Cause of fire under investigation

A fire at a Sanford warehouse where carpet padding is stored and recycled, caused more than $30,000 in damage Sunday morning.

According to fire inspector Paul Keith, five fire units responded to the General Felt Industries warehouse at 2772 Depot St., near the Central Florida Regional Airport in Sanford at about 1 a.m. Sunday.

Keith said the fire is being called "suspicious" and an investigation into the cause is being conducted.

He said that the fire was limited to several bundles of scrap padding material that were on the warehouse loading dock. The bundles, he said, were between 500 and 1,000 pounds each.

There was some damage to the metal building. According to Keith, paint was removed by the heat of the flames and those portions of the walls will need to be replaced as they will rust without the protective paint covering.

A metal beam was also warped by the heat, Keith said.

According to Keith the company was able to resume operations this morning.

Woman believed dead - alive

SEATTLE — A woman who had been declared dead by the coroner was discovered still breathing at the funeral home.

Roberta Jones, 68, was listed in serious condition today at Harborview Medical Center.

Jones had been found on the floor of her cold apartment Sunday. Paramedics thought she was dead, and an investigator for the medical examiner's office agreed. She was wrapped in a sheet and taken in a warm car to the funeral home.

"When we moved her from the car on a stretcher, one of my employees saw what he thought was a breath," said Paul Lewis, president of Columbia Funeral Home.

Lotto rolls over

TALLAHASSEE — Florida Lotto players were treated to a rollover Sunday when a computer check no one hit the right combination Halloween night to claim an estimated $5 million jackpot.

The rollover boosts this week's jackpot estimate to $12 million.

The numbers drawn Saturday were: 22-30-31-37-40-48.

Sanford cops surround area; suspect holed up in home

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — Sanford Police blocked off a portion of Bethune Circle just off Airport Boulevard this morning in order to talk an armed man, armed with a baseball bat from his in-law's home.

He was removed from the home without incident and taken to the emergency room at HCA Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford where he was treated for some cuts and abrasions.

Police did not know when charges would be filed against the man.

According to Sanford Police Chief Steve Harriett, Alan Armstrong and his wife Lolitta had been "having some domestic problems" that erupted into violence about 9 o'clock this morning.

Armstrong, 26, whose last known address, police said, was 220 Yale Dr., Sanford, arrived at the home shortly before 9 a.m. and began smashing the front door with the bat.

Torch lit, Golden Age Games underway

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — As of this morning, and for the rest of this week, blue T-shirts will be the featured attire throughout the northern hall of Seminole County. The shirts designate participants in the 1992 Golden Age Games which will be held all week.

In addition to hundreds of Central Florida participants, visitors in Sanford for the annual games come from as far away as Alaska, Canada and Hawaii.

Opening day ceremonies got underway yesterday afternoon, with the official lighting of the torch. In the past, the torch has been carried to the ceremony by a prominent citizen in previous games.

This year, the torch carrier was Jim Jernigan, who has supervised the games in Sanford since they began in 1973.

Jernigan retired as Director of Parks for the City of Sanford last year, but was retained until the conclusion of the 1991 games on special contract with the city.

In addition to lighting the official flames marking the start of the events on Sunday, Jernigan was also presented with a special plaque in honor of his 17 years of service in organizing the games.

As many of the games will not begin until later in the week, the entire group of participants has not yet arrived in the area. This year's co-chairman Jim Adams estimated approximately 200 persons were in attendance at the ceremony.

SANFORD — In an effort to save money in the long run, the Seminole County School district decided to spend a little money.

When students returned to school this morning, several administrators and district officials did not join them.

Retirement incentive packages were offered to about 100 administrative level employees in exchange for their early retirement.

"Paying the administrators' packages is the trade-off the district is willing to make."

Harden denies accusations in McLain's mail out

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Fred Harden, the Democratic candidate for District 5 of the county commission, responded today to a campaign mailer sent to voters last week by his Republican opponent, Daryl McLain.

"I really wanted to stay out of this kind of thing," said Harden. "We wanted to stick to the issues. I can see now why a lot of people stay out of politics."

Last week, McLain mailed literature seeking to compare himself to his opponent. In the piece, McLain asserts Harden had "strongly lobbied for using your tax dollars to buy land next to his home as a buffer." The piece also charges the "purported environmentalist" worked for an agency that had been charged with state and federal environmental violations.

Harden responded today with a newspaper advertisement denying the allegations.

McLain said Harden had lobbied for his fellow members of the Natural Lands Committee to purchase property next to his on the Wekiva River. McLain said Harden called his neighbors derogatory names.

"He has lobbied for the property to act as a buffer next to his own property," said McLain. "I didn't know about this until Oct. 13. I've tried to keep this campaign as clean as possible but I was shocked to learn this. It's not an attack, it's fact. It's public record."

Deficit and Social Security

With the political season in full bloom, a lot of misleading lies is being spread by some politicians and news reporters who insist that the root cause of the federal budget deficit is Social Security. Nothing could be further from the truth.

