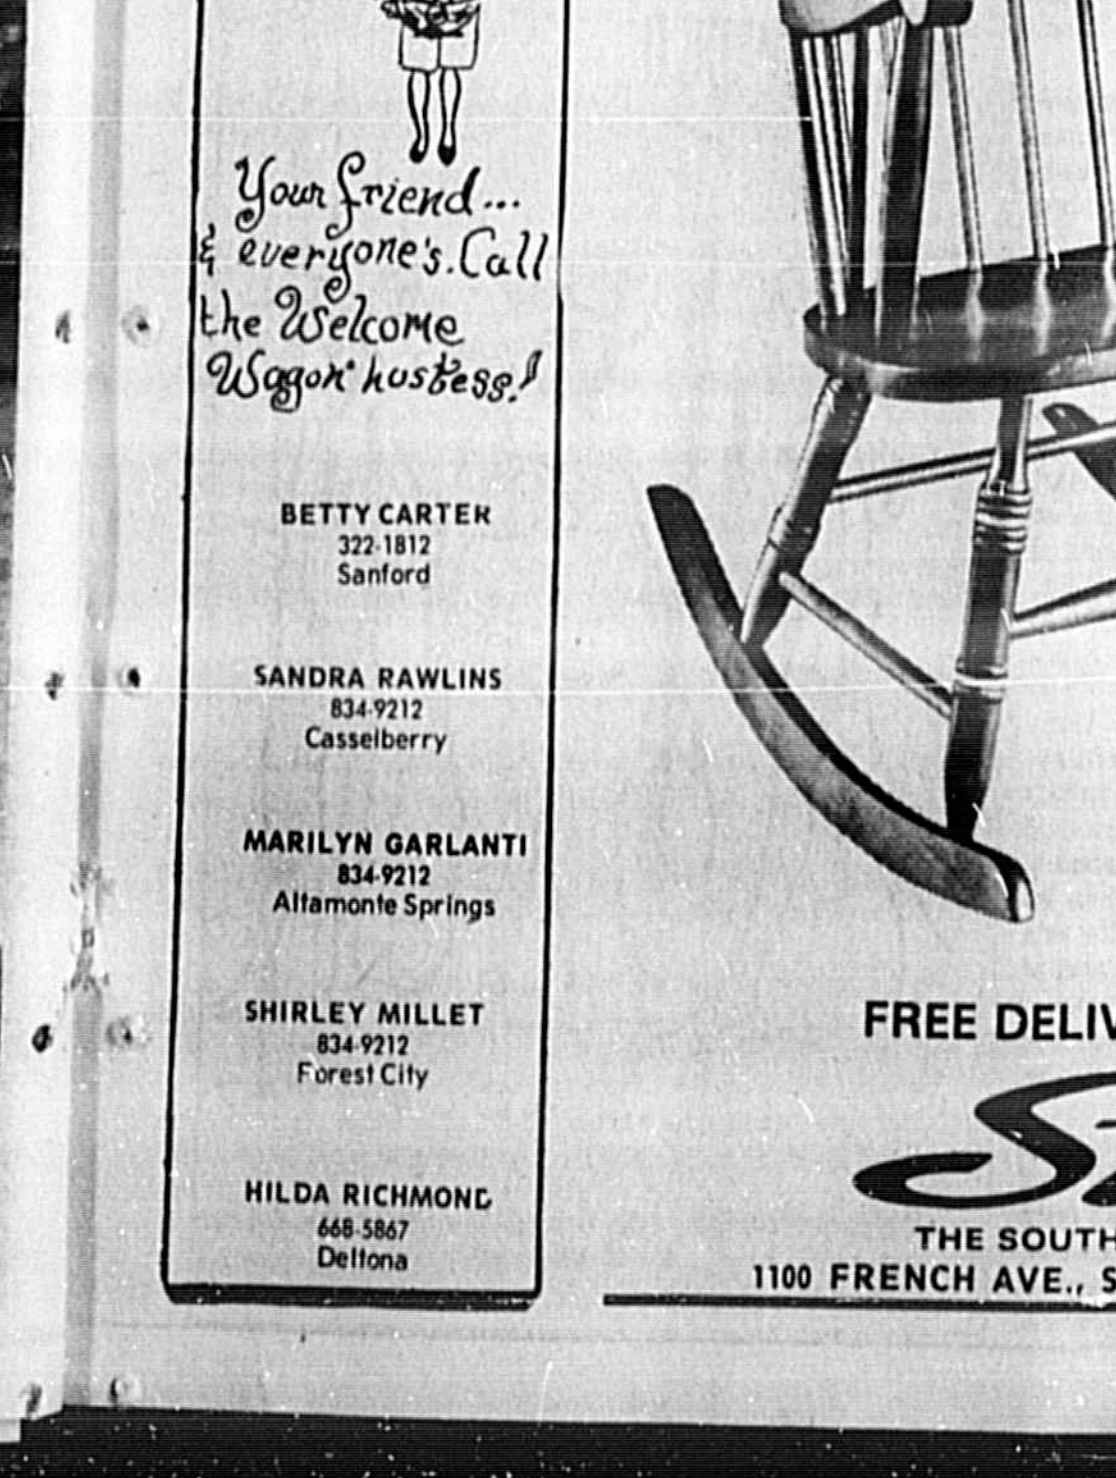

Circuit Court Judge Volle Williams granted the motion to continue trial of Leola Wimberly after Roger Berry, specially appointed public defender, told the court he had not had enough time to prepare a defense.

Mrs. Wimberly, of Apt. 30, Higgins Terrace, also faces charges of shooting into an occupied building and using a firearm in the commission of a felony.

She was arrested April 12, in connection with the death of Johnnie McGivany of Apt. 28 Higgins Terrace.

'Sloppy' WFL Blazers Singe Hawaiians, 8-7. Football Talks To Resume

By J. RICHARDS

TANGERINE BOWL, Orlando — There was a new trait "Blazed" here Wednesday night.

And if it seemed a pretty slim trait at first, that's probably because the Florida Blazers, in the World Football League only managed to slip by the Hawaiians 8-7 in the late stages of the game, before 18,825 fans rattled around in the 30,000-seat T-Bowl.

While the Blazers showed that "the new kid on the block" probably isn't ready to stand up to the real toughies of pro football, they at least know how to put their dukes up.

The Blazers capitalized on a third period Hawaii fumble for a seven-point — that's right, seven-point — touchdown and a slick point-after pass and then held off a determined fourth period Hawaii comeback to put some life into an otherwise lackluster first game performance.

In the WFL — dreamchild of California lawyer Gary Davidson — a touchdown is worth seven points and the extra point option to pass or run is worth one more.

