Possible Sunshine Law Violation

County Warned On Voting Procedure

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

A memo will be sent to the Seminole County Commission advising the board its method of voting this week on certain federal projects may be in violation of the sunshine law, a spokesman for State Attorney Douglas Cheshire's office said today.

"It will be advising the commissioners their actions could possibly be in violation of the sunshine law," said Chris Ray, Cheshire's chief assistant in Seminole County. "The law is so all-encompassing, sometimes officials don't know they are in violation when they might be. They would have to know and intentionally take action in violation of the sunshine law to be guilty of a violation."

The question of whether the sunshine law might be violated was posed to Ray today after county commissioners, following the usual practice, cast votes on federally funded Comprehensive Employment Training Act (CETA) programs Tuesday by marking ballots favoring or disapproving the various programs. The votes were tabulated by Hank Newell, Manpower manager, and the results of the voting announced, but not how each commissioner voted on each item. The ballots and the votes cast by the individual commissioners were made a part of the record later.

"That method of voting probably constitutes a violation of the sunshine law," said Attorney General Frank Vickery from his office in Tallahassee. "The whole intent of the law is that a person should be able to be at the meeting and at that point know what is going on. According to opinions issued by our office, voting by ballot, without the individual votes being announced, is not proper," Vickery said.

The attorney general opinions referred to by Vickery included AGO 71-32 which states "if at any time during the meeting the proceedings . . . are not wholly exposed to the view and hearing of the public and news media, then that portion of the meeting becomes violative of the statutory requirement imposed by the phrase 'open to the public at all times.'"

Vickery also referred to AGO 73-344 in which the attorney general advised the public service commission to discontinue its practice of circulating vote sheets among the members so that voting could be done privately.

In addition he spoke to the Florida Supreme Court decision involving the "Town of Palm Beach" in which it was stated an "action which was taken in violation of the law is void ab initio (void from its beginning)."

"I don't believe the CETA programs of the past are voided by an unintentional act," Ray said today.

Meanwhile, County Commissioner Bob Sturm said it was not his intent, nor the intent of his colleagues, he believes, to violate any law by the ballot method of voting. "To avoid even a question, however, we should remove the technicality," he said, adding he does not object to voting on any of the projects publicly. "If we were to go over every project on a one-to-one basis, I would not change my votes any. Sometimes things are done for expediency.

It would not add an inordinate amount of time to the meetings, perhaps 10-15 minutes more to vote on each project," he said. Sturm noted he "prestudied" the projects and asked questions in advance about two or three projects. "The intent was clear. I marked my ballot in the view of the public and the votes were recorded," he said.

Commissioner Dick Williams said he doesn't "really believe the attorney general's opinion applies to marking a ballot when each commissioner's name appears on the ballot. "There was surely no intent to make anything secret and there was nothing secret in fact," he said.

Williams also pointed out that often the county's budget, as an example, is gone over in greater detail at workshop meetings of the county commission than few members of the public attend rather than at the official meetings. "When it comes time to vote on the budget there are many things various commissioners don't

Fire Destroys Unused Plant

The wall came tumbling down

The walls came tumbling down today when a fire that began at 6:58 a.m. destroyed the Rand Yard ice plant. Cause of the fire is under investigation by the Seminole County Fire Department, according to County Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser. The plant is located about a mile west of Sanford on Rand Yard Road.

Three fire units from Seminole County, assisted by a tanker from Lake Mary Fire Department providing mutual aid, were still on the scene late this morning trying to control the blaze.

"It is a difficult fire to control," said Kaiser, "as there is no water supply at the scene and water has to be trucked in."

An earlier fire last year had severely damaged the interior of the building and it was not being used at the time of this morning's fire.

"The ice plant was very well insulated, it was like a building within a building," said Kaiser. There were two exterior walls a foot apart and two roof layers with the four-foot space between filled with cork and heavy timbers making it difficult to put out a fire."

He said when the fire occurred last year more than 100,000 gallons of water were pumped in by relay from a lake and six pieces of equipment were used to fight the blaze for 12 hours "and it still didn't help much." — JANE CASSELL-BERRY

Gas 'Price-Gouging' In Sanford, Vicinity Set For DOE Probe

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

Federal investigators from the Department of Energy (DOE) have been called to Sanford to investigate the alleged pricing practices of Sanford area gas stations, DOE officials confirmed today.

The matter came to light when William Budzinski, 42, of Monroe Harbor, Sanford, contacted the energy department in Washington and told officials he suspected a Sanford discount station of price gouging.

Budzinski said today he decided to report the store to the DOE after he noticed the price of gas there had risen 9 cents in a 3-day period and said he considered that price gouging. Budzinski said he purchased gas at the station on April 3, a Tuesday. He said he bought the gas in the afternoon for 69.9 cents a gallon. The next morning he said, he returned to the store and the price of gas had risen to 74.9 cents per gallon. By Thursday he said the price was up to 78.9 cents per gallon. The store manager admits the prices were raised as Budzinski described, but he said the increases were not his doing, that he was ordered to make the increases by the chain's home office.