To be sure, our nation is in the midst of a terrible fiscal crisis. The budget deficit for this year alone is projected to reach $200 billion. That's double the budget deficit of 1990 and almost three times the deficit of 1989.

Some politicians and news reporters would like you to believe the root cause of the deficit is Social Security. The reality is that the deficit is caused by the pay-roll (FICA) tax deducted from the paychecks of most American workers and matched by their employers.

This year, the Social Security Trust Fund is projected to take in $228 billion and pay out $291 billion to more than 40 million beneficiaries.

With a projected surplus of $67 billion, how can Social Security be contributing to the federal deficit? The answer is simple — it isn't.

Some politicians would have you believe that if you cut Social Security benefits, the federal government would be saving money.

There is just one problem with that argument — it's wrong.

In truth, these politicians want to cut Social Security benefits, but they don't want to trim the payroll taxes of American workers that fund the program. That maneuver would result in a larger annual surplus, which the government could quickly borrow to disguise the true size of the deficit and make it seem smaller than it actually is. So much for myths.

What these myth messengers need to be told is to keep their hands off Social Security. It doesn't contribute to the deficit and shouldn't be looked to as an easy solution to solve it.

The biggest loser in the elections

Quiet as it was kept, 1991 was the 200th anniversary of the Bill of Rights — those guarantees of individual liberties against the power of the state that distinguish this country from all others. There were some speeches and essay contests for children, but by and large, the citizenry paid little attention to the birth of their freedoms.

Since politicians ponder to what they consider to be the interests of the electorate, it was not surprising that the Bill of Rights, the first 10 amendments to the Constitution, did not figure in the presidential or the other campaigns this year. For example, to Americans 200 years ago, the Fourth Amendment was particularly important. That is why it is the most specifically worded part of the Bill of Rights.

It says there shall be no unreasonable searches and seizures. British judges had routinely permitted British troops to rummage through the colonists' "persons, houses, papers and effects at random." No search under our Constitution can be considered reasonable unless it is allowed by a warrant and that warrant cannot be issued unless there were probable cause to believe that something illegal was going on in the place to be searched. And each warrant has to specify the place to be searched. There would be no more random searches, as under the British. For years, George Bush and most Republicans — along with many Democrats in Congress — have been pushing for police searches without warrants, which would bring us back to the time of the British. Until now, the "exclusionary rule" has prevented this gutting of the Fourth Amendment. The exclusionary rule mandates that no illegally obtained evidence by the police can be used at trial. Without the exclusionary rule, the Fourth Amendment cannot survive because it exists to assure that illegal searches cannot bear fruit in court.

The exclusionary rule came up in only one of the debates as George Bush urged that it be discarded. Bill Clinton did not object. Nor did Ross Perot, who has been in favor of random searches and seizures — without warrants — in neighborhoods plagued by crime.

Quiet as it was kept, 1991 was the 200th anniversary of the Bill of Rights.

In none of the debates or television interviews or questions from voters were any of the candidates asked about the future of the Fourth Amendment and the exclusionary rule. In none of the debates were the candidates asked any question about other civil liberties of Americans. We found out practically nothing of the views of any of the candidates on the First Amendment. Do they believe in outlawing pornography? How do they define pornography? Does it include some of the work of William Faulkner, sections of the Old Testament or Ben Franklin's advice on how to choose a mistress?

One of the most vital rights of an American citizen is "the great writ," the writ of habeas corpus. If defendants believe they have been denied due process — or have otherwise been unfairly treated — in state court, the writ of habeas corpus has in the past allowed them reviewing in federal courts. And at least 40 percent of such reviews have succeeded in overturning sentences or convictions, including death sentences.

Urgent issues overlooked

The campaign is over. The real war now begins, or at least should begin, on at least a half-dozen fronts that were all but ignored over the past three months.

Consider the issues that were glossed, minimized or marginalized by Clinton, Bush and Perot. Begin with the nation's widening cleavages along lines of race and class. Each of the three men can point to at least one speech or reference that demonstrated his concern. None was courageous enough to put and keep this issue on the front burner.

Next ask yourself what you consider the nation's most pressing problems to include. How many times does the question of race arise when conversations with friends turn serious? Over the past week, in states as distant as New Jersey, Louisiana and Indiana, I had casual conversations and former discussion with friends that raise about America's racial, ethnic and class divide. None was courageous enough to put and keep this issue on the front burner.

Ask this to be answered: How will we solve the drug problem? The United States grows and produces and consumes more drugs than any other nation. The drug war never more urgent or difficult. What the campaign didn't touch will require immediate and sustained attention from the new White House.

What about addiction. America's most persistent problem? A half a century ago, it was alcohol. Now it's drugs. The drug war never more urgent or difficult. What the campaign didn't touch will require immediate and sustained attention from the new White House.