Former NFL San Francisco 49er and New Orleans Saints' running back Jim Strong do over two defenders from three yards out scored Orlando's only touchdown after defensive tackle Paul Vellano pounced upon a Hawaii fumble only 10 yards from paydirt. Strong then took a nifty play — action pass from quarterback Bob Davis

That final time, however, Villano, who with linebacker Billy Hobbs had combined to stop the stoppers on the Hawaiians when it counted, blocked Gentry's 36 yard field

The Blazers, mostly on Strong's running in the last two minutes, were able to run out the clock.

Cooper Rollw, chairman of the charities, said the decision to call off the game—an action which will cost underprivileged Chicago-area youngsters about $200,000—was taken after the players' union failed to give "its full sanction" to the playing of the game.

Two days earlier, the collegians, trapped in the middle of the dispute, voted by a slim majority not to play unless the strike was settled by game day. They would have earned $250 apiece for playing.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the Players' Association, said the union "is sorry that the game can't be played, but the cancellation may bring about a quicker settlement of the contract dispute."

The 11-day-old strike involves "freedom issues" and the players' demands—43 contract demands in all—that the option clause, the reserve clause and other restrictive rules be wiped from the standard player contract.

The striking players' next target would seem to be the July 27 Hall of Fame Game between the St. Louis Cardinals and Buffalo Bills at Canton, Ohio. They have achieved their first success in a stated plan to prevent the NFL from staging any exhibition games.

