When The Chronicle Rings The Bell

WRITTEN FOR THE SANFORD HERALD.
When the Chronicle rings the Bell
What then, do you opine?
You must your fondest hopes dispel,
And this will be the sign—
When the Chronicle rings the Bell.
When the Chronicle rings the Bell,
How dare you try to shine?
You'll rival but a meagre spell,
And this will be the sign—
When the Chronicle rings the Bell.
When the Chronicle rings the Bell,
Let cold chills run down your spine,
For it will mean your doom to tch,
And this will be the sign—
When the Chronicle rings the Bell.
When the Chronicle rings the Bell,
To death 'twill you consign,
'Twill be needless to then rebel,
And this will be the sign—
When the Chronicle rings the Bell.
When the Chronicle rings the Bell,
You upstart get in line,
And lie 'n to your funeral knell,
For this will be the sign—
When the Chronicle rings the Bell.
When the Chronicle rings the Bell,
Just pass it down the line;
'Means death to every rival swell!
And this will be the sign—
When the Chronicle rings the Bell.
When the Chronicle rings the Bell,
Will you indeed resign?
Or will you mean success compell,
Despite the om'pous sign—
When the Chronicle rings the Bell?

Proposes Celery Jubilee

To the Editor of THE HERALD:
Your proposal to have a Celery Jubilee at Sanford next March is good.
The flower carnivals of Pasadena and Santa Barbara, California, copied after the one at Nice, France, have made those towns famous.
Many people would choose this time to visit Sanford.
Our own people would gain much benefit and amusement from the "vegetable parade," athletic competitions and tournaments.
If we want to make Sanford a "live city" we must get alive ourselves.
Jump into line and help it along.
J. V. WEEDEN.

Another Letter From Harry Papworth

NEW YORK, November 17, 1908.
To the Editor of The Herald:
I am delighted to read that Sanford has recently organized a fire department; your invitation to attend a drill will be accepted probably during the present winter. In the meantime please inform the Chief and the boys that I should be honored by being elected a contributory member and tip the boys off to the fact that there are some of Nature's noblemen in Sanford to whom the old fire boys never appealed in vain for funds—Colonel Thrasher (the best that ever lived), Hon. M. F. Robinson, George Fernald, Bill Hill, Frank P. Forster, F. H. Rand and many others.
Some of the happiest days of my life were passed in dear old Sanford, with the fire boys for comrades; therefore the prosperity of your town and the fire department have my sincere wishes for a fulfillment.
Mr. Editor, I have always had considerable admiration for men who devote their lives to publishing the "Weekly" at one dollar per; wondering from whence comes their reward? To compliment you on the issue of the Sanford Herald, particularly your "Proclamation" in the issue of Nov. 14th, seems infinitesimal; it surely is a dandy and should be the admiration of all deep thinking men of your State—"forget politics and go to work"—fine; when compared with the mushy letter written by the Hon. Frank Clark, published in the Sanford Herald, prognosticating Mr. Bryan's election, it's more of a wonder. Of course I appreciate the fact that my political opinion would not count for much, because I led a crowd of Sanfordites to political suicide in the fall of 1896, the year Mr. Bryan crucified the Democratic party with a Cross of Gold and Free Silver, but really do you think the Hon. Frank ever supposed Mr. Bryan could be elected President of this great Country? Why I would as soon expect the cat fish of Lake Monroe to push their heads out of the water and looking towards Sanford, sing "The Beautiful City."
I enclose subscription $1.00 for the Herald—more power to it and you! Thanking you for the courtesy,
HARRY M. PAPWORTH.

CAN SEPARATE RACES IN SCHOOL

Important Decision Rendered in U. S. Supreme Court

In deciding the case of Berea College versus the State of Kentucky favorably to the state, the supreme court of the United States Monday held that a state of the Union may constitutionally legislate to prevent the coeducation of the white and black races. The case was instituted to test the validity of the state law of 1904, prohibiting white and black children from attending the same schools. The higher state court took the position that the white and black races are naturally antagonistic, and that the forced separation of the children of the two races is in the line of preservation of the peace. The opinion of the supreme court was handed down by Justice Brewer and affirmed the finding of both the Kentucky circuit court and the court of appeals. Justices Harlan and Day dissented. Justice Brewer's opinion dealt entirely with corporations as affected by the Kentucky statute and did not consider the question of applicability to individuals. Proceeding upon the theory that a state has complete control over corporations and its own creations, he then construes the law of 1904 as in effect an amendment to the charter of Berea College and added:
"It is undoubtedly true that the reserved power to alter or amend is subject to some limitations, and that under the guise of an amendment a new contract may not always be enforceable upon the corporation or the stockholders, but it is settled that a power reserved to the legislature to alter, amend or repeal a charter authorizes it to make an alteration or amendment of a charter granted subject to it, which will not defeat or substantially impair the object of the grant or any rights vested under it, and which the legislature may deem necessary to secure either that object or any public right. We need concern ourselves only with the inquiry whether the first section of the Kentucky law can be upheld as coming within the power of a state over its own corporate creatures. We are of opinion that it does come within that power."

The First Lettuce of 1908

[Jacksonville Times-Union]
The first lettuce sent from Sanford to New York brought $4.50 a basket. Thirty-two baskets was the lot and the New York receiver wired the grower within forty hours after the truck was shipped telling him that it had been shipped at the price named. The metropolis is lettuce hungry by this time and quick sales will probably be the rule for the first shipments.

From the Hoosier State

Mr. and Mrs. E. F. McConaha of Richmond, Ind., have arrived in the city and will spend the winter here. They made the trip from Richmond to Jacksonville in their touring car and from thence by Clyde Line to Sanford. Mr. McConaha purchased a fine celery farm last year on the west side and will engage in celery culture. We welcome these estimable Hoosiers in our midst and hope more of them will decide to locate in Sanford.

A Real Estate Association

[St. Petersburg Independent]
The "Sand Man" has on foot plans for the organization of a real estate men's association of this city for the mutual protection of the real estate dealers, and is to start right away upon it. This will be one of the best things that could be organized at present, and will help all concerned. The motto is to be: "BOOST; don't Knock."

They Go Together

It is believed by many thinking people that Thanksgiving was invented to give the turkey a distinction and a prestige and to give a medium through which to offer our gratitude while experiencing perennial thrills of pleasure. The selection of the turkey for the star part was happy, because everyone likes turkey, be it hot, cold or canned. Unlike veal, corned beef and fishballs, the turkey is a concrete symphony that causes every soul to ripple in soag. Old and young are alike victims of its peerless quality.
The young eat it with their first teeth, the middle aged attack it with their second, and the old masticate it with their third, or store teeth, and it is even toothsome to the toothless. The cranberry's chief distinction is that which it enjoys in being the tail-end of the Thanksgiving ticket. The cranberry sauce is sometimes strained, but not in its relations with turkey. They go together so harmoniously that several poets say that the cranberry's incarnated smile is intensified by the turkey's flush of pride.
The turkey is a bird among birds, a dish among dishes, a dream among dreams.

New Telephone Directory

A new telephone book will soon be issued from the press of The Herald. This is made necessary by the great number of new users of the system. This book will be a great improvement over former issues and will be made very comprehensive both as a telephone directory and business guide. The list of subscribers will be arranged in long lines set in a plain, readable black type, widely spaced, so that a name and number can be readily seen. Full instructions to users will be given in the preface pages and a list of the long-distance phones given also, besides much information of peculiar interest and benefit to telephone users. C. C. Worthington has the work of preparing the "copy" well in hand.

MABEL PAIGE MARRIED

Pretty Wedding in Histrionic Circles Thursday Morning

The Sanford House was the scene of a quiet wedding on Thursday morning, the contracting parties being Mabel Paige and Charles W. Ritchie. Miss Paige and company closed on Wednesday night after three nights in Sanford, and the rumor that the favorite was to wed Mr. Ritchie, the manager, gave an added zest to the performance on Wednesday night.

The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. B. F. Brown, rector of the Holy Cross Episcopal church, only the members of the company and a few friends being present.

Mabel Paige has been a favorite with the people of the South for a number of years, having made her first appearance while a tiny tot of five years. The Atlanta Constitution long ago heralded Miss Paige as the "Idol of the South," and such she has remained as no member of the stage holds a larger place in the hearts of the people than this dainty, petite artist. For the past few years, with her late husband, Henry F. Willard, The Mabel Paige Company confined themselves to Florida, playing a whole season at Tampa and Jacksonville. At the death of Mr. Willard the management of the company was placed in the hands of Charles W. Ritchie, formerly of the Peruch-Gypzene Co., and the acquaintance of Miss Paige and Mr. Ritchie ripened into love, a consummation of which was reached in this city, when they plighted their troth on Thursday.

Mr. Ritchie is a native of Columbus, Ohio, and came to Jacksonville about one year ago and took charge of the Paige Co. Under his able direction the company has enjoyed a most prosperous season, and will erect their own opera houses in several Florida cities at an early date.

The host of friends over the South of the contracting parties will join in extending congratulations upon this happy event and in Sanford they will always be accorded a warm welcome.

SANFORD THE FAVORED

Former Citizen Writes of the Advantages of This Section

GARDEN SPOT OF THE WORLD

Enormous Yield From an Acre of Land Stimulates Property Values And Induces Immigration

The following letter from H. H. Deane and published in the Jacksonville Metropolis is so well written and gives such a glowing account of the advantages of Sanford that it is reproduced in The Herald. Mr. Deane having been a resident of Sanford several years ago, is quick to note the remarkable changes being made in this city and suburbs, and more than any one can discern the signs of prosperity and future development of the Celery City:

"Returning from a visit to Sanford, his former home, H. H. Deane when seen by a Metropolis representative, recounted in glowing terms, and with keen gratification some of the wonderful developments in that favored section.