From August to this week that "war" was barely mentioned by anyone. But only last week, new figures were released showing that mandatory court sentences for non-violent drug offenses had resulted in a 50 percent increase in the number of prisoners in the federal prison system. The number of hard-core offenders age 50 and above was on the rise. Critics blamed overemphasis on law enforcement instead of treatment as the leading culprit.

Yet all of this focus on "hard" drugs misses the main point. The truly devastating addiction plague in this country arises from alcohol and tobacco. Two-ages abuse of alcohol is not declining, but rising. Tobacco continues to kill hundreds of thousands of Americans each year. As former Surgeon General C Everett Koop observed a few years ago, nicotine is more addictive than heroin.

Did we hear any of the candidates talk regarding these three nations' most pressing problems and treatment, about negotiating other than their intention to be signed on drug-prohibition and drug-related crimes? The answer is no, though there is virtually no family that has not been touched by the ravages of one form of addiction or another.

For one brief moment, it seemed as though Ross Perot might force the two major party candidates to confront the truth about the housing bubble crisis. But both men ran from the opportunity, repeatedly denying the housing bubble crisis by double threat.

As with the housing bubble crisis, and less sinister in 1992, both political parties have a vested interest in covering up their lack of concern in the "War on Crime" to contain the damage by early, politically expedient action.

At least 100 more banks are expected to go under before the end of the year. More than 500,000 are expected to be laid off, and hundreds are sitting on balance sheets that are phoned-up by overvalued real estate investments. The more quickly the government acts to demand national treatment, the more likely it is that an S&L scale disaster can be averted. It's going to be harder than it should for the new president because he avoided coming clean with the voters during the campaign.

The same goes for the nation's troubled private pension program, too many of which are underfunded or all but un-funded in relation to their potential obligations. Further, according to the American Academy of Actuaries, some 50,000 U.S. employers terminated their defined-benefit plans over the past three years. Almost 90 percent did not replace them, meaning their workers no longer have pension coverage. As matters now stand, a typical American retiree can expect to live on roughly one-third of pre-retirement income, while retirees in other industrial nations can expect anything from 50 percent to 80 percent of last year's income.

In other words, a hodge-podge retirement system that leaves too many people and provides inadequate benefits is going downhill fast. As far as the presidential campaign was concerned, this was a non-issue.

The campaign is over. The real war now begins.

JACK ANDERSON

A federal agency or a limo service?

WASHINGTON — When former Rep. Guy Molinari's, R-N.Y., daughter got married in July 1988, one politically prominent couple made a memorable entrance.

The Molinari wedding was held at Fort Wadsworth, in Staten Island, New York, a property owned by the Navy. Among the VIPs were Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., and his wife, Elizabeth. After a helicopter landing, three unmarked cars from the Federal Protective Service delivered the Doles from a helicopter landing area to a Fort Wadsworth chapel — a mere 150 yards.

With studied attention to detail, FPS "maintained radio contact with the pilot" so that they could "prepare for their arrival by turning the air conditioner on in ... (the) car," according to an unreleased report recently completed by the General Services Administration's Inspector General.

The problem is not with Sen. Dole. It's with GSA and the people who provided the services and didn't tell Dole this was an official vehicle. Dole spokesman Walt Riber told our associate Jan Moller, "Don't forget, this is the same senator who refused Secret Service protection during his entire presidential campaign (1988)."

Dole's office was not informed until last July that something might have been amiss with the transportation provided at the wedding. Prompted by the internal probe, Dole was billed last July approximately $400. It also turns out the Doles were not staged out for special treatment. In the New York region, the FPS, which falls under GSA's jurisdiction, has long been moonlighting as a private limousine service while its official task is to guard government buildings. None of the other eight GSA regions had a similar policy for VIP transportation.

The several hundred page IG report details every request by a Bush administration official for FPS limo services to the New York region (of FPS). It reads like a who's who of the Bush Cabinet.

Among the most frequent riders who requested FPS shuttle service were: Commerce Secretary Robert Moeblacher (15); Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan and HHS official Gail Wilensky (24); Labor Secretaries Elizabeth Dole (15) and Lynn Martin (11); and Housing and Urban Development Secretary Jack Kemp (11).

Even White House chief economist Michael Boskin requested FPS security during a 1990 visit to New York. There was also one request from the Small Business Administration, 19 from the office of first lady and eight from the vice president.

"A review of records further disclosed that VIPs, or their staffs, requested a wide range of services ... (including) protection, transportation and armed protection in a high crime area; escort; unmarked car with sirens and lights; communication; security coordination; chauffeur and VIP physical protection to press conference" according to the IG report.

GSA launched its investigation following reports last year that former White House Chief of Staff John Sununu had used FPS personnel to shuttle him on two occasions to New York Giants football games, and on another occasion to a stamp auction at Christie's in Manhattan.

The FPS work did not go unappreciated, which is attested to by a raft of thank-you notes sent by administration officials. James Bosch, chief security assistant to President Reagan, was so impressed after one trip he wrote FPS:

"You were a great help. The sound and light show was fun, too."

One politically prominent couple made a memorable entrance.