STRONG BULLS WAY INTO END ZONE FOR BLAZERS
Hawaii's Hal Stringer bumps heads to no avail sharp with his passing. He completed only nine of 19 for 116 of his team's 174 total yards.

He blamed that partly on the humidity, which left the ball difficult to handle in the second half and the absence of an exhibition season.

"But if we win in Detroit next week, I'll bet you the T-Bowl will be packed when we come back," he said after his less than auspicious debut.

It was the defense, the thing Blazers watchers have said all along would be the team's salvation that pulled the game out in the final quarter.

For most of the first three periods neither team was much of a threat, but an 11-play, 81-yard march spanning the third

Stephenson Gets Nod At QB For Sharks Debut

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — Kay Stephenson, starting quarterback for the Jacksonville Sharks in their World Football League debut tonight, doesn't see why anyone should be surprised or apprehensive that he got the nod.

"I've played professional football before and I know what it's all about," Stephenson said as the Sharks ran through a polishing drill for their nationally televised game against the New York Stars.

Stephenson came up on top, backed by Sfoa and recently signed Kim Hammond.

In his college days at the University of Florida, Stephenson was second or third string. But Sharks head coach Bud Aker — who at that time was an NFL scout — signed Stephenson for the San Diego Chargers.

Stephenson was second to John Had to San Diego in 1967 but became a starter after being traded to Buffalo following year. An injury in an exhibition game in 1969 ended his NFL career, but he is fully recovered.

Stephenson will have another ex-Florida Gator, Tommy Duran, and ex-Gregg Bulldog Ricky Lake as running backs.

ROOKIE Eddie McShan of Georgia Tech was also impressive in practice. But a shoulder injury sidelined him.

Ali Says Foreman Fight Will Be His Last Bout

DEER LAKE, Pa. (AP) — Muhammad Ali says his Sept. 23 bout in Zaire with heavyweight champion George Foreman will be his last fight.

"This is my last fight," Ali said.

The last, win or lose? "Yep. But I ain't gonna lose." Six weeks ago in Louisville, Ali said he would fight after the Foreman bout. But in interviews at his training camp here over the past three days, the newspaper said, Ali repeatedly stressed his decision to quit after the September fight.

Pro Teams: More The Merrier Despite Poor Investment Claims

By RANDY COVITZ AND BILL SCHOOL

The troubled American Basketball Association offers testimony that widely expanding sports franchises are not necessarily a certain road to riches.

Third Part

Of ABA's 10 teams, half may be in trouble. One-on-one with the powerful, long-established National Basketball Association, the ABA has tried to compete by hiring superstars at fat salaries and bonuses.

But the ABA — or at least some of its franchises — may be where the bleak winds of economic reality first begin to cool the sports franchising fever. And the ABA's Memphis franchise is as good an example as any of how the rapid expansion of pro sports leagues has produced its share of misbegotten, sickly offspring.

In August, 1970, Mississippi real estate man P.L. Blake purchased the New Orleans Bucs and brought the team to Memphis.

The newly named Memphis Pros, however, received no advertising publicity and had no time for a season ticket drive. By Christmas, Blake realized he was losing too much money and bailed out, throwing the team into the league's lurch.

During the summer of 1972, Finley's refusal to invest any more money in the team and another last-place season resulted.

Today, the team remains for sale and Finley is trying to peddle it to Stax Records, a highly successful Memphis company. But until Stax is assured the league will be viable in the coming years, the franchise's future remains in doubt — exactly where it was in 1970. Outwardly, many officials

John Pinney Title On Line

TAMPA — The Southern Middleweight boxing title will go on the line tonight at Curtis Hixon Hall when John Pinney will be featured in a 10-rounder with Tommy Von Hatten of Fort Worth, Texas.

An immense Florida favorite, the undefeated champion Pinney will be making his first start since he blizzed Al Cook in just 17 seconds of the first round two months ago.

Prior to that he had annexed the Southern crown with a one-sided winner over former title holder Dennis Riggs. Von Hatten, a Golden Gloves amateur champ in his earlier days, comes into the contest with a strong record including victories over Eddie Davis and Augie Gomez, both locally known but respected boxers. He will give away eight to ten pounds to Pinney.