"Said Mr. Deane: 'I am sure your many thousands of readers will be glad to learn something of the progress of the trucking industry on the celery delta, which is bringing Sanford world-wide renown. Truth is stranger than fiction. It seems almost incredible that the unsightly flatwoods lands of a few years ago have been transformed into the beautiful fields which now greet the eye, level as a table, long rows of verdant beauty and mathematical precision with the sparkling cascades of artesian wells.

"All over the state are found localities with proven claims of special adaptation to certain crops. The oranges, the grapefruit, pineapple, tomato, melon and many other members of the fruit and vegetable kingdom have each a favorite home, but Sanford claims pre-eminent fitness in the culture of celery. There, nature with lavish hand has linked together a cluster of conditions in climate and soil that are not duplicated in the known world.

"The soil is of such character as to make possible the remarkable and effective plan of sub-irrigation and sub-drainage which is the foundation of the success obtained, as good crops are assured whether the season be wet or dry, the winter climate could not be more favorable, the wide expanse of Lake Monroe softening and modifying the severity of the northern blasts.

"Sanford is blessed with ample transportation, both water and land, sound banks, a public spirited board of trade, hustling, reliable real estate agents, who have easy work in locating home-seekers or investors, where an investment of $3,000 may be made to yield a net income yearly of from $3,000 to $10,000.

"Our whole state is linked together with indissoluble ties, prosperity is apparent everywhere, from it all Jacksonville gets toll, adding daily to our city's prosperity and growth. We should rejoice in the progress of every section.

"At present Sanford is rejoicing over a telegram received from the Hon. Frank Clark stating that the board of engineers and chief of engineers approve a channel one hundred feet wide and eight feet deep, Palatka to Sanford; one hundred feet wide and five feet deep, Sanford to Lake Harney, mean low water, which action, declares Mr. Clark, guarantees both projects."

NEW BUILDING FOR POSTOFFICE

Hon. Henry S. Chubb Thinks Sanford May Have One

Hon. Henry S. Chubb, the well-known leader of the Republican forces in Florida, spent a short time in the city on Wednesday en route to his home in Winter Park, from Weahington.

Col. Chubb, while indulging in a chat with The Herald scribe, was asked about the likelihood of a government building for Sanford, and stated that in a short time numerous cities the size of Sanford would receive appropriations from $10,000 to $15,000 for erecting suitable buildings for postoffices, and that an effort on the part of the citizens would greatly aid in procuring one of these appropriations.

While it is not in his power to personally aid in this movement, Col. Chubb expressed himself as greatly in favor of Sanford securing such an appropriation, and at a later date he expects to visit this city and inspect the advantages.

These appropriations have not assumed a tangible shape as yet, and it may be years before such a building could be erected, or the bill could be railroaded through the next session of congress and Sanford be able to have a suitable building in twelve months.

At any rate the project is worth the consideration of the citizens of Sanford, and regardless of whether Uncle Sam lends his aid or not the city should certainly have a postoffice commensurate with the rapid growth and prosperity of the city.

POINTS PURELY PERSONAL

How Celery City Vanity Fair While Away the Golden Hours—Social Gossip.

ONE evening last week I heard a married man decrying the great amount of deception and story telling that is practiced in society and he declared that he had demanded of his wife that she be absolutely straightforward with her friends. Not that reformation was necessary in that particular quarter, but even in the smaller affairs that a plain statement of fact be the rule, not a stumbling, halting excuse resorted to to gain the end a simple declaration would secure.

This gentleman does not want his wife to go about hunting people to devour by forcing upon them disagreeable truths, but he does want her to be absolutely frank with her friends. If she is invited to a party, for instance, and it is not convenient for her to go, let her say so and not hem and haw, worry and delay her answer and then give some other than the real reason for declining the invitation. In fact, the key to the whole situation with this man would be to have the women give reasons for actions, not excuses for inaction. And while he does not want the truth stretched, he does not believe in brutality in conversation. With him the proper course is a brief, true reason for not doing or doing some certain thing, not a long-drawn out flattering, insincere regret.

When the suggestion was made to him that he, to use the slang expression, "jollera," in this would serve a purpose by fooling and pleasing their subjects for a brief period, he took exception to the statement. He said that such is not the case with him. All the while people are telling him complimentary things he feels their insincerity and he dillikes to permit them to believe for a single minute that he is foolish enough to be deceived by them. He dreads the thought that he will be accepted as "easy" by the professional jollers: He is not a vain man and he cares not for the lauding insincere people indulging and when there is so much praise administered that is not meant, the real merit of commendation when there is actual occasion for it, is materially discounted. If we are to accept the bogus article for the real thing, we discredit the value of the genuine.

Can you say that my friend is wrong in his stand? I do believe you will dare do this, and still, I am afraid, you will not join him in a crusade against the insincerity of society.

—ADLE.

Thanksgiving Reminiscences
Thanksgiving has come and gone. The turkey and cranberry sauce have been eaten. In some places the poor have been helped by offerings brought as decoration to the chancel.

Sanford as a town has a fine outlook for the future and the residents have much to be thankful for in a material way.

Farmers have fine looking crops of celery, lettuce and strawberries and ought to be thankful to a divine Providence for so blessing them in their efforts in beautifying the wilderness.

Mr. and Mrs. McLaulin entertained Rev. and Mrs. J. F. McKinnon on Thanksgiving Day at dinner.

How many attended divine service and in God's house gave Him thanks for all things good?

An entertainment was given in the auditorium of the High School last night by Mr. Elias Day and Mrs. Oranne Trullitt Day for the benefit of the public school. Every one who did not go missed a treat and a chance to help financially the school of Sanford. "The False Ideal and the Real in Art," was handled in a manner that showed a complete knowledge of Riley and Kipling.

Drainage Commission Meets

The commission recently appointed by the county commissioners, met last Tuesday at F. M. Elder's store and, with several citizens, went over the drainage district. Work will commence at an early date upon the drainage ditches and this will prove of great benefit to this section.

FOR SANFORDS GREATER PROSPERITY

THE PLATFORM OF E. E. BRADY

Candidate for Mayor of City of Sanford

To the People of Sanford:

INTERESTED as I am in the welfare and prosperity of the City of Sanford and its citizens, and desiring to see our city advance and take its place as the foremost inland city of our State, which distinction properly belongs to us, and having no other motive than the up-building of Sanford and its greater prosperity, I have announced my candidacy for the office of Mayor, and take pleasure in presenting to you my Platform, in which I have embodied the issues which I believe are foremost in the minds of our citizens and best adapted to bring about the desired result:

- I am in favor of reduction of taxes.
- I am in favor of better fire protection.
- I am in favor of paving and keeping in proper condition our streets and avenues.
- I am in favor of city extension, provided the city can guarantee to the inhabitants of the contiguous territory all the benefits to which they would be entitled as tax-paying citizens; but I vigorously oppose the plan of extension as presented by the present administration, which I believe to be unfair and unjust.
- I am in favor of municipal ownership of a Lighting Plant and Water Works as a means whereby to obtain revenue with which to meet the necessary expenses of City Government.
- If elected I will enforce strictly and impartially all the Ordinances of our city.

Very respectfully,
E. E. BRADY
Candidate for Mayor.

With trousers turned up at the bottom, and stockings turned down at the top. Our dudes set a foolish example—AND where are they going to stop?

Will coat sleeves be turned back six inches. To make a ridiculous cuff? Must we roll up our waists—wear bloomers? Or shietwata, with frills and a ruff?

The dudes set the style, and their folly is sped by penible men. First it's sashes, then kickers, then "toothpicks," Golf stockings, duck trousers, and then—

Well, who can predict what new fadlet The dudes are evolving? Meanwhile Let's poke some fun at the women Because they all follow the style.

Thanksgiving is a purely American feast day. It is a day dedicated not only to the giving of thanks, but to dining, and rightly enough, for there is nothing which will inspire one to a feeling of thorough content and good fellowship with the world more than a good dinner.

Every true American feels thankful that he lives in a land where this festival is celebrated each year, and he must find additional cause for rejoicing in the fact that his lot is not in far countries where Thanksgiving Day is unknown and dinners are composed of strange mixtures and mysterious sauces, which however grateful to the palate must always take second place to these typical American dishes—turkey and cranberry sauce.

There are, of course, some changes and many improvements in cooking the old dishes, but the bill of fare for a thanksgiving dinner throughout the eastern and middle states varies but little. In the south the dishes, of course, differ according to the climate, but whenever a turkey could be obtained that was the piece de resistance of the thanksgiving dinner today. It was what our forefathers ate down in the wilds of New England on the first Thanksgiving Day, and we eat it in honor of them and because we like it so well.

Thanksgiving is a day given more to feasts than prayer, and everyone expects a good dinner, and every housekeeper takes pride in doing her best that day.

Some of the aspirants for aldermanic honors are making a "gum-shoe" canvass. Why not come out in the opening? Men—good men—have been killed for lesser crimes.

Last week in these columns I said that if Harry P. Driver would consent to serve as a member of the City Council of Sanford, we should all be thankful. He has formally announced his name as a candidate for that office, which see in the announcements of THE HERALD this week.

I predict Mr. Driver's election, for he is thoroughly imbued with the ideas of the proper development of the city, and does much (yes, much more than more pretension men), for the good of the city. He will give careful attention to the affairs of the city as they pertain to its good welfare and advancement, and will ever be found on the side of progress. Mr. Driver will be elected.

George Vanderbilt's palace in North Carolina has cost him $10,000,000 and is called Biltmore. Perhaps George wishes he had built less.