ELECT NANCY WARREN

PROVEN SCHOOL BOARD LEADERSHIP IS NEEDED NOW MORE THAN EVER BEFORE! NOW IS NOT THE TIME TO CHANGE.

I BELIEVE:

- ★ That the needs of the children come first.
- ★ That parents must share in the decision making process at local schools along with teachers and administrators.
- ★ That resources must be allocated based upon the program needs identified by local School Advisory Committees.
- ★ That all children can learn.
- ★ That students must graduate prepared for a changing world.
- ★ That high expectations result in greater achievement.

NANCY WARRIN

Pa. Pol. Adv. by Campaign to Elect Nancy Warren

Fred Harden Says:

Recently my opponent tried a last ditch, desperate smear campaign.

I'm tired of negative politics. Conventional wisdom says dirty campaigning works. This is my challenge to you -- Let's prove this is wrong! I took the oath for Fair Campaign Practices. My opponent did, too.

Here's the biggest difference between us: I've kept my promise, my opponent hasn't. I hope you think that's as important as I do.

The Orlando Sentinel endorsed me as "... a candidate of rare quality ... Harden has the experience and knows the commissioner's role."

The Sanford Herald said, "Harden's attention to environmental concerns is uncontested. ... The Herald endorses Fred Harden, in terms of his experience, expertise and his resulting command of the issues facing our county."

A vote for Fred Harden is a vote for:

- Clean Air
- Clean Water
- Clean Government

Fred Harden doesn't play dirty politics now or after the election. Call Fred for the facts - 323-5678.

Several parents along with Pelham had supported assistant principal Roger Gardner for the position.

Retire

"If we can replace them with administrators who are lower on the pay scale," John Reichert, director of personnel, explained. "we will save money in the long run."
Den Pelham, who retired as principal of Sanford Middle School on Friday, said the package he was offered, helped him make his decision to call it quits.

"I was considering it," he said of retirement, "but the incentives were enough to make me decide to do it."
Still not all of those who were offered the packages took the district up on its offer.
"I gave it some thought, but I'm not going anywhere," Carlton Henley, who has been principal at Lyman High School for nearly three decades, said.
Henley said he didn't feel that his work with the students at Lyman was done so the money was not enough to take him away.

"I'm here for a while," Henley said.
Bob Thomas, a visiting teacher with more than 31 years experience, is taking the package and will spend more time with his daughter and running to retain his Sanford City Commission seat.
"That (the incentive package) made it a lot more attractive to retire," he said.

"I'm ready to go," he said.
Moore has served as a basketball coach, a social studies and physical education teacher and an assistant principal. He served three years as the executive director of the Seminole Education Association (the teachers' union).
He was also considered for the position of interim superintendent when Supt. Robert Hughes resigned last year. He was one of the top four candidates considered for that job.
Lake Mary principal Don Smith said he was happy for Moore, but that he was losing a good assistant.
"They're getting a good man," said Don Smith, principal of Several members of the committee visited the property on Wekiva Park Drive late last year for an assessment and subsequently voted to add it to the county's natural lands acquisition program.

County natural lands planner Colleen Logan said Harden did not attend the site survey and did not participate in discussions about the property, although he once stated the kinds of trees on it.
Logan said Harden did not vote to include the property in the acquisition list, but did vote in an area ranking process that addressed riverside properties,

...on the lakefront at the Sanford Civic Center yesterday.
Immediately following the opening, the first event got underway. The sailing competition took place at Lake Baldwin, at the Orlando Naval Training Center. Results of the events had not been received at the games operation center in Sanford by this morning.
An early morning breakfast starting at 7 a.m. launched the Lake Mary High.

Hagerty described Moore as "enthusiastic and capable" and said he was the "clear choice for the position."
He believed, however, that he owed it to Gardner to consider him for the job in light of the support he had from the community and from his boss.
"I just felt Mr. Moore was better for the job," Hagerty said.
Gardner said that he is ready to work with Moore to help Sanford Middle continue to improve.
"I am dedicated to the students and the community of Sanford Middle," Gardner said. "I am going to continue to work to make this the best possible school. I support him completely."

but not the property next to his specifically.
Logan checked with assistant county attorney Lonnie Groot to determine if there was a conflict in Harden's voting, she said. Groot said he advised there was no apparent conflict, but suggested when in doubt, abstain from voting.
Sharon Carveth, a former member of the committee, said Harden did not lobby her or other committee members to her knowledge. She said Harden never made remarks about his neighbors.
"Not within my hearing range," said Carveth. "It would really surprise me if he did."

start of today's activities. In the first hour, slightly more than two dozen participants turned out for the cereal, buns and coffee at the Sanford Civic Center.
The breakfasts will be held each morning during the week-long schedule of events.
"I think tomorrow morning will be one of our biggest breakfast gatherings," he said. "The BK run will begin at 7 a.m., and that's the event that really produces a large turnout."
The Golden Age Games continue through Saturday of this week.