"I had no authority to make the increases. I just manage the store. They told me to raise the prices and I did. If I don't do what I'm told, I'd be fired," said the station operator.

However, his statements were refuted by the chain's headquarters. "There's no way we would give an order like that. We are strictly in line with the president's price guidelines," a spokesman with the chain's home office said.

The guidelines on gas prices set by the president earlier this month call for a base rate per gallon similar to that of May, 1978. The price of gas can be adjusted upward proportionate to increases in the wholesale price to the dealer, rent and utility increases plus a 3 cents per gallon increase for non-product cost increases to the dealer. The latter would include the cost of labor, Bill Webb of

K mart Opening Set

The 68,337 square-foot K mart discount department store on Orlando Drive in Sanford will open to the public at 10 a.m. May 17, according to the company's management.

The Sanford K mart will bring the number of K mart stores in Florida to 74 as the K mart Corporation continues its expansion of its stores in the state. On May 17 there will be a total of 1,837 K marts in the United States, Puerto Rico and Canada.

Sanford officials and top executives of the K mart Corporation will take part in a ribbon-cutting ceremony at the main doors of the department store immediately before opening.

Because record crowds of all ages are expected to participate in the grand opening, police have been asked to give special attention to the traffic on the streets surrounding the store during the first few hours of opening. This is for the safety of the motorists driving by.

Once a car is in K mart's parking lot there should be no congestion, company officials said.

The new K mart, selling nationally advertised products and backing all sales with a "satisfaction always" policy, will be a discount department store in its pricing policy.

Following are highlights of the merchandise the department store will carry: appliances; building tools; floor coverings; draperies; yard goods and sewing materials; women's fashions; men's, boys', girl's and infant's clothing; bedding; jewelry; camera supplies; books and records; pets and pet supplies, and health and beauty aids.

The K mart will have a complete automotive center with an auto music section featuring stereo tape players and tapes. The store will also feature a sporting goods department, a building materials department and a pharmacy.

More than 70 area residents will be given full-time employment when the new K mart opens, company officials said. Additional personnel will be hired part-time during holiday seasons. "A staff made up of entirely local people will assure that K mart is alert to all the needs of its new customers," a company spokesman said.

"The first K mart opened in a suburb of Detroit in 1962. Company management conceived K mart as a store selling top quality merchandise at a small profit to induce high volume. This concept brought immediate and overwhelming acceptance, resulting in the world's fastest growing mass merchandising chain," the spokesman added.

First Three Months Of 1979

Economy Slows Dramatically, May Help Inflation Fight

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The nation's economic growth slowed dramatically during the first three months of 1979 — since the first quarter of last year's final quarter, the government reported today — a development which may help the fight against inflation.

When the economy slows, inflationary pressures are eased.

The Commerce Department said the value of all goods and services produced in the United States — the Gross National Product — increased at an annual rate of 6.7 percent during the January-March period after adjustment for inflation.

It was the most sluggish performance for the GNP — value of the nation's goods and services adjusted for inflation — since the first quarter of 1978 and considerably below the 8.9 percent advance registered during the final quarter of last year.

The Commerce Department also reported that inflation during the first quarter rose at an 8.7 percent annual rate compared with 8.2 percent during the previous quarter. The small increase in economic output came as a surprise.

Several government officials, including Federal Reserve Board Chairman G. William Miller, have said publicly in recent days they expected economic growth to be about 2 percent or a little less during the first quarter.

But the new Commerce Department report said a sharp slowdown in retail sales held down overall growth.

In recent weeks, some members of the administration have been engaged in an internal debate over whether additional actions were needed to rein in economic growth in order to combat inflation.

Miller and President Carter have said they believe current policy already in place is sufficient to do the job.

But other officials, including Treasury Secretary Michael Blumenthal, disagreed.

They urged the Federal Reserve to tighten credit another notch, but Miller has so far refused.

The administration has predicted that economic growth during all of 1979 should be about 2.25 percent — a pace they believe is sufficient to make progress in the anti-inflation drive without the country lapsing into a recession.

But the slower-than-expected growth rate during the first three months of the year may change that scenario.

The way New York Congressman Jack Kemp sees it, blaming inflation on rising prices and wages is like blaming the rain on wet streets.

The essential truth of Rep. Kemp's spending, Rep. Kemp does not, of course, excuse moderate wage and price hikes.

The new Teamster contract with the trucking industry calls for a three-year, wage-and-benefit increase of just over 30 percent — a significant violation of the president's seven percent a year guideline.

For purely political reasons, the White House chose to interpret the terms of the new contract as being in accord with Mr. Carter's anti-inflation policy.

