New Enlistment Regulations Are Revealed By Army

Today a very important new provision for enlistment of Army personnel was announced by Lt. Col. Horace E. Frink, commanding officer of Tampa Army Recruiting Station. Owing to the Army's urgent need for certain specialists—mechanics, typists, administrative specialists, equipment technicians, repairmen, and numerous others—it has now been made possible for such men to enlist in grades higher than private, depending upon their length of service. Even those men who have been discharged longer than 90 days may now enlist in grades as high as T/ Sgt.

Many special types of work, special arrangements have also been made for officers, warrant officers and flight officers with which they may now be enlisted. Col. Frink pointed out that this is an adjustment in regulations for which a need has long been felt. "This new provision," said the colonel, "will enable a technician who has been out of the Army as long as ten months to enlist now in his military specialty and obtain a grade that will recognize the length of time he spent in his trade in the Army. For example," the colonel went on, "here is a man who spent 30 months in the Army as a tank mechanic and was discharged last July. Up until now we would have had to re-enlist him as a Pfc. The new regulations, however, permit us to sign him up as a S/ Sgt., provided he held that grade at the time of his discharge. A medical administrative specialist with only 12 months' experience may now enlist as a S/ Sgt.

Full information concerning this new enlistment procedure is available at the Tampa Army Recruiting Station, 416 Tampa Street. Veterans are invited to make inquiries.

Retail Prices Of Surplus Goods Here Will Be Checked

The actual retail prices of war surplus goods, low-cost apparel, and "mark-up" foods in local stores will be checked during March by volunteer members of the Seminole County Area Price Control Board, E. B. Randall, Jr., chairman of the price panel, said today.

Hundreds of types of war surplus goods are now making their appearance in local stores. Mr. Randall said, and this survey will be made to see whether these items are reaching the public within ceiling prices set by OPA. The survey of prices in food stores will be on a somewhat different basis than is usually the case, he said. Whereas the monthly check-ups ordinarily cover food items shown on the community ceiling price lists, the March survey will cover foods that are sold on a "mark-up" basis by the retailer, Mr. Randall explained.

Pay Hike For Army, Navy Is Proposed

Patterson, Forrestal Tell Senate Group Raise Would Stimulate Late Enlistments

WASHINGTON, Mar. 20. (AP)—The secretaries of War and Navy have urged Congress to grant a 20 percent increase in pay to everyone in the two armed services. Appearing before a Senate military subcommittee, Secretary of War Patterson and Secretary of Navy Forrestal argued that such a pay boost would stimulate enlistments. The two secretaries also pointed out that the cost of living has gone up considerably, and that war veterans now require more advanced education and skills than formerly. Secretary of the Navy Forrestal told the committee that the Navy is losing high ranking officers every day because of more attractive financial offers in civilian life. He pointed out that officer's pay has remained relatively steady since 1908, while living costs have increased about 190 percent.

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

THESE VIRTUES ARE INDEED CROWNING GLORIES: the growth of love, kindness and tender mercies. Psalm 103:4.

The Franco government has accused the United States of plotting to invade Spain during the war. Too bad we don't.

Another indication of "holding the line against inflation" is the OPA order to reduce the size of a loaf of bread without any corresponding cut in price.

Members of the British Parliament, including such notables as Winston Churchill, have been recommended for a pay rate of $1,000 a year which will give them an annual salary of $1,000 a year as compared with the $10,000 a year which members of the U. S. Congress are kicking about.

We don't know exactly how geologists for Russia reconcile their pleas for better American understanding of the Soviet position with these revelations of espionage activities in Canada.

We do not often have occasion to quote Drew Pearson of the Washington Merry Round but when he says that Henry Wallace, who is being mentioned as a likely alternative for Truman in the next presidential race, is "struggling with negro voters, labor and the Independent Liberals," we have to agree with him.

We are glad to see the Garden Club is going to resume its annual flower show, which has been such an inspiration to so many people in years gone by. This one will be held in connection with the Veterans Homecoming Celebration and should be a great success.