Cops

Less than an hour later, wearing only a pair of powder blue running shorts, he was sitting a bit uncomfortably on a gurney being wheeled to an ambulance.
"He surrendered without incident," Harriett said. "He's being taken to the hospital for treatment."
Harriett said that Sanford Police called for assistance from the Seminole County Special Weapons Tactical Team in ensuring his safe removal from the home.
Police said there were firearms in the home when they went inside, but there is no indication that Armstrong had brought them in or that he had made any attempt to use them.

Harriett said that he believed the guns belong to the owners of the home.
According to police he "destroyed" the door, and broke glass surrounding the door to gain entry to the house where his wife and her father, James Mitchell, were inside.
The mother-in-law was not at home at the time the incident occurred, Harriett said.
Police said Armstrong did "quite a bit of damage" to the inside of the home, but he did not hurt either his wife or her father.
According to police, the two were able to escape to the house across the street and he did not pursue them out of the house.
Prior to entering the house, police said, Armstrong had hit his late model red Camaro several times with the bat, damaging the louvers on the rear of the vehicle and breaking the driver's side of the Troop.

According to Harriett, Armstrong will be put into psychiatric care under the Baker Act, which allows people to be committed for observation for their own protection.
"We will worry about filing domestic violence charges after that," Harriett said.

Paramedics who had treated Armstrong on the scene were asked to "check out" the wife and her father, but according to Harriett neither had any injuries which required treatment.

Scouts

"It's real important to me. When I was real little and in Cub Scouts, I remember doing a lot of camping put there. I just have a lot of memories about that place."
The scouts and citizens were protesting a Sept. 22 decision by the Central Florida Council of the Boy Scouts of America to sell the 19-year-old camp. Scouting officials say the camp isn't used much so they want to use the proceeds from the sale to improve two other camps or buy a new headquarters.
Scout director Wayne Brock said the council is selling several parcels of land and smaller camps, including Camp Stine near Sanford, for the improvement. Brock said Camp Hedrick is used by only about six percent of the scouts in the seven-county district.
The scout council had originally sought to dig a lake on the site last year, selling the dirt for the expressway. But Geneva residents raised an outcry against the proposal, which they said could damage their Geneva Bubble drinking water supply. The lake was nothing more than a borrow pit, they said.

Expressway builder Hubbard Construction Co. considered buying the property and submitted plans to the county to dig a pit on the site earlier this year. Hubbard officials have not responded to county concerns about the proposal.

Lee Voorhees, president of Geneva Citizens Association, said members of the association and Geneva Defense Association participated in the rally in support of scouts.
"We were there in support of the local scouts," said Voorhees. "Now, if the scout council sells the land to someone who wants to build a borrow pit on it, then we'll get involved."

Christian Beware: Do Not Put the Economy Ahead of the Ten Commandments.

Did you know that Governor Bill Clinton...

- Supports abortion on demand? (Violates Exodus 20:13, Leviticus 20:1-5)
- Supports the homosexual lifestyle, and wants homosexuals to have special rights? (Violates Exodus 20:14, Leviticus 20:13. See also Romans 1:26, 27)
- Promotes giving condoms to teenagers in public schools? (Violates Exodus 20:12, Colossians 3:5. See also Romans 1:28-32)

Bill Clinton is openly promoting rebellion against God's Laws. In our desire for change, do we really want as a president and a role model for our children a man of this character who supports this type of behavior?

But what about the economy?
Yes, we are in tough economic times, but God forbid that we sell out our most sacred beliefs for the hope of financial gain. Furthermore, how can we expect God to bless our economy if we plummet down a path of immorality? (Deut. 28)

The Bible warns us to not follow another man in his sin, nor help him promote sin - lest God chasten us.
(See Deuteronomy 13, Jeremiah 23, Proverbs 4:14; 11:21; 16:5; 1 Timothy 5:22)

How then can we vote for Bill Clinton?

Women's club addresses politics

LAKE MARY HEATHROW

SARABECA ROSIER

Women in politics was the theme behind the Heathrow Women's Club Columbus Day general meeting and luncheon for October.

As stated in the newsletter, "If the political trend of today is any indicator, the women of the '90s are not just standing behind their men but are finding their place alongside and in front of them in the world of politics."

The first guest speaker was Dr. Adrienne Perry, former mayor of Longwood and congressional candidate.

"I ran because I was always political in high school, college and then locally, and felt I had new ideas," Dr. Perry said. She concluded by saying "All is not well socially and politically — women need to earn respect — men are born with it." She spoke in a down-to-earth manner and told the members of her trials and tribulations as a mother with children while on the campaign trail.

front row, Joe Kuhn, Dan Leaverton, Paul Mauro and Tracy Hooker, with Larry Weintraub on the sax and Dave Schrichte on the drums, played a number of catchy tunes.

The second speaker was Sandra Goard, supervisor of elections. Goard informed the audience that 1,078 new voters were registered before the books closed. That "Seminole County will have approximately 128,000 to 130,000 registered voters come the Nov. 3 election." As supervisor of elections, she also takes care of international notification of absentee ballots.