Vic Perez of Sanford will be shown in a six-rounder against Willie Chaney of Tampa in one of the preliminary bouts. It will be Perez's first fight since he was stopped on cuts by Joey Vincent in Orlando two months ago.

Atlanta Braves Weekend Baseball ON WTRR14

Many owners wonder about the quality of talent necessary to fill the rosters of 14 teams in six sports — nearly 1,700 players in pro football alone.

"There will be a definite impact on football quality, just as there has been in hockey, basketball and baseball," says Gerald H. Phipps of the Denver Broncos. "This year's draft had, we figured, only about a dozen or less absolute pro football linemen."

But Birmingham Americans owner Bill Putnam says, "There are more competent players available in football than in any other sport."

Memphis Southern owner John Basset adds, "Every year, 8,000 football players are good enough to get college scholarships, yet only about 150 make it in the NFL and Canadian League."

Bob Howsam, president of the Cincinnati Reds, sees a different situation in baseball.

"I think all our club-superstardom today have problems finding talent," he says. "I don't know where the talent for a new league would come from. I don't know where we would find harder times than we would in finding competent players."

Nevertheless, Sen Downey Jr. — founding father, commissioner and self-appointed first president of the World Baseball Association — apparently intends to borrow a page from Gary Davidson's WFL playbook. The idea is to raid the American and National Leagues.

"We've claimed recently," Downey says, "that we are all the same man. We may have to establish floating franchises to accommodate all the wealthy owners with big egos."

It's egos like that which keep driving more and more owners into the red, and more sports, despite a claim that not more than five of all the pro basketball clubs are making money. Or that Chicago Cubs had a profit of only $55,500 last year despite drawing 1,351,705 fans.

But hope springs eternal and now there are rumblings of a projected European-wide cage league called the International Basketball Association in the works for late this year, backed by a syndicate of American businessmen.

The beat goes on.

Blazers Lose Bergy To Philadelphia

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals have traded Bill Bergy to the Philadelphia Eagles in a National Football League transaction and his controversial World Football League contract has been revoked.

The Bengals and the Eagles made separate announcements of the deal. The Bengals will receive Philadelphia's first draft choice in 1976 and first and second choices in 1977.

"It was a difficult move to make, but we feel that it is in the best interests of all," Cincinnati Coach Paul Brown said.

Bergy, a 6-foot-3, 245-pound defensive back from Arkansas State, was the Bengals' second round draft choice in 1970. He had two years left on his contract with the Bengals when he signed a three-year pact with the Virginia Amlassadors, who have since become the Florida Blazers of the WFL.

Dodgers' Mike Marshall Really Human After All

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Everyone makes mistakes — even Mike Marshall.

The seemingly perfect relief pitcher of the Los Angeles Dodgers showed Wednesday night that he's only human while losing a 5-4 decision to the Philadelphia Phillies.

Marshall, who has been dazzling in the clutch this season, gave up the winning run on Dave Cash's single in the ninth inning — the first time he's lost in more than a month.

He had won 11 games in 14 decisions and posted 13 saves. In his last 18 appearances, Marshall had allowed just 10 earned runs in 37.2 innings.

In other National League games, the San Diego Padres trimmed the New York Mets 8-1; the Chicago Cubs blasted the Cincinnati Reds 11-3; the Atlanta Braves hammered the Pittsburgh Pirates 10-5; the San Francisco Giants turned back the Montreal Expos 4-3 and the Houston Astros nudged the St. Louis Cardinals 3-2.

Padres 8, Mets 1

Dave Winfield scored two home runs and Willie McCovey stroked a two-run single, leading Bill Greif and San Diego over New York.

Greif, 4-11, checked the Mets on seven hits, striking out five batters and walking three. He gave up a fifth-inning run.

Cubs 11, Reds 3

Chicago struck for three runs in the second inning and Andre Thornton slugged a three-run homer in a six-run eighth that carried the Cubs past Cincinnati.

The Cubs added single runs in the fifth and in the sixth.

Angels Can't Lose Today (They Aren't Playing)

By FRED ROTHENBERG AP Sports Writer

The California Angels will not lose today.