Gum-shoing around Sanford yesterday was Tom Voss of Orlando, candidate for Congress, who says that the trend has been in his favor for some time on account of mistakes which his opponent has made in various parts of his district.

Superintendent Chapman of the State Prison Farm is rightly concerned over juvenile delinquency in this state and says the place for correcting it is in the home. "It may be necessary," he says, "to enact laws to require parents to give their children proper attention."

Senator Claude Pepper is having a hard time explaining how his 75 cent minimum wage bill is going to benefit the employees without costing the employers any more. He has to point out that of course it doesn't include those who work for farmers or those who work for business not engaged in interstate commerce but if so, where is the benefit for the employer? It is his burden for the clerk to work only to get along on 40 cents a hour that it is for the clerk to work 75 cents an hour. If he doesn't give service, it doesn't matter as long as he doesn't give service, it doesn't matter as long as he doesn't give service.

What Churchill Did Say

An interesting point of international etiquette arose when an American reporter asked Winston Churchill about the "propriety" of his delivering another address on American soil. The British statesman wisely replied that he had no comment on that score.

When Churchill spoke in New York, as a private citizen in a friendly free country, he did so clearly, leaving no room for doubt as to his stand. He repeated what he said in Fulton—that he did not advocate a "military alliance against Russia" but urged fuller development of fraternal association among people of the English speaking world.

This world "remembers the frightful losses suffered by Russia in the Hitlerite invasion, has deep and widespread sympathy for the Russian people and an absolute readiness to work with them on fair and even terms to repair the ruin of war in every country. If the Soviet government does not take advantage of this sentiment, if on the contrary they discourage it, the responsibility will be entirely theirs."

Churchill believes fuller understanding and association between us are inevitable; he hopes "the necessary harmony of thought and action between the American and British peoples will be reached in a sufficiently plain and clear manner and in good time to prevent a new world struggle."

He stated plainly and unequivocally that the U.N.O. is "the crime need of men after the catastrophe. It is the duty of all to strengthen it, to respect it and to respect its decision." He urged that such matters as Iran and the Dardanelles be early laid before it.

It will be well if American citizens and statesmen are as careful, while the world is so tense and random comment might make trouble. Wise Americans will learn all they can about the state of the present world, but will avoid unnecessary chatter and the peddling of unverified rumors. It is well to find out exactly what a man in high place did say before yielding to the temptation to utter loose and perhaps dangerous criticism of what "they said he said." Sometimes the latter isn't so.

Job For Geographers

Nature, as if to compensate Japan for losses at the hands of man, is creating for Nippon a brand new island. Rising steadily from the sea since the latter part of February, the tiny island now has attained the height of 50 feet and an over-all land area of 200 yards. The magic bit of earth, 200 miles off Japan's south shore line, has begun to erupt.

It sounds like a bit of the lost Atlantis Plato tells about, that magic lovely land whose inhabitants once reigned over part of Europe. The gods pushed it down under the sea as punishment for its people's evil ways. Could the gods perchance, think the penance has gone on long enough now? Or is the land's appearance due to some after-effect of atom-bombing?

Maybe things are as turbulent in the lower regions of the earth as on its surface, and this island gets pushed up as a consequence. At any rate it does give geographers a new piece of land to study and to include on the next maps.

Atlantic Coast Line Employee To Retire After 65 Years Rail Service

WILMINGTON, N. C., Mar. 20. (Special) F. H. Fechtig, Atlantic Coast Line Railroad purchasing agent, Wilmington, N. C., announced today that he would retire from railroad service effective Mar. 31 after 65 years of following the "Iron Horse."

When the retiring Purchasing Agent entered company service 65 years ago, in 1881, he was an employee of what was then known as the Atlantic Coast Line Association. The association was comprised of 12 small railroads which were later consolidated into today's Coast Line system.