Let us have peace in Sanford. Stop the lying gossip now prevalent. I mean to do all in my power to put an effectual check on the scandalous and malicious statements that are being bandied about the city regarding some of our best citizens, and in so doing I shall "talk right to the point," without fear or favor. The time has passed when soft words should be used. Characters are being ruined, fair names besmirched by idle gossipers. It must stop, and every decent man and woman in Sanford should condemn such despicable work.

Hereafter, I shall "hew to the line," let the chips fall where they may.

We have disappearing guns all along the Atlantic seaboard; now if we can be guaranteed non-disappearing soldiers and non-disappearing cashiers we might be happy yet.

Florida, the Blessed

Kalamazoo may have furnished the celery for a goodly portion of the North with which to dress her Thanksgiving tables Thursday, but Florida rises to thank her that she is well served at home. The great packing houses of the Northwest can, and doubtless did furnish nearly all the meats for the feasting throughout the United States, but that does not alter the fact that the product of our own State surpasses in quality and flavor throughout the cold-storage, embalmed product of other sections.

California may aid Florida in supplying the country with fruit for Christmas, but she did not market the Thanksgiving orange as has Florida.

We of Florida need not look over many states, North, East, South or West, to discover blessings for which we are, and ever will be, devoutly thankful.

A more diversified source for money producing is not the part of any state or nation; no country has climatic conditions so ideal; no people on God's green earth have more to be thankful for than the people of Florida.

We may have been cheated out of a President, but have we not got Albert W.? We may not have the Statue of Liberty, but we have not cast the shadow of her emblem from our land, and where it falls we can feel the security that ever lies in a united people.

We may not have a Wall street, but what's better, we have the means of drawing upon that storehouse of gold for such amounts as is necessary for the further development of our commonwealth and the enriching of our citizens by the improvements thus wrought.

We may not have a Milton nor a Homer to sing our praises in immortal verse—and it is probably just as well we have not, for we hate to hear poetry read by those who can't understand it, and besides, truth and eloquence nestle most in simplest words; and while we have a few things to deplore, we have an abundance of things to be devoutly thankful for.

I am thankful that my readers have maintained patience with me in the past, and that no "terrified brave" has tried to sacrifice me as a martyr to old jokes and insipid lyrics.

Thanks! thanks awfully, gentlemen. I still live to bore you.

When the devil wants to find a great big bunch of lies he goes to the tombstones and copies the epitaphs.

Mutilation of Man's Wants
"Man wants but little here below,"
A one-time poet wrote;
And on this cheap idea, too,
The world it used to do.

But now this fact is plainly set—
Its truth we dare not scuff;
Man wants as much as he can get,
And he wants it right straight off.

Words Must Be Guarded

The story is told of a woman who freely used her tongue to the scandal of others, and made confession to the priest of what she had done. He gave her a ripe thistle-top and told her to go out in the various directions and scatter the seeds one by one. Wondering at the penance, she obeyed, and then returned and told her confessor. To her amazement he bade her go back and gather the scattered seeds, and when she objected that it would be impossible, he replied that it would be still more difficult to gather up and destroy all the evil reports which she had circulated about others.

Any thoughtless, careless child can scatter a handful of thistle seed before the wind in a moment, but the strongest and wisest man can never gather them again.

You are wasting good breath, says the cynic, by whispering kind words into dead ears.

"Strango," said a young woman who had just reached her majority, "how the facial fashion changes. Only a short time ago we were commanded by one of the lords of fashion to keep a soft smile on the face. Now comes another order that the smile must come off. A stolid countenance, we are informed will prevent the coming of wrinkles, and the girl who laughed heartily a week ago will be saddened to know all the mirth in which she indulged was lost. Above all, we now must be firm about the mouth. 'Keep your mouth shut,' is the order. It is no use to show one's pretty teeth. The law forbids the smile of yesterday, and also cautions us to keep our heads erect and eyelids down. I wonder what we will look like after six months of this. I think I shall feel like a plaster cast—as if my face would crack if I really laughed."

The friends of Councilman Lessor are determined in their efforts to make him a candidate for re-election, for they have much faith in his wisdom as evidenced in his long term as councilman.

"Better pick a man out of the gutter and restore him to his self-respect as far as you can," said a married lady to me the other day, "than to let him lie there with his own gone and yours with it." Forgive everything but unfaithfulness, and before you judge that, think over your own conduct and decide whether you have so entirely done your duty that your husband was strong enough to withstand temptation. In married life even justice must be tempered with mercy, and remember it's better to err on the side of mercy. The joy that there is in heaven over the one sinner that returns should live in the heart of every woman, when it comes to the question of deciding what is and what is not right between her and her husband.

Billy Hand is certainly the choice of the voters for member of council. I am sure no mistake will be made if Sanford-loving people place him in the roll of a "city dad." He is young, but he is enterprising, and this city needs a little "young life" squirted into its veins. I already felicitate Mr. Hand on his campaign and his subsequent election, December 7th.

A young lady found a purse in church and notified the pastor she had it, so if anyone reported the loss it could be returned. The next Sunday the clergyman made the following announcement from the pulpit:

Some one lost a purse last Sunday evening, and if the person wants his property he can go to Helen Hunt for it.

I noticed by THE HERALD of last week that my erstwhile friend and collaborer, W. D. Bell, is no longer connected with the Chronicle. This action on his part has caused no great sensation in the Celery City, and my friends of the business world are assured that there will be no panic or a relapse into a commercial stringency. The Orange County Bar Association is apprised, however, that he will devote ALL HIS ENERGIES (!) to the pursuit of law as she is "writ" by Blackstone. Nothing became Bell so much as his retirement from a business vocation for which he is neither mentally or physically equipped, and Orange county journalism will be the better that he is out of it. As for the law business, I do not believe it will suffer much of a jolt now that he can devote ALL his time to legal lore.

A gentleman had invited some friends to Thanksgiving dinner, and as the colored servant entered the room he accidentally dropped a platter which held a turkey. "My friends," said the gentleman in a most impressive tone, "never before have I witnessed an event so fraught with disaster to the various nations of the globe. In this calamity we see the downfall of Turkey, the upsetting of Greece, the destruction of China, and the humiliation of Africa.

Last week I said that F. M. Robinson would not be a candidate for re-election to the city council, but yesterday Alderman Robinson informed me that many admiring and supporting friends had insisted that he stand for re-election; This pressure has been so strong that he has consented to serve another term if the people so determine at the election Dec. 7, although Mr. Robinson says he is not personally desirous of the office. There is one great principle in the makeup of Mr. Robinson as a public officer, and that is, no one ever has the least doubt of his standing on any local legislation that comes before the council. He is always courageously frank and outspoken in his favor or denunciation of each and every measure that may be discussed.

Yours for Progress,
THE SAUNTERER.

PLATFORM OF C. C. MORRIS

Candidate for City Marshal Outlines His Intentions

To the Voters of the City of Sanford:

Having announced my candidacy for Marshal of the city of Sanford I respectfully solicit your vote and assistance.

I thoroughly believe that I am competent and qualified to hold the position and to serve the citizens of Sanford loyally and faithfully, and if accorded the honor of your vote and elected to this office I faithfully pledge myself to the careful watch and protection of citizens and property, and to do my duty fearlessly and with discretion.

I believe that I understand what the duties of this office are, and feel that I can meet its requirements in detail.

I have been a citizen of Sanford for a number of years and have never asked for office before. I shall favor the employment of home people to subordinate positions, as far as my influence goes, and the ability of the applicant considered.

I believe it is the duty of the Marshal to unhesitatingly enforce all ordinances and laws of the city within his jurisdiction; at the same time respecting the common politics and the rights of all citizens, and if elected I will give the city a clean, moral record that you as a citizen will endorse, and one of which I will not be ashamed.

Thanking you in advance for any help you may feel disposed to give me, I remain,

Yours respectfully,

C. C. MORRIS.

SIDEWALK TALK

Do you realize the necessity for a substantial foundation as a part of that sidewalk which you intend building? A nicely finished top lends beauty, but not stability. This is to be attained only when the same care is exercised in selection of materials for the foundation as for the top coat.

With this fact in mind, I am importing clean hard crushed stone, which when absolutely dependable engineering specifications, gives an absolutely dependable foundation. If you want a walk in which you can take pride in the years to come, be sure that that foundation is right. This is one of the characteristics of my work. Let me figure on such a walk for you.

THE MUNICIPAL ELECTION

The Herald has said that none but live, energetic men of unquestioned integrity ought to be elected to govern a city like Sanford. Just now, in the first flush of its elevation to a city of greater proportions and of greater influence in the world commercially; just now, when a step in the wrong direction may result disastrously for its future, it is most important to select men of liberal views, and men who have been tried and known to take great interest in municipal affairs and who will labor zealously for the advancement of the city.

All interest at present seems to center in the mayoralty contest, and the importance of electing a board of Aldermen who will give the very best service to the city and work for its good welfare, is lost sight of. The Mayor is an executive officer and can only enforce the laws that may from time to time be enacted by the Council; therefore, it appears that the Council is the all important body to be considered, and it is the greatest desire of THE HERALD, representing all the people as it does, that the very best men be selected for this office at the election December seventh.

There is quite a galaxy of aspirants announced for council. Those formally announced in this paper are G. R. Calhoun, W. H. Bond and Harry P. Driver, and our information is that W. N. Lefler, M. W. Loyell, F. P. Woodruff and M. F. Robinson are also aspirants for the office. These are all good men and among them the voter should be able to select three who will give to Sanford all that the Sanford-loving people desire.

It is unfortunate for any city like Sanford, just on the threshold of great achievements in the line of progress that factional differences should be agitated to the detriment of its material growth, and we trust each and every voter will well consider the importance of selecting good and reliable men for members of the city council irrespective of partisan membership or factional differences.