Actually, there are grounds for at least a little satisfaction at the White House. Three years ago, the Teamsters negotiated a 35 percent increase in a less inflationary economy.

But by late March, after Iran resumed oil exports, DOE officials were privately circulating — and endorsing — Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) figures showing that worldwide oil production actually increased during the first two months of 1979.

According to the CIA estimates, total oil production rose from 87.5 million barrels a day in 1978 to 88.1 million barrels a day this year.

Mr. Carter might best encourage compliance by curbing his own government's deficit financing and thus reducing the pressure for labor contracts that violate the seven percent policy.

As for the president's wage and price guidelines, Mr. Carter might best encourage compliance by curbing his own government's deficit financing and thus reducing the pressure for labor contracts that violate the seven percent policy.

Having passed income-tax deadlines, recent news stories about pensions, personal staffs and office allowances for former Presidents Richard Nixon and Gerald Ford didn't exactly gladden the average taxpayer's heart.

True enough, there were some extravagant echoes from the former days of glory, such as five color television sets for Mrs. Nixon and $2,343 for plants to grace Mr. Ford's personal office.

While Schlessinger was telling a Senate committee that such closings "may be a necessity by summer," DOE officials were reading a report which concluded that the measure would only produce longer service station lines on other days of the week and would conserve little gasoline.

That our two former presidents are both Republican may fuel some transitory partisan resentment. But we can expect even this to dissipate when Jimmy Carter joins their ranks.

Meanwhile, although Washington concedes an annual loss of perhaps as much as $6 billion to waste and fraud, former presidents would do well to avoid excessive spending, such as $2.43 on plantings for an office.

I've just come to a disturbing realization. I know more about Margaret Trudeau than I do about Canada.

In addition, Grace Kehrer, executive director of Seminole County Youth Services System, says many have said they heard about it too late to become involved this year, but are anxious to be included next year.

ANGLE-WALTERS Scorn, Contempt Justified?

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Although President Carter is offering new initiatives to resolve the nation's energy problems, nothing has changed with the discredited bureaucracy that is responsible for administering the White House program.

The Department of Energy (DOE) and its two highest ranking officials, Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger and Deputy Secretary John F. O'Leary, have become objects of scorn and derision in this capital.

Much of the contempt toward them unfortunately is justified. Consider their performance during the most recent energy crisis, the political instability in Iran during the initial months of this year.

Item: Schlesinger repeatedly claimed that the temporary cessation of Iranian oil production during January and February was producing a world petroleum shortfall of 2 million barrels per day.

The most notable endorsement of that estimate came from the multinational oil corporations, which said the figure actually was 2 1/2 million barrels daily.

But by late March, after Iran resumed oil exports, DOE officials were privately circulating — and endorsing — Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) figures showing that worldwide oil production actually increased during the first two months of 1979.

According to the CIA estimates, total oil production rose from 87.5 million barrels a day in 1978 to 88.1 million barrels a day this year.

Item: Schlesinger also repeatedly claimed that the halt in Iranian exports produced a shortfall in the United States amounting to 500,000 barrels a day and creeping toward 800,000 barrels a day.

But in late March, O'Leary told a House committee that there actually hadn't been any unanticipated shortages in this country.

Schlessinger was referring only to a mythical "statistical shortage," his deputy explained.

O'Leary also used that occasion to praise an "entirely prudent" major oil corporation's decision to "hush-hat and safeguard" large oil inventories.

Item: Schlesinger regularly told congressional committees during January and February that the loss of Iranian production could require mandatory rationing of gasoline on Sundays or even entire weekends.

However, a study commissioned by Schlesinger's own department showed that closing gas stations on weekends was the most wasteful of eight possible energy-saving measures under consideration.

While Schlesinger was telling a Senate committee that such closings "may be a necessity by summer," DOE officials were reading a report which concluded that the measure would only produce longer service station lines on other days of the week and would conserve little gasoline.

He adds that the 1980 official poverty estimate left to stand on its own.

It is unusual for the original draft of a bill to be watered down before it is even presented to the appropriate committee for hearings.

When those "in-kind" goods and services are awarded prizes and added to the real income of the poor, Paglin says, the $14.1 billion estimated to close the poverty "gap" goes down to $4.1 billion.

Dependent Children Increase Reported

By MELANDE EDMISTON Herald Correspondent

The need for a group home in Seminole County for dependent children was presented by Tom Weinberg, Health and Rehabilitative Services Single Intake Supervisor, Tuesday night at a Task Force meeting held at HRS offices in Live Oak Center, Casselberry.

The Task Force, which held its organizational meeting last month, was formed with the goal of actively recruiting temporary and foster placements for dependent children and establishing a group home.

by the court a) to have been abused; b) to have been neglected by their parents or guardians; c) to have been surrendered to the department or a licensed childplacing agency for the purpose of adoption; d) to have persistently refused to attend school; e) to have persistently disobeyed the reasonable and lawful demands of their parents or other legal custodians and to be beyond their control.