"There were 4,239 absentee ballots for the general election, and in 1988 for the presidential election, there were 7,285 absentee ballots," she said. "For 1992 there will be about 10,000 to 12,000 absentee ballots to be processed. Out of 67 of the counties in Florida, only 16 do not have female supervisors."

Both speakers were interesting and very informative and the women all seemed to enjoy themselves and ask questions. The large salad platter for lunch was excellent and included banana bread and yummy muffins.

One of the members of Heathrow Women's Club, Pat Terry, told the club that she was leaving for Russia the following day on a two-week peace conference mission. She stated she is financing this mission herself and is striving for peace all over the world. Mrs. Terry is taking a primer of all religions in the world. Various groups are sending books and pamphlets with her to tell the Russians about us and the rest of the world. One person gave me $100 to take and do whatever is most needed.

Dear Sheriff Eslinger,

It is with a great deal of pleasure that I advise you that the Florida State Lodge, Fraternal Order of Police is endorsing you in your election for the office of Sheriff of Seminole County.

It is always good to see friends of the law enforcement profession running for election. Especially those that have worked their way up through the ranks. We wish you the very best.

Sincerely,

"Eslinger is a new breed the county needs"

...It is in the area of crime prevention where Mr. Eslinger really shines.

The present emphasis on punishment is wrong he believes. "We can't afford to build enough jails and prisons..."

...Kids are not born to be criminals', Mr. Eslinger says. But without proper family or community nurturing, they often are directed to it. That's why he has spent money confiscated from drug busts on youth recreation in Midway. That's why he encourages deputies to develop crime intervention methods. And that's why he puts new emphasis on corrections programs in the jail.

...But he is also a realist. He understands that preventing crime is cheaper than fighting and punishing it. Besides, it's the right thing to do.

Because Seminole needs this new-breed sheriff, the Sentinel has endorsed Don Eslinger for the job.

BRIEF

AROUND THE STATE

Lemieux shocks Lightning

TAMPA — Mario Lemieux stretched his goal-scoring streak to 12 games with a pair of goals and Kevin Stevens also scored twice as the Pittsburgh Penguins rallied to beat the expansion team Tampa Bay 5-4.

Lemieux, the NHL's scoring leader with 18 goals and 20 assists for 38 points, got what proved to be the winning goal on a power play at 11:43 of the second period when he beat former Lightning goalie Wendell Young for a 5-3 lead.

Lemieux's streak is four games short of the NHL record of 16 set by Harry Broadbent in 1921-22 and ties Cy Denneny and Dave Lumley for the fifth longest in NHL history.

The Lightning, which overcame Lemieux's first goal to take a 3-1 first period lead, made it 4-4 midway through the third period when Rob Ramage scored during a two-man power play. But Tampa Bay was unable to prevent its fourth straight loss, all by one goal.

Miami B-ball recruit injured

Dr. John Uebe, team orthopaedic surgeon, gave a preliminary diagnosis of a torn anterior cruciate ligament. He said Frazier will undergo arthroscopic surgery later this week.

As a high school senior, Frazier led all of New York City in scoring, averaging 39 points per game for Andrew Jackson High in Queens. Last year, he led St. Thomas More Prep School in Oklahoma to win the New England Prep School championship.

AROUND THE NATION

Bucs can't hold off Saints

NEW ORLEANS — Dalton Hilliard scored two touchdowns to help the New Orleans Saints overcome four big mistakes and beat the Tampa Bay Buccaneers 23-21 Sunday.

What looked like a big victory came close to slipping away in the final quarter before the Saints (6-2) cranked up their defense and Morten Andersen hit the game-winning field goal.

The loss, Tampa Bay's fourth in five games, dropped the Bucs to 3-5.

Halfway through the third quarter the Saints led 20-7. A minute and 57 seconds into the fourth quarter, New Orleans trailed 21-20.

Tampa Bay had only one first down in the first half, only 15 offensive plays and 15 yards. The Bucs held the ball for only 8:37, compared to 21:23 for the Saints.

Bobby Hebert completed 14 of 27 passes for 173 yards and a touchdown. He had three interceptions and was sacked once.

Steve DeBerg was 13 of 25 for 94 yards and a touchdown. He was sacked three times and intercepted once.

Fins have no luck against Jets

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. — Things got even worse for the once-invincible Miami Dolphins losing 26-14 to a patchwork New York Jets team that took a 23-0 halftime lead and short-circuited a Miami comeback in the second half.

The Dolphins fell for the second straight week after starting 6-0. While they went down to the last play before losing 31-20 to Indianapolis last week, they never seriously threatened the Jets.

Ken O'Brien, substiting for Browning Nagle, had touchdown passes of 37 yards to Johnny Mitchell, 20 yards to Rob Moore and 4 yards to Al Toon. The Jets (2-6) also had a 47-yard field goal by Cary Blanchard and got a safety when Dan Marino was sacked in the end zone.