The longest of these predecessor roads was the Wilmington, Columbia and Augusta Railroad, which extended from Wilmington, N. C., to Columbia, S. C., a distance of 102 miles. The next longest was the Wilmington and Weldon which ran between those two points, 162 miles, and which company controlled the majority of the stock of the other roads.

Other roads were: Richmond and Petersburg Railroad, Petersburg Railroad, Albemarle and Raleigh Railroad, Midland Railroad of North Carolina, Cheraw and Salisbury Railroad, Central Railroad of South Carolina, Manchester and Augusta Railroad, Florence Railroad, Northeastern Railroad.

Born in Hagerstown, Md., July 10, 1881, Fechtig was educated in private schools of Washington County, Md. He also studied law "in his spare time" after entering railroad service and passed the Supreme Court bar exam January 10, 1899. He never hung out his "shingle."

Following his graduation from high school in 1898, he entered railroad service with the Shenandoah Valley Railroad (now the Norfolk and Western), serving successively as messenger, junior clerk and timekeeper. He was subsequently chief clerk to the superintendent, Washington, Ohio and Western (now the Old Dominion Electric Lines) chief clerk of transportation, office of superintendent, Chesapeake and Ohio; secretary to 1st vice-president, Atlantic Coast Line; purchasing

During World War I, Fechtig was a member of the Central Advisory Purchasing Commission, U. S. Railroad Administration, Washington, D. C., and later chairman, Regional Purchasing Commission, U. S. R. A., Atlanta, Ga.

He also represented railroads south of the Potomac and Ohio and east of the Mississippi rivers on the Coal Committee, Washington, D. C., during the strike of July and August, 1932.

The retiring purchasing agent is an Episcopalian, an Independent in politics and a member of the Carolina Yacht Club, Wilmington.

"I'm going to travel a little and rest a lot," Fechtig said when asked about his future plans. "But I'm going to work too," he added quizzically, "voluntary work that I can very interested in. Can't afford to get old at my age," he concluded with a chuckle.

Brooklyn Cops 7 To 4 Decision Over St. Paul Saints

Taylor, Haugstad Limit Dodgers To Six Safeties

Saints Grab Early Four Run Lead In Second Stanza

DAYTONA BEACH, Mar. 20 (Special)—The St. Paul Saints of the American Association, after three consecutive victories over the weekend in the Grapefruit League and Monday afternoon 1 to 0 loss to the Montreal Royals, fell before Leo Darchera Brooklyn Dodgers by a score of 7 to 4 yesterday afternoon at the City Island Park.

Had it not been for the execution of four St. Paul errors, the Saints may have trumped Rubeys National League club.

Following a scoreless first frame in which Harry Taylor of the Saints and Milner of the Dodgers set their opponents down in order, the St. Paul aggregation opened scoring hostilities in the second inning and pushed across four runs to grab an early lead.

However, the Dodgers retaliated in their half of the second and sent three runners scurrying across the plate. They tied the count in the fourth with another single marker.

In the sixth, Skipper Ray Blades sent Bill Haugstad to the hill for the Saints. He was able to hold the Dodgers successfully in the sixth but the mischievous boys broke the deadlock in the seventh with a three run barrage. Casey took over the mound duties for Brooklyn in the seventh and stymied the Saints for the remainder of the tilt.

The Saints collected five hits off Milner and Casey while Taylor and Haugstad were touched for

INSIDE SPORTS REPORT

By JULIAN STENSTROM

Happiness! Disappointment!

American troops have received a very special sign of Spring. The Durham Victory arrived yesterday with 17,000 pounds of baseballs and another 14,000 pounds of volleyballs. But even so, the GI's were disappointed. They had been expecting a boatload of mail. It's true, they were expecting about 30,000 pounds of mail, including the mail.

There's no doubt, however, that American troops will enjoy this sports equipment. In the European Theater of Operations, prior to D-Day, the ammunition outfit we served with had a two-hour period every afternoon for sports and recreation and it was a must. We look back though and sometimes see just how peculiar people, even soldiers, can be. Before we had the recreational period, the men gripe because they had no activities of this sort. And then, after equipment was obtained and the colonel ordered everyone to participate, we found that the men had more work to do than ever.