Forrest Lake, the present incumbent of the office of Mayor, is a sincere and enthusiastic friend of Sanford and his administration the past year has been fraught with progress and upbuilding. He has given much time to the affairs of the city (possibly more time than any other citizen or number of citizens). Being thoroughly alive to the city's needs he has labored in and out of season for its future advancement, and under his regime many improvements have been inaugurated, and it is the ambition of Mayor Lake and his legion of friends—admirers and henchmen—that he be permitted to retain the office until these most desirable improvements be completed.

Mr. E. E. Brady is a contestant for the office of Mayor, and if it should be the will of the voters to make him the head of the municipal government for the coming year, no calamity will have resulted therefrom. He is honest in his beliefs as laid down in his platform, published elsewhere in this paper and is thoroughly in line with progressiveness.

THE HERALD has no axe to grind, but will ever strive for the election of men who are known for their Sanford-loving qualities as against all others.

We wish to call the attention of our readers to the articles on page 10 under the caption of "The Voice of the People." One is upon the establishment of a crate factory and the other is from the pen of Henry Deane upon the subject of Bermuda onions. Both articles deserve special mention and should be read by everyone.

The Orlando Sentinel and the Reporter-Star have decided to quit scrapping. Editor Ferris remarks that the truce saved him from "tearing a hole in the mantle of charity and exposing a bit of inconsistency."

Better wear an overcoat or see the tailor.

A gentleman in the North wrote a letter to THE HERALD this week, requesting the name of the best hotel in Sanford. We referred him to the columns of THE HERALD. If he can find any there he will probably write to them.

Lake Monroe is appealing to the tourist this year as never before and boating and fishing is becoming the order of the day. Our beautiful lake and rivers can offer the greatest inducement to the sportsmen.

THE SANFORD HERALD has completed the first three months of its existence and a livelier or a more attractive infant would be hard to find.—Tampa Tribune.

SANFORD, THE CELERY CITY IS THANKFUL
When we pause to reflect upon the things for which Sanford, the Celery City, should be thankful, we very easily eliminate any thought of individual condition from the consideration, and view the city as the recipient of things good and desirable.

The thanksgiving that human nature, prone to ingratitude, might with more readiness render, is of a negative quality which returns thanks for evil things that we have not received rather than the good things that we have received.

To the conscientious man every day is a day of thanksgiving. The ordinary man of conscience is none too good, but he is the best we have, and him do we set up as a criterion by which other men are judged. It may be that all men were created equal, but it does not follow that all men live equally close to the right side of the line of demarcation dividing good from evil; therefore does it appear that man is good according to his own making rather than by inherent legacy. It is upon this thesis that THE HERALD applies the accepted proverb that God helps him who helps himself. To all who have overcome some besetting sin the truth of the proverb has been demonstrated.

As it is to be a city, except that the gauge of measurement for a city's triumphs more material than moral.

But of both material and moral accomplishments Sanford has been blessed beyond the measure meted to other cities, and the reason for the bestowal is that Sanford has helped itself. The day of miraculous dispensations belongs not to this time. No city has been made great by Providence. It has been said some time prior to the birth of THE HERALD as a newspaper that God made the country, but man made the country roads. That was but a liberal paraphrasing of the proverb previously referred to.

To emphasize the idea suggested by this season of thanksgiving as concerns our city, we need but one illustration. Only a short period ago, Sanford as a commercial mart was in a deplorable condition. Following the memorable freeze of 1894-95 when all the citrus groves were destroyed, the town fell into a torpor and for years its people were impassive to their surroundings; the handsome large business blocks were vacated, people moved away and commodious residences were uninhabited. But this apathy could not continue when once the energetic and ambitious men of the city were aroused to their opportunities. The splendid system of sub-irrigation and drainage, in connection with our famed artesian wells, was inaugurated and the city at once leaped into a prominence that completely surpassed its former greatness.

This city through its energy and business ambition, has spent thousands to improve the general condition and welfare, with the result that Sanford to-day is recognized as one of the liveliest and best business towns of the State. The effort was made and the means were supplied by our Sanford-loving people. To-day there are no vacant business rooms or unoccupied dwelling houses, and the constant cry is for more.

The one illustration is sufficient. Instances might be multiplied without strengthening the proposition and for all of these is Sanford, the Celery, thankful.

If it be proper for us to render thanks for one thing above another, then let it be for the energy and the character of the business community; for the spirit that sits not down and waits for fate to strike; for the determination to carve a disc of destiny and cleave a cloud from chaos.

For this let us all be thankful. "In Sanford life is worth living."

The day of the cheap party newspaper urban is over—the one that rises no higher in discussion of public questions than a lying, mangling, misrepresentation of facts and figures. That prostitute its news columns by editing in, or out, such as suits, or does not suit, its purpose. The most common fault and deception is the interlopers in what would otherwise be simply a news statement of an event or happening, or some biased phrase that changes the sense entirely. The kind that descend to personal vilification, without any sort of truth as a foundation, have already had tombstones ordered for them. The ones that print apologetic screeds in defense of political looters and thieving corporations when caught and exposed in some disreputable act. They may fool themselves with the idea that the public generally does not see and know their subserviency, and the itching palm held at the back to receive the price of their self-respect. But it does all the same.

Fete Day for Sanford should be agitating the minds of the people these days. With the many advantages enjoyed by Sanford this season we should by all means take such an occasion as a fete day to induce the visitors to come hence and visit the Celery City.

WHAT FLORIDA GAVE THANKS FOR
In enumerating the many things for which the State of Florida should be thankful, perhaps foremost in the list comes that of climate. While in other sections of the country Jack Frost has already blighted and laid low every green thing, and the bitterness of winter has set in, Florida is reveling in the balm of sunshine. Floggers blossom at every door and birds sing in the green foliage of the treetops. Refugees from the cold and bleakness of the North have already begun flocking our way and the season promises to be a record breaker in tourist travel. All this testifies as to the ideality of the Florida climate.

The natural resources with which the state is blessed is another cause for the giving of thanks by the people of Florida. Her immense pine forests, fertile soil, phosphate and other minerals, afford a source of abundant revenue to the people. In addition to this, her waters abound with fish and her forests with game of all kinds for the supplying of food, and for this the people of Florida should be thankful.

For the large streams that flow through a wide expanse of territory of the state and furnish means of navigation and commercial development, let the people of Florida be thankful.

The people of this state should be thankful, too, for the large appropriations made by the National Government for the deepening of its harbors and rivers and other improvements of the coast and channels.

For the wonderful health of the people in all sections of the state, and the low death percentage is a cause for thankfulness.

The amazing developments in fruit-growing and trucking in the southern portion of the state, is a matter for which thanks should be given.

For the big railway systems and steamship lines that are lending their aid in this development, let the people of Florida be thankful.

Another condition for which the people of the state should be thankful is the opportunity for the education of children afforded by the excellent system of public schools established in the state. And for the splendid institutions of higher learning Florida should give thanks.

Summing up the advantages enjoyed by the residents of Florida, one wonders if there is a more favored people on earth, and if any others have more cause for the giving of thanks at this annual thanksgiving season.

THE HERALD GIVES THANKS FOR—

That joyous exhilaration—the supreme happiness of LIFE, a life that means TRUTH.

That marvelous growth from its first issue on August 22d, since which time the growth and progress—hand in hand—have continued to remain marvelous and self-sufficient to the public and the management.

That earnestness and sincerity of purpose of good, which it has ever shown and to which it is bound by that factor—upright, clean journalism.

Its faults, for like the man of genius, the business man of success and the victor in battles, it has only but profited and grown by a true cognizance of its errors gained thereby.

To subscribers, who have been many and continued on the increase.

Its advertisers, who early recognized a good thing when they saw it.

Those friends who have been true and encouraging. THE HERALD showed early that sneers and innuendoes, both overt and covert, shrugs of shoulders implying failure, and harsh words of condemnation and injustice could not militate against it nor swerve it from its purpose.

The delight that the future looks ever so bright and full of sunshine six days of every week.

The knowledge that the work of those employed by THE HERALD has stood for co-operation, sincere interest and devotion to the progress of each issue.

That well recognized factor that THE HERALD has come to stay and that each issue is eagerly sought and read.

Its great success as a newspaper.

Turkey in America was annihilated Thursday, but Turkey in Europe will continue to gobble.

It is impossible not to admire the enterprise and talent displayed by some of the advertisers in THE HERALD. That they understand their business goes without saying. No art has advanced more rapidly in the last twenty years than that of letting the customers know what is in the stores, and what its adaptabilities are for his uses. The American leads the world in this important branch of business. A comparison of leading European and American journals easily establishes the fact. The American advertiser presents his matter with far more clearness, variety and fullness of detail than the English. He is more liberal in the use of space, and of pictorial and other embellishments. The trade of our merchants and manufacturers accordingly grows faster than that of competitors in other countries. Americans have learned how to make commercial advertising profitable, attractive and generally interesting to the readers. It is hardly necessary to add that the proof is near at hand in great diversity.

Burial of W. T. Johns

The last sad rites over the remains of W. T. Johns were conducted last Sunday.

A brief service of prayer was conducted at the home at 1:30 Sunday morning by Rev. J. F. McKinlon of the Presbyterian church, after which the remains were taken to Dade City on train 83, leaving here at 2:20 a. m., accompanied by Mrs. Johns, Mrs. D. L. Thrasher, Miss Garner, and Messrs. F. B. Stevens and N. H. Garner. At Dade City the party were met by other friends and at the cemetery the remains were laid to rest, a service at the grave being conducted by the pastor of the Baptist church.