Marino threw touchdown passes of 5 yards to Keith Jackson and 39 yards to Mark Dupler in a 69-second span late in the third period and early in the fourth, but the Jets sacked Marino once and pressured him into incomplete passes twice as they stopped Miami's following drive.

Allison wins, takes point lead

PHOENIX — Luck turned Davey Allison's way and he found himself the winner of the Pyroil 500 as well as the NASCAR Winston Cup point leader with only one race remaining.

The 32-year-old second-generation NASCAR star now leads Alan Kulwicki by 30 points and Bill Elliott by 40 going into the season finale Nov. 15 at Atlanta Motor Speedway.

The win came by a decisive 3.19 seconds over Mark Martin, but Martin was the victim of unfortunate timing, making what he hoped would be his last pit stop on lap 283 under the green flag after building a five-second lead.

Moments later, Jeff Davis spun harmlessly to turn four, bringing out the caution flag and allowing Allison to pit under a yellow flag.

Elliott had overheating problems and was only able to keep running slowly and wound up 31st.

Greyhound boys, Patriot girls claim crowns

From Staff Reports

OVIDO — Even though they only won a pair of events, the Lyman High School boys' swim team had enough depth to end Lake Mary's two-year grip on the Seminole Athletic Conference championship.

Meanwhile, the four-time defending state champion Lake Brantley Patriots sailed to a seventh consecutive SAC girls' team title, outscoring runner-up Lyman 379-303.

Swimming at the Riverside Pool on Saturday, the Greyhounds (326 team points) were led by individual conference champion Joey Frey (who won the 100 backstroke in 54 seconds) and the SAC champion 100-meter freestyle relay squad of Frey, Ben Leonard, Josh Metzdorf and Mike Ek.

Lake Brantley's boys were a close second (322) while Lake Mary was third (310). They were followed by Lake Howell (148), Oviedo (102 1/2) and Seminole (18).

Rounding out the girls' team standings were Lake Howell (277), Lake Mary (176), Oviedo (135) and Seminole (65).

Among the boys, Lake Mary's Eric Calvert and Jon Jackson of Lake Brantley were the only two event winners. Calvert was first in the 200 freestyle (1:48.77) and the 500 freestyle (5:02.85), while Jackson won the conference championship in the 200 individual medley (2:00.77) and 100 breaststroke (1:03.24).

Also winning SAC titles for Lake Brantley were Matt Ogawa (50 freestyle, 22.72) and the 200 freestyle relay quartet of Ogawa, Mike Capelli, Joe Capelli and Jackson.

Other conference champions for Lake Mary were the 200 medley relay team of Chad Christopher, Chip Polito, Todd Christopher and Calvert (1:41.23), Matt Summit (100 butterfly, 1:19.15), Todd Christopher (100 butterfly, 54.36) and Chad Christopher (100 freestyle, 48.96).

The only individual two-time winner among the girls was Lyman's Nicole Freda, who won the 200 individual medley (2:16.38) and 100 backstroke (1:02.72) as well as swam a leg on the Greyhounds' victorious 200 medley relay (1:57.73) with Danielle Garrett, Mandy Mossman and Larva Scheidegg.

Garrett also won the 100 breaststroke (1:12.77) for the Greyhounds while Sara Cline claimed the SAC diving championship (1212.75 points).

Winning conference championships for the Patriots were Sandra Spiller (200 freestyle, 2:02.97), Cara Duncan (50 freestyle, 24.93), Melissa Bateman (100 butterfly, 1:02.33), Kristi Duncan (500 freestyle, 5:45.51), the 200 freestyle relay (1:43.38) of Cara Duncan, Bateman, Spiller and DeLoach and the 400 freestyle relay of Kristi Duncan, Spiller, Hernandez and Cara Duncan.

Seminole's Kara Thomas won the 100 freestyle in 56.20.

DOUBLE TAKES

Staying alive

When it's not that of a floundering Lyman Greyhound, the 5A District 4 race. They kept that faint hope alive with a 33-14 whipping of the Deland Bulldogs. Quarterback Todd Cleveland (No. 20, right) led a Greyhound attack that rolled up 362 yards while linebacker Dallas Simpson (No. 39, below) and the Lyman defense forced four turnovers in the second half and sacked Deland quarterback Brett Marshall three times. Lyman will celebrate its homecoming this Friday with a game against the Edgewater Eagles.

Games a celebration of senior participation

It's Golden Age Games time yet again.

From now until Saturday, over 3,200 athletes between the ages of 55 and 94 will participate in a wide variety of athletic and recreational events.

For those of us who haven't been around long enough to be eligible to take part in this event, the Golden Age Games are a curiosity. Nolan Ryan, George Foreman and Robert Parish aside, it's difficult to imagine individuals old enough to be our parents or grandparents being athletically competitive.