Football Stadiums

We have seen the blueprints of the imposing structure Orange Bowl fans may cram next Jan. 1 if the enlargement program of the Roldy Burling stadium goes through with no further hitches. The stadium with its present main stands will be extended and topped by a second deck and will have a capacity of 60,000. This structure will be one of which not only Miami can be proud but the ardent fans over the entire state.

Meanwhile, every now and then local sports fans speak to us about the construction of additional seating facilities at the local high school athletic field. We advocated the enlargement of the plant during the past football season and nearly everyone agreed with us, except some of the school officials. They said that they just weren't needed. We assume they decided that more seats in the stadium were necessary because of the closing of the Naval Air Station.

But even with that thought in mind, we can still see a necessity for additional stands. Even with the Navy gone, hundreds of people will still have to stand up during the entire game. The stands will be filled during every home game, particularly with games this season against DeLand and other surrounding schools. The additional stands would provide Sanford with one of the "sweetest" little stadiums in central Florida. Let's not overlook however, that no matter how nice the stands would be, they're still needed for the comfort and protection of fans and for the protection of the players themselves.

Baseball in Mexico

Chuck Volkhausen, former Miami sportsman who is now a resident of Torreon, Mexico, declares that the Mexican National Baseball League is here to stay. Now visiting in Miami, Volkhausen says neither United States baseball commissioner, Happy Chandler, nor anyone else in the United

Red Sox Defeat Seminole Nine By 11 - 10 Score

Hugh Crowley And Bobby Axt Perform Pitching Duties

In the second tilt of the current Junior League season, the Red Sox slugged out a 11 to 10 victory over the Seminole yesterday afternoon at the Municipal Softball Park in hotly contested tilt.

Hugh Crowley went to the mound for the Seminoles and limited the Red Sox to six hits but several errors by his mates enabled the Red Sox to garner 11 markers.

On the mound for J. C. Davis' Red Sox was Bobby Axt who was nicked for eight Seminole bingles during the tilt.

The lineup for Harry Robson's Seminoles included Walter Routh, Mike Wheelchel 1b, Edward McCall 2b, Terry Cordell ss, Jack Schirard 3b, Hugh Walters lf, James Pearson, cf, LeRoy Rosier rf and Crowley on the mound.

The Red Sox batting order included Kenny Robbins lf, Billy Tison c, Buddy Meisch 2b, Johnny Joiner ss, George Harden 3b, Bob Kilpatrick cf, James Davis rf, Bobby White 1b and Bobby Axt pitching.

Edward Marshall's Cubs and the Red Sox will clash tomorrow afternoon at 5:00 o'clock at the Municipal Softball Park. All games are scheduled for five innings.

Bill Saffarrans Has Job Reversing Flow Of Soldiers

HONOLULU—Col. William C. Saffarrans, "Wild Bill" of 1924 Georgetown football fame, founder of the Army's Ranger School in Tennessee, and teacher of combat tactics to more than 300,000

Pacific soldiers and sailors, is up to his full, weather-beaten jowls in the task of reversing the flow of trained American fighting men towards Japan.

With war's end, Col. Saffarrans found that his combat training schools on Oahu, Saipan, New Caledonia and Espiritu Santo were passe. Lt. Gen. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., commanding Army Forces in the Middle Pacific, ordered: "Get them home."

Today, 45-year-old, New York-born Saffarrans is doing just that. As commandant of the Middle Pacific Personnel Center on the island of Oahu, Territory of Hawaii, he directed the processing and return to the mainland of more than 120,000 Army men and women in the three months' period ended January 7.

Every day he meets some former pupil bound for the mainland. One soldier said: "If I had not been through your first school on my way to Okinawa, I doubt that I could have made this one—on my way home."