Mr. Johns had been a resident of Sanford for a number of years. In addition to owning and operating the depot restaurant, Mr. Johns owned the opera house and valuable real estate in the city and suburbs. He was looked upon as one of the solid business men of Sanford and held the respect and esteem of all who knew him.

Mr. Johns was also well known in other sections of Florida, having large property interests at Lakeland and Tampa.

He was married about one year ago to Miss Gray of Kentucky, who survives him. A son and daughter, the children by his former wife, are left to mourn the loss of a loving parent.

Being identified with so many business interests makes the loss of Mr. Johns felt most keenly by the people of Sanford.

Wonderful Invention

H. W. Wood, who occupies the chair of experimental physics at Johns Hopkins university, has worked out a mercury telescope by which it is hoped that life, if it exists, may be seen on the planet Mars. Prof. Wood has reported his discovery to the National Academy of Science. He declines to make any definite statement as to the future possibility of the instrument. It is possible, however, he said, that a mirror fifteen or twenty feet in diameter, mounted on the tropics at the bottom of a deep pit, might enable people to observe details on Mars and the other planets which cannot be seen with smaller instruments.

Ripe Strawberries and Tomatoes

R. H. Whitner tried tomatoes in Sanford soil this season more as an experiment to see if they could be raised at this season of the year. He has a number at his office and they are good to the eye and palate. He also has several acres in strawberries and this week brought in some ripe ones from his place. This crop will soon become popular with Sanford growers, there being about thirty acres in berries this season. There is no limit to the variety of fruits and vegetables raised in this section.

New Laundry Started

The Sanford Hand Laundry, under the management of Mrs. A. R. Marshall, has started operations in the building adjoining the Lefler block. New machinery has been installed and they are prepared to handle the laundry trade of the city and guarantee satisfaction in every respect. Mr. and Mrs. Marshall have a thorough knowledge of the business and will give all work their personal attention.

MONEY IN EARLY CELERY

Early Shipments Bring Best Prices To The Grower

Last year the truth of the statement that more money was made in early celery than late was clearly demonstrated. Not only should the growers endeavor to start their seed beds early and plant the celery early for the first markets, but this would make a longer season and mean several months longer in marketing the crop, thus obviating the necessity of flooding the market at one time. J. N. Whitner has contended that the growers could realize greater profits by earlier planting and the New York Packer in the following article bears out the contention:

Celery dealers are preparing for a rushing trade next week to meet the Thanksgiving demand. The trade is more cut up in New York city today than it ever was before. Formerly there were four exclusive celery dealers who handled the bulk of all the celery sold and they had a very nice thing of it. Nearly all of these people are now confronted with competition by men who have learned the trade under them, and there is celery offered on nearly every corner along Wood street. This has cut up the trade badly so that there is not as much money in it as formerly.

The New York celery will last about a month longer. The bulk of the choice is in the hands of two or three dealers and that which is to come in the future will not be first-class. It is a little strange that Florida growers do not come to the front as soon as the New York state stock is out of the way. Heretofore, Florida growers seemed to have been afraid of the California deal and have held back. It is the history of the trade that the early Florida celery, which looks better than the California stock, brings good money. Last year the Florida growers came to the market earlier than before and reaped rich profits. If they will do the same this year there is no reason why they should not be strong competitors of the California stock. For some reason the trade here will pay a better price for Florida celery than they will for California.

Last year New York had 25 or 30 cars for this trade. The western markets are in better position to take the California product than New York and that is why the supply of this season was light, besides there is plenty of state stock around which will fill the requirements of the trade. Prices this week ranged 25 or 30c. It looks as if the California people would make some money on the deal this year. They are asking 30c a dozen on the coast and an offer of 25 for a lot was refused. Many of the growers have found they can make more money by growing sugar beets and a good many of them have dropped celery. The sugar beets have already been harvested, while the celery is not yet dug. These two inducements will act to cut down the celery acreage from California next year unless the growers make good money this season.

FLORIDA VEGETABLES ACTIVE

New York and Philadelphia Have Good Trade in This Line

New York, Nov. 21.—Receipts of Florida oranges and grapefruit continued heavy this week, but there was not any great change in prices, although an easier feeling was felt on the street. Oranges ranged from $1.50 up to $2.50, with an occasional real fancy Indian River selling up to $3. Grapefruit sold from $2.50 to $3.50 on the street. The low prices ruling in Florida oranges and grapefruit now can be attributed principally to the heavy accumulations on this market. Prices were high a few weeks ago and shipping was encouraged, with the results that there were very heavy shipments of green fruit. This fruit sold through the auction houses and the buyers shoved them into the warm rooms.

Lettuce from Florida was in good demand and in light receipt. In fact all Florida vegetables were wanted and were not plentiful. Lettuce sold at high prices, the best offerings at $3 to $4.50 a box. Peas were another item that met a good outlet, but there were not enough to go around. Nice fine green peas brought $4.50, eggplants $3, peppers $2, green beans $1.50 to $2, wax beans $2 to $2.25, and romaine $1.50 to $2.

Philadelphia, Nov. 21.—Florida fruits and vegetables were in good demand this week, lettuce bringing $4 to $4.50, beans $2 to $2.50, peas $3 to $3.50, okra $2.50 to $3, cukes $3.50 to $4, and eggplants $3.50 to $4. A few dealers who bought Florida lettuce in New York brought it over here and made money on it.

Lawn Mowers

Special prices to reduce stock. If you want a good mower at a low price, now is the time to buy. Also good stock of scythes, grass hooks and lawn rakes. Harry J. Wilson.

M. M. SMITH, SANFORD, FLORIDA

ALL AROUND FLORIDA

The General News of "The Land of Flowers"

CULLED FROM THE STATE PRESS

An Epitome of the Week's Most Important Happenings in the State's Domain.

The supreme court of Florida has handed down a decision in the case of the City of Tampa against the waterworks company of that city sending the case back to the circuit court for trial. The court decided that a question of fact enters into the suit, and that there has not been the proper procedure to cite the matter involved to the higher court. It is intimated that the statutes are ample to govern the case, and that the matter is not altogether one of constitutionality. It is also intimated that if the allegations made in the bill of pleading are true, the respondents may lose their franchise.

The Southern Bell Telephone Company is having its wires in Jacksonville placed underground.

The Seaboard Florida limited tourist trains are to be put on between New York and Florida points January 4. The trip from the Northern metropolis to Jacksonville will be made in about two hours less time than heretofore.

Mrs. C. D. Souter of Anthony was so badly burned last week by her dress catching fire that she died a few hours later. She was formerly Miss Minnie Montgomery, and was 55 years of age.

Richard Croker, former grand sachem of Tammany, is to spend the winter in Florida, having come from his landed estate in Ireland for that purpose and to see old-time friends North and South.

Contract has been let for the rebuilding of the Pebble Phosphate Company's plant at Mulberry, recently destroyed by fire.

The Seaboard Air Line is to spend in the neighborhood of $75,000 in improvements at Tampa.

Dr. V. K. Osigian, a native of Harpeth, Armenia, is in Florida prospecting with a view to introducing the manufacture of silk on a large scale. Everything being satisfactory, the doctor proposes to put out an orchard of mulberry trees, hatch and care for hundreds of thousands of silk worms, spin and dye the silk thread from the cocoons, and conduct the business exactly as it is carried on in his native country, but with the more advanced methods which American machinery and new world ideas have brought about.

On and after the first of January the P. and O. steamships will make landings at St. Petersburg on their trips to and from Cuba.

A shooting affair occurred in the grand jury room at Quincy, Nov. 21, in which Thomas R. Smith was killed, C. Y. Smith, his father, and Dr. Robert Munroe seriously wounded. An old dispute between the parties is supposed to have been the cause of the shooting.

Mrs. Eddie Moon of Starke committed suicide Nov. 21, by shooting herself in the head. Ill health was the cause of the act.

After an illness of several months, Raymond D. Knight, for many years one of the most prominent and progressive business men of Jacksonville, died at his residence in that city Saturday night last.

Engineer M'Dermont of the Atlantic Coast Line, was killed in a collision at Burnett's Lake crossing, near Gainesville, Saturday last. The engine which he was driving was struck broadside by another engine turning M'Dermont's engine over and pinning him under it.

Judge Orrin S. Farr, a most honored and respected citizen of Tampa, died at his home in that city on Monday last. He was formerly of Chardon, Ohio, but for the past fifteen years had made his home in Tampa.

Three loads of sawlogs passing through our town for the Bean Creek saw mill attracted much attention yesterday. A new sensation of this sort is getting to be an everyday occurrence in this town of late.

Uncle Ezra Simpkins has pulled the throttle wide open and popped the question to Aunt Jerusha Hybarger, who's been a forlorn and disconsolate widow going on three months. Let 'em splice is our sentiment.

Uncle Lufe Perkins has quit the Hardshell church and joined the Newlights. He says he don't believe in ducking converts in ice water in winter weather, especially if a man is subject to night sweats, but Deacon Cronkrite says Lufe got mad because he was asked to help raise the preacher's salary $20 a year.

Aleck Peasly had a photograph picture taken the other day on his sorrel mare and it may be printed in the Bungstarter. He looks every inch a major-general. Aleck is descended from revolutionary stock.

Sam Stump's ram has at last been dehorned, but not until it had committed much devilment. The day before it was dehorned it butted over Ex Filkins' wife while she was milking her cow, and when she got up it jammed her in the stomach so hard that her digestion has been much impaired ever since. —HAYRUBE.