"I had no idea the increase was that dramatic," remarked Circuit Judge Kenneth Leffler.

According to John Hoar, social worker for HRS Foster Care Unit, community awareness of child abuse has increased, as well as the county population, but not necessarily the incidence of child abuse.

"Seminole County is the 'bedroom' for many people working in Orange County and there are more young families with young children moving into the area. Thus we will have more reports of child abuse," said Stephen Shacowski Jr., one of six persons drafting a plan to develop a residential group home. He is service network manager for HRS.

Currently there are not enough shelter beds to accommodate pre-school and school age dependent children in Seminole County. Some pre-school age children are being placed in Orange County residential facilities, according to the report.

This makes it difficult for visitation by the parents, and counselors and medical workers according to Weinberg.

According to a report the lack of adequate placement homes for short term residential care for Seminole County results in increased incidents of abuse and neglect of children who must remain in their own homes. Lack of respite care allows a "cooling off period" between parent and child continues — to further deterioration in the parent-child relationship and hinders rehabilitation, the report said.

"Because of incidents of running away and acting out behavior, more of these children find their way into the juvenile justice system, the report states.

"By law we are required to protect the children, but because of the lack of placements, I'm afraid some legal children should be out of their homes are not placed," said Margaret Anderson, direct service supervisor with HRS.

"The first thought is 'Oh my God, where are we going to put them?'"

"The temporary home parent and foster parent are the unsung heroes," said Mrs. Barbara Stafford, supervisor of the foster care unit, Seminole County. "Often it takes six to 14 months to reunite the parents with the children and sometimes we are never able to."

Jim Wilson of the Palms Counseling Center, who formerly ran a group treatment home, said, "For every foster care and shelter care worker a set of relief parents is needed. Tolerance levels are stretched when parents work 24 hours a day, seven days a week with no relief."

A shelter parent from Sanford, who became involved several years ago and opened her home to five dependent teenagers said her emotions have "run the gamut." She admitted that the 24-hour day with no relief is often too much for her and she must insist on some relief occasionally, "but not without feeling guilty."

The demands of being on call 24 hours a day seven days a week presents a real problem for private home shelter

"We are a service-oriented family," said the shelter parent, "or we wouldn't be involved, but there are times when I say, 'Oh, Lord! There must be a better way to go than this!' With some of their backgrounds, I'm amazed these kids turn out to be anything."

"If we are to succeed in getting a group home, we're going to need the participation from the public sector and get the community business people involved," said Weinberg.

Any persons interested in becoming a placement home or organizations interested in helping to develop a group home in Seminole can call Barbara Stafford at 339-8200, Weinberg said.

Question Of Poverty

By ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most of us have heard that classic example of making the most of adversity: the story about the kid who killed his parents and then pleaded with the judge for mercy because he was an orphan.

That kind of logic appears to have been followed in a newly published study of poverty in the United States.

Morton Paglin, a professor of economics at Portland (Oregon) State University, has come up with figures that show there were only 7.8 million Americans living in poverty in 1975 in contrast to the 25.9 million so classified by the government.

The difference, Paglin says in an article published in the journal of the conservative Heritage Foundation, is that government statisticians have failed to account for the value of "income" in the form of goods and services given free or at reduced cost to the poor by the government.

There is no reason to argue with Paglin's figures. It is possible to argue, however, that reasonable values on the food, housing and health care assistance received by low income Americans.

When those "in-kind" goods and services are awarded prizes and added to the real income of the poor, Paglin says, the $14.1 billion estimated to close the poverty "gap" goes down to $4.1 billion.

It is a good guess that most taxpayers do not accept tallied assistance on the long range answer to the poverty problem.

Americans stand still (with increasing impatience) for a redemptive political and social fantasy. It was instinctively opposed by the old regimes and struck instinctively sympathetic chords among the populations of many countries.

of 39.5 million people was a lot closer to reality than current figures because the government was giving the poor a lot less "in-kind" aid than Paglin's main conclusion seems to be that the official poverty population figures have confused the situation by making the problem look worse than it is.

What that depends on what is defined as the problem.

One perfectly valid way is to count the people who are not getting adequate nutrition, housing and health care. That is the group Paglin counted and the one he says is the actual poverty population.

Another way to define the problem would be to measure the number of people whose cash income does not provide the minimum necessities. That is what the official figures show and there are plenty of people who believe that is the important measurement.

Why? Because that $13 billion of "in-kind" income paglin says the poor are getting comes from somewhere. It comes from the government — and the government gets the cash to buy it from the taxpayers.

It is a good guess that most taxpayers do not accept tallied assistance on the long range answer to the poverty problem.

To the contrary, it was fundamentally a redemptive political and social fantasy. # COUNTY IN BRIEF

Orlando Firm Wins Contract On County Highway Programs

Watson and Co., with offices in Orlando, was selected by county commissioners Tuesday as the firm which will conduct on-going consultation work on county highway programs.