Certainly, there are some events scheduled for this week that seemingly fit the stereotypical activities of senior citizens: the Festival events includes billiards, dance, hobby show, leisure walk, pancake race and talent show while Table events include bridge, checkers, cribbage, dominoes and pinocle.

But don't sneer at what these penta-, sexta-, septa- and octagenarians will be doing this week. Active participation, even in a pancake race, is something that demand a degree of respect.

SPORTS

Besides, any condescension you may be foolish enough to feel toward these athletes would be quickly blown away by the ability and intensity they display, especially in the athletic events. There's nothing "retiring" about it.

From my vantage point, how well they play is entirely beside the point. And from the many comments I've heard and read from these and past Golden Age Games, these athletes are more concerned with participation rather than competition. The game really is the thing.

Of course, 340 participants in last year's Golden Age Games qualified to go on to the national games (which will be competed in Baton Rouge, La., this coming spring), but that's a story for another day.

In a very real way, those men and women who take part in the Golden Age Games are an inspiration to those younger athletes (like a certain local sports editor) whose bones creak and joints ache at the thought of a seven-inning slowpitch softball game.

Perhaps the most commonly heard phrase on local diamonds (aside from "What do you mean, that's a strike?") is "I'm getting too old for this." Yet a great majority of local softball players wouldn't be old enough to participate in the Golden Age Games.

Speaking solely for myself, I'm not so concerned about how I'll look at that age as long as I can still play ball if and when I've been lucky enough to double my current age (I recently celebrated the third anniversary of my 29th birthday).

On those days when that seems a foolishly ambitious goal, I read the stories of those Golden Age Gamers who didn't take up their sport until well after they had marked the 10th or even the 20th anniversary of their 29th birthday.

There is hope. It may sound true, but these Games are more than competition or participation; they're a celebration of vitality, of being and staying active. They make the advertising slogan "Just do it" really mean something.

But before I turn an event that's designed to be a festival of sorts into a social statement, let's remember that the point of sport is diversion and entertainment. If it's not fun, it's not playing.

And it's probably a pretty safe bet that these 300 dozen senior citizens are getting more out of their lives because they are active, because they participate.

As Benjamin Franklin said, "Games lubricate the body and the mind."

Let the (Golden Age) Games begin.

Learning to cope with depression, anxiety

DEAR DR. GOTT: Does clinical depression and clinical anxiety ever correct itself? If not, what effect does long-term use of anti-depressants and anti-anxiety drugs have on a person? What's the answer for people like me?

DEAR READER: Certain forms of depression - such as those caused by reactions to divorce, the death of a loved one or loss of a job - will, over time, improve. There are, however, some depressions that bear little relation to external factors and will not self-correct. In such situations, anti-depressant drugs may be a godsend. These medications are safe for long-term treatment.

Anxiety, too, often improves with time. As I'm sure you're aware, anxiety tends to appear in cycles anyway. An anxious person typically experiences repeated periods of hyper-anxiety, superimposed on a more-or-less constant background of low-grade apprehension. Anti-anxiety medication should not be used for indefinite intervals. In my view, most of these drugs do have a potential for habituation.

DEAR DR. GOTT: Years ago I was prescribed deoxycholic acid for a sluggish gallbladder. I've attempted to purchase it at two pharmacies without success. Is this product available or has it been replaced with more modern drugs?

DEAR READER: Deoxycholic acid is still available, according to my pharmacist-consultant. However, the drug - which is supposed to aid digestion by stimulating the gallbladder - has fallen out of favor with gastroenterologists, who have found that a "sluggish gallbladder" is not a specific diagnosis.

For example, gallstones will often affect gallbladder contractions; in such cases, medicine to dissolve gallstones (or surgery to remove them) may be necessary. Old-fashioned remedies, such as deoxycholic acid, are not particularly effective. Although your pharmacies may not stock the product, it can be specially ordered.

When you are defending, it is a reasonable policy to keep winners and throw losers. But what do you do if both your choices are winners? Then you must be careful to abandon the right one.

Today's deal, which arose during the NEC World Team Olympiad, resulted in at least one red face because of an ill-advised discard.

When West led a low spade, South called for the queen because he wanted to get into the dummy. Now came a low club to the king. East cleverly playing the nine. Back to dummy with a heart, declarer led another club; East dropped the two. Refusing to be deflected, South went up with the club queen; then he exited with a club. West discarding a low heart. East returned a spade to South's ace.

When declarer cashed his last club trick, West threw a diamond, but what should East release? One East discarded an apparently useless low heart. Yet this was fatal. Declarer cashed his two remaining heart tricks, ending in the dummy, and exited with the spade nine. The defenders cashed their spade tricks, ending in East's hand. He switched to the diamond seven, but declarer guessed correctly, playing low from hand.

At another table, East wisely kept all four hearts. Knowing he couldn't afford a diamond discard, East threw his remaining low spade. Now when declarer cashed the hearts before exiting with the spade nine, East won with the spade jack and cashed a heart trick. The defenders had five winners: two spades, one heart, one diamond and one club.