Double Clyde Service to Sanford

(Times-Union, Monday)

Commencing today, the Clyde river line will operate regularly the steamers Frederick DeBarry and the City of Jacksonville between this point and Sanford as the river shipments have increased to such proportions that it has been necessary to give this service special attention, and Mr. B. J. Ford, formerly of the Brunswick and Florida Steamboat Company of Brunswick, Ga., has been appointed traveling agent for the Clyde line with headquarters at Jacksonville. He will be in charge of the soliciting of traffic for the St. Johns river line, and looking generally after the interests of their river line patrons. This company expects to give the very best possible service, not only passenger, but way freight.

Tampa Fair

The Fifth Annual State Fair will be held at Tampa, February 3 to 27. To hold the Fair and to make it bigger and better than ever was the decision reached at a meeting of the stockholders of the Florida State Midwinter Fair Association, held at Tampa Monday. Insistent demands that have been made upon the association that the Fair be not abandoned, by railroad and other enterprises interested in bringing visitors and settlers to Florida, as well as by private citizens throughout the state, made it clear to the association that it would not do to declare the next Fair "off."

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS

Special Correspondence to The Herald.
Nov. 23.—The Sanford Herald, one of the newsy papers of Orange county, is a most welcome weekly visitor, and should be in every home in the county, for it keeps us in touch with the progressive city of Sanford, (the Celery City of Florida) as well as every section of the county, and the outside world. Editor Holly is an up-to-date editor and one who does things. The citizens of the quiet little village of Altamonte Springs appreciate such men, and will give him their hearty support.

The popular tourist hotel, "The Altamonte," will be open to the public on Dec. 10th, under the management of S. M. Johnson, proprietor of the Stanley hotel of Shirley Hill, N. H., one of the most popular tourist hotels in that state, and is already assured of a full house for the entire season, for he is another one of those men who do things, and does them for the comfort and entertainment of his guests.

Several of the winter resident families are at home in their elegant cottages, and within a few days every house in the village will be occupied.

I. McMichael, vice-president and general manager of the Great Northwestern Telegraph Company of Canada, will arrive Dec. 10th, accompanied by his family, and will be at home for the season in their picturesque winter home, "The Orienta View," the beauty spot of Altamonte.

Dr. J. Southerland Stuart and family arrived last week, accompanied by Mr. Marshall and his sisters, Mrs. Fabraham and Mrs. Tilson, who will be the guests of the Doctor until the hotel opens. Mr. Marshall and his sisters have spent several winters at this delightful resort, and cannot be lured away from its attractions.

The proprietor of Oak Knoll fruit and stock farm has added to his herd of hogs a trio of pure-blooded Duroc Red Jerseys. The male is of the famous Longfellow strain, one of the best ever produced in the United States.

But very little fruit is being shipped at present. The growers prefer to leave the fruit on the trees until matured, and sustaining the former reputation of delicious Florida oranges before they received the black eye in the markets by being shipped grass green, and unpalatable.

The organizing of the fruit-growers which is now rapidly going on throughout the state will soon be the means of restoring to Florida oranges to their former reputation of being the most delicious oranges grown in the world, and fruit cultivation again become a satisfying industry instead of unsatisfying as it has been for the past few years. —N. ### ORANGE COUNTY CROPS

A Good Yield of Oranges—Vegetable Acreage Is Better

[Special Correspondence to New York Packer.]

Orlando, Fla., Nov. 21.—Orange county, which at one time was the banner orange producing county of Florida, but which was badly damaged during the memorable freeze of fourteen years ago, is fast coming back to its old standard of first in the list. Last year there were shipped from Orlando alone about 230,000 boxes of citrus fruits, and while this year's crop of grapefruit is a little short of last season's, yet the general estimate among shippers here is to the effect that about the same number of boxes of all kinds will be shipped from this station during this season as last. While the early shipments were, as usual, green, and some of the present supplies are too green to be fancy, yet the fruit this year will be away above last season's in quality. There are at present nine packing houses in operation here, and every station in the county, both north and south of Orlando, has one or more packing houses.

The vegetable crop here is also looking fine and as the market for all kinds of Florida vegetables is good the growers are once more happy. Last season's market was so bad that many growers throughout the state have either not planted at all for the fall and winter, or planted a much smaller acreage, and this section is no exception to this rule, hence those who were not discouraged by last year's failure will reap the benefit of an unusually fine crop, and every indication of a continuous good market.

THE WIDOW and

A THANKSGIVING EPISODE

DEACON SILAS LAPHAM, widower, had been paying attentions to Aunt Sarah Henderson, widow, for two years. Each heard that the other was stubborn, and each was watching and waiting for the other to exhibit the trait. Thanksgiving brought the crisis. The widow invited the deacon to dinner. There was no question about the deacon taking the head of the table, but when the matter of carving came up the widow took knife and fork in hand and said:

"I can do it so much better than you, you know."

"I fail to see how or why," he replied.

"Because I have always carved. It was an eccentricity of mine even when I was a girl. No doubt you can slice a turkey, but you never come to carving a turkey."

"I have carved thousands of them,

"But I thought it a slander. Now, however, I can no longer doubt."

"Neither can I."

"It was my place to carve that turkey. In your obstinacy you continued to saw and jab and butcher without regard to my feelings. My only recourse is to bid you good day and take my hat and leave."

"If you will act like a boy, I can't help it."

"And never come again," finished the deacon as he got on his overcoat.

The widow ate her Thanksgiving dinner alone, but that turkey was never carved to form a part of it. After the deacon's departure she returned to the carving knife and eventually managed to saw off a piece of the meat, but she had no sooner tasted it than she started for the kitchen to interview the hired girl.

It was three or four days before the

as you must know," interrupted the deacon, with considerable asperity. "Don't jab the fork into the bird like that. That's like a hired man jabbing a pitchfork into a heap of hay."

"I was not jabbing. In order to start carving you must get a firm hold of the bird."

"Then take it by a leg."

"Never! How would you look holding the bird with one hand while you sliced away with the knife? If you have always carved that way—"

"I have, and it's the only way to carve. There—you are jabbing again! One would think you were a soldier bayoneting an enemy."

"Deacon Silas Lapham, you are talking like a child! When I think I need to be told how to carve a turkey I will call on you for advice. I simply get a firm hold with the fork and then—"

"And then jab, jab, jab. A woman has no business with the carving knife and fork when there is a man present. I will carve this turkey."

"I beg your pardon, but you will sit there and see me carve it. Don't forget that I am in my own house and that I am still my own boss."

"You invite me to dinner and then humiliate me, do you?" shouted the deacon as he shoved back his chair.

"Now, don't be a schoolboy," chided the widow as she flourished the knife around. "Having got a firm hold with the fork, I now proceed to cut around the thigh joint—thus—"

"But you are sawing instead of cutting."

"No, I'm not."

"Widow Henderson!"

"Deacon Lapham!"

"If I was a swearing man—"

"You'd get off a swear word on this occasion. Yes, you look as if you were swearing to yourself this minute."

"I hadn't sworn a single swear, but when a man has to sit here and see a Thanksgiving turkey jabbed and poked and stabbed and sawed and butchered the Lord would surely forgive him for one or two swear words."

"Deacon Silas Lapham," she replied as she rested from her labors. "I said I could carve a fowl."

"Then why don't you?"

"I am doing it, and if you would keep quiet for five minutes I—"

"This is too much, widow—too much!" said the deacon as he started for his overcoat and hat. "You invite me here and then insult me. I heard about your obstinacy—"

"And I heard about yours."

"And your wretched temper—"

"None to you."

mystery was solved, for there was a mystery. The turkey, which had been killed three or four days ahead of time and hung up to freeze, had been cut down and devoured by cats, and to save himself from reproof the hired man had killed a peacock and hung it in its place.

"And so you see I had to saw and jab," explained the widow as the widower was sent for.

"Y-e-s, I see."

"And you would also have had to saw and jab."

"Y-e-s."

"And though you went away you didn't miss your turkey."

"N-o."

"And all things considered—"

"Yes, all things considered—"

The deacon's fur had to be rubbed the right way for a time, but he purred at last, and on this Thanksgiving day he will do the carving and his wife will pass the cranberry sauce.

Little Courtesies.

William Wirt's letter to his daughter on the "small, sweet courtesies of life" contains a passage from which a deal of happiness might be learned: "I want to tell you a secret. The way to make yourself pleasing to others is to show them attention. The whole world is like the miller at Mansfield, who cared for nobody—no, not he—because nobody cared for him. And the whole world would serve you so if you gave them the same cause. Let every one, therefore, see that you do care for them by showing them what Sterne so happily calls the small courtesies, in which there is no parade, whose voice is too still to tease and which manifest themselves by tender and affectionate looks and little acts of attention, giving others the preference in every little enjoyment at the table, in the field, walking, sitting or standing."

Foretelling the Future.

Why Not a Crate Factory?

To the Editor of THE HERALD

Several months ago I noticed several articles in The Herald about the construction of a crate factory in Sanford, and the idea appealed to me very strongly, as it seems to me that a city situated as our own would be able to support factories and offer more inducements regarding sites and water transportation than any other city in Florida. Sanford is not so large at present but that a company could secure a building site and riparian rights at a nominal cost—land which in a few years will be too valuable to dispose of for that purpose. I have failed so far to see where any inducements have been offered to capitalists to locate any such enterprise in this city, although if the right party appears and shows a disposition to do business, the public spirited citizens of this city can be depended upon to come across with the goods. Several are of the opinion that lumber would be difficult to procure for this purpose, but one citizen remarked the other day that in order to further the installation of such a factory he would donate the necessary timber from a tract of land near this city, as he wishes to clear it up for planting.

Another proposition that would appeal to the prospective investors is that of buying up a timber tract on Lake Monroe or Lake Harney and rafting the logs to the mill at Sanford.