Commissioner Kirchhoff, who made the motion naming Watson and Co., said his choice was based on the fact a former assistant county engineer from a neighboring county, currently employed by the firm, will be working with Seminole on the projects.

A total of 15 firms were considered for the job with three of the 15 recommended by a special selection committee. The two other favored firms were Howard Needles Tammen and Bergendoff of Orlando and Stotter Stage and Associates of Cape Canaveral.

The public works department is to negotiate a contract with Watson and Co.

Delay On Osceola Request

Commissioners took no action Tuesday on a request from Osceola County to join with them in seeking legislation to give counties the fourth cent of gasoline tax money to maintain former city roads which now must be maintained by the county, according to state law.

Commissioners decided to take a wait and see position after County Engineer Bill Bush said the first four cents of gasoline tax money is used by the state Department of Transportation as matching funds for federal dollars for all highways in Florida.

"My initial reaction," Bush said, "is that this is the wrong way to go." Commissioner Sandra Glen told commissioners that the state Association of County Commissioners at its recent conference in Jacksonville favored the Bush position.

Paving, Drainage Delayed

Paving and drainage programs in the disadvantaged areas of Lockhart and Winwood Park, near Altamonte Springs, both of which are being financed through federal grants, may not be completed during the current fiscal year to end Sept. 30.

Public Works Director Jack Schuder told commissioners engineering for the projects, being done by consultants, will not be completed until late June, making it nearly impossible to include the work in the county's road building and drainage schedule during the remaining months of the fiscal year.

The county has been using the federal money to purchase materials for the other federally funded projects in disadvantaged areas within the county, including Midway, Bookertown, Jamestown and Johnson Hill, while using county labor and equipment to stretch the dollars.

Schuder said if the projects must be completed in this fiscal year the work would have to be contracted out to private enterprise, meaning less work would be available for the money. The federal government has threatened loss of the federal money unless the work is done as promptly as possible.

Jury May Investigate Space Problems

By GEO FREY POUNDS Herald Staff Writer

The spring term of the Seminole County Grand Jury may be asked to investigate the use of office space in the county courthouse, state attorney Doug Cheshire said today.

Cheshire said that while the spring jury was being charged Tuesday, Circuit Judge Volie Williams indicated from the he hoped the jury would look into the space situation at the courthouse. Judge Williams could not be reached for comment.

Last week, Cheshire told the county commissioners he intends to proceed with a suit filed in circuit court against seeking additional space in the county building for his staff. It was reported by Chris Ray, chief assistant state's attorney, that more than 22 lawyers and staff members of the state's attorney's office occupy six offices in the courthouse. He said the total space of the offices comes to about 3,800 square feet. He said 6,000 square feet of space is needed to accommodate the staff. Those persons called to serve on the spring grand jury are:

Foreman Herman Gene Gossett, 1908 Blossom Lane, Maitland; Vice Foreman Rebecca Knight Swartz, 2013 Hawkins Ave., Sanford; Clerk Dorothy S. Downey, 910 Spruce Valley Road, Altamonte Springs; Alternate Clerk Jana Rogers Weiner, 960 Waverly Drive, Longwood; Thomas Leon Ballew, 407 Murphy Road, Winter Springs; Dorothy Mae Borkoski, 510 Avenue, E. # Experts Answer Questions On Testing

Why are elementary students only tested in the fourth and ninth weeks of school? How much money is being spent on levels testing in terms of computer programming time? A panel of experts will answer questions and more tonight concerning the procedures involved in these testing elementary children in the Seminole County public schools. The information session will be held at 7:30 p.m. at the Community United Methodist Church on 17-92, Casselberry.

The panel will include Seminole County Superintendent of Schools William Layer; Bob Hughes, principal of Sabal Point Elementary School; Dr. Robert Rothberg, a professor of education at the University of Central Florida and Jan Fensch, a second grade teacher at Lawton Elementary School. Circuit Judge Dominic

Salfi will serve as the moderator.

The levels test are administered to students in grades one through five to determine their progress in language, reading and math. The levels testing program which was conducted this year for the first time on a county wide basis, replaces the traditional system of promotion from one grade to the next.

In a recent survey conducted by the Seminole Education Association (SEA), 80 percent of the Seminole County elementary teachers school who responded said a county-wide levels testing program does not effectively serve the students' needs.

Approximately half of the county's elementary school teachers responded to the survey. The survey, however, did not ask teachers to name specifically why the levels testing is not effective. — SHARON CARRASCO

LEADING FOR THE CAPITOL

Twenty-nine fourth and fifth grade students from the Enrichment Center at Idylwild Elementary School left by bus and cars this morning for a trip to Tallahassee. The youngsters, from Seminole elementary schools, were accepted for the program because of their exceptional ability. They come to the Center one day a week for special classes. The students will visit the Florida Museum and then travel on to Tallahassee to visit the Governor's Mansion, the State Capitol, and the Florida Supreme Court. They will also visit in the gallery of either the House or Senate.