Dempsey Says FDR Had Powerful Arms

BOSTON, Mar. 20, (AP)—The power of Franklin Delano Roosevelt's arms was one of the things about the late President that impressed Jack Dempsey, former world's boxing champion.

Reminiscing during a visit to Boston to referee wrestling bouts, Dempsey said: "I met him on the eve of his last election. He had the most powerful arms that I've ever seen, much bigger than mine. He used to say, 'Jack, if your legs were only as big as my arms there would've been a Tuamney.'"

Eisenhower Calls For Extension Of Draft

Chief Of Staff Says Adequate Army Is Needed To Protect Peace Nation Won

WASHINGTON, Mar. 21. (AP)—Army Chief of Staff Dwight Eisenhower and Secretary of War Patterson joined their voices today in a new appeal for extension of the Selective Service law. They appeared before the House Military Committee. Eisenhower asked for indefinite extension of the draft law with the maximum term of service for inductees to be fixed at 18 months. If that is done, he said, the Army will be able to discharge all fathers by August or early September of this year, and no more fathers need be inducted in the future. He added that Congress could provide in the law that the Army shall induct only as many men as are required to keep it at the level set for July, 1947. Eisenhower warned that if the law is not extended beyond May 15, the Army may be short 165,000 men by the middle of next year. He said the great powers are expected to supply the main strength of United Nations Organization. Secretary Patterson said that if the draft was ended and the resulting drive fell short of its goal, it might be very difficult to maintain the peace we have won. He asked Congress not only to extend the draft, but to authorize a 20 percent increase in the pay and allowances of military personnel.

Congress May Delay Labor Legislation

Washington Is Much Calmer And Not So Anxious To Plunge Into Labor Bills

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) Now that the storm signals no longer fly over the American labor scene, Washington is much calmer and less anxious than ever to plunge into punitive strike legislation. As things worked out, most of the big-time industrial disputes were settled while Capitol Hill was working itself up into a lather to do something about them. The House, in its determination to smash reconversion bottlenecks, designed the Case Bill: a get-tough measure which—among other things—aimed to ban violence in strikes and to permit unions to be sued if they violated contracts. No sound did the representatives pass it hurriedly along to the Senate when the dark thunderbolts of labor troubles melted away. Back to work went the steelworkers, the auto workers, some electrical workers and hundreds of thousands of others who had been tied up in arguments over wages. At the moment it looks as if it will be months before strike control legislation goes into the law books, if at all. During the past few hectic weeks the Senate has been working on a labor measure of its own—one that wouldn't have the sharp sting of the Case Bill. Its labor committee figured out an act providing for a Federal mediation board which would try to avert strikes by mediation and conciliation. Washington observers point out that in general, the Senate version is much milder and better thought out than the House bill—mostly because it was not put together in so much haste. However, even this piece of legislation may not come up for debate for a long time. Senate leaders seem to feel that the need for swift action is no longer urgent in view of other emergency matters which demand immediate attention. For instance, there's the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain which is due for consideration and extensive debate. Then too the Senate will have to get down soon to the job of deciding the future of OPA. That probably will require more weeks of talk on the Senate floor. Much-needed housing legislation will consume additional time. It seems that there will be little room on the Senate's jammed calendar for strike control measures. Of course, that's up to the Senate leadership. The House, the lawmaker, finally approve a labor bill it will take weeks before a joint Congressional committee can iron out the fundamental differences that are causing the House and Senate versions. Anyway you look at it, unless a new wave of strikes rises prospectively pretty dim for any crackle from Capitol Hill in the near future.