However as that may be, it would seem that Sanford should have a crate factory, and while the local demand could not be depended upon to keep the factory running full time, it would certainly be a great inducement, and this whole section could be worked for business in this line.

The question of a crate factory should be investigated and special inducements offered to prospective investors. There are several parties who are anxious to locate in Sanford in this venture and it would be well for the Board of Trade to look them up and go over the ground. If possible, this enterprise should be started at once, as "every little bit added to what you have makes a little bit more."

Sanford Lands Are Ideal For the Growth of Bermuda Onions

To the Editor of THE HERALD

A recent magazine article on Bermuda onion growing in Texas has impressed me so deeply that I send you this comment, feeling sure the question of adding the Bermuda onion to the already large and valuable list of money crops at Sanford will prove highly interesting to your readers.

The rapid growth of this industry in Texas, together with the preparation of the land, the care necessary in planting and cultivating, the absolute necessity of thorough irrigation, and the large returns received from the crop—all these are so nearly identical with the growth and money value of the celery industry in your city—that the attention is arrested and interest aroused.

About ten years ago, T. C. Nye began experimenting near Laredo, Texas, planting only a few acres of onions; establishing a small irrigation plant, he obtained an abundant yield. Gradually increasing his acreage, by 1900 there were about fifty acres in that vicinity. The success of each succeeding crop has served as an incentive of acreage, resulting in several hundred acres of raw land being added to the cultivated area each year, until now the total acreage is about twenty-five hundred acres of land, with an annual crop of a money value of $2,000,000.

Onion growing has done another thing to help Texas. It has been the means of adding more than $2,500,000 to the value of her lands. Before the inauguration of the onion industry, much of this land could have been purchased at $1 and $2 per acre; now it is hard to get a value placed upon the land, some suggesting $1,000, others $2,000 per acre, others yet who will not sell at any price. The similarity of past and present values at Sanford, and the sentiment of her land-owners, are strikingly coincident.

In Texas the seed bed is planted the latter part of September; in six or eight weeks the plants are ready for transplanting. The ground is put in as thorough a condition of mellowness as is possible with plow, harrow, rake and drag. Although good crops are obtained on new ground, the longer the land is in cultivation the larger is the yield. The valley of the Rio Grande has proved to be the most favored region for onion growing—there the water supply is pumped direct from the river into the large irrigating ditches at a cost of about $8 per acre—in some of the districts they have the artesian supply. The best results are obtained by giving the plants abundance of water—irrigating freely every day during the first sixty days; after that, until harvest, once a week.

The estimated cost from the seed bed to the loading on the cars is $150 to $200 per acre. Harvesting is usually done in April. There has never been a crop failure in onion growing in Texas. For a few years some trouble was experienced in properly marketing the crop, but 90 per cent of the growers formed an association and employed a sales agent at $7,500 per annum to direct the marketing; this method has proved highly successful. During the last two years top prices have been obtained and "Texas Bermuda Onions" are supplanting the crop from the Islands.

Now to sum up: If all this can be done in Texas, what may be accomplished in Sanford, with climate, soil, and abundant irrigation? Apparently the conditions could not be more favorable.

The markets of the United States, Canada and Europe are open to "Sanford Bermuda Onions." —HENRY H. DEANE, Jacksonville, Fla. Nov. 28.

Thanksgiving Services

Union Thanksgiving services were held in the Baptist church Thursday morning at 10:30 o'clock, and a representative audience of Sanford people was in attendance.

The various church choirs united in rendering some excellent music, adding much to the enjoyment of the day's exercises. Rev. D. B. Sweet read a portion of the eighth chapter of Deuteronomy as a scripture lesson, following which he led in an earnest prayer.

The proclamations issued by President Roosevelt and Governor Broward were read by Dr. J. T. Denton.

The freewill offering of the congregation was divided among the churches represented in the service, to be used in helping the poor and needy.

Rev. J. F. McKinnon, of the Presbyterian church, delivered the sermon. He selected as his text some verses from the eighth chapter of Deuteronomy. He showed how we, as American people, have much cause for thanksgiving. Our nation is at peace with all other nations, and prosperity smiles upon us. Emphasizing the words of the chief of our nation he said while there had been some financial pressure in the land, still our people are doing well. Truly we dwell in a goodly land. The speaker showed how as a christian nation we should be thankful for material blessings, for intellectual progress, and above all for spiritual advancement. He contended that the world was growing better and that every man of us had great cause for thanksgiving.

One thing surprised him. In looking over the proclamations issued by our rulers not one reference to the Great Source of all Blessings—God's greatest gift to man, "His Only Begotten Son."

He closed with an appeal to the people not to forget God, in the midst of their prosperity and pleasant surroundings, lest his curse come upon us.

The closing prayer was offered by Rev. C. E. Richards, of the Congregational church, who also pronounced the benediction.

BRADY MAKES ANOTHER ADDRESS

To the Voters at the Coming Municipal Election

To the Voters of Sanford:

I have submitted to you the platform upon which I stand as a candidate for mayor of Sanford. This I believe, in fairness and justice to the people, should be done by every candidate for office. In this I think you will agree with me. I realize that it is the absolute right of every voter to know the position any candidate takes in regard to issues of the campaign, and they should demand this information. I have, therefore, regardless of whatever action my opponents in this campaign take, frankly stated my position, and I believe, after considering my platform, there will be no doubt in your minds as to my exact position in regard to these issues. I, therefore, feel that in this respect I have done my full duty toward you.

I realize, as every other property holder must, that our city taxes are extremely exorbitant. Of course there is a reason for it. That reason is based upon the fact that our city has practically no other means of obtaining funds with which to meet the necessary expenses of government. I firmly believe and am absolutely convinced, that if the city owns and operates a waterworks and lighting plant, a revenue THAT WOULD GREATLY ASSIST to meet the necessary expenses of government would be produced, which, in addition to the saving of the $4,000 now paid each year by the city for water and lights, would enable us to reduce taxes. There is no doubt in my mind, and I presume no one will question that waterworks and lighting plants are good investments, not simply because successful elsewhere, but also because the present owners of these franchises in this city are not willing to dispose of them—the lighting plant especially, the owners of which are now before the city council endeavoring to secure another franchise. I am sure you appreciate fully the burdens of still greater taxation, and hope you realize the great importance of our taking steps to prevent this.

Having publicly presented my platform for your consideration, and defined my position in regard thereto, I again respectfully solicit your support and suffrage.

Respectfully,
—E. E. BRADY.

Grand Display of Christmas Goods

The approach of the holidays brings to our minds the idea of gifts and the thoughts turn to the selection of a suitable offering for the loved ones. While on a tour of inspection The Herald man happened into the emporium of Henry McLaulin, the well known jeweler and his wonderful display of articles is enough to dazzle the eyes of all who behold them. They are arrayed in a tempting manner from the most expensive and extravagant diamonds and jewelry to the orange wood souvenirs that bespeak the native climate of Florida. Diamonds in rings, pendants, pins, brooches and ear rings. Watches from the best solid gold ones to the Ingersoll for the boys. The Howard watch is a special strong feature of this line. The handsome line of china hand painted and decorated, cut glass articles, sterling silver goods, toilet sets, alligator skin bags and pocket books, Waterman fountain pens, Roger's silver plate, knives and forks gold bracelets in all patterns, lockets and neck chains, pendant necklaces in the latest designs, gold and silver cuff buttons, ebony goods and a vast display of souvenir goods makes a glittering array that cannot fail to attract the purchaser. The goods are of the best quality and fully sustain the reputation of the house of McLaulin to handle only the highest grade. Next week the public is cordially invited to visit the store and make the selections early while the stock is complete. Mr. McLaulin announces that the store will remain open every evening to accommodate the holiday shoppers and every one should take advantage of this opportunity.

Week of Prayer

The first three nights of this week were observed as a time of prayer by the ladies of the Methodist church. The Home and Foreign Missionary societies united in the services, and much information pertaining to these important departments of the church was given out. Monday evening was devoted to the cause of Home Missions and Tuesday the foreign field was considered. Wednesday both interests received attention. Mrs. Hamilton sang on Monday evening, Mrs. Mettlinger on Tuesday and on Wednesday evening the Junior League delighted the audience with a beautiful song. These special selections, in addition to the regular music, made up a very interesting program for the week of prayer. The free-will offering was divided between the two societies.

SHIP ONLY MATURED FRUIT

When Properly Packed Will Always Bring the Highest Market Price

(N. H. Eyes in Jacksonville Fruit and Produce News)

The wet weather for the past week and which still continues is unfavorable for those who are desirous to hasten the shipment of immature fruit, but most favorable to the fruit growers in general, for every day's delay of shipping fruit at this critical time adds to the maturity of the fruit and its delicious quality so much admired in bygone times when the shipping of green fruit was unknown. Every fruit grower in the state is aware of the fact that a very large majority of the citrus fruits of Florida are not fully matured before the month of January. A few varieties of early fruit can be shipped during the month of December and that is as early as the regular season should commence, for then there would be no kick coming about green fruit and unsatisfactory prices.

Fully matured Florida fruit properly packed will in all cases bring the highest market price, which is always satisfactory to the growers, and the organizing of all of the growers in the state will produce those desirable conditions. The best advice that can be given to the citrus fruit growers of the state is to organize at once and keep organizing until every grower in the state has enlisted in the ranks, for then, and not till then, can they control the markets as demanded, then there can be no glut, and slaughtering of prices, as is the case under the present cut-throat conditions. We can often receive much benefit by observing the experiences of others and in many cases add to our prosperity by improving on that experience, as conditions require, for none are too old to live and learn something new every day. The times are coming and not in the far distant future, when all of the citrus fruit crops of the United States will be sold through one great system, and by auction sale, the prices obtained being governed by the quality and condition of the fruit, which will be a stimulant to every grower and packer to make their best efforts to excel in the careful handling of their fruit under such conditions, which is sure to prevail in the near future. The farmers (for all fruit growers are farmers) will come into their own, and should become the most independent and happy class of residents on this great globe, and organizing and keeping organized is the great golden key to that desirable happiness and comfort.