That's not a prediction, just a little present from the schedule maker.

The Angels have an off day today, which should not be confused with off days, which they've been having most of the season.

"Maybe a day off will help," said beleaguered California Manager Dick Williams. "I know it can't hurt us."

The Baltimore Orioles hurt the Angels Wednesday night, blasting them 9-1. It was the Angels' 11th straight loss, preserving their 9-for-July slump.

Ten of those losses have come under the command of Williams, who was lured back into baseball by a dollar sign and a lot of zeroes. Sanford's last two remaining hopes in sub district state title league playoffs were dashed Wednesday night as the Continental and American League all stars both tasted defeat.

Tuesday, the National League all stars were blitzed by St. Cloud, ending local competition in the post season tourney.

The Continentals lost to Kistimnee 13-3, and the American League fell to St. Cloud, 7-2.

The Continentals, 7-4 winners over Kistimnee American League all stars Tuesday, could muster only a home run and double from Billy Covrage and a two singles from Walter Law against their Kistimnee opponent.

Kistimnee jumped off to a six-run advantage in the second inning on a grand slam home run by Bob Lilly, walks and sloppy Sanford play, and came back with five more runs in the fourth and two additional runs in the fifth before allowing Sanford to score.

Covrage, who hit a grand slam home run in his district's first win in the sub teams' scoring double in the fourth inning, across Law, and later lofted a two-run homer in the sixth, with Mike Link on base.

advantage gained in the second and third innings when Bruce Annett and Lewis Von Herbulis scored on an error and a flincher's choice, respectively, lasted a long time but in the end wasn't worth much.

The St. Cloud team questioned on losing pitcher Bob Newman for seven runs in the fourth and two additional runs in the fifth before allowing Sanford to score.

John Pinney Title On Line

TAMPA — The Southern Middleweight boxing title will go on the line tonight at Curtis Hixon Hall when John Pinney will be featured in a 10-rounder with Tommy Von Hatten of Fort Worth, Texas.

An immense Florida favorite, the undefeated champion Pinney will be making his first start since he blizzed Al Cook in just 17 seconds of the first round two months ago.

Prior to that he had annexed the Southern crown with a one-sided winner over former title holder Dennis Riggs. Von Hatten, a Golden Gloves amateur champ in his earlier days, comes into the contest with a strong record including victories over Eddie Davis and Augie Gomez, both locally known but respected boxers. He will give away eight to ten pounds to Pinney.

Vic Perez of Sanford will be shown in a six-rounder against Willie Chaney of Tampa in one of the preliminary bouts. It will be Perez's first fight since he was stopped on cuts by Joey Vincent in Orlando two months ago.

Atlanta Braves Weekend Baseball ON WTRR14

Many owners wonder about the quality of talent necessary to fill the rosters of 14 teams in six sports — nearly 1,700 players in pro football alone.

"There will be a definite impact on football quality, just as there has been in hockey, basketball and baseball," says Gerald H. Phipps of the Denver Broncos. "This year's draft had, we figured, only about a dozen or less absolute pro football linemen."

But Birmingham Americans owner Bill Putnam says, "There are more competent players available in football than in any other sport."

Memphis Southern owner John Basset adds, "Every year, 8,000 football players are good enough to get college scholarships, yet only about 150 make it in the NFL and Canadian League."

Bob Howsam, president of the Cincinnati Reds, sees a different situation in baseball.

"I think all our club-superstardom today have problems finding talent," he says. "I don't know where the talent for a new league would come from. I don't know where we would find harder times than we would in finding competent players."

Nevertheless, Sen Downey Jr. — founding father, commissioner and self-appointed first president of the World Baseball Association — apparently intends to borrow a page from Gary Davidson's WFL playbook. The idea is to raid the American and National Leagues.

"We've claimed recently," Downey says, "that we are all the same man. We may have to establish floating franchises to accommodate all the wealthy owners with big egos."

It's egos like that which keep driving more and more owners into the red, and more sports, despite a claim that not more than five of all the pro basketball clubs are making money. Or that Chicago Cubs had a profit of only $55,500 last year despite drawing 1,351,705 fans.