Early Showdown In UNO On Iran Dispute Is Pressed By Washington And London

Soviet Ambassador Warns That Hasty Action Would Only Complicate Problem

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS) Washington and London pressed today for an early showdown in the UNO on the dispute over Iran, but Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko warned that hasty action would only complicate the problem. The United States position was stated bluntly by President Truman. At his press conference, Mr. Truman announced that there will be no postponement of Monday's scheduled meeting of the UNO security council in New York City. The President also declared that the American delegation will seek early action of Iran's complaint against the Soviet Union. Britain indicated it would go along with this stand when a Foreign Office spokesman was asked for an opinion on Russia's proposal for a 16-day postponement of the UNO security council meeting. The British ambassador's spokesman said, "I shouldn't think it was likely we would support a delay." Ambassador Gromyko declared, however, that nothing would be gained by having the Security Council rush into the Iranian controversy. At best, he said, hasty action by the UNO would only further complicate the tangle. A big three conference on the Iranian dispute and other Security Council issues was suggested yesterday by Senator Claude Pepper, but Mr. Truman said today that he's not trying to arrange another parley. Mr. Truman said the UNO is supposed to take up some questions that formerly were discussed at big three meetings. The UNO is supposed to take up in Washington, the secretary general of the United Nations Organization, Trygve Lie, asserted today that the UNO should discuss the Iranian dispute before the UNO, and that the group must get to work immediately. Lie was asked if his remark meant that there would be no postponement of the Security Council meeting scheduled for Monday. He replied, "That is for the Security Council to decide. I made my statement upon his arrival at La Guardia Field from Washington. While representatives of three of the 11 nations comprising the UNO's Security Council have rejected unofficially a Russian request that the scheduled opening of the council session be postponed."

Cool Weather, Rains Aid Celery Production Here

With torrential rains flooding the corn belt of northwest Florida, and much vegetable damage reported from heavy downpours in the Home and Lake Okechobee sections, Seminole County has had only gentle rains and cooler weather recently which has resulted in heavy yields of the finest quality of celery. It is estimated that in Seminole County about 650 acres of the winter crop of celery remains. Yields of 400 to 1,000 boxes an acre have been reported. Ovid's crop of spring celery is expected to be under way about April 10. Light movement of the spring crop is already reported from the FOD prices range from $1.75 to $2.85 according to size and grade. Haulings of celery have been heavy this week, with 43 cars on Monday and 68 cars on Tuesday leaving the county, making a total to date of 2,427 cars shipped during the season as compared with 2,689 from the lower East Coast and 1,122 from Sarasota. Manager H. J. Lehman at the Sanford State Market said he had received reports of damage to the celery crop in the Lake Okechobee region. The cabbage deal is still going strong with best grades bringing $1.80 to $2.00 per 50-pound sack at the market. Work on potatoes is proceeding, and the eight stalls are expected to be available for use by the first of April. One of the stalls will be reserved for exclusive use of farmers, said Mr. Lehman.

Goering Denies Responsibility For Murder Of 50 RAF Officers

Ranking Nazi Says Himmler Kept Activities Extremely Secret And Objects To Being Called A Friend Of Gestapo Chief

NUERNBERG, Mar. 21. (AP)—Hermann Goering excitedly repeated a denial today that he was in any way responsible for the murder of 50 RAF officers in March, 1944. The former reichsmarschal betrayed none of his previous arrogance as he protested to the war crimes tribunal that he had no prior knowledge of Adolf Hitler's order to execute the fliers. Hitler ordered the RAF men killed following their recapture after an escape from a German prisoner-of-war camp. Goering was shown affidavits stating that even his subordinate officers in the German Air Ministry were informed of the executions. Goering maintained steadfastly he was not told about the killing until it was too late. Goering remained bitingly eloquent of some things which went on in Nazi concentration camps that he set up. He swore today that he knew nothing of the slaughters in the concentration camps, and said: "Even Hitler didn't know approximately what went on because Himmler—head of the Gestapo—always kept these things extremely secret."