PTSA President Takes Sex Ed Stand

Ostrich Image Won't Solve Problem

By ELDA NICHOLS Herald Correspondent

"I don't think we can afford to act like an ostrich with our head in the sand and pretend a problem doesn't exist," said Diane Falstad, president of Lake Brantley High School PTSA.

Discussing the controversial family living sex education program being proposed for county schools, Diane emphasized that the entire PTSA Board at Lake Brantley, as well as the Advisory Board, have all taken a pro stand on the issue.

"Apparently the mental health centers, churches and family are not meeting the need for family life education.

take a stand. There are many people who have moved here from other states where the program is already in the schools. We think the program would help students to cope, and to better deal with the rapidly changing moorings of our time, in the physical, psychological and environmental phases."

Diane and her board have had a busy year in other directions also. Contending with the non-accreditation of Lake Brantley, the only high school in the county now in that category, a book drive has been going on all year.

"We needed 9,000 additional books to become accredited. People have been wonderful. Our book drive has been very successful. Of course, some of the books we can't use, but we recently had a book sale in the Winter Park Mall and will clear close to $1,000. This money, and any other money we raise, will go toward the purchase of needed books. It was strange, at the Winter Park Mall, people would buy books and see what we were trying to do. More and more books kept coming in and we just couldn't run out of books! Any of these excess books that can be sold will be clear excess profit," she explained.

Because of the overcrowding situation at Lake Brantley, the school will be on double sessions next fall.

"However, we hope to have all the book and space problems under control by the time the accreditation team comes to check next October," she said.

With problems bringing the PTSA members together Diane also credits the school administration with full cooperation. "Our principal, Darwin Booth, and all the others, have sat down and really worked on the problems with us. In the book drives we had a group of about 25 steady workers, plus many more, who really did a lot of hard work. We actually received about 18,000 books. Do you know, there was even a Scout Troop in Winter Haven collecting books for us, and a Lyman High School boy, as a Diane Falstad keeps close check on donated books.

'It would be up to the students and their parents if they would choose to take the course.'

I believe our educational system should address itself to the problem. We would like to see all schools mandated to offer the course, but we would also make sure that students are not mandated or forced to take the course. It would be up to the students and their parents if they would choose to take the course," she said.

After attending all of the recent school board meetings on the subject, Diane said, "We felt it was important to to have this completed before school's out," said Diane. With two children in Lake Brantley and two in College, Diane has become deeply involved in school activities. "It's work, yes. But we've had such good support and such wonderful volunteers. I've never seen an area where parents care so much about their students' schools!" she said.

Other PTSA officers include: first vice president, Fannie Griffin; second vice-president, Darwin Booth; secretary, Dottie Nutt; treasurer, Dick Innan; program chairman, Shirley Gurgard; ways and means, Paula Putnam; and publicity, Susan Behel.

The Advisory Board consists of Jeanne Glick, Rona Coplan and Dr. Jim Zentile.

Curious Complains Church's Money Hit Has To Be A Racket

DEAR ABBY: I am a young clerkman, new in the community and eager to do the best job possible.

I am told that a few years back you had an excellent answer for someone who wrote in complaining that every time he turned around the church hit him for money.

The writer asked you what the church did with all the money.

If you can find that letter, I would be most grateful if you ran it again. TENNESSEE PREACHER.

DEAR PREACHER: I found it. And here it is:

DEAR ABBY: We are not overly religious people, but we do like to go to church once in a while. It seems to me that every time we turn around in church we are hit for money. I thought religion was free. I realize that churches have to have some money, but I think it is getting to be a racket. Just what do churches do with all their money?

DEAR CURIOUS: Even priests, ministers and rabbis must eat. Since they work full time at their tasks, the churches must support them. Staff, professional choir members and musicians must also be paid. Buildings must be maintained, heated, lighted and beautified. (And, of course,

PROGRAM HELPS PAY MORTGAGE

I have placed newspapers under high chairs with all my children and now my five grandchildren, and I've never had any complaints until now. Am I out of line? Or is my daughter-in-law SOCORRO, N.M.

DEAR SOCORRO: She is. And you may place THIS under the baby's high chair.

DEAR ABBY: I wish to say a few words in defense of newspaper carriers who distribute Charismatic cards. Some people seem to think the cards are a hint for a tip. I have three children who have had paper routes for several years. At first, they put the paper on the porch of every subscriber, but found that fewer than 10 percent tipped for the extra service, so now they porch only the elderly and the disabled.

GREELEY, COLO.