But hope springs eternal and now there are rumblings of a projected European-wide cage league called the International Basketball Association in the works for late this year, backed by a syndicate of American businessmen.

The beat goes on.

Florida Cooperative Extension

QUESTION: I have heard that some companies are recalling hair sprays because they are dangerous. Do you have any information?

ANSWER: Food and Drug Administration reports that Chlor Incorporated and Bonat Incorporated have recalled certain of their hair sprays because they contain vinyl chloride, a chemical that has been linked to liver cancer.

QUESTION: Since the price of non-fat dry milk has increased so much does it pay to use it instead of homogenized?

ANSWER: Non-fat dry milk prices have increased along with those of other dairy products. But its use can still save from one-third to one-half on the milk bill.

QUESTION: Since the price of non-fat dry milk has increased so much does it pay to use it instead of homogenized?

ANSWER: Non-fat dry milk prices have increased along with those of other dairy products. But its use can still save from one-third to one-half on the milk bill. The cost of a quart of reconstituted dry milk varies, according to the size packages. Store brands are generally less expensive than nationally advertised brands. Dry milk in premeasured packets is more expensive than the type that must be measured from the package. Little skill or time is required for mixing non-fat dry milk. The crystals dissolve readily in cold water if sprinkled over the surface and given time to dissolve. Flavor improves with thorough stirring and a few hours refrigeration. Most people prefer mixing equal parts of dry milk with homogenized milk.

Instant non-fat dry milk can be kept at room temperature for several months. After mixing with water it will keep for several months. Since the price of non-fat dry milk has increased so much does it pay to use it instead of homogenized?

QUESTION: So many articles have been written about warming trays and food poisoning. I am a bit worried about the use of the slow-cooker crockpot. Many recipes call for long periods of barely simmering. Has this situation been studied?

ANSWER: We use 200 degree cooking temperature for crock pots. The internal temperature of the foods rise above 140 degrees within four hours. Since the heating elements are in the sides only, you will notice a ring of simmer bubbles around the walls. The heat transfer from the walls of the crockpot to the food at a fast enough rate to prevent bacterial growth. During the cooking period, all food reaches an internal temperature well above 185 degrees F. The minimum temperature established by the USDA and the Food and Drug Administration. This has been carefully checked and monitored currently, as well as the developing stages. All meats reach their required internal temperatures before final cooking time.

White Collar Criminals Frequent Allenwood Prison

EDITOR'S NOTE—Most of the Nixon aides jailed for Watergate crimes are serving their sentences at minimum security federal prisons like the one at Allenwood, Pa. It seems more like a big cattle ranch, a college campus or a boy's summer camp than a jail.

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
ALLENWOOD, Pa. (AP)—Former White House aide Jeb Stuart Magruder, now just No. 0652, is a popular guy on the tennis court at this federal prison camp that many jokingly call a country club.

It's an interesting place to visit, but still a jail, despite the unlocked doors. And inmates say Magruder's first day here a month ago when his wife walked away, leaving him alone in an alien atmosphere.

"He plays tennis every day after work," says a fellow prisoner. "He's a pretty good player, and two days a week he teaches some of the game..."

"He doesn't get special privileges. He tries to occupy his time, keeping busy. That's the only way to do your time."

George Thompson of Philadelphia, an inmate, says that when Magruder first arrived, "they worked his back off... It was unusual that they rode him so hard... They had him working in the kitchen peeling potatoes, and then later put him on pots and pans..."

Magruder is not on the indoor tennis court, or running in the sun, he works as a clerk—five days a week, 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m.—in the maintenance department office.

None of the buildings is air-conditioned, and they are hot in summer, despite fans. Windows can be opened for evening breezes.

There's little privacy in the sleeping quarters, where beds are lined up in rows. All are covered with khaki blankets. They can play handball, tennis, basketball, volleyball, baseball, softball, pool, ping pong. They can watch light paint. Movies are shown weekly.

The dorms are on a hill on the edge of the farm fields. In the distance one sees townfolk on the public golf course and the cattle grazing.

About 30 feet below the dorms, toward the main road, is the administration building, besides offices, the visiting room, the dining hall and kitchen, it houses a medical treatment room, a dental office, and a two-bed hospital room for emergencies.