Supreme Soviet Decree To Cut Army Personnel

Several Million Army Air Force Men Will Be Discharged

MOSCOW, Mar. 21. (AP)—The first important decree of the Presidium of the new Supreme Soviet calls for the demobilization of several million Red Army and Air Force men between May and September of this year. The Presidium has issued the order upon the recommendation of the Soviet Defense Ministry. This order directs that six classes of men should be restored to civilian status in time for the fall harvest. Russia previously had demobilized 23 age groups. The new decree, however, does not affect commissioned officers in the Russian Army and Air Force or the personnel of the Red Fleet. American and British military observers in Moscow believe that the new Soviet demobilization order touches the biggest single group affected to date.

FDR, War Cabinet Rejected Plan To Attack Japan 9 Days Before Pearl

Former Secretary of War Henry Stimson Told Pearl Harbor Investigating Committee He Favored Offense As Best Defense

WASHINGTON, Mar. 21. (AP)—The Senate-House committee investigating the Pearl Harbor attack disclosed today that President Roosevelt and members of his cabinet and military staff discussed and rejected a plan to attack Japan just nine days before Japanese planes bombed Hawaii. The information is contained in a statement submitted to the committee by former War secretary Henry Stimson. The committee made the statement public today. Stimson related that on the morning of November 19, 1941, he received information of Japanese movements along the Asiatic coast. The former secretary of War told the committee that these movements were of such a formidable nature that he went immediately to the White House. Stimson and Roosevelt still was in bed but that he received Stimson immediately and discussed the information. The War secretary said the late President suggested at the time that they consider three alternatives: (1) the United States; (2) it could do nothing; (3) it could send something to Tokyo. Stimson related to the committee that he favored attacking Japan without further notice, on the theory that offense was the best defense. Stimson said that Roosevelt summoned what then was known unofficially as his "war cabinet." This group included Stimson, former Secretary of State Cordell Hull, the late Navy secretary, Frank Knox, former Naval Operations Chief Admiral Harold Stark and former Army Chief of Staff General George Marshall. Stimson said his plan to attack Japan at once was discussed thoroughly and rejected. The former War secretary said that what finally was decided was this: Roosevelt would dispatch a secret message to Emperor Hirohito, warning against further Japanese moves and submit a special message to Congress telling of the danger and what the United States would have to do if danger appeared. The so-called "war cabinet" agreed that the United States would have to fight if Japan invaded Thailand. But, said Stimson, as it happened, the Japs landed in Indo-China so the program was not carried out as planned. The War secretary said that in all this discussion, the possibility of an attack on Pearl Harbor was not mentioned.

Churchill Sails For Home Aboard Liner Queen Mary

NEW YORK, Mar. 21. (AP)—Winston Churchill is on his way back to England after an extensive vacation in Florida and trips to the Midwest and New York City. The former British Prime Minister sailed aboard the liner Queen Mary, whose departure from New York harbor this morning was four hours later than scheduled. The big superliner left her North River pier at 8:00 A. M. E. S. T. Churchill's wife and their daughter, Mrs. Sarah Oliver, sailed with the British statesman. There were more than 1,000 other passengers aboard the Queen Mary, including several members of European royal families. American envoy to Belgium Alan Kirk and other diplomats accompanied Churchill. The Kansas farmer had been in Miami a portion of the time the former Prime Minister was at Miami Beach. Their mail got twisted, so the Kansas man who goes by the same name went off to Havana. Then the British Churchill went there, too. The Kansas—who seeks to avoid the Kansas—who seeks to avoid Miami Beach. Their mail got twisted, so the Kansas man who goes by the same name went off to Havana. Then the British Churchill went there, too.

Wave Of Hand To Railroaders Brings Hospital Care To Crippled Girl

COVINGTON, Tenn., Mar. 21. (AP)—A mere wave of the hand has brought first class hospital treatment for a crippled farm girl at a lonely waystation along the Illinois Central Railroad. It was nearly one year ago that a railroad conductor stopped his freight train in front of a ramshackle farmhouse to get acquainted with the little girl who had been waving to the train from her front porch. He found that her name was Minnie Rose Webb, and that she had been crippled during an operation. From that day on, trains frequently slowed down while conductors, engineers and brakemen have been seen fairly princess.