DEAR GREELEY: Most newspapers ask their carrier boys to "porch" deliver papers as a matter of course, not as "extra service." To expect tips for such routine service is out of line.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get them all your chest. For a personal reply write to: Abby, Box 69706, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. Please enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Court Reinstates Write-In Vote

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — The State Supreme Court ruled today that the complete elimination of write-in candidacies in Florida elections is unconstitutional. To fill the gap while the Legislature corrects the situation, the court reinstated written provisions in existence before the Legislature rewrote the election code in 1977.

The ruling did not help the potential write-in candidate whose protest generated the decision.

It is too late for Lee W. Smith, who sued to become a write-in candidate for Congress on the Socialist Workers ticket in the November, 1978, election.

Smith, a Miami, sought to run against Congressman William Lehman, who was reelected without opposition.

Webb said that his department has received 4,827 reports of suspected price gouging by gas stations nationwide. He said there have been 230 reports by consumers in Florida. He said there are currently investigations underway in Central Florida.

Budninski said he was assured by DOE officials that the situation in Sanford would be investigated. And Webb confirmed DOE would look into the matter.

Webb said at least two stations in Florida already have been found to be in violation of the pricing guidelines after investigations were conducted by auditors.

Webb said when a complaint is received, the regional DOE office in Miami contacts the station reported.

Rotaract Man-Of-The-Year Got His Steak, Then Some

By JANE CASSELLERY
Herald Staff Writer

Pat Nealls couldn't make Sanford Rotaract Club's annual banquet at Mayfair Country Club. But he had a good excuse, he was "tied up."

He got his steak anyway. It was delivered Thursday morning to Seminole Memorial Hospital, where he was in traction recovering from injuries received in an auto accident three weeks ago.

Along with the steak came another surprise. Nealls was presented with a plaque by Tom Hunt, president of the Sanford Rotary Club naming Nealls Rotaract Man-of-the-Year. Hunt was accompanied by Rotaract President Eddie Helms and Past President Gary Vogel.

The Man-of-the-Year recipient is selected by a vote of the members of Sanford Rotaract, a young men's service organization affiliated with Rotary International, and is presented by the Sanford Rotary Club president.

Vogel and Helms wanted everyone to know the selection of Nealls was not just a "sympathy vote."

"It has nothing to do with the accident," they agreed, "but he was chosen because of his exemplary service all year long and the way he lives up to the ideals of Rotaract," both men said.

Fast secretary of the club, Nealls helped in Rotaract's "Rent-A-Steak" project, was in charge of the croquet tournament sponsored by Rotaract in the Golden Age Olympics and was involved in helping the Central Florida Zoo and other local service projects.

"He was one of those people who was always there when there was something to be done," said Vogel. Nealls joined the club 2 1/2 years ago.

Nealls said his doctor told him "no work for a minimum of four months" as his active job requires him to be on his feet all day.

Delighted as he was to receive the Man-of-the-Year award, there is something Nealls values even more. The walls of his hospital room are covered with colorful paintings and get-well wishes made for him by admirers at the children's home.

"I love those kids. They're great!" he said.

Extra Student Bus Sought For Lake Brantley High

When the split session begins this fall, students who elect to take a sixth subject at Lake Brantley High School may be walking home to do it.

A group of concerned parents, students and teachers say they will attend the Seminole County School Board meeting Wednesday to request an extra bus be provided for students involved in extra-curricular activities at the high school, said Diane Falstad, president of the high school Parent-Teacher-Student Association (PTSA).

Bus service is presently planned for students taking five subjects next year but there is no assurance that students taking six subjects can have bus transportation," Mrs. Falstad said.

"It's unfair and discriminatory against those students whose parents must work and can't provide transportation," Mrs. Falstad contends. "Many parents can't afford to buy and maintain an extra car for their high school children. And the situation will probably worsen with gas prices going up."

Beginning this fall, juniors and seniors at Lake Brantley High School will attend a five-hour morning session from 7 a.m. to 11:55 a.m. and freshmen and sophomores will attend a five-hour afternoon session from 12:15 p.m. to 5 p.m. at the school at 975 Sand Lake Road in south Seminole County.

The split session is one solution sought, high school officials say, to cope with its rising enrollment until the new Lake Mary High School is completed in December, 1980.

But Mrs. Falstad and other members of the PTSA fear students may discontinue taking a sixth subject because no bus service is provided to take them home.

According to 1978-79 enrollment figures, 800 high school students elected to take six subjects instead of the required five, Mrs. Falstad said. The high school is presently taking six subjects in the fall, she said.

If bus service is not provided for these students, they may elect to drop out of their extra classes and create havoc not only for themselves, but parents and guidance counselors, too, Mrs. Falstad said.

"My husband and I are active in Band Boosters and we worry about what will happen to our Lake Brantley Band Program if some students are unable to take six subjects," said Sheila Lyman, one of those who said she will be at the board meeting.

"Many of the good band students will want to take five heavy academic subjects to meet college requirements," Mrs. Lyman said. "If they have to drop one of the six subjects, band will probably go."