"There's no doctor, though," says Frank Sojka, of New York. "Guys get heart attacks and die here. You get sick, you're in trouble..."

Magruder is typical of the white collar criminals here. Other include tax evaders, selective service violators, anti-war protesters, forgers, counterfeiters, embezzlers.

Weger emphasizes that Magruder, or any other celebrity, gets no special treatment.

"Everybody has to pull his own weight," he says. "Everybody has to do a job..."

Magruder reportedly has adjusted swiftly to his confinement, and has offered no excuses for his plight.

"He is very sociable, but he doesn't talk about the past," says Richard Henthorn, an inmate from Baltimore. "And he minds his own business..."

"A lot of people ask Magruder about Watergate," says Joseph Esposito, of Philadelphia. "You know what he replies? 'Why don't you ask Nixon?'"

The growing presence of the President's men, as prisoners, has focused national attention on Allenwood, a minimum security facility nestled near the Susquehanna River in central Pennsylvania's beautiful mountain and farm country. It is a mile off U.S. 19, adjoining a public golf course, 10 miles north of Williamsport and near 250 miles from Washington and the White House.

There are 22 camps in the nation, with 3,400 prisoners. Herbert W. Kalmback, the President's former personal lawyer and also a Watergate figure, will begin a six-month term for political campaign fund violations in Lompoc, Calif., where the U.S. Bureau of Prisons runs a camp similar to Allenwood.

Other are at Eglin, Fla.; Montgomery, Ala.; Safford and Florence, Ariz.; McNeil Island, Wash.; Leavenworth, Kan.; Terre Haute, Ind.; Springfield, Mo., and Marion, Ill.

Tagging Allenwood a country club, a plush place where the

Male Menopause Not Renaissance Either

NEW YORK (AP)—Men, like women, experience the pains of growing older, though without the same physical manifestations. Having gone through the change of his life, actor William Windom, who last appeared in the television special, "Male Menopause: The Pause That Perplexes," testifies that the advent of middle age is not necessarily traumatic.

"The transition to middle age is a short period. It seems 20 minutes," says the affable Emmy award-winning actor. In his 50 years Windom has earned distinction in the theater, playing roles from Shakespeare to Thurber.

On the big screen he has appeared in such roles as "To Kill a Mockingbird," "The Man" and "Brewster McCloy," and on the home screen in the highly acclaimed short-lived television series, "My World and Welcome To It" and "The Farmer's Daughter," a sitcom he'd rather forget. Most recently, he hosted the TV documentary examining the physical and psychological problems of the middle-aged man, produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television and aired by the Public Broadcasting System.

"As an actor, the only problem with middle age is that for the first 40 years of your life you're told by producers, 'Oh no, no, you're much too young for the part.' Then when you're 40, all you hear is 'Oh no, no, you're too old!'"

Discounting the professional handicaps that come with graying hair, Windom declares, "Middle age is great. I've got no problems at all. Every year is better. I've had no bad news since World War II. From then on it's all been bonus."

Windom compares middle age to running the track mile. "When I was in high school, he recalls with a smile, "I could run the mile in 5:15. Last year in Chattanooga I ran it again, only this time it took me nine minutes. That's middle age!" The smile reverted into a mock grimace.

"I'm much more secure now than I was when I was younger," he continues. "Time, experience, the service during the war and just meeting people who helped me to become secure by letting me see that other people are insecure. Any time you serve helps."

Windom has served his time. The stocky character actor, whose forte is comedy, began his career in 1945 playing Richard III to an audience of 8,000. "The best audience there is, next to students," he insists.

James Thurber replaced Shakespeare as the central figure in Windom's professional life. After forgettable roles in several forgettable film and television productions, Windom brought Thurber to television in 1969 in "My World and Welcome To It," an innovative program combining Thurber's humor with animation. American television audiences did not welcome the series and it was cancelled after a single season, but not before it won an Emmy award as best comedy series, and Windom one for his tour de force performance in the lead.

For the last year Windom has been touring the country in a one-man Thurber show which he compiled, produced and directed.