MAYOR LAKE STATES POSITION.

Clear and Concise Letter Upon the Vital Questions.

To the Voters of the City of Sanford:
My attention has been called to certain planks in the platform of Mr. E. E. Bradey, candidate for Mayor, and I am told that some people, who have not given the matter much attention, are laboring under the impression that I have everything to do with the present agitation concerning the proposed extension of the present City limits.

I desire to say, to those who are not fully advised, that the Mayor of Sanford has nothing more to do with the determination of that matter than any other voter. I do favor the extension of the present City limits, the territory to be annexed to be determined by law. I am in favor of a Greater and Better Sanford, and feel that we can not hope to accomplish the improvements desired by most of us, and absolutely essential to the welfare of our city, unless the present city limits are extended. Whether said limits are to be extended or not will have to be determined by the vote of the people of Sanford and (annexing territory in an election called for that purpose and approved by the Legislature.

Our neighbors living immediately outside of the ten square blocks, which constitute the present limits of our City, derive many of the benefits of our town, and they should come in and help us make Sanford, what she certainly will be in the near future, the Metropolis of South Florida.

As to a reduction of taxes, any person who is familiar with the duties of the Mayor, knows full well that the Mayor has not, nor can he have, anything to do with the raising or the reduction of taxes. It is a matter entirely and absolutely in the hands of the Council, and the Mayor has no voice whatsoever in the rate of taxation.

As to municipal ownership, under the present state of affairs, the municipal ownership of public utilities is infeasible and impracticable, for the reason that our city charter, granted by the Legislature of 1893, limits our bonded indebtedness to $50,000, of which $45,000 has been authorized, leaving available a balance of $5,000. I will not attempt to estimate what it would cost the city to install an electric light and water plant, but it is self evident that the $5,000 worth of bonds available are not sufficient to warrant the city at this time of entertaining the idea of the municipal ownership of public utilities.

Without bonding for the purpose, of municipal ownership can not for a moment be seriously considered, as at the present time the amount derived by the city from taxation is barely sufficient to meet its actual yearly running expenses and the interest on its outstanding bonds.

And again I desire to call your attention to the fact that, like extension of the city limits, municipal ownership is a matter that the Mayor has nothing to do with. The question belongs to the people as a whole, to be settled by their votes cast at a special election to be held for that purpose.

A candidate for Mayor has no need of a platform. It is like unto the fifth wheel to a wagon, but since my opponent has seen fit to deliver himself of his platform, I will do likewise in three words, I believe in ENTERPRISE, PROSPERITY and PROGRESS.

I am willing to submit my candidacy to the people of Sanford. My past record is before you. I promise in the future, as I have endeavored in the past, to enforce the ordinances as I find them, impartially and irrespective of persons.

If my past efforts for the upbuilding and advancement of Sanford, and my record as Mayor met with your approval, I respectfully solicit your vote in the coming city election to be held next Monday, December, the 7th.

Yours very respectfully,
—FORREST LAKE.

Many Land Sales This Week.

Sanford real estate is the lure that is bringing hundreds of homeseekers and investors to our city. Among those who were here this week are the following:

William H. Lynn, of Bristol, Tenn., purchased from Howard-Packard Land Co., three acres of improved truck land in Goldsboro.

Four gentlemen from Jackson, Mich., and three from Petosky, Mich., have taken options on lands belonging to the Howard Packard Land Co., and will probably purchase some in a few weeks. J. N. Whitner sold to C. C. Whittaker, of Camden, S. C., thirty acres of celery land on Beardsall Avenue.

Several other land deals were made yesterday by real estate firms, not being consummated in time for publication.

H. P. DRIVER'S PLATFORM

Favors Progressiveness and Wants All Public Improvements

To the Voters of Sanford:
At the earnest solicitation of a number of friends, I announce myself as a candidate for Alderman of Sanford.

I am a new citizen in this city, but have lived in Orlando a number of years. I came here from Orlando because I believed Sanford had a great future ahead of it and offered better opportunities than Orlando.

All the property I have anywhere is invested in Sanford, and I am one of the largest stockholders in the Sanford Water and Improvement Company.

I am not personally acquainted with many of the citizens of our city and take this means of announcing my candidacy and asking your support at the coming election, on December 7th.

I also think it well to let you know what I stand for in this election. I want electric lights, paved streets, an extension of our sidewalk and sewage systems. I desire a general cleaning up of our streets and alleys, and more shade trees.

I ask the suffrage of every voter who desires these improvements and pledge you that, if elected, I will devote my time and energy to the accomplishment of these measures—measures so necessary to the welfare of our fair little city that they should meet no opposition from any source or from any one.

Thanking you in advance for the support I hope to receive and pledging you again my best efforts and my devotion to the city's interests, I am,

Sincerely yours for progress,
—HARRY P. DRIVER.

FOR SANFORD'S GREATER PROSPERITY

THE PLATFORM OF E. E. BRADY

Candidate for Mayor of City of Sanford

To the People of Sanford:

INTERESTED as I am in the welfare and prosperity of the City of Sanford and its citizens, and desiring to see our city advance and take its place as the foremost inland city of our State, which distinction properly belongs to us, and having no other motive than the upbuilding of Sanford and its greater prosperity, I have announced my candidacy for the office of Mayor, and take pleasure in presenting to you my Platform, in which I have embodied the issues which I believe are foremost in the minds of our citizens and best adapted to bring about the desired result:

- I am in favor of reduction of taxes.
- I am in favor of better fire protection.
- I am in favor of paving and keeping in proper condition our streets and avenues.
- I am in favor of city extension, provided the city can guarantee to the inhabitants of the contiguous territory all the benefits to which they would be entitled as tax-paying citizens; but I vigorously oppose the plan of extension as presented by the present administration, which I believe to be unfair and unjust.
- I am in favor of municipal ownership of a Lighting Plant and Water Works as a means whereby to obtain revenue with which to meet the necessary expenses of City Government.
- If elected I will enforce strictly and impartially the Ordinances of our city.

Respectfully,
E. BRADY
Candidate for Mayor.

MOST PROFITABLE CROP

Excellent Prices Paid For Sanford's Early Lettuce

TRUTH STRANGER THAN FICTION

Over Fourteen Hundred Dollars Netted From One Acre of Sanford's Soil In Ninety Days

Sanford has gained name and fame throughout the world as the "Celery City," and the title has been rightfully bestowed, for Sanford celery has become most popular with the buyers in the northern markets, and with conditions in the market favorable, the celery growers never fail to reap a small fortune.

There are other crops, however, that, while overshadowed by King Celery in the vegetable kingdom, yet, nevertheless, for a quick crop to be pulled off before the celery has fairly been started, certainly need not be relegated to the rear in popularity, and in the opinion of many prospective land buyers this week the lettuce crop bids fair to outrival the celery in public favor.

Lettuce is planted in many instances as a starter, or to get the land in good shape for the planting of celery, and thus in many instances the people who learn of Sanford's wonderful inducements to the grower never hear of lettuce until they reach the scene of operation.

Sanford lettuce has always been in great demand and Sanford growers have always achieved great success with their plants, and supply these plants in many other sections of the state to growers who are not fortunate enough to have the sub-irrigation system and flowing wells.

But this season the returns from lettuce have been so great as to be beyond belief. One instance is cited to demonstrate the wonderful possibilities of Sanford soil:

Mr. Joe Cameron is a well known grower and one of the pioneers in Sanford, a man known far and wide for his great success in the Sanford Celery Delta. Several days ago Mr. Cameron shipped through the well known commission firm of John V. Denton & Co. a car of lettuce and 301 crates netted him $812.57.

He also received for 244 crates a net price of $700.28. This last was cut from a half acre of land, or would mean that from one acre of land Mr. Cameron received a net profit of over $1,400. This lettuce seed was planted ninety days ago and on the same land celery plants were set out and are now in a fine condition, and the market permitting, will net Mr. Cameron a good return also.

Other growers have done equally as well, the first shipments bringing $4.50 per crate, and on Wednesday this week, despite the warm weather, which would naturally cause a slump in prices, several shipments brought $4 per crate.

Thus it will be seen that one acre of land in the Sanford Celery Delta will net the grower in this one instance over $1,400 in lettuce and the crop of celery may raise this net profit $1,000 more, thus making the TOTAL PROFIT ON ONE ACRE OF LAND $3,000.

Mr. Culp, another grower, realized even better returns from 266 crates, netting $822.85

Where in this great universe can a grower realize more money from one acre of land?

WILL BUILD A BUSINESS BLOCK

Prominent Louisville Man Satisfied With Sanford's Great Prospects

Thomas Bohannon, of Louisville, Ky., was in the city several days this week looking up his property interests. Mr. Bohannon owns the corner lot at First street and Sanford avenue, next to the DeMont building, and the vacant lots directly opposite and next to the Stone-Cove building. He is thoroughly alive to the wonderful possibilities of Sanford's growth and expects to build upon this property at an early date. The buildings will be of concrete, two stories in height and the stores will be fitted up in good style.

There is no doubt about the business portion of Sanford becoming cramped, and those who are seeking store rooms will be anxious to locate in this section of the city. Several new store rooms will be built on Sanford avenue, and when the new buildings of Mr. Bohannon are finished they will not only add much to the appearance of First street, but will shut out the sight of several old rookeries that now disgrace the lake front.