Judy Reehberger, a teacher at the high school, said, "It discriminates against the more ambitious student by not providing bus transportation for the student electing to take six subjects. If this is allowed to happen in our school, it may establish a precedent for other schools. Special programs in a band curriculum could be severely limited not only for Lake Brantley but for other schools in Seminole County."

Rock Concert Hope: Plans Dashed Again

By GEOFFREY POUNDS
Herald Staff Writer

Plans for a June 10 rock concert in Sanford that were dashed once before due to opposition from the Sanford Elks Club were dealt another blow today when the promoters of the concert failed to gain sponsorship from the Seminole Sunrise Kiwanis Club.

Club president George Willis said his club couldn't sponsor the concert because the club's charter prohibits cooperation in any event where alcoholic beverages would be sold.

Julian Stromstrom, club board member, said representatives from Country Club Productions, promoters of the concert, today met with club members to discuss the possibility of sponsoring the concert. Stromstrom said the board took no action on the request, pending a check to see whether sponsorship of the concert would violate the club charter in any way.

Willis said a review of the club charter did indicate sponsorship would not be possible. However, he said the club's action in no way reflects a negative view of the promoters' plan. He said the club was simply prevented from any action because of its charter.

Barbara Greenway and Nikki Thomas, Country Club Productions representatives, told the Sunrise Kiwanis they would like to turn the proceeds of the concert — which they estimate would come to between $2,000 and $3,000 — to the club which is developing a recreational park on a 10-acre lot south of 8th Place just east of Sanford Avenue.

"This is a nice group of young people planning this thing," Stromstrom said. "The problem we might have with our charter is that we understood there may be alcoholic beverages sold at the concert and we'll have to see if that is permissible."

In March, Miss Greenway and Stromstrom met with club members to discuss the possibility of sponsoring the concert. Stromstrom said the board took no action on the request, pending a check to see whether sponsorship of the concert would violate the club charter in any way.

No Treatment, Suit Alleges Winter Springs Sued In Woman's Death

By SHARON CARRASCO
Herald Staff Writer

McGraw is asking for more than $100,000 in punitive damages.

In the suit, McGraw stated his late wife, was involved in an auto accident at SR 434 and Sheeah Blvd. in Winter Springs on Sept. 29, 1978.

As a result of the accident, Mrs. McGraw suffered serious internal injuries but she never received medical attention from city employees, McGraw contends. Mrs. McGraw died early the next morning, he said.

According to the civil suit, Mrs. McGraw's death was proximately caused by the aggravation of and failure to treat injuries to her head and body which she received as a result of the collision.

Besides Winter Springs, other defendants named in the civil suit include: Iowa National Mutual Insurance Co., the city's insurance company; L. Edgar E. Smart Jr. of the Winter Springs Police Department and Scott Kenneth, certified first aider and assistant fire chief for Winter Springs.

Immediately following the car accident, McGraw said his wife was issued a traffic citation or may have stopped driving under the influence of an alcoholic beverage. Both Smart and Kenneth arrived at the scene, he said.

Mrs. McGraw was taken into custody by Winter Springs police and administered a breathalyzer test at the police department, he said. His wife, failed the test, he said.

She was then transported by Smart to the Seminole County Jail where she remained for several hours without receiving medical treatment, McGraw said.

When he picked up his wife, McGraw claims he was told she had received medical care and attention and had suffered no physical injuries due to the auto collision.

At approximately 8 a.m. the next day, McGraw said, his wife died.

"Smart knew or should have known that she presumably received or may have received serious injuries as a result of an auto collision that was the reason for her arrest and when presumably is and/or may be intoxicated or otherwise mentally or physically impaired," the suit said.

Kenneth "negligently and carelessly failed" to reasonably examine, treat and obtain reasonable medical or hospital treatment, McGraw claims.

McGraw's suit seeks in excess of $2,500 for compensatory and in excess of $100,000 for punitive damages. He demands a trial by jury for the case.

Kaiser: Sanford Official's Order 'Misunderstanding'

An order from Sanford Assistant City Manager Richard Quigley to a Seminole County fireman Thursday to disconnect a county fire truck from a city fire hydrant did not hamper the fighting of the blaze that destroyed a vacant ice plant off Hand Yard Road west of the city.

County Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser said today the whole matter seems to have been a "misunderstanding," agreeing the fire was under control almost three hours before Quigley's action.

"Apparently Quigley thought we were doing the same thing as last year — filling up county fire trucks from city fire hydrants — and didn't understand we were using the water to put out remaining hot spots to cool the debris from the fire," Kaiser said.

Kaiser reportedly had been critical of Quigley's action and allegedly said Quigley had hampered the fighting of the fire at the old ice house. Kaiser this morning, however, said he determined Quigley did not hamper the fire fighting.

"I love those kids. They're great!" he said.
